LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A Department of Energy official says problems with a "paper trail," not with the quality of work, stopped federal research on a proposed nuclear dump at Yucca Mountain.

Don Vieth, DOE's director of the waste management project, accused state officials of "highly inaccurate and inflammatory" remarks in contending that inferior research has been done on the proposed dump site.

Vieth said problems with setting up a "paper trail" to document the research forced an order for the U.S. Geological Survey to stop doing geologic and hydrologic studies at the site.

Bob Loux, director of Nevada's Nuclear Waste Project Office, con-

Slows repository plans tended Monday that defects in the DOE's quality assurance program forced the work stoppage.

Loux said Reynolds Electrical and Engineering Co. Inc., which has been drilling holes in the mountain to determine soil suitability, may also be ordered to stop work.

Vieth said he issued a stop work order April 28 to the U.S. Geological Survey when a DOE audit showed the paper work accompanying the research was not detailed enough to pass the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's licensing standards.

But Vieth said, "We don't feel the quality of the technical work is compromised."

Vieth said the decision to halt work rather than proceed without proper documentation should be viewed as a "positive thing."

He said he means the DOE is not going to stand for shoddy work and the work is going to have to meet regulatory standards.

Department of Energy spokesman Chris West confirmed that record-keeping and quality assurance issues have forced work by the U.S.

Geological Survey to halt. West said Monday he was not familiar with the specific issues surrounding the stop work orders.

Loux said the DOE and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission have been discussing the quality assurance program at Yucca Mountain for several months.

The DOE is expected to recommend this month that Yucca Mountain as well as sites in Deaf Smith County near Amarillo and Washington state be studied further as potential sites for the nation's first high-level nuclear waste dump.

The recommendation by the DOE will go to President Reagan for approval. If accepted by Reagan, drilling crews and research personnel will be directed to the three sites for characterization studies, which are aimed at determining which is best-suited for storing 70,000 metric tons of high-level waste now being stored on site at the nation's nuclear power plants.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission, which must license the waste repository, has found defects in the DOE's quality-control program, Loux said.

Loux said the DOE has known since the research work began in 1978 that the NRC would require the DOE to prove it had gathered "good information," but somehow that has not occurred.

"It calls into question whether all the hydrologic and geologic data collected is going to be usable," Loux said.

Between 80 and 100 holes have been drilled at Yucca Mountain, with the DOE spending between 160 million and $80 million annually to do the research, Loux said.

"It's a sad commentary on the federal government," Loux said. The government's tight schedule to (See SITE, Page 2)

Students get long-distance call

What do students in Australia think of Texans? They think we all have 10 gallon hats, wear cowboy boots, and ride horses.

Students at Hereford High School found out that in a long-distance phone call to Hereford's Sesquicentennial twin city, Bordertown, South Australia. Bordertown is celebrating the Jubilee 150 in the same year as the Texas Sesquicentennial.

The phone call came Monday at 5 p.m. when it was 8:15 a.m. Tuesday in Australia.

Bordertown has a population of approximately 4,000 and its high school has about 270 students.

Students from Australia called and exchanged questions and answers with our students, Dale West, Patrick Phibbs, Julie Allison, and Jana Johnson.

Among major questions asked, HHS students asked the Australians their opinion of the nuclear accident in Russia. The Australians laughed, saying "It serves the Russians right!"

Another current question concerned the United States' attack on Libya. One Australian student said she thought President Reagan was silly to attack such a small

Writing Australia

Students at Hereford High School in Mr. Kelso's class are busily writing to their counterparts in Hereford's twin city, Bordertown, South Australia. A phone call was received by four HHS students from teenagers in Bordertown on Monday. How do the culture's compare? Basically, it's a farming community like Hereford. One HHS student in Kelso's class commented that he had already found a girlfriend over there.

Deaf Smith County had a good turnout of voters, about 47 percent of those registered, in the Saturday primary elections. Three runoff elections on the Democratic ticket resulted and those are scheduled for June 7.

Dempsey Alexander and Tom

Simons will square off to determine the next county judge; O.K. Neal and Johnnie Turentine will be pitted for the justice of the peace office, and James Voyles and Johnny Latham will be seeking the Demo nomination for Precinct 4 commissioner. The latter winner will face Republican nominee Ronnie Hathaway in the November election.

Alexander led the vote count in the primary with 1,589 to 1,516 for Simons—a 73-vote margin. The key to victory may lie in getting supporters out to vote again, and attracting those who voted for the third candidate, Joe Zepeda, who drew 504 votes in the primary.

O.K. Neal, incumbent JP, trailed challenger Johnnie Turentine by 66 votes in the primary, and the third candidate—Ruben Gutierrez—pooled 876 votes. That leaves a lot of votes out there for the two challengers to go after. Only six votes separated Voyles, the incumbent, and Latham in the Precinct 4 race.

The Demo runoff races are set for June 7. The candidates have worked hard to solicit your consideration and vote, and those in the runoff elections will face another month of campaigning. Study the candidates and the issues and make plans now to vote in the runoff elections!

Senate committee approves sweeping tax overhaul

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee today approved the most sweeping tax changes in a generation, adopting a hard-fought plan that repeals deductions for most Individual Retirement Accounts and reduces many popular write-offs while slashing the top individual tax rate almost in half.

The bill would tax about 80 percent of workers at a 15 percent rate and remove an estimated $6 million low-income families from the income-tax rolls altogether. The individual tax cut would average 6.2 percent; those making between $30,000 and $40,000 would get 5 percent; at incomes above $200,000 the reduction would be 4.7 percent.

Capital gains and most IRAs would lose their tax benefits. Corporate taxes would rise by about $100 billion over five years and well-to-do investors and profitable companies would lose some of the shelters that have allowed them to reduce their tax burdens to little or nothing.

Three hours before the committee passed the bill unanimously, President Reagan said from Tokyo that he found the emerging product far superior to the plan passed by the House last December.

Deputy Treasury Secretary Richard Darman praised Chairman Bob Packwood, R-Ore., "for your bold tax-reform proposal" and said that while the administration has some reservations, the bill is "a major step toward achieving meaningful tax reform."

Packwood, who revived the bill after it had been picked to pieces by the committee, was given a standing ovation after the final vote shortly after midnight. "A historic effort," said Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan.

But the 20-0 vote masks deep concerns among committee members about major parts of the bill. After a wearying 22-day battle, some members indicated they were happy to put off further attempts to amend the measure until it reaches the Senate floor, probably sometime in June.

During the interim, interests that would feel the bite of the bill are likely to make their feelings known to senators. These range from middle-income families who would lose their deductions for IRAs, to Wall Street, unhappy about losing preferential tax treatment of capital gains, to the real estate lobby, which would be hit hard by the anti-shelter crackdown.

The legislation would reduce significantly the tax rate applied to most people's income. A typical family of four could earn up to about $42,000 before the top rate of 27 percent took effect; income below that level would be taxed at the only other rate, 15 percent. The present top rate is 50 percent.

The other side of that coin is that a two-rate system — compared with 15 rates under present law for a single person and 14 for couples — sharply reduces the "progressivity" of the income tax, meaning it would be based less on ability to pay. The four-member $42,000 family would be in the same bracket as the richest people in the country.

The top corporate tax rate, now 46 percent, would drop to 33 percent. Corporations would lose the 10 percent investment credit and several tax privileges but would gain a depreciation system that is more generous than present law.

One of the hottest issues in the bill is the provision denying most workers a deduction for contributions to an IRA — a benefit claimed by about 28 million families. Only workers not covered by a company pension plan could deposit up to $2,000 in an IRA and pay no tax on the deposit or interest it earns until the money is withdrawn.

The millions of workers who are covered by a company plan would be able to contribute $2,000 a year to an IRA — but only after paying tax on (See TAX, Page 2)

11 cars derail, acid leaks

ABERNATHY, Texas (AP) — Eleven cars of a Santa Fe freight train derailed early this morning and overturned, one of them leaking hydrochloric acid that forced the evacuation of surrounding homes, officials say.

One of the derailed cars contained an explosive, but the 3:24 a.m. accident had caused no injuries or fire, said a Department of Public Safety spokesman who declined to give his name.

The spokesman said the acid was leaking into a car containing Nabisco cookies and that toxic fumes had forced the evacuation of a two-square-mile area three miles north of here in Hale County.

For November election

McCathern keeping same game plan

By JERI CURTIS
Managing Editor

Gerald McCathern was tired following the election weekend, but it was a "good tired" like what a person feels after getting the garden planted or the house painted.

His winning Saturday's primary by 62 percent over Mary Nell Mathis in Congressional Dist. 19 was the cool glass of lemonade to give him energy to be back campaigning on the phone by Monday and have a press release — he writes all his own — out by Tuesday.

As friends and supporters dropped in his campaign headquarters in Hereford this week, conversation focused on who voted how and why, and how they'll vote in November. McCathern and friends poured over the district's county vote breakdowns, figuring various totals to analyze the ballots.

"I think my game plan is going to be the same thing," McCathern says about facing Republican incumbent Larry Combest. "All that Mr. Combest can do is run on his record and his record has not been good for the district."

McCathern's background in agriculture and his involvement to fight for parity is likely what helped him win the rural farm vote and his academic and experiential knowledge of geology was key for the oil community votes. His campaign ties those two industries in with Combest's refusal to support a tariff on imported petroleum products and consistent voting on lower market prices for agricultural commodities —both of which cause unemployment in this district.

For the first few weeks of the main campaign, McCathern says he will be making contact with political leadership and working on forming a coalition "to give proper representation in Washington" for the district.

He wants his coalition to include all races and encompass the urban and rural people, and hopes to gain the support particularly of the Mathis voters.

"I feel confident that we will get that support. We had agreed to support whoever won," McCathern said.

He's also counting on a lot of the votes Kent Hance got in the governor's race primary. McCathern speculates that had it not been for area Hance support by conservative Democrats, that his own tallies in Lubbock and Odessa would have been as big as in rural areas.

"If I can get half the vote Hance got, in the general election I can beat Combest," McCathern says.

In Combest's last campaign in 1984, McCathern notes that many of those votes were on a straight Republican ticket supporting President Reagan and resulted in one of the largest voter turnouts. Without the presidential race, McCathern says Combest won't pull as many votes. But he admits that Combest still will have the Reagan support and won't be surprised if the president makes an appearance in the district to tout Combest.

Regardless, McCathern thinks his haul to November will be "easier than the primary."

Job prospects slim for students

By CINDY SMITH
Staff Writer

The lack of jobs is bad, according to Lester Rape, office manager of Texas Employment Commission. The unemployment rate in Deaf Smith County was 11.9 in March, the latest figure available.

With so many people unemployed the prospect of high school and college students finding work is even slimmer.

"Even farming, all jobs are way off for this time of year," Rape said. "We keep hearing about businesses that are going to come in but we're still waiting."

"We never have enough jobs, anyway, at the best years," said Rape. "With the economy in its present condition, people are not hiring extra help unless they just have to have somebody."

Rape admitted that the only way Texas Employment Commission can help the youth is for the kids to fill out an application at the office, at 403 W. Third.

He suggested that youth looking for work to try the Panhandle Community Services. "Between them and us, we hope to get some jobs in," said Rape.

Milk monitored for radiation

AUSTIN (AP) — Milk samples from here and Fort Worth were sent to Alabama for testing to determine whether radiation from the nuclear reactor plant accident in the Soviet Union has spread to Texas pastureland, officials said.

More samples will be taken twice a week until further orders from the Environmental Protection Agency, which activated the Pasteurized Milk Sampling Network Monday after radioactivity was detected high above the nation's western coast, said Ed Bailey of the Texas Department of Health's bureau of radiation control.

"It is not very likely that there will be significant quantities (of radiation) — in other words quantities that would result in milk in the U.S. going above the protective guidelines," Bailey said Tuesday.

He said air samples reported Tuesday to the state's three ground stations in Midland, Austin and Tyler, have been analyzed and do not show any unusual activity.

Man held in 18-year-old's death

HAWKINS, Texas (AP) — Police held a man twice convicted of sexual offenses for questioning in the brutal slaying of an 18-year-old Hawkins High School student and the disappearance of her two companions, authorities said.

The break Tuesday was the first in an investigation that had come up dry despite extensive searches with tracking dogs, scuba divers and workers on horseback, Wood County Sheriff Frank White said.

He said officials were to question the Texas Department of Corrections parolee today over the strangulation death Suzanne Denise Harrison and the whereabouts of Hawkins residents Bryan Boone and Gina Turner, both 20.

Miss Harrison was found beaten and strangled with her panties Monday at Barnwell Mountain park five miles north of Gilmer in Upshur County after disappearing along with Miss Turner and Boone at Lake Hawkins Sunday night.

Mayor renews ban on neckties

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Dusting off his trusty scissors, Mayor Jonathan Rogers has issued his favorite proclamation again and is turning his distaste for coats and neckties into an annual tradition.

Rogers' came up with the idea soon after entering office in 1980, but he made national headlines last year when, with great fanfare, he began snipping off ties in public settings other than City Hall.

He unilaterally declared the start of summer Tuesday and proclaimed that until the end of September, "coat and tie shall be banned and the guayabera or similar attire that reflects the heritage of the Southwest, shall be declared the sartorial equalizer and appropriate for all occasions, formal and informal."

The proclamation warned that the "mayor and members of City Council shall enforce this proclamation in any appropriate manner, including but not limited to, removal or cutting off ties, and ridiculing and shaming all recalcitrants who do not appreciate that El Paso is the Sun City and offers a climate unsurpassed in the United States."

Plant permit renewal challenged

DALLAS (AP) — A federal licensing board has ruled that Comanche Peak opponents have the right to legally challenge renewal of the plant's construction permit.

The U.S. Atomic Safety and Licensing Board released an order Monday allowing plant opponents to submit arguments that there is no adequate reason for construction delays.

Lawyers for Texas Utilities, which is building the plant near Glen Rose southwest of Fort Worth, said one of the reasons for the delay is that NRC officials found serious problems at the plant in 1984, meaning more time is needed to make corrections.

But Anthony Roisman, a Washington lawyer and Comanche Peak opponent, said the delays were not justified, claiming the utility had been notified of construction problems in reports dating as far back as 1975, more than 10 years before the permit expired.

The construction permit for the first unit of the twin-reactor plant which expired Aug. 1, 1985, was extended until 1988 by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission on Feb. 10.

The NRC must grant an extension if there is good cause for the delay.

Senate passes gun bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate approved a bill that will ease federal firearms controls and allow millions of gun owners to buy rifles and shotguns anywhere in the country, and the chief Senate sponsor said President Reagan would sign the measure.

Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, said "there is no doubt" Reagan will approve the bill that was sent to the White House by a unanimous Senate vote Tuesday night.

The vote masked a furious lobbying effort that pitted the gun lobby against police and handgun control organizations. Smooth passage came only after a three-hour meeting in the office of Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., during which an agreement was hammered out to modify the bill to satisfy gun control advocates.

Cases against media considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is considering prosecuting some news organizations for publishing information on U.S. intelligence capabilities and is trying to prevent the publication of other material, administration officials said Tuesday night.

The Justice Department's criminal division is reviewing the possibility of taking action against two newspapers, the Washington Post and Washington Times, and Time and Newsweek magazines, the officials said.

the contribution. Interest earned on the account would be deferred until withdrawal.

Other provisions of the bill would end the deduction for state and local sales taxes but continue the writeoff of income and property taxes; repeal the deduction for consumer interest, such as a car loan; permit deduction of mortgage interest on one or two homes; restrict the writeoff for medical expenses; continue full deduction of charitable contributions by itemizers but end the special writeoff for non-itemizers; and allow a deduction of only 80 percent of the cost of business meals and entertainment.

Special tax breaks enjoyed by the banking, oil, timber and mining industries would be continued with few changes, as would the tax exemption for bonds issued by state and local governments. As one of its last acts, the committee voted to exempt the oil industry from part of the new crackdown on "paper" losses from tax shelters.

JOBS

part of the Job Training Partnership Act which went into effect in October of 1983.

"Right now we are in the process of starting our Summer Youth Employment Program for youth from 14 years of age to 21," said Galvan.

"Youth can earn money for spending and school clothes for the coming school year and it also gives them experience," she said. Galvan said the program offers jobs in clerical, custodial, and maintenance work. "There are nine schools in Hereford that offer plenty of work for Hereford youth," she said.

Places of employment through the program also include the two Hereford day care centers, the Deaf Smith County Library, the Texas Employment Commission, Hereford Satellite Center, Deaf Smith County Museum, Department of Human Services, YMCA and Senior Citizens.

Jobs vary from a daycare worker to a food preparation line to being a maintenance man. Program aids and clerical workers are also in demand for these summer jobs.

Summer Youth Employment program is an eight-week program that pays minimum wage for those who are eligible. Another advantage of the program is a 50 percent reimbursement to the employer by Panhandle Community Services for participants hired under their program.

Galvan has been with agency for the past four years. Their services include a job training program in which counselors assist clients in training for employment.

"We also offer vocational testing to find out the client's skills and job abilities. Vocational counselors then make recommendations for what kind of training program the client needs to be in," said Galvan.

The year round program, under Title 2-A, offers classroom and on-the-job training, and limited work experience, to those 16 and older. Interested people wanting more information on employment services can contact Martha Galvan, job training coordinator, at 384-5631.

Alarm malfunctions

The Hereford Fire Department had only one call Tuesday — an alarm malfunction at 1115 West Park.

Five arrests made

The Hereford Police Department made five arrests Tuesday. One juvenile was arrested for criminal mischief and adults were arrested for public intoxication and shoplifting. One individual was arrested for being drunk while in control of a motor vehicle.

Police also heard reports of criminal mischief, a bike theft, domestic disturbance, a prowler, fight call, disturbing the peace, and harassment.

country and one of our students responded by asking what would they do if acts of terrorism were committed against their country.

The Australian girl replied, "What could we do?"

Marilyn Leasure, the teacher who conducted the call, told the Australian "that the U.S. could not allow those acts of terrorism against our country and its allies."

And of course, one HHS student assured the Australian girl that they could call on their allies for assistance.

What do the Australian students do in their spare time, besides thinking about world events?

The same thing American students do. They ride around in their cars and listen to loud rock music.

The HHS students reported that the same rock groups are as popular in Australia as here. The Australians also said they like to watch television in their spare time.

One Australian student asked "What's the price of petrol?" (Petrol is what Australians call gasoline.)

The HHS students thought that was a funny name. An Australian student said petrol is a 100 cents a gallon. Both groups decided prices of commodities and oil products were comparable in each country.

One student in Australia said one difference he could think of was walking out to the dairy to get fresh milk. He said they get fresh milk at half the price of retail in Australia.

Hereford's students asked the Australians about the weather Monday. "Down under" it was a cold, fall day going into winter.

HHS students also learned that Australian students have different seasons for attending school than do Americans. The Australians have a two-week winter vacation in May, a two-week spring vacation in September, and a summer vacation of seven weeks during the Christmas season.

The phone call was arranged by Dr. Harrell Holder who had contacted the Australian high school. Radio Shack of Hereford supplied the speaker amplifier at no cost to the students allowing them to speak as a group to the Australians.

Addresses and phone numbers were exchanged for more correspondence.

What did the Australians think of the Texas accents? They got a big kick out of "ya'll!"

get a high-level nuclear dump operational could be in jeopardy because of the latest problem, Loux said, adding that there is no room for mistakes or delays.

Under a congressional mandate, the DOE must choose a site by 1990 and have that site operational by 1998.

Bob Fulkerson, a spokesman for Citizens Alert, a statewide group opposed to the dump, also criticized the DOE for not taking care of the quality-control problems before now. "It confirms our suspicion that the work being done down there is real shoddy," Fulkerson said.

Loux said the quality-control issue is one more reason the state of Nevada should receive $1 million from the DOE to conduct an independent study.

Summer school schedules set

The Hereford School District will be providing a tuition free summer school program for students in the district in grades K-12 who are deficient in basic skills areas.

The junior and senior high summer school will run from June 9 through July 18. Classes in English, math, social studies, and science will be held from 8:30 to 10:10 a.m. and 10:20 to 12:00 a.m. Monday through Friday.

Elementary summer school will run from July 7 through August 15. Classes in reading, English, and math will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. Students at both summer schools will be expected to attend all sessions and follow school policies to remain eligible to attend classes. No transportation will be provided. Eligibility will be restricted to insure small classes and individual attention for students.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: As a professor of mathematics at Georgetown University, I would like to comment on your column on gambling. It is a mathematical fact that there is no possibility of winning when the odds are in favor of the house.

In simple roulette, if you bet a dollar on red, you will win a dollar about 48 percent of the time and will lose a dollar about 52 percent of the time because of the two greens.

Suppose you decide to bet one dollar at a time on red, until you have lost $50 or have won $50. You will lose your $50 over 98 percent of the time, and win $50 less than 2 percent of the time. While this is a simplified form of gambling, the same principle applies to more exotic systems: That is, the more you gamble the more you will lose.

You will make on the average over 1200 bets before you lose your $50. Therefore, if you view your losses as entertainment expenses, you may feel it is worth it. I personally do not find that throwing my money away is entertaining.

I teach the above to my college students because it involves interesting mathematics and it may stop some of them from gambling. —JAMES T. SANDEFUR, PROFESSOR OF MATHEMATICS, GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY.

DEAR J.T.S.: Anyone who doesn't get your message should go sit in the dance corner. Here's an apple for the teacher.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 19, married and have a child. I started to have sex when I was 15 (too young, I now realize) and became pregnant immediately after high school graduation. It was rough at first, but we are learning how to have a good marriage although we both know it would be better if we hadn't been forced to grow up so fast.

My little sister wasn't so lucky. Sue also got pregnant at 17 but didn't know who the father was. In her fifth month she had a miscarriage and discovered she had gonorrhea. Sue underwent treatment and is OK now, but she will be in therapy a long time trying to get over the guilt of losing a child because of a venereal disease.

Please print this letter so the sexually active kids out there will get an idea of how risky it is both physically and emotionally to go to bed with whoever turns them on. Girls should know it's OK to say, "No. This is my body and I'm going to decide what happens to it." I wish I had had the sense to know this a few years ago. —I READ YOU IN STARS AND STRIPES

DEAR READER: Thanks for a star-spangled answer. Stick with it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I dated a guy for several months before he made an attempt to kiss me. After a few weeks of kissing, he ended the relationship. I later learned he did that with two other women. I suspect the guy is gay but everyone who knows him says I am wrong.

Isn't this kind of behavior a tip-off to one's sexual preference? I'd like to know what NOT to look for in the future. —CURIOUS IN BALTIMORE

DEAR C. IN B.: Often the fear of intimacy is the result of a clutching, devouring mother. Men who have this problem are sometimes impotent. That could be his problem. Or, maybe you and those two other dames just don't turn him on.

What kind of wedding goes with today's new lifestyles? Does anything go? Ann Landers' "New Bride's Guide" tells what's right for today's weddings. For a copy, send $2.00, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11996, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Greek alphabet

Late in the second millennium or early in the first, the Greeks borrowed their alphabet from the Phoenicians and adapted it to their language. According to the World Almanac Book of Inventions, the introduction of vowels made the Greek alphabet unique and served as a link between the Semitic and Latin alphabets. The first two letters of the Greek alphabet, alpha and beta, are root words for the word "alphabet."

Ouida Halbert's Sesquicentennial table was selected as first place at the annual Tour of Tables held this weekend. The table was entered by the Hereford Country Club which is known for unique table setting designs. The table featured a balloon bouquet, Texas flags, and a Texas style table cloth.

Going on a fishin' trip? This entry at the second annual Tour of Tables came in first place in the children's division. Their boat that reads 'dry dock' features a pet bear who is ready to picnic. The table was entered by Bryant and Eric McNutt and Daniel Fields.

Pulled muscle common injury

It may feel good to exercise muscles which have hibernated all winter, but spring cleaning and warm weather sports can result in pulled muscles. According to the Texas Medical Association, pulled muscles are a very common but painful injury.

If a muscle is over-stretched, some of the fibers of which it is composed may tear. This may result from forcing muscles to do very vigorous exercise to which they are unaccustomed. When this happens, the muscle contracts and may also become swollen because of internal bleeding. Occasionally, the muscle may be ruptured or torn completely.

The main symptom of a pulled muscle is pain when the injury occurs. The pulled muscle feels tender, may become swollen, and will not function efficiently until the torn fibers have healed. A muscle that gradually becomes stiff, painful and tender (often overnight) probably has been pulled. In addition, a few of its fibers may have been torn.

In most cases, recovery from a pulled muscle is quick and complete, and there is no danger of permanent loss of mobility.

The older you are, the greater the damage you can do and the more slowly you recover. A ruptured muscle, however, may become permanently useless unless it is successfully treated.

If you have a pulled muscle that does not seem to be severely damaged, apply ice wrapped in a cloth or in an ice pack to help prevent further swelling and to decrease the pain. Try not to use the pulled muscle for several days, or as long as the pain persists. Bandaging or strapping the affected area will give it support, but be careful not to bind it too tightly. If you do, further swelling might then interfere with blood circulation.

If you are in great pain or the affected area becomes badly swollen, consult your physician, who may prescribe a painkiller, a muscle-relaxant drug, or both. You may be advised to use crutches for a leg injury or a sling for an injured arm, or even to stay in bed for a few days.

The doctor also may recommend physical therapy. If the muscle is ruptured, the best treatment often is direct repair through surgery.

Avoid food poisoning with proper storage

Anyone who has had even a mild case of food poisoning is likely to think twice before eating egg salad left out of the refrigerator. But most people are unsure about storage for many popular foods. The Texas Medical Association says follow these guidelines to make sure your food is safe, flavorful, and nutritious.

-Beef. You can store variety beef (heart, liver, etc.) for one day in the refrigerator; ground beef for one to two days; chops, steaks, sausage for two to three days; and roasts for two to four days. Variety beef and sausage can be frozen for one to two months; ground beef for two to three months; chops, six to nine months; and roasts, six months to a year.

-Chicken. Store chicken for only two to three days in the refrigerator, 12 months in the freezer. Chicken livers will keep one to two days in the refrigerator, three months frozen.

-Pork. In the refrigerator, chops will keep for two to three days, ground pork for one to two days, and roasts for two to four days. In the freezer, store chops for two to three months, ground pork for one to two months, and roasts for three to six months.

-Lunch meats. Most lunch meats should not be frozen; store them in the refrigerator for not more than four to six days.

-Eggs. In uncracked shells and fresh, they'll keep four to five weeks in the refrigerator; hard-boiled, a week. Don't freeze eggs.

-Milk. Count on five days in the refrigerator, or up to a month in the freezer.

Butter. Butter keeps its flavor for one to two weeks in the refrigerator. You can freeze it for about two months.

-Mayonnaise. It's a misconception that mayonnaise commonly causes food poisoning. You can keep an opened jar of mayonnaise in the refrigerator for up to a year provided you don't let it sit at room temperature for extended periods.

YMCA fitness class schedules to change

The Hereford and Vicinity YMCA will be changing times for the fitness and exercise classes to accommodate summer scheduling. Classes will continue to meet on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, according to Susan Marnell, fitness director.

Included in the new schedule are two "Bodyworks" sessions which start on Monday, May 12, at 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. The session will combine hydraulic weight machines, an aerobic workout, and stretching. Class enrollment will be limited and is restricted to those 18 and older. It is a co-ed class which will last six weeks. Babysitting will be available, also.

Summer's fitness classes at the Y will start with a 6:15 a.m. Early Bird Start-Out, for the beginner level.

At 9 a.m. is Start-Out Fitness, a low level and low impact class for burning calories.

Also at 9 a.m. is Watercise. Buoyancy of water makes possible movements that are difficult on land, thus enabling persons of any physical condition to participate.

Two more Start-Out Fitness classes are at 5 p.m. and 6 p.m.

For the person who wants a little more vigorous session there is Fitness Plus at 7 p.m. The class will be in the Y fitness area. It will include jumping, jogging, and skipping to music.

Another Watercise class is set for 7:30 p.m.

Safe, fun exercise for the pregnant woman is included in Pre-Natal Exercise set for 8 p.m. No jumping or hard movements are involved. Each participant must have a physician's approval to take the class.

Take 3-2 lead in series

Lakers beat Mavs 116-113

By KEN PETERS
AP Sports Writer
INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Dick Motta, the coach who's credited with uttering the immortal sports (and presumably opera) phrase, "It ain't over till the fat lady sings," might be hearing a voice in the wings.
But if so, he's ignoring it.
"We are outlasting them and outplaying them. The series should be 4-1 right now, in our favor,"

Dallas Coach Motta said Tuesday night after the Los Angeles Lakers beat the Mavericks 116-113 to take a 3-2 edge in their NBA playoff series.
"I am not playing head games; I'm just telling the truth. They've got a tiger by the tail."
And next, the "tiger" gets the defending NBA champion Lakers in its "lair," Reunion Arena in Dallas on Friday night. The Mavericks beat the Lakers there in two games over the weekend before the best-of-seven series shifted back to California.

"Maybe the home-court advantage means that extra two to three points," said Dallas center James Donaldson. "It's certainly been the case so far. It'll be interesting to see what happens in Dallas."
A seventh game, if necessary, will be played at the Lakers' Forum on Saturday afternoon.
The fifth game, like the two games in Dallas and the second game in Inglewood, was extremely close almost all the way.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the 39-year-old center who's appeared in more playoff games than any other man in NBA history, led the Lakers this time with 34 points, including a critical hookshot with nine seconds remaining. He also had eight rebounds and nine assists.
"He's the 'Captain,' and when the going got tough, he rose to the occasion," Laker Coach Pat Riley said of Abdul-Jabbar. "Kareem is very good at picking out the open man, and his assists made a big difference."
Abdul-Jabbar's crucial hook gave the Lakers a 115-110 lead with just nine seconds to play. Brad Davis' three-point basket with three seconds left narrowed the margin to 115-113, but James Worthy made a free throw with one second remaining for the final margin.

The Mavericks had fallen behind 97-88 in the first four minutes of the final period, but rallied to catch the Lakers at 107 with 2½ minutes to play.
Earvin "Magic" Johnson scored 29 points for the Lakers and had 14 assists. Worthy, who had just two points in the first half after getting in foul trouble, scored 17 in the second.

Michael Cooper came off the bench to score 17 points for Los Angeles.
Mark Aguirre, who led the Mavericks' victory with 39 points in the fourth game, had 27 this time. Rolando Blackman added 23 for Dallas, and Derek Harper had 15.

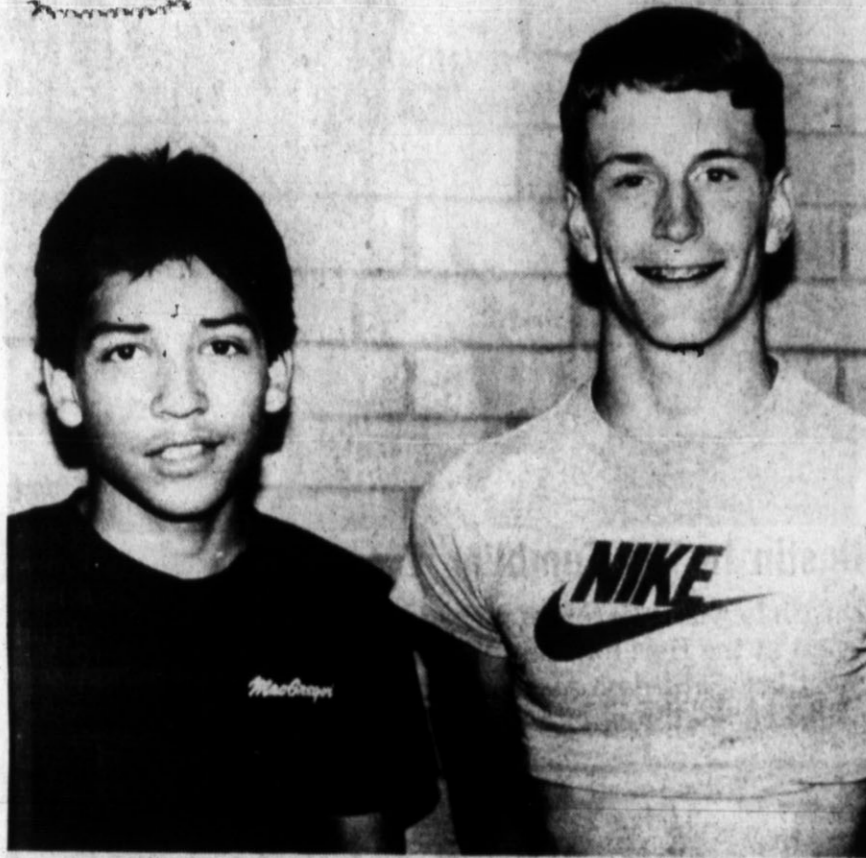

"The Mavs are a great young team," said Worthy. "They've already beaten us twice and I think they think they can win this series. We had to prove in this game that we were going to do whatever it takes to stop them."
"We knew it was a big game for us and we delivered," Johnson said. "It was a matter of who survived. I hate to see games so close, but I also love it. It's great basketball."
"It will be difficult down there in Dallas," Johnson said. "We played well there and made the games close, and this time, we hope to come out on the winning end."
Said the Mavericks' Blackman: "We'll go home and see what we can do. We have to keep our concentration. We know that we can still win this series."

Dr. Cook scheduled to speak

Lutheran churches

Dr. Ron Cook, pastor of First Baptist Church, will be the guest speaker at the Deaf Smith County Genealogical Society meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Deaf Smith County Library Heritage Room. Dr. Cook's sesquicentennial topic will be entitled "The Influence of Early Texas On Our Lives." He has done extensive reading on early Texas and the lives of the early settlers and will explain about the people, culture and religion. He will also give pointers on how early church records were kept and how genealogists can find these records. Visitors are welcome to attend. There will be no summer meetings for the Genealogy Society. The first fall meeting will be in September.

The Lutheran Church in America is the largest of three major Lutheran bodies in the United States. The others are the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod and the American Lutheran Church. Together they have more than 8 million members. All three belong to the New York-based Lutheran Council in the U.S.A., which coordinates various joint activities.

Public invited to program Thursday

Texas' economy in the next two decades will be as significantly influenced by the revolution in telecommunications technology as it was by highways in years gone by, according to Bill Haehnel, Southwestern Bell Telephone science demonstrator.

Haehnel's program, titled "Gateway to the Information Age," will be presented to the Hereford senior citizens at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center on Thursday, at 1 p.m. in the activities room.

"At the core of our business existence in Texas are knowledge-intensive industries—finance, medicine, energy, electronics—all of which are dependent on a sophisticated communications network," said Haehnel.

He noted Southwestern Bell is at the center of the high-tech explosion in Texas, and improvements in the Texas network will have major impact on productivity in the state in years ahead.

"Lightwave systems, digital switching, and other advanced technologies will be required to meet customers' demands," said Haehnel.

A 43-year veteran of the communications business, Haehnel will examine technological changes affecting the whole spectrum of human endeavor, both in business and personal lives of Texans.

Haehnel predicts telecommunications sales world-wide, more than $40 billion in 1980, are likely to double by 1990, and could even double again by the turn of the century.

Southwestern Bell's construction budget in Texas in 1986 will be more than $1.2 billion. "This expenditure is essential if we're to meet our goal of providing first-class service," said Haehnel. "Good telephone service costs money, but poor service is no bargain at any price."

"The customer of tomorrow will expect things like shopping without leaving home, electronic mail, point-of-sale credit, and many other services," Haehnel said. "We want to be in a position to provide those services, and the many others people will want, today and tomorrow."

Program Scheduled

Bill Haehnel, Southwestern Bell science demonstrator, talks about the company's role as "The Gateway to the Information Age" in its new, competitive environment. Haehnel will speak at 1 p.m. Thursday in the Hereford Senior Citizens Center. The public is invited to attend.

DR. GOTT Readers' tips on tick removal

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR READERS — Last fall I had a letter from a reader who wanted to know the best way to remove embedded ticks. I put the question to you readers for suggestions. Since we are now headed into tick season again, I want to share with you the methods that some of your fellow readers suggested:

— "Pour two or three drops of rubbing alcohol on the tick, let it soak in, then make circular movements with a cotton swab. He can't breathe and will let loose."

— "Cover the tick with some petroleum jelly. It will back out by itself."

— "A little kerosene or gasoline rubbed over the tick will back it out in a hurry."

— "Old-timers keep a bottle of Campho-Phenique just for this purpose."

— "Turpentine."

— "Rub them with oil or butter."

— "It takes a while, but they will back out if you use an ordinary blow dryer, set on high heat, but held not too close to the skin."

— "Since ticks burrow in clockwise, they can be removed if you use tweezers and pull them out gently counterclockwise."

— "Apply a drop or two of nail-polish remover. The tick will relax and can be pulled out easily."

— "Spray with hair spray."

— "Up-end a bottle of mercurochrome or iodine over the embedded tick."

— "I keep a bottle of typewriter cleaner especially for this job."

— "Touch something hot to the tick's hind end."

— "The best way I have found is to dab the tick's behind with a little 'white lightning' (moonshine). It makes the tick drunk and he crawls out."

— "If you get a tick in the woods, break off a little pine branch and touch the end of the tick with the pine pitch. It will die and drop off."

My all-time favorite is, "I'm 81, and when I was a child, we lived on a miserable homestead out of Lakeview, Ore. We had learned to run from rattlesnakes and blue racers. We played in the sagebrush and up a small canyon. Every night my mama would take our clothes off by the stove and look for ticks on our bodies. If she found any, she would take the potato off the kerosene can and wet a rag and put it over the tick and he came out nearly at once, but we would scream because the kerosene would burn. She used the same rag on all of us. Then my father would throw the rag into the stove and it went off with a bang. So that made us feel better."

As I said, I'm open to all suggestions. However, with all the federal restrictions now, this treatment is probably against the law.

DEAR DR. GOTT — A lady I know had ovarian cancer, breast cancer and a complete hysterectomy. Does she need a regular gynecological checkup?

DEAR READER — In my opinion, yes; absolutely yes. Although the surgery probably removed all of the original tumors, she is still at risk for new cancers or delayed spread of the old malignancies. Breast cancer, for example, will sometimes appear on the other side years after the original breast lesion has been treated. Ovarian cancer can also be tricky. Any woman who had tumors in her reproductive tract had better plan on regular checkups for many years.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Why does hair grow in an old man's ears? DEAR READER — Hair grows in youngsters' ears, too, but it becomes coarser and more noticeable as a person ages. There is probably a hormonal explanation for this, because women's ear hairs tend to remain unobtrusive.

Dr. Gott's new Health Report on weight loss tells you how to lose weight wisely — and keep it off. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 2597, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to ask for WINNING THE BATTLE OF THE BULGE.

Here are a few simple tips to help insure wholesomeness in milk and milk products.

In The Store

Shop only at reputable dealers and retail outlets that comply with local laws and food safety regulations.

Pick up perishable items like milk and milk products as you get ready to check-out. This way they stay refrigerated the maximum amount of time.

Carefully check the package. Has it been opened? Is it damaged, thereby exposing the product to air, light, or heat?

Take a moment to look at the contents of the package. How does the product look, smell, etc.

Check the date on the product to insure that it is fresh.

Is the storage case for the product clean, dry, and cold?

Once you purchase the product, take it home. Do not leave milk and fresh milk products in hot cars for extended periods of time. Heat destroys freshness very quickly.

At Home

As soon as you arrive home, place milk and milk products in your refrigerator.

When was the last time you checked your refrigerator temperature? A temperature of 33 degrees to 40 degrees F is ideal for keeping foods fresh for longer periods of time.

Do not let your milk and milk products stand at room temperature for extended periods of time. Get the product you need and immediately return the package to the refrigerator.

Never mix milk of varying temperatures together.

Keep all milk and milk product packages covered or sealed to protect from other food flavors in the refrigerator.

A product does not have to look or smell bad to be unwholesome. However, smell and appearance are indicators of a product's freshness. If in doubt, don't use the product.

By following these few simple tips consumers can help assure they purchase and consume only the freshest milk and milk products available.

A little extra care insures fresh, safe, wholesome milk and milk products filled with essential vitamins, minerals, and nutrients.

Federal Judge appoints special master in case

TYLER, Texas (AP) — U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice said he plans to appoint a special master to oversee court-ordered integration in federal housing projects in East Texas.

Justice said Monday he plans to appoint University of Alabama law professor Francis E. McGovern as special master.

Justice ruled last July in a class-action suit that the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development "knowingly created, promoted and funded racially segregated housing" in a 36-county region of East Texas.

In December, HUD filed a plan with the court to integrate the region's 177 housing projects.

McGovern would monitor HUD's integration efforts and study public housing in the region to suggest other ways to integrate it. He would report to the court bimonthly and issue a final report and recommendation in February 1987, according to the proposed order.

"I reserve the right to change my mind, but at this time I anticipate I am going to appoint a special master," Justice said at the end of a hearing. Another hearing is scheduled May 23.

After the hearing, McGovern began negotiating the terms of the special master agreement with lawyers from both sides.

Dallas lawyer Mike Daniel, representing the housing project tenants who filed suit, said he supports the use of a special master.

Nurses Day being observed today

"For competent, cost-effective care, choose a nurse," is the theme for National Nurses' Day today. The Texas Nurses Association and Texas' 106,000 registered nurses join the American Nurses' Association (ANA) and our nation's 1.9 million RNs in marking the event.

Registered nurses care for patients in their homes, community clinics, nursing homes, hospitals, corporate health centers, and health maintenance organizations. Increasing numbers of RNs are working as entrepreneurs and in collaborative practice with other health professionals. Today, more and more consumers can and do choose the services of registered nurses for quality health care at prices they can afford.

According to a recent national public opinion poll, the American public favors increased responsibility for nurses as a way to hold health care costs down. Some 92 percent of those surveyed believe that nurses should be allowed to increase their areas of responsibility and 80 percent believe that costs could be lowered if more services were performed by nurses. However, in many states, consumer choice remains limited because services provided by nurses cannot be covered through insurance.

"The public's vote of confidence in nursing has caused us to redouble our efforts to eliminate barriers in nursing practice," said AMA President Eunice Cole, RN. "We are working to get outdated policies off the books so that all consumers can choose a nurse for quality health care services at affordable prices."

Silent disease dangerous

High blood pressure doesn't hurt. It often doesn't make you feel bad. But despite its lack of symptoms, this disorder can be dangerous to your health.

Many of the 20 percent of adult Americans who have high blood pressure do not know it, says the Texas Medical Association. If you've never had your blood pressure checked, now is a good time to do so. May is National High Blood Pressure Month.

Hypertension, the medical term for high blood pressure, is a condition in which the blood in your arteries is putting too much pressure on the vessels' walls. Hypertension usually begins at about age 30 and is more common as age increases, but it can occur in any age and any person.

New England leads 1985 in personal income

WASHINGTON (AP) — New England, enjoying a boom in high-tech industry, had the fastest personal income growth of any region last year, with the poorest performance coming in states dependent on energy production, the government reports.

Nationwide, Americans' personal income climbed 5.3 percent to an average of $13,451 for every person in the country last year, the Commerce Department said Monday.

The increase was substantially below the giant 9.3 percent rise enjoyed in 1984 and reflected the fact that the economy performed much more sluggishly last year. Still, the advance kept incomes ar-owing faster than the inflation rate, which was 3.8 percent in 1985.

Officials recommend return of blimps

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Navy board has given its blessing to returning the blimp to active duty, a move that would harness updated versions of a World War II standby and pit it against the latest in Soviet missile technology, Navy sources say.

The Chief of Naval Operations' executive board has recommended to Navy Secretary John F. Lehman that he seek funds to begin building a new fleet of airships in fiscal 1988, said Navy officials who asked not to be named.

The biggest income growth for a single state was in Nebraska, but much of the 9 percent advance came from huge government farm commodity purchases. Without this boost, Nebraska would have had income growth of 5.6 percent last year, close to the national average.

The board, during a meeting a week ago, concluded a newly designed, modern blimp could serve as a useful and relatively cheap "radar platform" that could travel with surface ships and warn them against low-flying cruise missiles, the sources said.

The Navy refused Monday to discuss the matter, saying only that the program's future had yet to be decided.

Following Nebraska were the New England states of Vermont, up 7.1 percent; Massachusetts, up 7 percent; and New Hampshire, up 6.9 percent.

The board is contemplating between 20 and 50 blimps and is urging Lehman to go to bat for the program during upcoming internal budget fights, the officials added.

Lehman has not made a final decision, however, and the outlook for his response is clouded by the new Gramm-Rudman balanced-budget

Also in the top 10 were Virginia, with income growth of 6.6 percent; Connecticut and Minnesota, both with 6.5 percent increases; New Jersey, up 6.4 percent; Maryland, 6.3 percent; and New York, 6.2 percent.

Other states with income gains below the 3.8 percent nationwide rise in inflation were Louisiana, up 2.6 percent, South Dakota, up 2.8 percent, and Kentucky, up 3.4 percent. The slow growth in these areas was linked to either a slump in energy production or weakness in farm incomes.

The rest of the bottom 10 included Hawaii, up 3.9 percent; South Carolina, Washington state and Mississippi, all up 4 percent, and Oklahoma with a 4.1 percent increase.
