juvenile has gotten in to trouble. The way she sees it, working to prevent problems is a much more attractive task than trying to salvage a teenager who is already deeply involved with drugs and crime before he ever comes in to her office.

Hereford police reports indicate a rash of teenage crime during April and May, with fighting and theft topping the list of complaints.

Duffy believes pressure is the major cause of teenage unrest, namely economic strife at home and peer pressure at school.

Police also arrested Juan Antonio Quintana on a warrant for bail jumping and failure to appear in court. He had been sought since he failed to appear on a driving while intoxicated charge in December.

Investigations Wednesday included several civil disputes, two thefts and a juvenile problem. Criminal mischief was reported in the 400 Block of Ave. D, where two windshields were smashed. Police have three suspects, and the victim believes one was her ex-husband.

Theft is often linked to drug usage, she explained. "If they're doing drugs, it's going to cost them." Duffy reminds parents to be alert for the warning signs: lethargy, disinterest in school and a drop in grades. "You can tell by who their friends are toowatch for the red flags."

Duffy was greeted with a full caseload when she took over the job, and she sees every young person on the rolls at least once a week.

There are currently 20 juveniles on probation, all of whom meet with Duffy every week. Students on probation must stay in school, and the office tries to help them find afterschool jobs as well. The jobs keep them off the streets at night-and are sometimes necessary if the young offender has been ordered to pay restitution for theft or vandalism. Probation usually lasts 12 months, and a 9 p.m. weekday curfew is in force all that time. On weekends the curfew is extended to 10 p.m. No drugs or alcohol are allowed, and violaters face the risk of being sent to the Texas Youth Council program. Besides the 20 currently placed on probation by the juvenile court, Duffy is seeing 13 who were placed on informal probation by her office. There are 17 young persons pending court, and another four Duffy is working with on a "preventative counseling"

"I think they're basically good kids. The problems they have result from the pressures they're under. It's a sign of the times."

She also feels confident with the county's network for handling juvenile problems. She said Deaf Smith County Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul has been "super cooperative", and County Judge Glen Nelson nearly always goes along with her recommendations.

Duffy also has the highest praise for Lupe Chavez, the county's juvenile peace offier.

Improved communication between family members is the biggest defense against juvenile crime, Duffy emphasized, and as a trained counselor she is ready and willing to help families start talking again. She also refers a lot of families to Hereford Family Services for counseling.

In the future, Duffy would like to make time for educational programs, to go into the schools and talk with youngsters about things that bother them.

"I would like to see more moves toward prevention," she said. "And I'll drop whatever I'm doing to talk

White 'inclined' to repeal blue law

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Mark White says he is "inclined" to sign into law legislation that would repeal the Sunday-closing Blue Law.

"I am very pleased by the amendments that have been put on, and I am inclined to conclude it as quickly as I can so they can take it into account in this legislative process," White said Wednesday.

Asked if that meant he is inclined to approve the bill, White replied:

Allowing Sunday shopping in Texas would bring the state an additional $24 million a year in sales tax revenue, lawmakers said.

Currently, stores are not allowed to sell 42 items - ranging from hardware to furniture to clothing - on consecutive Saturdays and Sundays. That effectively has closed most stores on Sundays.

But the Legislature - faced with opinion polls showing overwhelming public opposition to the Blue Law and needing all the extra cash it could find in a tight budget year — this month voted to repeal the 1961 law. The governor said he is still

State == Sexual device sales ban upheld

AUSTIN (AP) - State law banning the sale of sexual devices is not an unconstitutional infringement of the rights of people who want to use them, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals has ruled.

In a 6-3 Wednesday decision, the court said such devices are more like obscene material than contaceptives. Courts have said states can bar the sale of obscene material, but cannot regulate the sale of Judge Tom G. Davis' majority opinion for the Court of Criminal Appeals said the ban on the sale of sexual devices is a legitimate effort to protect "the social interest in order and morality."

But a dissenting judge said the majority failed to understand the "importance that human sexual devices play in our present society." Judge Marvin Teague said it is "common knowledge" that sexual problems can cause "depression and anxiety."

"It is also common knowledge today that trained experts in the field of human sexual behavior use sexual aids in their endeavors to cure their male and female patients' sexual problems," he said.

Former prison psychologist sentenced

ANGLETON, Texas (AP) - A former prison psychologist who once counseled sex offenders faces nine years in jail after he and his wife were convicted of sexually assaulting a teen-age girl.

A jury in state District Judge J. Ray Gayle's court sentenced Armando Simon, 33, to the jail term but handed his wife, Angela, 21, a five-year probated sentence.

A scuffle broke out between Simon and a Brazoria County prosecutor after the conviction Tuesday as Simon and his wife were leaving the courtroom.

Mrs. Simon, found guilty of urging the teen-ager to have sex with Simon, was walking out of the courtroom when she cried out an insult and screamed "You liar," and grabbed one of the teen-age witnesses in the case.

Simon, who counseled sex offenders at the Texas Department of Corrections, reached out toward his wife and the scuffle flared up. Prosecutor Kenneth Dies found himself in the middle of the scuffle along with three or four others who attempted to restrain Simon. The courtroom cleared after Gayle, who was still sitting on the bench, threatened to throw everyone in jail.

White signs missing child bill

AUSTIN (AP) - Legislation signed into law by Gov. Mark White will allow Texas to establish an information clearinghouse to assist law enforcment agencies searching for missing children.

"I am confident this clearinghouse will provide an important new means for reuniting these families," White said in signing the measure on Wednesday.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Frank Collazo, D-Port Arthur, directs the Texas Department of Public Safety to operate the service to collect and distribute information on missing children under age 17.

The clearinghouse is to include a toll-free telephone hotline for receiving such information.

The DPS also will maintain a centralized file for exchanging information on missing persons. Notices containing descriptions of missing children will be distributed, and the Texas Education Agency will be notified of missing children who might be found through the school system.

The clearinghouse operation also will exchange information with the National Crime Information Center in cases where authorities suspect a child has been taken from one state to another.

Remaining septuplets struggle for life

ORANGE, Calif. (AP) - Doctors say they are optimistic about the chances of survival for the six remaining Frustaci septuplets, the smallest a boy nicknamed Peanut because he weighs only a pound.

The two-day-old infants, four boys and two girls, struggled for life as doctors treated them Wednesday for lung and liver problems and an ailment that flooded their lungs with blood. "We still feel optimistic about the survival of all of these babies."

said Dr. Carrie Worcester, director of newborn intensive care at Childrens Hospital of Orange County. "They are holding their own. There are no impending deaths at this time."

"The smallest one is at the greatest risk right now," she said, adding that the babies had a 50-50 overall chance of survival. The infants were listed in critical but stable condition.

Hearing set on Texas oil definition

WASHINGTON (AP) - The State of Texas will be asked to explain its definition of oil before the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission decides whether independent oilmen have been pumping natural gas out of the ground and calling it oil, says a spokeswoman

The hearing was set for June 14, said FERC spokeswoman Rachelle Patterson.

A FERC administrative law judge already has ruled in favor of a natural gas company that complained about the oil drillers. It is now up to the full commission to affirm or change that ruling.

The commission decided to take an "interim step" in holding the hearing, Ms. Patterson said.

The Texas Railroad Commission recently ruled against the oil drillers in a related case, creating concern in the Panhandle about tax revenues that will drop dramatically if the oil drilling operations are shut down.

The controversy surrounds the production of "casinghead gas" or "white oil" — liquified natural gas — produced from oil wells. Under law, gas wells can only be only be drilled one every 640 acres while oil wells can be drilled every 10 acres.

Shiite Moslems seize 2 key points

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Backed by tanks and armored vehicles, Shiite Moslem militiamen and army units seized key points in two Palestinian refugee camps in house-to-house fighting. Police said at least 155 people had died and 800 had been wounded since May 7. The more conservative House appropriations bill had a budget of more then $400 million less than the Senate, including funding for state colleges and universities that was $71 million less than the Senate.

The House bill also included a $263 million pay raise for state employees, 3 percent in 1986 and 2 percent in 1987, with state agencies given the option of another 1 percent raise in 1987 if they could squeeze it out of their operating budgets.

The fees conference committee has met only once, when House conferees agreed to bring up their fees increase to a total of about $140 million, but no more. The Senate re-

Abortion topic of club program

Michelle Brisendine presented a charge of the business session. It was program on abortion when members of El Llano Study Club met Monday evening in the home of Ursalee Jacobsen. Alice Eades served as cohostess.

Brisendine, who was introduced by Rhonda Wagner, told that in the United States a baby dies in an abortion every 20 seconds and that approximately 17,000,000 abortions have been performed since 1973 when abortion was first legalized.

She explained that Hereford will soon have an office to educate and offer women alternatives to abortion.

She also said that there are no restrictions on the abortion business in Texas and a woman can legally abort her baby at any time during her nine month pregnancy. Senate Bill 129 and House Bill 486 would finally place restrictions on late abortions. She encouraged everyone to write their representative in support of these bills.

Get out of the house

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 20-year-old female university student. My life has become unbearable because of my father.

Although he never actually raped me, when I think of how far I let him go when I was younger (and dumber), it makes me sick. I didn't know what he was doing back then. He said he was showing me how much he loved me.

When I was 11 years old I figured he was up to no good and told him to leave me alone or I would tell everybody in town. From then on the physical stuff stopped, but now he gets his kicks from verbal sexual abuse. I hate to be anywhere near him because of his disgusting sexual comments.

He constantly accuses me of trying to arouse him when I wear shorts or a blouse or a dress with a low neckline. No matter what is said he turns it around so it has some filthy connotation.

My mother knows all about it, but says I'm making a big deal about nothing. In her opinion, I am at fault with Dad. She keeps telling me there are worse fathers than mine and I should be grateful that he is sending me to college.

I'm afraid my past experience with my father has had a terrible impact on my relationship with males in general. I can't stand for a guy to even hold my hand.

P.S. If you print this letter, PLEASE don't mention the city. My father reads your column every day. (Too bad he doesn't take any of your good advice.)--NAMELESS. FACELESS AND PLACELESS

DEAR N.F.P.: You MUST get out of that house. Speak to the dean of student affairs about a job that will enable you to stay in a dorm or a

DEAR EMP: I did not recommend surgery because I've know of too many women who have had it done and it didn't help them.

As for the twisted skirt, it may not look as bad with the urine on the side but it won't smell any better. I recommend leak-proof pads and rubber-lined pants.

Lakers, Celtics advance to championship Lakers 153.

AP Sports Writer INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) - Los Angeles Lakers Coach Pat Riley hardly minced words when he described his team. "This could be the greatest team in Laker history," Riley said Wednes-day night after the Lakers whipped the Denver Nuggets 153-109 to move into the National Basketball Assocation Championship Series against Boston.

"We are a great team. We have always relied on our veterans, but our younger players have really made a mark. Byron Scott and James Worthy have come full circle since last year.

"I'm real excited about going to the championship series," Riley said. "The two best teams in the league will be there and that's exactly what the people wanted."

Earvin "Magic" Johnson, who had 19 assists in the clinching victory over the injury-riddled Nuggets to become the NBA's all-time playoff leader in that department, said: 'Since it's the Celtics, there's going to be a little extra incentive because of what happened last year.

"It's going to be fun. I think everybody should sit back, relax and enjoy the series because it's going to be a good one."

The date in the league finals will be the Lakers' sixth in the past seven years, but last year's championship series ended on a sour note when they lost to the Celtics in seven games.

Boston earned its berth in the 1965 title round by edging the Philadelphia 76ers 102-100 Wednesday night to win the Eastern Conference crown. Both they and the Lakers won their best-of-seven conference showdowns in five games.

Denver Coach Doug Moe, whose club had been hard-hit by injuries and played the fifth game without leading scorer Alex English (broken thumb), said: "I hope we lost to the eventual NBA champs. I'd like to see them win."

"They were the best team last year, but they gave it away, so I don't know what will happen this year," Moe added.

LA is better this year than last, no comparison," he continued. "They are stronger physically, they're a better rebounding team, they play a stronger game, and the big plus is Byron Scott."

Scott scored 21 points in the victory over the Nuggets, and Worthy had a team-high 25 as the Lakers rung up the second-highest total in NBA playoff history.

Johnson had 17 points to go along with his 19 assists as he eclipsed the career playoff assists record of 970 set by former Laker guard and current Laker general manager Jerry West. Johnson's playoff total now stands at 983.

Scott and Worthy each had 17 points in the first half as the Lakers took control of the game. The Nuggets went ice-cold from the floor to start the second period after forging a 34-34 tie at the end of the first 12 minutes.

Denver missed its first 17 fieldgoal attempts of the second quarter - spanning almost eight minutes as the Lakers pulled out to a 20-point lead, finishing the half with a 76-53

The Nuggets were never close again.

Wayne Cooper paced Denver with 23 points, and Lafayette Lever had Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who had 15 points in the lopsided victory over the Nuggets, said the matchup with Boston is just as it should be. 'What else can be said? You've got the two best teams with the two best records playing for the championship," he said.

Celtics 102, 76ers 100

By HOWARD ULMAN AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) - Defense took Boston into the championship round of the National Basketball Association playoffs. Now the Celtics will really have to play defense.

Larry Bird stole the ball from Philadelphia's Andrew Toney with four seconds left Wednesday night to preserve the defending champions' 102-100 victory that gave them the Eastern Conference title 4-1.

On Monday afternoon, the Celtics begin their final-round rematch here with the Los Angeles Lakers, who buried Denver 153-109 Wednesday night to capture the Western Conference final 4-1.

The stingy, scrappy Celtics allowed Philadelphia just 100 points per game in the series. The 76ers exceeded that total only once. In compiling an 11-2 playoff mark this year, Los Angeles has averaged 131.2 points per game.

"They're playing the best basketball of any team in the league," Bird said of the fast-breaking Lakers. "But we're a defensive-minded team."

Rarely has that been more evident than in the last four minutes of the clincher over the 76ers. Boston started that span with a 95-93 lead and came up with four steals the rest of the way.

"We were not as organized as we should have been," said Philadelphia forward Bobby Jones. "The Celtics get back well on defense and contain."

Danny Ainge had two of the last four steals. The second one came on a pass by Jones with 1:55 left in regulation. Dennis Johnson, who led Boston with 23 points, was fouled on the ensuing possession and made two free throws to put the Celtics ahead

Charles Barkley's third three-point field goal cut the lead to two points. but Johnson connected from the top of the key to make it 102-98 with 1:11

Julius Erving scored on a drive across the lane, slicing the advantage to two with 56 seconds remaining. Then the drama soared to its

With 12 seconds to go, Bird missed a shot in the lane and said later, "I definitely thought I was fouled."

Erving got the rebound and collided with Toney before throwing it to the guard in the left corner.

"I knew we had just a few seconds left," said Toney. "I was trying to go one-on-one. I heard somebody on the bench call timeout and I just held up and he (Bird) just rushed over."

Erving said that if no quick opportunity developed after the rebound, the plan was to call a timeout. He ap-there," said Johnson. "I'm not surprised we won the series," said Bird, who felt Toney might have been distracted by the attempted timeout call. "I am surprised it's over this early.'

The Celtics trailed for most of the first half Wednesday night but ended it with a 17-8 surge that gave them a 56-51 intermission lead. Philadelphia didn't catch up until Clint Richardson sank two free throws early in the final period, making the score 83-83.

A free throw by the 76ers' Moses Malone tied it again at 93-93 with 4:31 left in the game before Bird's jumper put Boston in front to stay.

Maurice Cheeks led Philadelphia with 26 points and Erving added 16. Boston got 20 points from Robert Parish and 17 each from Bird and Kevin McHale.

Jose DeLeon and his Pittsburgh Pirates' teammates finally have something in common. Neither seems to be going anywhere.

DeLeon, 0-6 and the loser of 15 of his previous 16 starts dating back to the 1984 season, was fearful he was about to be demoted to the Pirates' Hawaii farm club before holding the Houston Astros scoreless for seven innings Wednesday night.

But the Pittsburgh bullpen couldn't preserve the 3-2 lead that DeLeon handed John Candelaria with two outs in the eighth and the Astros, after trailing 3-0, rallied for a 5-3 victory as Alan Ashby drove in three runs in the ninth and 10th innings.

The loss was the Pirates' 25th in 37 games as they tightened the grip they've held on last place in the National League East since mid-April DeLeon didn't get the loss - that went to reliever Al Holland, who was touched for a two-run Ashby double in the 10th - but he also didn't get the victory. At least he didn't get a one-way plane ticket to Honolulu.

Ashby fought off several John Candelaria pitches to loft a ninthinning sacrifice fly that tied the score at 3-3. In the 10th, Enos Cabell strok-

AUSTIN-Going into the final week, the business-like Texas Legislature showed all signs of avoiding a major tax increase, something that many said a few months ago could not be done.

All budget hopes rested in conference committee which is trying to work out $400 million worth of differences between the versions passed by the House and Sen-but one major issue is whether to give state employees a raise, and how much.

The House approved a three percent increase, the Senate provided none.

The governor has wisely avoided being drawn into the fray by groups wanting him to veto any budget without a built-in pay hike.

"I'm not promising any vetos," he said. "We're trying to pass good legislation.

Blue Law Repeal

The Texas Blue Law moved closer to repeal when the Senate tacked on several amendments and sent it back to the House for concurrence.

The new law would allow Sunday sales for all products except automobiles. Present law bans the sale of 42 items on consecutive weekend days. The measure, if it becomes law, is expected to add some $24 million or more in sales tax revenues to state coffers strapped for cash.

Rural retailers fought the measure, and Biblical warnings of punishment for Sunday toilers were scattered throughout the debate. But the argument highway. We outlawed suicide

Buckled Seats Belts

The House approved legislation which is sure to set many Texans to grumbling: a man-datory buckled seat belt law.

The good news for the grumblers is the new law would apply only to persons in the front seat. The bad news is a $25 to $50 fine if you're caught unbuckled.

A federal order has mandated that two-thirds of the U.S. population be protected through seat belt laws or installed air bags by 1989. Seat belts are cheaper.

Texas lawmakers, wary of the wrath of Texas pick-up truck drivers, tried to exempt certain types of trucks from the requirement with what came to be dubbed "the Bubba amendment.'

"Bubba may think he's got a right to drive 75 mph and drink a six-pack of beer driving into the sunset. But Bubba doesn't have the right to injure you or himself on the won out that new lifestyles, a long time ago." said Bill Messer, the sponsor.

Prison Lawsuit Settlement

State officials last week signed an agreement to end the costly prison system lawsuit and send it to the federal judge who rocked the legislature six years ago with courtordered reforms.

The proposal calls for an 13 Kitchen 11.7 percent reduction in inmates now in prison, and costs $173 million.

Prison board chairman Robert Gunn warned persons who might try to sabotage the pact that "the war is over and the side of reform has won. Others said the settlement will be a landmark that will lead to a new direction in the state criminal justice system. "It's just crazy to try to build all the new prisons they will have to build just to keep even," one reformer said.

Wiretap Update

After a Houston senator filibustered for over 12 hours against it, the Senate amended the wiretapping law to allow covert entries to plant wiretaps.

The new law would extend wiretap use, but requires that court orders be necessary to install wiretaps and pen registers, a device recording only phone numbers dialed out of a

Farm exports take another billion dollar dive WASHINGTON (AP) - For the Thursday that commodity shipments third time in recent months, prospects for U.S. farm exports have taken another billion-dollar dive, putting sales at their lowest level in six years, says the Agriculture Department.

The latest forecast for the fiscal year that began last Oct. 1 showed will drop to $33.5 billion, down from $38 billion in 1983-84. According to USDA records, that will be the lowest since farm exports were worth $31.98 billion in 1978-79, when shipments were on the rise.

"Increased production in both importing and exporting countries is for U.S. grain and oilseed exports," the report said. "New competitors this year include China and India. Moderate providing formidable competition

world economic growth, modest growth in feed consumption, the high value of the U.S. dollar, and domestic price support levels continue to hamper exports."

The report added, however, that the forecast does not take into account any benefits that might result from the new export subsidy program announced last week by Agriculture Secretary John R.

Although he didn't provide details, Block indicated that the $2 billion subsidy program - sometimes called an export payment-in-kind program or export PIK - would use surplus commodities over the next three years to entice foreign countries to buy more U.S. farm pro-

Hired farm worker numbers drop WASHINGTON (AP) - There were an estimated 907,000 hired workers on the nation's farms this spring, according to a survey by the Agriculture Department.

The report, issued Tuesday, said employment shown by the April 7-13 survey was down 6.5 percent from 1,025,000 hired workers on farms last fall. And it was down 18 percent from the 1,259,600 hired workers in April

Last Dec. 3, the department forecast 1984-85 farm exports at $36.5 billion. That was lowered to $35.5 billion on Feb. 20 and to $34.5 billion on March 12.

Export values rose to record level for a dozen consecutive years; to a peak of $43.8 billion in 1980-81 before turning down to $39.1 billion in 1981-82 and to $34.8 billion in 1982-83.

With export values down and the outlook for U.S. imports of agricultural commodities holding steady at a record $19.5 billion, the nation's agricultural trade surplus is expected to decline to $14 billion in 1984-85, the report said. That would be down from a surplus of $19.1 billion last year.

Hightower escapes diluted bill threat

AUSTIN (AP) — Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower, who has escaped a House effort to dilute his power to regulate pesticides, says he will try to work with everyone interested in the issue in the future.

Hightower's defenders, led by Mexican-American lawmakers, said the bill's defeat on Wednesday was good news for those worried about farm worker safety.

"He was the first agriculture com-

Rep. Robert Saunders. D-Columbus, had introduced legislation to give pesticide regulation power to a three-member board instead of the agriculture commissioner exclusively. The commissioner would have been a board member.

Saunders, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, said his bill was designed "to take the politics out" of pesticide rulemaking so regulations wouldn't depend upon who was elected agriculture commissioner.

But when Hispanic lawmakers successfully mustered the votes to defeat his bill, Saunders withdrew it from consideration.

Hightower said the bill "has been tough on everyone involved, with a lot of strong feelings and intense effort coming from all parties."

Hightower also pledged to work with Saunders and others "to satisfy their legitimate concerns" about the

Pesticide regulations became a controversial issue eight months ago, when Hightower first proposed rules for Texas farmers. The rules include time limits before workers can re-enter sprayed fields and requirements for notification of some neighbors when spray-

Saunders insisted that his bill wasn't a personal attack on Hightower, although other lawmakers saw it as one.

"In my opinion, it was a political fight. They were really trying to get at Hightower," Hinojosa said.

"It was important to me to get the politics out," Saunders responded. "I talked to Jim. He said you can take my chair and do it. I said I don't want to do it. I have never thought about

Block seeks to streamline USDA offices

WASHINGTON (AP) Agriculture Secretary John R. Block has instructed field offices to come up with ideas by Sept. 1 on how to streamline Agriculture Department operations. Block's instructions were provided Thursday in a 50-state teleconference with USDA state officials of various agencies, including the Farmers Home Administration, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and the Soil Conservation Service. Those agencies have offices that reach into virtually every county. A task force has been set up in USDA to look at headquarters structure, program overlap, field structure, technology application and administrative support, Block said. The aim is to "reduce duplication and provide the most effective delivery system" to taxpayers.

No mention was made of how many offices might be eliminated or consolidated. Or how many employees might be cut from USDA payrolls.

GOOD TASTE

If there is a rule that is worth following when evaluating the taste of a wine, it is to follow one's own instincts. Taste is personal and is based on experience. To help make decisions, however, a frame of reference should exist. Unless one is very experienced, it is useless to taste one wine without comparing it to another. No truly successful tasting can involve a single wine. There must be a basis for comparison. Under ideal conditions, several different wines should be compared. Progress from one to another in individual tastings. Open two battles with dinner each evening even if it is not all consumed. Gradually, one will be able to discern and return to the wines that please the most.

At THE STORE we love to talk about wines so come on by and let us answer any questions you may have about them. We are proud of our inventory of fine wines..domestic and imported. Texas Most Wanted Fugitive MONAHANS, Texas - Merchants in this friendly west Texas community described the couple as "nicely dressed" with "outgoing personalities."

Law enforcement officials describe the couple as slick bad check writers who took Monahans merchants for more than $7,000 during a weekend spree in early April.

This week, Gerald Arlington Poole III and Jasmine Elizando Poole have been added to the Texas Most Wanted list as a result of warrants issued for them in Ward County. They are charged with theft by check of over $750 and less than $20,000. Ms. Poole is also charged with theft of over $750 and less than $20,000 in connection with the disappearance of some money from a local tavern.

Rewards of up to $1,000 each are being offered by Texas Most Wanted for information leading to the capture of the fugitives.

In addition to his problems in Monahans, detectives say Poole is also wanted by Ector County authorities in Odessa, Texas, for bond forfeiture in connection with still more bad check charges.

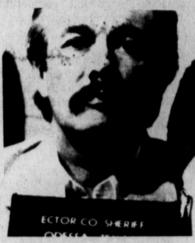

Poole is described as a white male, 41, 6-1, 190 pounds, with brown eyes and brown hair streaked with gray. He might be growing a mustache and beard. Ms. Poole is a white famel, 29, 5-3, 150 pounds, with hazel eyes and brown hair. The pair were last seen in a light brown 1977 Pontiac Bonneville with Texas plates PBY-45.

Sergeant Ellis Butler of the Ward County Sheriff's Department says that on the weekend of April 5 "almost every major business in Monahans" was stung by the fallout of bad checks.

Three video cassette recorders, a television set, three pistols, two expensive watches, two rings, clothing and automobile tires were purchased during the two-day spree.

Sgt. Butler said several private individuals were also victimized by the bad checks.

Detectivs also wanted to talk to Ms. Poole about the theft of weekend bar receipts at the Eagle Lodge, which amounted to $1,835.97. Ms. Poole was working at the lodge until April 5.

Officials say this isn't Gerald Poole's first brush with the law.

They say that since 1962, Poole has been arrested by a variety of police departments in Texas, Louisiana and Nevada on charges ranging from bad checks and auto theft to burglary.

Sgt. Butler says Poole has a long string of aliases, including Jerry Kennedy and Terry Patterson as well as variations of his real last

Ms. Poole is also known as Jasmine Lawhon.

Anyone with information about either of these two fugitives is asked to call their loal Crime Stoppers program or the Texas Cime Stoppers Advisory Council toll-free at 1-800-252-8477. In all cases, callers do not have to reveal their identities.

Chelation therapy: Unproven

Although it's been heavily promoted by a surprising number of clinics in the United States, so-called chelation therapy is of no proven benefit to patients with hardening of the coronary arteries or other heart diseases. Because of the possible serious side effects of chelation therapy, such as kidney damage, the American Heart Association recommends that you not try it - at least not until it has been rigorously tested in properly con-trolled clinical trials.

The federal government, the American Medical Association, the American College of Physicians and other organizations have also taken stands against widespread use of chelation therapy for heart disease. Yet many Americans continue to spend $3,000 and more on a therapy that authorities agree is worthless in the treatment of heart disease, and might even be dangerous.

Chelation therapy involves injecting a chemical known as EDTA into a vein for an hour or two. A few days rest follows, and the treatment is repeated from five to 30 times. In many cases, the patient is then advised to continue preventive treatments once a month. Because insurance companies and Medicare will not reimburse patients for chelation therapy related expenses, the patient must pay all costs.

EDTA stands for ethylendiaminetetraacetic acid. It is marketed under several names, including Edetate Disodium, Endrate and Sodium Versenate. EDTA has proven to be useful in treating cases of heavy metal (lead or mercury) poisoning.

It has the ability to bind to lead and mercury, creating a compound that may be excreted in the EDTA also "chelates" (naturally seeks out and binds to) calcium. That ability led in the early 1960s to speculation that EDTA could be used to remove calcium from the fatty deposits that cause hardening and narrowing of the arteries. When this occurs in the coronary arteries, the fatty deposits, called atherosclerotic laques, obstruct blood flow to the heart muscle and may lead to heart attack. The unproven theory is that once calcium is removed by regular treatments of EDTA, the other components of atherosclerotic plaque (fat, cholesterol, cellular debris, and fibrin [a blood clotting agent]) will break up, relieving the narrowing of the arteries.

Proponents of chelation therapy offer only anecdotal evidence - that is, stories of people who have used the therapy - and no scientific evidence from properly controlled trials. Many physicians are familiar with the disappearance of symptoms in diseased persons for no apparent reason. This is usually attributed to 'placebo" effect. That may explain why some chelation patients report feeling better after the treatments.

Use of chelation therapy by people who have been convinced it will help them might delay application of proven therapies, such as lifestyle changes, drug treatments, "miracle cure.

Senator Lloyd Bentsen Watching Washington

For the first time since 1914, U.S. citizens owe foreign citizens more money than they owe us. The United States has become a debtor nation this year.

Projections are that our debt will exceed that of third world nations like Brazil and Mexico by the end of the year.

This is but one of the signals of the serious problems that result from this country's inadequate trade policies. As a member of several Senate committees and subcommittees with jurisdiction over trade, I am concerned about this situation.

I chaired two recent hearings of the Joint Economic Committee on trade, which spelled out the problem. Our trade deficit doubled in 1983, doubled again last year to a record $123.3 billion, and is estimated to top $160 billion this

Think about that for a moment. In 1985, the United States is expected to buy over $160 billion more in goods from foreign countries than we sell to those countries.

Almost half of last year's trade deficit, some $55 billion, was caused by an overvalued U.S. dollar. It bloats the price of U.S. exports and unfairly lowers foreign import prices.

Since 1980, the value of the dollar has climbed more than 40 percent in relation to foreign currencies, primarily because of huge federal budget deficits. In the 100-yard dash to the world's marketplace, this means U.S. firms are forced to give foreign competitors a 40-yard head start.
