

Summer Pattern Broken

Nation's Unemployment Rate Drops

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate fell an unexpected 0.3 percentage point in June, breaking a pattern of rising joblessness that coincides with the end of the school year, the Labor Department reported today.

The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said last month's unemployment rate was 7.3 percent of the national workforce, compared to May's 7.6 percent.

The decline returned unemployment to the range that had prevailed in February, March and April.

Unemployment traditionally rises in June, coincident with the closing of schools and the entrance of many young people into the labor force in search of jobs, the department said.

This June, the increase was less than usual and, as a result, unemployment increased on a seasonally adjusted basis to 7.8 million.

The department reported that unemployment among blacks rose by 0.6 percentage point, from 13.6 percent to 14.2 percent.

The department says the labor force overall grew by 1.3 million last month, but that the rise was only about half the amount expected "based on patterns which have occurred in recent years."

Total employment fell by 840,000 in June, however, as the government reported 96.4 million people holding jobs.

The department also reported an increase of 100,000 people in its "discouraged worker" category — people who have given up their search for jobs because they can't find one.

The department reported these other unemployment rates:

—Adult men declined from 6.3 percent to 6.1 percent.

—Adult women declined by 0.3 percentage point to 6.5 percent.

—Teenagers declined by 0.5 percentage point to 19 percent.

—White workers declined from 6.8 percent to 6.4 percent.

—Hispanics remained at 10.2 percent.

The 7.6 percent unemployment rate in May returned to the peak level recorded in May, July, August and October of last year. The previous high monthly figure was 7.8 percent in December

Peres Probing Coalition Chances

By ARTHUR MAX
Associated Press Writer

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Labor Party chief Shimon Peres, clutching to a slim hope of forming a new Israeli government, explored the chances for a coalition with the pivotal National Religious Party today.

The latest unofficial results from Tuesday's national election showed Labor and Prime Minister Menachem Begin's Likud block each winning 49 seats in the new 120-member Parliament. It had appeared Wednesday that Likud won only 48.

A mere 405 votes separated the two main parties in the popular vote, the daily newspaper Maariv reported.

It said its unofficial tally of about 85 percent of the vote showed the socialist Laborites with 60,916 votes and the conservative Likud with 607,511, out of the 1,613,584 valid votes cast.

Peres set a crucial meeting for later today with Yosef Burg, leader of the National Religious Party, an Orthodox Jewish group.

The 67-year-old Begin sounded confident Wednesday that he could again patch together a parliamentary majority, but he is dependent on the support of the NRP and the ultra-Orthodox Agudat Israel. Together they are expected to control 11 seats.

"I hope by next week to form a government," Begin said after meeting with Burg, who was allied with Begin in the last government, serving as interior minister.

If he has the support of the two Orthodox parties, Begin would then need the backing of at least one independent legislator for a bare 61-seat majority, a brittle edge that could easily crumble.

Burg, who was also chief of the Pjlestinian autonomy negotiating team, indicated Wednesday he was willing to join forces again with Begin. But he would not rule out joining a Labor-led coalition.

As Peres approached today's meeting with the NRP leader, liberal Israeli newspapers warned him against making too generous an offer to the religious bloc in return for its support.

They feared the religious politicians would seek promises of clerical restrictions on secular life beyond what already exists in the Jewish state.

Lady Bird Loses Commissary Card

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The Air Force Commissary Service has ordered Lady Bird Johnson to stop unauthorized shopping at the Bergstrom Air Force Base commissary in Austin, a newspaper reported today.

"It is a totally unfortunate situation," a spokesman for the Air Force Commissary Service, headquartered at Kelly Air Force Base here, told the San Antonio News.

The former first lady was out of the country and could not be reached for comment, but a spokesman for her in Austin said, "she would be embarrassed when she returns from overseas."

The Commissary Service spokesman said that Mrs. Johnson or a member of the Johnson household has been shopping at the Bergstrom Air Force Base commissary on a regular basis since the death of former President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1973.

Commissaries offer products at prices generally below those charged in the

Irani Guards Thwart Leftist Plot to Blow Up Parliament

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iran's Revolutionary Guards thwarted a leftist plot to blow up the Parliament building in Tehran and arrested 50 of the plotters after a gunfight, a spokesman for the Islamic Republican Party said today.

Tehran Radio said firing squads executed 17 leftists in three cities today and revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini said in a broadcast that Iranians should remember "we are at war with America."

The guards, tipped by residents of the neighborhood where the plotters were meeting, surprised dozens of leftists, traded gunfire with them and arrested 50, said Ghassem Bani-Hashemi, general director of the office of Education Minister Hojateleslam Mohammad Javad Bahonar. Bahonar is the IRP's new chief.

"They are now in jail, and after ... investigations (are completed) we can say definitely what will be done to them," he said in a telephone conversation with The Associated Press office in Beirut. Hundreds of opponents of the Tehran regime have been executed as "counter-revolutionaries" since the revolution toppled the monarchy in February 1979.

Bani-Hashemi said the 50 members of the mujahedeen Khalq also planned to blow up a busy bridge in southern Tehran. Mujahedeen Khalq is an Islamic-Marxist group which has been in the forefront of street demonstrations protesting the ouster of President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr.

Creditors Postpone Debts; Braniff Off Hook Again

DALLAS (AP) — For the second time this year financially troubled Braniff International has gotten its creditors to postpone interest and principal payments on a $600 million debt, a day after the deadline for the original extension passed.

"We are pleased with the agreement," Braniff board chairman John J. Casey said Wednesday of the terms reached by the airline and its 39 creditors.

About $40 million in principal and interest payments would have come due if the lenders did not agree to the extension.

"It constitutes an expression of confidence in Braniff and its employees as well as in the soundness of its operations. We are optimistic that an acceptable restructuring agreement will be negotiated in the near future."

Under terms of the agreement, "the lenders will enter into intensive negotiations with Braniff with a view towards reaching an agreement in principle by early fall

Selective Service Board Due Here

By GAIL FIELDS
Staff Writer

The federal government, in an effort to revitalize the selective service system, will be establishing local selective service boards this summer.

According to Colonel Paul Dean Aiken, state director of the selective service commission in Austin, the purpose of the boards will be to review the cases of individuals who feel they should not be drafted. The boards will be enacted on a standby basis, that is, they will not be needed unless the draft is reinstated and men are called to join the service.

Each board will consist of five members and each county will have at least one board. However, some of the more heavily populated counties in the state may have more than one board. Houston, for instance, will have as many as five boards. Aiken said after the 1980 census results were reported, the state determined that Texas needs 138 selective service boards.

Locally, County Judge Glen Nelson said the county will grant Aiken's request that the county courthouse provide a room for interviewing prospective board members.

Nelson said he is not sure yet where the room will be located.

According to Aiken, a representative from either the U.S. Army Reserve or the National Guard will be at the county courthouse sometime in August to interview applicants. Six Reserve units and nine National Guard units have been designated to do the state-wide interviewing.

Aiken said prospective board members need to be between the ages of 18-60 and they cannot be connected with the military or the Reserves, or be retired from the military. Most importantly, the interviewers will be looking for board members that are representative of the area they will serve. Aiken said the state now has a descriptive profile of each county.

Interested persons can write and request an information sheet from Selective Service System, Texas State Director, P.O. Box 5218, Austin, Tex. 78763.

Ideas Solicited On How to Save Chapel

In the last three editions of the Brand we have run a series of articles on the Prisoner of War camp located near Hereford during World War II. Public interest has been high and there are many concerned that the chapel which rests on the site be preserved.

Owners Mr. and Mrs. A.E. Hodges have expressed their desire to have the chapel removed from their property as people have vandalized it and some have even used it for a bathroom. They said they will give it to the City or Museum if it can be moved.

The Deaf Smith Historical Commission, chaired by Major Schroeter, is interested in perpetuating the memory of the camp through the chapel. "Perhaps we could build a replica of the altar and remove the marble plaque to place them in a more suitable place," said Schroeter who felt the building would not be worth moving.

Some people associated with the Deaf Smith County Museum also feel that "Something needs to be done about locating the chapel in a more suitable place."

Though expressing their interest, neither group is at this time able to make definite plans for the restoration of the chapel.

Citizens and organizations who would be interested in seeing the chapel restored in some way are encouraged to write letters expressing their concern and any ideas they might have. Send letters to POW, PO Box 673, Hereford, Tex. 79045. All letters will be forwarded to the proper authorities.

9 Year-Old Getting

"Rich" Collecting Cans

DALLAS (AP) - A 9-year-old Hurst boy with a keen eye for discarded cans is $100 closer to getting a dirt bike he wants because a recycling company gave him a bonus for pushing its salvage total past the 20 million-pound mark.

Roger Rippey began collecting the cans more than a year ago and Wednesday turned in 81 pounds of cans and collected the penny-a-can payment of $24.40.

But Paul Myer, manager of the Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Center in Dallas, added $100 to that figure because Roger's bundle set the plant over the 20 million-pound mark.

The money was a big step toward the bike, which carries a $200 price tag.

Roger, who began picking up the roadside litter so he could have some pocket money, summed up his feelings about the bonus in three words: "I feel rich."

2,500 Redfish

Killed In Gulf Coast

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) - Scientists and game management experts said Wednesday they could not explain what had killed about 2,500 adult redfish that have been spotted along a 140-mile stretch of the Gulf Coast.

"There was a dead red fish about every 300 feet," Dr. Pat Parker of the University of Texas Marine Science Institute in Port Aransas said Wednesday after flying over a stretch of the Gulf Coast between Port Aransas and Brownsville.

"It's just redfish - that's the strange thing," Parker said.

Tom Hefferman, director of the Coastal Fisheries Division of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, said he counted more than 1,100 dead fish on the beach between Port Aransas and Port Mansfield.

Former Constable

Charged For Child Abuse

HOUSTON (AP) - A former deputy constable who said he sexually abused an 8-year-old boy to meet a satanic cult membership requirement has been sentenced to 10 years in prison.

James Earl Thomas, 34, pleaded no contest to charges of sex abuse of a child and was sentenced by a state district judge Wednesday.

Assistant District Attorney Bill Harmon said Thomas admitted abusing the boy when he testified Wednesday.

Harmon said Thomas' girlfriend discovered Thomas in bed with her son, then learned from her children that Thomas had abused her son four times and had attempted to abuse her 5-year-old daughter.

Thomas was trying to become a member of a satanic cult that required him to molest a young boy and sleep with a woman and her daughter, Harmon said.

He said Thomas claimed to have already slept with another woman and her 12-year-old daughter to fulfill other cult demands.

Families Return Home

After Line Rupture

BAYTOWN, Texas (AP) - About 130 families returned to their homes early today after a butane line rupture forced their evacuation from a mobile home park and a nearby subdivision.

Chambers County Sheriff Chuck Morris said the families were allowed to return home after authorities determined it was safe for them to do so.

An Exxon U.S.A. spokesman said Wednesday that the break occurred about 6 p.m. when a valve on a 10-inch line stuck, causing the pipeline to rupture and leak.

Deputies went from door to door in the Cedar Bayou trailer park and subdivision and asked residents to evacuate the area.

Officials said there was no fire and no explosion, but SH 146 was closed as a safety precaution. The highway was opened again as the families returned home.

A Mount Belview Volunteer Fire Department spokesman said earlier that he believed the residents would be allowed to return to their homes sometime today.

Paul Harvey News,

Atom Bomb Not Japan's First Hurt

I've always thought it a shame that the "age of the atom" dawned with two hideous nuclear bomb bursts over Japan. Little wonder some still see this friend as an enemy. Had you first been introduced to electricity by way of the electric chair, doubtless you'd still be afraid to plug the toaster into the socket!

Historians, clergy, military and sociologists will debate forever the Truman decision to use the atomic bomb on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

There will always be those who say we could have won at less cost and others who will insist that it shortened the war, saved lives.

What I am about to relate will not resolve the issue for everybody, but it does satisfy me.

I respect no chronicler of World War II more than William Manchester. He saw it through the eyes of a Marine and he has researched it with journalistic diligence.

In his book "Goodbye Darkness," he examined the pros and cons of dropping those atomic bombs. Research for that volume and since has satisfied Manchester with the wisdom of Truman's historic decision.

Douglas MacArthur was able - before a battle - to predict with uncanny accuracy how many lives would be lost on both sides.

Time and again in the Pacific campaign his projections proved phenomenally precise. Washington was impressed with the general's insight. President Truman - despite their subsequent falling out - remained awed by MacArthur's tactical genius.

President Truman had asked General MacArthur how many American lives it would cost for our troops to invade and secure the five islands of Imperial Japan.

MacArthur's reply was one million men.

And this much blood would purchase only "the initial phase" of the conquest, because the Japanese were prepared to fight to the very last - a hundred million Japanese, including women and children, were pledged to die.

And they meant it. They had demonstrated on Saipan that they would throw themselves off cliffs rather than surrender.

Also - Hiroshima and Nagasaki were not the worst things that happened to Japan during that war. More Japanese were killed in the fire-bombing raid on Tokyo.

And Manchester reminds us also that during MacArthur's five year rule of Japan after the war, his public health innovations saved more Japanese lives than were lost in the entire war.

civilian community.

The Air Force last month had denied former President Jimmy Carter permission to shop in commissaries and base exchanges. Carter sought the privileges by citing his four years in the presidency as commander-in-chief of the armed forces.

"We had no idea of the practice, but apparently it has been going on for several years," Lt. Col. Julius DuBois, a commissary service official, said of the Johnson family commissary shopping.

DuBois said it was confirmed that a kitchen maid for the Johnson household had been making monthly trips to the Bergstrom facility.

He said that several years ago, while Johnson was in office, that Johnson asked an aide to procure a "green card" authorizing personal use of such military facilities as barber shops, post exchanges and commissaries.

Both President and Mrs. Johnson traveled about 140 miles roundtrip from their Central Texas ranch to stock up on such sundries as groceries, paper goods and soap, the spokesman said.

Apparently after Johnson's death, the card was used to permit purchase by family members or household staffers, DuBois confirmed.

"AFSCOM (Air Force Commissary Service) was formed in 1976 so we were totally unaware of this happening," he said.

DuBois said the Johnson family shopping came to light

as a result of a directive issued last March 19 to base stores ordering a halt to resuance of the green cards.

He said the practice eventually would have surfaced, but the process was speeded up by the recent denial of shopping privileges to Carter.

"Even if the Carter thing had not come up, it would have eventually turned up anyway," DuBois said. "But the people at Bergstrom just began asking more questions."

County Attorney Indicted By Jury

CARRIZO SPRINGS, Texas (AP) - A grand jury has indicted County Attorney Pablo V. Bustamante on two counts of official misconduct in an investigation the Texas Rangers say is just beginning in this South Texas county.

Bustamante was accused of illegally paying $1,000 in count funds to New Aztlan Consolidated Electronics Inc., a corporation he controls, on or about March 17.

The second indictment charged that on or about the same date that Bustamante paid another $1,000 in county money to a local funeral home for burying a relative of the district attorney's wife.

The charges were returned late Wednesday at the end of the first day of a grand jury investigation.

Texas Rangers Rudy Rodriguez and Stan Guffey were assigned at mid-May to begin an investigation into alleged improprieties in Dimmit County.

Texas Ranger Captain Jack Dean of San Antonio said Wednesday night that all 12 grand jurors signed a note requesting "continued assistance of the Texas Rangers and the Attorney General of Texas in the investigation now pending before the grand jury."

"It means we're just getting started here in Dimmit County," Dean said.

Bustamante testified before the grand jury Wednesday afternoon and Dean said at least one other person has been subpoenaed for today's session. The Ranger captain, however, would not identify the other witness or witnesses.

Dimmit County Judge Larry Speer also testified Wednesday on a volunteer basis.

"I was sworn in. I can't say anything," Speer said. The county judge said, however, that he was not a target of the investigation.

The indictments against Bustamante are third degree felonies punishable on conviction by two to 10 years in prison and/or fines up to $5,000 for each offense.

Distict Attorney Julio Garcia of Laredo, whose jurisdiction includes Dimmit County, did not participate in Wednesday's proceedings. Instead, Assistant Texas Attorney General Jerry Carruth, who participated in the "clean up" of Duval County, presented evidence with the assistance of five Texas Rangers.

In a related matter, a pre-trial hearing that had been scheduled on misdemeanor charges against Speer and the four Dimmit County commissioners was reset for July 8.

Bustamante is the prosecuting attorney in that case in which local newspaper publisher Larry Sipes has charged the county officials with violating the Texas Open Meetings Law.

House press briefing that the plan as of now is to proceed with the July shipment.

Asked whether the July shipment would not be affected by the June suspension, Speakes said: "You're right, they're not." Pressed about whether he was sure of his answer, he replied: "Yes."

Any change in those plans would have to be a result of that review, but I would caution you not to interpret that as an indication other shipments are likely to be affected," he said.

Later, in a telephone call, Speakes hedged slightly.

"Once the review is completed on the four, it will affect the others," he said.

"Everything is under review. All things are possible. No decisions have been made."

While Speakes said there was no timetable on the suspended F-16s, CBS, ABC and The Washington Post reported that the planes will be released soon.

Samuel Flatto-Sharon, who faces jail for fraud in France and for vote-buying in Israel, failed to win re-election to his seat. He recently was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment on two counts of buying some of the votes that won him the seat in the 1977 election.

The agreement provides that the final restructuring be completed as soon as possible after that and "that all sums due on the privately-held debt will be deferred until Feb. 1, 1982," and that no interest will be charged on the debt.

The Braniff Group had received an earlier deferral of all sums due on its private debt from Feb. 1, 1981 until this Tuesday, and also will be deferred until next February.

Braniff reported a net loss of $131.4 million in 1980, after a net loss of $44.3 million in 1979. Airline officials blamed a 1981 first quarter deficit of $24.7 million on its debt payments and have been seeking an easier repayment schedule.

On Tuesday, Boeing Co. said it had sold to Air Florida the five 727-200 aircraft originally ordered by Braniff. Braniff and Boeing still have to get rid of the three larger 747s originally valued at $173.6 million.

According to Braniff's 1980 annual report, the delivery price of the 727-200 planes was $75.7 million. Braniff was who claim to use the Koran, the Islamic holy book, to interpret Marxist theories, have been denounced as 'hypocrites' by Khomeini and other Moslem fundamentalists.

Khomeini, linking the Mujahedeen with the United States, said today in a broadcast address monitored in Beirut: "We must not forget that we are at war with America. We are at war with America and the leftovers of America."

The U.S. government, responding to earlier allegations, has denied any connection with the bomb blast.

The state radio announced 17 militants were shot to death today. Ten of the alleged opponents were shot in Tabriz, capital of Azerbaijan province; six were killed in Ahwaz, capital of oil-rich Khuzistan province, and one in the Caspian Sea resort of Bablo, the radio said.

Those deaths bring to at least 89 the number of people executed in Iran in the past two weeks, according to official reports. Most were identified as members of the Mujahedeen Khalq and other leftist groups, although some were autonomy-seeking Kurds from northwestern Iran and others were Bahais, members of a non-Moslem faith which preaches the universal brotherhood of man.

Police Report Quiet Evening

Hereford Police received few reports last night.

Alfonso Maurer, of Nazareth, told police that he caught three juveniles at about 3:50 a.m. trying to steal a hubcap from his car. The kids ran off but they did not get the hubcap.

An officer at 5 a.m. found a broken window at A to Z Tire Co., however, no entry was made into the building. Damage is estimated at about $100.

Police issued three traffic citations, answered three minor incident calls and arrested one person for public intoxication.

Clerical Error Led to 'Premature' Release

DALLAS (AP) — An elderly arsonist who can neither read nor write is having trouble grasping why he must return to his prison cell because a Texas Department of Corrections records clerk couldn't add.

Larry D. Eddings had served less than one month of his six-year sentence when he walked out the prison gates May 13 with $200 in his wallet and discharge papers in his hand.

Embarrassed TDC officials, who discovered a records clerk had erroneously calculated the time Eddings had served, issued a bulletin for his arrest Tuesday and on Wednesday Longview police found the 61-year-old man relaxing at his home on the city's southside.

"They said they wanted me down in the TDC, and I just left there," Eddings said in a telephone interview from the jail Wednesday.

"He thought he'd been honestly released, and he had been very happy about it," said Longview police spokesman Tom Kennedy. "There he was sitting on the front porch enjoying life, having no idea anything was amiss."

"He didn't offer any resistance, but he was quite surprised and taken aback that something was out of line regarding his release," Kennedy said.

"No one explained. They said I was released through a mistake," a dumbfounded Eddings said. "I didn't break out, I didn't run away. They give me a discharge that was signed by the warden, which his name is Mr. (W.E.) Estelle, and I also had all my papers that said I was free."

"My discharge ain't no good?" he asked. "It's signed by the warden and he's in charge, ain't he?"

"They're pretty tight-lipped. I guess there are some pretty red faces down there," said Kennedy.

Eddings had been convicted of arson and sentenced to prison in 1977 for setting fire to the garage of his Waco home, said Waco police detective Wanda Bass. No one was hurt in the blaze at the house she said had been insured for $12,000.

Eddings was free on bond while he appealed the conviction, but TDC spokesman Rick Hartley said records showed — wrongly — that Eddings was in jail the entire time.

Hartley said when Eddings reported to Huntsville on April 15 to begin serving his time, his records showed he had almost finished the sentence.

"The chaplain come and told me I'd be getting out on the 13th (of May). I sat down with 'em, and there was a man there to help me because I can write my name, but I can't read too good, I'm not educated..." said Eddings.

"It's sad that a mistake was made, but he was sentenced for violating a state law and he still has time he owes the state," said Hartley. "We have no other choice."

"It's not a matter of personalities, it's official business of the state. A mistake was made and he'll come back and do his time."

Eddings said he was worried about going back to prison because he had not had time to notify the customers he serves as a janitor that he would not be coming to work.

"I have a janitory service and I don't have no time to notify the peoples," he said. "They're going to think the worst in the world of me now."

Hartley said that although it was "our fault" that Eddings had gone home, the prison was "not in the business of notifying customers."

Study Supports Limited Surgery

BOSTON (AP) — Women faced with a minor case of breast cancer could benefit from the removal of only part of the breast plus radiotherapy as much as from a radical mastectomy, a study of Italian-cancer patients has found.

The study, conducted from 1973 to 1980 at the National Cancer Institute in Milan, focused on women's breast cancers measuring less than two centimeters in diameter.

It found no difference in survival rates of the 349 patients who underwent a radical mastectomy and 352 who received radiotherapy plus a more conservative operation called a quadrantectomy, according to the study, published in today's New England Journal of Medicine.

There is a "pressing demand" among men with breast cancer for "less mutilating procedures and increasing requests from patients to be informed of the various possible treatments, including the conservative technique," the study noted.

With a radical mastectomy, surgeons remove a woman's entire breast, plus adjoining fat and pectoral muscles. The 10-year survival rate for patients undergoing radical mastectomies in the United States has been less than 50 percent, medical authorities say.

In a quadrantectomy, only a section of the breast is removed. Many doctors believe women have fewer psychological problems adjusting if the entire breast is not removed.

Twenty-eight of the 701 women in the study had died by 1980. Of those, 14 had undergone the radical mastectomy and 14 received a quadrantectomy.

Doctors also found some form of cancer recurrence in 38 of the patients who lost an entire breast, and in 36 of those who lost a section of breast and underwent radiotherapy.

One of every 11 women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime during life, medical authorities say.

Meanwhile, another study published in the Journal today said a new drug, combined with conventional chemotherapy, can greatly reduce the recurrence of breast cancer in older women.

In addition, the study said, the drug does not produce such side effects as loss of hair.

The new drug, tamoxifen, has produced "some very exciting preliminary findings" when used with two common chemotherapy drugs, L-PAM and 5-FU, immediately after a breast cancer operation, said Dr. Bernard Fisher, who led the Pittsburgh-based research project.

Without chemotherapy, 40 percent of the women face a recurrence of cancer within two years. With the two common drugs, there is a 22 percent chance of recurrence.

But the addition of tamoxifen to the two drugs produces a substance called PFT, which Fisher said reduced recurrence of breast cancer to 7 percent.

The 23-month study centered on treatment of 1,414 breast cancer patients.

Soviet Making A 'Friendly Visit'

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Soviet Union's veteran foreign minister is making what is called a "friendly" visit to Poland today, and Solidarity leader Lech Walesa once again warned his independent labor federations not to provoke the Soviet Union.

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's trip to Poland was announced several days ago by the Soviet news agency Tass, which said it would be "friendly." Former West German Chancellor Willy Brandt, in Moscow for talks with Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev, reported Gromyko would fly to Warsaw today.

Although nobody would say what message Gromyko was bringing, it was assumed he would put pressure on Polish Communist Party chief Stanislaw Kania to put the brakes on the reform movement at the party congress opening July 14.

Kania's chief aide, Premier Wojciech Jaruzelski, will miss Gromyko's visit. He is leading the Polish delegation to a three-day meeting of the Soviet bloc's economic alliance, COMECON, opening today in Sofia, Bulgaria.

The other nine member countries of the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance are losing patience with the failure of Poland's creaky economy to deliver the goods — especially coal — promised to its partners. Czechoslovak officials say they want stronger sanctions against member countries who renege on economic agreements.

Walesa, the leader of the Soviet bloc's only labor federation free of state and Communist Party control, warned Solidarity members in Cracow on Wednesday that "pseudo-activists" — apparently meaning confrontation-seeking hotheads — were trying "to smash and manipulate the union," Warsaw Radio reported.

Walesa, who became a national hero in the strike wave last summer that resulted in legalization of the independent labor movement, said Solidarity "is having to function in complicated conditions — different from a year ago — of economic crisis."

He "firmly dissociated himself, on behalf of the whole of Solidarity, from any attempts whatever aimed at provocation and damaging the good Polish-Soviet relations," the broadcast report said.

Warsaw Television reported that vandals in Radomsko, southwest of Warsaw, painted a swastika on a cemetery monument honoring Soviet soldiers and brushed paint on a bust of the late Soviet leader Joseph Stalin.

Several other such desecrations of Soviet monuments in Poland have been featured in the Soviet press as indications of a breakdown of law and order in Poland.

ARE YOU INVESTING WISELY?

Because Jesus was nearing Jerusalem. He told a story to correct the impression that the Kingdom of God would begin right away.

"A nobleman living in a certain province was called away to the distant capital of the empire to be crowned king of his province. Before he left he called together ten assistants and gave them each $2,000 to invest while he was gone."

"Upon his return he called in the men to whom he had given the money, to find out what they had done with it, and what their profits were."

"The first man reported a tremendous gain—ten times as much as the original amount! 'Fine!' the king exclaimed. 'You are a good man. You have been faithful with the little I entrusted to you, and as your reward, you shall be governor of ten cities.'

"The next man also reported a splendid gain—five times the original amount. 'All right!' his master said. 'You can be governor over five cities.'

"But the third man brought back only the money he had started with. 'I've kept it safe,' he said; 'because I was afraid, for you are a hard man to deal with, taking what isn't yours and even confiscating the crops that others plant!'

"You vile and wicked slave," the king roared. 'Hard, am I? That's exactly how I'll be toward you! If you knew so much about me and how tough I am, then why didn't you deposit the money in the bank so that I could at least get some interest on it?'

"Then turning to the others standing by he ordered, 'Take the money away from him and give it to the man who earned the most.' 'But sir,' they said 'he has enough already!' 'Yes,' the king replied, 'but it is always true that those who have, get more, and those who have little, soon lose even that.'"

Houstonians Get To Gripe at Post Office

HOUSTON (AP) — That perennial butt of jokes and source of aggravation — the post office — was the target of Houston residents who got a chance to air their gripes at a public hearing.

Congressman Mickey Leland, chairman of a U.S. House of Representatives subcommittee on postal personnel, convened the half-day forum Wednesday to hear complaints about Houston postal service.

Saying he has lived in the same house for 40 years, Joe D. Thomas told the forum he discovered in the spring of 1979 that some of his mail, including dividend checks, was being returned to senders, stamped "undeliverable."

Though he has complained numerous times and been assured the problem is solved, Thomas said, he still can't depend on the mail.

Businessman Jim Reed said he sent his complaints about service and delivery to the postmaster, only to be told the postmaster receives so many complaints he can't answer them all.

"You can take the biggest company in Houston and I can write the chairman of the board and I'll get a reply," Reed said. "I can write my congressman and I get a reply. But I write the postmaster and my letter self-destructs."

New York Congressman Robert Garcia, also a member of the House post office committee, joined Leland at the hearing. They heard from postal service officials and union leaders as well from citizens.

National Association of Letter Carriers local president Vernon Wade charged that change-of-address mail is routinely "shuttled to one side" by postal stations and is not being forwarded.

Local NALC vice president Winston Johnson said circulars announcing special sales often are delivered days after the sale has ended.

Handicapped Climbers Ascend Mt. Rainier

PARADISE, Wash. (AP) — Eleven disabled climbers, seven of them blind, sang and joked as they and their guides inched up 14,410-foot Mount Rainier in a conquest they hope will show the handicapped can surmount any obstacle.

The party, led by Jim Whittaker — the renowned mountaineer who was the first American to scale Mount Everest — reached Camp Muir at 10,000 feet Wednesday night. The camp, served as the base for rescuers searching for the 11 climbers who were buried under tons of ice and snow that fell from a glacier on the mountain June 21.

The 20-member party began its assault on the summit shortly before noon Wednesday amid near-perfect climbing conditions.

In addition to the seven blind climbers, two are deaf, one has epilepsy and another is a Vietnam veteran with an artificial leg. Each is accompanied by a guide.

Leaders of the expedition, nicknamed Project Pelion after the Greek mountain said to be the giants' stepping stone to heaven, said the group may try to reach the summit by Friday and return Saturday, the Fourth of July.

Phil Bartow, leader of Project Pelion and president of the Pennsylvania-based Institute of Outdoor Awareness, said the goal of the climb is not only to reach the summit, but to destroy the image many people have about the limitations of the handicapped.

"Let's go for it!" shouted Sheila Holzworth, a 19-year-old blind woman from Des Moines, Iowa.

The group spent last week in Colorado working on climbing techniques and altitude adjustment. They climbed up on Nisqually Glacier on Mount Rainier Monday, stayed overnight in tents and then practiced techniques Tuesday under the watchful eyes of Whittaker, his brother, Lou, and their guides.

They practiced ice climbing, rope work and a suspended traverse, in which they hooked a climbing harness onto a rope stretched over a deep gully and were pulled across by their guides.

After the day-long session in a cold rain, wind, and visibility that ranged from 10 to 100 yards, the party was briefed on what to expect on top of the mountain.

"They forget how tired they are, and they breathe deeply when they sing," he said. "It's good for them."

As the climb began, Paul Stefurak, 35, a deaf climber from Federal Way, Wash., who has trouble speaking, grabbed a pen and wrote in a reporter's notebook: "I can hardly wait to reach the summit. I want to go now. I feel so great and ready to climb. Apparently all of us feel that way, too."

Leaders of the expedition, nicknamed Project Pelion after the Greek mountain said to be the giants' stepping stone to heaven, said the group may try to reach the summit by Friday and return Saturday, the Fourth of July.

Phil Bartow, leader of Project Pelion and president of the Pennsylvania-based Institute of Outdoor Awareness, said the goal of the climb is not only to reach the summit, but to destroy the image many people have about the limitations of the handicapped.

Oh boy, brownies! Kelly and Colby Christie can hardly wait to taste this batch of home-made brownies. Their mother, Mrs. Jimmy Christie is well known for her delicious baking.

Now You're Cookin'

By DEBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

Folks driving down Highway 60 are often involved with a place called "Chatty Kathy's." No, it is not a restaurant, but the food sure is good! Actually, "Chatty Kathy" is the CB handle lovingly dubbed on Kathy Christie by her friends.

The wife of Jimmy Christie, she is now known only for her friendliness. Her family and friends also testify that she is an excellent cook.

The Christies have resided northwest of Summerfield all of their married lives, having moved only once, from their former residence one mile down the road. As a family they enjoy trips to Conchas Lake, N.M. for fishing, attend shows in Amarillo, and are happy "just traveling anywhere together" says Mrs. Christie.

Christie farms three sections with his father, Kenneth Christie. He also operates a seed dealership out of his home. Christie is a 1970 graduate of Hereford High School where he was active in Future Farmers of America. He was the Star Lone Star Farmer in Texas when a senior. He enjoys fishing and hunting.

Mrs. Christie is also a former HHS student having graduated in 1971. She likes to cook and take care of children. She is a Sunday school teacher at Summerfield Baptist Church where she and her family are members. Mrs. Christie also enjoys visiting with people, and helps with the bookkeeping entailed with the farm and seed business.

The couple, who were high school sweethearts, have been married nine years and have two sons. Kelly is a six year-old who will be in the first grade at Tierra Blanca next fall. Though he takes his schoolwork seriously, he enjoys swimming in the stock tank with his brother Colby, a three-year-old non-stop talker with lots of energy! Both boys have enjoyed attending Vacation Bible School this year.

Mrs. Christie shares her recipe for "melt in your mouth hot rolls."

College Graduates In High Demand

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Underemployment of college graduates probably will prevail in Texas throughout the 1980s, the Texas College Coordinating Board says.

But the board predicted high demand for graduates of teacher colleges, engineering graduates, business school graduates and persons with degrees in medical and allied health fields.

Job opportunities are expected to be "quite favorable" for persons who go to trade and vocational schools after high school, particularly in allied health areas, clerical-secretarial fields and automotive and diesel mechanics, the board said.

The board reports each year on job supply and demand in an attempt to guide young Texans in their career and education choices.

It said most college and university graduates should be able to find employment in their fields of study despite increasing competition for professional, managerial and administrative jobs during the 1980s.

But it added that educational requirements for many occupations have changed over time.

"In the 1970s, roughly one-fourth of the college graduates accepted jobs in sales, clerical, service and blue-collar occupations not previously filled by college-educated workers," the board said.

"Since employment in these occupations is expected to grow faster than in professional and management occupations, it appears that this trend for 'underemployment' of the college-educated worker will prevail, if not increase, throughout the 1980s."

Menace Looms Anew

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Just as officials were about to celebrate the eradication of fruit flies in the Santa Clara Valley, another infestation has been discovered to the north — posing a new threat to the state's $14-billion farm industry.

The Mediterranean fruit fly is back, this time turning fruit rotten in northwestern Santa Clara County, just north of the area where hundreds of tree-stripping workers labored for a year to wipe out the insect.

"We did a Herculean job on the ground, more than anybody thought possible," Jerry Scribner, deputy director of the state Food and Agricultural Department, said Tuesday of the $22-million eradication battle that ended in late spring.

"By all rights, we should be home with a drink around the pool," he said. "This should be over. But this is a very tenacious fly."

Maggots of the fruit-rotting fly were discovered on at least 26 properties in Santa Clara County, once again prompting officials to say it may be necessary to begin aerial spraying of pesticide — a controversial weapon that so far hasn't been used in the medfly war.

Breads

No Knead Hot Rolls
w package yeast, dissolved in 2 cups lukewarm water.
½ cup sugar
1 beaten egg
6 cups flour
One-third cup corn oil
1 teaspoon salt.

Mix all ingredients and then place a damp cloth over bowl. Let dough rise for one hour.

For immediate use shape into rolls, place in baking pan, cover with a damp cloth, let rise one hour. Bake 10 minutes at 425 degrees - then put butter on top and bake 15 minutes, or until golden brown.

Dough can be stored in a covered container in the refrigerator for about a week. Remove, shape into rolls, and bake as above.

Makes 3 dozen rolls.

Head Start Program Has Chance to Fall Through

WASHINGTON (AP) — In its rush to pass President Reagan's budget cuts, the House may have opened a hole in his social safety net big enough for the popular Head Start program to fall through.

The budget reconciliation bill, pushed by Reagan and the Republican minority and approved last week, made no provisions to keep the Head Start program running after the fiscal year ends Sept. 30.

The measure made no reference to the program, which dates to Lyndon Johnson's war on poverty and provides preschool training for almost 387,000 needy children 3 to 5 years old. Ninety percent of the youngsters in the program are poor and 10 percent are handicapped.

Head Start was one of the seven "safety net" social programs that President Reagan promised to spare from his spending cuts. In fact, he asked Congress to increase Head Start's budget from $820 million in 1981 to $950 million in 1982.

A separate budget-cutting package passed by the Senate would keep the program but with no increase in spending. House and Senate negotiators will meet after Congress returns from its Fourth of July recess next week to iron out differences between the two versions.

"It appears that Head Start is not extended" in the House bill, said Gordon Riley, staff director of the House Education and Labor subcommittee on human resources. "We assume it's inadvertent."

But another Republican staff member, Jennie Vance, said she understood Head Start was intentionally taken out of the reconciliation bill because a decision was made to deal with it through the normal legislative process.

She acknowledged there was broad bipartisan support to fund the program at $950 million next year.

Pam Shriver In Favor Of Chris Evert Lloyd

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Pam Shriver was outplayed by Chris Evert Lloyd in the Wimbledon women's singles semifinals Wednesday and then explained why she wants her conqueror to win the tournament.

"I think it means a lot to Chris to win this time," said Shriver, who was beaten 6-3, 6-1.

"She's 26, and it would be a great way for her to finish before fading out of tennis. Then maybe she could start a family, which I know she wants to do. I'm rooting for her."

Lloyd, who has played in seven Wimbledon singles finals and won only two of them, faces the remarkable Hana Mandlikova in Friday's final.

Navratilova to post a 7-5, 4-6, 6-1 victory in the other semifinal.

Mandlikova, the reigning French and Australian champion, served brilliantly to outlast the 24-year-old Navratilova, winner here in 1978 and 1979.

"The final is all in Hana's hands," said Shriver, 18. "If she plays a good match, she will win because she has an advantage on grass. But if she plays only a fair match, and Chris plays it as smart as I know she will, then Chris will win it."

Shriver said that losing the last three Wimbledon finals will be a motivating factor for Lloyd.

"I think Chris really wants to win this final and go out in a blaze of glory," Shriver said. "It has to be a fairly tale end, and to come out a loser in four straight finals would be sad."

Lloyd watched some of the Mandlikova-Navratilova semifinal and was impressed with the way Mandlikova played.

"Hana certainly played well; she has all the shots," said the top seed. "She can be brilliant, but is a bit moody. On her off days she can lose to a number of players."

However, Lloyd refused to comment on Friday's match. "I don't want to look ahead. It has hurt me too much in the past," she said.

In contrast, Mandlikova was looking forward to the arrival of her parents — former Olympic sprinter Vilem Mandlik and his wife, Hana — from Czechoslovakia.

"They went to watch today's match on television near the German border," she said. "I had told them on the telephone that I wanted them to come over if I reached the final, and they will be here," said the delighted Czechoslovakian teen-ager.

No strike among collectors

By Warner Fusselle

On Friday, June 12, major-league baseball players went on strike. There were no games played that day or for days to come, but that didn't keep baseball out of the headlines.

And it didn't keep the game's most avid fans away from their favorite pastime. The baseball collectors continued to collect.

Some collected with more fervor than ever before. After all, with no baseball on the diamond, baseball off the diamond would have to substitute. There was also the possibility that baseball memorabilia in a strike year could bring a premium.

One baseball item that has become more and more popular in recent years is the press guide. Well, actually there are no press guides in 1981; there are "media" guides. There are also media fact guides, information guides, media digests and even official roster books.

At one time these handy booklets, which measure 4.5 inches by 9 inches (except for Cincinnati's), were printed exclusively for the reporter. However, in recent years they've also become a hot item at the souvenir stand. The Cardinals and Giants even put price tags ($2.50) on the cover. But you can't judge a book by its cover.

OPEN BOOKS — In Atlanta's guide, Braves President Ted Turner is referred to as a "star performer" and a "dynamic television magnate." Second baseman Glenn Hubbard was his high school's most inspirational wrestler... Catcher Biff Pacoroba's full name is Biff Pacoroba.

Cub reliever Dick Tidrow's hobby is bird-watching. (Could this be why Chicago traded Rick Reuschel to the Yankees for Doug Bird?)... The Reds have a farmhand named Tom Lawless who stole 64 bases last season. Another Reds prospect is catcher Steve Christmas, whose nickname is "Tree"... The Astros' Bob Knepper is a fan of grand opera... Montreal reliever Woody Fryman jumps out of the pen and into the fire when called "O' Goat."

The Mets' Mookie Wilson was married at home plate, and Lee Mazzilli won eight national speed-skating championships... The Dodgers went nine years without a rainout, and Steve Yeager's uncle was the first to break the sound barrier... Pittsburgh's Omar Moreno is in his 13th professional season although he is only 28 years old.

PADRE SCRIPTURES — San Diego's guide has a rare sense of humor; thus it is written that the 1970 Padres were eliminated from the pennant race on Aug. 13 and finished 2 1/2 games behind the Reds... Bo Belinsky's now a Padre and a director — director of employees assistance... Infielder Tim Flannery playing guitar at Bob Horner's wedding... And the Padres' MVP last season was Gene Richards, not Dave Winfield...

Finally, Cherie Blake of the Cubs was responsible for proofreading the club's '81 media guide. She is listed in the guide as Cherie "Balle."

Next week, some "guiding lights" of the American League will be pressed into service.

QUIZ — The St. Louis Cardinals' "little red book" actually refers to its all-star first baseman as "metallurgist Keith Hernandez." Why? (Answer below)

81 ENDS & ODDS — Phillies reliever Sparky Lyle did not have a save opportunity in the team's first 50 games... The Angels' 1980-81 home record under fired manager Jim Fregosi was 39-69... The sale of the Cubs marks the 10th time in five years a major-league baseball team has been sold.

DIAMOND GEMS — "Sometimes it's difficult to measure the intangibles." — Fran Healy, broadcaster, New York Yankees.

"I'm afraid that when the first pitch is thrown, the umpire will say, 'Strike!' and the players will walk off the field." — Billy Gardner, manager, Minnesota Twins.

QUIZ ANSWER — Metallurgy is the science and technology of metals, and in the Cardinal press guide, Keith Hernandez is pictured with both his Silver Bat (highest batting average) and Gold Glove (best defensive first baseman).

U.S. Track Team Gets Ready for Soviet Trip

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - World 400-meter hurdles record-holder Edwin Moses heads a U.S. track and field team which will assemble Friday in New York before leaving for a dual meet July 10-11 in the Soviet Union.

After a two-year lapse during preparations for the 1980 Olympics in Moscow, the U.S. Soviet series resumes in Leningrad.

ABC-TV has scheduled same-day coverage of the meet. The American team was chosen by The Athletics Congress, the governing body for track and field in the United States, from its outdoor championships two weeks ago in Sacramento, Calif. The team leave Sunday for Helsinki and will travel to Leningrad the next day.

This will be the 17th dual meet between the United States and the Soviet Union but the first since 1978, when the American men and women combined for a 190-177 victory at Berkeley, Calif. The meet was cancelled in 1979 and 1980, a U.S. reaction to the Soviet presence in Afghanistan.

There also were no meets in the Olympic years of 1960, 1968 and 1972 and in 1966-67 the Soviets refused to compete, protesting U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Overall, the American men hold an 11-5 edge in the series that began in 1958. The Soviet women have won 15 of 16 previous meets.

Moses, the 1976 Olympic champion from Mission Viejo, Calif., also won the 400-meter hurdles in the U.S.-Soviet dual meet that year. Other American entries this year include U.S. record-holders Willie Banks in the triple jump and Brian Oldfield in the shot put. Oldfield, a 1972 Olympian, broke the U.S. shot put record in the recent California Relays.

The team also includes six other men's and seven women's U.S. champions-Jeff Phillips, 200 meters; Cliff Wiley, 400; Greg Foster, 110 hurdles; Jim Heiring, 20-kilometer walk; Billy Olson, pole vault; Bruce Kennedy, javelin; Denean Howard, 400; Madeline Manning, 800; Brenda Webb, 3,000; Stephanie Hightower, 100 hurdles; Denise Wood, shot put; Leslie Deniz, discus, and Karen Smith, javelin.

There have been 19 world records set in this meet over the years, 10 by Americans.

Red Sox Manager Playing The Horses During Strike

BOSTON (AP) - Don Zimmer was back in Boston, but the former Red Sox manager, now skipper of the Texas Rangers, did not head for Fenway Park. He went to Suffolk Downs for thoroughbred horse racing.

The major league baseball players' strike has made a parttime vacationer of Zimmer, who said he came to Boston to visit his daughter, Donna Mollica, an airline flight attendant.

She had to fly to Las Vegas, but was due back, and the Zimmermans planned to remain a few days and visit with her family, Zimmer said.

"To tell the truth, I told her that I really didn't have time to talk with her, anyway," Zimmer said Wednesday. "We flew in late, and I told her I was hoping to make the second race at Suffolk. I made it. Yep, I lost," he said.

"This is my life, and I love it. I care about my family and baseball. I like the horses and the dogs a little. I know I've received some criticism because I come out to the tracks. But that doesn't make me a bad person," he said.

Zimmer owns a three-year-old horse named Zimmer that races in Cleveland and has earned more than $9,000 this year, he said.

He's been mixing work with vacationing during the strike, he said, and will check out the Mexican League if the strike continues.

"I've been watching our clubs in the minors," he said. "I spent two days in Florida when the strike was called. But since then I've driven from my home to Shreveport, then from there to Dallas, and from Dallas to Tulsa and Wichita and back.

"It's been interesting, and traveling by car reminds me of the old days in the minors," he said.

He may be working out of the Southwest, but he hasn't become the complete cowboy.

"One of my coaches Tommy Helms has been trying to get me to wear boots and blue jeans, but I don't think anybody likes a fat cowboy," Zimmer said. "The thing that I do like is that the Texas heat isn't nearly as bad as I thought it would be. It's a dry heat."

Zimmer wonders what effect the strike will have on the Rangers, who were 11 games over .500 and 1 1/2 game out of first place when the strike began.

"During the first week, I had a lot of ideas of what I thought I could do with players when it ended," he said. "But those ideas won't work anymore, so I had to come up with some new ideas."

"If it goes much longer, I'll have to come up with more ideas. It's hard figuring out what to do."

Like a good neighbor, State Farm is there.

$75,000 In Damages Paid at Golf Tourney

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) - An Oklahoma woman and her husband were awarded $75,000 in damages in connection with an accident at the 1978 Masters Golf tournament.

A Richmond County jury made the award Wednesday to Mary P. Silas and C.J. Silas after a two-day trial of a 1980 lawsuit in which Mrs. Silas claimed she broke her leg and suffered permanent injuries when she tripped on a television wire laid across a designated walkway at the 1978 tournament.

The jury first awarded Mrs. Silas $55,000 from CBS television and her husband $20,000 from the Augusta National Golf Club, the two defendants in the suit.

But Judge William M. Fleming Jr. called the verdict inconsistent, and after discussion with attorneys for all parties, he ordered that CBS would pay the full $75,000 and Augusta National would be relieved of responsibility.

The suit charged CBS and Augusta National with negligence for leaving an exposed wire on a designated path.

Testimony during the trial showed that the injury to Mrs. Silas has curtailed her personal and social life and has disabled her permanently.

The Hereford Hustlers held a drawing Wednesday morning during the Grand Opening of "The Unique Shop" with Melvin Jayroe, center, receiving a ceiling fan from Randy Laing, left, manager; and Stanley Simmons, owner. The new business is located at 149 N. 25 Mile Ave. and deals in ceiling fans.

3 Gunmen Shot 3 Men; Motive Not Robbery

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — Three gunmen who shot down three men gangland-style at a local bar bypassed "several thousands" of dollars carried by the victims, according to a homicide detective.

Lt. I.L. Alardin said Wednesday that investigators had ruled out robbery as a motive for the triple slaying because no effort was made by the gunmen to take "several thousands" of dollars found on the three dead men.

However, Alardin would not elaborate on police theories about the motive for the killings.

Witnesses told police that three armed men walked into Jeanie's Bar late Tuesday night and fired at least 13 shots, killing Daniel Fuentes Martinez, 50, Olivido Ortiz, 44, and Ramiro Ortiz, 36.

Alardin would not say whether Laredo police suspect the killings were narcotics-related, but in response to a question he said that the federal Drug Enforcement Agency had been consulted. "That angle has been covered," he said.

"We've been in contact with several cities for background information," he added.

Martinez and Ovido Ortiz were identified as living in Corpus Christi, and although Ramiro Ortiz had a Laredo address, he had moved to this border city recently, the detective said.

"The case is still under investigation," Alardin said. "We're checking several motives."

Justice of the Peace Raul Vasquez, who pronounced two of the victims dead at the bar, said officers found at least 13 shell casings on the floor. He said it appeared that at least three different weapons were used in the slayings.

Ramiro Ortiz was still alive after the shooting, but died later at a Laredo hospital.

Baylor Residents Save Friend In Mexico

HOUSTON (AP) — Dr. Anthony Wheeler says his experience should serve as a lesson to other American tourists in Mexico — even poor medical care may not be available at some vacation spots.

Wheeler knows. He has massive chest injuries, four broken ribs, a mangled left arm and an assortment of lesser wounds from a motorcycle accident in Cozumel, Mexico. The hospital he was taken to had virtually nothing needed to diagnose and treat his multiple injuries.

"I'm just lucky to be alive," the 30-year-old neurologist said from his intensive care bed at The Methodist Hospital.

Wheeler says he owes his life to three vacationing Baylor College of Medicine residents who heard a rumor that he had been badly hurt and came to his rescue about five hours after the wreck.

The trio — Drs. Ken Gibbs, Tom Marinelli and Emelio Torres — arranged for Wheeler to be flown out of the country Friday aboard Hermann Hospital's Life Flight Lear jet.

Wheeler and his wife, Joyce, 29 were in the second day of their long-planned "first real vacation" Thursday when the motorcycle they were riding blew a tire, throwing both of them over the handlebars.

Mrs. Wheeler, an attorney, was only slightly injured, but Wheeler was badly hurt.

Three Americans picked them up a few minutes after the wreck.

"They took us to one hospital, about 20 minutes away — Tony was bleeding a lot — but no one spoke English," Mrs. Wheeler said. "Finally, I talked to one man in French and he told us where to go."

Wheeler needed X-rays, intravenous solution, blood, drugs and surgery. None of these services could be provided at the hospital to which they were sent — although it had one X-ray machine, there was no technician to run it.

"One of the most incredible parts of the horror story," Wheeler noted, "was that no one ever tried to clean me up. There were flies and mosquitoes everywhere and I can remember trying to brush the bugs out of my wounds."

The three Baylor residents knew Wheeler had lost a lot of blood.

They eventually persuaded Mexican doctors to let them treat Wheeler as best they could. They devised a makeshift intravenous tube and inserted a "too-small" needle into his chest in an attempt to treat a collapsed lung.

Eventually, one of them reached one of Wheeler's friends in Houston who arranged for the Lear jet flight.

After 3 Day Trial: Charges Dropped

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — After a three-day trial, the Tarrant County Humane Society has dropped cruelty charges against the owner of a puppy farm whose 180 dogs were seized two weeks ago.

Attorneys for the society and for farm owner Belinda Atherton agreed Wednesday the society would drop the complaint if Mrs. Atherton allowed monthly inspections of the isolated kennel, spaying of animals too old to breed, and killing of dogs too sick to live.

The tentative settlement also requires Mrs. Atherton to keep her kennel up to federal standards. Texas does not have state guidelines for dog farms.

Lawyers said the agreement would be signed in 10 days.

Mrs. Atherton's attorney Steven King said "the charges were dropped because we agreed not to sue." Mrs. Atherton had said that when the society seized the animals in a weekend raid, seven dogs were left behind without food or water in the broiling summer heat.

She had said she was looking into the possibility of a lawsuit.

Attorneys for Tarrant County and the society, saying they were "optimistic" about the results of the agreement, said threats of retaliation did not affect the compromise.

"The animals are our main concern and I think I would rather work with the people than against them," said society investigator Mike Nielson. "We will certainly have a close eye on them, though."

Testimony at the trial showed much of the information Nielson gathered about conditions at the kennel was erroneous.

Wayland Baptist University Schedules Cheerleader Camp

Registration for the second annual Wayland Baptist University Cheerleader Camp, slated for Aug. 10-14 here, is now open to area cheerleaders, according to Camp Director Joe Provence.

Sanctioned by the World Cheerleader Council, the five-day camp will welcome junior high, high school and college cheerleaders to the Wayland campus from all across the Southwest.

Registration will be held from 2 until 5 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 10, followed by the opening session that evening with WCC leaders. After that, three sessions are scheduled daily through Thursday, with final awards and evaluations winding things down on Friday morning.

Special features of the Camp include a swimming party, talent show featuring camp participants and other entertainment, and free T-shirts for everyone at registration.

In addition, company representatives will be on hand with samples of the latest in uniforms and cheerleader supplies, as well as a spokesman for the Chromark Corp., who will present a special session on posters and spirit building ideas.

Cost for the camp is $82.50 per person and covers room, board, tuition, fees, insurance and entertainment. Commuters who will be taking part in only the sessions will pay only $40, while cost for sponsors is $47.50 each.

Persons interested in attending the Camp should contact Provence at 296-5521 as soon as possible. Space will be reserved on a first-come, first-served basis.

Activities Set For Musik Fest

Activities scheduled this fourth of July during the Hereford High School Band and Orchestra Booster Club "Musik Fest" include pie throwing, fish pond, football throw, dunking board, cake walk, sponge throw, face painting and bean bag toss.

The Musik Fest will be held in Dameron Park beginning at 1 p.m. following the parade and continuing until 6 p.m. Band music will be provided and other music heard throughout the afternoon.

Cold drinks and snow cones will be available and red T-shirts lettered with "Big Red Band" will be sold at one of the booths.

The Booster club would like to encourage the public to bring the family out to the park for a picnic lunch and live entertainment.

Touching a pig on New Year's Eve is good luck in Hungary. Budapest restaurant parties sometimes turn into a wild scramble when a live pig is turned loose at midnight.

Kathi Bell Feted With Shower

Miss Kathi Bell was feted with a paper shower Tuesday evening in the home of Beverly DeBoer.

Bouquets of daisies were set in various rooms of the house and angel food lemon dessert with ice tea and coffee was served.

Guests were greeted at the entry way by Mrs. DeBoer. Bird seed bags were made by those in attendance and paper gifts such as cups, napkins, towels, recipe, playing and greeting cards were displayed as Miss Bell opened them.

Miss Bell is the bride-elect of Don Lee. Her colors are earth tones and blues.

Additional hostesses were Berta Ottesen, Lois Scott and Nancy Josserand.

HHS Class of '61 Plans 20th Reunion

The Hereford High School graduating class of '61 will gather this weekend for its 20th year reunion.

The weekend activities will begin on Saturday, July 4 with men meeting at the Knights of Columbus Hall at 9:30 a.m. and women meeting at the E.B. Black House at 10 a.m. for coffee.

At 2 p.m., a tour will be given of the high school for both men and women. Registration, a dinner and dance will be held that evening at 6 p.m. at the KC Hall.

Sunday, July 5, a picnic basket dinner will be held in St. Anthony's Cafeteria. Everyone is responsible for their food. Teachers, friends and any interested persons are welcome to attend the two-day events.

For further information one can contact Ken Walser, Patsy Simmacher, Martha Jones or Cherry McWhorter.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell, in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of the company's intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas effective July 21, 1981, unless otherwise determined by the Commission.

It is expected that the requested rate schedule will furnish a 15.8 percent increase in the company's intrastate revenues.

A complete copy of the new rate schedule is on file with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas, and with each affected municipality served by Southwestern Bell, and is available for inspection in each of the company's public business offices in Texas.

Notice to Customers of Other Telephone Companies

The filing includes, but is not limited to, proposals to increase rates for interexchange private line and foreign exchange (FX) service. Changes in such rates would also affect customers of other telephone companies because such companies provide interexchange private line and foreign exchange service in accordance with rates specified in Southwestern Bell's tariffs.

Aviso Público

Southwestern Bell, en conformidad a las reglas del Public Utility Commission (Comisión de Servicios Públicos) de Texas, por la presente hace saber su intención de establecer un nuevo arancel para servicio de teléfono en Texas con vigencia a partir del 21 de Julio de 1981, a menos que la Comisión haga otra determinación.

Se espera que el nuevo arancel que se ha solicitado rendirá un aumento de 15.8 por ciento en los ingresos intraestatales de la compañía.

Una copia completa del nuevo arancel se ha archivado en las oficinas del Public Utility Commission en Austin, Texas, al igual que en cada municipalidad afectada y servida por Southwestern Bell, y cada una de las oficinas de la compañía para negocios con el público en Texas tiene una copia para lectura pública.

Aviso a los Clientes de Otras Compañías de Teléfono

El registro incluye, pero no se limita a, propuestas para aumentar las tarifas para servicio de línea privada entre centrales telefónicas (interexchange private line) y servicio de central telefónica extranjera (foreign exchange FX). Cambios en dichas tarifas de servicio también afectarían a clientes de otras compañías de teléfono porque dichas compañías proveen los servicios ya mencionados en conformidad a tarifas especificadas por Southwestern Bell.

Miss Cindy Cavness, Vick Married In Houston Chapel

Miss Cindy Cavness and Howard A. Vick, both of Houston, were married recently at the Always & Wedding Chapel of Houston with Rev. Doctor B.R. Ringer officiating.

Spring flowers in peach, yellow and white decorated the chapel.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harold A. Cavness of 129 N. Texas. The groom is the son of Mrs. G.T. Johnson of Houston and the late Marion Vick.

Ms. Ruzhka Griffin of Austin attended the bride. Best man was Van A. Vick of Houston, the groom's son.

Escorting guests to their seats were Charles L. Cavness Jr. of Denver, Color., and Dr. Steven E. Cavness of Ossining, N.Y., the bride's brother.

The traditional wedding march was performed on the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory chiffon gown over satin. To complete her attire she wore a garden hat in cream chiffon with baby's breath and cream ribbon streamers in the back.

She carried one dozen bridal white roses with touches of baby's breath, greenery and cream streamers. For jewelry, the bride wore a single strand of pearls, belonging to her mother.

Her maid-of-honor wore a floor length peach gown cut on same lines as the bridal gown but with no train. She wore a coordinated peach garden hat with baby's breath and streamers to match. She carried three long-stem dressed Tropicana roses with streamers.

A reception followed the ceremony in the chapel reception hall with buffet, cocktails and a party. Mrs. Mark D. Duncan of Houston registered guests.

The bride's table featured an arrangement of spring flowers in peach, yellow and white. A two-tiered white cake with peach colored roses served as centerpiece.

Miss Sue Ann Cavness of Dallas, the bride's cousin, served the wedding cake. Punch and coffee were served by Mrs. Steven E. Cavness of Ossining, N.Y.

The couple will return to their home in Houston after July 6 following a wedding trip to Cozumel, Mexico.

The bride is a 1969 graduate of Hereford High School. She attended Trinity University in San Antonio. She is attached to the Dean's Office of the Conrad N. Hilton College of Hotel & Restaurant Management, University of Houston.

The groom attended University of Texas, where he studied engineering. He is presently vice president of KVM Engineering, a biomedical electronics engineering firm. He is president of Petroleum Gauging and Appliance Company where he manufactures gauges which measure fluid cargo level on ocean-going tankers.

Out-of-town guests present for the nuptial ceremony included local residents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Gearn and Mr. and Mrs. W.L. Davis, Jr. Others attended represented Garland, Fort Worth, Austin, Dallas, New York and Colorado.

Ann Landers

Herpes Sufferer

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Each time you write about herpes you reach millions of people and give them sound advice and good information. For some of these people, it's the ONLY information they get.

As a herpes sufferer of nearly three years, I know that providing the facts about this disease is only half the battle. The other half is to discredit the notion that the sexually exclusive and morally upstanding don't get it. Some people are shocked that I, a young woman with high standards, in a committed and monogamous relationship, have herpes - and I got it in the context of such a relationship.

You advised a reader recently that "the first line of prevention is being discriminating in your relationships." This suggests that only promiscuous people get herpes, and that those who do get it deserve it.

I know YOU know this is not true because I stood recently in a room on Capitol Hill and heard you speak most eloquently on this very subject. You also stressed the need for federal funding to find a cure, so that the quality of life might be improved for all. Please set your readers straight. This is very important. - Concerned in N.Y.

husband. I speak from experience. The last survivor should have his or her way. It's that simple.

Over 50 years ago my father dug his and his first wife's grave, put in a double vault and said he wanted to be buried with her. They had no children.

My mother lived with him for 49 years and gave him nine children. When he died my mother said, "I will not bury him with her. They had six months together. I had a lifetime - and bore all his children. He is going to lie next to me."

Mom chose the other side of the same lot and buried dad there with a double headstone that had both their names on it. That is where I buried her, too.

Wife No. 1 and my father were none the wiser. No arguments either. - We Did It In Ohio changes many things, and I'm sure your dad would have wanted it that way. May they all rest in heavenly peace.

DEAR OHIO: Time

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently my sister and her husband invited our family to a barbecue. Toward the end of the evening our 6-year-old son became cranky. He had been up since early morning. I marched him into the bedroom and told him to take a nap. My sister then went in and said he could get up.

This upset me. I told her I was his mother and he had to mind me. She said, "This is my house and I am in charge here." We're on the outs. Who's right? - Sorry It Happened

DEAR SORRY: The mother should be in charge at all times. Your sister should not have undermined your authority. Now, kiss and make up.

Rebekahs Convene In Regular Session

Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 228 met in regular session Tuesday evening with twenty-two members present.

Faye Brownlow, noble grand, presided at the business meeting. Twenty-one visits to the sick and 29 greeting cards were reported for the week.

"The sincere sympathy of all lodge members goes out to the family of Merl Bridges. He was an active member of Hereford Odd Fellow Lodge No. 476 and Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 228 and will be greatly missed," stated the Rebekahs. District Deputy President Susie Curtsinger and her staff held a practice session in installation of officers preparing to go to Muleshoe July 7.

DEAR CONCERNED: You are right. Herpes Simplex II (a venereal infection) can be contracted by highly-respectable people. But an even bigger point must be made. There should be no moral stigma attached to any disease. The overriding objective should be to get sick people well.

Cutting economic ties

In 1960, U.S. corporate investment in South Africa totaled $286 million. Last year, U.S. investment in the apartheid state topped $2 billion, making the United States the second largest investor in South Africa after Great Britain.

American dollars are fueling a South African economy in which 4.5 million whites dominate nearly 20 million blacks, Asians and "coloreds" of mixed races.

Black South Africans are foreigners in their own land. They are prohibited from voting, owning property or deciding where they will work, live or die. They are allowed in "white areas" only to perform menial tasks.

Those "white areas" encompass 87 percent of the land and include all major cities and industrial areas. The black majority is restricted to 13 percent of the land.

The average monthly wage for a white miner in South Africa is $727. The average wage for a black miner is $103.

The infant-mortality rate is 25 times greater for blacks than for whites. More than half of all black children born in South Africa die before their fifth birthdays.

More than 300 U.S. companies now operate in South Africa, and U.S. banks have recently tendered more than $2.2 billion in loans.

When the U.S. Chamber of Commerce opened a branch office in Johannesburg, South Africa, in 1977, the president of the organization's international division argued that the business community could disagree with the wishes of politicians and trade with whomever it chose.

But that premise is being tested by the growing coalition of U.S. trade unionists, local officials, anti-apartheid activists and church groups that has stepped up its campaign to halt the flow of American money into the South African economy.

In the past several years, colleges and universities have divested more than $50 million dollars from corporations that support apartheid. On more than two dozen college campuses, student groups have pressured trustees to divest and to offer educational programs aimed at building an anti-apartheid constituency.

The AFL-CIO, the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, the United Auto Workers and other unions have withdrawn support from banks that make loans to South Africa or have divested pension funds from that country's corporate collaborators.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Foot problems are common

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am 14 years old and I have problems with my feet. I think it is athlete's foot but people say it is not. This stuff looks red and itches. When I scratch it, water or something comes out. What is it? How do I get rid of it?

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a 52-year-old female diabetic. Every year I take a diagnostic screening examination. This last year I saw my results and it said VDRL test for syphilis, positive. My doctor assured me that because I am hypertensive and take other medicines that interfered with the test that it meant nothing. I was furious that such an important matter could be taken so lightly. This year I had my results sent to a new doctor and the results were "reactive."

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am not a promiscuous woman. How can I have a positive test if I am not sexually active? I have been a widow for 12 years and have been intimate with only one man. I made him have a test and it was negative.

My new doctor also tells me not to worry about it. I always thought the department of health had to be notified about such findings.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Last week my husband and I were dining out when a horrible thing happened. The man at the table next to ours collapsed. He turned blue in the face. An emergency team arrived quickly but it was horrible to see him lying there on the floor in the restaurant and no one knew what to do. I keep thinking that I should have been able to do something, but I am not sure what to do if such a thing should happen again. I don't know whether he had a heart attack or just choked. What should a person like myself do in a situation like that?

younger days. I'm 57 now.

DEAR READER - It is common for a man's testicles to get smaller as he gets older, with or without a vasectomy, so I doubt the change you have noticed has anything at all to do with your vasectomy. If it were the cause, you should have noticed a significant change about 20 years ago and not just now.

The decrease in size that you have noticed isn't necessarily related to sexual desire or performance. But the change may be an indication of a change in hormone balance, which supports the well-known fact that there is more to sex drive than hormones.

DEAR DR. LAMB - A recent test showed my white blood count was low, only 3,200. A second test was only 3,000. My doctor suggests that I have a third test in two months as I am feeling fine otherwise. He sees no need for me to see a specialist as yet. I had a reading of 4,000 in 1977.

What causes this condition? Is it serious? He told me to be careful of colds and viruses and not to use alcohol. Why?

DEAR READER - The probabilities are that it is not indicative of a serious problem since you feel fine and the rest of your examination was normal. The number of white cells in your blood is really only a fraction of the total white cells in your body, so the test often is not a good indicator. Many white cells stick to the sides of the capillaries and are not in the blood that is withdrawn. Other large numbers are in your tissues, not your circulation.

You would require further testing to determine your true white cell count for your body as a whole. And your doctor is wisely trying to protect you from infections. If you have a significantly low white cell population, your defenses against infections might not be adequate.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher
Fruit-stained blouse

DEAR POLLY - I dropped a spoonful of strawberries on a new white blouse. How can I get the fruit stains out of the fabric? The blouse is washable, but since I don't want to do the wrong thing, I'm waiting for your reply before trying anything. - N.T.

DEAR N.T. - You really should try to treat stains while they are fresh, but at least you probably haven't done anything to make it worse! Since the fabric is washable, you should be able to take the stain out with boiling water. Stretch the stained area over a bowl or the sink and pour boiling water through the stain. Then rub in a little liquid detergent (even dishwashing liquid will do), rinse out and launder the blouse as usual. This also works for wine stains and other acid-based stains.

By the way, if you should accidentally spill wine or fruit onto your clothes while you're dining out, ask the waiter for a glass of club soda. Douse the stain with the soda, absorbing it with your napkin. Most of the stain will come out with this simple treatment and you'll save yourself a lot of work later. - POLLY

"Genesis" Raising Questions

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Genesis" is a movie that raises questions about the conception and development of a "test-tube baby" completely outside the mother's womb.

The man posing those questions is Jerry McNeely, writer and executive producer of the two-hour film to be telecast next season on ABC.

It is not science fiction, but it is not science fact, at least not yet. There is no known case of extracorporeal gestation of a human being, but McNeely said his research indicates it's only a question of time before it does become fact.

"The ethical, moral, legal and emotional questions are so incredibly complex that I think we should start thinking about them now rather than letting events happen and reacting to them," he said. "These questions need to be dealt with."

He said part of the advance experimentation involves fertilizing embryos that doctors cannot be brought to full term. At the same time, anti-abortion forces are attempting to have Congress declare that life begins at conception. "Obviously," said McNeely, "if that happens you couldn't carry on such research. It's possible that by the time the technique is developed it may be against the law."

The movie stars Stephanie Zimballist as the woman whose baby grows in a laboratory, William Atherton as the father, and Arthur Hill as a retired doctor who tries to talk the couple out of the experiment. Joseph Sargent directed for 20th Century-Fox.

McNeely is the creator of the series "Owen Marshall, Counselor at Law," "Lucas Tanner" and "Three for the Road." He's written such shows as "Sandberg's Lincoln," "Something for Joey" and "Fighting Back: The Story of Rocky Bleier."

He made the move here in 1975, but before that his house in Madison, Wis., was known as "the house that Dr. Kildare built" because he had written so many scripts for the "Dr. Kildare" series. His first show was for "Studio One," and the producer, Norman Felton, later produced "Dr. Kildare."

The world's largest bronze statue is the Great Buddha at Nara, once Japan's capital city. Cast in the eighth century, the seated figure is 53 feet high and weighs 452 tons.

Grand Jury Meets in Investigation

CARRIZO SPRINGS, Texas (AP) — A Dimmit County grand jury has heard from the Texas Rangers and County Attorney Pablo Bustamante in an investigation into possible improprieties in the South Texas county. The rangers and Bustamante met behind closed doors with grand jurors Wednesday to discuss results of the six-week investigation. Rangers Rudy Rodriguez and Stan Guffey began the investigation in mid-May at the request of Bustamante. Texas Ranger Capt. Jack Dean of San Antonio would not comment on the target of the investigation.

Sipes has alleged — and Speer has denied — that the commissioners chose the county depository in secret last February, then came out of executive session to vote on the matter without public discussion.

Dean said the investigation may turn into a lengthy one

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Want to see a mother fall apart before your eyes? Just watch her when she asks a child what he is doing and he answers, "Nothing."

Children usually do "nothing" in a room where the door is shut, a dog is barking, water is running under the door, a sibling is begging for mercy, there is a strange odor of fur burning and there is the sound of a thousand camels running in place.

Most mothers refuse to face whatever it is they're not doing so they simply yell, "Do you want me to come up and see what you're up to?"

Suprise! The answer is always "NO!"

Some of the more famous children who were doing "nothing" when they were asked are Damian in "The Omen" when he was riding his tricycle on the balcony, Patty Duke Astin in "The Bad Seed," Lizzie Borden, who just wanted to go to the orphans' picnic and Cain when he was annoyed with his brother Abel for "stealing" the banana out of his school lunch.

There is possibly only one thing that is more frightening than a room with children and noises. That is a room of children in silence.

When a child whispers behind a closed door, get a SWAT team and be prepared for anything.

Among the more memorable times my children were doing "nothing" were:

The time they dressed a stray cat in my mink hat and I was the only woman in town who wore a flea collar for costume jewelry.

The time they floated a miniature navy in the bathtub and it floated to the kitchen before it sunk.

The time they ironed a sheet for home movies and burnt a hole in the rug and we had to live with a small table in front of the closet door.

The time they opened all their Christmas presents on Dec. 19.

The time they direct-dialed grandma in Ohio and got a shoe store in Mexico.

Motherhood is not for sissies. Oh sure, it's easy when you can open a door and in a glance assess the damages. But it's when you hear two voices and a hammer behind a door and they swear they're doing "nothing" with "nobody" that makes your blood run cold.
