DRY FORECAST

The long-range forecast says our next chance for any rain is Saturday, but, hey, they've been saying it'll rain for weeks now, so who knows? It should be warm and dry through Friday, with highs in the 80s and lows in the 50s.

National Hospital Week and National Nursing Home Week are being observed this week. With the problems being experienced by the hospital here, and by rural hospitals all across the nation, the observance takes on added significance this year.

"Neighbors Helping Neighbors" is the new theme at Deaf Smith General Hospital. And, as hospital administrator Gary Moore points out, the theme applies not only to the staff serving their friends and neighbors, but it applies to the community supporting the hospital.

Health care is important to a rural community's economy. The health care system provides a variety of well-paying jobs to residents and helps attract new businesses and families to the area. Health care providers and hospital board members also play an important leadership role in the community.

Hospital Week serves to remind us how important the health care system is to our community, and a time for us to assess what the community needs and is willing to support.

Being a church minister is a tough job, and picking the right preacher is just about as difficult. Here's a tongue-in-cheek article on preacher searches from a church bulletin:

"The results of a computerized survey indicated that the perfect minister preaches exactly 15 minutes. He condemns sin, but never upsets anyone. He works from 8 a.m. to midnight and is also the church janitor.

"He makes $50 a week, wears good clothes, buys the best books, drives a new car and gives about $50 (See BULL., Page 2)

Despite press, recruiters not enjoying good times

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Persian Gulf War was a public relations bonanza for the Pentagon, but it was a wash for military recruiters.

"There's no line outside the door," said Lt. Col. Joe Reich, head of the enlisted recruiting operations section at Marine Corps headquarters.

High school recruiting took a nose dive in the early days of the gulf crisis last summer, but recruiting interest swung the other way early this year. Patriotic Americans wanted to sign up for duty.

"I didn't have any second thoughts" about joining because of the war, said Army recruit Michael Creed, a high school senior from Arlington, Va. "It made me want to join more."

War fluctuations are gone now, and "it's back to business as usual," Barbara Sorensen, a spokeswoman for the Army Recruiting Command, said in an interview this week.

Recruiting levels are almost exactly where they were a year ago. From October to March, the months that spanned the buildup and war, the Army recruited 45,500; the Marines 15,400; Navy 31,900; Air Force 14,700. Those 107,500 recruits compared to 104,800 in the same period in fiscal 1990.

The armed services are meeting their recruiting goals, but it isn't easy. The Pentagon is "building down" in the wake of the Cold War, cutting the size of the active-duty U.S. armed force by a quarter, to 1.6 million men and women by 1995.

Even so, the military still must recruit 200,000 new people a year to meet its needs. The Marines' recruiting requirements will rise slightly next year. But there's no money in the budget for TV and radio ads touting "The few, the proud, the Marines."

So the Marines are calling on their returning veterans from the Middle East to meet potential recruits and talk up military service.

Some new recruits are impressed with the images from Operation Desert Storm - smart soldiers and pilots firing high-tech weapons.

"Patriotism has really arrived" as a reason for entering the military, said

Army Sgt. 1st Class Dianna Cox, a guidance counselor in Louisville, Ky.

But Desert Storm also brought home to potential recruits the grim reality of war.

"There's a price to pay for freedom; that's the other message" from the war, said Lt. Col. J. Michael Lynch, chief of accessions policy for the Air Force.

The Army has set recruiting goals of 80,000 men and women this year, the Navy 72,500, the Marines 39,000 and the Air Force 30,000.

Recruiters in the past worked 60-hour weeks to meet their goals, and that won't change, said Master Sgt. Richard Basch, a veteran Marine recruiter.

Recruiting will get more difficult, predicts retired Army Gen. Maxwell Thurman. Budget cuts, base closing and a smaller military cast uncertainty on military career opportunities, Thurman told the House Armed Services Committee this month.

The pool of potential recruits is shrinking because of population trends. It will reach a low of 3 million in 1994.

Plans made for July 4th events

Organizers are continuing to firm up plans for a "welcome home" patriotic celebration in Hereford on July 4th designed to salute Deaf Smith County persons who served in Operation Desert Storm and other veterans of past wars.

Volunteer organizers have been meeting for the past two months to make plans for the event, which will include a children's parade, picnic, entertainment, a patriotic speaker and a fireworks display. Organizers are trying to raise about $17,000, much of which will be used to help build a permanent monument area to salute veterans of Operation Desert Storm and other veterans.

The monument (a location has not yet been determined) will include an engraved granite marker and 72 trees, one tree for each person from the county that served in the Persian Gulf war. In front of each tree will be a stone with the name, rank and branch of service of each of the servicemen who served in the operation. Planners hope that the family of each of the soldiers will pay a $50 fee, which includes the cost of the tree and the stone, for the permanent dedication. Families who would like to participate should contact Janie Nino at 364-0231 or the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce at 364-3333.

Organizers had earlier hoped to host a barbecue dinner. "We just didn't have enough time to properly plan the barbecue," said Wes Klett, general chairman of the celebration committee. However, everyone is invited to bring a picnic supper to Veterans Park around 6 p.m. on July 4th; the committee will provide free watermelon. A committee is planning entertainment featuring local singers and other groups.

Bob Pardo, who heroically saved four men while flying over North Viet Nam in 1967, will be the featured speaker at the evening's festivities. Pardo, then an Air Force captain, was later awarded the Silver Star for his actions.

A 29-minute fireworks show, the first public fireworks show held in the city in several years, will cap off the night's festivities.

The day will begin at 10 a.m. with a parade designed for children, but others are also encouraged to participate. Letters are expected to be given to children sometime this month at local schools, but children who want to enter may contact Diane Beavers at HCR Real Estate at 364-4670.

Nino said the group is trying to contact the families of 12 servicemen who served in Operation Desert Storm. The families of Samuel Arrendondo, Gerald Battey, Cord Cochran, Edward Diaz, Mike Fitzgerald, Richard Forrester, Greg Guzman, Darrell Lawson, Juan Martinez, Robert Martinez, Jeffrey Shire and Richard Schulz should contact Nino at 364-0231.

Senior honors will be given Thursday

The honor graduates for 1991 at Hereford High School will be named Thursday at the annual awards assembly at 7:30 p.m. at Whiteface Gymnasium at Hereford Junior High. Also at the assembly, thousands of dollars in scholarships will be awarded by local groups, organizations and others. The event is open to the public.

City sales tax check is lower

Hereford will receive a sales tax rebate check this month for $62,161, down 6.5 percent from the check received in May 1990.

The sales tax rebate, based on the one percent sales tax levied by the city, is for March sales reported in April by businesses filing monthly returns, and taxes reported by businesses filing quarterly returns for sales made in January, February and March.

For the year, Hereford has received $142,271, up 4.5 percent from the $135,957 collected through the first five months of 1990.

Deaf Smith County will get a check for $32,678 this month, up 3.6 percent from the May 1990 check. The county assesses a one-half percent tax used to offset property taxes. For the year, Deaf Smith County has received $142,271, up from the $135,957 through the first five months of 1990.

Area cities had mixed results compared to year-ago checks, as did other cities in the state. Comptroller John Sharp said the Texas economy is growing at a faster rate than the nation as a whole, "but there's no doubt that the state is feeling the negative side effects of the national recession. It's as if the nation had the flu and Texas is feeling the body aches," Sharp said.

The state rebates were up 10.6 percent for the first five months of 1991, but much of the increase is attributable to more county assessing sales tax, and some cities charging more than one percent. Some, like Amarillo, are as high as two percent. Amarillo's sales tax rebate this month was $2.61 million, compared to $1.37 million in May 1990. For the year, Amarillo has garnered $11.25 million.

For the month, sales tax rebates across the state were up only 3.7 percent.

Other area cities reports included: --Dimmitt, $20,899 this month, down 19 percent, and $123,556 for the year, up 19.7 percent.

--Canyon, $46,732 this month, up 23.7 percent, and $191,315 for the year, up 12.4 percent.

--Lubbock, $1.63 million, up 4.3 percent, and $6.93 million for the year, up 2.9 percent.

World, National

WASHINGTON - Robert Gates, President Bush's nominee to head the CIA, appears likely to win easy confirmation - an indication that the Iran-Contra arms and money affair has run out as a political issue.

WASHINGTON - The Food and Drug Administration is ordering three manufacturers of vegetable oil to remove a claim from their labels that the agency says is misleading even though it's true.

HOUSTON - Surgeons implanted for the first time a portable mechanical device designed to keep a patient's failing heart pumping until a donor is found.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - Many blacks believe Winnie Mandela's trial on kidnap and assault charges was politically inspired, and say its outcome shows there is no justice for blacks. To them, her guilt or innocence is irrelevant.

WASHINGTON - The Persian Gulf War was a public relations bonanza for the Pentagon, but it was a wash for military recruiters. "There's no line outside the door," one recruiter says.

PALM BEACH, Fla. - William Kennedy Smith indicated he had sex with the woman accusing him of rape, his cousin Patrick Kennedy told police. Smith himself has neither admitted or denied having sex with his accuser.

NORTHERN CABANAS PROVINCE, El Salvador - Combat-zone guerrillas doing the daily killing and dying in the 11-year-old civil war are skeptical of reports that peace is at hand.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska - The English and French have their "chunnel." Now a group of planners in Nome has a wild idea for a tunnel under the Bering Strait to the Soviet Union.

WASHINGTON - The House Ways and Means Committee says any free trade agreement with Mexico must address pollution along the Rio Grande and protect workers who lose their jobs. But the committee, as well as the Senate Finance Committee, has endorsed negotiations to lift tariffs and other trade barriers along the Southwest border.

FORT WORTH - Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana officials made a last-ditch effort to save seven of their military bases, in testimony before a federal commission debating which installations to close or trim.

DALLAS - Billionaire Ross Perot, the architect of the sweeping education reforms of 1984, is back at the forefront trying to keep lawmakers from eroding the gains made by the state's no-pass, no-play rule.

AUSTIN - A House committee approved an overhaul of the state's ethics laws, but the reform measure still has a long way to go in a short period of time. If approved by the full House, it will likely go to a conference committee composed of House and Senate members. Such a timetable would place the measure in competition with hundreds of other pieces of legislation being pushed in the final week of the legislative session.

HOUSTON - A first-of-its-kind portable artificial heart pump is keeping a 52-year-old man alive while he awaits a transplant to replace his failing heart. The surgery was performed Thursday and the patient remains in critical condition.

AUSTIN - It would become a crime in Texas for someone to sexually assault his or her spouse under a bill tentatively approved by the House. Under current law, spouses can be prosecuted only if the sexual assault is aggravated. That means it involves serious bodily injury; threats of death, kidnapping or serious injury; a deadly weapon; or a victim under age 14.

DALLAS - Baylor University has been given a July 20 deadline to accept a new plan restoring partial control over the school's governing board to the Baptist General Convention of Texas. If Baylor rejects the proposal, a state convention committee may recommend legal action against the Waco school.

Station owners sue Exxon over oil spill

MIAMI (AP) - Exxon's handling of the Valdez oil spill cut sharply into retailers' sales, and came on top of the oil giant's failure to pay them hundreds of millions of dollars in discounts, according to a lawsuit.

The class-action suit, which lawyer Jay Solowsky says is unprecedented, was filed in Miami federal court on behalf of gas station owners from Florida, Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland.

"No oil company has ever done to the environment what Exxon did in this case," Solowsky said Tuesday. "What we're saying is that Exxon damaged the dealers who were paying valuable consideration for using the Exxon mark."

Many retailers reported a significant drop in business because of the March 1989 oil spill, and sales worsened in September 1989 when Exxon balked at continuing the cleanup, touching off a boycott of the oil company.

Exxon, headquartered in Irving, Texas, failed to offer any rent concessions or temporary discounts to offset the losses caused by their mishandling of the cleanup, attorneys said.

Exxon Corp. spokesman Leslie Rogers said Tuesday that the company so far has seen only media reports of the suit, which was filed Monday.

"Although Exxon has not yet seen the lawsuit, we believe the allegations that have appeared in the media are unsupported," Rogers said in Houston.

The suit says the spill's consequences aggravated the damage done to dealers by Exxon's actions in another area.

The dealers contend Exxon sold billions of gallons of gasoline without paying promised discounts from 1982 to the present. Milton Wallace, a lawyer for the dealers, said the retailers' losses could run as high as $400 million.

Dealers contend the discounting problem began in August 1982 when Exxon introduced a "Discount for Cash" program to lure customers away from expensive-to-handle credit cards.

Exxon said it would charge dealers 3 cents for each credit card transaction, but in compensation would deduct 1.7 cents per gallon from the wholesale gasoline price.

Baylor faces power deadline

DALLAS (AP) - Baylor University has been given a July 20 deadline to accept a new plan restoring partial control over the school's governing board to the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Robert Naylor, who chairs a committee formed to investigate the convention's relationship with Baylor, said if Baylor rejects the proposal, his panel will make a new recommendation to the convention's executive board in September.

That recommendation could include a legal challenge or a suggestion that the convention cut the Waco school loose, Naylor said Tuesday. The full convention meets in November in Waco.

The Naylor Committee on Tuesday rejected Baylor's plan to retain control of its governing body.

Instead, the committee asked Baylor to agree to a plan similar to a previous proposal under which the convention had a say in selecting 75 percent of a new Board of Regents.

Baylor spokesman Mike Bishop said university officials were disappointed. "But we're not discouraged and we think the situation will turn around in the next several days," he said.

Bishop, responding on behalf of Baylor president Herbert Reynolds, who was out of town, stopped short of rejecting the Naylor proposal outright.

But he said, "It seems to differ insignificantly from the previous Naylor proposal," which the university had turned down.

Bishop added, "I think there is ample time for the committee to reconvene and approve Baylor's proposal. We think the more time they have to look at the Baylor proposal, the more support we will receive from within that committee."

Bishop suggested the committee be divided on its recommendation and that another meeting would swing the vote in favor of the school.

"Time is on our side, and besides, no responsible Texas Baptist leader wants to be blamed for running off Baylor University," Bishop said.

Naylor, who is president emeritus of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, said the group was united and will not meet again prior to June 11, when the recommendation will be presented to the BGCT's executive committee.

Naylor's committee was created by the executive board in October to breach a rift between Baylor and the convention caused when the school acted to remove itself from convention control.

Citing the threat of a fundamentalist takeover, Baylor's trustees voted to revise the school charter and established a self-perpetuating board of regents and elected 16 people to the new board. Previously, Baylor's charter provided for a 48-member board of trustees elected by the state convention.

Following the trustees' action, the state convention placed in escrow about $1.5 million in Baylor funding for the last quarter of 1990 and up to $6 million for 1991.

Under the original Naylor proposal, Baylor would return to a single-tiered governing board in which one-fourth of the members would be elected by the BGCT, and one-fourth by the trustees or regents themselves.

The other half would be elected through a joint process. Baylor would nominate three candidates for each position, with the convention electing the regents from among that group.

Baylor regents rejected that plan on May 2, proposing instead a single-tiered board of regents in which one-fourth would be directly elected by the BGCT and three-fourths elected by the regents themselves.

Under Tuesday's plan, Baylor would nominate two and the BGCT would pick one.

"That's the only change I see," Bishop said. "We'll listen to what they have to say, but at first glance, it doesn't look like an important change. And our position remains that the convention should elect 25 percent and our own board should elect 75 percent to protect us from a political takeover."

Bishop said that he was confident the executive board of the BGCT "will be statesmanlike in trying to arrive at a fair relationship agreement with Baylor and they will approve the Baylor proposal."

Naylor said he hoped Baylor "would find in this proposal the protection it desired and the participation which the BGCT felt was basically necessary for a relationship."

"It requires so little of Baylor," he said. "It certainly seems to me that they will see that it's to their advantage."

Cholesterol claim must be dropped

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Food and Drug Administration is ordering three manufacturers of vegetable oil to remove a claim from their labels that the agency says is misleading even though it's true.

The picture of a heart and the statement "no cholesterol" on Crisco Corn Oil, by Procter & Gamble, will no longer be allowed, the FDA said Tuesday.

It issued the same orders to CPC International-Best Foods, makers of 100 Percent Pure Mazola Corn Oil, and Great Foods of America Inc., the manufacturer of HeartBeat Canola Oil.

The companies promised to cooperate with the regulatory agency. The FDA said the labels are misleading because they imply the products differ from similar vegetable oils, "when, in fact, all vegetable oils are free of cholesterol."

Furthermore, too many people believe that cholesterol-free products also are fat-free, and that's simply not the case, said FDA spokesman Jeff Nesbitt.

He said the agency would investigate other high-fat foods that make no- or low-cholesterol claims.

The agency's action is the second round of newly installed FDA Commissioner David Kessler's war against misleading labeling. Last month, he went after manufacturers who used the word "fresh" on products made from concentrate.

Procter & Gamble agreed on April

26 to remove the offending word from its Citrus Hill Fresh Choice orange juice after the FDA seized 12,000 gallons of the beverage in a warehouse in suburban Minneapolis.

Following that incident, the FDA swiftly won agreement from four other companies who make orange juice and pasta sauce from concentrate, but labeled their products fresh.

Within hours of receiving a facsimile of the FDA letter, Procter & Gamble said it would not only remove "no cholesterol" from Crisco labels, but from all other food products until the FDA issues regulations specifying how the acknowledgment can be used.

"We think that our consumers want to know which products do not contain cholesterol, and that's why we have carried the 'no cholesterol' claim on our labels," said Edwin L. Artzt, Procter & Gamble chairman and chief executive. "However, we are quite willing to help defuse this food labeling issue by removing these claims from our packages."

CPC International and Great Foods both said they would work with the FDA to reach a mutually agreeable solution.

"We do not believe our labeling is misleading," said a statement from CPC, makers of Mazola oil. "In fact, it is intended to correct a common misconception that all fats and oils contain cholesterol. Mazola contains no cholesterol."

Workshop scheduled May 20

The "Family History Is Fun" workshop is planned at 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 20, in the game room of the Hereford Community Center. This will end the spring sessions of workshops which have been sponsored by members of the Deaf Smith County Genealogical Society.

Sylvia Murray of Amarillo, a certified genealogist and teacher, will conduct the program on researching Virginia. Since so many people landed in Virginia Colony and descendants migrated across the state on the journey south and westward, it is a favorite and essential place to search.

Murray has several pages of handouts for each of those present and brings from her personal library resource books for examination on the spot. A $2 contribution is suggested to aid in defraying cost of handouts.

The public is invited to the regular monthly meeting of the Deaf Smith County Genealogical Society at 7 p.m. preceding the workshop.

The local library has excellent in house genealogical resources. New books and materials arrive frequently. A fiche reader and two microfilm readers are available for public use. The genealogy society provides census film ordering through the library and interlibrary loan service is available. The librarian can furnish names and phone numbers of members who are available by appointment for assisting beginners in genealogy research and use of the facilities.

Progressive Community schedules reunion July 6

There will be a reunion of the Progress Community on Saturday, July 6, at the Progress First Baptist Church. A coffee and breakfast breads will be served from 9:30 a.m. to 11.

All current and former residents of the community, former members of the Methodist Church, current and former members of the Baptist Churches as well as the early Union Sunday School are invited.

Also, this will be the first reunion of those who attended the Progress School. It was built in 1926, 65 years ago, and the steering committee would like to have addresses of former teachers, principals, and other personnel.

If you cannot attend, please send a letter, pictures, or something about your life and family.

Please respond to Ernest Ramm, Route 2, Muleshoe or call 806-925-6421 or J.E. Wilhite, 1816 W. Ave. C., Muleshoe, phone 806-272-5062.

Progress is located about 6 miles west of Muleshoe on the Clovis Highway in Bailey County.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: God bless the 87-year-old man in Virginia who wrote to complain about the idiots who design men's clothes. May I add my own market research? I want to talk about men's underwear, specifically boxer shorts. Since millions of men prefer boxer shorts to knit briefs, why can't the underwear industry give us a decent fit?

Boxer shorts come in three sizes: small, medium, and large. Information printed on the package says small is 32-34, medium is 36-38 and large is 40-42. It means the actual waist sizes are 33, 37, and 41, or a range of four inches between small, medium and large. This is crazy.

Any man lucky enough to have a waist size of 33, 37, or 41 has no problem. But what about the rest of us? We are forced to wear shorts that don't fit. My waist size is 39. This means I must wear shorts that are two inches too small or two inches too large. The ones that are too tight are unacceptable. No man needs a tight garter around his waist. When the shorts that are too large have been laundered a few times, the elastic waistband gives out and I need a pair of suspenders to hold my shorts up. But the clothing industry says we have to like it or lump it. So, since I am not liking it, I am lumping it. And so are millions of other dissatisfied customers.

Retailers are complaining that business is slow. One way to generate sales is to manufacture merchandise that fits the needs of the consumer. It's as simple as that. -- Droopy Drawers in Oklahoma

DEAR DROOPY: Thanks for a letter that is sure to get some attention.

And now a word to the manufacturers and retailers from me. Please do not send any samples of your shorts with a brochure telling me they are wonderful. I will not plug and particular brand. Instead, listen to what this man is saying. He makes sense.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like to respond to the letter critical of the man who could only answer, "Me, too-er." A few years ago, when things began to get serious between my "Ozzie" and me, I told him that I've always had a problem expressing emotion. While I believe my parents loved each other, there were no outward signs of affection -- no hugging, kissing or hand-holding. I've always envied couples who are comfortable calling each other "honey" and "sweetheart" when people are around.

be thankful for your support. -- Torrance, Calif.

DEAR TORRANCE: I'm not going to let you off so easily. It may be difficult to utter those three little words and say "sweetheart" or "honey" but that doesn't mean you can't do it. People can and do overcome their inhibitions, but it takes practice. Surprise your sweetheart. Go ahead and try it. Once the sound barrier is broken, you'll love it!

Drugs are everywhere. They're easy to get, easy to use and even easier to get hooked on. If you have questions about drugs, you need Ann Landers' booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Lowdown, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.45.)

I explained to my wonderfully loving man that I say those three little words over and over, but I just can't say them out loud. I told him I just hoped my attempts to show him would make up for my inability to say it.

Ann, you'd be doing a great service if you'd print this for those of us who are hung up on the "L" word. I'm sure there'll be many who would

Get in shape for summer

Shape up but don't wear yourself out! That's the advice from fitness experts, who agree that jogging, walking, tennis or swimming give bodies the benefit of aerobic, cardiovascular conditioning, but can often leave you with muscle pulls, sprains, minor body aches and pains, especially if you haven't worked out in quite a while.

If you're starting a fitness program and have been less than active recently, follow these exercise basics:

1. Start slowly. You can't be a super-athlete on day one. Keep your first day's exercise around 15 minutes. Gradually increase your time as you become more conditioned.

2. Warm-up. An easy five to 10 minute walk followed by stretching exercises will provide enough limbering to avoid strains.

3. Cool-down. Stretch again when you complete exercise, focusing on those areas where you feel tightness. This will help avoid soreness and increase flexibility.

Even after following these suggestions, you may still experience minor aches and pains. A common reason is that exercise normally results in a buildup of lactic acid in muscles. This lactic acid, in turn, causes discomfort and even minor pain.

Research has discovered that one way of effectively reducing lactic acid is by bathing in carbonated water. The bath helps to open surface capillaries and increase surface blood circulation, flushing away the lactic acid.

Use these tips to help control the minor aches and pains of exercise and consider warm carbonated bathing when you still have minor aches and soreness.

Baby photos revealed at meeting

Cultural Extension Homemakers Club met recently at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center for a luncheon and program called "Show and Guess." Members tried placing the correct baby photo with the correct member. Perry Keyes presided in the absence of President Jewell Hargrave and the opening prayer was voiced by Vernis Parsons.

Fannie Fowensend read a poem titled "Do Come" for the opening exercise. Carrie Mae Doak lead the group in the pledges to the United States and Texas flags. Roll call was answered by "what I remember about the depression years."

Edna Marnell read the minutes and correspondence from Maudette Smith. Byrdie Fellers, secretary, gave the finance report and Fannie Townsend gave the 4-H report.

Members voted to join Friends of the Library.

Wilma Goetsch announced that the last meeting before summer vacation will be held May 24. Members will meet for a salad luncheon at the Hereford Community Center. Each member should bring a white elephant gift.

Others attending were S.T. Walton, Winnie Wiseman and Daisy Steele.

WOMAN CREATED FATHER'S DAY

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - It was a woman, Mrs. John Bruce Dodd, who first had the idea for Father's Day.

Mrs. Dodd was one of six children raised by her widowed father, Civil War veteran William Jackson Smart of Spokane, Wash.

According to Hallmark Cards, Mrs. Dodd was listening to a Mother's Day sermon in 1909 when she decided fathers should be similarly honored. Thanks to her efforts, the first Father's Day celebration was held in Spokane in 1910, and its observance spread to other cities and states.

Mrs. Dodd persisted in her campaign, and many Congressional resolutions for a national Father's Day were introduced.

Finally, in 1972, President Richard Nixon signed the law proclaiming the third Sunday in June Father's Day.

Tae kwon do champs

Hereford kids win at state

Three Hereford youngsters captured state taekwon do championships and four others earned bronze medals at a state championship taekwon do tournament Saturday at Sprague Field House in Dallas.

Marie Crox, John Anthony Arzola and Robert Jimenez all earned gold medals in their respective divisions. It was the fourth state championship for Crox, and she also brought home a silver medal. Joshua Buentello, Erik Weaver, Brian Torres and Sammy Ruiz all finished third in their divisions, and Victor Duran got a fifth-place finish.

All eight qualified for the national tournament July 4-6 in Cincinnati, Loopy Crox said. Crox instructs the children in taekwon do at his school in Veterans' Memorial Park.

If they win in Cincinnati, the three black belts in the group—Torres, Ruiz, Marie Crox—are eligible to advance to qualifying for the International Junior Tae Kwon Do. Success there could lead to the 1992 Olympics, Loopy Crox said.

Parcells may leave Giants

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) - After guiding the New York Giants to their second Super Bowl title in five years, Bill Parcells reportedly will step down today as coach of the NFL champions.

"He's gone," Newsday reported a source as saying in today's edition. The Boston Globe and the New York Daily News, citing sources close to the club, said Parcells has informed general manager George Young that he will not honor the final year of his contract. The Globe said the Giants would make an announcement today, although the team had not scheduled a news conference.

"If I knew something, I wouldn't say because I'd be divulging a confidence, and if I didn't know anything, I still wouldn't say because it's not my place," the New York Times quoted Giants offensive coordinator Ray Handley as saying.

According to several newspapers, Handley, elevated last winter from running backs coach, is considered the front-runner to replace Parcells as head coach.

"I can't help you on this," Handley told The Associated Press Tuesday night.

When asked about reports that he would succeed Parcells, he said: "I've been reading that for a couple of months now."

Attempts by the AP Tuesday night to reach Parcells and Young were unsuccessful. A representative in the office of Parcells' agent, Robert Fraley, would not confirm the report.

There have been recurrent rumors that Parcells, 49, would step down as Giants coach. He has reportedly said in the past that he would quit if his team won a second Super Bowl.

Parcells recently fueled speculation he was leaving by making an audition tape for NBC with the possibility that he would become an analyst on the network's pro football telecasts.

The Globe said Parcells has not negotiated a TV contract and has no specific plans. It said he would not coach, however, and had not negotiated with any other teams.

The Times reported last month that Parcells teamed up with play-by-play man Don Criqui several weeks earlier in an audition.

"Is that what I did?" Parcells, who had insisted he was uncertain about future plans, told the newspaper when asked about the report. "I don't have any comment on it."

Young, who elevated Parcells from an assistant's job in 1983, said he knew nothing about the audition.

Parcells nearly quit as coach after the Giants won the Super Bowl in January 1987. At the time, he reportedly was in line to become the head coach of the Atlanta Falcons.

Instead, he wound up getting a contract extension and staying with the Giants. He has a year remaining on his four-year contract and was to earn at least $750,000 this season.

The Globe said Parcells, whose team beat Buffalo in this year's Super Bowl, could have received a three-year extension worth more than $1 million.

The Globe said Parcells' relationship with Young, reported to have been less than warm for several years, did not figure in his decision to quit.

"George has been no problem for me," Parcells was quoted as telling friends. "He has been very supportive."

"Whenever I asked him to do something to help me out, he went out and tried to get that done."

But Newsday and the Times reported that the change of ownership of the Giants since the Super Bowl may have influenced Parcells' decision.

According to the newspapers, Parcells lost a close ally when Tim Mara, his mother and his sister sold their half of the team to Robert Tisch in March.

Parcells, the defensive coordinator, was named head coach when Ray Perkins quit after the 1982 season to succeed Paul "Bear" Bryant at Alabama. The Giants, beset with injuries, finished 3-12-1 in Parcells' first season.

In 1984, Young reportedly courted Louisville coach Howard Schnellenberger, who at that time was basking in adulation after winning a national title at Miami. But the Giants, bolstered by an extremely strong draft, finished 9-7 to make the playoffs for only the second time in 22 seasons.

Blazers to meet Lakers

By The Associated Press

The Portland Trail Blazers, who want to supplant the Los Angeles Lakers as the NBA's most consistent powerhouse, will have to go through the Lakers to reach the championship series for the second consecutive year.

The two teams put the stamp of dominance over the rest of the conference Tuesday night, completing 4-1 series wins that advanced them to the Western finals, starting Saturday in Portland.

The Trail Blazers ousted Utah with a 103-96 victory, while Los Angeles got seven points in overtime from James Worthy, including the tiebreaking jumper with 38 seconds left in a 124-119 decision over Golden State that put the Lakers in the conference finals for the ninth time in 10 years. In that time, they missed only last season.

In the East, the Chicago Bulls advanced to the conference finals for the third straight year, tripping Philadelphia 100-95 for a 4-1 series win. The Bulls await the winner of the Boston-Detroit series, which is tied 2-2 going into tonight's game at Boston Garden.

Worthy scored 21 of his 25 points after halftime for the Lakers, including the jumper that broke a 117-117 tie and put Los Angeles ahead for good against the Warriors. He then converted a foul shot with 28 seconds remaining for a 3-point advantage.

"I think I was a little hesitant, over-passing," Worthy said of the first half, when he made two of eight shots. "I was trying to go for the easier bucket. I got more aggressive in the second half."

Tim Hardaway, who had 27 points and 20 assists for the Warriors, made a layup with 21 seconds to go, making it a one-point game.

Byron Scott gave the Lakers a 122-119 lead with two foul shots with 11 seconds left. After Mitch Richmond missed a 3-point attempt, Scott made two more free throws to finish the scoring.

Magic Johnson, 1-for-11 from the field in the first half, led the Lakers with 28 points, 14 rebounds and 12 assists. Sam Perkins finished with 19 points and 15 rebounds.

Chris Mullin and Richmond scored 26 points each for the Warriors, whose victory in Game 2 snapped an 11-game playoff losing streak at the Forum.

Warriors coach Don Nelson said Perkins' easy layup at the end of regulation cost his team the game.

"I wish we hadn't had one breakdown at the wrong time," he said. "It shouldn't happen that you should give them a layup at that time. It did, we have to live with it."

Clyde Drexler and Terry Porter led a 16-0 outburst to start the third quarter that gave Portland, now 6-0 at home in the playoffs, a 67-52 lead.

"It was the key to the game," Portland coach Rick Adelman said. "We turned the game around. We took control, and we maintained it." Porter scored 22 points and Drexler, playing despite a sprained right big toe, finished with 22 points, nine rebounds and eight assists, giving him an average of 19.8 points, 10 rebounds and 9.6 assists in the series.

Karl Malone scored 26 points for the Jazz but was 4-for-13 from the field in the second half. Jeff Malone scored 20 and John Stockton had 19 points and 14 assists for Utah.

Michael Jordan, who has carried the Bulls to playoff victories over New York and Philadelphia teams led by Patrick Ewing and Charles Barkley, had big-man numbers in the finale against the 76ers.

Jordan had 38 points and a career-high 19 rebounds, his first double-figure rebound game in the playoffs. He also scored the Bulls' last 12 points and 25 in the second half as they broke away from a 92-92 tie.

Jordan said he took advantage of Sixers guard Hershey Hawkins' sore leg to take charge offensively and on the boards.

"It got down to where every basket counted from here on in, whoever takes it and goes to the basket," Jordan said. "At that point, execution was everything."

Barkley led the 76ers with 30 points and Armon Gilliam scored 21. Scottie Pippen scored 28 points, 24 of them in the first half.

The Bulls could wait as long as a week for the Pistons-Celtics winner, but it doesn't seem to bother them.

"I hope they just keep beating each other up," guard John Paxson said.

NHL finals open tonight

PITTSBURGH (AP) - The Pittsburgh Penguins have made a habit of living on the edge in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

They'd like to drop the habit when they drop the puck for the opening of the finals tonight against the Minnesota North Stars.

"It would be nice to win the first game for a change," said Pittsburgh coach Bob Johnson, whose team has lost every opening game in the three previous series.

The Penguins have really made things tough on themselves in the playoffs. After losing the opener of their first-round series to New Jersey and later falling behind 3-2, the Penguins came back to beat the Devils in seven games.

The Penguins lost the opener to Washington, then won four in a row to clinch the Patrick Division championship.

And after losing the first two games to Boston, the Penguins ripped off four straight to win the Wales Conference crown.

The Penguins, who are as mystified as anyone about their continual opening-game failures, know only one way to reverse it: hard work.

"We need to stay focused," said forward Kevin Stevens, along with Mark Recchi one of two 40-goal scorers on the Penguins. "We worked all our lives to get into a position where we are. It won't be tough to get the intensity going."

By the same token, the North Stars have been getting the jump in their three previous series, winning opening games against Chicago, St. Louis and Edmonton.

"Minnesota has a very good team and they have beaten three very good teams to be here," Pittsburgh center Mario Lemieux said. "They are well-coached, consistent and play very similar to Montreal with the forechecking and defensive play. They will be very tough to play against."

There's a reason the North Stars resemble the Canadiens, the most famous and successful franchise in hockey. North Stars coach Bob Gainey once captained the Canadiens and was an important factor in many of their successes.

"There was so much turmoil here that we needed to bring in someone who was strong," North Stars general manager Bobby Clarke said. "Bob Gainey gave us stability."

It took a while, though - more than half the season.

In the first half of the year, the North Stars seemed like a team bent on self-destruction. Only a strong finish saved them a berth in the playoffs. As it was, they still had the 16th-best record in the 21-team NHL.

The power play has been the North Stars' forte in the playoffs. They've got 32 power-play goals and lead all playoff teams with a 27 percent completion rate.

"I feel it is successful because of the kind of players we have and the different qualities they possess," Gainey said. "Another thing is that a good amount of them have been together for two or three years."

The North Stars' most significant asset is confidence.

They didn't have it at the start of the year, but they certainly do now after knocking off the league's top two teams - Chicago and St. Louis - and the defending Stanley Cup champion Oilers.

After that, the North Stars didn't wonder if they belonged in the Stanley Cup finals or not. And after that Chicago series, winning opening games wasn't really a problem for them anymore.

Ryan blames mechanics

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Texas Rangers ace Nolan Ryan hopes to know within 48 hours whether he will miss more than one start.

In the meantime, he'll be getting plenty of heat, ice and massage on a right shoulder strained Monday night by what he calls "poor mechanics."

"Even Betty Crocker burns a brownie every now and then," said Rangers pitching coach Tom House, who termed his star pitcher's ailment "spring training shoulder."

House said Ryan was overpitching Monday against Detroit.

The 44-year-old is expected to miss his next start on Sunday against the Boston Red Sox.

Ryan, who pitched his seventh no-hitter just 14 days ago against Toronto, left with a one-hitter in the fifth inning as the Rangers went on to an 8-1 victory over the Tigers.

Ryan called the injury a "knot" behind his shoulder and said he'll know the extent of the injury within two days.

"My attitude now is I'll know within the next 48 hours what we're dealing with," Ryan said. "I only hope to miss one start at the best."

Ryan said he started getting discomfort five days ago in a 4-2 loss to Toronto.

"Three or four times a year I experience this kind of thing and it's because of improper mechanics," Ryan said. "It's sort of like tendinitis."

Ryan had back spasms in Toronto and altered his delivery.

"It's a lesson for everybody," House said. "Even as great a pitcher as Nolan Ryan can hurt when he has bad mechanics."

Ryan has never had a major shoulder injury in his 25-year major league career. And he said Tuesday he didn't think age had anything to do with the problem.

"No, I don't think I've experienced any more problems here than throughout my career," he said.

Ryan said after he struck out former teammate Pete Incaviglia to start the fifth inning he just couldn't go on.

"I felt like I would take a chance where I'd tear it and I'd be looking at a two months recovery period," Ryan said. "I'd rather miss another start than miss an extended period of time."

It was last year that Ryan's back problems caused him to be put on the disabled list May 21. He underwent rest and therapy before being activated June 6.

He was diagnosed as having a healing stress fracture in his back. He experienced tightness but didn't miss another start and even no-hit Oakland on June 11.

Pitchers return to success

By The Associated Press
Welcome back, Pascual. You too, Mark.

And welcome back to the real Jack Morris.

The pitchers held a big edge over the hitters in the American League on Tuesday. Three reasons were Pascual Perez of the New York Yankees, Mark Gubicza of the Kansas City Royals and Minnesota's Morris.

Perez, appearing for the first time since April 25, 1990, allowed two hits in six innings as New York beat California 7-1. He had been inactive for nearly all of last season and underwent shoulder surgery in August.

"I was so excited, so nervous, but I was also very happy," Perez said. "I'm a happy guy, but I'm happiest when I'm pitching."

Gubicza couldn't have been happy with Kansas City's 4-1 loss at Toronto. But he did OK in his first start since June 29, 1990. He was recovering from arthroscopic surgery to repair a partially torn rotator cuff.

He gave up three runs on seven hits in five innings.

Morris manages to stay healthy. His pitching was kind of sickly this season, though, until Tuesday, when he pitched a two-hitter.

It was a different Morris than the Twins had seen in his first seven starts, when he compiled a 5.89 earned run average.

Rangers 5, Tigers 3
At Arlington, Rafael Palmeiro had a two-run triple in the fifth to break a 1-1 tie and Steve Buechele's homer in the sixth clinched the Rangers' victory.

Jeff Russell pitched the ninth for his seventh save.

Detroit has lost five in a row and Texas won its third straight.

The game was delayed 1 hour and 49 minutes by rain. The last time a Rangers home game was rained out was on July 2, 1989.

Twins 5, Brewers 1
At Minnesota, the fans got to see why the Twins spent $3 million to sign Morris as a free agent. Morris allowed only a pair of doubles to Jim Gantner and fanned seven.

Chili Davis hit his fourth homer in three games to power the Twins to their fourth straight victory. The Twins moved two games above .500 (17-15) for the first time this season. The Twins are 15-6 since starting the season 2-9.

Orioles 6, Athletics 1
At Baltimore, Cal Ripken continued his tear as the Orioles got four solo homers. In addition to his ninth homer, Ripken singled and walked twice, raising his batting average to .358.

Joe Orsulak, Mike Devereaux and Chris Hoiles also homered for the Orioles, who had lost 14 of their last 18 games against Oakland.

Twenty-two of Baltimore's last 23 home runs - and 25 of 34 overall - have come with the bases empty.

Mariners 2, Indians 1
At Cleveland, Brian Holman was the pitching star. He gave up one run in eight-plus innings and Alvin Davis' RBI double snapped a sixth-inning tie, barely scoring Pete O'Brien from first base.

Red Sox 4, White Sox 1
At Boston, Tom Bolton (4-0) and Jeff Reardon shut down Chicago, with Reardon earning his 11th save. The Red Sox got back on the winning track after losing two games in a row for the first time in a month.

Ready to score

A T-ball player for the Cubs seems happy to have reached third base and looks ready to score in one of several games Tuesday which opened the 1991 Kids Inc. season. The Kids Inc. program will have 38 teams this year, according to board member Jackie Murphy: 12 T-ball (9 boys' and 3 girls), four softball, eight minor league, seven major league, three Babe Ruth 13-year-old and four Babe Ruth 14-15-year-old teams.

Mulholland tops Giants again

By The Associated Press
The San Francisco Giants are making some progress against Terry Mulholland. They even had some hits this time.

Mulholland gave up eight hits and no runs in eight innings against his former team Tuesday night, leading Philadelphia past struggling San Francisco 9-0.

Mulholland, traded by the Giants to Philadelphia in 1989, pitched a no-hitter against the Giants last Aug. 15 at Veterans Stadium. He's 4-2 lifetime against San Francisco with a 1.44 ERA.

"I may get a little more competitive when I pitch against a team that has the hitters the Giants have," Mulholland said, "but I don't hold anything against them for trading me. That's just part of the business."

The way the Giants are going, they may wish they had Mulholland back. San Francisco has lost four straight games and 16 of its last 20. The Giants' 10-22 record is the worst in the major leagues.

"Mulholland pitched a great game, but everybody's been doing that against us," San Francisco manager Roger Craig said. "Nobody is swinging the bat well for us."

The Phillies scored the only run Mulholland would need in the first inning when Darrin Fletcher's second-inning double off starter Kelly

Downs (1-2) drove in Ricky Jordan, who had walked.

Reds 3, Cardinals 1

Norm Charlton (2-3) gave up one run in 7 1-3 innings as Cincinnati beat St. Louis at Busch Stadium.

The Reds entered the game trailing the major leagues with a .222 batting average, their lineup included four batters hitting .206 or less and two rookies, catcher Glenn Sutko and shortstop Freddie Benavides, with one major league at-bat between them.

Billy Hatcher was hitting .171 before getting two doubles, a single and an RBI. Hal Morris, who leads the NL with a .389 average, had two hits and an RBI.

Jaimie Moyer (0-4) took the loss.

Cubs 5, Braves 4

Andre Dawson's pinch home run with two outs in the eighth inning lifted Chicago over Atlanta at Wrigley Field.

Dawson's eighth homer of the season came on the first pitch from reliever Kent Mercker (1-2). Paul Assenmacher (1-0) worked 1 1-3 innings of scoreless relief for the victory and Dave Smith got three outs for his ninth save.

Pirates 6, Astros 3

Left-hander Zane Smith gave up two runs in 6 2-3 innings to beat Houston for the fourth straight time for visiting Pittsburgh.

Smith (5-1) last lost to Houston on April 4, 1989, and is 4-0 in seven starts against the Astros since then. He gave up seven hits before Stan Belinda worked 1 1-3 innings and Bill Landrum finished for his fifth save.

Pete Harnisch (2-2) took the loss, giving up five runs and seven hits in five innings. Bobby Bonilla had a two-run double for the Pirates and Jay Bell added two RBIs.

Mets 6, Padres 1

Hubie Brooks hit his seventh career grand slam as the Mets beat San Diego at Jack Murphy Stadium. Brooks homered off Eric Nolte (3-2) with two outs in the third inning for a 5-1 lead.

Wally Whitehurst (2-1), making his first start after three relief appearances, gave up three hits in five innings for the victory. Pete Schourek worked four innings for his second save.

Dodgers 6, Expos 2

Kevin Gross, breaking out of a slump, pitched six shutout innings to help Los Angeles beat Montreal at Dodger Stadium.

Gross (2-3) gave up two hits en route to his second straight victory.

The Dodgers took a 2-0 lead against rookie Mark Gardner (0-1) on RBI singles by Darryl Strawberry in the first inning and Eddie Murray in the third. Los Angeles pulled away with a four-run fourth.

Perot opposes change

DALLAS (AP) - Billionaire Ross Perot, the architect of the sweeping education reforms of 1984, is back at the forefront trying to keep lawmakers from eroding the gains made by the state's no-pass, no-play rule.

Both Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Gib Lewis said Tuesday they would not support any change.

In what key senators called a major retreat from the 1984 school reform law, the Senate - with the backing of Gov. Ann Richards - voted Friday to ease the no-pass, no-play rule.

The rule, which is one of the toughest such requirements in the nation, prohibits students with one or more failing grades from participating in sports and other extracurricular activities. Coaches and other critics have long complained that it is too strict.

Under current law, a student cannot participate for an entire six-week grading period after he or she has received one or more failing grades.

The shorter suspension period was approved as an amendment to an education bill that includes a series of proposed school improvements. The amendment was offered by Sen. Temple Dickson, D-Sweetwater.

The Senate-passed bill is pending in the House Public Education Committee.

Horshoeing contest set

The Tri-State Professional Horseshoers Association will have its second annual shoeing and forging contest May 17 and 18 at the Range Riders Rodeo Arena in Amarillo.

Anyone—not just professional shoers—may enter. The contest, planned to precede the Coors Ranch Rodeo, will feature live shoeing, celebrity shoeing, cowboy shoeing and an auction.

Gibson speaks to association

Kenneth Gibson, District XVI legislative chairman, was introduced as guest speaker by Larry Wartes at the recent meeting of the Hereford Retired School Employees Association.

Gibson commended the local unit for a successful and active year considering the fact that it was the first year for the unit. He brought the group up to date on the results of some of the legislative program and status of the remainder of the program.

Approximately 30 members were in attendance at the Hereford Senior Citizens for the luncheon and meeting.

Summary reports for the year's work were presented by the various committee chairmen and plans were announced for the 1991-92 year. Membership was discussed and all were urged to encourage others to join.

Plans were announced for a picnic in July when 1991 retirees will be invited as well as all eligible retirees who did not join this year.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, Sept. 9.

In 1980, Dr. Herman Tarnower, author of the "Scarsdale Diet," was shot to death at his home in Purchase, N.Y. Jean Harris was arrested and later convicted of the crime.

Combining financial lives

Bride-elects and grooms-to-be, take note: Just as communication and compromise help make romantic dreams come true, they also make it easier to realize financial dreams and goals.

When planning your wedding, don't forget the financial side of your new partnership. Openness is essential when you merge your personal and financial lives. Here are some money management tips for newlyweds:

-Work together to create a monthly budget listing income and expenses. Decide now how you will share both expenses and paperwork, and then stick with the plan. Write down our financial goals. Take note: It's important that each partner keep some accounts in his or her own name to maintain individual credit history.

Save a portion of your income on a systematic basis. In fact, mutual funds offer a convenient way of setting aside money on a regular basis. Two-income couples should strive to set aside one partner's paycheck from the time they marry.

The younger you are, the more aggressive your investments can be, in particular if they're earmarked for long-term goals. However, for older couples, especially those combining two households in a second marriage, a less aggressive approach with more conservative investments might be more appropriate.

Update your records. Make a list of records that will require name changes, beneficiary on life insurance policies, pension plans and profit sharing plans. Notify the Social Security administration of your marriage so you'll become eligible for spouse's benefits. You may be able to adjust your auto insurance policy to take advantage of more favorable rate due to your marital status. Re-evaluate your property insurance coverage.

Bippus club travels to Canyon

The Bippus Extension Homemakers Club met recently for a trip to Canyon to visit the Bed and Breakfast Hudspeth House.

The present owner told members that the house was built in 1909 and was moved in 1913 to its present location by a steam powered tractor. During the tour, members visited the Health and Fitness Spa.

The group also toured, Spanish Skirts, a gallery consisting of items of South West such as pottery, wood carving, weaving, clothing, and other items.

After a meal at the Rail Road Crossing Restaurant, members visited the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum.

The last stop of the evening was at the Dairy Queen in Hereford. The next meeting will be held in September.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: My cat gave birth to kittens a month ago and now they are getting into everything. Since they are so curious, I keep them closed in a room and am very careful not to have anything around that can hurt them.

Even though I removed what I thought was dangerous, I left an open jar on a table. Would you believe that one kitten got its head stuck inside it!

It was struggling to get out and seemed weak. After what seemed an eternity I was able to release its head from the jar. Your readers should know of the dangerous situations small kittens can get into. Their curiosity can kill them! — Alice Clayton, Tampa, Fla.

I'm so glad it was a happy ending for your little kitty. You certainly made us aware of the danger of open jars around them. — Heloise

Alexander Graham Bell made in 1876 what was, in effect, the first telephone call. His assistant, located in an adjoining room in Boston, heard Bell's voice over the experimental device say to him, "Mr. Watson, come here. I want you."
