Bluebonnet owner may be forced to sell thrifts

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

A legal basis may have been established for overturning the 1988 bailout of Hi-Plains Savings and Loan FSA of Hereford and 14 other Texas thrift associations during a Senate subcommittee meeting on Monday.

The Senate Judiciary subcommittee on Monday heard testimony from James M. Fail, an Arizona insurance magnate who acquired the thrifts on Dec. 22, 1988.

Fail acknowledged Monday that the disclosure statements he filed with the Federal Home Loan Bank Board were not entirely accurate and did not fully disclose his past legal problems.

Fail said he fully disclosed the relevant details before the Dec. 22, 1988 agreement, but the biographical information form that is referred to most often by federal regulators was never amended or corrected.

One of the penalties for failing to disclose the legal problems could be removal as owner of the association.

"I believe there is enough to reopen and renegotiate the contract," said Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, after the all-day hearing. "The real issue is can we save the taxpayers millions and possibly billions of dollars? I believe the answer is yes."

Fail said he was "very proud of what we have done with Bluebonnet," which reportedly had a profit of $270 million in 1989. "We are operating the thrift exactly the way we were told," Fail said. "It would be a travesty to me and the taxpayers if we were to incur an additional burden."

Fail said everything he owns is tied up in the thrift deal.

Metzenbaum said the Bluebonnet deal and other bailouts completed in a headlong rush at the end of 1988 were "very sweet," virtually assuring S&L acquirers a profit from generous government subsidies.

"The regulators couldn't possibly have known what they were doing in the hustle and bustle," he said.

Former senior regulators who testified to the subcommittee previously said they did not know all of the details of the fraud allegations and that if they had, Fail would have been disqualified.

The form that would have been used to disqualify Fail is Form 1393, a typically-exhaustive government form that asks detailed questions about persons wishing to purchase federal banks and thrifts. Fail's version of that form was reviewed with him by Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, a subcommittee member.

One question asks whether the respondent has ever been the subject of a criminal action (more serious than a traffic ticket), and if so, explain.

There are "yes" and "no" boxes. Fail checked the "no" box. When Hatch asked why, Fail explained, "Yes, I checked the 'no' box, and that's incorrect, but it is reported in the next box."

The next question asks whether the respondent has ever been the subject of a civil action, including fraud or failure to perform fiduciary duties.

On this question, Fail checked the "yes" box, and explained fraud allegations leveled against him in 1976. Fail was indicted on those charges, but they were later dismissed. A company he controlled, United Security Holding Co., pleaded guilty to fraud and paid a $5,000 fine. As part of the settlement, Fail agreed not to conduct insurance business in Alabama.

"That's a criminal matter," Hatch said.

"I don't really know," Fail said. "I filed so many of these things I don't really know."

Fail acknowledged that he had signed the original incomplete disclosure documents (at one point calling it "That confounded report that's inaccurate") but said they had been prepared by his staff and he did not read them closely. He also admitted he did not disclose civil suits that were connected to the Alabama criminal indictment.

"I had a very bad habit in the past, which I can assure you I will not have in the future, of signing a great many things which are placed before me," Fail said.

Fail said he reported the details in a Dec. 18 letter to Thomas Lykos, then in charge of the bank board's bailout program in the Southwest. Fail said that on Dec. 19 he sent an attorney to

New York to further discuss the case with regulators.

"We went out of our way to see that it was disclosed," he said, adding that hiding the incident "would be like trying to slip an elephant into a girls' dormitory."

However, Sens. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., and Hatch, complained that the disclosures were confusing, made at the last minute and buried in fine print.

"You didn't put in the part that made you look bad," Specter added.

Metzenbaum thoroughly reviewed Fail's finances and the monetary arrangements that allowed him to buy Bluebonnet. Metzenbaum said that Fail used an initial personal cash investment of $1,000, and borrowed another $70 million for the initial payment to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. Fail also made a $25 million loan for a payment in 1989, and has another $25 million payment due in 1990.

Fail explained that he is "not a wealthy man" and had to borrow some of the money from one of his companies, Lifeshares, and from the Bankers Life and Casualty Co. conglomerate in Chicago.

Metzenbaum said Fail "made a total investment of $120 million in return for $3 billion from the American taxpayers... You got an investment (from the federal government) of $270 million in 1989. How much was it in fact?" Metzenbaum asked.

Fail said "$270 million is what the newspaper people said it was," but said he did not know what the figure was. Fail's attorney, Ronal Liebman, said a Federal Saving and Loan Insurance Corporation (FSLIC) memo that would list the bailout payment was "confidential."

"I don't understand that what the American taxpayer put in a savings and loan is confidential," exclaimed Metzenbaum.

Metzenbaum reviewed his version of the financing arrangement, and said that Lifeshares, which "was worth $20 million, not $35 million, in 1988 is now insolvent."

Fail was unable to obtain the entire $70 million investment until February 1989, two months after the deal was approved. He said that on Dec. 22, 1988, when the deal was approved,

More than a mouthful

Essie Thomas, 8, of Hereford, tries to consume even more cream pie during a pie-eating contest on Monday at Moore's Jack and Jill. The store sponsored the contest as part of its activities to boost the Town and Country Jubilee this week in Hereford.

Crimestoppers pays rewards

Deaf Smith County Crimestoppers recently paid $450 in reward money to three anonymous callers who provided tips on the Crimestoppers' Clue Line about crimes in Deaf Smith County.

One of the three tips cleared up a burglary at a Hereford video rental store. The tip resulted in the arrest and indictment of two adult suspects and the recovery of over $1,000 in stolen property.

That caller received a $300 reward.

Another tip resulted in the arrest of an adult and the recovery of $400 in stolen property from a motor vehicle burglary. That caller received a $100 reward.

A third caller's tip led to $400 in stolen property being recovered from a 1987 burglary at the Hereford Gun Club. No charges have been filed, but a $50 reward was paid for the information.

Clue Line callers remain anonymous by using a code name or number. Payments are made to the anonymous callers by making a payment "drop" at a site of the caller's choosing.

Cookoff, poetry to highlight HOF rodeo

A fajita cookoff and cowboy and cowgirl poetry recitation will help highlight the 15th annual Hall of Fame All Girl Rodeo at The Barn, six miles west and two miles north of Hereford, on Friday.

The rodeo will feature 120 contestants in seven events at 7 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and 3 p.m. on Sunday. Tickets to the rodeo are $4 per person.

Before Friday's performance, the second annual Fajita Cookoff, sponsored by Hereford CattleWomen, will be held, with tasting beginning at 6 p.m. on the east side of The Barn. Entry information is available by calling the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce at 364-3333.

Beginning at 5:30 p.m., the annual Hereford Cowboy/Cowgirl Poetry Roundup will be conducted, with Jake Holster of Amarillo chairing the event. Poetry, stories and sons of the west will be recited, told and sung by 13 persons from throughout Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

City okays zoning change

Hereford city commissioners approved a zoning change and okayed their part of a three-way agreement for new office space during a brief meeting Monday at City Hall.

The zoning change was requested by Bill McDowell at 107 Cooper. McDowell wanted the zoning for the property changed from residential to central business district. The other property in the area, just west of the Mrs. Baird's Thrift Store on South 25 Mile Ave., is zoned commercial.

Lou Serrano, head of the juvenile probation department, requested the new office space for the department, citing the cramped quarters at the Deaf Smith County Courthouse.

Serrano said the expanded office space, which will be sought in the near future, would allow for more programs for young offenders. Serrano said he plans to have a classroom for youngsters who are on probation and have been expelled from school.

The plan must still be approved by county commissioners and the Hereford school board. The new office space would cost each of the entities an addition $3,935 a year.

Abortion splits ABA

CHICAGO (AP) - The American Bar Association is demonstrating how deeply divided it is over taking a public stand on abortion, and the future of its pro-choice policy remains in doubt.

By a vote of 885-836 Monday, members at the ABA's Assembly meeting adopted a resolution that supporters say is designed to restore the nation's largest lawyers' group to a position of neutrality on abortion. "Questions presented by a decision to terminate pregnancy are extremely divisive," the resolution said. "The ABA for the good of the association will not adopt a policy supportive of a particular viewpoint."

The resolution urged repeal of a pro-abortion-rights stand adopted by the ABA's policymaking body, its House of Delegates.

That body will meet Wednesday to decide whether it should adopt the recommendation and rescind its pro-choice stand approved in February by a margin of better than 2-1.

Bush vows 'whatever it takes' for Kuwait

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush is vowing to do whatever it takes to enforce a United Nations trade embargo against Iraq, while officials investigate a rapid rise in gasoline prices that accompanied the invasion of Kuwait.

As Iraq announced a 100,000-troop increase in its 1-million-member armed forces, the U.S. military was boosting its own presence in the Persian Gulf area.

After meeting separately with Bush on Monday, British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney each spoke of a possible naval blockade to punish Iraq and force a troop withdrawal.

The State Department demanded an accounting for 28 Americans reported rounded up in Kuwaiti hotels by Iraqi troops as part of a larger group. "We hold Iraq responsible for their safety," said State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler, adding that it was premature to consider the 28 to be hostages. About a dozen Americans were reported to have arrived in Baghdad, the State Department said later Monday.

The Persian Gulf crisis defied the traditional August doldrums in Washington:

Three congressional panels arranged hearings today into gasoline price increases of up to 19 cents a gallon despite record-high levels of oil stocks.

Senate Republican leader Bob Dole called for a Justice Department investigation into possible price-fixing by oil companies. The agency said it would look for possible violations and promised "vigorous antitrust prosecution" of any wrongdoing.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater expressed concern about possible "severe economic consequences" at home resulting from a threat to the stability of the world's oil markets - in an economy already struggling with slow growth and rising unemployment.

Whatever the economic repercussions, Bush called for "full and total" implementation of the U.N. sanctions against Iraq's Saddam Hussein. The president met on Monday with Mrs. Thatcher, Mulroney and Manfred Woerner, secretary general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"Ruling nothing out at all," Bush said when asked about a possible blockade.

"These sanctions will be enforced, whatever it takes," he vowed. The reprisals call for a worldwide embargo on trade with Iraq, including the purchase of oil and the sale of consumer goods.

Asked if a blockade would be needed to enforce the sanctions, Mulroney said, "It certainly wouldn't hurt at all."

Mrs. Thatcher said the West would have to consider a naval blockade of the Persian Gulf.

AG charges oil firms using Iraqi crisis to hike gasoline prices

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox charged major oil companies with using the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait to drive up gasoline prices, which have increased in some areas by as much as 20 cents per gallon.

Mattox on Monday called on U.S. Attorney General Dick Thornburgh to launch a federal probe into whether the oil companies have conspired to gouge customers.

"The gasoline currently being purchased by Texas consumers was obtained, refined and shipped to the pumps long before the recent invasion," Mattox said in a letter to Thornburgh.

The oil companies "have simply seized upon these events halfway around the world to raise their prices without justification."

"To raise the price of gasoline already at the pumps is an unconscionable act of corporate greed perpetrated by major oil companies," he said.

Mattox said recent increases in crude oil prices should not hit pumps until September. "Texas consumers will likely be paying higher prices soon enough," he said.

Kelly Fero, a spokesman for Mattox, said customers are paying 20 cents more per gallon at some stations.

The attorney general's office has received hundreds of telephone calls from Texans angered over the price hikes following Iraq's invasion of oil-rich Kuwait on Thursday, Fero said.

Mattox started receiving calls Thursday night at his home and since then, "The phone is ringing off the hook. People are angry and suspicious of the price hikes," Fero said.

A task force has been established within the state attorney general's consumer protection division to investigate allegations of price-gouging, Fero said.

He said the task force will determine whether the oil companies have violated state anti-trust or price-gouging laws.

Jim Shillingburg, executive vice president of the Texas Oil Marketers Association, said gasoline wholesalers are having to pass along the increases from the oil companies.

"The fear of the unknown has made the major oil companies to increase their price," he said.

Fero said gas prices increased by 20 cents in several stations in Beaumont; 13 cents in Marshall; and 10 cents in Corpus Christi and McAllen.

Claim of CIA plot latest in list of theories on JFK assassination

DALLAS (AP) - A man's claims that his father was one of three triggermen in a CIA-ordered assassination of John F. Kennedy is the latest in a long list of theories about who killed the nation's 35th president.

"There's the mob theory, the intelligence community, Fidel Castro, the right-wing of that period, Texas oilmen, the KGB, LBJ, the FBI, the Secret Service and the military, just to name a few," Gary Shaw of Cleburne, Texas, said Monday.

Shaw is vice president of the JFK Assassination Information Center, a privately run group that researches various assassination theories. Its offices are located blocks away from the assassination site.

"You can build a case in your own mind for any and all of the theories," Shaw said Monday.

The latest conspiracy theory was detailed Monday by Ricky Don White, who contends his father joined the Dallas police department in September 1963 to carry out the assassination. He said his father, Roscoe White, was one of three CIA operatives who fired the shots.

The CIA issued an unusually strong rebuttal to White's claims.

White acknowledged he has tried to sell a book or movie on his theory. Here's a look at various theories:

The Mob

A British television program claimed that three French gangsters assassinated the president on a contract from organized crime. (French records showed that two of the three couldn't have been in Dallas at the time.) A book and a public television show espoused a mob theory involving a reputed Louisiana mob chieftain who once was a prime target of then-Attorney General Robert Kennedy.

The Intelligence Community

Almost two decades after the assassination, it was learned the CIA had a personnel file for Lee Harvey Oswald, whom the Warren Commission determined fired the fatal shots and acted alone.

But when the file was given to congressional investigators, it was empty. A massive military file on Oswald was "routinely" destroyed.

A CIA teletype dated nearly two months before the assassination indicates the agency was creating evidence in Mexico to incriminate Oswald.

Photographic experts have said incriminating pictures in Oswald's backyard of him holding a rifle in one hand and Communist newspapers in the other, are clever fakes.

The FBI

Less than two hours after the assassination, at a time when Dallas police were still unsure of the identity of their suspect, FBI director J. Edgar Hoover had complete knowledge of Lee Harvey Oswald, FBI documents show.

Jack Ruby, who killed Oswald, was once an informant for the FBI, and much evidence suggests that Oswald also worked for the FBI. Texas authorities reported Ruby's informant number was T-179 and that he was paid $200 a month.

The Secret Service

Several witnesses, including Dallas policemen, encountered men with Secret Service identification in Dealey Plaza before and after the assassination. Yet, officially there were no agents in the vicinity.

The Military

Oswald reportedly offered military secrets to the Soviets, yet according to official records, the U.S. government never bothered to question him upon his return to the United States, and in fact loaned him money for his return.

Lyndon Johnson

In a letter from his jail cell, Ruby wrote that only Vice President Lyndon Johnson had the prior knowledge of JFK's visit to Texas that would have allowed Oswald, "who had never worked a lick in his life," to get a job at the Texas School Book Depository Building, two weeks before the visit was public knowledge.

"... The only one who gained by the shooting of the president was Johnson, and he was in a car in the rear and safe when the shooting took place."

he had $35 million (a loan based on Lifeshare's purported worth at the time) and, later that day, a $35 million verbal loan commitment from Bankers' then-chairman Robert Shaw.

The Bluebonnet deal was approved at 1:30 p.m. on Dec. 22, 1988. Fail did not receive the commitment from Shaw until after 6 p.m. that day.

"It would appear this deal was greased to go, and you had the lubricant to make it go," Metzenbaum said. "You were dealing with mirrors and hopes when you told the FSLIC you had the money. You had nothing more than that black box the New York office of the New York Federal Home Loan Bank Board said you were using."

Fail had problems paying the $5 million interest due on the Bankers note last Dec. 22, later testimony disclosed. In order to make the interest payment, Metzenbaum said Fail's insurance company made a $4.5 million loan to Shaw's CNSC holding company in return for a pledge on Consolidated Federal Savings Bank, the holding company for Bluebonnet. Shaw then made a $5 million loan to Fail, Metzenbaum said, then Fail made the $5 million interest payment to Bankers.

Fail said that since Bluebonnet shares could not be encumbered, he intended to make a "negative pledge" to Shaw: Fail wanted to pledge the company would do nothing to diminish the value of Bluebonnet. Instead, it turns out, the final agreement ended up with a pledge of Consolidated shares.

"In spite of the regulations...when Shaw on behalf of Bluebonnet Savings and Loan gave you a commitment, you gave him a pledge of shares of Consolidated."

"I never encumbered Bluebonnet stock," Fail said.

"You couldn't pledge Bluebonnet stock," Metzenbaum said. "CFSB owns 100 percent of Bluebonnet, so you got around the regulations by pledging stock in CFBS."

"...I expected to give a negative pledge. I didn't violate my agreement with the government because I didn't pledge the stock of Bluebonnet."

Metzenbaum is also scrutinizing the role of GOP lobbyist Robert Thompson, who represented Fail in negotiations with regulators. Thompson was an aide to President Bush when he served as vice president.

Thompson, who had been fighting the panel's subpoena, appeared briefly at the hearing, delivered documents and read a prepared statement. He is scheduled to be questioned by the panel Sept. 11.

The lobbyist continues to dispute the subcommittee's jurisdiction, but said, "I do not want to give any one any excuse to say that my absence from these proceedings indicates I have something to hide."

Thompson said his representation of Fail "followed all rules of propriety" and "not one word has been uttered, not one fact has been disclosed, that suggests I did anything improper."

He said he was promised 2 percent of Fail's profits in the deal but has received nothing because Bluebonnet has yet to pay a stock dividend. Fail disputes him, saying he knew that would be an improper arrangement under federal regulations.

Monday's session was the third held by the Metzenbaum panel. Just before Fail took his place at the witness table, Thomas K. Pennington, former president of an insurance company controlled by Fail, said Fail and a top aide, Harry Carneal, believed they couldn't lose in the Bluebonnet bailout.

"They felt it was a no-brainer - that they'd have to be awful stupid not to make money," Pennington said.

Dave Skidmore of the Associated Press contributed to this story.

Federal troops were ordered out of New Orleans in 1877, ending the North's post-Civil War rule in the South.

Children of working parents need after-school care

By 1995, 80 percent of all school-age children will have mothers in the work force, and many of those children may be left to care for themselves after school, says Texas Medical Association.

When parents don't arrive home from work until after 5 or 6 p.m., their children face a number of safety risks, such as fire, falls and molestation, said TMA member Jerry Newton, M.D., school health doctor of the San Antonio Independent School District.

In addition to physical dangers, these so-called "latchkey" children are deprived of nurturing and other social-emotional needs. Some sit fearfully behind a locked door watching television, while others roam the streets where they risk getting involved in alcohol and drugs.

Finding quality after-school care for children often is difficult and expensive. TMA supports the concept of after-hours care in the schools, particularly for children of low-income families.

"After-school care at school is an excellent way to provide day-care for working parents," Dr. Newton said, because the physical facilities (building, utilities, playground) already are there.

But, he emphasized, after-school care should not "be an extension of school." Children should not do homework or other academic tasks, but rather engage in "free play."

"Children need to develop social skills by playing with other children, and they can't do that when adults are always telling them what to do," said Dr. Newton.

Play "ought to be fun and not geared toward physical fitness," he continued. Parents should be sure caregivers "encourage children to participate for their own enjoyment and not to perform or perfect athletic skill."

Besides play, after-school programs ideally should offer nutritional snacks, arts and crafts projects, and enrichment activities such as music.

In most large cities in Texas, after-school care is available at some public schools, usually in cooperation with a non-profit community organization.

In 1989, the Texas Legislature passed a law requiring school districts with more than 5,000 students to have two public hearings annually to assess the need for school-age care and its availability in the community.

Whether seeking public or private after-school care, TMA encourages parents to choose quality programs. Anything less is not worth the risk.

The Texas Medical Association is a professional organization of more than 29,000 physician and medical student members. It is based in Austin and has 110 component county medical societies around the state. The association represents 82 percent of the doctors of medicine licensed and residing in Texas and its goal is to improve the health of Texas through the professional and personal development of its members.

Clay Angelo named honorary mayor at Westway Reunion

Clay Angelo was named honorary mayor during the annual Westway Reunion held Sunday, July 29, at Westway.

Former Westway residents represented Hereford, Albuquerque, N.M., Canyon, Shamrock, Dalhart, Amarillo, Atlanta, Ga. and Friona.

The basket dinner was served at noon with Edith and John Hunter of Hereford and Nannette Little Reeves of Shamrock serving as hosts. Weldon Stephan gave the blessing.

Nina Beth Simpson of Amarillo, reunion president, conducted the afternoon activities. June and Homer Rudd were named as Westway's Man and Woman of the Year; Jim Hartman of Atlanta, Ga. was recognized as coming the farthest distance; Myra and Buddy Witherspoon of Albuquerque, the largest family; Jeremy Cleaver of Amarillo, youngest present; Buddy Witherspoon and Ulys Pierce, tied for oldest men present; Leta Kaul, oldest woman; and E.H. Little of Dalhart, youngest newlywed.

Historian Leta Kaul reported on the previous year's events. There were 14 deaths, eight weddings, three anniversaries, five graduates and 31 news stories in The Hereford Brand. She also told of a visit with former Westway teacher, Hazel Starr Tice (1942-43), and letters from Sue Deyke Northcutt and John Harvey, 93-year-old former Westway resident who resided in the community in the 1920s.

Before the conclusion of the day's festivities, the president presented Hereford gifts to all guests and closed the meeting by extending an invitation to attend the 1991 Westway Reunion.

The oldest stock exchange is said to be the one in Antwerp, Belgium, which claims to have been established in 1531.

Streaking Rangers beat Toronto

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

The Toronto Blue Jays ran themselves out of a chance to catch up in the American League East. The Blue Jays got two runners thrown out in the ninth inning Monday night and lost to Texas 4-3. Toronto fell two games behind idle Boston.

The Rangers won four times in the five-game series in Texas. Toronto lost the opener Thursday 5-4 in 11 innings when it made three mistakes on the bases.

This time, Toronto trailed 4-2 when it put two runners on with one out in the ninth. Manny Lee hit an RBI single, but pinch-runner Kenny Williams tried to go from first to third and was thrown out by center fielder Gary Pettis.

"I had to make up my mind on my own, and I took two stutter steps. Those steps made the difference. It's not a good feeling," Williams said. Williams appeared twice in the series, each as a pinch runner, and was thrown out on the bases both times.

Lee moved to second on the play, and Mookie Wilson followed with a grounder to shortstop. Jeff Huson made a wild throw that pulled Rafael Palmeiro off first base, but Palmeiro recovered and threw home, and Lee was tagged out in a rundown.

"He rounded third, and he's got to pick up the ball," Toronto manager Cito Gaston said. "If he (Palmeiro) makes the catch, you stay there."

In other games, Kansas City beat Chicago 5-4, Milwaukee defeated Minnesota 6-0 and New York downed Cleveland 2-1.

Dave Stieb had beaten Charlie Hough twice this season and not allowed a run in 15 innings against the Rangers before Texas got its revenge. Stieb (14-4) lost for the first time in eight road decisions this season, giving up four runs on seven hits in six innings.

Hough (9-7) gave up two runs on six hits in seven innings. He struck out seven and walked two.

Luis Sojo hit an RBI single and later scored on George Bell's single in the third, putting Toronto ahead 2-0. Julio Franco hit a two-run double and scored on Palmeiro's single in the bottom of the third.

Brewers 6, Twins 0

Milwaukee rebounded from an 0-8 homestand with a win in Minnesota as Ron Robinson pitched his first major league shutout.

Robinson (5-3) gave up six hits, struck out two and walked one.

Both Dave Parker and B.J. Surhoff got three of Milwaukee's 14 hits and Paul Molitor had two doubles. Roy Smith (5-10) fell to 1-4 since returning to the starting rotation June 26.

Royals 5, White Sox 4

Catcher Carlton Fisk made two errors during a five-run third inning as Kansas City ended Chicago's five-game winning streak.

Fisk had made only two miscues this season before making a bad throw and mishandling a throw to the plate. Gerald Perry's two-run double capped the outburst that made it 5-0.

Storm Davis (5-7) gave up two runs on five hits in five innings and Jeff Montgomery got his 16th save.

Melido Perez (10-9) fell to 4-2 lifetime against the team that traded him away.

Yankees 2, Indians 1

Roberto Kelly, who homered in the ninth inning to beat Cleveland on Sunday, led off the first inning with a home run to get New York going. Rookie Kevin Maas broke a sixth-inning tie with his 11th home run in 92 major league at-bats.

Andy Hawkins (3-9) won for the first time in 11 starts this season at Yankee Stadium and Dave Righetti pitched the ninth for his 22nd save.

Greg Swindell (7-7) gave up eight hits and struck out eight in his third complete game.

Rookie helps pitch Pirates into first place in NL East

By The Associated Press

Randy Tomlin, a starting pitcher, helped spell relief for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Called up from the minors to bolster the Pirates' pitching staff during a stretch of 15 games in 13 days, Tomlin also helped pitch them into sole possession of first place in the National League East.

In fact, Tomlin came within one out of a shutout in his major-league debut, Bobby Bonilla had a career-high five hits and Barry Bonds drove in five runs as the Pirates hammered the Philadelphia Phillies 10-1 en route to a sweep of Monday's two-night doubleheader.

The Pirates won the nightcap 4-3, tying the game on Mike LaValliere's three-run homer in the sixth inning and winning it on Sid Bream's RBI double in the 10th.

By sweeping while New York lost to St. Louis 5-1, the Pirates took a 1 1/2-game lead over the Mets in the National League East. In the only other NL game, Houston beat San Francisco 4-1.

Manager Jim Leyland got what he wanted from Tomlin but said he wasn't sure what he would do with the 24-year-old left-hander.

"I'm not going to rush my decision, not get emotional," Leyland said. "His mission was accomplished. I don't know if he'll be here tomorrow."

Said Tomlin: "They told me

Friday night that I would pitch against the Phillies in Veterans Stadium and they'd go from there. I was nervous. I've been watching Von Hayes and those guys since I was a kid, all my life. It was an honor to pitch against them."

Bonds hit two singles, a three-run homer and drove in a fifth run with a sacrifice fly. Bonilla, 5-for-5, had an RBI single in the Pirates' two-run first inning and a run-scoring triple in the ninth while and Gary Redus doubled in the first inning and homered in Pittsburgh's four-run fifth.

Loser Terry Mulholland (6-5) gave up six runs and 10 hits in six innings.

In the nightcap, Philadelphia took a 3-0 lead after three innings against Rick Reed. Dennis Cook blanked the Pirates until the sixth when R.J. Reynolds singled, Bream walked and LaValliere hit his second home run of the season.

Bonilla singled with one out in the 10th off Roger McDowell (3-6), took second on a single by Reynolds and scored on Bream's do it.

The victory went to Bill Landrum (4-2), the last of five Pittsburgh pitchers. Landrum pitched two scoreless innings after Stan Belinda worked out a second-and-third, none-out jam in the seventh and Bob Patterson pitched out of a first-and-third, one-out situation in the eighth. Cardinals 5, Mets 1

Joe Magrane, whose start was pushed back three days because of back spasms, scattered five hits over 7 2/3 innings and Jose Oquendo hit a two-run double in a five-run second inning.

Magrane (7-12), who pitched 7 2/3 scoreless innings against the Mets in his previous start on July 28, gave up an unearned run in the top of the second on a two-out walk and center fielder Willie McGee's three-base error by Ron Darling's fly ball. Astros 4, Giants 1

Bill Gullickson pitched his first complete game in almost three years and Bill Doran hit a two-run homer.

Gullickson (8-8) had a shutout until Ernest Riles homered with one out in the ninth.

The Astros snapped the personal five-game winning streak of Don Robinson (8-2), who gave up four runs and five hits in six innings.

Dickerson fails to pass Colt physical

ANDERSON, Ind. (AP) - The Indianapolis Colts waited 11 days for Eric Dickerson before discovering he couldn't pass their physical.

Dickerson, fined $16,500 for remaining away from training camp since July 26, failed a physical Monday because of an injury to his left hamstring, the Colts said.

The injury "is a strained left hamstring, which Dickerson sustained on his own during training," the team said in a brief statement released late Monday. The club said it would have no other immediate comment on the matter.

"Jimmy (Irsay, the Colts' general manager) called me and said there was a problem with the hamstring," Leigh Steinberg, Dickerson's agent, was quoted as saying in Tuesday's editions of The Indianapolis Star. "He said it was a problem, but not a big one."

The Colts first announced that Dickerson was having a physical around noon and issued their statement about nine hours later.

The Star reported that Dickerson's left hamstring apparently tested weaker than his right, which bothered him throughout last season.

"Eric said he was OK; he felt he was healthy," Steinberg said. "His quote to me was, 'I'd be happy to run the 40 against anybody.'"

Earlier, Irsay had said that Dickerson would be out on the practice field today after passing his physical. There was no immediate word if Dickerson would now remain with the club undergoing physical rehabilitation. The Colts could place him on the physically unable to perform or the non-football injured list - moves that would allow the Colts to not pay him until he passes a physical.

Dickerson, the NFL's single-season rushing leader, arrived in Indiana about one week after Steinberg became his agent and assumed a role as peacemaker in a relationship that became stormier and stormier during the off-season.

ARLINGTON--Maybe it was just a natural letdown after getting career win No. 300.

Or maybe it was the Toronto Blue Jays' night to pile up the hits. After all, it was the only game in five the Blue Jays would win against the Rangers. I personally think it was because he knew I was in the pressbox.

Whatever the reason, Nolan Ryan suffered through one of his roughest outings in 12 years Sunday, allowing 12 hits in losing 6-4 at Arlington Stadium.

"I just didn't have good stuff," Ryan explained. "I think it was a reflection on my stuff that I gave up 12 hits. Probably the only reason I was able to go nine was I didn't walk anybody to amount to anything."

No excuses from the guy. He simply had a bad night and admitted it. Along with not having his best fastball, clocking in at "only" 91 miles per hour on his best pitch. Ryan was also devoid of anything resembling a break on his curve in the early going. Just ask Toronto's Kelly Gruber.

Gruber, in the third inning, forgot to duck on a curve that forgot to break. The pitch went off the side of Gruber's head and ricocheted about 30 feet up in the air. Gruber trotted on down to first, but the play looked and sounded bad enough to administer last rites.

Rangers catcher John Russell said that despite two wild pitches that allowed runs to score, Ryan did a good job of keeping the game close. "When you don't have your good stuff you've got to bear down and work a little harder," Russell said. "Which he did. He pitched a complete game and the game never really got out of hand."

Ryan did say things had calmed down a little with the media circus surrounding his 300th win a week ago in Milwaukee.

"There certainly hasn't been the attention we've had the past few days, so that's been a nice break."

Despite the loss, Ryan was more than willing to put up with the attention he got Sunday while going through his post-game ritual. With about 10 pounds of ice strapped to his elbow, should and back, and about 20 microphones in his face, Ryan managed to keep a 25-mph pace on an exercise bike while giving intelligent answers.

The reporters do have to keep up with Ryan. He gives up words the same way he gives up hits: two or three here and there, but rarely many in the same night.

"If y'all want answers you're gonna have to ask questions," Ryan said during a lull.

Even on a bad night Ryan does for the Rangers what the team needs the most. He puts fans in the seats. The 41,625 in attendance Sunday gave Texas its seventh sellout of the season. Six of the sellouts, including the last five, have come with Ryan on the mound.

While two days of rain kept several thousand ticketholders away, there were not many empty seats. Add in parking, concession and souvenir sales, and Nolan brings in somewhere around $3 million every time he takes the mound.

And he's worth every penny. Tomorrow: Hanging out with Jimmy, Jerry and the (Cow)boys in Austin.

Morgan, Palmer enshrined

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) - From now on, school days will have a whole new meaning for Jim Palmer and Joe Morgan.

Palmer and Morgan made their induction speeches in the Cooperstown High School auditorium on Monday. It wasn't that way on the program.

A second day of heavy rain forced the new Hall of Famers to have their day in the sun a few miles down the road under a roof. The rain also caused cancellation of the exhibition game between Baltimore and Montreal.

"This was not a typical Cooperstown day," Mayor Harold Hollis said. "We had two and a quarter inches in a 24-hour period. The record for his date is three inches in 1911."

No one asked the mayor if he knew Morgan's lifetime average, though.

Some of the 34 Hall of Famers who came to help Palmer and Morgan celebrate couldn't make it on Monday because of prior commitments.

"I'm sorry a lot of people who came to share this moment with me didn't see it," Palmer said. "This is a celebration of what the game is all about."

For a while, it was hard to tell what was going to happen and where.

Fans flocked to the school only to find out there was only enough room in the auditorium for invited guests. Some of the guests who couldn't get into the auditorium, watched a big-screen TV in the carpeted cafeteria.

Most of the fans, however, stood outside in the rain and listened to the ceremonies on loudspeakers.

"Everyone connected with the Hall of Fame and the town did their best to make the adjustments," Commissioner Fay Vincent said.

It was just another crisis to deal with for Vincent, who has already handled an earthquake during the World Series, a spring training lockout, the All-Star game rain delay and George Steinbrenner.

When hall monitors finally directed the guests to the auditorium or cafeteria, the Hall of Famers took the stage to polite applause. Ted Williams, apparently forgetting where he was, chewed gum throughout the ceremonies.

For Palmer and Morgan, it was finally their chance to make it official.

"The reason I tried to be as good as I was is because of what these gentlemen behind me were able to do," Palmer said. "The fact that Warren Spahn won 363 games ... I wasn't left-handed so I was going to be another Bob Feller or Bob Lemon. Or I was going to be another Don Drysdale. That's what baseball is all about."

Palmer was 268-152 lifetime and won three Cy Young awards. He helped the Baltimore Orioles win three World Series titles and six American League pennants.

"I grew up a kid in New York being a Yankee fan - which proves nobody's perfect - dreaming about pitching against Mickey Mantle or Roger Maris," Palmer said. "And then to eventually be one of them really makes me feel something that I thought I would never get in touch with: That you are part of a special fraternity."

Morgan won consecutive MVP titles in 1975 and '76, leading the Cincinnati Reds to the World Series championship each year. The diminutive Morgan had a lifetime average of .271 with 268 homers, tops among second basemen, and 1,133 RBIs.

Trevino, Ballesteros hope for PGA title

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) - Seve Ballesteros is looking for a return of confidence and Lee Trevino is glad to be returning to the golf course where both did well six years ago.

Trevino won the PGA Championship and Ballesteros finished fourth in the tournament at Shoal Creek, a private course around which racial controversy whirled in recent weeks.

PGA tournament play starts Thursday at the club whose founder, Hall Thompson, said in June would not be pressured into accepting black members.

That remark, for which he apologized, prompted threats by civil rights groups to picket this week's tournament and led some corporations to back away from television commercials they had planned.

Negotiations led the club last week to admit a black Birmingham insurance executive as an honorary member and to start processing the membership application of another black.

That forestalled demonstrations and led the Professional Golfers Association of America to review its policies in tournament site selections. None of the clubs where the next four PGA Championships are scheduled have any black members.

The association is to reveal its new policies Wednesday, as well as make a presentation to Tom Watson as its player of the decade.

Thompson has refused to comment publicly since his June remark and declined again Monday except to say, "Everything's looking great."

Ballesteros, with only $84,584 in earnings in seven PGA Tour tournaments in 1990, said after a practice round Monday, "I'm not very confident, but I'm working hard on my game. I played well here in 1984 and I'm looking forward to having a good time."

In that tournament, he finished at 279, six behind Trevino's 15-under-par.

"I'm only 33," said Ballesteros, who hasn't won a major tournament since 1988. "I shouldn't be going downhill. I should be in my prime."

Trevino is 17 years older and plays mainly on the Seniors Tour.

TENNIS

MASON, Ohio (AP) - Two-time winner Mats Wilander needed three sets to defeat Grant Connell 6-4, 3-6, 6-3 as first-round play got under way in the $1.3 million Association of Tennis Professionals Championship at the Jack Nicklaus Sports Center.

Three other seeds also advanced: No. 9 Andre Chesnokov beat Ramesh Krishnan 6-4, 6-7 (7-1), 6-2; No. 13 Guy Forget beat Kevin Curren 6-3, 6-4; and No. 11 Jim Courier beat Kelly Jones 6-3, 6-7 (8-6), 6-3.

Jonas Svensson, seeded 12th, was ousted by Jakob Hlasek 6-4, 4-6, 7-5.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) - Unseeded Meredith McGrath upset fifth-seeded Brenda Schultz 6-4, 7-6 (7-3) in the first round of the Virginia Slims of Albuquerque, and four other seeds prevailed.

Third-seeded Anne Smith, fourth-seeded Dinky Van Rensburg, No. 6 Susan Sloane and No. 7 Amanda Coetzer all won, with only Van Rensburg needing more than two sets. She beat Peanut Louie Harper

6-4, 3-6, 7-5.

BASKETBALL

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) - Sam Perkins, an unrestricted free agent, has signed a multiyear contract with the Los Angeles Lakers. No terms were announced, but it was reported Perkins will be paid as much as $3 million per year.

Perkins, 29, played six seasons for the Dallas Mavericks after they made him the fourth overall pick in the 1984 NBA draft. A 6-foot-9, 257-pounder, he averaged 15.9 points and 7.5 rebounds in 76 games for Dallas last season.

Perkins was a teammate of starting Lakers forward James Worthy at North Carolina, and was a co-captain of the gold medal-winning 1984 United States Olympic team.

BASEBALL

NEW YORK (AP) - Nolan Ryan, the 43-year-old pitcher who won his 300th game last week, and rookie Alex Cole of the Cleveland Indians were named American League co-players of the week.

Ryan got his 300th win last Tuesday in Texas' 11-3 victory over Milwaukee, striking out eight and allowing six hits in 7 2-3 innings.

Cole stole eight bases last week to lead the AL and scored a major league-leading 11 runs. He was 11-for-24, a .458 average, with five walks.

NEW YORK (AP) - Greg Maddux of the Chicago Cubs, who pitched two five-hitters last week, was named National League player of the week.

Maddux allowed one earned in 18 innings last week with 12 strikeouts and six walks.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - San Francisco Giants outfielder Rick Leach was suspended for 60 days by baseball commissioner Fay Vincent because of a positive drug test.

Leach, 33, disappeared twice from his teams during the last four seasons. He had been ordered to undergo drug counseling after marijuana was found in his hotel room last year. He was batting .293 in 174 at-bats this season with two home runs and 16 RBIs.

Accent on Health

The Texas Department of Health (TDH) routinely issues public reminders that pet owners need to renew their animal's rabies vaccinations yearly, as the law requires. However, health officials stress that shots for pets are only the minimum precautions Texans should take in avoiding exposure to rabies.

People also should stay away from stray cats and dogs, particularly any that are behaving unnaturally. They also never should try to handle a wild animal which appears to have no fear of humans. It is impossible to know whether a stray animal without a tag has been vaccinated and no vaccines have been developed for most wild species.

Veterinarians, trappers, hunters and cave explorers should note the general health of any animals they encounter, and should consider precautionary immunizations against rabies every two years.

Bobby L. Davis, director of the TDH General Sanitation Division, explained that anyone handling wild mammals risks exposure to rabies. In recent years, a wide variety of animals, including the first armadillo known to be diagnosed with the disease, have been reported to TDH. Also, for a second year, a serious outbreak of rabies has persisted among rural dogs and coyotes along the Mexican border.

At least one human death from rabies has occurred this year in Texas, resulting from a man being bitten by a bat.

"Bats are second only to wild skunks as the most frequent carriers of rabies," Davis said.

Davis said that bats in recent years have been proven beneficial in controlling insects and in pollinating crops. They also are innocent of evils attributed to them through centuries of folklore. "We know now how useful bats are," he added, "but that is not reason for us to forget that they, like most other unvaccinated animals, can carry deadly diseases."

"We recently have been concerned about potential danger in the new public interest in bats, raccoons and other non-domestic animals. Some people have begun to adopt these species as pets, even taking them into school classrooms," he said.

"In our opinion at TDH, no animal should be allowed on school property unless it has a clean bill of health, and there is no way a veterinarian can certify that a wild animal does not carry rabies," Davis added.

Davis said that anyone who is bitten or attacked by an animal believed to be rabid should notify local health and animal control authorities. Specimens of the animal should be tested to determine whether the animal is rabid. Also, the victim's doctor may recommend treatment to prevent onset of rabies.

Era of volunteerism changes

The "me" generation of the 1980s is being replaced by a growing concern for the other person as the 1990s begin, said a Texas Christian University sociologist.

"There is a move away from the 'me' generation and the focus on making a lot of money," explained Dr. Charlene Urwin. "There's a recognition that some other things are more important to personal development."

Urwin said a sign of this change of heart is an increase in volunteerism.

"I think it's pretty well confirmed from the youngest groups to the oldest that there's been a substantial increase in the number of people volunteering," she said.

While needy individuals and agencies benefit from the services provided by volunteers, Urwin suggested that volunteers experience personal and professional growth as well as an increase in self-esteem.

"Volunteers will tell you that they have learned a lot and that they feel good when they've contributed something to help other people," she said. Those new to the volunteer experience go through a period of confusion as they determine for which activities they are best suited, Urwin explained. Many volunteers are initially uncertain about their abilities to be helpful to others but later may become deeply devoted to their effort, she added.

"They really get very involved in what they're doing and almost take it on as a cause," Urwin said.

Urwin suggested it is at this point that volunteers feel they are gaining more from their efforts than they are giving.

"I think it's a sign of their growth when they can say, 'I'm getting much more out of this than I'm giving,'" Urwin said. "In fact, that's not quite true, but that's how they perceive it because they're into the process."

The Coca-Cola Co. announced in 1985 it was changing the secret flavor formula of Coke, the world's best-selling soft drink. Adverse public reaction forced the company to resume selling the original formula.

Preparing for Quilt Show

The Hereford Senior Citizens will be sponsoring the annual Quilt Show scheduled this weekend in conjunction with the Jubilee of Arts. Those wishing to register quilts for display may do so from 1-5 p.m. Friday at the Hereford Community Center. The Quilt Show will be open to the public from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 11. Two quilts will be given away at 3 p.m. Saturday at the Community Center. For additional information, call Quilt Show Coordinator Merle Boozer, shown above, or Lorene Grant.

Microwaves great for blanching

Packaging and freezing vegetables right from the garden often seems like a good idea until one reads the directions for the required blanching process. Spending time in front of a hot range waiting for vegetables to boil seems a less-than-ideal way to spend a sunny summer day.

Here's a cool idea: use the microwave oven for quick and cool vegetable blanching. The following tips are from home economists:

-Select high-quality vegetables at the peak of freshness. Wash and cut into small chunks.

-Put vegetables in a glass casserole. Add 1/4 to 1/2 cup water (except for spinach, which needs no water). Cover dish and microwave for the times listed below.

-Remove blanched vegetables carefully—they're hot! Plunge vegetables immediately into ice water. Chill for the amount of time the vegetable was cooked.

-Drain vegetables and pat dry with paper towel. Package in moisture- and vapor-proof containers such as plastic freezer containers, heat-sealable plastic bags, plastic freezer bags. Remove air from package, seal, label, date and pop into the freezer.

Use within eight to 12 months.

Asparagus (2 cups): 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 min.

Beans (3 cups): 3 1/2 to 5 1/2 min.

Broccoli (2 cups): 4 to 6 min.

Carrots (2 cups): 4 1/2 to 5 1/2 min.

Cauliflower (2 cups): 4 to 5 min.

Corn (4 ears): 5 to 7 min on the cob; 4 to 5 min. cut

Peas (2 cups): 3 to 4 1/2 min.

Spinach (12 cups): Cook uncovered 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 min.

Summer squash (4 cups): 3 to 4 1/2 min.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Before we know it, fall will be here and a lot of high school graduates who have been having fun swimming, bicycling, sunning and loafing will be out looking for jobs.

Some of them will go to 10, 15 or 20 places and get turned down. They will tell you the world is against them and that life is mean and unfair. They will swear they tried their darnedest to find something, walked their feet off and "there just aren't any jobs out there."

Please, Ann, print this little essay that I found in an old book in our family library. It was handwritten and I have no idea who wrote it. It could be a member of the family or some well-known person. No matter who the author is, this piece deserves to be seen by large numbers of young people who will be job hunting soon. Go get 'em. -- A Reader in Elmira, N.Y.

DEAR READER: Thanks for sending this excellent piece my way. Here it is:

An Open Letter to a Discouraged Teen-Ager

Dear Kid: Today you came to me for a job. From the look on your shoulders when you walked out, I suspect that you've been turned down before. Or maybe you believe that nobody wants to hire a kid just out of high school.

Well, it happens that I did hire a teen-ager today. He had a big smile on his face and he wore a necktie. What was so special about that kid? Experience? Not really. He didn't have any. It was his attitude that put him on the payroll instead of you. Attitude, son. A-T-T-I-T-U-D-E. He wanted that job bad enough to put on a clean shirt and take the time to find out something about our company before he came down here. He did his best to impress me. That's where he edged you out.

You see, kid, folks who do hiring look for young people who have a spark. They want someone around who looks energetic, eager and rarin' to go. Your first questions were, "What are the hours?" "How many vacations would I get?" and, "How much do you pay?" I knew when you asked those questions that you weren't going to get a job here.

I couldn't care less that you're behind in your car payments. That's your problem. What I needed was someone with enthusiasm who'd keep his eyes open and work for me like he'd work for himself. If you have even the vaguest idea of what I'm trying to say, let it show the next time you go looking for a job. If you do, you'll be head and shoulders above the rest.

You know, kid, men have always gotten jobs the same way they get girls. They case the situation, wear a clean shirt, put their best foot forward and appear interested. Maybe jobs aren't plentiful right now, but a lot of us can remember when master craftsmen walked the streets.

By comparison, kids today don't know the meaning of the word "scarce."

You may not believe this, but all around you there are employers who are looking like crazy for smart, alert, energetic young people. When they find one, they can't wait to get him or her on their payroll. If you paid a dime's worth of attention to what I've said today you'll land a job pretty darned soon. Good luck. You're going to need it.

Gem of the Day: If you find yourself looking forward to Mondays more than Fridays, be careful. You are in danger of becoming successful.

Do you have question about sex, but no one to talk to? Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teen-ager," is frank and to the point. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teens, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.45.)

ROCKLIN, Calif. (AP) - Roger Craig, the San Francisco 49ers running back who posed in his underwear and then only a towel for Macy's ads, says the strip show is over.

"My wife says no more. It's time to concentrate on football," the football player said Monday at training camp.

But Craig will remain in the public eye. The 205-pound athlete has made a workout video, "Turn it Up a Notch," that will be released in August. He also will appear in the movie "Dark Obsession," which comes out this fall.

Craig has modeled for six years but didn't draw much attention until this summer when he posed in Calvin Klein underwear.

The single most popular entree in American restaurants is the hamburger.

Combat skin stresses of the back to school season

Face up to it...it's almost time to hit the books!

The back-to-school season means you have to activate those sun-soaked brain cells, set the old alarm clock and replenish your supply of midnight oil. Back-to-school is a stressful time and you know that stress can wreck havoc on your skin.

The beauty experts know just how concerned you are with looking your best now. That's why they've come up with a few simple rules to help you feel really smart about skin care:

- Regular care is essential. Oil and dirt accumulate on your skin throughout the day and even at night, which is why washing your face every morning and evening is an absolute must even if you don't wear a stitch of makeup.
- Clean down deep. Use an effective, non-acnegenic cleanser, a clean face cloth and warm water. Gently massage face with cleanser and rinse off to remove oil, dirt and makeup.
- Treat your skin twice daily. A well-rounded cleansing regimen should include twice daily treatments for blemish prevention. Be sure to use a medicated product after your general cleansing, both in the morning and at bedtime. The medication will penetrate pores to control pimples and blackheads by digging down deep to eliminate excess oil and dirt. This kind of treatment clears away surface dirt and oils as it helps blemishes dry out. Skin should be treated even when there are no blemishes to help prevent blemishes from forming.

- Help pesky pimples go away. When a pimple makes the scene at the wrong time give it quick, effective treatment with an anti-acne product. Be sure to apply it directly on each blemish, not on surrounding tissue.
- Always be prepared. Keep a tube of your camouflage product handy for emergency touch-ups. And, to revitalize your skin, put a small jar of your cleanser in your locker. One quick cleansing will help restore your morning glow and prevent the "afternoon skin blues."

So, if you're as serious about skin care as you are about passing the next algebra quiz or dating the coolest kid in school, be consistent about skin care, deep clean every day. The results? An A+ in beautiful skin!
