Combest assembling panel for LSC hearing

By O.G. NIEMAN Editor-Publisher

U.S. Rep. Larry Combest, who has been striving to bring Texas Rural Legal Aid under more stringent regulations, will take his case to the Legal Services Corporation board Dec. 19 at a hearing in El Paso.

Combest, Lubbock Republican who represents the 19th Congressional District, announced Monday that he is assembling a panel to testify at the LSC board meeting. Representatives will include state officials and businessmen.

Combest' said he felt more optimistic about getting some action "because the board now has the leeway to restrict the use of funds by state corporations such as the TRLA." He said LSC directors has been operating with a recessedappointed board until the Senate finally confirmed some appointments in October.

"Basically, the LSC has been operating for five years without an effective board," said Combest. He thinks the 11-member board is now in a position to take some action, and he said his panel will have two hours to present testimony concerning hardships and alleged abuses by the

Farm benefits tied to conservation efforts

WASHINGTON (AP) - Tough new tion their most erosion-prone sanctions against farmers who contribute to the nation's erosion problems won easy approval in congressional negotiations, but the overall farm bill remained tangled in disagreement over commodity subsidies.

Soil conservation language approved by negotiators Monday would for the first time tie farm program benefits - from subsidies to crop insurance - to the way a farmer treats his most fragile crop land. It also would offer federal rent payments to entice farmers to retire from produc-

'This is historic," said Peter C. Myers, assistant agriculture secretary for natural resources. "Farm programs are going to work together with soil conservation, instead of crossways."

"This is the most historic action on soil and water conservation since the Soil Conservation Service was started 50 years ago," said Daniel Weiss, a lobbyist for the Sierra Club, one of several environmental groups that had been lobbying hard on the issue all year.

The Hereford Brand's Photo Puzzle game drew 145 entries this past week and most of the entrants correctly identified the mystery guest as Argen Draper, who is cochairman of the Sesquicentennial committee for Deaf Smith County.

Dr. Howard Johnson's name was drawn from the box of correct entries, and he will receive $50 in Hereford Bucks by coming to the Brand office. His name was drawn by DPS officer Wayne Beighle.

Two more games are scheduled before Christmas. This week's game started with a puzzle piece in Sunday's paper. Watch for pieces during the week and clip out the entry form in Friday's Brand. Paste the pieces together for a completed photo and submit with the entry form to The Brand before noon Monday. You could be a winner if you correctly identify the photo. From the correct entries, a random drawing will be held to determine the winner of the $50 in Hereford Bucks!

The bonds will be classified into three categories, A, B, and C. Bonds A and and B will be gathering $8.8 million each, and C will raise $9 million.

The actual construction of the project should begin in Feb. 1986.

Youth faces murder charges

HENDERSON, Texas (AP) - Seven women and five men will sit as a jury during the trial of a teen-ager accused of killing his halfbrother, step-father and grandmother last summer.

Dwaine Brown, 16, of Crims Chapel is on stand trial in the beating death of 11-year-old Kevin Brown. Prosecutors allege Brown beat his half-brother to death with a baseball bat on Aug. 20.

Jurors were selected Monday and were scheduled to return today with testimony beginning at 9 a.m.

Brown has been certified to stand trial as an adult.

In addition to the younger Brown's death, Brown is accused of shooting and killing his stepfather Kenneth Dalton Brown, 35 and his grandmother Eva Juanita Ray, 59.

The victims were found in their Crims Chapel home about seven miles north of Henderson.

Texas mayor plans to stay put

DEL RIO, Texas (AP) - The mayor of this border town says he has no plans to resign despite criticism from local citizens angry over his plans to build a new international bridge.

Roger Cerny said Monday the bridge, which is wearing out after more than 50 years of use, is a vital cog in the local economy. "Our link to Mexico is of vital importance to our economy," said

Cerny, 46. "The bridge that we have now is totally inadequate." Cerny is expected to urge the City Council, which meets tonight, to purchase revenue bonds to rebuild the bridge. Cerny said a new bridge is needed because the city cannot get insurance on the old one, which was completed in 1930. A state highway department inspection of the structure two years ago indicated it met only minimum standards, he said. Cerny said the bridge has a 60,000-pound load limit and is 17 feet wide, just broad enough for two lanes of traffic. He has come under heavy fire from local citizens for his stand. One resident, Lou Woodward, has been gathering signatures on a petition demanding his ouster. Miss Woodward, a 28-year-old junior college student, said she wants Cerny out of office because he is ignoring the wishes of the local residents. "Justice is not being done here in Del Rio by our public officials. The people are being walked all over," she said Monday.

Fire blazes while police hold crowd

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - Police had to be called to the scene of a scrap paper fire to fend off about 20 youths who were pelting firefighters with tomatoes, authorities said. Fire officials said they suspected some of the youths were responsible for the blaze, which consumed about 100 bales of compressed scrap paper near a paper company plant Sunday. "There was a whole bunch of little kids throwing tomatoes at the firemen," said a witness Ray Hernandez, 17. "They were giving the firemen a lot of trouble before they got chased off." There were no injuries, officials said.

Fire Capt. Lloyd Bielefeld described the blaze as a "nuisance trash fire" that took several hours to extinguish because the paper was tied tightly in bundles.

The fire is being investigated by arson detectives, officials said. There were no arrests, police said.

Grieving parents file $7 millon suit

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - The parents of two slain teen-agers have filed a $7 million lawsuit blaming the Oklahoma Department of Corrections for the deaths of their daughters at the hands of two

The parents of Mary Ophelia Bernal and Angela Faith Harragarra filed the suit Monday in Oklahoma County District Court charging that negligence by the Corrections Department and its officials resulted in the escape Dec. 5, 1983 of the two men who allegedly killed their daughters.

The bodies of Bernal, 18, and Harragarra, 17, were found Dec. 9, 1983, in a Texas Panhandle county.

The escapees, Ronnie Joe Miller and Bobby Gene Raiburn, were captured in Amarillo, Texas, five days later but were not charged in the deaths. Texas authorities say there were preparing to charge Miller in the slayings when he was strangled with a wire in an Oklahoma prison in August 1984.

The lawsuit says the escapees assaulted, terrorized, raped and murdered the young women in or near Carson County, Texas. The women had been beaten to death with a crowbar and a tool had been plunged into the backs of their heads, authorities said.

Raiburn and Miller had escaped from the Lexington Correctional Center. Raiburn, 41, was serving a 15-year sentence for auto theft and escape by force. Miler, 30, was serving 50 years for assault with a dangerous weapon.

Mildred Bernal Watson and Anthony Bernal seek $3.5 million in the lawsuit, as do Vernon and Rosella Harragarra of Arizona.

The lawsuit also names as defendants corrections director Larry Meachum, warden Peter Ray Douglas of the Lexington Correctional Center, and warden Ron Angelone of the Joseph Harp Correctional

AMA considers attack on tobacco

WASHINGTON (AP) - Calling tobacco products a national health problem, the American Medical Association is considering a broad new attack on magazine and newspaper ads, cigarette vending machines and smokeless tobacco.

Association policy-makers, who spoke favorably of anti-tobacco proposals in hearings Monday, were to vote on them along with resolutions on dozens of other topics before adjourning on Wednes-

The most controversial item has been a proposed recommendation that the 271,000-member AMA lead a legislative fight to put newspapers and magazines off-limits for cigarette ads that are already barred from television.

"The urgency for it is plainly apparent," said Dr. Robert McAfee, who presented the anti-advertising report at the hearing.

During Monday's discussion, he and other physicians argued that tobacco and cancer are linked, that tobacco advertising encourages Americans to use tobacco products and that the medical profession has a duty to do something about it.

Attempts to persuade publishers to voluntarily stop such advertising have had only modest success, the proposed report said, estimating that U.S. cigarette advertisers spend $2 billion a year on Despite voluntary programs "and our professional counseling, we continue to see the ravages of this social habit," said McAfee, of South Portland, Maine.

"It's a lot of excitement for McDade," said Dennis Atkinson, 75, the town's unofficial mayor. "Anything to create something different out here."

Atkinson, a former dancer in Hollywood, is one of the few townsfolk not in "The Lone Star Kid," a film being shot this month in McDade and the surrounding area.

The film, to be aired Feb. 10 by the Public Broadcasting Service, tells the story of Brian Zimmerman, who at the age of 11 became mayor of the unincorporated town of Crabb, southeast of Houston.

The film stars country singer Charlie Daniels as an elderly farmer opposing the youngster for the mayor's job. James Earl Jones plays a blind man who is Brian's adviser, and Chad Sheets, a veteran of Dr Pepper and McDonald's commercials and movies, portrays Brian.

"When I saw the news clips of Brian, I saw an American story, a story that represents the real human side of life," said Anson Williams, a former star of the "Happy Days" television series. Williams is executive producer and director of the

We have about a year's waiting list for dogs," Ms. James said.

Ms. Johnson, who learned of Dogs for the Deaf through a magazine, had to wait a year before receiving Domino.

Although the dogs are given at no charge, Dogs for the Deaf invests about $3,000 in veterinary care, housing, and placement of each dog. Funding of the organization comes through private contributions from individuals, service clubs, businesses, or foundations.

In public, Domino will be kept on a bright orange leash. It will alert store and restaurant owners that he is a dog for the deaf.

Because hearing ear dogs have public access, Ms. James said, trainers avoid aggressive dogs such as pit bulls or dobermans because many people fear them.

Dogs for the Deaf placement rate success is about 98 percent. "Dogs come back to us either because the people don't have the ability to handle them or the home is too busy," Ms. James said.

"If the home is too busy and someone is always answering the door or responding to sounds, then the dog can't do his job and he becomes lazy."

Awareness is the main adjusting a deaf person must make. "And it doesn't happen overnight," Ms. Johnson said.

"You've got to make yourself start paying attention and continually remind yourself to look around you, at least I do. I hope someday it (deafness) will come second nature to me but I don't know that it will."

DEAR READERS - As this year's Christmas present to you, I'd like to share some of our readers' favorite recipes to spark your family meals in the coming year. To start off, here's one of my own for a delicious way to serve cabbage and potatoes: Chop one-half medium cabbage, chop one-half medium onion and dice three medium boiling potatoes. Melt two to three tablespoons butter in a 10-inch skillet and saute the cabbage, onion and potato until tender, about 7 to 10 minutes. Pour one-half cup heavy cream into the skillet and season with a little salt and pepper, stir-ring to blend. Cover the skillet and let the mixture simmer about 5 minutes. RACINE, Wis. (AP) — "The flea, while no bigger than a pinhead, has almost unbelievable jumping power," says Dr. Roger H. Grothaus.

Grothaus, research manager at Johnson Wax's Raid Biology Center, where they keep 10,000 fleas for testing, says according to the "Guinness Book of World Records" one flea jumped 13 inches high while covering a distance of 7% inches. This is equivalent to a human jumping over the Empire State Building in a single bound.

Melvin Kalka receives scholarship

The Texas Tech University College of Agricultural Sciences recognized nine recipients of the O'Brien Agricultural Scholarship and Dad's Association Scholarship during the 85th annual Pig Roast held recently.

Melvin Kalka, a sophomore food technology major, was one of the recipients. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Kalka, Sr. of Hereford.

The nine agricultural sciences majors were part of the more than 300 students recognized as scholarships recipients during the dinner. Donors of the college scholarships were also recognized.

This year the College of Agricultural Sciences is presenting more than $235,000 in scholarships.

O'Brien Agricultural Scholarships, established in 1971, and the Dad's Association Scholarships provide recipients with between $250 and $1,000 per year.

St. Anthony's Womens Organization met recently for their annual Christmas party and December meeting.

President Martha Paetzold conducted a short business meeting.

A love shower was held for the Monarch Home for Girls in Amarillo. Also, members played dummy bridge during the party and exchanged gifts of baked items.

Hostesses for the evening were Mary Metcalf, Teresa Paetzold, Elaine McNutt, Mary Gamboa and Vicky Valdez.

Special guests at the party were Fr. Pat Walsh and Fr. Joe Egan.

 OTPRINTING IS

FOR THE BIRDS

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — Human beings can be identifed by their fingerprints, but now ornithologists say the scales on birds' toes vary in size, shape and position to form a unique pattern among birds as well. These "toeprints" could eventually replace numbered bands to identify and keep track of protected birds, such as eagles. Since poachers often remove numbered bands from birds that have died of natural causes and reuse them to disguise poached birds, veterinary scientists say that falconers, breeders and wildlife agencies may begin to use toeprint photographs to replace the banding system.

DR. GOTT

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

Last month I received an outlandish mail offer. For those few of you who don't believe there is still a buck to be made in the practice of medicine, I herewith introduce you to the International Institute of Bach Practitioners. It bears no relation to the J.S. Bach and sons who wrote music. I am not yet a member of this august organiza-tion, which is based in Madras, India, but I have been invited to join. All I have to do is enroll in an 18-month diploma course ... and ante up $120. At the conclusion of the correspondence study, I am promised an IBP diploma that will enable me to treat the halt and the lame with Bach Flower Remedies.

In the unlikely event that you are blissfully ignorant of this miraculous medical breakthrough, the IBP defines it as: "A New and Complete System of Medical Therapeutics for the cure of all diseases — physical as well as psychological — with just 38 remedies prepared from Wild Flowers. While reading through the Bach Flower Remedy brochure, I thanked my lucky stars for scientists of objectives. dies prepared from Wild Flowers. my lucky stars for scientists of objective persuasion who, through hard produce NO SIDE EFFECTS! They work and sacrifice, eradicated smallproduce NO SIDE EFFECTS! They are NON-HABIT FORMING and are highly efficacious! Easy to carry, sweet in taste!!"

The head petal in this bouquet of practitioners, Dr. V. Krishnamoorty, wants not only my 120 U.S. dollars; he declares I will be able to cure all illness with just 38 — count them, 38 — flower compounds. Why, I ask myself, am I busting my buns learning about calcium-channel blockers, third-generation cephalosporins and recombinant-DNA research when the Bach Flower Remedies are sitting in some Indian warehouse waiting to cure common ailments as well as disorders I've never heard of?

For example, Cherry Plum seems to be a real winner. It is the "remedy PAR EXCELLENCE" (according to Dr. V. Krishnamoorty) for burns, scalds, dehydration, vomiting, lacerations, "unbearable suffering" and "uncontrollable anger." Gorse cures "hopelessness." Star of Bethlehem reverses the effects of electrocution. Scleranthus relieves laziness so that patients who "have the habit of postponing things ... and are always late in getting up from their bed" can become alert, active and busy.

There's more. Chestnutbud counteracts slow learning. Honeysuckle enables the patient to pounce on "any golden opportunities." Crab Apple makes a short person tall, a fat person thin and anybody more physically fit; it also cures pimples and baldness. Larch increases self-confidence; Willow deflates a superiority-complex; Vine cures adolescence

White Chestnut is useful for "mental derangements, unwanted thoughts, always counting one to hundred, excessive joy and hallucinations." Walnut "helps one to easily give up coffee, tobacco, alcohol, etc.

Holy Moly! (as Captain Marvel used to say). The whole medical profession

Another way to make a buck could probably alleviate all its own woes by using this stuff. But I have no intention of freely giving away all Dr.

Krishnamoorty's glorious secrets. The 38 remedies are individually packaged in one-ounce plastic "phi-als," each containing "about 600 pills." Each phial costs $17. Each dose is two pills. Let's see ... at $10 a dose ... that's $3,000 profit per bottle, minus $17, times 38 bottles ... I give up. The calculations are too tough, unless I take Chestnutbud.

This whole scheme really sounds like the scam of the decade. I'm told that if I invest $120, wait 18 months, purchase a closetful of premade flow-er extracts and adopt the Bach philosophy, I can achieve instant success. Furthermore, I will be able to cure everything from scabies to schizophrenia. If these claims are in doubt, I've been given the name of a Greenwich, Conn., doctor as a reference.

pox, tamed syphilis, wiped out plague, prevented polio and generally per-formed valuable services for mankind. I am saddened that the faults and drawbacks of 20th-century medicine force desperate patients to seek alternative, unproved treatments. No system is perfect. Nonetheless, despite its flaws, ours has provided the most benefit and holds more sturdy promise for

I think I'm fairly broad-minded, but Bach's remedies seem to me to be outrageous artifices that prey on ingenuous and gullible unfortunates. I reluctantly came to that conclusion after I ate two dozen daisies, threw up all afternoon and still don't know if she loves me or loves me not.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott in care of this newspaper at P.O. Box. 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101. Due to volume of mail, individual questions cannot be answered. Questions of general interest will be answered in future columns.

If you can't think of anything else to be thankful for, imagine how much worse it would be if mosquitos were as big as bees.

Glaucoma, sneak thief sons is a victim of glaucoma. Almost all of them had normal sight most of their lives and could have prevented their blindness.

That is easier said than done because glaucoma usually gives little warning to the victim until vision loss occurs, says the Texas Medical Association.

For this reason, persons near or past age 35 should have an eye examination at least once every two years. Glaucoma tends to run in families and strikes after age 35 in most cases.

Glaucoma is an increase in fluid pressure within the eyeball. Like a tire, the eye has a normal range of pressure. Eye fluid pressure that is too high for too long will damage the optic nerve, which carries images from the eye to the brain. This gradually causes blindness.

In most cases, the person is unaware of this as it happens because vision seems normal. There is no pain or discomfort. But peripheral vision (side vision) is

If glaucoma is discovered early, medical treatment can halt its progress. However, sight destroyed by glaucoma cannot be restored. For each month that a glaucoma victim postpones treatment, a small percentage of sight may be lost-which can

In treating glaucoma, the primary aim is to reduce the pressure within the eyball. Treatment generally involves eye drops. If not detected early enough, however, glaucoma may not respond to medicine. In this case, sugery may be necessary to lower the eye pressure.

STATE CAPITAL

By Lyndell Williams TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN-At the Capitol all is quiet except for the heavy equipment digging up 12 live oaks to replace them with some three dozen sycamores. But outside Capitol halls, political candidates stepped up their activities, some to replace certain state officials, and others to avoid replacement.

In these quiet weeks prior to Christmas, fundraising is the key to anyone seeking state office, and quite a few were held last week.

The most dramatic was a San Antonio bash for GOP gubernatorial candidate Tom Loeffler which at $700,000- plus more than doubled the previous single night record set by Phil Gramm.

Loeffler represents a vast West Texas congressional district which includes San Antonio as his metropolitan base. Well financed now and with television commercials running statewide, Loeffler has con-vinced onlookers that he can build momentum.

Eyes on Hance

Both political parties have now turned their eyes on Kent Hance to see what he can muster in the governor's race, since it's certainly anticipated that former Gov. Bill Clements will be well financed.

Hance's people say their present fundraising efforts may give them as much as $1 million to start off the new year. Hance, meanwhile, announced last week that Fort Worth State Rep. Bob Leonard, Mac Churchill and Jane Berberich will be his campaign co-chairmen in that city.

Hobby, Mauro

Two top Democrats also enjoyed successful fundraisers last week, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Land Commissioner Garry

Serving as Master of Cere-monies of the Hobby affair was former Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, who lately has been quietly energetic at several political levels, and attended by the top movers and shakers of the kingdom.

Mauro's evening filled a ballid netted him several hundred thousand dollars for his campaign.

Both candidates are unop-posed so far, and GOP officials have indicated they are not targeted.

More No-Pass, No-Play

Governor Mark White's forces are finally fighting back on the controversial no-pass, no-play issue by claiming a recent poll indicates some 70 percent of Texans favor the re-

Some politicos are wonder-ing whether the teachers are really that angry with White over the HB72 changes in education. The speculation con-cerns whether teachers will endorse anyone against White, or if they will put their main efforts in other races.

No Bids

The Texas Department of Corrections received no bids at its auction last week to sell some 3,600 acres of prime real estate in Fort Bend and Harris

The Legislature wants TDC to sell the land to help raise $125 million for new prison construction. Land Commissioner Mauro said his office will consider making improvements to the land to attract buyers.

The land, remote farmland at one time, has increased in value because of Houston metropolitan growth. The Legislature decided the highest and best use of the land in not for prisons.

Speaking of prisons, a recent survey found that almost twothirds of Texas prison inmates favor the death penalty for certain crimes, a 63 percent majority.

Murder, child abuse and sex crimes were included in what the majority thought should be capital punishment offenses.

Only 26 percent believed the death penalty keeps people from committing crimes, but 57 percent indicated they thought it would decrease murders and violence in the prison

Capitol Trees

The trees along the driveways of the Capitol, by the way, are being relocated to restore Capitol grounds to its original design. Sycamores planted in the early days died and were replaced with live oaks and elms.

Two of the live oaks being relocated were planted by the staff of Bill Clements and dedicated to him shortly before he left office.

Short Takes

Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin, is convinced Texas and other Southern states will adopt a regional presidential primary for the second Tuesday in March in presidential election years. The proposal was made at a meeting of the Southern Legislative Conference which Traeger chairs.

Texas Rangers are investigating charges that Department of Corrections officials manipulated internal investigations to cover up prison mismanagement.

The Court of Criminal Ap-peals affirmed the seven-year sentence assessed former Texas Supreme Court Justice Donald B. Yarbrough for failure to appear. The court noted that it had been informed Yarbrough has been paroled on that conviction and his perjury convic-

Mother wants killer caught, although willing to forgive

DALLAS (AP) - The mother of an Oklahoma youth whose shooting during a convenience store robbery was recorded by a hidden camera, said Monday she is willing to forgive her son's killers, but she wants them brought to justice.

Matt McKay, 17, died at 3:07 a.m. Monday, after several hours of surgery that required 25 pints of blood, a Parkland Memorial Hospital official said.

Betsy Rogers said she wants the killers captured "so that no other son or daughter is going to end up like my son did."

McKay was shot in the chest at a convenience store in Carrollton, where he had stopped Nov. 21 while traveling to his home. He had been in critical condition since the shooting and had undergone several emergency operations since the shooting.

A hidden camera in the store recorded the robbery and shooting and its showing on television newscasts last week prompted hundreds of telephone tips to police.

No arrests have been made, but police say they have received several strong leads. 'Some of them were just shots in the dark, but a few of them are good leads," said Carrollton police Lt. Pete Cole.

"I had prayed with Matt," she said. "I said, 'Are you ready to meet Jesus?' and he nodded his head up and down." She said she and her exhusband were at Matt's side when he died. Her son, she said, will be buried in Dallas

Rhythm and blues singer Delbert McClinton said he was so outraged Monday when he learned McKay had died, he has added $500 to an already existing $5,000 reward set up by various donors for the arrest and indictment of the gunman.

"I think the reason I got so outraged," McClinton said, "You see everyday someone gets killed, but you don't see it like you did on the video."

band, The Fabulous T-Birds, said he will be calling others in the music business and friends to match his McKay's sister Shawna said she first learned of her brother's shooting when she saw the tape on television at her home in Cleveland.

"I've got anger towards them (the attackers). I know I'm not supposed to, but I do," she said. Dallas Police Lt. Ron Waldrop said the case may be linked to five or six other armed robberies. But he downplayed earlier theories that the robbers might be linked to a Thanksgiving Day robbery and murder of a woman and her infant daughter at a south Dallas motel.

The woman, Sonja Aguilar was fatally wounded in the head and collapsed on her infant daughter, almost suffocating her and causing severe brain injuries.

The infant died Friday after family members requested she be taken off life-support systems.

Anyone wishing to contribute to McClinton's reward fund should address donations: c-o Matt McKay Reward Fund, P.O. Box 470432, Fort Worth 76147.

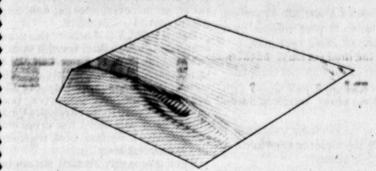

A trust fund also has been set up at the Bright Bancs Savings Association, to defray more than $70,000 in hospital costs. The trust fund has raised about $3,000. Lynn Strait, head of security for Dallas-based PDQ, said Monday that the firm provided $1,000 of the police reward, but she could not say how much of the medical costs the firm will help pay. She said Texaco, which provides gasoline for PDQ, will help contribute to the trust fund.

Actor casts magic spell in role as teacher

EL PASO, Texas (AP) -Everywhere he teaches, James Oliver seems to cast a magic spell on young people.

"I feel very strongly that I've found my niche, being able to communicate and - under the umbrella of theater - to teach and motivate young people to reach for more," he said.

Oliver's professional acting credits have touched the Broadway stage ("War and Peace," "The Wild Duck," "You Can't Take It With You").

He also has performed in soap operas ("Search for Tomorrow, "The Nurses") and television movies ("Implied Force," "A "Poetry in Black," a one-man show Oliver created in the late 1960s to dramatize the black experience, has been lauded and applauded from coast to coast.

Oliver, described by educators and critics alike as "an accomplished actor, innovative director and master teacher" still acts, accepting occasional roles from his home in Taos,

But for 15 years, his major role has been teaching young people in communities, Indian pueblos, public schools and college campuses across the Southwest, mainly Colorado, New Mexico and Texas.

The word "volume" comes from the Latin word volvere meaning "to roll" because anciently, books were written

"I have no grandiose idea of something I want to do, such as going to Hollywood and win an Oscar or going back to Broadway and win a Tony," he said. "Right now, this is my priority. Once I make a commitment to kids, I don't back out even though something juicier comes along in a sense of money for me or

"I tell my students: 'What magic do you have to contribute to the world if you're so busy imitating others."

As a guest, Oliver figures he can afford to be firmer with high school drama students to "make them aware of how serious the craft is and how much respect it deserves."

Students in Mario Maldonado's theater arts class at El Paso Bel Air High School were apprehensive at first about a professional coming to their classroom.

"He's strict but very open, down to earth," Maldonado said. "He's got a lot of energy and gives so much to the kids."

Bel Air sophomore Miguel Galindro quickly latched onto Oliver's coaching talents to try to perfect his own performance in a scene from "Bus Stop."

"I thought acting was just playing the part," Galindro said. "But he's pushed me along, taught me about acting like the character, thinking of what the character would do in certain situations.'

Oliver earned a reputation as an exceptional actor, playing a variety of roles on Broadway after emerging from middle-class roots in Red Bank, N.J. He views himself as a role model for minority students. But as a metaphysician by philosophy, he doesn't dwell on the turbulent experience of blacks in the United

"I've been in black colleges where people have said, 'You're not black enough,'" he said. "I didn't become a black in the '60s. That was just a dimension of me. I can understand prejudice."

After years of working with young people, Oliver nurtures a major concern: high school theater productions too often show off drama teachers and not student actors.

"With young people, I want them to have the experience of knowing that whatever the applause, standing ovations, reviews, flowers or whatever they get, it's because of what they did," he said. "Not because an audience was overwhelmed by a set or costumes or the

FLUID LEAK COLORS CAN BE CLUES
PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Noticing the color of fluid leaks near your car can often be clues to the car's maintenance needs, according to an official of a maker of auto parts.

Dave Bowman of Fram says black fluid often indicates an oil leak while pink or brown might be a transmission leak. He says a greenish-yellow fluid means radiator coolant may be leaking while any fluid around the tires can mean leaks from brakes or shock

The Century "200" child restraint seats manufactured between January 1, 1981 and January 1, 1983, have been recalled due to a possible defect in the crotch strap and buckle assembly. Date codes are 8101 through 8112 and 8201 through 8212. Return to your dealer or write to Century Products, Inc., Consumer Products Office, 1366 Commerce Drive, Stow, Ohio,

When waiting at an intersection to make a left-hand turn, keep your front wheels pointing straight ahead. A rear-end collision can push your car into oncoming traffic instead of straight ahead.

Motor vehicle accidents are the number one preventable cause of death and injury to children. The correct use of the child passenger safety seat can reduce death and injuries from motor vehicle accidents by 70 to 90 percent.

Vehicle accidents are the major cause of epilepsy (resulting from head injuries) and paraplegia (paralysis due to damage of the spinal column).

Texas doctor treats Afghan casualties

By MARK LINSALATA The

San Antonio Light SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - A San Antonio physician helped sneak 40 horses loaded with two tons of medical supplies through 15,000-foot mountain passes into war-torn Afghanistan. "There are a number of valleys and canyons that look just like Big Bend — except they are 5,000 feet higher," said Dr. Ron Halbert, 27.

His clandestine 250-mile journey in the shadow of the Soviet border was just the start of a 53-day effort that ended in October.

Within 60 miles of the Soviet-controlled capital of Kabul, Halbert helped establish at least six clinics for Afghan civilians and the Mujahideen, the Afghan resistance forces fighting Soviet-backed troops.

The resistance in the Texas-sized Middle Eastern twice in the past," he explaincountry has been fighting the Soviets for seven years. Flipping through a photo album of his Afghan journey, Halbert showed a picture of a friend who died in one of those ambushes earlier this year, Charles Thornton, a reporter from the Arizona Republic. The journalist was traveling with a doctor and two nurses into a southern section of Afghanistan.

Halbert's patients included children as young as 6 months old and men in their 80s. He treated conditions ranging from a case of chicken pox in a small girl to gangrene and staphylococcus infections in bomb-injured resistance fighters. He even helped save the life of a communist prisoner by amputating a shrapnel-shattered foot and preparing a healthy stump for an artificial foot.

"But my main reason for being there was to help them set up a surgical system they could use after I left," he explained.

The Thanksgiving dinner at home in San Antonio was far different from the diet of goat meat, rice and coarse bread he existed on while tramping through the rugged Afghan terrain, Halbert said.

Halbert was honored this week by the Committee for a Free Afghanistan, a pro-Afghanistan, anti-Soviet lobbying group.

'He has done a fantastic job," said Mary Spencer, operations director for the committee. "We're going to take him around to government officials so he can tell them what he saw."

Los Angeles emergency medical technician Jim Lindelof, Halbert's partner in erecting the clinics, also was honored by the Washingtonbased group.

"These guys risked their lives to set up these clinics," Ms. Spencer said.

Most medical facilities in Afghanistan were destroyed during the Soviet-backed takeover of the country.

"Eighty percent of the doctors were executed," Ms. Spencer explained, "that's why they don't have any doctors over there. "They have no medical care except for what these brave American doctors have set up."

Halbert's trek through the treacherous Hindu Kush and his medical efforts in Afghanistan was set in motion during the summer. He was finishing up his second year of a surgical residency at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, and he wanted a break in his medical training. "I was thinking of opportunities in Third World countries, specifically Ethiopia," Halbert said.

But when he found few openings for volunteers in Africa, he turned his attention to the International Medical Corps, a Californiabased group attempting to quell the medical crisis in Afghanistan. However, the partly federally funded organization - on orders from the U.S. State Department - could not send people into Afghanistan, which is what Halbert had decided to do. But then he got in touch with another organization, American Aid for Afghans, based in Oregon. "I got this opportunity to go to Afghanistan, and I took it,' he said.

The rough and dangerous life there has not inspired him to go back. But it has fired him up to provide further help to the region, and he is currently considering an offer to help train health personnel in northern Pakistan who would then go into Afghanistan to provide

"These are the only people ever to put up any strong resistance to the Russians." he said. "I want to make Americans aware of these freedom-loving people.'

Service fraternity punished for hazing

AUSTIN (AP) - A Univer- through next December sity of Texas band fraternity has been suspended from campus activities for "branding" freshmen with dry ice earlier this year.

The suspension of Kappa Kappa Psi will continue through the end of the spring semester. The Austin American-Statesman reported Monday that a second student group is expected to be disciplined this week as a result of the same incident.

The fraternity suspension was ordered because several Longhorn band members had participated in a branding that took place Oct. 4 in Memorial Stadium, said Glenn Maloney, assistant dean of students.

As a result of the suspension, Kappa Kappa Psi will not be able to use campus facilities, raise funds on campus or participate in intramural sports. The group also was placed on probation

UT officials said they were uncertain how many freshmen were burned by dry ice, which was applied to students' lower backs during an initiation meeting the night before the UT football game with Rice. About eight students were left with U-shaped red marks that lasted more than three days, but none of the injuries were permanent, said Glenn Richter, associate professor of music who is the director of the band and faculty adviser for the fraternity. Maloney said disciplinary action was taken after an investigation that began the week of Oct. 6, when the incident was reported to administrators by The punishment for Kappa Kappa Psi is consistent with disciplinary action taken by the dean of students in similar situations in the past, Maloney said.

The Newspaper BIBLE

WOULDN'T YOU BE EXCITED TOO?

When the church at Jerusalem heard what had happened, they sent Barnabas to Antioch to help the new converts. When he arrived and saw the wonderful things God was doing, he was filled with excitement and joy, and encouraged the believers to stay close to the Lord, whatever the cost.

Barnabas was a kindly person, full of the Holy Spirit and strong in faith. As a result large numbers of people were added to the Lord.

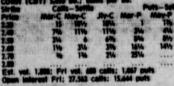

Then Barnabas went to Tarsus to hunt for Saul. When he found him, he brought him back to Antioch; and both of them stayed there for a full year, teaching the many new converts. (It was there at Antioch that the believers were first called "Christians.")

During this time some prophets came down from Ierusalem to Antioch, and one of them, named Agabus, stood up in one of the meetings to predict by the Spirit that a great famine was coming upon the land of Israel. (This was fullfilled during the reign of Claudius.)

So the believers decided to send relief to the Christians in Judea, each giving as much as he could. This they did, consigning their gifts to Barnabas and Saul to take to the elders of the church in Jerusalem. Acts 11:22-30
