Storm hits powerlines

Residents in parts of Hereford and Deaf Smith County were without electricity Wednesday night following scattered blasts of lightning which hit power lines.

The thunderstorm deposited 1.12 inches of rain in the city. Easter had the largest amount reported, 1 1/2 inches.

Southwestern Public Service reported that about 300 of the 7,000 customers in the city were without power during part of the storm. Power was out from about 9 p.m. until 1:40 a.m. in some areas of the city.

Deaf Smith Rural Cooperative spokesmen said power was out in scattered areas of the county between Hereford and Dimmit.

One lightning bolt hit the Hereford Fire Department around 8 p.m., according to Fire Chief David Spain, and shut radio communications for about 30 minutes.

"It came in on the antenna and filled the station with blue flame," he said. "For several seconds, the entire station was filled with little blue fingers of fire. I've never seen anything like it."

Other rainfall reports included Summerfield with .6; Dawn, 1.25 to 1.3; Walcott, 1.10; Bootleg, .5; and near Wildorado, .20.

Final bid may break deadlock

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate negotiators are considering a final bid to break the congressional budget deadlock with a sweeping $340 billion deficit-reduction package, according to congressional sources.

The plan, which would reduce next year's projected budget deficit by more than $60 billion, includes:

—Making inflation adjustments in income tax rates and Social Security and other benefit programs every two years, instead of annually. This would save about $19 billion over three years.

—Imposing a $5-a-barrel fee on imported oil. This would raise $20 billion to $30 billion over three years.

—Reducing the domestic spending cuts in a Senate-passed budget and moving toward a House-passed budget as a conciliatory gesture.

Congressional sources, who spoke on condition they not be quoted by name, emphasized that senators still are trying to decide whether to formally propose the package to House negotiators as part of the effort to revive stalled congressional budget talks.

Those talks could convene as early as today.

The scope of the new plan being passed among Senate budget negotiators goes well beyond the deficit-reduction packages passed earlier this year by either the House or Senate.

The original House-passed budget called for a three-year deficit-reduction package of $259.1 billion while the Senate-passed spending plan contemplated $295.2 billion in savings by 1988.

Negotiators from each chamber have been unable so far to settle on a compromise version of those two plans.

President Reagan made a personal plea to congressional negotiators on Wednesday for action on a fiscal 1986 budget that will help hold down the government's tide of red ink. He pressed for progress before Congress leaves on Aug. 2 for a month-long recess.

For the meeting in the Treaty Room of the White House, Reagan, still recuperating from recent cancer surgery, greeted the legislators clad in pajamas and a bathrobe.

As for the discussion, the president "started on the budget, in the middle he was on the budget, in the end he was on the budget," said Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan.

"It was a friendly discussion, but nothing was really laid on the table," said House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass.

It was unclear whether the new Senate package, if formally offered, could do anything to get the budget talks moving again.

For example, Dole, who has previously mentioned the idea of inflation adjustments for taxes and Social Security every two years, has also conceded it has attracted virtually no support. "I don't know who's for it," he said earlier this week.

In the absence of a budget, the House approved a resolution Wednesday that Democratic sponsors said would bind the chamber to achieving $56 billion in spending cuts next year even if congressional budget negotiators are unable to agree on a new spending plan.

Voting almost exclusively along party lines, the House approved the measure 242-184. The measure would not be binding on the Senate.

Republican opponents blasted the move as a meaningless gesture.

In other deficit-related actions Wednesday:

—The House Ways and Means Committee approved 22-14 an approximately $19 billion, three-year package of tax hikes and spending cuts including a move to make permanent the 16-cent-a-pack tax on cigarettes. That levy had been scheduled to fall to 8 cents on Oct. 1.

The package also would boost the special coal tax that finances benefits for miners suffering from black-lung disease, limit government payments to hospitals and doctors treating Medicare patients, and prohibit large employers from reducing a worker's health coverage because of age.

—Senate Republican leaders pulled back legislation that would have given the president authority to veto individual items in bills rather than vetoing the entire measure, as is now the case. Dole had failed three times to choke off a filibuster blocking consideration of the measure, which opponents said would upset the constitutional balance between Congress and the White House.

Leftist group poses as freedom fighters

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Iranian leftist group that assassinated Americans in the 1970s and was involved in the holding of U.S. hostages in Tehran has won support from members of Congress by "masquerading" as freedom fighters opposing Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, according to the State Department.

Richard W. Murphy, assistant secretary of state for Near East and South Asian affairs, said Wednesday the group was conducting "a fairly active public relations campaign" in the United States and apparently had won support because of confusion with Afghan rebels fighting Soviet forces in Afghanistan.

Both groups use the name Mujahedeen, but there the similarity ends, Murphy told a House subcommittee on Middle East affairs.

"This group has no connection with the Afghan Mujahedeen freedom fighters and should not be confused with the latter," Murphy said. "The People's Mujahedeen Organization of Iran, in fact, has publicly supported the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan and opposed the Afghan Mujahedeen."

Murphy, testifying on recent Middle East developments, said the Iranian group had been running its active public relations campaign in the United States for at least a year.

"This group has sort of been masquerading under a cover which attracted a surprising amount of support judging by some letters from Congress," he said.

He did not go into detail, but the group has named a number of members of Congress who wrote letters of support to its leader, Massoud Rajavi, who has lived in exile in Paris since fleeing Khomeini's regime.

The group was founded by students in Iran during the 1960s to oppose Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi "and in particular to combat the shah's relationship with 'U.S. imperialism' and 'criminal Zionism,' which this movement views as the principal forces which have corrupted Iran and oppressed the world," said Murphy.

The group's goal is to establish a government in Iran based on Shiite Islam, re-interpreted according to Marxist principles.

"During the 1970s the Mujahedeen were at the forefront of the opposition to the shah and were the Iranian group most engaged in anti-U.S. and anti-Western terrorism," Murphy said. "In this period they assassinated at least seven Americans in Iran."

Their acts of violence also included bombings, assassinations of Iranians, attacks on Israeli offices in Tehran and bank robberies, he said.

They initially supported Khomeini when he overthrew the shah "and served as initial security forces for the new regime," Murphy said.

Two Coke products found contaminated

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) — Two Coca-Cola products — a can from a hospital vending machine and a bottle on a convenience store shelf — were contaminated with a household insecticide, a health official in this East Texas city said today.

Lab tests showed the products had been laced with diazinone, an insecticide used to kill ants and roaches, Angelina County-City Health Administrator Mike Czepliel.

Tests were still being done to determine the level of contamination, Czepliel said. But he said substance appeared to be "heavily concentrated" in the Coke can and

"somewhat diluted" in the bottle.

The contaminated Coke was discovered Tuesday morning after a man purchased a 12-ounce can from a vending machine at Lufkin Memorial Hospital. After drinking the Coke, the man rubbed his eye, which immediately became inflamed, officials said.

An inspector found a second contaminated plastic bottle of Coke while in a local convenience store.

Czepliel said the contamination has only been found in containers of regular Coke, not in the diet or caffeine free brands.

Smithee Visits Hereford

State Rep. John Smithee, 86th District, was guest speaker at the Hereford Lions Club luncheon meeting Wednesday at the Community Center. Smithee is shown visiting with Bill Brady and Cal Jones

after the meeting. The representative for Deaf Smith and Randall counties discussed bills passed in the last session of the legislature.

Smithee discusses stand on bills, legislative action

State Rep. John Smithee discussed his stand on bills that passed and failed during the last Texas legislative session when he appeared as guest speaker for the Hereford Lions Club meeting Wednesday at the Community Center.

Smithee was introduced by Bill Brady, program chairman for the month. In other business, carnival chairman B.J. Gilliland announced that the carnival last week netted the club about $5,100 to be used for its charitable programs. Club president Donald Hicks presented a check for $52.50 to the Crippled Children's Camp, with director Raymond White accepting. The money came from a weekly fund-raiser project.

The District 86 representative said he was disappointed that legislators didn't cut spending in more areas. He said he voted against the "Fees Bill", which increased many state fees, because he viewed some of them as tax increases.

"If a fee covers the cost of the service, I don't think you should raise the fee and not call it a tax," said Smithee.

Although he was disappointed in the Water Bill, Smithee said he voted for it because "it's a step in the right direction." He added that the bill didn't have many benefits for agriculture and made no mention at all of water importation plans in the future.

Smithee said he also voted against the extension of unemployment benefits to cover farm workers. "Many farmers told me they would have to get by with less workers if the burden of unemployment insurance was added to their costs." He added that the seasonal aspect of the employment also made it difficult to include under unemployment benefits.

Another bill that passed that carried a lot of impact, said Smithee, was the Blue Law. "I voted against the repeal because I didn't think it carried enough protection for employees who did not want to work on Sundays." Smithee said he was also concerned that small towns would lose business to the big shopping centers in big cities on Sunday.

With losses of tax revenue from the oil and gas industry, Smithee said the state "needs to broaden its economic base." He said the state needs to help more towns secure new industries.

Smithee was accompanied by Hereford by a new administrative assistant, Susan Littleton. He urged constituents to call him about their concerns and for information on legislation or other matters. His Austin telephone number is 512-475-3706.

Seven steers stolen from pen

The theft of $1,400 worth of livestock was reported Wednesday to the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's office.

Randy McCracken told deputies seven steers are missing from a pen three miles north of Hereford on Progressive Road.

The theft of tools was also reported Wednesday, the sheriff's office said. Saws valued at $150 were apparently stolen from a house three miles south of Hereford on Highway 385.

Chamber board meets today

A regular monthly meeting of the board of directors for Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce is set for 5 p.m. today with committee reports highlighting the session.

Progress reports on the agenda include those on the retail seminar, Lajean Henry; Town & Country Jubilee, Clovis Seago; and Sesquicentennial activities, Garth Thomas. Betty Drake, president of the Women's Division, will report on a tennis tourney and the July 4th breakfast.

No arrests, four complaints filed

Hereford police had a quiet Wednesday, making no arrests and investigating just four complaints.

Officers made arrangements for removing an abandoned vehicle, and talked to a lady who said participants at a tent revival were using her lawn as a bathroom.

A woman accused her neighbor of ruining 83 of her flower plants, and alleged employee theft was investigated at a local grocery store.

We reported last week that the big boiler which was enroute from Houston to the Holly Sugar plant here was stopped in Lamesa by the Department of Public Safety. The load was declared to be overweight and overweight and is being detained until all problems are solved.

Lamesa Editor Walter Buckel had this to say in his "Bylines" column this week:

"That massive sugar beet boiler parked south of town by the DPS has sparked interest from local residents. Johnnie Palmore suggested it may take a fleet of helicopters to hook on and move it to Hereford.

"Another person suggested it represents HALF of a sugar beet plant and he may just claim half of the $1,000 reward offered by the Chamber of Commerce for getting a new industry to locate here.

"At any rate, folks know it's here and how they get it to Hereford may be a problem that will take time to resolve.

Underground fire battled at illegal dump

MANSFIELD, Texas (AP) — As soon as the ground dries out enough to prevent their trucks from getting stuck in the mud, firefighters plan to resume their battle against an underground blaze at an illegal dump site that has been burning for nearly two years.

The stench and smoke from the blaze has some nearby residents fuming.

"The smell is horrible," said Tarrant County Commissioner O.L. Watson, said Wednesday. "It's like a Kentucky coal mine. It looks like it might burn forever."

Firefighters went to the site Tuesday, but more than four inches of rainfall that day forced them to suspend their efforts to put the fire out until the land dries enough to keep fire trucks from getting stuck in the mud, Watson said Wednesday.

Charles Daughtery, Tarrant County fire marshal, said the fire was burning at least 20 feet below ground. The dump site covers about two acres and is located about one mile west of Mansfield, some 20 miles southwest of Dallas.

Daughtery said it could take a week to smother the fire.

Watson called the dump an "underground inferno," and he said it could be several days before firefighters are able to resume fighting the blaze.

The burning garbage did not bother residents at first, but a crack in the ground formed allowing smoke to leak out, he said.

Five cities pitch for new prison location

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — Officials from five Texas cities gave their best to sway the Texas Department of Corrections board to choose their area as home for a $60 million maximum-security prison unit.

Representatives from Palestine, Odessa, Navasota, Gatesville and Huntsville made presentations to the board Wednesday for the 2,250-inmate unit, the Houston Chronicle reported. Corpus Christi bowed out at the last minute.

"We now see the light, that prisons provide jobs," said Chuck Bernhard, chairman of economic development for the Odessa Chamber of Commerce. "Odessa is in the oil patch and there's been trouble in the oil patch recently."

The new prison to be built on about 300 acres, could provide a financial lifeline for the sponsoring community by employing more than 600 with an annual payroll of about $14 million.

Of the five cities pushing for the prison, Odessa is the only one not having a prison in its area. TDC's headquarters in Huntsville is home to six units, Navasota has two and Gatesville has three.

Popular icon to return to San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A Mexican religious icon that drew an estimated 300,000 people to a church here last year will return to San Antonio on Friday.

The Virgen de San Juan de los Lagos is expected to draw crowds once more to the Virgin Mary at San Juan de los Lagos Catholic Church, a small west-side sanctuary that again will display the statue.

The parish spent $60,000 preparing for the statue's visit last year, but probably raised $100,000 more than that in donations, which went to begin a much-needed church remodeling, Father Hugo Van den Bussche, pastor of the church, told the San Antonio Light.

Van den Bussche said the statue that will be shown here is not the original, but a copy made in 1629 to display outside of the town of San Juan de los Lagos in Jalisco, Mexico.

He said the copy wears the cape and crown of the original.

The original statue became known as a miracle worker from an incident in 1623 when a girl supposedly was brought back to life when the image was placed on her, the Light said. Word of the incident spread and the Virgen de San Juan de los Lagos became a popular aspect of Mary and remains one even today, especially among Mexicans and Mexican-Americans.

Van den Bussche said people always can venerate Mary, but a popular icon like the statue of the Virgen de San Juan de los Lagos helps renew their devotion.

Hurricane nears Hawaii Islands

HONOLULU (AP) — In spite of mostly sunny skies in this vacationland, Hawaii residents were making runs on an emergency supplies as a Hurricane Ignacio, packing 105 mph winds, drifted toward the islands.

"Fill up the gas tank and have enough batteries and things like that," National Weather Service forecaster Ed Manning urged. "Don't wait until the last moment to rush to the store when everybody else is there."

At 8 p.m. Wednesday (3 a.m. EDT), the center of Ignacio was near latitude 15.9 north and longitude 149.7 west, about 430 miles southeast of Hilo, the weather service said. It was moving westward about 12 mph.

A hurricane watch was issued for the island of Hawaii, with hurricane conditions possible on the island in the next 36 hours.

Civil Defense officials canceled beach activities along the island's southern shore and began informing residents of low-lying areas they may be ordered to evacuate.

61 killed in train derailment in Burma

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — A train hit mines planted by rebels and overturned, killing 61 passengers and injuring 112 others, the state news agency reported today.

News Agency Burma said the Rangoon-to-Mandalay mail ran over the mines near Kywebwe, 150 miles north of Rangoon, late Wednesday.

The agency said rebels planted the mines, but did not indicate whether any group had taken responsibility. It did not say how many mines blew up.

Schultz to meet with Mexican leaders

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Drug traffic, Central America and other issues straining U.S.-Mexico relations were on the docket of U.S. Secretary of State George P. Schultz in his meetings with Mexican leaders here today after arriving to begin preparing for President Reagan's expected visit.

No formal agenda was released for the fifth annual bilateral meeting between top U.S. and Mexican officials, but a State Department spokesman in Washington said illegal immigration also would be an important topic.

Schultz, along with officials from the Treasury and Commerce departments as well as the U.S. trade representative, was scheduled to arrive this morning and travel directly to a private meeting with President Miguel de la Madrid. A series of conferences with the officials' Mexican counterparts was scheduled for the rest of the day, with Schultz due to leave Friday morning after a breakfast meeting.

Relations between the two nations were severely tested last February with the kidnap-murder of U.S. special narcotics agent Enrique Camarena Salazar in Guadalajara, Mexico. U.S. officials first said the Mexican government did not act quickly enough to apprehend the murderers.

Members of the Reagan administration, including FBI Director William Webster, since have applauded Mexico's efforts to combat cultivation of marijuana and poppy, while saying there remains room for improvement.

Like stepping back into 1960s

Restaurant is scene of racial turmoil

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — Entering the Belvoir Restaurant in southwestern Virginia was like stepping back into the racial turmoil of the 1960s, says a black woman who claims restaurant owners Roy and Patricia McKay refused her service last year because of her color.

The McKays, already are under court orders to serve blacks, are being sued for discrimination by three black women who, in front of news cameras and reporters, tried to enter the Marshall, Va., restaurant last Dec. 7.

Attorneys for the McKays told a federal court jury on Wednesday their clients were made victims of a "staged media event" when Lori Jackson and her daughters, Denise Johnson and Debrah Williams, showed up at the Belvoir.

Following the restaurant incident, the women, residents of Prince William County, filed suit in U.S. District Court in Alexandria, where an all-white jury of two women and four men could call for an injunction against the McKays and award unspecified damages to the women.

A decision in the case was expected today.

The 30-seat restaurant, located about 50 miles southwest of Washington, D.C., has been the target of court actions since 1967, when a federal judge ordered the McKays to stop discriminating against blacks and to place a sign in their place saying everyone would be served "regardless of race or color."

Also on display at the restaurant has been a sign saying the court had "unconstitutionally forced us to serve people we do not want to serve," several witnesses said.

Roy McKay, 60, was found guilty of failing to comply with the order in 1974 and again earlier this year. He was sentenced to short jail terms both times.

Defense lawyers portrayed the McKays as owners of a "Mom and Pop" operation who have been the targets of media harassment in their widely reported troubles. Lori Jackson said on the stand Wednesday she went to the restaurant after a call from lawyer Victor Glasberg, who had in turn been called by Washington television reporter Jim Upshaw.

Upshaw rekindled publicity when his crew showed up at the Belvoir on Nov. 26, 1984, at which time McKay said the restaurant was closed and that coffee would cost "$500 a cup."

"The media descended on them, and now they've become national celebrities," attorney William Beeton charged. "The question is not whether anybody has been discriminated against, but whether this is a staged media event."

The women claim the events of last Dec. 7 were part of longstanding policy at the restaurant, and that they suffered emotional distress and embarrassment.

"It was like being hit in the face with a brick, ice water, taking me back to the '60s," Ms. Jackson said, her voice breaking with emotion on the stand. "I saw the hatred. I couldn't believe it."

Patricia McCoy said, however, that she turned the three women away only because reporters and a camera crew were behind them.

Several black area residents took the stand to recount times they had been turned away, allegedly because of their race, while whites from the area testified on behalf of the McKays.

On Wednesday, Glasberg asked the McKays about transcripts of testimony in the 1967 and 1974 cases in which they were quoted as saying they would not serve blacks.

"I don't remember all this stuff," Roy McKay responded.

Glasberg also introduced a letter McKay sent in 1974 to U.S. District Judge Oren Lewis, along with the U.S. attorney general and the president of the United States, saying he was entitled to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, which does not include the dark people."

"I told them what I thought," McKay said Wednesday.

HPA 23, experimental for AIDS

Hudson may be using new drug

NEW YORK (AP) — The announcement from Paris that Rock Hudson has AIDS but no signs of the disease at this time suggests that he might be receiving an experimental new drug developed at France's Pasteur Institute that has shown some of the most promising results so far in AIDS treatment.

The drug, called HPA 23, was given widespread exposure in February when it was described by one of its developers, Jean-Claude Chermann of Pasteur, at a meeting in New York.

At that time, Chermann reported that the drug had caused the AIDS virus to nearly disappear in the blood of a young male hemophiliac.

Chermann emphasized, however, that the drug blocks reproduction of the AIDS virus in the body, but does not kill it. Nor does the drug kill the white blood cells that are infected with the virus, he said.

To underscore the point, Chermann noted that the virus in the young hemophiliac had been reduced to such a low level by the drug that doctors could no longer find the virus in the boy's blood.

They knew the virus was still there, however, because the body's blood cells were able to pass the infection to other cells in laboratory tests.

Officials in France have not yet said whether Hudson is receiving the drug, and it was not until today — after days of speculation, rumor, and misinformation — that officials confirmed Hudson was suffering from acquired immune deficiency syndrome rather than some other ailment.

Nevertheless, HPA 23 has attracted considerable attention, and reports have indicated that a number of American AIDS victims have gone to France for treatment with the drug.

In February, Chermann said 34 people were being tested with the drug, which is the latest in a series of 55 compounds that the French researchers have developed in an effort to find an anti-viral agent that would attack viruses similar to the AIDS virus.

A variety of other drugs are being investigated in the United States and abroad as possible AIDS treatments, including one called Isoprinosine, which has not yet been approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration but which was recently made available to AIDS patients under the "compassionate use" provisions of federal drug laws.

Toll-free phone line provided for sorghum farmers

The Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board has provided a toll-free phone line for the benefit of sorghum farmers who have questions about the forthcoming grain sorghum checkoff referendum.

The number, 1-800-692-4169, will be in operation from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday until Aug. 15.

The board is conducting a statewide referendum on the proposition that grain sorghum may be assessed up to one cent per hundredweight to finance grain sorghum promotion and market development. The program is voluntary and producers who do not wish to participate will request and promptly receive a refund.

Letters to the Editor

Let's To The Editor,

I would like to thank all the many people of Hereford who contributed to the Hereford Track Club. Forty-two boys and girls traveled to Ft. Worth Friday and Saturday to the T.A.A.F. State Track Meet. Without the donations these fine young people would not have been able to go.

There are many people to thank for the success of this program, special thanks goes to all the parents who transported all the kids and stayed through some very hot Saturdays. A big thank you goes to all the business that donated money, time or vehicles to help the club.

I am very proud to know that the community will get behind young kids and help them out whether it be financially or any other means. Without the support of so many people in this community our program would not have been so successful this year.

Thank you,
Suzanne Duvall

'Coming home' brings mixed emotions for resident

"Well, I've done it, I've taken the Quantum Leap. I've moved back to my hometown after eons of time." Judy McDonald recorded those thoughts last month, soon after "coming home."

After graduating from Hereford High in 1969 as Judy Hollingsworth, she moved to Amarillo in 1977 and began a new life there.

"Actually, it hasn't been that long, but when you've been gone any amount of time at all it seems as if 400 B.C. has more in common with you than where you graduated from high school," she said.

McDonald was the executive secretary to the president of Kerr Paper Company, who would not have a secretary until she came along, then since 1983 she has been associated with Texas Apparel and Creative Advertising in Amarillo. Then she found it necessary to come home. After leading an active career in advertising, she has moved home to be close to her family. She has multiple sclerosis now.

"People do change a little over the years," she mused. "They don't necessarily go on twirling batons or playing football or making calves and sheep their major goals in life..."

Judy Hollingsworth McDonald has made several changes in her life. She is a witty and bold person with confidence and a zest for life bursting forth. "There is only one real fear when moving back to the community that you left when you were young and reckless (among other minor vices that we refuse to mention)," laughed McDonald. "And that is 'facing the bare truth that you (and probably no one else) are not the same person who migrated to who knows where those many years ago.'"

Of course McDonald is not the same person; McDonald is now a mother of two beautiful, well-mannered and mature young girls. Jessica, the oldest, is 13 and will be attending LaPlata Junior High this fall. Caressa is 10 and will be in the fourth grade at Shirley Elementary. Both of the girls are very helpful to their mother during this trying time.

McDonald, now home with her family Mr. and Mrs. A.L. Hollingsworth, and until her diagnosis led a very full and active life.

"Multiple sclerosis is an immune deficiency disease affecting the nerves," explains McDonald.

"Multiple sclerosis eats the nerve coating off," McDonald continued. "That leaves the nerves bare-like a bare electrical wire..." McDonald has studied the disease thoroughly and can answer virtually any question about it.

"When the message comes from the brain to the nerve telling it to move a muscle," she went on, "the message is short circuited causing the muscle to spasm in whatever part of the body is being affected."

Multiple sclerosis is a progressive and incurable disease, yet it does not kill, noted McDonald - "You live out your natural life span."

Most deaths occur as a result of pneumonia," McDonald noted, "or other infections that people with M.S. have no defense, no immunity against."

Every morning is different for the multiple sclerosis patient. "One of the big things we try to get people to understand," stressed McDonald, "is the fatigue factor."

"What it means, simply is an M.S. patient has little or no energy level or strength at all! There is a weakness over the entire body," McDonald described.

With M.S. one never knows what tomorrow will bring, literally. "The disease is unpredictable. "Remission (the disease temporarily subsiding) could last up to three years or it could only last a week," she said.

What is a "good" day for the multiple sclerosis patient?

"Today is a good day," McDonald gave as a "for instance." That day, she sat in a straight chair with cane in hand. On a bad day she's in a wheelchair donated to her by the Kiwanis Club in Amarillo.

"Today I can walk with a cane, I can even speak today"... (her speech is sometimes affected).

She is very grateful for the simple things she can do as she has seen others a lot worse off than herself.

A multiple sclerosis patient has to pace herself; what McDonald could pick up one day (a cup of coffee for example) she may not have the strength to pick up the next day.

One day she can get around with a cane, the next day she might be sitting in her wheelchair and can't get around at all.

M.S. has to be in a fairly advanced stage to be diagnosed. There are 11 different tests to be checked out to diagnose M.S. If out of these 11, five points can be diagnosed, "you definitely have multiple sclerosis," stated McDonald.

McDonald had 10 points out of the 11 check out.

"After finding out - you have this big pity party," McDonald said in her witty, animated way.

There are drugs available to relieve the symptoms, but the side effects are very uncomfortable, causing severe depression which is one of the worst symptoms of the disease. Taking steroids makes the face swell up (along with the entire body) causing what is described as "moon face".

"Multiple sclerosis does not kick into effect until the 20's and 30's," noted McDonald.

Stress has an effect on multiple sclerosis, "it will magnify anything that is wrong with you."

Since learning she has the disease, McDonald has learned to ask for help, admittedly a difficult task after years of leading a very fulfilling, independent lifestyle.

McDonald's girls have adjusted

"absolutely beautifully," beyond her greatest expectations. Jessica and Caressa not only help her physically but "emotionally as well," said McDonald proudly.

Sitting on the couch, the girls would call to their mom to come to the door. They were riding on horses and wanted to ask her something.

"Typical kids expect their mother to chauffeur, wash 50 loads of clothes, and have the usual slobber party on top of that," joked McDonald. "When I can't, they understand. Mom doesn't have the energy she used to."

Both of the girls help out with everyday chores more than the typical child would, said McDonald.

McDonald would love to help people become aware of multiple sclerosis. "Maybe I can help them, because I've been there."

She said she appreciates the sympathy and understanding of people "but not the pity."

After years of not knowing what was wrong "it was a relief to find out what it was - to find out it was multiple sclerosis so I could go ahead and deal with everyday living."

Anyone wanting information on M.S. or "just to talk" is welcome to call her. She has plans to talk to civic groups, and to give presentations to any organization group wishing her to visit. "I want the people to be aware of what M.S. is and what it can do," McDonald said.

She shares thoughts on coming home: "Glad to really be home again ... Proud to meet the old friends as new ones and find that the community is teeming with people that love you just the way you are ... I really am glad to be home again!"

Brian Thomas

Thomas named Eagle Scout

Brian K. Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Thomas, received his Eagle Scout rank at a Court of Honor on Monday, July 8, at the First United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall. The Eagle Scout Award is the highest rank in Scouting.

Thomas is a member of Boy Scout Troop 52. At age 15, he is younger than the average Eagle recipient. In the four years since he joined the troop, Thomas has worked hard to attain this goal. To be eligible for the Eagle rank, a scout must earn 21 merit badges, be active in his troop for a strict period of time, hold leadership positions within his troop, and then plan and execute an Eagle Service project that is approved by his leaders. Thomas's Eagle Service project involved transplanting grass to the Ruth Warner Memorial location of the Hereford Day Care Center. Some of the leadership positions he has held are assistant patrol leader, patrol leader, scribe, and leadership corps. Thomas currently is the Senior Patrol Leader of Troop 52. It is the Senior Patrol leader's duty to organize and run the troop. Thomas successfully led his Troop through a one week Summer Camp this June.

Thomas was tapped-out into the Order of Arrow last year and will attempt to advance to Brotherhood this summer. He is a member of the Ordeal ceremony team. He wears an authentic Indian costume and plays the part of Nutiket, the ceremonial guard. He and his team competed at the regional OA Conclave in Odessa, Tx. last April. Thomas is also the secretary of the Comanche Chapter of the Order of the Arrow.

The Court of Honor was a double ceremony, Thomas received his Award along with Shaun D. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Don Moore. Brian and Shaun are old friends; both are in Troop 52. George Ochs was the Master of Ceremonies at the event. The Color Guard was made up of Russell Brownlow, an Eagle Scout from Troop 50, and three Troop 52 Eagle Scouts: Hunt Foster, Michael Foster, and Kurt Simon. Dr. Weldon Butler gave the invocation and Life Scout Steven Sims led the pledge. Scoutmaster Neal Lemons and Assistant Scoutmaster Michael Foster gave a slide show of the two candidates history in the troop. Betty Dixon presented Thomas with a plaque on behalf of the Hereford Day Care Center in appreciation for the work he and his scouts did during the service project. She remarked, "Brian even guarantees his work, he told me that if the grass dies, he will plant some more!" The Eagle Pledge and Charge was given by Boyd Foster. Scoutmaster Neal Lemons presented the award and the boys' mothers pinned the Eagle Medal on their son's pocket. Mickey Wilson gave the Benediction at the end of the ceremony.

Thomas will be a Sophomore at Hereford High next year and is a member of the Tennis Team. He plans to attend college and is considering becoming a Veterinarian.

Board approves insurance changes

AUSTIN (AP) — Property insurance for big-city homeowners will cost more next year, particularly along the Gulf Coast, but smaller cities inland will get a price break, according to the State Board of Insurance.

The board also approved Wednesday substantial cuts for renters of apartment and condominiums throughout the state.

The board approved 3-0 its staff recommendations for a statewide 6.7 percent increase of $58 million for homeowners and a statewide 25 percent cut of $23 million for renters.

The changes are effective Nov. 15. The industry had asked a statewide average increase of 15.8 percent for those owning or buying a home.

Board Chairman Lyndon Olson also served notice the board would make another decision soon on his motion to cancel on Nov. 15 all discounts now offered on property insurance.

"Hopefully this would break the cycle of fierce price-cutting, often undisciplined, that exists in Texas," Olson said.

If Olson's motion is approved, any insurance firm that wants to deviate from standard prices set by the board would have to get permission from the state insurance department.

The board also approved, 2-1, extending the cancellation notice time that a firm must give a policyholder from 10 to 14 days.

Ann Landers

Apologies accepted

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you have against secretaries, anyway? You reran that perfectly awful letter from the executive's wife who was obviously insecure, suspicious of his secretary and probably nuts.

The writer was upset because her husband went overboard on Secretary's Day. She wondered aloud, "When is there going to be a Wife's Day?"

Surely in all your years of writing you must have received a letter in support of secretaries. Why haven't you ever printed one? I await a published response with eager anticipation.—PERPETUAL MOTION IN MANHATTAN tion is limited to a high school diploma and secretarial training.

Help me to read his mind, his handwriting, and carry out all instructions without explanation.

Let me always know exactly where my boss is and when he'll be back, even though he never tells me these things.

And Lord, when the year ends, please give me the foresight not to throw out records that will be asked for in a couple of days even though I was told emphatically, "Destroy these — they are cluttering up the place."

I ask these blessings, dear Lord, in the name of secretaries everywhere. Amen.

DEAR PERP: I am baffled by your accusation that I am against secretaries. My secretaries are worth their weight in gold. I could not function without them.

You say I never print anything in praise of secretaries? Wrong again. Here is a column that has appeared in my space, not once, but twice. Your apologies are accepted.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 17-year-old girl with a problem that has me completely baffled. Can you help?

Out of the blue, I received a call from my ex-boyfriend. I was nutty about him and he dumped me. We got together and talked about old times. During the conversation he confessed that he was bisexual and had dropped me for a guy. I was stunned. At first I didn't believe him, but when he told me the name of the guy I was sure he was telling the truth.

He asked if it bothered me. I said, "No. The reason I seem rattled is because I've never known anyone who was bisexual." Now that I realize he had me completely fooled I'm not sure I can trust him. He says he's straight now and wants to date me again. Should I give it a try? (P.S. I still like him a lot).—NEED HELP FAST IN OAKLAND

DEAR OAK: Bisexuals almost always go back to members of their own sex. In my opinion, he's a poor risk. Say no and save yourself a lot of grief.

How much do you know about pot, cocaine, LSD, speed, PCP, uppers and downers, glue and heroin? Are all these drugs dangerous? Get Ann Landers' all-new booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." For each booklet ordered, send $2.00 plus a long, self-addressed envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois, 60611.

Last year for energy credit

This is the last year that taxpayers may claim the residential energy tax credit.

A tax credit of up to $300 is available for energy conservation materials installed in the home, with a separate credit of up to $4,000 for taxpayers who install "renewable" energy source such as solar or wind equipment.

The credit for energy conservation materials is figured at 15 percent for the first $2,000 spent on such items as storm or thermal windows and doors, insulation, weather-stripping and caulking. Also qualifying are certain fuel saving heating system modifications. Only materials installed in homes that were built before April 20, 1977, are eligible for energy credit.

The "renewable" energy source credit is 40 percent of the first $10,000 invested in qualifying solar, wind, or geothermal equipment used to heat or cool or to provide hot water for use in the home.

Both credits are available for items purchased and installed on a taxpayer's principal residence between April 30, 1977, and December 31, 1985. The "renewable" energy credit is available for both existing and newly constructed homes. Renters as well as homeowners are eligible for the credit.

For additional information, order the free IRS publication 903, Energy Credits for Individuals, by calling the Federal Tax information number listed in the telephone directory under U.S. Government.

Wise bings program

T-shirts could be in museums

LUBBOCK — The T-shirt or blue jeans worn today could be a valued part of a museum clothing collection in decades ahead.

An important part of any museum's collection is saving for the future, according to Betty J. Mills, curator of costumes and textiles for The Museum of Texas Tech University. For example, Mills is collecting T-shirts—an item she says makes a definite statement about our culture. "There are all kinds of T-shirts and they are worn by children and adults, males and females," she said. "They come in all colors and some have a logo, a bizarre statement or even a symbol that represents a company, group or team."

Mills began the T-shirt collection several years ago when she realized the impact T-shirts had on the communication methods and fashion in our culture. A statement on a T-shirt may communicate what is happening in society at any period in time. The Museum has received about 150 T-shirts and Mills said she will continue to ask for donations of shirts that are unusual or expressive.

"Who knows—someday we may have the largest T-shirt collection in the world," she said.

Any clothing for a museum collection should be commonly worn items that have a message about a period of time, Mills said. Other items that are part of her collection for the future include a pair of patched blue jeans and a blue chambray shirt with embroidery—items popular during the 1970s.

The major hindrance in collecting articles of everyday clothing is that most people save only special occasion garments, she said. The casual clothing is used and discarded.

For more information on donating a T-shirt or another article of clothing, call The Museum, (806)742-2461.

Pediatric surgery developments challenging for doctors

GALVESTON — When University of Texas Medical Branch pediatric surgeon Thom Lobe, M.D., appeared on a television talk show to discuss the separation of Siamese twins born at UTMB in November 1984, his response to one question surprised viewers and host alike.

At the suggestion that the twins were his most complicated case, Dr. Lobe acknowledged that they were "interesting." But they were much less complicated, he quickly added, "than cases we handle a lot more frequently."

The work of UTMB's chief of pediatric surgery is indeed complicated, involved, often tedious. It is also challenging and satisfying enough for him to work 14-hour days, often operating from dawn to dusk, then appearing in the patient's rooms—as quickly as the magician his patients swear he is—to track the progress of his tiny charges.

And if the talk show host's assumption about the Siamese Twin case was a misconception, it did provide Dr. Lobe the opportunity to make a more important point; that the growth of pediatric surgery as a specialty over the last two decades may not always be high drama, but it is certainly excellent medicine.

The specialty came into its own through rapid evolution in pediatric medicine which showed the medical community that "kids are not simply small adults."

"In physiology, metabolism, energy and electrolyte demands, and the regulation of body functions, kids are different," Dr. Lobe says, "and the differences are those which separate general pediatrics from internal medicine."

UTMB recognized those differences early and installed pediatric surgery as a specialty, under the guidance of pediatrics department Chairman C. William Daeschner Jr., M.D., John Sealy Professor of Pediatrics. In 1983, Dr. Lobe became chief of the service, which now also includes Keith Oidham, M.D., assistant professor of surgery.

New knowledge about disease and illness in children has involved pediatric surgeons in a range of problems which today exceeds that usually seen by the general surgeon, says Dr. Lobe. "There has been a mega-explosion of information in this area."

The specialty and its practitioners have been more than equal to the task. Many diagnosed conditions which amounted to death sentences a quarter-century ago have a mortality rate of less than five percent today. For example, Wilms tumors, which attack the kidneys, were 80 percent fatal in the 1940s and 1950s. Today, pediatric surgery advances have improved the survival rate to better than 90 percent.

Perhaps more significant, thinks Dr. Lobe, are the evolved surgery techniques which correct birth defects, making whole people from potential invalids.

And if drama in medicine is its centerpiece, Dr. Lobe says he can find few cases more dramatic than that of tiny Maria Martinez.

Born with a birth anomaly of unknown origin, Maria lacked a lower abdominal wall, complete bladder and urethra, and her lower urinary tract and intestines were exposed. "Her entire anatomy in that area was turned inside out," remembers Dr. Lobe.

Occurring once in every 50,000 live births, the anomaly left Maria incontinent of both urine and feces. Doctors in Mexico were unable to correct the problem, so at age 2, Maria was seen by Dr. Lobe at the Medical Branch. He had seen and dealt with a dozen or more similar cases, "which are more common than Siamese Twins," but also involve a more complex and delicate procedure.

Maria underwent two surgeries totaling 28 hours at UTMB, during which her pelvis had to be broken and reconstructed by orthopedic surgeons Ben Allen, M.D., and Ron Ferguson, M.D., both of whom play major roles in TUMB's pediatric surgery program.

Without the miracle of pediatric surgery, Maria might have died in early infancy; the mortality rate from her condition is 50 to 75 percent. At best, she would have needed a colostomy and a permanent urinary diversion, requiring two stomas with an ostomy bag on each. "She would have had no continence or sexual function," Dr. Lobe said.

But the surgery performed by Dr. Lobe and his associates avoided stomas, provided Maria with bowel and urinary continence, and made possible her normal maturity.

"The complexity is in the length of the operation," he says, "in the time required to rearrange and devise new parts, then piece the entire anatomical structure back together and arrange it properly."

The complexity is also in knowing what to do and how to do it, which speaks to the versatility required in pediatric surgeons, whose operations involve many smaller, complicated procedures.

Five years ago, says Dr. Lobe, surgeons would not have attempted Maria's operation. Today her case and similar formidable procedures have become more commonplace in major medical centers offering pediatric surgery.

Now correctable are such conditions as:

—Necrotizing enterocolitis, a disease of the newborn and very young whose intestinal blood supply is interrupted, resulting in injury, infection or even gangrene of the intestinal tract. UTMB's pediatric surgeons work closely with neonatologists to develop better diagnostic techniques for the condition;

—Trachial narrowing, either congenital or acquired, which can be corrected with aggressive reconstruction requiring multiple surgeries;

—Biliary atresia and other disease conditions affecting the liver, now treated with surgical alternatives to liver transplant, where the success rate is still low;

So rapid have the advances been that Dr. Lobe estimates standard pediatric surgery textbooks could be rewritten every few years. Yet in most cases it has not been new technology or new techniques which have made the difference.

Instead, pediatric surgeons "take an established surgical procedure and modify it to do something never done before," he says. "We are constantly forced to forge creative, innovative solutions for specific cases."

Maria's case is a classic example. "It was possible because of a better understanding of anatomy and physiology in children, coupled with a natural evolution of surgical techniques, rather than a dramatic breakthrough."

But the, says Dr. Lobe, who once considered a career in the theater, "drama is where you find it."

Abundant Life

PERSONAL SUCCESS

By Bob Wear

WE MUST KNOW that we can be successful as responsible human beings, even though there may be many things, which are of concern to us, not as we wish them to be.

WE ARE NOT victorious in life because of what we do for a living, or what we get done, or what we accomplish, or what we accumulate; but the victory, the personal success is more in our thinking. This is not to minimize the doing and the 'getting it all together', but simply to emphasize the fact that "as a man thinks so is he". This does not lessen the need for doing well with the material and the physical, because success with these considerations is important; but this is not enough. We can do well in these areas, and still not be personally successful.

WE CAN KNOW this personal success or victory, even when some things which concern us are not as they should be, not as we wish them to be. If it were necessary for us to have everything with which most of us are concerned just right, there could be no personal success. It may appear that some folk have everything just right, but this is just an appearance; because no one is able to accomplish this. Of course, it is true that some people do better than others. This, however, does not mean that we cannot realize the personal success we desire.

WE MUST DO our honest best, and no effort is being made to minimize the desirability of doing our best. Even so, the human experience is and will always be something short of the ideal, the perfect; however, you and I must remember that this does not make personal success impossible.

USING THE best value system available to us, and honestly doing our best in all that is worthwhile brings personal success.

Poet laureate

There is no authentic record of the origin of the office of poet laureate of England. There was, however, a verisimilitudo regis, or king's poet, in the reign of Henry III (1216-1272), and he was paid 100 shillings a year. Geoffrey Chaucer (1340-1400) assumed the title of poet laureate and in 1389 got a royal grant of a yearly allowance of wine.

Summer fun can turn to illness if food not stored properly

Picnicking, camping, outdoor barbecuing, or just snacks on the patio are as much a part of the Texas summer as the temperatures in the 90s and 100s.

Unfortunately though, some summertime foods, if not prepared, stored, and served properly, can turn an otherwise happy occasion into misery or tragedy for those who eat them. Foods which should stay refrigerated often warm rapidly in the Texas heat, making them unsafe to eat in a surprisingly short time.

Food spoilage, and its result, food poisoning of anyone who consumes the food, occurs when bacteria in the food are allowed to multiply and produce chemicals called toxins which are harmful to humans. Victims of food poisoning may have relatively mild symptoms—nausea, vomiting, diarrhea—but may also require hospitalization to prevent death.

Texas Department of Health Commissioner Dr. Robert Bernstein said, "Virtually all food poisoning could be avoided if people would follow two simple rules. Those who are handling or preparing food should wash their hands and utensils thoroughly before and after handling the food. And they should keep hot foods hot, and cold foods cold. As simple as those rules are, some people find them hard to follow."

explained there are three common bacteria which account for the majority of cases of food poisoning—staphylococcus, salmonella, and clostridium.

Staphylococcal food poisoning is the most common type of food poisoning, resulting from eating food contaminated with the toxin produced by staphylococcus bacteria. The organism is normally present on the hands of about 50 percent of the population, and is transferred to the food after it is cooked. As the food cools, the bacteria multiply, and the toxin they produce can survive reheating or even boiling. The best preventions are for food handlers to wash their hands completely, for foods to be eaten immediately or rapidly cooled in a refrigerator. Symptoms of the poisoning include abdominal cramps, vomiting, and diarrhea.

Salmonella poisoning usually occurs when meats are not thoroughly cooked. The bacteria, which are present in the bodies of farm animals and poultry, are harmless to their hosts, but when humans eat the infected meat, they suffer symptoms similar to those of staphylococcal poisoning, diarrhea, abdominal pain, and fever. The bacteria are not killed by freezing, but thorough cooking does destroy the organism.

Clostridium comes in two species; perfringens and botulinum:

The perfringens bacteria can cause gastrointestinal symptoms similar to salmonella, and likewise are transmitted through contaminated meat. Precautions are to be sure that meats reach 212 degrees Fahrenheit (boiling), and that they are served immediately. Leftovers should be refrigerated or frozen.

The botulinum bacteria causes botulism, a potentially deadly food poisoning, usually found in home-preserved vegetables and canned fruit and fish products which have been insufficiently heated. In addition to symptoms of other types of food poisoning, botulism causes blurred vision, muscle weakness, and eventual paralysis which can lead to death if not treated immediately.

"I'd like to add," Dr. Price said "that another simple precaution against food poisoning is to have the common sense to look at and smell of the food you are about to eat. If it looks or smells as if it is spoiled, it probably is. No matter how long you've looked forward to that platter of ribs, if it smells 'funny' don't eat it."

Gift For Crippled Children

The Hereford Lions Club presented a check for $52.50 to the Lions Crippled Children's Camp this week. Raymond White, an officer of the camp from Hereford, accepted the check from club president Donald Hicks. The funds came from a weekly fund-raising project by the club.

In Pro Football Hall of Fame

128 greats have been honored

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Back on Sept. 17, 1920, a group of men sat on the running boards of the cars at the Hupmobile Agency here, sipped beer and agreed to form the first organized professional football league — the American Professional Football Association.

They chose famed athlete Jim Thorpe as president and decided on a $100 fee for membership. The 11 teams included George Halas' Staleys (later the Chicago Bears), the Canton Bulldogs, Hammond Pro, Dayton Triangles, Rochester Jeffersons and Rock Island Independents.

From that beginning evolved the National Football League.

And because it all started in Canton, that is where the Pro Football Hall of Fame was established. It opened to the public in 1963.

The Hall of Fame is the honoring spot for the greats of the game — 128 of them, including the five inducted this August: Joe Namath, Frank Gatski, O.J. Simpson, Pete Rozelle and Roger Staubach.

The Hall also represents pro football with four large exhibition areas where the history of the sport from 1892 to the present is detailed in memento, picture and story; a movie theater that shows a football film every half-hour; a research library, and a museum store.

Most recent displays in the Pro Football Adventure Room include a Super Bowl ring display; the story of blacks in pro football; a collection of trophies; officiating in football; stadiums; a mural salute to football fans; a Top 20 honoring lifetime statistical leaders; a salute to Justice Byron (Whizzer) White service award of the NFL Players Association, and the Fan Enthusiasm-Team Identification display.

Election of new members to the Hall of Fame is made by a 29-member Board of Selectors, a committee largely made up of sports writers. Each pro football city has a representative, with two each from New York and Los Angeles, along with a representative of the Pro Football Writers Association.

To be elected, a nominee must get about 80 percent of the selectors' vote. Any fan may nominate a player simply by writing to the Pro Football Hall of Fame. The only limitation is that the player must have been retired at least five years and a coach must be retired. Other contributors — owners, administrative personnel — may be still active.

New members are inducted every year, usually in late July or early August, on a weekend that includes the AFC-NFC Hall of Fame pre-season game. This year, it pit the New York Giants against the Houston Oilers.

VCRs are becoming popular with football fanatics

By The Associated Press

With a growing number of American households becoming equipped with videocassette recorders, football fanatics can now spend more weekends with their families and not miss a game.

Videotape experts have a few tips on how to catch much if not all of the televised contests.

According to Bob Burnett, a Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. spokesman, one way to keep cassettes free from "snow" and dropouts is to use high quality, name-brand videocassettes.

Burnett suggests taking advantage of the programmable features of the VCR. A one-day model will record just one program in a 24-hour period, he says, while other models can be set to pick up a whole weekend's worth of play.

With cable television, he cautions, you can't tape one channel and watch another — or vice versa — unless you have specially installed equipment.

You also should know how long the game is expected to run, says Burnett. Using the machine at slower speed allows up to six hours of recording time with a T-120 VHS tape or 4½ hours with a Beta L-750, which means the recorder can catch all the overtime.

"Just remember to build in five minutes before the start of the game to avoid any slips," Burnett advises. "Then program the machine to stop just a few minutes before the end of the tape."

"And remember, too, to check your local broadcast schedule. When it's kickoff time in New York, a live game airs three hours earlier in Los Angeles. But with tape-delayed play, anything goes — check that time and catch that kick."

To be head coach at Bovina High School

La Plata football coach resigns

The resignation of the La Plata Junior High School head football coach and athletic coordinator was announced at this week's Hereford Independent School District board meeting, and two other coaching recommendations were accepted.

Bill Talley, who worked at La Plata for two years, resigned to become head football coach and athletic director at Bovina High School.

Personnel recommended for employment, both at La Plata, were Tommy Bowling as a coach and science teacher, and Ed Coplen as a head coach and social studies teacher.

Talley, who also coached the track team his first year at La Plata, said,

"I'm leaving Hereford with mixed emotions, because I've been really happy at Hereford."

"I've been wanting to be a head coach for a long time, and thought I ought to take the opportunity when I had a chance."

"I've enjoyed working with La Plata Principal Raymond Schroder and Coach Jerry Taylor," Talley continued. "They're both good men."

"I enjoyed going to La Plata each day, so much that it didn't seem like a job. There's a lot of good young men there," adds Talley, whose teaching and coaching experience totals 16 years.

He began his coaching career as an assistant high school football coach in Cleveland, Tenn., for seven years. He then was academic counselor for athletes at Texas Tech University for three and one half years.

Before Talley came to Hereford, he was in Ropesville, Tex., for three years.

Tommy Bowling, who has 12 years experience, is a graduate of Panhandle A & M. with a B.S. degree and has been teaching in Hereford for several years.

Ed Coplen, who has a B.S. degree from West Texas State University and an M.A. degree from Eastern New Mexico University, has worked at Lordsburg High School and NMMI as well as Hereford in the past five years.

Positions remain unchanged in baseball contract talks

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Even if they don't admit it, baseball players must realize how financially troubled their game is, the owners' chief labor representative says. And that, he says, must temper their demands in current contract talks.

"I've said before that we're not insisting they admit publicly that we have serious problems," says Lee MacPhail, president of the owners' Player Relations Committee. "We know that they have to know there are serious problems, and they know we will be bargaining from that basis."

Facing a strike deadline of Aug. 6, MacPhail completed the latest round of talks with union chief Don Fehr on Wednesday. The two sides planned to meet again today.

Management has released numerous documents to the players since spring training, trying to show the game is in financial peril. On Wednesday, each side accused the other of being unwilling to compromise on what may be the key issue in talks, the size of the owners' contribution to the players pension plan.

Players want one-third of baseball's $1.1 billion network TV contract to be applied toward pensions, or about $60 million per year over a five-year contract. Management would like to continue the pension contribution at about the current level of $15.5 million per year with some small improvements.

"Their position today is exactly the same as it was in December," MacPhail said of the union stance.

Fehr, acting executive director of the Major League Players Association, said the union had "been trying to get them (the owners) to talk about the pension since September. There's been no reluctance on our side to negotiate. On their side, there's been more than reluctance. There's been refusal."

MacPhail said management soon would place a pension proposal on the table but indicated it would be linked to player concessions in other money areas.

Indians, behind Blyleven, double up Rangers 8-4

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

One of the few bright spots for the Cleveland Indians this year has been pitcher Bert Blyleven, and his victory over the Texas Rangers was an example of the confidence his teammates have in him.

Blyleven, 9-10, pitched his 10th straight complete game Wednesday night, his league-leading 15th of the season, to lead the Indians to an 8-4 victory over the Rangers. Blyleven gave up seven hits, walked five and struck out nine in the game.

"With Bert going, you're pretty sure if you get him four or five runs he can win," said Cleveland first baseman Mike Hargrove, who went 3-for-4, with a home run and a double.

Blyleven pitched himself into a jam to start the eighth inning. With his team ahead 7-4, he walked the first two batters, but after a conference with manager Pat Corrales, Blyleven retired the next three batters.

The Indians jumped on starting pitcher Burt Hooton, 5-5, for four runs in the first inning. With one out Julio Franco walked and after stealing second, scored on Pat Tabler's double down the left field line. Andre Thornton followed with a single to left, scoring Tabler.

The next batter, Hargrove, ended the scoring with a two-run homer to right field, his first home run since June 29, 1984.

"The way my bats were going, I was wondering if I was ever going to hit another home run," Hargrove said.

Cleveland added a run in the second inning when the lead-off hitter, George Vukovich, slammed his fourth home run of the season to right field.

The Rangers came back for two runs in the third inning on Pete O'Brien's two-run double down the right field line. The hit scored Geno Petralli and Toby Harrah, who had walked and singled respectively.

The Indians scored another run in the fourth inning when Brett Butler singled home Bernazard from second. Bernazard had opened the inning with a single to right.

The Rangers made the score 6-3 in the bottom of the fourth when Duane Walker hit his first American League home run over the right-field fence.

The Indians answered with a run in the fifth when Bernazard singled home Hargrove.

Oddibe McDowell hit a solo home run in the seventh, his third round-tripper in as many nights, to give the Rangers their last run.

Royals 5, Yankees 3
Frank White, the man with the golden glove, also is earning plaudits as an emerging power hitter for the Kansas City Royals.

"There are not too many second basemen who get 100 home runs," White said Wednesday night after reaching the seats twice and driving in four runs to lead the Royals to a 5-3 victory and a three-game sweep of the New York Yankees. "Probably the only active ones are Bobby Grich and Davey Lopes."

The homers, White's 13th and 14th of the season, gave him 101 for his 13-year career. Despite a career-high 17 last season, pitchers and managers remain somewhat unaware of his longball potential.

Angels 8, Brewers 4

California continued its hero-a-day approach to the AL West race with Atlanta castoff Rufino Linares hitting a three-run homer to overcome a 2-1 Milwaukee lead. It was the second home run of the season for Linares. Mike Brown and Bob Boone also homered for the Angels.

Ron Romanick, 12-4, got the victory.

Red Sox 6, A's 5

Boston won on a bases-loaded walk in the bottom of the ninth inning to Jackie Gutierrez, who has not had an official time at-bat since June 29 and is just 1-for-4 since he lost his starting shortstop job after being hurt May 25.

Boston's Wade Boggs had three hits to extend the longest hitting streak in the major leagues since 1980 to 27 games with his 36th multi-hit game of the year. He leads the AL with 128 hits in 94 games and is hitting .348, two points behind New York's Rickey Henderson, who leads the league.

Tigers 5, White Sox 4

Tom Seaver, who failed to win his 299th game, admitted age may be creeping up on him.

"I just never felt strong," said Seaver, 10-8, who was victimized by two Chicago errors. "One thing I have to consider is I am 40 years old."

Dan Petry, 11-9, gave up just four hits for Detroit. Dave Bergman's run-scoring single capped a three-run Tiger fifth. Detroit scored the eventual winning run in the eighth when Marty Castillo singled home Chet Lemon.

Orioles 4, Twins 2

Eddie Murray hit a two-run homer in the first inning, his 15th, and Mike Boddicker, 10-10, allowed seven hits in seven innings to snap a three-game losing streak. Baltimore's Mike Young had one hit in four at-bats to extend his hitting streak to 15 games.

Ken Schrom, 8-10, who had a career-high eight strikeouts, could only second guess about the 0-2 pitch Murray hit far over the right-field wall.

Angels 8, Brewers 4

Rufino Linares has taken seven swings for California and produced two home runs, including a three-run job in the fourth inning that brought the Angels from behind. A four-run fifth made it easy for Ron Romanick, who upped his record to 12-4.

The Angels recently recalled Linares from Edmonton of the Pacific Coast League.

Blue Jays 3, Mariners 1

Toronto's Jesse Barfield hit a two-run homer and Jeff Burroughs a solo shot.

"It was a 2-0 fastball right in my wheelhouse," Barfield said of his 16th homer, which made a loser of Seattle's Matt Young. "I was looking for that pitch and I hit it well."

Jimmy Key, 9-4, got the victory. Toronto's ninth straight over Seattle. Gary Lavelle, the third Toronto pitcher, finished up to get his 14th save.

But Astros fall to Phillies 3-1

Ryan hurls 5 1/3 hitless innings

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer

Von Hayes, unburdened by dugout superstition, stepped up to the plate with a borrowed bat and dropped the Houston Astros with one blow.

Hayes ripped a Nolan Ryan pitch off the center field fence Tuesday night and circled the bases for a two-run, inside-the-park home run that gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 3-1 win, their third straight victory.

"I wanted a short, quick swing against Ryan's fastball," explained Hayes, who said he borrowed utility infielder Luis Arguayo's bat because it was shorter with a better weight distribution.

The eighth-inning home run drove in pinch hitter Greg Gross, who had walked and reached second on Arguayo's sacrifice bunt. The hit was Hayes' ninth home run of the season and the first inside-the-park homer of his career.

Ryan, who pitched 5 1-3 hitless innings and gave up just three hits in 7 1-3 innings, said he had hurt himself before giving up the home run.

"I had a little bit of an abdominal pull," said Ryan, whose record dropped to 8-8. "It came on the pitch before. I didn't throw the pitch good."

Hayes, after watching his liner come off the wall, got the green-light from third base coach Dave Bristol and dove for the plate as the relay whistled past catcher Mark Bailey.

Ryan, the first pitcher ever to strike out 4,000 batters, upped his total to 4,013 with seven.

Kevin Gross, who worked eight innings before leaving for pinch hitter Greg Gross in the eighth, scattered nine hits, struck out seven and walked one in earning his ninth victory against eight defeats.

Reliever Kent Tekulve pitched the ninth inning for his 11th save.

Gross said the key to his victory was a botched squeeze play in the seventh inning, when the Astros, leading 1-0 with one out, had Mark Bailey on second and Phil Garner at third.

Dickie Thon tried the suicide squeeze but missed the pitch. Garner, who had broken for home, tried to go back to third but Bailey was already there. Bailey was declared out. Gross then struck out Thon to end the inning.

"I had it in my mind they were going to squeeze," said Gross. "I saw him (Garner) break out of the corner of my eye. So, I threw a hard slider down. I thought Thon might miss."

Houston took a 1-0 lead in the fifth on a walk to Jim Pankovits and a triple by Craig Reynolds.

The Phillies tied it in the seventh as Glenn Wilson singled, took second when Ozzie Virgil was hit by a pitch, went to third on a fielder's choice and scored on pinch hitter Tim Corcoran's sacrifice fly to deep center.

Cubs 4, Padres 3

In getting back on their feet, the Chicago Cubs have treated the San Diego Padres like a doormat.

Winning a third straight game for the first time in nearly a month, the Cubs swept a series from the Padres with a 4-3, 10-inning victory Wednesday night.

Richie Hebner won the game with a soft line drive that became an infield single. San Diego shortstop Garry Templeton tried to short-hop it, but failed, and Ryne Sandberg scampered home from third.

It was Hebner's 11th pinch hit this year, tops in the National League, and his 11th RBI in that role.

"I didn't hit it hard, but it worked out well," admitted Hebner. "Pinch hitting is not the easiest job in the world, but when you do pinch hit and there's men in scoring position with the game on the line, you do get pumped up."

Hebner hit a 1-2 pitch from Craig Lefferts.

Expos 3, Braves 1

Bryn Smith fired a three-hitter, did not walk a batter and struck out seven in his fourth complete game of the season. Smith, 12-3, has four victories over Atlanta this year.

"The biggest change this year is control," said Smith, who faced only two batters over the minimum and matched his previous career-high total for wins.

Reds 3, Mets 2
Eddie Milner's single with two out in the ninth inning scored Dan Bilardello with an unearned run to give Cincinnati a three-game sweep of the Mets, who managed to score just three runs in the series. The victory lifted the Reds' league-leading record in one-run games to 20-10 and their road mark to 25-20, second best in the NL.

With two outs, Bilardello reached first when shortstop Rafael Santana misplayed his grounder. Wayne Krenchicki walked, then Milner singled off Roger McDowell, 5-4, for his first RBI in 40 at-bats against the Mets this season.

John Franco, 9-1, threw two scoreless innings for the victory. Ted Power pitched the ninth for his 18th save. Pete Rose went 2-for-4, leaving him 30 hits shy of Ty Cobb's all-time record.

Cardinals 4, Giants 0

John Tudor pitched his fifth shutout of the season, tying Fernando Valenzuela for the major-league lead. Tudor, 11-8, tossed a six-hitter for his 10th triumph in 11 decisions. He did not issue a walk and struck out nine Giants.

Willie McGee blasted a three-run homer as the Cardinals scored four unearned runs in the fifth inning.

St. Louis swept the three-game series and opened up a 3 1/2-game lead over the Mets and the Expos in the NL East.

Dodgers 9, Pirates 1

Greg Brock hit a grand-slam home run and a run-scoring single for five RBIs, supporting a five-hitter by Bob Welch, 5-1, who won his fourth straight decision with his third complete game this year.

Brock's slam, off reliever Al Holland, was his 15th home run. His single came as the Dodgers turned a 4-1 lead into a rout with five runs in the eighth, their biggest inning of the year.

Key executive changes announced

Balengee named chief officer of SPS

AMARILLO — The board of directors of Southwestern Public Service (SPS) today announced key executive changes in the electric utility's leadership in preparation for the pending retirement on Aug. 31, 1985, of board chairman and chief executive officer Berl M. Springer.

Bert Balengee, president, was named the chief executive officer of SPS, and W.R. "Bill" Esler, executive vice president, became the company's chief operating officer.

Effective Sept. 1, 1985, the first day of Southwestern's next fiscal year, Balengee will become board chairman and chief executive officer, and Esler will begin serving as president and chief operating officer.

Springer joined SPS as a draftsman in 1946, and progressed through engineering, rate and budget assignments before being named executive vice president in 1972. He became president in 1976, and was elected board chairman in 1982. Springer, a native of Lakeview, Texas, is an industrial engineering graduate of Texas Tech University. In 1975, the University named him a distinguished engineer.

Balengee began his SPS career as an accounting clerk in 1949, and served in personnel, data processing and financial management positions until he was promoted to executive vice president in 1979. He was elected president in 1982. Balengee was born in Trinidad, Colo., and earned a business administration degree at the University of Texas.

BERT BALLENGEE

BERL SPRINGER

Esler began work with the utility in 1948 as an engineer, and moved through division superintendent, executive management, engineering and construction responsibilities prior to his selection as executive vice president in 1983. He is a native of Denison, Texas, and was graduated from the University of Texas with an electrical engineering degree.

Southwestern primarily provides electric service in a 52,000-square-mile area in eastern and southeastern New Mexico, the South Plains and Panhandle of Texas, the Oklahoma Panhandle, and southwestern Kansas.

Jefferson Memorial

The Thomas Jefferson Memorial stands on the south shore of the Tidal Basin in West Potomac Park in Washington, D.C. It is a circular stone structure with Vermont marble on the exterior and Georgia white marble inside. It combines architectural elements of the dome of the pantheon in Rome and the rotunda designed by Jefferson for the University of Virginia.
