Events Center Plans Given Go-Ahead

BY O.G. NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

The longtime dream of having a Special Events Center in Hereford took one giant stride forward Thursday evening when directors of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce approved the development of a master plan for such a complex.

The proposition was recommended by the Past Presidents' Committee of the chamber after research and a community survey had been accomplished by a group of graduate students from Texas Tech University.

Jim Conkwright, chairman of the Special Events Center (SEC) subcommittee, told directors the preliminary plans had the "enthusiastic support" of the chamber's past presidents. Conkwright and Wayne Thomas made the presentation, which included an audio visual report from the Tech group.

The next step, according to Conkwright, will be to make the presentation to local governmental units - city, county and school - for their approval or disapproval. Then the project will be presented at public meetings.

Tom Burdett, chairman of the Past Presidents' Committee, urged the board to approve the concept, calling it "a vote of confidence for the future of Deaf Smith County."

Bob Sims, C of C vice president, said he thought the committee had done an "outstanding job" and the concept should be continued to see whether the community approves or disapproves.

"When dreamers quit dreaming, things stop happening," said Sims. "Now is not the time to stop," he said before making the motion that the board approve the proposition.

The plan envisions local governmental units funding the construction of three major buildings in the complex. The committee suggests that the city build an indoor, Olympic-size swimming pool, the county build an auditorium-banquet hall, and the school district build a gymnasium facility to serve as a sports complex.

The plan suggests that each governmental unit call its own bond election for these projects. The Special Events Center would also have facilities for the YMCA, Senior Citizens, and possibly the Hereford Day Care Center and other community organizations. The latter facilities would be built by the respective organizations, using private funds.

A non-profit foundation would be set up to purchase land, then sell tracts to the participating agencies, reported Thomas. While it would be legally possible to have one combination bond issue, Thomas said the committee felt it would be more feasible to plan them separately.

If one governmental unit's bond election failed, the complex could still proceed with the other agencies, he pointed out. "The voters will ultimately make the decision on whether the complex is built," said Thomas.

No cost estimate has been obtained on the project, it was emphasized. "After approval of all bodies, the plan will be turned over to architects and engineers to come up with financing figures," said Conkwright.

The plan calls for an auditorium which would seat about 1,800 persons, or about 1,200 for a banquet. The facility would also have space to allow theater groups to use the auditorium.

The sports, or gym complex, would seat about 3,000 for spectator games and would have several practice courts. It could also be used for such events as high school graduation. The indoor pool is planned to be adjacent to the YMCA and Senior Citizen buildings.

"We are planning for the cooperation of public and private sectors to enable dove-tailing of efforts," said Conkwright. "We realize that there could be a scheduling problem on some of the uses, but we think good management will take care of that."

Asked about the site for such a complex, Conkwright said the committee thought it premature to think about that issue. "From the plan drawn up by the Tech group, proposing a site of about 87 acres, it seems likely that it would be on the outskirts of town."

Conkwright said the committee had input from the three governmental

State Unemployment Rate Down

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas unemployment continues to set records, but the July rate of 7.3 percent released today is lower than June and considerably lower than state unemployment officials had predicted.

Although the figure dropped some, it compares with a state unemployment rate of only 5.5 percent this time last year. Last month's rate was 7.7 percent.

National jobless figures, also released today, were the highest in 41 years. The national rate for July was 9.8 percent.

Terence Travland of the Texas Employment Commission's economic research division said the state has only been keeping comparable unemployment figures since 1970, making historic comparisons difficult.

"Last month was the highest rate for June that we had had since 1970, and this 7.3 percent appears to be the highest July that we've had, also," Travland said.

The percentage figure translates into 542,400 Texans out of work in July, Travland said.

Last week, TEC officials predicted the July rate would soar to 8.4 percent. Commissioner Ken Clapp said the gloomy prediction was based on the number of Texans drawing unemployment benefits, but only included about half the month.

"Those, of course, were projections," Travland said. "As it turned out, the numbers came out a little bit lower."

Those who are out of work may have a hard time finding new jobs. Last week, TEC staff reported that job openings placed with the agency's placement division were down 54 percent from the same period last year.

Officials have blamed

Spirit Boosting

Susie Woodford, Deaf Smith County Democratic chairman, headed a meeting Thursday night which was to boost the spirit of the party in the county. About 60 attended the dutch treat rally at K-Bob's to hear Democratic leaders and candidates speak. Seated at left of Ms. Woodford is State Rep. Bob Simpson, incumbent from Amarillo and candidate. His district was revamped to include part of Deaf Smith County.

Heart Transplant Patient Responding to Commands

HOUSTON (AP) — A woman who was the second patient here to receive a new heart using an experimental anti-rejection drug is "doing well" and responding to commands to move her feet, a hospital spokeswoman says.

The patient, identified only as a 45-year-old woman, underwent the transplant operation shortly after midnight Thursday at the Texas Heart Institute, said hospital spokeswoman Hazel Haby.

"She seems to be doing well," Ms. Haby said. The patient was able to respond to commands to move her feet, before fully recovering from the anesthesia.

The operation was the second performed here using Cyclosporin A, an immunosuppressant which impedes the activity of the body's immune system, doctors said.

The drug, manufactured by the Swiss company Sandoz Inc., is made from a common soil fungus.

"This drug does seem to offer a great deal of hope because it does seem to lessen the chances of rejection," Ms. Haby said.

Last month, a 43-year-old man underwent the same operation. Doctors have said he is doing well and may be released from the hospital soon.

Ms. Haby said there is a marked difference between the two patients who have used the drug and those who had the same surgery here between 1968 and 1970.

"Those patients were just as sick as they could be," she said.

A team of doctors headed by Dr. Barry Kahan and Dr. Denton Cooley got permission from the Food and Drug Administration to use the experimental drug in the program, in which about 35 patients are expected to undergo transplants in the next two years.

Kahan had already performed 89 kidney transplants using the drug.

14-Month Effort Proves Fruitful; Plot Owners Association Formed

BY BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR

Some 150 persons gathered at the community center Thursday evening to form Restlawn Lot Owners, Inc. a non-profit organization, capping a 14-month effort to gain local control of Restlawn Memorial Park on north Highway 385.

After local attorney Jim Craig outlined the procedures required, the group voted unanimously to form the non-profit group and assume ownership of the cemetery from H. O'Dell LaGrone of Canyon.

The group then elected seven of the nine-person steering committee as its board of directors.

The meeting capped an effort by the local concerned lot owners to see that the perpetual care facility is properly cared for, something they felt LaGrone was not doing.

Mrs. Marian Kreig, the driving force behind the eventual takeover by the local group, began working on her pet project in June of 1980. At first the drive was just an effort to get LaGrone to take care of the cemetery, which had allegedly become run down due to a lack of proper care.

The controversy came to a head a few weeks ago when heavy rains in the area caused several gravesites at the cemetery to collapse.

That led to a call to the Small Business Administration in Lubbock, which sent a representative to meet with lot owners. The SPA had an $18,000 lien against the cemetery on a loan LaGrone had taken out in 1979.

Claiming that LaGrone agreed to turn over the cemetery to a local group, transferring the SPA loan to other property he owned. That cleared the way for the non-profit organization to be formed and for the locals to assume ownership of the site. A second lien against the property is also being dissolved.

Reagan Pleased With Rejection of Freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says the House of Representative's dramatic rejection of a nuclear weapons freeze proposal "signals to the Soviet Union" America's support for his arms control policy.

In a blow to the nuclear freeze movement, the House voted 204-202 against the resolution Thursday night.

Then it proceeded to approve 273-125 a White House-backed substitute that makes no mention of a freeze but instead supports U.S.-Soviet negotiations now under way in Geneva to reduce strategic arms.

Reagan said the House action "provides strong support for our negotiators" in Geneva. He said it "signals to the Soviet Union the American people's determination to seek peace through arms control agreements that will effectively reduce the nuclear arsenals of both sides."

The "statesmanlike position," as Reagan put it, was adopted after nine hours of emotional debate on the House floor, capped by shouts from freeze supporters and opponents watching the sea-saw vote.

The voting on the non-binding resolution came a day before the 37th anniversary of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima, an attack noted by numerous speakers.

Although it was the first major national loss for the grassroots freeze movement, its leaders said they were not disheartened.

"We are disappointed," said Randy Kehler, national coordinator of the freeze campaign, told a Capitol news conference. But he said the close margin "demonstrates the great progress which the freeze campaign has made."

"The real vote, however, will come this fall," Kehler added. One American voter in four will have a chance to express opinions on the freeze since referenda are expected to be on the ballots of seven states and a number of cities.

The defeated freeze proposal called for an immediate halt to the production, testing and deployment of nuclear weapons. The Republican-sponsored substitute urged efforts to achieve "an equitable and verifiable agreement which freezes strategic forces at equal and substantially reduced levels."

Kehler and Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass., attributed the narrow loss to intense administration lobbying. "The White House pulled out every inside tool they had," Markey said.

Throughout the day, Reagan made several phone calls to try to win votes for the decision that both sides agreed would be very close.

In a last-minute letter to Rep. William Broomfield, R-Mich., chief sponsor of the substitute proposal, Reagan said approval of the freeze "would undercut our negotiators by suggesting to the Soviets that we would be willing to accept something less than the reductions we have proposed."

Condor Program Said in Jeopardy

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The federal government may abandon its program to save the endangered California condor now that the state Fish and Game Commission has voted to sharply limit human handling of the giant vulture, a federal biologist says.

The project "is less secure, less firm than it was before," John G. Rogers Jr. of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service said after Thursday's vote.

The commission voted to allow federal biologists to take from condor nests only one egg, one chick and one adolescent female, and prohibited any trapping of adult birds.

But the key decision was to all but scuttle federal plans to attach miniature solar-powered radio transmitters to some of the fewer than 30 remaining condors to track them.

Most commissioners seemed to agree with Charles Fullerton, director of the state Fish and Game Department, who said, "We think

Frontier Jet With Blown Tires Lands Safely

DENVER (AP) — Ernest Duane Cook said he never had a risky landing in 16 years as a Frontier Airlines pilot until he safely eased down a jet with 102 people aboard and both left tires blown out.

The blowout occurred Thursday afternoon as Frontier Flight 194 took off from Stapleton International Airport, bound for Atlanta.

Cook, 48, said he and Flight Officer Jim Rimer heard a loud noise, suspected trouble, and flew back over the airport so authorities on the ground could confirm the damage.

Cook of Fort Worth, Texas, and based in Denver, said he "told the passengers we had a serious problem. They were very calm. They were beautiful people."

He said the 97 passengers applauded after the landing and congratulated him as they stepped off the Boeing 737.

"I felt like a country preacher," Cook said. "They tried to wear my hand out."

The plane flew in circles for about two hours to burn up fuel, then made a rough but safe landing without even igniting sparks when the damaged landing gear touched the runway near a waiting fleet of emergency vehicles.

Jail Escapees Handcuff Hostage, Steal Car

HOUSTON (AP) — Authorities are searching today for four of five Austin County jail escapees who apparently handcuffed a man to a bathtub in a vacant house and then fled in his car.

The five prisoners escaped from the Austin County jail Monday after a jailer opened the cell door to get a letter an inmate wanted mailed. The inmates locked the jailer and a dispatcher in the cell and they fled in a patrol car.

Austin County Sheriff Truman Maddox said three men and a pregnant woman armed with a shotgun drove to an east Harris County home Wednesday afternoon and told the man, Loyal Renfrow, that they were having car trouble.

Renfrow said he agreed to drive them to Houston but they directed him to an abandoned lake house, where they handcuffed him to a bathtub and then took his car.

"Just as they got through handcuffing me, that's when I realized who they were," Renfrow said.

He was freed five hours later by an 18-year-old boy who heard him shouting.

Floor Vote On House Bill Expected Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee has cleared the way for the chamber to consider within the next two weeks proposals designed to trim billions of dollars from the food stamp and commodity programs.

The House Rules Committee on Thursday approved the bill for debate under a rule that will tightly limit amendments which can be considered. The bill had been endorsed last week by the Democratic-controlled House Agriculture Committee.

The Congressional Budget Office says the package will slash Agriculture Department spending by $1.3 billion in 1983 and more than $4.6 billion over the next three years.

The Reagan administration opposes the bill, saying the congressional estimates of savings are too high.

Floor consideration of the bill is expected before Congress adjourns for its two-week Labor Day recess Aug. 20.

About $1.3 billion of the bill's cuts would come in food stamps over the next three years, primarily by reducing and delaying cost-of-living adjustments for recipients and by penalizing states which have high error rates in issuing benefits.

The bill also requires corn, wheat and rice farmers to idle substantial portions of their land next year in an effort to reduce huge grain surpluses that have depressed market prices.

Also in the bill is a complex revamping of federal dairy price supports which alone is projected to save $3.3 billion over the three years.

Prisoner Cut Out Bullet Believed Linked To Robbery

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — A 25-year-old prisoner, used a smuggled razor blade to cut open his leg and remove a bullet that might have linked him to a 1976 murder, probably ruining the prosecution's case, officials said.

Hamby McCaskill, being held in the Escambia County Jail while serving a four-year sentence for an unrelated robbery conviction, apparently flushed the bullet down the toilet after cutting it out, Assistant State Attorney Ron Johnson said Thursday.

The prosecutor sought the bullet to determine if it could be linked to the death of Felton Robitzsch, 66, a gas station owner shot and killed during a June 25, 1976, robbery. Officials believe Robitzsch fired at — and hit — his assailant.

Officials said McCaskill apparently slashed out the bullet Wednesday, one day after a federal judge said the state could order the bullet surgically removed. X-rays had located the slug about half an inch inside McCaskill's left thigh, Johnson said.

Johnson said the bullet was a key piece of prosecution evidence, adding that McCaskill probably would not be charged for the slaying.

"There's a criminal statute that prohibits the destruction of physical evidence," Johnson said. "But, of course, that's very minimal compared to a murder charge."

McCaskill's attorney, public defender Terry Terrell, declined to comment and would not allow reporters to interview his client.

Capt. Odie Eddins, a jail supervisor, said McCaskill was in solitary confinement and guards were ordered to check on him every 15 minutes.

"If he flushed (the toilet), there's no trap in the bottom of the commode there," Eddins said.

"We don't have the manpower to watch one inmate 24 hours a day," he added. "The only restraint that I know of is we could have handcuffed him to the bars. But the federal courts would crucify us for something like that."

Authorities didn't learn McCaskill had cut out the bullet until he was taken Wednesday to a Pensacola hospital.

"They (hospital personnel) got him undressed and he had a bloody sock around his leg," Johnson said.

Johnson said the state wanted to compare the bullet in McCaskill's leg to the weapon used by Robitzsch, because hospital records showed McCaskill had been treated for a gunshot wound the day after the slaying.

McCaskill was arrested in Detroit in 1979 and later returned to Florida to face charges in an unrelated Pensacola robbery case.

William Robitzsch, the son of the slaying victim, broke down and cried Thursday when he learned the bullet was missing.

"Just put me in that cell with him," he said. "It's been like hell. I worked with Dad real close, and it's been pure hell going through this."

Israel Bombards West Beirut

By The Associated Press
Israeli jets and gunboats bombarded west Beirut today after Prime Minister Menachem Begin's government refused U.S. and U.N. demands to give up new military gains in the Palestinian guerrilla stronghold.

The warplanes bombed near the Lebanese prime ministry, collapsing two four-story apartment buildings in rapid divebombing sorties that shattered a 30-hour lull in the war.

There was no immediate word on casualties. But ambulances rushed victims to the American University hospital from the bombed buildings, which are about 300 yards from Prime Minister Shafik Wazzan's office.

One gunboat salvo struck near the abandoned beachfront Summerland Hotel about a half mile south of west Beirut's downtown. Guerrillas fired barrages of anti-aircraft fire but they scored no apparent hits.

Police said 12,000 people streamed out of west Beirut on foot and in bumper-to-bumper traffic Thursday after Israeli forces opened one exit for eastbound travel, and that the exodus was continuing this morning. But Israel maintained its 12-day-old blockade of food, water and power supplies to the 480,000 civilians believed remaining in west Beirut.

Correspondents in Beirut said Israeli tanks had dug in about 1.2 miles north of the Beirut international airport near the Henry Chehab Lebanese army barracks in order to tighten a noose around the Palestinian refugee camp of Bourj el-Barajneh, a major PLO stronghold.

But PLO spokesman Mahmoud Labadi said Israeli armored forces pulled out of the barracks and rolled back to the golf club ground near the airport.

At an emergency meeting of the Security Council that started at 1:52 a.m. today, the Soviet Union called for an arms embargo against Israel as punishment for rejecting the council's demand that it withdraw to the positions it held before tank charges Wednesday on three fronts in the Beirut area.

The meeting was adjourned until later today without a vote.

Israeli newspapers reported that Prime Minister Menachem Begin responded to a sharply worded message from President Reagan, which demanded "a strict cease-fire in place," by saying U.S. envoy Habib admitted he made no progress in his effort to negotiate a peaceful PLO evacuation from Beirut.

But government sources said Begin and his Cabinet were giving Habib more time to achieve this goal, and Lebanese Prime Minister Shafik Wazzan said in Beirut that the Palestine Liberation Organization had agreed to evacuate within 15 days after a proposed international peacekeeping force is deployed in the city.

Wazzan, a key intermediary between Habib and the PLO, told The Associated Press that the Palestinians no longer insist on a prior Israeli withdrawal.

Lebanon's Moslem elder statesman, Saeb Salam, told the AP the evacuation blueprint called for most of the guerrillas to go overland to Syria via the Beirut-Damascus highway, while others, especially those wounded and those wanting to go to Egypt — would leave by sea.

Other reports said this second group of PLO fighters would travel by air or sea and would include those going to Iraq.

The guerrillas would be dispersed among the Arab nations while PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat and his senior aides are expected to set up new headquarters in Tunis, Tunisia, where the Arab League is based.

State Department spokesman Alan Romberg said in Washington that Reagan's message also was meant to call on Israel to observe the cease-fire lines in effect before its advances Wednesday.

But the Israeli Cabinet, after a five-hour meeting, issued a statement saying deployment of Israeli forces would be negotiated only "on the principle that all foreign forces (meaning the Palestinians and Syrians also) will leave the sovereign territory of Lebanon."

Cabinet sources told reporters the statement constituted a refusal to withdraw from the new Israeli positions at the midpoint of the Green Line between west and east Beirut, at the edges of the Sabra and Bourj el-Barajneh Palestinian refugee camps on the city's southern outskirts and in the northern seaport area.

The Cabinet also rejected a Security Council resolution calling for the stationing of U.N. cease-fire observers in west Beirut. The statement said their presence "would signal to the terrorist organizations that they are not obliged to leave," and that Israeli forces would continue to return guerrilla fire.

The statement blamed the PLO for breakdowns in the nine U.S.-mediated truces.

The Beirut warfront was considerably quieter after Israel's 20-hour air-land-and-sea bombardment Wednesday, which the Lebanese police said killed at least 250 civilians and wounded 670 others. Sporadic sniper fire and occasional shelling was reported Thursday near the mid-city race course, site of one of the three Israeli advances, and around Bourj el-Barajneh.

The Israeli tanks pulled back in the harbor area but dug in near the southern PLO camps, and the Palestinians accused the Israelis of preparing for a long-threatened final assault on west Beirut.

An estimated 20,000 people streamed out of the Moslem sector on foot and in bumper-to-bumper traffic after Israeli forces opened one thoroughfare for eastbound travel. But Israel maintained its 12-day-old blockade of food, water and power supplies to the 480,000 civilians believed remaining in west Beirut.

Girls Town Residents In Custody

Two Girls Town residents who escaped while visiting a carnival here two weeks ago have been taken into custody by juvenile authorities.

Randy Williams, county juvenile officer, said information from local citizens aided in the apprehension of the two girls, 13 and 14 years old.

The 13-year-old girl had been living in an abandoned house and was found Thursday morning.

Wednesday afternoon the 14-year-old was located at a residence where she had been staying.

Both were from Dallas. Girls Town authorities will keep custody of one of the girls, the other youth will return to Dallas.

An estimated 20,000 people streamed out of the Moslem sector on foot and in bumper-to-bumper traffic after Israeli forces opened one thoroughfare for eastbound travel. But Israel maintained its 12-day-old blockade of food, water and power supplies to the 480,000 civilians believed remaining in west Beirut.

In east Beirut, a car packed with dynamite exploded outside the dining room of a hotel frequented by Israeli officers and foreign correspondents, the seven-story Alexandre. Nine people were injured slightly, windows were shattered, three other cars were destroyed, and five were badly damaged.

An Israeli army spokesman blamed the PLO for the bombing, but a spokesman for the rightist Christian Phalange militia which controls in east Beirut said he did not know who was responsible.

U.S. presidential envoy Philip C. Habib met with Lebanese intermediaries to discuss a new PLO offer to leave Beirut under U.S.-guaranteed safe passage to neighboring Syria, Lebanon's state radio and television reported.

The New York Times and the Washington Post reported that the United States and the PLO were close to agreement on a plan for a 14-day withdrawal of guerrilla forces. These reports said guerrillas going to Syria and Jordan would travel by bus or truck via the Beirut-Damascus highway, those going to Iraq would go by air and those leaving for Egypt and other Arab countries would go by air or sea.

The PLO leadership would supervise the withdrawal and would remain in Beirut until it was completed, the papers said.

the wild population out there should be left alone as much as possible."

Steven G. Herman of Evergreen State College in Olympia, Wash., head of a scientific advisory committee on the condor, said the tagging was unlikely to produce enough information to justify any risk to an endangered species, and "We feel strongly that healthy wild adult condors should be exempted from the hazards of trapping and marking."

The federal biologists, however, argued that radio tagging should help them understand why condors are disappearing.

Rogers, acting director of the service's Patuxent Wildlife Research Center in Laurel, Md., said the decision "is going to compromise a program that we thought was minimal to begin with. They have essentially abrogated the three-year program that was agreed to."

He stopped short of threatening to end the Condor Recovery Project, but said, "We'll wait to see something in writing...and then we'll say, 'Is there anything here that might make it not worthwhile?'"

The federal agency has spent an estimated $25 million on the decades-old project of captive breeding and field study, but the state commission must approve any handling of the birds that once ruled the Western skies but have now dwindled. They nest in the mountains about 100 miles north of Los Angeles.

Biologist Brian J. Walton of the University of California-Santa Cruz warned of "forgetting the urgency in this. This is probably the world's rarest bird that's been studied to any extent."

Rogers had been hoping to expand the project. The commission reluctantly agreed last year to allow the radio-tagging of two adult birds and the capture of three others for the core of a captive flock to produce offspring that would be returned to the nesting area.

But the team, which also includes members of the National Audubon Society, has been unable to catch any, so Rogers sought permission to amend the agreement to permit taking three eggs and up to three chicks.

The proposal said only two chicks would be taken if an adolescent female could be trapped for use as a mate for Topa-Topa, the Los Angeles zoo's male condor that was found injured several years ago.

Boost

productive to everything the president believes in and stands for."

Reps. William Danenmeyer and John Roussetol, both R-Calif., agreed.

All sides in the tax debate say there is little chance the tax increase can become law unless at least half the 192 GOP members of the House support it. About 80 of them have signed a letter to Reagan saying they will oppose the bill on grounds it runs counter to the economic program passed last year.

Meanwhile, the Senate-House conference committee that is writing a compromise version of the tax bill approved a higher tax on employers to finance unemployment compensation. It would cost employers an extra $1.20 per month per worker.

But the panel delayed until next week consideration of a plan to provide an additional 10 to 13 weeks of unemployment benefits — to a maximum of 49 to 52 weeks — for many of the nation's jobless. Republican leaders hope such a benefits increase would make the tax bill easier for some lawmakers to accept.

The Senate, in a non-binding 84-13 vote Thursday, urged the committee to approve higher benefits because only about 43 percent of the nation's jobless workers are now receiving any unemployment compensation at all.

State

Texas' jobless rate on the state's increasing ties to the national economy through diversified industries.

TEC spokesman Jerry Biscoe said that means "any downturn nationally is going to affect us."

Travland said summertime is traditionally a high unemployment time, though, with students seeking work and graduates entering the job force for the first time.

West Texas' economy is still heavily tied to the oil industry, and slowdowns in both production and exploration contributed to high jobless rates in Midland and Odessa in June, Travland said.

Correspondingly, when exploration and production slows down, the need for equipment does, too, Travland said, leading to layoffs in industries in Houston and Dallas.

TEC officials have been particularly concerned about layoffs, which create a drain on the state's unemployment benefits fund.

They have predicted that employers will see a rise of up to 2,000 percent in unemployment taxes when the new rate is computed in October. Texas employers currently pay $6 per month per employee — the lowest rate in the nation.

That figure could go up to $14 per month per employee if layoffs continue, TEC officials have said.

ed, and the association is receiving the cemetery debt free.

But, while the ownership comes debt free, other problems are still to be overcome by the brand new association. With no equipment to work with, upkeep of the cemetery is being done by volunteer workers who hold work days at the site on a regular basis.

In addition, the well at the cemetery, which provides water for the grounds, broke down recently.

Dwaine Walker, chairman of the steering committee, said that arrangements have been made for repairs to be done to the well at a cost of $2,400, however.

Craig informed the group that he would submit a charter application for the new association to the Secretary of state's office either today or Monday. The approval of the charter is the next step in the legal process.

Walker was elected president of the board by the six other board members, who included Mrs. Kreig, Garland Solomon, Pauline Howard, John Schneider, Mrs. Revella Skypala, and Clinton Jackson. Schneider was elected vice-president of the board, while Mrs. Kreig was elected secretary, and Ms. Howard, treasurer.

With a desperate need for the well repairs, and the need for a lawn mower (at an estimated cost of $2,500 - $3,200) many of the new stockholders in attendance donated money to the association's operating fund following the meeting.

Mrs. Kreig reported that over $2,000 was received, giving the association some $3,600 to work with in taking care of the facility.

Still, Walker said that much of the work will have to be done by volunteers. The group will hold another work day at the cemetery Saturday morning.

With the transfer of the property came a perpetual care fund of $19,564.06, on which interest is earned. The association will receive about $1,600 per year in interest to be used for care of the grounds.

units, the YMCA, Senior Citizens, Day Care Center and others. "We had people ask us if there would be space in the future to build a new high school, or new hospital, in the complex area."

Both Conkwright and Thomas said the committee would "pursue all areas" in seeking private contributions for such a complex. Thomas said the Amarillo Area Foundation has indicated an interest in the project.

Thomas added the "great financial conditions of the local governmental units suggests that this might be a timely project" for the public support of such a project.

All of the C of C directors complimented the committee on its work and planning. There was no opposition on a voice vote on the proposition, however Buddy Peeler indicated for the record that he was present but did not vote.

Upon approving the continuing study of the project, the chamber board charged the same Special Events Committee to proceed with the presentations and planning. The preliminary study was based on personal interviews, questionnaires, and private research accomplished by the Department of Park Administration and Landscape Architecture at Texas Tech.

The survey and research costs for the master plan were funded by First National Bank and Hereford State Bank. The study, research, survey and slide presentation costs amounted to $2,500.

Directors attending the meeting included Bill Johnson, Bob Sims, Tom Burdett, Irene McKinster, Bobby Owen, Buddy Peeler, Cal Jones, John Stagner, Bob Gentry, Don Tardy, Danny Boyer and Carolyn Canon. A special guest was State Rep. Bob Simpson of Amarillo.

United Methodist Enjoy Brunch

Members of the United Methodist Women met recently in the home of Evelyn Kirby for a brunch.

Sandwiches, quiche, fresh fruit, coffee and punch were served from a festive refreshment table. Serving as co-hostesses were Marjorie Mims, Helen Langley, Virginia Garner, Norma Walden and Troyce Hanna.

Following the brunch, Ms. Langley, VMW president, presented Ms. Kirby who gave an interesting and inspirational review of the National assembly of United Methodist Women that was held in Philadelphia, Pa.

She noted that this city is famous for its historical buildings, sculptures, fountains and colorful flowers.

Approximately 10,000 women attended the Assembly where many current issues were discussed. The communion service was very impressive, stated Ms. Kirby.

The speaker also reported that 1800 women attended a group meeting with the theme "Teach Me How to Pray". Smaller prayer groups assembled during the meeting.

At the conclusion of the review, Ms. Kirby led the group in singing "Rule of Life" and "Through It All", both of which were sung at the assembly. She was accompanied by pianist, Mae McCracken.

Before adjourning, Ms. Langley announced that an executive meeting is planned for 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in the library of First United Methodist Church.

Ann Landers Drop Charges AND Him

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was seeing a 48-year-old man on a steady basis. I am a young-looking 39.

Last December a 17-year-old girl moved into Rodney's apartment. I thought nothing of it when he said she was a friend of his 20-year-old niece. The arrangement was that she would pay half the rent, a good deal for them both, seeing as how she was new in town and needed a place to live and couldn't afford an apartment alone.

A friend tipped me off that the 17-year-old was no friend of anybody's and that she and Rodney were shacked up. When I confronted him, he slapped me around, loosened three side teeth and gave me a shiner. The following day I laid an assault charge on him. The charge got an unusual amount of publicity, and Rodney is now in danger of losing his job. Also, his wife has threatened to take away his visiting privileges. (They have three underaged children.)

The question: should I drop the charges or not, Ann? I can't handle this kind of guilt and I am - Very Mixed Up In Ohio

DEAR VERY MIXED: Drop the charges AND Rodney. (P.S. There's an awful lot of sound advice in that five-word answer. I hope you take it.)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We are parents who are very fortunate in that we were able to adopt a beautiful little girl. The following year we were again fortunate. I became pregnant and had a lovely baby boy.

Often we are introduced (in the presence of our youngsters) as "the couple who adopted a child and then had one of their own." Without realizing it, these people are making it sound as if the adopted child is not really ours. We are concerned that our daughter may feel that she is not as close to us as her brother as she gets older.

Any couple who has adopted a child will tell you that once the little one is in their arms, it is the same as giving birth. There is no feeling of partiality to children who may be blood-related. We realize that folks who make this thoughtless distinction mean no harm. They mention it merely as a point of interest.

Please tell us how to deal with it. - Proud Parents In Chippewa Falls, Wis.

DEAR PARENTS: The damaging phrase is "and then they had one of their own." When you hear it, immediately say, "Both children are our own - there is no difference whatever." When your youngsters hear you make this statement, it will reinforce the concept that they are equal in your eyes, and you will not be faced with the problem you fear when they are older.

Women's Golf Association Plans Scramble Tournament

Plans for the next play day were discussed Tuesday evening as the Hereford Women's Golf Association met at Hereford State Bank.

The play day will consist of a scramble tournament, which is a "fun-type tournament." All members of the Golf Association and beginners who have always wanted to play golf are encouraged to meet at the city golf course at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 10.

Those who attend will draw for partners. A large number of women golfers are expected to participate.

The Golf Association will play an 18-hole handicap tournament Saturday, Aug. 21. Members should call the Pro Shop by noon Thursday, Aug. 19, to sign up for this tournament.

Information concerning the 18-hole mixed couples tournament, scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 12, will be sent out at a later date. Tee-off time for this tournament is 8:30 a.m.

After the meeting, the members enjoyed a question and answer session concerning golf problems on the course.

Helen Ann McWhorter gave helpful tips on putting and chipping.

Members present were Arvella Lauderback, Cindy Burnam, Lillie Shipman, Pat Goforth, Ms. McWhorter, Norma Coffey, Rose Marie Robinson, Therese Albracht, and Norma Hendon.

The next meeting of the Women's Golf Association will be 7:30 p.m., Sept. 7, at Hereford State Bank.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband's name is Robert. He does not like to be called Bob and I hate it. Robert is a lovely sounding name. Bob means to cut off. (Ugh!)

He works with large numbers of people who come and go. When one person begins to call him Bob, everyone else picks up on it. How can he put a stop to people calling him a name he dislikes? - Boo To Bob In Berkeley

DEAR BOO: Persistence, my dear. Whenever someone calls him Bob, he should say, "Please call me Robert." If he keeps at it diligently, he is sure to eliminate at least 75 percent of those who want to bob him.

Twins Spoil Tiant's Major League Return

By HERSCHEL NISSESON
AP Sports Writer

showing much respect for their elders lately.

The 41-year-old Tiant, purchased by California earlier in the week from the Mexican League, saw his return to the Angels 8-6. "I wasn't as sharp as I could have been," said Tiant. "But I have no excuses. When you make a mistake, you have to pay for it."

In other American League games, the Baltimore Orioles trimmed the Kansas City Royals 5-1, the Detroit Tigers swept a doubleheader from the Toronto Blue Jays 5-2 and 7-4 and the Texas Rangers trounced the New York Yankees 7-2.

Tiant, who last pitched in the majors with the Pittsburgh Pirates a year ago, started out like a late entry for Comeback Player of the Year, striking out five of the first nine Twins he faced. But with Tim Laudner, who singled, and Bobby Mitchell, who walked, on base with two out in the third inning, Washington homered to give the Twins a 3-1 lead.

The Twins made it 4-1 in the fourth when Gary Gaetti doubled and scored on the first of two RBI singles by Mickey Hatcher, which chased Tiant. Minnesota had one final jab at the ancient right-hander.

"I really got fired up for Tiant," said 22-year-old rookie Kent Hrbek, who got a single before Tiant left. "I remember meeting him in Minneapolis when I was 8 years old."

In the first game, Glenn Wilson's single, Alan Trammell's triple and Lou Whitaker's sacrifice fly gave the Tigers a 2-0 lead against Luis Leal in the fifth inning and Rick Leach rapped a two-run double in the sixth.

Rangers 7, Yankees 2
Dave Hosteller homered and drove in four runs for Texas while knuckleballer Charlie Hough scattered eight hits over seven innings in beating the Yankees for the third time this season. Hosteller, who drove in four runs with a pair of homers against New York last Sunday, slugged a two-run homer, his 17th, in the first inning off winless Doyle Alexander, the Rangers added a run in the second on an RBI single by Mike Richardt and Hosteller's two-run single in the third chased the Yankee starter.

Orioles 5, Royals 1
Jim Palmer held Kansas City hitless for five innings and finished with a three-hitter for his seventh consecutive victory as Baltimore snapped a six-game losing streak to the Royals. However, Kansas City held on to first place in the AL West, one percentage point ahead of the Angels. The third-place Orioles are 3 1/2 games out in the AL East.

Palmer shut Kansas City out until the seventh inning when George Brett homered. Al Bumbry provided the first Oriole run when he hit a leadoff homer off Vida Blue in the bottom of the first inning. The Orioles chased Blue in the fourth when they scored three runs, two on Rich Dauer's bases-loaded single.

Tigers 5-7, Blue Jays 2-4
Jerry Turner drove in three runs with a homer and single in the second game after the Tigers won the opener behind Jerry Ujdur's seven-hit pitching. With Toronto leading 2-1 in the nightcap, Larry Herndon opened the Detroit fourth with a single and scored on Turner's homer off Roy Lee Jackson. The Tigers wrapped it up with three runs in the fifth on Tom Brookens' two-run single and Turner's RBI single.

Women Finally Win Event; Davis Tops Wilkie Mark

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador (AP) — It took four days of competition before Mary T. Meagher finally gave the U.S. women's team a victory at the World Swimming Championships.

That was nothing, however, compared to the six years it took for someone to break the men's 200-meter breaststroke world record set by Great Britain's David Wilkie in the 1976 Olympics at Montreal.

Victor Davis of Canada overwhelmed the field in the second 100 meters Thursday night to win the event in 2 minutes, 14.77 seconds, surpassing Wilkie's record by .34 seconds.

Meagher, 17, of Louisville, Ky., the world record-holder in both women's butterfly events, earned a place on the victory stand with a clocking of 59.41 in the 100 butterfly. Although she was almost 1 1/2 seconds off her own world mark in the event, Meagher was still comfortably ahead of her opposition.

Ines Geissler of East Germany won the silver medal in 1:00.36 and Melanie Budemeyer of Penn Hills, Pa., was just another .04 behind in third.

The U.S. women went into the day with no gold medals, one silver and four bronzes in four days of events. But Meagher and her teammates added a gold, a silver and a bronze in two events Thursday.

In addition, Kim Linehan of Sarasota, Fla., and Tiffany Cohen of Mission Viejo, Calif., were the first and third-fastest qualifiers for tonight's final in the women's 800 freestyle.

Davis, silver medalist in the 100 breaststroke behind Steve Lundquist of Jonesboro, Ga., definitely swam better in the 200. Robertas Zhulpa of the Soviet Union was more than two seconds behind the world record-setter to win the silver in 2:16.68, while John Moffet of Costa Mesa, Calif., won his second breaststroke bronze medal with a 2:18.54.

Sweden's Hans Simonsson beat Mike Cahill 2-6, 6-2, 6-4, to advance to Friday's semifinals against No. 6 seed Andres Gomez of Ecuador, a 3-3, 7-6 winner over Spain's Juan Aguilera.

and never was in contention in the tournament. She admitted initial pressure Thursday, but she settled down quickly and carded three birdies without a bogey.

With 4-Under 68

Smith Holds Boston Lead

DANVERS, Mass. (AP) — Former New Zealand champion M.J. Smith figures a two-week vacation from golf was just what she needed.

As far as 1981 U.S. Open champion Pat Bradley was concerned, a homecoming without fanfare was in order.

And veteran Hollis Stacy said there was nothing exciting about her round.

Smith, 30 and winless in nine years since joining the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, fired a 4-under par 68 Thursday for the first-round lead in the $175,000 Boston Five Classic.

Seven players were tied at 71. Then came an 11-way traffic jam at par 72, with Sandra Haynie, needing less than $5,000 to take the lead in 1982 prize money, and reigning LPGA champion Jan Stephenson in the group.

Bunched at 73 were recently crowned U.S. Open champ Janet Alex and million-dollar winners Kathy Whitworth and JoAnne Carner.

Bradley, who grew up in Westford just a few miles from here, and Stacy each shot 69. That put them one stroke ahead of Muffin Spencer-Devlin, former New England champion Jane Blalock, Vivian Brownlee, Judy Clark, Kathy Postlewait and Joyce Kazmierski.

Bradley, cheered on by her family in a bid for her first LPGA victory since the U.S. Open last year, noted the difference in returning home.

WHO AM I?

As a kid, I loved pastry. Oddly, I'm not so famous anymore. I was a 320 hitter with seven 100-RBI seasons. Yet they remember my fielding best. John McGraw called me baseball's greatest "team player."

ANSWER: Harold "Pie" Traynor. He managed the Pirates (1924-39) and also was the first baseman for the Pittsburgh Pirates (1920-39 and 1937). He also managed the Pirates (1924-39).

Floyd Stuns PGA Field

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — The round of Ray Floyd's life was just one swing short of perfection.

Floyd hit the ball 63 times Thursday to take the first-round lead of the 64th PGA Championship and there's just one stroke he wants back.

"I blocked a drive on the third hole and missed the fairway," he said of his record-shattering 7-under-par round. "I would say that was the only ball I hit that was not a good shot."

Floyd parred the hole anyway on a 102-degree day during which he beat Jack Nicklaus by 11 shots, Tom Watson by nine and runners-up Bob Gilder and Greg Norman, who had 66s, by three strokes.

Nine straight 3's highlighted Floyd's round over the steamy Southern Hills Country Club in which he played the sixth through 15th holes in 30 shots.

"It's the best round I've played anywhere and something I will remember forever," Floyd said. "I might not ever shoot a score like that the rest of my career."

Floyd broke his own competitive course record of 65 and tied the best 18-hole record in PGA history set by Bruce Crampton in 1975.

It was the lowest first round ever in the PGA, shaving Bobby Nichols' 1964 record by a shot.

Golfing millionaire Floyd one-putted nine times over the tricky bent grass greens.

After routinely paring the first six holes, Floyd exploded on his historic round with a 16-foot birdie putt on the 383-yard No. 7.

Floyd, the 1969 PGA champion, saved par out of a bunker on the eighth green and holed a 10-footer for birdie on No. 9, going out in 2-under-33.

He tied the PGA nine-hole record on the backside with a 5-under-par 30. However, Fred Couples later broke the mark with a 29 by making birdies on the last six holes.

Floyd was in a 1:36 p.m. CDT pairing today with Gary Player and Hale Irwin.

Floyd has won the Danny

Thomas-Memphis Classic and the Memorial Tournament in 1982. He's fourth on the money list at $226,000.

The lifetime winner of $1.7 million, Floyd owns two major titles in his 15 victories, the aforementioned PGA title and the 1976 Masters.

"That 63 by Floyd was just incredible," said Couples.

At 3-under-par 67 with Couples were Rex Caldwell and Nick Faldo. Vance Heafner, Mark Pfeil, David Graham, Jim Simons and John Jackson were at 68.

Watson, trying to add the PGA to his current U.S. and British Open titles, needed 35 putts for his 72.

Nicklaus birdied the first hole then struggled the rest of the day because of a balky driver.

"I'll have to ask my head why," said Nicklaus. "My head doesn't have an answer yet."

Defending champion Larry Nelson and 52-year-old Arnold shot 4-over-par 74s, while Masters champion Craig Stadler posted a 71.

Braves Errors Aid Dodgers; Seaver, Reds Trim Padres

By BARRY WILNER AP
Sports Writer

Rick Monday has been around long enough to know that you stick around until the very end of a baseball game. Otherwise, you might miss a spectacular comeback.

"I was never one to leave the park early," said Monday. "In this game you can't take anything for granted."

The Atlanta Braves will attest to that after blowing Thursday night's game with the Dodgers on shoddy fielding. Los Angeles moved within 4½ games of the first-place Braves with a 3-2, 10-inning triumph greatly aided by three Atlanta errors.

The key miscue came with two out in the bottom of the ninth and Pedro Guerrero on second base as the tying run. Pinch-hitter Monday's sharp grounder went through the legs of Braves second baseman Jerry Royster to tie the game.

"That's my specialty — game-ending plays," said Royster. "I didn't get down on it. It was a simple play, I messed it up. It was the biggest bonehead play since I've been in the majors."

"I was upset when I hit the ball," said Monday. "It was hit hard but right where he was standing. But it was hooking and spinning."

Atlanta, which has lost five games to the Dodgers in the last week, jumped ahead 2-0 on Claudell Washington's long homer off Fernando Valenzuela in the fifth. A throwing error by catcher Bruce Benedict on a steal by Steve Sax helped LA to its first run.

The winning run came on Ron Cey's bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the 10th. Sax led off with a bloop single which Washington bobbled in right field as Sax advanced to second. He was sacrificed to third by Ken Landreaux and, after two intentional walks, Cey won it.

Valenzuela was knocked out of the game in the sixth when struck on the left knee by a line drive off the bat of Bob Horner. Valenzuela sustained a bruise on his knee but wasn't expected to miss a start.

Elsewhere, Cincinnati took San Diego 4-2, San Francisco beat Houston 5-2, Montreal topped Philadelphia 2, Chicago whipped New York 5-1 and St. Louis beat Pittsburgh 7-3.

Reds 4, Padres 2
Tom Seaver had gone five weeks without a victory, so he called on his old prey from San Diego. Seaver, 5-11, allowed one run on four hits over six innings to earn his first victory since June 26.

"I felt good for five innings. I had some pop on the ball but I didn't want to irritate the inflammation in my shoulder," said Seaver, who won for the 18th time in 21 decisions at San Diego Stadium. He is 32-7 lifetime against the Padres.

Johnny Bench hit a solo home run and Wayne Krenchicki added a two-run pinch-hit single for Cincinnati.

Expos 9, Phillies 2
Joel Youngblood kept busy running around for the second straight day with three hits, three RBI, a stolen base and an excellent fielding play in right for the Expos. Youngblood joined Montreal Wednesday night and collected a single after knocking in two runs for the New York Mets in an afternoon game in Chicago. Midway through that game, he was told he'd been dealt to Montreal and to head to Philadelphia.

The pace was slightly less hectic for Youngblood on Thursday, though he had to go some to keep up with teammates Tim Lincecum (5-for-6, three runs-scored and two stolen bases) and Tim Wallach, who belted his first major-league grand slam.

Cardinals 7, Pirates 3
Ken Oberkfell rapped a pair of two-run doubles and Steve Mura hurled a four-hitter in the rain-shortened contest.

Watson-Stadler Pairing 'Illustrious'

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — The royalty of golf was concentrated in the two men who strode down the fairway side-by-side in drab-colored slacks, wrinkled white shirts and eyeshades.

No fancy, horizontally-striped threads. No fancy pants of rainbow hue. No broad-brimmed plantation hats. No flamboyant gestures. No quips of the lip sending the gallery into hysterics.

Tom Watson and Craig Stadler have stolen tournament golf from the agents, the merchandisers and the Madison Avenue image-makers and brought the ancient game back to Main Street.

When the paunchy, mustachioed Stadler won the Masters in the spring, he brought a sense of pride to every hard-hat construction worker and truck driver who plays the municipal course in 110 on the weekend and washes down his frustration in the corner pub.

When the boyish, gap-toothed Watson pulled off a miracle chip shot to beat the great Jack Nicklaus at the U.S. Open and followed that with a victory at the British Open at Troon, Scotland, every-day guys everywhere had a new hero to cheer.

These two modern giants of the game — 1-2 on the money list and holders of seven 1982 tournament victories between them, including all the major crowns — were a choice pairing in the first round of the PGA Championship at Southern Hills here Thursday.

It was a good time to see if the game's two most successful players actually were as bland and dull as some observers had pictured them.

When Stadler won the Masters, there were purists who thought it must be some kind of crude trick. After all, golf heroes are supposed to be lean and blond-haired stylists or characters with quick wit and a flair for showmanship.

When Watson robbed Nicklaus of his 20th major victory in the Open at Pebble Beach, some critics were stricken with despair.

One sports columnist was particularly pessimistic, saying that with the unspectacular Watson as the new king the game certainly would diminish in appeal. The Kansan's lack of charisma, he argued, would send fan appeal and TV ratings tumbling.

What tommyrot. This foreboding was quickly erased when fans by the thousands scrambled for vantage spots and wildly cheered golf's new but unpretentious champions every step of the way around the course.

Stadler, old "Walrus Face," and Watson, freckled, copper-hatched Huckleberry Finn right out of Mark Twain, carry their own brand of charisma. It's next-door America. Neither has ever seemed overly concerned about the image they supposedly project.

"I'm just myself," says Stadler, emphasizing that he likes his bushy mustache and isn't comfortable at a lighter weight.

Watson shrugs and says, "To me, charisma is sinking a 20-foot putt to win the Open."

No one could put it more graphically. Athletes in the limelight create their own charisma. And when they become winners, as have Stadler and Watson, that charisma, regardless of what it entails, becomes fashionable.

Walter Hagen's charisma was all-night parties and showing up in a tuxedo at the first tee. Bob Jones was the round-faced, gentlemanly Boy Wonder. Sam Snead's charisma was a swing made in heaven, Arnold Palmer's a charm and charge that thrilled the gallery, Lee Trevino's a wisecrack at every tee.

No player in history was ever blander than Ben Hogan — dour, tight-lipped, a veritable machine dubbed by the Scots "The Wee Ice Man." Yet few provided the same thrill and excitement as did this cold-eyed Texan when he was methodically dissecting a golf course.

Nicklaus' charisma escalated as his career moved inexorably through two decades — the one-time fat kid with the crew haircut who in mid-stream changed his image to a golden-haired matinee idol. He connoted majesty as he proceeded in amassing more major championships than one can dream of.

It's true that Watson, although bright and articulate, was by nature an introvert. He always has been pleasant and cooperative but never outgoing. He tended toward privacy.

Friends say, however, that after beating Nicklaus for his first Open crown, Watson has become more relaxed, freer in spirit and more comfortable with the distractions of his fame.

Stadler's charisma lies in his innate naturalness, refusal to conform and remarkable shot-making ability.

"The Walrus" and "Huckleberry Finn" — who says golf has lost its lustre?

American painter James A. McNeill Whistler flunked out of West Point. He would have graduated in the class of 1855 had he passed chemistry.

WHO AM I?

They call me the world's greatest Olympic champ. At age 20, I won my first gold medal. That happened in Melbourne. It began my streak of four Olympic titles in the same event. Nobody else has ever done that.

ANSWER: Al Oerter, the U.S. discus thrower who earned Olympic gold medals in 1956, 1960, 1964 and 1968.

Canada's Economy Makes U.S. Look Healthy

TORONTO (AP) — Canada is suffering a combination of economic ailments this summer that makes the economy of the United States look pink-cheeked and healthy: Unemployment has hit a post-war peak at 10.9 percent, compared to 9.5 percent in the United States. Inflation is refusing to follow the American example and crumble under the weight of the recession. And interest rates are so high that some major corporations — notably Dome Petroleum — are having trouble making payments on bank loans that financed acquisitions and expansions. In Calgary, where the once-booming oil exploration business has gone bust, real estate developer Len Wong has shelved plans for an exclusive Millionaire's Club. "All the millionaires are broke," Wong said. The Canadian consumer has lost confidence. The Conference Board of Canada's monthly index of consumer confidence in June was at its lowest level ever. One of the findings of the business research group used to compile the index was that only 8 percent of the consumers and businessmen questioned in a survey believed the economy will improve in the next six months. The consumers' lack of confidence isn't surprising: —On a single day last month — dubbed Black Thursday by the Toronto Star — six companies announced a total of 6,000 layoffs in Ontario. Since August 1981, 382,000 jobs have been lost nationwide. —The consumer price index in July was 11.2 percent higher than in the same month last year. U.S. inflation was 7.1 percent for the 12 months ending in June, according to the White House. —The Canadian prime rate has been fluctuating with the U.S. prime rate but usually a point or more higher. The U.S. rate dropped this week to 15 percent, a 21-month low. —Although it has rebounded recently to about 80 cents U.S., the Canadian dollar plummeted to 76.8 cents on June 28, a record low, in what critics said was an international vote of no-confidence in the economic policies of Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's government. The crunch hurts all the more because it came suddenly. A year ago Canadian inflation was high but unemployment was not much over 7 percent. Since then the western provinces of Alberta and British Columbia have seen their jobless rates double. In Sudbury, a northern Ontario mining city where the unemployment rate is 30 percent, a national theater chain cut the price of a ticket to the movies from $4.25 (Canadian) to $2 because of the economy. "We've been in business in Sudbury for many years," said Jerry Dillon, general manager of Famous Players Ltd. "We've made money there, and we know the city is going through some tough times, so we decided to give something back." The federal government announced a new recession-and inflation-fighting budget in June, including a 6 percent limit on public service pay increases this year and a 5 percent limit next year. The same 6 percent and 5 percent boundaries are supposed to apply to prices charged by federally owned and regulated businesses — an important sector in Canada, where government plays a large role in the economy. Already Air Canada, the government airline, and Bell Canada, the regulated telephone company, have said they need much higher price hikes to cover costs. Trudeau is urging businesses and labor unions to follow the same guidelines, but acknowledges that many Canadians will respond by asking, "Why should I be the sucker?" "And, indeed, anybody who accepts the 6 and 5 is a sucker if the majority of everyone else doesn't," Trudeau told reporters at a news conference. Among those lining up to fight the prime minister's program are the federal employee unions. The president of the Public Service Alliance of Canada, Pierre Samson, called the government's approach "discriminatory, punitive, repressive and generally bad legislation." Business critics and the opposition Progressive Conservative Party say Trudeau's Liberal government has allowed the federal deficit to soar while scaring off investment. Labor unions and the New Democrats, Canada's socialist third party, say more job-creation programs and a government-ordered drop in interest rates would restart the economy. Agencies providing shelter, food or other social services say they are being overwhelmed, but some of the pain of the recession is eased by government benefits that are generous by U.S. standards. If a Toronto wage-earner supporting his wife and two children loses his $300-a-week job, he becomes eligible for $210 a week in unemployment benefits. When those checks run out after 52 weeks, the family could get $615 a month in welfare. There is not much outcry even among conservatives in Canada for Reagan-style cutbacks in social spending or taxes. "There's a strong demand for government services here," said Tom Maxwell, chief economist of the Conference Board of Canada. Economic analysts are hoping that a recovery this year in the United States will boost the Canadian economy. But Wendy Dobson, executive director of the C.D. Howe Institute, a Montreal-based think tank, said, "There are still a lot of scared people who think the bottom hasn't been reached."

Crisis Threatening Astronauts' Baby Is Over, Doctor Says

HOUSTON (AP) — Doctors say a crisis that threatened the life of the first baby born to American astronauts is over now, and the child should outgrow any effects of the lung disease he suffered at birth. Ten-day-old Paul Seddon Gibson took the news calmly Thursday at a news conference held to explain his health situation. He opened his eyes briefly, yawned at a crowd of news reporters, and went back to sleep in his mother's arms. The son of astronauts Margaret Rhea Seddon, 34, and Robert L. "Hoot" Gibson, 35, had to be flown from a suburban hospital to the larger Hermann Hospital by helicopter soon after birth July 26 because of "meconium aspiration syndrome" and its complications. Dr. Eugene W. Adcock III said the disease occurs when a thick, goopy secretion from the infant's bowel is inhaled before birth and clogs the lungs. He said it kills up to three-fourths of infants affected. "I'd say it was a close call," Adcock said. "Anytime you're dealing with a mortality rate of 50 to 75 percent it's a close call." Adcock said when the disease progressed into its second phase, pneumonia, the baby had to be put on a machine to supply his blood with oxygen for four days. "He responded very favorably to this," Adcock said. He said the child was allowed to go home Sunday night and has been breast-feeding and improving for a week. Complete recovery is anticipated. "It may go on for a matter of weeks in which the baby will have some wheezing. With time, as Paul gains weight and grows, that airway will heal itself and the respiratory problems will go away," Adcock said. Mrs. Gibson, a medical doctor who works as an astronaut's physician at the Johnson Space Center here, said she has been using her stethoscope on her baby to listen to his breathing. "He's a good and healthy baby," she said. Gibson complained in jest about the baby's crying. "He didn't sound at all last night like he was having any lung problems," Gibson said. The parents, neither of whom has flown in space yet, said they hoped their son would share their desire to explore space. "He made his first helicopter ride when he was less than 12 hours old. He flew with me in jet planes before he was born — before NASA found out. I think he's got a good start at becoming an astronaut himself," Mrs. Gibson said.

Australian Begins Attempt To Fly Helicopter Around World

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Dick Smith, a millionaire businessman from Australia, admitted he'd rather have two engines to depend on during his around-the-world jaunt. But the small, single-engine chopper he boarded Thursday morning is so fun to fly that "it's worth it," he said. "Most people you talk to say it's impossible to fly a helicopter around the world. I think that's the challenge," said Smith, 38. "You can do it in a 747, but you're up too high. I'll be just a thousand feet up, so I can see everything. I'll see the world like it's never been seen before." Smith took off at 10:25 a.m. Thursday from the Bell Helicopter Textron plant, which built the $350,000 single-engine Bell JetRanger-III he is flying. Smith is dividing the journey into three segments — arriving in London Aug. 19, in Sydney in early October, and back in Fort Worth next July 22, the 50th anniversary of the date Wiley Post finished the first solo flight around the world in an airplane. To make the flight safer and more comfortable, Smith and mechanics have equipped the aircraft with an automatic pilot, an auxiliary fuel tank and a VLF Omega navigation system that will tell Smith how to get anywhere in the world, which course to take, how many miles off course he is, and what time he will arrive. Smith will carry a full range of safety and survival equipment, including a life raft, and will wear a special Arctic survival suit during the North Atlantic crossing.

WILL BE CONVERTING THE PRESENT COMPANY OWNED OPERATION TO A LOCALLY OWNED AND OPERATED BUSINESS IN HEREFORD, TEXAS

We're looking for Sales Agents with an urge to break out on their own. And, we may have just what you're looking for in our established business. Our unique Sales Agency Store program offers an exciting opportunity to operate a business of your own with a moderate investment, and also gives you the opportunity to take advantage of the investment we've already made, as well as over a century of Catalog business experience. Once you become a Sales Agent, you can use Wards name, catalogs and credit. Sell our branded merchandise with over 100,000 items, and have access to the same systems, concepts and materials we use to operate our company-owned stores. Best of all, your investment will probably be considerably less than would be required for a regular retail business with similar sales volume. If you are willing to accept responsibility in return for a future in your own business, we'd like to talk about your personal qualifications, and give you more details about our plan. 'Same Time, Better Station'

NEW YORK (AP) — "Same time, better station." That's the on-air promotional pitch for "Taxi," which begins its reprieve season Sept. 30 on NBC after four award-winning years at ABC. NBC announced last week that the new "Taxi" would be driving the same route. That means Thursdays at 9:30 p.m. Eastern time, giving NBC the best single night on television.

It starts with "Fame" at 8, then a highly touted new comedy called "Cheers," followed by "Taxi" and TV's finest hour, "Hill Street Blues." NBC did us all a favor by moving "Taxi" into the spot held down by "Gimme A Break." Now we don't have to switch the dial to watch "Hill Street."

L. Brooks, executive producer of "Taxi." "It's kind of ambitious for NBC to program a quality night like that."

In fact, NBC plans to exploit that schedule's superiority over other nights at all three networks. The network plans to launch a campaign that will sound like this: "For those who think there's not much good on television, watch NBC on Thursday night."

ABC turned off the meter on "Taxi," which won best-comedy Emmys in each of its first three seasons, because of eroding audiences. One of the only ABC comedies to play up to the public's intelligence, "Taxi" ranked 10th and 13th in the ratings race in its first two seasons. Last year, it was 53rd.

"Barney Miller," the other sophisticated ABC comedy, finished 54th. That show was also dropped from the schedule, but that was because the producers were running out of ideas and they pulled the rug out from themselves.

Brooks reacted angrily to cancellation of "Taxi" last spring, calling it "an incompetent decision." After NBC came to the rescue, ABC axed the series' reruns. ABC is allowed two plays on each episode, but the network stopped rerunning "Taxi" June 10. In contrast, "Barney Miller" is getting a full summer showing.

Going Through Baseball's Hall

NEW YORK (AP) — During "The Game and Its Glory: Baseball's Hall of Fame," on NBC Saturday night, revered major league players are reduced to stargazing little leaguers when they get the chance to swing Babe Ruth's big bat.

Ruth's lumber was 58 ounces, nearly twice the weight of today's bats. With the utmost respect, Pete Rose pronounces it "a good bat" and Fred Lynn says he could "cut it in half and use it twice."

But it's the awe-struck look on slugger Johnny Bench's face that demonstrates how baseball brings out the little boy in all of us. Bench is idolized by today's youngsters. In turn, Ruth — and the memories from the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y. — turn the Cincinnati Reds' star into jelly.

With baseball's rich heritage and this generational regeneration in mind, this TV tour of Cooperstown would be most viewing for today's little boys. So, why would NBC schedule it for 10 p.m. EDT, the Saturday TV graveyard shift?

That hour is generally reserved for documentaries and reruns of the lame-duck "NBC Magazine," while young fans are asleep, their baseball gloves softening securely under their mattresses.

This scheduling lunacy aside, "The Game and Its Glory: Baseball's Hall of Fame," is a warm, sentimental journey through the national pastime's memory bank. Vintage footage, personality portraits and some museum artifacts are all covered in rich fashion in this effort from Major League Baseball Productions.

These are the people who offer "This Week in Baseball" and the "Baseball Bunch," so don't expect any hard-hitting journalism about management-labor disputes, contract hassles and drug abuse. It's baseball-card stuff, but still definitely worth keeping and savoring.

The first five Hall of Famers are remembered from the shrine's christening in 1939. There was Ty Cobb. He didn't hold his hands together on the bat, but he managed to hit over .300 for 23 straight years. Honus Wagner, who gripped the bat

POLITICAL ACTION COMMITTEES

A new American Growth Industry

SOURCE: Federal Election Commission

Political action committees have become a dominant force in American politics. Their numbers and the funds spent in federal campaigns continue to increase with each election cycle. The latest report by the Federal Election Commission, showed an increase of 8 percent in the first six months of 1982. There are now five times as many committees as in 1974, when their activities came under regulatory provisions of the Federal Election Campaign Act.

Faith in God can conquer fear.

"Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night; nor for the arrow that flieth by day; Nor for the pestilence that walketh in darkness: nor for the destruction that wasteth at noonday; A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand; but it shall not come near thee." — Psalms 91:5-7
