No breakthroughs expected in talks, however

U.S., Arabs trade praise

By R. GREGORY NOKES Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) The Reagan administration and top Arab leaders are complimenting each others' Mideast peace plans, but U.S. officials are not predicting "dramatic breakthrough" in talks today.

A senior U.S. official said Reagan will tell an Arab League delegation that the road to peace requires Arab nations to "start coming out of the closet" and openly declare whether they will recognize Israel.

The six-nation Arab delegation is headed by Morocco's

Bess Truman laid to rest

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) - Former first lady Bess Truman, her mahogany casket draped with 100 yellow vanity roses, was buried less than a mile from the Sunday school classroom where she and Harry S. Truman met and became childhood sweethearts.

Nancy Reagan and former first ladies Rosalynn Carter and Betty Ford were on hand Thursday as Mrs. Truman was buried beside her husband in the grassy courtyard of the Truman Library.

Mrs. Truman, lovingly called "Boss" by the late president, died Monday of congestive heart failure at age 97.

"Your presence as family and friends is 'a well-spoken word' in testimony to a life well-lived," the Rev. Robert L. Hart, church rector, told about 140 invited guests at the 101-year-old Trinity Episcopal Church where Mrs. Truman was married in 1919. "Bess Truman was a Christian woman, a woman of integrity, graciousness and intelligence.

"All of us here today are Mrs. Truman's eulogy," Hart said. "You know who she was and what she was. You know what she meant to you; what she meant to our city and state; to the nation, and to the church. Let us now lift her up to God in thanksgiving. Let us give thanks for her Truman's will, written in 1961, directed that the marker on Mrs. Truman's grave carry the inscription: "First Lady, the United States of America, April 12, 1945-Jan. 20, King Hassan and also includes the foreign ministers of Jordan, Syria, Algeria, Tunisia and Saudi Arabia.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz met with Hassan at the home of the Moroccan ambassador here Thursday night in what was described as a courtesy call. Earlier in the day, Shultz conferred with Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir, primarily on Lebanon.

The administration chose not to publicly object that the delegation includes a representative of the Liberation Palestine Organization, although U.S. officials said they wouldn't allow him at their meetings.

An Arab League official, Clovis Maksoud, chided the administration Thursday, saying the U.S. refusal to receive the PLO representative meant that only "sixsevenths" of the delegation would meet with Reagan.

The purpose of the Arabs' visit, planned long in advance, was to lobby for the Arab peace plan, adopted at Fez, Morocco last month, and to hear Reagan's explanation of his peace initiative.

However, both sides seemed to go out of their way in pre-meeting briefings to find good things to say. And neither side seemed to pay much heed to the fact that Israel has rejected both ap-

The senior U.S. official, who spoke anonymously, said Washington finds "constructive elements" in the Arab plan which calls for creation of a separate Palestinian state adjacent to Israel - a step Israel says it won't

The senior official said the constructive elements in the Arab plan "involve the mention of Israel and the suggestion ... of a willingness to recognize and live in peace with Israel."

Also significant, he said, is that the Arabs are agreed on a peace plan for the first time and are presenting it as a "framework for peace."

But he said Reagan wants some clarifications, particularly on a provision calling on the United Nations to guarantee peace "among all states of the region," which has been interpreted as indirect recognition of Israel.

He said the Arab leaders will be told: "If that is what it means, why not just say so? If we want to start moving this process forward - start coming out of the closet on such issues which are key."

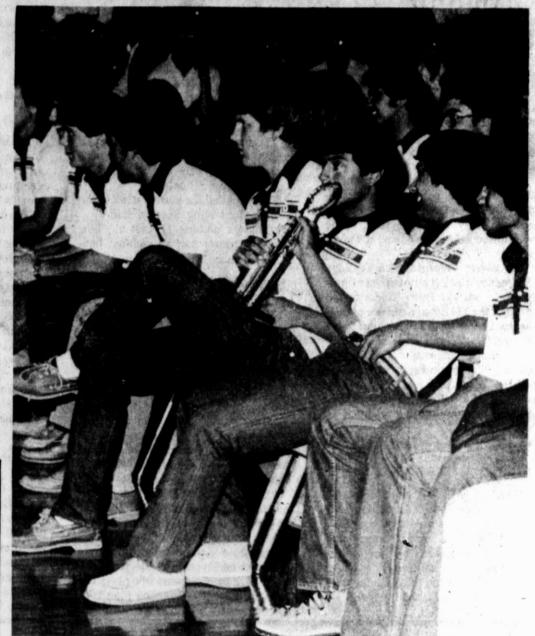

He also said it is essential that moderate Arab nations, especially Saudi Arabia, give Jordan a mandate to negotiate with Israel on behalf of the Palestinians. He said he thinks King Hussein is ready and that he would have the backing of many Palesti-

Approaches Depression-era levels

South Texas unemployment swells

The Texas Employment Commission's latest figures show parts of South Texas are national approaching Depression-era levels.

"We're wall to wall with claimants," said Alfredo Lopez, assistant manger of the TEC office in Laredo. "I've seen foremen, managers, supervisors people we have never seen in the past. They're shocked. They're trying to digest what's going on, wondering what their next move will

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says a tactless person is someone who says what everyone else is thinking.

People who snore fall asleep first.

Sounds familiar:

A man with a wife and son picked up the phone and dialed his home. There was a phone in the kitchen and an extension in the son's room.

Two voices answered simulataneously, "I've got it," followed by two clicks as both hung up.

The county recorded a "killing freeze" Wednesday morning, With KPAN Radio reporting a low of 30 degrees early that morning. According to agricultural officials in the county, the freeze didn't come too early for most crops.

With the corn harvest about completed and the milo harvest well underway, John Fuston, ASCS director, says our crops appear "above average" this year. Some good yields on corn and milo are being reported; the sugar beet harvest is starting off good, and Fuston says we're even going to have some "pretty good" cotton yields this year.

One of the country's most abused kinships - the motherin-law, is still being abused despite efforts of Congress to do something about it.

Although it's still unknown to many, the fourth Sunday of October of each year has been designated as "Mothersin-Law Day" by the House of Representatives, but the Senate apparently has been dragging its feet. Some mothers-in-law need to tell their senators to get the necessary paperwork done.

Mothers-in-law have been the butt of jokes for many years and it seems Congress is hoping to give them a little special recognition by designating the special day for them. It seems only right, as the lowly pickle has got a whole week!

Mother-in-law stories like Aggie jokes, are greatly exaggerated. My mother-in-law is a gem, and we suspect that a lot of folks will be happy to see the "Mothers-in-Law Day" formally approved for recognition.

TEC Commissioner Ken Clapp said TEC offices now are crowded with "firsttimers."

"It's especially tragic the person who is out of work for the first time in his life. They come into our offices discouraged, afraid and frustrated," he said.

The TEC's latest figures, showing the September memployment rate in 25 metropolitan areas, put Laredo at the top of the list at a whopping 23.2 percent, the highest jobless rate for any Texas city since the TEC began keeping such records

The second and third worst figures came from two urban centers in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. September rate for McAllen-Pharr-Edinburg was 21.1 Percent, and BrownsvilleHarlingen-San Benito stood at 15.8 percent.

The Department of Labor did not keep employment statistics during the Depression, but it has estimated the jobless rate peaked at 24.9 percent in 1933. However, labor statistician say the impact then was much greater than it is today because there were no government benefits

Lebanese president heading for home

ROME (AP) - Lebanese President Amin Gemayel heads home today after visiting Italy, France and the United States to seek a tenfold increase in the Lebanon peacekeeping force and billions of dollars in aid for his troubled nation.

Gemayel's one-day visit to Italy included a private audience with Pope John Paul II at the Vatican, as well as meetings with President Sandro Pertini and Premier Giovanni Spadolini.

The main objectives of the three-nation trip were to muster political support for an increase in the peace force sent to Lebanon last month and for withdrawal of the Israeli, Syrian and Palestinian forces whose fierce clashes turned Lebanon into a bloodied battleground this summer.

Gemayel also has asked for Clapp said unemployment in Texas has not "bottomed out" yet, but he said he saw a glimmer of hope in the payouts of unemployment benefits.

"They are still increasing, but at a much less rapid rate," he said. "I have a feeling the thing is slowing."

Officials blame the state's unemployment problems on a slump in oil drilling, Mexico's peso devaluation, a national recession and hard times for

Small town has many criminals

FLORENCE, Ariz. (AP) - More than a third of the residents of this fast-growing community have criminal records, but the town council wouldn't have it any other way.

The council voted Thursday night to annex the Arizona State Prison here, adding 2,000 inmates to the community's previous population of 3,500.

Annexing the state's only maximum security prison should boost city revenues by an estimated 68 percent, because many state and federal allocations are based on population, officials said.

Mayor Michael Tucker said Gov. Bruce Babbitt had endorsed the annexation, which took effect immediately but does not affect revenues until next year.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Three months ago my husband and two sons brought home a dog. They said it was a Danish terrier puppy and wouldn't get much bigger. As it turns out she is a Great Dane and now, with all fours on the floor, places her chin on the dining room table.

The boys and Ted said they'd take complete charge of Dutchess and I wouldn't even know she was around. Well, she isn't house-broken and our home smells like a zoo. Dutchess is supposed to be confined to one area of the house, but she walks over all the barriers and barks until I give in. Worse yet, we live in a small townhouse with a common patio and lawn shared by neighbors. The hound scares their children, and our neighbors have petitioned us to get rid of her, threatening court action if we fail to act within 30 days.

I have begged my husband to discipline Dutchess, but there has been no improvement. I finally said, "You'll have to choose, It's the dog or me." He replied, "I'm sticking with the dog."

Westway Club members learn origin of Christmas customs

"The History of Christmas Customs" was the program topic presented by Louise Walker, County Extension Agent, at the Tuesday night meeting of Westway Extension Club. Members met in the home of Jeanette Ramey.

Before the meeting began, Ms. Ramey took members on a tour of her home, showing improvements made during the summer, including a large den with a fireplace, utility room, closets, book cases, and cabinets.

Ms. Walker used a red Santa's bag filled with articles to illustrate her talk. She explained that a festival to honor the birth of Jesus starting in 300 A.D. was probably the beginning of what we celebrate as Christmas.

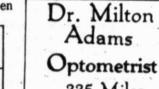

She also gave information about the origins of traditions such as the Christmas tree, the use of holly and mistletoe, Christmas cards, seals and their spiritual meaning, Santa Claus, and the use of poinsettias.

Certain foods which have become customary for Christmas because they were plentiful at the time, include game, domestic fowl, peacock, swan, goose, turkey, roast pig, mince meat pies, plum pudding (laced with trinkets), fruit cakes and sweet potatoe pie.

Ms. Walker closed her program by presenting each member with a copy of an early day recipe entitled "Receet for Washing Clothes."

The business meeting was conducted by President Debbie Keyes and roll call was answered with "A Food That is a Family Tradition."

Herd stampedes past Palo Duro, 30-8

BY LES GILES Sports Editor

Head coach Don Cumpton worried about Palo Duro's

"They're a better ball club than their record," he'd said. "They have a great deal of potential, capable of exploding against someone."

The dictionary defines potential this way: POTENTIAL - that can come into being ... possible ...

Well, that's what Palo Duro's offense appeared to be Thursday night - latent.

It never got untracked, until late in the fourth period. By that time, Hereford was in full command of things as it rolled to an easy 30-8 District 3-5A triumph before 2,000 fans in Dick Bivins Stadium.

The Herd, now 7-1 this season and 5-1 in district play, never was headed.

They struck for a pair of TDs within a span of 17 seconds in the second quarter to build a comfortable 21-0 cushion. Hereford's defense, the best in the league statistically, didn't allow the Dons past midfield until PD mustered a 13-play, 69-yard march in the final 3:53 of the fourth period. Until PD drove 69 yards for its only score, the Dons had managed just 68 yards total offense. Much of the PD scoring drive came against Hereford reserves.

If anyone had expected the Herd to by 'flat' after last week's emotion-filled game against Plainview, they could toss such notions out the window early.

Hereford dominated the line of scrimange from the outset. Its offensive line opened gaping holes for tailback Alfred Ball and bull-like Raymond Martinez.

Ball had a field day, too, gaining 163 yards on 30 carries. The 30 carries represented a season high, and the 163 yards have been surpassed only by the 181 he gained against Canyon the second week of the season. Martinez carried a season-high 21 times, gaining 84 yards along the way. Numerous times he simply ran over

Palo Duro defenders. In all, Hereford rolled up 366 yards of total offense. The Herd came into the game averaging 356.3. Hereford's defense yielded 137 yards. It came into the game giving up 163.6 yards an outing. Hereford dented the scoreboard with 5:04 remaining in the opening quarter.

After taking over at midfield, following a PD punt, it

After Martinez picked up two yards, Ball took a handoff and started left. He cut back against the grain and outran the Don secondary to complete the 48-yard play. Martinez' first of four PAT's made it, 7-0.

Hereford's next scoring drive covered 80 yards, and began following another Don punt with 2:34 left in the Charles McDowell's 28-yard option run around left end gave the Herd a first down at their 45.

From there, with Ball and Martinez alternating runs, it took 10 plays to score. The payoff came when Martinez bulled over from the 2 with 9:39 left in the half, giving the Herd a 14-0 lead.

PD's Greg McClain fumbled at his 23 on the ensuing kickoff and Martinez recovered.

On the first play, McDowell found wide receiver Brian Taylor in the end zone. PD defensive back Ronnie Stiger got his hands on the ball, and tipped it straight up.

An alert Taylor, however, caught the tipped ball for the touchdown with gave the Herd a 21-0 cushion.

Hereford got a safety with 2:43 left in the half when PD punter Thip Thipsipasom stepped out of the end zone. At the half, Hereford had rolled up 241 total yards. PD managed just 26 yards the first half.

After a scoreless third quarter, Hereford drove 43 yards in 15 plays for its final TD in the fourth period.

Glenn Phibbs' 25-yard punt return gave the Herd excellent field position with 10:27 to play.

Again, Ball and Martinez consumed most of the yardage as the drive used up six minutes and 34 seconds. Martinez capped the scoring drive with a 1-yard charge with 3:15 to play. PD then moved for its only TD, following a 23-yard kickoff return by Gerry Smith.

Don QB David Littlejohn completed four of eight passes for 40 yards during the drive, which was capped by Smith's 5-yard sweep with 1:02 to play.

Holder Joey Wilkins then shoveled a pass to McClain for the two-point conversion to complete the scoring.

Hereford defeated the Dons for the fifth straight time, and now leads the overall series, 9-6. Ball's 48-yard scoring run was the longest in the series history for the Herd, breaking the previous mark of 33 yards by Alan Wartes in Hereford will host Amarillo High next Friday night, while the Dons, now 1-6 overall and 1-5 in district play, will visit Lubbock High.

Excited Raiders visit Washington

You're only 3-3 on the year. You're playing the nation's top-ranked college football team this week and you're listed as a 20-point underdog. What do you do?

La Plata 8th ties Amarillo Christian

Mark Artho's 35-yard field goal attempt with six seconds left to play just missed, and as a result the LaPlata 8th grade had to settle for a 14-14 tie against Amarillo Chrisv in Amarillo.

"That field goal try was really close," coach Kelly Adams said. "It was so close that the officials had to confer with each other."

Amarillo Christian surprised LaPlata, scroring on the game's first play from scrimmage - 1 60-yard run.

"Before the game, our players were wondering how much we'd beat them by," Adams related.

"Some of the kids were wondering if we (LaPlata) could break the school scoring record.

"And, I'll tell you, when you start talking and thinking like that you're often times in for a hard time.

"That 60-yard run by them kinda woke our guys up." After that, however, it was an uphill battle for LaPlata, now 4-2-1 in the season.

Bobby Medina raced 5 yards for a TD in the second period, and when Chris Urbanczyk ran for the conversion LaPlata led 8-6.

But Amarillo Christian came back later in the period to score on a 10-yard pass play. They also converted for two points on the point after, giving them a 14-8 lead.

Urbanczyk scored the tying TD in the fourth peirod, but the two-point try came up short, leaving the count deadlocked at 14-14.

LaPlata got the ball back with about a minute and a half to play, and drove to the

The last time West Virginia won a football game from Penn State, the Dodgers were the champions of baseball - the Brooklyn Dodgers. And unless some of the West Virginia players are fibbing about their age, not a one of them was born when that momentous event last occurred back in 1955. Even the school's sports information director, Tim Lilley, was six months away from seeing the light of day.

Since then, it has been as dark as a West Virginia coal mine when the Mountaineers beat Penn State. The best they have managed in the intervening 26 years was a 14-14 tie in 1958 - and that was the year the Dodgers moved to Los Angeles.

Through all the world's upheavals over the past 21/2 decades, one thing has remained constant — the times they have not been a'changin' when West Virginia meets Penn State on the football

"I could be the worst coach in the world and get a team ready to play Penn State,"

BAYLOR (2-3-1, 1-2-1 in SWC) at TCU (2-4, 1-2 in SWC), 2 p.m. - TCU leads series 42-39-7, but Baylor has won eight straight. Both teams need to rebound from losses last week, Baylor coming from 25 points behind A&M to score 20 points in last 25 minutes. Frogs dropped non-conference game to Mississipp despite QB Reuben Jones throwing for season best 252 yards on 17 con ions. Baylor QB Mike Brannan listed as very doubtful, still nursing hamstr ing injury and David Mangrum scheduled for third start with freshman Tom Muecke listed second. Baylor fifth in SWC rushing and boasts two of top ten SWC rushers in Alfred Anderson and Allen Rice; TCU's Marcus Gilbert is 10th. Frogs' passing history not evident this year as they throw just 20 times per game to Baylors's 25, nearly half of Baylor's 62 completions have gone to SMU (6-0, 3-0 in SWC) at TEXAS (3-1, 1-0 in SWC), 2:50 p.m. - SMU risks ongest winning streak in nation, 10 games, against the last team to defeat them last year. SMU is ranked fourth nationally and Texas stands 19th after loss to Oklahoma. They are two of the last three undefeated teams in SWO play. Mustangs' Eric Dickerson Saturday became first SWC rusher ever to go over, 1,000 yards this early in a season by totaling career high 241 vs. Houston for season average of 166.8 yards per game. Dickerson now ranks second SWC career yardage (3,834) and fellow tailback Craig James is fifth with 3,321. Dickerson second in national rushing and James fourth in national pun ting. SMU and UT rank second and third, respectively, in both SWC offense and defense. Mustangs have scored six of last ten TDs on passes, while Texas in No. 2 in SWC pass defense at 127.5 yards per game in allowing only two missing TDs. Texas holds 37-20-4 all-time series lead.

TEXAS TECH (3-3) at WASHINGTON (6-0), 3:30 p.m. The Red Raiders is choices for the SWC cellar who have broken even in their first six games, play the nation's No. 1 team. Huskies return explosive deffense from '82 Rose Bowl championship team that edged Raiders, 14-7, in first meeting between schools. Washington is 4-6-1 all-time vs SWC opponents, Tech is 26-6-2 vs. current Pac Ten members. Three of Raiders' six games have been decided by a total of four points, while Huskies' closest has been ten-point decision over arizona in second game of season. Tech defense has gained respect despite yielding 333.5 yards per game, because inexperienced offense kept defense on field through early games. Raider ground game getting extra punch from soph 1-Back Robert Lewis, continued improved leadership from QB Jim Hart. Raider defense yields only 3.6 yards per rushing play and has claimed eight pass interceptions, third best in SWC. Huskies had trouble get ting untracked vs. winless Oregon State last week before Rose Bowl MVP Jacquer Robinson scored two last TDs. QB Steve Pelluer went out with injury two weeks ago, and reserve Tim Cowan hit TD passes of 41, 15 and 12 yards in

Cards' Iorg likes DH role

The Hereford Brand-Friday, Oct. 22, 1982-Page 5

ST.LOUIS (AP) - Dane lorg of the world champion St.Louis Cardinals cast a resounding "yes" vote for bringing the designated hitter rule to the National League.

lorg's enthusiasm is understandable since he had nine hits as the Cardinals chief DH in the 1982 World Series, tying Reggie Jackson of the 1978 New York Yankees and Hal McRae of the 1980 Kansas City Royals for most hits by a designated hitter in a Series.

Iorg's nine hits - including four doubles and a triple came in 17 at-bats for a .529 average. Jackson had his nine hits in 23 at-bats while McRae had 24 at-bats.

For Jackson and McRae. being a DH was nothing new because they had done it during the regular season. For Iorg, it was a new experience.

"It was great for me," lorg said of the DH rule. "Sure I'd like to see it on a regulaer bassis in our league. It sure beats sitting on the bench."

He said it was a strange feeling being part of the game for part of the time. When the Cardinals were in the field, Iorg was an interested spectator.

"It made me nervous," he said, and added it was a different feeling from being a pinch hitter. "Because as a pinch hitter you bat only once in a game, usually late in the game, and that's it."

Iorg had 238 at-bats during the regular 1982 regular season when he was used as a pinch hitter, outfielder, first baseman and third baseman. For the fourth year in a row he led Cardinal pinch hitters in driving in runs. St.Louis Manager Whitey Herzog said he had no feelings one way or the other about introducing the DH to the National League. "I've managed both ways and there's good and bad things about the DH, and good and bad things about having pitchers hitting," he

"I really don't care which way they go, but I do think they should get together and use the same rules. I don't care which. I just think that all 26 major league teams should play with the same rules.'

Cardinals pitcher Joaquin Andujar, who took battng practice before both games, he pitched - even though he wouldn't hit during the games - said he was very much opposed to the DH.

"Pitchers are players too," said Andujar, "and they should bat like everyone else. The DH is very bad for NFL strike nearing end?

COCKEYSVILLE, Md. (AP) - Table for five? Seating for 1,500.

Sam Kagel and four of the principals in the National Football League negotiations had dinner Thursday night.

The four were union chief Ed Garvey, union executive committee member Stan White, owners' chief negotiator Jack Donlan and Management Council chief counsel Sargent Karch.

What they discussed may help bring to a conclusion this strike, now in its 32nd day, because when labor disputes are settled, experts in the field say they are settled by the principals, not by com-

Asked after dinner by Javne Miller of CBS News whether there was any progress in the talks, Kagel waxed philosphical.

"Y'know, many, many years ago I took a course at the University of California - I was an undergraduate at Berkeley - and this actually was a course on progress, what was progress?" Kagel began. "And we spent a whole semester on reading about Aristotle and so on and so forth on the idea of pro-

"Finally, the professor said at the end of the course, 'I have concluded after spending my whole lifetime reading about what all of the great thinkers of the world consider to be progress, that progress is a slow, gradual movement in a desirable direction.' And one of the students in my class spoke up and said, 'Well, professor what is the desirable direction?' And he said, 'Ah, that's the question."

And when asked by Miller whether the owners and players were headed in the desirable direction, Kagel replied: "I have no way of determining what the parties will consider to be a desirable direction. No way. They're going to have to decide themselves."

Slain woman's sister praises prison sentence

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - A woman whose 18-year-old sister was brutally stabbed and stuffed into a closet by a former high school classmate says she is relieved the young man convicted of the murder was sentenced to prison.

But Gloria Culver said she also was compelled to feel compassion for Wesley Wayne Miller, 20, who was convicted of slaying 18-yearold Retha Stratton, a former cheerleader.

Miller was voted the "Best All-Around Student" at his Fort Worth high school, where he dated Miss Stratton.

He was sentenced Thursday to 25 years in prison. The maximum sentence possible was life imprisonment.

"I don't hate the boy. My heart goes out to him," Mrs. Culver said after the sentence was read by State District Judge Gordon Gray. "But he definitely needed to be taken off the streets. He's a very dangerous individual."

A.J. Stratton, the victim's father, said the sentence was not long enough.

"He didn't get what he deserved," he said. "He deserved life. He took my daughter's life. Justice wasn't done."

Prosecutor Steve Chaney told jurors in closing arguments Wednesday that Miller may have been trying to rape Miss Stratton on Jan. 21, the day she was stabbed 38 times with a kitchen knife.

Gray was asked to grant a mistrial because of Chaney's comment, but he rejected the motion, instructing jurors to disregard the remark.

Defense attorneys said Miller's signed statement that he killed the woman was difficult to overcome in the minds of jurors, who deliberated his guilt for six hours in a two-day period.

"We realized that the likelihood was a jury would convict Mr. Miller on the basis of the statement," said defense attorney Jack Strickland. "I'm satisfied with the performance that we gave. I'm just not satisfied with the outcome."

Workers attend Green Thumb session in Tulia

A district training session of Green Thumb, Inc. was held Monday at the Tulia Senior Citizens Center. Attending from Deaf Smith County were Alice Gilliland, Anna Wilson, Ruth Rodriguez, Leo Martinez, George Frerich, and Emmett Vaughn.

The main topic of discussion was the recent apppropriations bill before Congress to provide funds for continuation of the Green Thumb program.

Green Thumb workers, who are employed by nonprofit organizations under the sponsorship for the National Farmers Union, had already received letters informing them that their last day on the job was to be Sept. 24, because, after a presidential veto of the bill, there was no assurance that both houses of Congress would override it.

The override vote in the Senate was 60 to 30, exactly the two-third majority necessary. One more vote against the bill and 54,000 older workers would have had to quit their jobs.

The group traveled on six Trailway buses, one day apart and visited attractions all across the country. The 20 day tour covered 21 states and two Canadian provinces.

Highlights of the trip were visiting Niagara Falls, Montreal, Quebec; all of the New England states and city tours of Boston, New York City, Washington D.C.

The travelers reported that the foliage was most spectacular in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

The group also toured the homes of George Washington, Mount Vernon, and Thomas Jefferson, Montecelo, the Skyline Drive and Natural Bridge; all located in Virginia.

The city tour of Washington, D.C. included visits to the Capitol building; the White House and the changing of the guard at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

The tour of New York City included a trip to the top of the Empire State building and a visit to the Statute of Liberty in New York City. Also, several group members attended plays in New York.

After a half day at the World's Fair in Knoxville, Tenn., a drive across Tennessee and overnight at Memphis, the travelers journeyed through Arkansas to the Fountainhead Lodge in Oklahoma for their farewell

Deadline nears for government to file

WASHINGTON (AP) -When Arthur Duhamel lowered his nets into waters once used by his ancestors. wildlife agents told him Indians couldn't fish there without a license - and Indians weren't getting many

In 1979 a federal judge said the state of Michigan acted illegally in the more than halfcentury that Indians were barred from fishing in their traditional waters. Now, Duhamel wants compensation for all the years he couldn't fish in Lake Michigan's New Mission Bay.

He is one of thousands of Indians hoping a lawsuit will force the United States government to represent them in court - and soon.

The lawsuit was filed in U.S. District Court by Indian rights attorneys, who noted that if the government doesn't file suits on the Indians' behalf by Dec. 31, thousands of claims will be wiped out.

On that date, the statute of limitations set by Congress and extended several times for the Indians will run out, meaning the government would be barred from filing lawsuits on behalf of Indians who were legally wronged before July 18, 1966.

The Native American Rights Fund, which filed the suit, contends the Interior Department has no intention of beating the deadline, even though it's aware of 17,000 potential claims.

They're asking U.S. District Judge Howard Corcoran to order the department to file lawsuits on behalf of the Indians before Dec. 31. Simultaneously, the fund and some members of Congress are pushing for passage of legislation to extend the deadline. It would have to be approved during the lame duck session to begin Nov. 29.

The pre-1966 claims are often difficult to identify, because many of the wrongs were done years ago and descendants are hard to find.

One type of claim involves denial of fishing rights. Other Indians had their land taken away illegally. Still others had money taken from estates to reimburse states for old age assistance payments. Non-Indians received similar payments without paying anything back.

The chief Indian attorney in the federal lawsuit, Anita Remerowski of the Native American Rights Fund, said, "The Indians see it as one more promise that's been breached."

Added the fund's legislative director, Suzan Harjo, "There's a perception that Indian rights are subordinate to non-Indian rights. That's not what the Constitution says. It's not what the huge body of Indian law says. It's classic cavalry thinking." Carl Shaw of the Bureau of Indian Affairs denied that the Interior Department agency is failing to meet its respon-

"We still believe if the deadline is not extended we will have filed all the claims by Dec. 31," he said.

"There's no way there's 17,000 claims that we haven't looked at. My people tell me we will have identified and filed by Dec. 31 those cases we feel are legitimate. The department feels no extension is necessary."

The lawsuit contends the government hasn't even investigated many potential claims, including those of Duhamel's tribe, the Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa-Chippewa Indians in Suttons Bay, Mich.

The 58-year-old Duhamel, a former pipeline welder who now runs the fishing business he always wanted, said treaties of 1836 and 1855 gave his tribe the right to fish in ancestral waters.

"We're very simple people," he said. "We believed the treaty operated to give us the right to fish. Non-Indian fishermen were all around me. A local fishing firm came right in our waters in front of our house and we couldn't take a rowboat out and fish with a hook and line.

"We attempted to fish but were always arrested. They got paranoid. They would say I was in violation of state law. I would reply they were in violation of the Constitution of the United States.

"I had to devote so much effort to fighting these people I feel my life has been shortened 10 years. Without fish, we

A record number of prisoners is crowding American prisons. Similar increases during the last year were registered by both state and federal institutions, with the former holding the great majority of all prisoners. Women comprise only 4 percent of the prison population, but their numbers have been increasing at a faster rate than for men. Four states with over 20,000 prisoners each hold 30 percent of the national total.

Seven states have under 1,000 each.

Texas' population growth phenomenal

Texas had three million more they? people in 1981 than in 1977, making it the fastest growing state in the nation.

"It's like the state is a giant magnet pulling people here from everywhere," said Dr. Robert Skrabanek, demographer and sociologist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Texas Real Estate Research Center and Texas A&M University Department of Rural

"The growth is simply phenomenal; we've never seen anything like this before," Skrabanek said during the 1982 Town and Country Church Conference at Texas A&M Oct. 4-5.

COLLEGE STATION -- moving to Texas, and who are

"Besides being in the Sunbelt, the Lone Star state has a low unemployment rate and low tax structure (compared to other states)," he pointed out.

In 1960, Texas was the sixth most populated state, and by 1970 it had become the fourth largest. In 1975, Texas became the third largest state, preceded only by California and New York.

The population has been evenly distributed the past 10 years, Skrabanek noted, with 210 Texas counties showing an increase and only 44 reporting a decrease.

"Big cities like Dallas, Houston and San Antonio are getting larger but the real growth is occurring in the suburbs of these cities," he said. "The cities keep growing out and incorporating what were once rural areas."

Rural areas have been consistently gaining in population the past 15 years, Skrabanek said. This comes from factories and industries moving out of big cities and into rural communities, which in turn disperses the population more equally.

"Even with the depressed economy, Texas is still a bright spot when compared to other states," Skrabanek said. "And I don't expect this pattern to change anytime soon.'

Who are the people inhabiting Texas?

'Since the mid 1950s, we've changed from a maledominated to femaledominated state," he said. "Add to this the fact that women live an average of eight years longer and it's obvious that women are a dominant force in Texas."

The median age in Texas is 28.2 years, compared to 30 years for the nation. This is almost double the median age of 16 in 1800.

"Ethnically, Texas can be divided into three groups," population was 66 percent Anglo, 21 percent Hispanic and 12 percent Black."

Bill G. McClarty, D. D. S.

announces the association of cattle theft trial while listening to a radi newscast.

The charge "is political, he said last week. "It i ridiculous. Any time you ge an indictment against a ma in Texas politics, he can't ru again."

London said he wants t prove his innocence in a polygraph test and have the charges dropped.

"Since London lives it Austin, we have agreed to se up a polygraph test for him is Austin sometime next week.' Point rancher Ed Furhh on said District Attorney Jin June 1 and then selling them Chapman. "We are not ready to make any statement or whether charges will be drop ped if he passes the test. We will just have to wait and see what happens. I can't speculate on the outcome of the polygraph test."

Regulations go into effect

AUSTIN -- Under new Texas regulations which went into effect Oct. 18, glass coating materals may be installed on all motor vehicle windows except windshields.

Previously, it was illegal to place the materials on the windows to the immediate left and right of the driver's seat. However, the new regulations allow coating materials approved by the Texas Department of Public Safety to be installed on those

The window film materials, which are sold under various brand names, are designed to reduce glare and the build up of heat inside the passenger compartment by limiting the amount of sunlight passing through the windows.

Glass coating materials applied to windows behind the driver's seat need not be approved by the DPS. However, vehicles with winow film applied to the rear window must have outside rear view mirrors on the right and left Coatings which meet DPS standards cannot block more than two-thirds of the light directed at the material.

Laboratory tests confirming that coatings meet the DPS standards must be filed with the Department before approval is granted. Regulations also require that the manufacturer's name or number and approval designation appear on the material placed on each of the front side windows.

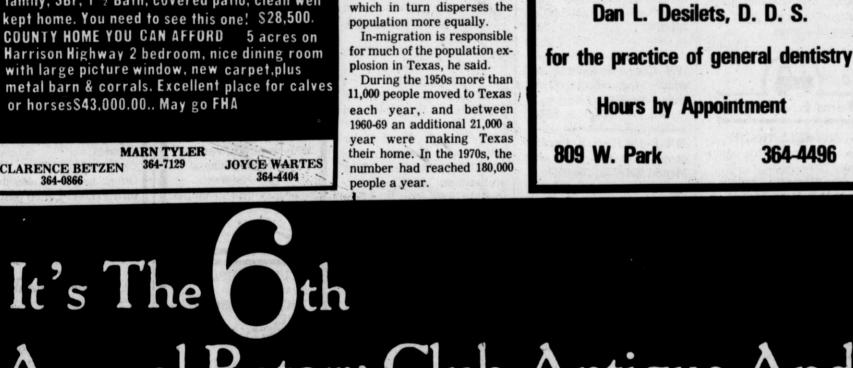

DPS Director Jim Adams said Department staff members had received numerous inquiries about the materials from the public. "One reason we held off changing the regulations is that until three months ago, none of these coatings had been approved by a nationally-accredited organization," Adams said. "When the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators approved several samples during the summer, we determined that the DPS policy prohibiting use of the materials on front side windows was no longer valid. Adams pointed out that many sunbelt states do not prohibit the use of glass coatings on the driver's side windows.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I read in your column that you think bed rest can be bad. You said it can rob your bones of calcium and cause your circulation to deteriorate. I agree with you that people in nursing homes who can walk should be out of bed and active and that people staying at home should be more active than many

My question concerns the millions of us who must go to an office and work all day sitting. I don't think man was designed to just sit all day but was intended to be more active. Is sitting all day harmful to you? What do you recommend for us?

DEAR READER — Yes, if sitting is all you do it can cause loss of normal body functions. It is just one more example of the harmful effects of inactivity. My colleagues and I did a study of this for the space program. We studied young men who spent the entire daytime sitting in over-stuffed chairs. The inactivity gradually leads to loss of blood volume and progressive muscular weakness. The capacity to exercise diminished. We also saw this when people were confined to small spaces to simulate the space vehicles used then. A lot of office workers, even top executives, who sit all day get "stale." By evening they are fatigued. The same applies to students sitting for hour after hour of lectures. That fatigue is chemical and is caused from disuse of muscles. The fatigue that office workers experience is often eliminated by some enjoyable physical activity, a swim, a jog, a tennis match or a nice walk. The exercise activates the system and gives you a new surge of not coffee and gossip. DEAR DR. LAMB - I have an 8-year-old boy, almost 9, who is five feet tall. He is the tallest in his third grade class and many children make remarks about it as well as some other crude people we are acquainted with.

What I would like to know is if you think there is a possibility of hyperthyroidism. If so, what can I do to treat it? If treated too soon, what is the possibility of brain damage? How does a person go about checking for hyperthyroidism?

DEAR READER - Your son is at the upper range of distribution curves for height for his age. Hyperthyroidism is not a cause for increased height. If he has any problem at all it is more likely to be from an excess production of growth hormone from the pituitary

Should that be the case there is nothing you personally can do but your son does need to see a doctor. He may need an evaluation by an endocrinologist if there is excessive growth. He could be just maturing more rapidly than usual but I would suggest having him see your doctor for a first hand look.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am 32, a mother of five and have always had good health. Eight months ago I started having dizzy spells for no apparent reason. These spells would come on at any time without warn-My family doctor sent me for numerous X-rays of my head but nothing showed up. I went to a specialist who pumped ice water into my ears to make me dizzy and monitored me each time. He could not give me any explanation for my problem.

Now they want me to go to a center for more tests. I should mention that since these spells started I get headaches that feel as if there is a tremendous weight across my forehead.

DEAR READER - The first thing to be clarified is what you mean by dizziness. When some people say they feel dizzy, they mean they are weak and have the sensation of an impending faint. Those are usually caused by inadequate blood flow to the brain and tend to occur while standing.

FAITH TEACHES US THE MEANING OF REAL WEALTH

om the great love of money, the evil that springs Is the same kind of trouble that avarice brings, With the habit of wanting material things That we usually cannot afford.

When we shorten our lives with all work and no play, Then our taxes increase while the years fade away: And the loss of our health is a high price to pay For excessive financial reward.

If you'll go to the Church of whatever your creed, There's a lesson you'll learn on the evils of greed; For the only true riches that you'll ever need Will be found in the love of the Lord!
