City okays SPS rate reduction

By KAY PECK
Staff Writer

Southwestern Public Service customers can expect to see a total 4.3 percent reduction in their electric rates on upcoming electric bills after action taken Monday night by the Hereford city commission.

SPS has already enacted three percent of that decrease. The other 1.3 percent will start June 1.

"It's a lot easier to get these decreases than it is increases," said Lewis McDaniel, local SPS manager, during Monday night's commission meeting.

Commissioners unanimously approved the proposed reduction in rates charged for electricity in Hereford. The ordinance accepted by commissioners is part of a decrease throughout the SPS service region.

Texas cities served by SPS first approved the reduction in March 1988.

"I guess the biggest delay has been the PUC (Public Utility Commission)," said City Manager Darwin McGill.

The PUC approved the rate reduction, negotiated on behalf of all SPS customers in Texas, on April 19. Merrill E. Nunn, chairman of a steering committee considering the proposed rate reduction for this area, contacted Hereford city officials recommending an ordinance accepting the rate reduction.

The reduction should mean an annual savings of $2.93 million to all of SPS's Texas customers. This figure is based on usage within a test year.

In addition to the reduction in rates for future service, the ordinance approved by the city calls for a refund to city customers. This refund will be paid in the form of a credit on bills rendered after July 17. The credit will be for the difference between the actual rates charged and the approved reduced rates from July 8, 1988 to the present.

A request to change the zoning on a property in the 300 block of Avenue G was denied by city commissioners. Mrs. L.E. Fields had asked to change the zoning on a property which she owned from a "R-2", two-family district, to a "MH", mobile home district.

"I'm just not able to go down there and keep it cleaned up or pay to have the trash cleaned up," the elderly Mrs. Fields said.

The woman requested the zoning change on a lot which she owns in order to sell the property. The potential buyer wants to place a trailer house on the lot.

The Planning and Zoning Commission considered the issue on April 25, and recommended that the request be denied. The report to city commissioners indicated that opposition had been expressed to the change in zoning.

"We're not objecting to a mobile home. We just don't want it zoned for more than one," said Mrs. A.L. Greenway, a neighbor to Mrs. Fields' property on Avenue G.

The requested change in zoning could potentially allow the land owner to place a trailer park on the property.

Mrs. Fields stated that her plan would include placing only one trailer on the lot.

"The trouble is, we'd have no control over what somebody does in the future (if the zoning is changed)," said Commissioner Bud Eades.

Mr. Greenway pointed out that when he moved a trailer onto his property, it was zoned as residential.

"The zoning laws have changed, you know," said Mayor Wes Fisher.

The commission voted to deny the zoning change request. Commissioner Irene Cantu voiced the only opposing vote.

A grant application to help fund the DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program was approved by commissioners. If approved, the Criminal Justice Department grant would provide $38,951 to fund the city's DARE program, including hiring a police officer to be in charge of the project.

"We're having to take an officer off the street (at present) to do this," McGill said.

Funds to provide educational materials for DARE have been supplied by local service organizations.

"I've heard nothing but good about this DARE program," said Mayor Fisher.

"I think it's a great idea," said Commissioner Cantu.

A bid from Brownlow Brothers, Inc. was accepted for the placement of a 1,500 gallon fuel storage tank at the park and water and sewer warehouse facility on New York Street. Brownlow's bid for the project was $4,397.30.

The new fuel tank is replacing one which was excavated during a check for a leak for a possible water well contamination.

"There was $43 difference between putting in a new tank and repairing the old," McGill said.

The commission decided to have a new fuel tank at the site.

In other actions, commissioners voted to condemn a property at 319 Avenue C. The next city commission meeting will be held on May 8, instead of the regularly scheduled date of May 15.

San Jose celebrates 40

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The parishioners of San Jose Catholic Church gathered Monday to celebrate a prayer that went unanswered 40 years ago.

According to Charlie Ruiz, who has done some digging through the scantily-kept history of the church, the Rev. Raymond Gillis came into Hereford on a passenger train in 1948 to his new assignment at St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

On his way into town, as the train slowed, he passed what is commonly known as the San Jose Labor Camp.

"He said a prayer that the Lord would keep him from having to work in such difficult surroundings," Ruiz, who, as a child, was living in the area on Raymond Street, said. "That is one prayer that went unanswered. For the next two decades, he labored with the people of San Jose."

Monday, church members gathered at the old church site in the labor camp area for a potluck supper, to look at photos that traced the church's history, and to enjoy mariachi music. They also took time to remember the work of the Rev. Gillis, other priests, nuns, and church members who have kept the church growing over the years.

"We've been blessed with many great people over the years, and we are today, with Father Joe (Bixenman), Father Darryl (Birkenfeld) and Sister Mary, Sister Mary Jean and Sister Teresa.

To trace the history of San Jose, Ruiz had to go back to

Tracing 40 years at San Jose

The Rev. Joe Bixenman, left, and Charlie Ruiz look at old photographs of facilities and priests that have served San Jose Catholic church in Hereford. Parishioners celebrated the church's 40th birthday on Monday at the site of the original church.

1910 and the founding of the original St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

"In 1910, Father J.A. Campbell came to Umbarger, and he bought the old county courthouse at La Plata (the original county seat in the center of the county, west-northwest of Hereford). It was moved from there and transformed into the St. Anthony's Church in 1911."

St. Anthony's was at Fourth and Sampson, now the parking lot for the county library. The county museum was the original parochial school.

There was no other church, until the Rev. Gillis came to Hereford, where an old barracks southwest of Hereford was used for the church in the labor camp area.

However, St. Anthony's was outgrowing the old church, and built the building now in use at Park Avenue and U.S. Highway 385. The original St. Anthony's, the old courthouse, was moved to its present site, in the labor camp, in 1958.

"It was due to Father Raymond, who worked with his hands, people from the Amarillo Air Force Base, and people from Hereford of all denominations who worked long and hard hours to get the church here," Ruiz said.

In 1955, the church had built a hospital to serve the migrant laborers. In the 1960s, there was a new school, convent and lay apostle's residences built.

The hospital was later closed, and a new San Jose Church was constructed in 1980 at 735 Brevard.

All of the old facilities are still used, however. Services are conducted in the old church, and the other buildings are used for catechism, organizational meetings and social gatherings.

"It took all of the community of Hereford to build San Jose, and it takes all of the community to keep it thriving," Ruiz said. "We just thank God for all of the many wonderful blessings this church has received over the years."

Elderly warned of tactic

By KAY PECK
Staff Writer

The aggressive sales tactics of an individual currently operating in the Hereford area have caused concerns for some elderly residents. These sales involve a specific type of home health care equipment.

Local authorities have received inquiries concerning the methods used by this salesman. No illegal ities have been found in the sales, and a check with the Better Business Bureau indicates that no complaints have been filed against the company.

Elderly residents are reminded to use good consumer skills in all purchases. This is especially true in sales made over the telephone or door-to-door.

People should be cautious when talking with a salesman, especially on the telephone, that an expression of interest in a product cannot be interpreted as an order.

If an item is delivered to an individual which he or she did not order, do not accept that item.

Anyone, not just the elderly, should be sure to read all contracts, sales receipts and other documents before signing.

The elderly should be cautious if they are assured that an item is Medicare approved. Before making the purchase, it would be wise to learn if it would be covered by Medicare in their individual case.

Barbara Harvey from the Medicare Division of Blue Cross Blue Shield in Dallas advises potential Medicare beneficiaries to check with their doctor before making a purchase.

Wright put plug in Record

WASHINGTON (AP) - House Speaker Jim Wright's use of the Congressional Record to plug a home video product made by his wife's employer follows a long Capitol Hill tradition: Just about anything can be printed, and is, at taxpayers' expense.

For more than 100 years the Congressional Record has provided an uncritical compilation of remarks said - and unsaid - by members of Congress.

It is printed five days a week, every week, and runs 200 or so pages on average. It costs $18 million a year, and is produced by some 2,000 government employees working around the clock.

"It's like producing the Sunday New York Times, five times a week," said Duane Nystrom, editor for the Congressional Publications Office. "It is not a small project."

The embattled speaker, already fighting allegations he violated House ethics rules, was the object of fresh reports Monday in The Wall Street Journal about remarks he had included in the Congressional Record of Dec. 9, 1985.

His 350-word statement amounted to an effusive endorsement of the Pacific Institute's family video series.

"Marvelously useful," Wright gushed. And available "at a nominal price within the range of most American families."

Wright didn't mention the $36,000 a year annual salary that the company was paying his wife, Betty. Her job with another company is the basis for some of the ethics charges now facing the speaker.

The Seattle-based Pacific Institute said it didn't ask for Wright's remarks. But it reprinted them later in promoting sales of the tapes at $34.95 each or $400 for a full set of 21.

The revelation can't help Wright in the fight for his political future, but no one is suggesting this is the first time Congressional Record provided an official-looking plug.

Nor is it the first embarrassment involving the Record.

Sen. Jesse Helms-R-N.C., can vouch for that. In 1986, Helms inserted into the Record a legal brief filed by a group opposing "dial-a-porn" telephone services, Citizens for Decency Through Law.

That issue of the Congressional Record became a bestseller. Included in the brief, and printed in the record, was the full, X-rated text of one of the tapes. "Hi, I'm Nellie from High Society," it began.

The Record has had several unsolicited plugs, and a 'bestseller' had the transcript of a 'dial-a-porn' call. 'There is virtually no censorship of comments put in the record.' --Duane Nystrom, editor of congressional publications

Both episodes were possible because of the way the Record is edited. It isn't.

Or at least, it isn't edited for content. Copy is edited for errors and grammar, but little else, said Nystrom.

"There is virtually no censorship of comments put on the record," he said. "The only thing that would be excised from the record would be obscenities."

Content, he said, is governed by the rules of the House and Senate. The Record prints what is said on the floor of the House or Senate, and members are free to submit additional statements. Remarks that violate the rules, such as attacks on another member, would be edited out.

In an effort to make the Record more faithfully reflect what was said, Congress a few years ago decided to have remarks that were edited or added later appear in a different typeface.

But inserts can be as lengthy as a member of Congress wants. Much of the Pentagon Papers, for example, was included.

The Record is printed through the night and available the next morning, and it is also available electronically by computer. It has a press run of 24,000 copies, and Nystrom figures it costs about $500 per page to print.

Congressional rules generally bar members from receiving benefits as a result of improperly exerting their position, and guidelines caution lawmakers against becoming so "affiliated with a particular enterprise" that it creates an appearance of impropriety.

Wright declined to answer questions Monday about his video plug. But Nystrom says he doubts Wright's use of the Record was unique.

"If there was something wrong with that, every member of Congress would be guilty of doing that," he said. "Everyone ... uses the Record to promote or call attention to some activity within their district."

"I would see it as a matter of degrees," he said.

Roxanne Balderaz reigned as May Day Queen.

Vote suggests electing ag commissioner

AUSTIN (AP) - After a House committee approved a bill that would keep the state agriculture commissioner's post an elective one, Gov. Bill Clements declined to say whether he would veto the measure.

"I understand the House is considering a bill and until I see what's coming out I'm not making any decision on my own," Clements said Monday.

The House Government Organization Committee approved continuing the Agriculture Department, including an elected commissioner, by an 8-0 vote. The legislation already has passed the Senate.

Clements, a Republican, has said in the past that the idea of an appointed agriculture commissioner "might be an idea worth pursuing."

DO YOU HAVE BABY BLUES

By Robert C. Park, M.D.,
President, The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

During the first few weeks after delivery, you will simultaneously cope with your baby, your family, and experience tremendous hormonal changes, not to mention fatigue. So, it's easy to understand why, after having a baby, you may develop postpartum depression or "baby blues"--those feelings of sadness, unexplained tears, and mild anxiety.

The first thing you should know about postpartum depression is that it is fairly common. Generally, right after the baby is born, you may feel exhilarated, exhausted, or relieved that everything came out all right. Then, several days later, you may find yourself crying for no apparent reason, or overly concerned about your abilities as a new parent. Sometimes, this mild depression can linger on for several weeks, helped along by extreme fatigue.

For some women, though, the depression does not go away in reasonable amount of time. If you feel unable to cope, physically have problems taking care of your baby, or cannot shake the feelings of helplessness or anxiety, it's time to get some help, starting with your obstetrician. Most cases of severe postpartum depression can be helped with medication and counseling.

As previously mentioned almost any new mom can have a mild case of baby blues. But women who have had previous problems with depression, or lack good family support, or had an unwanted or mistimed pregnancy are more likely to experience severe postpartum depression.

If you develop the baby blues, don't panic; the chances are good that they will go away in several weeks. In the meantime, get as much rest as possible by enlisting your partner's help with the baby, limiting visitors, and ignoring or letting others take care of housework. It also may help to talk to your partner or other mothers about your feelings. Your doctor, too, can be a good source of information and advice.

Baby blues are rather like today's measles-unpleasant, fairly common, and rarely serious. If you have them, they will most likely disappear in a short time. If they don't, get in touch with your doctor.

During the Middle Ages, the year began at various dates in different times and places. In England it was not until 1751 that January was restored to its place as first month, as it had been during the Roman era.

Public Notice

On March 14, 1989, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas an application which proposes to revise its Toll Restriction Tariff in Section 21 of the General Exchange Tariff. The Commission received the application as Docket No. 8700.

The application proposes to reduce the monthly rate for Toll Restriction residence service from the current $15 a month to $5 a month per residence access line. This proposed application will affect approximately 2,487 residence customers who presently subscribe to toll restriction. It is estimated that the proposed rate schedule will reduce the Company's annual revenues from this service by approximately $298,000, which is less than one percent of the Company's total intrastate revenues. If the application is approved, the effective date of the rate reduction will be set according to the Commission's Order.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A deadline to file motions to intervene has been set for May 30, 1989. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas at 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. ## Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am very close to taking my own life and the guilt is unbearable. I am only in my 30s and becoming more deaf every day.

My social life has come to a stop because I find it impossible to pretend that I can still hear. My young son tells me what went on in school and he becomes angry with me because I can't hear him. My older boy becomes frustrated and screams, "Are you deaf? Can't you hear me calling you?" My husband thinks it is harder on him and the boys than it is on me. Little does he know the agony and embarrassment I go through.

I can't volunteer at my children's school anymore because I'm too embarrassed to show my face. During a recent visit, I looked like a complete fool when I responded inappropriately to a question asked by my son's teacher.

I saw an ear surgeon last month who told me about an operation on nerve deafness, but unfortunately, he doesn't think it would help me. My hearing aid is no longer a help. It whistles like crazy because I have it turned up so high.

My husband becomes very impatient and yells at me because we cannot communicate. He doesn't realize that the noise in my ears is driving me insane. At times it is so loud I can't stand it.

Please suggest something, Ann. I am truly desperate.--new York not uncommon for people with hearing problems to become depressed. Your husband should go, with you for the first few sessions. He needs to understand what you are going through and from your letter it sounds as if he doesn't have a clue.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: At 1:15 in the morning, the telephone rang and I was awakened out of a sound sleep to answer it. The operator said, "Your son wants to make a long-distance call to another number and needs to know if you will pay for it." I said, "Of course."

A dozen horror stories raced through my mind. Where was he at such an hour? Who could he be calling? Why couldn't he pay for the call himself?

I called "John" immediately and awakened him from a sound sleep. Someone had pulled a fast one on me.

Later, my husband and I discussed how we might determine, in the future, if such a call was legitimate. He came up with a good idea. When such a request is made, simply ask the operator to have the party identify himself by giving his birth date.

I hope this tip will prevent others from being tricked the way we were.--No Name Please in Norfolk

DEAR NORFOLK: Thanks for passing on a neat idea. It is one that could be used in other situations when someone is trying to pose as a relative or close friend. Make a note, readers.

Dear Ann Landers: Motorcyclists who don't wear helmets are not using their heads. The exhilarating feeling of wind in the face doesn't compensate for the pain and tragedy of a cracked skull.

Should helmet wearing be mandated by law? No. Millions of people get colds and sometimes they die from flu, pleurisy, and pneumonia, contracted when they stayed out in the wet or the cold with too little clothing. Should the law mandate what should be worn at certain temperatures and precipitations in an effort to save those losses and lives?

On a motorcycle, it is common sense that preserves the life of the rider and no law is able to mandate that.--Malcolm S. Forbes

Herd gains playoff berth with 8-3 win

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The Hereford Whitefaces broke open a 3-2 game with four runs in the sixth inning to clinch a playoff spot with an 8-3 win at Levelland on Saturday.

The Herd is now 19-2-1 on the season and 12-0-1 in District 1-4A with three games remaining. The only thing left to decide is who is the district champion and who is the runner-up. That decision won't likely be made until the Hereford-Estacado game next Tuesday at Lubbock, the final game of the regular season.

The Herd scored single runs in the first three innings Saturday, including Roger McCracken's seventh homer of the season, while Hereford pitcher Clint Cotten held the Lobos at bay as Levelland stranded seven baserunners in the first three innings, scoring just one run in the third.

Levelland, who had 10 hits in the game, scored again in the fourth, but Hereford put the game away with four sixth inning runs.

Kyle Andrews opened the inning with a walk and went to third on a Russell Backus single to right. Backus stole second, then followed Andrews home on a Clint Cotten double.

Cotten went to third on a passed ball, then scored when a Jason Scott pop fly fell in for a single. Scott stole second, then scored on a double to left by Glenn Parker to give the Herd a 6-2 lead.

Levelland scored a run in the sixth on a single and a double, but Hereford came up with an insurance run in the seventh.

McCracken walked to open the inning, stole second and went to third on a passed ball. Andrews drove him home with a single to give Hereford its 8-3 lead.

Levelland threatened in the bottom of the inning when Alonzo Wiley led off with a single, but he was thrown out by Andrews while trying to steal second.

Cotten went the distance, scattering 10 hits while picking up four strikeouts to run his record to 5-0.

The Herd was scheduled to play its final home game of the season today with a 4 p.m. start against Frenship at Whiteface Field. The Herd will end its regular season at Randall on Saturday and next Tuesday at Estacado.

HHS athletes close at region track meet

Hereford High School track and field athletes just missed qualifying for the state meet in several events at last weekend's Region 1-4A meet at Brownwood.

In the boys' division, the mile relay team of Brooke Perkins, George Madrigal, Chuck Lemons and Kelvin Brown recorded their fastest time of the year, 3:21.14, to earn third place. Everman won in 3:17.92, while Estacado, who finished second overall in the meet, was second in 3:19.64.

Pat Mercer placed third in the 300 intermediate hurdles in 39.52.

Benny Gonzales earned Hereford's other point in the meet, placing sixth in the shot with a toss of 54 feet.

Also competing were Brad Mason in the pole vault and Tate Smith in the high jump.

The boys earned 19 points to place 14th among the 29 teams which earned points at the meet.

The Hereford girls earned 10 points in the highly-competitive field, where 32 schools earned points.

The girls' 1600-meter relay team of Lisa Zepeda, Rachel Alaniz, Jill

West and Teresa Castillo ran their best time of the year in Friday's prelims, going 4:07.41. In Saturday's finals, the team placed sixth in 4:10.6.

Shantel Cornelius placed third in the high jump at 5-2, and Cande Robbins was sixth in the discus with a toss of 108-8.

Yvonne Padilla was seventh in the 3,200-meter run on Friday.

"All of these young ladies have done a fine job this year, and none are seniors, so they will all be back next year and will be better," said girls' coach Martha Emerson. "Getting to regional makes you want to return."

Ex-Ranger Browne leads Tribe

ARLINGTON (AP) - Jerry Browne, nicknamed "The Governor" during his three-year stay with the Texas Rangers, responded diplomatically Monday night when he was asked if he bore any grudge against his former team.

Browne, part of a three-player package sent to the Cleveland Indians in an off-season deal that brought Julio Franco to the Rangers, drove in four runs to lead the Indians past the Rangers, 11-1.

"I like playing here but now I have to go out and do the best I can to beat them," said Browne after setting a career-high for RBI in a game. "I'm just trying to help us win some games. I have no hard feelings of any kind."

Joining Browne as stars for the Indians were pitchers Rich Yet and Keith Atherton who combined on a six-hitter. Yet, 2-2, allowed one run and four hits over 5 1-3 innings before giving way to Atherton, who pitched 3 2-3 innings of two-hit scoreless relief for his second save.

Texas swept a two-game series from the Indians last week in Cleveland and the Indians were in a pay-back mood.

"They beat us up there so it was our turn to come down here and beat them," said Browne, seven-for-13 in three games against his former teammates this season. "We've been struggling."

Cleveland won its third game in the last four starts. Browne has been a key ingredient since being moved back into the number two spot in the Indians order on April 25.

"He's been playing real good on the road," said Indians manager Doc Edwards. "The key to the game was getting the leadoff man on base. We've had trouble scoring runs."

The defeat trimmed Texas' lead in the American League West to a half-game over second-place

Oakland, which was idle Monday night.

The Rangers scored a dramatic 2-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox Sunday in a pitcher's duel between staff ace Roger Clemens of Boston and Nolan Ryan of Texas and Ranger manager Bobby Valentine said his team may have had a letdown Monday.

"It could have been a little letdown," Valentine said. "That might explain it. But you really can't take anything away from them. Their pitchers pitched good and their hitters had some big hits. We'll regroup."

The Indians nailed Rangers starter Bobby Witt, 3-1, for six runs, four earned, over six innings.

The winningest pitcher of the 1980's can't get a win in 1989.

Jack Morris became the first Detroit pitcher in 36 years to start the season 0-6 as the Seattle Mariners beat the Tigers 5-3 Monday night.

Alvin Davis' sacrifice fly snapped a seventh-inning tie and Jeffrey Leonard followed with an RBI single.

Morris never had lost more than four straight decisions before this year. He allowed 10 hits, struck out seven and walked none in 6 2-3 innings.

Morris wouldn't talk to reporters after the game. However, his manager thinks he's still pitching well.

"His only luck has been bad," Sparky Anderson said.

The last Detroit pitcher to lose his first six decisions was Ted Gray, who began the 1953 season 0-9.

Morris worked out of several jams. His teammates gave him a lead for the first time this season, but the 34-year-old right-hander was his own worst enemy.

Leading 3-1 in the sixth, he threw a wild pitch over the head of catcher Matt Nokes, allowing Omar Vizquel to score.

He mishandled Vizquel's sacrifice bunt in the seventh when Seattle scored three runs, two unearned.

"For a guy, 0-5, he's tough, especially with men on base," Seattle manager Jim Lefebvre said after the Mariners added another loss.

In other games, Chicago beat Milwaukee 6-0, Boston beat Minnesota 13-6 and Cleveland beat Texas 11-1.

Bill Swift allowed seven hits, three runs, struck out one and walked two in his first start and second appearance of the season.

Dennis Powell, 1-0, pitched two hitless innings and Mike Schooler finished with two-hit relief for his third save.

Detroit is 1-5 on its eight-game road trip.

White Sox 6, Brewers 0
Jerry Reuss pitched a four-hitter for his 39th shutout and Ron Kittle hit a three-run homer as Milwaukee lost its fourth straight in Teddy Higuera's first start of the season.

Higuera, 16-9 last season, had surgery on Jan. 20 for a herniated disc. He made 77 pitches, gave up five runs and seven hits, walked four and struck out one.

Reuss, 3-2, struck out three and walked none. It was his first shutout since June 21, 1987, against Kansas City when he was with California.

Red Sox 13, Twins 6

Boston scored seven runs in the first inning as Jim Rice hit a two-run double, Dwight Evans a two-run triple and Wade Boggs a two-run double.

After Boggs struck out to open the game, seven straight Red Sox reached base against Allan Anderson.

Dennis Boyd, 2-1, allowed four runs over seven innings for his sixth straight victory against Minnesota. He gave up seven hits, struck out two and walked one.

Anderson, 4-2, who entered the game with a 2.03 earned-run average, lasted just one-third of an inning, allowing seven earned runs.

Four set to close out NBA first round

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Four teams are set to close out their NBA first-round series, and some are wary of the possibility.

"Obviously, we are in good position ... but it takes three to win the series," said Golden State coach Don Nelson, whose Warriors are home to the Utah Jazz.

"You never know in that joint," Detroit's John Salley said of Boston Garden where the Pistons meet the Celtics. "We're going in there playing as if we're two down instead of two up."

Like Detroit, the New York Knicks and Phoenix Suns also won their first two games, but they all did it at home and now take to the road seeking a second-round berth. The Warriors, on the other hand, won their first two games on Utah's court.

Tonight, the Knicks will be at Philadelphia to battle the 76ers, the Pistons at Boston and the Suns at Denver. In tonight's other matchup, the Milwaukee Bucks will be at home against the Atlanta Hawks after the teams split their two games at Atlanta.

"I don't think the homecourt means anything. We went to their place and won," Milwaukee guard Ricky Pierce said.

On Wednesday, Cleveland will be at Chicago, Seattle at Houston and the Los Angeles Lakers at Portland. Seattle and the Lakers hold 2-0 leads, while Cleveland and Chicago split their first two games.

"We're not out of the fire yet," Golden State's Terry Teagle said.

Utah's cause was hurt when John Stockton suddenly went cold, missing six straight shots in Game 2. And when Karl Malone was held scoreless in the final quarter, finishing with 37 points and 22 rebounds, Golden State prevailed 99-91.

"Usually, that's two points," Golden State's Winston Garland said of Stockton's jump shot. "He doesn't miss them too often, so we basically just lucked out."

The Denver Nuggets, 35-6 at home during the regular season, will be without Fat Lever, out with a deep thigh bruise suffered late in the first quarter of Sunday night's game at Phoenix. Nuggets center Danny Schayes also aggravated his badly sprained ankle.

"We lost our morale for a while when Fat went down," Denver coach Doug Moe said. "Fat and Danny are O-U-T out for a while. If we can somehow or another get some small miracle and get it to a fifth game, they might be back for that."

Although Larry Bird has not played for Boston, the Pistons are still worried about the Celtics.

"We're still nervous about them," Detroit forward Bill Laimbeer said. "They're an outstanding club. They have great mental toughness."

The Pistons posted the NBA's best road record, 26-15, this season, including a split in Boston.

"We have everything on the line," Boston forward Reggie Lewis said. "We don't have anything to lose."

The Bucks are 31-10 at Milwaukee's Bradley Center this season, but they have lost three times to the Hawks.

"We've got to go up there and force the issue," Atlanta guard Glenn Rivers said. "It's disappointing. It weighs on my mind as a missed opportunity. We have to go to Milwaukee and play confidently, and hopefully we'll win the two there."

It was the way New York defeated Philadelphia, edging the 76ers with last-minute heroics.

"Right now, the way I feel I cannot put it in words," Charles Barkley said after the 76ers' last loss, when they blew a 10-point lead in the final 2:12. "We feel kind of empty. I can't tell you we're not devastated to lose like that."

The Knicks are thinking sweep. "They can't play any harder than they did," Gerald Wilkins said. "Being up 2-0 feels good to us. Now we just need one to put it away."

DeLeon, Cardinals earn win over Padres

By The Associated Press

Despite pitching his second shutout in his last three starts, Jose DeLeon had very little to say - about himself that is.

But he was plenty talkative about his St. Louis Cardinals teammates.

"I've never played on a team like this one," DeLeon said after pitching a six-hitter Monday night in a 6-0 victory over the San Diego Padres. "This is a good team. If you keep the ball inside the ballpark and it's not in the gap, somebody is going to catch it."

DeLeon, 5-1, allowed six hits, struck out eight and walked one in his 50th career victory.

"I got a little bit tired," said DeLeon, who threw 131 pitches. "I threw a lot of pitches at the beginning of the game and I thought I wasn't going to last that long, but this is great weather to pitch in."

The weather didn't help San Diego starter Bruce Hurst, however.

"I just didn't feel like I had anything tonight," said Hurst, 3-2, who allowed six runs on 10 hits over seven innings.

Elsewhere in the National League, it was Cincinnati 19, Montreal 6; New York 3, Atlanta 1; Los Angeles 1, Pittsburgh 0, and Chicago 4, San Francisco 3 in 12 innings. Houston at Philadelphia was postponed by rain.

The Cardinals scored five runs on six hits to pull away in the sixth, just in the nick of time as DeLeon saw it.

DeLeon was nursing a 1-0 lead going into the bottom of the fifth when the Padres loaded the bases with one out.

He helped create the jam when he threw away Hurst's sacrifice bunt for the first Cardinal error in 60 innings. But DeLeon saved himself and possibly the game when he got Roberto Alomar to ground to shortstop Ozzie Smith for an easy double play.

Reds 19, Expos 6

Chris Sabo had four hits and four RBIs, Paul O'Neill drove in five runs and Jeff Reed had five hits as Cincinnati amassed the most runs ever scored against Montreal.

The Reds had 21 hits. The 19 runs eclipsed Montreal's record of allowing 17, set in a 1972 loss to Houston.

Second baseman Tom Foley was Montreal's fourth pitcher. He relieved Joe Hesketh, who gave up nine runs and six hits in 1 1-3 innings, and allowed a two-run homer to Reed in the eighth. Foley then got Ron Oester to ground out to end the inning.

Mets 3, Braves 1

Dwight Gooden raised his record to 5-0 by allowing six hits in seven-plus innings as New York handed Atlanta its seventh straight loss.

Roger McDowell pitched the last two innings for his fourth save.

The Mets took a 1-0 lead in the third on Howard Johnson's RBI double. Johnson has hit in eight straight games, going 14-for-33.

Dodgers 1, Pirates 0

Pinch hitter Mickey Hatcher scored Mike Davis with a bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the ninth inning as Los Angeles ended a four-game losing streak.

Davis, who earlier broke out of a 2-for-17 drought with a pair of singles, drew a leadoff walk against starter Doug Drabek, 1-3.

The victory went to reliever Jay Howell, 2-2, who escaped a bases-loaded, no-out jam in the top of the ninth.

Cubs 4, Giants 3
Damon Berryhill, just off the disabled list, led off the 12th inning for Chicago with a home run.

Mike LaCoss, 1-2, gave up the homer on a 2-1 pitch. Jeff Pico, 1-0, pitched three hitless innings for the victory and Calvin Schiraldi retired the Giants in the bottom of the 12th for his second save.

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

Become one of the first in our community to own a copy of this magnificent atlas.

ARE OUR TEXAS
CHILDREN AT RISK?

Children are dependent on their parents to provide them with the nurturing they need to become contributing citizens.

All children need parents who will give them the care and love they need to feel confident and capable, the guidance they need to be responsible and the cooperation, support, and instruction they need to achieve in school.

As research becomes more sophisticated, there is increasing evidence of the importance of parenting practices on children's development. Unfortunately, in Texas, there are signs that many families are not able to give their children the care and direction they need.

A significant number of Texas children are living in families that are experiencing poverty; child abuse and neglect reports are increasing; and academic achievement is low for many children. In addition, quality child care is not available or affordable for many children whose parents are employed outside the home.

According to a 1988 report by the Hogg Foundation for Mental Health, here are some of the facts about Texas families and children:

Families in Poverty. In 1980, the proportion of Texas families living in poverty was 11.1 percent. Almost 30 percent of the state's population is comprised of children and 24 percent of this number live in poverty.

Child Abuse and neglect. In Texas in 1986, an estimated 419,000 Texas children were reported as being at risk of being abused, neglected or both. Of the 71,000 cases that were investigated, 86 percent were confirmed.

Educational Underachievement. Current data indicate that one out of every three Texas students does not graduate from high school. For each generation of dropouts in Texas, the long-term cost to the state is estimated more than $17 billion.

Child Care. Nearly 18 percent of the Texas labor force represent families with children under six. Failure to spend money on child care, especially for low-income families, will be reflected in costs to Texas later.

The environment in which Texas children grow up is crucial to their future and to the future of the State. There are programs which can make a difference in what happens to children, but they need public support to exist.

The future is determined by the present. Can we afford to leave Texas children at risk?

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Consumer decision-making contest to be Saturday

Hereford 4-Hers participated in the District Consumer Decision Making Contest held in Amarillo on Saturday.

Representing Deaf Smith County from a field of 150 participants was the Junior Team composed of Cady Auckerman, Cindy Harder, Karon Harder, and Amber Vasck.

The contest is being introduced as a state competitive event at the 4-H Round Up in June.

Eleven Deaf Smith County 4-Hers trained for this event at a bi-county workshop of Deaf Smith & Oldham Counties in March. The contest involves having adequate consumer purchasing knowledge based on a given situation to place and give verbal reasons for decisions.

The English chemist Joseph Priestley discovered in 1770 that material made from latex could be used to rub out pencil marks; he named the substance "rubber."

The old Brown Derby restaurant, one-time hangout of the Hollywood stars, has closed, but its famous Cobb Salad is more popular than ever. Serve this main-dish salad the LONDON (AP) - Prince Charles says Romania's President Nicolae Ceausescu is destroying that country's cultural heritage by razing villages and replacing city buildings with "a uniform and deathly mock modernity."

In an unusual royal criticism of a foreign leader, the 40-year-old heir to the British throne said he was appalled at "the awful specter of an entire society - not just certain districts - losing its roots and its ancient communities."

"The 20th century has witnessed some strange aberrations of the human spirit but few can match the activities of rulers who boast about their patriotism and then systematically undertake the destruction of the cultural heritage of their people," Charles said at an architecture exhibition on Wednesday.

Bacteria still main culprit in safety problems

COLLEGE STATION -- With all the present-day furor about pesticides and other manmade contaminants of the nation's food supply, little attention is often given to the biggest health threat of all--bacteria.

"It's amazing how such a major problem as bacterial food poisoning can be swept under the rug by those advocating a safe food supply," said Dr. Al Wagner, a food technologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

From 21 to 81 million cases of food borne illnesses occur each year in the U.S., Wagner said, costing $5 to $17 billion in medical care and lost productivity.

While a wide range of materials can cause food poisoning, including chemicals, heavy metals, parasites, fungi and viruses, bacteria are the main culprit, accounting for more than 90 percent of all incidents.

Bacteria Common in Food
"Bacteria are common on raw foods, but proper care and handling will eliminate most problems," Wagner said. "Personal hygiene, clean food preparation areas and utensils, and proper washing and cooking of food products are the main ways to keep food poisoning to a minimum."

"Bacteria are usually present, but they don't do much harm unless their numbers grow. That's what happens in an unclean environment and with mishandling of food," Wagner said.

"For instance, bacteria multiply rapidly at temperatures between 40 degrees F, and 140 degrees F, so both raw and cooked foods should not be kept in this danger zone any longer than absolutely necessary," said the food technologist.

In many cases, problems can be prevented by simply washing raw fruits and vegetables before eating, Wagner said. Proper washing can reduce pesticide residue on food products.

"I certainly wouldn't eat an apple that's been handled by a lot of people in the grocery case without washing it first," Wagner said. "That's just common sense."

He said that infants, older persons, pregnant women and anyone with a weak immune system are especially susceptible to food-borne illness. These people should never eat raw fish, raw seafood or raw meat-type products.

Most Common Culprits Listed
Wagner listed the most common food-poisoning bacteria, in what types of food they are found, symptoms and causes:

--Staphylococcus: meat and seafood salads and sandwich spreads; nausea, vomiting and diarrhea; poor personal hygiene and temperature abuse.

--Salmonella; meat, poultry, fish and eggs; diarrhea, nausea, chills, vomiting and fever; contamination of ready-to-eat foods, insufficient cooking and recontamination of cooked foods.

--Clostridium perfringens: meat and poultry dishes, sauces and gravies; cramps and diarrhea; improper temperature control of hot foods and recontamination.

--Clostridium botulinum: home-canned foods; blurred vision, respiratory distress and possible death; improper methods of home-processing foods.

--Vibrio parahaemolyticus: raw and cooked seafood; diarrhea, cramps, vomiting, headache and fever; recontamination of cooked foods or eating raw seafood.

--Bacillus cereus: starchy food; mild diarrhea and some nausea; improper holding and storage temperatures after cooking.

--Listeria monocytogenes: milk, soft cheeses, vegetables fertilized with manure; mimics meningitis; contaminated raw products.

--Campylobacter jejuni: meat, poultry, milk and mushrooms; diarrhea, cramps and nausea; improper pasteurization or cooking and cross-contamination.

--Yersinia enterocolitica: milk, tofu and pork; diarrhea, abdominal pain and vomiting (mimics appendicitis); improper cooking and cross-contamination.

--Enteropathogenic E. coli: meat and cheeses; diarrhea and abdominal pain; inadequate cooking and recontamination of cooked products.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR READERS:

I received two letters which I want to mention to all of you. One reader wrote to us about taking a dress to her local dry cleaner and finding that the cleaning removed the surface design on it. She was upset, naturally, but it was not the dry cleaner's fault; rather, the problem was due to an inaccurate care label.

Loss of surface design may result from a lack of solvent resistance in the adhesive or other bonding procedure. Beads or other sewn-on trim may themselves be solvent soluble. Some surface dyes or pigments are not resistant to solvents and will bleed out and be removed in cleaning.

Another reader wrote that some color from the buttons bled on a blouse that she had dry cleaned. This, too, is usually the result of an inaccurate care label. In this case the garment manufacturer was responsible because buttons that were not colorfast to dry cleaning were selected. The care label law clearly states that all component trim on a garment, which includes buttons, must not be harmed by the care procedure designated for that item.

If you have had these or similar problems, dry cleaners that are members of the International Fabricare Institute have a form that you can fill out or you can receive one by sending a stamped, self-addressed, legal-sized envelope to: Care Label Dept., International Fabricare Institute, 12251 Tech Road, Silver Spring, MD 20904. These forms will be correlated and sent to the Federal Trade Commission. -- Heloise

BIRTHDAY SALUTE

Dear Heloise: I have a tall flagpole on the roof of my house. Naturally, I fly the American flag on national holidays, but lately I've also flown the flag at half staff on the birthdays of my family's departed loved ones. It gives me a good feeling, particularly when deceased veterans are involved. And, I'm sure, it's appreciated by all of the others, too -- somewhere. -- Ken Clements, Temecula, Calif.

Your thoughtfulness and patriotism are to be admired. However, there are federal and state statutes that cover the respectful display of our nation's flag. One of them is that flags are flown at half-mast only by official state, federal or city order. They are never to be flown in such a manner to indicate personal loss to a family, a business or other organization. -- Heloise

DELI-MEAT SANDWICH
CHICAGO (AP) - The votes are in, and the favorite deli-meat sandwich among U.S. senators is the roast beef sandwich!

According to the National Live Stock and Meat Board, 22 percent of the 58 U.S. senators surveyed said they preferred roast beef on wheat bread, topped with Cheddar cheese, lettuce, tomato, mayonnaise, Dijon mustard and onions.

The ham sandwich ranked second, with 17 percent.
