Reagan's cancer recurrence unlikely

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — With four stark words — "the president has cancer" — the government's top cancer surgeon cast a shadow of uncertainty over Ronald Reagan and his presidency. Although doctors say a recurrence is unlikely, the once extraordinarily healthy president will be watched closely for any new sign of malignancy.

taken from Reagan's colon 48 hours earlier was malignant and had spread to the wall of his bowel won't change the plan to discharge the president from Bethesda Naval Hospital this weekend or early next week, his doctors said.

This morning's White House medical update said the president slept well during the night and was examined by physicians at 8 a.m.

Condition is excellent

EDT. It described him as being in excellent spirits and said, "His condition is excellent; his vital signs — temperature, pulse, blood pressure, respiration — are within normal ranges." The president spent part of the morning reading newspapers and watching television.

Reagan walked around his suite Monday and planned to do so again today. "The president experienced some abdominal discomfort when moving, but has not required any pain medication," the statement said.

Navy Capt. Dale Oller, Reagan's chief surgeon, said, "The president continues his superlative recovery" and was up walking around his room and sitting in a chair reading Monday afternoon after being informed of the test results.

Reagan already has returned to doing some work. Spokesman Larry Speakes said the president signed an executive order Monday creating a commission to review defense contracting practices and read his daily update on national security developments.

Vice President George Bush, meanwhile, canceled trips to Missouri and Ohio to help lobby for Reagan's tax plan at meetings the president had planned to attend.

Reagan may, as one of his doctors predicted, be horseback riding on his California ranch a month from now.

But for the rest of his life, the 74-year-old Reagan will be scanned, tested and probed for signs that the cancer has come back. Next to lung

First Lady takes news calmly, without blinking

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Nancy Reagan, feeling drained and alone during President Reagan's surgery ordeal, listened "calmly without blinking" as doctors told her the large growth removed from her husband's colon was cancerous.

While the president read a book in his room and waited to hear the outcome of pathological tests, Mrs. Reagan was told of the findings in a 30-minute meeting with his doctors, letting her come to grips with the news before she went in to see her husband.

"She asked clear, concise questions of them and listened very intently as they spoke," said presidential spokesman Larry Speakes. He was with the first lady and White House Chief of Staff Donald T. Regan as they heard the doctors' report in the sitting room adjacent to the president's bedroom at Bethesda Naval Hospital.

Mrs. Reagan had cried alone three days earlier when she learned that the growth might be malignant, but she was dry-eyed when those fears were confirmed, officials said.

Doctors told her they thought all of the cancerous tissue was removed before it spread to other parts of Reagan's body.

"She took it very calmly, without blinking — looked straight ahead," Speakes said.

Asked if she was upset, Speakes said, "Well, of course, as always, as anyone can imagine, certainly she's concerned and curious and has questions. But Mrs. Reagan accepted the news in a very calm fashion."

Evening cloudburst welcomed

A late-evening thunderstorm dropped beneficial rains on Hereford and an area from Summerfield to south of the city Monday.

Heaviest rainfall was reported around Summerfield with 2.4 inches falling from about 9 p.m. to 9:30. The Pat Robbins farm south of Hereford recorded 1.5 inches. Hereford had an official reading of .81 at KPAN Radio, but some gauges in the city recorded more than an inch of moisture.

Dawn reported .44 of an inch, while Easter Grain recorded .60 of an inch. Only a trace was reported north of town on the Bill West farm, while one farmer north of Simms said there was no rain at all.

"It's just what we needed," said a farmer southwest of town, "it's just a shame it couldn't have covered the entire county."

The rains washed out the opening night of the big Hereford Lions Club Carnival at the Bull Barn. B.J. Gilliland, carnival chairman, announced that two television sets will be given away tonight since there was no drawing last night. The carnival is the major fund-raising project for the Lions, and all proceeds are used for worthwhile community programs.

Although she had traveled four times with the Amarillo Saddle Tramp Team No. 2, it was her first time to actually cook the chili. Below, the elaborate set of the Shady Bunch cooking team from Lubbock won the showmanship honors.

Police make several liquor related arrests

Hereford police made several liquor related arrests and took a number of theft reports during the weekend and Monday.

They also arrested a 20-year-old man who had been sought for cashing forged checks. The man was booked for burglary of a motor vehicle, two counts of forgery and four counts of disorderly conduct after he became hysterical at a deputy sheriff.

A woman reported the theft of a suitcase full of clothing from her car, which was entered by breaking out a window, and a local video rental store complained that a tape valued at $70 was never returned.

Police questioned a juvenile who admitted to stealing a gun from his sister and brother-in-law and selling it for $75.

Another juvenile was allowed to go and stay with his grandmother after causing a disturbance at his mother's home. He allegedly hit his mother and brother and threw a knife at his sister.

A Dimmitt man was arrested for the theft of $25 worth of gas from a local convenience store and a local man was taken in for carrying a bony knife, and unlawful weapon. Police jailed a man who admitted to public intoxication by sniffing paint: he told officers he did not want to sniff paint any longer and needed some help.

Weekend investigations also included several family disputes, and a fight between ex-spouses at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame.

A man who tried to help his next-door neighbor during a family fight was stabbed in the arm.

Hilario Fuentes, 115 Norton, reported the theft of $360 worth of stereo equipment from his car, and Ronald Vasek, Route 4, told police $350 worth of tires were stolen from his pickup.

Local Roundup

No action taken on redistricting

Hereford city commissioners Monday night took no action on a request by Randall Marshall, a Texas Rural Legal Aid attorney representing a group of citizens, to redistrict the city for election of commissioners.

City attorney Earnest Langley said the re-districting would have to be done by an election to amend the city charter and that the commission had no power to change the election system.

In other business, the board voted to pay Brown, Graham & Co. for its work on the audit.

Cheese to be distributed Aug. 22

The Community Action Agency will not distribute cheese for the month of July, a spokesman said Monday.

Due to "circumstances beyond our control," the Bull Barn is not available on a day when the cheese is available.

The surplus commodities will be distributed again on Aug. 22 at the Bull Barn.

Fireworks still causing damage

The shooting of fireworks is still causing damage to local property, Hereford Fire Marshall Jay Spain reported this morning.

A Saturday night grass fire at 415 Bradley was caused by children shooting fireworks, and Spain suspects fireworks started two of the blazes volunteers battled on Sunday.

A Sunday night fire in the San Jose area burned to the ground a vacant house belonging to Jesse Martinez. Spain said the fire started on the roof which caused him to suspect fireworks as the cause.

Volunteers also battled a grass fire, washed down a gas spill and extinguished a dumpster fire on Sunday.

Stolen goods, 3 assaults investigated

Deaf Smith County Sheriff's deputies recovered jewelry and knives stolen from the Palo Duro Canyon area over the weekend, after picking up two juveniles believed responsible for the thefts.

Deputies also investigated three reports of assault, two in connection with family fights.

Trinity scientists fell guilty about bomb

WASHINGTON (AP) — He had finished his work on the bomb's explosive trigger, so at 5:30 a.m. on July 16, 1945, physicist Philip Morrison hunkered down in the desert near Los Alamos, N.M., to relay the count-down, three-two-one-zero, for that frightening first atomic blast.

Four decades and 50,000 nuclear warheads later, Morrison and others who invented the A-bomb and still feel guilty about it are in the forefront of the U.S. anti-nuclear movement and the drive against President Reagan's weapons strategy.

"No one of the men who lay there in the open air on the ground 10 miles from the tower holding the first nuclear explosive device — certainly not this author — can forget that initial false dawn, when the cool of the night was ended for a few seconds in a flash of brilliant light and a wave of noonday heat that suddenly irradiated exposed hands and face,"

Morrison said in a report released today on the 40th birthday of the bomb.

He and those employees of the Manhattan Project who are members of the Union of Concerned Scientists were in Washington to lobby against U.S. military programs, notably "Star Wars," Reagan's $26 billion anti-ballistic missile research project.

They were briefing members of Congress on their report, which addresses events leading up to the first

A-bomb test, codenamed Trinity. At the same time, they argued to end future projects of mass destruction.

With Morrison, were:

—Robert Bacher, who assembled the Trinity bomb's plutonium core and who later became a member of the Atomic Energy Commission.

—Hans Bethe, who headed the theoretical work done at Los Alamos, directed the first detonation and won a Nobel Prize.

—Cyril Smith, coordinator of all metallurgical aspects of plutonium and uranium at Los Alamos and a former member of a presidential science advisory committee.

—Victor Weisskopf, a Manhattan Project group leader who calculated the bomb's effects and who now appears in anti-Star Wars television commercials.

"We hope that by looking backward across the four decades of nuclear weapons-building to Trinity that we might be able to understand the current dilemma of the nuclear rivalry more clearly," said Henry Kendall, chairman of the scientists' group.

Their chief aim is to stop Star

For high incomes

Medicare tax considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee, while rejecting an administration proposal for an across-the-board increase in Medicare health insurance premiums, has approved a new Medicare tax to be paid by elderly recipients with incomes above $30,000.

The House Ways and Means subcommittee on health approved the tax Monday as part of a package of Medicare changes that could go to the full Ways and Means committee next week.

It would affect individuals with incomes above $30,000 and couples with incomes above $40,000 who participate in Medicare, the government's health insurance program for the elderly and disabled.

Rep. Pete Stark, D-Calif., the subcommittee's chairman, said the proposal was drafted as an alternative to the Reagan administration's plan to raise premiums for Medicare Part B coverage, which pays doctor bills. The administration proposal would have raised the monthly fee for everyone by the same amount.

Stark did not call it a tax, instead referring to the measure as "an income-related premium collected by the Internal Revenue Service." By whatever name, he said, it was fairer than a flat increase.

In his 1986 budget proposal, President Reagan said individuals are paying too little of the cost of their Medicare Part B coverage. When the coverage was established, he said,

Loeffler raises over $1 million

AUSTIN (AP) — A committee sounding out Republican U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler's chances in a 1986 race for governor has raised $1.14 million over a six-week period, according to a report filed with the secretary of state's office.

Democratic Gov. Mark White, who is expected to seek re-election, had not filed his officeholder report for Jan. 1-June 30 by the close of business Monday.

Former U.S. Rep. Kent Hance, a Democrat-turned-Republican who is a possible GOP gubernatorial candidate, did not have to file because his committee is a general committee, not for a specific office, said a spokesman for the Hance Committee.

Hance committee sources said, however, $1 million had been raised.

Richard McBride, director of the Tom Loeffler for Governor Committee, said the $1.14 million is the most ever raised by a non-incumbent in a similar reporting period.

Impromptu roundup in city streets

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Union Stockyard workers Monday returned to those thrilling days of yesteryear when they were forced into an impromptu cattle roundup in downtown San Antonio.

Three calves broke open a gate as they were being unloaded from a truck at the stockyards, said Bill New, vice president of the stockyards.

One fled to the county courthouse at least a mile away, one went to Lanier High School and a third made it to the Terminal Market before all three were rounded up.

"It took us a couple of hours, but we rounded them up," New said.

Second child support arrest made

AUSTIN (AP) — A second man from the "most-wanted" lists of parents delinquent in child support payments has been arrested.

Attorney General Jim Mattox announced Monday that Daniel Soto, 24, was arrested following tips from neighbors who said Soto was moving.

The attorney general last week announced the program under which names of "most-wanted" suspects are being made public in five cities. Those on the list are chronically delinquent in child support payments, Mattox said.

On Thursday, the day the program was launched, authorities arrested a Fort Worth man. Soto was arrested late Friday, Mattox said Monday, adding that the man allegedly owed $1,822 in support payments.

Mattox said another man on the San Antonio list saw his name and voluntarily contacted the attorney general's regional office, paying $1,300.

Two fetal deaths linked to cheese

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The toll of deaths and stillbirths linked to a bacteria found in tainted cheese rose to 64 as county health officials blamed the bacterial infection for two more fetal deaths.

Listeriosis, the disease caused by the bacteria, was detected in four additional Los Angeles-area mothers and their newborns and in a 39-year-old man with a chronic illness, health department spokeswoman Myrtha Woolley said Monday.

Investigators blame some of the listeriosis deaths in California and six other states on a bacteria-tainted Mexican-style cheese. Two types of cheese found to be tainted with the Listeria monocytogenes germs have been recalled.

Newborns, the elderly and those with chronic illness are particularly susceptible to the bacteria, two strains of which have been detected so far.

Kuwati minister arrives in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Kuwait's oil minister, arriving here for a round of talks, said Monday that the OPEC oil producers would be able to overcome the lower demand for crude if they remained united.

Sheik Ali Khalifah Al-Sabah told reporters that cutting energy prices wasn't the way to stabilize the world oil market.

The official made his remarks upon arrival at the city's international airport for talks with President Miguel de la Madrid and other government officials, according to the government news agency Notimex.

His talks come less than a week after Mexico cut its oil prices, putting fresh pressure on members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Nations to lower their costs. The oil cartel has been having trouble maintaining pricing discipline among its members in the face of a lower demand for their product.

Kuwait is a prominent member of the OPEC cartel and Al-Sabah appealed on Sunday for non-OPEC members to help stabilize the turbulent oil market.

Eight dead after 3-day clash

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Three days of clashes between protesters and police in a string of black townships have left at least eight people dead and dozens injured, police and witnesses said.

Police reports said at least 20 communities erupted in violence from the south coast as far north as Johannesburg and at least 45 blacks were arrested.

The outbreaks are the latest in 10 months of anti-segregationist rioting that has claimed at least 450 black lives.

About half of those were killed by police, and the others perished in criminal assaults, attacks on blacks viewed as cooperating with whites, and fighting between different groups opposed to apartheid, the government's institutionalized racial separation policies.

South Africa's 22 million blacks cannot vote or hold citizenship and are ruled by a white minority of 5 million.

In Masizakhe township near Graaff Reinet, about 100 miles north of Port Elizabeth, residents said unrest carried into a third day Monday, with police firing tear gas and rubber bullets at individuals and crowds of blacks for at least five hours.

Soviet, American vehicles collide

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — A Soviet military vehicle was involved in an accident with a U.S. military vehicle it had been following last weekend in East Germany, injuring an American soldier, a U.S. military spokesman said today.

Lt. Col. Robert Ahrens, spokesman for the U.S. Command in Berlin, said he did not know how seriously the American soldier was injured or whether Washington had filed a protest in the incident. Ahrens said only that he could confirm a report in a West Berlin daily newspaper, the Tagesspiegel.

The newspaper reported that a vehicle belonging to the U.S. military mission in Potsdam, East Germany, was being followed by the Soviet vehicle last weekend. The Soviet vehicle then was involved in an accident with the American vehicle, although the specific location in East Germany was not reported by the newspaper.

cancer, colon cancer is the second most deadly form of the disease.

"There is greater than a 50 percent chance that the president now has no cancer whatsoever — that there are no cancer cells in his body — and he is completely cured," said Dr. Steven Rosenberg, the chief of surgery at the National Cancer Institute and, as such, the government's No. 1 cancer surgeon.

"However, there is a chance that the tumor may recur at some time in the future," Rosenberg said.

"The majority of patients in exactly the president's situation would certainly survive five years and beyond," said Rosenberg.

Oller said the president told him, "Well, I'm glad that that's all out" after the doctors informed Reagan the tumor had been malignant but

Publicity may help cancer detection

NEW YORK (AP) — What Betty Ford's breast cancer did for that disease about 10 years ago, President Reagan's polyp may do for colorectal cancer: boost public awareness and help doctors find the disease early, experts say.

In trying to diagnose colon and rectal cancer early enough to improve chances for survival substantially, doctors want to examine patients "before they see red blood in the stool," said Dr. Sidney Winawer, chief of gastroenterology at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York.

Visible blood in the stool, bleeding from the rectum and sudden change in bowel habits may indicate colorectal cancer and deserve an examination, he said. But examinations of people without symptoms can catch the disease earlier, and an American Cancer Society official said Monday he believes the publicity surrounding Reagan's polyp will help that effort.

"I certainly expect an increase in people calling for detection examinations," said Lawrence Garfinkel, vice president for epidemiology and statistics and director of cancer prevention. "I think any kind of national publicity ... is good to get people to come for detection of cancer."

Energas names new executive

AMARILLO — Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, Charles K. Vaughan, of Energas Company (OTC) today announced the appointment of Michael R. Doll as Director of Corporate Communications for the natural gas distribution company headquartered in Amarillo, Texas.

A former broadcaster and educator, Dr. Doll brings a wide range of communications experience to Energas. He was formerly Director of Marketing for Strascina & Partners, an Albuquerque, New Mexico based advertising and public relations firm. He was a media relations specialist, worked in community involvement programs and served as liaison with the City of Albuquerque for Public Service Company of New Mexico and has also been a Public Relations representative for a national trade association.

Doll is an accredited member of the Public Relations Society of America and was a member of the Board of Directors of the New Mexico Chapter. He was the recipient of three awards in the past five years from the new Mexico chapter for excellence in public relations.

CPA firm benefits WTSU

Brown, Graham & Company, Certified Public Accountants, recently gave $3,000 to further the accounting program in the Department of Financial Administration at West Texas State University, it was announced this week.

The money was presented as an unrestricted gift to Dr. James B. Davis, Jr., head of the department, by Brown, Graham & Company president W.C. Russell and vice president Johnny Lacy. They said the gift was intended to assist the accounting program in a time when state funds are limited.

Dr. Davis said the gift may be used to help develop data base electronic libraries for faculty research, to assist professors in getting additional training, or to help recruit students and professors to the accounting program.

Brown, Graham & Company was founded in Hereford in 1955 and now has nine offices in Amarillo, Hereford, Tulia, Friona, Spearman, Canyon, Dimmitt, Shamrock and Perryton.

The firm employs 30 W.T.S.U. accounting graduates, according to Russell. He said he hopes the gift can be an annual occurrence with the possibility of the firm matching gifts made by the W.T.S.U. graduates among its staff.

individuals paid 50 percent of the cost. But the premium increase has been sharply restricted, he said, and the current premium of $15.50 a month pays less than a quarter of the program's costs.

Reagan's proposed solution would have boosted the premium to $16.80 in 1986, and continued boosting it by two percentage points a year for the next four years. By that time, he said, premiums would pay 35 percent of the costs.

Stark's subcommittee agreed to increase the income from premiums by about $400 million over three years, so the premiums would pay 25 percent of program costs. But he said the subcommittee did not want to increase the premium for poor people.

Under the panel's bill, the general premium would be frozen at somewhere $15 and $16 a month.

He said the tax rate is being recalculated, but predicted the total premium expense would be less than $200 a month at the highest. Even at that level, he said, coverage remains a bargain.

Overall, Stark said, the bill approved by the subcommittee will save $10 billion "give or take a couple of hundred million" through spending cuts and increased revenue.

The bill would require newly hired employees of state and local governments to come under Medicare coverage beginning next year, a decision that would bring in an estimated $500 million in payroll taxes over three years.

BOMB

Ironically, the arguments the scientists make today are no different from those put forward by many A-bomb scientists within days of the first explosions, including the ones that leveled the Japanese cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

In a letter to the secretary of war in August 1945, Los Alamos director J. Robert Oppenheimer foresaw bigger nuclear weapons, their spread to other countries and the pressing need for nuclear arms control.

Advances in weaponry since Trinity — hydrogen bombs, ballistic missiles, multiple warheads, missile submarines, greater accuracy and the MX — are forces for instability, not stalemate, Morrison said.

Wars, which President Reagan says can make nuclear warfare obsolete by creating effective defenses, but which Morrison believes will merely fuel the arms race at even higher levels of spending.

Barbeque Crowd

Approximately 550 barbeque fans were served at the annual King's Manor Founders Barbeque on Saturday evening. Dale Winders and the Bluegrass Boys provided free bluegrass music for the dinner. A group of Vega volunteers cooked the two beefs which were donated by Bob Simms and Frosty's Meat Market gave the bread, beans and onions to the cause. Proceeds will assist King's Manor residents who cannot afford to pay for long-term care.

Dear editor,

I would be grateful if you would allow me some space in your newspaper to send greetings from the people of Bordertown in South Australia to the citizens of Hereford.

Many of your readers would now be aware that the State of South Australia and the State of Texas will each be celebrating their 150th birthdays in 1986 and that a large number of towns in each country have been paired as part of a Twin Towns Project.

As coordinator of the Bordertown team I provided over 40 organizations in Bordertown with the names and addresses of similar groups in Hereford and suggested that they make contact. A number of organizations are corresponding but the overall response has been a little disappointing.

I am sure that an exchange of letters between the towns of Bordertown and Hereford will prove to be good fun and may enable good friendships to be established. The purpose of this letter is to invite the people of Hereford who have not already been contacted, to provide me with details of their organization with a view to participating in this Twin Town project. All letters will be acknowledged within one week of receipt.

I am looking forward to hearing from Hereford citizens during the coming weeks as we move towards our 150th birthdays.

New device helping those suffering from sleep apnea

A new device about the size of a transistor radio is helping physicians at Ochsner Clinic detect people who suffer from "sleep apnea"—a condition in which a chronic snorer ceases merely to annoy others and begins disturbing his own sleep.

Victims of sleep apnea have an excess of tissue at the back of the throat. That tissue, flapping like a flag in the wind as the patient breathes, causes the uncommonly loud and persistent snoring that is characteristic of the condition. That much of the problem only annoys others within earshot.

But there is another effect. The relaxed tissue also intermittently blocks the breathing passages, and prevents the patient from inhaling until lack of oxygen awakens him enough to cause the tissues to retighten. The patient may go without breathing for as long as two minutes. The sleep disturbances caused by this minor self-strangulation can leave a sufferer chronically listless and exhausted.

The snoring can be corrected surgically by removing some of the excess tissue or, in very extreme cases of sleep apnea, by a tracheostomy—a permanent surgical opening into the throat permitting the patient to breathe even when the normal air passage is blocked. The problem lies in determining whether a window-rattling snorer is really a sleep apnea victim, and, if so, how severe the condition is.

Sleep apnea can be confirmed by monitoring the patient's respiratory effort, heart rate, blood oxygen levels and body movements—a procedure traditionally carried out in a hospital setting. But admitting the patient to an inpatient "sleep lab" suffers from two shortcomings. It is rather expensive and it puts the patient in an unfamiliar environment which may prevent him from relaxing to the point that the sleep apnea will manifest itself.

Hence the enthusiasm for the new device, called a Vitalog Sleep Monitor—a device small enough and simple enough to be used by the patient in his own home.

Dr. Brent Butcher, an ear, nose and throat specialist at Ochsner, says the portable monitor reads the appropriate body functions through small leads attached to skin electrodes and chest belts. It causes no discomfort and does not interfere with the patient's ability to fall asleep.

The following morning the patient brings in the monitor, which reads its data into a personal computer programmed to provide a graphic readout of the results.

The snoring of sleep apnea sufferers differs in more than volume from that of ordinary snorers. For one thing, Dr. Butcher says, the victim will snore regardless of the position in which he is lying. Most people snore loudly only when lying on their backs.

There is also a standard profile the sleep apnea victim will frequently fit.

"Usually the patient will be between 30 and 60 years old, and in the majority of cases, will be male," Dr. Butcher notes. "Often he—or she—will be overweight."

A camel can go without water for almost a week, and without food for much longer.

Ann Landers

Many remain happily married

Dear Ann Landers:

I'll be brief. I know you have thousands of letters that need your attention.

What are the chances for a marriage when he tells his wife he has "sexual preference" problems? He says he wants to stay married but is not sure he can remain faithful.

I love this man and confess I did not have the faintest notion that he was gay. Am I fooling myself when I say I believe we can have a solid marriage? Our sex life is good. We want children. I have a terrible fear it is only a matter of time before he leaves me and becomes part of the gay community.

Please help me. I am — STRUGGLING IN DES MOINES

DEAR D.M.: Some women are able to remain happily married to husbands who have an eye for other males. Others are not. I have no way of knowing your threshold of tolerance in this area.

Of one thing you can be sure. Married bisexuals, when presented with a choice, invariably go for members of their own sex. Furthermore, when the proclivity is present, they can be expected to wander off occasionally. This decision must be yours. I wish you luck.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been a reader for years but have never written before. When I saw your suggestion that children be taught manners in school I knew I had to speak out.

Tell parents talk is cheap. It costs nothing. With talk, parents can teach their children manners, ethics, how to read, how to think straight, how to cope with life and how to face adulthood.

A person is an adult a lot longer than he is a child. How a child turns out depends a great deal on the foundation that was laid in the formative years. Parents must accept this responsibility. They owe it to their children to equip them to face life.

Books can be obtained free of charge at your local library. Children who are encouraged to read are better students and they get into a lot less trouble.

Introduce your children to the wonderful world of books. When they are grown, they will thank you for it. — A MOTHER WHO DOESN'T WANT THE SCHOOLS TO DO MY JOB

DEAR MOTHER: You are right on! How I wish all mothers had your insight.

Dear Ann: Our son is engaged to a lovely Jewish girl. We are Methodist. Her parents are fond of our son and are in favor of the marriage, as we are.

Our pastor says he doesn't officiate at weddings unless both parties are Christians. I feel uncomfortable asking him this question, so I am depending on you to answer.

Our religion believes that people who do not accept Jesus as their Saviour will not go to heaven. I am prepared to love this girl as a daughter, but it worries me that she and my son will not be together in the hereafter. Help me see things in the proper perspective. — FLORIDIAN

DEAR FLO: Since you are going to have a Jewish daughter-in-law, try to view the situation from a broader point of view. It is this: Eternal life is granted to all people who live according to God's laws.

In Babe Ruth 14-15 district tourney

Hereford scores two shutouts

Pitching and defense were the names of the game Saturday and Sunday as the Hereford Kids Inc. Babe Ruth League 14 and 15-year-old all-star team shut out Friona and Muleshoe in the district tournament in Friona.

Hereford, which defeated Friona 18-0 Saturday and beat Muleshoe 4-0 Sunday, play at 8 p.m. tonight against Friona or Muleshoe.

A loser's bracket game between Friona and Muleshoe was suspended Monday night because of rain. The game, which was tied 3-3 in the sixth inning, will be resumed at 6 p.m. tonight.

In Hereford's 18-0 win over Friona, a combined five-hitter was pitched for Hereford by Tim Long, James Hernandez and Fidel Ceballos.

Long pitched the first three innings, recording four strikeouts. Hernandez and Ceballos each pitched two innings, and each struck out two Friona batters.

Hereford scored 17 of its 18 runs against Friona in the first three innings of the game.

Roger McCracken hit a two-run triple to drive in the first runs of the game in the first inning. The triple came after Robby Collier was hit by a pitch and Ross Torres singled.

McCracken scored on an infield single by Derrell Page. Page later scored on an error in the inning, and the score became 5-0 when Raymond Romo hit an RBI single.

Hereford increased its lead to 8-0 in the second inning. Roger McCracken doubled and scored on an error for the first run of the inning.

Other runs were batted in by Page who singled and James Hernandez who tripled.

In the third inning, Hereford pushed 10 runs across the plate to build up an 18-0 lead. The first run was scored when Friona failed to throw a runner out at home plate.

Roger McCracken then hit a two-run single to make the score 11-0. Long made it 14-0 with a three-run, inside-the-park hom run.

Page hit a triple and scored on an RBI groundout by Edward Martinez.

Two Hereford batters reached base on walks. Roger McCracken then hit a two-run single, giving him six RBIs in the game and giving Hereford a 17-0 lead.

Hereford's other run of the game came in the sixth inning when Rodney McCracken hit a bases-empty home run over the left center-field fence.

Twice Friona had two baserunners in the same inning, the fourth and seventh innings, but failed to score. Hereford pounded out 16 hits compared to Friona's five hits.

On Sunday against Muleshoe, Tim Long pitched four innings and James Hernandez three innings to help lead Hereford to a 4-0 shutout win.

Long pitched hitless ball in the first four innings. Muleshoe had just two baserunners in those innings, both reaching the basepaths on errors.

Hernandez gave up two hits in the last three innings in maintaining the shutout victory over Muleshoe. Each Hereford pitcher struck out two batters.

Hereford scored a run in each of the first four innings in its 4-0 win. In the first inning, Collier was hit by a pitch, Torres doubled, and Roger McCracken batted in a run with a double.

Hernandez stroked an RBI triple for Hereford's second-inning run.

Torres also doubled in the third inning, and was driven home by Roger McCracken who hit a single. The Hereford all-stars left the bases loaded in the inning.

Roger McCracken recorded his third RBI of the game in the fourth inning, hitting a single to bat in Collier who had hit an infield single. The bases were left loaded again in this inning.

Muleshoe threatened to score in the sixth inning. With runners on first base and third base, Muleshoe attempted a double steal.

Catcher Robby Collier of Hereford threw to second baseman Ross Torres, who immediately threw the ball back to Collier, and Collier tagged out the runner at home plate. Muleshoe then failed to score any runs in the inning.

Hereford had seven hits in the inning compared to Muleshoe's two hits.

In Mustang League district playoffs

Hereford beats Dimmitt, 12-2

Hereford took a 1-0 advantage in the Mustang League best-of-three district playoff series Monday night by defeating Dimmitt, 12-2, in Hereford.

The Hereford all-stars are from the Kids Inc. boys' minor league. Game 2 of the series is scheduled at 6 p.m. tonight at the Kids Inc. boys' minor league field.

If a third game is necessary in the district playoff series, it will be played at 8 p.m. tonight.

Monday night's game ended after four innings because of the 10-run rule.

Dimmitt hit a pair of singles in the top of the first inning, but failed to score.

In the bottom of the first, Hereford's leadoff batter Jamie Kapka walked, stole second base and went to third base on an error. Kapka then scored on a wild pitch.

Fonzie Enriquez and Rene Cano both reached base on walks. Cory

Newton and Jake Head each batted in runs with RBI groundouts.

Ruben Ramos then walked, achieved two stolen bases, and scored on an error to give Hereford a 4-0 lead.

Dimmitt scored one run in the second inning, on a stolen base to home plate.

Kapka led off the second inning for Hereford with a walk and then stole two bases. Enriquez walked, and Cano followed with an RBI single.

Newton stroked a double to drive in two runs, putting Hereford ahead 7-1. Dimmitt did not score in the top of the third inning.

Hereford increased its lead to 12-1 in the bottom of the third inning.

Sammy Casarez walked, Kapka singled, and Enriquez walked. Two runs were scored on an error. Newton hit an RBI single and later scored on a wild pitch. The final run of the inning was batted in by Ramos, who hit a triple.

Dimmitt scored a run in the fourth inning on a bases-loaded walk, but it was not enough to keep the game going past four innings of play.

Kapka pitched the first three innings for Hereford, recording six strikeouts, and Enriquez pitched the fourth inning, striking out two Dimmitt batters.

Major league baseball's all-star game is tonight

By BEN WALKER AP Sports Writer MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Which All-Star team would you rather have?

Rickey Henderson leads off a magnum-force American League lineup with a .357 average. George Brett, leading the major leagues at .358, bats third.

Baltimore's big boppers, Eddie Murray and Cal Ripken, hit fourth and fifth. Jim Rice, one of baseball's biggest terrors during the last decade, is seventh — that's right, seventh — and Carlton Fisk, tied for the major league lead with 23 homers, is eighth.

Then there is the National League, which will be without some of its standouts for tonight's 56th All-Star Game.

Pedro Guerrero of Los Angeles and Gary Carter of the New York Mets are injured. Joaquin Andujar, the leading winner in the majors, decided to stay home in St. Louis. Fernando Valenzuela of Los Angeles and the Mets' Dwight Gooden may not pitch an inning between them.

And the game is even at an AL park, the semi-surrealistic Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome.

"We're at a definite disadvantage because they have all played here. They know all the nooks and crannies," NL Manager Dick Williams of San Diego said. "That's our alibi."

But will the Nationals need one? If they win, it will be for the 21st time in 23 games, extending their margin to 36-19-1.

LaMarr Hoyt, the Cy Young winner in the AL two seasons ago, will open up for the NL. He's one of five San Diego players in the starting lineup.

Williams said either Nolan Ryan of Houston or the Mets' Ron Darling would follow Hoyt. Then Valenzuela and Gooden, who combined to strike out six consecutive batters in last year's game, would get their turns.

To finish, Williams brought along three premier relievers, his own Rich Gossage, Montreal's Jeff Reardon and Scott Garrelts of San Francisco.

Detroit's Jack Morris will make his second All-Star start for the AL. He pitched two scoreless innings in opening the 1981 game, and threw two shutout innings last year.

The 8:40 p.m. EDT game is expected to draw a sellout crowd of 55,122.

Spotlight on Texas
Texas has become the envy of many other states. And it's not just because of our mouth-watering chili and mesquite-smoked barbecue. Our state is now attracting more and more businesses to head-quarter or locate a major operation here. Corpus Christi was just chosen as the new U.S. Navy base for the battleship Wisconsin. And support warships will be stationed in the Houston-Galveston area. The annual economic impact is expected to top $250 million. No longer is our state a land of only oil and agriculture. While those industries still play major roles, they are now part of a varied big picture, which includes the banking, defense, computer, tourism and telecommunications industries, to name a few. Regardless of their locations within Texas, the influx of new businesses is a boon to the whole state. New businesses increase the state's tax base and create new jobs for all Texans.

Attracting new businesses
Helping to draw new businesses to Texas are the state's abundant resources, good climate, excellent transportation and hard-working residents. For example, good transportation was a dominating reason for Southwestern Bell Telephone's recent decision to locate a major distribution warehouse in Lancaster, south of Dallas. The new 490,000 square foot complex will serve all five of our company's states.

In addition to transportation, telecommunications facilities are also important in many business relocation decisions. Southwestern Bell Telephone is proud to offer top-notch telecommunications in the 450 towns it serves in Texas. For the eighth year in a row, we are investing more than $1 billion in new construction to meet Texas' growth and to continue adding state-of-the-art communications facilities.

Reasonable phone rates
Also, Texas residential telephone rates are among the lowest in the nation. In fact, a recent study conducted by an investment brokerage firm — Smith Barney — found Texans had the lowest average monthly residence bill among the 18 states surveyed. From 1975 to 1984, the average residential phone service for most Texans increased only 44 percent. During that time, the Consumer Price Index rose 93 percent, gasoline went up 117 percent, medical costs increased 184 percent, while natural gas prices rose 239 percent.

In fact, statistics show it actually takes a smaller percentage of earned income to pay for telephone service today than it did 25 years ago.

Even at our current proposed increases, Texans will continue to enjoy quality communications at affordable rates. What makes Texas grow? It's a lot of factors, from its highways to its telecommunications services to its state government that actively works to promote economic development.

It's also good people, including Southwestern Bell Telephone's 35,000 Texas employees. We're proud of our traditions of service in the state since the late 1800s. And we're confident of our abilities to continue meeting the needs of our growing state.

Abundant Life

DON'T REVEAL TOO MUCH
By Bob Wear

In an interlocking society such as our society, it is necessary that we know many things about each other; however, if there is to be effective personal living and the best possible social climate, there must be some limits about what we reveal about ourselves. There are some things which we must keep to ourselves. This is not because we are trying to deceive others, but because these things belong to us and are of us, and do not concern others. Generally, others will have no interest in any detailed revelations about ourselves. WE MUST DECIDE how we wish others to see us. Of course, in all of this we desire to be honest; however, being honest does not require any kind of self-revelation that is detrimental to us and of little or no interest to other people. It is a fact that if we reveal too many shortcomings; or too many personal problems; etc., wise people will soon realize that they cannot afford such associates.

THERE IS NO LAW of God or man that requires us to present ourselves completely exposed to the people around us; to bare our soul; to let them know all of our faults, our like and dislikes, our problems, our uncertainties, our unique preferences, or any thing else that is uniquely us.

THERE IS a very faulty religious viewpoint that is being pushed. It is, of course, a corrupted form of sound teaching about confessing our faults to one another. Following this teaching does not require this absurd emotional and personality disrobing of ourselves which is such a loss to us and to those with whom we are associated.

LET US RESPECT our own privacy so others can respect us.

Heat illness risk higher for children

During summer weather children playing outside run the risk of heat exhaustion.

Children run a higher risk for several reasons, says Dr. Mary Ann Heussner, a health education specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

Children are prone to heat illnesses because they have more skin surface for each pound they weigh than adults, so they absorb more heat, she says.

Because children's sweat glands don't work as well as adults until after puberty, their bodies don't regulate temperature as well either. Children also take almost twice as long as adults to get accustomed to different temperatures, explains the specialist.

When children get involved in playing, they may ignore thirst, become overheated, fatigued and dizzy.

To avoid problems with heat illnesses, Heussner recommends that children, and active adults, follow these guidelines:

Drink at least eight cups of plain water each day.

Drink at least half a cup of cool water every 15 minutes during the activity. The body absorbs cool water faster than warm.

Weigh before and after the activity. Drink two cups of water for every pound lost during the activity.

Drink water, since it is absorbed faster than electrolyte drinks, sodas, and juices.

Avoid salt tablets.

Passports originally were official letters. The first U.S. passports were folded, single-page letters issued in 1918. U.S. passports first assumed booklet form in 1926, and beginning in 1941 were issued in flexible green covers. Blue plastic covers are now in use.

DR. GOTT

Peter Gott, M.D.

Can blackheads be removed?

DEAR DR. GOTT - My daughter is 13 and has been getting blackheads in her ears. What can be done about this?

DEAR READER - I may be run out of town on a rail for telling you this, but it is all right to pick at blackheads. Make sure that your hands and your child's ears are clean, then take an ordinary bobby pin and gently but firmly press the oval end over the blackhead. Usually, the material in the pore will be expressed out and up through the loop. If performed regularly, this ritual should alleviate the pore blockage that causes her blackheads.

DEAR DR. GOTT - My daughter is 12 and has hair under her arms. Will it harm her to shave them this summer?

DEAR READER - Probably not, but remember that you are committing her to a regular procedure.

Axillary hair (under the arms) is natural for both men and women. Shaving it is a cultural preference that is as typically American as apple pie. European women didn't worry about this sort of thing until after World War II, when American customs became fashionable.

In a child of 12, silky sparse axillary hair is not a cosmetic problem, except to the extent that your daughter is experiencing peer pressure to appear grown-up. Once she starts shaving her underarms and legs, the new hair will grow in as a coarse stubble - and she will have to continue periodic shaving to get rid of it.

If your daughter is precocious, she may feel more comfortable shaving. Although I can think of no conclusive medical reason why she should not, it would be a shame for her to adopt behavior strictly on the basis that "everyone else does it."

DEAR DR. GOTT - Why do elderly women grow mustaches and beards?

DEAR READER - All women produce male hormone (testosterone) as well as female hormone (estrogen). Before menopause, when the ovaries are in full gear manufacturing estrogen, relatively hairless female characteristics dominate over weaker male features. After menopause, however, the flow of estrogen diminishes and testosterone's effects become more prominent. Hence, as women age, they often experience deepening voices and the appearance of facial and chest hair. This embarrassing hair can be overcome by plucking, wax treatment or shaving; sometimes, estrogen-containing skin cream is effective in combating the effects of male hormone.

It may interest you to know that all men produce estrogen, but its effects are usually overridden by testosterone. As men age, however, testosterone levels fall off and they may begin to show signs of feminization, like reedy voices, loss of facial hair and diminished sex drive. So, as writers have repeatedly pointed out, we all tend, with time, to take on the physical characteristics of prepubescent youngsters.

Figureheads are about as old as sailing itself. The art grew from the ancient custom of decorating ships' bows to invite guiding spirits to dwell in the vessels.

Marking fabrics

DEAR POLLY - I've tried various brands of tailor's chalk and tracing paper and I still can't find a satisfactory way of marking sewing details when I'm making a dress. Many markers and tracing paper inks don't wash out of all fabrics. Do you have any pointers for transferring pattern markings to fabric? - JOAN

DEAR JOAN - Try the clip-and-pinch method. To mark all lines at the edge of the fabric, make a little clip with your scissors into the seam allowance of the piece. This is good for marking center lines, the beginnings of darts and tucks and similar details. To mark lines and marks that don't start at the edge, use pins as markers. You can mark a long line with a line of pins, or indicate the point of a dart with a pin inserted at the proper mark. Buttonholes, placement for pockets and similar details can be marked with pins. You'll never have to worry about washing out unsightly chalk or ink marks, and the clip-and-pinch method is a timesaver, too.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter "Sewing and Needlework Tips and Timesavers" which has other pointers for sewers, quilters, knitters, crocheters and other needleworkers. Others who would like a copy of this issue should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, Ohio 45201. Be sure to include the title - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - If your child has a plastic swimming pool, try this method for keeping the water clean. Take a grease splatter screen (99 cents in the variety store) and run it through the water. This will catch any bugs, leaves and other debris that has settled into the water. - KIM

DEAR POLLY - Need an ice pack? Try a bag of frozen vegetables, such as peas or corn. The bag of vegetables will conform to shoulder, calf, thigh or whatever part of the body needs the pack and there's no danger of dripping or leaking. - BETTY

DEAR POLLY - How safe are children's paints that are labeled non-toxic? - MRS. F.

DEAR MRS. F. - They may be very safe - or not safe at all, according to an item in the May issue of Art Hazards News. Monona Rossol, M.S., M.F.A. reports in that publication that the word "non-toxic" has a very limited meaning as required by the Federal Hazardous Substances Act. The FHSA ingestion test for toxicity "consists of feeding 10 rats an amount of the product (5 grams per kilogram of body weight) and waiting two weeks. After this time has elapsed, if half or more of the rats are dead, the product must carry a toxic warning label." This means that if less than half of the animals die, the manufacturer can legally brand a product "non-toxic." Do you want your child eating a product that may have killed four out of 10 rats in two weeks? In addition, such a test does not identify health problems that are caused by prolonged chronic exposure or that take a long time to show up. As Ms. Rossol points out, asbestos could be labeled "non-toxic" because it will not kill rats within two weeks. There are also tests for skin contact, eye contact, and inhalation.

I think this is an important warning for all parents and others working with small children. The bottom line is to supervise children very carefully whenever they're working with any art materials or similar substances, whether those substances carry non-toxic labels or not. Certainly all such products used with young children should be those labeled non-toxic to minimize any risk. But don't let the kids eat or swallow in the stuff just because it carries such a label. Use all art materials properly in a controlled setting with adult supervision. In addition, try to find out exactly what ingredients and chemicals are in such products. (If there is no ingredients listing, you might try writing to the manufacturer, for example.) This will help you determine just how toxic a substance is. - POLLY

Six indicted in prison dispute HOUSTON (AP) - A federal grand jury has indicted two former Texas Department of Corrections' prison officials and four guards for allegedly mistreating two prisoners following an escape, the Justice Department announced. Those handed the four-count indictment Monday include Robert Minor Lawson II, former assistant warden of the Wynne Unit in Huntsville, and Donald L. Shiver, former captain of the unit, the department said. Lawson, 36, and Shiver, 30, were fired March 1984 for unnecessary use of force stemming from the October 29, 1982 incident. The guards named in the indictment were Leonel Leal Jr., 24; Morris Ray Bigham, 26; Nathan Bryant White, 37; and Henry E. Farris, 37, said Assistant Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds, who heads the department's civil rights division. Farris, Bigham, and White were reprimanded for failing to report the use of force and submitting false statements, TDC spokesman Charles Brown said. No disciplinary action was taken against Leal, he said. All four guards are still employed by TDC. All six defendants were charged with conspiring "to injure and intimidate" Scott E. Licklider and Mark A. Griffith "in violation of their constitutional rights not to be deprived of liberty without due process of law, not to be subjected to summary punishment, and to be kept free from harm while in official custody," the department said.

Girl's body found in bag, two teen brothers arrested

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Two young brothers arrested Monday in connection with the death of a 4-year-old girl are expected to be charged with delinquent conduct-murder, according to police. A 16-year-old and his 12-year-old brother were taken into custody Monday after police found a body, believed to be that of Melody Ann Flores, in a plastic bag in the alley behind the boys' house. Police spokesman Doug Clarke said the brothers gave signed statements in the case, which were witnessed by Municipal Judge Yolanda Bernal. The pair were being held in the Fort Worth juvenile detention facility. Clarke said the body of a young girl was found just a couple of houses away from Melody Flores' home in east Fort Worth. Although positive identification has not been made, the girl's father said he fears the worst. "I'm praying she's with Jesus now, that she's there, that her spirit is living," said Sam Flores, Melody Ann's father. Flores said his wife, Jo Ann, did not want to "accept that it was our little girl. I've been going through hell," he said. Flores' daughter was reported missing Saturday afternoon. He and his wife each thought the girl was with the other, according to police. She was last seen at a neighbor's house where she had gone to return a toy. Clarke said police had searched her neighborhood earlier and found nothing. But when they returned later, they found the plastic bag with the body of a little girl with long hair.
