Becent press dispatches telling of the brilliant work of the Thirty Sixth Division in France have ON ACCOUNT INFLUENZA been absorbed with deepest interest by the people of this section, as the Thirty Sixth is the Texas Division embracing the old Texas National Guard, and at least 27 boys from this immediate community are members of it.

The Brand has secured a list of names of local boys in this Divis ion, which is probably not complote, but which is published now on account of the intense interest manifested in the fortunes of the Thirty Sixth. Any errors or omissions in this list will be most gladly embodied in another article if the proper information is given. The list of boys known to be or believed to be members of the Thirty-Sixth follows: George LeGrand, Jack Jones, Frank Jesse, Ernest Woodburn, Lee Chamness, Clell Cochell, Leonard Foster, Logan Sawyer, Melvin Standifer, Wayne Wheeler, Henry McKinley, Charles Bennett, Roger Johnson, Robert Elliott, Jim Sain, Taylor Keeler, Tape Wyche, George Messenger, Roy Baker, Dan Christy, L. The story of America's Second Division, attacking with General Gour and a army, of thet. 3, when it min over three miles against the stronge enemy positions, helping the French break the energy reststance and freeing the martyred city of Rheims, has already been told.

Starting just west of Sommepy the Second Division conquered the fortress like hill called Mont Blane and then Mendah Farm, shattering all resistance. On Oct. 5 they again gained positions within 500 yarts of the vilinge of St. Ettenne and Arnes, and here they held until Oct. 7. when the Texans and Oklahomans game on the scene, relieving the marines.

On the morning of the 8th the Texans and Oklahomans went over the top for the first time after only five minutes artillery preparation. ompanies on the right were held a short time repulsing a German counterattack, but soon broke the enemy's are sault and dashed on with the line. which swept into St. Etlenne, the first French town to be taken by Texas and Oklahoma troops to this war.

On this position in the evening they repulsed a savage counter-attack. dering which the fighting givaled the sternest combats of their appestors against Santa Anna's Mexicans The hand to hand conflict was "ment" for these Texans and Oklahemans and the German could stand up to them man for man. The entire openy force was killed or cuptured, and the following day, the 9th, was devoted to consolfdating the positions gained.

During the night the entire Texas and Oktahoma divisions came into line and bright and early next morning they were at it again all along their sector. The enemy had though in fresh forces and the struggle developed into fighting so bitter it would have tried the methe of our most experienced veterans.

But the Texans and Oklahomans, though new at the game had their blood well up by now, and there is many a German who will aways remember the men wher threw aside the recognized rules of warfare, making it a tooth and toonall fight every time the enemy stopped.

A Roman/Toga for Men

Was All the Rage Among the Fashionable Romans, during the time of Julius Ceasar, but he would be a BRAVE MAN these days who would sport a Toga on the streets of Hereford. Incidentally, he would probably die of pneumonia, following the Flu, induced by EXPOSUBE.

Modern Clothes

are slightly different from Roman Togas and WARMER. Do you know, we honestly believe that our line of GENTS. FURNISHINGS is the most MODERN and up-to-date to be found in the Panhandle of Texas. If we knew where to get anything better we would certainly buy it;

Of course we can't prove this to you unless we can SHOW YOU the stuff. We hope you will give us an opportunity to make our opinion good.

Among the speakers who will present the Centenary program will be Dr. W. W. Pinson, Dr. J. L. Neill, Mrs. J. W. Downs, of Nashville, Tennessee; Rev. F. S. Onderdonk, of San Antonio, and E. O. Watson, representing the War Work Commission.

The subjects to be discussed on "Centenary Day" will be "World Reconstruction after the War"; "God's Call to the Church in a World's Crisis"; "The Church's Opportunity to get Out of Littleness into Bigness". Bishop Cannon will be one of the principal speakers. A leading layman will dis-cuss "Can We Put It Over?" and a stereopticon lecture will show the needs

A big contribution which the United States had made to our fighting allies is the war service among the troops of the nations affiliated with America. The most celebrated of the fovers, the Fover du President Wilson, is an underground cavern at Fort Douamont. northwest of immortal Verdum, Other foyers in the area over which the fighting has been most flerce have been lost to the Germans, but of these forty-seven have already been replaced and the others will be, for the French Government sees in them great possibilities for education of the soldiers. This brings us to the other newly established American institution, the public library. The Library War Service of the American Library Association has established in "Y" huts. houses, Y. M. C. A. hostess houses and other stations overseas, circulating branch libraries with a constant supply of books and magazines. These are not entirely fiction libraries, although of course, good fiction is included. The American fighting man reads to improve his status as a fight-er, to help him in his special line of work and to get him a better job after the war. The Library War Service provides him with technical and text books. and with every kind of trade and professional work from law to agriculture.

The French government has viewed this service with admiration. A commission recently was formed, with Pres ident Poincare as chairman, to study the American public library system and to establish it throughout France. Already the system has been established in the Foyers des Soldats," The Library War Service sends libraries of fifty to one hundred books to each feyer, and the department will soon be enlarged as the French government has requested that agricultural and other works be added. The war department has asked for moving pie tures illustrating scientific farming. playgrounds and recreation centers, nothing behind. Hardly stopping the night of the tenth, they had gained by the morning of the 11th the wagon road and railroad running east and west from the village of Machault to Semide. The enemy, as usual, left machine buns in both villages, garnishing the graveyards and other places south of them with the murderous weapons.

The Texans and Oklahomans, however, reduced every machine gun nest. took both villages and cleaned them up, with a goodly number of prisoners.

The enemy had withdrawn his artillery in the meantime to a safe distance comparative safety, with the river between the guns and the Americans, the enemy began to make things hot for the Lone Star fighters.

This was not their style of rough and tumble fighting, but on Oct. 12th they swung on toward the Aisne and reached the river. The enemy machine guns en route still belehed in their characteristic fashion.

From the beginning, the advance to the Aisne, approximately thirteen miles was gained by Uncle Sam's inexperienced fighters in four days. Praise From French General

In praising both divisions for valor, the French General Commanding the Franco-American army corps said of the Texas and Oklahoma troops: "Although under fire for the first time, the young soldiers of General

Smith, rivaling in their combative spirit and tenacy the old regiment of General Lejuene, have accomplished their mission in its entirety. All may be proud of the task accomplished. The past is proof of the future."

Whether the General was referring to the battle of the immediate past or the battles for Texas independence, the spirit of which seemed to be in the blood of the young Texans in France. is a matter of conjecture. Of the future there is no doubt. Forty-two square miles liberated for France was the Texans' initial effort in this war.

A Real Home

The irrigated farm I advertised lastsweek has not been sold yet. It is ideally located, well improved, and has an excellent water supply. For some hustler with a little money and willing to work there is a fortune in this farm. The price is less than the real worth and terms are attractive. The irrigators are making money. Why not be one of them?

Dear Dad :-I was surely glad to get your good long letter; it came yesterday and made was writing a short letter to a friend pretty good time, was dated Aug. 27, just about the latest one I have had. A few hours has been the limit for me to stay in one place, but for my part I like to be on the go. You know in a case like that a fellow feels better while on the go, especially when the big shells are coming his way; of course every one you hear sounds just like it belonged to you, and you just naturally can rest better when you can't see them hit in the same place twice. We have all had some real excitement and experienced a bit of real war since coming to the front, but I can't say that I crave this stuff after allbelieve I'll take a little "prune pushlag" in mine. It's a great life if you don't weaken". I'm sure that if we had Hereford's army over here it would all be over in a very short time; what do you think about it. So you are still about 12 feet deep and stoned up that is rare though. Most of them are six to eight feet deep and are rough. There are lots of equipments lying around in, so you may as well like it or they will make south. might send you as a souvenir but I will make you like it. How about it? Sept. 25th, 1918,

My darling Mother, Father, Brothers, and all:

I have just returned from the front and believe me I am sure glad to get back. I have been under shell fire for over a month and my nerves are all to pieces. Believe me if a man will go up and spend a few days on the front he will sure think of home sweet home and every thing else imaginable let o few of those big shells light close and he will surely think that his time has ome. One fell about fifty feet from me and I sure thought I was done for. feel like God has been with me and I know, Dear Sweet Christian Mother, your prayers have been answered thus far for I know that if God had not been with me, as you said He would, I would have been killed in this terrible drive. I have gone through some awful things, and I hope and pray that I will never have to go through the struggle that I have gone through again. Mother I had no idea it was really like it is. When I get home I can tell you things that will make you shiver. I just got your last two letters a few days ago, and Mother you have no idea w much comfort they were to me. I could hardly keep the tears back when I read them, and to think of the awful danger I was in and receive the s Christian letters made me think, be-lieve me. I never did appreciate a lear loving mother and father until 1 ame in contact with this awful war, A man never knows what a kind Christian word from mother means until he is on this awful battle field.

Do You Think There is No Competition?

If anyone thinks there is no competition amongst. the big packers he ought to go through a day's work with Swift & Company.

Let him begin at the pens when the live stock comes in; let him try to buy a nice bunch of fat steers quietly and at his own price without some-body's bidding against him.

Let him realize the scrupulous care taken at the plant that not one thing is lost or wasted in order that costs may be held to a minimum.

Let him go up into the office where market reports are coming in, -and reports of what other concerns are doing.

Let him watch the director of the Swift Refrigerator fleet, maneuvering it over the face of the country like a fleet of battleships at sea.

Let him take a trip with a Swift & Company salesman and try to sell a lew orders of meat.

Let him stay at a branch house for an hour or two and see the retail meat dealers drive their bargains to the last penny as they shop around among the packers' branch houses, the wholesale dealers, and the local packing plants.

And then, when the day is over, let him have half an hour in the accounting department, where he can see for himself on what small profits the business is done. (Less than 4 cents on each dollar of sales.)

If he still thinks there is no competition in the meat business it will be because he wants to think so.

We received orders to march to Varennes and left the next morning. As we reached the heights of Varennes about noon we saw the wide country before us and the city nestling in the valley. Farther up on the heights was Vauquois. Nothing could be seen of any houses but through our field glasses we could make out an enormous ash heap. Shells fell there continuously and we were frightened at the pros-

In default of a trench we sought cover behind the stones, for it was impossible to dig trenches here, as the artillery leveled everything. The soldiers concealed themselves behind stone walls and fired. Artillery of all callber covered these ruins. Amid all this destruction lay an army of corpses, mostly German.

CHAPTER XVII.

We were of the opinion at first that this was only a temporary condition, but after a few days we saw a slaughter bordering on insaulty undertaken again and again. By night and day it was always the same. Using Verdun as their base, the French constantly brought up new masses of troops. They had marshaled their heavy guns from the nearer Verdun. forts by the use of field rallways,

In the spring of 1915 both sides began an offensive of local, but of an incomprehensible, murderous nature. German and French artillery bombarded Vauquois so that not a square-foot of land could be found which had not been torn up by shells. Thousands and thousands of shells, large and small, were hurled into the town for three days and three nights.

This continued until not a single soltier was left in the village, for both French and Germans had to retire from this fire from both sides, as it was absolutely impossible to have survived this hell. The entire hill and adloining heights were enveloped in

On the evening of the third day the enemy bombardment abated somewhat and we were once more sent into the pile of debris, which had been torn by a hundred thousand shells. It was not yet dusk, and as the French had also advanced an attack developed. They came into our lines with strong reserve units and the wildest kind of a handto-hand encounter ensued.

Sharp daggers flew from head to head, breast to breast. Men stood on corpses in order to make new corpses. New enemies continued to arrive.

I stumbled and fell upon the stones and in less time than is required to relate it I saw before me a glant Frenchman with a ploneer's spade raised to strike a blow. With lightninglike speed I dodged and the spade struck a stone.

In the next moment my adversary had a dagger plunged to the hilt in his abdomen.

He went down with a terrible ory and crumpled up in ageny on the ground. I thrust the dagger loto my boot and seized the spade. There were new enemies all around and the spade came in handy.

I struck an enemy between the head and shoulders. The sharp spade entered his body and buried itself half way in. I heard the bones crack under the force of the blow.

Another adversary was nearby and I dropped the spade and selzed the

During this time I made up my mind firmly that I would not murder any more people at the order of and to further the interests of Hohenzollernism, that this war would mean the end of the Hohenzollerns and of Prussian militarism. I decided to desert to Holy

CHAPTER XVIII.

I prevailed upon the authorities to grant me an eight-day furlough to visit my home and I took advantage of this to cross the Dutch border. I left my home under a pretence of intending to visit*relatives, wearing civilian clothing. I bought a railroad ticket to Kaldenkirchen, a medium-sized town hear the Dutch border. During my trip to Kaldenkirchen I had plenty of time to review all that had happened.

How different everything was after the first year of the war! My home town, once a lively country settlement, was now as calm as a graveyard. In this town, which had a population before the war of 3,000 souls, more than 40 had been killed and many others crippled. Food was very high with little to be had.

There was no enthusiasm for the war manifest anywhere. The people were downhearted, stunged.

It was the same in other cities. The longing for peace was universal yet no one talked of peace or expressed the desire for it.

One word spoken, which displeased the autocratic government, merited the assistance of the military, smothered every expression of peace with blood, even at that early date. The present Prussian government will slaughter any German citizen to further its own interests in the same way that it attacked the innocent populatlon of Belgium without regard.

The people quietly accepted the enormous sacrifices which the war demanded from them in course of time

But the government, which even then, foresaw the unfavorable course the war was taking, conceived the lifea of setting England up as the archenemy which intended to destroy Germany entirely.

The German war machine made use of the blockade which England drew playing upon child murder, so-called, that the people developed an ever-increasing hatred toward England:

The French language was no longer spoken anywhere. A large part of the German people formerly used the French word "adieu," as a farewell expression but that was stopped. Care

I thought about these things as neared my temporary destination. I was sufficiently acquainted with the denkirchen I was able to reach it without asking any questions. The spot which I had selected for crossing lay in a forest. After a march of two hours I arrived near the border. It was soon dark and I decided to remain in the woods over night.

The next morning at daylight I ventured on and without being seen by the next town, Ven , in Holland,

Most of the German papers published here were body and soul for the kaiser and tried daily to justify the German fight for the German cause.

In this respect the government in Washington certainly went too far until it was realized; that no concessions could be made to the Prussian government and that concessions made to Washington were nothing but deceifful talk, sustained only by action when 4t served its interests of imperialism.

The promises which the German government made to Washington concerning the Lusitania case, the U-boat warfare and so forth, were nothing but decelt on the part of the Berlin govern-

. It was the itestre to preserve peare for the American people which impelled President Wilson, again and again, not to declare war and if America fights today it has only kept faith with its democratic principles and asnisted the world in defensive war against the autocracy that is a constant menace for the world, which prepared for this war over several decades.

With the entrance of America into the war the backbone of Prussian nilltarism will be broken. The Hindenburgs and the Hohenzollerns are doomed. A victory for the allies will be a victory for democracy and a victory of the greatest majority seeking the welfare of the human race. (THE END.)

GROWING OATS: FIVE RULES FOR SUCCESS

The oat crop may be made a profitable one in the Cotton Belt, but, like every other crop, there are certain essentials that must be looked to if success is to be made fairly certain, Among the most important of these are the following:

1. Don't expect oats to do well on poor land. Too many farmers plant oats on the poorest land on the place, fall to fertilize them, and then announce that the oat crop cannot be made to pay. No wonder it can't under such circumstances. The truth is that a goodly percentage of our ordinary uplands will not, without the use of legumes or fertilizers, grow any crop profitably except cotton, and there is little money in cotton on such lands, except in years of good seasons and good prives. If oats are planted on such lands, we would prefer that a summer crop of cowpeas or velvet severest punishment. That is how it is beans precede the outs. If the whole to be explained that the German peo pea or bean crop is plowed under, probple cannot force the Hohenzollerns into ably no nitrogen will be needed in peace because the government, with the fertilizer, and an application of 300 bounds per acre of acid phosphate made about the time the oats are planted will be sufficient. Where no legume crop precedes the oats, on average land, we would recommend a mixture of about 100 pounds of cottonseed meal and 300 pounds of acid phostime, to be followed by a broadcast application of 75 to 100 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre in March.

2. Plant early. Despite two very severe winters in succession, we are still certain that for at least the lower two-thirds of the Cotton Belt fallplanted oats will on an average far outyield spring oats. The big mistake many oat-growers have made has been to plant too late, giving the oats insufficient time to get well rooted before hard freezing weather. The best time to plant will of course vary with the location but, roughly, we suggest the following dates as being about right: Upper third of the Cotton Belt, September 1 to September 20: middle third of the Cotton Belt, September 20 to October 10; and lower third, from October 1 to October 30.

3. Use the open-furrow method to prevent winter-killing. Where winterkilling may occur even when oats are sowed at the proper time, sowing by the open-furrow method is the best preventive we know of. This method consists in putting the oats in a furrow preciation of the ability and fidelity around Germany to such an extent, and leaving the furrow open, just enuf soil falling on the seed to insure germination. There are now open-furrow entire period of more than a half cendrills that plant three rows of oats at a through. 4. Plant good seed, and treat for smut. Rust and smut are two of the never for a single day been absent most serious enemies of the oat crop, border so that when I arrived in Kal- and both are largely preventable. Oats of one of the Red Rust-proof strains, such as Appler, Hundred-bushel, Culberson, etc.; are very rust-resistant, though in a season very favorable to in fact, in these years given to the James Powell-Murray, '03 Acad., rust development they are not "rustproof." It will be well to use homegrown seed where they can be had.

5. Grow a second crop after the oats. One great advantage of oats is that they are off the land in time to guards I crossed into Dutch territory, grow a second crop of some kind. This With a sigh of relief I arrived at the double cropping possibility must be taken advantage of if mavimum returns are to be had, On moist lands, lespedeza or Japan clover is an ideal hay erop to follow oats; on drier soils, cowpeas or sox beans, or a combination of corn with peas or beans may be used. DR. W. A. PRICE IS OFFERED OPPORTUNITY TO ENTER WAR SERVICE

Some months ago the Surgeon General of the Santa Fe railway system offered the entire personnel of his staff, numbering over 300 resident physicians, to Uncle Sam for war work at any time the military authorities felt that they must have their services. '

The past week Dr. W. A. Price of Hereford, local Santa Fe physician, received a letter from the Medical Department requesting him to report at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, at his earliest convenience, for preliminary examination, etc.

The Doctor does not believe he would pass Uncle Sam's physical requirements, and that there is small chance of his wearing the khaki, but all the same states that there is no slacking blood in him. 9.430 and he will most certainly report at Fort Sill about the first and 100.505 allow Uncle Sam the privilege of COOPERATION OF CATHOLICS AND accepting or rejecting his services.
