Hospital board approves room programBY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

John Perrin was elected as board president and Merle Clark and Paul Abalos were welcomed as new members during a regular monthly meeting of Deaf Smith County Hospital District directors Tuesday night.

Abalos and Clark joined reelected directors Perrin and Boyd Foster in taking the oath of office, which was administered by County Clerk David Ruland. Mal Manchec was elected as vice president and Foster was reelected as secretary.

The board approved an Adopt-A-Room program proposed by Administrator Ron Rives, agreed that Rives should pursue a longrange physician recruitment proposal, and that a plan to affiliate with a preferred provider organization be considered at the next board meeting.

Directors also reviewed the financial report, presented by controller Paul Fowler, and heard a report by Ron Walton on changes being made in the business office. Dr. Jesse Perales, chief of staff, reported on the monthly staff meeting. Rives reported on the hospital's Health Fair, which was conducted Saturday to climax Hospital Week, and reported the ValuCare program has been initiated with about 150 members already enrolled.

While the hospital is embarking on a room-renovation program, Rives proposed that families, organizations and groups, and companies be offered the opportunity to "Adopt a Room." One room has been completely redone, including furniture, at a cost of about $6,000. Directors inspected the room Tuesday night.

Rives said a visitor at the Health Fair asked if the rate would be higher on the redecorated rooms. "No, we're just trying to bring the room up to the current price," he told the visitor. To be cost effective and cause less confusion, Rives said the hospital plans to do a wing of rooms at a time.

Rives reported that a physician will be visiting here Thursday with the medical staff, physician recruitment task force members and other community leaders. The female doctor is a board certified family practice physician from Michigan.

The administrator also proposed starting negotiations with three doctors now serving internships. The plan would include paying the doctors some type of stipend while they are finishing their internships, and they would come to Hereford for a minimum two-year period. While it would be two and three years away before they came, the cost would be no more than paying a recruitment firm. The task force approved the idea, and the board agreed that the plan should be pursued.

The operations report for April showed a loss of $209,336. Tax revenue and other non-operating funds decreased the loss to $148,813. Fowler reported that third-party contractuals distorted the statement to some extent, and it was planned to average out the contractuals in the future.

The operational loss for the year to date (7 months) was $635,738. However, a gain of $865,603 is reflected after taxes and other revenue are added to the totals. This compares to a gain of $23,406 a year ago.

Statistics showed a total of 136 patients admitted in April, of which 33 were newborn infants. The hospital has recorded 168 births this fiscal year, compared to 150 this time one year ago. The average daily census is only 9.6 for adults and children and 2.2 for newborns.

Raymond Schroeder, outgoing president, presented plaques of appreciation to Craig Smith and Dr. Stan Fry Jr. for their service on the board. They did not seek reelection this year.

All directors were present for the meeting - Schroeder, Perrin, Foster, Manchec, Abalos, Clark and Dr. Robert Bidwell. Also attending were Smith, Fry, Fowler, Walton, Dr. Perales, Peggy Fox, administrative secretary; Ray Mason, Lubbock Methodist Hospital; Margie Daniels and Speedy Nieman.

Hospital directors take oath

Two new board members and two incumbents took the oath of office, administered by County Clerk David Ruland, at the beginning of the Deaf Smith County Hospital District board meeting here Tuesday night. The four directors are, left to right, Paul Abalos, John Perrin, Merle Clark and Boyd Foster. Retiring directors Craig Smith and Dr. Stan Fry Jr. were presented plaques of appreciation.

Kickoff parties planned for lottery

AUSTIN (AP) - Fourteen kickoff parties across the state are planned the night before the Texas Lottery sells its first tickets, Comptroller John Sharp announced today.

"This party will be just like the lottery. It'll be fun and open to everyone. Admission will be free and so will the thousands of Texas Lottery tickets we'll give away," Sharp said.

The first lottery tickets are scheduled to go on sale at 6 a.m. May 29.

Sharp said the May 28 events will offer party-goers a preview of the instant-win game that will mark Texas' first venture into a state-run lottery.

Lottery parties are scheduled for 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. at Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston, Amarillo, Austin, Beaumont, Corpus Christi, El Paso, Laredo, Lubbock, Midland, McAllen, San Antonio, Tyler and Waco.

Entertainers and musicians will perform at each of the sites. There will be lottery giveaways, including T-shirts, caps, ticket scratchers and one free lottery ticket for everyone over age 18, the comptroller said.

"We aren't holding one exclusive, high-society event because we want to make sure that everyone, everywhere in Texas has a chance to join in the fun," Sharp said.

"The people of Texas overwhelmingly supported the Texas Lottery, and they deserve a good party to get it off to a great start," he said.

After years of rejecting it, the Legislature last year approved the state-run gambling game. Voters in November overwhelmingly ratified a constitutional amendment to allow it.

In the instant-win game beginning next week, players scratch a latex covering off six stars. If three prizes match, they can win from $2 to $10,000 or a chance for a $1 million prize drawing. The first of 12 big-money drawings is to be held June 18.

Your next president may be...An AP News Analysis
By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - If you don't like the ring of President Ross Perot, how does President Robert C. Byrd sound to you?

President Robert C. Byrd? It's farfetched, but it's one analyst's hypothesis on where a Perot candidacy could lead in the event of electoral gridlock.

"It's unlikely, but not impossible," says California political scientist Jack Pitney. "It could happen."

Could it?

"With the emergence of Ross Perot as a viable, well-financed, third-party candidate, a number of troubling scenarios could become real possibilities," says Rep. Dan Glickman, D-Kan., who suggested that a "constitutional crisis" may develop this fall.

As Perot's strength grows, so do chances that the next president will be picked not by voters but by the House of Representatives. Or, of course, even that Perot will win outright - a possibility not lost on strategists for either party.

Forcing the election into the House could produce one of the supreme ironies of modern American politics - given that voter distrust of Congress and other institutions is fueling Perot's still-undeclared independent bid.

A Perot victory in California (54 electoral votes) and Texas (32) probably would give him enough to deny President Bush or expected Democratic nominee Bill Clinton the ability to collect the 270 votes needed for election. Polls show Perot is ahead in both states.

Sen. Robert Byrd
D-W.Va.

In the current House, Democrats control 32 delegations, Republicans control 10 and eight are evenly divided. The remaining delegation, Vermont, is controlled by Rep. Bernie Sanders, who is independent.

The breakdown suggests a party-line vote might give the election to the Democratic nominee, presumably Clinton. But it isn't that simple.

For one thing, the current House isn't the one that would vote - it would be the new House, elected in November. Balloting would take place between Jan. 6 and Jan. 20.

The new Senate would pick the vice president in a similar fashion.

Pitney, a political scientist at Claremont McKenna College in California and former researcher for the Republican National Committee, says a House deadlock - even a temporary one - is a distinct possibility on such a politically difficult question.

Likewise, the Senate could deadlock on selecting a vice president.

In that case, an acting president would have to be selected from the constitutional line of succession until the deadlocks were resolved - first the House speaker, then the Senate president pro tem, then on through the current Cabinet.

Here's where Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., comes in. He is currently Senate president pro tem.

Pitney speculated the House speaker would decline the honor because it would mean he would have to resign from the House, "an unappealing prospect, especially if the acting presidency lasted only a short time."

On the other hand, he suggested that Byrd, who has already served as Senate majority leader and has represented West Virginia for 40 years in Congress, might see things differently.

"He might decide that as acting president, he could do a great deal of good for West Virginia in a very short span of time, so he might take the job even at the expense of his Senate seat."

Boll Weevils make new appearance

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Boll Weevils are back.

A decade after helping President Reagan enact his economic agenda, the House's conservative Democrats are again threatening their party leadership's control of tax and spending legislation.

Their push for a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget is only the latest dollars-and-cents issue this year in which they have thumbed their noses at Speaker Thomas S. Foley and other majority chiefs.

"It's not our fault if they're embarrassed," says the leader of the rebel conservatives, Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Texas. "We're working within the party to help create a winning game plan."

Sharp cuts in President Bush's defense budget, shifts of military dollars to social programs, tax cuts for the lower and middle classes paid for by tax increases on the rich - Democratic priorities all. And all have gone down in flames despite the party's control of both houses of Congress.

Democrats have had a difficult time on each of those issues in the Senate. That is expected: that chamber tends to be more conservative than the House and Senate Democrats have a smaller majority. But this year, Democratic leaders have found the House to be just as unruly, despite their 268-166 advantage over Republicans. There is one independent.

"We disagree on some things, but a member does what he thinks is in the interest of the country," Foley, D-Wash., said Tuesday when asked about Stenholm and his compatriots.

Stenholm, was a leader of the group when it bolted from then-Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and then-Majority Leader Jim Wright in the Reagan administration's early years. By allying themselves with Republicans and ever-shifting groups of other Democrats, they now are helping blunt their party's efforts to stick it to Bush in this election year.

"On economic issues, the Boll Weevils have clearly become the focal point of most of their party's economic activities," says Stanley Collender, who monitors budget issues for the accounting firm Price Waterhouse.

Those efforts are not finished. Besides the balanced budget amendment, the ornery conservatives also will have a voice in the shaping of an urban aid package, which Democrats are making a major issue following the Los Angeles riots.

Stenholm's group has abandoned the name Boll Weevils, the tiny beetle that devours cotton plants. The press named the group a decade ago because so many members were southerners.

Now they go by the less colorful Conservative Democratic Forum, and there are 59 of them, including 43 from southern states. Members range from a freshman New Englander, Rep. Dick Swett of New Hampshire, to crusty veteran Rep. G.V. Sonny Montgomery of Mississippi.

Their influence is diminished from the early 1980s, when Republicans had a majority in the Senate and could control the House by uniting with the Boll Weevils. Today, Democrats have the Senate and a much wider House majority than they did a decade ago.

But the conservatives do join with other disaffected Democrats, who vary by issue, to defeat some leadership initiatives.

Perot looking more and more like candidate

DALLAS (AP) - Though Texas billionaire Ross Perot and his aides are reluctant to admit it, his not-yet presidential campaign is changing into one.

Less than three weeks into spacious new quarters, many of the volunteers who began staffing Perot's toll-free hotline in early March are moving on to new tasks.

There's now a second phone bank to canvass organizations and, potentially, voters for input on issues. County precincts in a few states are being divided for get-out-the-vote drives. And plans are being made for the Perot-gram, a telegram questionnaire that volunteers say will be available in malls and public gathering spots this summer.

"It's like driving down the highway at 90 mph while still learning to drive," volunteer Jim Bracey said.

A few volunteers were hired last week to keep the phone efforts coordinated.

Perot's budding team of professionals works nearby, in a part of the building restricted to volunteers and visitors.

Led by Tom Luce, a Dallas attorney who is a longtime Perot associate and ran for Texas governor as a Republican in 1990, the inside group is small and politically diverse.

"What I'm doing is attempting to have the ability to put together ... a campaign organization in the event he decides to run," Luce told The Dallas Morning News.

That remains the official line from Perot's news media representatives too. But winks, grins and the buzz among the volunteers, who number more than 1,000 at the headquarters, signal a Perot candidacy is all but certain.

"We are moving from a petition drive to a national campaign," said Michael McGinty, who made a delivery to Perot's real estate office five weeks ago, stopped to see the phone bank and has volunteered fulltime since.

A receptionist, pausing from a Time magazine cover story about Perot, told visitors from Indiana on Monday that the office was his national campaign headquarters.

Perot even hinted at the likelihood, not only of a race but a victory, in Austin last week when he turned in petitions to place his name on the Texas ballot. "Keep in mind, the hard part starts after November," he said.

But the transition Perot is now making from political phenomenon to full-fledged candidate isn't an easy one. Two weeks into a self-imposed hiatus to study issues, Perot has said they are more important to reporters than his supporters.

"The volunteers said, 'We're not interested in detailed positions. Everybody has detailed positions. Nobody implements them,'" Perot told NBC Monday.

Perot attributes his high poll showings to voter discontent with the political parties. His image as get-it-done businessman has also helped, experts and political party pros have said. But it may not get him elected once he begins to take specific stands that are likely to alienate some supporters.

Several callers to Perot's hotline said they were anxious to hear more about the direction he'd take the country.

"He hasn't spoke on the issues," said Karyl Wood of Little Rock, Ark. "That's one of the things I'm waiting for. Everyone is at this point."

Despite the lack of specifics, Ms. Wood said she'd support Perot if the election was today. "He's another Sam Walton," she said, referring to the recently deceased Arkansas businessman who built Wal-Mart.

"I think he would have to look at issues," said Phyllis Mueller, a Los Angeles businesswoman. "I wouldn't expect him to make snap judgments though."

Two weeks ago, John White, a Carter administration veteran and Kodak executive, signed on as issues director.

He enlisted the volunteers last week to call more than 1,000 organizations - from insurance brokers to astronomers to religious groups - and ask them to write Perot about what national issues were important and where they stood on them. The responses are just starting to come in.

DAR chapter given special recognition

The Los Ciboleros Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution received several awards during the Texas State Conference of DAR which was attended by three Hereford members, Charlotte Clark, Juanita Brown and Ruth Knox. The women reported on the conference during the chapter's annual May luncheon held May 14 at Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Clark received a citation in recognition of her leadership and outstanding service to TSDAR while serving as chapter regent. The Los Ciboleros Chapter received certificates of merit for American History Month publicity, DAR School Enrichment, DAR School Red Apple Award for initiating the DAR School Minute, for excellence in library work, and a NSDAR citation for outstanding accomplishments in attaining honor roll, honorable mention 1991-92.

Chairman of the National Defense Committee Ruth Knox gave her committee's report reading an article from the DAR National Defense Report by Phillip C. Clarke titled "Our Need for Heroes." Retired Army General Walter Ulmer Jr. was quoted, "But when you destroy heroes, you remove some of the underpinnings of a people's willingness to achieve and to sacrifice for those ideals that heroes represent." It was noted that young people need more than "pop" culture figures to emulate.

During the business meeting, chapter members voted to send money to Berry College as a memorial to Joan Euler who recently died.

Regent Clark opened the meeting with the DAR Ritual, aided by Chaplain Ruth Knox. The pledge to the flag of the United States was led by Mary Williamson and Helen Rose led the reading of the American's Creed. The singing of "America" was led by Leta Kaul and Clark led the reading of the Preamble to the Constitution of the United States of America.

The luncheon was catered by the hospital's dietetic staff. The meal consisted of chunk fruit chicken salad and fresh pineapple slices, seasoned mandarin vegetables, fruit salad, mango, kiwi, bananas, cantaloupe, spaghetti squash, blueberry muffins and Bavarian cream with strawberry sauce.

Those present were Charlotte Clark, Helen Rose, Juanita Brown, Ruth Knox, Leta Kaul, Mary Williamson, Leesa Clark, Margaret Ann Durham, Ruth Fish, Margaret Bell, Ruth Newsom, Lois Gilliland, Patricia Robinson and guest, Kathy Feller.

Kingdom Seekers elect new officers during meeting

New officers were elected recently by members of the Kingdom Seekers Sunday School Class of Avenue Baptist Church. Nancy Duncan was hostess.

Serving as president will be Erma Bain; vice president, Ruby Skelton; secretary, Dorothy Sargent; treasurer, Velma Carroll; reporter, Trudie Gray; outreach leader, Wilma Bryan; and social chairman, Nancy Duncan. Teacher Pauline Landers will be assisted by Erma Bain and Fannie Townsend. Roll call was answered with "What I do when I do to suit myself." The hostess gave a reading entitled "A Mother's Kind of Love."

Landers brought a devotional taken from Revelations, the scripture which is currently being studied in the class.

The meeting was closed with a friendship circle singing, "Blest Be The Tie." Nine members were present.

Wildflowers topic of sorority meeting

Connie Matthews presented a program on wildflowers when members of Xi Epsilon Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority met recently at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center.

Matthews explained that a wildflower is a flower that will reproduce without help from humans. There are six types of wildflowers: Dessert, field, wetland, woodland, alpine and roadside wildflowers. Most of these are not native to the land but were brought in by settlers and explorers. Texans are most familiar with the bluebonnets and Indian paintbrush wildflowers that dot the highways of the state. Other wildflowers common in the United States are buttercups, daisies, lilies, mint, pink rose, wild flax and black eyed Susans. Following the program, the speaker led a tour of the wildflowers growing at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame.

President Holly Bixler conducted the business meeting. Melinda Henson took roll and read the minutes of the previous meeting which were approved.

Thank yous were heard from Bixler, Denise Hafliger, Susan Cardinal, Deann Harris, Peggy Hyer, Carol Kelley, Marge Bell, Dona Hendrickson, Henson, Gaye Reily, Danell Culp, Kay Williams, Matthews, Linda Arellano, Sharon Bodner, Ruby Sanders and Susan Shaw.

Arellano, service co-chairman, reminded members to visit Billie Brown and new council members were reminded of a salad supper.

Members signed up for program topics for the 1992-93 club year. Scrapbook chairman, Denise Hafliger, took pictures and told her committee that she would call them with a meeting time.

Bixler conducted the installation of officers for the new club year and newly installed President Kay Williams distributed a sign-up sheet for committees.

A birthday party is planned at 7 p.m. today at the home of Susan Shaw. Dinner will be served and secret sisters will be revealed.

Sharon Bodner and Connie Matthews, hostesses, served cheesecake and iced tea to those who recited the opening ritual: Linda Arellano, Marge Bell, Holly Bixler, Dalene Burns, Susan Cardinal, Danell Culp, Denise Hafliger, Deann Harris, Dona Hendrickson, Melinda Henson, Peggy Hyer, Carol Kelley, Ruby Lee, Gaye Reily, Ruby Sanders, Susan Shaw and Kay Williams.

Class reunion planned

The Hereford High School graduating class of 1942 will have its class reunion Saturday, May 23.

Special seating arrangements for the class have been made during the Pioneer Day Celebration at noon May 23 at the Bull Barn. There is also a dinner planned that day at 7 p.m. at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center.

NEW YORK (AP) - Moviemaker Spike Lee says he went hat in hand to some wealthy and prominent blacks to finish his film about Malcolm X.

The donors include Bill Cosby, Oprah Winfrey, Janet Jackson, Prince, Michael Jordan and Magic Johnson, Lee said Tuesday.

"The amount is secret," he said at a news conference to observe the 67th anniversary of the slain Black Muslim leader's birth. "The most important thing is that some black folks with money got together and came to the rescue."

The more than three-hour epic ran $5 million over budget earlier this year, prompting a bonding company to seize control of production. Lee said he used the donations for post-production work. The film opens in November.

Design your diamond ring

Here's some sparkling news about diamonds that may surprise you. About 76 percent of all brides in the U.S. received a diamond engagement ring in 1990 and 82% of first-time brides did.

"When you buy an unmounted diamond," says Lloyd Jaffe, chairman of the American Diamond Industry Association (ADIA), "you can make that ring 'uniquely yours' by helping to create a setting of your own design, embodying your own taste."

If you are interested in loose diamonds, it is best to consult your jeweler. Most jewelers can secure loose stones for you to review if they are no on hand.

"What are the advantages of buying loose stones?" asks Jaffe. "First, you have the opportunity to design your own diamond jewelry—a truly unique piece which will reflect your own creativity and taste." Jaffe points out, however, that this is not for everyone. Many of us have trouble visualizing a design in advance, without seeing the ring itself.

Second, when making such a significant and meaningful purchase, many couples feel more secure, more in control, if they have been involved in the ring's creation from the outset—choosing the stone itself as well as the mounting.

As to cost, according to ADIA statistics, in 1990, the average price of a diamond ring in the U.S.A. was about $1,514. (47% fell under the $1,000 mark.) Like any piece of diamond jewelry, the cost of a ring you design will depend largely on the well-known 4C's of diamond buying—color, clarity, carat and cut—in conjunction with the cost of the mounting and the jeweler's own labor and markup.

If you are interested in creating your own diamond ring in consultation with a professional jeweler, the ADIA suggest drawing a picture of the ring you envision or clipping photos of rings you particularly like from magazines.

It is also important to consider timing when you buy loose stones. Each step—ordering the stones, designing the mounting, making the mounting and setting the stone—takes time and could mean an impromptu engagement is out of the question.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Oprah Winfrey helped raise more than $400,000 for Elizabeth Taylor's AIDS foundation.

"Oprah is the most wonderful and generous woman any organization could ever hope to have," Miss Taylor said Wednesday in a statement.

In March, the host of "The Oprah Winfrey Show" asked viewers to donate $1 to $100 to the foundation. They came through to the tune of about $400,000.

Bulls cruise to 103-89 victory

CHICAGO (AP) - This was almost too easy.

After surviving the rough-and-tumble series with the New York Knicks, the defending NBA champion Chicago Bulls cruised to a 103-89 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers Tuesday night in the opener of their best-of-7 Eastern Conference final.

Michael Jordan, with 33 points, and Scottie Pippen, with 29 points, 12 rebounds and nine assists, led the attack in a relatively relaxed atmosphere.

"It was calm out there with no flagrant fouls," said Jordan, who has not scored less than 30 points in his last 11 games against the Cavaliers.

"It was kind of quiet and the intensity was not as high as it has been," Pippen said.

"We came out flat, but I'll guarantee you we'll be a lot sharper in our next game," said Cleveland coach Lenny Wilkens.

The next game is in the Stadium Thursday night, with the series shifting to Cleveland for games Saturday and Monday.

This one wasn't much of a contest. Bill Cartwright hit two successive baskets to break a tie and put the Bulls ahead to stay 12-8 before Jordan had scored a point.

Jordan started hitting and the Bulls took a 30-21 lead at the quarter. They pulled ahead 45-25 in the second quarter before a 15-7 Cleveland run led by Mark Price helped cut it to 52-40 at the half.

The Bulls opened up an 18-point lead midway in the third quarter that ended with them on top 76-65. The Cavaliers crept within seven at 82-75 in the fourth quarter before the Bulls pulled away again.

"I felt we had control even when they got it to single digits," Bulls coach Phil Jackson said. "We came out with the intensity that we left the court with Sunday."

That was the 110-81 victory in the seventh game against the Knicks.

"We had to get out of the blocks early, we felt the first game was the most important," said Jordan. "We learned that lesson against New York when we lost the first game and that gave them a lot of confidence."

But Jordan said he was "very surprised this game was so easy. Every time they made a surge, we came back with a surge."

"We controlled the tempo," he said. "I'm sure it won't happen again. Their defense was tentative. This is new ground for them and we've been here before."

Brad Daugherty led the Cavaliers with 23 points and Price had 15 of his 21 in the first half. Larry Nance added 19 and John "Hot Rod" Williams 10. Horace Grant and Cartwright had 12 each for the Bulls.

"We went out and tried to do the right things, but the Bulls came out playing a very uptempo game," Daugherty said. "It took us awhile to get our rhythm. We're not going to change our strategy. However, we can't give them an early lead."

Wilkens blamed early turnovers for his team's slow start.

"That's been a problem throughout the playoffs," Wilkens said. "Our shooting percentage was decent, but you can't spot a team like the Bulls 12-14 points in the first quarter on turnovers."

The Bulls had 21 assists in the first half and 33 for the game.

The Bulls set a playoff record with 19 of 19 free throws, bettering their previous percentage of .964 when they were 27 of 28 against Boston in 1987.

Williams said after Sunday's lottery.

"I get the sense that O'Neal is a special player."

"But it's too soon to be talking playoffs and dancing in the streets. He's only 20 years old and not finished offensively. But on ability, potential, size and power, he's the class of the draft."

O'Neal averaged 24.1 points, 14 rebounds and 5.2 blocked shots as a junior at Louisiana State last season. He passed up his final year of eligibility to make himself available for the NBA draft and has been touted as a future great.

O'Neal has been living in a rented apartment in Los Angeles, and Armato has had a long working relationship with the Lakers' organization since he represented Abdul-Jabbar, who retired as the NBA's leading career scorer after the 1988-89 season.

On May 13, 1911, the New York Yankees scored 10 runs in the first inning against the St. Louis Browns before an out was made.

To figure a batting average in baseball, divide the number of base hits by the total number of at-bats.

Billy Ray Brown hopes streak continues, eyes coveted Colonial title

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Now comes Billy Ray Brown. He follows the hot hands of John Cook, Fred Couples and Davis Love III as pro golf's most likely to succeed in a season of streaks.

"It's easier to win two fast, even back-to-back, than it is to spread them out," former winner Ben Crenshaw said before a practice session for the Colonial Invitational, which begins Thursday at the Colonial Country Club.

"You can't win just playing mediocre any more," said Crenshaw, one of three playoff losers to Brown last weekend in the nearby Byron Nelson Classic. "Most of the time now, you find the winner is riding the crest of a wave."

That points the finger at Cook, Couples and Love - and now Brown. Cook won twice in a four-week period early in the year. Couples followed with three victories, including the Masters, and a pair of seconds in a seven-week span. Love won three times in six weeks.

All cooled off. Now it's Brown, a Houston native, who is at a peak. His victory in the Nelson followed consecutive third-place finishes in the Houston Open and a limited-field event in Paris.

Bruce Lietzke, like Crenshaw a former winner of both the Nelson and Colonial titles and a playoff loser last weekend, agreed with Ben about the consecutive title theory on the PGA Tour.

"A player gets to a peak and he may win back-to-back," Lietzke said. "It happens when the player has that little something extra going."

And Brown definitely fits that description. He's got Texas going for him.

"The first thing I thought at the Nelson was, 'I finally won in Texas,'" he said.

"With all the tradition we have going here - Byron Nelson and Ben Hogan - all the Texas guys are proud to be Texans and we're proud of our tradition. That was my goal, to win in Texas. Houston or Dallas, it doesn't matter. It's all Texas."

And now he will face the most "Texas" tournament of them all, the most revered tournament in this state and one with a special meaning for native sons.

"Every boy growing up in Texas and playing golf dreams about winning 'Colonial,'" Crenshaw said.

Only one man, however, has won the Byron Nelson and Colonial on consecutive weekends - the immortal "Texas Hawk," Ben Hogan.

"Oh, no. Don't compare me with him," the 29-year-old Brown quickly disclaimed. "All I'm trying to do is to give myself a chance to win on the last nine holes Sunday. If I can do that, I'll be happy."

Brown faces a select, invitational field of 114 that includes PGA title-holder John Daly, U.S. Open winner Payne Stewart, defending champ Tom Purtzer and Australian Ian Baker-Finch, the current British Open champ and a former Colonial winner.

Other major figures in the chase for a $234,000 first prize include Greg Norman, Curtis Strange, Tom Watson, Lanny Wadkins and Hale Irwin.

Porter propels Portland win

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - The crowd chanted "Terry, Terry."

This is Clyde Drexler's team. But for this night, and for much of the playoffs, they've been the Portland Trail Blazers.

Terry Porter continued his torrid playoff performance by scoring a career-high 41 points Tuesday night, leading Portland to a 119-102 victory over the Utah Jazz and a 2-0 lead in the Western Conference finals.

"Tonight he was just on fire," Portland coach Rick Adelman said. "He was making 3s. He was making jumpers with John Stockton right in his face. He was taking it strong to the basket. You can't play a better game than Terry played."

Drexler was no slouch, either. "Clyde had a monster game, too," Adelman said. "He had 36 points and 12 assists. Of course, every time he threw it to Terry, he made it."

Adelman marveled at his team's guard play.

"It was just amazing for me to watch," Adelman said. "I just kind of sat there in awe. They were just superb."

Porter made 12 of 14 field goals, including 4 of 5 3-pointers. He was also 13 for 14 at the foul line.

"If I get any hotter, it'll be scary," Porter said. "I don't think it's humanly possible to be any hotter than I was tonight."

Stockton usually stayed close to Porter, but the Portland playmaker was so hot it didn't matter.

"He did a great job defensively," Porter said. "It's just that I made some tough shots. I made four or five shots when he was all over me."

After a slow start in the season,

Porter is silencing any critics.

"I guess that talk about him having kind of a down season has been put to rest," Adelman said.

Unlike Game 1, when Utah was blown out early, the Jazz stayed close most of the way Tuesday.

"We were ready to play," Utah coach Jerry Sloan said. "But they made the big shots out on the perimeter. They were sensational. I don't know if I've ever seen a team hit the big shots like that. These guys are playing better than I've ever seen them play."

Stockton and Karl Malone, who both had sub-par performances in Game 1, were much better in Game 2.

Karl Malone scored 25 points, John Stockton had 24 and Jeff Malone added 21 for the Jazz, who return home for Game 3 of the best-of-7 series Friday night. Utah is 43-4 at the Delta Center, including 6-0 in the playoffs.

The Blazers never trailed after Danny Ainge's 3-pointer one minute into the second quarter gave them a 32-29 lead.

Portland was up by 13 at halftime and 16 in the third quarter.

Tyrone Corbin's basket to start the fourth quarter cut the lead to 94-86, but Drexler scored eight points, including a pair of three-point plays, and Porter added a 3-pointer during an 11-3 run that boosted Portland's lead to 105-89 with 8:49 to play.

The Jazz never threatened seriously again.

"We came back and played tough tonight," Karl Malone said. "We're not going to give up."

O'Neal receptive to Orlando Magic

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Even though he has said he wants to play for the Los Angeles Lakers or Los Angeles Clippers, it appears Shaquille O'Neal is receptive to playing for the Orlando Magic.

O'Neal, of San Antonio, issued a statement Tuesday reacting to the NBA draft lottery on Sunday, which the Magic won.

"I am thrilled that Orlando Magic's general manager, Pat Williams, was so excited and sincere about the possibility of having me on the team," O'Neal said. "I was particularly happy to see the people of Orlando so complimentary towards me."

"I am excited about my upcoming career in the NBA. Soon I will sit down with my family and my attorney to formulate a game plan."

The statement was issued by O'Neal's agent, Leonard Armato of Management Plus Enterprises in Los Angeles.

Williams left no doubt the Magic will choose the 7-foot-1 center with the first selection in the draft, to be held June 24 in Portland, Ore.

"Ultimately, in this league you win with special players like Dr. J (Julius Erving), Kareem (Abdul-Jabbar), Larry Bird or Magic Johnson,"

Rockets may sign coach

HOUSTON (AP) - Rudy Tomjanovich, the Houston Rockets interim coach for the past three months, is expected to be named head coach today.

Houston television station KRIV reported Tuesday that Tomjanovich, who replaced fired coach Don Chaney on Feb. 18, would sign a three-year contract.

"We'll have a press conference tomorrow, mid-to-late afternoon, and that's the way I'm going to handle that," Tomjanovich told KRIV on Tuesday. "I feel very good."

Houston television stations KTRK and KPRC also reported that Tomjanovich would be named head coach. Tomjanovich could not be reached for comment Tuesday by The Associated Press.

Former Atlanta coach Mike Fratello and Tomjanovich interviewed with owner Charlie Thomas and general manager Steve Patterson for the position.

Veteran hurlers excel

By The Associated Press

The knuckleballer, the junkballer and the curveballer pretty much had a ball.

Charlie Hough and his dancing flutterball helped the Chicago White Sox past Kansas City 2-1 Tuesday night. Frank Tanana and his assortment of off-speed pitches were too much for Milwaukee in Detroit's 3-0 victory. And Bert Blyleven's curve had a nasty hook to it, even though his return to the Angels was less successful: Blyleven got no decision as the New York Yankees edged California 5-4 in 10 innings.

All three veterans - a combined 60 seasons in the majors - had struggled recently.

Hough didn't get out of the first inning of his last start.

"It was tough to have a rotten game, because I've had enough of those in my career," he said. "It's a little easier for me to forget about it than other people."

Tanana was bypassed for his last start and sent to the bullpen.

"I'm not going to toot my own horn. That's not my style," Tanana said. "I feel I've got a lot of good pitching left in me. I just want a chance to prove that."

Which was all Blyleven could ask for after 21 months on the sidelines and two rotator cuff surgeries.

"It was fun standing out there again and being able to have that ball in your hand," Blyleven said. "I'm not done yet."

In other games Tuesday, it was Boston 7, Seattle 5; Minnesota 7, Toronto 1; Oakland 5, Baltimore 3; and Texas 8, Cleveland 7.

White Sox 2, Royals 1

At Chicago, Hough (1-1) won for the first time in five starts this season after entering the contest with a 5.96 ERA. Hough got his 196th major league win, limiting the Royals to six singles in 6 1-3 innings.

Robin Ventura's first-inning sacrifice fly and Craig Grebeck's second-inning RBI single provided the runs against Kevin Appier.

Tigers 3, Brewers 0

At Detroit, Cecil Fielder drove in two runs.

Tanana gave up two hits in 6 1-3 innings. John Doherty pitched 1 2-3 innings of perfect relief, then Mike Henneman picked up his seventh save by working the ninth.

Yankees 5, Angels 4, 10 innings
At New York, the 41-year-old

Blyleven, who last pitched in the majors on Aug. 10, 1990, gave up home runs to Mel Hall and Kevin Maas in the second inning. He was erratic, but he was able to throw his curveball for strikes.

Blyleven allowed three runs on eight hits and two walks, struck out two and threw a wild pitch. He left trailing 3-2.

Matt Nokes homered against Steve Frey in the Yankees' eighth to tie it. New York won it in on a single by Hall.

Rangers 8, Indians 7

At Cleveland, the Rangers scored five runs in the final two innings. In the ninth, Ruben Sierra hit a two-run homer, then Dean Palmer singled home the go-ahead run.

Mark Whiten hit a grand slam for the Indians.

Lance McCullers (1-0), the Rangers' fifth pitcher, worked a perfect eighth for the win.
Twins 7, Blue Jays 1

At Toronto, the hot Twins won their fourth in a row as Kirby Puckett hit a two-run double, Randy Bush had two sacrifice flies and Chuck Knoblauch went 2 for 2 with one RBI and two runs scored.

Rookie Pat Mahomes allowed four hits in seven innings, striking out five.

Red Sox 7, Mariners 5

At Boston, the Red Sox won a seesaw battle for their ninth in a row over the Mariners.

Boston trailed 3-2, went ahead 5-3 with three runs in the sixth, then allowed Seattle to tie it in the seventh.

But in the bottom of the inning, Tony Pena scored the tie-breaking run on reliever Calvin Jones' wild pitch and Wade Boggs followed with a sacrifice fly.

Athletics 5, Orioles 3

At Baltimore, the Orioles used five pitchers and Jose Canseco's second May homer to hand Baltimore its third straight loss on a five-hitter.

Joe Slusarski gave up two runs and three hits in five innings before giving way to Jeff Parrett, who pitched the sixth. Rick Honeycutt got two outs in the seventh, Rick Gossage got the next four outs and Dennis Eckersley pitched the ninth inning for his 15th save in 15 tries.

Hershiser helps Dodgers win

By The Associated Press

The way the Los Angeles Dodgers are hitting, Orel Hershiser probably figured he'd have to drive in his own runs.

That's exactly what happened Tuesday night against the Chicago Cubs. Hershiser (3-3) scattered nine hits in seven innings and broke a 2-2 tie with a two-run double in the sixth, leading the last-place Dodgers to a 5-2 victory.

"Last year, I think they'd pinch hit for me for sure because I didn't have enough pitches in my arm to guarantee that I could continue," Hershiser said. "But this year I've been as high as 120, so they know there's more pitches in the arm."

With the score tied at 2 in the sixth, Shawn Boskie (4-3) walked Dave Hansen and Jose Offerman with two outs and Hershiser grounded the next pitch over the third-base bag.

"The ball bounced fair in front of the bag and bounced barely foul after the bag, so it had to have gone over it," Hershiser said. "I think the umpire made the right call."

In other games, New York beat San Diego 8-0, Cincinnati beat Montreal 7-4, San Francisco beat Pittsburgh 7-2, St. Louis beat Atlanta 7-2 and Philadelphia beat Houston 4-3.

Boskie dropped to 0-4 against Los Angeles, giving up four runs - one unearned - and seven hits in 5 2-3 innings. The Dodgers, who began the night with a team batting average of .239, have won 26 of their last 32 against the Cubs.

Mets 8, Padres 0

Bobby Bonilla hit his first home run since opening day and David Cone (4-2) pitched a seven-hitter for his third shutout as visiting New York ended San Diego's five-game winning streak.

Daryl Boston homered and hit a two-run triple. Jose Melendez (4-2) allowed four runs on seven hits in 5 1-3 innings for San Diego, which stranded 13 runners.

Reds 7, Expos 4

Bill Doran hit a grand slam off John Wetteland (1-1) in the ninth as Wetteland blew a save for the third time in nine chances.

Wetteland walked Jacob Brumfield and Dave Martinez with one out at Olympic Stadium and Bip Roberts singled before Doran's fourth home run of the season and the third career grand slam.

Dwayne Henry (1-1) allowed two hits in 3 1-3 innings and Rob Dibble pitched the ninth for his sixth save.

Giants 7, Pirates 2

Will Clark and Royce Clayton homered, and Trevor Wilson (4-2) won his third straight start as San Francisco sent visiting Pittsburgh to its fourth consecutive loss.

With the Giants trailing 2-1, Clark hit a two-run homer off Doug Drabek (3-3). San Francisco added four runs in the eighth on Matt Williams' bases-loaded triple and Jim McNamara's RBI single.

Dave Righetti pitched two scoreless innings for his second save.

Cardinals 7, Braves 2

Felix Jose drove in three runs and had two hits as St. Louis ended a 10-game losing streak at Atlanta dating to Aug. 30, 1990. The Cardinals won for the seventh time in nine games overall.

Bob Tewksbury (5-1) allowed seven hits, walked three and struck out three (7) in eight innings. John Smoltz (3-4) gave up five runs and six hits in 6 1-3 innings.

Phillies 4, Astros 3

Dave Hollins had the first two-homer game of his career and Curt Schilling (3-2) allowed three hits in six shutout innings, his first start since Sept. 6, 1989, when he was with Baltimore.

Hollins hit a solo home run off Butch Henry (0-4) in the third at Veterans Stadium and added a two-run homer in the fifth.

Jeff Bagwell hit a three-run homer in the eighth off Barry Jones. Mitch Williams got six outs for his fifth save.

Golf secondary when wife is going blind

By JEFF RUDE

The Dallas Morning News DALLAS (AP) - When Claudia Morris started dating Houston professional golfer Blaine McCallister in 1986, she had 20-20 vision in both eyes. By last fall, she had gone blind in her left eye and had 20-50 vision at best in her right.

Then they were married. This is a story about loss of sight. But not about loss of love.

"Blaine," she said, "is a unique individual. He's always been a caring person. But it means more now."

Robbed over the last 18 months by a rare eye disease that has no known cure, she cannot drive a car. She cannot see her husband's golf shots. She cannot recognize people from 10 feet away. She has been known to bump into walls at night.

"You really don't appreciate someone's love until you really have to depend on it," she said.

She knows she could go blind except for a foggy peripheral vision. And she's worried.

She's worried that a friend will walk by and say hello and that she won't answer back because she can't see him or her.

"I don't want anyone thinking I'm a snob," she said.

It is no wonder Blaine McCallister calls this woman his "champion."

"That's the way she is," he said. "She's a rare breed. I can't tell you how good it feels to be around somebody with such a great attitude. I've never met anybody so full of life and love. Everybody who's around her falls in love with her. You wouldn't know she had this problem if you came up and talked to her."

McCallister competed in last week's rain-shortened Byron Nelson

Classic in Irving (he finished in a group at 4 under par, seven strokes behind the leaders who went into the playoff won by Billy Ray Brown) and is entered in this week's Southwestern Bell Colonial in Fort Worth. In his ninth year on the PGA Tour, he is ranked No. 44 on the money list.

"Golf is secondary to me," he says. "A missed three-footer doesn't mean as much anymore."

That is because his wife has pseudoxanthoma elasticum, or PXE, a hereditary disease of the body's elastic tissue that can affect the eyes, skin, circulation and more. There's no medication for it and no known cause, the McCallisters were told. There's not much she can do except exercise, watch her diet and take vitamins.

She has known for years she had PXE and what could happen, by all was fine until May 1990. She had problems with her left eye and had laser surgery. The vision improved at first but suddenly dropped to 20-300. Within three months, only peripheral vision remained. The right eye deteriorated in 1991, and she had laser surgery on it in last October, the week Blaine won the Texas Open.

"I'm just grateful the right eye didn't go bad so fast like the left eye after laser surgery," she said. "It could get worse or stabilize, but I'll always have peripheral vision. That's my saving grace. There are a lot of people worse off."

There's something else besides driving she doesn't do. She doesn't clap first. Once she applauded one of Blaine's putts, thinking it had gone in, but it didn't. "Now I wait for crowd reaction," she said. "And I look at him. I can't tell by his reaction if he hit a good shot."

Claudia McCallister, 41, is 10 years older than her husband and has two children, 22 and 18, from a previous marriage. She said she thinks about the age difference some, and about her condition. "With his career, I don't want to be excess baggage. I don't think I am."

Except for being unable to drive, she's self-sufficient. And she's in good hands.

"Our love has been tested," Blaine said, "but I planned to marry this girl since 1988. I've been in love with her since late 1986. This condition didn't change our outlook. We never changed our plans. I love her for better or for worse."

Talk to others in pro golf about the McCallisters, and here's what you get.

"Class," said Lanny Wadkins. "Great people. Claudia's attitude is unbelievable."

"A love story," said Steve Elkington, a friend from Houston. "Their relationship will blossom forever."

The McCallisters recently went fishing in Houston, and Blaine was impressed. "She can't really see where her bait ends up when she throws the lure out there," he said, "but a couple of times she hooked a big one."

They fish and hunt together. And they joke. He holds up fingers in front of her, giving her a mock eye test. He kids her about running into doors. "When she follows me on the course, she has to watch for trees so as to not run into any," he said.

They met in 1986 at Hilton Head Island, S.C. Claudia was working the Delta ticket counter when Blaine walked up after missing the cut. She thought he was a caddy.

"How did your golfer do today?" she asked.

"I'm a golfer," he said. After talking for a while, he decided not to fly home. They saw each other that Friday night, all weekend, then burned the telephone lines.

"I was fascinated at how beautiful and how much fun she was," he said. "It was a love-at-first-sight deal."

Andretti gives advice to Indy 500 rookies

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - What advice would Mario Andretti give the seven rookies who will start Sunday's Indianapolis 500?

He would tell them that despite the anxiety, the sweat, the bumps and bruises, the physical strain and mental torture they've endured the past two weeks, the worst is still to come.

"Qualifying is fairly easy here. The race is another thing," said the former winner, starting his 27th Indy race from the outside of the front row.

Andretti was a member of the rookie class of 1965, an impressive crop of 11 drivers that also included Gordon Johncock, Al Unser, George Snider, Jerry Grant and Joe Leonard. He won the race in 1969, started from the pole position three times and is on the front row for the seventh time.

Since his first race here, he has lined up against 149 rookies, and he says this year's rookie class is good.

"You look at the competition. It's probably better than ever," Andretti said, referring not only to the rookies but also the 26 veterans who will take the green flag at 11 a.m. EST on Sunday.

"The quality of the field is better," the 52-year-old Andretti said. "When I first started here, the back of the field was junk, literally junk, 4- or 5-year-old cars. In 1981, I couldn't qualify (because of a conflicting Formula One event) and had to start 32nd. But I was able to move up and I led the race."

"Now, you're going to slice through a few cars, but not like that," he said.

"I've been absolutely happy the entire month the way the car has been running," said Andretti, who is driving a new Lola-Ford Cosworth

Country Club site of final club meeting

Calliopian Study Club closed out its year with a dinner Thursday evening, May 14, at the Hereford Country Club. Hostessing the event were Jane Gulley, Mary Sue Hull, Wilma Nobles, Dorothy Ott, Kathlee Palmer and Jan Walser.

Marjorie Mims installed new officers for 1992-93. They included Jan Walser, president; Dorothy Ott, vice president; Cynthia Streun, secretary-reporter; and Faye Holt, treasurer. As she installed officers, Mims used the theme "Calliopian Melodies."

Hostesses brought music boxes from their collections to decorate the table. Members tried to guess the melodies as each one was played and owners gave a brief background on their acquisition of the boxes.

New members, Donna Bogan and Louise Leasure, were welcomed by Kathryn Ruga, Holt, Walser, Ott, Virginia Holmes, Kay McWhorter, Irene Coneway, Mary Sue Hull, Mary Fraser, Mims, Nobles, Streun, Palmer, Gulley, Audine Dettmann, Lee Cave, Linda Gilbert and Claudia McBrayer.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) - Rock singer Melissa Etheridge has established a scholarship for performing artists at her old high school.

The scholarship at Leavenworth High School is in memory of her father, who died of cancer in August.

"He bought me my first guitar and he would come with me to bars in the area when I played because I was under-age," she said Tuesday.

Etheridge, a 1979 graduate of Leavenworth High, was twice nominated for Grammys, in 1990 for "Brave and Crazy" and last year for "The Angels."

Water safety important as summer months approach

With summer just around the corner, water safety should be a top concern. Drowning is a leading cause of accidental death in all age groups and is the second leading cause of accidental death in children and young adults.

Many drowning occur in swimming pools, but a significant number occur at places not designated for swimming. And even if the victim is saved from drowning, serious neurological damage or their injury, including paralysis, can be caused by near-drowning.

"Most water accidents are caused by lack of common sense and panic," says Dr. Dighton Packard, Dallas, a member of Texas Medical Association's Committee on Emergency medical Services and Trauma. "The best way to ensure water safety is to have adequate training, keep calm, and stay sober."

If you have a swimming pool, have a 5-foot fence built around it. Isolate the pool from the rest of your yard and house. Also, make sure children in the pool are constantly supervised. Open containers that could fill with water, such as buckets, are another potential danger in the yard.

Boating safety also is important. All boat occupants should wear life jackets. People wading or swimming in rivers should be aware of rivers' dangers, such as rapid currents and submerged objects. Finally, never, dive into water if you don't know how deep it is. Striking the bottom or a submerged object can result in serious injury.

Perhaps the most effective way to ensure water safety is to limit alcohol consumption. Alcohol is a significant contributing factor in well more than half the adults who drown. It causes lack of judgement and can increase the dangers of hypothermia.

advice.

I must add that I have never cared whether or not my husband's friends were male or female. He has had other female friends, which was OK with me because I didn't feel they were a threat to our marriage.

What do you say, Ann? Am I being difficult? I'm unable to be impartial toward this woman because she tried to break up our home and hurt our children--VA

DEAR VA: It sounds as if your husband wants you both. Tell him you refuse to settle for that kind of an arrangement and the ball is now in his court.

Gem of the Day (Credit the Duke of Windsor): The thing that impresses me most about America is the way parents obey their children.

Tokyo has more neon signs than any other city in the world.

New officers installed

Marjorie Mims installed 1992-93 Calliopian Study Club officers during a dinner held May 14 at the Hereford Country Club. Cynthia Streun, at left, will serve as secretary; Faye Holt, treasurer; Dorothy Ott, vice president; and Jan Walser, president.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have seen many TV talk shows recently where overweight people have been guests. On one such show, a woman said, "It's my business how much I weigh." These are the people I want to address.

Our oldest son had a weight problem most of his life. We tried everything to encourage him to lose weight. Repeatedly he said, "It's my life. I'll do what I want with it." Well, Ann, he did exactly that and died at age 33, weighing 560 pounds.

He went into the hospital with what everyone thought was a severe case of the flu. A few days later he developed symptoms of hepatitis, but according to the tests he did not have this illness.

The doctors couldn't take X-rays because the table wouldn't support anyone who weighed more than 300 pounds. They couldn't do a body scan because he wouldn't fit in the machine. They couldn't do a spinal tap because the nurses were unable to roll him over. Eight people were required to give him a sponge bath--two to hold the bed down so it wouldn't tip over. He was in the hospital less than a month when he died of congestive heart failure and liver and kidney problems.

No one should ever experience the helplessness of watching a loved one die because it was "his life to do with as he pleased." I know this pain after watching my son die from overeating. How tragic that all the medical knowledge available couldn't save him.--P.L.W., Colton, Calif.

DEAR COLTON: This was more than a medical problem--it was a psychological problem. It wasn't so much what your son was eating, but what was eating him. I'm sure you did your best, dear. Some people are beyond help and nothing can save them. My condolences.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I are trying to put our marriage back together after his affair with another woman. We've been in counseling and learned a great deal about ourselves and each other.

I believe "Rob" when he says she wants to stay with me and work things out. I also believe that he has been faithful since we started counseling. There's one sticking point, however, and your opinion would be appreciated.

Rob insists that I accept this other woman as his "friend"--someone with whom he can share his work and intellectual interests. The "friend" has had more formal education than I, but I am not a dummy.

Their friendship consists of phone calls, letters and an occasional drink. I know he continues to share personal information about our marriage with this woman and she "advises" him. I cannot believe that her input is unbiased, nor do I believe that her own needs and wants don't creep into her

Don't swallow smokeless tobacco pitch advertized
 Smokeless tobacco isn't safe, despite subtle marketing strategies implying otherwise aimed at the lucrative $800 million market for these products. The truth is that smokeless tobacco—and especially moist snuff (Finely cut tobacco placed in the mouth) can cause serious health problems, including oral cancer, severe dental problems leading to tooth loss, and nicotine addiction.
 An estimated 10 million Americans use smokeless tobacco, and of these, 1.2 million are teens. Sold under names like Chew, Dip, Pinch, Snuff, Plug or Dirt-smokeless tobacco has the same addictive qualities as cigarettes. One can of snuff delivers as much nicotine as 60 cigarettes.
 According to Dr. Geraldine Morrow, DMD, president of the American Dental Association, long-term smokeless tobacco users run a 50 percent greater risk of developing oral cancer, which causes 10,000 deaths a year in the U.S. alone. Dangerous cancer-causing agents called nitrosamines are released when the smokeless products are used. "Smokeless is extremely dangerous—it's carcinogenic. Areas of the mouth that develop tissue changes can become precancerous quickly and easily," she says.
 Chewing tobacco also can cause tooth decay because many of the products are high in sugar. "As part of our four-year Smile America campaign, the ADA has launched an intensive public education and media campaign to warn the public about the dangers of smokeless tobacco," says Dr. Morrow.

Elementary science institutes offered

Elementary teachers from Amarillo, Canyon, Hereford and Tulia Independent school districts will have the opportunity to improve their science skills this summer thanks to two Eisenhower science and Mathematics grants awarded to West Texas State University. The two proposals, "A Science Summer Institute for Primary Teachers" for $44,618 and "A science Summer Institute for Intermediate Teachers" for $49,000, were submitted by Dr. David LaBrile, biology professor, and Treasure Brasher, physics instructor.

The institute for primary (grades 1-3) teacher will meet from 1-4 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, June 16-July 9. The institute for intermediate (grades 4-6) teacher will meet from 1-4 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, July 13-Aug. 6. First- and fourth-grade teachers will study life science topics with LaBrile, second- and fifth-grade teachers will focus on earth science topics with Dr. Robert professor, and third- and sixth-grade teachers will study physical science topics with Brasher.

"Applicability in the elementary classroom is one of our major objectives," Brasher said. "These institutes will be of particular value because the curriculum has been designed specifically to grade level and to the areas of emphasis as identified by the Texas Education Agency (TEA). And the will be very activity oriented. The teachers will be asked to participate in demonstrations, experiments and related activities that they can take back to their own classrooms. We want to send the message that science isn't just something your study, it's something you do."

Participating teachers may receive undergraduate or graduate natural-science credit, and tuition, fees and some child care will be provided from the grant funding.

Form more information, contact Brasher at 806-656-02545.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: A year ago, my husband's three fingers on his left hand started to shake rapidly. We took him to two different neurologists and they determined that he has Parkinson's disease. He still tried to work at different things here at home. At one time he was taking Sinemet, deprenyl and Symmetrel. This had almost stopped his shaking, but he had bad vomiting reactions to this. All his medications were stopped and he has now started Sinemet, 100 mg four times a day, and will soon start deprenyl, 5 mg twice daily.

His left arm and face now shake, sometimes worse than other times. He has to have something to rest at night because he cannot sleep. I would like to know if he needs an exercise program and what can be done about his diet. He has lost quite a bit of weight and doesn't look like himself at all.

DEAR READER: Patients with Parkinson's disease should be on an exercise program to help overcome stiffness and maintain function. This is best done with physical therapy. If available, you should try to get your husband into a physical-therapy program. His doctor can refer him to one or a physical-medicine specialist.

Diet is important. Many patients with Parkinson's disease develop problems in swallowing and they also have a dry mouth, which adds to the problem. In recent times, it has been suggested that a protein-poor diet is helpful. One study that showed significant improvement in symptoms avoided consuming any protein until the evening and then it was limited to no more than 7 grams. Additional studies are needed to evaluate the value of this observation.

You need to know much more about Parkinson's disease, so I'm sending you a free copy of Special Issue 34-12, Parkinsonism. Others who want this issue can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/34-12, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Hints from Heloise

HANDY TABLECLOTH

Dear Heloise: I have an old stained flannel-lined tablecloth that I had spread out on the floor of the car to protect it from dirty tools.

It was still in there when I went grocery shopping and bought frozen food. Usually I carry a cooler in the car to store the frozen food in until I get home, but not this time. So I used the tablecloth bunched up around the bag of frozen food.

It worked as well as the cooler, and when folded it takes up much less room. And it's still handy for the original use -- keeping the car free of dirt.

I also spread one over my flowers and had flowers through the first snow. -- Dody, Victor, N.Y.

Send a money- or time-saving hint to Heloise, PO Box 795000, San Antonio TX 78279-5000 or fax it to 512-HELOISE. I can't answer your letter personally but will use the best hints received in my column.
