Two indicted for murder

By KAY PECK
Staff Writer

Eloy Garcia Fuentes and Alfredo Montoya were indicted for murder by the 222nd District Grand Jury on Thursday. The two men were charged in connection with the February death of Robert Lee Youngblood of Amarillo.

Youngblood's frozen body was found 19 miles northwest of Hereford on Feb. 4. Fuentes and Montoya are accused of beating Youngblood in order to obtain his money and then abandoning the 61-year-old man on the roadside during freezing weather.

The victim's body was dressed in only a short-sleeved shirt and pants when he was discovered by a local farmer. An autopsy found that Youngblood had died of a heart attack after being exposed to sub-zero temperatures. The body had multiple bruises and scratches on the knees, face and wrist.

Officials did not identify the body until Feb. 14, when highway workers found Youngblood's driver's license on U.S. Hwy. 385, four miles south of where the body was discovered.

A statement made by Fuentes indicates that the two suspects and the victim were traveling from Amarillo to Colorado when the incident occurred. Fuentes said that Youngblood "had a lot of money" and that he and Montoya turned off the main road onto a dirt road at the first opportunity. It is believed that Youngblood was beaten and robbed at that time.

Fuentes' statement indicated that the two men netted $30 to $40 in the theft.

Eloy Fuentes remains in custody at the Deaf Smith County Jail where he has been held since Feb. 17, when he was first charged with the murder. Alfredo Montoya is currently serving time for a parole violation in the Western New Mexico Correctional Facility.

Other indictments returned by the 222nd Grand Jury on Thursday were:

Alfonso Garcia Jr. indicted for felony driving while intoxicated; Amy Linda Hernandez indicted for forgery; Efran "Fred" Mendoza indicted for delivery of a controlled substance (cocaine);

Miguel "Mike" Castillo and Maria "Mary" DeJesus Castillo indicted for delivery of a controlled substance (cocaine); and Manuel Luna Lucio indicted for burglary of a motor vehicle.

City sends gifts to England

By KAY PECK
Staff Writer

The city of Hereford is currently helping residents of Hereford. Nothing new, one might think, except that the two groups are better than 4,000 miles apart.

Earlier this month Mayor Wes Fisher received a letter from Roland P.T. Powell of Ledbury, England in the county of Hereford. Powell represented the "independent state" of Monkey Island in requesting items to be donated for an auction. Funds from the auction will benefit local charities which, as Powell wrote, "often get left behind as money pours out to major charities at home and abroad."

Mayor Fisher and other city officials were ready and willing to help in this plea from across the sea. A package of donated items is currently winging its way from the city of Hereford to the county of Hereford.

After learning of the English people's fascination with American, personalized ball caps, city representatives collected a number of caps from area businesses. Those caps were donated for the auction along with paperweights adorned with the Hereford city seal.

Hereford's donated items will be in good company at the charitable auction. Monkey Island "officials" requested items to be auctioned from a wide variety of public figures including former President Ronald Reagan and Russian Premier Mikhail Gorbachev.

The letter to Reagan netted a bronze medallion for the Monkey Island cause. The medallion was issued to honor President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Although the original letter was sent to President Reagan, the response came from Frank J. Fahrenkopf Jr., chairman of the Republican National Committee.

The seat of government (known as the Star Chamber) for the "independent state" of Monkey Island is a public house called the Farmers' Arms in the town of Ledbury. It's there that Monkey Island Minister for Art and Design Ian Adams and Chief Monkey Roland Powell can discuss important matters of state over a pint of bitter. Frequently, important matters of state include who is paying for the next round of pints.

Defiant citizens declared Monkey Island to be independent on Jan. 1, 1989, as a protest against the British government's decision to introduce European passports.

The twin aims of Monkey Island, Powell writes, are "spreading fun and laughter, and raising funds for local charities."

House adopts pay amendment

AUSTIN (AP) - Even if voters approve a proposal to raise legislative salaries from $7,200 to about $23,000 a year, lawmakers will be "grossly underpaid," says House Speaker Gib Lewis.

The House on Monday adopted a proposed constitutional amendment for a pay raise with a 103-38 vote.

If passed by the Senate, voters in November would be asked to decide whether lawmakers should be paid one-fourth of the governor's salary. Governorial pay would be $93,432 under House and Senate budget proposals for 1990-91.

The House speaker and lieutenant governor - who now draw the same pay as lawmakers - would make one-half the governor's salary. Under current proposals, that would mean a $23,358 annual paycheck for lawmakers and $46,716 for the speaker and lieutenant governor, beginning in 1991.

The proposal was amended to also put before voters a proposal to tie the daily stipend paid to lawmakers while in session to the federal income tax deduction for travel to Austin on business.

At the current level, that would mean a raise in per diem from $30 to $81. This ballot proposal was rejected in 1984 by voters.

Being a state lawmaker takes a full-time commitment, even though regular sessions only are scheduled for 140 days every two years, said Lewis, D-Fort Worth. For example, he cited the work legislators do on interim committees.

"I think even if this pay raise passes, they will still even at that be grossly underpaid," said Lewis, who voted for the proposed amendment.

Over the last four to five years, Lewis said he has known "at least 40 to 50 good, quality people that have gotten to the state that they've tried and tried and tried, but could not stay (in the Legislature) because of the low salary."

The current salary level "means that a lot of people who would like to serve in the Legislature simply cannot," said Rep. David Hudson, sponsor of the proposed amendment.

"The truth is, nobody can afford to live on the salary that's currently being paid," said Hudson, D-Tyler.

Hance hurt Wright's chances

AUSTIN (AP) - U.S. House Speaker Jim Wright's chances of surviving recent allegations of unethical conduct are "at worst, 50-50," said a Democratic Texas Congressman in town to raise money for the speaker's legal defense.

"I think the odds are reasonably good. They're at least plausible," said U.S. Rep. Charles Wilson of Lufkin.

But, Wilson added, Wright's "political situation has seriously eroded all over the country ... If we can only hold the political erosion until we get our day in court, I think that we will prevail."

"And if we can pay the bills," Wilson added. He said Wright has spent $600,000 the past 12 months defending himself against charges he violated U.S. House rules of conduct.

"We're about broke. That's why we're here," Wilson said Monday. He said Texas Democratic Congressmen Martin Frost of Dallas, J.J. "Jake" Pickle of Austin and Jack Brooks of Beaumont also came for the fundraiser.

Wright, D-Fort Worth, has been accused of 69 instances of House rules violations.

Wilson's comments followed a news conference Monday by Texas Railroad Commission Chairman Kent Hance about published reports that he urged the House Ethics Committee to investigate a Texas oil well deal involving Wright.

The House panel is examining a transaction that turned a quick profit for Wright's blind trust.

Hance, an outspoken Democrat-turned-Republican who has called for Wright's resignation, said he knew nothing about the oil deal until the Ethics Committee announced April 17 that it was under investigation.

Hance said, "I did not talk to them. I have never talked to them."

Hance also said, "I can't tell you if Jim Wright ... what he did in that, was legal or illegal. We don't have the information on that."

Still, Hance called for Wright to resign, saying, "It's only the proper thing to do."

Hance and Wright have been at political odds since Hance became the Democratic sponsor of President Reagan's tax legislation in the early 1980s. Hance blames Wright for his decision to change parties.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported Sunday that Hance called for Wright's resignation the day the Railroad Commission began supplying House investigators with details about the well deal.

The newspaper quoted unnamed sources at the agency, which regulates Texas' oil and gas industry, as saying Hance tipped the committee on Standards of Official Conduct to the deal.

The newspaper said telephone records showed Hance's office transmitted materials on a facsimile machine to the Ethics Committee in Washington a month before the oil well investigation was announced.

Hance said the Railroad Commission's director of information, Brian Schaible, sent the information at the request of ethics investigators.

Most of the documents supplied were public records, and Hance would not have violated any law or ethical standard if he called the matter to the attention of the ethics panel.

Wilson said, "It defies belief that was not instigated by the Railroad Commission. I'm not saying it was Hance, but somebody did it. Somebody who wanted to hurt Jim Wright. It was a cheap shot."

Cotton area is suffering

LUBBOCK (AP) - Mid-May is the High Plains' optimal time for planting cotton, but a lack of adequate planting moisture is forcing many area farmers to watch the skies and wait.

The lack of rain ultimately could jeopardize the area's economic mainstay, with more than half the three million acres across the High Plains to be planted with cotton extremely dry, say crop experts.

Plains Cotton Growers Inc., a trade association of cotton producers in the 25-county area surrounding Lubbock, reported that as of last week, 60 percent or 1.8 million acres of the area's cotton acreage is classified as powder dry. That means that dryland farmers, those who do not irrigate their land, are unable to plant until rain comes.

About 60 percent of High Plains cotton acreage is not irrigated.

The best time for planting cotton in the area is early May through early June. However, the usual spring rains on which farmers depend to nourish seeds have yet to come this year, and a dry fall and winter failed to replenish the subsoil moisture needed for the summer growing season, said James Supak, Texas A&M extension service agronomist.

The city of Lubbock has gotten 2.4 inches of rain so far this year, compared with normal rainfall of 4.02 inches, said Bill Alexander of the National Weather Service, and surrounding areas are similarly dry.

Although sporadic showers fell across the area over the weekend, they did little to help, Supak said.

"Overall, it hasn't set the stage for cotton planting," he said. "So far the rains have been very scattered and the amounts haven't been enough."

Dryland farmers are faced with the possibility of a so-called dry planting, which means planting seed without adequate moisture for germination, according to Supak.

"The risk is that a small rain would come and be enough for (the seed) to germinate, but not enough to establish a stand and then you would have to start over," he said.

Even if the prospects for a dryland crop seem bleak, farmers must plant to receive a price deficiency payment from the government, said Don Johnson, executive director of Plains Cotton Growers.

However, if a farmer dry-plants but the crop doesn't sprout after a preset cutoff date, usually in early June, he or she can plant another crop, said Alan Mackey of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service office in Lubbock.

"Once we get past the cutoff date, people are going to have to make a choice to decide to go with cotton or something else," said Supak.

He said soybeans are a possibility for growers north of Lubbock, but choices are limited to the south.

There must have been a lot of happy mothers Sunday. I know my wife was pleased to get calls from both sons, and she called her mother and grandmother on Mother's Day.

But perhaps the happiest mother we know was Joy Stagner. While it was a stressful day, her oldest son, Gary, received a heart transplant which gives him a new lease on life. He came through the surgery fine and will spend some critical days in intensive care. Gary, 42, is a 1965 graduate of Hereford High.

Joy had been in Irving about six weeks while Gary ended a long waiting period for the heart transplant. Her husband, Earl, had another hip surgery Friday in Amarillo and was unable to be in Dallas. Their youngest

Major injuries avoided in car accident

By KAY PECK
Staff Writer

Major injuries were avoided Monday evening in a two-car accident on East U.S. Highway 60. Two people were treated and released at Deaf Smith General Hospital following the collision and a third was arrested for driving while intoxicated.

Grace E. Melchor and a passenger in the 1979 Chevrolet car she was driving were treated for injuries they received when their car was demolished in an accident near Big Daddy's Truck Stop. Carlos N. Ruiz, driver of a 1978 Ford car also involved in the accident, was arrested for driving while intoxicated. In addition, Ruiz was cited for failure to yield right-of-way.

Melchor's car was westbound on Hwy. 60 when Ruiz apparently pulled in front of the Chevrolet while attempting to cross the highway. Both cars were damaged extensively in the accident. After colliding with the Ford, the Melchor vehicle was forced off the road where it also struck some signposts.

Earlier in the evening, the Hereford Police Department had received a report of a possible drunk driver in a car meeting the description of the vehicle driven by Ruiz. At the time of the accident, police were already searching for the vehicle.

Deng, Gorbachev clasp hands to normalize China-Soviet relations

BEIJING (AP) - Mikhail S. Gorbachev and Deng Xiaoping today normalized relations between the world's two Communist giants while outside their meeting hall tens of thousands of people chanted for democratic reform.

"We can take this opportunity to publicly announce the normalization of Sino-Soviet relations" after 30 years, Deng said to applause from Soviet and Chinese participants in the meeting.

The 84-year-old senior Chinese leader welcomed Gorbachev in the red-carpeted Eastern Hall of the Great Hall of the People as "comrade" but did not give him the bear hug he reserves for close friends and allies.

In the opening minutes of their 2½-hour meeting, he told the 58-year-old Soviet president that the world's "key political problems" have arisen from Soviet-American Cold War tensions.

That confrontation, he said, had helped prevent Sino-Soviet reconciliation but now "there may be a turning point in competition" between the two superpowers and "the situation is changing from confrontation to dialogue." The United States and China normalized relations in 1979.

Outside in Tiananmen Square, tens of thousands of students, teachers, journalists, workers and onlookers reminded the leaders of momentous change of another sort.

The students, who consider Gorbachev a hero for the political reforms he has championed at home, issued appeals for him to take up their cause for democratic reforms with China's leaders.

Their three-day occupation of the square, China's symbolic center of power, forced officials to move an official welcoming ceremony for Gorbachev on Monday as he arrived for a four-day visit.

A planned wreath-laying ceremony was canceled today and the protesters later surrounded the Great Hall, halting traffic and forcing Gorbachev's afternoon meeting with Premier Li Peng to be moved to a guest house several miles away. More than 3,000 students have staged a hunger strike on the square since Saturday.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Li Zhaoxing said Deng and Gorbachev did not discuss the student demonstrations.

He said Gorbachev acknowledged that the Soviet Union had made "some errors" in its past stance toward China but the two leaders agreed "that bygones are bygones. What is important is to look forward and do more tangible things."

Li said the two leaders discussed Cambodia, where Moscow-backed Vietnamese troops are fighting Beijing-backed resistance forces. "They shared some views but did not reach complete agreement," he said.

The Gorbachev-Deng summit brought together Soviet and Chinese leaders for the first time since a frosty encounter between Nikita Khrushchev and Mao Tse-tung in 1959.

Relations have since been marred by ideological rivalry, a 1969 border war and strong Chinese opposition to Soviet policy in Afghanistan and Cambodia.

Deng said the summit signified the normalization of relations between not just the countries but their Communist parties, which had split over Chinese complaints of Soviet revisionism in the thaw following Stalin's death.

He also praised Gorbachev's 1986 speech in the Siberian city of Vladivostok in which the Soviet leader appealed for an end to Chinese-Soviet hostility.

"All the world and myself could see new content in your policy. Before that we didn't have a new way of thinking," Deng said.

MOUNTAIN TUNNEL

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) - The 11 1/2-mile-long Appenine rail tunnel on the Florence-Bologna line in central Italy was built between 1920 and 1930 using an unusual technique.

The tunnel was not only bored from both ends, but a shaft was also dropped in the middle to allow workers to dig outward from the center.

Difficulties encountered while boring the tunnel included water seepage and natural gas.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I saw this in Rabbi Hillel Cohn's column in the Congregation Emanu El Bulletin I decided to rearrange my priorities. If you think your readers might learn from it, be my guest.--San Bernardino Browser

DEAR BERNARDINO: Thank you for sending the essay my way. I hope it will move my readers to examine their lives and make lists of their own, while there is still time.

If I Had My Life To Live Over
Someone asked me the other day, if I had my life to live over, would I change anything? "No," I answered. Then I began to think...

If I had my life to live over, I would have talked less and listened more. I would have invited friends over to dinner even though the carpet was stained and the sofa was faded. I would have eaten popcorn in the "good" living room and worried less about the dirt when someone wanted to light a fire in the fireplace. I would have burned the pink candle sculpted like a rose before it melted in storage. I would have sat on the lawn with my children and not worried about grass stains.

I would have cried and laughed less while watching television--and done more of it while watching life. I would have shared more of the responsibilities carried by my wife. I would have gone to bed when I was sick instead of worrying that the earth would go into a holding pattern if I missed work for one day. I would never buy anything just because it was practical, wouldn't show soil or was guaranteed to last a lifetime. There would have been more "I love you," more "I am sorry"...but mostly, given another shot at life, I would seize every moment, look at it and really see it and live it--and never give it back.--Anonymous.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We are middle-income parents faced with a problem that is plaguing many other parents. For want of a better term, I'll call it the problem of the "returnees."

"Returnees" are young adult children we thought were happily married, permanently settled in their homes or apartments and able to manage financially without any help from us.

Now, at long last, we parents can financially (hallelujah!) live our own lives. Right? Wrong. The adult child arrives, suitcases in hand, carrying a pet (or a child) and announces that he/she is getting a divorce and returning home.

Ann, these days a great many adult children run back to Mama and Papa and assume that "the folks" will support them as they did before they married. Many of us are just barely making ends meet and it's a real struggle.

How can parents protect themselves from children who return to the nest and expect to be treated as children when they are in their 30s and 40s?--S.G., Uniondale, N.Y.

DEAR S.G.: How can parents protect themselves against adult children who return home after a failed marriage? There is no way, except to just say "NO."

This seems awfully hard-hearted, however, and it seems to me that temporary shelter is not too much to ask, especially if there was brutality or abuse.

Parents do their children no favor, however, if they permit ongoing free-loading. Since every situation is different, there is no pat solution. Each case must be evaluated on the basis of its own merit.

Drugs are everywhere. They're easy to get, easy to use and even easier to get hooked on. If you have questions about drugs, you need Ann Landers' booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Lowdown, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Military Muster

Marine Cpl. Donald W. Fowler, son of Roy L. and LaJuan M. Fowler of Hereford, has been promoted to his present rank while serving at Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, N.C. He joined the Marine Corps in August 1985.

Navy Constructionman Recruit Eduardo M. Zapata, son of Martin and M.M. Zapata of Route 3, Hereford, as part of "the kangroos" of Naval Mobile Construction Battalion-133, homeported in Gulfport, Miss., has been selected as a member of the best battalion in the Naval Construction Force for fiscal year 1988 by the Society of American Military Engineers.

NMCCB-133 was awarded the citation in recognition of outstanding leadership, personal pride, hard work and balanced excellence. Admiral Benjamin F. Montoya, Chief of Civil Engineers and "King Bee", cited several areas in which the Kangroos were particularly outstanding, including safety, camp maintenance, supply management and equipment maintenance.

A 1987 graduate of Hereford High School, he joined the Navy in March 1988.

In 1987, the net external capital inflow into Latin America reached $9.8 billion, according to the Inter-American Development Bank. The figure is a slight improvement in this category, from an average of $7.3 billion from 1983-86, although it is still only a fraction of the average of $38 billion reached during 1980-82.

Gift ideas suggested for college graduate

NEW YORK (AP) - Looking for something for a college graduate who has just about everything except money and domestic skills? Take some tips from Susan Kleinman, author of "Real Life 101: (Almost) Surviving Your First Year Out of College."

For the multitudes who will live on pasta and Chinese takeout: "A dozen boxes of assorted pasta, a large pot and a colander."

For those who want to create their own fast food: a microwave oven. "For fun, throw in a few chocolate bars and wooden skewers for fondue."

For those who have more trouble cleaning than cooking: A housekeeper whose cleaning frequency is limited only by your budget. It could be a one-shot deal or into perpetuity.

For graduates moving to a new city: Tuition for a continuing-education course where he or she could meet people with common interests. Membership to a gym or health club for social as well as physical well-being.

For the culture maven: A museum membership or subscription to a local ballet.

For those entering the business world where campus clothes don't fit: Scarves, belts and costume jewelry for women; suspenders, belts, ties for men. Accessories help prevent them from looking like corporate clones.

For the apartment: A gift certificate to a framing store for a favorite poster. A telephone answering machine. According to Kleinman, many of the graduates interviewed for "Real Life 101" (April, MasterMedia Ltd., $9.95), said an answering machine was the one thing they couldn't live without.

Epilepsy is not a disease. It is a condition of disturbed electrical activity in the brain. The most common cause is a head injury which damages the brain. Each year, nearly 4 percent of Americans who suffer head injuries will develop persistent epileptic seizures as a result.

Stuart Mitts, Susan Bell and Kyle Andrews were named the winners of the Fighting Heart Award for 1989 at the all-sports banquet on Monday at the Hereford Bull Barn.

Phillies rally for win in 12th

By The Associated Press

Steve Bedrosian was surprised. And he was the winner!

In the top of the 12th inning Monday night, Bedrosian gave up home runs to Will Clark and Kevin Mitchell on consecutive pitches, snapping a scoreless tie. But Bob Dernier hit a three-run inside-the-park homer in the bottom of the inning, giving Philadelphia a 3-2 victory over San Francisco.

"Just when you thought you'd seen it all," said Bedrosian, 2-2, who already has given up three game-winning homers this season.

"It's the toughest game I've ever lost as a manager," Roger Craig of the Giants said. "I told my players it was the toughest loss of the year, but to forget it and come back tomorrow."

Craig Lefferts, 1-1, struck out Von Hayes to start the bottom of the 12th. Pinch-hitter Dickie Thon and Steve Lake singled and Steve Jeltz popped out.

Dernier, who in the 10th threw out Clark at the plate, lined a shot into the left-field corner and the ball skidded past Mitchell, rolling along the fence toward center field.

"As I came into second, I saw the ball was still rolling, put my head down and turned left," Dernier said.

He picked up third-base coach Larry Bowa's go signal shortly after rounding second.

"Twelve (innings) is enough for Larry," Dernier said. "He was ready to go home."

Mitchell followed the ball along the base of the wall, had trouble picking it up and finally threw to shortstop Jose Uribe, whose throw to catcher Terry Kennedy was up the first-base line as Dernier slid home safely.

In other games, Los Angeles beat New York 3-1, Cincinnati beat Pittsburgh 6-5, San Diego beat

Mercer, Robbins garner top honors

A crowd of approximately 1,000 turned out Monday to watch the Hereford High School athletic program honor its own at the 22nd Annual All-Sports Banquet.

Winners of the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce Athletes of the Year Award were Cande Robbins and Pat Mercer. Robbins was a three-sport star for the Lady Whitefaces, starting in volleyball and basketball and qualifying for the Region I-4A track meet. Mercer was also a three-sport performer, gaining first team all-district honors in football on both offense and defense and second team all-state mention, starting in basketball and winning the district title in the 300 meter hurdles for the track team.

Recipients of the Casey Smith Awards were Carmen Brockman and Bryan Watts. Brockman was a three-year starter in basketball, earning all-district honors each year. She finished her career as the all-time scoring leader for the Lady Whitefaces. Watts was a two-year starter as an offensive lineman in football, and walked away with first team all-district and all-state honors. He was also named All-South Plains and listed on the Globe-News Super Team.

The Fighting Heart Awards, selected by the HHS coaches, went to Kyle Andrews, Stuart Mitts and Susan Bell.

A total of 13 HHS athletes were recognized for excellence in their sports with the Media Awards.

The football award was presented to Keith Brown. Brown rushed for 1219 yards on 119 carries and scored 118 points for the Herd this fall.

Libby Kosub took the award in volleyball. Kosub has started two years for the spikers and led this year's team 100 points scored on serve, including 32 aces. She also led the team in passing and passing accuracy a digs.

The awards for cross country went to Alina Benitez and Benny Carrasco. Benitez finished the year with the fourth place ribbon from the state meet. She won the individual district championship and placed fourth at the regional meet enroute to all-state honors. Carrasco placed third at the district meet, fourth at region and 15th at the state meet. He is a two-time all-state honoree.

The basketball awards were presented to Clint Cotten and Brockman. Cotten led the Whitefaces in both scoring and rebounding this season, averaging 16.8 points and 8.4 boards per game. He was named third team all-district after the season.

Recipients of the track awards were Teresa Castillo and Brooke Perkins. Castillo was a medal winner in the 800 meter run and ran a leg of the regional-qualifying 1600 meter relay team. Perkins, a three-year letter winner, ran on both the 400 meter relay team, which set a school record, and the 1600 meter relay team, which qualified for the regional meet.

In tennis, Matt Coplen took the boys' award while doubles partners Wendy Connally and Bridget Baker shared the girls'. Coplen was the number one singles player for the netters this year and finished with three varsity letters. Connally and Baker finished second in district before ending their season at the regional tournament.

The golf award went to Scott Simons and Naomi Grijalva. Simons led the linksters with a stroke average of 86 for tournament play and 85 for district competition. He highlighted his season with a hole-in-one during the Amarillo Relays tournament. Grijalva was district medalist, averaging 88 strokes per round. She finished the season with a fourth-place effort at the regional tournament.

The baseball award was presented to Jason Scott, who has paced the Whitefaces to the district title with a 12-0 pitching record. An all-state pitcher in 1988, Scott has added .434 batting average and 19-stolen bases to his mound performances.

DALLAS (AP) - Attendance at a three-week Dallas Cowboys minicamp was supposed to be voluntary, but new coach Jimmy Johnson flashed his tough-guy image to the players after learning defensive tackle Kevin Brooks was a no-show.

"I told them that I expect players to be on time, I expect people to play hard for me," Johnson said Monday at the opening of the camp. "I told them if they lay it on the line for me, they will be taken care of. If not they won't be around."

Brooks' absence came a day after veteran free-agent quarterback Steve Pelluer demanded to be traded. Johnson announced that the Cowboys would make an immediate attempt to trade Brooks, the returning starter at left tackle and their No. 1 choice in the 1985 draft.

Brooks, who last July signed a new four-year $1.21 million contract, said Monday that he has been having marital problems and needed time to take care of personal matters. He said he tried Friday to contact Johnson but failed.

"This has nothing to do with football or the coaches," Brooks told The Dallas Morning News. "I like the coaches."

Brooks tried to make peace Monday afternoon, calling Johnson to say he would report to camp today.

But he apparently failed to calm the first-year coach, who wouldn't back down from the trade talk.

"He was still kind of hot," Brooks said.

Brooks agreed that a trade might be best. He made a similar request late last season after the being reprimanded for not receiving treatment for an injury.

"I've always wanted to get out of Dallas, that's no secret," Brooks said. "I might want to try someplace else, because a change would be good."

The Hereford Men's Golf Association will hold a 4-Man Scramble Thursday to launch a membership drive for the year.

The tourney will begin at 5:30 p.m. Thursday and the entry fee is $3, plus green fees. Entrants must be members of the HMGA, which has an annual membership fee of $10.

Players will be placed on teams according to handicaps. A short business meeting will be held in the park after the tourney, and refreshments will be provided.

Tom Simons is president of the HMGA. Other officers are Bernie Orel, vice president, and Joe Soliz Jr., secretary-treasurer.

Each boy will also be videotaped on his own fundamentals for personal analysis.

Thomas said the camp will provide each boy with the fundamentals of individual and team play during closely-supervised drills and scrimmage situations.

The camp staff will present lectures and show videos on pride, desire, dedication, composure, academics, execution and team basketball, Thomas said. Ribbons will be given in each age-group division for special accomplishment, and each boy will receive a T-shirt for completing the camp.

The camp will be in session each day from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Pistons erase Bucks from NBA playoffs

MILWAUKEE (AP) - For the Detroit Pistons, it's a time for waiting. For the Milwaukee Bucks, it's a time for healing.

"All I'm going to do now is sit back, relax and enjoy the time off and not think about anybody," Isiah Thomas said Monday night after his 17 points, 13 assists and 10 rebounds helped the Pistons eliminate the Bucks from the Eastern Conference semifinals with a 96-94 victory, completing a four-game sweep.

"I think that the key to this series was the fact that we defended well. And in the last part of the second game, our offense finally kicked in," Thomas said after the Pistons overcame a 21-point second-quarter deficit, then hung on in the final minute.

The Pistons, who've won all seven playoff games, will play the winner of the other Eastern Conference semifinal between Chicago and New York as Detroit aims for a return trip to the NBA championship series. Chicago can advance with a victory in New York tonight.

"Detroit has a good chance to win the title as do the (Los Angeles) Lakers," said Ricky Pierce, one of the few Bucks still standing after an untimely rash of injuries. "But in the playoffs, you never know."

Meanwhile, the Bucks can only hope their injured players get well.

The Bucks, already without starting forwards Larry Krystkowiak and Terry Cummings, backup center Paul Mokeski and swingman Paul Pressey, activated rookie Mark Davis before the game to meet the NBA playoff minimum of nine players.

But when Rickey Green couldn't dress because of a hip pointer, the Bucks had to get permission from Commissioner David Stern to go with eight players.

And eight was not enough, even though Fred Roberts scored a career-high 33 points in the absence of Cummings, sidelined with a bad ankle, and Krystkowiak, who faces knee surgery after being injured in Game 3.

But while the Bucks were short of personnel, they weren't pushovers. "They were outmanned, but they came out on fire," Pistons coach Chuck Daly said.

The Pistons, down by 21 with 7:33 left in the first half after a 26-6 spree by the Bucks, battled back. They used a 13-2 run featuring three straight 3-pointers to whittle the deficit to 10 by the half.

Led by Thomas, Joe Dumars and Bill Laimbeer, they opened the second half with a 25-9 tear and outscored Milwaukee 32-17 to build a five-point lead they never lost.

Dumars led the Pistons with 22 points and Laimbeer had 17, but the Pistons' most important play was made by Thomas with 22 seconds to go when he grabbed a long rebound on a missed 3-pointer from Laimbeer. Thomas was fouled and made one of two free throws with eight seconds left, giving the Pistons a 96-93 lead.

Pierce, who had 16 of his 21 points in the first half, was fouled with two seconds left. He made one free throw, but his intentionally missed second shot throw bounced into the backcourt as time expired.

"We were a long rebound away from winning the game," said Bucks coach Del Harris.

In addition to winning the Cy Young Award as best National League pitcher in 1988, Orel Hershiser of the Dodgers got the Gold Glove Award as the best fielding pitcher.

HUNGER INCREASING AMONG TEXANS

In modern America, where the abundance of food has created an entire industry aimed at helping overeaters to lose unwanted pounds, it is ironic to think that a growing number of people in Texas are actually going hungry.

But according to a 1988 survey by the Texas Department of Health, increasingly more women and children, even those receiving public assistance, are forced to eat less than they need, or to skip meals altogether.

The survey, compiled from 4,194 voluntary responses by public health clinic clients, confirmed results of similar surveys in 1984 and 1986, that hunger in Texas has risen sharply in this decade.

Nancy Robinett, director of the TDH Public Health Nutrition program, said, "Since the cause of hunger, more often than not, is insufficient income or a lack of other resources, the rise in the number of people going hungry is tied directly to the growing number of people in poverty."

Since 1980, Robinett said, the number of Texans living in poverty has increased by about 50 percent, from two million recorded in the 1980 census to three million estimated in 1987.

"For the purposes of the survey," Robinett explained, "we defined hunger as having to skip meals, or having to eat less because the family did not have enough food."

In nearly one third (27.9 percent) of the 4,194 reporting families from 83 counties, the mother had skipped one or more meals, or had eaten less, in the previous month because the family lacked food. In 12.3 percent of these families, the children also had gone hungry.

The incidence of skipping meals and eating less increased as the families' income decreased. Some 32.5 percent of mothers and 15.3 percent of children in families with annual incomes less than $5,000 suffered hunger during the previous month.

While the 1988 federal poverty index was $11,650 a year for a family of four, some 58.8 percent of respondents to the TDH survey had family incomes less than $10,000, including 42.7 percent of respondents with incomes less than $5,000 for the family of four.

Participation in food assistance programs, such as the federal Food Stamp program or the TDH's Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) did not eliminate the problems of hunger. Families in these programs include those with incomes too low to pay for needed food not provided by the government.

Robinett said, "This survey confirms not only that the less money you have, the more likely you are to have to go hungry—it shows that even with current government assistance, some people still have to go without food."

"Ultimately, these conditions all but guarantee future health problems for some of these low-income families," she added.

Out of the 83 counties surveyed, Deaf Smith County had only one participant in the program.

Hints from Heloise

MEDICAL ALERT

Dear Heloise: My mother was recently released from the hospital and had several new medications to take.

One day she called me and explained that she had placed several of the medications in the same prescription bottle since she took these at the same time each day. After doing this, she was unable to distinguish the different colors, since the pills resembled one another. I helped her separate the pills and put them back into their original bottles.

I checked with our ophthalmologist and he told me that as we get older it becomes more difficult to distinguish between similar colors, such as green and blue. He suggested keeping different pills in their original container and never mixing prescriptions together. — Peggy, Spring Hill, Fla.

You are so right! It's a must to keep all medications in their original containers. Placing pills together in the same bottle could cause changes in the medications themselves as well as lead to dangerous accidents.

Your mom is lucky to have you to help her out. — Heloise

WT student active in campus life

As she prepares to begin her senior year at West Texas State University, Hereford's Teresa Valdez stays active in campus life and maintains a grade point average that qualified her for induction into the WTSU Minority Student Honor Council. She also participates in intramural athletic competition.

A criminal justice major, Valdez said her criminal justice courses have enabled her to watch television with a keener eye. "You can apply the knowledge," she said.

As a member/officer of the honor council and member of the Mexican American Association, Valdez attended the Texas State Hispanic Student Conference in Lubbock in March. She helped operate a food booth for a Jamaican and received the honors of homecoming queen nominee and Woman of the Year nominee.

Besides her academic and organizational involvement, Valdez worked parttime in the WTSU ticket office, where she did a variety of duties including selling tickets, typing, data entry and answering the phone.

Daughter of Azael and Tina Valdez of 228 Kibbe, Valdez graduated in the class of 1986. She went to the U.I.L. State Solo and Ensemble Contest twice with clarinet ensembles, played in the honors band, ran cross country her senior year and participated in National Honor Society.

Upon completion of her degree at WTSU, Valdez plans to work in juvenile or adult probation on the state or federal level, or go to law school.

Walden gives club program at closing meeting of year

The theme of the closing meeting recently of the Velede Study Club was "Thank You."

President Norma Walden began the program saying, "In our lifetime we don't say thank you enough." She said a "thank you" to all the club members for the excellent programs, constructive fun nights and the renewal and rededication of the members. Special thanks was extended to current officers as they begin their second year's work. Officers include Joyce Ritter, treasurer; Marcella Bradly, secretary; Maragaret Zinser, vice president; and Juanita Brown, historian.

A gift was presented to Marjorie Lasiter in appreciation of her service to the club. She will be moving to Arkansas this summer. A gift was also presented to Walden in appreciation of her dedication as president for 1988-89.

Roll call was answered with programs of the past and for the future.

A supper was served by Something Special to Brown, Francis Crume, Betty Dickson, Betty Gilbert, Della Hutchins, Lasiter, Joyce Ritter, Walden, Ruth Fish and Zinser.

SENSOR TECHNOLOGY

NEW YORK (AP) - Sensor technology is changing the way Americans use their microwaves, says Anne Howard, national marketing manager of Sharp Electronics' appliance division.

"Microwaves with Sharp's sensor technology determine when food is ready by sensing vapors emitted by the foods," Howard says. With this feature, there's no calculation of cooking times; the microwave turn offs automatically once food is properly cooked.

Howard says the sensor feature works for a variety of foods, including baked potatoes, spiced shrimp and microwave popcorn.

CULINARY FESTIVAL

BOSTON (AP) - "The Culinary Festival Cookbook" features more than 50 recipes by the chefs of the Sheraton Corp., including Sheraton's award-winning entries to the 1988 International Culinary Arts Exhibition in Frankfurt, West Germany. A team of 36 Sheraton chefs from 17 countries finished first in the competition.

Among the cookbook's recipes: Chicken Breast with Feta Cheese and Mustard Cream Sauce, Ginger Lamb Chops and Puff Pastry with Fresh Strawberries on Raspberry Sauce.

Food consultant Judith Strada tested and adapted each of the recipes, which she says stay as close as possible to the chefs' originals - "given the limited equipment found in most home kitchens."

Big Brothers/Big Sisters Match of the Month

The Big Brother/Big Sister match of the month features Brian Halford who is matched to Carolyn and Waldo Baxter.

Brian has a "couple's match" and is the son of Marie Halford. He is a third grader at Aikman Elementary School.

Brian looks forward to his weekly visits with Carolyn and Waldo. He enjoys playing games with them and going to Waldo's garden to help care for Waldo's summer project. The Baxters' weekly visit is the "highlight of Brian's life."

We are proud to recognize these three outstanding people, and are pleased they are a part of Big Brothers/Big Sisters of hereford, a United Way agency.

Most school children can tell you two negatives make a positive, but few can name the man who first said so. It's said to have been John Lowth who first laid down that rule of grammar in 1762.
