

Ho, Ho, Ho the taxman taketh no holiday!

BY BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR
 Not to put a damper on your holiday spirit, but if Santa Claus is here can the tax man be far behind?
 While strains of Christmas melodies are blown across the city by the winds of winter, and colorful lights brighten the skies at night, it's business as usual at the Deaf Smith County Tax Appraisal District office.
 To be sure, trays of goodies are devoured, and plans for the holidays are discussed, but much like Santa and his elves keep busy right up to Christmas Eve with their toy-making. Chief Appraiser Fred Fox and his helpers are staying busy with the business at hand.

 That means keeping track of over $6 million in tax monies expected to be collected from local taxpayers to keep the county, city, and Hereford and Walcott school systems running during 1983.
 The appraisal district office will remain open all day long on both Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve to allow taxpayers as much time as possible to take advantage of a rapidly disappearing discount schedule to pay their taxes.
 Taxpayers have until Dec. 31 to receive a one percent discount on their tax bill. Earlier discounts of three percent and two percent expired on Oct. 31 and Nov. 30 respectively.

 Tax bills will be payable in full during January, and penalties will be added beginning in February. The nine-month collection period will officially end July 1, 1983 with all taxes not having been paid by that date placed on the delinquent roll.
 "We usually experience a 90 percent collection rate, and that's the figure that the entries use to compute their budgets," Fox said. "Of course we'll probably be two or three percent above that."
 Broken down, the four largest entities in the county have expected revenues of the following:
 --Hereford Independent School

District -- $3,237,527.
 --Deaf Smith County -- $1,791,541.
 --City of Hereford -- $941,079.
 --Walcott ISD -- $181,363.
 Taxpayer obligations for these four entities are computed on a certain rate per $100 assessed value of property owned by the taxpayer. The current rates are 94 cents for the HISD, 65 cents for the city, 60.5 cents for the WISD, and 46.8 cents for the county.
 Fox reports that the district has collected over 65 percent of the taxes for next year, with about $3.9 million already in the coffers.
 In cooperation with Fox's office, the Brand obtained a list of the top 10 taxpayers in the county. Holly Sugar's operation here ranks at the top of the list, followed in order by the First National Bank, Southwestern Public Service Co., the Hereford State Bank, and Frito Lay in the top five.

 Rounding out the 10 in order are Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., Hereford Grain Coop, Swift Independent, Pioneer Corp., (through Energas and Westar), and the Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fe Railroad.
 Holly's tax bill for 1983 comes to $233,443.69, almost $53,000 more than the number two taxpayer, FNB, which has a bill of $180,409.67. Another big drop-off occurs between FNB and the number three taxpayer, SPS, which has a bill of $101,871.20.

 The rest of the top 10 and their respective tax bills are HSB, $97,100.39; Frito Lay, $93,015.25; SW Bell, $82,729.84; Hereford Grain, $74,562.43; Swift Independent, $66,839.55; Pioneer Corp., $45,998; and ATSF, $37,109.14.
 The top 10 taxpayers collectively will pay $1,013,079.16 for 1983, over one-sixth of the total tax income of the four taxing entities.
 If those figures pop the cork on your champagne bottle, just think about the state and federal taxes paid by those businesses. Or better yet, the net revenues derived respectively.

Commissioners add to 1983 holiday schedule County honors Cain

 Deaf Smith County Commissioners held a special meeting Tuesday to conclude 1982 business, taking care of 12 items on the agenda as well as paying special tribute to retiring County Clerk B.F. Cain.
 The veteran clerk, recording commissioner court minutes for the final time, was presented a plaque of appreciation by County Judge Glen Nelson. The plaque cited Cain for "22 years of loyal and dedicated service to Deaf Smith County."

The court held a special meeting Tuesday to replace the regularly-scheduled meeting on Dec. 27. During the business session, the commissioners:
 --Reconsidered the holiday policy for 1983 and granted county employees two more days;
 --Appointed Commissioner James Voyles to another two-year term on the Juvenile Board;
 --Passed a resolution authorizing the county to become a member of a Job Training Consortium for the purpose of implementing the Job Training Partnership Act in the Panhandle;

 --Appointed Vesta Mae Nunley, county treasurer, as the correspondent to the Texas County and District Retirement System;
 --Approved a motion banning use of the courthouse postage meter except for county business, or as authorized by the county clerk.
 The court also discussed additional office space requested by Sheriff Travis McPherson; gave permission for A.E. Hollingsworth to cross a county road with waterline; gave permission for the High Plains Underground Water District to use the commissioners' room for an election Jan. 15, 1983; and approved an audit report for the Deaf Smith County Appraisal District.

Commissioners also held a closed session to discuss personnel policies with George Loudder, a consultant from Amarillo.
 Voyles asked the court to reconsider the holiday schedule, saying that he had heard some county employees were "unhappy because they're losing one day at a time when salaries were frozen." In the discussion, it was pointed out that employees received eight days off last year and were scheduled for seven this coming year.
 Commissioner Austin Rose pointed out that this was not planned, that it happened because of the way holidays fell. Commissioner Bill Bradley said he had checked the holiday policies in surrou-

TENRAC calls for water commission

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Water importation — considered too expensive by some and absolutely necessary by others — should be dealt with by a special state agency, energy advisers say.
 A 61-member committee Tuesday recommended setting up a three-member agency to work with neighboring states and the federal government on importing water into Texas.
 The proposed Multistate

Water Resources Planning Commission would be appointed by the governor.
 The committee of the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council — TENRAC — recommended Texans pay for the use of surface water and for pumping ground water in certain areas.
 The council said the Legislature also should give underground water conservation districts the option of assessing fees for the withdrawal of ground water.

 Louis Beecherl, committee chairman, said it was the first time a surface water fee had been proposed.
 Other recommendations included issuing an additional $250 million in water development bonds and creating a fund to guarantee state water bonds.
 Beecherl's committee proposed public policy that would allow interbasin transfers of water "provided the water supply requirements of the basin of origin will be satisfied."
 The council of high statewide elected officials postponed a vote on the committee's recommendations until its next meeting.
 "These proposals are so broad-based and complex as to require public understanding of some nature," said Gov. Bill Clements.
 TENRAC, however, approved another committee's recommendations to develop statewide energy conservation standards for new construction and to establish an interest-free loan fund for county and city energy management programs.

 The council also approved proposals to pay for energy surveys of state and public school buildings, to exempt energy conservation devices from sales taxes and to allow state agencies to use unexpended utility funds for energy conservation audits and improvements.
 Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, chairman of the energy efficiency committee, said some state agencies had saved as much as 38 percent on energy costs.
 Council member Ed Vetter said, "I get very nervous when I see these things that involve state expenditures."
 Armstrong said the recommendations would save the state about $100 million a year.

Estes parole plea rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Convicted swindler Billie Sol Estes has lost his bid for early release from prison, where he is serving two five-year terms for mail fraud and concealing assets.
 The U.S. Parole Commission on Tuesday rejected Estes' contentions that he should be paroled immediately because of ill health.
 Estes' parole from a federal prison at Big Spring, Texas, is now set for next Dec. 15, officials said.
 On Oct. 16, the 58-year-old Estes, of Abilene, Texas, went before the commission seeking early release because of failing health.
 His daughter, Pam Estes, said at the time that her father may suffer from anorexia nervosa, a life-threatening disorder characterized by loss of appetite and weight. The condition is most common among adolescent girls.
 Estes' financial empire in West Texas crumbled in the 1960s because of federal fraud charges in a scheme involving non-existent fertilizer tanks. He was convicted in 1963 and sentenced to 15 years in prison. He won parole in 1971, with one of the conditions being that he not engage in any promotional activities.
 He was convicted in 1979 of mail fraud and concealing his assets from the government, and sentenced to 10 years in prison.
 Estes was found guilty, in part, for hiding assets from the Internal Revenue Service to avoid paying off a back-tax liability of $10 million. He also was convicted of scheming to bilk a farmer out of $30,000.
 The U.S. Supreme Court upheld Estes' conviction on Jan. 25, rejecting the convicted swindler's claim that he was the victim of "prosecutorial vindictiveness or bad faith on the part of the government."
 On June 11, U.S. District Judge Robert Hill of Dallas denied a motion by Estes to reduce the sentence, but agreed to allow the Parole Commission to decide whether Estes should be freed early.

Soviet offer 'unacceptable'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union's offer to reduce the number of SS-20 mobile missiles aimed at Europe is unacceptable, say U.S. officials who want Moscow's most potent medium-range nuclear weapon eliminated altogether.
 Key U.S. arms control officials contend the proposal made Tuesday by Soviet leader Yuri V. Andropov to reduce the number of SS-20s to the level of French and British nuclear forces would in fact give the Soviets an enduring military monopoly in such weapons in exchange for "a big fat zero" for the United States.
 There are no U.S. medium-range missiles in Europe and John Hughes, the State Department's chief spokesman, said, "The Soviet proposal contained in Mr. Andropov's speech is unacceptable because it would leave the Soviets with several hundred warheads on SS-20s, while denying us the means to deter that threat."
 "We cannot accept that the United States should agree to allow the Soviets superiority over us because the British and French maintain their own national deterrent force," he said.
 Hughes said it is not enough for the Soviets to promise to reduce the SS-20s to the level of the 162 medium-range missiles maintained by France and Britain while the Soviets maintain about 100 of

Griego resigns, election in May

Bobby Griego has submitted a letter of resignation to the Hereford Independent School District board of trustees, Bob Gentry, board president, announced Tuesday night at a special meeting.
 Gentry said Griego explained in the letter that personal business interests changed, causing him to be unable to attend board meetings.

 Griego had not been to a meeting since August and had a high absentee rate before that month.
 A special election will be held in May to fill the post.
 The special meeting was called in order to approve an audit of the 1981-82 budget. The audit was unanimously approved.

Local holiday closings listed

All you last minute Santas better make sure you have enough cash on hand Thursday before making those final gift selections on Friday because both banks and the three savings and loan associations will be closed on Christmas Eve as will the city and county offices.
 The First National Bank and Hereford State Bank will both be closed for business Friday, as will the Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union, Hi-Plains Savings & Loan, and Security Federal Savings & Loan.
 City offices will be closed Friday and re-open for regular business on Monday, while county employees will get both Friday and Monday off for the holiday.
 The Deaf Smith County Tax Appraisal District office will remain open Christmas Eve with a half-staff, and will do the same for New Year's Eve.

 Looking ahead to New Year's Eve, both the city and county offices will be closed, with the Hi-Plains office closed on Monday, Jan. 3. HTFCU will be closed Dec. 31 as well.
 Both banks will be open for New Year's Eve, including the late 4-6 p.m. hours for drive-up customers.

Cookie Christmas
 Mrs. Roberta Campbell, 80, still makes Christmas cookies for her children and grandchildren. The longtime tradition in their family is to hang the wreath cookies on the tree and eat them during the holidays.

CSF donations will be accepted through Friday

Hereford's Christmas Stocking Fund reached a total of $6,587 Tuesday, and the community sharing will be enjoyed by a number of less fortunate families.
 However, the CSF group had already used most of the money to get food and clothing for needy families. There are still many requests, however, and contributions will be accepted through Friday morning.
 Checks should be made payable to Christmas Stocking Fund and mailed to Box 673, or taken to the Hereford Brand newspaper office. The CSF is sponsored by a group of men, who prefer to remain anonymous, and the newspaper serves only to accept monetary contributions and requests for aid — which are then given to the CSF committee.
 The CSF group has a screening committee which works with social workers and others to select the most needy families.

 An example of the requests include the family of Mr. and Mrs. C. He is out of work at present and she does some ironing for the public.
 "I don't know how we'd make it without food stamps," writes Mrs. C. "My three boys say it is okay if they don't get anything for Christmas, but they wish their little sister could have something special."

White says names can't be released

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A list of 12,000 Dallas residents tested for possible lead exposure is a medical record and should not be released to the public, Attorney General Mark White says.

The Dallas Morning News asked for the list, but White said the city is prohibited by law from releasing the names.

About 12,000 Dallas residents in an area near three lead processing companies took blood tests for the possible lead exposure.

Dallas officials released the results of the tests, but deleted the names and addresses.

In an opinion sought by Dallas City Attorney Analesie Muncy, White said state law makes medical records confidential.

Also Tuesday, White said Harris County does not have to show an employment application file to a woman who wanted to be a deputy sheriff.

The opinion said Harris County could withhold the report because the woman filed a complaint with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

In another case, White issued an opinion saying the state highway department has to release an investigative report concerning an employee fired for using a state truck for private business.

Senator to file Tylenol bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A bill to prosecute people who put poisonous substances in medicine and food will be introduced in the 1983 Legislature, says Sen. Bob Glasgow.

Glasgow said Tuesday his bill is in response to the Tylenol murders in Illinois and the H.E.B. grocery stores extortion attempt in Waco two years ago.

The Stephenville Democrat said his proposal would make the lacing of medicines and foods with toxic substances a specific offense under Texas law.

"Presently, a person committing an act such as that in Illinois would have to be prosecuted either under our assault, homicide or extortion statutes and none of these statutes specifically fit the act and makes the proof and prosecution more difficult," Glasgow said.

HEB officials destroyed most of the merchandise in their six Waco stores in December 1980, after a caller demanding $60,000 said some food in the stores was poisoned.

No poison ever was found, and no ransom paid, but the food was buried in a local landfill. Three Waco men later were convicted in the extortion attempt.

Under Glasgow's proposal, lacing a product with poison would be a third-degree felony, punishable by up to 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Artist indicted in counterfeiting

HOUSTON (AP) — A graphic artist used his training to print a fake seal on $900,000 of phony $100 bills, a federal indictment alleges.

Tim T. Smith was indicted Tuesday on two counts — conspiring to counterfeit and aiding and abetting in printing phony bills — said Linda Lattimore, an assistant U.S. attorney. She said Smith's whereabouts are unknown.

Smith agreed to help in the counterfeiting effort in November 1981, Ms. Lattimore said. She said he could receive up to 20 years in prison and as much as $15,000 in fines if convicted on both counts.

Two other men, Gray J. Strait and Timothy P. Green, have already been sentenced for passing the fake bills in other states.

Another man, Steven D. Smith, who is not related to Tim Smith, was sentenced in August to five years probation. His lawyers told U.S. District Judge George C. Smith needed to help support his brain-damaged son.

Steven Smith and his wife won an $11.2 million judgment here in October against a crib manufacturer for an accident which left their baby, Christopher, brain-damaged.

GNP appears headed down; stocks rally as inflation stays moderate

By The Associated Press

Demand for big-ticket items like cars and furniture increased slightly last month but the nation's economy is still in decline as the year ends, according to new government indicators.

Orders for durable goods — products expected to last three years or longer — increased 1.9 percent in November, the Commerce Department reported Tuesday.

But the nation's broadest measure of economic activity — inflation-adjusted gross national product — appears to be falling at an annual rate of nearly 2 percent, another sign the economy "is still on its back," said Robert Ortner, the Commerce Department's chief economist.

The Labor Department said consumer prices increased just 0.1 percent in November and American workers' weekly income held steady after discounting or inflation.

Consumer prices have risen at an annual rate of 4.5 percent for the first 11 months of 1982.

The November increase in orders for durable goods erased some of the 5 percent drop in such orders in October. But the November orders level still was down 7.3 percent from July.

The government estimates the GNP is falling 2.2 percent in the still unfinished October-December period. If the estimates prove right, the economy would have contracted nearly 2 percent over the year — the steepest drop since the 1940s.

Inflation-adjusted GNP, a measure of all the nation's goods and services, rose 0.7 percent in the third quarter and 2.1 percent in the second, after falling 5.1 percent in the first and 5.3 percent in the fourth quarter of 1981.

Workers' average weekly earnings stayed the same in November as in October after adjusting for inflation, the Labor Department said. Real earnings were down 1.5 percent from November 1981.

Stock prices rallied despite the somewhat gloomy news. The surge came in the final hour of trading Tuesday on the New York Stock Exchange. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up only about 2 points heading into the last hour, closed with a gain of 25.75 points, to 1,030.26.

The recession has kept a lid on price gains. Retail inflation, as measured by the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index, rose just 0.1 percent in November and has risen at an annual rate of 4.5 percent for the first 11 months of this year, the department said.

If that rate holds, it would mean the lowest full-year inflation rate in a decade. Consumer prices rose 8.9 percent in 1981.

Property reappraisal costs elderly man half his income

HENDERSON, Texas (AP) — A 72-year-old arthritis victim has lost his $150 monthly welfare check, thanks to a 300 percent increase in the appraised value of his dilapidated and uninhabitable house, officials said.

Sidney Brown found out this fall that county officials had raised the taxable value of his home from $4,040 to $17,900, putting his assets above the legal limit for receiving Supplemental Security Income.

Brown said Tuesday he'll have to get by on his Social Security check, which totals $140 a month, and $11 a month in food stamps.

The elderly man said he moved out of the house in 1976 because the roof was caving in. He now lives free at a house owned by a friend, but has to pay his utilities.

"I'm going to have to cut out a lot of things," Brown said. "A man loses some sleep when he thinks the heat is going to be cut off."

Tom Parker, a Social Security claims representative in Longview, said Brown has 60 days to appeal his loss of SSI benefits. But Parker said the decision probably would be upheld unless new evidence was presented.

Mike Young of the Rusk

County Appraisal District said the valuation, performed under a new state law requiring all property to be assessed at 100 percent of its market value, was too high.

"I wish it didn't happen to anybody, but it does. It's the nature of the beast," Young said, adding the appraisal possibly could be lowered next fall.

The Rusk County Improvement Agency, an organization that helps elderly and low-income residents get government assistance, is seeking donations for Brown.

Mary Cassidy, the agency's executive director, called the ruling "an absolute disgrace" and said Brown would receive legal aid in his appeal.

"I don't like to take charity," Brown said. "But sometimes there comes a time when you have to."

'Dallas' and '60 Minutes' boost CBS to first place

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS won the networks' prime-time ratings race for the third week in a row with seven of the week's 10 highest-rated programs, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed.

"Dallas" finished in first place and another CBS program, "60 Minutes," was second.

In winning the three-way competition for the ninth time in the 12 weeks of the current TV season, the network recorded an average rating of 18.9 to 16.4 for ABC and 14.7 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average minute of prime time, 18.9 percent of the TV-equipped homes in the country were tuned to CBS.

For "Dallas" and "60 Minutes," the competition in the week ending Dec. 19 was another installment in their continuing battle for dominance.

"Dallas" now has been No. 1 two consecutive weeks and four times in the current season, while "60 Minutes" has been first five times since the season began.

The rating for "Dallas" was 26.2. Nielsen says that means of the nation's homes with TV, 26.2 percent saw at least part of the top-rated program.

CBS' Top 10 shows included a special, "E.T. and Friends" in third place, and a movie, "I Was a Mail Order Bride," in ninth place. "Newhart" on CBS was the week's highest-rated new show, tied for 12th place, with "Dynasty" on ABC.

NBC scored points with George Burns' recent movie, "Oh, God! Book II," in fifth place and was a boost, and with a holiday perennial, "Chipmunk Christmas," in sixth.

Four of the week's five lowest-rated programs were on NBC, and all five were episodes from newly introduced series. NBC's "Voyagers" was 71st, followed by "Ripley's Believe It or Not" on ABC and three NBC programs, "The Devil Connection," "Gavilan" and "St. Elsewhere."

Here are the week's 10 highest-rated shows:

"Dallas," with a rating of 26.2 representing 21.8 million homes; "60 Minutes," 24.2 or 20.2 million; "M-A-S-H," 23.3 or 19.4 million; "E.T. and Friends," 23.2 or 19.2 million; all CBS; Movie: "Oh, God! Book II," 23 or 19.1 million; and "Chipmunk Christmas," 22.6 or 18.8 million, both NBC; "Love Boat," 22.1 or 18.4 million, ABC; and "Magnum, P.I.," 22 or 18.3 million; Movie: "I Was a Mail Order Bride," 21.8 or 18.2 million; and "Falcon Crest," 21.5 or 17.9 million, all CBS.

House goes home, Senate still battling federal gasoline tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has gone home for Christmas, leaving behind an exhausted Senate held hostage by a test of wills over a proposed nickel-a-gallon boost in the federal gasoline tax.

The House completed its last major act of the year Tuesday night — voting 180-87 to send the compromise job-creating gasoline tax hike to the Senate. Then it quit for the year.

But in the Senate, which has been haunted by the tax legislation throughout the lame-duck session, conservative Republicans immediately mounted their third filibuster against the tax increase they oppose, forcing another post-midnight session.

Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., vowed to bring the measure to a final vote, but Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., was just as steadfast in his determination to prevent that.

It was nearly 1 a.m. today when Baker and Helms agreed to take a vote Thursday on choking off debate, which would clear the way for final congressional action on the measure. The Senate then recessed, until later today when a pro forma session will be held.

Congressional aides said Baker was pressing senators anxious to go home for Christmas to stay in town to maintain a quorum when the vote to cut off debate is taken Thursday.

"If we get cloture (cut off debate) we're going to pass the bill," predicted Tom Griscom, a Baker aide.

Democrats, meanwhile, pleaded for an end to the Republican jousting and the agonizing of this Congress.

"We've been here 125 hours since Monday a week ago... We all are tired... There comes a time... when we ought to slow down on this measure or we ought to go home," Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia said Tuesday night as the Senate trudged through another marathon session.

Wary senators had hoped they could follow the lead of the House and adjourn after approving the tax increase, raising the gasoline tax from 4 cents to 9 cents to finance $5.3 billion worth of highway, bridge and mass transit repair jobs.

Baker would not budge, telling the Senate: "I intend to go forward with this measure."

Helms would not budge.

"I want all senators to know I love them dearly, but I want all senators to know I did not come to Washington to win a popularity contest among my fellow senators," Helms said.

The House sent the measure to the White House by a voice vote Tuesday, a day after it cleared the Senate.

A report by the House Interior Committee said the Kickapoo band has been acknowledged by noted historians and anthropologists to be perhaps the most culturally conservative of all American Indian tribes. Yet they exist today in a state of limbo and squalor in Eagle Pass, Texas.

The 600 Indians live as squatters in cardboard shacks beneath a bridge between Eagle Pass and Mexico, "sharing one outdoor toilet and one water faucet," the report said.

Many of the Kickapoos were forced by economic conditions to emigrate to Eagle Pass from Nacimiento, Mexico, the report said.

Police investigate thefts

Thefts topped the police docket Tuesday, with an attempted burglary also investigated.

Stolen items included: —A $150 brown fur jacket from a car parked at a restaurant.

—From 322 Avenue H, a $25 bike.

—And a trailer made out of a pickup bed from 409 Sycamore.

—A purse stolen from a vehicle at 501 E. Park.

Police have a suspect in an attempted burglary at 226

Avenue H. A subject was trying to get in a window at that residence, but fled when startled.

Criminal mischief reports were received from 407 E. Fifth where a window was broken out and at the city golf course where two water lines were broken.

Patrolmen issued 10 citations and checked a report of harassing phone calls.

Paul Abalos Jr. was arrested on two DPS warrants and for carrying a prohibitive weapon.

ding counties, and most of them ranged from nine to 11 days.

After some discussion, the court approved two more days of time off in 1983 "at the employee's discretion, provided he secured approval of his supervisor two weeks in advance of the date chosen."

Cain had served as the correspondent to the retirement system since the program was started in the late 60s. The court appointed Mrs. Nunley to fill that position.

Sheriff McPherson met with the court to request use of some office space left vacant by the move of the Texas Highway Patrol to the offices east of the courthouse. The court agreed that he could make use of the space.

Water

mentations "are a response to the federal government walking away from this."

Staff research estimated capital requirements for municipal and industrial water development through the year 2005 at $40.2 billion, assuming an inflation rate of 8.2 percent. No cost estimate was made for water for agriculture.

Beecher, chairman of the Water Development Board, said information he had showed the federal government phasing out its water grant program by 1990.

A 10-cent per acre-foot fee was suggested for the use of surface water, which the state owns. This would bring in an estimated $700,000 to $1 million a year, which would be earmarked for enforcing state water resource programs.

Beecher's committee recommended the Department of Water Resources be put in charge of ground water in areas that do not have conservation districts or have "significant overuse and-or quality problems." The department would have the power to assess a special tax or pumpage fee for ground water produced within the area.

"We have a burden of responsibility to do something, to get moving," Clements said.

House Speaker Bill Clayton, a TENRAC member, said, "It would be impossible to collect a pumping fee."

The committee also proposed giving the Department of Water Resources exclusive jurisdiction over water quality, but Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace offered the mobile weapons in Soviet Asia.

"This would leave the Soviets free to threaten our Asian friends as well as to maintain a highly mobile missile force that can be moved at any time into position to threaten NATO," Hughes said.

"In sum, we hope the Soviets will now come to realize that we cannot give up the means to counter the nuclear threat they pose to NATO unless the threat is eliminated altogether," Hughes said.

A Pentagon official, who spoke with reporters on the condition he not be quoted by name, said the intent of the Soviet proposal appears to be to move the negotiations on curbing the SS-20 missile from the conference room in Geneva "to the editorial pages of newspapers in Europe and the United States."

A State Department official, who spoke on the same understanding, said the Andropov plan would leave the Soviet Union with 260 SS-20's, each of them armed with three warheads.

These officials said even if the weapons remain in Asia, their warheads could still strike targets in such NATO nations as Turkey and Norway.

The officials contended there is "total support" in European capitals for President Reagan's plan to move ahead with the deployment of a new force of 572 U.S. Pershing II and cruise missiles while seeking Soviet agreement in Geneva to eliminate the SS-20 force entirely.

Talks in the Swiss city on reducing U.S. and Soviet missiles are due to resume in early February.

Reagan has promised to cancel deployment of the U.S. missiles if the SS-20s are dismantled and destroyed.

Other water recommendations included establishing a loan program for flood prevention and control, appropriating money every two years for water research, giving regional water supply and sewer systems a high priority for state financial aid, and adopting standards for all new "water-consuming fixtures and appliances."

an amendment that would direct money to the commission as well as the department for water quality control.

Tribe made eligible for reservation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill that would make a poverty-stricken band of Texas Indians eligible for U.S. citizenship and other federal benefits is waiting for President Reagan's signature.

The House sent the measure to the White House by a voice vote Tuesday, a day after it cleared the Senate.

A report by the House Interior Committee said the Kickapoo band has been acknowledged by noted historians and anthropologists to be perhaps the most culturally conservative of all American Indian tribes. Yet they exist today in a state of limbo and squalor in Eagle Pass, Texas.

Garvey becomes San Diego Padre

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Steve Garvey, his 34th birthday brightened by a five-year contract worth a possible $2 million a year, wants to repay the San Diego Padres with a pennant in 1983.

Shortly after signing the guaranteed $6.6 million contract, the former Los Angeles Dodger first baseman predicted a National League Western Division title for the rising Padres in the "very, very near future."

During the news conference Tuesday, club President Ballard Smith said the Padres paid a heavy price for the eight-time all-star, but called it "a case of desperately wanting Steve to play for us."

Part of Garvey's lucrative package is reportedly being underwritten by Ray Kroc, the ailing 80-year-old owner and founder of McDonald's fast-food empire.

"We desperately wanted to provide a ballclub that Ray could be proud of," said Smith, Kroc's son-in-law.

Calling it "the most difficult decision" of his career, Garvey, who has admitted having political plans after baseball, said staying in California was a major consideration.

"My heart is here in Southern California," said Garvey, who became a free agent at the end of the season after 12 years with the Dodgers.

He chose San Diego over the Chicago Cubs, San Francisco Giants, New York Yankees and Houston Astros — with the Cubs and Giants going down to the wire in the bidding war.

Garvey, a lifetime .301 hitter in 12 big league seasons, declined to say if the Padres' offer was the best one he received.

Manager Dick Williams, who directed the Padres to a fourth-place finish in 1982, said the acquisition of Garvey automatically moves San Diego a notch higher and

"throws us right into a contender's role."

Williams said he tentatively plans to bat Garvey "third or fourth" in the lineup, between Sixto Lezcano and Terry Kennedy, the Padres two top power hitters.

He said the Padres were "in dire need" of a slugging first baseman.

Garvey has averaged 21 home runs and 98 runs batted in the last nine seasons.

At one point during the press conference, Garvey drew cheers when he said San Diego would have a title by next fall.

Closing the book on his Dodger days, he said Los Angeles represented "a long chapter in my life. Now that chapter has closed."

If his consecutive game streak of 1,107 games stays intact, he would break the National League record held by Billy Williams on April 15 at Dodger Stadium.

THE HEREFORD BRAND SPORTS

The Hereford Brand—Wednesday, Dec. 22, 1982—Page 3A

That meeting, his first against his former teammates, would be "an emotional series," he said.

The guaranteed portion of Garvey's contract is for $6.6 million, but The Associated Press learned that the deal includes individual and attendant bonuses of $575,000 per year.

If Garvey were to collect on all of the bonuses, the contract's value would balloon to $9.475 million per year.

His agent, Jerry Kapstein, would not comment on details, but a source close to the negotiations said Garvey would earn no less than $1.5 million per year.

The Dodgers had offered a four-year contract for $5 million. Garvey earned $361,000 last year in the final season of six-year, $1.97-million contract.

Smith said the Padres initially wondered "whether we could afford him," but changed their minds after meeting Garvey and reviewing the club's needs.

"We're signing him because the potential rewards are great," he said, adding that with Garvey the club expects to draw two million fans in 1983. The club attendance mark is 1.6 million, set in 1978 when the Padres went over the .500 mark for the only time in their history.

Garvey, who began his baseball career as a batboy for the Dodgers at spring training in Florida, has not missed a game since Sept. 1, 1975. His consecutive streak is the fourth longest in major league history.

He enters the 1983 season with 211 home runs and 992 runs batted in, six 200-hit seasons, seven 300 seasons and career highs of 33 home runs and 115 RBI, both in 1977.

Padres' reserve second baseman Tim Flannery gave up his uniform number in order that Garvey get his familiar No. 6.

The addition of Garvey was welcomed by his new teammates.

"It's a great Christmas present," said veteran utilityman Kurt Bevacqua. "It's like finding the missing piece of a puzzle. He fits. I'm not saying we're going to win a pennant next year, but this is a major step to put in position to do it."

Shortstop Garry Templeton said Garvey brings leadership to the Padres and solidifies an already outstanding defensive infield.

"He's going to win games for us on offense and save a lot of games for us on defense," said Templeton.

5 teams can clinch NFL playoff berths Sunday

By The Associated Press

Five teams, four of them from the American Conference, can clinch National Football League postseason playoff berths with victories this weekend.

The Cincinnati Bengals, Miami Dolphins, San Diego Chargers and New York Jets of the AFC and the Green Bay Packers of the National Conference are the teams that need victories to earn guaranteed spots in pro football's expanded playoff field.

The postseason format for 1982, altered after the 57-day players' strike, eliminates division standings and counts only conference records.

In recent years, 10 teams — six division winners and four wild cards, have qualified for the playoffs. This year, the field has been expanded to 16 teams, eight from each 14-team conference.

Four teams have locked up playoff berths so far. They are the Los Angeles Raiders (6-1) in the AFC and the Dallas Cowboys (6-1), Washington Redskins (6-1) and Atlanta Falcons (5-2) in the NFC.

Just three of the 28 NFL teams have been eliminated from playoff contention. They are the Denver Broncos (2-5), Houston Oilers (1-6) and Baltimore Colts (0-6-1), all from the AFC.

That leaves 21 teams scrambling for 12 remaining postseason berths. But five of them — Kansas City in the AFC and Chicago, Philadelphia, the Los Angeles Rams and defending Super Bowl champion San Francisco in the NFC — are close to elimination with just two games remaining in the regular season shortened from 16 games to nine by the strike.

The Rams, at 1-6, are the longest of the longshots. For them to make it, they'd have to be involved in a seven-way tie at 3-6, along with New Orleans, the New York Giants, Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Tampa Bay. Conference records would then come into play as the first step in the NFL's tie-breaker system.

Dallas, Washington and the Raiders can lock up the home field in the Jan. 8-9 first round of the playoffs by winning on Sunday.

The Bengals, Dolphins, Chargers, Jets and Packers each need only one victory in their remaining two games to clinch playoff spots. All four of those AFC teams were in the playoffs a year ago, with the Bengals reaching Super Bowl XVI. The Packers, though, are bidding for their first playoff appearance since 1972, the year Bart Starr retired as their quarterback and became their quarterback coach. He is now Green Bay's head coach.

This year, the playoffs will run four weeks, culminating with Super Bowl XVII on Jan. 30 at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif.

Waco Robinson gridder dies during routine operation

WACO, Texas (AP) — A 17-year-old high school football player died here during routine knee surgery when his heart stopped near the end of the operation, his doctor says.

Cris Allen Cargill, a defensive lineman and two-year letterman for suburban Robinson High School, had injured his knee during a state football playoff game.

His doctor, James Bowden, said Cargill's heart stopped during the Tuesday morning surgery at Hillcrest Baptist Memorial Center, and the youth never regained consciousness.

Sudden death in the operating room happens "in about 1 in 1,000 or 1 in 5,000 instances," Bowden said. "It is just something that is tragic."

Cargill was undergoing surgery to repair knee cartilage and a ligament he tore during a Nov. 12 bi-district playoff game with Lindale, a school official said.

Bobby Stuart, Robinson's

head football coach, said several college scouts had been interested in offering scholarships to Cargill.

"He was a first-class individual, the type of kid that really enjoyed life and a real fine football player," Stuart said. "Everybody loved him on the team."

"The injury itself was not that serious," the coach said. "All I know is that he was in there (Hillcrest) this morning for surgery."

Stuart gathered the team Tuesday afternoon to tell them of Cargill's death.

Assistant principal Curtis Collier walked from classroom to classroom to tell teachers of the senior's death, and teachers informed the students, said principal Jimmy Smith.

"He was just a super young man, well-liked and just a large part of our school," Smith said.

The Robinson team reached the Class 3A quarterfinals before losing to district rival McGregor. Cargill led the Rockets with 10 quarterback sacks and had 14 tackles and 12 assists. He also broke up five passes and recovered two fumbles.

An autopsy was performed Tuesday, but results were not released.

Funeral arrangements were pending.

For Super Bowl XVII Pokes, Chargers still choice

BY LES GILES
Sports Editor

When the 1982 pro football season began, I guessed Dallas and San Diego would be in Super Bowl XVII, Jan. 30 at Pasadena.

With two weekends left in the regular season (shortened to nine games because of the strike), I haven't changed my mind.

Dallas looks to be the class of the NFC, sporting a 6-1 record. The only loss was a 36-28 cliff-hanger to Pittsburgh in the first game of the season.

Since then, the Cowboys haven't allowed more than two touchdowns in any game, and only once have they allowed that many.

The AFC might be a different story. At this point, I think there are five powerhouse teams, any one capable of going to the Super Bowl.

They include the L.A. Raiders, San Diego, Cincinnati, Miami and the New York Jets.

The Raiders are a remarkable outfit. Super Bowl champions two years ago... a losing season last year, and now, back atop the standings. They're a difficult team to figure, but one that's hard to beat, especially in the big games.

San Diego's offense may be the best in pro football, but the defense (what there is of it) is something. While the Chargers have scored 210 points thus far (best in the league), they're allowed 156 (only six teams have given up more, and five are out of the playoff picture).

I'll be very surprised if Dallas doesn't win the NFC title. While the Redskins are also 6-1, they've scored only 17 more points than they've allowed.

If any team does beat Dallas in the playoffs, I'd guess it might be Atlanta.

I'll still go with the Chargers in the AFC, but will not be surprised at all if either the Raiders or Jets wind up in Pasadena.

Often times, being red-shirted means you're trying to shake an injury.

Not so with Kenny Weldon, a sophomore at the Air Force Academy.

Weldon graduated from Stephenville High School. But, his parents (Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Weldon) moved to the Hereford area afterward, and currently live in Yucca Hills, some six miles north of town.

Kenny was red-shirted this season, in an effort to gain weight.

He began the season at 6-5, 192 pounds. Presently, he is still 6-5, but weighs 209.

Currently home for the holidays, Kenny took some time out to reflect about his future at the academy.

"I didn't mind it (being red-shirted) at all," he admitted. "Over the long haul, it will probably help me. Playing tight end, I needed to gain some extra weight."

"I look to play quite a bit in the next few years. Next season, I'll be a junior scholastically, but still a sophomore athletically. I will have three years eligibility left."

Air Force is in a bowl game for the first time since losing the 1971 Sugar Bowl to Tennessee. The Falcons play Vanderbilt Dec. 31 in the Hall of Fame Bowl at Birmingham, Ala.

Although Air Force is 7-5 overall, it has been an outstanding season.

"The team lost two of its first three games," Weldon noted. "They lost to Tulsa the first week of the season, then in the third game lost at Texas Tech by a 31-30 margin.

"But, after that the season seemed to turn around. They went up to Brigham Young and won. It was almost like a miracle.

"Air Force had never beaten BU before. "That game seemed to turn things around. The ball club only has 12 seniors on it. It's primarily a junior-sophomore club. Most of the skill positions are manned by sophomores and juniors.

"Anyway, the win at BYU seemed to turn things around. It gave the team the confidence it needed, and after that everything seemed to fall in place."

Beaumont West Brook's victory last weekend in the Class 5A state championship game represented a resounding plus for the UIL's new playoff format.

Until this season, only district champions advanced to post-season play.

But, beginning this season, the UIL explained the playoffs to include each district runner-up.

Not only was West Brook a new school—competing in football for the first year—it was a district runner-up, having finished second to Port Arthur Jefferson in 22-5A.

West Brook appeared to be one of those teams which got better as the season progressed, and peaked at the right time—late in the playoffs.

It entered the playoffs with an unspectacular 6-4 record, having lost its first two games of the season.

And, ironically, West Brook never was favored in any playoff game.

After opening with a 24-20 win over Forest Brook in the bi-district round, the Bruins advanced following a 7-7 tie with Baytown Sterling in the area playoffs.

After that, it was victories over Houston Memorial (28-22 in the regionals), Dickinson (49-30 in the quarterfinals) and Converse Judson (27-12 in the semifinals), before Saturday's 21-10 triumph over Hurst Bell.

West Brook became the first 5A team ever to win the state title in its first year of existence.

Last weekend's other state championship results were as follows:

Class 4A—Fort Bend Willowridge 22, Corsicana 17. Class 3A—Refugio 22, Littlefield 21.

Class 2A—Eastland 28, East Bernard 6. Class 1A—Union Hill 13, Roscoe 0.

Thus, Willowridge and Union Hill were the only teams in the state to finish the season with perfect records. Willowridge, runnerup to Brownwood a year ago, ended 15-0, while Union Hill closed at 14-0. Eastland finished at 15-0-1.

Ironically, Eastland's championship victory was its easiest since a 54-0 bi-district triumph over Junction.

After that opening playoff win, the Mavericks survived a 7-7 tie with Holliday, a come-from-behind 21-20 win over Pilot Point, another come-from-behind win over Olney (37-29) and a down-to-the-wire thriller against Hale Center (16-12, scoring the winning TD in the final minute and a half).

Willowridge averaged winning its five playoff games by 22.4 points. Union Hill averaged winning by 22 points. Refugio, which faced its toughest test in the finals, averaged winning six playoff games by 21 points. Eastland won by an average of 14.8 points and West Brook won its six post season games by an average 9.1 points.

Louisville edges N.C. State

By DICK JOYCE AP Sports Writer

Bill Thompson is the most heralded of Louisville's freshman, but it was another frosh, Jeff Hall, who sparked the 14th-ranked Cardinals to victory over No. 15 North Carolina State.

Thompson, 6-foot-8 from Camden, N.J., scored only two points, while Hall, 6-4 from Fairview, Ky., came off the bench Tuesday night to spark Louisville to a homecourt 57-52 triumph, its eighth in nine college basketball games this season.

Hall, who was the second schoolboy to announce his intentions to attend Louisville after Thompson, scored eight points — hitting all four shots from the field — in the second half and helped key the Cardinals' defense which shut down the Wolfpack in the second half.

In other games involving the Top Twenty, No. 12 Arkansas rallied to edge Southern Mississippi 64-62; unbeaten Stetson upset No. 16 West Virginia 79-69, and No. 17 Las Vegas-Nevada advanced the final of the Rebel Roundup in Las Vegas against Baylor by ripping Long Island University 101-78.

"I've been looking for some help from the bench and Jeff Hall came in and really picked up the slack," said Louisville Coach Denny Crum.

Louisville needed help because Lancaster Gordon, its leading scorer, hit only one of five shots and finished with five points.

Hall said, "Something I try to do is come in and give the team some spark." The teams were tied at halftime 33-33 as North Carolina State shot 56 percent from the field before intermission.

The Wolfpack shot only 35 percent in the second half and suffered its first loss in five starts. Charles Jones, 6-8 junior, led the Cardinals with 17 points. Rodney McCray was the only other Louisville player in double figures, scoring 11 points. He also grabbed nine rebounds.

Derek Whittenburg, who scored 18 points in the first half, finished with 22 for the Wolfpack.

Arkansas boosted its record to 7-0 as Darrell Walker scored 18 points, including the go-ahead goal, against visiting Southern Mississippi, 6-2.

The Razorbacks tied the score at 52 on John Snively's 20-footer. Snively then stole a pass which led to Walker's go-ahead basket.

Arkansas went up by six points on two free throws by Ricky Norton with 25 seconds left and hung on. "They're the best team we've played," Razorback coach Eddie Sutton said.

Kenny Bailey paced Southern Mississippi with 22 points.

Frank Burnell scored 21 points and Glynn Myrick 19 as host Stetson, 7-0, never trailed and dealt West Virginia its first setback in nine games. Greg Jones led the Mountaineers with 22 points.

Sidney Green scored 25 points and grabbed 14 rebounds in leading Nevada-Las Vegas over LIU. Larry Anderson added 23 for the Runnin' Rebels, while Todd Person paced LIU with 21 points.

Jay Shakir's 19 points, 13 rebounds and six assists gave Baylor a 71-66 victory over Morehead State in the opening game of the Rebel Roundup.

Meanwhile, defending NCAA champion North Carolina, which dropped from the rankings this week, got seven points from sophomore Michael Jordan in the final 66 seconds and beat host Tennessee-Chattanooga 73-66.

Jordan scored 27 points and Sam Perkins and Matt Doherty 16 apiece for the Tar Heels, now 5-3. UT-Chattanooga dropped to 6-2.

Unbeaten San Diego State, with 19 points from Eddie Morris, routed Howard (D.C.) 89-61, and another unbeaten, Boston College romped over Fairfield behind 24 points from Martin Clark and 20 each from Jay Murphy and Michael Adams. Both teams raised their records to 7-0.

In other games, Darrell Browder scored 21 points in helping Texas Christian to a 77-52 win over previously unbeaten Colorado; Ohio State crushed Holy Cross 81-60 behind Tony Campbell's 22 points; Mississippi, led by Carlos Clark's 24 points, topped Illinois Wesleyan 77-65; Devin Durrant scored 26 points in a 66-52 victory by Brigham Young over Providence, and Pat Marshall's goal with 15 seconds left earned St. Joseph's (Pa.) a 65-63 victory over Bradley.

Londell Owens' desperation shot at the buzzer earned Kent State a 66-65 win over Pepperdine; Leon Wood paced 7-1 Fullerton State over Portland 55-54; Bobby Jones' 21 points powered Western Kentucky over Dayton 68-58. Oklahoma State, led by Leroy Combs' 21 points and 13 rebounds, took the Blade-Glass City Classic by defeating host Toledo 76-69; Southwestern Louisiana won the Wolf Pack Classic 69-63 over Nevada-Reno and Ball State captured the Cardinal Club Varsity Classic, downing Louisiana Tech 81-77.

Sarajevo officials worried

Fog clouds '84 Games

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia (AP) — The dense fog that often enshrouds this city is leaving organizers of the 1984 Winter Olympics groping for answers.

In particular, officials are worried that the city's airport will be shut down by fog during the Games. The Olympics take place in February, usually one of the coldest and foggiest winter months, and Sarajevo's airport is the one in Yugoslavia that is most often closed by the weather.

"Yes, weather is one of our biggest problems and it's one factor we cannot control. But we are doing everything in our power to find the best possible solutions," said Dr. Aziz Hadzihanovic, vice president of the Organizing Committee.

The problem came to a head when International Olympic Committee President Juan Antonio Samaranch arrived several hours late last week because the airport was closed.

The town is at least six hours from Belgrade by the fastest train. Roads leading to Sarajevo pass through the inhospitable Bosnian mountains and heavy snow can often block them for some time.

For the Olympics, the organizers have been working on three alternative solutions.

Under one plan, visitors will be landed at the airport of Mostar and then either driven to Sarajevo — a two-hour journey — or taken by special train, a 90-minute trip.

Special buses and eight special trains ordered just for the Olympics will be waiting at Zagreb and Ljubljana in northern Yugoslavia, in case both Sarajevo and Mostar are fogged out. That is unlikely since Mostar has one of the sunniest climates in Yugoslavia.

Sarajevo airport itself — about 10 minutes by car from the center of this city of nearly 300,000 people — will have its only runway extended and more modern equipment installed so it can handle the biggest jets and provide landings in adverse conditions, Branko Mikulic, the president of Bosnia-Herzegovina said. Sarajevo is the capital of the republic, one of the six republics that make up Yugoslavia.

He said the city is also negotiating to buy or rent small aircraft for the Olympics which could land in Sarajevo more easily than the bigger jets.

Sarajevo, completely surrounded by mountains, has another problem — wind. When a large group of newsmen was leaving Sarajevo last week, their plane was prevented from taking off because of gusty winds. Instead of leaving as scheduled at 9:15 p.m., it left at 8 a.m. the next morning.

Chris Evert Lloyd conceded gracefully, conceding to Martina Navratilova that "You're No. 1 for now," but Martina could not have helped noticing the glint in her eye.

At 28, the precise, demure young lady from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., who has symbolized American women's tennis for a decade, has just begun to fight.

"I don't look back on this tournament (the $300,000 Toyota Championships at the New Jersey Meadowlands over the weekend) as the one in which I lost to Martina Navratilova. It's the one where I got rid of the psychological barrier of Tracy Austin."

Navratilova, the powerful and talented Czechoslovakian-born player, won the $75,000 first prize and a new automobile by beating Lloyd in the final 4-6, 6-1, 6-2 Sunday night. But it was the Lloyd-Tracy Austin semifinal match the evening before that left spectators bug-eyed.

Playing near perfect tennis, Chrissy crushed her 20-year-old rival 6-0, 6-0, losing only 15 points in the enure match which took only 48 minutes.

"I've always believed that Suzanne Lenglen (French tennis star after World War I) could have beaten any of today's top women players love and love, and wondered exactly how she would go about doing it," said Ted Tining, director of international liaison for the Virginia Slims tour. "Now I know. She would have done it just the way Chrissy did."

Chrissy's loss to Navratilova was ameliorated by her triumph over Austin, a long-time nemesis.

Elderly people with mental problems should receive care

HOUSTON - Elderly people with mental problems don't always get medical care they need because their families think nothing can be done to help them, says Baylor psychiatrist Charles Gaitz, M.D., a specialist in treating the aged.

But loss of mental alertness is not normal at any age and elderly people who begin to show signs of mental confusion (dementia) should receive prompt medical attention, said Gaitz, head of the Gerontology Center at Texas Research Institute of Mental Sciences.

"Too often we stereotype older people as inadequate," said Gaitz. "We want to do things to them and for them, rather than identifying them as our peers — people who can discuss decisions that affect their lives ... older people aren't children — they are survivors who have coped with life's problems longer than we have."

Many people wrongly assume that an elderly person's forgetfulness, confusion about time and place, and impaired intellectual abilities are just a natural part of growing old and therefore incurable, Gaitz said, although many illnesses can produce the mental infirmity labeled "senility."

This term has little meaning today, he said, because it doesn't convey the idea that other medical conditions cause changes in the brain that produce dementia.

Parkinson's disease, Alzheimer's disease and brain tumors have direct effect on brain function.

Vitamin B12 deficiency, and cardiovascular, lung and kidney disease can affect the brain, producing the same mental symptoms, Gaitz said a physical examination and laboratory tests can spot these disorders.

Brain damage can't be reversed, but Gaitz said that medicine, good nutrition, dental care and exercise can improve mood and ability to function, even in seriously afflicted patients. Helping to restore failing eyesight and hearing can also improve an aged person's quality of life.

In addition to physical illness, he said that a combination of psychological and environmental stress often contributes to mental problems of the elderly.

Financial distress, isolation, loss of social and work roles, and loss of friends and loved ones may compound the aged person's physical burdens. Gradual loss of control over the daily decisions of life are a source of anguish.

Effective treatment for elderly persons depends on support from family and community organizations, Gaitz said. The aged person may need outside help with meals, transportation, or with making his or her home safer to prevent falls and accidents. But above all, he said, they must be treated with dignity and respect.

Today In History

out of business

PLAINFIELD, N.J. (AP)

The world's biggest manufacturer of Raggedy Ann dolls is going out of business.

Robert Nahodil, a California consultant and acting general manager of Knickerbocker Toy Co., said Tuesday that the decision was a painful one to announce, particularly just before Christmas.

"Obviously, we would have liked to have done it at a different time," Nahodil said. "We honestly felt it was better to tell them now so that the workers can plan their lives with some surety, rather than sitting around and wondering."

The decision means that 215 employees will lose their jobs Jan. 3, and 241 by April 1. Some 119 employees will begin working Jan. 3 for another company that plans to take over part of Knickerbocker.

Warner Communications Inc., which acquired Knickerbocker five years ago, announced last month that it would sell the toy company. Analysts projected Knickerbocker would have a $20 million to $30 million shortfall this year.

Since then, rumors about the extent of the layoffs have circulated through Knickerbocker's headquarters here, its assembly plant in Middletown and the distribution center.

When executives announced the shutdown Tuesday, shipping clerk Cliff Jackson was not surprised.

"It really is sad, but what can you say," said Jackson, who works at the company's distribution center in Edison. "Working here you can see they're not making money. We're shipping it out and getting it back almost as fast."

Jackson speculated that video games and other toys of the computer age are taking the place of the cuddly red-haired dolls in the hearts of youngsters.

Knickerbocker, founded in 1922, makes the popular Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy dolls, produces dolls of Walt Disney, Sesame Street, Snoopy characters and other creates other toys.

Other companies produce the Raggedy Ann dolls in smaller quantities.

BACK IN THE BLACK Postal Service Surplus for 1982

SOURCE: U.S. Postal Service

The postman has delivered an unaccustomed message to Americans: The U.S. Postal Service ended the fiscal year with an operating surplus, the first since 1979. The last surplus before that was in 1945, when the final balance showed a plus of $200 million. The surplus means that the service will need no federal funding in fiscal 1983 and an anticipated rise in postal rates will be delayed until at least 1984.

Learning to drive is a hurdle for refugees

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Learning to drive is a potentially dangerous cultural hurdle for refugees from Southeast Asia, and the city has extended a program aimed at giving the newcomers a boost.

"It's terrible," Sgt. G.R. Dick of the Portland Police Bureau traffic division. "A disproportionate amount of them have accidents."

The program began after the commission received a report from police Lt. Tom Potter about the refugees' driving problems, according to Maury Wilson, the Traffic Safety Commission's coordinator.

Wilson said a cursory look at traffic accidents found "that in over 70 percent of those involving Southeast Asians, they were at fault, primarily over disobeying traffic signs or signals."

"It's hard for them to understand such things as right of way. If they turn, they turn, and if there's someone coming, that's too bad," said Dick. He said there have been serious accidents involving refugees, but no fatalities.

The special driving program, run jointly by the city and Portland Community College, began in the fall. It gave 26 students 30 hours of classroom instruction and six hours each of behind-the-wheel driver training, comparable to what teen-agers get in local high schools.

On Tuesday, the traffic safety commission approved continuing the program.

"We're not only having to teach them the laws, but the cultural implications that go with it," said Rosalyn Menashe, an organizer and special projects coordinator for the college.

For example, she said, a native 15-year-old probably is familiar with insurance, but virtually none of the refugees is insured, even though most of them must drive because they work at jobs with odd hours when there is no bus service.

"Maybe three or four families will get together and buy a car, but not know how to operate it," said Mrs. Menashe, who praised the refugees' for their enthusiasm to learn.

Portland is home to about 70 percent of the state's 18,000 Southeast Asian refugees and many more from other parts of the world.

Jay Bosse, assistant manager of the Department of Motor Vehicles licensing center in Northeast Portland, where many Southeast Asian live, says those refugees have a particular cultural disadvantage learning to drive.

"Other nationality groups that have migrated to this county have normally come from countries where driving is routine," Bosse says.

Ann Landers

Train runs both ways

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have seen several letters in your column from middle-aged women who are worried about their romantic feelings and sexual attraction for a young daughter's boyfriend (high school age).

What puzzles me is that I never recall a letter from a man who has the same problem. Is it because:

(a) This sort of thing doesn't happen to men?

(b) Men don't feel it is anything to be concerned about?

Men don't want anyone to admit to the problem?

Curious, isn't it? Any explanation? — Upstate N.Y.

DEAR UP: Men do indeed experience the problem, but they seldom write about it.

Usually the letter is from the girl who says, "The dad of my best friend made a pass at me when he drove me home the other night." Or the wife writes: "My husband can't take his eyes of a darling girl who is a cheerleader along with our daughter. He called me by her name in his sleep last night."

I have printed letters from men who have complained, "My fiancée pays very little attention to me when my dad is around. He loves it. When they kiss hello, it makes me uneasy. I think he goes for her." And more than one young woman has written to say she's in love with her father-in-law. So, you see that train runs both ways, my dear, and the engineer can be either male or female.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Can you stand one more letter on the subject of high school kids who have jobs?

What did that boy from Georgia do with all the money after school and on weekends? Did he save it for college?

I'm the teacher in whose class he fell asleep regularly because he worked until 2 a.m. the night before. When I asked him why he worked, he replied, "To pay for my car."

I then asked, "Why do you need a car?" He answered, "To get to work."

It is a vicious circle. If he didn't have the job, he wouldn't need the car. I have seen enough of this sort of thing so that I am convinced kids do a lot better in school without cars and jobs, unless it is absolutely essential that they work in order to help support the family. — A Teacher In Middle America Who Cares

Young Americans Broadway salute scheduled Jan. 7

Members of the Hereford Community Concert Association are reminded of the upcoming musical performance, "On Broadway," scheduled Friday, Jan. 7, by the Young Americans. This fully-staged theatrical revue will begin at 8 p.m. in the Hereford High School auditorium.

The Young Americans, founded in 1962 by Milton C. Anderson, have become internationally famous through their tours with Broadway musicals, concert presentations and tributes.

Included in this year's program are such hits as "I Got Rhythm," "Shall We Dance," "The Rain in Spain," "Mame," "Seventy-six Trombones," and "Climb Every Mountain," as well as selections from Broadway musicals like "Oklahoma," "The King and I" and "A Chorus Line."

Members of the group are selected in audition from recommended students in over 200 high schools and colleges in Southern California and scores of others from around the country. New members are recruited in cities the Young Americans visit on tour. They range in age from 15 to 21.

The Young Americans have performed in many major U.S. cities, and foreign countries including Australia, England, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, the Philippines, Taiwan, and Thailand have been on television numerous times, and were featured in an Academy Award winning full-length documentary.

In the summer of 1975, Anderson, who has directed musical presentations on CBS, NBC, and ABC has worked with many stars including Judy Garland, Bing Crosby, Fred Astaire, Gene Kelly and Andy Williams, established a summer musical theatre workshop in Petoskey, a resort town in northern Michigan.

The theatre is a training ground and educational institution which afford talented young musical comedy performers and designers a unique opportunity to learn and develop while working with many of the finest professionals available.

A resident school of the philosophies and the performing arts, which will focus on the performing arts as an important tool for improving worldwide communication and diplomacy, is a major part of the future plans for the Young Americans.

The Young Americans Inc. is a non-profit, tax-exempt corporation not connected with any religious or political movement. All projects, including operating activities; academic, vocal, and dance scholarships; and educating members about the people and customs of nations visited during foreign tours are funded through money received from performances.

Those attending the Young Americans performance should present their Community Concert membership cards at the door.

The final concert in the 1982-83 Community Concert Association series will feature Keith and Rusty McNeil on March 8.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: No big deal - or maybe it is, considering the cost of everything these days. Here's a hint for all those women who complain about their pantyhose ripping after two or three wearings - especially since they rarely come with reinforced heels and toes anymore. Put them in the freezer brand new - package and all. Leave them overnight or longer. The following day, wash them and let them dry. This method really works for me. I usually pitch my pantyhose because of soaps, not rums. Sign me - Wiser Than Before In Ill.

U.S. twin plants in Mexico win big in peso crisis

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Most of the workers waiting for the Antonio J. Bermudez Industrial Park to open this morning are in their late teens. And two-thirds of those who work 48 hours weekly for the 573 American assembly plants in Mexico are female.

Their wages? About $3.84 daily.

These "twin plant" workers are part of 130,000 employed by U.S. subsidiaries throughout Mexico to assemble products ranging from electrical goods to American basketballs.

Government statistics show the plant workers here are one of the most visible losers in the year's third devaluation of the Mexican peso. Their wages now buy just 70 percent what they did a year ago.

But officials say the winners in the continuing crisis of the Mexican economy — saddled by an annual inflation rate of 110 percent, an $81 billion foreign debt and a currency now worth one-sixth its value of last January — are the twin plants.

"Our cost of labor has been drastically reduced by the economic events of this year," says Alberto Chretien, executive director of the Las Americas Industrial Park in Chihuahua City, 240 miles south of here.

A year ago, 4,500 workers in Chihuahua's 13 twin plants operated by U.S. subsidiaries in Mexico were paid about $1.70 per hour to assemble products for companies such as Honeywell, General Electric and American Hospital Supply. A twin plant worker now earns about 50 cents an hour, data shows.

The average twin plant worker assembles raw materials and unfinished products sent from the U.S. to the Mexico twin of the American firm. The finished product is then can be exported duty-free to the U.S. because of a 1965 Mexican government decree.

This year, despite two wage increases totaling 47 percent, twin plant workers now earn a government-established minimum wage of 365 pesos per day — about $3.84 daily at the present controlled exchange rate of 95 pesos per dollar for import-export firms.

Companies in Mexico with foreign debts or special permits are allowed to trade pesos at 70 to the dollar, and free market rates established Monday by the Mexican government now hover around 155 to the dollar. Eleven months and two devaluations ago, the peso was worth 27 to the dollar.

About 95 percent of the twin plant workers in Chihuahua who stitch clothes for American Hospital Supply and assemble small electronic goods are female, Chretien said.

"The females are more dedicated to this type of delicate work," he said.

Labor-intensive industries located in 18 cities in Mexico now contribute about $1.4 billion to the Mexican economy, statistics compiled in 1981 by Mexico's Industrial Development Board show.

About 60,000 Americans and 4,000 suppliers in 39 states send raw materials duty-free to the 130 Mexican twin plants in Juarez alone, says Bill Mitchell, marketing manager for the Bermudez Industrial Parks in this city of 900,000 that borders El Paso, Texas.

Juarez has about 45,000 employees in 130 plants, the most in Mexico. Tijuana in Baja California is second with 120 plants, but employs only 12,000 workers, government data shows.

In 1969, when the twin plants program was four years old, Juarez had 250 employees working in 11 plants, Mitchell said.

"The growth has been tremendous," Mitchell said. "And we are now on the verge of being competitive in wages with the Far East."

Countries in the Far East such as Taiwan and Hong Kong have wage scales that pay their workers about 60 cents an hour, and for about 25 years have traditionally undercut other country's attempts to grab a market share of their export business.

But with a heavily diluted peso, and Mexico desirous of getting dollar-based businesses in their nation, the twin plants appear more prosperous than ever, Mitchell said.

"We're getting more and more serious inquiries into businesses relocating here than ever before," he said.

"Remember, the wages are set by the government, so it's not as exploitative as some say because the people want to work. They work or they don't eat," Mitchell said.

Workers from Merida in the Yucatan Peninsula to Tijuana are choosing twin plants for steady income, especially with national unemployment rates of about 35 percent, he said.

In the Lower Rio Grande Valley of South Texas, about 29,000 workers are employed from Nuevo Laredo to Matamoros by 85 twin plants. In Baja California from Tijuana to La Paz, another 23,000 Mexicans work in 219 twin plants, government documents show.

In Arizona, from Nogales to Agua Prieta, about 19,000 workers are employed in 98 plants.

Most, however, choose the Juarez area because of its proximity to a large American city across the Rio Grande and its good rail, road, air and telecommunications network, Mitchell said.

"El Paso is the most cosmopolitan city on the border — it's all right here."

A battle of bull versus man, against the clock

NACOGDOCHES, Texas (AP) — It is a battle that never ends gracefully and, if you're lucky, it is all over eight seconds worth of cowboy glory. Some call those seconds eternity — an endless "one-thousand one through one-thousand eight" count of man versus bull.

You don't walk away from a bull ride. You often fall. Hard. And all the time there is at least a half-ton of bull right by you — snorting, kicking, bucking and generally doing anything in its own bullish way to keep you from that glorious buzzer.

"When you go completely crazy, that's when you become a bull rider," said J. Michael Ewing, a 25-year-old bull rider from Lufkin.

Earlier this month, Ewing and five others stuffed their rigger bags with gear, slid on cowboy hats and headed out to Tall Pine Rodeo Arena to face the mud and the bulls in school.

Each paid $125 for a two-day chance to fall, eat mud, and get glare from, say, a black Angus muley. Somewhere inside each one of them — maybe where the logic used to be — is a desire to do something you could call part crazy, part dangerous and all cowboy. Even if it's only for eight seconds or less.

During the day they rode bulls or watched someone else ride. At night they saw a film of the National Rodeo Championship — the "World Series" of rodeo. They attended a morning church service with professional cowboys speaking. Finally, they competed in their own camp competition.

"Bull riding can be a real drag if you lose your head," said Glenn Sullivan, the instructor in charge of the camp. "You eliminate the danger by knowing what you're doing."

"Sometimes that bull just kind of does you like a rag doll," said Ewing.

David Wisener, bull rider and rodeo clown who helped manage the bulls, nodded his head.

"Beginners. They get all the beating and bruising," he said.

"I do it because I just like bull riding," said Keith Stringer of Lufkin, who was named most improved rider at the camp. "It's a real challenge."

A bull rider doesn't mess with the protective gear like the helmet and pads of a football player. A bull rider wears style. The chaps are suede, fringed, multi-colored and fancied up with clovers or lightning-bolt designs.

"There are different designs to go with your personality," said Ewing. The belt buckles are big oval brass-and-silver pictures of cowboys riding bulls.

"The bigger the buckle, the better," said John Lewis, a bull-riding student from Jasper. The cowboy hats are straw or felt. Usually they have a feather and a hat tack that says something like "101 percent Texan."

Stuffed into those rigger bags are worn gloves, yards of plaited rope and more than enough resin to coat it all. The resin keeps the rope sticky, which makes it easier for a bull rider to hang on. And hanging on is what it's all about.

"When you hear the whistle blow and you go out on the bull, you can hear the people yelling and clapping," said David Ferguson, a Lufkin High School student. "Sometimes it blows my mind. I can hear the people cheering. Go, David! But you can't think about it. You're waitin' and waitin' on that buzzer."

"I'm pretty serious about it," he said. "I want to start getting the bugs out and get my confidence up. It's just a challenge. It's not the money."

Municipal League calls for changes

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Consumer anger about utility bills could bring Texans "by the busloads" to complain to the 1983 Legislature, according to the director of the Texas Municipal League, which has its own proposals on how lawmakers can appease ratepayers.

The league's proposed changes for the Public Utility Commission were released Tuesday by Dick Brown, executive director.

Among the top priorities is the establishment of a "public counsel" to represent the "common man" at PUC rate hearings.

Brown said big business is adequately represented by lawyers, while many consumers have no one arguing for them.

"Everybody is represented except Joe and Josephine Consumer. You're one of the very few who's not represented — common people. Everybody else is," he said at a Capitol news conference.

Under the current system, the PUC general counsel is responsible for looking out for the public. However, Brown said it's hard to separate the general counsel from the commission.

"It is unrealistic to expect the (PUC) general counsel to express positions contrary to commission policy, even though that policy might be adverse toward certain ratepayers," he said.

Under the TML proposal — to be presented to the 1983 Legislature — the attorney general would appoint a "public counsel" to lead an independent office.

The league package also includes a ban on automatic fuel adjustment charges on monthly bills. Utility companies would have to go through a "full-blown rate proceeding" to pass fuel costs on to customers.

Brown said the current system, which he called "foolishness," allows companies to stuff other costs into the fuel pass-through.

Rising utility bills "are probably the most important political issue in this state," he said. Reform of the PUC will be "irresistible to the

If it was the money, I'd have done near quit. I've spent more than I'm ever gonna make."

But the money's a part of it. Each of these students hopes to compete in a rodeo that can win them hundreds for their seconds on the bull.

Sullivan says that after one rodeo a cowboy can go home with $6,000 in the pocket of his jeans. He says that the average professional rodeo cowboy earns between $25,000 and $30,000 in a year.

"You can only think about that bull while you're out there," Ferguson said. "Otherwise, you'll find yourself thinkin' about the money you just lost."

members of the House and Senate," Brown predicted, adding that utility company lobbyists will fight change.

If the Legislature adjourns without having done anything meaningful in this area, there's going to be more consumer anger than there is now," he said.

TML does not favor election of PUC members, a method some believe would bring the commissioners closer to the electorate.

Brown said electing the commissioners would leave the PUC in the "clutches" of campaign contributors.

Other changes called for by the TML include: — Requiring the commission to consider "the quality of the utility's service, the efficiency of its operations and quality of its management."

— Limiting the amount of construction work in progress that can be passed to customers.

— Banning the use of bonded, interim rates. State law now allows companies to set their own interim rates if the commission is slow in acting on a rate-hike request. The bonded rates stay in effect until the commission acts.

— Requiring telephone and electric companies to show — exactly — what a proposed rate hike would mean to every class of service.

— Changing the law to say that utility companies should have a "reasonable opportunity" — not an absolute right — to recover costs.

Although Irving Berlin wrote "God Bless America" during World War I, he waited until 1938 to have it published.

The Newspaper BIBLE

ADULT LOVE...OR ADULTERY?

In the spring of the following year, at the time when war began, David sent Joab and the Israeli army to destroy the Ammonites. They began by laying siege to the city of Rabbah. But David stayed in Jerusalem.

One night he couldn't get to sleep and went for a stroll on the roof of the palace. As he looked out over the city, he noticed a woman of unusual beauty taking her evening bath. He sent to find out who she was and was told that she was Bath-sheba, the daughter of Eliam and the wife of Uriah. Then David sent for her and when she came he slept with her. Then she returned home. When she found that he had gotten her pregnant she sent a message to inform him.

Finally the next morning David wrote a letter to Joab and get it to Uriah to deliver. The letter instructed Joab to put Uriah at the front of the hottest part of the battle - and then pull back and leave him there to die! So Joab assigned Uriah to a spot close to the besieged city where he knew that the enemies' best men were fighting; and Uriah was killed along with several other Israeli soldiers.

So the messenger arrived at Jerusalem, and gave the report to David. "Well, tell Joab not to be discouraged," David said. "The sword kills one as well as another! Fight harder next time, and conquer the city; tell him he is doing well." (II Samuel 11:1-5, 14-17, 22, 25)

FAME

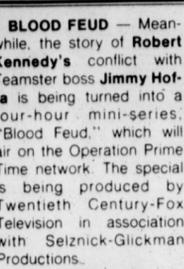

Shelley Hack

FIRST CUTS — Principal photography has started on "Scarface," the Universal gangster drama starring Al Pacino in the title role. The film is directed by terrormeister Brian DePalma from an original screenplay by Academy Award winner Oliver Stone.

KENNEDY SAGA

"The Kennedys of Massachusetts," which will recount the story of one of America's most charismatic and extraordinary families, is now in development as a special eight-hour drama to air on ABC during the 1985-86 season. The drama, which will be scripted by noted biographer Doris Kearns Goodwin, will be based on material never before published. Mrs. Goodwin is said to have interviewed almost every living participant in the history-making events that shaped the lives of the Kennedy family.

George Segal

ON THE TRACK — George Segal and Shelley Hack will co-star in "Trackdown," a CBS-TV movie now in production. The film is based on a true story that was fictionalized in the book "Looking for Mr. Goodbar." Segal plays Det. John Graton of the New York City Police Department who investigates the murder of an attractive Manhattan school teacher, Miss Hack plays Logan Gay, also a teacher, a friend of the slain woman.

Officials reach agreement on money

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — University of Texas and Texas A&M officials have agreed to try and cut Prairie View A&M in on the $1.7 billion Permanent University Fund in an effort to make it the best of the predominantly black colleges.

The PUF, a constitutionally mandated endowment, consists of nearly 2.1 million acres of oil-rich West Texas land and yearly earnings from the land.

Supporters of Prairie View, located 35 miles northwest of Houston, contend the authors of the Texas Constitution intended for Prairie View, which has about 4,300 students, to be included in the fund.

UT and A&M officials announced Tuesday they would ask the 1983 Legislature to approve a constitutional amendment to let Prairie View share in the Available University Fund, which is derived from investment of the PUF.

The proposed amendment also would have to be approved by the voters in a statewide election.

In addition to benefiting Prairie View, UT and A&M officials said it could be a major step in creating a new construction fund for public universities that do not share in the PUF.

A joint statement said the college officials expect legislation to be introduced next year to share PUF income with all institutions within the two systems, and to establish a construction fund for colleges outside the systems.

Gov.-elect Mark White said, "I commend the leadership at the University of Texas and Texas A&M University Systems, and State Rep. Wilhelmina Delco, who chairs the House Committee on Higher Education, for this permanent solution to a long-standing problem which avoids costly, divisive and time-consuming litigation, and I pledge full support to the passage of the constitutional amendment."

H.R. Bright, A&M regent chairman, said, "We are committed to building Prairie View A&M University into a first-class institution, and we see this as the best way to accomplish our overall goals for all parts of the Texas A&M University System."

Under the plan proposed by UT and A&M officials, A&M would have its one-third share of the AUF increased by $6 million annually for the next 10 years. The $6 million would come from the two-thirds share allocated from the PUF to the UT system.

At present, UT receives $90 million annually from the fund and A&M gets about $45 million.

Prairie View's additional funds would be used for program development and construction.

The statement said the intent of allocating additional funds to Prairie View is to make it nationally preeminent among colleges with predominantly black enrollments.

A&M Chancellor Arthur Hansen said Prairie View A&M plans call for the start of 10 new scientific, technological and medically related degree programs between now and 1986.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Hark to mother-in-law

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a very good cook. My husband likes what I cook. But my mother-in-law is driving me up the wall. She thinks I am not feeding her son right. The truth is that he has gained weight since we got married so I am beginning to wonder if she is right.

My family always liked foods with lots of cream sauce. When mom made mashed potatoes she didn't stint on the butter and always added some cream. We liked meat and potatoes with some old-fashioned cream gravy. And I learned that eggs added to lots of dishes really improves their flavor.

Now, my mother-in-law is disgustingly thin. I mean she looks good for a woman of her age and she says it is in how you cook. She is after me to cut out all the fat I can in preparing food. She says my husband will have a better chance to stay lean and young without heart disease if I listen to her. Is she right? How can I give him the foods he likes and still not give him some lip-smacking fats?

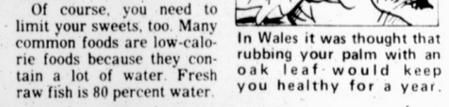

DEAR READER — The miracle is that more women don't have more trouble sooner with high-heeled shoes. The higher the heel the more unnatural the position of the foot. It puts more weight on the balls of your feet, the area that is giving you the most trouble. If you combine this with pointed toes you are asking for foot problems.

Of course you want to be sure even your high-heeled shoes are fit and give you enough room for your toes to wiggle. The more weight your feet must bear, and the longer they must bear it, the more likely a person's feet are to break down.

But you might get some help by adding foot exercises to your body-shaping routine every night. You can build and develop the muscles in your feet like you can other muscles. Those stronger muscles may take some of the strain off your feet when you are in high heels. You need to curl your toes and contract your muscles, then raise your toes up and tighten as much as you can. Try picking up beans with your toes.

Use fortified skim milk rather than whole milk or cream. You can make it taste richer for use in cooking by adding some extra nonfat dry milk powder. That provides more calcium and protein without the fat calories.

Of course, you need to limit your sweets, too. Many common foods are low-calorie foods because they contain a lot of water. Fresh raw fish is 80 percent water.

Chagra handed 10-year prison term for role in slaying a federal judge

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Joseph Chagra, the government's chief witness against three defendants convicted in connection with the killing of a federal judge, has received the maximum 10-year sentence allowed by a plea bargain that insured his testimony.

Chief U.S. District Judge William S. Sessions ordered the sentence Tuesday after the emotional Chagra, an El Paso lawyer, apologized for his part in the May 29, 1979 killing of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr.

"I don't know if I could explain what happened to me," the 36-year-old Chagra said after Sessions invited his comments.

Chagra said several serious events happened in his life before Wood was killed and added, "It sounds shallow and inadequate to say I'm sorry, but I am sorry."

Sessions told Chagra that he had known both him and his late brother Lee Chagra and knew that Joseph had a supportive wife and family.

The three were convicted by a jury last week at the end of a 16-week trial and Sessions set their sentencing for March 8.

However, Chagra will not testify in the upcoming trial of his brother, Jamiel "Jimmy" Chagra, 39, who is charged with murder for allegedly paying Harrelson $250,000 to shoot Wood on May 29, 1979.

Joseph Chagra testified he advised his brother to have Wood killed after the tough judge, known as "Maximum John," refused to disqualify himself from presiding at Jimmy Chagra's 1979 narcotics trial.

After Wood was killed, Sessions presided at the trial and later sentenced Chagra to 30 years without parole on a criminal enterprise conviction. Murder of federal judge carries a mandatory life sentence.

Besides the mandatory life sentence on his murder conviction, Harrelson is subject to another life term for conspiracy to murder a federal judge, plus up to five years for conspiracy to obstruct justice.

Mrs. Harrelson could receive up to five years on her conspiracy to obstruct justice conviction. She already has received a three-year sentence on her December 1981 conviction for using a fictitious name to purchase the alleged murder weapon 12 days before Wood was slain.

Mrs. Chagra, Jimmy's wife, could be sentenced up to life in prison for the murder conspiracy conviction, plus a maximum five years for the conspiracy to obstruct justice conviction.

Hero gets call from Reagan, at first thinks it's Rich Little

NEW YORK (AP) — A job reference from President Reagan and a new job arrived in quick succession for an unemployed father of eight who risked his life to save a blind man from being crushed by a subway train.

President Reagan called Reginald Andrews on Tuesday, but it took awhile for Andrews to believe it.

"I thought it was (comic impersonator) Rich Little at first. I didn't know if it was a crank or for real. The more he talked, the more I realized it was him."

draws said of Monday's rescue.

Andrews, 29, who had been unemployed for about a year, rescued Schnair while on his way home from a job interview at a Manhattan meat packer, where he was competing with nine other men.

Reagan also called Ed Marbach, vice president of Jamac Frozen Food, the meat-packer, to put in a good word for the unemployed man.

"Bless you, Mr. Marbach. Bless you," Marbach quoted the president as saying.

Marbach then called Andrews and told him the job was his and that he could start work in two weeks, when torn knee ligaments Andrews suffered in the rescue are healed.

Andrews said that the president "asked how I was doing. He said he knew how knee injuries are — when he disoriented Schnair from under the wheels and was struggling to squeeze him into the gap between track and platform.

"But there was very little room," Andrews said. "It wouldn't have been enough for two people."

The two men were extricated about 10 minutes later, treated at nearby St. Vincent's Hospital and released.

"I'd do it again," Andrews said. "I'd do it for anybody who needs help."

In Wales it was thought that rubbing your palm with an oak leaf would keep you healthy for a year.

Rhododendrons contain a resinoid called andromeda toxin that is poisonous.

The president called to congratulate Andrews for saving 75-year-old David Schnair, a blind man who mistook the space between cars for a train doorway and fell to the tracks at a Manhattan subway station.

"I wasn't thinking about the danger, just that somebody needs help," Andrews said.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher

Storing gingerroot

DEAR POLLY — Fresh gingerroot comes in such large pieces, there's always too much for one recipe. Since I only use it occasionally, I usually end up throwing a large piece away. Is there a good way to store it for more than a few days? — NETTIE

DEAR NETTIE — Fresh gingerroot can add a wonderful spicy flavor to any number of dishes, including Chinese and Indian recipes. But I agree that it's certainly too expensive to throw away several ounces worth just because you use it infrequently. Here's help for all ginger lovers. For two to three weeks of storage, I usually wrap the piece in plastic wrap and put it in the vegetable crisper of my refrigerator. Don't peel more of the root than you'll use each time; the papery skin of the root is a natural protective wrap that keeps it from drying out and molding. In the book "Vegetable Cookery" (HP Books), Lou Seibert Pappas suggests placing the root in a jar and covering it with sherry. Cover tightly and refrigerate. This should keep the root fresh for several weeks. Gingerroot can also be frozen, although I've found that it can lose some of its crisp texture after thawing. It's easiest to grate or chop while still frozen. So now you can have your ginger — and eat it too! — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I have an inexpensive man's felt hat (fedora style) that needed a thorough cleaning, but was unable to find a dry cleaner that would do the job. Since the hat wasn't worth a great deal, I thought I'd try to clean it myself. I washed it in a mild detergent (made for washing woollens) and put it over a mixing bowl to dry. The bowl did a good job of blocking the hat and it's wearable once again. — A.K.

DEAR POLLY — To keep nuts and fruits from sinking to the bottom of a cake batter while baking, warm them briefly in the oven, then coat them with flour before mixing them into the batter. — JANE

DEAR POLLY — Before washing a meat grinder, run a piece of bread through it. This picks up much of the grease and meat particles and makes the grinding mechanism easier to wash. — MRS. C.V.
