Two boys grew up together and both learned to love the game of baseball. The two became inseparable friends at an early age and both pursued the game from the pee wee leagues, to Little League, to Pony League, then played the game together in high school and college.

As the pitcher and catcher, they were mainly responsible for their high school and college teams winning the chamionships of their respective divisions.

Both players were drafted into the major leagues and, after three years, they played together on a World Series championship team. The series convinced them that nothing in this world was as thrilling or as important to them as

Social Security Tax Must Be Increased

WASHINGTON (AP) -The Social Security payroll tax will have to be increased to 10 percent or more during the next century even if all of President Reagan's proposed benefit cuts are approved, says a former chief actuary for the system.

A. Haeworth Robertson said the Reagan administration ignored the rising costs of Medicare in its long-term projections for keeping Social Security solvent.

"Even with the Reagan administration proposals, we're still talking about a doubling and maybe even a tripling of the present tax rate," Robertson told reporters Wednes-day. "People are going to have to retire later and work longer in the next century."

The Social Security payroll tax is now 6.65 percent and is scheduled to increase to 7.65 percent by 1990. A little more than I percent of the current rate pays for Medicare, the federal medical program for Health and Human Services Secretary Richard S. Schweiker, who revealed the administration's Social Security package May 12, and Budget Director David A. Stockman were called to testify today before the House Ways and Means subcommittee on Social Security.

The administration ignited a firestorm in Congress with its proposal to cut benefits for early retirees by up to 40 percent starting next Jan. 1 and eventually lower all future retirees' benefits by an average 10 percent. On the other side, the plan also envisions limiting future increases in the payroll tax.

President Reagan, in a letter to congressional leaders last week, emphasized, however, that he is willing to compromise on all aspects of the plan. Schweiker has suggested phasing in the stiffen-ed penalties for those who elect to retire at 62 instead of making them effective next

Administration officials said the Reagan plan would wipe out both a short-term deficit threatening Social Security and a potentially worse long-range shortfall that could imperil the program when the baby-boom generation reaches retire-

Mideast 'Peace' Expected to Hold

WASHINGTON (AP) -U.S. officials are emphasizing they expect a tenuous peace between Israel and Syria to hold while President Reagan's special Mideast en-voy is in Washington plotting the next move in U.S. efforts to defuse tensions between the two countries. Part of the strategy in temporarily recalling Philip Habib appears to be designed to give Saudi Arabia at least a temporary free hand to negotiate a solution. Devid London, D-Bonham, and Smith Gilley,

Even though the antiaircraft missiles that sparked the immediate impasse remained in Lebanon after three weeks of shuttle diplomacy by Habib, Reagan and other administration officials rejected suggestions the special envoy's mission had failed.

Reagan said Habib did "a remarkable job" in averting an outbreak of fighting betwen Syria and Israel that had appeared imminent after Syria installed Soviet-made SAM-4 missiles in Lebanon on April 28.

HOUSTON (AP) - The chairman of the $4.1 billion Coastal Corp. has told stockholders that a study on restructuring the firm's operations and assets will also involve the possibility of selling parts of the business.

Oscar S. Wyatt Jr. spoke to an annual shareholders' meeting Wednesday about the study, which he and the other directors of Fortune 500's No. 66 firm announced May 12.

But Wyatt emphasized that, despite rumors, the board has authorized only a study of the various possibilities.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Tu Anh Ngoc Tran remembers her first classes at Austin Lanier High School as confusing sessions during which she copied everything written on the blackboard and hoped to have it translated for her later.

That was two years ago when she was a 16-year-old refugee who fled Saigon by boat. Now she has graduated from Lanier as its top

"When we went, chances were 50-50" whether you would make the trip alive or die on the way," she said of the week-long boat trip that took her, two older sisters and a younger brother to Malaysia. Her parents stayed in Vietnam with two younger children.

Miss Tran knew little English and less about American life when she arrived here. She and her sisters worked to support themselves and their brother.

In her graduation address Tuesday, she thanked the 375 classmates she said helped her "to take my destiny into my own hands."

"The students in class made a warm atmosphere around me. That has encouraged me a lot," she told her classmates.

Lanier Principal Rodger Wiley said Miss Tran racked up a grade point average of 97.2.

HOUSTON (AP) - A federal grand jury ended its term Wednesday without issuing any indictments in the massive PCB contamination of a field in a Houston suburb.

The Environmental Protection Agency asked the U.S. Attorney nearly a year ago to seek criminal charges against Gulf Electroquip Inc. in the polychlorinated biphenyls case. Under EPA supervision, Gulf Electroquip eventually sent more than 100 truckloads of contaminated soil to an authorized landfill in Alabama. PCBs are rated extremely hazardous to to human health and the environment. They were once widely used as insulating fluid in electrical equipment.

Diana Dutton, general counsel for the regional office of the EPA, said the agency will probably consider further administrative action against the electrical equipment firm.

The groom, from the southeast Texas town of Kemah, is accused of flying 614 pounds of cocaine into the United States from Colombia. Authorities say the twin-engine plane he allegedly piloted yielded the largest amount of cocaine ever confiscated from an airplane in the United States.

The plane was seized at an airport in southeast Tennessee. Newell was arrested May 18 in Noe's office on a warrant from Tennessee that charged him with possession of cocaine with intent to sell.

Newell is being held under a $1 million bond. He is fighting extradition to Tennessee.

the Medicare program. By his projection, taking Medicare into account, "the tax rates would still have to rise to at least 10 percent early in the next century," assuming economic conditions are average. Under pessimistic assumptions, the payroll tax might have to be as high as 15 percent to 20 percent, he said. Without any changes in Social Security, the system's trustees estimate the payroll tax in 75 years will hit 13 percent under intermediate economic assumptions and as much as 24 percent under pessimistic assumptions. In a book entitled "The Coming Revolution in Social Security," Robertson advocates abolishing the program for everyone under age 45 on July 4, 1984.

philosophy prevails. The tedium of the American political system can be frustrating, exasperating. President Reagan's budget cuts have passed both Houses of Congress - but now each committee of the Congress must implement in detail the cuts which have been approved in principle Our representative form of government requires that we keep constant watch on our representatives, alert for any reneging, any sleight-ofhand, any trade-offs which even yet could sidetrack the president's program.

The tedium of the American political system can be frustrating, exasperating - but it's still workable if we pay attention.

There was no dancing in the street - Main Street or Wall Street - when Gram-Latta passed the House.

The reason is that the Reagan budget cuts are still a lot of committee battles and floor fights away from enactment.

There may be any number of congressmen who voted "yea" while you were watching, intending to vote 'nay" when you're not.

While Maority Leader Tip O'Neill may be an outdated caricature of a professional politician - he is not less astute (or "devious," depending on your point of view) when it comes to manipulating the legislative procedural machinery.

Also in the Senate ... Despite a GOP majority in the Senate, when Sen. Orrin Hatch (R-Utah) tried to scrub the Legal Services Corporation - a laudable way of conserving public money - he was shouted down 72 to 24. Up to now all the Buchsbaum is an exstockbroker, formerly employed by Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., Inc.

The amended complaint states that, for the purpose of soliciting the proxies of stockholders. Holly's Buchsbaum and Arcanum 1 the transmitted to stockholders of Holly and to the press a letter dated May 15, 1981, which contained material misstatements of fact and omitted to state material facts, including:

The letter misleadingly stated financial information for Holly's fiscal year 1980 and implied that such information was current, when in fact Holly's fiscal results for fiscal 1981 had been reported eight days earlier and were well known to Buchsbaum and Arcanum 1. The letter stated that during fiscal 1980 Holly's revenues were $207.3 million, misleadingly omitting the fact that revenues for fiscal 1981 were a record $328.6 million. The letter misleadingly omitted to state that Holly's fiscal 1981 earnings were nearly three times as high as in fiscal 1980.

The letter referred falsely and repeatedly to "the soaring debt" of Holly, misleadingly omitting to state the fact (well known to Buchsbaum and Arcanum 1) that between 1981 and 1981 Holly had substantial reduction in the level of long-term debt, from $20.9 million at the end of 1980 to $14.3 million in fiscal 1981. The letter referred repeatedly and falsely to a 'decline in stockholders' equity" misleadingly omitting the material fact that stockholders' equity reached $90 million at the end of fiscal 1981, an increase of 17 percent from the equity in fiscal 1980.

The amended complaint also stated that, as par of the unlawful scheme, Buchsbaum and Arcanum 1 filed with the securities and exchange commission on or about May 11, 1981, certain preliminary proxy soliciting materials in violation of proxy regulations.

Ann Landers

Executive Slob

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Something has come up in our family, and I would like to know how you feel about it. We are in our 70s. Our son, an attorney in his early 30s, has set his sights on a career of public service.

We have always had a close relationship with our children. This boy has been on his own since college. Last week we received a letter saying he never liked his name and has changed it, not only his first name but his middle and last names, too.

This has upset my husband and me. We are shocked and hurt and don't know what to say to him. We feel as if our son has disowned us. Do you have any explanation for this? - Puzzled In Miami

DEAR MIAMI: I'm glad you signed your name because it identifies you as a member of a specific minority group. Obviously your son felt that this identification was a handicap. Too bad he has such little confidence.

Edward Levi, Sol Linowitz, Arthur Goldberg and Abe Ribicoff did all right without changing their names.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you say to an executive who earns $60,000 a year and wears the same pair of pants 25 days in a row, ties that are 15 years old and so soiled it's pathetic? His shirts are frayed and nothing fits right. He is at least 50 pounds

This man has a wife at home, yet he goes for five days with a split in his pants him and take the trousers to a tailor if she doesn't want to do it herself.

No one knows how to approach the subject. We have tried subtle and even not-sosubtle hints, but nothing happens. We keep thinking a colleague might mention it to him but there is no evidence that anyone has. Can it be that the man doesn't have a mirror at home? Please, Ann, help us get the word out to him or his wife. We are - Grossed Out at CGW In New YOrk

I am printing your letter on the outside chance that such a creature exists, but I choose to believe it was written by an out-of-favor typist with a live imagination and a poison pen. DEAR ANN LANDERS: My heart went out to the girl parents were splitting. My parents went through an ugly, hateful divorce and planted us kids squarely in the middle. They never came right out and said it, but the message was clear --CHOOSE!" Although I was older than the girl who wrote, I lacked the maturity to handle it and it still hurts to

Your advice was good. The girl and her brother must insist REPEATEDLY that they will not take sides, nor get involved. I hope they listen to you. - Same Shoes

Regulation: costs vs. benefits

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Whenever three-quarters of the U.S. Senate signs up to sponsor a particular piece of legislation, it's a safe bet the measure isn't going to harm a soul — or accomplish much of anything, either.

This year's apple-pie-and-motherhood bill is a regulatory-reform measure built around a requirement that any federal agency planning to issue a new regulation must first determine that the anticipated benefits will "justify" the costs and that the proposed rule is the most "cost-effective" means of achieving the objective in question.

No one but the most rabid devotee of bureaucracy for its own sake could object to such a requirement. It has a nice, business-like ring to it that has undeniable appeal in a society all but strangling in government red tape.

What, after all, are we coming to when the common hamburger is subject to some 41,000 separate federal and state regulations stemming from 200 laws and more than 111,000 precedent-setting court cases, according to one recent Colora-precedent-setting court cases, according to one recent Colora do State University study?

The problem with cost-benefit analysis, the heart of the "Regulatory Reform Act of 1961," is that it promises more than it can deliver. The objectivity, the dispassionate balancing of pros and cons implied by such an approach, is largely illusory. All public-policy decisions, including regulatory actions, are ultimately based on value judgments.

Consider, for example, the expensive and time-consuming regulatory maze the pharmaceutical industry must negotiate in this country before bringing a new drug on the market.

According to Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., one of the chief sponsors of the pending reform bill, it now takes 10 years and $54 million to move a new drug from the laboratory bench to the patient's bedside. Such regulatory restraint, he says, has put the United States behind other nations in the development of new pharmaceuticals.

What Laxalt does not mention is that these self-same regulations spared the United States the incalculable pain of a Thalidomide tragedy, to cite but the most obvious example. How do we weigh delay and expense against the avoidance of hideous drug-induced birth defects? It is a value judgment, pure and simple, and it always will be.

That scene wouldn't have choked me up except when you know that a mechanic once said to him, "You're losing a piston," and HE said, "I don't follow basketball that closely, but who is it?"

So I said to him, "What's the matter with the car?" "Nothing's the matter," he said, slamming down the hood.

"So what are you doing staring in at the motor?" "I thought I was releasing the brake and the hood went up instead. I had to get out and pretend I released it on

I've seen him turn an enthusiastic wave (to someone he thought he knew) into a hair pat, a neck massage, a fly swatter, a collar smoother, a label fixer, and once he tried to tell me he was winding his watch.

Another time he was talking to me and when I wandered away from him he asked a strange woman what we were having for dinner. Instead of leveling with her, he whispered, "If you don't want me to come over, just say so and I'll unders-

The other night I walked into a dining room and came face to face with a woman wearing a dress exactly like mine. We looked like bookends. I wanted to throw a tablecloth over her and arrange four chairs around her. I looked at her sweetly and smiled, "So, you bought the other one."

My husband growled, "Now, THAT'S honest!"

Astro's Knepper Hurls 4th Shutout

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

The Cincinnati Reds and San Francisco Giants played a game in weather more suited for ducks than baseball players Wednesday night. But Mario Soto made it through the rain.

"I think after he came back from the rain delay, he threw better," said Cincinnati catcher Mike O'Berry after Soto pitched the Reds to a 3-2 victory in soggy Riverfront Stadium.

The game was delayed three times by rain - the last in the top of the first for two hours and 18 minutes after the Giants scored twice off Soto. He then came back to

Mahaffey Ready To Defend Title

WASHINGTON (AP) -John Mahaffey says he's ready and able to defend his Kemper Open title and he doesn't care who else is in the field to challenge him. As a matter of fact, he says, he like tough courses. I made the wouldn't care if he had to decision, basically, because "I have to play my game," said Mahaffey, the 10-year pro who defeated Craig said, 'OK, I will play.' Stadler by three shots a year ago after shooting a 5-underpar 278 over the 7,054-yard, par-70 Congressional Country Club course. "I can't play Tom Watson's game, Tom Weiskopf's or Jack Nicklaus', or anybody else's game. Just because there are others in the field doesn't mean I'm going to change my game at all.

"I don't know who's here," said Mahaffey, with a big smile, Wednesday after shooting a 74 in the Pro-Amateur tournament, "I don't care if they all drop out, I'll be here.

"In fact, I wish they would all go home."

Mahaffey was asked about the field after the withdrawals of Johnny Miller, a two-time winner this season, and former PGA champion David Graham, cut even more deeply into the 156-ran field of the $400,000 tournament.

Only seven of the top 20 money-winners, including Watson who is second to Bruce Lietzke, No. 3 Ray Floyd, No. 4 Hale Irwin and No. 6 Tom Kite, remain the chase for the $72,000 first prize. Mahaffey won $43,200 a year ago.

winners for the past four years and trails Lietzke by $2,970 this year, says he entered the Kemper about three weeks ago because "I they hadn't had a real tough field and I was asked by Jim Kemper to reconsider and I "Congressional is a tough golf course," he said. "It's like an Open course. You can start making bogeys and there is no letup. You just don't have an out hitting mediocre shots. You just have to hit a lot of good shots.

"The first thing you consider, as a pro, is the golf course," continued Watson, the current British Open and Masters champion. "You consider whether it is a course you have been successful on or whether it is a course you like. That is what the pros consider. I consider the pleasure of playing a golf course the most important thing."

As lord of baseball, the commissioner has been equipped with considerable clout - awarded originally by the owners and upheld repeatedly in the courts but in labor strife he is fangless. So he must resign himself to an standoff role, working behind the scenes in an advisory capacity with the club owners but having little or no influence over the players.

The old restrictive reserve clause is dead. Labor laws have given players new independence. The players, the working men in the game's new gilded age, have ears only for their union boss, Marvin Miller, a tough, astute negotiator.

There are some people long in the tooth who, remembering pictures of a wrinkled old judge named Kenesaw Mountain Landis leaning over the dugouts with his stern mein and fedora hat, may think all the commissioner has to do is snap his fingers and bark: "Play ball!"

That may have been the way it was back in baseball's dark ages - which covers everything from Abner Doubleday to the advent of free agency in 1976 - but not any more.

As the owners, players and lawyers wrangle over the small print that could affect the future of the game, you still hear kibitzers saying: "This is ridiculous - shutting down baseball. Why doesn't the commissioner do something?"

The hard truth is: He can't. It's not in his sphere of in-

Thus he is reluctant to thrust himself onto the scene. In recent days he has avoided press conferences and interviews. He is keeping abreast of the negotiations and certainly maintaining contact with club executives and Ray Grebey, the owners negotiator.

His role is advisory. He can counsel the owners. He is regarded as an adversary by Miller and the players because it is the owners who select him and pay his salary, although Kuhn likes to regard himself as the "commissioner of all baseball - particularly the fans."

He has said publicly that he supports the owners' position in the current standoff on compensation, which basically would require surrender of a major league player in return for the loss of a quality player to another club in the free agent re-entry draft.

Players are opposed to this, ald destroy the bargaining power of the runof-the-mill performer. In the old agreement, only an amateur draft choice was used for compensation.

A couple of years ago, Kuhn warned that free agency and its escalating salaries were a "ticking time bomb." He urged quick remedial and unselfish action for both owners and players.

Monterey Wins First Playoff Tilt Logan McC.

Senior hurler Nathan Swindle shut down El Paso Eastwood on four hits Tuesday as the District 4-5A champion Monterey Plainsmen gained a 1-0 advantage in their best-of-three Regional baseball series with the Troopers in a 6-1 victory at Lubbock's Lowery Field. Swindle, who's allowed only one earned run in 21 playoff innings, gained his 11th straight win in the Plainsmen victory. He struck out six, walked five, and hit one batsman as Eastwood could get but one unearned run in the contest.

Monterey, meanwhile, score four runs in the second and added a pair of tallies in the fifth to romp to the win, which sets them up to clinch a trip to the state tournament. MHS needs to win only one of two games against the Troopers Saturday at El Paso.

Red Raider Day Cancelled

The Red Raider Club Day which was scheduled in Hereford this week has been cancelled, according to Dave Hopper, local chairman.

Hopper explained that there were too many conflicts locally, with the spring football game and graduation occuring this week.

Locally Texas Tech alumni are planning to get an early June date for the event next time of 32:57 in a Memorial Day 9K Fun Run sponsored by the local CYO.

DEAR DR. LAMB — In my mid-30s I started having periods of noisy breathing during my sleep. Most disturbing to my wife was that sometimes I would stop breathing for a while and then gasp for air. At about age 40 I would wake in the middle of the night with the feeling of smothering. I could gain air by rolling to a face down position. At age 56 I had a grand mal seizure. I was put on anticonvulsant drugs warned to limit coffee and liquor. I still had seizures about every six months until three years ago after I mastered the art of sleeping face down. All of my seizures have been at night and I can start one by sleeping on my back. Recently I read about sleep apnea. How can doctors classify me as epileptic when I have such a history?

DEAR READER - When you were first diagnosed sleep apnea was not described. I can't be sure that is your problem but your story certainly sounds like it.

Everyone who has convulsions does not have epilepsy. A person with a very slow heartbeat from heart block may have a seizure from lack of oxygen supply to the brain. The treatment is a heart pacemaker, not anticonvul-sant medicines. There are many other cause of convul-sions, too. If there is a failure to supply oxygen to the brain for any reason, it can cause

I would like to suggest that you ask your doctors to send you to the nearest sleep cen-ter for studies. They may be very interested in your unusu-

Brightening dingy sheets-

DEAR POLLY — Can you give me some tips on how to brighten some sheets and housecoats that are dingy?

These are "no iron" materials and I have washed them as directed. I'll appreciate any helpful suggestions. -

DEAR L.L.H. - This is a common problem with syn thetic fabrics and cottons that have a special finish. Chlorine bleach can fade, yellow or damage them. Only use an oxyg a (a l-fabric) bleach. You might not be rinsing these items completely. Try putting soap or deter-gent only in the pre-soak cycle of your machine. Then let it run through the wash cycle and all the rinse cycles

Another common cause of general dinginess as well as spotting is the overuse of fabric softeners. Try laundering these items a few times without adding any kind of fabric softener. If that seems to help, continue to wash them occasionally without softener to discourage future graying. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY - A plastic "bubble" umbrella makes an excellent miniature greenhouse. Just remove the handle and entire bulb (many cloves) at a time, then store the cloves in a stopped at an intersection. — MRS. M.C.Y.

or exercise program you can DEAR READER - Rarely some medical problems can cause this condition but I am sorry to tell you that there is no such thing as spot reducing. Exercising the chest muscles alone will not eliminate breast fat. It is still the old story of a balance between calories in and calories used. As your son continues to increase his use of calories through a generalized exercise program and diet control, he will eventually eliminate those unwanted fat deposits.

Many people know that when you lose fat it tends to disappear last from the places where you want to eliminate it the most.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I read your column on snoring and would like to make a suggestion. When I got married for the second time this was a severe problem. I solved it by buying a sleep machine. I placed the machine on the night table and soon I was no POLLY'S POINTERS longer bothered by my ishand's snoring. DEAR READER - A very good suggestion. You used the principle of masking the noise. Any disturbing noise can be masked by other sounds. Have you ever noticed how much louder conversation is if the room is absolutely quiet? There are a number of such sleep devices; some produce sounds of the ocean. A simple test is to tune your FM radio between stations and turn it up so the background noise is constant. That even helps people who have ringing and noises in the ears when they try to sleep. With a suitable level of constant noise in the background a person may not even notice someone snoring.
