Moslem Militia Suspected in Kidnapping of American Citizen

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A militia seeking power for Lebanon's Shiite Moslems, the country's largest religious community, is suspected of kidnapping the American president of a Beirut university.
An eyewitness to the abduction Monday reported that the gunmen who seized David Dodge, acting president of the American University of Beirut, shouted as they drove away from the university campus in embattled West Beirut that they belonged to Amal, the paramilitary arm of Lebanon's estimated million Shiites.

Unofficial sources suggested Shiite militiamen abducted Dodge to use him as a hostage for the release of Iranian diplomat Mohsen Musavi and three aides who were kidnapped in Christian East Beirut on July 4.
This theory gained support when, following the kidnapping of Dodge, Prime Minister Shafik Wazzan ordered police to intensify their search for Musavi.

West Beirut, where the American University is located, is under the control of an estimated 8,000 Palestinian guerrillas and Lebanese leftist militias. The entire district is encircled by Israeli forces.

An aide said Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat had ordered the PLO's security apparatus to join the hunt for Dodge. He said Arafat was particularly upset because the kidnapping occurred on the eve of crucial talks in Washington between U.S. officials and the foreign ministers of Saudi Arabia and Syria in an effort to extricate the PLO guerrillas from West Beirut.
Although now Lebanon's largest religious community, Lebanon's estimated million Shiites have always been at the bottom of the social and political ladder, and in the division of power between the Christians and Moslems, the Moslem spoils have always gone to the Sunnis and the Druzes.
Amal, Arabic for hope, has acted as both a political party and a private army since it was founded during the 1975-76 Lebanese civil war by an Iranian-born mullah who became the leader of the Lebanese Shiites, Imam Musa Sadr. Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's fundamentalist Shiite regime in Iran is believed to be the main outside source of support for Amal.

The organization has been implicated in seven hijackings and attempted hijackings since 1980, most of them to protest the disappearance of Sadr during a trip to Libya in 1978.
Shiites with ties to Amal also were responsible for the kidnapping Feb. 18 of U.S. oil executive Thomas E. Anderson of Norwalk, Conn., and the Lebanese general manager of his company's refinery in South Lebanon. They were held for seven hours at the home of a regional Amal commander near the refinery, and Anderson said their captors claimed not enough Shiites were being employed in the oil industry.

Dodge, a Beirut-born American citizen who for three decades has been working in Lebanon in the oil industry and on the American University staff, is the son of a former president of the institution, Bayard Dodge, and a grandson of Daniel Bliss, the Presbyterian missionary who founded the university in 1866.

Clements to Consider Stay for Rumbaugh

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements will consider a 30-day stay of execution for a Texas death row inmate who — at his own request — is scheduled to die by lethal injection Thursday, the governor's press secretary said.
The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals and a state district judge in Amarillo refused Monday to give Charles F. Rumbaugh the 30-day stay requested by his parents.

Rumbaugh, 25, would be the first Texas inmate to be executed since July 1964 if his execution goes off as scheduled at midnight Thursday.
However, Clements today will consider granting the 30-day stay that "is traditionally issued," said Press Secretary Jon Ford.
Rumbaugh, who ordered his attorney to end all appeals and asked a state district judge to schedule his execution, has not asked the governor for a stay.

But Ford said although Clements has never done so, he has the authority to grant one stay on his own initiative.
Lawyers for Rumbaugh's parents, Harvey and Rebecca Rumbaugh of San Angelo, Texas, and the Texas Civil Liberties Union plan to file additional requests for a stay with a federal judge in Amarillo or Houston, TCLU Assistant Director Dorothy Vance said Monday.
D.J. Day-Stubben, a friend who Rumbaugh asked to witness his execution, said Monday that Rumbaugh's parents wrongly "think they're doing him a favor" by asking for the stay.
Day-Stubben wrote a book about Rumbaugh and accompanied him to a June 21 hearing at which Randall County District Judge George E. Dowlen set the execution date

7 Killed, 36 Wounded

Bombs Shatter London

LONDON (AP) — Bombs exploded in two London parks today, killing seven people and wounding 36 others, police said. The IRA claimed responsibility for one blast — a car bomb that went off in Hyde Park as Queen Elizabeth II's Household Cavalry rode to a changing of the guard ceremony.
Two soldiers were killed in the Hyde Park bombing, police said. The other bomb exploded at a bandstand where a military band was playing in Regent's Park, killing five people, police said.
Scotland Yard said its earlier report that a third bomb went off was erroneous.

"There were soldiers lying there with all their intestines out," Miriam Sheridan, a witness to the Regent's Park bombing, said. "There was such a tremendous crash I couldn't believe it."
A witness to the Hyde Park bombing said: "Horses were literally thrown in the air and there were injured lying all over the place. "There was blood everywhere. It was terrible."
The blast occurred a half-mile from Buckingham Palace while the queen was in residence, palace spokeswoman Ann Neill said. She said the explosion shook the palace windows.

The bomb went off at 11 a.m. (6 a.m. EDT) in a parked car a few yards from the passing cavalry on their way to change the guard at Horse Guards military parade grounds, Scotland Yard spokesman Chester Stern said.
The site, in one of London's most exclusive areas, was littered with the carnage of seven dead horses, some of which had been destroyed at the scene. The horses were covered by brown, white and blue blankets.
The Irish Republican Army claimed responsibility in a statement.
Patrick Moran, a 16-year-old carpenter, said he rushed to the park after hearing the explosion.
"I could see six to seven horses piled on top of each other, bleeding badly," he said.

"I could see one man with a leg hanging off, and as I walked on further there were soldiers lying on the ground shocked and stunned and covered in blood," Moran said.
"I heard a terrific bang and thought at first it was Concorde's sonic boom," said David Stevenat, 19. "As I rushed up, I saw blood all over the sidewalk and the cavalry officers had blood up to their elbows."
"A few of them were crying..."
The bomb went off in a car parked by a road known as Rotten Row on the Knightsbridge Road side of the 361-acre park. It shattered windows in nearby buildings, scattering debris over the area.

Police cordoned the park and blocked some entrances to keep back crowds of onlookers, as police vehicles escorted ambulances to hospitals.
The outlawed Irish Republican Army has said it was responsible for the most recent bombing attacks in London — a string of explosions last year that followed the collapse of an IRA hunger

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says being modest is the art of encouraging people to find out what you're being modest about.

Character is what you are in the dark. — Dwight Moody.
Hereford High School's new band director, Johnny Martinez, is a graduate of Texas A&I — not A&M as the article reported in Sunday's Brand. Sorry about that typo!
Martinez will soon be announcing the schedule for practice sessions for the Mighty Maroon Band.

The annual issue of "Texas Football", one of the most popular gridiron preview books, is on the news-stands and it picks Plainview as the favorite in 3-A-A-A-A.
With the two districts combining, the article states that the two 1981 champs — Hereford and Palo Duro — will probably be overtaken by the Plainview Bulldogs this season. Plainview has 15 lettermen, with 5 starters including quarterback Steve George, the former Hereford athlete.
The article points out that Palo Duro was only 5-5-1 last year, but four of the losses were to playoff teams and the Dons have 16 lettermen — including 3 offensive and 4 defensive starters returning.
The paragraph on Hereford shows just 2 starters on offense and defense. "Coach Don Cumpton will rely on center Tim Martin (6-0, 200) and guard Mark Collier to lead the way for quick, flashy RB Alfred Ball (5-9, 155)" reports the magazine.
It adds the defensive load will fall on LB Fredy Garcia and safety Charles McDowell, and kicker Raymond Martinez also playing a key role. Runners Glen Phipps and Martinez will share the ball-carrying chores with Ball.
The Whitefaces open the season at home against Pampa on Sept. 3. The Herd goes to Canyon the next week, then the remainder of the games will be in district play in the expanded district. Both the first and second-place teams will advance into the playoffs this season.

City Suit Close To Settlement

Litigation over a civil defense system purchased by the city 10 years ago could be on the edge of settlement out of court, says Ernest Langley, city attorney.

Langley told city commissioners Monday night that the $100,000 lawsuit against Motorola had finally "gotten attention at a high enough level to do something about it" and two attorneys would be in Hereford Friday to discuss a settlement.

Rosary Set For Accident Victim

Rosary will be read at 8 p.m. today at San Jose Catholic Church for Moyce Lamas, 19, who was killed Sunday when he fell from a jump seat in the rear of a small roadster. The accident occurred about one block west of the San Jose Mission in the Labor Camp.
The automobile was described as a 1923 Ford "T-bucket" convertible that had been modified. It was driven by Fred Robles, 35. No charges are expected to be filed, according to a Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department spokesman, as the roadster was not traveling "too fast" when the accident occurred.
Mr. Lamas did not regain consciousness after the accident, officials said. He was pronounced dead at about 10 p.m. Sunday by Justice of the Peace O.K. Neal.

Mass will be celebrated at 2 p.m. Wednesday at San Jose Catholic Church with Father James O'Conner officiating. Burial will be in St. Anthony's Catholic Cemetery under the direction of Rix Funeral Directors.
Born July 21, 1962, in Hereford, Mr. Lamas was a farm laborer and a lifelong Hereford resident. He was a member of San Jose Catholic Church.
Survivors include his wife, Minerva; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emiliano Lamas of Hereford; four sisters, Juanita Guerrero, Antonio Almandarez, Maria Lamas and Nelda Lamas, all of Hereford; and four brothers, Thomas and Adan, both of Hereford, Steve of Houston, and Santos of Phoenix, Ariz.

Motorola, Langley said, had made some offers to replace the system or compensate with other radio equipment through the years, but the city did not agree. A court settlement is pending on a fall or early spring docket if an out of court agreement is not reached.
The city is suing for the cost of the malfunctioning merchandise and the percent of inflation on the purchase of a new system.
In other action the commissioners accepted a single bid submitted by Plains Machinery Company of Amarillo for a crawler dozer to be used at the city dump. The dozer will cost $20,000 with trade-in on the city's old machine.
Authorization to open for bids on five police patrol cars was approved.

Alexander Involved In Summer Science Program

This summer, Paula E. Alexander of Hereford is getting an inside look at cancer research underway at The University of Texas M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston.

The 16-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Earl G. Alexander is participating in the Carl B. and Florence E. King Foundation High School Summer Program in the Biomedical Sciences. The program gives outstanding Texas science students an opportunity to work in a cancer research setting.

The summer program, which began in 1961, now is totally supported by an endowment from the King Foundation of Dallas.

Alexander is one of 22 students selected for the program this year from a field of 350 applicants from across the state. The applicants were high school graduates recommended by their high school counselors.

Selections were based on academic performance in high school, pre-college testing scores, letters of recommendation and personal letters of interest.

For eight weeks this summer, June 7 through July 30, the students set up research projects under the supervision of full-time members of M.D. Anderson's research staff. Alexander is working in the Department of Physics under the supervision of Dr. Arthur Cole.

"The end of the senior year of high school is a very strategic time in a student's career planning. Most of the students we see are interested in becoming physicians, but have very little knowledge concerning research-related careers," Dr. Michael J. Ahearn, director of the summer program, says. "This program gives these students the opportunity to see what is involved in biomedical research."

Alexander wants to become a doctor and eventually a medical missionary. She will attend Baylor University this fall where she will major in biology. She holds a National Merit Scholarship.

Alexander is a graduate of Hereford High School where she was the valedictorian of her class, a National Merit Scholar, a Presidential Scholar Finalist, recipient of the Biology II award and a member of the National Honor Society.

She played in the orchestra and was drum major for the band. She was also a member of the math and science team, the speech team and the Forensics League.

Summer Program

Paula Alexander, a recent HHS graduate, views DNA through an electron microscope at The University of Texas M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston, where she is studying cancer research under the direction of her sponsor, Dr. Arthur Cole. The program, which is for outstanding science students, began June 7 and concludes July 30.

Good Timers Enjoy Square Dance Friday

Richard Olson of Portales was caller for the Good Timers Square Dance Club Friday evening at their regular dance. Living up to their club name, dancers had an especially "good time" as they welcomed visitors from Dimmitt, Portales, and Hereford.

Melba Ogle, a visitor from Portales, won the door prize at the close of the dance.

President Gid Brown reminded members of the dance Aug. 9, with Vern Weese of Houston calling. Members were also encouraged to visit Muleshoe July 22 for their graduation dance. James Pettus of Portales will be calling.

Other dances coming up this month include the street dance at Hart on July 24, with Bob Graham of Clovis as caller; and a dance at Canyon on July 31, with Chris Vear of Austin calling.

The Good Timers' next dance will be July 30, with new officers being installed. This dance will be held at the fellowship hall of the First United Methodist Church, with Ronnie Woods of Amarillo calling.

The 1982-83 yearbook was approved, as well as the 1982-83 budget. A scholarship committee was appointed with Mrs. H.R. Cocanougher as chairman, assisted by Mrs. Ed Lemons and Mrs. O.G. Hill, Sr.

Mrs. Ra Hansen of Winter Springs, Fla., daughter of Mrs. Ray Johnson, was welcomed as a guest.

Members present were Mmes. Alfred Smith, Hill, Bernie Riley, R.L. Wilson, Jack Wilcox, Dale Garner, R.W. Mitchell, Lemons, Johnson, and Cocanougher.

The next meeting will be at 2 p.m. on Sept. 10 in the Hereford Garden Center.

Around Town

Mrs. Ray Johnson recently returned from a four-week bus tour sponsored by the Texas Daylilies Society. She was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Ra Hansen of Winter Springs, Fla., who served as flower show and garden judge at the National Daylilies Convention in San Diego, Calif.

In addition to attending the convention, the group toured points of interest in Arizona, Nevada, California, Oregon, Washington, and British Columbia, returning by way of Montana, Wyoming, and Colorado.

Mrs. Hansen is staying with her mother in Hereford ten days before returning to Florida.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

I hate to say I told you so, but remember how I always warned, "Never turn your back on a two-year-old?"

Well, several stories recently have given rise to some concern about the increase in juvenile crimes.

There was a pre-teen who was hauled into court and legally charged with assault on a playmate. Then there was the seven-year-old in Los Angeles who was tried for arson.

A 12-year-old in Marlborough, Mass., made the Most Wanted List and even had a warrant out for her arrest for not returning books and records to the local library. (She said her house burnt down and she no longer had them. See paragraph above.)

How far down is the cut? All the way down to a four-year-old boy in Philadelphia who had to appear in municipal court on charges of dumping five bags of trash - all bigger than he was - outside rather than inside a city incinerator plant.

He went to court and got off only after his parents testified they couldn't possibly pin a littering rap on their son because he was in a day nursery center all the time. (They all say that.)

How many times do I have to tell you, children are not little bundles of innocence. They're lumps of larceny jammed into small adorable bodies.

Why, there isn't a three-year-old alive who can't break and enter a house without a key and set off the most sophisticated alarm system ever devised.

When they are made to do something they don't want to do (go to bed, take a bath, smile) they have the strength of 5,000 camels.

Children have always been quick to learn how the system works. My children never even saw "The Godfather." Yet instinctively one night my son marched into the middle of a party in his jammies, kissed me on both cheeks and said, "The five big ones you borrowed from my paper route savings? Get it back by Wednesday or I work Grandma over."

I suppose experts are already trying to figure out why so many youngsters are involved with the law. Some will blame television, others will finger parents who are shirking responsibilities. Me? I believe the potential was there all the time. And I'll sleep better knowing the law is finally on our side.

Ann Landers

Lay Off Punishment

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Three years ago my wife became depressed and retreated back into her college environment. She spent a great deal of time with a male student who took her mind off her small children and the day-to-day problems of marriage.

An intellectual friendship blossomed into a full-blown affair. As you know, a common interest in sex and English literature is not a solid basis for a lasting relationship. Eventually it ended.

I found out about the affair a few months ago and it is tearing me apart. Besides being deeply hurt, I can no longer trust my wife, especially when she is out with her college-age friends. Yet, I still love her and do not want a separation or divorce.

Please tell me what I can do to get her to talk about the affair. She refuses to discuss it, and it drives me crazy. All I can get out of her is, "You were too wrapped up in your work to notice that I needed attention. So I found it elsewhere. (This could be true.) Can you help? - No Name, No Town.

DEAR N.N.N.T.: Obviously, you have a need to punish your wife, which is what you are attempting to do by forcing her to give you chapter and verse on her past sins. My advice is lay off and get some counseling. If you want to keep your marriage together, as you claim, upload your rage on a professional and stop pressuring your wife to talk about something that is very painful.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I put a great deal of effort and money into the weddings of our children. We enjoyed making them joyous and festive. Before each wedding we told each other, "This is something we do only once, so let's go all-out."

We never dreamed it would happen, but our son was divorced and is planning to remarry. What are our obligations for his second wedding? We don't wish to go to a great deal of expense again, yet we don't want to be unfair to our future daughter-in-law. We haven't discussed this with our son yet, because we don't know what to do. Please advise - Second Time Around In Greensboro, N.C.

DEAR SECOND TIME: Did you say SON? You are under no obligation to give a first wedding for a son, much less a second.

These days, when nearly half of all marriages end in divorce, I am often asked what to do about second and third marriages of daughters. My answer: If you've given one bash, that's enough. Repeat performances should be low-key, small and unostentatious.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This may seem like a petty complaint but it bugs me like crazy.

I am thoroughly fed up seeing gourmet cooks and food experts on TV who are loaded with jewelry. This morning one had three rings on one hand, a bunch of bracelets with charms dangling and a heavy gold wristwatch.

My mother, grandmother and three of my aunts are excellent cooks. Not one of them wears jewelry of any kind while preparing food. A really first-rate cook or pastry chef will tell you that jewelry gets in the way. Do you have any thoughts on the subject, or am I just nuts? - Wausau, Wis.

DEAR WIS.: I haven't done any serious cooking or baking for a long time, but I always took off my jewelry before I went into the kitchen. Most cooks wash their hands frequently, and rings, watches and bracelets are a nuisance.

At times the Renaissance painter Raphael had 50 assistant painters and craftsmen working from his designs.

The first unit of Roy Tolk Station, Southwestern Public Service Company's new coal-fired generating plant near Muleshoe, Texas, will begin manufacturing electricity this month. The unit has the capacity to generate 561,000 kilowatts of electric power—it's Southwestern's largest. A second unit, the same size as the first, is being built next to the one which will be fired up this month. The units cost more than $200 million apiece. They can each provide enough electricity to supply a city of 225,000 people.

Tolk Station will burn coal — ground as fine as talcum powder — to produce electricity. The coal SPS uses comes from mines near Gillette, Wyoming. It is a low-sulfur coal. Tolk Station Unit No. 1 will burn approximately 315 tons of coal per hour. That's about 7,560 tons per day. The coal is delivered by 110-car trains directly from the Wyoming mines. Coal-fired plants are significantly more economical to operate than natural gas-fired plants.

Morris Rantz, Fuel Administration Manager, Amarillo.

The "stack" at Tolk Station is 400 feet high. The "smoke" it emits, however, is "smokeless." Although burning coal naturally produces "smoke" (flue gas and fly ash), our state-of-the-art environmental protection equipment cleans up the emissions long before they get into the air. The protection system, called a baghouse, contains 13,000 fiberglass bags. They filter the boiler's emissions and remove the ash residues, making the coal "smokeless."

Knowing what electricity is worth is worth knowing. For answers to your questions, call or write your SPS manager.
