

New Liability Law: Help or Hinder?

By O.G. NIEMAN
Publisher

There are mixed reviews on the new compulsory liability insurance law. The law went into effect Jan. 1 and requires all drivers to carry minimum liability coverage for medical expenses of $10,000 per person ($20,000 for two or more) and property damage of $5,000.

A local insurance agent has his doubts about the plan. Local insurance offices were swamped on Dec. 31 as hordes of people purchased liability insurance—many for the first time. Drivers will be required to furnish proof of compliance with the new law. State highway patrolmen will ask for documents on traffic stops and at accident investigations. Most insurance companies are issuing cards or letters for motorists to carry in their cars.

A local agent said many policy buyers were signing up for monthly premium payments, which makes him wonder how long they will continue to pay on the policies.

Some motorists think such a law is long overdue. Why should they have to carry insurance to protect them against an uninsured driver? A local agent replied that it's not fair, but then why do we have locks on our doors?

And, the new law could raise liability premiums for all motorists. The insurance industry predicts premiums will increase because poor drivers who once were uninsured will now be put into the insurance system.

The companies throughout the state recommend drivers do not carry their original policy, nor a photostatic copy of the policy declaration page. They would rather motorists carry an official card or letter with them.

Drivers who do not maintain the specified coverage risk a minimum fine of $75 for the first offense or $200 for subsequent violations.

In addition, conviction under this new law will result in the suspension of the violator's driver license and motor vehicle registration unless the violator establishes and maintains proof of financial responsibility for five years from the conviction date.

Convicted violators must have their insurer file a form (SR-22) and it will be kept on the Department of Public Safety computer file for five years. If the violator cancels or allows the coverage to lapse, it will be picked up on the computer and his driver's license will be suspended.

Since most insurance companies will not insure those requiring an SR-22 form, coverage may be obtained

Search for Dozier's Body Fails; Calls Said Hoax

ROME (AP) — Italian police suspect telephone calls reporting the killing of Brig. Gen. James L. Dozier were a hoax to impede the hunt for the kidnapped American.

Anonymous callers to several Italian newspapers claimed Wednesday that the Red Brigades had slain Dozier and dumped his body in an abandoned farmhouse 30 miles from Pescara.

Hundreds of policemen used searchlights to scour the mountainous area in central Italy but four no trace of Dozier. Although they suspected the calls were an attempt to distract investigators, the search of the area continued today.

U.S. Defense Department officials in Washington said they checked all commands involved and had received no information to substantiate the report.

Other telephone calls to reporters in Rome and Padua directed them to a Red Brigades commune left in wastebaskets. The communique made no mention of the 50-year-old general's fate and posed no conditions for his release.

The police said they believed the communique is authentic.

The police released five composite drawings of the Red Brigades gunmen who posed as plumbers and kidnapped Dozier from his apartment in Verona. The drawings were based on descriptions by neighbors and Dozier's wife, Judith.

Meanwhile, in Rome, a gunman disguised as a postal worker shot a senior anti-terrorist police officer in the face Wednesday and fled with four accomplices.

Separate callers claimed responsibility for the attack on Nicola Simone for four different groups, but police said a call from a man claiming it was the work of the Red Brigades was the most plausible.

That caller also told the newspaper Il Giornale D'Italia where to find the communique on Dozier.

Simone, 41, was reported in satisfactory condition.

Fundraiser Has Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — The embossed "invitation" to the $1,000 fund-raiser says Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. will speak on foreign policy.

But the State Department says he will not.

The invitation — sent out by five conservative fund-raising groups — also says Treasury Secretary Donald Regan will speak on the economy, although an asterisk serves notice that he is merely "invited, but not confirmed."

Treasury Department says Regan has no plans to attend.

Nor does outgoing White House political director Lyn Nofziger.

The "Big Three" at the White House — chief of staff James A. Baker III, deputy chief of staff Michael Deaver and counselor Edwin Meese III — also are "invited but not confirmed."

Despite problems with the schedule, sponsors say everything is moving ahead smoothly for the "1982 Conservative Leadership Conference and First Reagan Inaugural Anniversary Ball" on Jan. 22 in Washington. If so, that could mean $700,000 or more for the warhests of the five organizing groups.

Steve Cran, a spokesman for one of them, Americans For Change, says, "It's going to be a big success. ... It will be worth doing."

The other sponsoring groups are the National Conservative Political Action Committee, Committee for the Survival of a Free Congress, Fund For a Conservative Majority and National Congressional Club.

WASHINGTON (AP) — With most of the budget decisions for 1983 behind him, President Reagan now must choose between two unpleasant alternatives — raising taxes or asking Congress to swallow a $100 billion deficit next year.

Treasury Secretary Donald Regan said Wednesday that he thinks it will be tax increases — perhaps an increased excise tax on some consumer goods.

Other sources said one plan under review calls for turning at least part of the money over to states and local governments, who also would inherit responsibility for continuing programs now financed by the federal government.

Congressional sources said such a plan presumably could help mobilize the support of government and mayors behind a tax increase, aiding its chance for approval in Congress.

Moreover, Reagan long has espoused the philosophy of turning over to local governments programs now operated and controlled in Washington.

The president has expressed opposition repeatedly to raising taxes, but his treasury secretary said Wednesday, "I think there will be some new tax increases in '83 and '84."

Without them, according to administration estimates, the federal deficit for those years could be well over $100 billion a year.

Underscoring his prediction of tax increases, Regan said: "We're not going to have deficits in the $100-billion area in '83 or '84. They'll be much lower than that."

Other officials say the administration is attempting to produce a budget with a deficit of $70 billion or less in 1983 and under $50 billion in 1984.

The decisions on taxes are among the last that confront the president as he nears completion of the spending and tax recommendations he will send to Congress Feb. 5.

The major points decided so far, according to administration officials, include:

Sherman represented the 26-county Panhandle district in the Senate from 1971 to 1977. He resigned from the Senate to become president of West Texas State University. He will resign that position effective Jan. 16.

During his news conference, Sherman refused to comment on some of the controversial lawsuits the state faces, including a prison reform case and a case involving education of illegal alien children.

"I don't think it's appropriate to second guess unless you're familiar with all the factors involved," he said, adding any comment he made might "jeopardize or adversely affect that litigation."

However, Sherman said he would comment on the lawsuits later in the campaign, when he was more familiar with them.

The former Amarillo legislator said recruiting good assistants is among the most vital tasks facing an attorney general.

"Many times you don't have people for a long time," he said, and promised to "run the best law office possible."

Sherman Announces As Attorney General Candidate

AUSTIN — Former State Senator Max Sherman has announced that he will seek the office of Texas Attorney General subject to the May Democratic primary.

Sherman on Wednesday entered the race to replace Attorney General Mark White, who is running for governor. Sherman told Capitol reporters he will enter the Democratic primary. Former U.S. Attorney John Hannah of Tyler is the only other announced Democratic candidate, but state Sen. Jack Ogg of Houston is expected to enter the race.

Sen. Bill Meier of Euleus is the only GOP candidate.

Ski Mask Rapist Blames Money, Risks for Actions

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — The man known as the Ski Mask Rapist had an already impossible mandatory sentence increased to 20 lifetimes plus 2,328 years' imprisonment Wednesday. Afterwards, he said again that he was sorry.

The latest sentencing of Jon Barry Simonis was done for security purposes in the chapel of the Calcasieu Parish Jail and, he said afterwards, "money ... the challenge of risk and danger" launched him on a 3-year career of burglaries, robberies and rapes in a dozen states.

Simonis, 30, had just pleaded guilty to three armed robberies and one forcible rape in his hometown. District Judge L.E. Hawsey Jr. piled 337 years atop the 20 lifetimes plus 2,191 years' imprisonment given Simonis in earlier court appearances in four other Louisiana cities.

After his arrest here Nov. 28, Louisiana State Police said Simonis admitted 81 crimes in 12 states. For the most part, troopers said, they involved house burglaries and break-ins in which the masked intruder fled with valuables after forcing men to watch him sexually assault one or more women.

The earlier sentences were imposed at Jena, Donaldsonville, Baton Rouge and near-by DeRidder, La. Simonis also has been indicted at Woodville, Texas, but he must first be returned to Baton Rouge to answer charges that he raped a woman and her 14-year-old babysitter last Sept. 6.

"Money was the motive when it (the robberies) started out," he said in a cellblock interview with the Lake Charles American-Press. "I made a lot of money in a short time, there's no doubt about that."

"Sexual aspects kind of fell into the pattern as it went along. As it went down the line, there were more things added that just weren't necessary as far as the things I was doing.

"It might also have a little bit to do with the challenge of risk and danger involved — a cat and mouse game, so to speak."

Maybe psychiatric aid will help him find the motives, Simonis said.

"I don't need it (psychiatric aid) in the sense that I don't know right from wrong. I know right from wrong. That's obvious. I don't know what causes me to do certain things. Hopefully, we will find out. I don't know. Maybe we won't. I'm not sure."

Simonis said the remorse came after his capture.

"As I was doing it, I tried to push it (guilt) back to my subconscious. I never wanted to bring it out and deal with it too much. I knew it was there, but unless I thought about it, I had a way of blocking things out. I would bring them up if I needed to for some reason."

He was asked if he felt schizophrenic, as if some evil spirit took command of his actions.

"I'm a very competent per-

Damaged Drawbridge Back in Operation

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A drawbridge damaged when a barge struck it and exploded early Sunday has been reopened for railroad traffic.

"The first train was on the causeway about 3 p.m.," a bridge operator who would identify himself only as a Southern Pacific Railroad employee said Wednesday night. "We've had 10 trains through at this point."

Coast Guard Lt. j.g. R.S. Randall said officials hoped the Intracoastal Waterway would be reopened to marine traffic this afternoon.

The busy Gulf Intracoastal Waterway has been closed here since the accident and waterfreight traffic waiting to pass through Galveston Bay has backed up for miles.

The barge and its cargo of 400,000 gallons of the toxic and corrosive chemical acrylonitrile has been burning in the bay since the vessel smashed into the drawbridge and exploded about 3 a.m. Sunday. Officials were reluctant Wednesday to estimate when the fire would burn out.

"It is still burning slowly, but when it, would go out is hard to say," said Lt. j.g. Bill McHenry.

The Coast Guard is letting the fire burn in hopes that none of the toxic chemicals aboard will spill into the bay.

Officials said acrylonitrile can produce poisonous gases when it burns. Experts from the Monsanto Corp., which was shipping the chemical, said so far only traces of hazardous gases close to the barge have been detected.

McHenry said there was considerable pressure on the Coast Guard to open the waterway, which stretches from Brownsville, Texas, to Florida's west coast.

"Anyone who owns a barge and wants to get through to Corpus Christi has been calling us," he said. "We're do-

Regular Aspirin Doses May Reduce Strokes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Regular doses of aspirin may help people live longer by reducing the chance of heart attacks and strokes, a researcher says.

Studies show that aspirin slows blood clotting, according to Estelle Ramey, a professor of physiology and biophysics at Georgetown University. Because heart attacks and strokes often are caused by clots blocking veins or arteries, aspirin, which reduces the risk of clots can be beneficial, she said.

But proper doses have not yet been determined. Ms. Ramey suggests that men take one aspirin a day and women take a half aspirin every other day.

"It's an innocuous preparation for most people, provided they take it with plenty of fluid," she told reporters at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. "It can help but it can't hurt."

Ms. Ramey suggests a lower dose for women because they are less likely to develop life-threatening blood clots than men.

Bowie Commissioner Threatens Witness

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Three East Texas county commissioners were indicted as a result of an ongoing investigation into kickbacks, and one of the three was accused of threatening a witness scheduled to testify in another case against him.

Bowie County Commissioner J.C. Arnold, already charged in connection with the political corruption investigation, was named in a three-county federal indictment charging him with participating in a kickback scheme and threatening a vendor who was going to testify against him.

Grand jurors in U.S. District Judge William Steger's court returned the indictments Wednesday against Arnold, Gregg County Commissioner William Fuzzell Owens and Fannin County Commissioner Ted Pierce Lindsey.

The three commissioners are among 21 present and former county commissioners indicted as a result of the federal inquiry.

Owens, already facing trial on federal charges of accepting kickbacks, was named Wednesday in an indictment that alleges he accepted a $1,000 kickback in 1979 from a business machines company. The new indictment against Owens came five days before he was due to go to trial on the other charges.

Lindsey, who already had been indicted on Oct. 29, was named in 10 counts alleging he participated in kickback arrangements.

Solons Remember

Rayburn On Birthday

BONHAM, Texas (AP) — A string of lawmakers lined up for their turn to remember the late Sam Rayburn on his 100th birthday, praising the man who served more years than anyone else as speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives.

"He never forgot the people or his faith in America, its future and its youth," said House Majority Leader Jim Wright, who served under Rayburn.

About 1,100 people crowded into the National Guard armory Wednesday to hear the Bonham native praised and enjoy birthday cake and punch.

Former House Speaker Carl Albert said Rayburn "could be plain without being common."

Lady Bird Johnson, wife of former President Lyndon B. Johnson, said the 44-year veteran of the House "walked through the Capitol and district like a man driving a wagon — pulling up the reins to talk."

Texas Gov. Bill Clements called Rayburn a "man of great honesty, integrity, leadership and skill."

Also present were Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, former Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, Texas Attorney General Mark White, Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Texas, and Texas Sen. Peyton McKnight.

Rayburn, who served 18 years as House speaker, was elected to Congress in 1913 and served until his death in 1961.

Arson Fire Does Not Set Back Construction

HUTCHINS, Texas (AP) — A fire set by arsonists caused extensive structural damage to nearly completed Wilmer-Hutchins High School but officials said it probably would not significantly set back the construction timetable.

"The building contractor didn't know just how much (structural) damage there was, but it shouldn't slow them down too much," said Dallas County Fire Marshall Jim Badgett.

Badgett said the fire gutted two rooms, one containing 16 rolls of carpet, and smoke damaged the entire east wing.

"It looks as though they set two or three separate fires in one of the rooms," said Dallas County Fire Marshall Jim Badgett. "There's an awful lot of structural damage to about a third of the building."

"The fire ... broke bricks and inside walls and there was extensive smoke damage throughout 30 percent of the building," he said.

Badgett said the school was nearly finished and officials had planned to move students into the building by September.

He, who said most of the roof and several walls would have to be rebuilt, estimated damage at $400,000 to $500,000.

Badgett said a fire was set in the west end of the building two weeks ago but was quickly extinguished and damage was slight.

Recession Painful, Inflation Fatal

Recession is uncomfortable but there is something worse: Inflation can be fatal.

Inflation, uncontrolled, can bankrupt a nation and everybody in it.

You want to know why this administration is so anxious about inflation, look around us.

Our inflation rate last year was 11 percent — meaning every American dollar shrank in value by 11 cents.

But in Italy there currency shrank 21 percent. In Brazil their money shrank 11 percent. In Israel 137 percent.

In Argentina seven years ago 40,000 pesos would buy a new car; today it won't buy a necktie!

And you thought we had it bad.

Dita and Roy Dean saw a bumper sticker in Manila, Philippines, which says, 'YANKEE GO HOME — AND TAKE ME WITH YOU!'

Inflation is a serious sickness but it is not necessarily fatal.

There have been three times since World War II when inflation was brought under control. In Germany in 1948 under Adenauer, in France in 1958 under DeGaulle and in the United States in 1953.

The trouble we were in 30 years ago was much like today's. The numbers are larger now because everything is larger now, but the inflation rate was proportionate.

Over the preceding four years our dollar had shrunk a dime. Consider black market prices which were masked by price controls and our inflation rate then was much more ominous than that.

President Eisenhower, less than one month in office, courageously did two things: He lifted price and wage controls; those had not worked. And he drastically slashed the federal budget.

He "slashed" it; he did not "balance" it.

Where the previous Truman budget had called for spending $78.6 billion with a $9.9 billion deficit, Eisenhower's budget reduced expenditures to $67.5 billion with a deficit of $3 billion.

The turnaround was not immediate. It took 18 months. But by August of 1954 the price index stabilized, our dollar stopped shrinking and economic activity resumed its progress.

Noteworthy, in each of these instances — in Germany, France and the United States — artificial price controls had not worked.

But slashing government spending did!

Two Thefts Reported

Hereford police received reports of two thefts Wednesday and issued two traffic tickets.

A vehicle at Pizza Hut, 1304 W. First, was entered and a tape player, tapes and a class ring were taken. Total value of the loss was set at $300.

Several weapons and change were taken from a residence in the 300 block of Knight. Value was estimated between $500 and $600.

Defense Lawyers Say Fibers From Police

ATLANTA (AP) — Defense lawyers are suggesting that fiber evidence prosecutors say is a key link between defendant Wayne B. Williams and two slain young blacks could actually have come from the clothing of police.

As testimony got under way Wednesday in the highly publicized trial, defense lawyer Alvin Binder tried to show that the fibers could have come from several sources — including the clothing of law enforcement agents who handled the body of one of the victims.

And Binder got an associate Fulton County medical examiner to acknowledge that Jimmy Ray Payne, 21, whose death was listed as a homicide, could have accidentally drowned.

Williams, a 23-year-old black free-lance cameraman, is charged in the deaths of Payne and Nathaniel Cater, 27, who were among the 28 young Atlanta blacks whose slayings over a 22-month period ending last spring were investigated by a special police task force.

No arrests have been made in the other 26 deaths.

Cater, Payne and six of the other victims were found floating in area rivers. Public Safety Commissioner Lee Brown, who headed the task force, testified Wednesday that police stakeouts were set up at as many as 24 bridges from the beginning of April to May 22, when Williams was stopped near a bridge over the Chattahoochee River.

Officers on stakeout testified in pretrial hearings that Williams was spotted driving slowly over the bridge after an officer underneath heard a loud splash. Two days later, Cater's body was found downstream.

Binder told the jury the state will imply that Williams threw Cater's body off the bridge, but he said his 5-foot-7, 160-pound client could not have lifted the 148-pound Cater and thrown

The 1982 Nominating Committee of Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative met Tuesday, in the REC Headquarters Building in Hereford and selected several members to run for three places on the Cooperative's Board of Directors.

Selected to represent Deaf Smith County were incumbent Clark Andrews and Carl Kleuskens of the Hereford area. Also selected were board president, Sloan Osborn and Clarence Martin of Parmer County. The committee decided that newly appointed director Donald Wright should run unopposed at this year's Annual Meeting, slated for March 6 in the Bull Barn at Hereford.

Comprising this year's Committee are Bruce Fuller, Dimmitt; Allen Dobmier, Nazareth; Mrs. Argen Draper, Hereford; Earnest Flood, Jr., Hereford; W.S. "Dub" Ingram, and Lawrence Martin, Friona, and Clint Homfeld, Adrian.

"The bridge tender then began raising the bridge but the barges collided with the bridge before the bridge was fully raised," Horner's report said.

Coast Guard Cmdr. Leo Vaske said investigators were trying to determine how much time elapsed between the pilot's first radio call and the bridge operator's efforts to raise the drawbridge.

son ... I handle everything with good mind control ... There were times when I did things, I just don't understand why I did them," Simonis said in another interview with KPLC-TV.

He said he now was remorseful and that prison was society's safest protection from his uncontrollable urges.

Simonis said he ignored the advice of six court-appointed lawyers that he plead innocent here and elsewhere for fear he "would end up back on the street eventually, doing the same things."

"It might have been a matter of time before somebody would have gotten hurt or killed. I did not want that."

"I've done a lot of bad and a lot of wrong. I'm sorry for everything I've done. There's nothing I can do that will ever correct the wrong that I have done. That's one reason I have decided not to fight this thing in court."

Simonis traced the origin of his deviate behavior to an obscene telephone call he received from two girls shortly after he returned home from a tour in the U.S. Army. He himself later was arrested for making obscene calls.

"It doesn't take a very smart man to figure out that there is something wrong with me, not mentally, but somewhere along there.

"I have a problem where one thing stopped, I paused awhile and picked up with greater things, and produced that into a bigger crime wave than before."

Simonis, a former Army medic, said his training might be beneficial in prison and that a new project, writing two books with the help of a college professor, might help prevent crimes such as those he committed. He said proceeds from his books be given his mother.

"The one (book) I'm doing now is strictly for safety. This is for the public, how they can do a lot of things to deter crime involving people like me. People cannot protect themselves 24 hours a day or seven days a week, I don't care who they are. If they (criminals) want you bad enough, they're going to get you."

"I had a lot to offer society, but I just went about it the wrong way."

"I enjoy living in a town this size, not too big and not too small," comments David Fanning, who works as a diagnostician with Tierra Blanca and West Central Elementary Schools.

David spent the early part of his life in Colorado and Wyoming, and in Lubbock, before moving to Hereford with his family when he was in the eighth grade.

After graduating from Hereford High School, David went on to get his Bachelor's Degree in secondary history education at West Texas State University. His first year after graduation was spent teaching high school reading at Clayton, N.M.

Then David moved to Hart, where he taught fifth and sixth grade social studies for two years, and reading in an elementary school for the three years prior to coming to Hereford in June.

As a diagnostician, David tests children for possible learning disabilities after they have been referred to him by their teachers. He meets with parents and administers special tests to the children.

"Sometimes I miss being with children in a classroom situation," says David, and he sees the same child only three or four times at most with his present job.

"My mother used to keep children and I always grew up with lots of kids around," comments David. "I do miss having them around all the time and the opportunity of getting to know individual children." Last semester he tutored a child individually, however, and enjoyed that experience.

David's parents live here in Hereford, and his sister lived here until May, when she and her husband moved to Union, Tex. She is also a teacher, having taught Kindergarten and first grade at Bluebonnet and Aikman Elementary Schools. She is presently teaching fifth grade in Union. "Our family is real close and we do a lot of things together," says David.

Since beginning his teaching career, David has, like many other teachers, kept up with his education by taking night classes and attending summer school at WTSU. He went back and got his elementary certification before teaching elementary

Some of David's hobbies are reading and music. "I always have a book with me," he says, "and I enjoy singing and listening to music, especially religious music." He played the tuba in school.

"I also enjoy keeping up with politics. In fifth grade I had a teacher that taught that subject very well, and ever since then, I've kept up with it." David also enjoys working with puppets. "I've used them in school and also in children's church," he adds. Watching old movies is another favorite pastime.

David has a fairly large pig collection. He started the collection about a year and a half ago, and many of his pigs have been given to him by friends. One, unusually large ceramic pig (at least for a collection!) was given to him by several of his friends.

"I enjoy cooking, and first started doing it when I moved to Clayton and had to cook my own meals," explains David.

"I like to try new and unusual kinds of foods, and try to pick out at least one unusual thing each time I go to the grocery store."

Much of the time David does not follow a recipe, and when preparing to write up the spaghetti sauce recipe below, he had to convert a few "pinches" and "handfuls" into common measurements. The sauce is an old family recipe and is also used in the lasagne.

SPAGHETTI SAUCE

- 1 diced onion
- 1 pkg. pepperoni
- 1 gallon tomato sauce
- Saute pepperoni and onion in olive oil. Mix onion, pepperoni and tomato sauce in crock pot.

- Add:
- 2 handfuls parsley
- 2 Tablespoons leaf oregano
- 1 heaping Tablespoon ground oregano
- 2 Tablespoons sweet basil
- 1 1/2 teaspoons garlic powder
- Cook overnight or eight hours.

May add browned ground beef or browned pork chops and marinate in sauce for two last two hours.

Freezes well.

LASAGNE

Brown two pounds ground beef and mix with prepared spaghetti sauce (above).

Cook 1 pkg. lasagne noodles according to package instructions.

Mix 1 egg into a carton of cottage cheese.

Grate 1 pound mozzarella cheese.

- Layer in baking dish:
- 1. meat and sauce
- 2. noodles
- 3. meat and sauce
- 4. cottage cheese
- 5. mozzarella cheese
- 6. noodles
- 7. meat and sauce
- 8. cottage cheese
- 9. mozzarella cheese
- 10. Parmesan cheese

Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes or until done.

Three TOPS Clubs Meet For Fun Night

The three TOPS clubs of Hereford met Monday for their quarterly Fun Night in the Community Center. Clubs represented were No. 1011, which meets on Monday evenings; No. 576, which meets on Tuesday mornings; and No. 941, which meets on Thursday mornings.

In a business meeting, presided over by Janell Davison, from No. 576, the host club, best losers for the clubs were honored. They were Mary Williamson, 11 1/2 pounds, of No. 941, Sue Rogers, of No. 576, with 10 3/4 pounds; and Rose Casarez, of No. 1011, with 5 1/2 pounds.

Also honored were KOP's, those already having attained their desired weights. They are Winnie Anderson, of No.

576; Georgia Andrews, of No. 941; and Wilhemine Fetsch, of No. 1011.

The club winning the floating trophy for best average loss per member was club No. 576.

The program for the evening was a demonstration by Daleine Springer of The Face Place. Using Janell Davison as her model, she explained proper cleansing and made up techniques, and choice of products and colors for various types of skin. She also explained and demonstrated one process of facial hair removal using wax.

About twenty ladies attended the meeting. Following the program, the host club served fresh fruit and hot fruit punch.

Rebekah Lodge Holds Officer Installation

Installation of officers was the main point of business at the Tuesday night meeting of Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 228. Twenty eight members were present at IOOF Temple as Noble Grand Anna Conklin presided at the opening of the meeting and the regular business session.

The semi-annual report was read and the meeting was turned over to District Deputy President Susie Curt-singer and her staff for the installation of new officers.

Taking office for a term of one year were Lydia Hopson, recording secretary; Karrol Rettan, financial secretary; and Faye Brownlow, treasurer.

porters to the Vice-Grand, Ada Hollabaugh and Ruth Rogers; Past Noble Grand Ms. Conklin and Supporters, Bessie Lawrence and Helen Sowell; Musician Ms. Curtsinger; Color Bearer Irene Merritt; Banner Bearer Bessie Saulcy; Outside Guardian Nellie Beauford; and Chaplain Edna Mathes and Supporters, Peggy Lemons and Dorothy Lundry.

Mary Belle Manning will be installed as Inside Guardian at a later date.

Serving with Ms. Curtsinger on the installing team were Ms. Hopson, Verna Sowell, Helen Sowell, Leona Sowell, Ms. Mathes, Laveta Fitzgerald, Ms. Rogers, and Ms. Jacobsen.

A salad supper was enjoyed by members following the meeting. Others present were Ben Conklin, Elmer Combs, Guy Lawrence, Marjorie Hayes, Stella Hershey, and Martha Bridges.

Program On Religious Roots Highlights Tuesday Meeting

An interesting presentation on the roots of the religious community in Deaf Smith County was given by Eva Gilliland for members of La Afflatus Estudio Tuesday afternoon. Serving as hostesses in the Community Center Lounge were Della Stagner and Jennie Terrell.

President Aileen Montgomery opened the meeting by having Pet Ott lead the reading of the Club Collect. Lucile Hughes called role and members answered with quips and quotations.

Following the program, refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Other members in attendance were Opal Elliston, Emily Suggs, Irene Markham, Allyne Johnson, Tresa Hale, Alberta Higgins, Ora Morgan, and Mary Williamson.

The next meeting will be Jan. 18 in the home of Ms. Suggs.

"Three's Company" delights Joyce DeWitt

by Chuck Bins

ABC-TV's "Three's Company," which was buffeted last season by the controversy surrounding Suzanne Somers, came back strong in the fall with the addition of Priscilla Barnes, and the mood on the set is now very open and supportive, according to series star Joyce DeWitt.

"Last year, there was a great deal of energy which had to be put out in order to keep everyone centered in a working situation so it would still be a bubbly, happy, warm place to work," the perky, 32-year-old star said. "But the commitment was to keep the work pure."

"This year we're having a wonderful time. Priscilla is just a swell person and we enjoy her and we enjoy working with her. Now we have more characters... with her and Jenilee [Harrison] and Don [Knotts] and Richard [Kline]—so there are more people for America to focus on... Having new characters and new personalities to deal with has been very beneficial. It's not exactly the way one would choose to have it come about, but that's the way it came about and I think it's worked out very well."

"Since the show began in March of 1977, the mood on the set had always been peaceful, amicable and happy, Joyce reported. "Last year was the only time we experienced any sort of awkwardness, difficulty, unhappiness, insecurity, worry or tension." What brought the show through that difficult time was the fact that "people were really binding together to keep this baby alive." And it's that "ensemble" feeling that she said is again in full bloom on the set.

High school kids

"We have a damn good time putting this stuff together... Everybody suggests things to everybody else. It's like a bunch of high school kids getting together and trying to make this thing hysterical; only we have a chance to show it to millions of people."

Joyce DeWitt says it's the group effort which makes "Three's Company" a hit—and a joy to work for.

Everyone, she explained, including the writers, the producers and the production crew, is committed to making it the best situation comedy possible. "It's like this big pot where everybody is contributing something to make stew. So because of that, you don't really take it [constructive criticism] personally because you know it's to enhance the scene as a whole—not your moment, 'cause nobody thinks like that here."

Another boon to the show, and to Miss DeWitt personally, is the special relationship she shares with John Ritter. "We just worked together very well, instinctively, non-verbally, from the start. And there are a few actors you'll meet in your lifetime that you will have that kind of rapport with. You don't have to say it, you can feel it."

Teleton

About four years ago, Ritter got his co-star involved in the "Weekend with the Stars Teleton for Cerebral Palsy" when he asked her to be a guest on his segment. Joyce has been featured in the program every year since, and this year she will host a four-hour segment when the teleton airs January 16 and 17 on a nationwide network of 125 stations. Robert Guillaume of ABC-TV's "Benson" will be her special guest.

Ritter's request came at a time when she had to ferret out which organizations she could help on a regular basis, and she said, "this was one of them." "A number of people around me were committed to that, and of course, John is a dear and wonderful friend, and I've come to know his brother, Tom, who has cerebral palsy, and he's a charming and wonderful fellow."

Joyce also participates in fund-raising events for a shelter for battered women in Orange County, California, and with an organization founded by Tom Hayden and Jane Fonda which is trying to isolate and eliminate the environmental causes of cancer.

As for her future on "Three's Company," Joyce said she's not even sure when her contract expires. "It's either this year or next. I don't really know. It doesn't really matter to me... I'm very happy, very content and I'm having a good time."

Editor's note: Joyce recently extended her contract with the show for another three years.

FINE TUNING

"That was really the silliness in the approach that caused all the obstructions last year. To think that any one person here holds such a hierarchy position that they are more important than the others is absurd. It's very unfortunate, foolish thinking, and it's been easily proven out not to be true. It's a real ensemble group here. It takes everybody to make it cook."

Woman's Aglow Sets Meeting
 The Hereford Women's Aglow Fellowship will meet Friday night at 7:30 p.m. in the Hereford High School Auditorium. The January meeting will be a chance to share with others present about what the Lord is doing in your life and how He is teaching and blessing you as you walk in His ways. Everyone is invited to come and share in word or song as each feels led by the Lord.

To Sing at Banquet

The "Good Vibrations Quartet," pictured above, will provide the special entertainment at the quarterly meeting of the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce next Tuesday evening. New officers will be installed at the banquet, and the 1981 Woman of the Year will be named. Reservations may be made at the Chamber of Commerce office until noon Friday or by calling Betty Gilbert at 364-4950.

Many foods have a high percentage of water. An egg is about 74 percent water; a watermelon, 92 percent; and a piece of beefsteak, about 73 percent.

The precise geographical center of the North American continent is in a town called Rugby, North Dakota.

Women's Division Banquet Set Tuesday

The Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce will hold its quarterly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 12 at the Hereford Country Club. A buffet will precede the installation of officers.

New officers to be installed include Carolyn Canon, president; Glenda Geries, vice-president; Janice Falkner and Pat Walsh, secretaries; and Betty Gilbert, parliamentarian. Virginia Winget will perform the installation ceremony.

Georgia Sparks, 1980 Woman of the Year, will present the 1981 Woman of the Year during the banquet.

Providing the entertainment will be the "Good Vibrations Quartet," a group of four women with a total of 42 years combined affiliation with Sweet Adelines, Inc. Organized in 1947, Sweet Adelines, Inc. is an international organization devoted to the enjoyment and preservation of four-part barbershop harmony.

The melody in the quartet is sung by Ronda-Pullen, who is a computer operator and legal secretary with a law firm in Amarillo. Her son, Don, attends Texas A&M University where he is a junior majoring in finance.

The bass features Emadene Davidson, who is a court reporting instructor. Her husband, Fred, is Assistant Principal at Amarillo High School. They have two children, Bonnie and Steve.

Singing baritone is Joyce Johnson, who is a homemaker and mother of four. Her husband, Bob, is employed by Pantex. Joyce began singing gospel music with her three sisters in the late 1940's.

Tenor is sung by Dee Thomas, who is employed as a bookkeeper for an Amarillo cardiologist. Her husband, Bob, is a federal government employee, and her daughter, Shannon, attends Canyon Junior High.

The quarterly meeting and banquet are open to anyone interested in becoming a part of the Women's Division as well as present members. Cost of the meal is $7.50 and reservations must be made by Friday noon at the Chamber of Commerce office or until noon Saturday by calling Betty Gilbert at 364-4950.

Ann Landers

Function Is Service, Not Chatting

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After reading the letter from the lonely lady in Queens, I feel I must write this.

I have been a telephone operator for 15 years. When I started, the objectives were service, accuracy, speed. It is now speed, service, accuracy and more speed. The public would not believe how many insignificant things are put on our record—and they stay there for five years:

Failure to acknowledge a customer, failure to be pleasant, failure to give dialing instructions, failure to maintain an average of 26 seconds per call.

To insure speed we are constantly being monitored. The results bear heavily on whether we get a promotion, stay where we are or lose our jobs. Visiting with a customer is strictly forbidden.

There are so many lonely people out there, Ann. I would just love to spend a few minutes chatting and cheering up those forlorn folks. Too bad Pa Bell doesn't have a heart.—No Name, I Need My Paycheck

DEAR PAYCHECK: There's nothing wrong with Pa Bell's heart, but something must be wrong with your head if you can't understand the consequences of allowing operators to chat with lonely customers.

The function of the telephone company is to give service. How would you feel if you were trying to call the fire department, the police, your doctor or an ambulance and the lines were tied up by operators who were chatting away, cheering people up? Wake up and smell the coffee, Petunia.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please help me. I am so embarrassed and ashamed. I'm a college freshman, and ever since the sixth grade I have wet my pants. I don't do it as often as I used to, but it is still a horrible problem.

Tonight I went with some friends to a haunted house at the fairgrounds. I used the bathroom at home before I left and again when we got there, but when we went inside the spook house I wet my pants twice. I was safe inside because it was dark and we were all squished together. I prayed no one would notice, and I was lucky. No one did. I would have died if someone found out.

When it happened in the sixth grade, some kids did notice that my dress was wet in the back and they teased me about it for days. I wished I could have died. I didn't tell my mother or anyone else because I was so ashamed. That incident changed my personality. I've been a quiet person ever since. When I laugh too much or get emotional, I can't control myself. Do some people have bigger bladders than others? I would appreciate any help you can give me.—N.N.

DEAR N.N.: You must see a urologist and find out if you have a physical problem. If so, you ought to wear rubber pants until it can be corrected by surgery, exercise or medication. If there is no physical problem, accept the fact that it is emotional. This means counseling. Get going, and good luck.

CONFIDENTIAL to Tell Her, Ann, She'll Take It from You: I hope she takes it from SOMEBODY. What's magic about a size 12? She'll look thinner in a size 14 that hangs loosely. Clothes that are too tight show every bulge and make a person look heavier.

Boiling or "potting" meat means a loss of some of its water-soluble vitamins. Use the cooking liquid as a gravy or sauce or freeze it for later use in soup.

Jones Interested In Dutton's Health

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - No Dallas Cowboy has a more vested interest in John Dutton's health than Ed "Too Tall" Jones.

Jones was named to The Associated Press All-Pro second team this week and one of the primary reasons was the big guy lined up next to him.

"We've got to have John Sunday against San Francisco," said Jones. "He's been making my life a lot easier this season."

Jones, who lines up at left defensive end, and Dutton, the left defensive tackle, have a primary responsibility of stopping the run in Dallas Coach Tom Landry's Flex Defense.

But their pass defense has bordered on the spectacular this year. Jones has tipped two passes that have turned into interceptions.

In last week's 38-0 NFC divisional playoff victory over Tampa Bay, Dutton tipped a pass that resulted in Jones' first National Football League interception.

Dutton showed up at the practice field Wednesday with a swollen right thigh which doctors believe was caused by a broken blood vessel.

Team doctors think Dutton will be able to play in the NFC title game at San Francisco Sunday with proper treatment during the week.

"I woke up at 5 a.m. and it hurt like heck," said Dutton. "It was pretty nasty. Not only could I not run I couldn't even drive a car. I just crawled in to the backseat and Ginny (his wife) brought me to practice."

Dutton and the team doctors believe the blood vessel was weakened by a leg whip Dutton received from Buffalo's Conrad Dobler several months ago.

Dutton, who was severely bruised, started the next game but only played a few downs before he had to come out.

Teammates walked by Dutton's locker and shook their heads at the bandages encasing his right leg.

"Fix it ... I don't care what you have to do but fix it," said strong safety Charlie Waters. "We've got to have you in the game."

Dutton has been having his best year for the Cowboys since he was brought to Dallas three years ago from Baltimore for two high draft choices.

"Things have been going well for me," said Dutton. "I'm finally getting the feel of Landry's system. I'm just glad the game wasn't today."

Jones has eight sacks and Dutton five although pass rushing isn't their primary responsibility. Also Jones, working in close tandem with Dutton, has batted down 10 passes and Dutton has grounded five enemy throws.

Should Dutton not be able to play, the Cowboys will go with seldom used Larry Bethea, a former high draft choice who has never bloomed like Dallas thought he would.

Brown's Shadow On Super Bowl Hopefuls

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP
Special Correspondent

No matter who wins Super Bowl XVI Jan. 24, there will be no escaping the imposing shadow of Paul E. Brown.

This 70-year-old coaching genius and football revolutionary built from scratch and now serves as general manager of the emerging Bengals team that will play San Diego Sunday in Cincinnati for the National Football League's AFC Championship.

His onetime protege, Bill Walsh, 50, will coach the 49ers in their NFC title game in San Francisco against the Dallas Cowboys.

Conceivably, it could be a Paul Brown Super Bowl — the 49ers vs. the Bengals, pupil vs. master, a long-deserved honor for a man who has produced champions and brought a scientific approach to the game. Even should these two conference title games go the other way, the Paul Brown influence will be present.

It was Brown who taught Walsh his widely acclaimed quarterbacking strategy and Walsh who passed it along to three of the passing wizards in pro football's semifinals — Ken Anderson of the Bengals, Dan Fouts of the San Diego Chargers and Joe Montana of his 49ers. Only Dallas' Danny White, of the four, has not fallen under his wings.

"I learned almost everything from Paul Brown," said Walsh, speaking from San Francisco the day after his 49ers carved the New York Giants into submission 38-24. "He was like a professor, insistent on detail and execution. I am sure Paul recognizes his handiwork in every offensive move we make."

Brown, whose Bengals beat the Buffalo Bills 28-21, was difficult to reach Monday.

"He is over at the stadium looking at some films with Coach Forrest Gregg," said his secretary. "I just don't know when he will be available."

The Hall of Fame coach was caught just as he prepared to leave his office for a quick lunch. He obligingly stopped long enough to talk about a former student and an old friend.

"Needless to say, I am very proud," Brown said. "When I watched San Francisco on TV, I recognized things we had done together. After all, he still has our quarterback-teaching films. I could anticipate every play."

Brown's coaching career is legend, beginning with Severn Prep in Maryland, later Massillon High (Ohio), Ohio State, Great Lakes Navy and finally the Cleveland Browns for 17 years before moving to the Bengals in 1968, first as a coach and then as executive.

He coached the great Browns teams of Otto Graham and Marion Motley in the old All-America Conference, which won four straight AAFC titles and, with Jim Brown, won three NFL titles after the merger in 1950.

His Browns met the champion Philadelphia Eagles in the opening game of the 1950 season, most fans expecting a rout for the Eagles. The Browns won 35-10, using a dizzying passing attack.

Tanana Predicts 15-Win Season

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — With a reported $400,000 a year, a big ballpark and good health, former Boston Red Sox pitcher Frank Tanana predicts he can win at least 15 games next season when he joins the Texas Rangers.

The left-handed free agent said Wednesday that he agreed to a two-year contract when the price was right — after two full days of negotiations and a meeting with majority owner Eddie Chiles.

"Once we got it cleared up and got the numbers right, it went smoothly. I think the days of all the loose free-and-easy money is over," Tanana said.

Tanana said being able to pitch in spacious Arlington Stadium "definitely had weight" in his decision to sign with the Rangers.

"No pitcher relishes pitching in Boston. You can't compare the two parks," he said, obviously happy to bid farewell to Fenway Park and the short left field notoriously tough on left-handers.

The 28-year-old pitcher, who played out his option with the Red Sox last season, led the American League with 269 strikeouts in 1975. He won a career-high 19 games in 1976 and in 1977 he led the league with a 2.54 earned run average and seven shutouts.

But the left-hander's skyrocketing career crashed and nearly ended in 1979 when he suffered tendinitis in his left shoulder. Physical therapy enabled him to return to the mound and last year he compiled a less-than-glowing 4-10 record and a 4.02 era.

"There's no more pain, the arm feels fine, but I certainly haven't liked the results the past three years," he said. "They haven't exactly been vintage Frank Tanana years."

But Tanana adds that he's on his way up.

"In terms of where I once was as a pitcher, I don't know where I am now. It's hard for me to stand here and make an evaluation, except to say I'm on my way back up. I'm rising."

Tanana, who won 106 games and lost 88 in seven seasons with California and one with Boston, said he was disappointed in his last season with the Red Sox.

"Things didn't come easy last year. Out of the 141 innings (pitched) I got 21 runs last year to work with," he said.

But Tanana predicts he can win 15 games for the Rangers next season if he stays healthy.

SWC Declines Offer To Move Cotton Bowl

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP
Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — The Southwest Conference, whose football champion is the annual host team in the Cotton Bowl, has declined an offer of more money to move the game to Houston.

"We simply felt we were in a position of having something that had been a proven success and we were reluctant to give that up," said Dr. James Castaneda of Rice University, president of the SWC.

"We not only did not want to give that up but also we didn't want to treat the people that are responsible for putting on the Cotton Bowl in a way that would be considered as unappreciative for what they have done for us."

The Greater Houston Bowl Association, which sponsors the annual Bluebonnet Bowl in the Astrodome, offered the SWC $1 million above current revenue to end its long standing association with Dallas.

Lan Bentsen, president of the GHBA, confirmed the rebuff.

"Basically they said no," Bentsen said. "They gave us a fair consideration. They didn't open the door but neither did they close the door for the future."

The SWC faculty representatives met in December and voted against the plan. Castaneda told Bentsen of the decision in a letter, which Bentsen said he opened Wednesday.

"They didn't really go into their reasons," Bentsen said. "They just said they weren't ready to make a move at this time. Truthfully, we didn't expect to be accepted the first time around."

Bentsen said the GHBA executive committee would discuss the SWC decision then decide on its next move.

"I don't know if we will try them a second time around," Bentsen said. "Our major goal is to establish an agreement with a major conference and the SWC is our first choice. But we have not made any definite plans about what to do next."

Castaneda said some of the SWC representatives may not have taken the proposal seriously. "But I took it seriously, and we discussed it seriously," he said. "We basically just weren't in the market for a change."

Whiteface Fems Host Portales

The Hereford Whiteface girls basketball team plays host to Portales at 7:45 tonight at the La Plata gym as the Herd tries to improve its 12-2 non-district mark.

The Whitefaces have dropped a pair of games to Amarillo High this year in non-district action, but have outclassed other opposition enroute to titles in both the Hereford and Clovis tournaments.

The Whiteface fems play in Amarillo again Friday against the Caprock Longhorns, and will travel north to play Tascosa next Tuesday in their final non-district game.

Hereford opens District 4-5A play at home on Jan. 15 against Lubbock High.

Action tonight begins with the junior varsity game at 6 p.m.

Meet Herd Night Time Moved Up

Hereford Athletic Director Don Cumpston has announced that the Meet The Herd Night set for 7:30 p.m. Monday has been moved up to 7 p.m.

Cumpston said that due to the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) meeting at 8 p.m. that same night the Booster Club event had to be moved up.

Former Lubbock Monterey and Texas Tech quarterback Ron Reeves will be the featured speaker at the FCA meeting, which will be held in the fieldhouse.

The Meet the Herd event will feature the introduction of basketball players from the sophomore level up, both boys and girls.

Hogs Swamp SMU, 68-48

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Tony Brown scored seven points and Scott Hastings added two buckets during a 15-0 Arkansas scoring spree Tuesday night as the Razorbacks defeated Southern Methodist 68-48 in a Southwest Conference game.

Eleventh-ranked Arkansas led 40-34 after eight minutes of the second half when it suddenly exploded. Hastings hit a pair of buckets, Brown scored twice and Keith Peterson drilled a 17-footer to give Arkansas a 50-34 advantage.

A reverse layup by Darrell Walker and a three-point play by Brown off a pass from Walker made it 55-34 with 5:53 remaining.

The Razorbacks, who evened their Southwest Conference record at 1-1 and upped their overall mark to 9-1, were playing at less than peak efficiency.

Regular forward Brad Freiss missed the game because of a thigh bruise suffered late in Tuesday's practice. Hastings and backup center Carey Kelly each were suffering from the flu.

Still, Hastings managed to score 13 points and Peterson led Arkansas with 14 as he hit seven of his eight shots from the floor.

Southern Methodist's Dave Piehler led all scorers with 18 points.

Arkansas shot 46 percent from the field, the first time this season they have shot less than 50 percent. Southern Methodist hit 18 of its 47 shots for 38 percent. Piehler hit six of his 12 shots but Jon Koncak, the Mustang's only other double figure scorer with 15 points, needed 17 shots to hit five.

With Brown and Peterson leading the way, Arkansas had a 39-25 rebound advantage. Brown, who finished with 10 points, had nine rebounds, while Peterson had eight.

It was the SWC opener for SMU, which fell to 5-6 overall. "We worked hard in practice the last two days practicing four times and it took its toll," said Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton. "I was taking a calculated risk the work wouldn't hurt us and we could get by SMU. I was doing some second guessing at halftime."

Arkansas led 28-24 at the half. Sutton said SMU had a good, young team that played like it needed to in the first half in order to have a chance to win. "We weren't patient on offense in the first half," Sutton said. "In the second half, our defense played awful well and our offense did what it should do. We were making 10 to 12 passes then hitting a shot."

Hastings, who went to the dressing room early, said, "We still may not be as good as the polls say. We didn't play very well in the first half."

Southern Methodist Coach Dave Bliss said the seven-minute streak when Arkansas outscored the Mustangs 15-0 was the difference. "...The game just got away from us," Bliss said. "It was our offense as much as anything else," he said. "We did a pretty good job playing zone defense. Arkansas is one of the top defensive teams in the country. We anticipated having some problems with them."

Nelson Burton: Bowler, Announcer

LARRY SIDONS AP Sports Writer

Imagine this scene: Ron Guidry has just given up a home run and been replaced as the pitcher for the New York Yankees. Instead of going into the clubhouse to shower, however, Guidry heads for the television announcers' booth to provide expert commentary for the rest of the game.

It sounds far-fetched, but it's exactly what Nelson Burton Jr. has been doing for the past seven years.

Burton is one of the leaders on the Professional Bowlers Association tour, having won more than $500,000 in purses and gained a spot in the sport's Hall of Fame.

He also is the color analyst for ABC's "Professional Bowlers Tour," a weekly series of live telecasts of tournament finals, which begins its 1982 schedule Saturday with the $135,000 Miller High Life Classic at Anaheim, Calif. Starting time is 2:30 p.m. EST.

Burton is scheduled to be at the microphone with announcer Chris Schenkel as the bowlers with the second-through fifth-highest pinfalls from the first three days of the tournament compete in matches to determine who goes against the top bowler for the championship.

If Burton is among the final five, he will compete for the crown and his place on the air will be taken by Dick Weber, another Hall of Famer who has retired from the PBA Tour.

"I think I've probably made the final five 25 or 30 times since I've been doing the ABC work," said Burton, 39, of St. Louis. "I used to make it every week, but the older you get, the tougher it is."

The son of another Hall of Fame bowler, Nelson Burton Sr., Burton was approached by ABC in 1974 after Billy Welu, a retired bowler who had teamed with Schenkel for two years, died of a heart attack.

"I was one of the first of the younger bowlers to break through the Dick Weber-Don Carter 'team bowling' mold," he said. "I had also done some promotional work for AMF (a leading bowling equipment manufacturer) and worked as an analyst when CBS was doing the PBA."

"Now, I've reduced my bowling to compensate for TV and the difficulties of training as I get older. In the next couple of years, I'll probably reduce my schedule to the point where I'm only bowling part-time," he said.

This will be the 21st consecutive year for the PBA Tour on ABC, which has garnered impressive ratings from the show. Last year, an average of 20 million people tuned in to some portion of the weekly Saturday telecast, based on ratings of 8.5 by A.C. Nielson, with two stops — the National Championships and the Showboat Invitational — attracting more than 23 million viewers each.

The PBA consistently has drawn larger average audiences than telecasts of college and professional basketball, tennis and golf on other networks, and Burton has an idea why.

The PBA's winter tour runs through the $200,000 Firestone Tournament of Champions at Akron, Ohio, April 24. ABC also plans coverage of five tournaments on the spring tour in May and June.

Wilkins Gains 400th Win; Sonics Roll By Mavericks

SEATTLE (AP) — Few victories come easy in the National Basketball Association, Seattle SuperSonics Coach Lenny Wilkins has learned after more than 20 years in the league.

"I didn't think it would be easy," Wilkins said after his Sonics pulled away in the final two minutes to beat the Dallas Mavericks, 107-100, Wednesday night. With the triumph, Wilkins notched his 400th career coaching victory.

"If you'd asked me a few years ago about it, I wouldn't have thought I'd have been coaching that long," said Wilkins, who ranks 13th on the all-time list and seventh among active pro coaches. "You've got to get a good group of players together to help you accomplish things like that."

Breaking a 99-99 tie in the final two minutes, Seattle's Jack Sikma sank seven of eight free throws as the Sonics outscored Dallas, 8-1, to end the game. Sikma, who hit 10 of 12 from the line in the fourth quarter, finished with a game-high 25 points and 10 rebounds in 39 minutes.

"We called Sikma's number down the stretch," Wilkins said. "We didn't feel they had anyone who could guard him, so naturally we wanted to get the ball into his hands."

Taylor Defensive Rookie Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Linebacker Lawrence Taylor, who helped lead the New York Giants into the playoffs for the first time since he was barely a toddler, was named today The Associated Press Defensive Rookie of the Year for the 1981 National Football League season.

Taylor, a 6-foot-3, 237-pound whirlwind out of North Carolina, was the overwhelming choice by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters, receiving 51 1/2 of the 84 votes cast at season's end.

Cornerback Ronnie Lott, one of three rookies in the San Francisco 49ers' secondary, received 23 votes, linebacker Hugh Green of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers got 7 1/2 and safety Kenny Easley of the Seattle Seahawks received the remaining two votes.

Rogers Top AP Offensive Rookie

NEW YORK (AP) — George Rogers of the New Orleans Saints, who won the National Football League rushing title, was named The Associated Press Offensive Rookie of the Year.

Rogers finished the 1981 season with 13 touchdowns and 1,674 yards, edging Tony Dorsett of the Dallas Cowboys to win the rushing crown. The 1980 Heisman Trophy winner from South Carolina also shattered the rookie rushing record of 1,606 yards set in 1979 by Ottis Anderson of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Rogers received 65 of the 84 votes cast. Wide receiver Cris Collinsworth of the Cincinnati Bengals, was second with 12 and running back Joe Delaney of the Kansas City Chiefs got seven votes.

Mellowed Flood Neither 'Bitter Nor Vindictive'

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

"It was a nightmare — no one, not even my peers, understood. I had to get away and isolate myself for sanity's sake," said a mellowed Curt Flood. "I am neither bitter nor vindictive. I am just concerned — worried about the game I sincerely love."

They called him "The Man Who Wants to Destroy Baseball." For 2 1/2 years he battled the game in the

PGA Members Eager For Play

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The prospect of rainy weather has not dampened the enthusiasm of pro golfers eager to start the 1982 tour in the $300,000 Joe Garagiola Tucson Open.

"A lot of people who have not played in the last six or seven weeks want to get going again," said Homero Blancas, a member of the renamed Tournament Players Association tour and a pro at the 6,797-yard Randolph Park North Golf Course, the setting for the year's first tournament. The 144-man field was to set out today in pursuit of a $54,000 first prize.

"The first two tournaments (of the year) will give you a good field," Blancas said. "And this is a good golf course to begin after a long layoff. It's kind of short in relation to the rest" of the tour, well-suited to short and medium-range hitters who prefer irons and wedges.

Dan Halldorson, who has finished second and third in the last two Tucson Opens, agreed. The par-70 course lets the golfers "get away with some bad shots at the beginning of the year," he said. "When you haven't played in a month or so, it's a real nice starting course."

The field is a good one: in fact, it features 46 of the top 60 money winners from the 1981 tour. Some big names, such as Jack Nicklaus, Tom Watson, Lee Trevino and last year's top money-winner, Tom Kite, were absent; but several, including Nicklaus and Watson, normally skip the Tucson Open anyway.

Johnny Miller, who could lay claim to the tournament as his own, is among those playing.

Miller, who has won a court, all the way to the Supreme Court. Frustrated by an adverse decision, he went into self-imposed exile off the coast of Spain for five years. Then he came home to a world that hardly remembered — and that he himself hardly recognized.

He settled in Oakland, his birthplace, worked a year in the broadcast booth for the Oakland A's and then started with kids on the Oakland sandlots.

record four times — twice more than anyone else in the 36 years the tourney has been held — triumphed last year with a 265 over a Randolph Park course that since has been lengthened 25 yards. He comes in fresh from a nine-hole sudden-death playoff victory in the invitational Sun City, Bophuthatswana, Challenge that earned him an all-time golf top prize of $500,000.

Also back is Lon Hinkle, who last year finished two strokes behind Miller. Besides past Tucson Open winners Bruce Lietzke, Jim Colbert, Miller Barber, Don January, Gene Littler, Dave Hill and J.C. Snead, other top contenders this year include Hale Irwin, Jay Haas and Fuzzy Zoeller.

The Randolph Park course has been altered for the tournament, with the 15th hole lengthened to 192 yards and reduced from a par-4 to a par-3, with water added.

Bad weather has become a trademark for the tournament. Two years ago it rained so heavily that the event was delayed two days. Last year, there was rain on the final day.

People who don't believe in hell have never been stalled in traffic next to a rock nut with hi-fi in his auto.

"They call me The Commissioner," Flood says with unconvincing pride.

The job is not to be confused with that of another commissioner, Bowie Kuhn, whom Flood took on barehanded, only to lose when the Supreme Court June 19, 1972 ruled in favor of baseball's restrictive reserve clause, which bound players to clubs for life if not traded or sold.

"I never wanted to destroy baseball," Flood insisted in an interview here Wednesday. "I just wanted a chance to talk to somebody, let them listen to my case and then decide impartially. I never wanted to get rid of the reserve clause. All I asked was a voice in my own career."

Flood was an All-Star outfielder for the St. Louis Cardinals for 12 years, batting over .300 on six occasions and playing in three World Series.

"For years, I saw it happen to my friends," he said. "Traded and sold on the telephone with no recourse. Players even changed uniforms in the middle of doubleheaders."

"They're young, inexperienced, but it was a struggle," said Wilkins, who saw his club trailing 56-43 just before the half.

"In the end, it was our defense that was better and our poise," Wilkins said. "Sometimes it's not easy to get ready for a team that doesn't have a good record."

Dallas has won seven of 31 games this season. Seattle, on the other hand, had beaten the Lakers in Los Angeles in its last outing. After topping the Mavs, the Sonics trail first-place Los Angeles by 3 1/2 games in the Pacific Division.

Motta, who ranks fifth on the all-time list and third among active coaches with 563 victories, said, "If you stay in this league long enough, you reach milestones. You have to be a survivor."

POLAND'S FOREIGN DEBT Who Is Owed How Much

Complicating the Polish political crisis — and one of the causes of the economic breakdown that contributed to it — is the country's foreign debt, one of the largest per capita in the world. Most of it — almost $30 billion — is owed to Western banks and governments. The Soviet Union and East European countries hold another $4 billion to $5 billion. Figures are based on estimates of Western government and press sources.

HEALTH There's more fat inside

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — My doctor has determined that I have a hiatal hernia as well as an umbilical hernia. Several years ago I was also told that I have a double hernia of the groin.
He advised me to lose weight. I did, but not nearly enough. I'm sure that exercising would help and I have been doing some walking but it doesn't seem to be enough.
I'm 63 years old and have high blood pressure, which is under control with medication, but otherwise am physically all right. What kind of exercises can I do without harming the above conditions? I have no excess fat anywhere other than my stomach and spare tire.
DEAR READER — Your doctor's advice is right on the money. You may see a lot of fat outside under the skin but there is usually just as much or even more inside the abdominal cavity.
All that fat creates pressure inside the limited abdominal space. It pushes the stomach through the hole in the diaphragm, contributing to the hiatal hernia. Incidentally, during pregnancy women have this problem because of the enlarging uterus. The fat also increases the pressure to cause other hernias.

And you chose the right exercise. With your hiatal hernia it is difficult to do some exercises you might want to do because you want to avoid increasing the pressure inside the abdomen as would occur with sit-ups. But you can walk and use walking to help you lose pounds. Actually people who lose weight mostly through exercising lose slower than those on strict diets, but they also tend to keep it off while the rapid diet method often is a temporary thing.
An average-sized person will use about 60 calories a mile more while walking at a speed between two to four miles an hour than he would sitting. Try to walk at least four miles a day and that will use about the number of calories in a half pound of body fat each week.

DEAR DR. LAMB — It's bad enough sleeping with a couple of plants but I sleep with 24. I sleep in a small room and sometimes I wake up at night and seem to be short of oxygen. I say it's because of the plants. My wife does not agree with me. What is your opinion? She does not sleep with me.
DEAR READER — I'm tempted to suggest you sleep with your wife instead of the plants. Seriously, plants will not rob you of oxygen as some people mistakenly believe. Plants use carbon dioxide and give off oxygen. Animals use oxygen and give off carbon dioxide. The combination results in the balance between the plant world and the animal world.
Now, you might be allergic to something from the plants. Or you could be allergic to something else in your bedroom. Or you could have some other medical reason for waking up short of breath, which you call short of oxygen. You should see a doctor. If there is no evident underlying medical cause, then you may need allergy testing to see if an allergy is the problem.

Mobil Goes Its Own Way-And Pays A Price

NEW YORK (AP) — In the staid ballroom of corporate finance, Mobil Corp. insists on doing the bump.
While most other members of the oil industry are reluctant to raise such sensitive issues as antitrust, Mobil twice in the past six months has pursued in public the acquisition of another oil company — and failed.
And while the loss of its fight with U.S. Steel Corp. for control of Marathon Oil Co. may have scarred Mobil's corporate pride, few analysts who track Mobil foresee any change in the company's aggressive character.
Mobil's acquisitive strategy is based on the theory that it is cheaper to buy a company that owns a large oil field than it is to find and develop the same field.
Mobil is second in size only to Exxon Corp. among American corporations, but no company of any dimension can match Mobil's ability to stand out. It's seen in many circles as unpredictable, self-assured and defiant.
"They are a very, very different company," says Bernard Picchi, who analyzes U.S. oil companies for the investment firm of Salomon Brothers. "Mobil is generally viewed, rightly or wrongly, as being ruthless."
Herbert Schmetz, Mobil's

vice president of public affairs, contends that reputation is more a media creation than a reflection of reality. Some analysts believe Mobil cultivates the idea that it is different.
"They seem to take some pride in that image of being a maverick," says Robert Morris, an oil analyst at Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc., an investment company.
The corporation has an aggressive public relations policy. Mobil frequently buys ads on the opinion pages of major newspapers to present its views on issues. Television commercials using a format often described as similar to TV newscasts also present Mobil's position to the public.
Mobil's corporate style, while unique, doesn't always set well with competitors.
Marathon's lack of appreciation of Mobil's taste for takeover theatrics was evident at an oil industry convention in November shortly after Mobil announced its tender offer.
A T-shirt pinned to the wall of Marathon's hotel suite pictured an eagle with a Mobil logo on its forehead, swooping toward a mouse wearing a Marathon "M." The rodent was gesturing obscenely toward the eagle. The caption said: "The last great act of defiance."
Marathon was not the first U.S. oil company to escape Mobil's grasp.
Last summer Mobil lost a three-way fight for Conoco Inc. in the richest takeover battle in history. Du Pont, the chemical giant, eventually won control of Conoco at the cost of $7.8 billion in cash and stock.
Since 1979, Mobil has lost in the bidding for Belridge Oil Co., which was acquired by Shell Oil Co. for $3.6 billion, and Texas Pacific Oil, bought by Sun Co. for $2.3 billion. In 1979 Mobil bought General Crude Oil Co. for $782 million, and in 1980 it acquired Transocean Oil Inc. for $740 million.
Those two purchases — and the pursuit of other companies — underscore Mobil's eagerness to get back into the domestic on-shore exploration game that it ignored in order to go heavily into offshore exploration. Although Mobil ranks second among American oil companies with 1980 revenues of $59.5 billion, nine other companies have larger oil reserves.
Mobil has said publicly that it wants to buy domestic reserves through acquisition. That approach makes some industry executives nervous.
George M. Keller, chairman of Standard Oil Co. of California, said last summer that he was "distressed" by Mobil's attempt to buy Conoco, saying such a deal would have made "my industry's life in Washington a hell of a lot worse."
Keller, disagreeing with Mobil's belief that Wall Street is the cheapest place to find oil reserves, said most oil companies can find and develop reserves for less than they pay to buy other companies.
The resistance of Marathon and Conoco to Mobil's advances was more than a rejection of the company itself. Morris believes most medium-sized oil companies would resist being pursued by any industry giant.
It may have been with that belief in mind that Mobil decided not to ask Marathon management about a possible merger before announcing its bid on Oct. 30.
Sanford Margoshes, an oil analyst at Bache Halsey Stuart Shields Inc., contends, that failing to sound out Marathon ahead of time was Mobil's biggest error.

At Wits End BY ERMA BOMBECK

People have asked me from time to time if any of my children have aspirations of being a writer.
To my knowledge, none of them has so much as written a letter since one of them forged my name to a permit slip allowing him to ditch school to see "Five Easy Pieces" as a learning experience. (One sent a Christmas card one year showing him on a motorcycle with his arm in a cast and "Happy Holidays" scrawled on it.)
Yet there is not a day goes by that they do not stop off at the countertop in the kitchen, shuffle through the mail and inquire, "Anything for me?"
They've been doing this since they were toddlers.
And the kicker is, due to the magic of computers, they get more mail than I do.
They receive requests to renew their subscription to Forbes. (They never had a subscription to Forbes.) They get spoken to by E.F. Hutton and they don't listen to him either. Once there was a brochure from a realty company addressed to my son and his wife asking them to put their financing problems on their doorstep. The kid was 12 at the time.
If you really want to know your children, walk in their junk mail for a day.
A plea from their college alumni association to increase last year's pledge from $3 to $2000.
A weird radical newspaper containing ads for "Creative" party Banking and vasectomies for your favorite dad on Father's Day.
An ominous envelope with a window in it with the words "FINAL NOTICE" shining through from the Dept. of Motor Vehicles, Traffic Division.
A card from Al's garage reminding them their last tune-up was in 1978.
It sounds like I sit around sifting through my children's mail. I don't. I just collect it, store it and watch them as they stand over the wastebasket reading it in mid-air as it plummets to the can.
I haven't read even so much as a postcard since the day when out of sheer curiosity I scanned a card from a sking buddy of my son who wrote, "Did the Gatorade we put in your dad's radiator work?"
If the kids write, it won't be humor.

Judge Grants Montemayors Change of Venue

By SUSAN STOLER
Associated Press Writer
BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The federal trial of two brothers charged with operating a heroin and cocaine ring will be moved, probably to Victoria or Houston, because of local publicity over the case.

U.S. District Judge James DeAnda granted a change of venue Wednesday for Meynardo and Manuel Montemayor after more than 40 of the 53 potential jurors said they had heard of the case.

Nineteen panelists said they either had formed an opinion or would be influenced by what they already knew.

DeAnda said he would announce the trial site after checking court dockets in Houston and Victoria.

DeAnda also ordered a separate trial for another Montemayor brother in the case and allowed him to change lawyers and hire Percy Foreman of Houston.

Foreman was present Wednesday but said one of his associates, Charles Szekely, likely will handle the bulk of Matias Montemayor's case.

Matias Montemayor faces a minimum of 10 years in prison and up to a life term if convicted under racketeering statutes. A 16-count indictment returned in November identified him as the "organizer, supervisor and manager" of a family-run drug operation.

Five to six U.S. marshals remained in the courtroom during the pre-trial hearing

Wednesday. Matias, Manuel and Meynardo Montemayor — all Mexican nationals — are in custody in lieu of large bonds.

Matias and Manuel were transferred from the local county jail to Corpus Christi after authorities feared they might escape and slip across the Rio Grande into Matamoros, Mexico.

Two other brothers, Reyes and Benito Montemayor, were indicted but are fugitives and believed to be in Mexico.

Agents for the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration have testified that the Montemayor family runs one of the largest brown heroin pipelines from Mexico to Chicago.

During a civil trial involving property confiscated from the Montemayors, witnesses testified they saw a heroin laboratory used by the family in Mexico.

The family lost an attempt to recover one home in McAllen, the furnishing of two houses and other objects seized by DEA agents under a civil law. The controversial statute allows seizure of goods purchased with proceeds of illicit drug transactions.

During the early 1970s and bought expensive homes in McAllen in approximately 1978.

In addition to the racketeering indictment, Matias Montemayor faces a federal firearms violation charge. Meynardo Montemayor and his wife, Graciela, were indicted Dec. 29 on income tax evasion charges.

Manuel, Benito and Meynardo Montemayor also face charges of conspiracy to distribute $3 million worth of cocaine.

Allen's Exit Slow; He Fought to End

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was the longest exit yet from the Reagan administration.

The fact that Richard V. Allen would have to leave his post as President Reagan's national security adviser was clear to Reagan's top three aides before Christmas and from then on his departure was just a matter of time, a White House source said.

Even before Christmas, they agreed that his replacement would be William P. Clark, a long-time Reagan associate who has spent a year as deputy secretary of state, said the source, who asked that he not be quoted by name.

But even as he walked into the Oval Office to meet with Reagan Monday, Allen was fighting for reinstatement, he acknowledged later. After all, he reasoned, both the Justice Department and a deputy White House counsel had found no evidence of wrongdoing after investigating a disclosure that Allen had accepted $1,000 from Japanese journalists and three watches from Japanese friends.

In his first year, Reagan weathered several possibly embarrassing personnel problems. The incidents were handled with the speed and efficiency of a guillotine when it became clear the central figures could not work for the administration.

Ernest W. Lefever, Reagan's choice to be assistant secretary of state for human rights, withdrew his nomination soon after the Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted against him, deciding quickly not to press for approval by the full Senate.

Max Hugel, the CIA spy chief, stepped down soon after The Washington Post reported that he had supplied two Wall Street stock brokers with advance inside information about a firm he once headed.

Army Maj. Gen. Robert L. Schweitzer was removed from his post as the top military officer on the National Security Council staff after saying in a speech that the "Soviets are on the move. They are going to strike."

Reagan said he disagreed with that statement. So, Reagan has shown that he can act quickly to cut off someone who could become a political liability. But Allen presented difficulties.

Neighbor, Grandmother Save Eight Children from Fires

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A grandmother and a neighbor were being credited Wednesday with rescuing eight children from possible death in two separate residential fires.

Three youngsters were led to safety from a house fire by their grandmother, Mrs. Daniel Gorena, Tuesday night. "They are very lucky they got out of the house alive," said acting District Fire Chief Henry Trevino.

In the other incident, five children were rescued by a neighbor from their burning apartment Tuesday night.

District Fire Chief Rafael Medina said Lilly Garcia ran upstairs, grabbed a 1-year-old boy and ushered the other four children to safety.

Meese also may have been reluctant because the increased authority given Clark, compared with Allen's role, means "a diminished role for Meese," the official said. But it was Meese who studied the operations of the National Security Council staff and suggested expanding the national security adviser's job by allowing him daily access to the president.

Meese showed a reluctance to give up on Allen well after the other members of the top trio, chief of staff James A. Baker III and deputy chief of staff Michael K. Deaver, had decided Allen was through.

CBS Tops Race Sixth Week in Row

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS won the networks' prime-time ratings race for the sixth week in a row, with a big boost from the pro football playoffs and its heavy one-two punch, "60 Minutes" and "Dallas," figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed.

NBC, another beneficiary of the New Year's weekend football lineup, emerged from last place in the three-way competition for the first time since the new TV season began Oct. 5.

The prime-time runover of Sunday's National Conference playoff game between San Francisco and the New York Giants was the week's top-rated show, on CBS, with "60 Minutes" second and the playoff post-game show on CBS third.

The rating for the prime-time portion of the game itself was 33.9. Nielsen says that means of all the nation's homes with TV, just over a third saw at least part of the game.

CBS' "Falcon Crest" was the highest-rated of the season's new series, in 12th place.

Here are the week's 11 highest-rated programs:

NFC Playoff prime-time runover, San Francisco vs. New York Giants, with a rating of 33.9 representing 27.8 million homes, "60 Minutes," 33.3 or 27.3 million, and NFC post-game show, 29.7 or 24.3 million, all CBS; AFC Playoff prime-time runover, Miami vs. San Diego, 29.6 or 24.2 million, NBC; "Dallas," 29.3 or 24 million, and "Alice," 27.6 or 22.6 million, both CBS; AFC post-game show, 26.1 or 21.4 million, NBC; "M-A-S-H," 25.8 or 21.1 million, and "The Jeffersons," 25.5 or 20.9 million, both CBS, and Rose Bowl prime-time runover, NBC, and "Dukes of Hazzard," CBS, both 25.1 or 20.6 million.
