

Herd Stampedes to Quarterfinal Clash

By BOB NIGH
Managing Editor

IRVING — The Hereford Whitefaces will be aiming at a first-ever spot in the semi-finals of the state football playoffs when they try to throw a net over the speedy Ft. Worth Eastern Hills Highlanders in a quarter-finals match here tomorrow night at Texas Stadium.

The Whitefaces, 12-4, are making only their second trip to the quarter-finals in the school's history as they prepare to meet the Highlanders, who are 9-3 on the year.

"They've got excellent skill people, and to beat them we've got to contain their speed and keep the ball away from them," Herd coach Don Cumpton said. "The key is our offensive line controlling the line of scrimmage."

The play of the men in the trenches was the major factor last week in the Herd's 22-0 shellacking of previously unbeaten El Paso Bel Air, a team which had set a state 4A regular season scoring record.

"I'd compare them to Palo Duro, philosophy-wise," Cumpton said. "They run a wide open offense, and will throw the ball from anywhere on the field."

Putting the ball in the air for the Highlanders will be signal-caller Vincent Spruell, a 155-pound senior, who has a rocket arm. "Spruell can throw the ball 50 yards ... backing up," Cumpton said. "He's definitely the key to their team; he keeps his poise well, and is a good scrambler."

Spruell directs the high-g geared Eastern Hills offense, which has as many variations as the Dallas Cowboys. The Highlanders have successfully incorporated the I formation, the double wing, the shotgun, and the pro set, among others, enroute to their successful season, which includes a 20-14 win over state power Abilene Cooper.

Eastern Hills began the season like a team going nowhere, losing to Longview 19-14 in the opener, and then dropping a 14-7 decision to Arlington.

MX, B-1 Bomber Surmount New Challenges

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's multibillion-dollar military rearmament plan is emerging largely unscathed from the Senate after surmounting new challenges to the B-1 bomber and MX missile. The Senate moved toward passage today of its record $208.6 billion version of the Defense Department appropriations bill. A handful of amendments to add funds for such items as ammunition and warship steaming time remained to be considered.

The House passed a $197.4 billion bill last month, and a congressional conference committee will meet next week to iron out differences.

The Senate worked until midnight Thursday, its fourth day of consideration of the bill, turning aside efforts to remove all $2.4 billion earmarked for the B-1 bomber and to make a 2 percent, across-the-board cut in weapons procurement and research funds.

In more than six hours of debate, Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., and a small band of allies urged that nearly $1.9 billion of the B-1 money be transferred to military readiness programs, which they said have fallen victim to Reagan's September budget cutback.

The Senate rejected that amendment, 65-28, in a mid-evening vote that saw 23 Democrats join 43 members of the Republican majority. Five GOP members joined with 23 Democrats on the losing side.

By 57-36, the Senate then defeated the effort by Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., for the $1.7 billion across-the-board cut. Hatfield, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, complained that domestic programs have seen their spending cuts "sucked up into the defense budget" for high-cost, unneeded weapons systems.

Hollings and others reiterated arguments that the B-1 bomber — a modernized version of the plane that Jimmy Carter scrapped in 1977 — would be able to penetrate Soviet air defenses for as little as three years after the first models come off the production line in 1986.

They said the cost of 100 such planes, estimated variously from $20.5 billion to $40 billion, is wasteful because a radar-evading Stealth bomber could be ready by 1980.

Reagan wants to place up to 40 of an eventual 100 MX missiles in hardened silos now occupied by Titan and Minuteman missiles pending a permanent basing arrangement in 1984.

Two Miners Rescued After Cave-In; One Found Dead

By BOB ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer
BERGOO, W.Va. (AP) — Rescue teams early today found two survivors and one body and tried to establish contact with two other coal miners trapped a third of a mile underground when a ceiling fell in, authorities said.

One of the freed miners was treated and released from a hospital and the other suffered serious injury and was being treated in the mine, authorities said. The two who were freed said they had been separated from the other three in the accident Thursday night and were unable to contact them.

The body was found after the two were rescued and the name of the miner was not released, pending notice to relatives.

Miners used a large scoop shovel in an attempt to dig out their trapped fellow workers, said state police Sgt. Fred Dickinson. Special mine rescue teams and state mine inspectors were at the scene to assist in the effort, he said.

Miner Larry Clevenger, 18, of Webster Springs was brought out at about 4:30 a.m. after being trapped for about seven hours. Donzil Cutlip, 27, also of Webster Springs was reported freed about 15 minutes later, but Dickinson

The Christmas season was formally launched in Hereford this week with the traditional lighting of the tree at the courthouse lawn and the arrival of Santa Claus.

Hereford merchants will be offering a big variety of gift ideas, so shop the pages of The Brand and then these progressive stores for good buys and service!

A note to music lovers: Don't forget that local singers will present "The Messiah" Sunday night at 8 in the high school auditorium. The performance is free of charge. Bill Devers will direct the group, made up of Chamber Singers and other local vocalists.

The annual Holiday Tour of Homes, originally scheduled Sunday afternoon, has been changed to Monday night from 6 to 8. The event has become a popular project under the sponsorship of La Madre Mia study club.

Football fever, which caught on when the Herd won a district crown, has really spread around the community with bi-district and regional championships to the Whitefaces' credit!

Hereford had a large delegation making the trip to El Paso, and even more may pack up for the trip to Dallas and the playoff game at Texas Stadium.

Larry Wartes, assistant superintendent, said Hereford fans have been notified to use Gates 2-3-4 when they park at Texas Stadium Saturday. Hereford will be the visiting team and will be on the north side (if you can figure out which way is north!).

Final figures have not been received from Bel Air officials, but Wartes said attendance was estimated at 16,000 including free passes. Gate receipts are expected to top $30,000, but Hereford's share may just cover expenses. Wartes said the school took some 400 people, which include players, coaches, band, cheerleaders, drill team and pep squad.

After the Sun Bowl got its fee and the University Interscholastic League takes 10 percent, and after visiting team expenses are paid, the split between schools is sometimes small. A Bel Air school official told us the Sun Bowl fee was $1,500. Texas Stadium's fee is much more.

El Paso did draw a large crowd with the wet weather. The total gate on the bi-district game at Canyon was just $15,000.

The playoff picture is changing some scheduling around the community. Perhaps it is a good time to remind football fans to plan their Christmas shopping in Hereford. Local business people are important supporters of the team, too!

Lighting Contest Slated

Judging begins Dec. 15 for the city area's Christmas lighting contest sponsored by the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

Entry blanks will be published in the Brand on the Sunday before the contest judging and must be returned to the Chamber office before noon Dec. 14. Judging will continue through Dec. 17.

Main entries will include total home, door, window, neighborhood and total business categories. A total of $300 will be awarded to the winners.

Lighting and decorations will be judged on attractiveness, suitability to Christmas, and creativity.

Fox is the chief tax appraiser.

The new budget will be slightly less than last year's $227,000 figure, and Fox is to prepare the proposed total this week. The budget will be presented to local governmental entities at a budget hearing Dec. 15 at 2 p.m. The hearing will be held in the district courtroom or the high school board room, depending on availability.

Fox recommended, and the board approved, of a lease-purchase plan for the tax district. Total cost was pegged at about $53,500.

Estimated cost of the burglar and fire alarm system is $1,635, said Fox. It will be tied into the police station and record movement or heat emanating from the district office, located in the old West Central school building.

The board also approved salary schedules for district employees, and approved the acceptance of items from city, school and county as contributions to the office operations. Some discussion had been presented on having the items credited to each entity, but the board agreed on the contribution method.

Fox also presented an office operation and procedures report. He outlined changes which will be necessary with the in-house computer and some changes required to conform with state law.

Nation's Jobless Rate Hits 8.4 Percent Mark

WASHINGTON (AP) — The jobless rate hit a six-year high of 8.4 percent in November, the government said today, and layoffs triggered by the recession dimmed prospects for a bright holiday season.

The Labor Department said the number of unemployed Americans jumped by 484,000 during the last month to 9 million, while the number of people holding jobs declined by 190,000.

That took joblessness from 8 percent in October to its highest level since October 1975, when the economy was beginning to struggle back from its worst recession since the Great Depression.

The latest rise in unemployment was particularly sharp among adult men, the government said.

Their jobless rate rose from 6.7 percent to 7.2 percent in November, just below the post-World War II high of 7.3 percent in May 1975.

Unemployment also remained extremely severe for teen-agers at 21.9 percent and for blacks, at a record 16.8 percent. For minority teen-agers, the jobless rate was 41.3 percent.

Private economic forecasters and officials in President Reagan's administration expect the current recession to send unemployment even higher, possibly to the postwar record of 9 percent.

Since July, the number of people who want to work but cannot find jobs has climbed by 1.5 million.

The number of people who held jobs in November stood at 98 million.

The government said 364,000 people lost their jobs during November, mainly because of layoffs. Unemployment also rose because there was a greater number of people looking for work but unable to find it.

As in the prior two months, unemployment increases were especially large for workers in blue-collar occupations because of declining orders for manufactured goods.

Layoffs among factory workers have retailers worried about a lackluster Christmas shopping season. As a result, stores are not hiring as many people to work the holiday season as in past years.

The department noted there was a sharp drop of 85,000 in retail employment in November as seasonal hiring fell short of expectations.

But, the Highlanders came back with the big win over Cooper in their third game, and opened district 7-5A play with a 14-7 win over Ft. Worth Paschal.
A 19-0 loss to Ft. Worth Dunbar gave the Highlanders a 3-3 mark early on, but they rallied to win their next five games, claiming the loop title with a 27-21 win over Ft. Worth Wyatt.

Eastern Hills' defensive secondary is also a cat-quick unit headed up by 145-pound senior Xavier Hennington, who runs a 4.6 40-yard dash. Hennington also returns punts and kickoffs for the Highlanders, and had a 75-yard kickoff return for a touchdown against Arlington in the bi-district game.
"Their secondary is not real big, but are real fast," Cumpton said. "They throw a man-to-man coverage at you and dare you to throw."

The auto sales figures were the worst for the month of November since 1969, according to company reports Thursday. Sales were off 18.4 percent when compared with November 1980, and that seemed to indicate the slightly falling interest rates were not sending customers flocking to showrooms.

'Tis The Season...

Inspirational Stories Are Abounding

NEW YORK (AP) - This is the season for inspirational stories, and two weekend television movies - "The Children Nobody Wanted" and "A Long Way Home" - are lifted beautifully and poignantly from newspaper pages. In Sunday night's GE Theater presentation of "A Long Way Home" on ABC, scriptwriter Dennis Nemec ignored several real-life occurrences for fear that audiences would dismiss them as Hollywood fantasies. "A Long Way Home" traces the relentless struggle of Donald, the eldest of three abandoned children, to reunite his family after he and his brother and sister were all adopted by different parents. Incredibly, at one point during Donald's search, his brother, David, was living on the same Florida street. Another time, Donald attended a funeral and didn't learn until much later that the funeral director - with whom he had spoken - was his sister's adoptive father. Nemec left these facts for Ripley, concentrating instead on a powerful drama of feelings and obsession. It begins with the Branch children living a back-seat existence with their itinerant parents throughout Florida. Finally, they're abandoned in a rundown shack and 8-year-old Donald becomes surrogate father to his siblings. After Donald is caught stealing milk from a neighbor's porch, the children are taken to a family services agency and surreptitiously split up because nobody will take on three kids. Nine years later, Timothy Hutton, the Academy Award-winner from "Ordinary People," is the haunted Donald. His adopted parents are loving, but he can't love them back. "He gives, gives and gives, but he never takes," says his father, played warmly by George Dzundza of

Christian Ministry Holding It's Own

NEW YORK (AP) - As one of the first class of seminary students training for the Christian ministry in communist China in 15 years, the young woman, Bao Juan, said, "We feel we are the most blessed of people, given this glorious opportunity. God is working everywhere." The scene, at the recently opened Theological Seminary and College in Nanking, was described by a visiting delegation of American church leaders who returned this week from two weeks in China. They report a growing, vigorous resurgence of church life there after past years of suppression, with more than 200 churches reopened in major cities since 1979 and the printing and distribution in 1980-1981 of about 400,000 Chinese Bibles. The 18-member delegation of U.S. church leaders, the first to visit China at the official invitation of the recently formed China Christian Council, worshipped in numerous Chinese churches, met with pastors, professors, government officials and par-

ABC's new comedy, "Open All Night." The movie then follows Donald's passionate pursuit of his blood family, focusing on how much they meant to each other - and still do. "They're ghosts," his wife, Rose, (Rosanna Arquette) says to him. It turns out that all three participants in once underground "house churches". Claire Randall, general secretary of the U.S. National Council of Churches, a cooperative organization of most major Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations that arranged the trip, says:

"One of the most touching and impressive things was to hear people, both young and old, telling how they kept their faith alive in their homes, behind closed doors, in the dark period of the Cultural Revolution." That was the harsh 1966-1976 interval when religion was ruthlessly crushed in China and public manifestations of it stamped out, with countless believers and pastors slain or imprisoned. Participants in the secret "house churches" in that period told U.S. visitors how lights would be turned low and hymns and prayers aloud whispered in the forbidden worship services.

Women, prepare yourselves. By 1990, 60 percent of women will either have jobs or will be looking for them as compared to 52 percent in 1980, predicts Bonnie Piernot, a family resource management specialist. Piernot is with the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Hereford High School Vocational Office Careers Clubs of Texas, Chapter No. 100, sponsored an assembly program Wednesday featuring The Baker's Dozen. This is a musical performing group from South Plains College in Levelland. The band has eleven members, one of whom is a former Hereford High School graduate, Jeff Hammond, the drummer. The group is very versatile in the types of music they sing and play. High School students enjoyed their performance last year and packed the auditorium for this year's show. Mr. Dan Hanson, director for the South Plains Music Department, was extremely complimentary of the Hereford student body. He commented, "this is probably the best group we've played for. We appreciate the full house attendance and the enthusiasm of the students". He also expressed a desire for the "Dozen" to return in the spring. Ernest Reyes, V.O.C.C.T. president, introduced the group. After the performance, some of the club members assisted the Stanton Junior High Homemaking Department members in preparing lunch for them. A performance was given after lunch for Stanton Junior High students.

Ann Landers What About Armed Attackers?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I must comment on your recent advice to women who are attacked by rapists. You quoted authorities who cautioned against submitting peacefully. They urged women to "scream, kick, gouge, scratch and put the knee where it hurts the most." That advice may be fine under certain circumstances, but a very important element was left out of your response. No mention was made of the armed attacker. When a gun or a knife is held at the victim's throat, the possibility of being maimed or killed is very real. The March 23, 1981, issue of Time magazine on violent crime put it well. Capt. Ephrine F. Leija of the Houston police department said, "Do the best you can under difficult circumstances. Above all, don't try to be a hero." I am glad you urged all rape victims to report the crime at once and to give as accurate a description as possible. May I add, if he is apprehended, don't be afraid to testify. We must do everything we can to get these sick creeps off the streets. - Chicago Suburbanite

 DEAR SUBURBANITE: I appreciate your additional comments. They are sensible and realistic. In a life-threatening situation, submission is the better choice. Women can and do recover from rape. Death is permanent.
 DEAR ANN LANDERS: My friend and I were wondering how many times a couple has to have sex before the girl can get pregnant. - Inquisitive In Irontdale, Ohio
 DEAR IN: Once.
 DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I read that letter from "20-20 Hindsight", I felt at once that she and I had a lot in common. We are both stuck in hellish, miserable marriages. I, too, have endured 25 years of loneliness with a sadistic, stingy, uncommunicative man. You, Ann Landers, could perform a humanitarian service to all such wives if you would make it possible for us to correspond with one another. We could lift each other's spirits and give solace and moral support to our sisters in suffering. Those of us who must stick it out till death do us part, for one reason or another, would be ever so grateful to you. Ann. Please send me that name and address of "20-20 Hindsight". - Too Soon Old!

 DEAR CLEVE: From the day I started to write this column I established a policy and have adhered to it. Under no circumstances will I reveal the identity of the people who write to me. Nor will I put one reader in touch with another. It is not uncommon for a person who is nutty as a fruitcake and potentially dangerous to write a perfectly beautiful, sympathetic letter. Sorry to seem so hard-hearted, but I cannot risk the consequences of being the go-between for people I don't know. Please understand.
 CONFIDENTIAL to 18th Years of Experience and Still Bewildered: You have now had 15 years of experience. You've had one year's experience 15 times. When are you going to stop repeating the same mistakes? Even white rat learns his way out of a maze after awhile. Get with it.

Study Club Plans Family Hay Ride

Louise Walker, Home Extension Agent for Deaf Smith County, gave a program on Christmas craft ideas for the Tuesday night meeting of You Jours Amis Study Club. She showed many homemade items to be given as gifts or to be used for home decoration at Christmas time. During the business meeting, Lori Hall, social chairman, reminded all members of the family hay ride on Dec. 14, where Santa Claus will be a special guest. Before adjourning, members introduced their guests. They included Marti Burns, Debbie Donaldson, Rhonda Long, Melody Seiver, and Susan Sublett. Hostesses for the meeting were Pam Perrin and Marcia Boyer. They served members and guests hot apple dumplings topped with ice cream.

England's first zoo was founded by Henry I (1100-1135) in Oxfordshire. It was moved to the Tower of London where it remained until 1824 when the animals were taken to Regent's Park, the home of the present London Zoo.

FAITH TEACHES RESPECT FOR A GRANDFATHER'S WISDOM

In this age of the ever-widening generation gap, in which youth is thoroughly convinced that it alone has all the answers to the world's ills and even a father often has trouble gaining the attention and respect of his children, a grandfather is that much farther removed from what they consider reality. However, we must realize that our grandparents could not possibly have lived long enough to be succeeded by two generations without accumulating a vast store of knowledge and gaining an enviable perspective on the mysteries of life itself. The faith you acquire at the Church of your choice will teach you to honor and respect your grandparents, because there is much of value that you can learn from them.

Age... carries in it an authority which makes it preferable to all the pleasures of youth.
—Sir Richard Steele

"Remember the days of old, consider the years of many generations: ask thy father and he will show thee; thy elders and they will tell thee."

The Race Is On

Hereford's Lori Albracht (40) is confronted by Dunbar's Karen Anderson (20) and Marcy Harris (24) as she drives downcourt last night. The Whitefaces took a 101-30 win over their Lubbock foes to advance to the finals of the Hereford Tournament against Dimmitt at 6:30 tonight at the La Plata gym. Albracht tallied 16 points in the win last night, aiding a 28-point showing by HHS guard Joyce High. (Brand photo by Kelly Cherry)

Palo Duro Dons Shock Dimmitt, 57-55

Palo Duro shocked the state's number one ranked 3A Dimmitt Bobcats 57-55 in an exciting semi-final match in the Annual Deaf Smith County Invitational Basketball Tournament at the HHS gym last night. The Dons, who had waylaid Monterey 58-53 earlier in the day, shocked the top-ranked 'Cats to move into the finals tonight against Amarillo High.

The Sandies clawed their way into the finals with a 65-50 win over Lubbock Dunbar, then posted a 42-32 decision over Brownfield in the semi-finals.

In other first round games Dimmitt spilled Canyon 64-51, and Brownfield faced by Hereford 56-30.

Randy Moseley scored 11 points and Tommy Joe Fisher added nine more as the Cubs raced by the Whitefaces in an early-afternoon contest. Hereford was led in the game by Steve Welch and Gary Long, who scored 10 points apiece. Duane McNaney and Kyle Schuder tallied six points for the Herd, while John Keating pitched in five.

Today's schedule had Monterey and Canyon meeting at 9 a.m. and Hereford facing Dunbar at 11 a.m. The losers of those two games will play at 4 p.m. for seventh place, while the winners will meet at 6 p.m. for the consolation title.

Dimmitt and Brownfield were to play at 1 p.m. for third place, while District 3-SA foes Palo Duro and Amarillo High will play for the tourney title at 8 p.m. tonight.

Georgia Tech Wants At Least Bookend Wins

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia Tech, mired in a school record-tying nine-game losing streak, wants 1981 to be the season of bookend victories over nationally ranked powers.

The Yellow Jackets, who knocked off then second-ranked Alabama 24-21 in their season opener, challenge No. 2 Georgia Saturday in a season finale delayed one week so it could be shown on national television (ABC).

Georgia, 9-1, is a 20-point favorite to claim the victory it needs to remain in the chase for a second consecutive national championship.

To claim the No. 1 berth again, Georgia also would have to down No. 10 Pittsburgh in the Sugar Bowl game New Year's night and get help from No. 4 Nebraska, which tangles with the nation's only unbeaten team, No. 1 Clemson, in the Orange Bowl.

Georgia, which has won 22 of its last 23 games, has reeled off seven victories in a row since dropping a 13-3 decision at Clemson.

The 76th meeting between the two state rivals is set for a 12:30 p.m. EST kickoff before a sellout crowd of 58,121 at Grant Field. It will be the opener of a nationally televised doubleheader, with Army and Navy playing in the nightcap.

Georgia Coach Vince Dooley, who owns a 13-4 record over Tech, has expressed concern over the three-week layoff since both teams last played.

"That's the same amount of time they had to get ready for Alabama and they've had an opportunity to get their wounded healed," Dooley said.

"More upsets take place in the first game than almost any other time," Dooley added. "That's exactly the kind of situation we're facing right now, almost an opening ball game considering that we've had three weeks off. It's going to be a tough, tough football game."

Georgia is armed with a trio of All-Southeastern Conference offensive stars, headed by two-time All-American Herschel Walker. The trio also including the passing combination of quarterback Buck Belue and flanker Lindsay Scott.

Herd Slams Dunbar For Flashy 101-30 Win

Although the Hereford varsity girls' basketball team led Lubbock Dunbar by over 70 points, the screaming during the last two minutes would make one think it was a speaker - until glancing at the scoreboard.

They just wanted to break the 100 mark.

With less than 40 seconds left in the game last week Sherri Ellis chunked one in to lift the Herd to a flashy 101-30 victory over the Panthers and move the Whitefaces into the finals of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational tournament. The girls will play Dimmitt tonight at 6:30.

Lori Albracht started the HHS scoring with a shot from the corner in the first minute of play. Hers was followed by alternating baskets by Deborah Rogers and Joyce High, who added a free shot, to make the score 9-0 in the first three minutes.

Dunbar's Charollette Dickson hit a layup to put the Panthers on the board and she was answered by Cathy Lane. Dunbar came back with a shot from Tonya Baldwin to make it 11-4; as close as it would ever be for the Panthers. Stephanie Foster and Stacie Rhodes joined Hereford to end the quarter with the Herd leading 21-7, despite baskets by Dunbar's Dickson and Baldwin.

The first half of the second quarter saw the Herd gain five free shots, three from Rogers and two from Foster. High netted two and then Foster stole the ball for a layup, making it 30-7 at 4:16.

Cheryl Walterscheid's foul cost the Herd a point by DHS Penny Green. Felicisha Holmes gave the Panthers two and Green hit one from under the net to make it 30-12. Albracht came back with two for the Herd, but Laura Brown got one from the line to make it 32-13.

Walterscheid and Albracht continued to sink them and with help from High, Gail Bartels and Amy Schumacher, the Herd ended the half with a 44-17 lead. The Panthers got points from Brown and Green in the last minute of the half.

The Herd held the Panthers to 17 during the first two minutes of the second half with High adding eight to the Whiteface score. Schumacher, Albracht and Lane donated two in the rally to make it 58-17 before Dickson hit with a layup. Dickson got another from the side to bring the Panthers to 21.

Schumacher gave the Herd 60 with 4:18 left, then made it 62. Dunbar's Baldwin hit from under the net and it was answered by Ellis, Walterscheid, and Albracht, twice, to end the third quarter 70-24.

Bartels started the fourth quarter scoring and Rogers hit one from a rebound off High. High later drove from the half court line for a pretty layup making it 78-24 with 6:06 left. High, Bartels and Rogers hiked the score to 88-24 with 4:10 left.

The Panthers managed another shot but High's free shot simply inched the Herd closer to 100 with 89 on the board. Bartels took a long pass from High and made it 91-26. High assisted on two more baskets from Walterscheid and Ellis to wind it down to a minute with the Herd was ahead, 97-26.

Another shot from Ellis closed it in to 99-26. With :39 left, Ellis got the shot from 101 Whiteface points.

Holmes hit one at :22 and Baldwin shot at :01 to end it 101-30.

Other scores in the tournament, girls' division, were, Caprock 61, Herd JV 44; Dunbar 72, Lubbock 61.

Second round play saw Dimmitt defeat Caprock 73-54 and Lubbock beat the Herd JV, 46-42.

Don't Shoot

Brownfield's Ragan Bond looks surprised as Hereford's John Keating puts up a short jump shot in the Cubs' 56-39 win over the Whitefaces in the Hereford Tournament yesterday at the HHS gym. Keating tallied five points in the contest. The Herd faced Lubbock Dunbar this morning in a consolation bracket game, and were to play again later this afternoon. (Brand photo by Kelly Cherry)

Times Changing In Pre-bowl Play

An AP Sports Analysis By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

Remember when Pittsburgh vs. Oakland meant the Super Bowl was just two weeks away and the winner would be in it?

My, how times change!

Next Monday night, the Steelers will be visiting the Raiders with the loser perhaps earning a trip to oblivion. The Steelers still are in contention for a playoff berth. A loss could seriously damage their postseason plans. A loss will kill Oakland's.

Goodbye, Oakland.

Next week at this time, you can look for Denver to be looking up at San Diego and Kansas City. The Chiefs will knock off the Broncos while the Chargers roll past Buffalo to turn the American Conference West race into a two-team affair.

And in the National Conference's Central Division ... oh, never mind.

Last week's record against the spread: 7-7. For the season: 95-85. This week's picks (home teams capitalized):

Pittsburgh minus 3½ over OAKLAND: Remember Dec. 1, 1980. "Save The Raiders Night," when the Oakland fans stayed away for the first five minutes? How many of them will stay away for all 60 this time?

Kansas City plus 3 over DENVER: Combine the Chiefs' three extra days off and the beating the Broncos took last Sunday in San Diego and you get...THE UPSET SPECIAL.

SAN DIEGO minus 4½ over Buffalo: It seems the Chargers' offense is back where it used to be, namely able to survive the worst the Chargers' defense can dish out.

Minnesota minus 3½ over CHICAGO: The Vikings saw their lead - in the game and in the division - vanish last Sunday. They'll have to wait a while longer to get the division lead back. BEST BET.

GREEN BAY plus 2½ over Detroit: The Pack isn't all the way back, but it's back home. That bodes ill for the road-weary Lions.

CINCINNATI minus 6 over San Francisco: The 49ers already are in the playoffs. The Bengals will join them.

New York Jets minus 8 over SEATTLE: The Jets have always come out on the short end of the score against Seattle. They're due to settle that score.

BALTIMORE plus 12 over Dallas: No, the Colts won't win. But they'll keep it marginally interesting against the Cowboys.

Other games:
 Philadelphia minus 4½ over WASHINGTON.
 NEW YORK GIANTS minus 3½ over Los Angeles.
 TAMPA BAY plus 2 over Atlanta.
 New England plus 6 over MIAMI.
 New Orleans plus 6½ over ST. LOUIS.

Smith Now A Television Star

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP
Special Correspondent

Big Bubba Smith says that going from football to show business is as easy as shifting from a four-man to a six-man line.

"Football is my first love, my real love," insists the 6-foot-8, 270-pound former defensive who starred with the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League and now like many of his contemporaries he is making it big in TV.

"Actually, there's not much difference. The jobs are exactly the same. In show business, as in football, you've got to do a lot of preparing. Then you do it. You work yourself to the bone and, when it's over, you get that great feeling of satisfaction."

Bubba is the new double threat of the magic tube. He's got a good thing going in those popular beer commercials. And he's starring in a new situation comedy called "Open All Night," shown Saturdays on ABC at 8 p.m. EST.

The gigantic Michigan State alumnus was in New York over the weekend taping a new commercial for Miller Lite, an often hilarious sales pitch involving interesting sports personalities.

"They're teaming me with Dick Butkus (another rugged NFL alumnus)," Bubba said during a break in the screening. "In this one, Butkus picks up a bowling ball and says, 'Hey, this ball hasn't got any holes in it.' He hands it to me and I say, 'Now it has.'"

As other viewers, Bubba will be watching from a cozy chair in his Los Angeles living room when the second of the "Open All Night" series shows Saturday night.

"The pilot was run last week," the gargantuan lineman said for the benefit of those who might have punched another button, "and the response has been good. We have made 13 segments and are pretty encouraged."

"It's about this store in a bad section of town. I come in just as two guys start running out the door after ripping off the place. 'Stop those punks!' the manager yells. I grab one in each hand. The guy makes me tight manager."

"Next thing you know, I am picked up by the cops and charged with robbing Carnegie Hall. I clear myself of that mess and this week picks up with me coming back on the job."

Smith said the role pleases him because it is light and humorous whereas most of his other TV parts have cast him as a 'heavy.'

"In the 'Odd Couple,'" he said, "I was able to play myself, a football player dealing with a sports writer (Jack Klugman). In 'Good Times,' 'Charlie's Angels' and 'Wonderwoman' — several episodes — I was always the mean guy."

"I was the intimidator but I always got my come-uppance and occasionally even got killed."

Bubba, son of Beaumont, Texas, football coach, has come a long way since earning All-America honors at Michigan State in 1965-66, playing in the Rose Bowl and later becoming an All-Pro with the Colts, Oakland Raiders and Houston Oilers before retiring in 1977.

In college, he was rather stand-offish and shy, one of the most publicized and beleaguered athletes of the time. He began to open up as a pro and now is strictly an outgoing show business personality.

Pro File

He's the mystery man

Basketball was his game in college.

He was a sixth-round choice in 1979 NFL draft, but injuries kept him idle that season.

He holds his team's record for most receptions and touchdowns by a tight end.

OK, by now you know our mystery player, right?

You don't? It's Joe Senser. Yeah, Senser... S-E-N-S-E-R. He's with the Minnesota Vikings.

You know what? He's got a shot at leading all NFL tight ends in receiving this season. And, remember, he's not the primary target of Minnesota quarterback Tommy Kramer. Not with a couple of wide receivers like Ahmad Rashad and Sammy White clad in purple jerseys.

But that hasn't discouraged Senser. In fact, the situation presents a challenge that Joe seems to enjoy.

"It makes sense that Ahmad and Sammy will get most of the calls," says Senser, a second-year Viking out of West Chester (Pa.) State. "But they are double-teamed so often that I make sure I do my best to get open to give Tommy an option."

You have to believe that Senser — with 56 receptions for 777 yards and five touchdowns through the first 11 games this season — has been successful.

"Tommy deserves a lot of credit for his poise and ability to read situations," says the 6-foot-4, 235-pound Senser about his quarterback. "Many times he has called a play which attacks a specific area only to find the primary receiver covered. But he's very skilled at immediately scanning the field to locate an open man."

"The key to being a successful receiver in this league is, without a doubt, your ability to concentrate on the ball... right into your hands. Once you've caught the ball, you've got to be able to protect it. It's incredible how skilled the defensive backs are in stripping the ball away."

Part of Senser's training in concentration came as a college basketball player. His .699 shooting percentage as a senior is still an NCAA record.

When it came to professional sports though, Senser know his place was in the NFL. Despite having been a four-year, record-breaking wide receiver at West Chester, Joe accepted the fact that tight end would be his position in the pros.

"My rookie season," says Senser, "was a bit frustrating because I had a back problem and spent the year on the injured reserve list. Still, I couldn't help but learn a tremendous amount from Bob Tucker and Stu Volgt (the Minnesota TE in 1979). I couldn't have received a better education anywhere."

Senser worked his way into a three-man rotation with Tucker and Volgt in 1980. Despite the split of playing time, Senser still set Viking records for number of receptions (42) and touchdowns (7) by a tight end.

Now the No. 1 tight end, Joe resets his reception record with each catch he makes.

"I still can't consider myself a complete tight end," says Senser, "because I've still got so much to learn, especially as a blocker. I enjoy sticking my nose in it though, so learning that end of it is OK."

THE MEMORY MAN — San Diego cornerback Mike Williams says he has a mental picture of about 200 NFL receivers.

"If I had time, I could write a book about their strengths, weaknesses, and idiosyncrasies," he says. "During the week of a game, I constantly focus my mind on what the receiver did to beat me the last time we met."

Williams, who is in his seventh season, doesn't get beat very often. Nor do rival quarterbacks test him regularly.

"I don't get thrown at much," Williams says, "and it's really frustrating because I like the work."

Williams is respected in the league, but doesn't get many post-season honors. "You need a lot of interceptions to get recognition," he says. "But you can't get it if they don't throw the ball in your direction."

Longhorns Rally Past Colorado

By JOE STROOP Associated Press Writer

All week long, Texas Longhorns basketball coach Abe Lemons had been complaining about his team's lack of enthusiasm during practices.

And when the 'Horns were flat, flat, flat during the first half of Thursday night's game with Colorado, trailing 41-29 as they trudged to the locker room at intermission, Lemons was about ready to go home for the evening.

"That's one I thought was gone," he said later. "At the half I wouldn't have given you two cents for our chances. I didn't think we had the enthusiasm to bring it back."

Texas came out gunning in the second half, shut out the stunned Buffaloes for the first seven minutes of the second period and won going away, 76-64. But Lemons does not know where the team found the inspiration for the turnaround, and says they did it without his help.

"I didn't tell them anything at the half," the veteran coach said, as his team ran its non-conference record to 2-0. "Oh, (assistant Barry) Dowd got on them a little but there wasn't anything I could do. I've been coaching 32 years and I don't know how to get them excited."

"There are some things they just have to do on their own."

Center LaSalle Thompson scored 20 points in that aroused second-half effort, for a total of 29, as the Longhorns scored the first 14 points following the half and never again trailed the Buffaloes.

In other Southwest Conference basketball games Thursday, 13th-ranked Arkansas rode the 25 points of center Scott Hastings to an 85-68 win over San Diego State; Ricky Pierce gunned in 21 points of Ricky Pierce to an easy 79-53 win over Southwest Texas State and Texas A&M forced 29 turnovers, most of them steals by guards Tyren Nauls and Reggie Roberts, in blitzing Sam Houston State 81-63.

"We're trying to use our guards to put good pressure on the ball," said A&M coach Shelby Metcalf. "Nauls gives us a lot of stability at guard and he's still learning our system."

Bengals Must Beat 49ers For NFC Playoff Position

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

The San Francisco 49ers and Cincinnati Bengals have rebounded from poor 1980 seasons to post the best records in the National Football League so far this season, but only the 49ers have the happy luxury of already knowing they have clinched their division title.

The two teams, both 6-10 last season and 10-3 in 1981, meet in Cincinnati Sunday, but unlike San Francisco, the Bengals need a victory to clinch a playoff berth.

San Francisco's 17-10 triumph over the New York Giants sewed up a spot in the playoffs for the 49ers for the first time since 1972.

The Bengals, meanwhile, have resurgent Pittsburgh to worry about.

The Steelers are two games behind the Bengals in the American Conference Central Division, but the two teams meet on Dec. 13, so Cincinnati losses the next two weeks would wipe out its advantage.

Pittsburgh travels to Oakland on Monday.

In other games Sunday, it's Detroit at Green Bay, Los Angeles at the Giants, Minnesota at Chicago, New England at Miami, New Orleans at St. Louis, Philadelphia at Washington, Dallas at Baltimore, Buffalo at San Diego, Atlanta at Tampa Bay, Kansas City at Denver and the New York Jets at Seattle.

Houston edged Cleveland 17-13 on Thursday night as quarterback Gifford Nielsen relieved Ken Stabler in the second half and threw a 30-yard touchdown pass to Dave Casper.

Despite their title-clinching victory, San Francisco players say they can't afford a letdown, regardless of the opponent.

"It's nice to win the title, but there are other games ahead, so we've got to keep all this in perspective," said pass-rushing specialist Fred Dean.

"We haven't lost sight of the fact that our biggest challenge lies ahead of us... Cincinnati, Houston, New Orleans and the playoffs," said linebacker Bobby Leopold.

"We won't let up now, not now that we've developed into a winner," said safety Dwight Hicks.

San Francisco Coach Bill Walsh says he won't be tempted to rest his regulars the last three games.

"We plan to substitute at some point during the next three games," Walsh said. "We plan to give everybody experience. But I think we have to be very careful about doing too much substitution against the Bengals because it really wouldn't be fair to the rest of our players. So we had better have our best people in there as much as we possibly can."

Nearly every game Sunday has a bearing on the playoffs. Miami and the Jets are tied for the AFC East with 8-4 records, with Buffalo only a half-game behind at 8-5. In the NFC East, Dallas at 10-3 leads Philadelphia by a game.

The NFC Central has Detroit, Minnesota and Tampa Bay all tied at 7-6, with Green Bay still in the division race although the Packers are under the .500 mark at 6-7.

Although Atlanta can't catch San Francisco in the NFC West, the Falcons still have a wild-card opportunity.

The AFC West has Denver, Kansas City and San Diego tied at 8-4.

UCLA Infraction Probe 'Secret'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The NCAA's investigation of UCLA, still cloaked in secrecy but with some information apparently trickling out, appears to have focused on a number of violations involving the basketball program rather than one blockbuster.

"If they have to go back 10 years to investigate, it must be very, very minor things," said New Jersey Nets Coach Larry Brown, who formerly was basketball coach at UCLA.

Brown, who coached the Bruins for two years beginning in 1979, said in an interview with ABC Radio in East Rutherford, N.J.: "It was always a class program and I don't think I did anything to damage it. That doesn't take away my feelings of disappointment that the school may be put on probation."

The NCAA, which gave UCLA the findings of its investigation earlier this week, plans to place the school on probation for two years. The only practical effect of the penalty would be that the Bruin basketball team would be banned from next spring's NCAA tournament, but would be allowed to play in the National Invitation Tournament.

Brown told The Associated Press Thursday that the inquiry has been going on for some time and goes back for some time. He also said the probe dealt with the basketball program and that there were 39 specific situations that he knows of, and that he has seen documents pertaining to them. But he would not discuss what they were.

Nielsen, Oilers Clip Cleveland

HOUSTON (AP) —

Houston quarterback Gifford Nielsen, thwarted all season by injuries and the aging shadow of Ken Stabler, came off the bench with a 30-yard touchdown pass to ignite the Oilers to a 17-13 National Football League victory over the slumping Cleveland Browns Thursday night.

Nielsen, slated to become the Oilers' starting quarterback this season before Stabler ended a brief retirement, replaced Stabler in the third quarter with Houston behind 6-3 and hit tight end Dave Casper for the touchdown to put the Oilers ahead for the first time.

Moments later, when the Browns were forced to punt for the first time in the game, rookie Avon Riley dashed in and blocked Steve Cox's punt, and Adger Armstrong scooped it up and ran 8 yards to the Browns' 3. Earl Campbell drove into the end zone from a yard out.

The Browns, who lost for the fifth time in six games and fell to 5-8, had taken a 6-3 halftime lead on field goals of 18 and 19 yards by Matt Bahr after Cleveland drives had fizzled at the Houston 1- and 3-yard lines.

The Oilers drove to Tom Fritsch's 32-yard field goal on their first series of the game, but could not penetrate the Browns' goal line until Nielsen entered the game to start the second half.

After Houston, 6-3, went ahead 17-6, the Browns struck back with 6:54 left in the game on Cleo Miller's 1-yard run, capping a 77-yard drive that included 34 yards in penalties against the Oilers.

The Browns forced the issue down to the final 30 seconds when Miller was tackled on a fourth-and-goal draw play from the Houston 4 following a last-ditch drive that started on the Cleveland 37.

Nielsen suffered a shoulder separation during pregame and did not see action until Sunday's 31-27 loss to Atlanta when he rallied the Oilers to two late touchdowns.

"HALLOWEEN II"

By J.T. YURKO—FILM CRITIC

If you saw "Halloween," then you should know what to expect from "Halloween II." Jamie Lee Curtis, the scream queen of horror films, is once again haunted and hounded by something that "was not even remotely human." Add a few more scenes of violence and a lot more gore than the first film and you have a blood-stained sequel.

REVIEW

The original "Halloween" was the most successful independent film ever made. Shot on a minimal budget, the film made a fortune, set up John Carpenter as a talented new director, and launched Jamie Lee Curtis into a bunch of films that tried to capitalize on "Halloween's" success.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Gelatin plant food

By Polly Fisher
DEAR POLLY — You recently printed a recipe for using gelatin as a plant fertilizer. As I understand it, this is used once a month. Should this fertilizer be kept in the refrigerator? Also, could this be used on African violets? — MRS. M.A.

DEAR MRS. M.A. — Yes, the gelatin mixture can be used on African violets. Gelatin is rich in nitrogen, an element that is essential to the good growth of all plants. For those of you who missed it, the solution is made up of one envelope unflavored gelatin dissolved in one cup hot tap water (stir or shake it up). Then add three cups cool water and mix well. Use this mixture to water your plants about once a month. If you don't use the entire quart of solution at one time, don't attempt to store it, refrigerated or otherwise. One envelope of unflavored gelatin is inexpensive — in fact, it does cost less than one month's application of some other commercial houseplant foods. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — My family doesn't like hard butter, so we keep the butter dish on a cupboard shelf. However, in the hot summertime or when the house is warm, we always had a drippy mess in that butter dish. Now I put the stick of butter in the deep top of the butter dish and use the shallow bottom for a cover. This works very well and not one drop of butter leaks out onto the shelf.

I disliked measuring solid shortening until I stumbled across the fact that my ice cream scoop holds exactly one-quarter cup. Now it's easy to measure shortening or peanut butter by just scooping it up. No more messy scraping of measuring cups. — DOROTHY

DEAR POLLY — My pet peeve was the way soap-filled steelwool scouring pads rusted between uses. I've found that by putting a little baking soda in a small container and laying the pad on top of the soda, it does not rust before I've used it up. — ESTELLE

DEAR POLLY — I just bought a pasta machine, but the makers forgot to send any recipes with it. I am diabetic and would like some recipes that would be good for me, especially recipes for spaghetti and macaroni made from artichokes. — M.C.

DEAR M.C. — I don't have any recipes for pasta made from artichokes, but I can give you a regular pasta recipe. Thoroughly mix two eggs with one and one-half cups flour; then knead this dough until it is smooth and easy to handle. Feed the dough through your pasta machine according to the directions that came with the machine. You generally have to put it through the machine several times to obtain the desired thickness. Then feed it through a final time with the cutting mechanism in place to cut your pasta into noodles. I'm not sure whether this recipe is good for your diet; check with your doctor.

You may be able to find flour made from Jerusalem artichokes in a health food store, from which you could make a pasta suitable for wheat-free diets. Perhaps some of our readers have recipes for such a product. How about it, folks? — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Someone said to use chalk on white sneakers if they don't look completely white after washing them. We always make a paste of cornstarch, brush it on with an old toothbrush, let it dry thoroughly and then lightly brush or wipe it off. — Mrs. B.J.W.

DEAR POLLY — If you spray a used zipper with spray starch, it will stiffen it enough so that you can sew it into a garment as easily as a new zipper. — BETTY

DEAR POLLY — In a recent column you had an inquiry about meatloaf. Pork sausage, which is already seasoned, is my secret for tasty and moist meatloaf. No matter how large a quantity I am making, I try to use one-third pork to two-thirds beef.

DEAR POLLY — When growing cantaloupes or honeydews, place plastic lids from coffee cans, etc. under each melon. This will protect them from rotting and keep the skins clean. — J.S.

DEAR POLLY — When knitting I roll a skein of yarn into a ball, then put it in a pretty decorative coffee can. With a small hole in the plastic lid, I can easily pull out as much yarn at a time as I want, and it stays clean and neat. — J.V.

DEAR POLLY — Here's another suggestion for what to do with leftover bars of soap:
Dry the bars and rub over a thin slicer. Put the shavings in a pretty clear glass container and make your own room deodorizer. Use different colors of soap for a pretty effect.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Help for alcoholic's family

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column about the woman whose husband is an alcoholic. Perhaps Al-Anon can help her as you suggested, but sometimes an alcoholic and the family needs to hear from someone who has been there. If he were to attend an AA meeting he would hear some shocking stories.

My father has been an alcoholic for 33 years, half his life. Alcohol has put him in shock, a coma, heart failure and diabetes. Yet he still drinks. I was 12 years old when he wanted to die so badly he pointed a gun at his skull for four hours.

There are five children in my family who were affected so badly by it that two of us have gone through divorces, one is married to an alcoholic, my sister is an alcoholic along with her boyfriend and I almost blew it by becoming an alcoholic myself. I sought help and am now living a very beautiful life with a man I love.

My point is that not only is this woman affected by her husband's problem, but her children are in for years of misery if her husband does not stop.

My boyfriend's father died of alcoholism at age 42. A good friend just shot his brains out at 28 because his 22-year-old wife began drinking. Tell this woman her husband has no excuse for drinking and that if he cannot seek professional help he is doomed. I'd like to say to her husband: "You need help, damn it!"

DEAR READER — My mail would indicate that many other readers feel the same way. Alcohol is indeed one of the nation's biggest health problems.

I would strongly urge anyone who has a drinking problem to seek professional help. Family members of those who will not seek help should check under Alcoholism in the Yellow Pages of the phone book for possible aid. Al-Anon, an organization for family and friends of alcoholics, is often a good starting point.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My mother was recently hospitalized for tests to find out why she has been hyperventilating. These spells cause her to shake violently, have difficulty breathing and even pass out. All tests show she is in excellent health. Now her doctor has prescribed tranquilizers and a very strong sleeping pill that knocks her out for the entire evening. She is very methodical about taking those pills and won't go outside the house for fear of hyperventilating. Our family is very upset with her being dependent on those pills. Can you tell us what causes hyperventilation and make any suggestions?

DEAR READER — Hyperventilation is over-breathing. This causes the body to blow off too much carbon dioxide and upsets the body chemistry and can cause fainting, numbness around the mouth and tingling. It is usually caused by anxiety.

While tranquilizers may control the anxiety, they will not uncover the basic cause for the anxiety or help your mother cope with it. I would suggest at least a consultation with a psychiatrist to see if professional counseling might help your mother resolve her problems to the extent that she might not need pills.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Several years ago I began taking Dyanisid for high blood pressure. For a long time I was not too diligent about taking the daily capsule and would occasionally miss a day or two.

Recently I decided to be more diligent and faithfully took my daily dose. Since that time I have experienced two fainting spells which have lasted only a couple of minutes but have me concerned.

I read somewhere that one of the side effects of Dyanisid can be fainting spells. If that is the case, is there other medication that could be substituted?

I'm 63 years old and also take Tolactin for arthritis.

DEAR READER — You should check in with your doctor. You may be right that your fainting episodes are caused by your medicine. We see this more often today because of the many people getting medicines to control blood pressure and the number of people taking tranquilizers and other medicines. Still, fainting can be from other medical causes such as from abnormal beating of the heart.

Most faints occur because there is not enough blood pumped to the brain. That usually happens when a person is standing up. Too much blood pools in the legs and there is not enough left to pump up to the brain. Dyanisid and other diuretics cause the kidneys to flush out water.

When that happens there is a decrease in the volume of blood in your circulation. There is also a loss of water from the body tissues in the legs. As a result when you stand up the veins in your legs dilate more than usual, increasing blood pooling, and there is less blood to pool. The end result is fainting.

If you are having this effect from Dyanisid, your doctor may want to decrease the frequency or amount you are taking.

DEAR DR. LAMB — A friend of mine told me that women using the pill need extra vitamins. My doctor never mentioned this but actually told me that I wouldn't have to take iron supplements like women who are not on the pill do. Should I be taking iron? Do I need extra vitamins? I have always eaten a very good balanced diet that includes a variety of foods from all four food groups.

DEAR READER — Your friend is right in many instances.

It appears that if a woman is eating a good well-balanced diet, as you say you are, she may not need any additional vitamins. But if she is getting only a marginal amount of vitamins she may develop deficiencies.

This is particularly true of vitamin B-6 and possibly folic acid. Thiamin, riboflavin and B-12 have also been reported as decreased in women taking the pill. But vitamin A is increased, enough to prompt some to suggest decreasing the daily intake.

Women taking the pill usually have decreased menstrual blood flow and do need less iron. But the only true guide to whether you need iron or not is to have a blood test to see.

If there is any doubt about the vitamin intake, any of the all-purpose daily vitamin pills that provide the RDA requirements will usually suffice.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have bad breath. Scope and the many other mouthwashes I have used help for a short time. I use many, many sugarless mints every day, brush my teeth every time I eat, take chlorophyll tablets three times a day and use every other remedy I have ever heard of. I asked the doctor and these were the things he suggested.

My breath has been a problem for three years or more. My husband has been kind but will tell me when it seems worse. I can't detect it myself. I am in contact with people as I work as a sales clerk and now I am very self-conscious. Any help you can give me will be appreciated.

DEAR READER — It seems like science is great at accomplishing the impossible but not so good at solving the common, less serious problems that are so annoying. We can land men on the moon, transplant hearts and wipe out smallpox, but such things as bad breath, the common cold and gas stay around to keep us humble.

All of the things you have tried are sometimes useful — at least momentarily. None are effective over a long period of time in most people, regardless of what you may have been led to believe by aggressive TV commercials.

Bad breath is a symptom. It can be caused by dental problems; that is why a person with such a complaint should discuss it with her dentist. And there is more in the mouth than teeth. Many people do not know they should clean their tongue when they brush their teeth. A toothbrush will do the job.

If a dental problem isn't the cause, see a specialist in ear, nose and throat disorders to check for possible chronic infection of the sinuses. The bacteria in such cases are the source of the odor. And if that is clear, check with your internal medicine specialist for any factor that may be from your body chemistry.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been suffering from anxiety reactions in which I feel out of touch with reality, panicky and very depressed. This has been going on for about a year. I've been seeing a psychologist. He taught me to induce light hypnosis as a means of calming myself down, but it hasn't eliminated the problem completely.

Are there other methods of treatment and can a person ever be totally cured of this? It's very frightening. When I think that I've come to terms with this the rest of my life, I get depressed.

DEAR READER — I'm glad you are getting professional help. And hypnosis, including self-hypnosis, is helpful in controlling anxiety reactions and tension. The problem is that these methods and pills do not reach the basic difficulty, the reason for your anxiety.

Who Will The 'Peveto Bill' Affect? Everyone.

EDITOR'S NOTE—The new Property Tax Code probably will raise some Texans' taxes next year while reducing others. What about the two chief legislative antagonists over the code? This, the fourth and last article in a series, examines their situations.

—By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer
Rep. Wayne Peveto fought like crazy to pass the state's new Property Tax Code while Rep. Lynn Nabers did his best to kill it.

Both are lawyers with large land holdings. Both are major taxpayers. And both wait somewhat apprehensively for 1982 when the code — or "Peveto Bill" — takes full effect and reappraisal notices hit the mails.

Nabers lives in Brownwood, where property appraisals have been few and far between and tend to lag behind market values. He and his mother own 2,734 acres of ranch land that are on the tax rolls of the county and one school district at an average of $25 an acre. He thinks the land is worth at least $300. Oil was discovered on the land, and Nabers pays taxes on the value of his leases.

Peveto lives in Orange, where there has been no reappraisal in seven years. He pays taxes on 800 acres of land where he runs cattle and raises soybeans. He saves money because the land is taxed on its agricultural productivity instead of its speculative real estate value.

The "ag value" provision, however, was not part of Peveto's program.

A look at the tax rolls in Brown County indicates Nabers' taxes are $19,804 this year, including those on the land jointly owned with his mother. He is the fourth largest taxpayer in the rural Brooksmith Independent School District.

Peveto's taxes this year amount to $4,742.

Nabers taxes jumped in 1980 and 1981, largely because he built over $300,000 worth of duplexes, which he describes as "the best in Brownwood," but also because of the Peveto Bill.

Neither the Brownwood Independent School District nor the city of Brownwood reduced their tax rates proportionately when they complied with the Peveto Bill by abandoning assessment ratios, and that meant a tax increase for Nabers.

Peveto, meanwhile, had a big drop in taxes in 1980 when the "ag value" exemptions took effect.

The reappraisals resulting from the Peveto Bill probably won't raise the taxes on Nabers' oil leases because they are revalued each year anyway.

Nabers figures reappraisal might cut the taxes on his Brownwood property at the same time it probably will raise those on older properties in the city.

"On most of my property individually, the chances are it (the Peveto Bill) will reduce my taxes because most of it is pretty new and on the rolls at current values," he said in an interview in his office on the courthouse square.

But his ranch land is something else.

Nabers uttered a tight-lipped "yep" when asked if he thought reappraisals stemming from the Peveto Bill would raise the taxes on his rural acreage.

The land could get an agricultural value exemption, but taxable values have been so low that Nabers never applied.

Alvis Sewalt, chief appraiser of the Brown County Appraisal District, says land in the area where Nabers' property is located probably would have an "ag value" of $50 an acre — double its present taxable value. But Sewalt also said there was a strong chance Nabers' actual tax would not increase.

The Peveto Bill has met a mixed reaction in Nabers' home town, where the Brownwood school board tried to avoid paying its share of the appraisal district's budget. A district court commanded the school board to come up with its $126,194 overdue payment.

Rosemary McInnis, county tax assessor-collector, calls the Peveto Bill "the best thing that ever happened to us."

Asked if taxes in Brown County are fair, she shook her head "no."

Mrs. McInnis said it is easy to understand why Brown County has not had a county-wide reappraisal since 1968.

"We had so much difficulty in 1968. The county judge had someone come up to him with a double-barreled shotgun and put it in his stomach and threatened to kill him. We had appraisers met with shotguns. ... All the county commissioners and the county judge were defeated in the next election," she said.

Sewalt said there had been no such incidents during the current reappraisal.

If Nabers is apprehensive about his taxes, Peveto's worries are mainly political.

"I really don't know whether my personal taxes will go up or down. I would expect them to stay near the same," Peveto said in a telephone interview.

He said he expects to hear about it from some of his constituents when appraisal notices go out in May.

He said he intends to help taxpayers obtain homestead exemptions to offset the expected shift in tax burden from industry to houses. He said he will review tax and expenditure records and compute the exemption that would compensate for the shift.

"I'm going to send that to taxpayers before they get their appraisal notices. I hope this will save my butt here in my district," Peveto said.

Orange County seems to be moving smoothly toward 1982 reappraisals, and one reason seems to be the selection of Orange's veteran tax assessor-collector, Fred Force, as chief appraiser. Force's staff has fed data on 22,000 of the 38,000 parcels of real estate in the county into his computer. Like Peveto, he expects a shift in tax burden from industry to homes but expects taxing units to offset it with new homestead exemptions. "We are going to have a lively spring, but we'll weather it," he said.

Late Payment Is Only Possible For Powerful

NEW YORK (AP) — Should you fail to pay your mortgage on time you may get a nasty note and a fine from your creditor. Sometimes even a high-toned sermon on sound financing accompanies the unwelcome message.

So readily are such messages sent and fines assessed that most people know by now that consumer borrowers can make few demands on lenders. The rules of the game are precise and inflexible. Pay or else.

Life isn't as stiff as you ascend the hierarchy of borrowers. A big borrower might receive a polite inquiry accompanied by a reminder that your attention to this matter would be appreciated.

If you are a big company that owes money to a small supplier you might not even get a reminder. The small firm needs your business, and they try not to do anything to lose it, such as insinuating late payment.

Exploiting this situation, some of the strongest blue chips in America have deliberately delayed payments during periods of poor business or high interest rates, such as existed throughout this year, in effect forcing their suppliers to finance them at no interest cost whatsoever.

Financially troubled foreign governments and large corporations have long practiced the technique, forcing creditors into renegotiating loans under the threat of not getting paid at all.

Late pay, it seems, is commonly practiced by big borrowers, and the biggest of the big, of course, is Uncle Sam. That old cadger, said the General Accounting Office in 1978, failed to pay nearly 40 percent of his bills on time. The GAO completed another report in October. This time it found Uncle Sam had failed to take "adequate corrective action."

Critical as that comment is, it doesn't tell the whole story. In 1978 the prime lending rate was in the single digits. It touched 21.5 percent a year ago, and still hasn't descended far below 16 percent.

At those rates, late payment can cost creditors hundreds of millions of dollars. Uncle Sam alone, the GAO estimates, may be costing business firms as much as $375 million a year because of late payments.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce's small business council estimates the government, in effect, borrows about $11 billion a year from business firms "and it refuses to pay interest on overdue bills."

Uncle Sam can dictate terms like that, and sometimes big business can too. But don't you try it, or if you do, be aware at least of some of the consequences.

It isn't only banks which make life difficult for late payers. Banks, in fact, are rather gentlemanly about dealing with late payers. At most they may fine you and then deny your further access to their vaults.

On the other hand, Uncle Sam, the old rake, scorns late payers. Just tell him your income taxes will be paid late next year because you could use a non-interest loan from him and discover how livid he gets.

On second thought, better not try it. The game is best played by the powerful. Uncle Sam can play it. You cannot.

Presidents Feel Pressure Of Appointees Mistakes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard V. Allen and William Casey have won tepid clearances, but their reprieves might be only temporary. While they remain targets of investigation, President Reagan stands in some political peril.

It may not be fair, but presidents do get blamed for the misdeeds of their top advisers. If Allen is held to have intentionally filed an inaccurate financial disclosure statement, trouble will knock at Reagan's door because he was Reagan's appointment.

CIA director Casey also isn't out of the woods. A number of senators have questioned his candor and integrity, and the Senate Intelligence Committee's report on his business dealings is being sent to Attorney General William French Smith for more scrutiny.

Any inquiry probably would center on whether Casey should have registered as a foreign agent when he represented Indonesia before U.S. government agencies between 1976 and 1978, before joining the administration.

While none of Casey or Allen's activities have anything directly to do with Reagan, it would be impossible for the president to distance himself politically from either one.

Allen steered Reagan on foreign policy during his presidential campaign. Casey managed the campaign.

Reagan runs a risk if the Allen and Casey cases drag on, whatever the eventual judgments. Jimmy Carter found that out when he stood by Bert Lance, his old friend and budget director.

The Reagan advisers who reportedly have called for Allen's resignation probably had Carter's experience in mind.

There was no temporizing in July when Casey's top deputy, Max Hugel, was accused by former business associates of having misled potential investors in an unsuccessful farming corporation in 1968. He resigned after denying the allegations. Reagan suffered no damage.

But Allen and Casey don't want to slip quietly out of town.

On paid administrative leave, Allen is taking his case to the public. He was cheered by a Justice Department finding that there was no evidence of criminal wrongdoing in Allen's receipt of $1,000 from a Japanese magazine which interviewed Nancy Reagan.

But the department is investigating his conflicting disclosure statements and his receipt of two watches from Japanese journalists.

After that inquiry, presidential counsel Fred Fielding will review the case to see if any "standards of conduct have been violated."
