Open letter to Reagan appeals for negotiation

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A letter bearing the names of four American hostages and appealing to President Reagan to negotiate their release from kidnappers who "are growing impatient" was delivered to The Associated Press bureau in Beirut today.

The appeal was contained in a package of letters an unidentified young man threw at the feet of the guard at the AP bureau and told him to deliver the parcel to the new agency.

One of the four hostages is Terry Anderson, the AP's chief Middle East correspondent who was seized in Beirut on March 16, 1985. AP staffers said that they recognized Anderson's handwriting in the letters and his signature.

There was no immediate comment from the State Department and White House spokesman Michael Guest said the administration would have no comment until it had more information. The Reagan administration's policy has been not to negotiate with terrorists.

The open letter said Reagan should negotiate because "there is no alternative."

"They say they will not be moved and are growing impatient..."

It said: "It is in your power to have us home by Christmas. Will you not have mercy on us and our families and do so."

The letter continued: "Mr. President, how long do you suppose these people will wait? We have no chance of escaping, and our captors say if any attempt is made to rescue us they and we will all die."

The letter was signed by Anderson; the Rev. Lawrence Jenco, a Roman Catholic priest; David Jacobsen, director of the American University Hospital in Beirut, and Thomas Sutherland, Dean of Agriculture at the American University of Beirut.

The letter, one of a package of letters, was dated at 1 p.m. (6 A.M.

Relatives say word from hostages relief

By The Associated Press

After a day of claims that their relatives were dead, families of Americans held hostage in Lebanon today expressed relief that letters signed by four of the captives had been delivered in Beirut.

"The letters are certainly very good news, knowing the hostages are alive," said Peggy Say, sister of hostage Terry Anderson.

"At least we know he's not dead — yet," said Mary Mihelich, sister of the Rev. Lawrence Jenco, a kidnapped Roman Catholic priest.

"This definitely relieves the fears that we were all experiencing yesterday," said Eric Jacobsen, whose father, David, is among the hostages.

"We luckily got the kind of indication we were praying for," said Jacobsen, 29, of Huntington Beach, Calif.

The four American hostages appealed to President Reagan today in a letter sent to The Associated Press bureau in Beirut to negotiate with their Shiite Moslem kidnappers to secure their freedom.

The letter, dated today, was signed by Anderson, Chief Middle East Correspondent of The Associated Press; Jenco; Jacobsen, director of the American University Hospital in Beirut; and Thomas Sutherland, dean of agriculture at the American University of Beirut. AP staffers identified Anderson's handwriting and signature in the letters.

The letter was one of a package of letters from the hostages delivered to the AP one day after anonymous telephone callers in Beirut claimed the hostages had been shot.

"We have just been told that someone has claimed that Islamic Jihad has killed all of us," the captives said in a separate letter to the media, signed by all four. "Obviously this is not true."

The younger Jacobsen said the State Department called his home at dawn.

"It was a good indication the

Final puzzle piece in today's Brand

The Hereford Brand's "Jigsaw Photo Puzzle Game" ends its first week with two final pieces of the mystery photo in today's issue.

The game, offering $50 in Hereford Bucks to the winner, was kicked off with the "Home for the Holidays" promotion being staged by city merchants and businesses. Look for the final pieces of Puzzle No. 1, follow the easy rules and clip the entry form in today's paper to enter the contest.

All correct entries will be eligible for a random drawing to determine the prize winner. All entries, whether mailed or deposited at the Brand office, must be in by noon Monday. A new contest will start in next Tuesday's newspaper.

The Hereford Whitefaces close out the season tonight against Amarillo Tascosa. With a victory, the Herd will again have a winning season with a 6-4 won-lost record and a third-place finish in District 3-5A.

The Herd has a sparkling 49-15 record since 1980, including two playoffs appearances. The 'Faces advanced to the semifinals in 1981 before losing to eventual state champion Lake Highlands, 10-7. Hereford has finished no worse than third in district play over that span.

Chances are that Hereford will be placed in Class AAAA next season. HHS barely had enough enrollment for 5A the last time districts were realigned, and the UIL is changing the formula this year. It will be February before the realignments are announced, but enrollment will be based on the top three grades instead of the present four grades.

Leftist rebels seize Colombia Palace of Justice

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Authorities said today at least 90 people, including 17 guerrillas found dead in a bathroom, were killed or died during the two-day bloody seizure of the Palace of Justice by leftist rebels.

Police sources and relatives said 12 Supreme Court judges were among those killed in the drama that began around noon Wednesday when at least 25 guerrillas belonging to M-19, the country's main urban guerrilla group, attacked and seized the building in downtown Bogota.

Army troops and police backed by artillery and armored cars ended the seizure of the palace at about 3 p.m. Thursday after storming the modern five-story building.

Early today, details remained sketchy but police said 17 rebels were found dead in a bathroom on the third floor of the building. Police refused to speculate whether the rebels had committed suicide. There were unconfirmed reports the guerrillas had killed themselves.

Police said 17 other victims were soldiers, policemen and private guards. The newspaper El Tiempo reported that 30 members of the guerrilla group were among the dead.

The government had not issued an official statement on the number of victims or details of the takeover.

Radio stations reported that Andres Alamarales, the leader of the rebel unit, was among those killed. The rebels are part of the group M-19, or the April 19 Movement, which takes its name from the date of a presidential 1970 election it claims was fraudulent. Membership of the group is said to be 8,000.

Army soldiers used dynamite and cannon fire to blast their way inside the pale yellow building, authorities said. Hostages who survived said the rebels decided to kill the judges early Thursday when it appeared their situation was hopeless.

U.S. to search crash site in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — A team of U.S. experts will be allowed later this month to conduct the first search of a B-52 crash site inside Vietnam for remains of missing American servicemen, the Pentagon said today.

The Vietnamese government has also informed the United States it will soon turn over seven additional remains that may be U.S. servicemen. It also has agreed to hold another meeting of technical experts from the two countries on Nov. 13 to discuss the continuing search for Americans missing or killed in the Vietnam War.

Richard L. Armitage, the assistant defense secretary for international security affairs, also announced this morning that an Army laboratory in Honolulu had identified some more of the remains turned over by the Vietnamese this summer.

And he said the Laotian government, which allowed the first excavation of a crash site inside that country last February, has now "agreed in principle ... to allow multiple-site excavations." Armitage said talks would have to be held with the Laotians to determine exactly how many more excavations they will allow.

The Vietnamese returned 26 sets of remains to the United States on Aug. 14. Nineteen of the 26 were identified last month. Armitage said five of the remaining seven have now been positively identified as American servicemen, including the first U.S. pilot shot down over North Vietnam.

Governor supports AIDS quarantine

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White says he agrees with a proposal by the state health commissioner to use quarantine as a weapon of last resort in the fight against AIDS.

"To the extent that any disease causes imminent threat to the spread of that disease to other persons, I think that quarantine would be appropriate," White told his weekly news conference Thursday.

But he added that "I think each case has to stand alone on whether that (quarantine) would be an appropriate remedy or not."

Last month, Health Commissioner Robert Bernstein suggested that quarantine could be "something else in the arsenal" for fighting the spread of the often-fatal disease. The quarantine list now includes such diseases as diphtheria, cholera, plague, syphilis and yellow fever.

Yugoslavian sentenced to 30 years

AUSTIN (AP) — Bratislav Lilic, still claiming to be a Russian agent who can negotiate the return of a missing American, has been sent to prison for 30 years for swindling the missing man's father.

U.S. District Judge James Nowlin sentenced Lilic Thursday after the Chicago resident said he is "still the only one who can negotiate the release of his son."

In August, jurors convicted Lilic of bilking Douglas Pierce of Austin out of $46,000 by promising he could bring John Pierce home. The younger Pierce, then 29, has been missing since a drilling ship on which he worked sank in the South China Sea in 1983.

Lilic, a Yugoslavian, told the judge, "I tried everything in my power to help Douglas Pierce. Since the 11 months I have been in custody he has never had any other contacts. All of a sudden, the doors are closed on him."

Atheists upset at American Express

AUSTIN (AP) — Madalyn Murray O'Hair's organization is upset at American Express because the company will not allow atheists to charge their donations.

"American Atheists is curious about the scruples and morals of American Express, and notes that they allow any massage parlor to accept charges from cardholders," the organization said in a Thursday news release.

The Austin-based organization applied for permission to accept American Express cards for donations or purchases of books and magazines. American Atheists already accepts MasterCard and Visa.

But American Express, citing its policy against the card's use for political or religious transactions, said no.

Study released on pilots, marijuana

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pot-smoking pilots suffered impaired flying ability a full day after they used marijuana — and one even missed a simulated runway — although they believed their performance was not harmed, a study found.

While the preliminary study involved only 10 pilots, it suggested that even experienced aviators "had better stay out of a plane for at least 24 hours" after smoking marijuana, Stanford University psychiatrist Dr. Jerome Yesavage said Thursday during a telephone interview.

"I'd watch out for the guy who smokes the night before and then flies in the morning, particularly in bad weather conditions," said Yesavage, who also is a licensed commercial pilot and chief of psychiatric intensive care at the Palo Alto Veterans Administration Medical Center.

The study, published in the November issue of the American Journal of Psychiatry, involved 10 licensed, private pilots recruited from Palo Alto's airport, then trained for eight hours on a flight simulator at the Veterans Administration hospital.

All had smoked pot previously, but were not daily users. Some of the 10 pilots in the study "were out to prove a point — that they could fly just as well" after smoking marijuana, Yesavage said. "They didn't prove their point."

Investigation asked for on senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ted Stevens says his appearance in a television commercial for a defense contractor's computer products is "good for the Senate" but the president of Common Cause wants an investigation by the Senate Ethics Committee.

Stevens, an Alaska Republican who chairs the Senate Appropriations defense subcommittee, is appearing in the commercials that promote computer word processors made by Honeywell Inc.

Honeywell, which received $1.4 billion in defense contracts in the 1984 fiscal year, also makes computerized word processing systems used by 28 senators, including Stevens, company spokesman Mario Santivolis said.

Honeywell is one of three companies that were deemed "approved vendors" by the Senate Rules Committee when it set up a program to allow senators to buy computerized office equipment with Senate money. The other two firms are Data General and Prime Computer Inc.

Earthquake, economic crisis top issues

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) — Problems caused by September's devastating earthquakes in the Mexican capital and a recent sharp devaluation of the peso have become foremost issues in elections Sunday for 51 new mayors in Nuevo Leon state.

The opposition National Action Party has entered candidates in 16 of the races, including this highly industrialized state capital and its three major suburbs, where nearly 80 percent of Nuevo Leon's 3 million people live.

National Action leaders figure they can become a serious challenge to the Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI, which currently holds all 51 offices and has been in power in Mexico for more than half a century.

Candidates were mostly concerned about local issues such as improving the running water supply when the campaign began.

But since the earthquakes "people are more concerned about national issues. They want to know what's going on with the economy, with the internal and external debt, the expropriation of land in Mexico and the aftermath of the earthquake," said a Monterrey newspaper managing editor.

He asked not to be identified because of recent government displeasure with the press after it criticized the way officials handled the earthquake emergency.

The Sept. 19 and 20 earthquakes that killed 6,000 people in Mexico City did not shake Monterrey, 600 miles to the north. But the tragedy and the government's subsequent expropriation of land on which destroyed buildings had stood were criticized by many here.

message yesterday was not carried out and the hostages are still alive," he said.

David Jacobsen, 54, was kidnapped May 28. He had taken up his post in Beirut at the end of 1984.

"The frustration yesterday being that they said they killed 'em and today, knowing that the letters are dated today, that they are still alive, I think it's another plea from the captors and that our government should take heed," said Mrs. Mihelich, of Joliet, Ill.

"Dialogue and talk to the captors is necessary," she said. "We need our government to talk to someone there in Beirut. If they have, we don't know."

"Obviously they (the captors) want to negotiate. As they say in the letter, the captors themselves want a peaceful resolution," Mrs. Say said from her home in Batavia, N.Y.

"The administration has made promises to the families which seem empty in view of the fact that the hostages are not home," Mrs. Say said. "If they (U.S. officials) mean what they say, they will begin to talk to captors. Now is the perfect opportunity to give truth to those words."

Umberger to hold festival

The 34th annual Umberger German Sausage Festival will be held Sunday, Nov. 10, at St. Mary's Parish Hall from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Umberger.

Nearly 3,500 pounds of sausage for the event will be made by John and Edna Wieck and Arnold and Kathy Wieck on Wednesday.

Already, 220 gallons of sauerkraut has been prepared for the festival. Teenagers and adults will peel a half ton of potatoes Saturday afternoon starting at 1 p.m.

Head cooks Christie Batenhorst, Ann Schenk, Karen Artho and Shirley Skarke will start cooking at 5 a.m. Sunday.

Women of the parish will bake 300 loaves of home-made bread for the dinner.

The women will also bake other goodies and will hold a bazaar of homemade arts and crafts.

Tickets are $5 for adults and $2 for children 6 years to 12 years of age and will be sold at the door.

A dance will also be held from 8 p.m. to 12 a.m. in the parish hall with music provided by Tiny Lynn. Tickets will be $3 for singles and $5 for couples.

The public is invited to attend.

About 150 wildlife and parks officials have gathered from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, the U.S. Park Service and some of their Mexican counterparts in the Mexican states of Tamaulipas, Nuevo Leon, Coahuila and Chihuahua, all of which border Texas.

"The importance boils down to cooperative activities, long-term," Gilbert Lusk, superintendent of Big Bend National Park and the conference coordinator, said Thursday.

"The conference is not geared, nor designed to solve problems," he added. "The conference is geared toward a mutual discussion toward mutual understanding of what state and federal agencies do on both sides of the border."

The four-day conference will end today when Gov. Mark White and governors from the bordering Mexican states meet.

One of the conference speakers, Horace Gore, said many Texas ranchers could increase their income and decrease the estimated 3.8 million white-tail deer by allowing more hunters on their land.

"Texas has a long 58-day continuous deer season on most of its white-tail habitat," said Gore, white-tail program leader for the Texas wildlife department.

"Traditionally, a small party of hunters lease a parcel of land for the entire season, and average taking less than one deer per hunter."

He suggested dividing the 58-day season into two or more segments, and leasing each segment to different hunting parties. That way, he said, landowners could accommodate more hunters and harvest more deer.

Gore said the monetary value of white-tails is $250 million with lease values more than $84 million. He said Texas has 71 million acres of deer range.

Another speaker on Thursday was Ron George, dove program leader of the Texas wildlife department. He urged Mexican officials to develop programs to keep the white-winged dove nesting in the northeastern Mexican states.

He said 1985 was the worst year of white-wing dove breeding in the Rio Grande Valley because natural disasters.

A freeze that hit the Valley in December 1983 destroyed citrus trees, where the doves had their nests. The season went on as scheduled in September 1984, but this year wildlife officials decided to cancel it. "Breeding populations were down about 30 percent below the long-term average in June of '85 and that was followed by extensive heavy rains and high winds."

LETTER

EST) today, the day after anonymous telephone callers in Beirut claimed the hostages had been shot by firing squads.

In a separate letter to the media, signed by the four, the captives said: "We have just been told that someone has claimed that Islamic Jihad has killed all of us."

"Obviously this is not true. Our captors say it was an attempt by the U.S. government to spoil negotiations."

An anonymous caller telephoned a Western news agency in Beirut Thursday claiming to speak for the Shiite fundamentalist group, saying that the hostages were to be killed because negotiations with the United States have "reached a dead end."

Two later calls claimed the hostages had been killed and their bodies dumped in Beirut. But police searches turned up no bodies.

Apart from the open letter to Reagan, the package contained a letter to Congressman George O'Brien, Dem-Ill., and Robert K. Dornan, Dem-Calif.; one to the media saying they are still alive, a letter to the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Robert Runcie; and personal letters to each of their families.

Hereford Chamber Singers to leave for concert in Seminole

HEREFORD CHAMBER SINGERS

Hereford Chamber Singers will be performing for Seminole Community Chapel on Nov. 9 in Seminole, sponsored by M.S. Doss Foundation, Inc.

The group will leave at noon Saturday and will be served dinner in Seminole.

Hereford Chamber Singers is an organization made up of people from varied backgrounds, all possessing the same talent and interest in singing.

The Hereford Chamber Singers began in 1974 as a modest group sharing their choral talents only with Hereford residents.

Within nine months, however, the group had lost its modesty and began performing for others. Hereford Chamber Singers went on to perform for the Texas Choral Directors Association convention in San Antonio and in the summer of 1976, a portion of the group joined the West Texas State University Chorale for a concert tour of England.

The singers performed while crossing into the Iron Curtain of Romania in 1977, sponsored by Friendship Ambassadors.

There in Romania, the group practiced their motto, "Human Relations Through Music" as they performed in cities and villages from Bucharest, through the Carpathian Alps, Transylvania, and the Black Sea.

Hereford Chamber Singers continues to give three major concerts yearly for the community in addition to performing for local and out-of-town groups and events.

The singers perform selections by such composers as Houston Bright and also perform Christmas cantatas, sacred music, music from Broadway selections, country and western and popular music, barber-shop melodies, and its smash hit, "A Tribute To Walt Disney," which includes music and characterizations from Walt Disney movies.

The versatility and talent of the members make possible a variety repertoire of solos, ensembles, and instrumental numbers, as well as choral music.

Although the Hereford Chamber Singers practice once a week, the group has achieved remarkable ability to give quality performances consistently.

It has received much acclaim from musicians across the state and the group is noted as being one of the major cultural resources in the Panhandle.

For information on performances to be held by Hereford Chamber Singers, please contact Amy Gilliland at 364-3717.

Menopause can cause bloating

DEAR DR. GOTT — I've gained 8 pounds in the last year. I also stopped having periods a year ago (I'm 53). I take Dolobid and Limbetrol twice a day for arthritis and Ativan to help me sleep. I feel bloated all the time. Which of these drugs is causing the weight gain, and could a diuretic help the bloating? I'm a very active person.

DEAR READER — Rather than blaming the medicine for what appears to be fluid retention, I would advise you to see a gynecologist. I think you probably are experiencing menopause and are holding excess fluid because of hormonal imbalances. With time, the condition should correct itself, but you may feel more comfortable with some professional help. Meanwhile, cut way down on salt consumption; excessive salt in your diet may encourage fluid retention.

To answer your questions about menopause, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report on the subject. Other readers who would like a copy of the reports should send 75 cents plus a long self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2597, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to ask for the Health Report on Menopause.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm trying to cope with this thing called arthritis. How much aspirin is too much? Can a large person take more than a small person? It seems that I get the best relief if I take one tablet per hour for three consecutive hours.

DEAR READER — Arthritis is the inflammation or wearing-down of the joints. Usually, eight aspirin a day is about the limit for an average person. Large people may need more than small people. Ringing in the ears (tinnitus) is usually the earliest sign of aspirin toxicity. If your method of treatment works for you, use it; three aspirin a day is not a high dose. You may also be helped by physiotherapy, application of heat and the use of non-aspirin medication.

TAX RELIEF

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — Homeowners over 60 years of age are given special property tax exemptions without any income qualifications in 10 states, according to Rand McNally's "Places Rated Retirement Guide." The states are: Alabama, Alaska, Georgia, Hawaii, Illinois, Kentucky, Mississippi, South Carolina, Texas and West Virginia.

The scripture lesson with the Rev. Bruce Kochsmeier Sunday morning is I Kings 17:8-16. It will be entitled "The Long Haul."

Immediately following the Sunday worship service, the deacons will sponsor a covered dish dinner. Everyone is invited to bring a dish and join the fellowship.

The youth fellowship will meet Sunday at 7 p.m. for supper. The junior high fellowship is scheduled from 5:30 to 7 p.m. and senior high from 7:30 to 9 p.m. The subject will be the "Battle of the Ages" which will deal with parents.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

An all-church dinner at noon Sunday will follow the usual morning worship service, which will include a dedication service with members presenting cards they have signed in the Circuit Rider Commitment program, the annual stewardship program of the church.

A program of music is planned for the dinner, with songs by a male quartet as one feature. A handbell choir and two singing choirs will be heard in special music of the worship hour, which will begin at 10:55 a.m.

The Jubilate Ringers will play Brother James' Air as a prelude, and

For the Beauty of the Earth as the processional. John Avery will direct the Sanctuary Choir in the anthem, Be Joyful in the Lord (Cox), and the Chapel Choir in the offertory, Sing and Be Joyful. Shannon Lemon will be the soloist with the Chapel Choir, composed of youth.

Dr. Weldon Butler, pastor, has announced as his sermon topic, Jesus Was an Angry Man.

The Foundation of Financial Security

The First National Bank of Hereford Member F.D.I.C.

New Location

Faye Rogers and Irene Boardman inspect items in the new facility for the Good Shepherd Clothes Closet at U.S. 60 and Jowell in the former Hi-Plains Laboratory building. The clothing is now sorted into rooms of children's, women's and men's clothing. The Closet is closed this week and will re-open on Tuesday, Nov. 12 at 9 a.m. Boardman has assumed the duties of Mildred Fuhrman who served for four years.

Lighting fixtures topic of program

Different forms of lighting fixtures used according to a room's individual need and design were discussed as part of the program presented by Rose Marie Robinson when Xi Epsilon Alpha met Tuesday evening in the home of Brenda

Thomas. New member, Cindy Forrest was welcomed to the chapter. Announced was Texas Children's Hospital as the Texas State Service Project. The purchase of needed children's dialysis equipment will be made possible through monetary gifts from Beta Sigma Phi chapters, such as Xi Epsilon Alpha. Thank yous were extended by Robinson, Jody Blackwell, and Oleta Tisdale to their secret sisters for Halloween cards. A special thank you was extended to the social committee by President Margie Waddell for the 50's style Halloween party enjoyed by members at the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame.

The next chapter social will be a Christmas dinner party for couples on Dec. 14 at the Hereford Country Club.

Waddell recalled the highlights of the Area Convention held Oct. 19-20 in Dumas. The next area convention will be held in Wichita Falls with the theme being "School Days."

The next chapter meeting will be Nov. 19 for rituals at the Community Center at 7 p.m.

Hostesses, Tisdale and Brenda Thomas served members. Waddell, Connie Matthews, Peggy Hyer, Susan Shaw, Robinson, Debe Graves, Ronna Howell, Blackwell, Forrest, and Sharon Bodner.

Local foster children topic of discussion

Two foster children from Hereford were discussed when members of the Child Welfare Board met in regular session Wednesday afternoon at the courthouse.

Collin Weaver, child welfare worker, reported that one of the children is from Dumas and one resides at Boys Ranch. The seventh grader at Boys Ranch, she said, was doing very well in his studies and has made a tremendous adjustment to his surroundings and the other child may get to go home soon.

Lavon Nieman read the minutes of the previous meeting which were revised and approved by the board. Also, Earlene Cook, ex-officio, submitted a financial report which was also approved.

Bill Johnson reported that the film training session has not been forgotten and he expressed hope of someone from the Amarillo office to come here to train.

A letter from the Golden Spread Foster Parents Association was read asking for donations from local civic clubs to assist foster children.

A check in the amount of $50.50 has been donated for foster children from the Hereford Lions Club.

Judge Glen Nelson was among board members present. They included Johnson, Bill Dever, Rev. Ron Cook, Charlie Ruiz, Avis White and Nieman.

CHANGE IN THE BANKING WORLD

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The world of banking is changing, according to George J. Benston, a professor in the University of Rochester's Graduate School of Management.

"Nationwide, regionwide, or even statewide, the opening of new bank branches has been restricted by law in the United States for some time," says Benston.

"These restrictions," he says, "are based partly on the belief that large banks located in large cities would dominate smaller and local banks if branching was unrestricted."

"However, there is no evidence to support this belief. In fact, changes in technology and empirical studies show that well-managed small banks can be very successful in marketing financial services."

Essay printed

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This little essay was sent to me in the mail anonymously. Strangely enough, it came at a time when I needed the courage to make a change in my life. It helped me move in the right direction. I pray it does the same for someone else. I hope you think it is worthy of your column.—J.T. FROM GUAM, USA

DEAR USA: I do. Here it is.

THE DILEMMA

To laugh is to risk appearing a fool.

To weep is to risk appearing sentimental.

To reach out for another is to risk involvement.

To expose feelings is to risk rejection.

To place your dreams before the crowd is to risk ridicule.

To love is to risk not being loved in return.

To go forward in the face of overwhelming odds is to risk failure.

But risks must be taken because the greatest hazard in life is to risk nothing. The person who risks nothing does nothing, has nothing, is nothing. He may avoid suffering and sorrow, but he cannot learn, feel, change, grow or love. Chained by his certitudes, he is a slave. He has forfeited his freedom. Only a person who takes risks is free.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When a 50th wedding anniversary is approaching and there is to be a party, who gives it? The parents who are celebrating with family and friends, or their children?

I am a daughter-in-law who believes the anniversary couple should give their own party. My sisters-in-law feel that we are obligated to give this party because the celebrants are our parents.

I have suggested that the children take the anniversary couple to a nice restaurant to celebrate the occasion, but have been informed that the anniversary couple wants a party. I then said they should pay for it themselves.

My husband and I are not as well off financially as the others, but we don't want any hard feelings over this. I'm afraid there might be some. Please advise us.—TROUBLE IN MARINETTE, WIS.

will that could last for years.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I work in a very nice restaurant. Vegetarians often ask for a special menu. When I ask them why they are vegetarians, they politely tell me to mind my own business.

What's the big secret? Please, Ann, help me to understand the answer to this puzzling question.—MEAT-LOVING WAITRESS IN CANADA

DEAR LOVING WAITRESS: People may be vegetarians for a variety of reasons—none of which are any of your business. Your job is to take their orders and not ask personal questions.

Extension club members meet for pot luck luncheon

Draper Extension Club members met Wednesday in the Energas Flame Room for a pot luck luncheon. President Sherri Blackwell called the meeting to order and roll call was answered with "What I would do if I knew I had one week to live." Minutes were read by Brenda Pagett and the group discussed their "little family" and repairing toys for the needy. Also, during the business meeting, new officers were elected for 1986. They included president, Blackwell; vice-president, Carmen Rickman; secretary, Brenda Pagett; treasurer, Johnnie Messer and reporter and council delegate, Tonia Vaughn. Welcomed as visitors were Gail Carter, Cindy Bowers and Louise Walker, county extension agent. Walker gave a program on "Women and Estate Planning."

The next meeting was scheduled at noon Dec. 4 at the home of Johnnie Messer.

PRESERVING FOOD

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — Thousands of years ago, man learned to preserve food through natural fermentation processes. The Egyptians discovered that certain yeasts could leaven bread dough.

Today, using modern biotechnology procedures, scientists have developed yeasts with a great capacity to produce protein. To help meet the demands of many countries unable to supply their own, Provesta Corp. has a proprietary yeast fermentation process that produces high-quality protein.

Called Provesteen, it is used as an animal feed ingredient and eventually may be suitable for the human market.

Six cities make major-league bids today

Expansion meetings continue

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Phoenix is up, New Orleans is on deck and four other designated pitchers are warming up today in major league baseball's biggest game of the week — expansion.

Buffalo, N.Y.; New Jersey, Tampa-St. Petersburg, Fla., and Nashville, Tenn., also are scheduled to make their bids for franchises to baseball's Long Range Planning Committee and Commissioner Peter Ueberroth.

They follow appearances Thursday by groups from Columbus, Ohio; Denver, the Miami area, Washington, D.C.; Vancouver, British Columbia, and Indianapolis.

One thing was as certain today as it was on Thursday — Ueberroth and the committee members were going to listen intently and appreciatively without making anything resembling a commitment.

"We will not be making any announcements or commitments or putting together any kind of timetable in the next couple of days," Ed Duroso, baseball's executive vice president, secretary-treasurer and general counsel, said during a break in Thursday's proceedings.

"We don't want to encourage or discourage anybody at this point. ... It's not our position to be excluding anyone, to be picking and choosing. We're just gathering information, just in a learning stage," Duroso said.

He was the only representative of baseball to appear Thursday. Ueberroth and the committee remained inaccessible.

Duroso indicated that the San Francisco Giants' situation — whether the National League team remains in northern California or moves elsewhere — is likely to be decided before baseball starts awarding new franchises.

"It strikes me that that situation is on a much faster track than the expansion issue," Duroso said. "It's implicit in the discussion of expansion. I don't think it would have to be resolved, but I think events will take that case much further down the track than before expansion is resolved."

He said the San Francisco issue "wasn't discussed at all" during Denver's presentation, even though Denver has been approached by the Giants as a possible relocation site — and even though Denver is not shy about mentioning the interest shown by the team.

Mayor Federico Pena said Denver is trying to lure the Giants away from the Bay Area. "Our position is simply one of an interested party," he said. "The fact that no other city was approached indicates that Denver is the No. 1 city for a team."

Denver, Miami, Vancouver, Indianapolis and Columbus each have a minor-league team. "Obviously we're aware of where National Association (minor league) teams play," Duroso said. "There is a procedure for the acquisition of territory and for compensation to be made. We'll follow those procedures in the event the decision is to move into National Association territory."

Washington, D.C., is in a different situation. It has had — and lost — two major league franchises, most recently after the 1971 season when the Senators moved to Texas.

"The Washington of 1985 is not the same Washington as 1971," said Frank Smith, chairman of the D.C. Baseball Commission. "We've got an expanding economy, 3.4 million people in the area, a metro (transit) system and highway system that's keyed to RFK Stadium and we've got an enlightened city government willing to do things it was not willing to do in 1971."

Part of Vancouver's pitch was B.C.

Place, a 55,000-seat domed stadium, and its possible rivalries with one of Canada's two other major league teams, Montreal and Toronto, and with Seattle, 145 miles to the south. And Joe Robbie, a leader of the Miami-area group, pitched Dolphins Stadium, now being built for his National Football League team.

But William Hudnut of Indianapolis said the Hoosierdome is not part of his city's plans if it wins a franchise. It plans to build a new stadium.

Baylor at Arkansas

SWC leaders play Saturday

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Associated Press Writer

Arkansas head coach Ken Hatfield says he had to cut short his enjoyment of last weekend's 30-15 victory over the Rice Owls to start worrying about the Baylor Bears.

"You should always take time to enjoy the good moments ... but it isn't hard to start thinking about Baylor. They are outstanding," Hatfield said.

Baylor stands alone atop the Southwest Conference football standings with a perfect 5-0 conference record, and the only blemish all year was a narrow 17-14 loss to Georgia early in the season.

But the Bears are three-point underdogs to Arkansas in 2:30 p.m. Saturday's regionally televised game at War Memorial Stadium in Little Rock before an expected capacity crowd of 53,565.

The Razorbacks are 7-1 for the year, with a 15-13 loss to Texas the only setback in five league contests.

Elsewhere around the league, Texas is at Houston in a 12:04 p.m. regionally televised joust, Texas Christian is at Texas Tech at 2 p.m. and Rice is at Southern Methodist at 2 p.m.

Texas was an eight-point choice over Houston, Tech was a 10-point pick over TCU and SMU a 22-point choice over Rice. Texas A&M is idle Saturday.

Baylor is ranked 11th nationally and Arkansas 12th. It's the first time in a series dating back to 1904 that both teams have ever met when both were ranked in the Top 20. Arkansas leads the series 31-30-2.

The Hogs spoiled Baylor's homecoming with a 14-9 victory in Waco last year but the Bears have been tough on Arkansas soil.

Baylor bounced the Hogs 24-21 in Fayetteville in 1983. The Bears also upset an Arkansas team that was ranked fifth in the nation 24-17 in 1982.

In 1981, the last meeting in Little Rock, Arkansas won 41-39 on a field goal with 12 seconds to play.

Baylor linebacker Alan Jamison said of the Hogs: "This is the biggest game of the year. You work all your college career to be in this position — playing in November with a chance at the conference championship."

Tight end Kobe Fornes said, "We've set a goal of reaching the Cotton Bowl. We don't want to depend on anybody else to do it for us. We can't look down the road."

Arkansas players also see the game as a must in their hopes for the league title.

"This game will determine whether or not we have a chance to go to the Cotton Bowl," Arkansas halfback Carl Miller said. "I ran a kickoff back against Baylor two years ago, and nothing would be sweeter than to do it again."

Baylor has a home game against Texas A&M and a road game against Texas remaining on its schedule after the Hogs.

The Razorbacks must still play Texas A&M and Southern Methodist. "Baylor has no weaknesses. They are strong in all areas," Hatfield said. "They have played well at home and on the road against strong teams. They have been the most consistent team in our league."

Both TCU and Texas Tech are winless in SWC games. The Horned Frogs have won only five in 19 tries at Lubbock. The last three meetings between the two teams in Lubbock have ended in ties.

TCU Coach Jim Wacker said the Red Raiders are a tough team despite their record.

"Well, let's see, Tech took Texas A&M to the wire and gave Texas a good test in Austin," Wacker said. "Yeah, maybe they are struggling a little like we have been, but they also have shown plenty of capabilities."

Money prizes announced for Boston Marathon

By PETER BREWER
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — The first money prizes in the long history of the Boston Marathon will bring at least $30,000 each to the winning man and woman, but even the 15th finisher in the Open Division will take home $1,000.

Race officials announced the layout of prizes Thursday, saying the winning man and woman in the Master's Division, for those over age 40, and in the Wheelchair Division will each receive $2,500.

"That's sort of a precedent in our sport" to grant equal prizes for men and women, said four-time Boston winner Bill Rodgers. "I think all athletes are happy to see this kind of prize money."

"We are going to have a very powerful women's field here," he said. "It's very important," added Patti Catalano, who twice has run second among women at Boston. "It's nice to be treated equally. . . . We work just as hard."

She said it will be a big incentive for runners, and the top 15 runners may all finish within two minutes.

As Rams quarterback against Giants

Kemp to replace injured Brock

By The Associated Press
Jeff Kemp didn't think he'd play quarterback for the Los Angeles Rams this season "unless it's a blowout of about 900 points or Dieter gets hurt." Dieter Brock was hurt and Kemp finds himself starting Sunday against the same team that started his downfall last season, the New York Giants.

The Rams, 8-1 and three games in front of San Francisco in the National Football Conference West, face one of their few remaining tests Sunday against the Giants, who are tied with Dallas for the NFC East lead at 6-3.

The Rams will do it without Brock, who underwent minor surgery to remove a kidney stone this week and is being left back home in Anaheim, Calif. He is being replaced by Kemp, who started for the Rams most of last season and was the quarterback in a 16-13 loss to New York in last year's NFC wild-card game.

That's when the Rams went out and lured the 34-year-old Brock down from Canada.

"We feel Jeff will do fine," Rams Coach John Robinson said.

"I don't see much of a difference," Giants Coach Bill Parcells said. "I think Kemp is very capable."

In fact, the game is more likely to be decided on defense, the strong suit for both teams. That's particularly true since Eric Dickerson, Los Angeles' prime running back, may be hobbled by an ankle injury.

The Giants lead the National Football League statistically and are the only team in the league in the top 10 in every offensive and defensive category. The Rams rank sixth in defense, but only the Chicago Bears have given up fewer points than the 127 allowed by Los Angeles, and the Rams' 21 interceptions rank third in the NFL, one behind co-leaders Chicago and Dallas.

In other games Sunday, Atlanta is at Philadelphia, Cleveland is at Cincinnati, Detroit is at Chicago, Green Bay is at Minnesota, Houston is at Buffalo, Indianapolis is at New England, Pittsburgh is at Kansas City, St. Louis is at Tampa Bay, Seattle is at New Orleans, the Los Angeles Raiders visit San Diego, the New York Jets visit Miami and Dallas is at Washington.

San Francisco is at Denver Monday night.

The Jets' game in Miami may be the last stand for the Dolphins, who have lost three of their last four and have plummeted to third place in the American Football Conference East at 5-4 behind the 7-2 Jets and 6-3 New England Patriots. In fact, it was the Jets who started Miami's losing skid with a 23-7 win at the Meadowlands as Freeman McNeil, who leads the NFL in rushing, ran for 173 yards in 28 carries.

"We have to win Sunday, it's as simple as that," said Miami quarterback Dan Marino, who is questionable for Sunday's game with a bruised thigh.

With Nat Moore added to the injured list alongside Mark Duper, who has missed most of the season with a broken leg, the Dolphins lost last Sunday to New England, 17-13. Without Duper to go with Mark Clayton, Marino has just 13 touchdown passes this season compared to 27 at this point a year ago on the way to an NFL-record 48.

The 5-4 49ers have played their best football of the season the past two weeks in their attempt to catch the Rams, or at least qualify for a wild-card playoff berth. But in the Broncos, who share the AFC West lead with the Raiders at 6-3, the 49ers face the same problem they've faced all season — everyone wants to knock off the Super Bowl champs.

By LEWIS WITHAM

Take the weight normally assigned to a thoroughbred, subtract the number of seconds allowed in football prior to the snap, add the yards penalized for clipping, and multiply by the times Don James has taken Washington to the Rose Bowl.

PAYOFF: The answer is also the batting average (minus the decimal) that led the American League in 1979. The batting champ played for the Boston Red Sox. Who is he?

Mavericks fall to Nuggets, 131-99

DENVER (AP) — About the only thing Denver Coach Doug Moe left out when he described the Nuggets' latest National Basketball Association victory was a Tarzan-like ape call from the top row of seats in McNichols Arena.

The Nuggets defeated the Mavericks 131-99 Thursday night to run their season record to 6-0.

"That was an awesome display on our part," Moe said.

"If people want to watch effort, this place should be full," he added. "We had to be the most fun team in the NBA to watch. If people don't want to want to watch this team play, I can't imagine who they would want to watch. These guys are fantastic, the way they hustle."

"I was hoping we would get 80 (points) tonight," Dallas Coach Dick Motta said. "It was a good thing Calvin Natt didn't start or we wouldn't have gotten 80. I felt this game was over in the first half, didn't you?"

Denver collected 30 points from Alex English and used an aggressive defense to dominate Dallas.

Denver is the NBA's only unbeaten team after Houston defeated the Los Angeles Clippers 137-115 Thursday night.

Dallas, meanwhile, fell to 2-4.

Dallas led 21-14 in the early going, but the Mavericks never were in the game after Elston Turner led a Denver comeback, hitting all five of his field goal attempts in a 26-6 Denver run that helped the Nuggets to a 56-39 lead at intermission.

The Mavericks were outscored 42-14 in the third period when the Nuggets ran off 17 straight points and exploded to a 98-53 advantage after three quarters.

English scored 16 of his points in the third quarter and Denver was helped by Fat Lever's 17 points, 18 from Wayne Cooper and 16 from Turner.

Rookie forward Pete Williams, starting in place of the injured Natt, contributed 13 rebounds and eight points in his first starting assignment.

Derek Harper led Dallas with 23 points, 17 in the final quarter.

Williams said, "I felt it went pretty well tonight but I just hope Calvin gets back real soon."

Rockets end Clippers' unbeaten streak 137-115

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — The Los Angeles Clippers came into The Summit expecting to lose their unbeaten status in the National Basketball Association and the Houston Rockets were happy to oblige them.

"It's not so bad when you lose a streak by fighting but when you just give up..." said Clippers Coach Don Chaney, his voice trailing off following the Rockets' 137-115 victory Thursday night.

Ralph Sampson scored 22 points to lead seven Houston players in double figures as the Rockets boosted their record to 5-2 and the Clippers dropped to 5-1.

Chaney said the Clippers' 5-0 record had started to weigh heavily on his team.

"We didn't have that high intensity tonight," Chaney said. "When you're involved in a winning streak, you program yourself to lose."

"You don't know when it's going to happen, but you expect it and it affects your play."

Houston's Lewis Lloyd, who scored 21 points, said the Rockets' performance had more to do with vengeance.

"We had a definite advantage tonight because we wanted to beat them pretty badly after what happened out there," Lloyd said of the Rockets' double overtime loss to the Clippers in Los Angeles.

Guard Mitchell Wiggins concurred.

"We have a better team and we felt we needed to prove it," he said. "They're good, but we felt we were better."

The Rockets bombarded the Clippers, who had to rely on a 35-point performance by Derek Smith. Franklin Edwards added 19 points and Marques Johnson hit 13.

Akeem Oluajuwon scored 19 points for the Rockets and Oluajuwon and Sampson each got 12 rebounds.

After building a 65-45 halftime lead on the shooting of Sampson, Oluajuwon and Lewis Lloyd, the Rockets exploded in the third quarter.

Houston built a 27-point lead at 98-71 with two minutes to play in the third period. Lloyd started the quarter with a 15-foot jumper and a slam dunk following a steal.

Drug testing may be favored by NCAA athletes

STORRS, Conn. (AP) — The chairman of a special NCAA committee on drug policy says he anticipates a majority of athletes will favor a testing program that is expected to gain membership approval in January.

Former National Collegiate Athletic Association President John Toner said Thursday that information gathered by his committee indicates many college athletes only use drugs to achieve parity with other competitors who they believe are using drugs to heighten their ability.

Drug testing would keep abusers from gaining a competitive edge and would eliminate pressure for others to keep up with them, Toner said.

"What we're finding are student-athletes who do not want to give into performance-enhancing drugs to be able to compete," he said, citing similar feedback from Olympic athletes.

Drug testing is being performed independently at 96 of the NCAA's 283 Division I schools and is under consideration at 45 others. Under the program developed by Toner's committee, the NCAA would conduct mandatory tests at selected Division I bowl games and championships beginning next August.

Penalties for athletes who test positive for drugs will range from a warning to the loss of a year's eligibility under the program.

Four generations of first-borns celebrated the 82nd birthday of Clarence Strange, center, recently. Denise Laman of Richardson, Texas, came to Hereford for her grandfather's event with her seven-week-old son, Lawrence Laman. Seated at right is her father Rayburn Strange, also of Hereford.

Local Key Club plans walk-a-thon Saturday

The Hereford Key Club is sponsoring a Walk-a-thon on Saturday which will benefit the American Lung Association of Texas.

During the week club members will be knocking on doors in the community and asking people to sponsor their participation in the event. The boys will be wearing red and white Christmas Seal Volunteer badges.

On Saturday at 1 p.m. club members will converge on the football stadium to fulfill their part of the activity by walking around the track as many times as they can.

Hereford Key Club members are not strangers when it comes to helping the Lung Association. In the past they have assisted with the candy cane tree in Sugarland Mall. The mall project has been discontinued this year.

Mayor Stan Fisher has issued a proclamation designating the week of Nov. 3-9 as International Key Club Week. Faculty advisor from Hereford High School is Gene Brock.

Club members urge the entire community to support the Lung Association as they exercise their bodies and lungs to provide educational opportunities for those with chronic lung disease.

Jewel Smith and Mildred Fuhrmann of Hereford are active supporters of the educational activities of the American Lung Association of Texas.

For more information concerning activities of the Lung Association please call the American Lung Association of Texas toll-free at 1-800-252-LUNG.

Ruland appointed alternate

Karen Ruland was appointed city council alternate when members of Alpha Alpha Preceptor Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority met Tuesday evening in the Energas Flame Room.

With President Jean Holbert presiding, members were reminded that city council will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Bonnie Decker.

Orders were turned in for the cookbooks and catalog sales and members were asked to attend rituals at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 19, in the Community Center.

Members repeated the closing ritual and joined hands for the mitzpha. Hostesses, Alene Tindal and Decker, served refreshments to Mary Anna Laing, Ruland, Nan Gauthreaux, Phillis Neill, Holbert and Lillie Shipman.

Birthday celebration set

Walter R. Galley, a former Hereford resident, will be honored from 2:30-5 p.m. Sunday at the Dawn Community Center.

Friends and family are invited to help celebrate his 80th birthday. Hosting the evening will be his son, Clifford and daughter, Irlene.

Human error caused refinery explosion

MONT BELVIEU, Texas (AP) — As residents in this refinery town struggle to recover from an explosion and fire at the Warren Petroleum Co. gas storage complex, state officials are blaming the blast on human error.

"Early reports show there's no possibility equipment malfunctioned. No indication of leaks in the underground storage caverns. It all worked properly," Texas Railroad Commission spokesman Brian Schaible said Thursday.

Initial evidence showed a hole was dug to a pipe about six feet underground, which was severed. Pneumatic pipecutters were found in the hole.

The only question remaining is whether the two workers who died in Tuesday's blast cut the wrong pipe or whether the pipe had not been flushed out before repairs, Schaible said.

James Howard Hoffman, 30, of Cove, and Richard Vernon Duncan, 25 — both welders for Smalley's Welding Service — were working near the pipeline when it exploded.

Workers late Wednesday cleared out gas left in the plant's pipelines. And on Thursday, a team of investigators sifted through the debris at the Chambers County plant.

Mayor Fred Miller called a special City Council meeting Wednesday night to discuss the blast, one in a series of disasters in recent years to strike the community 30 miles northeast of Houston.

Miller said he wants to revive a campaign he started after a 1980 leak to relocate approximately 420 homes near the gas storage complex.

In 1980, about 820 million cubic feet of gases leaked, forcing the evacuation of more than 70 families, some for as long as six months. The leak was discovered when a dishwasher ignited gas inside a home.

The mayor said his plan would call for industry to buy out the land. The relocation could cost $30 million or more, he said.

"Our attorneys have advised me that's all I can say at this point," he said Wednesday, adding that more would be said at a meeting next Tuesday.

Gov. Mark White said Thursday the state has no authority to buy the homes.

"I am going to be working with the mayor and city council — and have set up a meeting for them to come up and visit about some of the problems that seem to be recurring there," White said Thursday.

Mont Belvieu is perched atop a geological formation called a salt dome, which is ideal for underground storage of volatile hydrocarbons. A network of pipelines are buried beneath the town.

In 1846, the Yorkshire sailed the 3,150 miles from Liverpool to New York in a record 16 days.
