

State government spending rose 20 percent in April

AUSTIN (AP) — State government spending rose nearly 20 percent during April, despite an order from Gov. Mark White telling agencies to cut their budgets, Comptroller Bob Bullock says.

In a report issued Wednesday, Bullock said spending from all funds during April ran 19.9 percent above the average for the first six months of the budget year, the comptroller's report said.

Spending from the general revenue fund — the target of White's 13 percent reduction order in February — ran 24.6 percent above the previous six-month average.

Most major state taxes are deposited in the general revenue fund. The all-fund spending total includes money from school and road funds.

"Compared to the average monthly state spending from September through February, state expenses did not shrink in April," Bullock said.

April spending from all funds totaled $1.568 billion, some $260.5 million above the monthly average for the first six months of the budget year that began Sept. 1, Bullock said.

General revenue spending was $550.7 million, $96.7 million above the first six-months average.

Bill Hamilton, White's budget director, said the increase is due in part to obligations made by state agencies before the governor's spending cut order took effect March 1.

He also said that April spending for nursing home and Medicaid payments were triple past months. Had those remained the same, he said, spending would have dropped 2 percent.

"It's still fairly early in the (budget cutting) process. Our calculation of 13 percent was on the full, two-year budget. It's hard to make a generalization based on a one-month snapshot," Hamilton said.

Hamilton said the governor's office expects the spending cuts to begin taking effect by early to mid-summer.

Bullock's office released a similar report on March spending — the first affected by White's reduction order — which showed all-funds spending up 15 percent, while the general revenue fund spending was up 13.2 percent.

White issued his executive order in mid-February, when plunging oil prices led Bullock to forecast that the state would fall $1.3 billion short of the $37.2 billion lawmakers had budgeted for the 1986 and 1987 budget years.

In the order, White asked all state agencies to reduce expenses by 13 percent for the remaining 18 months of the two-year budget. Under the Texas Constitution, the governor lacks the power to order such reductions.

Although the more than 200 state agencies responded with plans requested by White, the total spending they said they could cut reached just over $600 million, half the $1.3 billion goal.

Bullock said that in the all-funds category, most of the increases were due to payments to local school

Brooks guilty on charge

By SHAWN COCKRUM
Staff Writer

Alan Everette Brooks, 32, was found guilty Wednesday of delivery of marijuana. Brooks was arrested in a county-wide drug bust Jan. 22 led by undercover officer Raul Sanchez.

The punishment phase of the trial was due to begin today before Judge David Wesley Gulley in the 22nd State District Courtroom.

According to District Attorney Roland Saul, the state will attempt to hang a habitual criminal tag on Brooks, who previously has been convicted three times. The sentence for a habitual criminal is 25 to 99 years, or life.

Brooks plead not guilty to the charge of delivery of under four ounces, but more than a quarter of an ounce, of marijuana.

During Saul's opening statement, he said Brooks went to a room in which officer Sanchez was living, and asked him if he wanted to buy the marijuana. Sanchez paid $40 for two bags, and turned them over to Hereford Police Officer David Wagner, who then turned them over to the Texas Department of Public Safety crime lab in Amarillo. Chemist Jim Stewart examined the substance and found it to be marijuana. The contents of the bags weighed 8.9 grams.

During Sanchez' testimony, he told the seven-woman and five-man jury that he had met Brooks in June of 1985. Sanchez stated that on Aug. 6 he received a phone call from a friend asking him if he wanted to buy any marijuana. Sanchez said that his inspection sticker on his car was expired, so he could not go anywhere. Sanchez testified that a few minutes later, Brooks knocked on his door.

"He came in and wanted to sell me two bags for $25 each. I talked him down to $20 each and he agreed. He stayed around for a few minutes and left," said Sanchez. "I marked the evidence then called Wagner and told him about the transaction."

As Sanchez left the witness stand, Mrs. Matild Garcia, a bystander in the courtroom, began shouting at Sanchez in Spanish. Judge Gulley then halted the proceedings, had Mrs. Garcia brought to the front of the courtroom, declared her guilty of contempt of court and sentenced her to spend the night in jail.

Mrs. Garcia left the courtroom without incident.

Officer Wagner then testified that

Sanchez did call him on Aug 6 to tell him about the buy. "We said we would meet the next day to turn over the evidence," said Wagner.

Defense Attorney Tom Priolo of Amarillo called two witnesses on behalf of Brooks, but the testimony of one of the witnesses was dismissed because it was found to be irrelevant to his case.

The other witness, Juan Balderez, testified that he had bought marijuana from Sanchez on five occasions. Balderez said he had met Sanchez in the labor camp and Sanchez asked him if he was selling, Balderez testified that he did not sell, but he would buy. "Everytime I would run out I would go to his room and buy a $10 bag," Balderez said.

Sanchez later said that the first time he saw Balderez was when he was approached by him asking Sanchez if he would be interested in buying a quarter of a pound of marijuana. Balderez also was arrested for delivery of marijuana, and is awaiting trial.

Following the closing arguments, the jury deliberated for almost three hours before reaching its guilty verdict.

Housing industry declares 'meltdown'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Business forces, led by the disgruntled housing industry, are branding as unfair the Senate's newly minted tax overhaul plan, while consumer groups applaud its loophole-closing features.

"This is a tax meltdown as far as housing is concerned," Kent Colton of the National Association of Home Builders said Wednesday as economic interest groups reacted to the Senate Finance Committee's handwork.

The measure, approved 20-0 by the panel in the small hours Wednesday, would cut tax rates and raise the personal exemption. To offset the revenue loss, it would abolish numerous benefits for businesses and individuals.

The investment tax credit and preference for long-term capital gains would be wiped out, among

Winning slogans announced at Fun Breakfast

The musical "stump the band with Charlie and Jan" game, a spelling contest and an exclusive interview with the fictitious lone survivor of the Battle of San Jacinto entertained at today's Chamber of Commerce Fun Breakfast.

Two winning slogan contest entries will be incorporated into one for the Chamber, it was announced. Tied for the prize were Justin McNeely with "Hospitable, Hustlin' Hereford... We grow the best," and Rhonda Nieman with Hospitable Hustlin' Hereford ... on the grow."

Honorable mentions went to two Hereford High students, Raymond Romo and Juan Rodriguez. Emcee Charlie Bell, on clarinet, and pianist Jan Walser challenged the audience to stump them with songs pertaining to Texas.

Bell and John Stagner interviewed "Coonskin Langley" who allegedly was in Hereford to look for a woman he saw roughly 150 years ago. He claimed to be a distant relative of local attorney Ernest Langley.

Thirty-two persons were able to participate in a spelling game to see which of two teams could arrange placards the quickest to spell "sesquicentennial."

Hereford State Bank sponsored the breakfast.

Announcements included: Community Concert Association tickets are on sale at the Chamber office through May 17. Four concerts are on the season tickets, which are $40 for families and $15 for singles.

Father Charles Threewit presented the Crimestoppers' auto trashbags.

Pilot Club is sponsoring a stack supper Friday at the Hereford High cafeteria from 5-8 p.m. Tickets are $4.

The Chamber Singers, who performed songs of Texas at the breakfast, will have a concert May 18 at 3 p.m. in the HHS auditorium.

Memorial poppies will be on sale soon, according to Pet Ott of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Susan Marnell and Jerry Brock announced new programs at the Hereford YMCA.

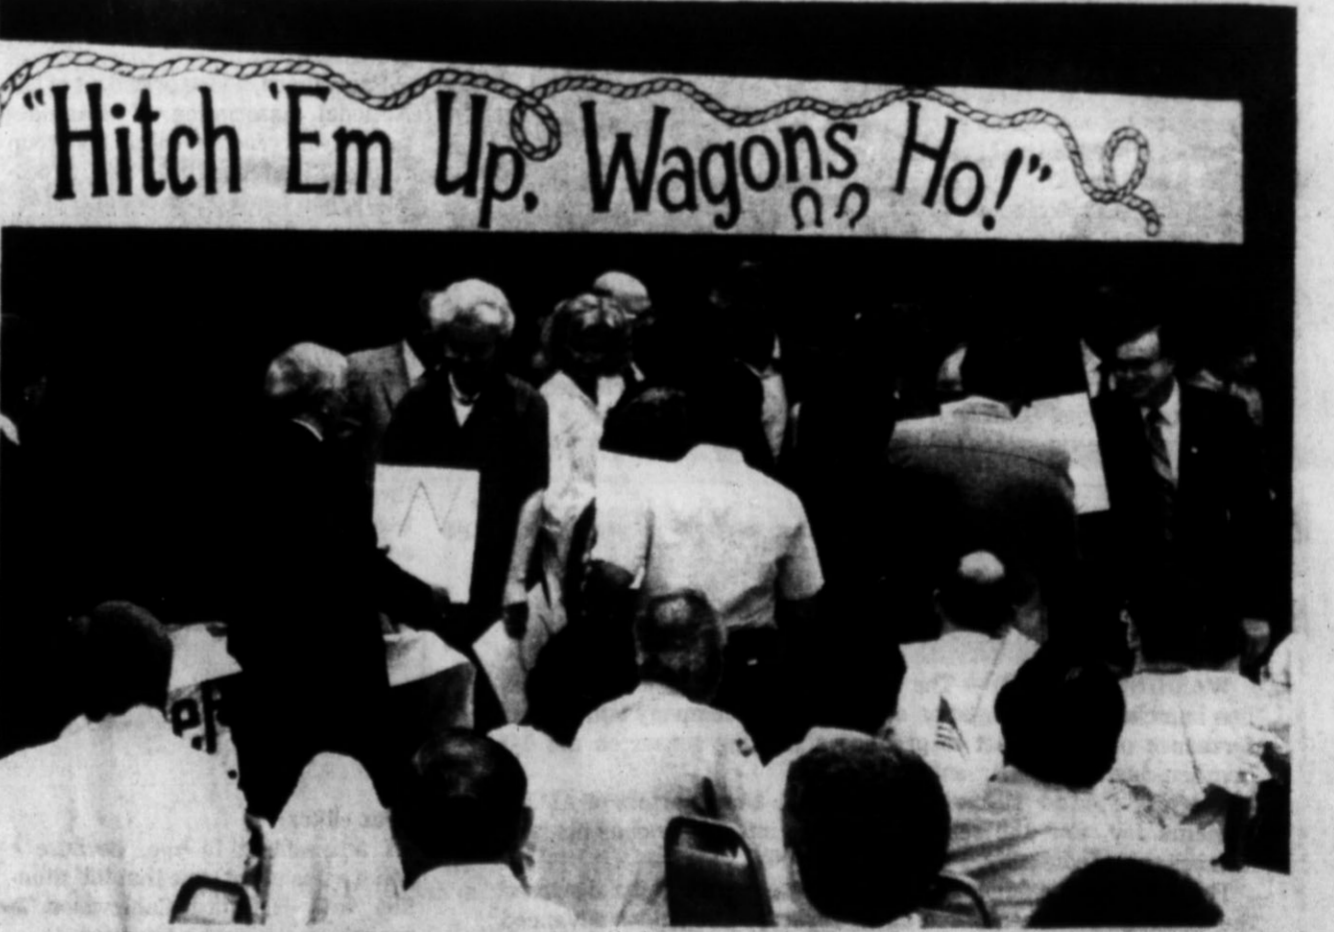

Argen Draper and Garth Thomas reviewed the plans for the Texas Wagon Train which will be in Hereford next Thursday. The Sesquicentennial Committee will serve the wagon train members, and concessions will be open for visitors.

The train is expected in town early that afternoon. An evening of entertainment for the public is scheduled in the Bull Barn.

Hereford on strike route

Local employees of Santa Fe Railroad have been non-violently striking for the past week.

Santa Fe workers between the Amarillo to Clovis route, including Hereford and Friona, are striking because of a violation of the Railway Labor Act and a signed agreement to operate a train with union personnel only in charge.

A new train, the Roadrailer, was run with supervisory personnel only in charge. That action initiated the strike.

Today, the Joint Conference of Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the United Transportation Union are negotiating with Santa Fe officials in Chicago.

Also, two derailments in the past three days — near Abernathy and Tulla — have prompted Santa Fe officials to ask the FBI to investigate.

Sheriff's department arrests one

The Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department arrested one individual Wednesday on charges of driving while intoxicated. Deputies also heard reports of a criminal mischief, a suspicious vehicle, bike theft and the theft of a wallet with $420 in it.

One juvenile arrested

The Hereford Police Department had a slow night Wednesday. One juvenile was arrested for criminal mischief and patrolment heard reports of harassment, a fight and a disturbance between neighbors.

Packed trains leaving Kiev

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet bloc news agency reported today that a third person has died as a result of the Chernobyl nuclear disaster. The report came as a Soviet newspaper said thousands of workers were struggling to contain radioactivity at the devastated plant.

The official Yugoslavian news agency Tanjug said a Soviet citizen died this morning in a Kiev hospital. Soviet officials have maintained two people died and 294 were injured in the April 26 explosion, fire and res-tor core meltdown at the Ukrainian plant.

Trains arriving in Moscow today from Kiev, 80 miles south of the Chernobyl plant, were crowded with passengers. Some of those arriving said a recommendation had been made that families with children leave the city of 2.4 million. However, there were other indications trains were crowded because Friday is a holiday marking the defeat of Nazi Germany.

The Tanjug report, datelined

Moscow, said 200 people have been transported to Moscow hospitals for treatment. It said six patients were in critical condition and had received transplants of bone marrow donated by their parents.

Several foreign doctors are in Moscow to perform bone-marrow transplants. Such transplants are considered the only effective treatment for severe radiation exposure.

In an interview published today in the Communist Party newspaper Pravda, top Soviet physicist Yevgeny Velikhov discussed conditions at the Chernobyl plant.

"The unusual situation calls for the solution of problems with which neither scientists, nor specialists had ever dealt before," he said.

Pravda said: "Unfortunately, the struggle with it (the radioactivity) is not over. And thousands of people are conducting it with even more fury than before."

Five indicted in ammunition smuggle

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted five people on charges they attempted to smuggle more than 5,000 rounds of assorted ammunition into Mexico.

Indicted Tuesday were Jose Luis Medina-Ochoa, Ricardo Godinez-Reyes, Salvador Morfin-Torrez, Graciela Morfin and Pablo Mendoza Chavez, all of Baytown.

The indictment, which called the ammunition "implements of war", alleges Salvador and Graciela Morfin purchased about 11,000 rounds of assorted ammunition from a Baytown store in March.

Salvador Morfin, Godinez, Medina and Mendoza on March 14 built a secret compartment behind the front bumper of a 1976 Volkswagen van and later placed some of the ammunition in the compartment, the indictment alleges.

On April 16, three of the men and Graciela Morfin attempted to drive the van across the international bridge in Hidalgo, the indictment said.

Government prosecutors allege that 3,700 rounds and another 4,150 rounds of ammunition were found in two other vans at Salvador Morfin's residence.

Graciela Morfin has been released on bond while Salvador Morfin, Medina and Godinez remain in jail. Mendoza has not been arrested.

Tornado causes power outage

CANADIAN, Texas (AP) — One person was injured and more than 3,500 were left temporarily without power after a thunderstorm brought a tornado and golf-ball size hail to this Panhandle town.

Hail struck Russell Dobbins, 17, on the top of his head as he helped an elderly woman to a storm shelter Wednesday evening, said Conrad Cooper, a friend of Dobbins'.

"He sort of staggered a bit and made it inside ... and blood was running down the side of his head," said Cooper, a journalism student at Canadian High School.

Dobbins was treated at Hemphill Hospital and released. The tornado downed a power line between Canadian and Miami, said Ken Vaughn, a spokesman for Southwestern Public Service in Amarillo. Technicians rerouted power through nearby lines and restored service about 15 minutes later, he said.

No other injuries were reported in the storm during which four funnel clouds were spotted between 5 and 6:30 p.m., Hemphill County Sheriff's Department officials said.

"The tornado hit and traveled west of here about two blocks west of Main Street," said Cooper. "It was narrow and tall and ran north on through the Canadian River until it got thinner and thinner and finally disappeared."

Hospital asks for Texas trial site

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — Wichita General Hospital will ask for a Texas trial site in a $21 million suit filed by a Missouri man who had to undergo a second transplant because he received a heart of the wrong blood type, hospital officials said.

"We will vigorously defend this case to try to prevent a result that would discourage other hospitals from assuming the risk of participation in the transplant program," the hospital said in a statement.

Robert Ottinger received the wrong heart from the Wichita Falls hospital March 21 at St. Louis' Barnes Hospital. Ottinger has Type A blood, but the heart was from a Wichita Falls donor with Type B blood.

A week after the transplant, Ottinger's body began to reject the heart, and he underwent the second transplant operation.

Wichita General Hospital was served Tuesday with the suit, which was filed Friday in U.S. District Court in St. Louis by Robert and Rose Ottinger.

Adult magazine ban supported

DALLAS (AP) — The public response to Southland Corp.'s decision last month to stop selling adult magazines in its 7-Eleven convenience stores has been almost all favorable, an executive said following Southland's annual meeting.

Allen Liles, vice president for public relations, said Wednesday there have been 15,000 letters and telephone calls in response to plans to drop Penthouse, Playboy and Forum magazines, and "92 percent have been favorable, which we've been very happy with."

One man who liked Southland's decision felt compelled to tell company officials at the annual shareholders meeting Wednesday.

Louis Benno, a Dallas stockholder, said, "I want to thank the officers for their stand on pornography. It must be working because Playboy closed three of their Bunny clubs."

He asked the other shareholders to applaud, and there was sparse hand-clapping.

Southland Chairman John Thompson merely thanked him for his comments and didn't discuss the matter further.

But after the meeting, Liles said a new customer survey showing declining support for the sale of adult magazines contributed to Southland's decision to stop selling the magazines in its 4,500 company-operated stores once the May issues are cleared off 7-Eleven shelves. Southland also is recommending its more than 3,000 franchise-run stores follow suit.

B-1 bomber maker investigated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. attorney's office in Los Angeles has launched an investigation of a California company and its performance on a contract to produce a braking sensor on the B-1 bomber, Justice Department sources said.

The probe led to an April 24 raid on the headquarters of AMEX Systems Inc. and the seizure of many internal documents, the sources said Wednesday.

The sources, speaking only on condition of anonymity, disclosed the investigation when asked about separate allegations advanced by Edward F. Wilson, a computer software quality-assurance engineer who was fired by AMEX last July.

A Senate subcommittee, the Pentagon's inspector general and a federal prosecutor in California have been provided documents by Wilson that he claims prove AMEX has not been performing required quality-control checks on computer programs for several Pentagon and Federal Aviation Administration programs.

AMEX is a small Hawthorne, Calif., company that was acquired in 1984 by the Allied-Signal Corp.'s Bendix Aerospace Sector.

Wilson has filed suit in Los Angeles Superior Court, alleging he was fired after complaining that plans he drafted for quality-control checks on computer programs were ignored by the company, and federal contract agents misled about the status of such testing.

The government programs involved in Wilson's allegations include a new computer memory system for Air Force fighters and the B-1 bomber; a program needed to operate data links between Navy satellites and ships; computer software for a new Army radar system; and software for a new radar system being developed by the FAA to detect dangerous wind-shear weather conditions.

LONDON (AP) — Yetis, yuppies, yabbas and wimmin, spiel, uppity, touchdown and tandoori — they're all in the fourth and final supplement of the Oxford English Dictionary published today, marking the end of a 29-year, 60,000-word effort to bring the English language up to date.

"To finish is both a relief and a release from a kind of extraordinarily pleasant prison," said editor Robert Burchfield.

A Supplement to the Oxford English Dictionary, Volume IV, Set to Z, contains 1,480 pages, weighs around 14 pounds, is nearly four inches thick, and costs 90 pounds — $137.70.

It defines about 13,500 words illustrated by 130,000 quotations from printed sources, and starts with the word Se, an ancient Chinese plucked musical instrument with 25 strings. The last word is Zyrian, a tribe in the northern central area of the Soviet Union.

The Times of London hailed it as "the greatest English book this century... the crown of a work started in 1858, the last word for the present on the Queen's English, dedicated with permission to the Queen, the record of our language and... our life."

But Burchfield says it is America, not England that is most influencing the evolution of the English language.

"Our language is changing slowly and America is leading the way now, not Britain. I don't see anything particularly wrong with that. It's inevitable," he said.

The Oxford English Dictionary, published by the Oxford University Press, initially was conceived as a 12-volume work and took 70 years to complete with the final volume published in 1928.

A supplementary 13th volume was added in 1933. But under the impetus of World War II and post-war developments, new words and usages emerged at an unprecedented rate.

So in 1957, Burchfield, a New Zealand-born lexicographer now 63, undertook the task of editing four more supplements with definitions and derivations of about 60,000 words.

"Sometimes I wondered if I would ever complete the task," Burchfield said.

Everyday words like soap-opera, tango and Y-fronts, for men's underpants, are recorded for the first time, as are yetis, the so-called abominable snowmen said to live in the Himalayas; yuppies, the young, urban professionals; and wimmin, a term used by feminist militants to underline their separateness from men.

Yabba is a Jamaican cooking vessel used by West Indian immigrants in Britain; tandoori, a spicy cooked meat dish brought by immigrants from India.

Spiel is what salesmen give when trying to sell something, uppity is a colloquial usage meaning arrogant, and touchdown is what planes and space shuttles make when they land.

Burchfield says he now plans a new venture — a book on English grammar.

Little new info in Lucas report

AUSTIN (AP) — Law enforcement officials say they see little new information in a report from Attorney General Jim Mattox on numerous bogus confessions given by lawmen by convicted killer Henry Lee Lucas.

Mattox on Wednesday released results of a year-long investigation, concluding that because law officers accepted dozens of phony confessions, cases wrongly have been closed and murderers remain free.

"There are murderers walking the streets today where evidence is getting much colder as a result of the unprofessional handling of the Lucas matter," Mattox said.

"Lucas was able to perpetrate a hoax on the criminal justice system. There were a very large number of the murders that were attributed to him — and that he confessed to — that he could not have committed," Mattox said.

He said that except for three cases, "there is a notable lack of physical evidence" to back up Lucas' confessions.

Lucas, a one-eyed drifter now on Texas' Death Row, once had confessed to more than 360 slayings. He since has recanted all but three, saying his repeated confessions were made to prove law enforcement inept.

"We have found information that would lead us to believe that some officials 'cleared cases' just to get them off the books," Mattox said.

However, he said, "We have found no evidence to prove that any members of law enforcement in Texas deliberately tried to bring about this scheme of deception."

Col. Jim Adams, head of the Department of Public Safety, said he knows of no case where murderers are free only because of a Lucas confession.

"There's no basis to any statement that killers are still running free because Lucas claimed he murdered someone. The killers are running free — if any are — because there has never been any evidence pointing to them or it has not been sufficient to bring charges," Adams said.

Adams said authorities were aware that Lucas lied when making some confessions and that proper precautions were taken. He noted that Lucas has been convicted in several cases and said Lucas remains a legitimate prime suspect in more than two dozen killings.

"Lucas has been convicted in 10 cases, receiving one death sentence, six life sentences, two 75-year sentences and one 60-year sentence, and there are prosecutions pending in 26 cases," Adams said.

"Little effort appears to have been made to explore and report on those many cases where the investigative agency involved still believes Lucas to be a prime suspect," he said.

Adams said the Texas Rangers assigned to the special Lucas task force repeatedly informed other officers that Lucas would lie.

"In my opinion, the task force, recognizing he was making some false confessions, did do something about it. They tried to make sure the police agencies involved were aware of it," Adams said.

Ed Walsh, the former Williamson County district attorney now seeking the Republican nomination to run against Mattox, attended Mattox's news conference. He challenged the Democratic attorney general's assessment.

As a prosecutor, Walsh obtained the only death sentence given to Lucas, in the 1979 slaying of an unidentified female hitchhiker near Georgetown.

Calling Mattox's news conference "a circus," Walsh said that if Mattox truly was concerned about certain cases, he should have dealt with prosecutors and law officers, not summoned the news media.

"Jim Mattox has given law enforcement a black eye and attacked the criminal justice system. He has indicted the law enforcement system of Texas as being a bunch of bunglers. We have an attorney general who does not want to play by the rules," Walsh said.

Mattox said it is impossible to know how many killings Lucas committed. But he said many cases should be reopened.

"I urge any jurisdiction with a case in which Henry Lee Lucas is a suspect to polygraph Lucas or conduct a sodium pentothal examination and to very carefully scrutinize his confession," Mattox said.

Bergland defends REA

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former secretary of agriculture says a recent study released by the Rural Electrification Administration showing that most of its low-interest loans have gone to finance projects in non-rural areas was "a cheap shot in the administration's war against the rural electric program."

Bob Bergland, executive vice president of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, told nearly 2,000 rural electric leaders from 25 states Monday that the study is an "attempt to twist facts to rationalize the abolition of REA."

Since it was established in the 1930s, the REA, an agency of the Agriculture Department, has lent billions of dollars to electrify the nation's sparsely populated countryside. The report, released in March by the agency, said that today more than 80 percent of REA's low-interest loans "are financing high and medium density projects in the suburbs of major metropolitan areas, particularly in the Sun Belt, the Gulf Coast and Mid-Atlantic states."

Bergland, who was secretary of agriculture in the Carter administration, said the study leaves the impression that the majority of rural electric systems have many more consumers per mile of line than they actually do, supporting administration proposals to phase out REA.

The release of the study, he said, is a tactic designed to stir controversy among rural electric systems, to divide and conquer.

Bergland said the White House last year agreed with the Senate GOP leadership and his association to a plan for reducing REA loan levels for electric systems.

other measures. Some special benefits for Individual Retirement Accounts would be repealed. State sales taxes, consumer interest and union dues no longer would be deductible.

"Getting rid of business loopholes is worth the average consumer having to pay a mild price in terms of his own benefits," said Gene Kimmelman of the Consumer Federation of America. He called it "a major step toward cleaning up the tax code."

"The fact that the bill removes so many loopholes that wealthier taxpayers take advantage of means that people will be paying their fair share," said attorney Joe Goffman of consumer advocate Ralph Nader's group Public Citizen. He said that would iron out market distortions and thus aid consumers.

Business was not unified in condemning the plan. The National Federation of Independent Businessmen issued a statement applauding it.

Paul Huard, a vice president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said reaction within his group ranged "from delight to agony, probably more agony than delight."

Repeat of the investment tax credit would be especially tough on durable goods makers, he said. But he said the measure, which would lower rates for millions of Americans, was bound to create "a lot of consumer buying power out there."

For the housing industry, however, there was universal agreement that the bill's new restrictions on deductions were guaranteed to cause severe headaches. The National Association of Home Builders said the measure would cost 377,000 construction and related jobs with a $6.9 billion annual payroll.

The group said the bill would wipe out 400,000 housing starts in 1987 and slash the value of existing rental property "as much as 20 percent."

Anatoly Romanenko, told the official Soviet news agency Tass that radiation has increased in recent days in the vicinity of Kiev because of wind shifts.

Romanenko said Wednesday that some Ukrainians had been hospitalized for poisoning after they panicked and took what they thought would be remedies against radiation.

Trains arriving in Moscow from Kiev this morning were packed.

One passenger with two young children said a recommendation had been made that families with children leave Kiev, but she hurried off without elaborating.

Other mothers arriving with their sons or daughters said they had not been told to evacuate, but some passengers said many Kievans were trying to get out. One man arriving in Moscow said he had worked at the Chernobyl site since 1975.

Asked if the fire at reactor No. 4 was out, he said, "There is nothing terrible happening there now." He said he had been given indefinite leave after helping cope with the accident's aftermath.

Canadian diplomat Hector Cowan, who had been in Kiev since last week to maintain contacts with Canadian students, said he detected no panic there. However, he said Kievans seemed glad to be leaving any danger of radiation, and that the railway station there was crowded.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

I am writing to you, because I believe it is about time that the situation with Hereford Cablevision is brought to the public attention.

I don't know how many people in Hereford subscribe to cinemax, but I do know that they expect to receive a state of the art picture on this channel. I don't think they enjoy watching a John Wayne movie, and just as the climax is upon them, hearing him say "904 will be out east for coffee." somehow I don't think Mr. Wayne would say something like this during an Indian battle. I also don't think that one of our deputies wants everyone in town to know he has just gone to coffee.

I have made several attempts to contact Mr. Arnes of the local cable company in the past year, both by phone, and in person, to no avail. I don't know about the rest of the people who subscribe to cinemax, but I enjoy the movies. I have a scanner for the police calls. I do not like having the mixed together. I don't like having my picture scrambled every time the sheriffs office uses their radio.

I don't recall exactly when Cinemax came to Hereford, but I do know this problem has been with us since the beginning. I do recall that there was an article in the Hereford Brand at that time when Mr. Arnes told the city commission that the problem would be quickly solved.

I think three or four years is long enough to find a solution for the situation.

Thank you for allowing me this space to air my grievances.

Sincerely,
Jerry Johnson

Ann Landers Fraternity hazing

DEAR READERS: Several weeks ago I printed a letter from "Anonymous in N.Y." about the dangers of fraternity hazing. I was horrified to learn that in the last six years more than 26 young men have been killed as a result of "pranks" by fun-loving college kids.

As a result of that column I have received thousands of letters from individuals whose lives have been shattered because of college hazing. I am now, more than ever, convinced that we need legislation in every state in the union to outlaw this barbaric and mindless ritual. Here is one woman's story. Her name is Eileen Stevens and she has decided to do something about it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My son, Chuck Stenzel, decided on Feb. 24, 1978, to pledge Klan Alpine. It is Alfred University's oldest fraternity.

Chuck was taken by surprise from his dorm, put into the trunk of a car with two other pledges. Each was given a pint of bourbon, a bottle of wine and a 6-pack of beer. They were told they would not be released from the trunk until they had consumed all of it. It was February in upstate New York in freezing temperatures with snow and ice on the ground. The boys in the trunk had no jackets or coats. Forty minutes later Chuck and the others were carried to their rooms in the fraternity house. When it became apparent that the boys were unconscious they were rushed to the hospital. One had gone into cardiac arrest, another was in an alcoholic coma and Chuck was dead.

I buried my beautiful sophomore son three days later, with all his hopes and dreams for a promising future. The other two boys survived and joined Klan Alpine. Alfred University and the district attorney treated the tragedy as an "isolated accident." Everyone was sorry but no one was held responsible.

There is a rigid code of secrecy surrounding hazing practices. Members take oaths of silence. Peer pressure is so great that seriously injured pledges remain loyal to their vows of secrecy. Meanwhile this life-threatening practice persists with all its talk of brotherhood and tradition.

I have carried my message to hundreds of colleges across the country and testified at dozens of legislative hearings, hoping to get anti-hazing laws passed. Nineteen states have now enacted laws against hazing and seven additional states are considering action.

Meanwhile, on many campuses, hazing is going full steam ahead in spite of alcohol poisoning, paralysis, brain damage, blindness and emotional breakdowns.

Until college and university officials stop turning a deaf ear, until prosecutors enforce existing laws, until fraternities eliminate hazing in every form, and until students say NO to the brutality and have the fortitude to report it to the authorities, we are going to continue to bury beautiful young college students because of the sadistic rituals practiced in the name of brotherhood.—EILEEN STEVENS

DEAR EILEEN: Thanks for sharing your story. And now, anyone interested in joining this courageous woman's crusade should write to "C.H.U.C.K.," Committee Halting Useless College Killings, P.O. Box 188, Sayville, N.Y. 11782. (P.S. Eileen, dear, I hope you're swamped with mail.)

DR. GOTT Sleepiness and diabetes

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 81, a diabetic and get about six hours of sleep a night. I find myself falling asleep quite frequently while reading a newspaper or looking at TV. Is this normal for a man my age?

DEAR READER — To an extent, yes. However, I'm concerned that any treatment you may be getting could be adding to the problem. For example, periods of low blood sugar — caused by insulin shots or diabetes drugs — will often promote sleepiness. I think you probably need to have the status of your diabetes investigated and should try to get eight hours of sleep at night.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My father was a clean person, brushed his teeth, used mints, gargled, and still had the worst breath in the world. Once he started to brush his tongue, he had no more bad breath. Maybe this idea will help some of your readers.

DEAR READER — OK. I can't see that it could do any harm.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am male, 67, and have a full head of nice thick hair. During the last few years, I've lost almost all my underarm and pubic hair. My voice is deeper, too. What's going on?

DEAR READER — You are getting older. Loss of axillary (underarm) and pubic hair are common consequences of aging. (Hooray for the hair on your head!) Aging also causes relaxation of muscles and ligaments in the larynx, resulting in a lower voice for many men. In your 80s and 90s, your voice may tend to become weaker and more high-pitched. That, too, comes with age.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Our daughter, 41, has had a constant brownish discharge from both nipples for about two years. She's had two breast exams and mammograms. Both found nothing wrong. Aren't there additional tests to find out what is causing this?

DEAR READER — Yes. She should probably have her hormone levels checked. The type of discharge you describe is not ordinarily normal. I think she should see an endocrinologist — a medical doctor who specializes in glandular dysfunction.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My problem is that I feel faint and dizzy all the time. Sometime I wake up with the room spinning. All tests have come back negative. I've been to eye doctors, ear doctors, internal-medicine specialists and neurosurgeons. The only thing that shows up is a prolapsed valve. I'm 34. Where do I go from here?

DEAR READER — Patients who have mitral prolapse often suffer from cardiac irregularities that can cause faintness and lightheadedness. Go to a cardiologist, who will probably order a portable 24-hour electrocardiogram (Holter monitor) to investigate your pulse rate during the times you have symptoms. If a heart irregularity can be documented, the problem can be successfully treated.

DEAR DR. GOTT — When something serious happens, my vocal muscles just don't seem to cooperate and I can't scream. Often, at stressful times, it is impossible for me to even whisper or swallow an aspirin. Why does this happen and what can be done about it?

DEAR READER — You appear to have a type of panic reaction that jams the neurological circuits to the muscles of your neck. A milder and more common form of this reaction can cause the familiar lump-in-the-throat feeling. Counseling can help you to reduce your anxiety, as can the judicious use of anti-anxiety medications prescribed under a doctor's supervision.

Mothers honored at Rebekah lodge meeting

Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 228 honored mothers with a salad supper Tuesday evening with family members joining in the festivities.

Noble Grand Kee Ruland presided at the regular business meeting which included reports of 11 visits to the sick and 18 cheer cards.

Donations were voted for World Eye Bank and Visual Research which is sponsored by Independent Order of Odd Fellows of the World. May has been designated as Visual Research Month by Sovereign Grand Master George Shaw.

Gifts were also sent to high school graduates Mike Fitzhugh and Alma Bradshaw, residents of I.O.O.F. Childrens Home in Corsicana, Texas. District Deputy President Fern Davis of Muleshoe Rebekah Lodge No. 114 was introduced and her commission from Rebekah Assembly of Texas President Ruby Johnson. She gave an informative school of instructions stressing kindness to others as her theme.

Members present included Ruland, Davis Susie Curtsinger, Fred Ruland, Bessie Lawrence, Guy Lawrence, Peggy Lemons, Jo Irbeck, Anthony Irbeck, Karrol Rettman, Ben Conklin, Faye Brownlow, Lydia Hopson, Verna Sowell, Ursalee Jacobsen, Helen Bishop, Gene Bishop, Glessie Shelton, Wallace Shelton, Dorothy Lundry and Ada Hollabaugh.

Sandra Robinson and Pat Longfitt were visitors from Muleshoe Rebekah Lodge No. 114. Also, Mr. and Mrs. Forest Ricketts were supper guests of her mother, Bessie Lawrence.

Officers installed during final meeting

The home of Mrs. Dean Herring was the setting for a Something Special luncheon and meeting of Dawn Music Club Tuesday.

President Mrs. Jerry Parker presided at the final business meeting of the season and installed new club officers.

Mrs. Orval Galley will serve as president; Mrs. Alfred Smith, vice-president; Mrs. R.E. Curtsinger, secretary; Mrs. Carl Wimberley, treasurer; Mrs. Edgar Sowell, historian; Mrs. J.B. Caraway, choral director; and Parker, parliamentarian.

The program opened with a musical history of Australia by Parker and the rendition of "Waltzing Matilda", "God Save the Queen" and "Advance Australia Fair", the national anthem of South Australia.

Mrs. John Stribling gave a historical revue of Ella Hudson Day, Texas musician and composer of Texas songs. "Texas, Pride of the South" and "Tejas" were sung by Parker accompanied by Stribling.

"History of GLEN" was given by Smith and "Prayer" was a piano solo by Galley.

Mrs. H.V. McCabe gave a history of the "Bob Wills" era in Texas and Curtsinger shared the contents of a letter from Nancy Mattinson, a music teacher in Bordertown, South Australia, and also sang "King Billy's Song" and "Comrades of Mine." She was accompanied by Wimberley. Music was part of a collection sent from Australia to Curtsinger.

The program closed with group singing of "I Have Returned" by Marjohn Wilkin with Wimberley at the piano.

Others attending were Mrs. Bill Caraway and Cameron and visitors, Mrs. Clarence Betzen and Mrs. Garry Alexander.

Grand prize was swept away by Elaine McNutt during the annual Tour of Tables held recently. McNutt designed a down-on-the-farm type table setting for the event. She also placed first with a formal setting entered by members of Toujour Amis Study Club.

Panhandle women help customers celebrate

BORGER, Texas (AP) — Two Borger women decided recently that a lot of good news is being overlooked amid the general economic gloom of dropping oil prices and other depressing global matters.

So Glenda Koch and Ona Lee Johnson decided to help people share their personal good times with others or hand out pats-on-the-back — by means of colorful yard signs.

The women picked graduation time to start their business, and have a mail campaign encouraging parents of seniors to congratulate their children for completing 12 years of school successfully.

"We want to celebrate with our youth and show how much we appreciate them. We want them to know how proud we are of them. Kids are our future and we need to show the good they do," said Mrs. Koch.

The two women are providing signs for any occasion from heart-shaped signs for anniversaries to get-well messages. The business even has a name to fit any occasion — Tell-a-Tale.

"We'll personalize the signs to fit

President James Monroe was sworn in to a second term March 5, 1821, because March 4 — the traditional date — fell on a Sunday.

The Defense Department announced in 1965 that the first contingent of U.S. combat troops — 3,500 Marines — was being sent to fight Communist guerrillas in South Vietnam.

The Renaissance artist Michelangelo was born in Caprese, Italy, in 1475.

The U.S. Supreme Court said in 1857 that Dred Scott, a slave, could not sue for his freedom in a federal court.

individual needs. We'll deliver and pick them up after three days," Mrs. Johnson said.

Their first sign was put up at the country club to celebrate the birth of a new son to the golf pro and his wife.

The wooden signs are 24-by-24 inches for a base sign and are cut to design. The women start with a circle and go from there.

Mrs. Johnson said the wooden signs are simple and are easily seen from the road. The two women say they put whatever people want on the signs — depending on what will fit the space. The simpler the message is, the better it stands out, Mrs. Johnson said.

"We offer suggestions for ideas if the customer doesn't have any. Or we can take their idea and work with that. Our charge is $15 for three days service," Mrs. Koch said.

A customer can rent a sign for his own yard or someone else's.

Mrs. Koch put up one sign to surprise a woman for her birthday, also ringing the woman's doorbell to give her a little courteous warning. "She seemed to enjoy it. It was a surprise from one of her friends," she said.

The women, who also have jobs and families, have used their Saturdays and Sundays to put their signs together, sanding and painting and sawing.

"We paint and cut, and then go stir the macaroni pot, then get busy again," Mrs. Koch said.

Both Mrs. Koch and Mrs. Johnson say their husbands are supportive but hey "stand back and watch."

Both have teen-age children who have offered to put the signs up and take them down, but the mothers joke that they don't know what the kids will charge them for labor.

Understanding menopause can lessen the anxiety

Some women approach menopause with feelings of uncertainty or even fear, but this need not be the case. How a woman goes through this stage of life depends mainly on her body's hormone balance and her understanding of this stage, says the Texas Medical Association.

Menopause, the permanent end to menstruation, is the last of a series of changes a woman's body goes through from her late 30s to the mid-50s. During this time, her ovaries gradually decrease the production of estrogen. Estrogen is the female hormone necessary for reproduction.

Most women stop menstruating between ages 45 and 55. In the years leading up to menopause, a woman's menstrual cycle is disrupted and periods may become irregular. When she has not had a period for six months or so, she probably has reached menopause.

About 25 percent of women do not notice any changes at menopause, except the cessation of periods. Another 50 percent notice slight physical and/or mental changes. The remaining 25 percent have inconvenient or even distressing symptoms.

Physical symptoms may include hot flashes, sweating, dryness of the vagina, palpitations, joint pains and headaches. Among the non physical symptoms often associated with the menopause are depression, anxiety, irritability, decreased ability to concentrate, lack of confidence, and sleeping difficulties.

If you have troublesome symptoms, bear in mind that they are not in themselves a danger to your health. It may help if you can accept unpleasant symptoms of menopause as a natural part of life. However, since disease can occur, you should not automatically attribute all symptoms to menopause.

Instead, discuss them with your physician. He or she will examine you to make sure that no other condition is causing your symptoms and may prescribe drugs to relieve the symptoms.

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY — How long will candied fruits keep? Where is the best place to store them? — DEBBIE

DEAR DEBBIE — Commercially candied fruits will keep a very long time just stored in an airtight container on a cool kitchen shelf. I've kept them up to a year with no change in quality. Homemade candied fruits should be kept in the refrigerator, where they will keep for several months. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — When sweaters are no longer useful to wear, cut off the sleeves and use them to cover a pillow form or stuff them with cotton or foam pillow stuffing. Sew up both ends to make a pillow. If the sweater has a V-neck, sew a piece of material into it to fill it in. — KAY

DEAR POLLY — Do you still fold your pillow cases as single units, one by one? Why not put two together, then fold. When taken from the storage space, you'll have a complete set folded together. I've done it this way for years. I fold hand and bath towel sets in the same manner.

I put two pillowcases on each pillow on my bed. This helps to keep the pillows from getting soiled. — RUTH

Americans losing war against cancer

BOSTON (AP) — Americans are losing the war against cancer, according to a report that was immediately attacked by leaders of the U.S. anti-cancer effort, who labeled the report misleading and said progress is being made.

"The main conclusion we draw is that some 35 years of intense effort focused largely on improving treatment must be judged a qualified failure," the study's authors wrote in today's New England Journal of Medicine.

The study concludes that the odds of dying of cancer have actually increased over the past three decades, and recommends that new research be aimed at preventing the disease instead of treating it.

"We're not saying treatment is no good," said Dr. John C. Bailar III, who directed the study. "We're convinced that every cancer patient should get a diagnosis as early as possible and the best possible treatment. What we're saying is that cancer treatment is not getting a whole lot better."

His conclusion is based on a comparison of cancer death statistics. In 1950, 170 of every 100,000 Americans died of cancer. In 1982, after the figures were adjusted to reflect the aging population, there were 185 deaths per 100,000, an 8 percent increase.

"Age-adjusted mortality rates have shown a slow and steady increase over several decades, and there is no evidence of a recent downward trend," the report said. "In this clinical sense, we are losing the war against cancer."

However, Dr. Peter Greenwald, head of the National Cancer Institute's Division of Cancer Prevention and Control, said the mortality rate is slow to reflect advances in treatment and prevention. A decline in smoking is only now beginning to show up in reduced lung cancer deaths among white men, he said.

"We have made a lot of progress," Greenwald said. "We do have a major research emphasis in prevention as well as treatment and basic research. We still have a long way to go."

Bailar, a researcher at the Harvard School of Public Health, produced the study with Dr. Elaine M. Smith of the University of Iowa Medical Center.

At the American Cancer Society, Dr. Lawrence Garfinkel said, "There's no doubt that the reason the overall death rate continues to go up is because of lung cancer. If you take away lung cancer, instead of having an 8 percent increase, you have a 13 percent decrease."

In 1783, the first of a series of six earthquakes struck southern Italy and Sicily Feb. 5, and by March 28 some 50,000 persons had been killed.

No scars remain from primary battle

By The Associated Press
Standing beside two men he defeated in the Republican gubernatorial primary, Bill Clements said there are no lasting scars from the GOP struggle for the nomination. The former governor, who along with Kent Hance and Tom Loeffler stopped in several cities to show Republican unity, also challenged Gov. Mark White to display leadership by calling a special session of the Legislature to deal with the budget shortfall. "There are no permanent wounds and scars," Clements told a news conference at Lubbock International Airport. "We are making this trip together to give evidence that we can work together and to show the strength and maturity of the Republican Party."

Hance said that he would actively support Clements' bid to reclaim the governorship.

"I tried to find something to disagree on (during the campaign), but I couldn't," Hance said.

Loeffler said that he had raised $4 million for the race, but Clements' 58-percent showing in the May 3 primary was "no mistake."

"When we all started this campaign a year ago, we knew that inevitably two of us would be in this position," Loeffler said. "But we knew we would all be concerned that Mark White would no longer be governor."

During an earlier stop Wednesday in Wichita Falls, Clements said credibility and integrity will determine who will be the state's next governor.

The former governor said other issues in the November governor's election are the economy, crime and education.

"White cannot back away from the broken promises he has made to the teachers, utility groups and taxpayers," Clements said.

White, in the final days before the primaries, faced teacher groups angry over competency exams included in educational reforms.

"The teachers' vote will be very important, but it is not only the teachers but the coaches, superintendents, principals and school board — the public school educators," he said.

Clements said the first signs of educational reform actually came during his administration in 1982.

"If you recall the return to the hard-core curriculum, uniform basis for teacher certification for universities and putting discipline back in the classroom. In doing this, the people who were on the task force were public school educators," Clements said.

In other Texas political developments Wednesday:

— Dallas lawyer John Poulard endorsed state Sen. John Sharp for the Democratic railroad commissioner nomination, despite having waged a bitter and losing campaign against Sharp in the primary.

Poulard, who finished third by about 4,000 votes in Saturday's four-way race, said the Victoria lawmaker is a better candidate than the other runoff hopeful, P.S. "Sam" Ervin of Dallas.

"I disagree with Sharp about half the time," Poulard said. "I disagree with Ervin all the time."

— Supreme Court Justice Raul Gonzalez, who is seeking election as the first Hispanic to sit on the high court bench, picked up endorsements from two defeated rivals.

Gonzalez, who was appointed by Gov. Mark White in 1984, faces former state Rep. Jay Gibson of Odessa in the June 7 runoff.

Third-place finisher John Humphreys and fourth-place finisher David Ivy both said Gonzalez' experience makes him the better candidate.

— Supreme Court candidate Shirley Butts accused her Democratic runoff opponent, Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas, of being "owned body and soul by the powerful Texas Trial Lawyers Association."

"The same high-rolling damage suit lawyers are financing Mauzy's campaign just as they did the multi-million campaigns of Supreme Court justices who are now under investigation by the House Committee on Judicial Affairs," she said.

Ms. Butts said she hopes to raise enough money to purchase television advertising for the June 7 runoff.

Mauzy, a 18-year veteran of the Texas Senate, received 46.7 percent of the vote in Saturday's primary. Ms. Butts got into the runoff with 25.9 percent in the four-way race.

North Texas State professionals invent game

DENTON, Texas (AP) — They did it all, the four of them — devised the more than 4,000 questions; made the rules; subcontracted with card printers and box, chip and dice makers; stored, packaged and, two years later, marketed, the finished product: "Uncommon Sense: the Remarkable Word Game."

"We did it primarily for the fun of it, secondarily for the profit," said Brenda Peterson of Euless.

There is no use denying the profit motive, she said. The others — Betty Ohler of Carrollton, Pat Bulla of Carrollton and Judi Faurot of Euless — agreed, or, at least, didn't make an effort to disagree. The three women are speech pathologists in the division of communication disorders at North Texas State University. Mrs. Peterson is an audiologist in the same division.

They've been friends for nearly 14 years. They began working on the game project in 1984. During spring breaks, holidays, summer vacations and other spare time, they plotted the idea of a word game. As the idea emerged into tangibility, they retreated to Mrs. Ohler's lake home, took a pair of dice, taped directions on the six sides; took playing cards, taped questions and answers on the backs, and played.

It was their first game.

Today, for $29.95, "Uncommon Sense" has sold through mail order in half the United States. In Denton, it is on the shelves of three bookstores. The 10-pound box — packed tediously by the women, with poker chips, cards and dice in the home of Mrs. Faurot — has been shipped as far away as Korea and Switzerland.

Each of the 1,408 cards contains three possible questions and answers — 176 cards in each of eight categories. Depending on the roll of the dice, you could be asked to choose a correctly spelled word, identify who said a famous quotation or translate a foreign phrase.

In the category "Rhyme Time," for example, a card reads: "1. Two, one-syllable words meaning throat inspection." Answer: "Neck check." "2. Two, two-syllable words meaning don't ever cut." Answer: "Never sever." "3. Two, one-syllable words meaning escargot path." Answer: "Snail Trail."

Contestants get chips for right answers.

"We tried to put in a lot of yes and no questions and things people know a lot about," said Mrs. Bulla.

However, one reaction to the game was critical.

"One person said, 'You must be a bunch of fiends to make up questions like that,'" said Mrs. Peterson.

They estimate they've sold 500 games. Cost for the enterprise? Even if they sell their inventory of 2,000 games, they say, they don't expect to break even at $29.95 a game.

Betsy Ross

The legend is that Betsy Ross made the first Stars and Stripes in June 1776 at the request of a committee headed by George Washington, Robert Morris and George Ross, an uncle. This story was first made public in 1870 by a grandson of Mrs. Ross. Historians can find no record of such a meeting or committee.

In N.L. West after 3-2 loss to Mets

Astros drop to 2nd place

By JOHN NELSON
AP Baseball Writer

The National League West has turned completely upside-down, and Pittsburgh Pirates Manager Jimmy Leyland thinks it may stay that way.

The San Francisco Giants, last in the West in 1985 by 33 games, took over first place from Houston Wednesday night, beating the Pirates 7-6 for their fourth straight victory. The Astros, meanwhile, lost their fourth in a row, 3-2 to the red-hot New York Mets, to fall behind by one-half game.

"They're a good, young team, and they have a great manager in Roger Craig," Leyland said of the Giants. "He's a winner, and they're not going to be anybody's doormat anymore."

In other NL games, Montreal defeated Philadelphia 8-2; Los Angeles downed Chicago 8-4; and St. Louis beat San Diego 4-3 in 12 innings. Atlanta at Cincinnati was rained out.

Reserve outfielder Candy Maldonado was at center stage for the second consecutive night. Maldonado, who homered and doubled in Tuesday night's 7-2 victory, had three hits and two RBI Wednesday night at Pittsburgh.

Maldonado's RBI double in the fifth inning gave the Giants a 6-2 lead, and San Francisco withstood a Pirates' rally. Bob Brenley hit a two-run double in San Francisco's three-run first inning.

Mets 3, Astros 2

At Shea Stadium, Darryl Strawberry hit a long two-run homer to right, and Len Dykstra drove in another run with a ground-rule double to pace the Mets to their fifth straight victory and 16 in 17 games. Undefeated Sid Fernandez won his fourth straight, while Jesse Orosco got his sixth save.

Expos 8, Phillies 2

At Philadelphia, Montreal remained five back of the Mets in the NL East by winning its fifth straight game. The Expos tied a club record with seven stolen bases, two each by Tim Raines and rookie Andres Galarraga. Raines also extended his hitting streak to 12 games with two singles, and he scored twice. Dodgers 8, Cubs 4

Steve Sax hit the first grand slam homer of his career to break a 4-4 tie in the seventh inning and lead the

Oilers' Moon hears trade rumors

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston quarterback Warren Moon has heard trade rumors and seen the Oilers draft Purdue quarterback Jim Everett in the first round of the NFL draft.

But he still places himself in the starting position with no dents in his confidence.

"I don't care who they bring in," Moon said. "They could bring in (Miami quarterback) Dan Marino or any quarterback they want, and I'd still feel like he'd have a hard time beating me out."

Moon resumed workouts at the Oiler facility Tuesday after trips to Hawaii, Los Angeles and Dallas. Moon left town thinking the Oilers were going to trade away their first-round pick and not take Everett.

"I probably should have tried to track Warren down to tell him that we'd decided to take Everett," Coach Jerry Glanville said. "We talked to a lot of teams and we didn't decide until late Monday night that we were going to take Everett."

Moon acknowledged he's heard trade rumors involving the Los Angeles Raiders and Seattle Seahawks.

"The Raiders are one of the teams I considered when I left Canada, but I chose to come to Houston," Moon said. "I hope the Oilers still want me, but every player is expendable."

"Ladd (Herzog, general manager) told me it had nothing to do with me or the job I've done, and I've got to take him at his word."

Moon is in the third year of a five-year contract that pays him $1.1 million per year. Moon's first two seasons have not measured up to his expectations, but he's anticipating a good season.

"I've been working harder this off-season than I ever have," Moon said. "Taking a quarterback in the first round pushes you, but it doesn't make me any more fired up, because I was fired up before the draft."

"I feel like this is the year for me to do it, and it's time for us to make our mark around the league."

Most of the marks the Oilers have made in the past two seasons have been negative.

The Oiler defense has ranked 27th in total defense the past two seasons, and Oiler quarterbacks suffered 58 sacks last season.

Moon says youth has kept the Oilers from opening up their offense and using his abilities to the fullest.

"I've been kind of handcuffed. But you have to do those things until your team is ready and mature enough to open it up," Moon said.

"I think we will use my athletic abilities a little more this year, like getting me outside the pocket and forcing things to happen, a lot the way Denver is doing with John Elway."

Moon thinks the addition of Everett will help the Oilers improve on last season's 5-11 record.

"The good teams have two quarterbacks who can start in this league," Moon said. "When you draft a guy No. 3 overall, I would hope you believe he is good enough to start right away."

"If something happened to me, I'd hope Everett would be able to start and help this football team."

Ways with Wine

LIGHT BEER FACTS
When one chooses a light beer, it is often to be assured that one is getting fewer calories. However, calculations from the nutritional label may be deceiving. A light-beer label sometimes lists grams of carbohydrates, fats and protein. There are four calories per gram of carbohydrates and protein, and nine calories per gram of fat. When converted to calories, they add up to only 35. This is far less than the actual calorie count. What is missing from the label is the alcohol content at seven calories per gram. Light beers are generally 3.2 to 4 percent alcohol. This brings the total calories up to 95 to 120 in a 12-ounce serving. "Low-alcohol" and "no-alcohol" beers have fewer calories, ranging from 55 to 70 per serving.

When it comes to beer and wine the store you want to visit is THE STORE. We stock many different kinds of beer and will be happy to answer any questions you have about them. Stop in and see us at 400 N. 25 Mile, 364-7802. Open: Mon. - Sat. 10-9, use the drive up door until midnight for beer and wine, on Sun. only beer and wine is available from 12-12.

Low and no-alcohol beers still have a trace of alcohol despite the labeling.

Behind efforts of relief pitcher Dwayne Henry

Rangers score 2-1 victory over Tigers

By The Associated Press
Dwayne Henry hadn't been pitching well this season, and both he and his manager knew he needed a confidence builder to get back on track, so Henry developed a new pitch — in three days.
Henry, 1-0, came in with two outs in the sixth Wednesday night and retired all seven batters he faced — five on strikeouts — to pick up his first win of the season as the Texas Rangers defeated the Detroit Tigers 2-1.
It was a dramatic turnaround from just two nights ago, when Henry pitched the final two innings in a loss to the Tigers, giving up two hits and three runs, including a home run to Lance Parrish.
The first batter Henry faced Wednesday night was Parrish. Parrish struck out.
Both Rangers' manager Bobby Valentine and Henry credited Henry's newly developed spit-fingered fastball as the reason for Henry's strong performance.

"Dwayne Henry needed to gain some confidence, and he might have found that confidence in a spit-fingered fastball that he can mix with his fastball," Valentine said. "He threw it very well tonight and was effective."
Henry, who said he developed the spit-fingered pitch in only three days, agreed with his boss.
"I'm throwing the spit-fingered fastball and that is helping me," he said. "It was just a matter of getting the grip."
But when it came time for giving credit for the strikeouts, Henry praised his No. 1 pitch.
"I was throwing smoke tonight," he said.
Greg Harris came on to pitch the ninth inning for the Rangers to register his fifth save of the year.
But the Rangers might have been pitching a lot longer if Steve Buechele had not slammed a two-out home run the bottom of the seventh to give the Rangers their 2-1 lead. It was Buechele's fifth home run of the season, and his first game-winning RBI.

"That's the manager's best friend — the four-bagger," Valentine said.
The Rangers also got an outstanding pitching performance from starter Ricky Wright, who replaced original starter Ed Correa, who had to be scratched due to tenderness in his pitching arm.
After giving up a run on back-to-back doubles by the first two batters he faced, Wright retired 17 of the last 19 batters he faced.
"After the second inning, I think I started to get in a little groove," Wright said. "I started to change speeds well and hit some spots and keep them off balance better."
It was the Rangers second straight win over the Tigers, and Valentine called it "a really good game."
Detroit manager Sparky Anderson agreed.
"I'm not frustrated with the turnout of the game," Anderson said. "Their people did a good job for them. They're looking sharp on the field and on the mound. They played a very good game tonight."
The Rangers' victory spoiled Detroit starter Jack Morris' performance. Morris, 3-4, went the distance, striking out a season-tying high 10 batters, while allowing three walks and five hits. It was the third complete game for Morris in seven starts.
The Tigers jumped on Wright right away when Lou Whitaker and Alan Trammell led off the game with consecutive doubles. Whitaker scored on Trammell's double, but Trammell was stranded when the next three batters made outs.
The Rangers got the one run back in their half of the first when, with one out, Toby Harrah doubled down the right-field line, and one out later Pete Incaviglia singled him home.
Indians 7, Royals 1
Pat Tabler, who makes a living getting clutch hits, says the Cleveland Indians' surge to the top of heap in the American League East reflects a new attitude rarely seen on a team that last won a pennant in 1954.
"All 24 of us are playing as a team and we're very confident as a team," said Tabler, whose two-run double keyed a three-run fourth inning the Indians rode to their 10th straight victory.
That feeling of oneness was predominant throughout the Indian clubhouse Wednesday night after Cleveland chased AL Cy Young Award winner Bret Saberhagen in five innings en route to a 7-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

"I felt like I wasn't contributing to the team," said winning pitcher Neal Heaton, who went the distance in scattering seven singles. "The streak was going and I hadn't won a game yet. You have to keep up with the rest of the staff."
The Indians, on their longest positive streak since an 11-game tear in 1982, are winning in part because they are overcoming mistakes. An example was Mel Hall, who was picked off second to end the third inning. He came back with RBI double in the fourth.
Yankees 5, White Sox 1
As a 42-year-old free agent pitcher, Tommy John was happy to get another chance.
"I never felt I had to win since I had absolutely nothing to lose," New York's John said after pitching seven innings of five-hit ball in his first start of the season since signing with the Yankees. John was signed when pitchers John Montefusco and Ed Whitson were placed on the disabled list.

Butch Wynegar hit a three-run homer — his third with two one this season and third that won a game — to send the host White Sox to their sixth straight loss.
Twins 5, Orioles 2
Minnesota's Tom Burnansky says home runs can be hit regardless of the count, although he concedes concentration is the key regardless of whether the pitcher or hitter has the upper hand.
"You're working both spectrums," said Burnansky, whose fifth and sixth home runs of the year backed Mike Smithson's nine-hit pitching at the Metrodome. On a 1-2 count, you just see the ball and react. On the other you gotta be patient and selective, make sure you hit your pitch. It's good for me that I did it in both situations."
Burnansky's first homer came in the third inning with a runner aboard to give the Twins a 3-0 lead against Mike Flanagan. He homered again in the eighth.
Angels 6, Blue Jays 2
Don Sutton, now four victories short of the coveted 300 mark, survived a rocky start, because he kept the ball in the park.
"It turned out differently because this time I didn't give up those homers with men on base," said Sutton, who'd allowed nine homers in his first five starts of the season.
He allowed one run — in the first inning — in six innings and got 12-hit support from his California teammates at Anaheim.

Sutton, now 1-3 in six starts this season, hadn't won since last Sept. 18 in his attempt to become the 19th pitcher in major-league history to win 300 games.
A's 7, Brewers 6
Milwaukee Manager George Bamberger wasn't as concerned with the bottom of the Oakland lineup as he should have been.
"The guys who hurt us were the seventh, eighth and ninth men. We handled their big-boys pretty well," Bamberger said.
But rookie Bill Bathe — batting ninth — hit two home runs, his first in the major leagues, and drove in three runs to lead host Oakland. Bathe broke a 2-3 tie with a two-run homer in the fourth inning.
Red Sox 11, Mariners 5
A three-run homer by Bill Buckner and a two-run shot by Jim Rice led Boston in its rout of Seattle in a game marred by a bench-clearing incident at the Kingdome.
Buckner, who led Boston to its eighth victory in 10 games, was one of three players ejected in a bizarre contest which also saw Seattle Manager Chuck Cottier chased.
Boston's Al Nipper, 3-3, survived two Mariner home runs and being buried under a heap of bodies on the mound when Phil Bradley charged following a close pitch.
"I don't throw at anybody in that situation," Nipper said. "Hitting him in the head, I can understand why he came after me. The ball got away, what can you do?"

'North & South, Book II' top Sunday movie

NEW YORK (AP) — The first fight of the May sweeps was a split decision. The television audience was fairly evenly divided for the major Sunday night movie match-up, and each network could claim it won something.

The first part of ABC's $25 million, 12-hour "North & South, Book II" was the top-rated performer of the Sunday blockbusters, ranking 10th for the week.

The first installment of NBC's four-hour "Deliberate Stranger" finished second for the night and 17th for the week, but improved on a poor lead-in from 42nd-ranked "Alfred Hitchcock Presents." The performance was good enough to keep NBC in front for the week of April 28-May 4, as the top-rated network ended a two-week drought and topped the A.C. Nielsen ratings again.

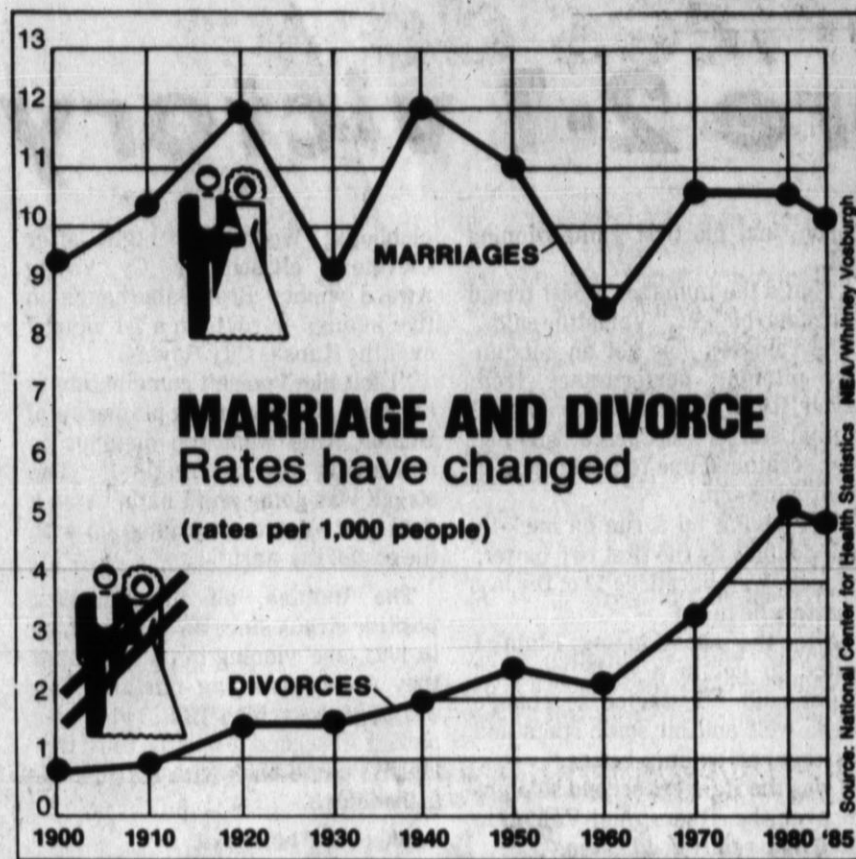

CBS' two-hour film, "Vanishing Act," ranked 20th for the week, but

CBS was easily top-rated for Sunday night because of its earlier Top 10 shows, "60 Minutes" and "Murder, She Wrote."

"It was one of those cases in which everybody got a piece of the viewing," said Mike Eisenberg, CBS' research director.

According to Nielsen figures released Tuesday, NBC, which had finished third the previous two weeks, won with a 15.4 rating. CBS averaged a 14.0 rating and ABC had a 13.2. A rating measures the percentage of the nation's 85.9 million homes with television. A share measures the percentage of sets in use that are tuned to a broadcast.

A repeat of NBC's "The Cosby Show" ranked first with a 29.5 rating. May is one of the four sweeps months for which local station ratings are measured, prompting the networks to schedule major programs to hype audiences for their affiliates.

Americans are twice as likely to marry as to divorce. Last year there were 10.2 marriages per 1,000 people and five divorces. The marriage rate and the divorce rate both have dropped slightly, though.

Livestock prices down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cattle and hog producers have reduced red meat production this year, but the government's dairy herd buyout program and continued expansion by poultry producers are helping dampen market price increases, Agriculture Department analysts say.

As a result, the USDA's price forecasts for 1986 livestock prices have been scaled back 2 percent to 6 percent from predictions made just two months ago.

Department economists said Monday in a new outlook report that market prices of U.S. choice-grade steers are projected to average $57 to $62 per 100 pounds of live weight in 1986, about the same as the 1985 average of $58.37 per hundredweight.

The new 1986 forecast was down from the March prediction of $80 to $66 per hundredweight for steers on the Omaha, Neb., market, which is used as the national standard.

Hogs sold for slaughter were forecast at an average of $42 to $46 per hundredweight this year, close to the 1985 average of $44.77 at the major Midwest markets. In March, the agency's hog forecast for 1986 was $43 to $49 per hundredweight.

The report said the slaughter of milk cows under the USDA's whole-herd buyout program will provide more beef than otherwise would have been the case. About 1.55 million cows, heifers and calves are expected to move to market over the next year and a half, with about two-thirds of the animals scheduled this spring and summer.

The government is buying additional red meat for domestic feeding programs and for export to help offset the cow slaughter.

"The market was already burdened with large beef supplies and low prices, due to a slower-than-expected marketing pace and continued record heavy slaughter weights," the report said.

Despite those factors, 1986 beef production and the total supply of red meat are expected to decline below year-earlier levels, the report said. However, continued expansion in poultry output will partly offset the decline for red meat.

Overall, total consumption of red meat and poultry may decline 2 to 3 pounds per person from last year's record 214 pounds.

"Large meat supplies will continue to limit price advances, particularly for the more expensive red meats," the report said.

Consumer beef prices dropped 3 percent in 1985 but may rise 2 percent to 3 percent this year, the report said.

"Increased poultry production likely will hold down price gains for beef as beef supplies decline over the next couple of years," the report said. "Consumers will continue to have large quantities of the already lower-priced poultry."

Pork production may drop about 2 percent in 1986, and the smaller supply is expected to make pork more expensive at retail stores.

Newspaper Bible

As evening fell, Jesus said to His disciples, "Let's cross to the other side of the lake."

So they took Him just as He was and started out, leaving the crowds behind (though other boats followed).

But soon a terrible storm arose. High waves began to break into the boat until it was nearly full of water and about to sink.

Jesus was asleep at the back of the boat with His head on a cushion. Frantically they wakened Him, shouting, "Teacher, don't You even care that we are all about to drown?"

Then He rebuked the wind and said to the sea, "Quiet down!" And the wind fell, and there was a great calm!

And He asked them, "Why were you so fearful? Don't you even yet have confidence in Me?"

And they were filled with awe and said among themselves, "Who is this man, that even the winds and seas obey Him?"

Woman convicted of capital murder in husband's death

HOUSTON (AP) — Jurors convicted a 43-year-old nurse of capital murder after hearing a prosecutor argue that the woman used her husband's last paycheck to pay the men who killed him.

The jury in State District Judge Ted Poe's court took about two hours to return the guilty verdict Tuesday against Geraldine Swaim, who was accused of hiring two men to kill her husband so she could collect his $370,000 insurance policy.

Mrs. Swaim sobbed in a hallway after a bailiff led her from the courtroom Tuesday.

Prosecutors said Mrs. Swaim agreed to pay $25,000 to 19-year-old Charles Steven Sisk and Jerry Chaffin, 20, to kill Gilbert Boyce Swaim, a 40-year-old truck driver, at his home Dec. 7.

Jurors heard testimony from several witnesses late Tuesday during the punishment phase, which was scheduled to resume this morning. Mrs. Swaim faces the death penalty or life in prison.

During closing arguments Tuesday morning, prosecutor Rusty Hardin reminded the jury of Sisk's testimony in which he said he and Chaffin found about $400 cash and a set of car keys where Mrs. Swaim said they would be the morning of the killing.

Hardin also reminded jurors of Mrs. Swaim's testimony in which she said she had cashed her husband's pay check and went grocery shopping the day before the murder.

"She cashed his last pay check and left it for the murderers," Hardin said.

Defense attorney Mike Hinton told the panel they would have to rely on Chaffin's version of events to convict his client of capital murder. Sisk got much of his information about Mrs. Swaim's involvement from Chaffin, Hinton said.

"The only damaging thing he told the members of this jury is the gospel according to Chaffin, and I just ain't buying the gospel according to Chaffin," Hinton said.

Mrs. Swaim testified Monday that she was blackmailed into signing a contract for the killing of her husband. She also told jurors she did not read the document her son's friends allegedly presented to her and did not know what it said until days later.

She said she learned the contents of the contract in the following weeks when Chaffin called her and threatened to tell her husband unless she gave him money.

Teacher pay for Texas ranked 23rd

AUSTIN (AP) — Despite the $2.8 billion school reform law passed in Texas two years ago, average teacher pay and spending per student in the state's public schools remain below the national average, a new survey shows.

The National Education Association survey indicates that the average teacher salary in Texas this year is $24,419 — 23rd among the 50 states — compared to the $25,257 national average.

Two years ago, Texas teachers received an average salary of $20,170, also under the national average at the time of $21,935 and 26th among the states.

However, a 21 percent increase in pay has drawn Texas teachers closer to the national average. Nationally, average pay increased 15 percent during that period, according to the NEA survey.

But because of the suffering Texas economy and a shortfall in state revenues, Texas is likely to slip further below the national average in the next few years, a teacher leader said Wednesday.

"We haven't moved very much from where we were two years ago; our salaries are still mediocre," said Charles Beard, president of the NEA-affiliated Texas State Teachers Association.

"It will be very difficult to get any salary increases out of the Legislature next year."

Beard said state political leaders told teachers that their pay would be upgraded only if they took a test to prove to the public they were competent.

Test scores were scheduled to be released today.

About 5 percent of 201,000 state educators failed the Texas Examination of Current Administrators and Teachers, according to a preliminary estimate by the Texas Education Agency.

Officials had predicted that 10 percent of state educators would fail the reading and writing test March 10 when they first took it. Education Commissioner Bill Kirby has predicted that the statewide failure rate would drop to 5 percent by the time results from the June 28 testing are completed.

Educators who fail the exam may retake it free June 28. Those who cannot pass the test will lose their Texas teaching certificates.

The salary survey also indicates Texas is spending $3,384 per student this year, below the national average of $3,677 and 26th among the 50 states.

Two years ago, Texas ranked 27th.

Selling Tickets

Ann Meyer and Helen Eades check last year's file for Community Concert Association members who haven't picked up tickets for the 1986-87 season. The association team is working in the Chamber of Commerce office through May 17 taking orders. Family pass tickets are $40, individual tickets are $15, and student tickets are $7.50. Booked for this year are the Tennessee River Boys from Nashville; Arthur Woodley, a versatile bass-baritone; Phil Coulter's Pops Orchestra of Ireland; and the Alexandria Quintet with a flute, harp, violin, viola, and cello.

Names in the news

VERSAILLES, Ky. (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II will attend services marking the 101st anniversary of St. John's Episcopal Church during the British monarch's five-day visit to bluegrass country this month, the church's pastor says.

The Rev. J. Carl Belden said invitations for the May 25 service have been extended to the 400 members of the congregation, but only about 225 will have seats. The others will be relegated to the parish hall.

"We're not going to have a long list of dignitaries. She prefers that. We want to make this as much a relaxed service as possible for her," he said.

The queen's five-day visit begins May 22.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singers Eddie Rabbitt, Louise Mandrell, Gary Morris and the Oak Ridge Boys' Richard Sterbin will participate in roundtable discussions about investment possibilities in country music.

The sessions, sponsored by the Country Music Association, are scheduled for June 18 in Charlotte, N.C.; July 15 in San Francisco; Aug. 12 in Chicago; Sept. 9 near Dallas; and Nov. 13 in Nashville, spokeswoman Judi Turner said Tuesday.

NEW YORK (AP) — Pepsi-Cola USA has signed Michael Jackson to a new three-year advertising contract worth $5 million to $15 million, the company says.

Jackson will perform in an unspecified number of Pepsi commercials in the United States and abroad, Roger Enrico, president and chief executive of Pepsi-Cola USA, said Tuesday. One commercial will be in Spanish.

"This is a great honor," said the 27-year-old singer, who rarely makes public statements.

Although crowds waited

Tsunami never came

By MARK BERNIS Associated Press Writer

Thousands of people jammed highways seeking high ground along the West Coast and in Hawaii as potentially damaging waves raced south from an Aleutian earthquake, but hundreds more flocked to the coast to watch what turned out to be mostly a ripple.

A tsunami warning was posted from Alaska to California and for Hawaii and Japan on Wednesday after a major quake, measuring 7.7

on the Richter scale, hit undersea near the Aleutian Islands. Minor damage and no casualties were reported.

Thousands of people were evacuated in Hawaii and British Columbia, boats were told to ride out the waves at sea and more than 10,000 residents along the Washington, Oregon and California coasts were advised to seek high ground.

Residents of the Aleutians, an 1,100-mile island chain with 16 scattered villages, also were urged to evacuate low-lying areas.

But waves were only 10 feet high in Hawaii, 4.7 feet in British Columbia, 2 to 3 feet in Washington and 5.8 feet in Adak on the Aleutians, and the evacuees were back home today, officials said. Japan's Central Meteorological Agency said a tsunami of 9 inches was observed there.

The federal tsunami warning service called off its alert 6½ hours after the quake struck, but warned that fluctuations in sea level and rapid current changes could still pose danger to boats and coastal structures.

At Adak, a village of 93 people about 100 miles east of Adak, most of the residents gathered on a hillside, said Greg Golodoff, manager of the village store. He described the mood as convivial, rather than panicked.

Concert to benefit Harkins fund

The Easter Opry Gospel Road Show is giving a benefit concert Saturday, at 7:30 p.m. in the Hereford High Auditorium, to assist in medical expenses for Derik Harkins. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

His family owns too much farmland to qualify for a grant from a private foundation in Austin which has paid for 5-year-old Derik's 11 facial surgeries.

It was tough news for Mr. and Mrs. Russell Harkins, who has depended on the grants for surgery correcting a facial birth defect on their son. The physician's bill for the next surgery will cost $4,000 plus hospital and travel expenses to Dallas.

Poor economy throughout the state has depleted the funds of that foundation and caused it to tighten restrictions on giving grants. This year the Harkins were determined to have too much capital in land — the land they farm.

It was tough news because Derik will need surgery regularly until he is an adult.

When he was born, Derik's face was disfigured by a bilateral cleft lip and palate. His eyes were too far apart and crooked. His fingers were wrapped in amniotic fibers and he had club feet.

His hands and feet have been corrected, but as he grows will need additional surgery.

His eyes, too, have been partially corrected, but will need to be moved again.

Later, he will have to have a bone graft for his nose, a very risky operation.

Derik's pending surgery will be to straighten his lip and for nasal reconstruction which will help improve Derik's speech.

Although Derik's surgeries come at intervals of about six months, his mother believes this next surgery is crucial. Derik will move from a special early childhood education program to be mainstreamed into a kindergarten class at Tierra Blanca. Corrective surgery will give Derik more self confidence, she feels, and will get him on the right track for his school career.

The Easter Opry gives shows only "when there's a good need for it," according to Jerry Hodges.

Each show is different, using an agenda of local talent. This is the first all-gospel program.

Performers to be featured are Jim Haile, Susie Merrick, Keith Ann Gearn, Beverly Bryant, Archie Copeland, Heather Gee, Melanie Davis, Jeff Love, Cathy Love, Jan Walser, C.E. Stanaland, Darla Stengel, Holly Middleton, T.J. Danley, Frances Ricenbaw, Roger Hodges, Chuck Danly and Brian Stanaland.

Cassette tapes of the program will be made and may be ordered at the concert.

"Everybody had a good time," said Golodoff. "I had a chance to visit."

The wave "was up to the high tide mark, that's all," said Golodoff.

When the wave hit Kalaloch Ocean Lodge near Aberdeen on the central Washington coast, "It was about twice the size of the normal waves," said Gene Park, who lives 10 miles away near Clearwater. "If you weren't watching just then, you'd miss it."

Elsewhere along the coast, heavy traffic away from the shore was matched by the curious hoping for a glimpse of the seismic wave.

"All the beaches are packed with people from Portland who want to see this," Coast Guard Lt. Mike Thompson said Wednesday in Oregon. "The highway going from Portland to Seaside is bumper to bumper. I can't believe it."

"We cleared them off the beaches and the beach loop road and they flocked back down," said a police dispatcher in Bandon in southern Oregon.

Hundreds went to San Francisco's Cliff House at Ocean Beach just before the wave was due. "They're just lining up, a whole bunch of them, looking at the ocean," said Sarang Alamooti, maitre d' at the Cliff House.

Tsunamis, popularly but inaccurately called tidal waves, travel across seas at up to 500 mph and gain size rapidly upon nearing land. Their height upon striking shore cannot be accurately predicted.
