Inflation Rise Smallest Since Summer of 1980

By SALLY JACOBSEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite surging food prices, inflation in January rose at its slowest pace since the summer of 1980 — an annual rate of 3.5 percent, the government said today.

Analysts, in advance of today's report, attributed the overall slowdown mostly to the continuing recession, but cautioned that the low January figure would likely pick up somewhat later in the year.

The Labor Department said in its new report that the Consumer Price Index rose a seasonally adjusted 0.3 percent last month, the smallest increase since the 0.1 percent of July 1980. If the January figure held steady for 12 straight months, the annual figure would be 3.5 percent.

The new monthly calculation was slightly better than the 0.4 percent increase of December and the 0.5 percent of November.

For all of 1981, inflation rose 8.9 percent, well below the 12.4 percent of 1980 and the smallest increase in four years.

Economists are predicting an even lower rate for all of 1982, barring an unforeseen disaster, such as a crop failure or a major interruption in oil imports. Most predictions foresee inflation this year averaging 6 percent to 7 percent.

The government's new report said the January slowdown was helped by a sharp drop in gasoline prices, the smallest rise in used car prices in almost two years and a decline in clothing costs.

Housing costs, led by a 0.4 percent drop in prices for homes, rose a modest 0.3 percent, continuing a trend began in the fall. Mortgage interest rates went up a small 0.2 percent.

Rent was up 0.6 percent, less than in recent months, but fuel and other utility bills jumped 1.1 percent, the report said.

Food costs rose 0.7 percent last month, following small advances of 0.1 percent in each of the previous two months.

Prices of fresh vegetables soared 16.8 percent. Prices for sugar, non-alcoholic beverages, and cereal and bakery products also rose, but the costs for meat, poultry, fish and eggs fell 0.3 percent. All the figures were adjusted for seasonal variations. With this report, the department recalculated certain seasonal adjustments to reflect changes in 1981. This can account for some of the monthly changes reported previously.

The report said the unadjusted Consumer Price Index rose to 282.5, mean that goods and services costing $10 in 1967 would have cost $28.25 last month.

The report also said: —Prices for transportation were off 0.2 percent after a 0.6 percent rise in December. Gasoline prices tumbled 1.7 percent after rising 0.5 percent in the previous month and 0.8 percent in November.

Hawkins' Appeal Turned Down

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday upheld the aggravated rape conviction and life sentence of Samuel Hawkins, who also faces a death sentence in connection with a series of crimes attributed to the "Traveling Rapist."

Hawkins' appeal concerned his conviction in a case involving the rape of a Hereford woman on Sept. 2, 1976. The case was tried in Houston on a change of venue.

Hawkins' appeal complained that prosecutor Roland Saul had not yet taken the oath of office as Deaf Smith County District Attorney when he participated in the trial. But, Judge Tom G. Davis' opinion for the appeals court said Hawkins failed to object to Saul's appearance during the trial.

Saul, contacted today, said he was pleased with the outcome of the appeal. "He raised some points that there wasn't a lot of law on," Saul said. "We felt like it would turn out in the state's favor, but you never know."

Saul said that he was actually sworn in as an assistant district attorney prior to the trial, which took place in late June and July, 1978. Outgoing DA Andy Shuvall, who had resigned effective July 1, 1978, swore Saul in before the trial began.

"He never raised any issue about it during the trial, and if he had he would have known that I was assistant district attorney when the trial began," Saul said.

Only last week U.S. District Judge Jim Nowlin of Austin stayed Hawkins' scheduled March 1 execution in the kidnapping-rape-beating death of 12-year-old Rhonda Keys of Amarillo. Nowlin said the stay was necessary because information on the U.S. Supreme Court action on the case was incomplete.

Hawkins, who has admitted to at least 13 rapes in the West Texas area, also stated several other grounds of error in the trial involving the Deaf Smith County crime, but they were ignored by the criminal appeals court because timely objections were not made during the trial.

The defendant also said that the trial court erred in failing to grant a motion to quash the indictment. Hawkins claimed the indictment was fundamentally defective because it failed to allege a culpable mental state, an essential element in an aggravated rape charge.

But the court ruled that the indictment alleged that Hawkins "knowingly and intentionally" committed aggravated rape, which was enough reason to imply the defendant's culpable mental state.

Debate Really About Preserving Constitution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hour by hour, minute by minute, the Senate's anti-busing majority is winding down the clock toward inevitable victory over a band of filibustering liberals who argue that Congress should not be telling courts how to rule.

"This debate is not about busing," said Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., leader of a filibuster with about 80 hours to run. "It is about preserving the Constitution."

Weicker and his allies are opposed to legislation removing busing as a school desegregation tool, claiming such a law would pose a direct threat to the Constitution.

For more than 15 hours on Wednesday and early today, senators endured a stream of roll call votes and procedural maneuvers, all part of Weicker's efforts to delay a final vote on the toughest anti-busing bill ever to clear the House or Senate. In all, 20 roll calls were taken.

The Senate adjourned shortly before 1:30 a.m. EST, but was expected to resume today after senators got some sleep.

Towards the end of Wednesday night, tempers frayed. And just before midnight, Majority Leader

Howard Baker of Tennessee sought to reduce more than 100 minor amendments Weicker has introduced as tools for keeping the filibuster alive.

By prior arrangement, Baker called up for debate dozens of minor amendments Weicker planned to use as vehicles for legislative maneuvering.

"The amendment is out of order because it is not germane," Sen. John Warner, R-Va., the temporary presiding officer, said over and over.

Or he would say, "The amendment is out of order because it is dilatory."

Finally, Weicker and his allies, including Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, and Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., demanded angrily and insistently, "Point of order, point of order, point of order."

Weicker was recognized, and for a time was able to resume the filibuster.

The anti-busing legislation, sponsored by Sens. Bennett Johnston, D-La., and Jesse Helms, R-N.C., would pro-

Shuttle Launch Won't Be 'Early'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The extra time that work crews picked up as they prepared the space shuttle ahead of schedule will be used to give workers time off before the March 22 launch, officials say.

NASA officials said Wednesday they had decided that Columbia's blastoff on its third space mission won't take place early, even though two days were gained in preparing the shuttle for space faster than foreseen by the timetable.

That extra time will be "used to ease off on launch pad crews and give people some time off before the launch," said James Kukowski, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman in Washington.

The extra time also gives the space agency elbow room to troubleshoot any difficulties on the pad. "If there are problems, we do have that cushion," Kukowski told the Today newspaper in Cocoa.

Speculation the liftoff might be early began Feb. 16 after the fully assembled shuttle was moved from its hangar.

Meanwhile, the space shuttle's massive external tank was readied Wednesday for a trial loading of more than a half-million gallons of super-cold liquid fuels.

The tanking test, one of two milestones remaining before the third flight, is part of another simulated launch countdown scheduled to begin this afternoon.

The test loading is to take place Friday.

Another element of the trial run is the operation of the reusable spacecraft's three fuel cells. They will be turned on during the last two hours of the mock countdown to make sure they work properly.

Failure of one of the fuel cells during Columbia's second flight caused the mission to be cut down from five days to two last November.

A post-flight analysis determined that a particle of aluminum hydroxide had lodged in an aspirator that removes water formed as a byproduct of the fuel cell's chemical reaction. This resulted in flooding of the cell, and it was shut down.

The faulty fuel cell was replaced after Columbia's return to Earth, and technicians later overhauled all three of the cells to prevent a recurrence, said Kennedy Space Center spokesman Dick Young.

Weathers Receives Sentence, Fine

A mid-afternoon joyride at the Hereford airport last September has resulted in a 10-year prison sentence and a $10,000 fine for a Hereford man. Jimmy Leon Weathers was found guilty of unauthorized use of an airplane Tuesday by a 22nd District Court jury, and assessed the sentence and fine.

Weathers was apprehended at his residence around 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 20 after law enforcement officers followed leads supplied by witnesses to the incident, which occurred earlier in the day.

Weathers was charged with unauthorized use of an airplane following an incident in which an airplane belonging to Whiteface Aviation was stolen. The plane crashed into a hanger at the airport just seconds after it got off the ground.

According to Deaf Smith County Sheriff's deputy Dean Butcher, "apparently the engine's torque turned the plane, and he (Weathers) tried to stall it a little to level it out."

"When he did the wing hit the ground, the propeller hit next, and the plane cartwheeled into the hangar."

The plane, valued at $75,000 was totally demolished in the accident. Extensive damage was also done to the hangar, while three other planes, valued at more than $100,000 were narrowly missed.

Butcher said a description of Weathers and his automobile was provided by persons who assisted him after the crash.

Now You're Cookin'

By LINDA CAUDLE
Family News Editor

Mrs. Shirley Wilson has a plaque in her kitchen which reads, "Bloom Where You Are Planted," and according to Shirley, this is her motto.

"Whatever I do, I try to do my best, and to get involved wherever I can in the place that I am," she said. And, as friends who know her would agree, Shirley has indeed succeeded in getting involved in worthwhile activities since coming to Hereford and in doing her best to make them better.

Neither Shirley nor her husband, Mickey, are very far from "home." Both grew up in Friona and still visit frequently with friends and family who live there. They both went to school at Texas Tech University. Shirley has her degree in Home Economics, while Mickey received an agriculture degree.

Mickey is a farmer, presently farming north and west of town. Both enjoy living in the country, but they are also enjoying living in Hereford. They moved here a little over six years ago from Friona.

The Wilsons have three children: Cody, 11, is a fifth grader at West Central Elementary; Brady, who will be nine on Saturday, is in the third grade at Northwest Elementary; and Shambryn, six, is enrolled in the First Baptist Kindergarten.

An active member of the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce, this is Shirley's second year as chairman of the steering committee for the Miss Hereford Pageant, set Aug. 14 this year.

"We are busy making plans for this year's pageant," said Shirley, adding that "many of the girls who were in it last year want to participate again, and we anticipate lots of new ones getting involved, so we are really excited about getting things going."

One of the things which Shirley has done since she was named chairman was to help put the talent competition back into the pageant. "There had not been a talent section in the pageant for several years," commented Shirley, "and we put that back in last year."

This is Shirley's fourth year to be a member of the Women's Division. She worked on the Christmas tree lighting committee one year, and was chairman of the welcome committee before her involvement with the Miss Hereford Pageant.

Besides being on the Board of Directors for the Women's Division and her pageant committee position, Shirley leads a Cub Scout Pack, and teaches a two and three year old Sunday School class at Central Church of Christ, where the Wilsons attend church.

As a farmer's wife, Shirley helps her husband during harvest time by driving a grain truck, as well as helping out with the meals during that busy time. "Harvest is a family affair," said Shirley, "and we all work together to get everything done."

"I enjoy gardening and working in the yard," commented Shirley, "and do some canning and freezing every summer. I also like to cook, but prefer to spend one or two days in the kitchen all at once, freezing things for later. Our family enjoys good, well-rounded meals, especially as the boys are growing older."

The Wilsons enjoy doing things as a family, according to Shirley. "We go camping in the summer and enjoy both water and snow skiing."

"I like to be around people," said Shirley, "and enjoy being involved in whatever the kids are doing."

Shirley also enjoys needlepoint and piecing quilts. She and one of her sisters recently finished a beautiful pieced quilt with crewel squares featuring colorful "little girl" designs for Shambryn's room.

The recipes printed below are for desserts, as she doesn't normally use recipes for main dishes, said Shirley. All are family favorites sure to please your family as well!

"I don't know what you've done this time, but that disguise won't fool anyone!"

Is Lori the one?

By Andrew J. Edelstein

After school is out, it seems as if most teens are either down at the modern-day equivalent of the malt shop, feeding quarters into electronic games, or else they're at home stroked out in front of the TV, soaking up the trials and tribulations of the soaps.

Indeed, surveys have shown that teens make up a significant percentage of the soaps' estimated 30 million viewers. Recognizing that fact, most of the 13 afternoon soaps have added teens to their story lines.

The most prominent, of course, was 19-year-old Genie Francis of "General Hospital," who played Laura Baldwin Spencer. Her video nuptials to Tony Geary (Luke Spencer) last year were said to have been seen by more viewers than the wedding of Prince Charles and Princess Diana. But Miss Francis has left GH to seek wider recognition.

Now begins the scramble to replace Miss Francis not only as GH's femme fatale, but as the reigning teen queen of daytime TV.

Will it be Demi Moore of "General Hospital," who recently signed on to play Jackie Tempton? Or how about Cusi Cram, the 13-going-on-21-year-old on "One Life to Live" or bawdy 18-year-old Jennifer Cooke, who plays Morgan Nelson on "The Guiding Light"?

Will Lori Loughlin, who plays Jody Travis on "The Edge of Night," be the new teen queen of daytime TV?

VIDEO SCOPE

The teens of America will decide, of course. But one young woman with the inside track is Lori Loughlin, who plays ballet dancer Jody Travis on "The Edge of Night." A 17-year-old Long Island high school student, Miss Loughlin was added to the cast in June 1980 and has become an audience favorite.

Unlike many of her peers, Miss Loughlin had never been a soap opera fan. She says her friends had "dragged her" into watching a few soaps during summer vacation several years ago, but she says that it was "basically a waste of time to sit indoors and watch them, even though they're addicting."

One reason that she didn't have time to watch TV was that she had been modeling professionally since she was 11 years old. But she always wanted to be an entertainer and when the call came to audition for the role of Jody, she tried out and was accepted.

"Jody was a very weak character," Miss Loughlin says. "She didn't have a mind of her own. She was always running to her brother-in-law or to her boyfriend. But I've managed to make her character stronger and the writers have noticed this. They've helped make her stand on her own two feet. I'd still like to make her stronger."

Wallace Presents Program To Los Ciboleros Chapter

The Rev. Wilson Wallace, minister of the Church of Christ, was guest speaker at the Thursday evening meeting of the Los Ciboleros Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The meeting was held in the home of Ruth Knox, with Margaret Bell, Helen Rose and Rachael Henslee serving as co-hostesses.

Wallace presented an informative study of the Scottish (Ulster-Scot) immigration to colonial America. He discussed the Scottish-Irish contributions to the strength of America, which included emphasis on religion, medical and educational advances in early American colonies.

With 25 years of genealogical study, the speaker gave a detailed study for the members.

The meeting was called to order by Bruce Carter, Chapter Regent, who also led the opening ritual. Ms. Rose, national defense leader, discussed the Presidential Determination on RY 1982 Refugee ceilings, which would allow 140,000 refugee admission.

She also reviewed the writing by Axel Springer, "A Message From Berlin."

August 13, 1961, when the Berlin Wall began: "A dark day for freedom, "with" Berlin today: the World is Watching."

Edwina Thomas discussed the Family of the Year contest sponsored by the Church of the Latter Day Saints. The Stan Knox family was nominated for this honor.

Leta Kaul reported that 320 essays from Hereford, Dimmitt, and Luzzbuddie schools have been judged.

Margaret Bell announced that Cynthia Streun, and Cindy Sides from Dimmitt had been selected by faculty vote as DAR Good Citizens.

Outstanding American History Teachers from Hereford and Dimmitt, DAR Good Citizens and essay contest winners will be honored during the chapter's tea April 25.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

For a total of 26 days out of each year, I am one year older than my husband.

Did you year that, world? For you and for my husband who treats me like a Greek ruin, let me repeat it. Until March 19, I am one year older than my husband!

I don't know why he makes such a big deal out of it. Fourteen out of every 100 wives in this country married "younger men." Yet during those 25 days, he displays a mean streak in him that is almost frightening.

We'll be standing around at a party and someone will say, "Does anyone know the verse to 'Stardust'?" Then, this stranger for whom I have borne three children and trimmed the hair over his ears when he's between haircuts will publicly turn on me and say, "That was before my time, but maybe Erma knows." You'd think in 26 days he'd have heard someone humming it.

During that brief period of time before his birthday, he doesn't let a bit of trivia get by him. Who was Lincoln with at the time he was assassinated? Ask Erma. Was Melanie's baby in "Gone with the Wind" a boy or a girl? Ask Erma. What was Bill Shakespeare REALLY like? Ask Erma.

I told him the other night, "I'm sick of your taking cheap shots at my age. Men don't get flak for marrying women younger than they are."

"That's different," he said. "They're supposed to be. That's how our culture is set up."

"You are saying there's nothing wrong with your friend, Frank, who at 51 is marrying a girl young enough to be his granddaughter?"

"She's not that young," he said.

"She has training wheels on her brain. How can he relate to a wife who classifies bras as 'antiques'?"

Don't ask me why society has divined that men must be older and taller than their wives.

Since men are slower to develop than women, I figured I did him a big favor taking him off the shelf and raising him until he caught up.

It's only during the period from Feb. 21-March 19 that I realize my limitations. What can you do in 26 days?

Ann Landers

Seek Reliable Attorney

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am in love with a wonderful woman (a widow) and want to marry her. I knew her husband and he was as rotten as they come. Their three children all take after him. Of course, they favor the marriage because I own a good deal of property and have no heirs. My first wife died a few years ago. We had no children.

Now the problem: I don't want her kids to have a penny of my money. My lady love is younger than I, and it is likely that I will die first. I want her to be well-provided-for during her lifetime, but after she goes, how can I make sure she doesn't leave her grabby kids with the estate she inherited from me? I am also concerned about them swindling her out of my money while she is alive. The are swift and tricky, and she is quite naive when it comes to finances.--In Love But Cautious

DEAR CAUTIOUS: A competent attorney can put your mind at ease. There are ways you can arrange for your wife to live extremely well after you are gone with built-in safeguards against being hornswoggled. You can also designate the charities you want to benefit from the balance of your estate after your wife goes. If you have no favorite charities and would like some guidance, write to me again. I know that scene inside out.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing this letter to warn others, even though it is too late for me.

I am 41 years of age, had four children and did not want any more. (My husband didn't want the last one, but I talked him into it.)

I went to my gynecologist, who performed surgical sterilization. He blocked the tubes that connect the ovaries to the womb and assured me there would be no further need for birth control. That was six months ago and today I am three months pregnant. My doctor says mine was a very unusual case--like one in a million. In the meantime, I am not looking forward to bottles and diapers and being the oldest mother in the PTA. Please print my letter and a word of explanation, if possible.--Twenty Years In The Production Line Is Enough

DEAR P.L.: According to Dr. David Grimes of Atlanta, Ga., two or three women out of every 1,000 who have the operation will become pregnant. Too bad you're so "special."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I appreciated that letter from the wife of the terminally-ill patient who wrote guidelines for visiting the sick.

My sis and I just went through it. We appreciated people calling before they came, short visits, casseroles and cookies--instead of books--and offers to sit with the patient when we needed to run errands. Most people don't realize what it's like to tend to a sick person day and night until they live through it.

Search To Identify Boy Continues

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — For 25 years Remington Bristow has tried to identify "The Boy in the Box," an unknown child whose life and death have become his obsession.

One of his most important clues is a plaster mold of the little boy's face, made in death on a cold slab in the Philadelphia coroner's office.

Local Growth Seminar To Feature Peter Marshall, Jr.

The First Presbyterian Church, 610 Lee Street, will host the Rev. Peter Marshall Jr. for a weekend seminar his Friday through Sunday, Feb. 26-28. The public is cordially invited to attend, according to the Rev. George Belford, pastor.

Meeting times for the seminar will be Friday evening at 7:30 p.m.; Saturday morning at 10 a.m.; Saturday evening at 7:30 p.m.; Sunday morning at 11 a.m.; and Sunday evening at 7:30 p.m.

Marshall, a Presbyterian minister who has gained national recognition as a teacher and preacher on where the 61-year-old Bristow once worked as an investigator.

"If you ever looked at the mask, or held it in your hand, you wouldn't give up the search either," Bristow told a reporter several days before the 25th anniversary of the discovery of the child's body.

"The feeling comes over you of the little boy crying out, wanting to be known, and you'd do anything in the world to answer the question, who is he?" he said.

Bristow, now retired and slowed down by illness, is still looking "for a lucky break," and he's gone all over the country to follow every clue.

"On my vacation, my wife and I would go to migratory workers camps searching and searching, and hoping," he said. "We went to Florida, into Oklahoma, Arizona, New Mexico, California, Oregon, and even into Mexico. We figured the parents were poor, transients."

"Everywhere we asked questions, showing the pictures, hoping to get some information, and it always was negative. In Mexico we even had an artist draw pictures of boy with different types of hairstyles."

He even offered a reward of $1,000, but never got any takers.

The search has cost him thousands of dollars. "What's important," he said, "is to find enough time to devote to it. I don't think there's a day that goes by that I don't think about who the boy is."

"Last year I thought I had it made, but found the kid alive—and well," he said. "That was a child that wasn't dead. He was now a young man who as a 4-year-old looked just like my 'boy in the box.'"

The box, hidden in bushes and prepared for burial, was found on Feb. 25, 1957. The carton was designed for a baby's bassinet.

Inside was the body of a little boy. Maybe 4 or 5. Perhaps even 6.

He was blond, with blue eyes. The body, wrapped only in a scrap of a cheap cotton flannel blanket, had been washed. The hair was crudely cut, and the nails carefully trimmed.

The boy had suffered head

Band UIL Region One Contest Set

The musicians will compete for ratings from "1" to "5" in solo and ensemble divisions.

The contest starts at 8 a.m. in Mary Moody Hall.

injuries, perhaps from a beating, and it always was negative. Bristow believes the boy's parents "were going to bury him when they were frightened away."

After a police search and fruitless efforts by the medical examiner's office to identify the child, Morgue Case No. 29109 was buried in Grave 191 in a city cemetery. He wore a suit that belonged to a policeman's son.

"A headstone, erected with money donated by Bristow and detectives, reads 'Heavenly Father, bless this unknown boy.'"

Testimony May End In Inmate Trial

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — An ex-convict has testified in the capital murder trial of inmate Eroy Edward Brown that slain Warden Wallace Pack once ordered him in 1970 to beat another inmate.

Prosecutor Mike Hinton closed the state's case against Brown Wednesday, pending limited testimony today by three out-of-state witnesses.

Defense attorney Craig Washington planned to recall Texas Department of Corrections medical officials.

Tommy Carlisle, 39, of San Antonio testified Wednesday that Pack ordered him and prisoner Dennis Woodbury to beat inmate Melvin Austin. The ex-inmate said he didn't beat Austin but that Woodbury, now deceased, did.

After reporting the incident to officers on duty, none of whose names Carlisle could recall, he said he was given a statement to sign.

"They were just signed by us but they (prison officials) wrote what they wanted to write," he said. "I'm saying all those reports that were signed were fraudulent."

Dr. Ralph Gray, the TDC's medical director, testified that Austin died on June 4, 1970, of a cerebral hemor-

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White
Attorney General

AUSTIN—During the spring and summer months, the new home buying bug bites many Texas consumers.

In many cases, as soon as a consumer decides on what home to buy and closes the deal, he or she will need to think about landscaping the property. That's because, while some developers do the landscaping before the house is offered for sale, others eliminate that expense and pass on the savings to the buyer, allowing him or her to select the trees, lawn, and shrubbery.

While some new home buyers in the latter category may decide to tackle the job themselves, others decide to hire a landscaping firm. In many cases, these firms are established, reputable members of the business community. They provide a useful service both to new homeowners and the many subdivision developers. They can be expensive, however. The landscaping work on an average size lot may cost $1,500 or more, depending on the complexity of the plan and the type and size of plants desired. Of course, as landscaping architects and other experts point out, good landscaping can add value to the property far in excess of its cost.

But attorneys in our Consumer Protection Division warn that not all landscapers are reputable. Some "landscaping specialists" are really "con-men" who operate on a seasonal basis and prey on new homeowners and subdivision developers. These operators may run their business from a pick-up or a flat-bed truck. Some of their tactics include contracting with a consumer or developer to put in a certain quality of lawn and shrubbery and substituting cheap, low-grade plants instead. The landscaping may look all right initially, but may fail to thrive.

Most of these itinerants solicit their business door-to-door in new subdivisions. New homeowners and subdivision developers should be very cautious when approached by door-to-door solicitors offering landscaping services and should be aware of the protection provided them by the Home Solicitation Act. The Act, which allows cancellation of any contract for $25 or more by midnight of the third business day, is useful if you're dealing with an established firm or individual, or if you have withheld payment. Most itinerants are not established businesspersons, however, and most want their payment "up front." This means they may be impossible to track down if you want to cancel and get a refund.

Our Consumer Protection Division attorneys suggest several ways to protect yourself from such hazards.

(1) Investigate thoroughly before committing yourself to a contract for landscaping work, or to advance payment for such a job. (2) Get at least three estimates from established firms or individuals. (3) Ask friends and relatives for recommendations and check with the Better Business Bureau to see if any complaints are on file about the firm or person you choose.

(4) If you hire an itinerant "landscaping specialist," never pay for the work in advance, and always carefully check the finished job, perhaps waiting a week or so to observe the condition of the plants before paying.

If you have a consumer problem with a fraudulent landscaper, contact our Consumer Protection Division in Austin, Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, Lubbock, El Paso or McAllen.

Psychic Joins Hunt For Missing Family

LAKE DALLAS, Texas (AP) — A psychic who joined the search for three members of a family missing since Valentine's Day says he has "a picture in his mind" of what the place looks like where the bodies will be found.

"They tell me there's a place that matches the description, and we're going to try and find it," John Catchings of Dallas said Wednesday.

Catchings was called to help the investigation after the body of a fourth family member, 6-year-old Kayleen Merillat, was found Sunday by a couple walking along the shores of Lake Lewisville.

"I came up with some definite leads," Catchings said. "I feel like foul play was involved... that these people are all deceased." The family has been missing since the Merillat couple and their two young daughters drove to the lake to look for firewood.

"I don't make any guarantees... But I have a good track record," said Catchings, who first went to the lake Tuesday. "I feel like we have some places we need to look that we haven't looked at yet."

Catchings has helped law enforcement officers solve crimes in several states.

Denton County Peace Justice Robert Sparks is withholding a ruling on the 6-year-old's death "until they find the rest of the family and find out what caused their deaths."

"We know she drowned, but we can't say whether it was an accident or murder," he said.

Ken Merillat, 32, his wife Alice, 27, and daughter Kendra Lee, 5, still were missing. Catchings said his visions are "a puff of smoke, here now and gone a second later."

"I work backwards," he said. "I get a feeling of a scene or how something happened and then I try to find things to back that up."

Recession Victims Give Up Kids

DALLAS (AP) — Children whose now destitute parents came to Dallas to dodge the recession and land jobs in what they heard was the booming Sun Belt are being handed over to temporary foster care centers here in rapidly increasing numbers. Officials at Buckner Children's Home, the largest private adoption agency in Dallas, say they have been forced to open an emergency shelter to house the children of recession. "We are getting calls from people who are saying they literally don't have enough money for their next meal.

They are saying, "If I only had a place for my child, I probably could get along myself," said Buckner administrator Norman Lockett. One woman told officials of living with her children in a tent near Lake Dallas. A family of five spent several nights moving from one all-night restaurant to another. "Five years ago, we would get 30 to 40 calls at most," said Lockett, who added that the 300-bed home received 120 requests for emergency foster care last year. He said the emergency shelter allows the institution to bypass its three-week screening period and immediately accept emergency placement requests for children ranging from infancy to early adolescence. Officials at three other Dallas private institutions — Methodist Home Services, Presbyterian Children's Home and Hope Cottage — also reported large increases in the number of requests for temporary foster care. But Lockett and other officials said they had seen little evidence that the parents intended to abandon the children. "They are new in town.

They are sleeping in cars. Their children are getting sick from lack of regular meals. They can't find work. They've stayed their limit at the Salvation Army. They call us," said Sharon Whitaker of the Presbyterian Children's Home and Service Agency. Lockett said the children are more frightened than those who have populated the home in the past. "It may be because of the trauma they have gone through," he said. "They don't want to turn off their lights at night. They look to see if anyone is hiding in the closets. They cry a lot."

Children in orphanages and foster homes traditionally come from economically deprived households, and often carry the added burden of physical abuse or chronic neglect. But the economy is the new millstone weighing down the child's home life, foster care workers said. Bill Betzen, the intake supervisor for the Dallas County Department of Child Welfare, said Tuesday his office this year has been asked to find homes for three to five children a week — compared to an average of one or two children per week last year.

Cara Clark of the Methodist Homes Services said placement requests are up at least 50 percent from last year. "They are families who were making it marginally five years ago who have become victims of the increased economic pressure," she said.

One measure of the impact of inflation upon the nation's economy is in the expansion of corporate employee benefit programs. The programs are advantageous because they help where rising costs often hurt most, such as in health care, and offer tax savings for both companies and employees. A survey of 1,300 companies in a range of business activities for the period 1973-80 showed average benefits up in all major categories.

Fire Sweeps Through Motel

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Brisk winds hampered firefighters' attempts to extinguish the flames that raced through a two-story motel here, injuring one fireman. Officials said Wednesday the only injuries to guests were smoke inhalation and minor eye irritations. One fireman who was trapped for a time in the southeast corner of the motel was hospitalized, but officials did not disclose the extent of his injuries. Investigators had not pinpointed what sparked Wednesday's blaze that destroyed the Red Carpet Inn. No damage estimate was immediately available. Crews planned to sift through the charred ashes early this morning to verify that all guests had escaped. "It looks like everyone has been accounted for, but we just don't know," Beaumont Fire Department spokesman

Tommy May said late Wednesday. Officials said they did not know how many people were in the 214-room motel when the fire started just before 6 p.m. Motel employee Vince Ward said he and a cook ran through the building knocking on doors and telling people to get out after they discovered thick smoke in an attic passageway above the kitchen. Dallas businessman Joel Romero said he did not realize the motel was ablaze, even when he saw fire trucks parked outside his window.

Arkansas Almost Blows It, Mustangs Finally Fall, 54-53

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — For awhile there, the Arkansas Razorbacks almost made the same mistake they did two years ago in Moody Coliseum.

"We were anticipating the championship too much," said Arkansas center Scott Hastings after Ricky Norton's free throw with 10 seconds to play gave the 15th-ranked Hogs a 54-53 over Southern Methodist.

In 1980, Arkansas lost to the Mustangs 62-58 here and it cost the Hogs the SWC title.

With Hastings benched because of foul-trouble, the Razorbacks went into a four-corner delay leading 47-40 with 15:32 to play.

Arkansas then had to hang on to win because of poor free throw shooting and SMU steals.

"The game wasn't easy and we knew it wouldn't be," said Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton. "Everytime we had a chance to break the game open, our defense broke down."

"When Hastings drew his fourth foul, we wanted to pull them out of their zone. That's why we went to the spread. (SMU Coach) Dave (Bliss) chose not to spread his defense so it was quite awhile before anything happened. Had we hit our free throws, it wouldn't have been so tight at the end."

Hastings, who fouled out with 16 points as 32 seconds showed on the clock, missed the front end of a one-and-one in the final 90 seconds as did Keith Peterson.

Norton's free throw made it 54-51 with 10 seconds to play and Arkansas let Larry Davis dunk the ball to earn the Hogs' victory.

"I still don't consider us champions yet," said Hastings. "We want the title outright."

Arkansas can win the undisputed title, its fifth in six years, Saturday night in Fayetteville against Texas Tech.

"If SMU hadn't defeated us here two years ago, our seniors would have won four championship rings," said Sutton. "We always have certain goals and two of them are the league title and 20 victories. It was nice to get both."

Arkansas is now 20-5 for the year and 11-4 in SWC play. SMU is 1-15 and 6-20.

Bliss said, "There are a lot of teams we would have beaten the way we played tonight. Arkansas just has too good a team."

Dave Piehler led the Mustang scoring with 18 points. Norton said he never dreamed he would have to make a game-winning free throw.

"When we had them down 10, I never figured it would come down to a late free throw," he said. "Had we gotten them down 15 we might have broke their confidence ... Instead, they played real well."

"I was just thinking about hitting the first free throw but I wished I could have hit the second too."

Hartman's Boys Poised In 57-56 Upset of Missouri

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

When it comes to poise, you can't beat Jack Hartman's boys.

"Our team did a good job of keeping its poise," Hartman said after his unranked Kansas State team upset No. 5 Missouri 57-56 in college basketball Wednesday night. "We got tired at the end, but we still played great."

Perhaps the most poised of all the Kansas State players was Ed Nealy, who calmly hit two free throws in the last five seconds for the winning points in the midst of waving hands and thunderous noise at Missouri's Hearnes Auditorium in Columbia.

Nealy had been shooting only 46 percent from the foul line in conference games, but he was five of six from the line Wednesday night as the Wildcats avenged a 59-58 loss to Missouri earlier this season at Manhattan, Kan., while handing the Tigers their second straight loss.

Nealy, who scored 17 points, went for an offensive rebound and put up a wild shot that missed, but he was fouled by Missouri's Ricky Frazier to set the stage for his game-winning foul shot.

Missouri, which lost a 63-51 decision last Saturday at Georgetown, called time after Kansas State went ahead, but Marvin McCrary missed a wild 40-footer with one second left.

In other games involving the nation's ranked teams, No. 1 Virginia crushed No. 18 Wake Forest 84-66, No. 2

North Carolina trimmed Georgia Tech 77-54, No. 3 DePaul edged Furman 75-74, No. 6 West Virginia tripped Pittsburgh 82-77, No. 7 Kentucky stopped Mississippi State 71-54, No. 12 Georgetown trounced Providence 60-42, No. 15 Arkansas nipped Southern Methodist 54-53, No. 17 Alabama escaped with a 74-72 victory over Auburn and Georgia shocked No. 19 Tennessee 64-63.

Top Ten
Ralph Sampson scored 22 points and grabbed 20 rebounds and Craig Robinson added 20 points and nine rebounds as Virginia overpowered Wake Forest.

The Cavaliers' 12th victory in 13 league starts assured them of at least a tie for the regular-season Atlantic Coast Conference championship. Virginia holds a one-game lead over North Carolina, and can claim its second consecutive outright championship by winning at Maryland Saturday.

James Worthy scored 20 points to lead North Carolina to an easy victory over Georgia Tech. The Tar Heels had little trouble disposing of the Yellow Jackets while posting their 23rd victory in 25 games.

Anthony Byrd led Georgia Tech with 18 points. North Carolina also outbounded Georgia Tech 50-32, numbers that were music to Coach Dean Smith's ears.

Worthy scored his 20 points in 26 minutes and Georgia Tech Coach Bobby Cremins expressed gratitude that Smith held Worthy's playing time down.

Terry Cummings scored 19 points and Bernard Randolph had 17 to help DePaul beat Furman. Cummings and Randolph combined to lead the Blue Demons back from an eight-point deficit at the half.

Greg Jones scored 22 points and Russel Todd hit a pair of pressure free throws as West Virginia defeated upstart-minded Pittsburgh to keep the Mountaineers' winning streak alive at 23 games. Todd's free throws with 49 seconds to play gave the Mountaineers, 24-1, a 78-73 lead. Seconds later, Jones stole the ball and fed Tony Washam for a dunk shot. Derrick Hord scored six points during a 16-4 run that helped Kentucky thrash Mississippi State. The Wildcats reeled off 10 straight points during the streak, including a steal and layup by Hord and consecutive baskets by Dicky Beal, to take a 30-14 lead and Mississippi State never recovered.

Second Ten
Bill Martin led a balanced Georgetown attack with 13 points as the Hoyas took advantage of cold shooting by Providence to trounce the Friars. Georgetown's 7-foot freshman center Pat Ewing added 11 points and led Georgetown on defense with six blocked shots.

Ricky Norton's free throw with 10 seconds remaining lifted Arkansas over SMU. The Razorbacks almost lost the game as the result of a four-corner delay offense that Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton ordered with 13:38 left in the game and his team holding a five-point lead.

Alabama freshman Ennis Whatley sank two free throws in the final five seconds to

The game is scheduled for Thursday, April 22, at 6:30 p.m. The gate at Memorial Stadium will open at 5 p.m. so the fans can watch batting practice.

The Padres will come to town with their new manager Dick Williams and some new faces between the foul lines including controversial shortstop Gary Templeton who came over from St. Louis in the much ballyhooed trade for shortstop Ozzie Smith.

Box seat tickets are $5, reserved seats are $4 and general admission is $3.

The Padres opened spring training camp in Yuma, Arizona on Feb. 22. Several players familiar to local fans are already at camp. They include outfielders James Steels and Jeff Pyburn, pitcher Byron Ballard and catcher Frank Castro.

In addition, three players who had standout seasons last year with the Salem Red-birds, the Padres class A farm team, are in Yuma. Outfielders Jerry Davis and Brian Greer and pitcher Bill Long are expected to play in Amarillo this season. The remainder of the minor league players report to camp on March 14.

Wilt Chamberlain: Man of Giant Grace

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP
Special Correspondent

Wilt Chamberlain is a Hercules of a man — an awesome figure at 7-feet-1 and a trimmed-down 275 pounds who recalls having played basketball at 365 pounds in the 1960s.

Like a Biblical Samson, he looks as if he could tear down the pillars of a temple or, like an Atlas, carry the world on his shoulders.

For all his size, he walks with a flowing grace. When he sits down, he sits down in sections. His great body radiates agility and strength.

"That man scares me," Muhammad Ali once said in his heavyweight championship heyday. "Wilt is the only man in the world I'd be afraid to fight. I think he would kill me."

Chamberlain laughs at the incident.

"Sure, I remember when Ali said that," said the towering giant. "It was back about 1971 and, you know what, the fight almost came off. Gus D'Amato (who managed heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson) offered to manage me. We got together in Houston and were ready to sign the papers.

"Then there was a foulup on who should have the ancillary rights (overseas TV, radio, etc.) and the thing blew up. I was supposed to get $2 million."

Chamberlain isn't sorry the pact wasn't signed.

"Muhammad and I are very good friends," he said. "I don't think we would have enjoyed beating up on each other."

Wilt the Still, as he was called then, went on to set new heights in scoring and controversy in the National Basketball Association before retiring Oct. 1, 1974.

He reverted to his first love — track and field — first forming "Wilt's Wonder Women," a touring group of female track and field stars, and then enlarging the enterprise to "Wilt's Athletic Club," composed of 60 or 70 of the best athletes in the country, male and female.

The best of them will be featured in the USA-Mobil Indoor Track and Field Championships Friday night at Madison Square Garden.

"My interest lies mainly in promoting the women track and field competitors to the same status as the men," Chamberlain said. "They are not being given a fair shake."

Meanwhile, Chamberlain, now 45, continues to grab personal headlines. Not long ago, Wilt announced plans for a comeback with the Philadelphia 76ers but later reneged, saying he didn't want to create an uncomfortable situation with the team's current stars.

Chamberlain, who once called basketball a $500,000 bore, said he had seen only two NBA games in the last six years. Now settled down to a private life in a $1.5 million mansion in Bel-Air, Calif., he is heavily involved in track and field and volleyball.

Wilt acknowledged that he once was sensitive about his size, with people always asking if he got his shoes shined in a car wash and his suits fitted by a tentmaker, but is now more comfortable with the proliferation of seven-footers such as Ralph Sampson of Virginia and Pat Ewing of Georgetown a norm.

With Hat Trick

Gretzky Shatters Mark

By BARRY WILNER AP
Sports Writer

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — When Wayne Gretzky was six years old and tearing apart midget hockey, he was told he wouldn't last.

Now he is 21 and holds all the major individual National Hockey League scoring records. And the marks he set might last forever.

Gretzky was at his dramatic best Wednesday night as the Edmonton Oilers defeated the Buffalo Sabres 6-3. He needed one goal to snap a deadlock with Phil Esposito for the most goals scored in one NHL season — Esposito established the record in 1970-71 and Gretzky tied it last Sunday in Detroit.

The marvellous Oiler center did not produce that historic goal until 6:36 remained in the game. He had four excellent chances but was stymied each time by Sabre goalie Don Edwards.

But then, when Buffalo right wing Steve Patrick coughed up the puck, Gretzky pounced on it and before the sellout crowd of 16,433 seemed to realize it, he had slammed a 10-foot wrist shot past Edwards for No. 77.

Gretzky was on ice for nearly half the game and wound up with three goals in that final 6:36, giving him 79 this season and a 20-game point-scoring streak. At his current pace, Gretzky would challenge the 100-goal barrier and would easily surpass 200 points — he already holds the points record with 176 this campaign, 12 more than last season.

Not bad for a kid who was supposed to be washed up during his adolescence.

He was not particularly worried about breaking Esposito's mark, which he did in his 64th game. It took Esposito 78 contests.

"Every game is a challenge; every shift is a challenge," said Gretzky, whose hat trick was his ninth game with at least three goals, including a five-goal game and three four-goal nights this season.

That second wind produced the historic goal, then a pair of slapshots that darted past Edwards in the final two minutes, lifting Edmonton to a victory that extended its unbeaten string to eight games.

Gretzky's fabulous night, his fourth straight five-point performance, offset a gallant effort by Edwards and Gil Perreault. Perreault, a 12-year NHL veteran and the only original Sabre, scored once in each period, his last goal at 2:27 of the final period lifting Buffalo into a 3-3 tie.

But then Gretzky took over — And, after snapping the tie — and his personal deadlock with Esposito — Gretzky was presented the puck by Esposito, who thanked him "for letting me be a part of this."

"In my opinion, he has the greatest amount of talent in the league," said Esposito. "He has total intensity and Wayne's desire outweigh anybody else. That's what makes him so great."

The Great Gretzky received cabled messages from President Reagan and NHL President John Ziegler. Reagan had met Gretzky at a White House Luncheon held earlier this month for the AHL Stars.

Jack Pumped Up; Floyd Has Woes

MIAMI (AP) — Jack Nicklaus is pumped up, full of enthusiasm and, he said, playing well.

Ray Floyd, however, said he hasn't played well all year and, to complicate problems, has a blister on his left hand.

Floyd, winner of the $300,000 Doral-Eastern Open for the last two years, played without a glove during the pro-am Wednesday. The experiment resulted in a 6-over-par 78 on the 7,065-yard Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club and sent Floyd into today's opening round with that blister.

"I didn't play really well out West," Floyd said coming into the first event on the traditional four-tournament Florida swing. "I think I was just complacent and wasn't working hard enough."

Nicklaus, on the other hand, said he has "played well in all three tournaments I've played. I'm playing fairly well now. I'm not at all unhappy with the way I'm playing."

He hasn't finished worse than third this season. And that, he said, sets him up for this event, which he has won twice.

ABC Planning Pregame Show

An AP Sports Analysis By LARRY SIDONS AP Sports Writer

ABC is preparing something new as it gets ready to butt heads with CBS on college football telecasts this fall.

The network, which had NCAA football telecasts to itself before having to share the sport under a $263 million contract starting this fall, plans a new greatly revamped pregame show along the lines of the "NFL Today" on CBS and NBC's "NFL Report."

Assignments for the most part are still up in the air, but industry sources say Jack Whittaker, the veteran commentator who jumped from CBS to ABC earlier this year, and Jim Lampley, an ABC reporter on NCAA telecasts for several seasons, are the best bets for the top spots.

The third announcer's position on the show has been filled, and the choice is intriguing.

Beano Cook, a publicist for CBS the past five years and a storied observer of college football since his undergraduate days, has moved to ABC for the new pregame show.

His duties have yet to be formalized, but Donn Bernstein, ABC's NCAA media coordinator, says Cook will be "our resident legend. He'll be contributing vignettes and features, and if he thinks Georgia will beat Clemson by 42 points, we expect him to say so."

Cook is quoted by sports writers as often as many coaches. He is a recognized college football authority also known for his disdain toward some other sports. When Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, for example, announced that the 52 freed American hostages from Iran would receive lifetime passes to baseball games, Cook wondered to a colleague: "Haven't they suffered enough?"

Cook had a brief flirtation with football announcing a decade ago, acting as color commentator on some regional telecasts on ABC.

"I wasn't too good," he said Wednesday. "But this is a great opportunity. I'd rather try and fail than get to be 70 and say, 'I should have taken the chance.'"

Bernstein, who has known Cook since ABC's new addition was sports information director at the University of Pittsburgh in the 1950s, said the hiring was done because "sometimes, you get a chance to bring aboard someone who's distinctive."

"Beano has a Damon Runyon-esque quality. He'll speak from the gut. Lord knows, he has things to say, and Lord knows, he knows what he's talking about."

Bernstein said the retooling of the pregame show does not preclude any major changes on ABC's game telecasts themselves.

"Keith (Jackson) and Al (Michaels) are still No. 1 and No. 2, as far as play-by-play is concerned," he said. "The expert analysts haven't been assigned yet."

Valenzuela Stays Home from Camp

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fernando Valenzuela says it was his decision not to go to spring training until he has reached a contract agreement with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The 21-year-old pitching ace said in an interview in today's editions of the Los Angeles Times that he decided not to go to camp after speaking with his agent, Tony DeMarco, and his attorney, Dick Moss on Tuesday. Most of the Dodgers arrived at the training site in Vero Beach, Fla., on Wednesday.

"It was my decision not to go," he said from his Los Angeles hotel room. "...We had a meeting...and we all three agreed to this."

"I formed my decision not to go because we hadn't reached an agreement I want to play, but if there's no agreement, I won't play."

The Times said the left-hander, who had a spectacular rookie season and helped the Dodgers win the 1981 World Series, is asking for $1.4 million. Earlier reports that he was asking for a flat million apparently were wrong.

The Dodgers are said to be offering the winner of the National Cy Young Rookie of the Year awards about $350,000.

Valenzuela says he is practicing on his own, and has kept in shape playing winter baseball in Mexico.

The rest of the Dodgers didn't seem particularly concerned with Valenzuela's absence.

"I'm not worried about Fernando not being here," Los Angeles catcher Steve Yeager said shortly before the Dodgers' private plane departed from Los Angeles International Airport. "That's their problem, not my problem. I have enough problems of my own to worry about."

Pitcher Jerry Reuss, upon arrival in Vero Beach said, "It's his business, not mine. I don't know the full story. That's between Fernando and the Dodgers."

Club Vice President Al Campanis said that although the two sides are far apart in the negotiations, he remains optimistic.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Too few female hormones?

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a 48-year-old married woman and my main problem is the menopause. For the past five months hot flashes have made me quite uncomfortable, particularly at night. My thrashing about, throwing the blanket off and on again and the heat I throw off during a flash has disturbed my husband's rest, as well as mine. Now I know why twin beds are often bought by middle-aged couples. It has more to do with lack of sleep than lack of ardor.

I can't take estrogen therapy because of fibroids so I take Bellergal-S, which has helped some but I still have the problem. An alarming side effect was a loss of libido. After a few weeks of "frigidity" I realized that my marriage might suffer.

I read that dolomite powder might help. The article mentioned that calcium absorption might be impeded because of the phosphorous content in the American diet. My diet does not include many dairy products because I am trying to control my weight. Will dolomite powder help or hurt or do nothing? Are there other ways to cope with the menopause?

DEAR DR. LAMB - I make it a routine every night to exercise 20 to 25 minutes before I retire for the night. Occasionally my husband and I go out for dinner and drinks; when we return home I keep up my routine. Could having alcohol in my system at the time of exercising be harmful to me?

DEAR DR. LAMB - I make it a routine every night to exercise 20 to 25 minutes before I retire for the night. Occasionally my husband and I go out for dinner and drinks; when we return home I keep up my routine. Could having alcohol in my system at the time of exercising be harmful to me?

DEAR READER - Alcohol sometimes makes the heart beat faster or work harder. It also is an anesthetic so people don't feel pain when normally they would. Since pain is nature's signal that all is not well, the absence of feeling pain can be harmful. But if you only drink one or two cocktails and you feel all right, you aren't likely to have a problem with mild exercises.

However, most people sleep better if they do their exercise well before bedtime so their biological system can begin to slow down and get ready for sleep. Exercise activates your system and keeps you awake.

Exercise does not speed up the elimination of alcohol as many people think. Why not? Because alcohol is taining foods or even foods such as ice cream that contain flour (which means gluten) you may develop severe diarrhea. At present the best approach to celiac disease is to avoid all sources of gluten. That means avoiding commercially prepared foods such as cream soups, hot dogs and many other common foods that may contain flour or other cereals containing gluten.

metabolized by the liver and exercising your skeletal muscles will not speed up your liver metabolism in any way. The exercise may make you more alert, though, to overcome the sedative effects of alcohol.

Collection Thought Sold; Half Found in Vaults

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — During the days of Chicago's beer barons, an eccentric, publicity-shy bachelor with a passion for collecting rare coins hid them behind a wall of books in his seven-room apartment above his brewery.

Much of the money Virgil M. Brand made from his "Sonoma" and "Keno" beer went for coins minted centuries before he was born. In 11 years, he amassed about 200,000, carefully wrapping each in tissue paper and recording them in volumes of loose-leaf binders.

He packed the coins in numbered cigar boxes which he put in satchels, each weighing 250 pounds. Later he deposited them in bank vaults, paying $3,000 a year in rental fees.

Court records indicate that the week before his death in 1928 at the age of 64, he bought 500 Havana cigars. It was not clear if he intended to smoke them or use the boxes in which they came for more coins.

How much Brand's hobby cost him is not known. But the probating of his estate showed the face value of the coins alone was $972,569.99.

The old brewery on the Northwest Side long has been torn down. The small park on the site is called Brand's Park, named after the man who lived alone with his stamps, rare books, antiques and one of the world's greater coin collections.

Until recently, collectors thought the entire collection had been sold. But when Jane Brand Allen, daughter of Brand's brother, Armin, died last July, possibly nearly half of it turned up as part of her estate in three sealed New York state bank vaults.

"They are in the process of cataloging the coins," said Marcie Stuchin, spokeswoman for Sotheby Parke Bernet Inc. in New York. "We don't know yet how many there are. They had been in the vaults since 1946."

The company has been selected to hold auctions of the coins, which were found still in tissue paper and cigar boxes, placed in metal suitcases and stored in reinforced wooden crates.

Ms. Stuchin said part of the cache would go on the block in Zurich, Switzerland, on July 1. Other auctions, spread over more than two years, will be held in London and New York. The collection also may travel to major cities of the world on exhibition, she said. The coins are now expected to bring in excess of $10 million.

John L. Marion, president of Sotheby's in North America, said Brand's collection spans about every area, from Ancient Greek and Roman to European, Asiatic and American.

"A number of the coins have never before been on the block," said Marion. "And there are many whose type have not been seen on the market for decades."

The original collection, which Brand began assembling as a youngster working in his German-born father's Chicago brewery, included pieces from the American colonies, a selection bought from the Russian royal family, and a complete set of all French coins officially minted.

The auctions will feature ancient Greek and Roman coins, gold patterns and profits from The Netherlands, rare Swiss coins, German ducats and American colonial and territorial pieces.

It was said that when Brand attended a coin auction, other bidders gave up. They knew if he wanted a coin, he would pay any price for it. Once he bought an entire collection just to get a gold piece that the owner would not sell individually.

Born in the Chicago suburb of Blue Island, Brand was educated in Chicago schools, inherited his father's brewery and started his own brewery — Brand Brewing Co. — with his brothers, Horace and Armin, on the Northwest Side.

When he worked for his father, young Brand gained attention for his meticulous eye for detail and order. The original family business eventually became part of what is now Anheuser-Busch.

"He was very intelligent and a very closed man. That's it. What else can I say," said Michael Zettes, a grand nephew.

After Brand's death, his collection was offered for sale, but there were no buyers in the Depression years. The collection eventually became the subject of a long court hassle between Brand's brothers, both prominent Chicago businessmen.

In 1937, it was divided between them.

In 1939, Horace's half was valued at anywhere from $1.5 million to $5 million. Again the coins became the object of a court battle Horace's second estranged wife claimed he had given them to her.

Horace, who had sought a divorce on the ground of cruelty, was ordered to give her one-fifth of the collection and their 35-room marble Chicago mansion.

The other brother, Armin, apparently sold some of his half, but much of it remained untouched and was handed down to his daughter who stored them in the bank vaults, officials said.

CBS Regains Lofty Perch in TV Ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS regained its solitary hold on first place in the networks' ratings competition, with help from "Dallas" — the top-rated show eight times this season — and "60 Minutes," figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed.

Both "Dallas" and "60 Minutes," No. 1 a half-dozen times in the TV year that began Oct. 5, were nudged out of the top spot a week ago by the conclusion of a two-part television premiere of "Superman" on ABC. It was the first time this season that a non-sports program, other than the two CBS shows, had won the weekly competition.

ABC, thanks in part to "Superman," finished in a tie for first place, ending CBS' 11-week string as the No. 1 network.

CBS was back on top in the week ending Feb. 21, with six of the 10 highest-rated shows and an average rating of 18.6

to 18.1 for ABC and 15.6 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the period, 18.6 percent of the country's homes with TV were tuned to CBS.

CBS now has won the weekly competition 15 times in the TV year that began Oct. 5.

The rating for "Dallas" was 29.9. Nielsen says that means in an average minute of the show, 29.9 percent of the nation's television-equipped homes were watching "Dallas."

CBS' "Falcon Crest" was the highest-rated of the season's new series, in third place, with ABC's "Fall Guy" 14th. ABC scored, too, with the television premiere of Steve Martin's film, "The Jerk."

"Little House on the Prairie" was NBC's only program among the 15 highest-rated, in 15th place, though an NBC film, "The Capture of Grizzly Adams," was 22nd, and Johnny Carson's prime-time special finished 26th.

ABC had three of the five lowest-rated programs, including "Open All Night" in 68th place, "Best of the West" 69th, and "Making a Living," No. 71. NBC's "Cassie & Co." was No. 70, and "Rock and Roll Dreams," a "Peacock Showcase" feature on NBC, was 72nd — last.

Here are the week's 10 highest-rated programs:

"Dallas," with a rating of 29.9 representing 24.5 million homes, "60 Minutes," 27.7 or 22.7 million, and "Falcon Crest," 25.2 or 20.6 million, all CBS; "Too Close for Comfort," 25 or 20.5 million, and "Three's Company," 24.3 or 19.9 million, both ABC; "Magnum, P.I.," 23.8 or 19.5 million, CBS; Movie—"The Jerk," 23.6 or 19.3 million, ABC; "Alice," 22.8 or 18.7 million, and "Dukes of Hazard," 22.7 or 18.6 million, both CBS, and "Hart to Hart," 22.6 or 18.5 million, ABC.

The remainder of the Top 20:

"The Jeffersons," "One Day at a Time" and "Archie Bunker's Place," all CBS; "Fall Guy," ABC; "Little House on the Prairie," NBC; "Dynasty," ABC; "Love Boat," ABC, and "Facts of Life," NBC, tie; "Real People," NBC, and "That's Incredible," ABC.

Giving Until It Hurts--Badly

NEW YORK (AP) — The United Way of America, which depends on voluntary local giving, came through the winter in pretty vigorous shape, despite tight money, layoffs, lower corporate profits and economic uncertainty.

More than $1.68 billion was raised by 2,100 United Ways for hundreds of local community services and charities, 10.3 percent more than a year earlier and the greatest amount ever raised in a 95-year history.

True, inflation cut that figure to a very small real gain, but any improvement was welcome in so depressing an economic climate. The reports from some communities were considered truly outstanding.

Detroit, for example, raised $43.5 million, or 2.5 percent more than it did a year earlier, when jobs were more secure and carmakers felt they had turned the corner. And in nearby Flint, where the jobless rate was between 15 percent and 16 percent, the figure remained almost the same.

Denver's giving soared 24.5 percent, the greatest of any major city. Houston rose 23 percent, Dallas 19.6, Washington, D.C. 15, Atlanta 14.6, St. Louis 13.6, San Francisco 13.1 — rates that exceeded inflation and, therefore, represented real improvements rather than mere illusions.

"The results, more than anything else, tell us that Americans are still uniquely generous and caring people," said Donald V. Seibert, the United Way chairman, and chairman also of J.C. Penney Co., Inc.

But, while that observation is considered accurate by those who study the pattern of giving among countries, and may be reason for pride also, it really isn't the big consideration this year or next.

Instead, the major question before the country is whether voluntary giving can fill gaps opened by the federal government's retreat from many human service areas. Essentially, the question remains unanswered.

Said Seibert in a statement issued last week in Washington: "There is no way business, foundation and individual giving...can match the level of federal tax dollars no longer available for human services."

That answer, however, is not as bleak as it sounds. Perhaps some of the dollar gap shouldn't be closed, Seibert suggested later in an interview. More efficiency, for one thing, could help as much as money.

For another, said Seibert, "we may see increased contributions in time and involvement with the local level." In other words, the volunteering of time and skills, which again may be as good as money.
