Wrong Man May Have Been Convicted, Prosecutor Says

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A prosecutor says he's not ready to release a man convicted of a crime that bears striking similarities to an attack another man claims is among many he has made against women.

District Attorney James Hury said he wants to do more research before deciding if an attack on a Wisconsin woman in Galveston is the same attack described by Coral Eugene Watts, who has admitted killing 11 women in Houston and Galveston and is suspected in 12 other slayings.

The attack Watts described is similar to one for which Howard Ware Mosley is serving a life prison sentence, Hury said.

Mosley, 25, was convicted of a Jan. 30 knife attack on Patty Johnson of Wisconsin Rapids, Wis. She was working as a cocktail waitress in this island city at the time.

She was grabbed from behind and her throat was slashed, but her husband heard her screams in time to chase away the attacker. She survived and testified against Mosley at his trial last month.

Mosley, who is 10 inches taller than Watts but bears a facial resemblance, had two prior felony convictions and received a life sentence under the state's habitual criminal act. Hury said Watts seemed familiar with the attack on Mrs. Johnson, but was vague and ambiguous regarding some important details.

"He gave us a scenario which causes us to be most concerned," Hury said. Although he conceded he may have tried the wrong man, he said he was not ready yet to set Mosley free.

"I am not now in a position to release the man who was convicted by a jury beyond a reasonable doubt," Hury said. "But it does cause me to do some further research. I expect we'll have some more information early next week."

He said if he concludes he has convicted the wrong man, "I'll release him immediately."

Mosley was given a lie detector test Thursday, but his defense attorney, Robert Hoskins, said the results were inconclusive.

"He was nervous. We will not take another polygraph, but we will submit to truth serum or hypnosis," Hoskins said. He predicted his client would be free by Tuesday.

Hury said Watts described two other Galveston crimes he confessed to with pinpoint accuracy, but missed the date of the attack on Mrs. Johnson by more than a month. He also said Watts was not sure about where the attack occurred.

Mrs. Johnson, who identified Mosley as her attacker by his picture and in a lineup, had no comment when contacted at her home in Wisconsin.

Mosley, who insisted he was innocent and said he was at home with his girlfriend, Linda Sanchez, and brother when Mrs. Johnson was assaulted, said he cried "Praise the Lord!" when he learned of Watts' involvement.

Victims All Young Women

His victims were all young women who made the mistake of being caught alone in the dark. They were strangled, stabbed, hanged or drowned. They died at the hands of a stranger who apparently harbored a deep-seated hatred for women.

Coral Eugene Watts, 28, moved to Texas from Michigan 17 months ago and went to work as a mechanic for the city bus company. Police in Ann Arbor told Houston police to keep an eye on him. They said he might be the "Sunday Morning Slasher," suspected in a series of slayings in the Michigan city.

But despite their surveillance, Houston authorities had no evidence against Watts until Tuesday when he led police to the shallow grave of a woman who had been missing for months.

Within days Watts had pinpointed two similar graves, had admitted 11 slayings and was being interrogated about 18 more. Police say Watts is not highly intelligent but his recounting of the murder tales is "frightening, phenomenal, uncanny." He was clever enough to leave no evidence, no fingerprints, no recurring pattern.

The only way police are removing these deaths from their unsolved murders file is through Watts' cooperation. He has agreed to help in those cases where prosecutors guarantee him immunity and has accepted a 60-year prison term for a burglary, during which Watts tried to add two women to his victims. The women escaped with only minor injuries.

Watts was examined at the Rusk State Hospital in East Texas and pronounced legally sane. But a psychologist who examined him at the request of his attorneys declared him a paranoid schizophrenic who sees women as evil, deceitful, unfaithful and parasitic.

Watts was born in Fort Hood, Texas, and reared in West Virginia and Michigan by his mother. He told doctors his father left the family, and that his stepfather beat him and his mother.

Cut oranges in half and have each person carefully eat out the inside, without breaking the peel. Prepare mix according to directions on package. Fill orange cups 1/4 full of batter. Place orange cups into a bed of coals. Bake slowly, turning shells around from time to time. The flavor of the orange blends with ginger for a delicious dessert. Top with whipped topping, if desired.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — A Houston polling firm has released its study of illegal aliens in Texas, but the results of that study are not likely to surprise too many people.

V. Lance Tarrance and Associates spent $142,000 in taxpayers' money to determine that the "typical" undocumented worker in Texas speaks little English and comes to the United States for higher wages and not to become a U.S. citizen.

The Tarrance researchers interviewed some 1,500 illegal aliens in the course of their study, which has been billed as the "first substantive attempt" to profile illegal aliens in the state.

Other results of the project concluded that the average undocumented worker is a young male who is unmarried, has little education and makes more than the present minimum wage of $3.35.

However, the study ignores farm laborers completely and Tarrance researchers admit some of the data is biased by U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service policies that concentrate deportation efforts in urban areas, where more illegal aliens can be rounded up with less work.

Despite its shortcomings, Gov. Bill Clements defended the study, which was presented to the Governor's Task Force on Undocumented Workers.

Clements called the survey a valuable resource and said it will aid Congress in its debates on a new illegal alien policy.

Some political observers, however, felt there was very little new information in the report.

Clayton's Support

And while Clements was defending the illegal alien study, he also was getting a pat on the back from outgoing House speaker Bill Clayton.

Clayton, one of the state's leading Democrats said Clements has done a good job while Democratic gubernatorial contender Attorney General Mark White hasn't.

Clayton, the four-term speaker who backed out of a race for land commissioner earlier this year, stopped short of endorsing Clements, but accused White of mishandling lawsuits involving prisons and bilingual education.

Clayton's praise for the Republican incumbent is not all that surprising since the two have worked closely on several issues during the last two sessions, and there has been much speculation that the Springlake farmer might bolt the Democratic Party for the GOP.

White's campaign staff dismissed Clayton's criticism saying Clayton can "do what he wants."

Auto Insurance Rates

Homeowners got a break when their insurance rates were cut earlier this year, but car owners can expect some bad news soon.

The staff of the State Board of Insurance is preparing recommendations to increase auto rates by an average 17.3 percent.

The proposed increase, which will be submitted to the board at public hearings soon, would produce an additional $300 million for Texas insurance companies.

Under the pending recommendations, basic liability rates would go up 18 percent, with a 12.6 percent rise in $50 deductible collision insurance and a 14.8 percent jump in $50 deductible comprehensive insurance.

The insurance industry is expected to request rates even higher than those proposed by the staff.

Final action on the new rates, which would not be effective until Nov. 1, is expected within about a month.

Restitution Payments

Convicted criminals in Texas paid more than $7 million in restitution to crime victims and communities in 1981, according to statistics released recently by the Texas Adult Probation Commission.

The commission has reported that 151,000 adults on probation paid $7.3 million in restitution, while another 1,100 probationers reporting to 12 local probation departments across the state contributed $180,000 in labor for "community service restitution" by working 53,595 hours for 174 local non-profit community agencies.

The restitution program was begun in 1978 and the amount paid has steadily increased, with $3.8 million paid in 1978 and $6 million in 1980.

The number of probationers also has increased from 119,000 in 1978 to 160,000 at present.

Vital Statistics

Heart disease continues to rank as the number one killer in Texas, according to the 1981 Vital Statistics report released last week by the Texas Department of Health.

The report showed that the number of deaths overall in the state rose to an all-time high of 110,498, but due to increases in population, the number of deaths per 1,000 population dropped to 7.5 from 7.6 in 1980.

Total deaths resulting from heart disease rose from 37,581 in 1980 to 38,463 last year.

Cancer placed second in 1981 with 21,770 deaths. That figure also was up from 21,164 in 1980.

Strokes and accidents were the three and fourth leading causes of deaths in the state.

Despite the increases, health department officials report that deaths due to heart disease have dropped 33 percent since 1950. However, cancer deaths have risen 11 percent, and health officials say cancer soon may replace heart disease as the number one killer.

Short Takes

Twenty Texas colleges and vocational schools were told recently by U.S. Education Secretary Terrel Bell that they will lose Federal funding for student loans due to default rates exceeding 25 percent.

Charles Goff was granted a new trial on charges he made a terroristic threat in connection with the shooting of Rep. Mike Martin, Longview Republican. Prosecutors said they planned to dismiss the charges.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen told Texas State Teachers Association he supports continuing Federal aid to education but feels state and local officials must control the curriculum.

The Texas Department of Corrections ended its quota for inmates who may be transferred from county jails to prison, reporting stepped up release of inmates with less than six months to serve and opening of new units.

FREE SPEECH AND THE A.C.L.U.

On May 20, 1982, U.S. District Judge John Singleton ruled that the children in Aldine schools, outside Houston, could no longer include a phrase praising God in their school song.

That made the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) very happy. They had been party to the suit, claiming that the song violated constitutional provisions of separation of church and state.

On July 3rd, the Supreme Court ruled that states can indeed ban the distribution of child pornography. That made ACLU very unhappy. One of their spokesmen was quoted in the press as complaining this violated the constitutional provisions of free speech.

If this all seems strange to you, perhaps it is because it is strange. The ACLU is constantly worried about the "free speech" rights of pornographers, but seemingly is on the other side of the fence when the question turns on the free speech rights of school children. One cannot escape the conclusion that the ACLU would defend the "right" of school children to distribute smut, but they would deny them the right to sing the praises of God.

And if you ever wonder where the ACLU gets the money to pursue its goals, consider this: a lot of rich people in high places give them a lot of money. Our current Lieutenant Governor Hobby, for example, held a fund raiser for them in his Houston home that raised some $60,000. He is very proud of his efforts in this regard, defending it repeatedly while out on the campaign trail seeking reelection. That is one of the many areas where he and I are in disagreement. I think there are far worthier organizations for Texans to champion. I would appreciate hearing your thoughts. Just write me at 1213 W. 34th, Austin, Texas 78705.

WE BRING GOOD THINGS TO LIFE

128 Expected to Report

Whitefaces Open Grid Drills Monday

BY BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR
While the ranks of the National Football League are beginning preseason games this weekend, and collegiate teams across the nation are dreaming of that elusive national championship, the Hereford Whiteface football staff has concluded preparation in anticipation of greeting some 130 hopefuls Monday morning.

HHS head mentor Don Cumpton and his staff are expecting 128 athletes as the Herd begins fall workouts at 9:31 a.m. Monday. Thirty-four seniors, 42 juniors, and 52 sophomores are eagerly awaiting their chance to make the varsity team this season.

And, with a mass exodus via the graduation route after last year's 13-1 banner season, the HHS staff will have plenty of openings to fill. Only four starters, corner back Charles McDowell and Linebacker Frankie Garcia on defense, and offensive linemen Mark Collier and Tim Martin return to the fold this year.

McDowell is expected to challenge strongly for the starting quarterback position, while Martin will add linebacking duties to his regular work at offensive center.

The Whitefaces will work out in shorts Monday - Thursday this week before donning pads Friday in anticipation of a scrimmage against the Clovis Wildcats in Clovis, Friday, Aug. 27. That workout will be held in Clovis, beginning at 7:30 p.m. (CDT).

"We will be working real hard on our kicking game and our passing game while we're in shorts," Cumpton said Friday. He added that the initial workout Monday morning would be taken up with testing and evaluation of the players by the coaching staff, who will be checking progress in strength and quickness, and general overall conditioning.

"We feel pretty good about our offense as a whole heading into the season," Cumpton said. "Our offense was executing well and moving the ball when our spring practices ended."

Defensively the Herd will be much smaller, but is hoping to offset the size lost with the graduation of ends Aubrey Richburg and Bruce Clarke and tackles Bob Hammond and Robert Gonzales last year with speed.

"Our defense should be very quick," the coach said.

"We may stunt a little more to offset our lack of size, and will probably play some games in the line to help us as well."

"Our philosophy hasn't changed in that we still believe that to win the district championship you have to have a strong defense," he added.

At the signal caller position, McDowell, a senior, heads a group of four players who will begin the varsity at that spot. Senior Robert Abalos will be in the thick of things, as will junior Jeff Streun and sophomore Mike Scott.

"We'll make a final decision on who'll be running the team probably after the Clovis scrimmage," Cumpton revealed.

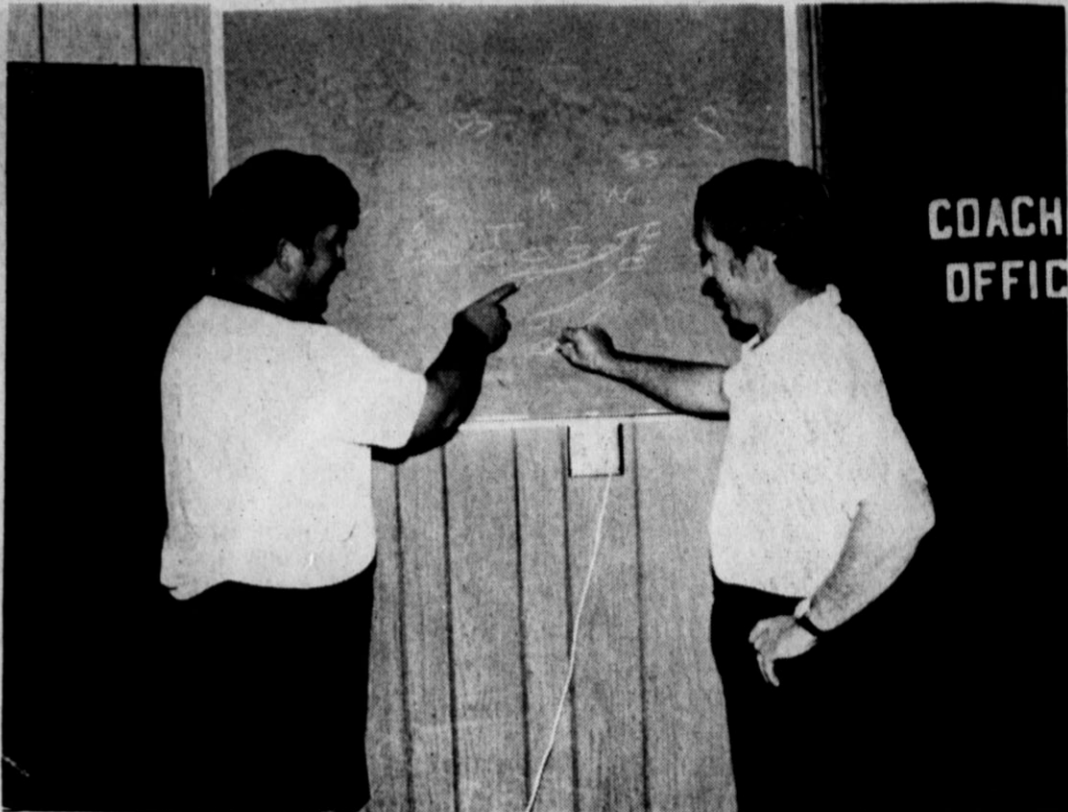

The coach feels that his team will be strong in the kicking game with Raymond Martinez back to handle placekicking chores, and McDowell ready to do the punting.

"We've got to bring the players along a lot faster this year since we don't have the advantage of six non-district games," Cumpton concluded. "We'll be basically the same type of team we had last year, with a few changes necessary due to our change in size."

A U.S. Apollo and a U.S.S.R. Soyuz spacecraft linked 140 miles above the Atlantic on July 17, 1975. The crews exchanged visits and shared meals.

Planning Practice

Whitefaces open fall drills at 9:31 a.m. Monday, and Taylor and Haney will be on hand to offer their expertise to the players. (Brand Photo).

For Whiteface Fans

Ticket Option Deadline Nears

Season ticket holders for Hereford Whiteface football games have until Aug. 20 to claim their reserved seats.

After Aug. 20, season tickets will be made available to the general public. Season tickets sales for reserved seats totalled 1,220 last year.

Price of the season tickets is $15 for five home games. Single-game ticket prices will be $4. Those holding reserved season tickets last year can pick up the 1982 tickets at the school business office.

The grid season opens Sept. 3 in a non-district game against Pampa. The other four home games will be District 3-AAAAA contests against Lubbock High, Amarillo Caprock, Plainview and Amarillo High. The Caprock game, Oct. 1, will be the Homecoming contest.

The Whiteface gridgers advanced all the way to the state semifinals last season, posting a 13-1 won-lost record. The Herd won 13 straight games before losing a close 10-7 contest to Lake Highlands in the semifinals.

The school business office is located at 136 Ave. F. For further information, call 364-0606.

Perry Completes Game No. 300

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Gaylord Perry has reached the 300-mark again, but this time it wasn't a victory.

The veteran right-hander, barely a month away from his 44th birthday, hurled the 300th complete game of his career Friday night, some three months after notching his 300th victory. But he was outpitched by Minnesota's Bobby Castillo, who posted his first route-going effort as the Twins defeated the Seattle Mariners 3-1 and handed Perry his 249th setback to go with 304 triumphs.

"It was a sweet one to win," said Castillo, who limited the Mariners to three hits. "After beating the old master like that, maybe I can sit down in 20 years with my children and tell them I pitched against Gaylord Perry and I beat him."

In other American League games, the California Angels trounced the Oakland A's 9-0, the Detroit Tigers bombed the Kansas City Royals 10-1, the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Toronto Blue Jays 3-1, the New York Yankees edged the Chicago White Sox 4-3, the Boston Red Sox trimmed the Baltimore Orioles 5-2 and the Texas Rangers nipped the Cleveland Indians 8-7.

There won't be any banner newspaper headlines and you won't see it on your TV networks but one of the country's most important sports events will take place Sunday at Laidley Field in Charleston, W.Va.

The name of it is Hershey's National Track and Field Youth Finals, involving 500 boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 14 and representing every state in the union.

Who cares about a seeing a bunch of grammar school tykes running, jumping and throwing things in competition against each other? Well, Rafer Johnson does, for one.

Especially Rafer Johnson. This U.S. Olympic gold medalist and world record-holder — "the world's greatest all-around athlete" in 1960 — is the national chairman. He's in it heart and soul.

"No, don't call this the Schoolboy Olympics," said Johnson, stopping over in New York en route to the competition site. "That sounds too high-flung and too pressurized."

"These are just neighborhood kids from throughout America — and as far away as Hawaii and Alaska. They're the best of some 2½ million who competed in city, district and state eliminations."

"They come in sneakers, shirts and shorts — no spikes. That's all they need. They come to have fun, get totally involved. This is the sort of program that gets our kids pointed in the right direction."

Rafer said his interest in the program was stirred by his own experiences when he was a schoolboy growing up in Kingsburg, Calif.

"This was a small town with a population of about 3,000," he said. "The closest big place is Fresno. Also, we were about 20 miles from Tulare, where Bob Mathias (double decathlon champion in 1948 and 1952) came from."

"The people in our town were concerned about their kids. So they launched a playground program. They made donations, built a facility, drove cars and even helped in a coaching and supervisory capacity."

"It wasn't a national program. It was strictly local. So, when this national playground program got started, I was interested in doing all I could to help it succeed."

The current program came out of the head of Dr. Donald F. Cohen of Charleston. It started out as a small town track and field meet in 1976. It was conducted on a test basis in 10 Southeastern states in 1977. Then, with financial support from the Hershey Chocolate Company and the blessings of the President's Council on Physical Fitness, it grew to national proportions.

Johnson, a vice-president of Continental Communications with main offices in Atlanta and Bakersfield, Calif., was a natural pick to serve as chairman.

Since winning the Olympic decathlon, Rafer has spurred offers to use his name in commercial enterprises and devoted most of his spare time in community work, particularly helping small kids.

"Surveys have shown that a person's best physical shape is when he or she is 9 to 14 years old," the former decathlon champion said. "By the time the age 16 to 19 is reached there is a deterioration from neglect and sometimes it's not until you get out of college that you realize you have let yourself go to pot, so to speak."

"You decide to take up tennis, golf or some other sport seriously and you find you have to go into a crash course of body building. That's what we want to avoid in working with these kids."

"It's our experience that once a kid has learned to eat properly, exercise and compete, it is hard to go in the wrong direction."

This, Johnson insisted, is America's antidote for delinquency, drugs and decay of athlete.

"But this is coating on the cake. The idea is not to make them world record-holders or super stars but get each one striving to be the best he can be at what he does." "If you can instill that, the kid is hooked on something good for life."

NL Easterners Playing Giveaway

By THOMAS F. CANAVAN
Associated Press Writer
St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog admits the four contenders in the National League East have gone into an I got it ... you take it act.

Herzog's first-place Cardinals saw their three-game winning streak snapped Friday night as Don Robinson scattered nine hits and Tony Pena and Bill Madlock hit solo homers to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 7-4 victory over the Cardinals.

Coupled with the Montreal Expos' 3-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies, there are now four teams within striking distance in the NL East. The Cards remain a half-game in front of the Phillies with Montreal three out and the Pirates four back.

"We have some outstanding teams in this division," said Herzog, "and they're not playing outstanding."

Since August 1, only Montreal has a winning record, taking 8 of 14 games, including its last four. The Cardinals are 6-6, Pittsburgh 7-8 and the Phillies a mediocre 6-9 during that span.

Philadelphia's Pat Corrales recalled a little piece of advice his mother gave him. "It's like my mom said: 'Nothing comes easy in this life,'" Corrales explained.

In other NL action Friday, Los Angeles ripped San Francisco 6-1, San Diego downed Atlanta 7-4, Cincinnati blanked Houston 3-0 and New York edged Chicago 6-4.

Robinson, 13-6, struck out eight and had a run-scoring double, raising his RBI total for the season to 16, tops among NL pitchers.

Keith Hernandez's RBI triple gave St. Louis a 1-0 lead in the first, but Pittsburgh took a 2-1 lead in the bottom of the inning on Jason Thompson's run-scoring grounder and Mike Easler's RBI double.

St. Louis tied it 2-2 in the second on Bob Forsch's suicide squeeze, but Pena gave the Pirates a 3-2 lead in the bottom of the inning.

Ponies Players Plenty

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

AP Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP) — Bobby Collins inherits a horn of plenty at Southern Methodist University.

The Mustangs' new football coach took over earlier this year, when Ron Meyer left to become coach of the New England Patriots in the National Football League.

And the man who led independent Southern Mississippi to 18 victories and two bowl games in the last two years has a lot to like about his first Southern Methodist team.

"It's going to be tough on me since I'm new in the conference, but our team knows it can win the title," Collins said. "A lot of our players have already been there."

SMU had its second best year ever in 1981, finishing No. 5 in the nation in the final AP poll.

Seven of the 11 offensive starters from a 10-1 team return, along with seven of the defensive regulars.

The backfield includes Associated Press second-team All-American Eric Dickerson, the SWC Offensive player of the year; Craig James, another 1,000-yard gainer, and All-SWC quarterback Lance McIlhenny.

James and Dickerson became only the fifth pair of backs in NCAA history to each average 100 yards a game for a season.

Dickerson rushed for 1,428 yards and James added 1,147.

The Mustang defense forced 48 turnovers and had 31 interceptions, both marks the best in the nation.

Third-team All-American defensive back Russell Carter heads a unit that includes defensive end Russ Washington, strong safety Wes Hopkins and middle guard Michael Carter.

Carter suffered a knee injury in the 9-7 loss to Texas and missed the remainder of the season. The injury was so bad that Carter could not defend his NCAA shot put titles but is expected to be ready for the Sept. 11 home opener against Tulane.

The kicking game and offensive line will be major concerns for Collins.

Gone are punter Eric Kaifes and second team AP All-America placekicker Eddie Garcia.

"We lost three starters in the offensive line," said Collins. "It's a worry. Depth in the defensive line could be a problem, too, unless Carter and Richard Neely heal from injuries."

Players Will Continue Pregame Handshake

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

National Football League owners can expect more symbolic handshakes between opposing players as the exhibition season continues, union official Ed Garvey says.

Ignoring threats of a minimum $100 fine, NFL players met at midfield for pregame handshakes at two preseason games Friday night, hoping to demonstrate solidarity against management.

"Before virtually every game, there will be a hand-shake," said Garvey, the NFL Players Association executive director.

Garvey called the threat of fines "unlawful. Players have right to this activity."

On Friday night, the Kansas City Chiefs and Cincinnati Bengals rushed to the middle of the field to shake hands after the national anthem at Arrowhead Stadium. The St. Louis Cardinals and Seattle Seahawks later did the same thing at the Kingdome.

The attention given the "high-fives" and hand slaps on the field before the games may have overshadowed the results, which saw Kansas City beat Cincinnati 26-20 and Seattle defeat St. Louis 14-0.

Similar handshakes were exchanged Thursday night before the Houston Oilers edged the New Orleans Saints 22-20.

Despite booping from the crowds, some of the players raised their arms and clenching fists.

At Seattle, uniformed players were joined on the field by several injured players in street clothes. Seattle quarterback Jim Zorn and wide receiver Steve Largent, who have said they won't join in any players' strike, also were among the handshakers.

Zorn said he didn't decide to take part in the handshaking demonstration until Thursday night at a players' meeting.

"I was seeing players pulling together and I felt like I wanted to be a part of that togetherness," Zorn said. "I am willing to pay the consequences. This doesn't have anything to do with my stand on the strike. This won't sway my mind on that matter."

Seattle Coach Jack Paterra said Thursday he would fine each player half of one regular-season game's salary, which in Zorn's case would be about $15,000.

Jack Donlan, executive director of the NFL Management Council, called the hand-shaking displays "precedent-setting. There is a provision against fraternization before a game. It's in the constitution and bylaws of the league."

Donlan, who attended the Seattle game, added, "It comes under the heading of 'no big deal.' But my feeling is that this all belongs on the bargaining table."

Garvey said the union would file a complaint with the National Labor Relations Board because of the management council's action advising NFL teams to fine players.

Jim Miller, spokesman for the council, said the players face a minimum fine of $100 for participating in any forgoing agreement.

NFLPA President Gene Upshaw, a guard with the Raiders, said the management council's warning about fines for shaking hands before exhibition games "is in marked contrast to almost every professional sport in America. The handshake between opponents has become an important part of the opening tip in basketball, the meeting of boxers in the center of the ring, and in all other sports where sportsmanship and respect for your opponent is important to the game.

"We intend to continue this gesture of respect for other players in the NFL and to show solidarity for our union."

Crenshaw Golf Doctor Victim?

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — You linksters have been around a "golf doctor" all your life.

He's the guy in your four-some who always wants to operate on your swing ... a little less wrist here and a little stiffer elbow there.

It's always well-intentioned but normally unwanted advice. Like a bad prescription, the cure is often worse than the malady.

Now, we have the case of young Ben Crenshaw.

It's been 10 years since Crenshaw left the University of Texas and "Hook" Em Horns' for the horn of plenty on the pro golf circuit.

He was the new golden boy who was supposed to give Jack Nicklaus a dead serious run for major titles.

Crenshaw still has none. Nicklaus has 19.

Has Crenshaw been a victim of "golf doctors"?

Perhaps. But it wasn't always unwanted advice. He has desperately been searching for a permanent cure to his inconsistency.

Crenshaw said last week at the PGA Championship in Tulsa: "I've tinkered with my game too much and messed it up. I'm embarrassed about this year. I'm ashamed of myself."

On Sunday, instead of being on the course battling Ray Floyd for the title, Crenshaw was in the ABC-TV press building watching the show on television, a victim of the 36-hole cut.

Crenshaw told a group of Texas writers, "I'm still not certain what's wrong with my game."

The friendly, outgoing Texan they call "Gentle Ben" on the tour has been getting plenty of suggestions.

In May at the Byron Nelson Golf Classic in Dallas at Preston Trail, Nelson himself pointed out flaws in Crenshaw's game on the practice tee, hoping to help him like he did Tom Watson.

Then there was this recent scene at the British Open in Troon: Crenshaw and former U.S. Open champion David Graham, a Dallas resident and a member a Preston Trail, played a practice round. Crenshaw would hit a shot and Graham would explain what was wrong. Crenshaw would actually hit full shots with Graham talking him through them.

Nothing has worked. Crenshaw isn't starving. He may have been 61st on the PGA Tour but he has still won $53,352 in his WORST year as a professional.

There are a lot of people who would like to have a similar "off" season.

His career earnings are $1.3 million.

There are a lot of people who would like to have a similar "off" career at the age of 30.

But just money can't make Crenshaw happy.

Take 1981 for example. He won $151,038 but called it "not a fun year."

He said the money didn't mean much because he couldn't win a major event.

Crenshaw's game seems to desert him in the crunch. He has trouble making clubbing decisions. His driver occasionally goes sour at the wrong time. These are mistakes not even his gifted putting came over come.

And he admits "I'm not worth a damn in playoffs."

His 0-5 record in playoffs attests to that. From the media golf doctors at the PGA emerged the theory that Crenshaw should quit listening to the "golf doctors" and start playing with his old, natural free swing, forgetting the million mechanics.

Only Crenshaw can decide.

And he's already had all the free advice he can't afford.

Mears Turns 200 MPH Lap in Pocono Trial

LONG POND, Pa. (AP) — A 200 mph lap at Pocono International Raceway wasn't considered impossible, but nobody was really expecting it this year — least of all Rick Mears.

"I didn't think it (200) was possible until this (Friday) morning when I did a 198," Mears said. "Then I just figured I'd hold my breath a little longer and see if I could do it."

The first of his two qualifying laps for Sunday's Domino's Pizza Pocono 500 Indy-car race was clocked at 44.780 seconds, which translates to 200.983 mph.

"I scared myself so much on that first lap that the second one was a lot slower (45.254 seconds and 198.877 mph). I guess I almost lost it about three times."

"The difference on that (first) lap was probably that I just held my breath a little more and, at the places where I just touched the brake a little before, I didn't touch it at all."

The enormity of Mears' feat is illustrated by the record he broke, a lap of 191.367 mph run by the late Peter Revson in qualifying for the 1973 Pocono race.

That was the last year of unlimited horsepower for the Indy cars and, the ensuing cutback in horsepower, combined with poor track conditions, a few rainouts, and the feud between the U.S. Auto Club and Championship Auto Racing Teams that cut the fields for a few years, kept Revson's record intact until Friday.

Eight different drivers among the 28 who qualified Friday broke the old mark.

Mears' teammate Kevin Cogan, driving a virtually identical Ford-powered Penske PC-10, took the middle of the front row with a lap of 196.541, while Johnny Rutherford got the outside spot at 194.843 in a March-Cosworth.

The second row Sunday will include teammates Mario Andretti and Gordon Johncock, both in Wildcat-Cosworths, and Mike Mosley in a March-Cosworth.

Johncock, who beat Mears

by .16-second in the Indianapolis 500 and added an easy triumph in the Michigan 500, will be going for the Triple Crown of Indy-car racing Sunday despite crashing on his second qualifying lap.

Johncock lost control and backed his Wildcat into the wall in the first turn of the 2.5-mile trioval. His crew hoped to have the car repaired in time to take part in today's scheduled practice session.

Andretti, who fell off a bit from practice laps in the 195 range, hit 194.460, followed by Johncock at 193.619, and Mosley at 192.757.

1982 Cowgirl Hall of Fame Honorees

These five women will be inducted into the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame on Saturday during the Jubilee All Girls Rodeo. Performance time is 7:30 p.m.

RUBY GOBBLE was born and raised on a ranch near Wickenburg, Ariz. In her younger years she trained and performed with trick horses. In the early '50s at age 19, she started on the girl's rodeo circuit, specializing in calf roping. Her first year she was runner-up for the World's Champion Roper. The following three years she held three world titles. Ruby was one of the few lady catch-loop artists who threw her slack over her horse's head. She now lives in Cimarron, N.M.

DIXIE REGER MOSLEY was born near Buffalo, Okla. and became a professional trick rider and roper at the age of 5½ years. Dixie learned to ride and rope on the family ranch near Woodward, Okla. During her rodeo career, she entered clown and bullfighting, while at the same time competing on the circuit. Her best event was roping. Dixie is also remembered as one of the founders and charter members of the Girls Rodeo Association, organized in 1948. She was an early vice-president of the organization.

GENE CREED was born in Holly, Colo. Her first rodeo experience was when she ran away from home to perform in the Frontier Days Cheyenne Rodeo at age 16. She became a champion lady bronc rider, riding by the men's rules. Gene made all of her own costumes and clothes, for in the early days of cowgirl rodeoing, attractive riding costumes were important. She was the youngest-ever world champion, going on to win seven world championships in relay riding and many trick riding contests.

FAYE BLACKSTONE now lives in Parrish, Fla. Born in Jefferson County, Neb., she rode the rodeo circuit from 1937-1950 as a fancy trick rider. The "reverse fender drag" is a trick that Faye invented. As a top trick rider on the big time circuits, Faye epitomized the ideal of hazardous horsemanship and riding at its best. During the years on the rodeo circuit, she traveled over 30,000 miles and trained 14 horses for competition.

OLLIE OSBORN began her rodeoing in about 1912. She is a pioneer cowgirl from Union, Ore. Ollie was most famous as a relay racer and bronc rider. She was one of a very few women who rode broncs "slick." Ollie

Oswalt, Bigham Exchange Wedding Vows

Mrs. Stephen Craig Bigham
...nee Kim Oswald

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Kim Oswald and Stephen Craig Bigham Saturday afternoon at First Christian Church with the Rev. Mack McCarter officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Oswald of Star Route, Hereford, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E.E. Bigham of Killeen, former Hereford residents.

A spring bouquet of gladiolas, status, daisies and carnations in colors of orchid, pink, yellow and white were arranged at the front altar with two candle trees holding lilac tapers and a pair of seven-branch candelabra.

Vickie Ortiz served her sister a matron of honor and Mauri Montgomery was best man.

Bridesmaids included Amy Carnahan; Jan Oswald, the bride's sister-in-law; and the bride's niece, Robin Oswald.

Brothers of the bridegroom, Scott, Stan and Stewart Bigham, were groomsmen.

Escorting guests were the bride's brother, Larry Oswald; the bride's brother-in-law, Alfred Ortiz; David Spain and Wayne Winget.

The bride's niece, Kelley Oswald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Oswald of Vernon, was flower girl and Lance Ortiz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ortiz, was ring bearer. Shawn Ortiz lit candles during the ceremony.

Phillip Zinser played wedding selections including the traditional wedding march, and "Trumpet Tune" by Henry Purcell for the recessional. He also accompanied two vocalists.

Jeanette Carnahan sang "This is the Day," Ray Owens sang "The Lord's Prayer," and the two performed "The Wedding Song" as a duet. Ms. Carnahan sang "Evergreen" at the reception.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a cotton batiste formal length gown. Satin ribbons and lace decorated the gown's hemline, bodice and skirt. The dress was fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline, fitted bodice and mid-length Bishop sleeves.

The fingertip bridal veil, trimmed with matching ribbons, was attached to a flower wreath. She carried a free-forming arrangement of lilac, pink, white and yellow lilies accented with baby's breath.

As good luck pieces, the bride wore her mother's pearl necklace and earrings.

The bride's matron of honor wore a formal length lilac silk gown with a batiste overlay, spaghetti straps and matching jacket. Bridesmaids wore long lilac colored gowns featuring Queen Anne necklines. Ruffles trimmed the neck, sleeves and hemline of the gowns.

Bridal attendants also wore lilac flower wreaths in their hair and carried free-forming bouquets of lilac spring flowers.

The bridegroom's sister, Staci Bigham, invited guests to register at the reception held in the church parlor.

Marva Spain and Shelli and Staci Bigham served the four-tiered wedding cake with roses, carnations, lilies and daisies cascading down the side. Pink, lilac, white and yellow spring flowers topped the cake.

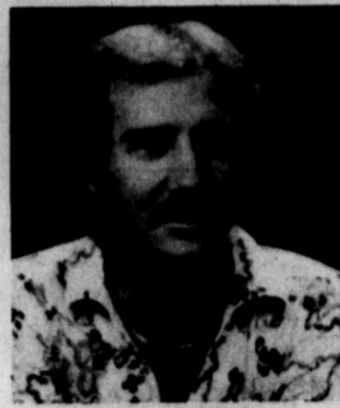

A bouquet of spring flowers and a six branch candelabrum decorated the refreshment table.

The couple will make their home at 122 Ave. D.

The bride graduated from Hereford High School in 1979. She was a twirler. She is now employed at the Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union.

The bridegroom, a 1975 graduate of Killeen High School, attended TSTI in Waco. He is currently employed by Hereford Cablevision.

Out-of-town guests included Louise Wade of Cleburne; Donnitta Ward of Wellington; Le Ed Oswald, Sam Noorwood, Ross and Lottie Cole, William and Margaret Mark, all of Temple; Staci and Jean Arnold of Shamrock; and Rick and Roseann Arnold of Perryton.

Artists Featured

The second annual Jubilee of Arts will be held at the Community Center Aug. 20-22 in conjunction with the Town and Country Jubilee. Over 100 artists are expected to participate in both commercial and non-commercial exhibits.

Works will be on display Friday from 1 to 6 p.m., Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. The public is urged to support the local and area artists by attending the exhibit.

Among the out-of-town artists participating are Danny Gamble and Jean Green.

Gamble is a native of Oklahoma and now resides in Canyon, where he maintains his studio as a base for his far-flung activities as a professional artist.

His paintings, produced from a palette featuring a wide variety of colors and gouache, are found in galleries and private collections throughout the United States. His scenes most often depict the rural settings of his native Southwest.

Gamble is recognized as an inspired teacher whose experience as an art instructor began in 1967 in public schools, then extended to college classes and private workshops. He is now in great demand for demonstrations and workshops throughout the country.

Ms. Green began painting when she was 12 years old and has studied with numerous prominent instructors throughout the country. The subjects she enjoys most are the rustic, weathered buildings and windmills from the forgotten and vanishing scenes of her native Southwest.

Her paintings were selected for the cover of the September 1981 and February 1982 issues of "Plains Agriculture" magazine, and she is listed in the "Blue Book of the Texas Panhandle." She is a member of the Texas Women's Western Artists Association.

She has been in demand for workshops and demonstrations throughout the Southwest since beginning her teaching career in 1964. She is an instructor at the Carrizo Lodge in Ruidoso, N.M., each summer and will have a fall and winter workshop this year.

Orchestra Meeting Set

Parents and fifth graders who plan to take orchestra this school year are reminded of meetings at 7 p.m. Monday and Tuesday during which orchestra directors Jay Thompson and Ray Jenkins will give information about the orchestra program.

A meeting for students at West Central will be held on Monday at that school and students who attend Shirley School will have a meeting on Tuesday.

Parents will be given information about how to obtain instruments and students will be measured for the size instrument they need.

Policies Announced

Weddings, engagements, anniversary and similar announcements are published free of charge by The Hereford Brand as a courtesy to our readers.

Those who submit such articles are asked to abide by the deadlines and policies established by The Brand Staff. Items must be submitted promptly in order to be newsworthy. The Brand reserves the right to edit all copy.

Wedding and engagement forms are available in the Brand office, 313 Lee St., an aid in preparing articles for publication.

Information for wedding should be submitted the Monday before the wedding date. Weddings reported more than a week after the event will be published in condensed form. Please do not ask for articles on weddings more than a month old.

Engagement announcements should be submitted at least one month before the wedding date.

Engagement and anniversary announcements should be submitted by noon two days before publication, or Thursday noon for Sunday publication.

Photos for weddings and engagements should be black and white glossy pictures, which can be picked up after publication. Snapshots are not generally suitable for reproduction.

Articles for bridal showers should be reported for immediate publication. Photos of showers will be accepted only if they are timely and of adequate quality for reproduction in the newspaper.

Briscoe, Thompson Repeat Vows

Miss Terrisa Gay Briscoe and Steven Mark Thompson exchanged wedding vows Saturday evening at All Saints Episcopal Church in Fort Worth. The Rev. Douglas L. Alford, Rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Hurst, performed the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James Hubert Briscoe of Fort Worth and Dr. and Mrs. Wade H. Thompson of Lubbock.

The bride is the niece of Carolyn and Don Waters of Hereford. The bridegroom is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Thompson and Mrs. Ada Brunson, and the nephew of Hereford residents Lola Faye Veazey, Rae Gonzalez, Birdene Huff, Gracey Cornelius, J.B. Thompson, and Gladys Cox. These relatives were in attendance at the ceremony.

Tracy Genette Briscoe of Fort Worth, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor and Jeffrey Scott Thompson, the groom's brother from Lubbock, was best man.

Bridesmaids included Vicki Vance of Denton, Gwen Gibson of Idaho, Kellye Elrod of Snyder, and Lorie Ingram of Denton. Trish Briscoe of Fort Worth and Jennifer Ingram of Denton were junior bridesmaids.

Gary Tapp, Brian Ragland, and Tony Loggins, all of Lubbock and Dwayne Waters of Denton served as groomsmen. Junior groomsmen were Tim Tapp and Bill Tapp, of Lubbock.

The bride's gown was fashioned of dacron polyester chiffon over dawn-glow satin with a sheer yoke, high neckline of lace and pearl and natural waistline accented with French imported Alencon lace and hand-stitched pearls. The full A-line skirt featured a straight front and box-pleated back, and was enhanced with handcut and beaded Alencon lace motifs.

The cloverleaf-shaped attached cathedral-length train was edged in silk English net and beaded ruffle, and the full Bishop sleeves had lace and pearl motifs and deep cuffs with ruffled edge.

Her cathedral-length mantilla was outlined with lace and pearls to match the gown, and she carried a white, gently curving cascade bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids, roses, stephanotis, and baby's breath.

The bridesmaids wore traditional southern belle gowns of skyblue georgette over taffeta featuring sheer yoke, high neckline of chantilly rose lace and chantilly lace attached capelets.

Their hats were covered in chantilly rose lace with hand-stitched pearls. They carried sonia roses, white daisies, baby's breath and greenery cascading from a white lace basket with hand-stitched pearls.

The bridesmaids' gowns as well as the bridal gown and veil were designed and sewn by the bride and her mother.

A reception was held immediately following the service at the bride's parent's home.

After a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M., the couple will be at home in Lubbock.

The bride is a graduate of Richland High School and is a senior at Texas Woman's University. She plans to transfer to Texas Tech University this fall. She is a member of the International Folk Dance Company, Associated Dance Students, and the Dance Repertory Theatre at T.W.U., and was listed on the spring 1982 Dean's Honor Roll there.

The bridegroom graduated from Monterey High School in Lubbock, where he was a football standout for the Monterey Plainsmen. He attended South Plains Junior College at Levelland and is currently employed as a City Inspector for the City of Lubbock. He is a member of the West Texas Building Inspector's Association.

Prepare Potpourri

BY LOUISE WALKER
County Extension Agent

If you enjoy the scent of potpourri - but don't want to pay the high price that often accompanies it - now is the time to make your own.

I got this basic simple recipe for potpourri from an extension agent in Arkansas. Hope you enjoy it.

The first step is to gather blemish-free roses early in the morning and place them on a table or rack in a cool room to allow dew to evaporate.

A variety of colors can be added with a few blue flowers like columbine, bachelor's button or larkspur.

After ten days of curing, the dried flowers can be transferred to covered potpourri jars.

Sprinkle the layers of petals with a mixture of one-fourth ounce mace, one-fourth ounce allspice and coarsely ground clove, one-fourth ounce cinnamon bark broken in small pieces, half a grated nutmeg and either an ounce or orrisroot or one-fourth pound of dried lavender flowers.

The final touch is adding a few drops of essential oil of roses to each layer of petals.

After the final step is complete you might want to make sachets. Stitch small bags from a romantic printed fabric adding old or new lace as a trim. Fill the small bag with one to two tablespoons of potpourri, and tie with a velvet or satin ribbon. These sachets would make nice gifts at a fraction of the cost of bought ones!

Potato Casserole

2 lbs. boiled potatoes, sliced
4 tbs. butter
Dash of salt
Dash of pepper
6 ounces hot milk
4 tbs. sesame seeds, (brown in oven)
16 ounces drained cottage cheese
4 ounces grated cheddar cheese
Green onions
Butter oven-proof casserole dish. One layer of potatoes, layer of cottage cheese, salt and pepper, sprinkle cheddar cheese and sesame seeds. Repeat three times. Slowly add milk.

Bake at 350 degrees F. for 30 minutes, or until hot all the way through. Serves 8 to 12 people. May also be used as a vegetarian entree.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Bowlers to Meet Tuesday

Sunset Keglers Bowling League will hold a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Southwestern Public Service Reddy Room.

All interested bowlers are urged to sign their name and phone number on a list at the bowling lanes.

Rush Begins Friday at WTSU

Among the activities scheduled for students before fall semester classes begin at West Texas State University is sorority rush, which involves five days of introduction and acquaintance with campus sororities.

Sorority rush will begin with an orientation session at 6 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 20, at the WTSU Activities Center Ballroom.

Representatives and members of the four social sorority chapters on campus will introduce their organizations to prospective members. Members host parties, beginning at 4 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 21, and rush continues through Tuesday, Aug. 24.

Registration for the fall semester at WTSU is Wednesday, Aug. 25, with classes beginning the following day.

The social sorority chapters on campus are affiliated with national groups and include Alpha Delta Pi, Chi Omega, Delta Zeta and Zeta Tau Alpha.

At the conclusion of rush, participants will be asked to join the groups. Residence halls at WTSU will open on Aug. 20. Students interested in participating in sorority rush must submit a registration form, recent photographs and a $10 administrative fee to the WTSU Panhellenic Office, WT Box 2117, Canyon, Texas, 79106.

During the academic year, members of sororities sponsor service projects, many activities and join with members of the campus fraternities to host Greek Week.

Panhellenic Council, including representatives of each campus sorority chapter, serves as a governing body of the sororities. Officers are presidents Mary Teague, a sophomore criminal justice administration major from Canyon; vice president, Linda Fox, junior business major from Amarillo; secretary, Patty Scott, a junior marketing major from Fritch; and treasurer, Debbie Lewis, a sophomore business education major from Pampa.

Honored With Shower

Miss Elizabeth Rains, bride-elect of Sid Lookingbill, was honored with a bridal shower Thursday afternoon in the home of Lavon Nieman. Receiving guests were, left to right, Mrs. Nieman; Miss Rains; her mother, Mrs. Elaine Rains; and the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Shera Lookingbill.

Shower Honors Elizabeth Rains

A bridal shower honoring Elizabeth Rains was given Thursday afternoon in the home of Lavon Nieman. Miss Rains is the bride-elect of Sid Lookingbill. The couple is planning a Sept. 11 wedding. Receiving guests with Mrs. Nieman were the honoree; her mother, Mrs. Elaine Rains; and the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Shera Lookingbill. Other special guests were the bride-elect's grandmother, Mrs. Clyde Rains of Kress; and her fiance's grandmother, Mrs. L.B. Lookingbill of Summerfield. Miss Rain's cousin, Denise Thompson of Kress, registered guests; and Joyce

Lynn Aven and Nita Anderson served refreshments. These three and other honored guests already mentioned were presented corsages of pink carnations and baby's breath. The registry table held a picture of the future bride and groom and a rose bud vase in shades of pink. The bride's chosen colors of pink and Nordic rose were also carried out at the serving table, which was covered with a pink linen cloth with white flower cutouts.

Caro Family Returns

BY MRS. OWEN ANDREWS Mr. and Mrs. Ted Caro, who have been living across the line in New Mexico, near the Texas town of Bledsoe, have moved back to Hereford. He is employed with a trucking firm, and they have moved to a location on East Fourth Street. In New Mexico, they were employed with a ranching business. Their daughter, Cindy, who is employed with the Dimmitt radio station, is planning to live with them here.

Clint Andrews of Carthage, Mo., was here last week with the relatives. He went home on Sunday and his brother Lynn came Wednesday for a few days. They are sons of the Glenn Andrews and are junior and senior students at Southwestern Missouri University, Springfield.

The centerpiece was an arrangement of silk flowers in shades of pink, with white and green accents, set in a pink crystal bowl. It was centered between a pair of pink crystal candlesticks holding pink candles. Appointments were crystal. Finger sandwiches, cookies, nuts, and punch were served to guests.

Club to Sell Cokes Thursday

The 4-H showmanship club will be selling cokes Thursday at the Bull Barn, beginning at 9:30 a.m. All members are expected to check by the booth when they have free time to help, for example: those showing steers need to sell cokes during the lamb show.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Here to visit relatives are Mr. and Mrs. Wallace White; their daughter, Brenda and her husband and children; Mrs. Gary White and children; and the other daughter's son, Gary, plans to join them here the first of next week. They are all from Biloxi, Miss., and are to visit son and brother, Mike White and his family. Also, Mrs. White's mother, Mrs. E.B. Berryman, and sister, Mrs. Clark Andrews, and family for several days.

They also visited friends and relatives in Hereford and Amarillo, as they are former residents of both places.

Lynette Andrews and her friend, Mike Butler, both of Amarillo, were here Sunday to be with the relatives.

Mr. and Ms. E.F. Vogler spent a long weekend attending a reunion of Mrs. Vogler's mother's family, the Jacobs, at Giddings. The group was shown pictures made recently in Germany by a cousin during a visit of the area where their relatives lived. Their mother corresponded with these relatives for many years.

A sister-in-law, Mrs. Linnie Drager, and son Delbert, accompanied them to Gidding for a visit with her daughter, Adeline, and her family.

Mrs. Billy Warrick has spent several days with her relatives in the Dallas area, and especially with her sister, Mrs. Elmer Reddus, who underwent surgery recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Rocky Andrews, Jamie and Allison of Carthage, Mo., came Wednesday to visit their parents, the LeeRoy Burges family, and the Clark Andrews and other relatives in that family. This is baby Allison's first visit here, as she is only five-months-old.

Jubilee All Girls Rodeo Scheduled Next Weekend

Town and Country Jubilee All Girls Rodeo, sanctioned by the Women's Professional Rodeo Association, is scheduled in conjunction with Town and Country Jubilee Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Ace tickets are $3 per person and are available at Hereford State Bank, First National Bank, and the Cowgirl Hall of Fame. Tickets will be $4 at the gate.

Performances will begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and at 1:30 p.m. Sunday. Stock producer is L.D. Ward of Trinidad, Colo.

The All Around Cowgirl at the rodeo will win a completely hand-tooled trophy saddle made by Bill Lookingbill of Summerfield. A saddle blanket, hand-loomed and donated by John Stribling of Hereford, will accompany the saddle.

The saddle is number 21 in Lookingbill's series of saddles. It is a woman's saddle done with a navy suede seat, hand-stitched in white with a white rawhide cantel edged in sterling silver lacing.

The stirrups and the pomel are also of white rawhide. It has a dally horn and sterling silver conchos, and the steer roping hand-tooled breast collar is done in quilt weave just as the saddle skirts are.

The 1981 All Around Cowgirl at Hereford was Edee Croward from Bunnell, Fla. She also received a saddle made by Lookingbill.

This is an open approved rodeo with local girls welcome to compete. Books are open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday. Call the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame at 364-5252 for more information.

Trophy Saddle

Bill Lookingbill is shown displaying his hand-tooled trophy saddle which will be presented to the All Around Cowgirl at the 1982 Hall of Fame Rodeo next weekend.

Young Homemakers Install New Officers

Young Homemakers met to install officers recently in a money conducted by Marjulepper.

Inst were Ann Kemp, president; Gail Blain, vice-president; Connie Gilb, secretary; and Renemson, historian.

The will hold a "Crazy Dinner" membership drive meeting at 7 p.m., Aug. 26, at the First National Bank.

The club is planning to attend an area I convention in Amarillo on Aug. 28.

Others in attendance at the installation ceremony were Jo An Meiwes, Brenda Meiwes, and Mrs. M.T. Burelsmith.

Fial Arguments In Pre-Trial Hearing

SANTONIO, Texas (AP) Attorneys for three defendants in the Judge John Woodruff case were scheduled for final arguments today in their efforts to suppress FBI electronic tapping.

U.S. District Judge William Sess scheduled the Saturday afternoon hearing 10 days after the start of the lengthy testimony, most on defense motions to bar government tape recordings from a scheduled Sept. trial of six defendants.

Sess also was asked to disqualify himself from presiding over the trial, to move the trial to San Antonio and to let the defendants separate.

Attor Billy Ravkind of Dallas representing Joseph Chagra and Tom Sharpe Jr. of Bronille, representing Charles Harrelson, waived final arguments so they could tend to matters today.

Lawyer Oscar Goodman of Las Vegas, representing "Jimmy" Chagra, court-appointed lawyer Charles Campion, on behalf of Ann Harrelson, and Galton lawyer Warren Burt, representing Elizabeth Chagra, were left to sum up the 10 days of testimony, most of it concerning the FBI tape recordings.

Sessions closed the pretrial hearing to the news media and public 13 times during the two weeks of testimony over objections of several reporters. Attorneys for The San Antonio Express-News, The San Antonio Light and KENS-TV were expected to argue their appeal to the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans next week.

The last witness to appear in the pretrial hearing was a federal convict who pleaded the Fifth Amendment and was cited for contempt of court by Sessions late Friday.

The government called Bradley Bryant in a late attempt to prevent Goodman from representing Jimmy Chagra on grounds Goodman was involved in a conflict of interest. Prosecutors did not identify the alleged conflict in open court.

Mysterious Tales Intrigue Readers

BY DIANNE PIERSON
County Librarian

The works of two outstanding authors head the list of new books available this week at the Deaf Smith County Library. Lawrence Sanders, in his long line of bestsellers, has proven himself a master of the dark side of the heart.

Now, in "The Case of Lucy Bending," he takes his talent to a new, ambitious level, probing the morals and mores of a whole society, and the lifestyles - visible and hidden - that make it what it is.

The setting: the Florida Gold Coast, among the prosperous, the lachorous, the driven; where best friends may be something worse, and innocent bronzed children excite the eye - and fire the fantasies.

The protagonist is Dr. Theodore Levin, a child psychiatrist. The victim is Lucy Bending, a seemingly well-adjusted, lovely eight-year old, whose aberrant nymph behavior is so out of character she almost seems possessed.

Levin knows differently. He knows that somewhere in the Bending's respectable circle, too much has happened. He must press to find the heart of Lucy's trauma, even if the price of Lucy's cure is another's destruction.

"The Case of Lucy Bending" is studded with a multitude of provocative subplots. It is a fascinating story of one particular child encompassing the wealth of sins, misalliances and hidden excesses that exist, but rarely surface, in any town. "The Case of Lucy Bending" is Sander's most major novel. "Is horror all you write?"

This is the second most frequent question Stephen King encounters, he tells us in the Afterword to this superlative quartet of novels, entitled "Different Seasons."

Although King is by now a world-class grand master of the horrific, he resists entombment in that genre. That he can transcend horror is proved triumphantly in these four works. At the same time, nobody in search of the other utterly distinctive King brand of driving narrative, will go away unsatisfied.

The four novels included in "Different Seasons" are "Hope Springs Eternal," the most satisfying tale of unjust imprisonment and offbeat escape since "The Count of Monte Criso"; "Summer of Corruption," the story of a golden California schoolboy and an old man whose hideous past he uncovers; "Fall From Innocence," where four rambunctious young boys venture into the Maine woods and in sunlight and thunder find life, death, and intimations of their own mortality; and "A Winter's Tale," which is a tale told in a strange club about a woman determined to give birth no matter what.

Three of King's best-selling novels, "Cujo," "Firestarter," and "The Dead Zone," go into motion picture production in 1982, and "Creepshow," a movie written by him and in which he plays a part, is scheduled for release in the summer of this year as well.

Other new books available this week at the library include "Family Trade" by James Carroll, "The Girl of the Sea of Cortez" by Peter Benchley, and "Monday's Child" by Mollie Hardwick.

THOUGHTS

When the woman poured ointment of spikenard on Jesus' head, he said she came "aforehand" to anoint his body for burial.

"And being the Bethany in the house of Simon the leper, as he sat at meat, there came a woman having an alabaster box of ointment of spikenard very precious; and she broke the box, and poured it on his head." - Mark 14:3

When Martha asked Jesus to tell Mary to help her, Jesus suggested that Mary is concerning herself about something more important - spiritual instruction.

"And Jesus answered and said unto her Martha, Martha, thou art careful and troubled about many things: But one thing is needful: and Mary hath chosen that good part, which shall not be taken away from her." - Luke 10:41-42

Jeremiah used the figure of speech "hath settled on his lees" as if a people were a liquid that is poured from vessel to vessel to keep the contents stirred.

"Moab hath at ease from his youth, and he hath settled on his lees, and hath not been emptied from vessel to vessel, neither hath he gone into captivity..." - Jer. 48:11

The Preacher was an advocate of saving energy, but his advice was about saving people's energy by sharpening tools.

"If the iron be blunt, and he do not whet the edge, then must he put to more strength..." - Ecc. 10:10

Ruth's saying, beginning "Whither thou goest, I will go" is famous, but the words of her future husband Boaz are not so well-known.

"...It hath fully been shewed me, all that thou hast done unto thy mother in law since the death of thine husband: and how thou hast left thy father and thy mother, and the land of thy nativity, and art come unto a people which thou knewest not heretofore." - Ruth 2:1

Final Preparations Made

The fair board committee met Thursday at K-Bob's Steak House to finalize plans for the 1982 Town and Country Jubilee County Fair to be held at the Bull Barn next weekend. From

Plans Finalized For Jubilee County Fair

The fair board committee met and completed plans for the 1982 Town & Country Jubilee County Fair to be held at the Bull Barn this year. Entries will be received on Thursday between the hours of 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. Judging will begin at 8 a.m. Friday.

The fair will be open to the public from 12 noon to 8 p.m. Friday and from 2:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. Saturday. The exhibits will be removed between 6 and 7 p.m. Saturday.

The four divisions of each department are: "Juniors" (under 13), "Teenage" (13-19), "Adult" (over 19) and "Golden Age" (age 60 and over).

The departments designated for the fair are: textile - clothing and handwork; art - (do not have to be framed) - oils, watercolor, charcoal, and pen and pencil; photography - (must be mounted or framed) black and white and color; crafts - leather, metal, wood, ceramics, macrame, coiling, and string art; woodworking; hobbies or collections.

Other departments are: horticulture - (only one entry per class or category per exhibitor) annuals; perennials; bulbs, corns, rhizomes, and tubers; roses; pot plants; hanging baskets; artistic design (desert sunset - using weathered wood & dry material, pride of the golden triangle - using fruit, vegetables, grains & flowers, country charm - plant material must dominate dry material, Christmas treasures - all dry material in a wreath); and fruits and vegetables. Entries of small vegetables, such as beans, must consist of six; medium size must have three, such as peaches; and large only one.

In the culinary department the divisions include: yeast breads, quick breads, cakes, cookies and pastry. The following items need to include six samples with an exhibit: bisquits tortillas, sopapillas and cookies.

Canned products will be divided as follows: fruits; vegetables; pickles and relishes; jelly, and preserves, fruit butter, and marmalades. Only entries in canning jars will be accepted.

The decorated cakes department will accept no dummy cakes. The cakes will be a junior, teenager, amateur and professional (a professional being anyone who receives pay for teaching or decorated cakes) divisions. The categories are novelty, birthday, holiday and weddings or anniversary.

The wheat contest will be divided into irrigated and dryland. It is due in the extension office by July 30.

If you have any questions concerning the fair please feel free to phone the Extension office at 364-3573.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Jubilee Planned Tonight

Jim Fullingim will be one of the featured performers at the YCMA Gospel Jubilee scheduled at 8 p.m. today at Whiteface Stadium. In the event of bad weather, the jubilee will be held at the Hereford High School auditorium.

Admission at the gate will be $4. Everyone is encouraged to attend.

Fullingim is a farmer, born and reared in Petersburg where he and his wife, Carolyne, live with their two sons and daughter.

Since 1971 Fullingim has been singing and traveling in a Christian ministry and is now in full-time music evangelism.

He has had opportunities to minister with the Professional Rodeo Cowboy Chapter of Fellowship of Christian Athletes at Cheyenne, Wyo. and at the National Finals Rodeo in Oklahoma City.

He has traveled with Evangelist James Robison and others in crusades.

Fullingim was co-host of a television program entitled "The Lay Witness" and has also recorded six gospel albums.

Other entertainers appearing at the jubilee include Mary Crist and Johnny Ray Watson, both of Hereford; The Living Water Gospel

Band, lead by David Nall of Pampa; and Zelda Ellison of Dimmitt.

Each performer will have records on sale at the concession stand. All proceeds from the event will be used for YM-CA operating expenses.

Man Believed Quiet

Gunned Down By Police

John Parish was a quiet, friendly man. He always had a kind word for children in his poor Dallas neighborhood. He never lost his temper.

Monday morning, about 8:30, Parish was gunned down by police bullets after he killed six people at three different Grand Prairie offices, then crashed a truck through a police blockade.

Police called the 30-minute shooting spree the worst in Dallas-Fort Worth history. Parish apparently believed his paycheck was more than a thousand dollars short. All the victims were his supervisors, co-workers or contractors for his driving services.

But psychologists believe the money issue merely released Parish's long-pent rage at life's injustices, rage he kept tightly stopped for most of his 49 years.

"It's all hypothetical at this point, but he ... may have felt that he had been wronged in a number of ways. This $1,000 just pushed him over the edge," said Dr. Lawrence Redinger, a criminal justice professor at the University of Dallas.

"What you seem to have is a person who maybe has been holding back anger for years and when he finally lets go, it's going to be uncontrollable," said Texas A&M psychology professor Dr. John Riskind.

The first oil pipelines in the United States were laid about 1867 because there were not enough oaken barrels to transport all the oil being produced.

Sacramento, Calif., was founded in 1839 by John Augustus Sutter, owner of the mill 35 miles to the northeast - where discovery of gold in 1845 began the California Rush.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several years ago you printed a poem about "the special child" that I'm sure was comforting to a great many parents. I didn't clip it out because it had no personal significance to me.

A few months ago our first grandchild was born. We leaned only yesterday that the baby was brain-damaged at birth. Our daughter and her husband need all the strength they can get. Will you please reprint that poem?—Sedalia, Mo., Grandma

DEAR GRANDMA: Here it is. I'm sure it will help. HEAVEN'S VERY SPECIAL CHILD

By Edna Massimilia
A meeting was held quite far from earth!

It's time again for another birth.

Said the Angels to the Lord above,

This Special Child will need much love.

His progress may be very slow,

Accomplishment he may not show.

And he'll require extra care From the folks he meets down there.

He may not run or laugh or play:

His thoughts may seem quite far away.

In many ways he won't adapt,

And he'll be known as handicapped.

So let's be careful where he's sent.

We want his life to be content.

Please, Lord, find the parents who

Will do a special job for You.

They will not realize right away

The leading role they're asked to play.

But with this child sent from above

Comes stronger faith and richer love.

And soon they'll know the privilege given

In caring for their gift from Heaven.

Their precious charge, so meek and mild,

Is Heaven's Very Special Child.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 22-year-old redhead who blushes easily. Add to this problem a strong aversion to off-color jokes and dirty words.

I work in an office where a lot of rough language is used. Several people delight in embarrassing me. I'd give anything if I could prevent my face from turning red. Is it possible to squelch a blush?—Tomato Face

DEAR FACE: I know of no preventive measure for blushing. Ignore the garbage talk and accept your "curse" as a rarity. Blushing is a lost art. And many people, including me, find it thoroughly charming.

A Pig in Pearls

Brack and Brooke Bryant help Mom (Beverly Bryant, not pictured) with one of the stage props for the Chamber Singers presentation of "Pigs, Pearls, and Poison Ivy - Part II" scheduled Thursday evening at the HHS

Auditorium. Mrs. Bryant is in charge of staging for the performance. A variety of lighthearted and sometimes humorous numbers will be featured in this Jubilee week program.

Chamber Singers Jubilee Performance Set Thursday

The Hereford Chamber Singers will present "Pigs, Pearls and Poison Ivy - Part II" Thursday evening as their contribution to the Town and Country Jubilee festivities.

This light-hearted musical program has been planned to provide entertainment for the entire family.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. at the Hereford High School auditorium. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for children under ten.

Several solos will be featured, as well as duets, quartets, ensembles, instrumentals, and group numbers. Titles include "The Sow Took the Measles," "Love One Another," "How Ya Gonna Keep 'em Down on the Farm," "Star Dust," "Meet me in St. Louis," "Just a Closer Walk With Thee," "Monkey Shine Medley."

Also, "Walking After Midnight," theme from "The Apartment," "Let Me be There," "De Animals A-Comin'," "Zip-a-dee Do-da," "Candle on the Water," "Triology," "Good Morning Sunshine Jesus," "What Kind of Fool Am I?," "I'm Just Wild About Harry," "See You in September," "Cherish," "Bit of Logic - Why Study?," "Perpetual Motion," and "We've Only Just Begun."

Childbirth Classes Begin Tuesday

A series of Prepared Childbirth classes will be sponsored by Deaf Smith General Hospital beginning Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. at the hospital. Classes will meet each Tuesday at that time until Sept. 21.

Childbirth methods using Lamaze and Kitzinger will be taught, along with other topics. There is a $25 fee for the six classes.

For further information, call Carolyn Andrews at 364-2141 or 276-5240 or Donna Tidmore at 364-2141 or 364-8364.

Rock-A-Thon Slated Tuesday

A rocking chair marathon, sponsored by the Deaf Smith-Castor Counties Legal Secretaries Association, will be held at the Chamber of Commerce parking lot Tuesday from 7 p.m. until midnight.

Anyone in the community may participate, and sponsor sheets are available at either bank or at Thomas and Burdett Law Firm.

Proceeds from the Rock-A-Thon will go to the scholarship fund and the civic project fund. Each year the Legal Secretaries Association awards a scholarship to one Hereford High School student and one Dimmitt High School student who is planning to become a legal secretary. The civic project fund this year is the Deaf Smith County Children's Home.

Prizes will be awarded at the Rock-A-Thon to the person raising the most money, the one signing up the most sponsors, and the best decorated "rocker," including both the rocking chair and the participant.

In order to be eligible for prizes, entrants must rock the whole time. There will be one 15-minute break halfway through the event.

Arizona is now our leading cotton growing state, followed by California.

Jailers Investigated In Stabbing Incident

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — El Paso County Sheriff Ray Montes says two jailers are being investigated to see if they were involved in a conspiracy that resulted in the stabbing of a county jail inmate.

Six inmates have been charged with attempted murder and four others have been charged with conspiracy to commit attempted murder in the stabbing.

Inmate Homero Sepulveda, 27, was stabbed 14 times with makeshift knives Wednesday night. Sepulveda was in fair condition Friday at an El Paso hospital.

All of the inmates charged in the incident remained in jail Friday in lieu of $50,000 bonds set by Justice of the Peace Fred Chavez.

Charged with attempted murder are Alberto Armandariz, Jesus Perez, 37, Anastasio Peralta, 33, Roberto Rodriguez, 36, Antonio T. Maynez, 30, and Francisco G.

Acosta, 21, all of El Paso. Charged with conspiracy are Carlos Murillo, Alexis Montes, Arturo Garcia and Ramon Urdaniza. The sheriff said ages and addresses of the men were unavailable.

The sheriff said the two detention officers remained suspended without pay Friday while the investigation of the stabbing continued.

Montes said the investigation had revealed that the inmates charged with attempted murder were taken out of their cellblock by one of the detention officers after the men asked for medication.

When the jailer and the inmates stopped at Sepulveda's cell to get another inmate who was requesting medicine, the attackers pushed the officer out of the way, rushed in and stabbed Sepulveda repeatedly as he slumped to his knees, Montes said.

Nurses Assemble For 29th Reunion

Vocational Nurses Meet For Reunion

The first graduating class of Vocational Nurses from Deaf Smith General Hospital were together for a 29th reunion Wednesday.

Nine students in the initial program entered training January 1, 1962, with Ms. Jo Solomon, R.N. as instructor-coordinator. They graduated from the 12 month program the following January 1, qualifying them to take the State Board examination in March, 1963.

This class brought recognition to the school, not only by being the first class to graduate from the hospital, but also by making the highest class grades, from over 300 schools in Texas to take the Board examination at this time.

Attending the reunion were Mmes. Erma Bain, Shirley Brown, Lulcille Flesher, Goldie Powell, Reba Watson, Corene Gandy and Jo Solomon and Lema Berry, all of Hereford; Mrs. Charlene Reiger of Mount Pleasant; and Mrs. Laverne Worley of Throckmorton.

After Conservative Testimony

Textbook Hearings End

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Annual state textbook hearings have ended after an array of mainly conservative protesters accused publishers of teaching immorality and socialism and of being soft on drugs.

The liberal side of the spectrum was notably absent this year.

The National Organization for Women did not appear because members of two chapters scheduled for Friday's wind-up session didn't show up, and members of two other chapters scheduled last Wednesday arrived too late to testify.

NOW's written testimony was available to the committee and reporters. It protested stereotyping of women.

The 15-member State Textbook Committee has until Sept. 7 to pore over almost 2,000 pages of objections before it meets again in Austin to compile a list of recommended books to be part of Texas public schools' $37 million shopping list.

Norma Gabler of Longview, a perennial textbook protester, testified first thing Monday, complaining that classroom discussion questions are an "invasion of privacy" and that health books which classify a "family" as any group of individuals living together "undermine values taught in the home."

Health books erred by not stressing the long-term dangers of marijuana, Mrs. Gabler complained.

She also complained that referring to hypothetical presidents as "he or she" "caters to women's lib" since there have never been any female presidents of the United States.

NOW's testimony generally portrayed in subservient roles to those of men. The Brazos County NOW chapter complained that an English-as-a-second-language text erred by showing a picture of a family where the father was taller than the mother.

"Males are generally taller than females," responded the publisher.

The group said protesters like Mrs. Gabler "seek to censor discussion of ideas that conflict with their religious or political orthodoxy."

Art Exhibit Planned

Artist Howard Suttle, of Amarillo, will be displaying a series of 14 oil paintings depicting the life of Billy the Kid at the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame, 515 Ave. B, during the Town and Country Jubilee and the following week.

The artist will be on hand to greet visitors Sunday, Aug. 22, from 2 to 5 p.m., and the display will be up from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Aug. 20-27.

Suttle is a full-time artist who has been painting for about 12 years. He has also done sculpturing, illustrating, and cartooning. He was employed by Greyhound for 28 years before making art his career.

His paintings have been exhibited widely in galleries and public and private institutions in Texas and New Mexico, and they are in collections from West Germany to San Francisco. Suttle works mainly with Western subject matter in his paintings.

The Billy the Kid series of paintings was conceived while the artist lived in Capitan, N.M., near the area where the events depicted actually happened.

According to Suttle, it was very interesting to do a series of paintings about one subject, especially since there was so much history involved. "There are spin-off stories about each one of the paintings," he says.

This exhibition will mark the second formal showing of the series. The recently completed paintings were on display during the annual Billy the Kids Days celebration in Fort Sumner, N.M.

To better explain the story behind some of the artwork, Suttle's brother-in-law, Bob Hash, a free-lance writer from Amarillo, wrote a peace entitled "Mrs. Antrim's Son," giving valuable background information on Kathleen Antrim, the mother of Billy the Kid.

According to Hash, Mrs. Antrim was a well-educated and charitable pioneer woman, much like many of the women who are honored in the Cowgirl Hall of Fame.

Billy the Kid

This painting, entitled "Billy the Kid," is the first in a series of 14 paintings by Howard Suttle, an artist from Amarillo. The Billy the Kid series will be on exhibit at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame during the Town and Country Jubilee and the following week.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — When clothes don't fit as they should, they can easily be remodeled, either taking them in or enlarging them, by sewing in new seams parallel to the original ones. It's easy even for novice sewers, gives a better fit and saves money. However, I tried this recently on a navy denim skirt, enlarging it. A slight, but noticeable difference in shades of blue showed up where the seam had been let out. Can anything be done to lessen the color difference? — THE-RESA

DEAR THERESA — You could try to bleach out the darker area along the seam, using lemon juice or a weak solution of chlorine bleach and water (one teaspoon bleach to one cup water applied along the seam line before laundering). However, this could damage the fibers and may not give the best results. Why not just wash the skirt a few times? I'm willing to bet that the difference will become less noticeable after a few washings and a little time. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — When you have bits and pieces of soap, put them into the clothes hamper. The soiled clothes will smell better. The soap pieces can be tossed into the wash right along with the clothes.

I keep an automobile "litter basket" on my sewing machine. I toss in small scraps and threads to keep things neater and easy to dispose of. — HELEN

DEAR POLLY — I had big black ants all over the house. I read about laying bay leaves around to keep them away and tried it. It's been about two months now and not one ant is around. — MRS. H.S.

Feasts were held for seven days to celebrate a marriage as illustrated by Samson's wedding to the Philistine woman. "So his father went down unto the woman: and Samson made there a feast, for so used the young men to do." —Judg. 14:10

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Help possible for back pain

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Your column prompted me to write about my back problems which I had several years. I went to many different doctors, chiropractors, osteopaths, orthopedic surgeons and regular medical doctors. All told me there was nothing wrong with my back. But something was wrong, because I certainly was in a lot of pain.

Then I joined an exercise spa and within two weeks the pain was gone. Completely. My membership ran out and soon I was back to just golfing. A few months ago I began suffering with back pain again. It was worse than before and it took me several hours after arising in the morning just to be able to walk upright.

An orthopedic surgeon examined me thoroughly and told me a lot of my problem was allowing myself to become about 40 pounds overweight. The extra weight was straining my lower back. It was certainly a relief to know nothing else was wrong and that no surgery was needed.

The doctor put me on exercises to strengthen my abdominal muscles and gave me a lumbar corset. The corset is only to help hold my abdomen in until I can get my muscles strengthened again.

I know exercise works because when I don't do it, the pain gets worse. As long as I keep exercising, the pain is either bearable or goes away. But you have to make up your mind to do it.

DEAR READER — Thank you for sharing your story with others. It is important for people who have back pain to see their doctor because some back pain can be from ruptured disks or even disease of the abdominal organs.

The point about weight is quite true. Being overweight, particularly in the abdominal area, does increase back problems. Weak muscles are an important factor. Good abdominal muscles hold in your organs and splint the spine, relieving stress. Exercises to strengthen the spine muscles, too, are important. Good luck on your program and weight loss. I am sending you The Health Letter number 13-10 Backache and What to Do About It, which includes the proper exercise program.

DEAR DR. LAMB — The question of how much water one should drink came up at a friend's house. I said at least 10 glasses. One person said, "I drink five glasses of water and five cups of coffee. Since that is all liquid it is the same." I said it was not the same as coffee had caffeine in it. Another person, who always thinks she is right, said it was the same as long as it was liquid no matter what it was. Which of us is right?

DEAR READER — The water that is in milk, coffee, tea, fruit juices and other beverages is water and has the same effect on your water balance as plain water. That is even true of the water in soup. The caffeine in some beverages is a separate problem and can be a bad habit.

The best rule is not whether you drink eight or 10 glasses of liquid a day but how much urine is eliminated by your kidneys. In a normal person, not taking medicines, the kidney conserves water if the body needs it and eliminates it if not. In hot weather you may need to drink more. A normal person getting enough liquids should eliminate about a quart of urine a day.

Digging brass out of the hills would be difficult as brass is an alloy. Copper is evidently meant in the description of the land the Hebrews will enter.

"A land wherein thou shalt eat bread without scarceness, thou shalt not lack anything in it, a land whose stones are iron, and out of whose hills thou mayest dig brass." — Deut. 8:9

TEXAS CITRUS growers harvested their largest crop of grapefruit in 35 years, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown reports. Heavy yields on old trees led to a 540,000 ton harvest. Orange production is estimated at 255,000 tons this year, a 39 percent increase over last year. The citrus harvest ends in June and begins again in October.

Tractor Efficiency Conference Sept. 1

LUBBOCK - Agricultural engineers, economists and tractor specialists from industry and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service will share with farmers and implement dealers ideas to improve tractor efficiency at a daylong conference here Sept. 1.

The "Big Tractor Conference" is designed to help area farmers make the most economical use of their tractors and assist equipment dealers in matching the most desirable equipment to their customers' needs, said Elson Grubaugh, Extension agricultural engineer at Lubbock.

The conference at the South Park Inn, South Loop 289 at the Indiana Avenue exit, begins at 10 a.m. Registration opens at 9 a.m. A $7.50 registration fee includes lunch and conference proceedings.

Opening the conference will be Warren Lenius, test department manager for Versatile Manufacturing Co., Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada. He will examine the place of increasing horsepower on the farm.

High Speed farming with two-wheel-drive and four-wheel-drive equipment will be discussed by J. Charles Steinman, factory marketing manager for John Deere Tractor Works, Waterloo, Iowa.

The use of computerized management tools to analyze tractor costs will be explained by Extension agricultural economist, Gary D. Condra of Lubbock.

Bob Beaman, merchandising manager for Stieger Tractor Co., Fargo, N.D., will report on electronics, the "wave of the future" in agricultural tractors. William P. Simpson, product information specialist with J.I. Case Co., Racine, Wis., will discuss tractor weighting and its effect on performance.

Tractor size and implement matching will be covered by Wally Post, Arlington district manager for Allis Chalmers Corp. A comparative analysis of radial and bias-ply drive wheel tractor tires will be made by Lyle Bohnert, senior field development engineer for B.F. Goodrich Co., Franklin Park, Ill. The role of four-wheel-drive tractors in row crop farming will be examined by Dave Hess, advanced design manager for crop production systems, International Harvester, Hinsdale, Ill. Soil compaction and its management will be discussed by Edwin Colburn, Extension agronomist and soil management specialist, College Station. The program will conclude with a panel discussion by area farmers and equipment dealers. Henry O'Neal Extension agricultural engineer for College Station, will moderate the discussion.

Symposium on Mesquite At Tech Oct. 29-30

LUBBOCK - Ranchers can rid rangelands of mesquite and make money at the same time. Techniques and procedures to do it will be the subject of the Mesquite Utilization Symposium at The Museum of Texas Tech University Oct. 29-30.

Coordinating the symposium are Dr. Robert C. Albin, associate dean of the Texas Tech College of Agricultural Sciences, and Dr. Harry W. Parker, chemical engineering professor.

"This symposium culminates five years of Texas Tech research specifically on uses for mesquite," Albin said. "In no way do we advocate growing mesquite for beneficial use. Rather, the symposium will show ways to defray the costs of cleanup and control of mesquite."

Research papers demonstration projects and economic studies will be presented at the symposium on subjects including harvesting, technologies,

THE HEREFORD BRAND FARM NEWS

FmHA Bad Loans Up

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Farmers Home Administration says its delinquency loan rate continues to climb, meaning that thousands of borrowers are unable to meet payments on schedule. Official figures show that nearly one-third of the loans have been delinquent for three years or longer.

The FmHA, as the Agriculture Department agency calls itself, is known as the federal government's lender of last resort, offering credit to farmers who cannot qualify at banks or other commercial institutions. Overall, it provides about 11 percent of the nation's farm credit.

As of June 30, FmHA had $24.1 billion in loans outstanding to 433,307 individual farm borrowers. Of those, 27.5 percent or 119,281 were on the delinquency list. In all, the delinquent borrowers owed payments totaling $2.93 billion. Their total FmHA indebtedness, however, was nearly $10.3 billion.

The FmHA's figures, which were provided Thursday at the request of a reporter, showed that a year earlier the delinquency rate on June 30 was less than 20 percent and that late payments were $1.59 billion on a total loan balance of $6.74 billion.

In a further breakdown, the agency said that of the 119,281 borrowers who were listed on June 30 as late in their payments, 30.7 percent had been delinquent for three years or more, 29 percent for 2 to 3 years, 20.9 percent for 1 to 2 years, and 19.4 percent for 1 year or less. Delinquency rates were higher among farmers who have received emergency loans to cover crop and livestock losses due to drought, floods and other bad weather conditions. Some 124,102 farm borrowers as of June 30 owed nearly $10.8 billion in emergency loans. But 35 percent or 43,350 were unable to make their payments on time. A year earlier only 22 percent of the farmers with emergency loans were not meeting their payment schedules. But delinquencies of farm ownership loans to help families purchase farms or additional land also are on the rise. The June 30 list showed 120,483 active borrowers of farm ownership loans having an outstanding balance of nearly $5.6 billion.

The symposium will begin with registration at 7:45 a.m., Oct. 29, and end that day at 4:50 p.m. On day two of the symposium (Oct. 30) participants can tour Texas Tech facilities related to mesquite research, from 9-11:15 a.m. Participant cost of the symposium, including meals, is $30.

Delaware was the first of the original 13 states to ratify the Constitution.

duction and import needs have not changed from earlier estimates. The Soviet harvest is short for the third year in a row, meaning that record amounts of grain will have to be imported in 1982-83. But the report said "prospects are diminishing" for additional sales of corn to the Soviet Union before the new crop is available for 1982-83 delivery. The analysis said the huge harvest of corn and other feed grain "will boost the 1982-83 feed grain supplies by 12 percent" from 1981-82. Looking at corn, the report said the average farm price for the marketing year to begin on Oct. 1 is expected to be $2.35 to $2.55 per bushel, compared to $2.50 to $2.90 projected a month ago. The average for 1981-82 was estimated at $2.50 per bushel. If the supply and demand situation materializes as seen now, the carryover of old-crop corn on Oct. 1 will be about 2.08 billion bushels. With a record crop this fall, the corn inventory by Oct. 1, 1983, could be 2.79 billion bushels, the report said. With an estimated record soybean harvest of 2.29 billion bushels, the farm price in the marketing year which begins on Sept. 1 is projected at $5.25 to $6.25 per bushel, compared to $5.65 to $7 indicated in July. The 1981-82 average is about $6.05 per bushel. The inventory of soybeans this Sept. 1 is expected to be 270 million bushels. If the figures hold, the carryover a year from now will be about 420 million bushels, the report said. Wheat prices at the farm were projected at $3.45 to $3.65 per bushel for the 1982-83 marketing year which began on June 1, compared to $3.60 to $3.80 indicated a month ago. Last season the average was $3.65. The wheat carryover on June 1 was about 1.16 billion bushels. By June 1, 1983, it could be 1.32 billion, the report said.

Similar to May Poles, they honored the Liberty Tree, a large elm in Boston's Hanover Square under which the Sons of Liberty held meetings. British troops cut it down after the Boston Tea Party.

Corn Harvest Looks Good

By DON KENDALL, AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's still several months from being in the bins, but the way it looks now, farmers are headed for a back-to-back record corn harvest this fall.

Based on Agriculture Department surveys made as of Aug. 1, corn production is expected to be 8.32 billion bushels, 1.4 percent larger than the previous high of 8.2 billion bushels produced in 1981.

The huge harvest could mean a further growth in U.S. grain stockpiles in the coming year and more downward price pressure on financially stressed farmers.

A department official, who asked not to be identified, said after the report was issued Wednesday that it "almost assuredly will bring more outcries from Congress and commodity groups" for sharp acreage cutbacks in 1983.

Ron Gustafson of the department's Economic Research Service said another bumper corn crop could help encourage livestock feeding in the coming year.

Gustafson noted that many producers apparently have reduced herds or have held back on expanding to help pay off debts — at least until more is known about the 1982 harvest.

"We're just approaching the beginning of harvest in some of the southern areas, and we won't be getting into the harvest in the main Corn Belt areas until September, October and November," Gustafson said.

It was the department's first official production estimate for corn and a number of other key 1982 crops, including: Soybeans, a record 2.29 billion bushels, up 13 percent from 1981; cotton, 11.1 million bales, down 29 percent; and total wheat, 2.77 billion bushels, down less than 1 percent from last year's record.

The durum wheat harvest, much of which goes into the production of spaghetti and other pasta, was estimated for the first time this season at 144.2 million bushels, down 22 percent from last year.

Other spring wheat also was estimated for the first time at 529.6 million bushels, up 4 percent from last year.

Winter wheat, which is planted in the preceding fall, was estimated at nearly 2.1 billion bushels, down fractionally from the record 1981 harvest. That was down slightly from the July estimate of 2.12 billion bushels.

Overall, the department's Crop Reporting Board said that 1982 U.S. crop harvests are rated at 117 percent of the base year 1977, which is used for comparison. That matched the record all-crops production index of 1981.

Corn is the largest and most valuable farm crop grown in the United States and, as livestock feed, is a vital element in the production of meat, poultry and milk for American consumers.

Along with wheat, soybeans, cotton and several other crops, corn also is a top commodity in U.S. exports to scores of foreign markets, including Japan, the Soviet Union and the European Common Market.

Grain prices at the farm have been generally depressed since last year's record harvests. Corn, for example, averaged $2.54 per bushel in mid-July, compared to $3.14 a year earlier.

Wheat was $3.29 per bushel last month, down from $3.62 a year earlier, and soybeans, at $6.05 per bushel, were down from $7.13.

The buildup in inventories prompted the administration to put acreage-reduction programs into effect for the 1982 crops of wheat, feed grains, cotton and rice. Farmers had to reduce their acreage to qualify for price supports and related benefits.

Agriculture Secretary John R. Block recently announced that even further cuts will have to be made by wheat farmers in 1983, and officials are studying the possibility of extending those to the other crops.

With another record corn harvest now in the works, pressure is expected to grow in Congress and among some farm groups for strict action on feed grains for 1983.

The production report said 1982 corn yields are expected to average 113.9 bushels per acre, compared to 109.9 bushels in 1981.

Wheat yields, including all types, were estimated at 35.1 bushels per harvested acre, compared to 34.5 last year.

Soybean yields were put at 32.3 bushels per acre, compared to 30.4 in 1981.

Cotton yields were estimated at 563 pounds per harvested acre against 543 last year. The cotton acreage, however, is down sharply from 1981, including widespread abandonment caused by bad weather earlier this year.

Other crops included: —Oats, 591.5 million bushels and a yield of 57 bushels per acre, compared to 508.1 million and 54 last year.

—Barley, 508.0 million bushels and 55.4 per acre, compared to 478.3 million and 52.3 last year.

—Sorghum, 829.3 million bushels and 60.1 an acre, compared to 880.3 million and 64.1 last year.

—Flaxseed, 10.9 million bushels and 13.2 an acre, compared to 7.8 million and 12.6 last year.

—Rice, 155.6 million hundredweight and 4,735 pounds per acre, compared to 185.4 million and 4,873 last year.

—Peanuts, 3.46 billion pounds and 2,710 per acre, compared to 3.99 billion and 2,670 last year.

—Hay, 151.6 million tons and 2.5 tons per acre, compared to 143.1 million and 2.38 last year.

—Dry beans, 26.4 million hundredweight and 1,431 pounds per acre, compared to 31.8 million and 1,445 last year.

—Tobacco, 1.9 billion pounds and 2,103 pounds per acre, compared to 2.06 billion and 2,114 last year.

—Sugarbeets, 21.7 million tons and 20.7 tons per acre, compared to 27.4 million and 22.3 per acre last year.

—Sugarcane, 28.6 million tons and 37.9 tons per acre, compared to 27.4 million and 36.3 per acre.

73RD Annual Field Day Set Sept. 14 at Halfway Station

LUBBOCK — Research aimed at helping High Plains farmers make better management decisions about

Paschels Return from Conference

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Paschel and their family of Rt. 1, Hereford, attended the Co-op Director's Conference at the YMCA of the Rockies, near Estes Park, Colo., Aug. 5-8. They were among hundreds of other co-op director families from 19 states in the Midwest and Southwest attending one of seven director's conferences sponsored by Farmland Industries, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.

The purpose of the conference was to allow co-op directors an opportunity to share ideas about cooperatives and agriculture and meet other families from the Farmland territory, according to Ron Hanser, conference manager. Each day of the program consisted of morning sessions about current issues affecting cooperatives and agriculture, free afternoons for the families and an evening program of special entertainment or a keynote speaker. Farmland business and personnel consultants presented sessions on the roles and responsibilities of the co-op director and the future of cooperative supply and marketing operations.

A member of Farmland's management team gave an update on Farmland operations.

their crops will be demonstrated Sept. 14 at the 73rd annual field day of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES) at Lubbock and Halfway.

The Texas A&M University High Plains Research Facility at Halfway, 14 miles west of Plainview on U.S. Hwy. 70 is the host this year, said Dr. Bill Ott, resident director of research for the Lubbock - Halfway centers. The annual program alternates between the two facilities, in cooperation with the High Plains Research Foundation.

Five major displays are planned on the tours of the research sites at Halfway, said James Bordovsky, research agricultural engineer and field day chairman. These stops will illustrate research being conducted in weed research, cotton breeding and variety testing, and cotton bollworm control; explain work on new management strategies, including on-farm computer application; and display a new multi-function irrigation system which will apply both water and chemicals through a dual nozzle system.

Also featured on the tour will be research on sorghum improvement, mite control, soil fertility, grain sorghum performance, and soybean evaluation. Farm machinery, irrigation equipment and other farm implement will be on display by area manufacturers and suppliers.

Tours will begin at 1 p.m. and end at 5 p.m.

The field day is a cooperative presentation of TAES, the High Plains Research Foundation, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Agricultural Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Professional staffs of these agencies will be on hand to answer questions and discuss problems with agricultural producers, home owners and gardeners, Bordovsky said.

Farmers Expect Top Wheat Crop

AUSTIN—Wheat farmers across the state are harvesting the second largest crop on record this year in spite of inclement weather conditions, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has reported.

"The wheat production this year is estimated at 163.8 million bushels, an 11 percent drop from last year's record crop but still one of the largest harvests on record. The poor grain harvest in the Soviet Union should stimulate our export market," Brown said.

Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service reports that this year's estimated rye production of 560,000 bushels is 18 percent above last years with a record yield of 20 bushels per acre.

Other Texas grain farmers have not been as lucky. Oat producers expect to harvest 13.7 million bushels, a 27 percent decline from last year's production. Oat yields are down 10 bushels from last year and harvested acreage is down 7 percent. Barley production is down 31 percent at 1.4 million bushels with an expected yield of 36 bushels per acre. Small grain harvest is well behind schedule as the result of adverse weather conditions and several fields are being abandoned because of poor grain quality. Cotton farmers throughout the High Plains and Central regions of the state have had many fields severely damaged or totally destroyed by high winds, hail and heavy rain.

Replanting is underway on some of this storm damaged cotton acreage; however, many producers have chosen to replant alternate crops.

The state's peach production continues to decline, dropping more than 50 percent from last year. The July 1 peach harvest estimate of 16 million pounds is six percent below the June 1 estimate. Heavy rains have caused disease and insect problems in peach orchards throughout the state.

More perfect union

Virginia took the initiative in converting the post-Revolutionary American confederation into a stronger federal union, appointing commissioners in January 1786 to meet the representatives of other states. Meeting at Annapolis, Md., delegates from Virginia, Delaware, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania subsequently issued a call for representatives of all the states to meet in Philadelphia in 1787.

Red Cross Founded as Network of Volunteers

Editor's Note: This is the seventh in a series of 10 articles about various United Way agencies operating locally and their impact on the community.

The Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross is one of 3053 chapters comprising the American Red Cross, which is a member of the International League of Red Cross Societies.

The Red Cross was founded over a century ago to organize volunteer aid to wounded and sick in time of wars. A red cross on a field of white was established in international law as the universal emblem of humanitarian concern and action that transcends political, social and ethnic distinctions.

A charter granted by Congress gives the American Red Cross official status and imposes specific obligations, including those each national Red Cross society bears in carrying out the humanitarian purposes of the Geneva Conventions of the Red Cross.

Although responsible to the federal government, the American Red Cross functions as an autonomous corporation, governed by volunteers. The government does not appropriate funds for the Red Cross. The organization depends upon memberships, other voluntary contributions, and United Way funds for its support and the performance of its duties.

The aims of the American Red Cross are to improve the quality of human life and enhance individual self-reliance and concern for others. It works toward these aims through national and chapter services governed and directed by volunteers. American Red Cross services help people avoid emergencies, prepare for emergencies and cope with them when they occur.

The Red Cross provides volunteer blood services to a large segment of the nation, conducts community services and serves as an independent medium of voluntary relief and communication between the American people and their armed forces.

It also maintains systems of local, national, and international disaster preparedness and relief and assists the government of the United States in meeting humanitarian treaty commitments.

The Deaf Smith County Chapter works with the National organization and other chapters to ensure service for military persons and their families. There are four volunteers serving as duty workers and 57 families were assisted this year with emergency communication, counseling or financial assistance.

The disaster committee helped 12 families with disaster assistance. The committee also updated the chapter's disaster preparedness plan and participated in training exercises designed to help with disaster planning.

Local volunteers also teach classes in First Aid, CPR, Home Nursing and Water Safety. This year 30 water safety instructors taught 400 students water safety and swimming, five CPR instructors taught emergency support to 90 students, and nine first aid instructors taught 185 students first aid.

Other volunteers worked in the clothing room giving needy families clothing donated for that use, doing physical therapy exercises for residents at Westgate, and helping in many other ways.

The United Way makes all of this possible by supporting the chapter with financial help. By supporting the United Way, assistance is given to people in Hereford, across the United States and worldwide.

"The 1982 Red Cross slogan, 'People Helping People,' certainly applies to everyone supporting the United Way," notes Betty Henson, Executive Director of the local Red Cross chapter.

Inflation

Even in its heyday, gold did not necessarily ensure the stability of money. Kings would debase coins to pay soldiers for wars or laborers for monuments without having to resort to unpopular revenue-raising methods like taxation. As a result, prices would rise along with the money supply.

Easy Does It!

Coaching one of her students during a Red Cross Water Safety class is Shelley Burelsmith. Thirty water safety instructors taught approximately 400 students basic water safety and swimming technique classes this summer.

CANCER ANSWER LINE American Cancer Society
M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute

Question: What is multiple myeloma?

ANSWERline: It is the uncontrolled reproduction of abnormal plasma cells, especially those in the bone marrow. Like red and white blood cells, plasma cells are also found normally in very small numbers in the blood and should not be confused with plasma which is the pale yellow liquid part of the whole blood. When malignant plasma cells proliferate too rapidly, other components of the bone marrow are damaged in their ability to reproduce normally. Marrow, the soft spongy part of the bone, produces red blood cells, white blood cells and platelets. Red blood cells carry oxygen to cells throughout the body; white blood cells fight infection; and platelets, which control clotting, prevent hemorrhaging. Unlike other systemic cancers—that is, the lymphomas and leukemia—some forms of which may spread rapidly, multiple myeloma may remain localized in its original site, the bone, for some time.

Question: What are the signs or symptoms of multiple myeloma?

ANSWERline: Bone pain, concentrated in the back, is often the first symptom of which the patient is aware. Other signs and symptoms, one or more of which may be present, are weight loss, a feeling of weakness, anemia, bone fractures, abnormal bleeding or repeated infections. The cause of this cancer, as of most cancers, is not known. The only consistent factor is age, starting at 40 with an escalating incidence after age 55.

Do you have further questions? Call your local unit of the American Cancer Society or call M. D. Anderson Hospital & Tumor Institute's Cancer Information Service, 1-800-392-2040 toll-free in Texas, 792-3245 in the Houston area.

The Swim-A-Cross will be held Friday at the City Pool. Swimmers are needed! Swimmers are asked to find sponsors to sponsor them for a specific number of laps swam not exceeding 100 laps.

Inexperienced swimmers and experienced swimmers are invited to participate. Experienced swimmers will be swimming in the deep end of the pool and inexperienced swimmers will be swimming in the shallow end of the pool.

The Hereford Texas Credit Union is donating a $25 savings account or addition to a savings account as the first prize for the swimmer turning in the most money and runnerups will receive T-shirts.

Call the Red Cross office or come by 101 Avenue E to pick up entry forms.

The uniformed volunteers met Thursday for their regular luncheon. Alice Gilleland, chairman, presided over the business meeting. Plans were made for the chili dog booth to be held in the park for the jubilee, and other jubilee plans were discussed.

Projects scheduled for September will be a workday in the clothing room and a quilting session to make blankets for the disaster closet.

Those present were Ms. Gilleland, Nell Culpepper, Hattie Gallagher, Bertha Dettmann, Mildred Brown, Lottie Wertenberger, Ruth Romero, Audine Dettman and Betty Henson.

The uniformed volunteers will meet Thursday, Sept. 9 at noon at the Red Cross office for their next meeting.

The Board of Directors will meet Tuesday at 12 noon at the Red Cross office.

Experience is Trust

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Several events have occurred since I did the column on how "territorial" women are in aerobics classes.

First, I arrived at my class one morning to find my "spot" in the backrow had been set apart by white tape. I felt like Les Nessman on "WKRP" with his imaginary door around his desk.

Then I received several letters of disbelief. One of those letters (unsigned) came from Sunnymead, Calif. She wrote, "I was glad to see in the end of your column you said you were just kidding about losing your spot in aerobics. After all, it is so silly."

"I was new at Jazzercise and unknowingly I made the mistake of standing in someone's spot ... someone's territory I intruded on."

"The woman proceeded to tell the others around her what a dingaling I was. After class she chewed me out, here was a woman in her 50s acting so much like a child, I just stood there with my mouth open."

"I do not like to argue and the reason I go (to Jazzercise) is to have fun, relieve tension and have one hour away from the kids. I was tempted to come back with a piece of chalk and mark her spot so no other poor soul could suffer from her childish behavior."

"Needless to say I stay clear of her and exercise on the opposite side of the room. But guess who always is the first one at the door? That's right. Miss Seal In Mating Season!"

"If only more would follow this counsel from Luke 6:38: 'Practice giving and people will give to you for the measure you are measuring out they will give or measure out to you.' Or Matthew 7:12 'All things you want men to do to you, you also must do to them.'"

Well, of course I was kidding. Women aren't all THAT protective. I used to exercise in a class with Sandra O'Connor and when she went to Washington to join the Supreme Court, they tell me they retired her mat.

All I'm asking is that they retire my "space." Or in the counsel of Matthew 5:5 "Blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the earth."

And that includes whatever space is not spoken for.

Midland-Odessa Reeling from Slump

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — Charles Dickens began his "A Tale of Two Cities" with the words: "It was the best of times, it was the worst of times."

Dickens could have been writing about the West Texas cities of Midland and Odessa and their oil-based economies.

Unemployment has jumped in both cities in recent months, but Odessa has been the harder-hit of the two. For Midland, the current slump is just a lull in what area analysts say still is the best of times.

Both cities are reeling from the effects of last year's oil boom, which saw more drilling activity in the Permian Basin than ever before. Millions of dollars were pumped into the economy and tens of thousands of unemployed people poured into the area to take high-paying jobs in the oilfields.

But an over-abundance of oil and a more cautious approach by investors has caused an economic downturn and a ripple effect throughout the cities.

"You have to understand that everything we do in Odessa revolves around the petroleum industry," said Richard D. "Buzz" Browning, president of Odessa's Texas Commerce Bank. "It is the economy."

The boom was the result of fevered investment by financiers eager to get in on the last few months of a tax shelter, said Walter Ashby, an economic analyst with First National Bank of Midland.

"The federal income tax change explains almost everything that happened last year," Ashby said. "The investors saw a diminished tax advantage in '82, so they tried to invest as much as possible in 1981."

The Reagan administration initiated changes in the tax law that set 50 percent as the maximum tax shelter available for oil investors.

"Before, if you were in a 70 percent tax bracket, you could invest in a drilling rig and Uncle Sam was taking 70 percent of the risk," Ashby said.

The announcement of that change and the net gains in the price of oil excited newcomers to oil investment and led to a frenzy of drilling activity before the tax deadline expired, he said.

It was a record-breaking year for the number of rigs in service, the number of wells drilled and the economic and population growth of the two cities. But when 1982 rolled around, the tax shelter diminished and oil prices began to drop.

"There was an overabun-dance of oil," Browning said. "It's a simple case of supply and demand. When you have too much of something, then the price will go down."

Ashby said the so-called "oil glut" caused by the worldwide recession has resulted in oil prices that are 11 percent less than this time last year.

Now, he said, investors have taken a more cautious attitude and have toned down the fevered approach that characterized last year's boom. The new attitude is to be more certain of drilling in the right spot and to get more efficiency from each drilling rig.

"More wells will be drilled in the United States this year than ever before," Ashby predicted. "Drilling during the first six months of this year is up 27.5 percent over the first six months of last year. There were 3.2 percent more wells drilled in the first six months of this year than the last six months of last year (when the boom was at its peak)."

However, there are fewer rigs operating than there were last year.

"The average rig is drilling a third more wells," Ashby said. "We're getting more wells with fewer rigs."

"Drilling efficiency was much lower last year because they were drilling anywhere they could in their attempt to take advantage of the tax shelter... They were thinking more about the tax consequences rather than the economic consequences."

The reduced number of rigs has caused the most problems for Odessa, where most of the drilling crews live. Midland, on the other hand, has been less affected.

"Midland performs a different function," Ashby said. "The things we do are related to the number of wells drilled. The things that Odessa does are related to the number of rigs running."

The reason for that is a strange dichotomy that has developed between the cities over the years.

"I don't know why Midland became the white-collar community and Odessa became the blue-collar," said Ashby. "The two different functions are so completely separate that they just split along these lines."

"Midland is the homework community. We handle the geological studies, the planning and the investment. When it gets to the point where there's a hole in the ground, we sort of pull back and Odessa takes over."

The cities physically bespeak that separation. Midland is dominated by towering office buildings while Odessa is far-flung, with oil pumpjacks bobbing inside the city limits.

It was Odessa that attracted the workers from around the country when the boom took off, but it is the monied in Midland that have remained above the slump.

Among the hardest-hit have been the companies in Odessa that construct drilling rigs and related equipment, Browning said. Those companies had made major investments for expansion, but recently have been forced to lay off workers because of the slump.

"Some people had a lot more invested in this gearing-up process than they should have," Browning said. "Now, they're sitting there with a great deal of unused building space or equipment."

"If they paid cash for these capital investments, then they can just sort of sit on them for a while. But if they borrowed 100 percent on it, they've got a problem."

The layoffs by manufacturers and drilling companies have swelled the ranks of the unemployed to numbers that would have been unthinkable six months ago, said Frank Kasko, manager of the Odessa office of the Texas Employment Commission.

"The bottom has dropped out," Kasko said. "I've never seen anything like it. Last year at this time, we had 600 people on unemployment insurance. Now, we're above the 3,000 mark. That makes for some pretty good lines at the unemployment office."

Unemployment in Odessa in June climbed to 8.4 percent, up from 5 percent in May and 5 percent in June 1981. In Midland, June unemployment was 7.6 percent, up from 4.6 percent in May and 7.3 percent in June 1981.

"These are people who have been steadily employed," Kasko said. "It's a little more shocking in an area such as this than it would be in an industrial area where they're used to seasonal layoffs. We're used to running all year round."

Browning said that although the higher unemployment rate hurts the communities, it was inevitable.

"It's kind of a purging process for us," Browning said. "We got to the point where we were almost overemployed. It became a bidding war. You had to pay these people good wages or lose them to the oilfields.

"There are manufacturing industries that had a pay rate that was about 30 percent over the national market. We just couldn't continue at that pace."

Although the situation is grim now, virtually everyone expects a turnaround by early next year.

"Last year, the number of wells drilled in the second half of the year was 25 percent greater than the first half," Ashby said. "Such an increase this year would have a positive effect on Midland and perhaps an even greater effect on Odessa."

"Rig efficiency is as high as it's going to be. Rig count has dropped as much as it's going to drop. If we get the expected increase in the number of wells, some of these rigs are going to be put back to work."

Ashby said indications are that Midland will grow more this year than it did in 1981.

"Midland grows as it has office space available for occupancy," he said, adding that 3.2 million square-feet of office space is under construction.

He said building permits have been issued for more than 4,500 residences already this year — enough to accommodate 13,000 people.

Although construction figures in Odessa are lower, Browning said his city also expects more growth and better times.

"The end of this year or the beginning of next year is a reasonable time to expect an upturn," he said. "It's maybe a seasonal adjustment of sorts. Our seasons just happen to be a year or two years long."

"It goes up and comes down and then goes up higher and comes down less. It's always been that way."

Today In History

Today is Sunday, Aug. 15, the 227th day of 1982. There are 138 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Aug. 15, 1914, the Panama Canal was officially opened to traffic.

On this date:

In 1769, Napoleon Bonaparte was born on the island of Corsica.

In 1918, the United States and Russia severed diplomatic relations.

In 1935, humorist Will Rogers and pilot Wiley Post were killed when their airplane crashed near Point Barrow, Alaska.

In 1961, East German workers began building the Berlin Wall.

Five years ago: Authorities in India charged four former officials in the ousted Indira Gandhi government with corruption while in office.

One year ago: The Soviet Union announced it would allow Poland to defer repayment of its debts to Moscow as it dealt with mounting economic problems tied to labor unrest.

Today's birthdays: Former President Jimmy Carter's mother Lillian is 84. Cooking expert Julia Child is 70. Britain's Princess Anne is 32.

Thought For Today: To recommend thrift to the poor is like advising a man who is starving to eat less. — Oscar Wilde, Irish-born writer (1845-1900).

THE WORLD ACCORDING TO GARP from Warner Bros. Directed by George Roy Hill, screenplay by Steve Tesich. Starring Robin Williams, Mary Beth Hurt and Glenn Close. Rated 'R' ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

John Irving's successful novel, "The World According to Garp," was much more than just a best-seller. To many, the book embodied the confused culture of our time as it wrestled with such problems as sexual freedom vs. family ties, just living alongside liberation. It was a long, complex and often unnerving book, but it sold 5 million copies and is still selling well.

To convert those 500-plus pages into a motion picture of reasonable length was a ponderous task that many refused, including Irving himself. The task went to director George Roy Hill ("The Sting," "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid") and screenwriter Steve Tesich ("Breaking Away," "Eyewitness"). They've done a tremendous job in bringing "Garp" to the screen. The film is one of this year's best. The film, like the book, follows the birth, tragicomic life and absurd death of T.S. Garp. Although much of the material in the book has been eliminated from the film, most of the spirit and intent of Irving's novel has been maintained. Garp's world is a sometimes exhilarating, sometimes exasperating merry-go-round of profundity and absurdity.

Robin Williams plays Garp, a departure from his usual zany outings. Here he is subdued and controlled while the world around him seems to have gone haywire. Perhaps Williams and the filmmakers realized that the world of Garp is so outrageous that even the comic genius of Williams would have a difficult time topping it. So will other 1982 movies when the Academy Awards are handed out.

Norris Likely To Get Respect

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — For the past five years, Chuck Norris has suffered from the Rodney Dangerfield syndrome, but it's likely he'll receive some respect with this month's release of "Forced Vengeance."

The movie is being released by MGM-UA, marking the first time a major distributor has recognized the appeal of the martial arts star. Theater owners throughout the world have understood Norris' draw, even though Norris would probably evoke comments of "Who's he?" at a Hollywood premiere.

Norris has learned to live without respect. "When I did my first picture, 'Good Guys Wear Black,' the critics crucified me," he recalls. "They really hurt my feelings, and I called Steve McQueen, who had encouraged me to go into film in the first place. 'I know I'm no Robert DeNiro,' I told him, 'but I can't believe that I'm really that bad.'

"Steve told me, 'I saw the movie, and you weren't bad, no matter what the critics say. You're going to get better. The main thing about movies is whether you have a certain charisma that makes people want to watch you. If you don't have charisma, you won't make it. But I think you have it.'"

Thus bolstered, Chuck Norris continued with "A Force of One," "The Octagon," "An Eye for an Eye" and "Silent Rage," modestly-budgeted films filled with lightning action.

Aldo Ray: From Cop to Cinema

By KATHY BAKER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The gravelly voice that is familiar to millions of middle-aged movie-goers might now be heard on the floor of the U.S. Senate if Aldo Ray's brother hadn't needed a ride to that audition back in 1950.

The big-man-on-campus had just been elected to his first political office and planned to run for Congress at the next election. His future was all sewn up.

"They were looking for athletes for a football picture called 'Saturday's Hero,'" Ray said, relaxing on the set of "Mongrel," a low-budget, psychological thriller being filmed in Austin by Austinites. "I just went in for fun and started talking with these people from Hollywood and they became intrigued with my voice. Before I knew it, I was a football player-actor."

But he kept his job as constable, a powerful job in a "gerry-mandered" California congressional district, said Ray.

"It was a stepping stone. I beat an incumbent of 16 years with that election and I destroyed him, totally destroyed him. And I had $100,000 pledged to me for the next congressional election. At the next congressional election, I would have been in Congress. I know that."

But Hollywood beckoned again.

"The second role they offered me was a starring role opposite Judy Holliday in a picture called, 'The Marrying Kind,'" Ray said. "So they asked me to resign my job and become a full-time actor."

"I had a long talk with this justice of the peace, and he told me, 'Aldo, there's very few people that get a shot at the world like that. You go. You can always come back.'"

"So I went to Hollywood, and there I was. I had my greatest years during the '50s. I worked with Judy right away, and Tracy and Hepburn, Jane Wyman and Ray Milland. Jose Ferrer and Rita Hayworth. Bogart and Ustinov and Rathbone, and Joan Bennett and Leo G. Carroll. All these people, one after another."

But that was the '50s and times have changed for Aldo Ray, now 56. Jobs like "Mongrel" have been the norm for him over the past few years — supporting roles in low-budget horror flicks and foreign films, some of which are so bad, they never see the light of day. Still, Ray says he has never regretted his decision.

"I've traveled the world over. If I had stayed in politics, I probably would have been like a senior senator by this point. But I don't think I'd have the ins that I have as an actor. They know me in Moscow and Tokyo and Sidney and Bombay, and you name it. I'm accepted. I don't think that would have happened to me in politics."

Not surprisingly, Ray longs for the good ol' days. He believes the movie-going public is starting to see things his way.

"The great movies of the past — you didn't have to swear, you didn't have to show naked bodies, you didn't have to blow people up and see arms and legs flying everywhere. But I think people's tastes are going backwards a little bit."

Since 1980, his fortunes have picked up some. He's been cast in "Airplane II," Paramount's sequel to its screwy but highly lucrative take-off on disaster movies. He's done a pilot for an independent TV series called "Inside Art."

He's in one of the more successful films of the summer, though no one knows it.

"My voice was in it. It's called 'The Secret of NIMH.' I understand it's doing quite well, although I have a lawyer who wants to sue them because they didn't put my name in the credits."

He plays a rat. "Everybody's rats — good rats and bad rats."

And he's talking to the writers of Kenny Rogers' current hit film "Six Pack" about going full circle and playing a sheriff in their next offering, tentatively called "Bullhead."

"I've withstood the highs and lows of my career pretty much for 32 years. I'm not in bad shape," he said. "See, the '80s are starting to parallel my '50s, so I'm looking forward to a big resurgence in this decade."

Whatever happened to his brother?

"Allen? He never amounted to much. Oh, he's worked at a million and one jobs. He looks at me and says, 'That's where I should have been. I should have been there.' Some of my buddies tell me that when they get together and have a few beers, he really tears into me."

Success Stalking Kihn

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Success has stalked Greg Kihn the way a shadow follows a performer in a spotlight on stage — elusive yet inescapable, always one step away.

Now, Kihn and his shadow appear to have become one.

It's a kind of Horatio Alger tale of rock'n'roll — the one about the kid who started out by plunking away on his Sears Silvertone, hung out at the neighborhood record store and spent almost a decade pulling himself up by his guitar strap.

Then came 1981, an album called "Rockin'roll" and a chart buster, "The Breakup Song." That opened doors, Kihn says, and when opportunity knocked, he and his 7-year-old Greg Kihn Band were more than ready to answer.

"Now that we've had one hit record, and we're kind of having our second hit now, we're competing with the big boys," he said. "For years, we played the clubs, and now, suddenly, we're in the big league. And now you want to prove to everybody that you weren't a fluke."

The five-man band has proved that with its latest album, "Kihn'ned," a slick, polished melange of soulful rock, hard-driving dance numbers, a touch of reggae and a hot variation on an old tune — the kind Kihn was weaned on during his Baltimore childhood.

"I knew when I was 13 and I wanted to get a girl's attention in junior high school that I wanted to be a rock star," said Kihn.

The Kihnian theory of success, it seems, has a lot to do with relativity.

"After the first album ('Greg Kihn'), I thought I was a success, even though nobody bought it," he said. "Success is a relative thing. If you were on the bottom of the totem pole, the next guy up is successful. But if you were on the top of the totem pole, success might mean some completely different and neurotic thing."

The 33-year-old Kihn and his group have the reputation of being a "maverick band," defying tradition and coming out ahead in the long run, he says. The group also has been a kind of lucky charm — at least for the people who open their shows.

"I could reel off the list of people who have opened for me, and that fills the top 10," Kihn said, mentioning Joan Jett, Tom Petty and the Knack. "It got so bad that two years ago, we opened for ourselves."

In the fickle music industry, most stars are novices — searing flashes of brilliance that finally burn out. Only an exalted few can transcend mere stardom to attain legendary status.

But Kihn's philosophical. The way he sees it, when those final chords fade out, survival as a musician is more important than success.

Fame Chasing Blues Success

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP) — "Fame," which resembles "Hill Street Blues" in style and critical acceptance, is hoping for one more similarity — stardom.

Both series opened at mid-season to critical acclaim and less than splashy ratings, and both were renewed. But the police drama "Hill Street Blues" went on to capture a truckload of Emmy Awards and ultimately its ratings mushroomed.

With production now in progress for a full new season, the ending — happy or otherwise — has yet to be written for "Fame," which is based on the Alan Parker film about talented teens and teachers at New York's High School for Performing Arts.

Executive producer Bill Blinn and producer Mel Swope are optimistic — and obviously grateful to NBC and network president Grant Tinker, who, as head of MTM Productions, was once in their shoes when "Hill Street" started out.

NBC has always had high hopes for "Fame," sending out reams of press releases quoting from the more glow-

'Taxi' drives a new route

By STEVE K. WALZ

Danny DeVito

When ABC decided to jettison "Taxi" from its prime-time schedule, many industry observers including the show's cast members and staff were surprised.

Though the show was never a runaway hit, "Taxi's" ensemble approach to humor attracted a core of faithful viewers. The writing was consistently funny, and the show won numerous Emmy Awards. Yet ABC execs decided that "Taxi" was not the kind of show that could attract new fans.

As soon as ABC announced its decision regarding "Taxi's" fate, two other networks — NBC and HBO — started to discuss terms with Paramount-TV, which produces the program, to keep the show going. NBC eventually outbid HBO.

"I feel it's like a rebirth," says Danny DeVito, who stars as Louis DePalma on the series, about the show's new home.

Jim Brooks, one of "Taxi's" writer/producers, says that he "burned some bridges behind me" when he left ABC.

"I could not be the same man after the cancellation," he says. "In a way, I was sort of fired. We never knew what was behind the cancellation."

When asked about his stormy relationship with ABC, Brooks says, "I think the cancellation had a lot to do with cynicism. For the first three years the show was on, there was virtually no interference from ABC."

Brooks says that last year ABC made the writers revise certain scripts because they contained unacceptable sexual innuendos. He says he doesn't anticipate that problem at NBC.

ing reviews, and openly comparing the series to "Hill Street" in its first season. The show's regulars have also done their part, spending much of the early summer doing publicity and pushing a record album of songs from the show — there are at least two musical numbers in each hour-long episode.

"The series does not reflect the pilot at all," said Swope.

"We're not doing the movie," Blinn added. "We're using the characters, we're using the setting, we're using the drive and the energy, but the movie was in essence a kind of very well done slice of life."

"Fame," although pitted against CBS' popular "Magnum, P.I.," actually has done better in the ratings since it premiered Jan. 7 than "Hill Street" did in its early days. But "Fame" has remained in the same Thursday night time slot. The time slot for "Hill Street" was changed about four or five times during its first season.

"I think our opening rating on the pilot was about what we averaged the rest of the year," Blinn said.

Nobody Ever Too Old To Learn Scruggs Says

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Two or three times a week, Earl Scruggs picks up his banjo and practices.

"Nobody will ever get old enough to stop learning," says the 58-year-old Scruggs, acclaimed as one of the greatest banjo players ever.

And that's why Scruggs has surrounded himself with some of the finest talent available — some fresh, youthful zest and some skilled savy — on his last two albums.

Scruggs is currently working on an album with rising stars Lacy J. Dalton, Ricky Skaggs, Rodney Dillard and the Burrito Brothers. His current album on the market is "The Storyteller and the Banjo Man" with veteran country music entertainer Tom T. Hall.

For some 10 years, Scruggs used three of his sons in "the Earl Scruggs Revue." That group disbanded 1½ years ago so his sons could spend more time in Nashville instead of on the road at concerts.

"I feel I keep learning things from 'the Revue' and from the other artists on these albums," Scruggs said, as he sat in the den of his home in suburban Nashville.

Scruggs has returned to a more acoustical, straight country sound like he played with long-time partner, the late Lester Flatt, for more than 20 years before their 1969 breakup in a dispute over music. They were best known for "Foggy Mountain Breakdown," played in the movie "Bonnie and Clyde," and "The Ballad of Jed Clampett" from the television show, "The Beverly Hillbillies."

Scruggs describes the forthcoming album as "pure country, earthy music," and the album with Hall in the same vein.

In "the Earl Scruggs Revue," he used electrified music and played on college campuses with Top 40 groups such as the Doobie Brothers. It was a stunning departure from the traditional bluegrass sound he and Flatt, who died in 1979, had made famous.

But he's not necessarily returning full time to the Flatt and Scruggs style music and forsaking the more modern sound he and his sons produced.

"The 10 or 11 years I was with the boys was rewarding financially and very enjoyable," he said. "One has a tendency to get stale doing the same things. The most satisfying music to me is country music, but I like all forms of music if done well."

Scruggs owns four banjos and he's been playing one of them since 1948. He said he enjoys playing because "it calms me down. It makes me satisfied. Sometimes I just need to pick a few tunes. There will be something on my mind, and the only way to get it off is to pick some."

He says that he and Flatt probably would have reunited for some concerts if Flatt had lived longer. They had broken up because Scruggs wanted to try a different sound and Flatt didn't.

DR. JAMES SIMNACHER, O.D. OPTOMETRIST—

PRESBYOPIA - AGING EYES

QUESTION: I am 45 and am having trouble reading the phone book now. I never used to. Is this a dangerous symptom?

ANSWER: It is more normal at your age than dangerous. It is called presbyopia and catches up to most people in their 40's. The first symptoms are difficulty in reading small print, threading a needle, having to hold a book at arm's length and needing a brighter light to read by. The brain is willing, but the lense is weak and the arm is too short.

If this is confirmed by an eye examination, your optometrist will prescribe reading glasses or bifocals. While it is possible that both eyes may have the same optical error, it is infrequent. If they differ greatly, a host of other problems may result if the problem is not taken care of now.

Q. I bought a new car over six months ago. Trying to save on the purchase price, the car only has an AM radio - no FM or tape deck. However, I've since taken a job on the road. If I buy these "extras" to keep me company, can I get them insured?

A. Yes, if it is insured correctly. The units need to be installed permanently . . . not easily removed. If properly installed, your automobile policy's physical damage coverage will insure the unit. You should be aware, also, that your tapes will not be insured. The recorder itself and a single tape, constituting a unit, will be insured. However, an endorsement to your policy will cover your tapes at an extra premium.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON TAX INCREASE

The Hereford Independent School District will hold a public hearing on a proposal to increase total tax revenues from properties on the tax roll in 1981 by 6.98 percent. Your individual taxes may increase at a greater or lesser rate, or even decrease, depending on the change in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in taxable value of all other property.

The public hearing will be held on August 19, 1982, 5:10 p.m. at the School Administration Office at 136 Avenue F.

10 YEAR NO SWEAT WARRANTY

If Air Conditioning doesn't have it here it probably doesn't have it.

Gas Air Conditioning Has It!

No other air conditioner has a warranty like a gas air conditioner because no other air conditioner is built like a gas air conditioner.

Gas air conditioning has fewer moving parts and no compressor to wear out or break down. This means less wear and tear and lower maintenance costs.

That's why gas air conditioning is so dependable and why it has a warranty that's twice as long as other types of units . . . a full 10 years!

Find out more about the air conditioning that's backed by the best warranty available. Call Energas today for a free cooling survey and cost estimate. There's no obligation.

Remember, all air conditioning was not created equal. And we have the paper to prove it!

Manufacturer's limited warranty covers all defects in materials and workmanship on the sealed refrigeration unit for ten years from the date of installation of the air conditioner when it is installed in a single family residence. All other parts are warranted for one year from date of installation.

Gossett Convincing In DI Portrayal

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) — Louis Gossett Jr., delivers another riveting character this summer: a hard-as-steel drill instructor who could chill the blood and stiffen the spine of any raw recruit.

Appearing in "An Officer and a Gentleman," which Paramount is releasing this month with Richard Gere and Debra Winger in the leading roles. Gossett, the smooth-talking Fiddler of "Roots," dominates whenever he is on screen.

Gossett is Sgt. Foley, who alternately terrorizes and assists a platoon of naval pilot trainees, including Gere, David Keith and Lisa Eilbacher. Taylor Hackford ("The Idolmaker") directed the film on locations at Port Townsend, Wash.

"I went through 10 days of basic training with the marines at San Diego," Gossett said. "One of the hardest parts was learning the cadences that the drill instructors use. It's kind of a guttural command, not unlike the tone used by a Baptist preacher.

"Of course the language Foley uses is not that of a Baptist preacher," he said. "But I realized that kind of obscenity is necessary as part of the training. These pilots aren't training for the Olympic Games."

Gossett, whose Sgt. Foley might be the meanest movie drill instructor since Jack Webb in "The D.I.," said that he spent time with real drill sergeants to learn what kind of men they were.

He discovered that most had difficult personal lives. But his film character's personal life is not depicted on screen. So Gossett created one for him.

"He is divorced, his wife has gone with their child," he said. "He is a lonely man, and his life becomes his recruits. He cares about them, even though he seems to be treating them brutally."

The 14 weeks in Washington were the most physically exhausting of any film he has made, said Gossett, who remains in rugged shape at 44. He ran five to seven miles each day and often worked at karate for three hours. He and Gere stage a climactic karate match that took three days to film.

And to maintain the almost realistic tension between the drill instructor and the recruits, Gossett was isolated from the other actors so they wouldn't get to know and like him.

The career of Lou Gossett has never looked better. The nearly unanimous raves for his work in "An Officer and a Gentleman" follow his Emmy-worthy performance in the ABC Theater movie, "Benny's Place." This fall, Gossett stars in a Sunday night series on NBC, "The Power of Matthew Starr."

"I believe that after 28 years in the business, people are beginning to realize that I'm not a flash in the pan," he said.

Movie Nostalgia

By Marie Landloro

Barbra Streisand recreated her Broadway role of comedienne Fanny Brice in the 1968 movie, "Funny Girl." The film was an enormous success, largely due to Miss Streisand's explosive screen debut.

The film was nominated for many Academy Awards, including Best Actress. Miss Streisand received an Oscar for her performance, but so did another actress. In the vote for the Best Actress of 1968 it was a tie.

Question: Can you name the actress who also won an Oscar for Best Actress in 1968 and the film she appeared in?

Answer: Katharine Hepburn and "Lion in Winter."

Indian Art On Exhibit

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The ecstasy of the vivid colors that swathe Asia's sub-continent, and the agonizing struggle of contemporary Indian painters for original expression, define the current exhibit of Indian art at the Hirschhorn Museum in Washington.

The showing of 50 paintings by 47 artists is the first major collection of Indian works to reach the United States, and coincides with the visit by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

The works were drawn entirely from New Delhi's National Gallery of Modern Art.

"A few years ago, such an exhibition would have been impossible, because there was nothing of caliber to send," said gallery director Laxmi P. Sihare.

It was originally decided to send one painting for each artist, Sihare said. But, he added, "since 10 or 20 (artists) are all running neck and neck, we decided, why not give each a chance?"

In the end, a second work was selected from each of three artists: Rabindranath Tagore, better known as a poet and nobel laureate; Amrita Shergill, whose Indian-Hungarian parentage illustrates the struggle of the Indian artist's quest for originality while subjected to a foreign power; and Jamini Roy, considered the purest "folk artist" in the exhibit.

The paintings represent the pioneering attempts to escape India's colonial cultural subjugation of the early 20th century, Sihare said.

He said that a major triumph of the collection was the success of many artists in using "traditional folk colors — vivid pinks, purples, blues and yellows — in the modern context."

Traditional themes also abound. The popular Hindu god, Krishna, is present in his various aspects. One of Roy's Bengali-style works depicts Krishna with his brother, Balarama.

Gatlins Backing Off Policy

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — If you're a Gatlin fan — if you're a Gatlin music — right? Well, maybe.

Ever so slightly, the Gatlin brothers have backed off their policy of performing only Gatlin-written music. Usually at a Gatlin concert, one doesn't hear them singing Kenny Rogers' "The Gambler," Ronnie Milsap's "Any Day Now" or Alabama's "Take Me Down."

However, the Gatlins — Larry, Steve and Rudy — are working on an album of traditional Christmas music with at least one original song written by someone other than Larry Gatlin.

"We'll come to a time when we have to make a decision about whether we go elsewhere for our music," says Larry Gatlin. "I reserve the right to change my mind, but I still cannot see us doing it. People at the concerts still want to hear our music."

"I love the Oak Ridge Boys, but I'm not going to go sing 'Elvira' every night," he said.

So that means he and his brothers will still be focusing on such Gatlin music as "All the Gold in California," "Broken Lady," "Nighttime Magic," "I Don't Want to Cry," "I've Done Enough Dying Today," "Take Me to Your Loving Place," "Taking Somebody With Me When I Fall" and, most recently, "She Used to Sing on Sunday."

In the past few years, the 34-year-old Larry Gatlin developed the reputation of being brash and outspoken. Once, while publicly criticizing his former record label for not selling as many of his records as he felt it should have, Gatlin said the company "couldn't sell water in a desert." And he got considerable bad publicity for his reluctance to sign autographs.

"If the time and place are right, I'll sign anything signable," he says. "But when the odds are 10,000 to 1, I won't. You have to treat them (fans) like cows then, and I won't do that."

But younger brother Steve says: "For someone who's not supposed to sign autographs, we've sure signed a lot."

The precision of the soaring, powerful harmony and the poignant lyrics have helped offset the brashness and make the group one of the finest in country music.
