On Tax Cut Legislation

Hance to Introduce Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, directly challenging House Democratic leaders on a three-year tax cut, is embracing a slimmer version of his original plan with some added features while courting the Southern conservatives who gave him a big budget victory earlier this year. One of the conservatives, Rep. Kent Hance, D-Texas, agreed Thursday with Rep. Barber B. Conable, R-N.Y., senior tax-writer in the House, to introduce Reagan's latest attempt at a tax compromise. Reagan, refusing any further compromise with Democratic leaders, said the revised plan "will put us back on the road to a sound economy." Most of the package had been proposed three weeks ago by conservatives and had been embraced by Reagan advisers, if not by the president himself. It includes a 25 percent cut in personal tax rates over three years, with the first 5 percent taking effect Oct. 1; reductions in the marriage penalty; liberalization of savings incentives; elimination of estate taxes for all but the wealthiest 2 percent of Americans; faster tax writeoffs for business; and a special tax break for those who own lands on which oil wells are located.

The original Reagan plan called only for a 30 percent cut in personal tax rates over three years and the faster writeoffs, or depreciation, for businesses. The 25 percent personal reduction is $16 billion smaller. Reagan had wanted to leave the other features, such as the reduction in the marriage penalty, to a second tax bill he had planned to submit later in the year.

Vice President George Bush, speaking to Associated Press broadcasters at a White House meeting Thursday, predicted: "We will get a tax bill the president can sign. We're going to need the help of a lot of Democrats." Flanked by congressional supporters, Reagan made a brief statement outside the Oval Office on the steps overlooking the Rose Garden and expressed his "special appreciation" to the group.

saying it "is united in the belief that together we must rebuild the economy." House Democratic leaders, who agreed Wednesday to push for a two-year plan with more relief for lower- and middle-income taxpayers, withheld comment on Reagan's latest move. Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan told reporters that if the opposition "can come up with something at the last minute that accommodates this package, of course we'll

For 28 Years in Oklahoma

Witness Says Commissioner Payoffs Exceeded $1 Million

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A former road and bridge materials supplier has testified in federal court that he made more than 8,000 kickbacks totaling more than $1 million to scores of county commissioners during his 28 years in business and found only three commissioners in that time who declined payoffs.

Guy Moore, one of two key government witnesses in the statewide investigation of alleged county commissioner corruption, said suppliers either made kickbacks to commissioners or they went broke. Moore and Dorothy Griffin, another former equipment supplier who is the other key government witness in the case, gave their first public testimony late Thursday in a hearing on a request that tape and video recordings of alleged payoffs be barred from use as evidence. Commissioners J.P. "Dick" Richardson of Oklahoma County, Eston Ruel Fisher of Stephens County and Orville Pratt of Blaine County and former Commissioner William L. Bookstore of Harper County asked U.S. District Judge Luther Eubanks to disallow the tape and video recordings made of their conversations with Moore, and, in the case of Bookstore, conversations with Mrs. Griffin.

The judge dismissed the motions at the end of the nearly 10-hour hearing. Moore, who did business as Guy Moore Inc., gave staggering figures when asked how many payoffs he had paid.

"I'd say roughly 300 a year for 28 years," he replied, at "an average of $3,000 a month." That would total 8,400 kickbacks amounting to more than $1 million. "Could you have been in business 28 years without paying kickbacks," asked Assistant U.S. Attorney Bill Price.

"No sir, not and make a living," Moore replied. "In my tenure as a salesman, I don't believe I ever approached but three men who refused it." Mrs. Griffin also testified that kickbacks were common in selling equipment to county commissioners.

Local Blue Birds and Blue Jays have been attending Camp Lani Wa Day Camp in Veteran's Park this week. Theme for the Day Camp was "Give A Hoot, Don't Pollute." Among several programs presented to the children, Mike Klein from the SCS office, spoke to the children about the planting and caring of a tree. The children were each issued a Russian Olive Tree to take home and plant. The project was to teach the children the responsibility of caring for a tree not only while planting it but after it is planted. Assisting Klein was Jim Bolinger.

Waco Youth, Soldier Die In Central Texas Deluge

By The Associated Press
A 10-year-old Waco boy and an Army sergeant are dead after being trapped in floodwaters fed by yet another day of heavy rains that drenched Central and North Central Texas.

Waco officials said the body of Remigio Pena is believed trapped in a storm sewer after he and a friend were swept into Waco Creek while riding their bicycles. Assistant Fire Chief C.W. Terry said Thursday that a search for the boy's body in the 13-block long storm sewer pipe which empties into the Brazos River will resume today.

The body of Staff Sgt. Thomas W. Edwards, 30, of Fort Hood, was found south of Killen Thursday about three miles south of where he tried to cross a flooded road to help some stranded motorists. Officials said they had to wait for floodwaters to recede before recovering Edwards' body from a tree on Mountain Creek.

A tornado touched down in a subdivision on the outskirts of Galveston early today, damaging some homes, cars and an apartment complex. There were no reports of injuries.

As the heavy rains continued to pound Texas' midsection, Gulf Coast residents cast a wary eye to the south as the National Weather Service reported a tropical depression had formed about 75 miles off Brownsville in the Gulf of Mexico.

At 6 a.m. today, forecasters at the National Hurricane Center said the poorly defined center of the tropical depression was located about 75 miles east of Corpus Christi.

Forecasters said the weak storm system would probably move to the north and move inland along the upper Texas coast today.

The tropical depression had highest winds of 35 mph early today and forecasters said they doubted that it would gain much strength before moving inland.

They said, however, that it would dump heavy rainfall and possibly cause some flash flooding in East Texas and western Louisiana later today and tonight. Rainfall amounts of up to five inches were expected along the route of the weak storm, forecasters said.

A flash flood watch was ordered for a vast area of Southeast Texas early today as the tropical depression moved slowly northward. The watch area was along and south of a line from Corpus Christi to Victoria to Lufkin.

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) — Members of a Black Muslim group are believed responsible for the prison stabbing of James Earl Ray, who pleaded guilty to killing Martin Luther King, according to the director of the state Bureau of Investigation.

Ray, meanwhile, was reported in stable condition today at a hospital, recovering from stab wounds to his head, chest and an arm.

Ray's wife said she was upset because her husband was shackled to his hospital bed.

"If this was happening to a cat or dog there'd be public outrage," Anna Sandhu Ray told reporters Thursday night. "He's been stabbed 22 times; he's got two IVs (intravenous tubes), and they think he's gonna walk away."

Prison officials had no comment on her statements. Ray, 53, has tried to escape from prison four times since 1969, but he managed to get outside prison walls only once.

Ray was beaten and stabbed by other inmates early Thursday morning as he studied lawbooks in the library at Brushy Mountain Penitentiary, a maximum-security prison set among East Tennessee mountains in Petros, authorities said.

A crew of doctors, paramedics and prison guards took Ray 15 miles to Oak Ridge Hospital where he underwent surgery for an hour.

Arzo Carson, Tennessee Bureau of Investigation director, said four black men, who he said were members of a militant Black Muslim group, were believed to have attacked Ray. He identified three of them as John W. Partee of Nashville, Jerome N. Ransom of Chattanooga and Doc Walker of Memphis.

But prison officials said three black men and two whites were being questioned. They refused to release names.

"We're still investigating and won't release any names until we're finished, possibly Monday," said prison spokesman John Redick.

Inmates were being kept in their cells, Redick said. "Until we can come up with a motive or find out what triggered it, we're keeping the prison locked down."

"There's always a chance for reprisals," he said. Redick said a 12-inch knife honed from a metal brace taken from a window frame was seized by prison guards after the incident.

Mrs. Ray blamed the attack, the first on her husband since his imprisonment in

Senate Floor Fight Assured on Lefever

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee appeared lined up almost 2-to-1 today against Ernest W. Lefever's nomination as President Reagan's human rights chief.

Despite the virtually assured committee outcome, Senate Republican and Democratic leaders disagreed on prospects for Lefever's confirmation before the full Senate as assistant secretary of state for human rights.

Majority Leader Howard Baker said Thursday a head count showed prospects are good that the full Senate would confirm Lefever. But Democratic Whip Alan Cranston said he thinks opponents may be able to "simply vote down the nomination."

Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Charles H. Percy, R-Ill. — in what is a major defection for the Republican president — joined the opposition to Lefever just before today's vote.

The president, meanwhile, has launched a direct challenge to House Democratic leaders on his proposed three-year tax cut, openly courting the same conservative Democrats who have him a budget victory earlier this year.

One of the them, Rep. Kent Hance, D-Texas, agreed Thursday with Rep. Barber B. Conable, R-N.Y., senior tax-writer in the House, to introduce Reagan's latest attempt at a tax compromise.

The House and Senate, in separate votes Thursday, banned federal Medicaid payments for abortions this year unless the life of the mother is at stake. The abortion rider in the $13.2 billion supplemental spending bill for 1981 eliminates rape and incest as grounds for women to qualify for Medicaid money for ending pregnancies.

Opponents of the move say about 10,000 poor women would be affected. The limitations only apply to federal spending for the balance of this fiscal year ending Sept. 30 and would have to be renewed by Congress to cover beyond then.

Midway Returns To Port in Controversy

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP) — The U.S. aircraft carrier Midway returned to its Japanese home port today, getting a jubilant welcome from the families of its crew inside the naval base. Outside the base, thousands demonstrated against U.S. Navy ships bringing nuclear weapons into Japanese waters.

One crewman from the carrier, Tom Kelly, of New Port Richey, Fla., said the Midway's men had been told to expect demonstrations, "but this is something else." About 1,700 relatives of the Midway's crew and those of the carrier's escort cheered and waved flags as the 51,000-ton flattop moored at the U.S. Yokosuka Naval Base after three months at sea.

A Japanese government delegation also was on hand to greet the ship, demonstrating support for Japan's joint defense agreement with the United States. It included Minoru Genda, a member of parliament who led one of the Japanese bomber groups in the Dec. 7

Vermont Teens Licensed to Kill?

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — Outrage over a state law that the attorney general says gives young teen-agers "a license to kill" has prompted Gov. Richard Snelling to call for the first special session of the General Assembly in six years.

Snelling's action followed the public outcry over reports that a 15-year-old boy arrested in connection with the torture-killing of a 12-year-old girl would, if convicted, be freed with a clean record at age 18 under state law.

"We ought not to make law on the basis of the fate of tragedy," Snelling said. "But right now everyone seems to be convinced we need to beef up our criminal justice system" by changing the law, he said.

"We must stop waiting for tragedies before we identify with the need for action," Snelling said.

If all goes according to Snelling's plan, Vermont's 180 lawmakers would be back in the statehouse before July 15 — two months after the torture-killing of Melissa Walbridge, 12, of Essex Junction.

State law requires that 14- and 15-year-olds be prosecuted in juvenile court for

Slayings Suspect Nabbed To 'Protect Evidence'

ATLANTA (AP) — A man who was questioned about the slayings of 28 young blacks was picked up because authorities believed he had detected their surveillance and they were afraid potential evidence would be destroyed, a newspaper reported today.

The man, a 23-year-old black, was questioned for about 12 hours but released early Thursday without charges. Authorities would not say whether he was a suspect in the killings, but a news conference later he said he believed police still considered him a "prime suspect."

The Atlanta Constitution, quoting unidentified officials close to the investigation, said police decided early this week to drop the "tight surveillance" that had been in effect since May 22 because it was evident the man was aware he was being tailed. Officials decided they had to move quickly to prevent any potential evidence from being destroyed, the newspaper said.

The Constitution quoted sources as saying some evidence seized at the man's home Wednesday was similar to evidence found on bodies of several of the victims.

But the newspaper quoted one investigator as saying, "The fibers might be good enough for an arrest, but the police have to worry about a conviction. They have to think of a good defense attorney asking, 'How many blankets of this type have been made, 10,000?'"

Public Safety Commissioner Lee Brown said the man, whom police have not identified, was released because the questioning produced no information "that would result in an arrest."

Atlanta police, meanwhile, continued to look for David Litmon, missing since Tuesday. A general alarm was issued for the 15-year-old black youth, meaning that authorities stepped up patrols and set up roadblocks in the youth's neighborhood.

His disappearance had not been turned over to a special police task force investigating the 28 slayings and the disappearance of one black youth that have occurred since July 1979.

While the man was being questioned at FBI headquarters, authorities armed with a search warrant went through his home and, according to the man, seized a yellow blanket, purple robe, green carpet fibers, fibers from a bedspread, carpet sweepings and dog hairs.

That material was being (See SUSPECT, Page 2)

Men Convicted In Cocaine Case

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Two men say they will appeal their conviction on federal charges of smuggling 28 pounds of cocaine, valued at about $1 million, into the country by concealing the contraband in the false bottoms of six scuba tanks.

Jurors, who spent six hours considering six days of testimony and more than 100 pieces of evidence, convicted David Lyle Boese of San Francisco and Gregory James Freeman of Dallas on Thursday.

U.S. District Judge David Belew Jr. scheduled sentencing for July 10. Both men remain free on bond and their attorneys have indicated they will appeal the verdict.

Prosecutors alleged that the men arranged in the spring of 1980 to have the illegal narcotic loaded into the tanks in Peru then shipped to Nigeria, Amsterdam, Houston, Dallas and finally to a warehouse in San Francisco.

Customs agents discovered the illegal drug at Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport. Drug Enforcement Administration agents seized the tanks at a San Francisco warehouse prosecutors said Boese operated under the alias David Sterling.

Defense attorneys argued that the government's case was speculative and circumstantial.

Men Die In Oilfield Mishap

GONZALES, Texas (AP) — Hydrogen sulfide gas is suspected of causing the death of a Victoria oilfield worker and his brother-in-law who jumped into a fracturing tank in an effort to save him.

Danny Mitchell, 20, and David Sparkman, 23, were pronounced dead Thursday shortly after 11 a.m. by Peace Justice George Nuese at the scene of the mishap in southern Gonzales County.

Nuese said Mitchell was working atop the tank, which is used to collect waste material from oil wells, when he opened the lid, was overcome by fumes and fell inside.

Sparkman climbed to the top of the tank and tried to pull his brother-in-law from the container but was overcome by fumes himself and fell inside.

Nuese said Ben Garcia of Beeville, who was working on the well, ran to the tank and managed to drag Sparkman's body out before Garcia was overcome by the gas.

Garcia was reported in good condition Thursday night at Cuero Community Hospital. Four other men working at the rig were treated for exposure to the fumes and released.

Nuese said rescue workers drained the tank in order to recover Mitchell's body.

analyzed at the state crime lab Thursday.

The man held the news conference on the condition that neither his name nor picture be used. He passed out resumes describing his employment history.

He also said FBI agents repeatedly accused him of some of the slayings and then told him, "It's just a matter of time before we get you."

"They did call me a suspect," he said. "They said, 'You killed Nathaniel Cater. And you know it and you're lying to us.'"

Cater, the 28th victim, was found in the Chattahoochee River northwest of Atlanta on May 24, two days after the man said he was stopped by FBI agents on a bridge over the river just upstream from where the body was found.

FBI spokesman William McGrath and Brown refused comment on the man's statements.

witnesses indicated the six indictments and four guilty pleas that have developed to date in the investigation are just a small beginning in what other sources have termed a huge scandal that will result in more than 100 commissioners, former commissioners and suppliers either being indicted or pleading guilty.

Both Moore and Mrs. Griffin said they began cooperating with government officials last year after being confronted with convincing evidence of their own criminal activities, and both said they have agreed to plead guilty to felony charges at a later date.

Both also said they hope to receive lighter sentences because of their cooperation, and Moore said he has been told that he will be charged with only one mail fraud count. Mrs. Griffin said she has not been told how many counts will be brought against her.

talk." But he added: "It's not likely at this point."

The fate of the new Reagan plan is in the hands of the 190 House Republicans and 63 conservative Democrats who supported Reagan's budget-cutting blueprint earlier this year.

It is generally assumed that all but a handful of the GOP members will vote for whatever tax plan Reagan wants. The conservative Democrats are another question.

Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Texas, chairman of the 47-member Conservative Democratic Forum, said that group was split down the middle Thursday between a two-year and a three-year tax reduction. Hance said as few as 15 of the 47 could be counted in Reagan's corner on the tax cut.

However, he added, "I feel we have an outstanding chance" of winning. "The president certainly has momentum on his side and the American public wants to see the president's program passed."

Hance conceded that the new Reagan plan will lose in the House Ways and Means Committee, which is scheduled to begin drafting a tax bill next week. Hance and Conable will make their stand on the House floor, just as backers of a Reagan-endorsed budget package did in April when they stunned the Democratic leadership.

In the Republican-controlled Senate, where passage of the bill is virtually certain, Majority Leader Baker said he is "optimistic that the House will act prior to the July 4 recess, that the Senate will act immediately after the recess, and that the bill will be on the President's desk for his signature during the first week of August."

The demonstrators marched past the gates of the base all morning, but police made them walk in groups of about 50.

all crimes, no matter how serious. All those convicted must be freed from state custody at the age of 18, at which time their records are erased.

"We literally have a license to kill at those ages," Attorney General John Easton said Thursday.

Miss Walbridge was found stabbed to death in the woods behind a town recreation center on May 15. A friend, 12-year-old Meghan O'Rourke, also of Essex Junction, was stabbed and found stumbling around in shock nearby. She is recovering.

Both were naked and police said they had been tortured with pellet guns and raped.

Sixteen-year-old Louis Hamlin of Burlington, and James Savage, 15, of Essex Junction, were arrested in connection with the attack. Hamlin has pleaded innocent to charges of first-degree murder and aggravated sexual assault, and is in a correctional center. Savage is being held at a juvenile detention center at the Vermont State Hospital in Waterbury and will face the same charges in juvenile court, according to Chittenden County Prosecutor Mark Keller.

Court affidavits say Savage told police that he and Hamlin waited for the two girls in the woods and then forced them to take off their clothes and have sex with them. Savage told police that Hamlin did the stabbing while he watched, the affidavit said.

"How many Vermont females have to die or live the rest of their lives with nightmares before this issue becomes sufficiently important to warrant special attention?" a woman wrote in a letter to the Burlington Free Press on Thursday.

The heaviest rains Thursday were reported in a narrow band from Waco to Earedo, with San Antonio reporting three inches of rainfall. A funnel cloud was spotted in Brown County, but no damage was reported.

Officials in Austin reported rising water in Walnut Creek forced the residents of a motel to evacuate for a time, and a low-water bridge in northwest Travis County was under eight feet of water.

Rainfall amounts were generally from one to three inches in the area.

Thursday and 5 a.m. today.

Forecasts called for showers and thunderstorms over most of the state today. The showers and thunderstorms were expected to be heavy over Southeast Texas and extreme East Texas.

Highs were to be mostly in the 80s.

Rain was falling over the eastern two-thirds of the state early today. Showers that developed in Northwest Texas east of Lubbock and in far West Texas late Thursday dissipated early today.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 60s and 70s.

The Midway has been a center of controversy for the past month because Japanese anti-nuclear groups and opposition members of Parliament contend it and other U.S. 7th Fleet ships bring nuclear weapons into Japanese waters in violation of government bans.

The Japanese government has rejected the charges and the United States refuses to comment.

Yokosuka's mayor, Kazuo Yokoyama, asked the government to delay the Midway's return until the agitation subsided. But the government refused to relay the request to the Navy, and Navy officials said there was no reason to delay the ship's return.

The Midway, escorted by the guided missile cruiser Reeves and the frigate Kirk, left Yokosuka on Feb. 23 to patrol in Southeast Asia and the Indian Ocean.

Rear Admiral Donald L. Felt, commander of U.S. Naval Forces in Japan, welcomed the 36-year-old carrier "with pleasure and pride" today and made no mention of the nuclear controversy. The United States refuses to comment on the whereabouts of its nuclear armaments anywhere in the world.

was more than $3 billion in military spending, although Congress did reject $92 million to plan and design a land-based MX missile system until Reagan decides whether the new weapon should be built.

The bill also includes $1.7 billion to assure the food stamp program does not run out of money before October. There are 23 million recipients of the coupons, more than one of every 10 Americans.

In other congressional action: —The Senate Agriculture Committee agreed Thursday to end free summer lunches for low-income children and extra milk subsidies to schools and institutions not participating in any other federal meal plan. The two changes, affecting millions of children, will save the government $245 million next year.

—The House Agriculture Committee on Thursday approved so-called user fees that will save the government about $50 million a year by charging tobacco, cotton and grain producers the full price of federal inspection and grading services. The Senate Agriculture Committee took almost identical action Wednesday.

$115,000 House for $100 Ticket

FAIRFAX, Va. (AP) — Want to buy a $115,000 house for $100?

In what real estate ads would call "a unique opportunity," John and Carlyn Redman are trying to raffle off their 13-year-old brick, Cape Cod-style, five-bedroom house in the Washington suburb of Fairfax, Va.

The Redmans had tried to sell the house since January, but like many other Americans, they found that high interest rates have scared off buyers.

So they had an idea: They would raffle it off at $100 a ticket.

On Monday, 2,000 tickets at $100 a shot went on sale at the Annandale (Va.) Boys Club, which is sponsoring the event.

The drawing will be held on Labor Day.

Redman said that after tickets are sold he will take the first $115,000, his asking price for the house, and the boys club will get everything above that — $85,000 if all tickets sell.

And there's an added bonus for taking the chance. Because the club is a registered non-profit, charitable organization, the price of the raffle tickets is tax deductible.

Burglaries, Thefts Investigated By HPD

Hereford Police report that FGI Commodities, 715 25 Mile Ave. was burglarized between 4 p.m. Wednesday and 7:30 a.m. Thursday. Taken were a calculator, television, and cassette recorder.

Police also arrested one person for public intoxication, and issued three traffic citations.

Correction

There were two errors in the run in The Hereford Brand Thursday concerning the rebates coming to Hereford telephone customers from Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

The rebate period was listed as Nov. 11, 1980 to May 18, 1981. It should have read from Nov. 11, 1980 to May 28, 1981.

Also, the interest figure was incorrect in the story. It read "plus 10 cents interest." The correct rate was "plus 10 percent interest."

The Brand apologizes for any confusion these errors may have caused.

Paul Harvey News

Polish Wedding

If anybody tells you that Paul Harvey cries at weddings, deny it. But he almost does.

This past weekend a business associate and friend of mine got married. Richard Mack took a beautiful bride named Hope.

Both have been married before.

To each other.

Twenty-five years ago. On this 25th anniversary of their wedding day — they did it again.

A formal church ceremony — complete with the original clergyman, beautifully adorned bridesmaids and frock-coated attendants including their own four tall, handsome sons.

The minister preambled the ceremony with such beautifully appropriate remarks that I wish I'd kept notes. But, engulfed by the emotion of the occasion, I did not.

In essence — he recalled how most newlyweds enter upon this solemn ceremony and ritually recite the vows without an adequate comprehension of their meaning. "For richer, for poorer".... The inexperienced cannot anticipate that "richer" is ofttimes harder.

"In sickness and in health..."

The unutilized are unaware that sticking together in sickness is comparatively easy; it's "in health" that there is a greater tendency to fly the coop, jump the fence, seek greener pastures.

And it is no less true for either mate. Restiveness is rarely the fault of the other. Most often it is a man's own waning virility which he comes to despise; for a woman — her wrinkles.

But if beginners at the altar see the future only through a soft, pink haze which flatters everything...

When a couple bring their love back to the altar — at considerable inconvenience and expense to reaffirm their pledge or allegiance to one another — when they say "richer or poorer" or "sickness and health," they know what they're talking about.

For this family has not been without the sickness part. This family has experienced and endured the early problems of making ends meet on a lawman's income. These lovers have not been spared trial, trouble, temptation, disappointments, tears.

Yet in the autumn of their years, the Macks wanted to return to church to say thanks to their God and to one another.

If you're ever invited to a Polish wedding reception, don't miss it. It's really something!

And the celebration which followed this solemn occasion was a dandy.

Family and longtime friends affirm this bride and groom were more radiant than 25 years ago.

During the church part I couldn't help reflecting on what a significant example this is to their own grown sons. And indeed for the others of us in the pews who, when the minister said, "Do you..." stole a misty glance and joined our own hands.

Blue Birds, Jays Finish Day Camp

Camp Lani Wa Blue Bird Day Camp has been underway all week with girls setting their tents and equipment up in Veteran's Park. Theme for the Day Camp was "Give A Hoot, Don't Pollute". During the week Blue Birds explored the outdoors and the things that grow. They have learned to work as a group, and share with each other the fun and excitement found in the outdoors. All Blue Birds and Blue Jays received awards for the things they learn about Woodsey Owl. They have learned about growing things, energy from the sun, caring for God's creatures, and about people learning to work and live together. Several guests, both local and out-of-town, visiting the Day Camp included Helen Cherry, speaking to the children on animals; Len Slesick, meteorologist from KVII TV Channel 7 in Amarillo; and Mike Klein from the SCS office. The kids also took a tour of Arrowhead Mills, Inc. Refreshments throughout the week were provided by the following merchants: McDonald's, Troy's Sweet Shop, and Taco Villa. With today being the last day of camp, those attending were presented with T-shirts reading Camp Lani Wa. A ceremonial was held this afternoon with parents attending. Cindy Norvell served as this year's camp director, with Jo Ann Hill as program chairman.

Moderation Best For Losing Weight

That bikini in the store window would look so good if it weren't for this roll here and that lumpiness there... Crash diets also can lead to self-pity. After a few days on one of these strict and boring diets we fell so sorry for ourselves that we blow the diet and go on a binge. Then we go right back to our previous eating patterns. So much for the diet and the bikini. The reason many people have to go on diets in the first place is simply because they consume too many calories for their body to use each day. Calories not used as energy are stored in the body as fat. Despite what the books and magazines may say, the only sure way to lose that fat safely and keep it off is to get more exercise and to quit eating so much. The best diet is one which is lower in calories but consists of a conventional mix of the four basic food groups: milk, meat, vegetable and fruit, breads and cereals. Try to select low-calorie fruits and vegetables over higher-calorie red meats, however. What dieters often don't realize is the essential role of portions in dieting. The

Ann Landers Parents United

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've read your column for years. I must admit that I thought a lot of the stories were made up by you and your staff, but now after what has happened to me, I would believe anything. My husband had been molesting our daughter for several years. She told a close relative, who then told me. It was a terrific shock. At first I refused to believe it. We were a middle-class family, my husband a professional with good morals and well-respected in the community. When I confronted him, he said he was sick in the head and would do anything to get well. A friend gave us the answer. We are now in a therapy program called Parents United. My daughter is in the same program, only it's called Daughters-Sons United. I'm so grateful for this group of people who have suffered through the same problem. These folks saved our marriage and kept me from going crazy.

We are now a family in the process of working together on a day-to-day basis. I urge all young people who read this letter, if it is happening to you please tell your mother, your teacher, your doctor, the mother of a girlfriend - SO-MEONE. And I urge all you mothers to please listen to your children. Believe them and do something about it. Only 1 percent of the children are not telling the truth! Fathers, men, women, if you will only seek help, the problem can be put in the past. Contact a Parents United group in your area.

Child sexual abuse is a terrible tragedy. People need to know that they have to talk about it and there are groups to which they can go for help. Please print our hot-line number - 213-325-8368 - which I'm sorry to say is not toll free. Urge your readers to write. The address is: Parents United, Inc., P.O. Box 84353, Los Angeles, Calif. 90073. Enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope if you wish a response.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My son is engaged to a nice girl and loves her very much. But she has osteogenesis imperfecta.

I've tried to talk to my son about this, but he won't listen. I don't know much about this disease, but I do know there will be no children if these two get married. I am having a hard time convincing them that a marriage without children is no marriage at all.

Please, Ann, give me some information about this disease. No one will listen to me about the fears I have if they marry. It worries me sick. - Read You In Greensboro Every Day

DEAR GREENSBORO: Osteogenesis imperfecta may or may not be inherited. It could be the result of rickets or a glandular disturbance.

The symptoms are abnormally brittle bones that are subject to fractures. So much for the medical side. Now for the human relations aspect: I advise you to butt out, Mother. Whether or not to have a family is a decision that should be made exclusively by the two people involved. Moreover, your notion that a marriage without children is "no marriage at all" is incorrect. In fact, I have received many letters from readers who say their marriages would have been better if they hadn't had children. Sad for the kids who are born to parents who don't want them? You bet. But that's the way it is - and there are more of them out there than you think.

Going to a wedding? Giving one? Or standing up in one? Even if you're already married Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" will answer questions about today's weddings. Easier Recovery For Cesareans

A cesarean is a surgical way to deliver a baby. It is performed when a normal vaginal delivery is difficult or impossible, for various reasons. Feelings, says the Texas Medical Association.

There are some instances when a cesarean is a lifesaving procedure for either mother or child or both.

If the baby's head is too large to safely pass through the mother's pelvis a cesarean can make the difference between a normal and a brain-injured child. A long or particularly hard labor can be too stressful for the baby, also causing damage. Long labor which does not progress as it should brings an increased risk of infection to both mother and child. A baby that is positioned feet first instead of head first will be deprived of vital oxygen to the brain unless a cesarean is performed. A surgical delivery is also generally safer for the premature baby.

A cesarean is a relatively short operation and it is a safe method of birth. Most of the time the mother can be awake throughout if she chooses to be. But sometimes a C-section, as it is commonly called, is last minute decision and the mother has only a few minutes' warning. The woman who has had an unexpected cesarean birth usually has some strong negative feelings afterwards. She must be given permission to feel and express them.

Women who have had other C-sections in the past still harbor many of the same Feelings of inadequacy or failure, withdrawal, anger, denial, self-blame, guilt and depression occur in varying degrees in many new mothers. Cesarean mothers are even more vulnerable to these feelings, studies show. They may also feel jealousy or resentment toward other mothers who talk ecstatically about their natural births, and who seem to ease into the early care of their infants without any difficulty.

Sometimes for years afterwards women wonder if the cesarean was necessary. They question what actually took place when their babies were born. Often these feelings develop slowly over the months after birth and reach their peak just before or during the next pregnancy. That is why it is so important for parents to develop an attitude of openness and trust with their doctors and also with the hospital staff right after a cesarean, stresses TMA.

Directness about emotional and physical discomfort is the key. Much can be done for gas pain, for example. The natural acid in a cup of tea can relieve gas, as can a long walk down the hospital corridor. A portable lawnchair-type rocker can be brought into the mother's room to make breast feeding more pleasant. Physical distress can often bring on emotional distress. Simple aids such as these are usually available just for the asking.

In most cases crash diets lead only to bad nutrition and even vitamin deficiencies. Merely taking vitamin pills won't stop you from developing dangerous vitamin and mineral deficiencies while on a crash diet. Some vitamins must be eaten naturally, in food to be effective, and

Big dish

The "big dish" antennas of NASA's Deep Space Network are so sensitive they can pick up a spacecraft's radio signal as weak as one-quintillionth of a watt of power. If this energy were collected for 19 million years, it would light up a 7.5 watt Christmas-tree bulb for only one-thousandth of a second.

Drunkenness Typical On Moscow Streets

MOSCOW (AP) — Fleets of vans marked "Special Medical Aid" patrol the streets of Moscow to pick up drunks and take them to drying-out stations.

On a typical Monday morning, 30 to 40 percent of the country's work force will be too drunk or hung over to put in a good day's work, Soviet studies have shown.

Two drunken railway engineers fell asleep at the throttle and wrecked a freight train last summer. They were sent to jail for negligently damaging state property.

It's an old Russian tradition to finish off a bottle of vodka the first time it's opened, but alcohol abuse today in the Soviet Union has reached alarming proportions and authorities say they intend to do something about it.

After decades of largely tolerating drunkenness, and even tacitly encouraging it with subsidized low prices for vodka, fortified wines and other alcoholic beverages, the Soviet government said this week restrictions will be imposed.

"Alcoholism is one of our most serious problems for the birth rate, the death rate and the economy of the nation in general," Alexander I. Smirnov of the state planning commission, Gosplan, said at a press conference.

While Smirnov said the government did not intend to reinstate prohibition, "There will be more serious restrictions on the use of alcohol."

Soviet studies show that three-fourths of all violent crimes, two-thirds of serious industrial, traffic and household accidents and nearly half the divorces are attributed to alcohol abuse.

A stepped-up publicity campaign and price hikes for liquor are steps being considered by Soviet authorities, Smirnov said.

Government warnings about alcohol abuse are circulated in schools and factories. The state-run press gives wide publicity to crimes committed by drunks.

The government enforced prohibition for several years following the 1917 Communist Revolution. But the severe restrictions on drinking were relaxed during the 1930s, and alcohol consumption climbed in the harsh years of World War II.

Heavy drinking nowadays reflects a number of problems in Soviet society, including boredom and consumer frustration despite relative prosperity, Soviet experts say.

"Soviet State and Law," a government monthly, recently published a candid roundtable discussion in which the lack of consumer goods and poor housing was blamed for contributing to alcohol abuse.

Professor M. I. Piskotin, the magazine's editor, reported that the highest rate of alcohol consumption is in newly settled regions with harsh weather and inadequate housing, such as Siberia.

A.P. Syrov, a lawyer, said the government's anti-alcohol campaign was no match for its "well-organized and mass production and sale of alcoholic beverages."

MORE

To encourage moderate drinking, another expert on the panel recommended that more "high quality beer" be made available in restaurants and bars.

Vodka is usually singled out as the major cause of problem-drinking in the Soviet Union. But some experts believe that cheap red wine favored by young people and women is as big a menace.

Some analysts trace the rise in problem drinking to the Kremlin's 1955 decision to curtail production of spirits distilled from grain and expand production of fortified wines made from sugar beets.

This potent wine, which costs only $1.60 a liter, is nicknamed "barmatukha," Russian slang for "mumble," because of the effect it has on drinkers.

Vodka costs about $6 per half-liter, relatively expensive for workers whose average wages are $240 a month.

"The price of alcohol should be properly in relation to income in the country," Smirnov said, hinting that wine prices may be boosted in the near future.

The Soviets have never released country-wide statistics on alcoholism, but periodic reports in the state-run press make it clear that excessive drinking is a drain on the economy.

When casualties of the bottle are found staggering on the streets or sleeping in public places, they are picked up by the special vans and delivered for sobering-up under medical supervision.

Afterwards, an official letter is sent to the person's place of work. His employer can deliver a verbal reprimand, assess a fine for missing work or even dismiss the delinquent for repeated alcohol abuse.

Provisional figures from the 1980 Census place blacks as still by far the largest minority group in the U.S. population — 11.7 percent of all Americans, up from 11.1 percent in 1970. Other minorities also registered increases. Asians and Pacific Islanders rose from 0.8 percent in 1970 to 1.5 percent. Indians and related native Americans were up from 0.4 percent. The white majority included most who listed themselves as Hispanics, the most rapidly increasing single group in the population, but showed an overall drop of 4.3 percent since 1970.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

AUSTIN — We have supported new legislation to stop the illegal drug trade consistently throughout this session. We have supported all of the Governor's War on Drugs bills. That's what we did when we passed the wiretap bill.

Many people opposed the bill. They said it was an infringement on our right to privacy. It is. They said it would open up wide possibilities for abuse. It will. But sometimes you have to balance one right against another and try to decide what is more important.

We believe stopping the drug trade that is destroying our young people is one of the most important things we can do for this session.

What good will a free society do us if it is run by gangsters? A free society requires awake, alert, intelligent citizens. Drug addicts cannot run an open society like ours.

Our resources are very important to us in our part of the state. We look with pride towards our oil, gas and agriculture. We worry about our water. We protect our land and air. But we have neglected our most precious resource — the young men and women who will live in the Panhandle for the rest of this century and into the next.

That's why we passed the wiretap bill. We want to protect our most precious resource from the drug-dealing leeches who would destroy them.

We ran a questionnaire in several of the newspapers in our district, and your responses told us you support tapping the phones of suspected drug dealers. But because there is an inherent possibility for abuse in wiretapping, we have built some very stringent safeguards into this new law:

—Only Department of Public Safety officers designated by the DPS director could install, operate, or monitor wiretaps.

—Only nine judges in the state, to be chosen by the presiding judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals, could order a wiretap.

—Wiretaps only can last for 30 days, although the judge may allow 30-day extensions. The judge also may require progress reports.

—Illegal wiretapping, or even illegal possession of wiretap equipment, is a felony.

Space prevents our telling of all the safeguards built into this bill. We are not after the privacy of honest citizens—we're after kingpin drug dealers.

We want to know what you think about our efforts to stop the flow of illegal drugs through our state. Please write to Senator Bill Sarpalius, P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

Advisory Committee On Energy Efficiency Goes On Record

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — An advisory committee wants Texas' top elected officials to consider statewide standards for all new buildings — including homes — and tax breaks to persuade Texans to save energy.

The Advisory Committee on Energy Efficiency also went on record Wednesday as favoring possible legislation — rather than regulatory agency action — to help the poor with rising utility costs.

The committee possibly was thinking of proposed federal budget cuts in recommending state funds for such programs as those that provide money for low-income people to insulate their homes.

Committee members overrode a builder's protest that they were favoring a "Big Brother state" in recommending statewide energy standards for new buildings.

"I don't want you to think the Texas Association of Builders is against saving energy," said C.L. Reeves, Austin. "What we're basically afraid of is being regulated to death."

Reeves said he objected to a "Big Brother state that says 'thou shalt!'" He said he opposed a single building code "for an outhouse in Podunk City and a 15-story office building in Houston, Texas. It gets to be a quagmire and an anthill. Every locale should be allowed to adopt its own ordinance."

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, committee chairman, said, "I fear that if the committee takes a hands-off approach" cities would seek new industry by advertising they had no building ordinances. "That's something we would want to avoid," he said.

Reeves cast the lone vote against a recommendation that the Legislature endorse statewide minimum energy standards for buildings. Cities would be required to enforce the standards by local ordinance. Armstrong said the building recommendation and others will be submitted to the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council — TENRAC — on June 24.

A subcommittee chaired by Alan Erwin, former public utility commissioner, recommended encouraging utility companies to submit an analysis of conservation programs along with proposals for rate increases.

The subcommittee also recommended that if the Legislature feels utility rates are too high for "some ratepayers," it should consider setting up social welfare programs to resolve the issue and not depend on rate structures, such as life line rates.

"Utility rate structures should not be used to subsidize the energy costs of low- and fixed-income ratepayers," the subcommittee said.

Erwin suggested energy stamps might be a topic for the Legislature. Susan Dirks, Austin, submitted a minority report to encourage the Public Utility Commission to develop "conservation programs aimed specifically toward the low income residential user." She and Reeves clashed over her recommendations, including a proposal that utility regulatory agencies consider requiring electric utility companies to investigate spending money on conservation as a possible alternative to building new plants.

"I don't think one person's opinion should represent a mass unless it really does," objected Reeves.

"It is the opinion of many consumers in the state," responded Ms. Dirks, the consumer representative on the committee.

Her motion to submit the minority report to TENRAC was approved by the committee, with only four of the 14 committee members present voting "no."

The committee also recommended that the Legislature give all political subdivisions taxing power to operate transit authorities, regardless of population.

Other advisory committee recommendations included: — Sales tax exemptions on materials used to improve energy efficiency. — Temporary property tax exemptions as an incentive to make energy-efficient building improvements. — State funds for cities to start energy planning and management programs. — Additional state funds to tell drivers how to save gas in operating their vehicles.

— A law clarifying that an employer is not liable for any injury to an employee carpooling at the employer's request.

— Authorizing local governments to require ordinances that would promote the use of solar energy. Armstrong said Port Arthur already does this.

— State funds for low-income persons to make their homes more energy-efficient.

— A law that would allow any political subdivision or recognized transit authority to participate in the Public Transportation Fund.

The committee said TENRAC should submit to the Legislature a report every two years on energy conservation.

Armstrong will present the committee's recommendations to TENRAC, which includes the governor, lieutenant governor and House speaker, as well as the land commissioner and representatives of other major state agencies.

Postal Rates Could Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of mailing a letter probably will stay at 18 cents for the rest of 1981, but the rate could increase as much as a nickel next year.

For the second time, the Postal Service refused Thursday to let the Postal Service implement a 20-cent charge for mailing a first-class letter. The commission, which regulates mail charges, said the rates are sufficient for the Postal Service to break even.

The Postal Service had no comment on the decision, but Postmaster General William F. Bolger has said that take effect next year.

The Postal Service request without the 20-cent rate now, charges probably will have to be increased again next year. Although he did not specify what the higher rate would be, it could reach as high as 21, 22 or 23 cents.

The Postal Service had asked the commission to reconsider its Feb. 19 decision allowing the rate to rise this year from 15 to 18 cents. The service said that wasn't enough to keep up with higher expenses.

The commission reaffirmed its earlier stand by a 4-1 vote. The result likely will be a new Postal Service request for a rate increase that could for reconsideration cited President Reagan's proposed cuts in the postal subsidies and said the current rates will bring the Postal Service about $1 billion a year less than it needs.

HE EVEN ATE WITH THE PIGS!
To illustrate His point, Jesus told this story: "A man had two sons. When the younger told his father, 'I want my share of your estate now, instead of waiting until you die,' his father agreed to divide his wealth between his sons."

"A few days later this younger son packed all his belongings and took a trip to a distant land, and there wasted all his money on parties and prostitutes."

"About the time his money was gone a great famine swept over the land, and he began to starve. He persuaded a local farmer to hire him to feed his pigs. The boy became so hungry that even the pods he was feeding the swine looked good to him. And no one gave him anything."

"When he finally came to his senses, he said to himself, 'At home even the hired men have food enough and to spare, and here I am, dying of hunger! I will go home to my father and say, 'Father, I have sinned against both heaven and you, and am no longer worthy of being called your son. Please take me on as a hired man.'"

"So he returned home to his father. And while he was still a long distance away, his father saw him coming, and was filled with loving pity and ran and embraced him and kissed him."

"His son said to him, 'Father, I have sinned against heaven and you, and am not worthy of being called your son—'"

"But his father said to the slaves, 'Quick! Bring the finest robe in the house and put it on him. And a jeweled ring for his finger, and shoes! And kill the calf we have in the fattening pen. We must celebrate with a feast, for this son of mine was dead and has returned to life. He was lost and is found.' So the party began."

Hughes-Foxhall Duo Wins Title

Penny Hughes of Farwell and Tina Foxhall of Memphis won the Hereford Women's Golf Partnership Tournament here Thursday, but it took a seven-hole playoff to determine the champs.

Lynn Kimbrough and Pat Deake of Amarillo tied the pair on the regulation 18 holes as each team carded a 72 in the scramble tourney. The Hughes-Foxhall team finally won the title on the seventh extra hole.

Alice and Robin Vinton of Farwell finished third with a 74; Betty Wardell - Gloria Cushmanberry of Dinwiddie took fourth at 75; Helen Ann McWhorter and Karen Marsh of Hereford had a 76, and Sharon and Lisa Hughes of Farwell carded a 79.

A Panhandle team of Norma O'Neill and Martha

Bailey shot a 79 to capture the first flight, while Thelma March and Narcia Messenger took second with an 81. Others in the flight: V.A. Allen - Charlotte Baker 81, Jackie Hassinger - Helen Mabery 82, Evelyn Richards - Shirley Galbraith 83, Doris Zinser - Susie Mannschreck 84, Juanita Sims - Mary Harman 87.

Louise Pthal and Lillian Keith of Amarillo won the Third flight with a 77. Runners-up were Nancy Rundell and Robin Gregory of Farwell at 81. Others: Bobbie Kitchens - Sherry Sargent 88, Mary Grimes - Juen Weatherbee 90, Eloise Massa - Grace Brokens 94.

Theresa Albracht and Pat Gorth of Hereford won the Fourth flight with an 85 score.

Yanks Ousted From French Open Tennis

PARIS (AP) — Czechoslovakian tennis stars Ivan Lendl and Hana Mandlikova have sent the Yankees home empty-handed in one of the most extraordinary days in the history of the French Open tennis championships.

The lanky Lendl, a 21-year-old who is ranked fifth in the world, completed his upset over No. 3 seed John McEnroe Thursday in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, 7-5 to gain a berth in the semifinals of the $611,000 clay court tournament.

Hours later, Mandlikova made tennis history by becoming the first Czech woman to reach the finals of the prestigious tournament when she shocked Chris Evert Lloyd 7-5, 6-4. Lloyd had been heavily favored to win her fifth women's singles title here but Mandlikova, 19, ended Lloyd's incredible 64-match winning streak on clay.

"I think this is the greatest win in my life," Mandlikova said. "I've never beaten Chris on clay. She's the best player we've ever had on clay."

A third American hope also was drummed off the slow courts of Roland Garros Stadium. Andrea Jaeger, the No. 3 seed, lost on her 16th birthday to Sylvia Hanika of West Germany, who moved into the finals with a 4-6, 6-1, 6-4 triumph.

The defeat of McEnroe, the two-time U.S. Open champion, ended any remaining hopes for the first American men's victory at this tournament since Tony Trabert took the title 26 years ago.

Sub Sparks Padres by Astros

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

Wally Pipp, that sports world symbol of anyone who takes a day off and then watches his substitute tear up the league, is haunting the San Diego Padres clubhouse this season.

When Randy Bass started poorly this season as the San Diego first baseman, Manager Frank Howard replaced him with Broderick Perkins, who promptly became one of the hottest hitters in the National League.

Bass didn't start again for 32 games, and other players pasted Pipp's name over Bass' on his locker and Lou Gehrig over Perkins' name. It was Pipp whom Gehrig replaced — and then played 14 years without missing a game.

Unlike Pipp, Bass — last year's American Association Most Valuable Player when he hit 37 homers and drove in 143 runs — got another chance to win his job back, and he took advantage of the opportunity Thursday.

He returned to the lineup to drive in four runs with a single, double and home run as the Padres beat the Houston Astros 7-5.

After the game, Pipp's name was over Perkins' locker and Bass saw Gehrig's name written over his own.

In the only other National League game, St. Louis beat Montreal 4-1 and Pittsburgh edged Chicago 5-4 in 10 innings.

Perkins is still batting .321 despite slumping lately.

Bass, who started the game batting .200, led a 13-hit attack against four Houston pitchers, including starter Joe Niekro, 6-4, who had won five games in a row.

Right-hander Steve Mura, 3-7, was the winner despite giving up 11 hits and four runs in 62-3 innings, including homers by Jose Cruz, who was 4-for-5, and Cesar Cedeño. Gary Lucas pitched the last inning for his eighth save.

Cardinals 4, Expos 1

Dane Iorg had three hits, knocked in a run and scored two for St. Louis against Montreal, while Lary Sorensen pitched a seven-hitter.

Iorg started a two-run rally against Montreal right-hander Bill Gullickson, 2-6, with a double in the second. After Sixto Lezcano walked, Mike Ramsey and Orlando Sanchez singled in runs.

Iorg also singled home a run in the third inning and singled and scored in the sixth.

Pirates 5, Cubs 4

Lee Lacy tripled and scored on Dale Berra's single off reliever Lynn McGlothen to snap a 10th-inning tie and lift Pittsburgh over Chicago. The loss dropped the Cubs' record to 10-36, worst in the big leagues, and they remained winless in 17 games on artificial turf this season.

Pirate reliever Kent Tekulve, 2-3, pitched the last two innings for the victory, while Dave Parker drove in three Pittsburgh runs with a homer and a single and Tim Foli also rapped four hits.

Aoki Leads Atlanta Golf

ATLANTA (AP) — Isao Aoki plans to return to Japan following the U.S. Open in two weeks, but he insists he's not gearing his game just for that prestigious event.

"I like to play each tournament the best I can," said the Japanese star who claimed the first round lead Thursday in the $300,000 Atlanta Classic with a 5-under-par 67.

"I missed the cut last week, so I have to play much harder this week," he said through an interpreter, calling it the best round he has played this season in the United States.

"If the weather stays this way, hot, but not too hot, I think I can do well in the tournament," he said.

Aoki prevented what would have been an 11-way tie for the lead when he sank a 5-foot, par-saving putt on his final hole to take a one shot advantage over 10 other golfers, including two of the game's top stars, Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson.

Nicklaus, finishing earlier in the day on the hilly, 6,945-yard Atlanta Country Club course, missed his chance to share the lead when he bogeyed his final hole, running a 16-footer five feet past the pin and missing that coming back.

Aoki, starting on the backside, birdied his first four holes, sinking putts from the 12 to 16 foot range on the first three before placing a pitching wedge seven feet from the hole on the par 3 13th for his fourth.

He sailed over the green at the par-4 No. 5, but birdied that one anyway when he pitched in from 35 feet away. His other birdie came at No. 7 from 10 feet and he finished off the round by saving par on the ninth green.

Nicklaus, who said he played well and putted well except for a three-putt at

No. 9, his final hole. He almost holed a 3-wood on the par-5 18th, where he knocked in a 5-footer for an eagle.

Watson, who was 4 under-at the turn but played the last nine holes in par, said he was surprised that the scoreboard had 24 players grouped so closely.

Others tied at 68 with Nicklaus and Watson were Lanny Wadkins, who played one string of four holes 5 under par with three birdies and an eagle; Gary McCord; Tommy Valentine; Calvin Peete; Stan Altgelt; Jack Ferenz; Bob Eastwood; and Roger Maltbie, who birdied his last four holes.

Three-Way Tie In Fem Tourney

MALVERN, Pa. (AP) — JoAnne Carner said she got some tips recently on her putting game from Carol Mann, one of two player-directors in the LPGA and in her 21st year on the women's tour.

"It involved standing more upright, a quicker release and breaking the right wrist," the 42-year-old Carner explained after taking advantage of the advice Thursday in the first round of the $150,000 McDonald's LPGA tournament at the White Manor Country Club.

When the field of 111 completed the first day of the 72-hole competition over the par 36-72 course, there was Carner in a three-way tie for the lead at 4-under-par 68.

Carner was deadlocked with Kathy Martin and unheralded Robin Walton.

The trio was one stroke ahead of the field.

A stroke further back at 69 were Amy Alcott, a two-time winner this year and third on the money-winning list; Sandra Post, Pat Bradley, fifth on the money list; Alice Miller, Dianne Dailey, and M.J. Smith.

Another stroke off the pace at 70 was Beth Daniel, eighth on the money list, who shot a 2-under-par 70, despite three double-bogeys. She had a chance to tie for the lead at 18 but took one of those double-bogeys there.

Martin, 26, who hasn't won on the tour in 10 years, shot 35-33, and Walton, with less than two years as a pro, finished with 33-35.

Carner with four birdies and nary a bogey posted 33-35.

Hole-in-One Prize Is Tourney Feature

The annual Hereford Partnership Golf Tournament gets underway here tomorrow with approximately 100 teams competing.

The team of James Salinas and Butch Turner won the title last year but, although both will be back, there will be a new championship team this season. The duo signed up with different partners this time around.

The tourney will be a low-ball partnership. Entry fee is $80 per team and action begins with a shotgun start at 9 a.m. Saturday. Tee-off times have been set for 9 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

As an added attraction, a "Hole-in-One Contest" is being provided, according to golf pro Mike Horton. If a player gets an ace on the par 3, No. 14 hole, he will win a 1981 Pontiac.

Mays in NCAA Semifinals Today

Former Hereford track standout James Mays came a step closer to becoming Texas Tech University's only three-time All-American Thursday, and he didn't even have to break into a sweat to do it.

Mays, in Baton Rouge, La. for the NCAA Track & Field Championships, advanced to the semifinal round of the 800 meter dash after meet officials did away with the qualifying round in the event.

The decision was made after only 19 runners met the qualifying standard in the race.

Three semifinal heats will be held today, with the winner of each heat, along with the two next fastest overall times, advancing to the Saturday finals.

"I like this arrangement better," Mays said. "This means the times in the finals will be much faster, because we will have an extra day of rest."

Mays, a Red Raider senior, has bettered the NCAA qualifying time in the 800 seven out of his last eight races. He warmed up for the collegiate finals with a fourth-place finish at the Jumbo Elliot Invitational Track Meet at Villanova University last weekend.

The former schoolboy state 880 champion has won eight of the 13 outdoor 800 meter races he has run this season. Still, his career best time was a 1:46.41 in the Southwest Conference Championships May 16, when he managed to finish only third.

P. Colony Draws Outside Belmont Post

NEW YORK (AP) — Pleasant Colony will be the last horse loaded into the starting gate for Saturday's Belmont Stakes, but trainer Johnny Campo is certain his colt will be the first to finish the 1 1/2-mile grind.

Pleasant Colony, who also won the Wood Memorial at Aqueduct April 18, will be bidding to become only the 12th Triple Crown winner in thoroughbred history. The early 4-5 favorite will go from the outside No. 11 post with Jorge Velasquez in the saddle.

Texas Tops Miami, 5-4

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The anticipated battle of outstanding pitchers failed to materialize when No. 2 Miami, Fla., faced No. 4 Texas.

Longhorn star Tony Arnold, 17-1, pulled a groin muscle in his pregame warmups and never threw a pitch to Miami. Texas is still alive in the tournament but the injury could have sidelined Arnold for the rest of the tournament, according to Texas Coach Cliff Gustafson.

Hurricane star Neal Heaton was stung by two Texas homers in suffering his first loss of the year, 5-4, in a Thursday elimination game. Heaton had been 16-0 coming into the game. Arnold had been 17-0 prior to meeting Arizona State in a first-round WS game.

In the earlier Thursday game, South Carolina caught Mississippi State on a late-inning squeeze play and held off the Bulldogs 6-5 to advance to Saturday's games.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Vitamins no cure for allergy

DEAR DR. LAMB - I've been wondering if my body doesn't make use of all the vitamins in the balanced diet I try to eat. Will I receive benefit from the vitamins or food supplements which I take? I've been hoping that the multiple vitamins and minerals would help me overcome my allergies.

DEAR READER - Vitamins will NOT cure allergies. If you have allergies you may benefit from a desensitization program that renders your body less sensitive to the agents you are allergic to - or you may use medicines such as antihistamines that help to prevent the severity of the allergic reaction.

In general, vitamins are essential to body processes but taking more than your body needs for the essential role of vitamins has not proved to be beneficial. In other words, vitamin C is useful in curing or preventing scurvy from vitamin C deficiency. Vitamin D is needed to prevent rickets. And you need vitamins as essential factors in promoting growth and to form chemical catalysts that help you metabolize and use your food - but they won't cure allergies.

DEAR DR. LAMB - We have heard that DMSO can be rubbed on joints or taken internally for arthritis. Is this true? Is it harmful? Where can we get it?

DEAR READER - I have received many inquiries about DMSO (dimethyl sulfoxide) since it was featured on the popular TV program "60 Minutes." In my opinion if "60 Minutes" had been more concerned about the health and well-being of the public rather than their TV ratings, they may have presented a more responsible program.

Many people have forgotten about thalidomide, a sedative that caused many mothers to give birth to deformed babies. Then there is the question of DES and cancer of the vagina of girls born to mothers who used it.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) must be sure that when a medication is used it is safe as well as effective. The studies of DMSO for general use are not complete. So I offer my readers three important don'ts regarding DMSO. Don't use it until it has been proved not to damage the eyes, liver or other functions of the body. Don't use it until it has been proved more effective than other medications available that have been cleared. Don't use it until a safe supply that you know is pure and free of contaminants that may harm your body is available through regular pharmaceutical channels.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Please give me some information about heart blocks. My husband is 38 years old and jogs seven or eight miles a day. He was recently told he has a mild heart block contributing to fainting.

DEAR READER - There are right and left bundle branch blocks that are blocks in the conduction system to the right and left side of the heart. A block between the upper and lower chambers of the heart is called an AV block and is the type that may be associated with fainting. That occurs because the heart beats too slowly to provide adequate blood flow to the brain.

Anyone who has fainting episodes from heart block should be evaluated by a heart specialist. Regardless of age, that may be an indication for a heart pacemaker.

Now, there are many causes for fainting, and your husband may just have a slow heart rate because he is a distance runner, so don't come to premature conclusions. But it is worth an evaluation by a specialist.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I need some answers about fluid in the body. Is there anything you can eat or drink that helps get rid of it? I do not drink any colas or alcoholic beverages. I eat breakfast around 8 a.m., lunch at 12 and supper at 5 p.m. Are my meals too close together? I've been to several doctors and they don't know what causes it. I am taking Hydrodiuril twice a day and that's all. My legs and body swell during the daytime and go down at night.

DEAR READER - Swelling means retention of water. Fluid, which is mostly water, passes out of your circulation to bathe your cells. That is how they get nutrients and oxygen. Then the fluid is literally sucked back into your circulation by proteins inside your blood vessels.

When the pressure inside the vessels is too high, an excess of fluid seeps out into the tissues and it is difficult for it to be sucked back in. The pressure is affected by gravity the same way a water tower causes pressure. So

FAITH TEACHES US THE LAWS OF RETRIBUTION

One of the most commonly held fallacies is the notion that we can "get away with something". This false premise is strengthened by the sight of those around us who have apparently succeeded in doing so; while at the same time it would appear that others are being punished out of all proportion to any wrong they may have done. However, you are destined to learn that in the long run you will receive whatever reward or punishment you deserve, according to the way you have conducted your life. And that choice is yours, as is the Church you should go to in order to learn how this divine merit system works.

"Whatever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."
— Galatians 6:7

We ought to do our neighbor all the good we can. If you do good, good will be done back to you; but if you do evil, the same will be measured back to you again.

— Pilpay (Circa 326 B.C.)
