Two hostages may be freed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Shiite Moslem militia leaders today were considering releasing two of the 40 American hostages from the hijacked TWA jetliner and letting them fly out of Lebanon for medical treatment, informed sources reported.

An airport official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the Shiite Amal militia was "examining the condition" of Jimmy Dell Palmer, 48, of Little Rock, Ark. to decide if he should be freed.

An Amal official, who also refused to be identified, said Palmer was recently taken to an unidentified clinic in Beirut to be treated either for a heart condition or lung illness.

The militia official said Claude Whitmoyer, in his late 30s, of Severn, Md., might also be released for health reasons. But the militiaman said he did not know the nature of Whitmoyer's illness.

Palmer and Whitmoyer are among the 40 hostages who have been held since the Trans World Airlines Boeing 727 was hijacked a week ago on an Athens-to-Rome flight.

The three-man crew is aboard with the hijack TWA plane and are guarded round-the-clock by Shiite Moslems. Thirty-seven other hostages were being held in scattered positions in Beirut.

The hijackers killed one person, U.S. Navy Petty officer Robert Dean Stethem of Waldorf, Md., who was buried Thursday at Arlington National Cemetery. The rest of the passengers and crew were released.

Nabih Berri, the head of the Amal militia who has taken responsibility for the hostages, told CBS television network Thursday one of the hostages was ailing, but did not name him.

"If the man is not so well, I will send him to the United States," Berri CBS interviewer Dan Rather.

Bearded Moslem militants passed out leaflets today calling for a mass demonstration to support the hijackers, who are demanding that Arab prisoners be released from an Israeli prison in exchange for 40 American hostages.

They said the demonstration was set for 3:30 p.m. (8:30 a.m. EDT) on the airport highway.

Air controllers said gunmen aboard the hijacked plane, about 70 yards from the terminal building, threatened to shoot at any reporters they spotted in the control tower.

When journalists moved from the tower to watch the plane from the tarmac, rifle shots were fired from the plane over their heads, forcing the reporters to run for cover in the main terminal building.

It was the fourth time in three days the hijackers have fired at journalists, photographers and television crews staking out the airport. No one has been hit in the gunfire.

Five of the American captives were paraded before reporters at a news conference at the Beirut airport Thursday. The appearance was arranged by Berri.

One of the hostages told reporters Thursday he could account for the well-being of the Americans held by Shiite militiamen at scattered locations, but urged a negotiated solution to end there "dire" situation.

The Shiites are seeking to exchange the Americans for 766 prisoners being held by Israel on accusations they planned or took part in attacks against the Israeli army in southern Lebanon. Israel has said it planned to release the prisoners in conjunction with its withdrawal from Lebanon, when southern Lebanon calmed down.

Allyn Conwell of Houston, who said the hostages had chosen him as their spokesman, said he had visited 37 Americans held at secret locations in Beirut and "can verify they are all in good health." Conwell, 39, did not talk to the crew members, but reporters talked to them Wednesday.

He said the hostages were "disappointed" that the Reagan administration had not done more to secure their freedom, but the hostages appealed to President Reagan not to attempt a military rescue.

Thomas Cullins, 42, of Burlington, Vt., said: "We urge, at all costs, that no direct military intervention take place."

Appearing with Conwell and Cullins were Peter Hill, 57, of Hoffman Estates, Ill.; Arthur Toga, 33, of St. Louis, Mo.; and Vicente Garza, 53, of Laredo, Texas.

McCarley resigns from HHS

Bill McCarley, principal at Hereford High School for the past two years, has submitted his resignation in order to accept an appointment as principal of the middle school at Gainesville, Texas. His resignation would be effective June 30, 1985.

McCarley has been with the Hereford system for the past 23 years.

In his resignation to the Superintendent and School Board he stated "I am proud to have been a part of the Hereford Schools. My relationship with Hereford's students, and parents through the years has been most enjoyable." He added, "I would like to express my sincere appreciation to Dr. Holder and the Board of Trustees for the confidence and opportunities you have shown in my behalf."

McCarley is a graduate of Lefors High School. He received his B.S. in Education from West Texas State University in 1959. At that time he started his teaching career as a mathematics teacher in the middle school at Hart. After three years in this position, he joined the Hereford ISD faculty as a math teacher at Stanton Junior High School.

In 1967 McCarley completed his M.Ed. degree at WTSU. He also was appointed assistant principal at Central Elementary School. In 1969 McCarley returned to Stanton Junior High as the assistant principal. After one year in this position he became principal of Central Elementary in 1970.

For the next five years McCarley remained at Central Elementary. In 1975 the new West Central Elementary School was opened and he became its first principal.

The curriculum and organization installed at West Central was highly acclaimed and recognized by West Texas educators. Visitors from many surrounding school districts observed these programs.

Hance 98 percent sure of running

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Former congressman Kent Hance says he will make up his mind by August or September if he will make a run for the governor's mansion in 1986.

Hance, on his first visit to San Antonio since changing from the Democratic to the Republican Party, said he is 95 to 98 percent sure he will run for governor.

The former congressman from Lubbock said Republican U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler also is a strong possibility for the governor's mansion.

Hance also said he thinks former Gov. Bill Clements is considering another bid for governor.

Republican voters, he said, should nominate the best man to defeat Gov. Mark White in 1986.

Contrasting himself to White, Hance said he worked for the largest tax cut in U.S. history while the governor helped pass the largest tax hike in Texas history.

With Flag Day just recently passed and the July 4th holiday upcoming, here are some things to remember about flag etiquette:

From the Flag Code—"All persons present except those in uniform should face the flag and stand at attention with the right hand over heart. Those present in uniform should render the military salute. When not in uniform, men should remove their headdress with their right hand and hold it at the left shoulder, the hand being over the heart. Aliens should stand at attention. The salute to the flag in a moving column should be rendered at the moment the flag passes."

The Flag Code provides a number of suggestions for ways in which the flag should be used. The Flag should never:

- be dipped to any persons or thing;
- be displayed with the union (blue field) down;
- touch anything below it;
- be carried flat or horizontally, but always aloft and free;
- be used as a wearing apparel, bedding or drapery;
- be festooned, drawn back, nor up, in folds, but always allowed to fall free;
- fastened, displayed, used or stored in any manner which would permit it to be easily torn, soiled or damaged in any way;
- be used as a covering for the ceiling;
- have placed upon it, nor on any part of it, nor attached to it any mark, insignia, letter word, figure, design, picture or drawing of any nature;
- be used as a receptacle for receiving, holding, carrying or delivering anything;
- be used as a covering for a statue or monument.

Court dismisses state nuclear dump case

Just because a Deaf Smith County site has been chosen as "potentially acceptable" for hazardous waste disposal doesn't mean that it actually will be, according to a decision of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

That conclusion was reached Wednesday by the appeals court in New Orleans as it granted a motion by the Department of Energy to dismiss objections filed by the State of Texas and two opposition citizen groups.

The site in Deaf Smith County is among the top three candidates in the nation for the country's first high-level nuclear waste repository. The other top sites are in Washington and Nevada.

A site in Swisher County was among nine sites studied by DOE, but it is not presently a top contender. The state was joined by POWER (People Opposed to Wasted Energy Repositories) and STAND (Serious Texans Against Nuclear Dumping) in appealing the selection of the Texas sites as potentially acceptable.

The appeals court decisions stated: "Despite the seeming 'finality' of the secretary's decision to narrow the proposed repository sites in Texas to two areas of a size suitable for site characterization, when viewed in the context of the statutory scheme of the National Waste Policy Act, the action is not final for purposes of our review."

The three-judge panel pointed out that Texas and its citizens still have an opportunity to make their objections at public hearings the Energy Department must hold before making a final selection.

If the Deaf Smith site remains among the top three candidates for the dump, further testing could begin later this year.

Attempted murder indictment handed

Ruben Mendoza of 210 Harrah was indicted on attempted murder charges Thursday by the grand jury. Mendoza allegedly attempted to kill another person early Sunday morning on the 100 block of Avenue E. According to police reports, Mendoza shot, but missed the person and hit a house, sending a bullet through a bedroom of a residence.

Adam Tsoodle, who was arrested in Montana, was indicted on unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

In a case concerning knowingly accepting stolen property, Joe Casias Diaz and Celia (Sally) Diaz were indicted on theft over $750 and under $20,000.

Separate indictments for forgery and passing were given to Pete Dela Cruz, Rose Mary Flores, and Dora Gonzales, aka Dora Gonzales Tijerina.

Reagan touts tax plan at Dallas Lions convention

DALLAS (AP) — President Reagan, campaigning for his "fair share" tax plan, said today the current tax system amounts to "the federal government's version of Rubik's Cube."

"It's a game that most of us never figure out and few of us win," he said in a speech prepared for the annual convention of Lions International.

Reagan's plan would replace the present 14 brackets with three rates of 15, 25 and 35 per cent. It would also double the personal exemption and eliminate or reduce a number of deductions.

"I like to think of our proposal as a fair-share tax because it will mean greater fairness and new opportunity for every income group in every region of America," the president said.

The president made no reference to the hostage crisis in his prepared remarks.

Noting the international composition of the Lions organization, Reagan said, "I hope those of you who are here from other countries will carry this message back to your people: We have no desire to live as an island of plenty. We will be satisfied with nothing less than a worldwide recovery."

In addition to his tax pitch, Reagan lauded the U.S. record of "helping the unfortunate in other countries," especially in drought-stricken Africa, and said the record of the Soviet Union in this regard is "a disgrace."

"It seems, with all their sloganeering, about the only things communist countries produce in quantity are misery, weapons and aggression," he said.

"The record of humanitarian assistance provided by the Soviet-bloc governments, even to their own allies, is a disgrace, and the world, especially the developing world, should know about it," the president added.

On Thursday, Reagan mostly declined to answer as reporters tried to question him about the hostage situation as he posed for pictures in the Oval Office before meeting with Alexandre Hay, president of the International Committee of the Red Cross.

When a reporter asked him if he hoped the hostages would be coming out soon, he looked somber and crossed his fingers in the traditional sign of hoping for good luck.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan still planned to go by helicopter to the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md., immediately after Air Force One touched down at Andrews Air Force Base on its return flight from Dallas.

Houston has most adult bookstores

HOUSTON (AP) — The nation's fourth largest city leads among 10 major American cities in the number of adult bookstores, which gross as much as $3,000 a day, a Houston vice officer says.

Police Vice Sgt. Bill Brown said Wednesday his survey of the major cities shows Houston has 47 adult bookstore-peep shows, compared with 38 for Chicago and Los Angeles, both of which are larger cities than Houston.

Denver has 24 adult bookstores, Dallas has 20, Miami eight, and Boston seven, Brown said his research with police departments in those cities showed.

New York and Philadelphia had no figures on bookstores, he said. Brown said bookstore-peep show operators are attached to Houston "because there is a wide-open element here, it's a transient city and a booming city with an 'anything-goes' attitude."

Computer industry dampens Austin

AUSTIN (AP) — The downturn in the computer industry and an expected cutback in construction will put a damper on Austin's booming economy, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

UT research economist Thomas Plaut said his figures for the economies of Texas and several of its regions indicate Austin jobs will increase just under 6 percent this year. That is a sharp decline from the 1.9 percent job increase of 1984, when Austin was a national leader in population and job growth.

Austin job growth will slow even more in 1986, to just 2.4 percent, before it picks up again in 1987, Plaut projected.

U.S. employment gains are expected to be 3.2 percent this year and 1.8 percent next year, Plaut said. Texas employment is projected to grow 2.4 percent this year and 3 percent next year.

TWA keeps Greek flights

NEW YORK (AP) — Trans World Airlines, whose Flight 847 was hijacked a week ago, says it will continue to fly to Athens International Airport in Greece, despite President Reagan's warning that travelers avoid the airport.

Reagan said earlier this week that U.S. citizens should avoid Athens because security is considered lax at the airport, where the hijackers boarded the flight.

Spokeswoman Sally McElwreath said Thursday: "We will continue our flights as planned to Athens. The interest in going to Athens does not seem to have died down that much."

"We feel that our security measures in Greece are up to U.S. standards and ultimately, it's up to the people who want to travel, and they want to go."

Earlier this week, Pan American World Airways announced it was suspending its flights to Athens immediately.

Man bleeds to death to escape sun

LAKE HAVASU CITY, Ariz. (AP) — A man who apparently broke into a vacation home to escape the scorching desert heat cut himself on a sliding glass door and bled to death, authorities say.

Leon Barris found the partly decomposed body of Thomas Georgiuff, 28, of Monroe, Mich., Friday on the bedroom floor in Havasu Landing on the California side of the lake, said San Bernardino County Sheriff's spokesman Jim Bryant.

Georgiuff apparently broke into the home to avoid the 115-degree heat on June 9, cut his jugular vein on a glass door, went into shock and died, Bryant said Thursday. He couldn't explain how Georgiuff cut his neck.

Ironically, the electricity in the home had been shut off and "he wouldn't have known how to get the air conditioning started," Bryant said.

MOVE mother to sue

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Louise James, mother of one of the 11 people who died in the police assault on the headquarters of the radical group MOVE, and owner of the house, has filed a $30 million federal lawsuit against city officials.

The suit, filed Thursday, also names the DuPont company, maker of the material police used in a bomb they dropped on MOVE's fortified rowhouse May 13. The ensuing fire damaged or destroyed 61 homes.

Ms. James' son, Frank James Africa, 26, was among those who died.

Her suit also said she "believes that some of the human remains may be that of her brother, Vincent Leaphart, also known as John Africa."

He founded the radical group, which advocates a back-to-nature philosophy that disregards local health and sanitation codes.

N-test much bigger than estimated

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — France's latest underground nuclear test at Mururoa Atoll in French Polynesia was six times bigger than originally thought, government seismologists said today.

Prime Minister David Lange, whose government has banned port visits by nuclear-powered or -armed ships, condemned the French program and said France was ignoring international efforts for disarmament.

"There is absolutely no sense in continuing to add to the world's nuclear weaponry," he said.

The June 8 blast was the fourth in a series which began last month and the 71st since France began its underground testing program at Mururoa a decade ago. The blast was first estimated yield of one kiloton.

But the scientists today revised the figure to six kilotons.

Regime denounces refugee movement

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The Vietnamese-backed regime in Cambodia charged today that Thailand planned to move 55,000 Cambodian refugees in Thailand closer to the Thai-Cambodian border to shield the Cambodian resistance from attack.

The official Cambodian news agency SPK, monitored in Bangkok, reported the accusation. Thailand denies it gives the resistance sanctuary or military aid and says it is involved only in providing humanitarian aid to the refugees.

Thai authorities recently said they will move 55,000 refugees from the Khao-I-Dang camp to a site closer to the border early in July. The refugees were among 230,000 Cambodians driven into Thailand by Vietnam's offensive earlier this year against the guerrillas based along the border.

Vietnam invaded Cambodia in late 1978, ousted the Khmer Rouge regime and installed the regime of Heng Samrin. The United Nations recognizes as Cambodia's legitimate government a coalition of three resistance groups battling the Vietnamese occupation.

More than storms, earthquakes

Ground many people live on causes damage

LUBBOCK — The ground many people live on causes more damage annually in the United States than hurricanes, tornadoes, earthquakes and floods combined.

The damage, estimated at more than $2 billion a year, results from certain clay soils. These clays—also called expansive soils—swell or contract as soil moisture levels vary, according to Texas Tech University civil engineering Professor W. Kent Wray.

"For expansive soils to be a problem," Wray said, "the ground moisture content has to change. These clays are a particular problem in those parts of the country with a semi-arid climate where rainfall is followed by long periods of no rain."

Wray said clays or expansive soils are found in all 50 states, though Texas and California, both predominately semi-arid states, record the most annual damage.

Structures with concrete slab-on-ground foundations are most susceptible to expansive soils problems, including cracked foundations, fractured masonry and even structural damage.

Clay soils can cause a foundation to buckle primarily in one of two ways — doming or dishing, Wray said. In doming, the ground is wetter in the center of the foundation than at the edges. Consequently, the soils under the center expand more than those around the edge, causing the foundation to "dome" in the middle. Wray said doming will occur naturally over the long term. Moisture gradually builds up under a foundation's center because soil does not dry out there as quickly as it does on the building perimeter.

Dishing is the opposite effect. Dry soil in the center of a slab foundation is surrounded by wetter ground on the perimeter. As the clay expands, the slab perimeter is uplifted with respect to the center, resulting in a dish-shaped foundation.

With a $140,000, two-year grant from the National Science Foundation, Wray is developing two experimental sites in Amarillo and Bryan to gather data on the expansion characteristics of clay. At each site, a 20-foot by 40-foot slab-on-ground model will be constructed. Instruments will be buried beneath the plot before it is covered with a plastic liner and filled with sand to simulate a slab foundation.

Once a slab-on-ground foundation is in place, Wray said, it disrupts normal soil moisture movement and moisture loss from evaporation and transpiration. Moisture cells and thermocouple psychrometers will be buried in depths of up to nine feet beneath the experimental plot to evaluate moisture levels and soil suction. Benchmarks will be established in a scientifically conceived pattern at depths of two, six, 10, 15 and 25 feet to measure the depth of the shrink or swell.

That data will be combined with field measurements of the soil surface movement, rainfall and temperature and with a standard climate index to help determine future design criteria.

"Our purpose in the project is to relate the ground moisture variations between the edges and center of the plot to some sort of climatic factor," Wray said. "Once we do this, we will know how the clays react to moisture in certain climates and can better design slabs to compensate for expansive soils."

Concrete slabs move some naturally because of changing conditions, but Wray said a sound design would limit that differential movement to one inch vertically per every 480 inches horizontally in a brick veneer building and one inch per every 300 inches in wood frame or other structures with drywall interior walls.

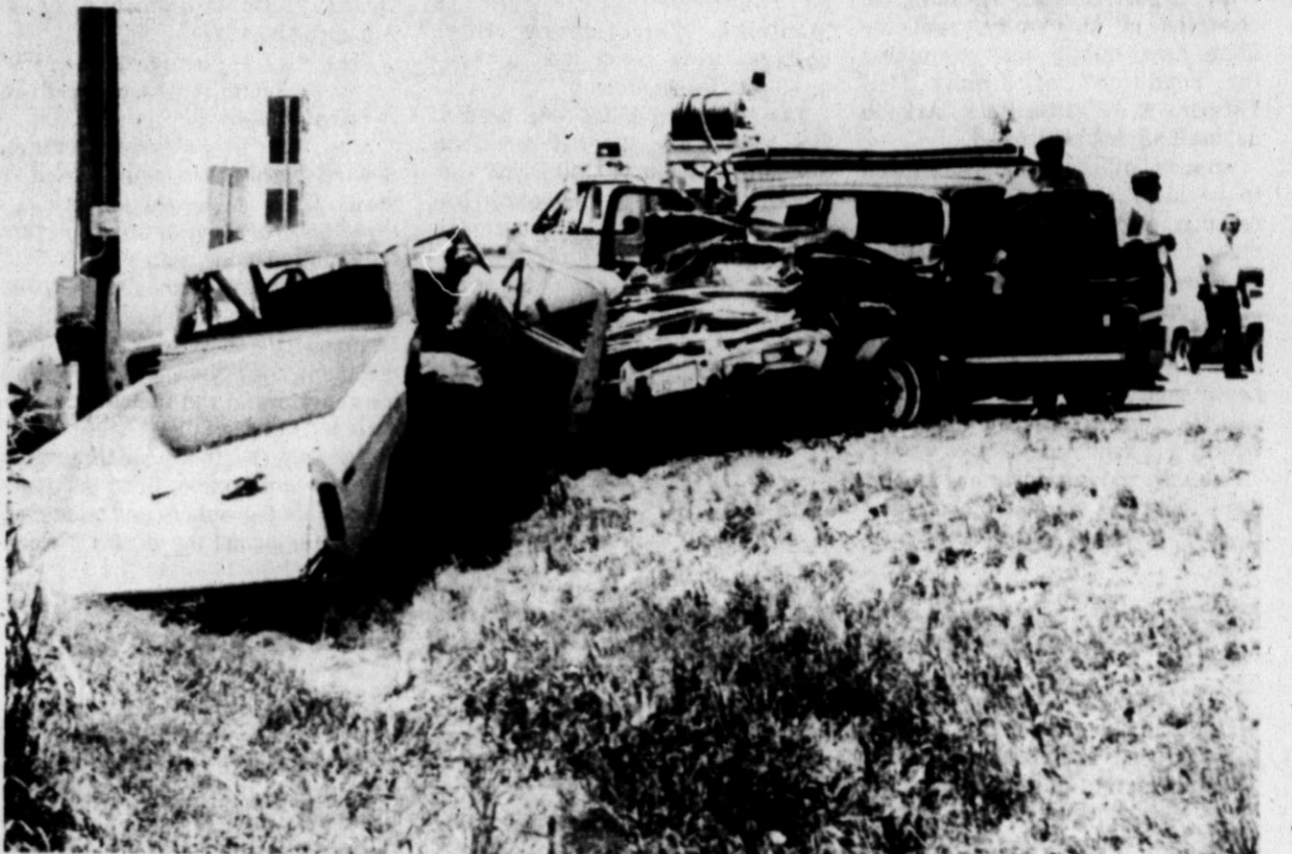

"The theory behind slab-on-grade foundations is not to totally prevent them from moving," Wray said. "A slab is going to move some due to soil shrink and swell, but the idea is to make it stiff enough so it will not crack when it floats up and down as the soil moves."

Completion of the experimental sites in Amarillo and Bryan is planned for this summer. KGNC Radio in Amarillo will supply weather data for the Panhandle site. Wray said the sites will be monitored for two years—eight seasons.

Wray said clay soils are typically black, dark gray or gray tan and are found around the world, though their potential harm varies by climate.

Clays are susceptible to moisture expansion because clay particles have such a great surface area for their size of less than .002 millimeters. Water is able to penetrate among the particles and push them apart.

"London clay is potentially the most damaging in the world, but it hardly ever causes damage because it stays so wet in England," he said.

Intersection Crash

Rescue crews were amazed that injuries were minor in a collision early Thursday afternoon at Austin Road and Dimmitt Cutoff. Treated and released at Deaf Smith General Hospital were Alex Fuentes, 24, and Jessie Garibaldi, 22, both of Dimmitt, driver and passenger of the black Chevrolet. Also treated was Gene Nelson, 46, of Hereford, who drove the white truck. Department of Public Safety officers were unable to be reached for details of the wreck.

REAGAN

Reagan and his wife, Nancy, also went to Camp David last weekend, as they usually do. But the president cut short his stay by a few hours after the hijacked Trans World Airlines plane was flown back to Beirut from Algeria.

He said he wanted to be in touch with other government officials face-to-face instead of dealing by telephone. But, after four frustrating days, Speakes reported Thursday it still "remains to be seen" whether the administration's diplomatic efforts have borne any fruit.

The president said he watched on television as a newsmen on a telephone hookup relayed an account of a news conference in Beirut at which five hostages appeared, escorted by Shiite Moslem Amal militiamen. One of the hostages read a statement appealing to the president to take no direct military action to free them.

The news conference was interrupted at one point by a scuffle between militia members and newsmen.

Reagan told reporters, "I think it was confusing. We don't know what the purpose was that was served. Some of your colleagues apparently got shoved around; that seemed to be the only thing that really happened." The president said the meeting with Hay was arranged before the hostage crisis erupted. Hay said he told the president his organization was "ready to help" but must have the agreement of "all sides concerned" to do so.

For his Dallas speech, Reagan returned to the tax simplification theme he has hammered at in Florida, Virginia, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Oklahoma, Georgia, Alabama, New Jersey and Indiana in the last three weeks.

July 5 permit deadline

AUSTIN — July 5 is the deadline for persons to apply for permits to recycle, re-use, or reclaim waste that has recently been defined as "hazardous waste" by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). Persons submitting permit applications by the deadline may continue to operate during review by the Texas Department of Water Resources.

Rules adopted by the Texas Water Development Board in April, 1985 may require permit applications for recycling activities involving certain types of secondary materials such as spent materials, sludges, by-products, commercial chemical products, and scrap.

Federal agency offers contract info

The Federal Procurement Data Center (FPDC) is gaining wider use across the country as more businesses learn about this information resource.

Created by an Act of Congress in 1974, the FPDC has been collecting data on nearly every item the government buys with appropriated funds since 1979. The FPDC master file now contains detailed information on contracts awarded for goods and services by over 60 federal agencies for the past six years. All individual contracts over $10,000 ($25,000 for the Department of Defense) are included in the system.

Last year, federal contracts amounted to more than $182 billion. By making use of this vast centralized data base, updated quarterly, one can pinpoint the impact of federal procurement on industry and competitors.

FPDC offers the business person two basic products. As an overview to contracting activities in the government, the FPDC can send a free quarterly standard report of procurement data. It includes a list of the top 100 contractors who sell to the government, as well as several charts and graphs which compare procurement activities by state, by major product and services, and by Federal agency. For many businesses, however, this basic data is not enough. Many need a more detailed analysis of procurement data and trends to assess their own chances of winning government contracts, to identify their competitors, to target new markets for their products or services, or to develop marketing plans for themselves or their clients.

For information on FPDC call (703) 235-1326 or write Dept. GB, Federal Procurement Data Center, Suite 900, 4040 N. Fairfax Drive, Arlington, VA 22203.

McCARLEY

In 1977 McCarley was called upon to assume the principalship at Stanton Junior High School. He remained there until accepting the appointment at Hereford High two years ago.

"We're losing an extremely valuable person," said Harrell Holder, Hereford superintendent of schools. "Bill and I have become very good friends over these past nine years we've worked together. You can tell by the various positions he's held just how versatile he is. It's also apparent that he is willing to take on any task when he is asked. He's a real team man, and we will certainly miss him."

McCarley's wife, Augusta, is also a teacher in the Hereford Schools. She teaches first grade at Aikman Elementary. She also has a B.S. degree and M.Ed. degree from WTSU.

AARP frauds investigated

The American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) and various law enforcement agencies have been receiving an increasing number of complaints about sales agents who are fraudulently selling estate planning services by claiming to represent the "AARP Trust Division". AARP has no Trust Division and no sales agents authorized to visit or telephone members.

Persons claiming to represent AARP services are currently active in north central Texas and use a P.O. Box in Edmond, Oklahoma.

Their general approach is to contact older persons who have responded to an advertising coupon from the National Estate Information Service in Washington, D.C.; this coupon allows people to request information on estate planning and/or the Uniform Gift to Minors Act. People are then contacted directly by individuals who want to deliver the "information" personally.

Older persons especially should be wary of any high-pressure sales approach, particularly by individuals who claim to represent AARP. They should contact their local law enforcement agency or Better Business Bureau and AARP's regional office at 6440 North Central, Suite 700, Dallas, Texas 75206, telephone 214-369-9206.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have carried my favorite column in my wallet for several years. As you can see, it has become so tattered I can barely read it. Will you please run it again so I can clip it once more? This time I will be smarter and put it in plastic.--LOVE YOU IN OKLAHOMA CITY

DEAR LOVE: The essay you requested was written by Dathan Moore of Oxnard, Calif. I am happy to run it again. Thanks for asking.

FOOTPRINTS

One night a man had a dream. He dreamed he was walking along the beach with the Lord. Across the sky flashed scenes from his life. In each scene he noticed two sets of footprints in the sand—one belonging to him and the other to the Lord. When the last scene flashed before him he looked back at the footprints and noticed that many times along the path there was only one set of footprints.

He also noted that this happened during the lowest and saddest times in his life. This bothered him and he questioned the Lord: "Lord, you said once I decided to follow you, you would walk beside me all the way. But I noticed that during the most troublesome times of my life, there was only one set of footprints. I don't understand why, when I needed you most, you deserted me."

The Lord replied, "My precious child, I love you and would never leave you. During your times of trial and suffering when you saw only one set of footprints, it was then that I carried you."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can you stand one more letter about the woman whose nose was out of joint because the physician who had attended her elderly mother for 15 years did not attend the funeral?

It would never occur to me to expect a doctor to come to a patient's funeral, unless of course, they had a social relationship outside the office.

A doctor is a professional who performs a service. While it is more intimate in nature than most services it does not mean he or she is your personal friend. To assume so seems presumptuous. I wonder if that woman was mad at the pharmacist because he didn't attend.

I can, however, relate to her feelings about the doctor sending the bill seven days after the funeral. Doctors sure don't waste any time when it comes to asking for their money. Frankly I think the medical profession, like any other service, should not be paid when they don't do the job or fix what is wrong.--ST. LOUIS PHILOSOPHER

DEAR PHIL: Your letter made a lot of sense until you got to the part about not paying doctors who fail to "fix what is wrong."

Surely you know that some patients are not going to get well no matter what the doctor does. Especially is this true of elderly patients who deserve good care even though the prognosis is bleak. When they get it, the physician is entitled to be compensated for his time and effort no matter what the outcome.

Knepper disappointed despite winning

Houston's Bob Knepper was visibly disappointed when he failed to retire light-hitting Paul Runge with two outs in the ninth inning, prompting Manager Bob Lillis to remove him from the game.

Knepper got the first two outs in the ninth Thursday night, but Bruce Benedict singled and pinch-hitter Runge walked. That forced Lillis to call on Dave Smith, who came on and retired Claudell Washington to protect the 2-0 shutout for the Houston left-hander, 7-3.

"It's bad when you pitch well and come out of the game disappointed," said Knepper, who scattered six hits over 8 2-3 innings, walking four and striking out two. "I'm disappointed for not finishing stronger."

Phil Garner's two-run homer in the eighth inning snapped a scoreless duel between Knepper and Atlanta's Rick Mahler, 10-6. The homer came after a walk to Alan Ashby, only the fourth baserunner allowed by Mahler.

Knepper is now 6-0 in road games this season, and that statistic has him surprised.

"It's usually just the opposite," he said. "Pitchers usually pitch better at home."

Mahler yielded two-out singles to Denny Walling in the first and seventh and a walk to Ashby leading off the fifth. He faced only one batter over the minimum over seven innings. Mahler left with one out in the ninth after Bill Doran collected the Astros' fourth hit.

"I felt like I threw the ball real good," Mahler said. "That makes it even tougher to lose. It was one of those times when we didn't get any runs."

Knepper allowed five hits in the first seven innings but allowed a runner to reach third only once.

In the fifth, Benedict led off with a single, went to second on Mahler's flyout and after a walk to Brad Kominski, took third on an infield out. Knepper escaped by getting Dale Murphy to pop out.

The Braves had two men on base in the second and sixth but failed to score. It was the eighth time the Braves have been shut out this season.

"It was a well-pitched series all the way around," Lillis said. "Even the one game we lost (in the four-game series), we pitched well."

Pitcher Lefty Gomez of the New York Yankees, a notoriously poor hitter, had the first run-batted-in in All-Star competition. Gomez sent a runner home with a single in the second inning of the 1933 game, the first one ever played.

In other NL games, San Diego edged San Francisco 6-5; Pittsburgh nipped Montreal 2-1; New York defeated Chicago 5-3; and St. Louis zipped Philadelphia 5-0. Los Angeles and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

Mets 5, Cubs 3

In a season dominated by anomalies the New York Mets swept a series that may, just may, put them back on course.

After a fast start that saw the Mets catapult to the top of the National League East, New York saw its bullpen crumble, its batting average sink and its earned run average inflate. The misery for the Mets culminated in three straight road losses to Montreal last weekend, dropping the New Yorkers to fourth place.

Then it was back home to Shea Stadium to play the Cubs in a four-game series. The same Cubs that won 12 of 18 games against the Mets last season. The Mets had something to prove not only to the Cubs, but more importantly to themselves.

20 hits in 11-3 victory

Mariners tie club record in beating Rangers

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

When it rains it pours, and when baseball players hit it's contagious, says Al Cowens.

And Cowens should know. Playing for the first time since fouling a ball off his foot eight games ago, he contributed two hits, including a home run, and four runs batted in to a 20-hit Seattle Mariners' attack Thursday night that Cowens said reached epidemic proportions. "When there are a lot of guys hitting, it's contagious," Cowens said after the Mariners' 11-3 victory over the Texas Rangers. "It's good to have a lot of guys hitting. You'll win more ball games that way."

The 20 hits tied a club record set on Aug. 30, 1981 against the Cleveland Indians as eight Seattle players had a multiple-hit game.

Phil Bradley, Ivan Calderon, Jim

Presley and Donnie Scott each had three hits and Cowens, Jack Perconte, Alvin Davis and Spike Owen had two hits.

Matt Young, 6-8, pitched five innings, giving up three runs and five hits. Young walked one and struck out four. Karl Best pitched the final three innings for his fourth save.

Loser Burt Hooton, 3-2, gave up seven runs on 11 hits in 4 and 1-3 innings.

The Mariners sent 10 batters to the plate in the third inning. Owen and Perconte singled and scored on Bradley's two-run double. One out later, Hooton intentionally walked Gorman Thomas before Cowens hit his sixth homer of the year. Presley capped the uprising with his 15th homer.

The Rangers cut the lead to 6-3 in the fourth. Alan Bannister doubled and scored on Don Slaught's double. Two outs later, Toby Harrah hit his fifth homer.

The Mariners added a run in the fifth when Owen hit a run-scoring single, one in the eighth on Cowens' RBI single and three more in the ninth on Perconte's RBI single and Davis' two-run double.

Perconte's third-inning single extended his career high hitting streak to 15 games.

Angels 4, Indians 0
Reggie Jackson slugged his 513th career home run, moving him alone into 10th place on the all-time major league list, and Ron Romanick pitched a four-hitter as California beat Cleveland.

Jackson's home run sparked a second inning during which the Angels scored all four runs, giving Romanick his eighth victory against three defeats.

Romanick retired 20 of the last 22 batters.

Jackson had been tied for the 10th spot with Ernie Banks and Eddie Mathews. Next on the list ahead of Jackson are Ted Williams and Willie McCovey, each with 521 home runs.

Blue Jays 6, Red Sox 5
The Toronto Blue Jays would like to forget about last week's nightmarish four-game sweep by the Boston Red Sox.

They erased some of that memory with a hard-earned 6-5 victory over the Red Sox Thursday night.

"You don't forget a sweep, no matter how long it is before you play that team again," said Damaso Garcia, whose two-run triple in the seventh inning keyed the Blue Jays' comeback victory. "We needed this one tonight."

The victory was the second straight over the Red Sox for the American League East leaders after going through a six-game losing streak, in large part due to the debacle in Boston June 13-16.

A's 12, White Sox 1
Rookie left-hander Tim Lincecum allowed four hits in eight innings and Bruce Bochte, Alfredo Griffin and Carney Lansford hit home runs to lead Oakland over Chicago.

Birtsas, 4-1, gave up just four hits in eight innings, striking out four and walking six before Steve Ontiveros came on to pitch the ninth.

Chicago's Tom Seaver, 7-5, was raked for 12 hits before leaving in the seventh inning.

Tigers 10, Yankees 9
Mike Armstrong uncorked a wild pitch while facing Lance Parrish in the 10th inning, allowing Lou Whitaker to trot home from third with the winning run for Detroit.

Dave Righetti, 4-6, took the loss as the Yankees had a four-game winning streak snapped. He was the fifth of six Yankee pitchers.

Doug Bair, 2-0, worked the last inning for Detroit to pick up the win.

Ron Hassey hit his third homer in two nights for the Yankees.

Twins 11, Royals 8
Kirby Puckett hit a bases-loaded triple in the seventh to rally Minnesota over Kansas City, ending the Twins' three-game losing streak.

Puckett, who had ended an 0-for-15 slump with a third-inning single, tripled to cap a four-run seventh that brought the Twins back from an 8-5 deficit. He had four hits and four RBIs in the game.

The teams totaled 33 hits in the game — 17 for the Twins.

GENERAL

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Former boxing champion Muhammad Ali says he will go to Beirut, Lebanon, to try to negotiate the release of U.S. hostages taken in last week's hijacking of TWA Flight 847.

Ali said Thursday he was "ready, willing and able" to travel to Lebanon as soon as details can be arranged.

"I have tried to further the cause of Islam and propagate the virtues of our religion," the former three-time heavyweight champion said in a statement released by his Norfolk attorney. "Incidents like this tend to undermine everything I stand for."

Ali, 43, contacted Shiite Moslem leaders Tuesday at the urging of his attorney, Richard Hirschfeld, a lifelong friend of hostage Richard Herzberg, a Norfolk insurance agent.

Herzberg, 33, and his wife, Sue Ellen, were on their honeymoon when the TWA flight was hijacked June 14. Mrs. Herzberg was released in Algeria on Saturday and remains in Paris, where she hopes to be reunited with her husband.

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — The New Jersey Nets, stunned by Rollie Massimino's decision to reject a lucrative offer to coach the team, plan to wait a few days before renewing their search for a successor to Stan Albeck.

Massimino on Thursday turned down a reported 10-year contract that would have paid him $375,000 a year for the first four years, opting to stay and coach in the secure surroundings of Villanova University.

Massimino's rejection was an embarrassment to Nets officials who had called an afternoon press conference to introduce their new coach. The club never named Albeck's replacement, but Mann had said Massimino was offered the job and added that he felt he had a handshake agreement with him.

Massimino said he never accepted the job. But Massimino's lawyer, Jerold K. Levien, said that Massimino had reached "a handshake agreement," only to change his mind.

SEATTLE (AP) — Bernie Bickerstaff, who for 12 years served as assistant coach of the Washington Bullets, was appointed head coach of the Seattle SuperSonics.

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — The Vancouver Canucks named Tom Watt as their head coach and assistant general manager, replacing Harry Neale, who was fired last month.

DEAR POLLY — I'm 13 and a big hockey fan. Recently, I was a hockey stick girl at a Pittsburgh Penguins game. I received a hockey stick autographed by the players. Do you know of anything I could put on the stick to keep the names from fading or coming off? The stick is wood. (P.S. Will it apply to baseballs too?) — CHRISTINE

DEAR CHRISTINE — Congratulations on your exciting experience! The signatures on your hockey stick will be nicely preserved if you coat the stick with a coat of polyurethane varnish. Select a clear varnish and it should keep the stick in good condition for many years. You'll have a memento to treasure — and to show off to your children and grandchildren someday! Yes, it would do the trick for autographed baseballs, too, although the baseball won't have the same finish it naturally had. It will be shiny and slick. However, it will keep the names on that ball from fading and disappearing. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — It is so hard to tell the front from the back on some women's slacks. I put a small safety pin on the front of every pair and I immediately know which is the front and which is the back.

PMS: It's no joking matter

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

Pre-menstrual syndrome (PMS) has finally become widely accepted as a valid medical entity. But it certainly took a long time for male physicians to appreciate the profound hormonal changes that affect women, both before and during their menstrual periods.

During their reproductive years, almost all women will experience premenstrual emotional instability, fatigue, bloating and a craving for certain foods — sweets, in particular. As many as 30 percent of women will suffer concomitant increase in body water that is seen as edema (swelling of arms and legs) and diminished urinary volume.

As a result of water retention, some women will complain of difficulty breathing and an increase in the frequency and severity of asthma attacks. Occasionally, women may cough up blood before their periods, this phenomenon is thought to be due to increased capillary fragility and bronchial irritation caused by increased lung water.

A few women may be disabled by severe depression and powerful emotional swings that are associated with antisocial behavior. Rarely, premenstrual females may commit crimes or act irrationally.

PMS is often treatable. Mild cases usually respond to dietary salt restriction, with or without the use of diuretics — medicine to stimulate excretion of excess water. Women with resistant forms of PMS may require hormone therapy, which should always be administered under the supervision of qualified obstetrician-gynecologists.

Pre-menstrual syndrome is neither pleasant nor amusing for the women experiencing it, who seem to be under the uncontrollable influence of mysterious and invisible hormones manufactured by their own bodies. However, the medical aspects of PMS, as defined by a male-oriented profession, are often amusing.

For example, in the 1920s and 1930s, a Dr. Macht and his colleagues reported in several publications that menstruating women demonstrate a toxic substance (menotoxin) in their blood and tissues. The investigators claimed to have discovered that this undefined compound has a deleterious effect "on living plants, on germination of seeds, on the growth of flowers and on the respiration of leaves." They agree with the findings of a British physician in the 1800s who concluded that "there appears to be some physical basis for the legal or systematic regulation in various industries prohibiting women who are menstruating from engaging in the manufacture of perfumes, tending of silkworms and gathering mushrooms."

Now, I could go for that. It makes perfectly good sense to me. Menotoxin is obviously a universal poison that men's so-called better halves (better than to have not!) are spreading around, toxifying and generally causing mischief among the menfolk. When my salad wilts, my daffodils wither, my mushrooms shrink, I know whom to blame.

Put a corner of a colorful cloth hankie through your key ring. The keys can be easily found in your bag without digging for them. — M.B.

DEAR POLLY — I usually read the newspaper before the rest of the family. I mark with a pen or pencil the things I want to clip and save. After the family reads the paper, all I need do is glance at it and clip what I have checked without having to reread. I especially like Polly's Pointers and believe me, I clip lots of those! — VERA

DEAR VERA — Thanks for the kind words — and keep clipping! — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I make my own maple syrup from water, sugar and maple flavoring. It is delicious. However, after awhile it becomes crystallized, although I keep it refrigerated. Is there some way I can prevent this crystallization? — MRS. L.M.H.

DEAR MRS. L.M.H. — The crystallization really can't be prevented (commercial syrups and honey frequently crystallize), gentle heating before serving the syrup will re-liquify the syrup and dispel any crystals. If you have a microwave oven, just warm the syrup for 30 seconds or so until it is warm and decrystallized. Or pour it into a pan and heat on the stove on a low flame just until it's warm and the crystals have disappeared. Besides, I think warm syrup on hot pancakes is so much nicer than cold syrup right out of the refrigerator, don't you? Keeps the butter melted and the pancakes warm while you eat them! — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — To keep drawstrings from pulling out, take a short machine stitch across the center of the string — that is, across the center back of the pants or jacket bottom or the top of the hood on a hooded sweatshirt. Saves time restringing. SARA

DEAR SARA — This is such an easy little trick for solving a really annoying problem. Thanks for sending it in. Your helpful Pointer earns you the Pointer of the Week award, a copy of my book "Polly's Pointers: 1081 Helpful Household Hints for Making Everything Last Longer." Others who would like this book can order it for $6.50. Make check payable to POLLY'S POINTERS and send to POLLY'S POINTERS, Box 1216, Dept. 55, Cincinnati, OH 45201. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Save those waxed butter boxes for vegetable freezing. Put blanched vegetables in plastic storage bags, then put them into the empty butter boxes. Wrap masking tape around the box to seal. These stack nicely in the freezer and take less space than awkward bags. — LEATRICE
