At Canyon meeting Thursday

Nuclear waste repository design will be discussed

The conceptual design of a high-level radioactive waste repository in a bedded salt formation will be discussed at a meeting of the High-Level Waste Subcommittee of the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council (TENRAC) in Canyon, Texas on December 2, 1982. The public is invited to attend the meeting scheduled for 6:30-10:00 p.m. in the Recital Room of Mary Moody Hall on the West Texas State University Campus.

Following introductory comments on the status of the federal government's high-level waste investigations, representatives of the U.S. Department of Energy will present a conceptual design of a repository. This presentation was requested by the Subcommittee.

The remainder of the meeting will be devoted to a public comment and question period. Procedures to allow comment from as many individuals as possible will be announced at the meeting.

TENRAC consists of 22 elected and appointed officials and citizen appointees who are charged by law with the development of Texas energy and natural resources policy. In 1980 TENRAC was designated as the state agency to coordinate and communicate with the Department of Energy on the issue of high-level waste disposal. The Governor and Lt.

Governor, as co-chairmen of TENRAC, appoint the members of the Advisory Committee on Nuclear Energy. The High-Level Waste Subcommittee is the subdivision of the Advisory Committee responsible for addressing high-level waste issues and for developing recommendations.

Dr. Ernest F. Loyna, Dean of the College of Engineering at the University of Texas at Austin, serves as Chairman of the Subcommittee. Other members include Representative Chip Staniswalis from Amarillo; Judge Glen Nelson, Deaf Smith County Judge; Bill Daniel, Executive Director of the Tullia, Texas Chamber of Commerce;

Laura Keever, an Associate Director for Energy for the Texas League of Women Voters; and Bill Garrard, president of the Basic Resources, Inc. Also attending the meeting will be Dr. Milton L. Holloway, Executive Director of TENRAC and Dr. T.J. Taylor, Director of the TENRAC Energy Policy Division.

Department of Energy officials expected to attend the meeting include W. Wade Ballard, Jr., Director of the Office of Waste Isolation, Washington, D.C.; Dr. Critz George, Director, Salt-Granite Projects, Office of Waste Isolation, Washington.

Abortion issue back in court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The emotional issue of abortion is returning to the Supreme Court, where its legalization a decade ago fueled a still-raging national debate.

The high court was braced to hear arguments today in its most wide-ranging study of the issue since the justices legalized abortion in 1973. Lawyers representing the federal government, Missouri, Virginia and Akron, Ohio, want to give state and local governments additional freedom to make abortions more difficult to obtain.

The three cases, scheduled to consume three hours of arguments, pose four major questions to be answered in a decision by July:

—Can states or local communities require that all abortions on women more than three months pregnant be performed in a hospital?

Abortions in hospitals generally are more expensive than those performed in abortion clinics, and in many areas of the country most or all hospitals refuse to perform abortions on women beyond the first trimester of pregnancy.

—Can young girls, even those found to be "mature," be required to have the consent of one of their parents or a judge before obtaining abortions?

The Supreme Court appeared to condone such a requirement three years ago, but one of the approving justices conceded that the ruling was "truly fragmented."

—Can doctors be required, to tell patients seeking abortions that the fetus is "a human life"?

—Can governments require doctors to wait at least 24 hours after a woman signs a consent form before performing the requested abortion?

The court's latest con-

SIPCO begins operations here

The new Swift Independent Packing Co. plant west of Hereford opened Monday, filling a large void left in the local economy when Armour Foods closed the plant in October, 1981.

Approximately 200 workers, including management personnel, started operation at the beef packing plant in July and barely made its projected November start-up date. Much remodeling work was accomplished at the 110,000-square foot facility.

When going full tilt, the plant is anticipated to employ between 400 and 500 persons, representing a payroll estimated at between $8 to $10 million annually.

While the plant opened as a non-union shop, the opening day saw representatives of

Weinberger scoffs Soviet assertions

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger today brushed aside Soviet assertions that NATO missiles scheduled for deployment next year would increase the danger of accidental nuclear war.

"That's just another of those things they say," Weinberger declared as he entered North Atlantic Treaty Organization headquarters for a nuclear planning meeting with 13 Western defense ministers. The ministers were expected to reaffirm their support for deployment of 572 Pershing II and cruise missiles in five Western European countries by the end of 1983 to counter Soviet SS-20 medium range missiles targeted on Western Europe.

Soviet news commentators on Monday asserted the NATO weapons would make

Confusion on 'proof' citations

DPS says insured should fight tickets

DALLAS (AP) — Insured motorists ticketed for not having proof of insurance should contest such citations in court, according to officials of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Officials said drivers who mail in their fines have admitted guilt and could face either higher insurance premiums for five years or loss of their driver's license, officials said.

Also, judges are confused about whether tickets can be dismissed if a motorist contests the ticket in court by showing proof of insurance, officials said.

Some Texas judges will not dismiss a ticket for failure to maintain financial responsibility — even if the motorist presents evidence in court that he was properly covered, said Jim Templeton, assistant manager of the DPS safety responsibility bureau in Austin.

Instead, the judges change the charge from failure to maintain financial responsibility to failure to carry evidence of financial responsibility, Templeton said.

"We don't feel like that is a proper charge," Templeton said. "There is a misunderstanding of the statute. Some believe there are two offense — failure to carry insurance and failure to have insurance. There is no such penalty in the statute as failure to carry insurance."

But Templeton said the DPS does not have the authority to overturn a conviction.

When a conviction of failure to carry evidence of liability insurance is reported to Austin, the charge is viewed as failure to maintain financial responsibility, Templeton said.

After the charge is received, the DPS sends the motorist a notice that his driver's license will be suspended unless DPS officials receive proof of insurance within 21 days, according to Templeton.

By law, the only item that then fulfills the requirement of proof is a certificate of insurance known as an SR-22 form, Templeton said. An insurance policy does not constitute proof, he said.

"To get an SR-22, your regular insurance company will cancel your policy and you must go through the assigned risk plan," Templeton said. "It costs a lot more money."

An attorney general's opinion is pending on whether punishment for failure to carry proof of liability insurance should be as harsh as the penalty for failure to have liability insurance, he said.

Meanwhile, if an insured motorist is unable to get his ticket dismissed by a municipal court judge, the motorist should hire an attorney and appeal the conviction to county court, Templeton said.

"In the long run, it will cost you less," he said. Templeton made the remarks in an interview with The Dallas Morning News.

Foreign aid handouts not possible, appropriate

Reagan to South America on shirt-sleeve working trip

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, whose last foreign trip took him from palace to palace and from one formal dinner to another, is setting out on "a shirt-sleeve, working trip" to Latin America to show his concern for financially strapped southern neighbors.

But a senior administration official, recognizing the possibility that the trip would create expectations of major new U.S. financial assistance, said before Reagan left that such programs "are neither possible nor appropriate."

"It is not a trip designed to produce spectacular new assistance programs at any of the stops," said the official, who requested anonymity.

The president planned to arrive in Brasilia, the Brazilian capital built out of the dusty high plains of the interior 25 years ago, this evening on the first leg of a trip that will take him to four countries in five days.

He was leaving Washington at midday, after meeting with two congressional delegations at the White House.

Reagan administration officials said the journey was intended to show support for fledgling democratic institutions, develop economic interdependence and boost regional peacekeeping. But guerrilla insurgencies in Central America — the president's last stop — also were becoming a key issue.

Reagan will end the trip on Saturday in Costa Rica and Honduras, with meetings with the presidents of those countries as well as the leaders of El Salvador and Guatemala, which are under attack by leftist rebels.

The senior administration official said Reagan would reaffirm "our support for those countries in Central America that have been threatened by insurgents."

"The threat posed by Nicaragua to its neighbors will undoubtedly be discussed," as will Cuban assistance to the rebels in El Salvador; he said. But he added that the role of Nicaragua, governed by a leftist junta, would not be a major theme.

The trip is Reagan's sixth out of the country in his 22 months in office. Three previous foreign trips were in this hemisphere: two to Canada and one to Mexico.

His most recent foreign trip — a four-nation European tour last spring — was heavy with visits to famous palaces, including overnight stops at Versailles and Windsor Castle. There were black-tie dinners and such a busy schedule that the president dozed briefly during a meeting with Pope John Paul II.

This trip is half as long as the European trip, and only one late night is planned. The president's wife, Nancy, will accompany him.

By the time Reagan returns to the White House late Saturday night or early Sunday morning, he will have covered 11,630 miles.

An effort to meet with the president of Argentina was quickly abandoned when the Argentinians made it clear that wounds created by the U.S. support for Britain after Argentina's invasion of the Falkland Islands last spring had not had time to heal.

And a plan to meet with the president of Peru, to settle trade differences, was also abandoned.

Bentsen opposes gasoline tax hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says he will oppose a proposal to raise federal gasoline taxes by 5 cents unless at least 90 percent of the revenue is returned directly to the states.

"This is a user tax and should be spent by the people who pay it," Bentsen, D-Texas, said Monday in a letter to Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis.

Bentsen expressed concern about reports that cities like Houston and Dallas, which do not now have rail transit, would not share in an increase in federal mass transit funding planned in conjunction with the tax hike.

"That makes no sense to me, and I will be working in the Senate to insure that Houston and other cities that may fall into this category will not be denied their fair share. It's not right to collect this tax money from Texans, then use it only on older mass transit systems in the Northeast," Bentsen said.

The tax increase poses a problem for Texas and other states that are considering an increase in state gasoline taxes to finance needed improvements to state highways, he added.

"A federal tax might preempt their efforts and could lead to a situation where some states are able to perform less maintenance than they would be able to

"In the United States, there is an effective structural demand for Mexican labor," he said. "In a certain way, it covers a need in the present American economy. But it also follows our inability to create enough jobs here in Mexico."

The expected drastic cuts in government spending and subsidies will raise prices of food, transportation and other essential goods and services.

Mexico leader plans new austerity measures

MEXICO CITY — When President-elect Miguel de la Madrid takes the oath of office Wednesday, he will begin enacting the austerity measures expected to characterize his government as it copes with Mexico's worst recession in more than 50 years.

Aides say de la Madrid's inaugural ceremonies will be much simpler than the elaborate ones of outgoing President Jose Lopez Portillo because Mexico cannot afford to foot the bill for a lavish affair.

To keep costs down, the guest list will be only one-fourth as long as it was six years ago when Lopez Portillo hosted 10,000 people at the National Auditorium, including representatives from 131 countries and a 98-member delegation from his ancestral city of Caparoso, Spain.

Presidential spokesman Manuel Alonso said no foreign heads of state were invited to the inauguration this time.

De la Madrid, a 47-year-old economist who served as Lopez Portillo's budget and planning minister, is expected soon to announce unpopular measures that combined with an inflation rate predicted to reach 100 percent by year's end, will increase the number of Mexicans hunting for jobs in the United States.

Unemployment — and underemployment — in this country is estimated at 40 percent.

Depressed sales close Levi Strauss factories

PLAINVIEW, Texas (AP) — Depressed sales of jeans and other clothing are blamed for the permanent closure of a Levi Strauss plant here — a move that will put 290 people out of work and wipe out a $2.9 million annual payroll, company officials said.

The plant, which will close down right before Christmas, makes clothing for children from toddlers to early teens, according to plant manager Gary Beggs.

Levi Strauss is consolidating its manufacturing in an effort to cut costs, Beggs said Monday.

Company spokeswoman Nancy Peterson in San Francisco said the company's earnings have declined steadily this year.

The closing of the plant here, and plants in Clovis, N.M. and Hobbs, N.M. are "economy related. Jeans sales have been somewhat flat," she said.

Net income dropped 56 percent in first quarter 1982 compared with the same period last year. The decline continued, with a 46 percent decrease in the second quarter and a 17 percent drop in the third period.

Sales also were off, she said, falling 17 percent in first quarter compared to a year ago, 11 percent in the second, and 8 percent in the third.

Former mental patient takes 33 hostages

HOUSTON (AP) — A former mental patient who held 33 people at gunpoint in a four-hour standoff with police wanted to be re-admitted to a psychiatric hospital but officials refused because he didn't have insurance, a SWAT officer says.

The 25-year-old man, armed with a .22-caliber pistol, walked into the Spring Shadow Glen Hospital on Monday afternoon and took 20 patients and 13 employees hostage, police said.

The hospital, which opened in 1981, specializes in drug and alcohol treatment, and admission is voluntary.

"The gunman was a former mental patient. He wanted to be taken back into the hospital, but they wouldn't admit him because he didn't have any insurance. We were told he was discharged in the first place because he had a $20,000 bill he couldn't pay," said a SWAT officer at the scene, who didn't want to be identified.

Hospital officials had left the scene and could not be reached for comment.

Man sought in deadly hit-and-run arrested

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Police prepared extradition papers today for a 28-year-old man sought since a driver ran a pickup truck through a crowd outside a bar in July, killing four people and injuring two others.

Gregorio Sanchez was arrested Monday in Carlsbad, N.M. by his landlord — a police captain, authorities said.

San Antonio Police Lt. Jack Sum-

meys said extradition proceedings would begin if Sanchez did not agree to return voluntarily.

Sanchez was indicted Nov. 10 on four counts of murder in connection with a hit-and-run assault July 17 outside a lounge on the west side of San Antonio.

Witnesses told police a group was standing around a parked car when a pickup ran through the group, went up the street, turned around and ran through the group a second time before speeding away.

Four people were killed and two others were injured.

The attack apparently stemmed from an argument, police said.

Police recovered a heavily damaged pickup truck two days later at Sanchez' residence, authorities said.

Carlsbad Police Capt. James B. Williams said Sanchez had been stopped for routine questioning Saturday night when a patrolman saw him standing in the shadows near a used car lot where several burglaries had been reported.

Sanchez was released, but was jailed Monday after information from the interview was matched up with a bulletin issued by San Antonio police, Williams said.

Britain's leading lady

Seldom do British political trends correlate with what happens in the United States. The over-the-hill British empire cannot equate with our yet wet-behind-the-ears United States.

Having acknowledged that, there are still things we can learn from their experiences.

One of which is that democracy's strength is its weakness; that in times of crisis we all want a strong leader.

Again, the British have one. Britain's leading lady is appreciated even by those politically opposed.

Liberal Party leader David Steel concedes, "People are saying, 'I don't necessarily agree with her but she does have great determination, lots of guts...."

Britain's next election is six to eighteen months away, probably about a year from right now, but were it today, Picadilly bookies will give you even-to-four odds that Maggie Thatcher would be re-elected.

Interesting, because a year ago she was that unpopular!

Peter Jenkins, political columnist for The Guardian — who generally tends to support the opposition Labour Party — writes, "Mrs. Thatcher is succeeding in reducing the level of the public's expectations. People who can find little to applaud in her economic record may nevertheless be ready to concede that the old remedies didn't work and she is at least trying to go in the right direction."

This suggests a historic enlightenment of the electorate since the days when politicians were able to persuade us that government could and should take care of everybody.

British voters are fourteen percent unemployed in the worst recession, since the thirties, yet, so profoundly plausible are the policies of Maggie Thatcher that her opposition — with no viable alliance is falling apart.

And Thatcher's Conservatives were helped by the successful Falklands campaign; no doubt about that.

Britain, flexing military muscle — and successfully — albeit at a cost of 1.2 billion dollars — was an enormous boost to British pride and to the Prime Minister's personal popularity.

That will fade over the next year.

Pocketbook issues, there as here, will motivate voters. But voters, there as here, are without doubt enlightened over those of any preceding generation.

As our Chrysler voters recently bit their lips and "voted to keep working..."

As Americans nationally recently stifled their fears in favor of their hopes and, in effect, re-endorsed Reaganomics...

We, the people, are aware for the first time that all that "free" stuff we've been voting for never was.

Weather service forecasting normal winter for nation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Breaking with other predictions of a calamitous winter ahead, government forecasters say the upcoming season should be relatively normal. But it may be colder than usual in the West and warmer than average in the East.

The National Weather Service, in its official winter forecast issued Monday, also said most of the nation will be wetter than usual. But it could not say if the added moisture would be in the form of heavy snows.

The forecast disagreed with those who say sunspots, caterpillars or volcanic activity indicate a very hard winter with record-breaking cold in the East.

Bucking the other predictions, Donald L. Gilman of the weather service's prediction branch said the East and Southeast, except for Maine, should be in for a relatively mild December, January and February.

"We expect the cold weather to be in the West," Gilman told a news briefing.

Gilman noted that others using sunspots or volcanic activity to forecast the weather all tend to agree that a hard winter is in store for the country, particularly the East.

Those forecasters, as well as the Old Farmer's Almanac and the Farmer's Almanac, and those watching fuzzi growth on caterpillars, don't have a hard scientific basis for such claims, he said.

The possibility of an extreme winter is always there, despite even his own forecast. Gilman admitted. But he added that "nobody has any grounds for flat-out saying that this will be the coldest winter of the century," as some have done.

The chances of a relatively cold season exceed 55 percent from the Great Plains westward, except for the far Northwest and along the Mexican border, he said.

The probability of extreme cold exceeds 60 percent from western Kansas and Nebraska through the Rockies and Great Basin to central California. The highest probability of frigid weather, 70 percent, is in the basin areas surrounding the Great Salt Lake, he added.

"The probability of warmer weather than normal in this winter's forecast exceeds 55 percent from the Appalachian Mountains eastward," said a weather service statement, "and reaches a maximum of 65 percent along the mid-Atlantic coastal plains."

The forecasters also said chances of a relatively wet winter exceeded 55 percent in most of the South, the lower Midwest and East Coast states as far north as New York and Connecticut. This chance of higher precipitation exceeds 60 percent in the Ohio-Tennessee Valleys and coastal states from Delaware to Florida.

Only in western Oregon and Washington was there a high probability of a dry winter. The chance of excessive moisture exceeds 55 percent from New Mexico, Colorado and Wyoming southwestward to southern California.

This probability of higher than normal moisture is greatest in Utah and adjacent parts of Arizona and Nevada, where it reaches 60 percent.

Problems rumored with royal couple

LONDON (AP) — Friends of Prince Charles say his 16-month marriage to Princess Diana has run into problems and he is desperately keen to get away," the Daily Mail reported today in a gossip column.

Columnist Nigel Dempster said the friends, whom he did not name, were commenting on the amount of time that 34-year-old Charles was choosing to spend away from his 21-year-old wife.

A spokeswoman at Buckingham palace said there would be "no comment on that at all."

Differences between the couple over Charles' fondness for hunting and Diana's reported dislike of all blood sports have been reported previously. But this is the first time any suggestion has been made in public that all is not well with their marriage, which has more often been described in print as a storybook romance.

This week, Charles — a keen horseman, huntsman and polo player — went fox hunting for the fourth straight Monday with the Quorn, an elite fox-hunting club based in Leicestershire in the English Midlands, Dempster noted.

Fox hunting traditionally takes place on Mondays.

Dempster claimed that Diana has no interest in sports Charles enjoys. "Her attitude has created a tension at Kensington Palace (the couple's London home) and Highgrove (their Gloucestershire mansion)," he claimed.

The gossip columnist quoted a fellow Quorn member as saying, "It seems the prince is spending more and more time down here without the princess. It is obviously a release."

According to Dempster, "Friends of Prince Charles are commenting on the time he is spending away from Diana out of choice... And are saying there 'are problems with the couple's 16-month-old marriage."

Last week Dempster quoted a member of the couple's "inner circle" as saying that Diana was showing signs of "cracking" under the strain of public life and relentless press scrutiny and might have to seek psychiatric help.

Abortion

sideration of abortion comes at a time when anti-abortion forces seem to have lost momentum in Congress.

Adding political significance to today's arguments is the Reagan administration's decision to get involved, urging the high court to grant state and local governments more regulatory leeway.

The 1973 decision, called Roe vs. Wade, was based on a woman's constitutional right to privacy.

The court said a woman's decision to have an abortion during the first three months of pregnancy must be left to her and her doctor.

Government statistics show that among adult women, more than 95 percent of all abortions are performed during the first trimester.

Nationwide, more than 1 million legal abortions are performed each year.

Under the 1973 decision, states may interfere in that decision only to protect the woman's health during the pregnancy's second trimester and may take steps to protect fetal life only in the third trimester.

The key case among the three new cases may be from Akron, stemming from sweeping abortion regulations the city tried to enforce four years ago.

In the Missouri case, the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals struck down a state law that imposed the same mandatory hospitalization. But that court upheld the state's requirement of parental or judicial consent for abortions performed on girls under 18 and dependent on their parents.

The president-elect also is known to favor boosting exports and restricting imports to save the few U.S. dollars left in Mexico needed to pay the country's burgeoning $81 billion foreign debt — largest in the Third World.

Mexico plunged into an economic nosedive last August when foreign debt payment came due and the worldwide oil glut cut into its anticipated petroleum export earnings.

The setbacks came amid a massive nationwide development program aimed at cutting unemployment. As budget and planning secretary, de la Madrid played a key role in designing the strategy of fueling high rates of economic growth with oil wealth.

As one observer put it, "he will now have to pick up the ab for that spending spree."

Meet Your Neighbor

Family glad to return to 'Lone Star State'

BY LINDA CAUDLE
Family News Editor
"We are glad to be back in Texas," smiles Sheila Williams, a Hereford resident since July.

Though Sheila was born in Tennessee, her family moved to Lubbock when she was in the sixth grade, and her husband, Wayne, is a Lubbock native.

Since their marriage, they have lived in Temple and Graham, Texas; and for the past two years they've resided near Pottsville, Penn., "way up north."

Sheila says that it was interesting living in the northeast, but that she's glad to get back "home" to Texas.

"People up there would think I was crazy, but I really missed the flat lands, tumbleweeds, and dust storms," laughs Sheila.

"When I get around all those mountains and trees, I get claustrophobia," she adds. "We liked the snow - it just lasted too long!"

"It was a nice place to visit, but I just didn't want to live there."

While living in Pennsylvania, Sheila says they were able to visit a number of interesting places such as Washington D.C. and New York City. They lived about 75 miles from Gettysburg in the midst of the Amish and Pennsylvania Dutch.

The food is very different from here," notes Sheila, "and one thing that was nice was the abundance of open farmers markets where you could buy fresh meat. There were also a lot of apple orchards."

"One thing I learned how to make up there was pizza. There are a lot of Italian people and they really know how to make it good."

Sheila says that Hereford is the closest they've lived to their folks since being married, and they are enjoying that. Having lived in small towns since they left Lubbock, they are used to communities the size of Hereford and like to have their children growing up in a smaller place.

"And the people are all so nice here," she adds.

Wayne is employed as an accountant at Frita Lay Inc. He majored in accounting at Texas Tech University, and Sheila was a child development major there.

She worked for Southwestern Bell as a service representative in Lubbock, and now enjoys staying at home with their children, Seth, a second grader at Northwest School; Kelli, 4 years old; and Jill, 9 months. Wayne likes football, plays golf, and is "a wonderful fix-it-man," according to Sheila. Besides cooking, which Sheila says she enjoys doing, oil painting is an interest which she likes to spend time at when possible.

"I started painting about six years ago when we lived in Lubbock," she comments. "I didn't even know that I could do it, but once I started taking lessons, I found that I really enjoyed it."

Texans participate in National Congress

BY BRAD MORRISON
Assistant County Extension Agent

More than 1,700 4-H'ers from every state, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico are gathered for the 62nd National 4-H Congress, Nov. 28-30, at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago. Forty-six Texans are in the delegation.

With the theme, "4-H Pathways To The Future," the week-long educational program features workshops, assemblies, field trips and recognition events.

Delegates were selected by the Extension Service for outstanding achievement in 4-H projects. During the week, 279 scholarships totaling $259,000 in educational grants will be awarded in some 40 4-H project areas.

In workshops focusing on personal development, delegates are given the opportunity to discuss with experts such topics as computers, grooming, handling emergencies, health and nutrition, stress, positive thinking, decision making and selling yourself.

Delegates are also meeting with 700 leaders of business, industry and education who are attending the annual event in the "windy city." In addition, eight outstanding 4-H alumni will be honored in the National 4-H alumni recognition program.

Delegates will tour the Museum of Science and Industry, the Chicago Board of Trade, Sears Tower, Chicago Mercantile Exchange, Chicago Tribune, Chicago City Hall, Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, Chicago Fire Academy, International Academy of Merchandising and Design, Playskill Inc., and Continental Illinois Bank and Trust.

Young men and women from 49 states and Puerto Rico will model their ensembles at the National 4-H Fashion Revue hosted by Simplicity Pattern Co., Inc. on Wednesday at 9:30 a.m., in the Hilton's Grand Ballroom.

On Thursday morning, delegates, leaders and guests will participate in jazzercise and recreation sessions.

The ninth National 4-H Photo Exhibition, sponsored by Eastman Kodak Company, is on display throughout the Congress in the Continental Room of the Hilton. The show features 250 black-and-white and color prints by 4-H members. Also on display are 100 posters from members in 40 states.

The Congress will conclude Thursday night with the naming of the six presidential award winners, the annual banquet and a farewell dance.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages, regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Contributors to the project will have their names printed on a full-page joint Christmas greeting which will appear in The Brand's Christmas edition.

Donations may be made at canisters located at both banks, the hospital, Thriftway Supermarket, TG&Y, Jack and Jill, JJ's Hair Fashions, Furrs, Taylor & Sons, Park Avenue Florist, Touch of Class, Little's Helen's, The Deli, and Carl McCaslin Lumber Co.

In order for contributor's names to appear in the greeting, donations must be made by Dec. 18.

Local residents are encouraged to express their yuletide greetings by participating in Project Christmas Card, which has begun its 26th year.

Started by the wife of a doctor in 1956, the purpose of the Project Christmas Card is to collect money normally spent on mailing local Christmas cards for use in improving the local hospital and in providing scholarships for students entering health-related courses.

Contributors to the project will have their names printed on a full-page joint Christmas greeting which will appear in The Brand's Christmas edition.

Donations may be made at canisters located at both banks, the hospital, Thriftway Supermarket, TG&Y, Jack and Jill, JJ's Hair Fashions, Furrs, Taylor & Sons, Park Avenue Florist, Touch of Class, Little's Helen's, The Deli, and Carl McCaslin Lumber Co.

Today In History

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 30, the 334th day of 1982. There are 31 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Nov. 30, 1962, U Thant of Burma was elected United Nations Secretary General.

On this date: In 1782, America and Britain signed preliminary peace articles in Paris, ending the Revolutionary War.

In 1949, the Chinese Communists captured the city of Chungking.

In 1975, President Gerald Ford flew to China on a state visit.

In 1978, Pope John Paul II was reported to have met secretly with four black nationalist leaders from South Africa.

Ten years ago: The U.S. military command announced that a week had gone by without a single American combat fatality in Vietnam, the first time that had happened in eight years.

Five years ago: President Carter endorsed Egypt's proposal for a Middle East peace conference in Cairo.

One year ago: The United States and Soviet Union opened nuclear arms reduction talks in Geneva.

Today's birthdays: Actor Efrem Zimbalist Jr. is 59.

Thought for today: "The fundamental defect of fathers is that they want their children to be a credit to them." — Bertrand Russell, British mathematician-philosopher (1872-1970).

Bowl matchups interesting; create controversy

BY LES GILES
Sports Editor

The bowl matchups are set. And, as is the case virtually every year, there is a certain amount of controversy.

This year, it's kinda hard to understand why either Tulsa or New Mexico, both teams 10-1, or perhaps both, aren't in one of the bowl games.

How could teams like Wisconsin (at 6-5), Kansas State (6-4-1), Air Force (7-5) or Iowa (7-4), or even Tennessee (6-4-1) be invited over Tulsa or New Mexico.

The lackluster of some of those teams sorta makes a travesty of certain games.

I always thought bowl games were supposed to reward teams with outstanding records. Maybe that's not the case, in some instances.

I was looking through previous bowl game records, and found some interesting facts concerning this year's matchups.

So, starting with the Independence Bowl, Dec. 11, here are how this year's games shape up:

INDEPENDENCE BOWL - Wisconsin (6-5) vs. Kansas State (6-4-1): While this isn't your basic biggie, it nevertheless offers an interesting matchup. Wisconsin is 0-4 in bowl games (it most recently lost to Tennessee in last year's Garden State Bowl) while K-State is making its first-ever appearance in any bowl.

HOLIDAY BOWL - Ohio State (8-3) vs. Brigham Young University (8-3) Dec. 11: The Buckeyes are 7-9 in bowl games, while BYU is 2-4. BYU is making its fifth straight Holiday Bowl appearance (it is 2-2), while Ohio State is making its first. Last year, the Buckeyes beat Navy in the Liberty Bowl. BYU has been involved in some great Holiday Bowl games, losing to Navy, 23-16, in 1978 and Indiana, 38-37, in 1979, before beating SMU, 46-45, in '80 and Washington State, 38-36, last year.

TANGERINE BOWL Boston College (8-2-1) vs. Auburn

(8-3), Dec. 18: BC is 1-2 in bowl games, and making its first appearance in one since 1943. Auburn, meanwhile, is 6-7-1 in bowl games, but it's the Tiger's first bowl appearance since a 27-3 win over Texas in the 1974 Gator Bowl. Boston College's only bowl win came in the 1941 Sugar Bowl against Tennessee, 19-13.

SUN BOWL - Texas (8-2 with one regular season game remaining) vs. North Carolina (7-4): This is a rematch of the 1980 Bluebonnet Bowl clash, won by North Carolina, 16-7. Both are experienced bowl clubs. Texas is 15-11-2 over the years and NC 5-8. Both are making their third trip to the Sun Bowl, and each is 1-1. Texas defeated Maryland, 42-0, in 1978, then lost to Washington, 14-7, the next year. The Tar Heels beat Texas Tech, 32-28, in the 1972 Sun Bowl Clash, then were upended by Mississippi State, 26-24, in 1974.

ALOHA BOWL - Maryland (8-3) vs. Washington (9-2), Dec. 25: This is the inaugural Aloha Bowl. Maryland is 4-7-1 in bowl games through the years, while the Huskies are 5-5-1 (with only one previous game out of the Rose Bowl). Washington won last year's Rose Bowl (beating Iowa, 28-0). Maryland's last bowl game was the 1980 Tangerine Bowl, in which the Terps lost, 35-20, to Florida.

LIBERTY BOWL - Alabama (7-4) vs. Illinois (7-4), Dec. 29: The Crimson Tide comes into this game in an unusual situation - it's the first time they've ever lost three games in a row in the same season under Bear Bryant. Over the years, Alabama has been one of college football's most prolific bowl teams, posting a 18-14-3 mark. Last year, the Tide lost to Texas (14-12) in the Cotton Bowl. Illinois is making its first appearance in a bowl game since 1964. The Fighting Illini are 3-0 in bowl games, and all three appearances have been in the Rose Bowl.

GATOR BOWL - West Virginia (9-2) vs. Florida State (8-2, with one game remaining), Dec. 30: The Mountaineers are 6-3 in bowl games, while Florida State is 2-7-1. West Virginia won last year's Peach Bowl (26-6 over Florida). Florida State did not play in a bowl game last year, but prior to that the Seminoles were on the short end of two straight Orange Bowl encounters against the University of Oklahoma.

HALL of FAME BOWL - Vanderbilt (8-3) vs. Air Force (7-5), Dec. 31: Neither team has been to many bowl games. Vandy is 1-0-1, while Air Force is 0-2-1. Vanderbilt is making its first bowl trip since 1974 when it tied Texas Tech (6-6) in the Peach Bowl. Air Force hasn't been to a bowl since 1971 when it lost to Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl. Vandy's only bowl win came against Auburn in the 1955 Gator. Air Force lost in the 1963 Gator Bowl to North Carolina, and played a scoreless tie against TCU in the '59 Cotton Bowl.

BLUEBONNET BOWL - Arkansas (8-1-1 with one regular season game left) vs. Florida (7-3, also with a game remaining), Dec. 31: Both are making their first appearance in the Bluebonnet, although both are experienced bowl participants. Arkansas is 7-9-3 through the years, while Florida is 6-7. The Razorbacks lost to North Carolina, 31-27, in last year's Gator Bowl, while Florida was beaten by West Virginia in the Peach Bowl.

PEACH BOWL - Tennessee (6-4-1) vs. Iowa (7-4) Dec. 31: Both were in bowl games a year ago, Tennessee beating Wisconsin in the Garden State Bowl, while Iowa lost in the Rose to Washington. The Vols are 12-12 through the years, while Iowa is 2-1. The Hawkeyes have never been to a bowl game except the Rose, prior to this year.

FIESTA BOWL - Oklahoma (8-3) vs. Arizona State (9-2), Jan. 1: First meeting between these two schools in a bowl game. OU is 16-6-1 in bowl competition, while the Sun Devils are 6-4-1. Last year, the Sooners ripped Houston (40-14) in the Sun Bowl. Oklahoma is making its second Fiesta Bowl appearance, while ASU is making its sixth trip to the bowl which is on its own campus. Arizona State is 4-1 in previous Fiesta Bowl games, losing only to Penn State in 1977 (42-39). OU won its only previous Fiesta battle, smashing Wyoming, 41-7, in the 1976 affair.

COTTON BOWL - Pittsburgh (9-2) vs. SMU (10-0-1), Jan. 1: SMU is 3-5-1 in bowl games, while Pitt is 7-7. It's Pittsburgh's first ever trip to Dallas for the New Year's Day clash. SMU is making its first Cotton Bowl appearance since 1966, when it lost to Georgia, 24-9. Pitt won last year's Sugar Bowl (24-20) against Georgia. SMU's last bowl appearance was in the 1980 Holiday Bowl, losing to BYU, 46-45.

SUGAR BOWL - Georgia (11-0) vs. Penn State (10-1), Jan. 1: This one is for the national championship as they are ranked 1-2 in the wire service polls. Georgia is 10-10-1 in previous bowl appearances, while Penn State is 12-6-2. The Bulldogs are making their third straight Sugar Bowl appearance, while the Nittany Lions are making their first appearance there since 1979, when they lost to Alabama.

ORANGE BOWL - Nebraska (10-1) vs. LSU (8-2-1), Jan. 1: These teams met in the 1971 Orange Bowl, and the game decided the national championship (Nebraska won, 17-12). The Cornhuskers are 11-9 in bowl appearances, while the Tigers are 10-11-1. Last year, Nebraska lost to Clemson in this bowl, 22-15. LSU is making its first Orange Bowl appearance since 1974, when it lost to Penn State, 16-9. LSU's last bowl game was in 1979, when it defeated Wake Forest in the Tangerine.

ROSE BOWL - UCLA (9-1-1) vs. Michigan (8-3), Jan. 1: The first-ever meeting in the Rose Bowl between these teams, although Michigan did beat the Bruins, 33-14, in last year's Bluebonnet clash. One of Michigan's three losses this season came at the hands of UCLA (31-27 the third week of the season). The Bruins are 2-7-1 in bowl games, while the Wolverines are 6-7. UCLA's last Rose Bowl game was a 23-10 win over Ohio State in 1976. Michigan defeated Washington two years ago, 23-6.

Torres, Cera pace Stanton boys cage victories

Rodney Torres tossed in 18 points, while Joe Cera had 17 as Stanton's 9th and 7th grade boys basketball teams registered victories Monday against Clovis Gattis.

Torres paced the 9th grade, now 1-1 this season, to a 57-40 triumph, while Cera sparked the 7th grade to a 39-30 win.

Gattis' 8th grade, however, escaped with a 45-40 win despite 11 points from Stanton's Kyle Streun. That loss dropped Stanton's 8th grade team to 1-1.

The girls found the going much tougher however, losing all three games.

Gattis won the 7th grade game, 32-11; the 8th grade contest, 37-27 and the 9th grade clash, 49-32.

Carla Fry scored four points to lead Stanton's 7th grade. Pansie Wilson tossed in nine points and Bernice Ross eight in the 8th grade game. Whitney Drake led the 9th grade with 13 points.

The losses left Stanton's 8th and 9th grade teams 1-1 this season. The 7th grade fell to 0-2.

The Hereford Junior High Girls Tournament will begin a three-day run Thursday at both Stanton and LaPlata gyms. The 7th grade tourney will feature the two Hereford teams (and both will field a pair of teams). Walcott, Clovis Yucca and two teams from Plainview.

The 8th and 9th grade tournaments will feature the same teams, with the exception of Gattis. Walcott will not have teams in the 8th and 9th grade division.

Championship games Saturday are slated for 11:15 a.m. (7th grade), 1:45 p.m. (8th) and 4:15 p.m. (9th grade).

Stanton's boys teams will not play again until the junior high tourney Dec. 9-11.

Is Seaver headed back to Mets?

NEW YORK (AP) - Three-time Cy Young Award winner Tom Seaver may return to the New York Mets by Friday if the National League club can work out a trade with the Cincinnati Reds, according to a published report.

The Mets, for whom Seaver won 189 games in 10 1/2 seasons, would like to wrap up a trade for the 264-game winner before the start of next week's winter meetings in Honolulu, the New York Daily News reported Tuesday.

The Hereford Junior High Girls Tournament will begin a three-day run Thursday at both Stanton and LaPlata gyms. The 7th grade tourney will feature the two Hereford teams (and both will field a pair of teams). Walcott,

In Brand Football Contest

Prize winners named

Even the entrants in the winner's circle had a tough time picking the football contest winners on the final week, but John David Bryant picked up the $100 Grand Prize after missing 10 games.

Ed Delozier also missed 10 games but his guess of 54 on the tiebreaker score was not as close as Bryant's 35. The Green Bay-New York total was 28.

George Loerwald was all alone in third place for the $15 grand prize, while several missed 12 games. Bev Bryant, Frank Cogdell, Melvin Kalka, Sr. and Rick Castena were next in line.

A total of 35 contestants, all previous money winners this season, competed for the grand prize awards.

In the final regular weekly contest, Joaquin Gamez, 1507 Irvin, captured the $25 first prize. He was one of five contestants who missed 11 games, but he hit the 28 tiebreaker score on the nose.

D'Ann Hill took second prize of $15 in Hereford Bucks and Bridget Baker won the $10 third prize. Others who missed 11 games were Jerry Morgan and Melvin Kalka Jr.

Winners can pick up their Hereford Bucks at the Brand office, 313 Lee St.

The season-long contest was made possible by a number of local business firms and institutions. They included:

Crown Auto Sales, First Printing Co., The Unique Shop, Hereford Ford-Lincoln-Mercury, West Texas Rural Telephone Cooperative, Hereford State Bank, Deaf Smith REC, Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union;

Hi-Plains Savings & Loan, Holly Sugar Corp., Savage's Hickory Pit, Hereford Cablevision, Stevens Chevrolet-Olds, The Sports Stop, Cashway Lumber Co., Stagner-Orsborn Buick-Pontiac-GMC, First National Nursery, Summerfield Fertilizer, The Funny Farm, Garrison Seed, McKnight Home Center, First National Bank, Anthony's, Plains Insurance Agency, Rose Furniture-Appliance, and Winn's.

NFL player representatives to be polled about bargaining agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Football League's chief negotiator and the executive director of the players' union met privately in an effort to iron out language problems in the tentative agreement of Nov. 16 that ended the 57-day players' strike.

Meanwhile, player representatives from around the league were scheduled to be polled later today on whether they will recommend that the full membership either ratify or reject the contract when the league's 1,500 players vote on it Friday.

Prior to Monday night's session, union officials had predicted the players would probably reject the agreement but would vote to continue playing without a contract.

Union Chief Ed Garvey said late Monday night he was prepared to meet Jack Donlan, executive director of the NFL Management Council, the league's bargaining agent, at the union's headquarters in Washington. But they could not be reached for comment early today.

Although Donlan has said the league considers negotiations at an end and that a "complete and total agreement" was reached Nov. 16, his meeting with union negotiators could indicate the league is still concerned about players rejecting the pact.

A week ago last Tuesday, union officials set a Monday midnight deadline for management negotiators to clarify more than two dozen points of contention union officials said remain unresolved.

Monday night's meeting was the first joint session between negotiators since the union announced its deadline.

The tentative agreement calls for distribution of $1.6 billion in salaries and benefits over the next five years. The contract also includes a one-time $60-million cash bonus plan that calls for each player in the league to receive between $10,000 and $60,000.

If the players fail to ratify the contract Friday, club owners will retract the cash bonuses, Donlan has said.

Volleyball meet slated Thursday

A meeting to discuss formation of a YMCA men's volleyball league will be held Thursday beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the YMCA.

Anyone interested in participating should plan to attend the meeting. Rules, scheduling and fees will be discussed.

For 3-5A opener

Hereford girls visit Palo Duro

Hereford's girls, with a win against Dimmitt under their belt, travel to Amarillo tonight to open their District 3-5A basketball season against Palo Duro. Game time in the PD gym is 7:30.

The Whitefaces begin league play with a 1-1 record. They lost to Levelland (63-38) in the season opener last Tuesday, then came back to register a 46-40 win at Dimmitt Friday, behind a 24-point performance by Stephanie Foster.

In the game against Dimmitt, Hereford's aggressive, pressing defense forced 34 turnovers, which in part led to the triumph.

Palo Duro, which lost twice to pre-season district title favorite Amarillo High (in the Amarillo City Girls' Tournament) starts district play with a 2-3 record.

Other games tonight find AHS at Lubbock Coronado. The Sandies are 4-0 this season, and have won 36 straight regular season games.

Plainview visits Lubbock High, while Monterey hosts Tascosa in the other district battles. A non-conference matchup finds Crockpot at Canyon.

Hereford's boys, 0-2 this season, meet Morton Thursday at 5 p.m. in an opening round game of the Levelland Tournament. The Whiteface girls also are entered there.

Ann Landers Positively negative

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You have said more than once in your column that alcoholism is the No. 1 health problem, not only in the United States, but also in many other countries in the world. Please print the enclosed message that came in the mail — anonymously. It was, I am sure, sent by someone who cared enough to let me know he (or she) was concerned about my drinking. I am taking the message to heart and hope others will, too. Thanks, Ann. — Received And Noted In Corning

DEAR R. AND N.: I like it. Here it is.

POSITIVELY NEGATIVE
We drank for joy and became miserable.
We drank for sociability and became argumentative.
We drank for sophistication and became obnoxious.
We drank for friendship and made enemies.
We drank for sleep and awakened exhausted.
We drank for strength and felt weak.
We drank to feel exhilaration and ended up depressed.
We drank for "medicinal purposes" and acquired health problems.
We drank to get calmed down and ended up with the shakes.

• We drank for confidence and became afraid.
We drank to make conversation flow more easily and the words came out slurred and incoherent.
We drank to diminish our problems and saw them multiply.
We drank to feel heavenly and ended up feeling like hell.
We drank to cope with life and invited death.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently my husband and I traveled several hundred miles to see a musical comedy. We paid a great deal of money for those tickets. The songs were from the '30s and '40s. We remembered them well.

An older gentleman seated next to my husband also remembered them. In fact, he knew all the lyrics to every song in the show, and sang (off-key) along with the vocalists and chorus.

My husband was visibly annoyed so I offered to change seats with him. I suffered in silence because I didn't want to interfere with the old gentleman's pleasure.

When the show was over, my husband told me that changing seats didn't help much because he could still hear the old goat singing his fool head off, and it spoiled the evening for him. I didn't tell him my evening was spoiled too.

How would you have dealt with the problem, Ann Landers — in case there's a next time? — Traverse City Readers

DEAR T.C.R.: After the first rendition by the man with the marvelous memory, I would have turned to him and said, "I think it's remarkable that you remembered every word of that song and I'll bet you know them all, but I hope you won't sing anymore. It isn't fair to the performers OR to the audience. Thank you for being so considerate."

Scholarship Recipient

Richard Kendrick, seated, junior accounting major at West Texas State University and son of Mr. and Mrs. R.D. Kendrick of 106 Pecan, has been awarded a $250 scholarship for the fall semester from the Amarillo Copper Refinery of Asarco Inc. Standing are W.T.J. McLean, personnel director of Asarco Inc., who presented the scholarship, and Dr. James Davis, WTSU professor of accounting and head of the Department of Financial Administration. Kendrick is a newly-initiated member of Alpha Chi national honorary society and a former member of WTSU Circle C.

Swigert undergoing chemotherapy treatment

DENVER (AP) — Jack Swigert, an Apollo 13 astronaut newly elected to Congress, faces a hospital stay of a "few days" after his regular weekend chemotherapy treatment, an aide says.

Swigert, who has bone marrow cancer, has been undergoing chemotherapy treatment since mid-September.

He was admitted to Denver Presbyterian Medical Center last Wednesday after reporting a fever, said June Weiss, Swigert's press secretary.

They went ahead and did his regular chemotherapy treatment on Saturday without really identifying the source of the fever and infection," Ms. Weiss said.

Swigert would remain in the hospital "another few days, two or three days, I would guess," she said Monday.

Swigert, 51, a Republican, was elected Nov. 2 to represent the new 8th Congressional District. He won more than 60 percent of the vote.

When extra ice cubes are needed for punches, or ice buckets at parties, use muffin tins instead of buying new ice cube trays. The big ice cubes will last longer.

Garcia is initiated into society

Maria Garcia, a student at West Texas State University from Hereford, has been initiated into the Gamma Kappa Chapter of Sigma Delta Pi national Spanish honor society.

Ms. Garcia is a senior elementary education major.

Members must be enrolled in third year courses in Spanish and have at least a 3.0 average based on the 4.0 scale in the courses.

Students participate in living nativity

Cool fall evenings will set the scene as members of the Latter Day Saints Student Association at West Texas State University present the living nativity Monday through Saturday, Dec. 6-11.

Each evening from 7 to 8:30 p.m., several students, faculty and staff members from WTSU will repeat the Christmas story with consecutive showings every 15 minutes on the hill at the Southwestern Corner of Kimbrough Memorial Stadium.

Among the students who are members of the cast are Christy Duncanson, freshman English major, and Michael Morgan, freshman math major, both from Hereford.

Members of the WTSU faculty and staff who participate are David Trew, an employee in the maintenance department; David Rindlisbacher, associate professor of art; Dr. Douglas Bingham, associate professor of biology; and Dr. Larry Higgins, associate professor of biology.

The idea for the living nativity came from the co-producer, Heidi Rindlisbacher, a graduate student at WTSU from Canyon. She had participated as student chairperson of a similar event at Southern Utah State University.

Sound effects for the performance are taped. Maintenance department employees have prepared a sound system to enable spectators to hear and view from their vehicles "with the windows up," said David Rindlisbacher.

He said other items have been provided by the WTSU Department of Speech and Theatre and the Activities Center. Community residents have assisted with costumes and technical work.

There is no charge for the living nativity. Weather has not forced cancellation of the program in the past six years, said Rindlisbacher.

Chamber Singers Christmas musical scheduled Dec. 12

The Hereford Chamber Singers will present a Christmas musical entitled "Home for Christmas" at 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 12, in the sanctuary of First Christian Church.

The public is invited to this special presentation, which tells a story of Christmas in the life of one family. A wide variety of music is included, along with several traditional Christmas carols.

The program is free of charge. All ages will enjoy the music and the story.

Dress rehearsal for members of the Chamber Singers will be at 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 11, at First Christian Church.

Lutheranism was introduced into America by Dutch colonists on Manhattan Island.

ACT Assessment - individualized help

IOWA CITY, IOWA - Beginning this month, students who take the ACT Assessment - the college admissions testing program in which more than a million students participate each year - will receive their results in a new report format. The new ACT Assessment Program Student Report presents Assessment information in a personalized message prepared individually for each student. This student-oriented message simplifies the task of interpreting results, and it invites the student to get involved in the process of understanding and using the information the report contains.

The new report has been designed to help "demystify" the information that is provided through a standardized testing program. The report translates the facts and numbers generated by the test process into a plain-English explanation of what they mean and how they can be used by the individual student and by counselors and parents. The meaning of technical concepts such as norms and percentile ranks is explained on the report itself, in a discussion that refers specifically to the student's own performance. Interpretive commentary is keyed directly to the student's own test scores, plans, and interests.

College-bound students who have taken the ACT Assessment are likely to have questions like these in mind:

How did I do on the tests?

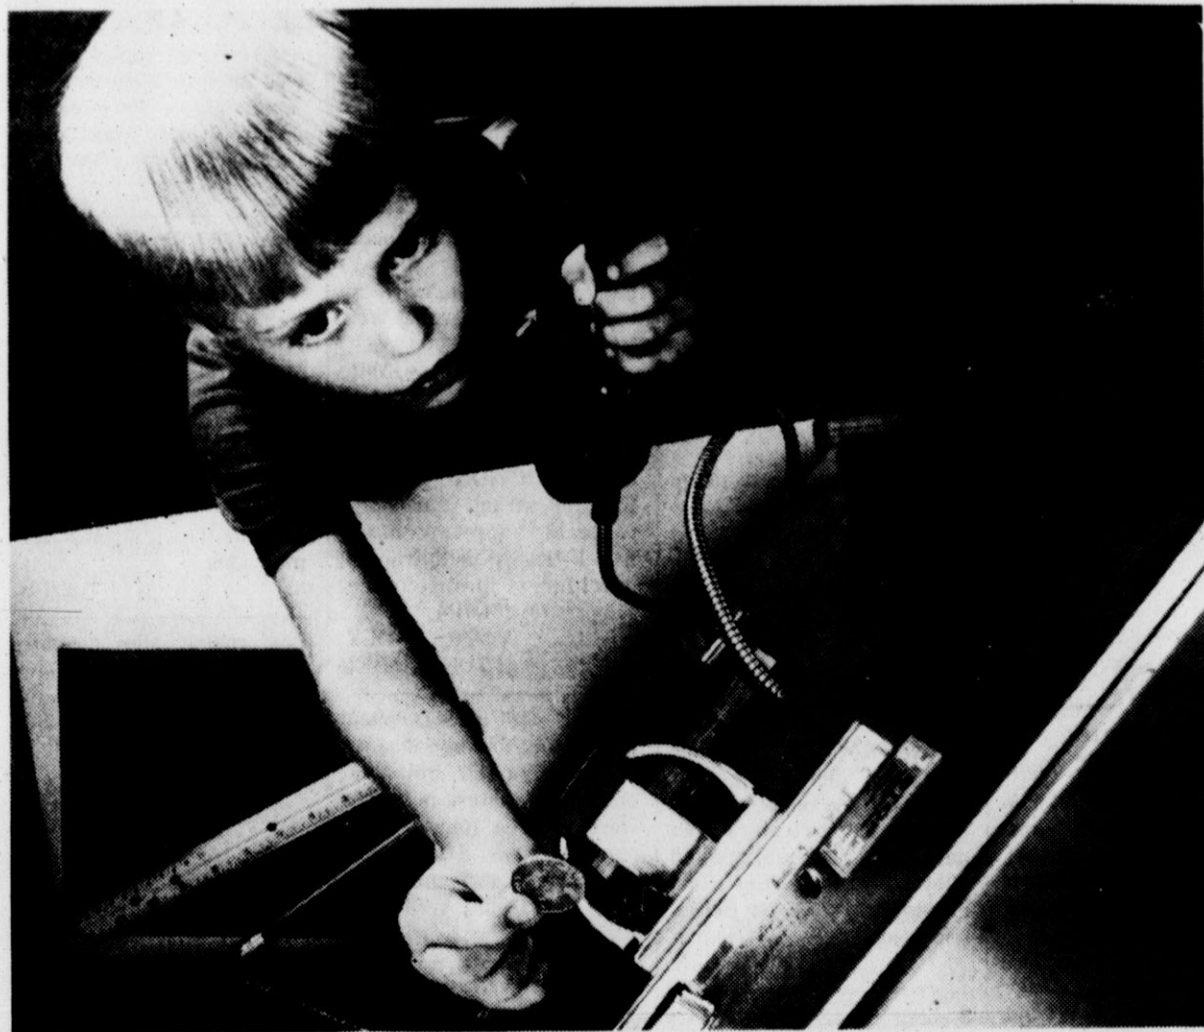

What kinds of colleges would be a good fit for me?

What kinds of majors and occupations do people with interest like mine choose?

To help them find answers to these questions, the information on the new report is organized in three sections that address these concerns. And the sections of the report are clearly referenced to the corresponding parts of the student guide. Using Your ACT Assessment Results, that accompanies each report.

The goal of the staff who produced the report has been to develop a format that would be easy to understand.

When Your Child Needs You...

Make Sure You're Only A Call Away.

You never know when a youngster may need to call from a coin phone. So, it's a good idea to have your child keep a quarter handy to telephone.

Southwestern Bell has a card for that purpose. It's called a "Quarter Keeper."

In addition to a slot designed to hold a quarter, it includes names and numbers to contact during an emergency.

To order your "Quarter Keeper," just complete the coupon.

The card reminds your child you're only a phone call away.

... at your service for 100 years.

An active 'Retirement' at home for Hugh Hefner

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

I had an aunt once who moved from the East to the West Coast and suffered from jet lag for three years.

It was something she couldn't seem to shake. Every night she went to bed at 7 p.m. and woke up at 3 a.m. It had an effect on her whole life. She didn't know what prime time was. She'd call up people at her breakfast and tell them to have a good day when they hadn't seen it yet. And it wasn't unusual for her to invite you to a candlelight dinner at 4:30 in the afternoon. (Happy hour was at 3:30).

We had a lot of fun at her expense, but I always empathized with her. Jet lag is nothing to kid around about. For those of you who have had no experience with it, let me explain what happens.

When you travel on a plane from one time zone to the next, not only does your body not know how to adjust to the change, it never forgives you for what you have done to it.

Jet lag takes away all your control over your life. The best way I can explain it is that it's a lot like standing up on a crowded subway from Bulgaria to New York. You're eating cabbage rolls at 4 a.m. and you don't know why. You're sleeping with your eyes open and you don't know why. Your head falls in your soup over a late lunch and you don't know why.

Some of the more sophisticated travelers have tried to fool their bodies. Suppose it is 11 p.m. in California and 2 a.m. in New York. They rationalize if they go to bed at 1 a.m. in California, they wake up at 7 a.m. in New York. Right? Wrong. They'll wake up at 11 a.m. in California and are late for their appointment.

There's another interesting phenomenon about a body that travels. It never turns down food. I could fly through 18 time zones in 18 hours and have a full course meal in every one of them. I have seen people outgrow their seat belts from New York to Hawaii.

There's a group of researchers who are studying ways of how to get the body to adjust to air miles. They've got it down to a diet in which you plan and reschedule your meals several days before you go on a trip. Frankly, I think it would be easier to slow the planes down.

I have my own theory. I think that jet lag is a disease of the middle class as they struggle desperately to get from one place to another.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bunny mogul Hugh Hefner rarely leaves the hutch, his luxurious bachelor pad in the exclusive Holmby Hills. But that's the way he's always operated, even when he was president of the troubled Playboy empire.

Now, less than a year after he turned over active management of Playboy Enterprises Inc. to his daughter, Hefner denies rumors describing him as burned-out and mired in depression while others run Playboy.

"That all started with an article which was written as if the guy had never been here and knew nothing about me or Playboy," Hefner, clad in his customary silk pajamas and robe, said during a recent interview.

"I really have been more involved, in part because of some of the economic problems. But I have not been involved in what might be considered the operating management of the company for a decade and a half."

It was 5 p.m. Hefner had arisen a couple of hours earlier and was settled on a couch before a backgammon-board table in an elegant study inside his 30-room, Tudor-style mansion. He fiddled with the omnipresent pipe and spoke again about the gossip which swirls around his reclusive life.

"My work style is such, and has been for more than 20 years, that I work afternoons and evenings. I work in pajamas. I think these things create some of those impressions," he said. "But I've found there just aren't many reasons to go out."

Indeed, Hefner's 5½-acre complex must be the ultimate bachelor pad: staff of 30, tennis court, custom pool with stereo-equipped spa and Jacuzzi tucked under a mock-waterfall, guesthouse crammed with pinball and video games, a small zoo, aviary and fishpond.

Inside the gray stone mansion are marble-floored halls, luxurious dining room, library and an enormous master bedroom with four televisions, four video recorders, lighting and curtains all controlled from the more than king-sized bed. Also there to share it all is Shannon Tweed, a 25-year-old blonde who is the 1982 Playmate of the Year.

It has been 29 years this December since Hefner began publishing Playboy magazine on his kitchen table. His $600 investment has made him a multimillionaire, able to indulge any whim, follow any fantasy. He knows it upsets people.

"It seems obvious to me that the two great guilts in our society are material wealth and sex, and if you tie the two together it really starts giving people problems," he said. "And if you do it in such a fashion that everything seems to work for you and you seem to be having an awful lot of fun at it, then it does touch some nerves."

Not that he loses much sleep worrying. Now 56, Hefner has turned over management of the Playboy empire to his 29-year-old daughter Christie, who became president in April. He remains chairman.

"My average day during the week begins in the early afternoon and starts usually with some dictation. I usually go into a meeting about two or three o'clock, and that takes up the rest of the afternoon. Then, into the evening hours," he said.

"I usually retire about midnight or one o'clock, and then probably spend the next three or four hours relaxing with my girlfriend, eating, watching a movie on tapes. That would be a typical day."

It hasn't been Playboy's best year. The company sold off its lucrative London casinos under pressure from British regulatory authorities because of alleged gaming law infractions and also liquidated its book publishing operation, two resort hotels and the New York Playboy Club. Altogether, Playboy lost more than $50 million in fiscal 1982 and doesn't expect much more than a breakeven 1983.

But Hefner, who still owns two-thirds of the company, was upbeat about Playboy's future.

"What fiscal 1982 has been all about for us (was) cleaning up the balance sheet, getting out of businesses... that were borderline or not profitable and also of turning specific equities we had into cash and getting our balance sheet into a strongest cash position," he said.

"I'm very much involved in the video, particularly because it is a brand new area for us. It's a matter, as with the magazine, of sort of setting the course to begin with and then others can follow," he said.

Hefner, a Chicago native who worked for Esquire before starting Playboy, said the idea for a different kind of men's magazine grew out of his own Midwestern upbringing.

"I grew up in a strong Methodist home that espoused values that were rather typical of the time, that were rather repressive in terms of sex and other related values," he said.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher

Renewing a countertop

DEAR POLLY — I have a Formica countertop in my kitchen that I would like to renew. I can't afford to replace the entire top, however, I would like to cover it with ceramic tiles. Is this possible? — K.G.E.

DEAR K.G.E. — Yes, it is possible, providing you use an epoxy-base tile grout that will adhere to the plastic laminate surface. This grout should be mixed with one-half to two-thirds parts sand. When you purchase your tile and grout, be sure to let the dealer know what surface you're planning to cover so that he or she can advise you on the proper product. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — As a full-time housewife and mother of four youngsters, reading time is minimal. I make the most of what little time I do have by clipping and saving small tidbits and articles that I run across in newspapers and magazines. These may be about love or simply everyday good thoughts. Later, I tape them up by a bathroom or bedroom mirror, or around the kitchen sink. Throughout the day, as I pass by these places, I glance at the articles posted there and catch a phrase or two. It usually takes my mind off my work or troubles. And, it makes me think happy or loving thoughts toward my children and my husband. I'd be willing to bet I smile and give a bit more love after reading these items. — MRS. C.M.S.

DEAR POLLY — Instead of using powdered cleansers to scrub sink and bathtub, I put some automatic dishwasher detergent in a squeeze bottle, add water and shake. Then I squeeze this into sink or tub and rub with a sponge. Comes out sparkling. — EMMA

DEAR POLLY — I've finally come up with a way to get that last little drop of spaghetti sauce out of the jar, without adding water to dilute the sauce. I pour the sauce into a pan, then put cooked spaghetti into the jar, recap and shake. Sometimes it might take a couple of tries to get all the sauce out, but I feel good about never again throwing out that last few tablespoons of sauce stuck in the jar. — MRS. P.B.

HEALTH Surgery for sweating

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — In one of your columns you mentioned surgery that can be done in cases of severe underarm perspiration. This is a solution I could only dream was possible. What is this surgery called and what kind of doctor would perform it? Would I consult a plastic surgeon and what kind of scars would be left? I've tried everything and this seems to be my only hope. Please help.

DEAR READER — You might want to see a dermatologist first and see if there are any other measures that you have not tried that might be successful for you. If not, he might direct you to a competent specialist in your area for surgery.

There are three surgical approaches. One involves cutting the chain of sympathetic nerves (upper thoracic sympathetic chain) that is the root source of fibers to the underarm and hand area for sweating. If the feet are a problem a lumbar sympathectomy can be done.

A second but temporary approach is to cut the terminal nerve fibers to the area.

The third method could be done by a plastic surgeon and is really rather simple. It is to cut away all the skin in the area. This has been used for under the arm sweating. It removes the sweat glands. Obviously you would have a scar in the area under the arms but with careful work it could be a small incisional scar.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am just a layperson but I feel my experience with older folks gives me a little extra insight. I have seen more than a few cases of people in their 70s and 80s who took a flight and either had a stroke or heart failure while on board or within a few hours of landing. With the exception of one case, all of these people became little more than vegetables, afraid or unwilling to resume their former active lifestyle — in a lot of cases totally unable.

These were all people under a doctor's care who flew with medical permission. This is just another example of age discrimination through ignorance. Airlines don't care. If you need oxygen you'd better arrange to bring it on board yourself.

DEAR READER — One thing you learn in science is not to draw conclusions on a few observations. That is why research designs are so important to what conclusion can be drawn.

It is true that some people with medical problems cannot fly without supplemental oxygen. But to put your concern into perspective, an airplane cruising at 35,000 feet has the same cabin altitude as Denver.

Senator takes stand in trial, denies being offered bribe

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Howard Cannon, who lost a re-election bid after being tied to an alleged plot to sidetrack trucking legislation, denied being offered a bribe and testified he didn't know the Teamsters' president from "a bale of hay" at the time.

Wearing a U.S. flag pin on his lapel, the Nevada Democrat testified Monday on behalf of Teamsters President Roy L. Williams and four others charged with conspiring to bribe Cannon to thwart passage of trucking deregulation laws.

The government claims the alleged bribe took place at a Jan. 10, 1979, meeting in Cannon's Las Vegas office.

"I didn't know Roy Williams from a bale of hay when he came into my office," Cannon testified in U.S. District Court, adding he didn't recall Williams saying a word during the meeting.

Cannon is not charged in the case, and the trucking bill eventually passed with his support. He lost his re-election bid on Nov. 2 to Republican Chic Hecht in what was considered a major upset.

In response to questioning by Williams' attorney Thomas Wadden, Williams said he wasn't offered a bribe or anything of value and he didn't make an agreement on how he would handle deregulation laws.

Cannon testified that the Senate Commerce Committee, of which he was chairman, produced a bill in reasonable time that was "adamantly opposed" by the Teamsters union.

Much of the government's case is built on tape recordings of conversations electronically intercepted by the FBI during 14 months of eavesdropping on the telephones and offices of Dorfman, 58, and one of his employees, William Webbe. Webbe and some of the defendants are frequently heard on the tapes talking about a "commitment" they had with Cannon.

In a May 21, 1979, taped conversation between Dorfman and Cannon, the two acknowledge some sort of land deal existed. The defense contends the Teamsters wanted only to give Cannon a fair chance to bid on the 5.8-acre tract.

Hunting from helicopter nets fines

LUBBOCK — A federal judge here has fined five West Texas residents $21,000 for their part in the killing of 10 white-tailed deer from a helicopter in 1981.

The five were convicted after pleading guilty to violations of the federal Airborne Hunting Act. Texas Parks and Wildlife Department game wardens arrested the men on Nov. 21, 1981, after receiving calls from two hunters and a neighboring farmer that a helicopter was being used to "haze" deer into the range of hunters.

After the arrest, game wardens found untaxed or improperly tagged deer in a barn near the scene of the shooting. Some of the deer had been shot from above with buckshot, officials said. Skeletons of three other deer also were recovered.

Four of the men received $5,000 fines, the maximum penalty prescribed under the Airborne Hunting Act. The fifth man, who cooperated with officials during the investigation, was fined $1,000.
