That feller on Tierra Blanca creek says he doesn't mind his children knowing more than he did at their age, "but I do resent them knowing more than I do now!"

There are three ways to get something done:

1. Do it yourself
2. Hire someone
3. Forbid your kids to do it.

As long as we feel victimized, we give up our powers to change.--Dr. Robert Anthony

The power of the press is often over-rated, but I have come to realize that a small sector of readers rely on me to sift through constitutional amendments and make recommendations, as well as to study candidates seeking office as state judges.

With that in mind, here's our view of the 13 proposed state constitutional amendments on the Nov. 5 ballot:

Vote For on 1 and 5, pick 'em on 4 and 11, and Against on the other nine.

Nos. 1 and 5 are "housekeeping amendments" along with No. 9. No. 1 allows home-rule cities in which the population has fallen to 5,000 or less to amend their charters by popular vote. Under current law, this affects 37 cities in the state, including Tulia and Muleshoe in this area. Any city should have the option of governing itself.

No. 5 authorizes property tax exemptions for certain property in an enterprise zone. This would allow cities and counties, but not school districts, to grant "freeport" exemptions to businesses in an enterprise zone without granting the exception to all businesses in the taxing unit.

No. 9 would authorize the General Land Office to issue land patents to qualified applicants from the School Land Fund. A similar amendment was approved in 1981 and expired in January 1990. Opponents say this would effectively be making a gift of state lands. Voters are asked to pass an amendment to benefit as few as one or two people who happen to have land title problems. Vote against.

No. 4 would authorize $1.1 billion in state bonds for prisons and mental health/retardation facilities. This one is good and bad, and we have mixed emotions on how to vote. Something needs to be done to correct overcrowding in the prison system, and some of the money would be used to build facilities to house special-needs parolees, thus opening up more prison beds. But opponents say this bond issue goes too far and authorizes more beds than necessary. It also includes $350 million for future needs. Rather than approve the largest bond issue in state history, it would be more prudent to approve a smaller bond issue that would not unduly burden future state budgets.

No. 11 is the state lottery amendment. This one is a moral issue for some, but it has economic pros and cons, as well. Supporters say a lottery would be a popular way to raise much-needed state revenue, reduce the need for higher state taxes and help avoid a state income tax. Supporters point out that, for years, every public opinion poll in Texas has shown overwhelming support for a lottery. Opponents say it is inappropriate for the state to promote and operate a gambling enterprise. In addition, they say a lottery is an unstable and inefficient source of revenue that would do little to solve the state's fiscal problems.

Propositions 3 and 7 authorize the Veterans Land Board and public retirement systems to make other investments of the funds not now allowed, such as in real property. The records of such investments show why the present safeguards are needed. Vote against.

No. 12 would increase from 20 to 50 percent the percentage of Texas water development bonds that may be issued for economically distressed areas. The assistance is directed primarily to unincorporated subdivisions known as "colonias," usually in counties along the Texas-Mexico border. An 1989 amendment provided that 20 percent of the $500 million issue could be used to provide subsidized loans and grants for water and sewer systems to distressed areas. About $100 million has already been obligated for colonia projects, but is estimated another $150 million is needed to help finish the job. Opponents argue that no more money should be authorized until the first projects are completed and evaluated, and until it can be determined whether or not new colonias have been stopped by laws passed in 1989. They add that colonias are local problems that should be dealt with on the local level.

Why are those so many proposed constitutional amendments on the ballot for the Nov. 5 election?

It's because of us dumb voters! The Legislature cannot understand why we didn't approve some of these amendments in the past, so they're coming back with similar propositions again.

Five of the 13 amendments--in the same or similar form--have been rejected by the voters previously. They are 2-6-8-10 and 13. We think voters might be justified in rejecting them again.

No. 2 (state aid for special toll roads) was rejected in 1987, and we see no reason to pass the new version.

You will see legislators talking about an ethics commission on Proposition 6, but the real kicker is that one of the commission's major duties is to set the pay and expense reimbursements of elected officials. Though there would be a vote on salary increases by the people, the pay increase process would not require a constitutional amendment. And, the per diem pay would be left entirely to the commission.

The Governor, Speaker of the House, and Lt. Governor would appoint the members of the commission, naming four from each political party. Even if voters reject the proposal, an ethics commission will be created but without authority to recommend salaries or expenses.

Voters rejected a pay raise for legislators two years ago, after approving one in 1975. Voters resoundingly defeated an amendment of this type in 1971.

No. 8--allowing state bond debt without a constitutional amendment--was last defeated by 75 percent of the voters in 1975. While voters would still have to approve bond proposals, it is fitting that a specific, complete record be in the Constitution.

No. 10 provides for a property-tax exemption for nonprofit water supply corporations. Similar proposals were defeated in 1973 and 1969. The state estimates that more than 800 nonprofit water corporations operate in the state, mostly in rural areas. The state Supreme Court has ruled that such corporations are not "purely public charities," do not provide charitable services to the community as a whole but are organized for the purpose of selling water to those within a district who can afford to pay the costs assessed. Opponents say the exemptions would erode the tax base in rural communities, causing even higher property taxes.

No. 13 would authorize another $300 million in state bonds for college student loans. The state authorized $85 million for the program in 1965, another $200 million in 1969, and an additional $75 million in 1989. Proponents of the measure say demand for the loans has

Turner, family reunited

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) - Former hostage Jesse Turner was reunited today with his wife and mother, and met his 4-year-old daughter for the first time.

The long-awaited reunion took place at the U.S. Air Force hospital in Wiesbaden, where Turner was undergoing a battery of medical and psychological tests after being held by Muslim extremists in Lebanon for nearly five years.

Navy Cmdr. John Woodhouse said the family was having lunch together in Turner's suite at the hospital, but he offered no further details. Turner's mother, Estelle Ronneburg, was also there.

Badr Turner, 40, Turner's Lebanese wife, was to hold a news conference later in the day. Her husband was kidnapped five months before Joanne was born.

The pig-tailed Joanne, clutching her mother's hand, was in high spirits when asked if she was excited about meeting her father, the 44-year-old Beirut University College mathematics professor who was held in Beirut for so long.

"I'm going to see my daddy!" she said in Boise, Idaho - Turner's hometown, before she and her mother boarded a plane for an overnight flight for Germany.

Arriving today in nearby Frankfurt along with Turner's Lebanese-born wife and daughter was the freed captive's mother.

"I'm going to give him a big hug and what goes from there, I don't know," said Turner's 70-year-old mother. She said "a kiss or two" were also on tap.

Mrs. Ronneburg carried a bouquet adorned with a yellow ribbon, which has become the symbol of freedom for American victims of Middle East kidnappings.

Mrs. Turner said her first words on seeing her husband would be "that I love him." She said since his release, she had only spoken to him for one minute by telephone.

She said Turner sounded on the verge of tears.

"But I told him, 'Be strong.'" "He said, 'Is it true I'm going to see you?'" I said "Yes,"

The 44-year-old American educator was abducted six months after the couple's marriage.

The freed hostage's family faced a pack of reporters and photographers after their flight arrived in nearby Frankfurt.

For Joanne, the attention seemed too much. She sometimes hid behind her mother.

Oakland fire costliest ever

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - Damage from the brush fire that killed 19 people and incinerated thousands of homes was put at more than $5 billion, surpassing the Great Chicago Fire of 1871 as the costliest blaze in U.S. history.

The fire, which roared out of control Sunday when a small blaze that firefighters thought was out flared up, was expected to be brought under control by this afternoon.

As officials calculated the damage and firefighters battled the last of the hot spots, Fire Chief Phillip Lamont Ewell defended his department's decision not to keep the original blaze under constant watch after it was believed to be out.

He and other Oakland fire officials also dismissed allegations that help from other departments wasn't called in soon enough.

"When you look at a situation from afar it's easy to second-guess what should have been done," said fire Lt. Mark Garcia.

Pushed by 25 mph winds across brush that had been dried by five years of drought, the blaze destroyed more than 1,800 houses and 900 apartments, city officials said.

At least 19 people were killed, 148 injured and 5,000 evacuated, said sheriff's Sgt. Robert Jarrett. Forty-nine people were reported missing, but Jarrett said some may be out of town or unable to contact friends or relatives.

"Until there's a dwelling-to-dwelling count nothing is sure," he said.

Deborah Campbell, spokeswoman for Mayor Elihu Harris, said the cost of the blaze was estimated at $5 billion.

The Great Chicago Fire caused an estimated $1.8 billion damage in 1990 dollars. It killed at least 300 people and left 90,000 homeless. The San Francisco earthquake and fire of 1906 caused $5.1 billion damage in 1990 dollars, and the Great Boston Fire of 1872 caused $815 million damage.

President Bush on Tuesday declared the fire site a major disaster area, opening the door to federal aid for the rebuilding.

The wooded area, with its postcard views of San Francisco Bay, was a disaster waiting to happen because of the drought, officials said. Many of the area's once-elegant homes were reduced to rubble, their bare chimneys looming like giant tombstones.

"The very thing that makes the wildlands attractive and romantic, like the trees, is what makes the wildlands deadly," said Forestry Department spokeswoman Karen Terrill.

Similar catastrophic fires could easily occur in many other brushy areas of the state, including the wealthy Marin County suburbs north of San Francisco or Southern California's Malibu Canyon, officials said.

The Oakland fire began with a seven-acre blaze that firefighters thought they had put out Saturday, officials said.

Sugar Harvest Florida's campaign changing with times

CLEWISTON, Fla. (AP) - Brown smoke billowed over Florida's cane fields, mills cranked up and thousands of Caribbean men returned to hard labor swinging machetes as the annual sugar harvest began this week.

The burning of the cane and the harvest of the stalks that remain have been an October ritual since 1929, when the U.S. Sugar Corp. first planted cane in the dark muck left when swamps around Lake Okeechobee were drained.

The area produces one of every five teaspoons of sugar consumed in the United States, a total of more than 16 million tons of raw sugar last year.

That sweetness also has been the source of bitterness for generations. Growers have been accused of cheating workers, polluting the Everglades and getting fat on government subsidies.

This year, however, the industry hopes to improve its image by opening the harvest to unprecedented public scrutiny. And even the harshest critics of the industry agree that life in the cane fields is improving.

Under President J. Nelson Fairbanks, U.S. Sugar Corp. has spruced up its living quarters, improved safety and, beginning this year, provided workers with bar-coded cards that record their hours so computers can confirm their daily pay.

"If we're doing anything wrong, our theme is, we're going to correct it," Fairbanks said at company headquarters in Clewiston. The town of 5,200 is devoted to "Big Sugar."

Out in the fields, where supervisors have been accused of shaving hours in years past, workers said the time cards were a great move.

"It proves nobody's cheating on nobody's time," said Samuel Taylor, a 33-year-old supervisor with a wife and four sons to support back in Jamaica. "Everybody say it's good."

One thing U.S. Sugar and its rivals haven't changed is the backbreaking nature of cane-cutting, a job so tough companies say they can't find Americans willing to do it for the money. Growers first turned to the Caribbean in 1947; the laborers must leave the United States when their work is done.

"It's the hardest work I ever had," said Roy Palmer, a six-year veteran who rinsed black Everglades muck from his shirt and gloves after returning to the barracks he shares with 24 other men.

Palmer said he can take only one more season of swinging a machete and doubling over to slice and stack more than a ton of cane an hour.

Oris King, 56, a labor supervisor and camp counselor for hundreds of his countrymen, said only a handful of men give up each season.

"It's a camp life. They have to adapt," said King. "Some say it's too rough. If they rowdy or unhappy, we send them back home."

King earned 60 cents an hour as a cutter when he began in 1961. He saved enough over the years to build a three-bedroom home in Jamaica.

Cutters now earn at least $5.38 an hour; U.S. Sugar cutters averaged $6.58 an hour last year.

The more their living and working conditions improve, the less the companies can afford them. For the first time, U.S. Sugar this year is harvesting most of its cane by machine.

Local Roundup

Five arrested on Tuesday

Hereford police on Tuesday arrested a man, 19, on a county warrant, and a man, 36, for assault, interference with child custody and evading arrest in the 100 block of Kibbe.

Reports included a family disturbance in the 400 block of Ave. B; and assaults in the 400 block of N. 25 Mile Ave. and in the 300 block of Ave. E.

Sheriff's deputies arrested a man, 25, on a criminal mischief warrant; a woman, 28, on a warrant for tampering with government records; and a man, 24, for violation of probation.

Reports included domestic violence; burglary of 10 sacks of onions from a building; a prowler; and an attempted assault with a motor vehicle.

Police issued 12 citations and investigated one minor accident Tuesday. Hereford volunteer firefighters, along with firefighters from other area communities, responded to a grass fire at the Atkins Ranch in northwestern Deaf Smith County. About 1,000 acres of prime grassland were destroyed by the fire.

Firefighters also responded to a smoke alarm and a alarm at Town and Country convenience store, which was filled with smoke.

Carnival booths being reserved

Booths are still being reserved for the annual Halloween Carnival sponsored by Deaf Smith County Crimestoppers.

Booth rental will be based on the amount of money raised by the organization at the carnival (Crimestoppers will get 20 percent of proceeds). Persons interested in reserving booth space may contact Cindy Caro at 364-1860, Joe Garcia at 364-2435 or Mary Johnson at 364-2311.

Fair weather through Friday

Tonight, clear with a low in the upper 40s. West wind 10 to 15 mph. Thursday, mostly sunny with a high around 80. Southwest wind 10 to 20 mph.

The extended forecast for Friday through Sunday: mostly fair, mild Friday but colder Saturday and Sunday. Highs lower 70s Friday and in the mid 60s through the weekend. Lows mid 40s to near 50.

This morning's low at KPAN was 50 after a high Tuesday of 81.

Woman recants story of attacks by cadets

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - A woman who claimed members of Texas A&M University's Corps of Cadets attacked her on two occasions has recanted the allegations, school officials say.

Texas A&M officials said Tuesday the woman, who is cadet, retracted her allegations after being questioned further by campus police.

But six cadets have been disciplined for harassing the woman on other occasions. Maj. Gen. Thomas Darling, corps commandant, said the harassment did not involve physical contact.

Last month, A&M disbanded the corps' elite Parsons' Mounted Cavalry pending an investigation into an allegation that several members attacked the woman Sept. 17.

University officials had said the woman claimed she was attacked and threatened with further harm if she continued efforts to join the group. But Darling said Tuesday night that the woman actually was a member of the Parsons' unit.

The woman claimed she was attacked again and briefly abducted in a car on Oct. 13. She said she was knocked to the pavement by a car door, then thrown into the car and driven around for up to 45 minutes. She claimed then her attackers wrapped a plastic garbage sack around her head.

But she recanted those allegations Monday.

Darling said six members of the unit have been disciplined for harassing her on other occasions. The incidents occurred during the first two weeks of the school year, he said.

Parent company of bank reports earnings increase

First Abilene Bankshares, Inc., parent company of Hereford State Bank and four other banks, reported net earnings of $2.3 million for the third quarter and $6.395 million for the nine months ending Sept. 30.

The 1991 third quarter earnings were 11.8 percent above the same period in 1990, while earnings for the year are up 12.7 percent. Earnings per share amounted to $1.03 for the quarter and $2.87 for the first nine months of the year, also significantly higher than the same periods in 1990.

Assets of the company on Sept. 30 were $783.6 million, up $116 million from the assets on Sept. 30, 1990. Shareholders' equity of $71.9 million represented 9.2 percent of total assets.

Kenneth T. Murphy, chairman and chief executive officers of First Abilene Bankshares, said that 1991 net earning have benefited from lower loan loss provisions than for the same period last year, and the increases in total assets and allowance for loan losses result from the addition of First National Bank in Cleburne last December.

The Abilene-based holding company is also the parent of First Nation, Abilene; First National, Sweetwater; and Eastland National Bank.

House gets close to Bush demands on anti-crime bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House passed a $1.1 billion anti-crime package that is a little more to President Bush's liking, but it still falls short of what he says he'll accept in return for his signature on stricter gun control legislation.

Bush has conditioned his approval of any gun control measure on passage of comprehensive legislation that would expand the federal death penalty, sharply restrict the ability of state prisoners to appeal convictions to federal courts and give police more leeway to seize evidence without warrants.

So far, he has achieved mixed results.

The House bill, approved 305-118 Tuesday, expands the death penalty and provides aid to state and local governments to hire more police, set up drug treatment programs for prisoners and improve security in schools located in high-crime areas.

But the measure includes provisions on prisoner appeals that Bush objects to.

The Senate earlier this year passed its own anti-crime bill, and House and Senate conferees will be meeting in the next few weeks to resolve the differences, which are less glaring than those that prevented enactment of sweeping anti-crime legislation last year.

House Democrats tried to play down the importance of the disputed issues.

"What we must not support is fighting crime with bumper stickers," said Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo.

"It is time that we start focusing on these noncontroversial nuts and bolts remedies that really reduce crime," said Rep. Charles E. Schumer, D-N.Y.

If the conferees can agree on legislation acceptable to Bush, prospective handgun purchasers are likely to face a waiting period while police check to determine if they have criminal records.

Both the House and Senate approved waiting periods for handgun purchases but differ on assault weapons. The House rejected a ban on 13 types of semiautomatic weapons. The Senate's bill, passed in July, would ban nine types of assault-style weapons.

The Senate's five-day waiting period was included in its crime package while the seven-day period approved by the House was passed as separate legislation in May.

Both the House and Senate would apply the death penalty to more than 50 federal crimes, including hijackings, terrorism, espionage, treason and political assassinations.

The House and Senate bills, however differ on the important procedural issues, including Bush's proposal to restrict so-called habeas corpus petitions by state prisoners, particularly those on death row.

The Senate has passed the president's proposal.

But the administration objects to House-passed habeas corpus language and officials warn that Bush could veto crime legislation if this provision is included in the final package enacted by Congress.

The House version would give state prisoners the chance to file only one habeas corpus petition to appeal their convictions unless they find new evidence of innocence or a miscarriage of justice. The administration says the exceptions are loopholes that would allow endless appeals.

An issue that helped prevent agreement last year on broad anti-crime language will not be at the table this year.

The House voted 223-191 Tuesday to reject a provision to allow defendants in capital cases to escape execution if they could show that the death penalty was applied in their locality in a racially disproportionate manner.

The Senate had defeated the provision by a wide margin and the administration worked hard to scuttle it in the House, contending it would impose racial quotas on the death penalty.

increased in recent years and more money is needed because most of the loans are not yet due. They point out that the default rate is only 6 percent.

Opponents say the state should not sink further into debt, even though student loan repayments would be used to retire the bonds. They also contend that revenue bonds already authorized by law should be sufficient to raise the money necessary to keep the student loan program afloat.

Women's Division elects officers

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division met recently at the Hereford Community Center and elected officers for 1992.

Rita Bell, cashier of the First National Bank, was elected president. She has served on the public affairs and welcome committees. Linda Daniel was named president-elect. She works with her husband at Hereford Claim Service and is a former member of the executive council and has served on the Little Miss, Miss Hereford Scholarship, style show and welcome committees.

Kim Buckley and Mildred Fuhrmann were elected as new directors. Buckley is an employee of the Hereford State Bank and has served on the animal action, decorations, Miss Hereford Scholarship Pageant committees. Fuhrmann, retired legal secretary, has served as chairman of the blood bank committee.

The new officers and directors will be installed and take office in January.

Buckley presented a program on physical fitness and nutrition. Buckley emphasized the importance of at least 30 minutes of aerobic exercise each day.

Committees gave their reports. Mary Lou Aven display the current scrap book. Donna West, chairman of the retail merchants holiday promotion committee, announced that this committee would be participating in the chamber's retail merchants holiday activities beginning Nov. 16.

Kristi Hollingworth was introduced as a new board member. She was appointed by the executive council to fill the term of Ronda Clark who moved in September. Hollingworth is a CPA with Cotten and Warrick and has served on the blood bank and beauty spot of the month committee.

Nell Rhoton, chairman of the nominating committee gave the report of her committee with the other members LaJean Henry, Betty Owen, Jackie Murphey and Kim Buckley.

A drawing was conducted the Buckley and eight decorative pumpkins were given to Women's Division members.

Janet Brigrance was welcomed as a new member.

Bay View meets at Black garden

Mary Zinser and Jan Furr members of the E.B. Black House Garden Committee gave a program on the Black house gardens to the Bay View Study Club recently.

Club members met on the porch of the Black house and viewed the garden as Zinser gave a history of the house and garden.

She said the purpose of the garden is to provide a place of relaxation, beauty and pleasure for the community. Post of the past, present and future garden were on display.

Sue James, a former member of the Historical Society, designed the English garden and the gazebo was designed by Ruth McBride.

The rose section was started through memorials given on behalf of loved ones, living or deceased.

Ruth McBride presided over a brief business meeting. The club voted to make a contribution to the E.B. Black Garden Fund in honor of the garden committee.

Hostesses for the day were Virginia Garner and Ruth Newsom. Refreshments of punch and coffee and assorted cookies and muffins were served.

Members present were Ruth Allison, Virginia Bayne, Beth Buran, Roberta Caviness, Pat Fisher, Edna Gault, Lois Gilliland, Mary Fraser, Nancy Hays, Elizabeth Holt, Helen Langley, Helen Rose, Lois Scott, Ruth McBride, Virginia Garner and Ruth Newsom.

Guests were Donna Brockman, Hope Loerwald, Carmen Jorde of Cando, N.D., Jan Furr and Mary Zinser.

Book reviewed by Veledas

"Papa, My Father" by Leo Buscaglia was reviewed by the Veleda Study Club recently at the regular meeting in the home of Theda Seiver.

Audene Dettman review the book which was a story of a father-son relationship in a typical Italian family. Juanita Coker called the meeting to order and members read the club collect. Roll call was answered with "My favorite book author."

Members attending were Marcella Brady, Juanita Coker, Francis Crume, Betty Gilbert, Mary Dzuik, Betty Roberts, Ruth Fish, Joyce Ritter, Clovis Seago, Theda Seiver, Norma Walden. Guests attending included Betty Olson and Audene Dettman.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) - Perry Farrell, the rock singer who last month stripped naked during a performance by his group, Jane's Addiction, has been arrested for investigation of being under the influence of drugs.

Police responding to a call from managers at a hotel Wednesday arrested Farrell, whose real name is Perry Bernstein, for investigation of misdemeanor charges, said Sgt. Robert Oliver.

Heidi Robinson, the group's publicist, confirmed Thursday that Farrell had been arrested. She would not comment further.

The 32-year-old singer was freed Wednesday on $1,000 bail. Arraignment will be within 10 days, Oliver said.

Jane's Addiction's most recent album was "Ritual de lo Habitual." At the 1991 MTV Awards the band won the best "alternative" video award for "Been Caught Stealing."

In September, Farrell stripped naked during a Honolulu show in which he suggested the band may be breaking up.

Emmons earns car

Mary Kay independent beauty consultant, Phung Emmons of Hereford, has qualified as a team manager and earned free use of a red Pontiac Grand AM.

To qualify as a team manager, Emmons had to meet specific sales and recruiting requirements. In this position, Emmons will provide leadership to personal recruits and will work with the unit's sales director in meeting sales and recruiting goals.

Emmons can achieve the status of silver key or gold key team manager. The next position of achievement is directorship, where new directors can win the use of one of Mary Kay's famous pink Cadillacs.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need an objective opinion about a problem I'm having with my husband.

"Mark's" mother never accepted our relationship. She told him that I am a vulgar, low-class woman and that she wants nothing to do with me. We married quietly last year, and I gave birth to a baby girl shortly after. My mother-in-law has yet to acknowledge me or the baby and continues to speak of me in an insulting way.

Within a few weeks, Mark's cousin is getting married. Mark has been asked to be in the wedding party. I have never met the rest of his family and had hoped to do so at this wedding. His mother, however, has demanded that he attend alone since my presence would upset her. Mark has agreed to go to the wedding without me.

I should tell you that this woman is an obsessive social climber and has manipulated Mark all of his life. Meanwhile, I feel betrayed and humiliated, especially since Mark has been promising to take the baby to visit his mother (without me, of course) and has never done so.

I am 28 years old and a lawyer. I speak four languages and am considered attractive. I have never been called "vulgar" or "low-class" by anyone else that I know of. To be fair, I should tell you that my mother-in-law has run down all of Mark's previous relationships. Incidentally, my husband is 35, attractive and does well in his chosen profession. I don't know what to do about this problem, Ann. Please help me see things more clearly.--Head Spinning in Montreal

DEAR SPINNING HEAD: Mark's treatment of you is abominable. Why you tolerate such emotional abuse is something that you ought to look into with the help of a counselor.

As for your wimpy husband, he sounds like a pathetic case of arrested development. It would probably take years of intensive therapy to rescue him from his mother's clutches.

My advice is to get some professional help and stop trying to push yourself and your child into a family setup where you are clearly unwelcome.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was touched by "J.W., Burnsville, Minn." whose father slept at the hospital while her mother was a patient there. I have a similar story with a different ending. It raises a question that perhaps you can answer. Is it possible to die from a broken heart?

My parents were married for over 50 years. My mother has Alzheimer's. We had to put her into a nursing home because it was apparent that Dad was completely worn out taking care of her.

On the day I drove Mom there, my father asked if they would allow whom to move in with her so they could be together as they had been for 50 years. I explained that he was not ready to be in a nursing home, but he could visit her as often as he wanted to. I then moved him into my home.

Four days later Dad was in the hospital. He died within a couple of weeks. He had been in fairly good health until then. It is my belief that he died of a broken heart. Is that possible?--An Opinion from Minnesota

DEAR MINNESOTA: It's not only possible, it's more than likely. The will to live can be a vital factor in recovery. When that force is not present, it is entirely possible that a person can die. I have always believed that there is a great deal of validity in the body-mind connection.

When planning a wedding, who pays for what? Who stands where? "The Ann Landers Guide for Brides" has all the answers. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Brides, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Church Women United to meet

Church Women United will host World Community Day services at 10 a.m. Nov. 1 at Ward Parlor at First United Methodist Church.

The services are open to all interested persons.

Church Women United is a national ecumenical movement that brings Protestant, Catholic, Orthodox and other Christian women together into one community of prayer, advocacy and service.

The theme for this year's special service is "Jubilee is Justice," celebrating the 50th anniversary of CWU in crossing boundaries of race, age, class and culture in search of peace with justice.

The 1991 World Community Day worship experience, designed and written by a diverse group of women theologians, link's CWU's Jubilee with the Biblical concept of Jubilee as a time for reordering of society and restoration of God's justice to the earth. The service will challenge today's women of faith to begin living "Jubilee justice" in their own lives through the reordering of their personal priorities.

Later in November, the CWU's National Jubilee Assembly will be held in St. Louis. Eloise McDougal of Hereford, state president of Church Women United, will be attending the national meeting. There will be over 2,500 people attending the St. Louis conference.

Popecorn was one of the treats enjoyed by the American colonists at their first Thanksgiving dinner. It was offered by Quadequina, brother of the Indian Massasoit.

Hereford spikers win; clinch playoff spot

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor
The Lady Whitefaces overcame lackadaisical play Tuesday to beat Pampa 15-6, 15-8 Tuesday in Whiteface Gym.

The win gives Hereford a 21-4 record overall, and it clinches them a spot in the state 4A volleyball playoffs. Hereford now has a 6-2 record in District 1-4A. Tuesday's win, coupled with Dumas' 15-8, 15-2 win over Randall (3-5) Tuesday, clinches the runner-up spot for Hereford. Dumas (8-0) clinched the district championship.

The second game between Hereford and Pampa was closer than it should have been. At one time the lead was as little as 9-8, but Kara Sandoval started serving and took the score all the way to 15. She had an ace for the 14th point, and Shantel Cornelius had a stuff block to finish the match.

Hereford coach Brenda Reeh wasn't very happy with the Herd's performance.

"We were very passive. We obviously were not prepared to play," Reeh said. Several areas of the game--serving, service receive, aggression at the net and blocking--were "weak," she said.

"We will definitely become more focused in our workouts this week," she said. "We've got to use this next week getting better, not taking a vacation."

The poor performance may be a case of the team looking past the remaining district opponents (Caprock Saturday and Randall Tuesday) and into the playoffs.

"It may have been a case of that," Reeh said. "I didn't think so in our workouts, but there's no excuse for the way we played tonight. We should respect and we will respect the next two teams we play in district and display that respect better than we did tonight."

Reeh said that Jennifer Hicks, who had six kills, had a good match hitting at the net.

Cornelius had seven kills plus four stuffs. From the service line.

Sandoval had 10 good serves and nine points, including two aces, and Lori Sanders had nine good serves, eight points and two aces.

Hereford's junior varsity had little trouble with Pampa, especially in the second game as the Herd JV won 15-7, 15-0.

Hereford led most of the way in the first game; the closest Pampa got was at 9-7, but Claudia Ramirez served three points and Michelle Brock served for three more, and it was over.

In the second game, Robyn Watts served the first seven points of the game--she had 12 in the match--and the game was over before she got another chance to serve.

"We played very well tonight," coach Jill Harrison said. "I think our passes to setter were the key to our winning the match. We respect Pampa and know they are a good JV team. Next to Dumas they're the best JV team (we face in district). I think that helped us prepare mentally for this match."

Hicks hits

Hereford's Jennifer Hicks pounds the ball during Tuesday's match with Pampa in Whiteface Gym. Hereford won 15-6, 15-8, and clinched a spot in the state playoffs. Hereford's Lori Sanders (behind Hicks) watches the action.

UIL expands state 5A playoffs

AUSTIN (AP) - More athletic teams in larger high schools would advance to the state playoffs under a proposal approved by the Legislative Council of the University Interscholastic League.

The 24-member council of school administrators voted Tuesday to send three teams from each district to the Class 5A playoffs in basketball, baseball, soccer and volleyball.

In exchange, one game would be trimmed from the regular-season schedule in those sports. The basketball season would be shortened to 21 games, baseball to 19, soccer to 15 and volleyball to 23.

The schedule adjustments were offered in keeping with suggestions by state Education Commissioner Lionel "Skip" Meno, who said he wanted more emphasis on academic achievement.

Meno's wishes are considered crucial because the playoff proposal must be approved by the State Board of Education.

The UIL plan does not affect Class 5A football, which has been using the three-team concept on a two-year experimental basis that ends after this season.

Acting on another recommendation of the UIL Athletics Committee, the Legislative Council voted 16-6 to delay until 1994 plans to decrease from 95 to 75 the maximum enrollment for schools playing six-man football. The new cutoff had been scheduled to take effect next fall.

Currently, 93 schools play six-man football, and the plan would eliminate some of those programs, forcing the schools to field 11-man teams if they wanted to continue to compete in football.

Superintendent Johnnie Reeves of Christoval said converting different-sized six-man fields to regular size could cost small schools up to $500,000. He suggested doing away with a specific enrollment number and allowing the UIL staff to periodically set the cutoff.

The Athletics Committee was instructed to develop options for determining which schools would play six-man.

By a 13-9 vote, the council agreed to prohibit coaches from organizing or coaching in non-school events. The Board of Education must approve the prohibition.

"We're going to create many more problems than we're ever going to fix," said San Angelo Superintendent Bill Graves, who joined others in protesting that the rule might be too restrictive.

A recommendation by the Athletics Committee to hold a referendum on "goodie bags" was rejected by the council, 12-10.

Goodie bags for student-athletes, containing such items as cookies, candy and balloons, already are prohibited but UIL officials acknowledge that the rule is ignored by cheerleaders, pep squad members and others.

The referendum proposal would have called for a $5 limit on goodie bags.

Several council members said trying to regulate goodie bags is virtually impossible, and athletes who do not receive them may have hurt feelings.

"We're trying to legitimize something we all disagree with... and really think is wrong," Graves said.

Superintendent Mauro Reyna of Ysleta said spending time on such topics "makes us the laughing stock of Texas."

UIL Director Bailey Marshall acknowledged that "it has not been a tremendous problem."

In other action, the council voted for the UIL staff to survey member-schools on holding all six football championships at a single site.

The staff also was instructed to continue to study rules wording that would define "taunting" and "baiting."

Acting on a recommendation by its Policy Committee, the council approved a proposal to prohibit coaches from accepting fees from student-athletes for private sports instruction during the school year.

Another policy recommendation approved would make superintendents responsible for management of scrimmages, in addition to other UIL contests.

Twenty-eight proposals had been rejected by the Athletics Committee and nine by the Policy Committee, and the council Tuesday approved those actions.

Items rejected included proposals that would sanction wrestling and water polo as UIL activities; allow interschool competition in elementary schools; create two area meets after the regional meet in track and field; and allow ninth grade students attending classes on a separate campus to participate in varsity athletics.

Holyfield-Tyson fight may be off

NEW YORK (AP) - Evander Holyfield won't be meeting Mike Tyson before February, according to Holyfield's promoter. They might not meet at all.

Originally scheduled to defend his undisputed heavy weight title on Nov. 8 against Tyson, Holyfield now is looking to meet an unspecified opponent later that month. The Holyfield-Tyson bout, expected to be the richest in boxing history, was postponed when the former champion sustained a rib injury during training.

"We were unable to find a date in January to reschedule the Holyfield-Tyson fight that would be acceptable to all parties," Dan Duva said Tuesday.

Trick play helps HJH gridders

All eight of Hereford Junior High's football teams played Tuesday, but only one team won: the eighth grade White "A" team won 7-6 at Pampa.

Hereford was down 6-0 with a minute and a half left in the game and had the ball at its own 36-yard line, coach Chris Christopher said, when the coaches pulled one out of the back of the playbook: the hook and ladder.

Hereford QB Todd Dudley threw an out pass to Jeb Skiles, who pitched to Armando Zambrano, who ran the remaining 60 yards for the score. Zambrano kicked the winning extra point.

"It was a trick play, but we had to do something; we were running out of time," Christopher said. "The defense gets the credit for the win. Pampa's coach came over after the game and said we were the only ones who had stopped them."

The eighth White "B" team lost 20-0.

The eighth grade Maroon "A" team was playing for the district title at Borger, but lost 8-0. Coach James Salinas said the team had a 65-yard touchdown called back for a penalty.

"We didn't make enough big plays to win," Salinas said. "The kids played hard, we just came up short." Salinas said Borger scored on a 5-yard run by the halfback to cap an approximately 50-yard drive.

The eighth Maroon "B" team fell 18-0.

HJH's seventh grade teams played in Hereford Tuesday. The Maroon fell 30-6, with Hereford's score coming on a 96-yard run by big fullback Josh Alvarado.

"We had a hard time on offense," coach Henry Perez said. "They were shooting their linebackers on every play."

The "B" game was a scoreless tie. The seventh grade "A" team got only a 52-yard touchdown pass from Corey Schumacher to Jonathon Keenan in their 26-6 loss. The "B" team lost 16-0.

Braves get back into Series with 5-4 win

ATLANTA (AP) - This World Series is about two teams that just won't go away.

It's about two teams that made history by going from last to first, and are still making everyone take notice. The Minnesota Twins and Atlanta Braves are still making history in October.

The two teams combined to use a Series record 42 players in Game 3 as the Braves beat the Twins 5-4 in 12 innings Tuesday night to cut Minnesota's lead to 2-1. It took 4 hours, 4 minutes, a Series record for a night game.

"We had to win or we would be going home soon," Atlanta manager Bobby Cox said. "It was very draining."

Cox and Twins manager Tom Kelly made sure nobody went home early. Nobody really wanted to, either.

The Braves stayed alive when Mark Lemke's two-out single to left field off Rick Aguilera scored David Justice from second base at 12:43 a.m. EDT. After a few hours of rest, Minnesota's Jack Morris, the winner in Game 1, is scheduled to pitch against John Smoltz tonight.

"I still haven't figured out what happened," said Lemke, a .234 hitter this season. "That was the biggest hit of my career and I'm just thrilled."

Unlike Game 5 of the NL playoffs, Justice made sure he stepped on third base this time. Justice got the game-winning rally going when he singled with one out and stole second.

Aguilera saved the first two games of the Series and was forced into this one because no one was left. He even became the first pitcher to pinch hit in a Series game since Don Drysdale in 1965.

"I threw him a fastball away and he knocked it over the shortstop's head," Aguilera said. "This was a tough game for both teams. It was a great game to watch."

But you really needed a scorecard to watch it as the Twins used 23 players. When it finally finished, all Kelly had left on his bench was Morris and Game 2 winner Kevin Tapani.

"I thought it was a terrific game," Kelly said. "We were down 4-1 against Steve Avery and put a scare into him."

The Twins had several chances to win the game after tying the score with two runs in the eighth.

Dan Gladden's single with one out in the top of the 12th and Lemke's fielding error on Chuck Knoblauch's grounder put runners on first and third with one out. But Kent Mercker struck out looking and Kirby Puckett was intentionally walked to load the bases.

Kelly, with no position players left, pinch hit Aguilera for Mark Guthrie and winner Jim Clancy ended the threat as Aguilera hit a fly ball to center.

"I felt the ball hit my bat and started to run," Aguilera said. "I was hoping (Ron) Gant was playing more shallow."

The Braves snapped a 1-1 tie in the fourth inning on Justice's solo homer off Scott Erickson. They added two more in fifth on Lonnie Smith's first homer in 23 Series games and David West's bases-loaded walk to Greg Olson.

With Avery on the mound and the fans in chop alert, it seemed Atlanta was heading for an impressive victory.

Avery, who did not allow

Pittsburgh a run in 16 1-3 innings, gave up a solo homer to Puckett in the seventh and was replaced by Alejandro Pena after pinch-hitter Brian Harper reached on third baseman Terry Pendleton's error leading off the eighth.

Since being acquired from the New York Mets on Aug. 28, Pena had been 14-for-14 in save opportunities. But this time he gave up a two-run pinch homer to Chili Davis, on the bench because the designated hitter rule is not used in the NL park.

One out later, Knoblauch singled and moved to third on Hrkcek's single. But Pena got out of the jam by fanning Puckett and Shane Mack.

The Twins' bullpen was again terrific as Terry Leach, Steve Bedrosian, Carl Willis and Guthrie kept Minnesota in the game. The run off Aguilera broke a streak of 32 2-3 consecutive postseason innings without allowing an earned run by Minnesota relievers.

"We had our chances," Puckett said. "If you don't take advantage, the others guy will sooner or later. That's part of the game."

NL managing like rocket science

By JIM LITKE

AP Sports Writer

ATLANTA (AP) - Yo, Tom! Maybe you underestimated your National League brethren. Maybe you should have slept a little less. Maybe this managing thing without the DH really is rocket science.

"Bottom line is, we had a couple of chances to get the job done and we didn't do it," Twins manager Tom Kelly said after Atlanta beat Minnesota 5-4 in one of the wildest World Series games ever.

Yo, Tom! Bottom line is, your guys might have had a couple more - and better - chances if you spent a little less time cracking jokes and a little more time doping out when to put who in where.

During the off-day workouts Monday, a reporter asked Kelly how he would deal with the maddening variety of situations that the lack of a designated hitter creates for NL managers, and he wisecracked back, "I've lost a lot of sleep worrying about this double-switch thing. To me, it's right up there with rocket science."

Well, it was exactly 12:42 a.m. today when the Braves' Mark Lemke mercifully called a halt to the proceedings by slicing the 602nd pitch of the evening - the 231st strike - into left field to score David Justice in the bottom of the 12th inning with the winning run. And at the time, Kelly had available for spot duty exactly two players, Jack Morris and Kevin Tapani, who, if you recall, were the starting pitchers in Games 1 and 2, respectively.

Lemke's winning hit came off Rick Aguilera, who was the seventh Minnesota pitcher (tying a World Series record) of the game and the 13th overall (a record).

It was the same Rick Aguilera who entered the game in the top of the 12th inning as the 23rd Minnesota player (another record) and the 42nd player used by either team (another record).

The same Rick Aguilera who came on as the Twins' eighth pinch-hitter (another record) and the 11th pinch-hitter overall (right, still another record).

The same Rick Aguilera who found himself facing Jim Clancy with the bases loaded and two out. And finally, the same Rick Aguilera who hadn't faced live pitching since July 20, 1989, and on this night promptly fled out to Braves center fielder Ron Gant for Minnesota's final out.

Yo, Tom! Aguilera's at-bat in the 12th marked the fourth time you got caught with runners on base and the pitcher due up. And what about that move in the ninth inning? First you execute the double-switch correctly to get outfielder Jarvis Brown into the No. 9 spot and pitcher Carl Willis into the No. 5 spot, and then you drag Randy Bush off the bench to pitch-hit for Brown.

"Yeah," Kelly said, "I was wracking my brains on that move. We got a runner on and I was trying to let Bush win the game for us. Jarvis isn't the best pinch-hitter we have. He was supposed to be here to pinch run and for defensive purposes."

"If we didn't have a man on, I might have let him hit," he added. "But we wanted to give Bushy the chance to win the game."

Yo, Tom! Didn't it occur to you at some point that this thing might go on for a while?

That maybe Bushy would have been a good body to have around, say, right about the 12th? Ditto for catcher Brian Harper, who replaced his platoon partner, Junior Ortiz, to lead off the eighth, or third baseman Mike Pagliarulo, who hit in place of platoon partner Scott Leius starting off the ninth? Both were defensible moves, but what about the future? And what were you going to do if Aguilera got strung out?

"Morris," Kelly said, "was next."

Yo, Tom! Morris is supposed to start today.

And if you bothered to look over at the Atlanta bench when this thing ended, you would have noticed that Bobby Cox, your counterpart, had one fresh reliever and three starting arms available, not to mention two very capable pinch-hitters.

Maybe this NL managing thing really is a little more complicated than you thought. Maybe it really is rocket science. Or maybe it's just that time flies when you're having fun.

Chop goes on as Indians protest

ATLANTA (AP) - As the World Series shifted to the City Too Busy To Hate, so did the debate over whether doing the "Tomahawk Chop" is demeaning to American Indians.

"We find your behavior embarrassing not only to us but to the American people, for the image you are reflecting is being projected throughout the world," American Indian Movement leader Vernon Bellecourt of Minnesota said at a news conference two hours before Game 3 began Tuesday night.

Most Atlanta Braves fans entering the Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium ignored Bellecourt and other Indians who stood in front of the Hank Aaron statue. Bellecourt implored fans to stop painting their faces, wearing headresses, carrying tomahawks and yelling what he called a "Hollywood hype" war chant.

"Can you imagine what people think throughout the world when they see the Atlanta Braves fans in the stands acting the way they do?" Bellecourt pleaded with the few fans who could hear him.

A few feet away, Braves fans drums in a series-long vigil being sponsored by an Atlanta radio station.

About 30 minutes into the Indians' protest, Atlanta police encircled them to keep fans from getting too near. Before police intervened, some fans had sung the war chant loudly and done the tomahawk chop in the faces of the Indian speakers.

One fan held up a sign reading, "The tomahawk is not humiliating. Grow up."

Although the protest did not deter fans, some stopped Tuesday to wonder: Is it politically correct to root for the home team with the chop that some Indians find offensive?

"Some say there's nothing wrong with a chop here, a war chant there, in cheering for a Braves victory over the Minnesota Twins. Others, including actress Jane Fonda, who is engaged to Braves owner Ted Turner, say they'll stop the mimicry."

"I don't see where they've got a reason to protest," Doug Turnipseed of Birmingham, Ala., said before Tuesday's game. "Where were they before the World Series?"

But Bellecourt countered Indians have been concerned about athletic teams that use Indian names and mascots long before the 1991 Series.

"Our struggle does not turn on who wins the pennant," he said. "We've been in this for years and years, trying to get the major league baseball franchises and the major league football teams to discontinue the use of Indian names for their mascots. It breeds the kind of ignorance we see here at this stadium."

"I don't agree with the Minneapolis mayor and other higher-ups in Minnesota who are trying to bring the Indians to the forefront," said Michael Skorb, a Braves fan from Augusta. "I think they should let them speak their peace, but off to the side. ... It's great when you've got 50,000 people doing it together. Black, white and red."

"I'll be doing the tomahawk chop, but darn it, I'll feel guilty," said Muriel Haddock of Atlanta. "I guess we ought not to do it, but sometimes when they get it started in the stadium, it's hard to resist."

Only Title Loss

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - In his nine years as coach of the Green Bay Packers, Vince Lombardi only lost one championship game, the 1960 NFL title clash with the Eagles in Philadelphia. Lombardi won five league championships from 1959 to 1967 and two Super Bowls.

The loss to the Eagles was a near thing. Green Bay outplayed Philadelphia in every phase of the game, but the score was 17-13 in favor of the Eagles.

The game ended on a dramatic note as linebacker Chuck Bednarik made a lunging, desperate tackle of Packer fullback Jim Trylor on the Philadelphia nine-yard line.

One-Two Ed

LOUISVILLE (AP) - Col. E.R. Bradley had the well-deserved nickname of "One-Two Ed" as regards the Kentucky Derby.

On two occasions his horses finished one-two in the "Run for the Roses." Bubbling Over and Bagenbaggage did it in 1926, and Behave Yourself and Black Servant in 1921.

Rumor had it that Bradley, a high-rolling gambler, made a big bet in the future book on Black Servant and lost to his own horse. The poker-faced Bradley never commented, one way or the other.

Pullig pulls out win; Brown makes honor roll

By MIKE DRAGO
Associated Press Writer
 Don't bother searching the game film from Friday's battle between Deer Park and Beaumont Central if you're looking for defensive highlights. There weren't any.
 Deer Park prevailed in the 47-43 offensive struggle, but not without heroics from quarterback Corey Pullig, who completed 23 of 41 passes for 398 yards and six touchdowns.
 The final strike, a 49-yard pass to Randy Blair, came with 55 seconds remaining. Blair caught six passes for 222 yards and two other touchdowns.
 Central's Leeland McElroy contributed some offensive fireworks of his own, carrying 19 times for 265 yards and touchdowns of 39, 80 and 19 yards.
 The efforts of Pullig, Blair and McElroy earned the trio mention in The Associated Press Schoolboy Honor Roll.
 Central coach Marvin Sedberry, whose defense had allowed just 89 yards per game until Friday, said he's never seen such an offensive onslaught.

"It was just a matter of who had the ball last," Sedberry said. "There were as many points scored in this game than in any other game I've been a part of."
 Deer Park coach Ron Lynch says he's getting used to the scoring races. The team's first six games included a 42-41 victory over Spring Westfield and a 42-28 loss to Beaumont West Brook.
 "We tell our kids whoever has the ball last is going to win it," Lynch said. "We're real young on defense so we have to rely on the offense."
 That usually means relying on Pullig, the 6-3 205-pounder who is being recruited by such schools as Michigan, Miami, Brigham Young and UCLA.
 "He's got the athletic ability," Sedberry said. "He's strong enough that you can't really tackle him and he's really intelligent as far as knowing when to get rid of the ball."
 Palestine quarterback Victor Gray also received honor roll mention for leading his team past Jacksonville, 44-30. Gray passed for 239 yards and three touchdowns and rushed for 194 yards and scores of 90 and 3 yards.

 "He's just phenomenal with what he's been doing," Palestine coach Tom Wilson told the Tyler Morning Telegraph. "He is the offense. Of course our receivers are catching the ball and our linemen are blocking but he's 95 percent of what we're doing."
 Three Arlington running backs had banner games. Lamar's Shawn Walters carried 19 times for 289 yards and four touchdowns in a 55-12 whipping of Burleson. Carlos Johnson of Arlington Martin carried 32 times for 202 yards and two scores in a 28-23 loss to Arlington.
 Sam Houston's Jeff Godley carried 29 times for 237 yards and a score in a 25-14 victory over Mansfield.
 In other outstanding performances: -Brandon Barker of Canyon Randall completed 16 of 32 passes for 317 yards with no interceptions in a 26-25 victory over Hereford. Hereford's Leo Brown carried 39 times for 237 yards in the losing effort.
 -Nathan Campbell of Alief Elsik carried nine times for 267 yards and touchdowns of 62, 55, 39 and 59 yards in a 54-0 romp over Spring Woods.

 -Darrell Willis of Stamford carried 17 times for 274 yards and two touchdowns in a 35-0 victory over Hawley.
 -Michael Ross of Carrizo Springs carried 11 times for 211 yards and three touchdowns in a 56-14 victory over San Antonio Edgewood.
 -Charles Gran of Flatonina carried 23 times for 230 yards and three touchdowns in a 35-6 victory over Pettus.
 -Boyd Weaver carried 32 times for 534 yards and eight touchdowns in Bosqueville's 65-58 victory over Oglesby in a 6-man game.
 -Claude Mathis of Bartlett ran for 242 yards and five touchdowns in a 54-0 thrashing of Holland.
 -Richard Jones ran for 218 yards and scores of 8, 14 and 48 yards in LaVega's 42-7 victory over Troy.
 -Bernardo Reddic ran for 240 yards and two touchdowns, but White Oak lost to Spring Hill, 34-27.

-Fred Coleman of Tyler Lee caught seven passes for 198 yards in the first two quarters of the Red Raiders' 59-22 victory over Lufkin.
 -Charles Thomas of Elkhart carried 27 times for 245 yards and four touchdowns in a 34-0 thumping of Alto, which previously was ranked ninth in Class 2A.
 -Rockport-Fulton linebacker Dat Nguyen made 16 unassisted tackles and 14 assists in a 21-13 victory over Goliad. Nguyen also returned an interception 53 yards for a score. Goliad's Ricky Rodriguez carried 38 times for 256 yards and two touchdowns in a losing effort.
 -Chris Waskom of Flour Bluff carried 23 times for 204 yards and touchdowns of 64, 49, 9 and 8 yards in a 27-7 victory over Robstown.
 -Frederic Riojas carried 37 times for 253 yards and two scores in a 42-6 victory over Falfurrias.
 -Matt Brogger of Port Lavaca-Calhoun scored four touchdowns in a 45-20 victory over Wharton. Brogger carried three times for 140 yards, caught four passes for 178 yards, kicked a 20-yard field goal and booted four extra points. To complete the night, Brogger was named homecoming king.

 -Wellington's Wesley McKnight carried 20 times for 215 yards and touchdowns of 49, 35 and 24 yards in a 46-21 victory over Panhandle.
 -Tulia's Cory Sanders carried 18 times for 208 yards and four touchdowns in a 32-0 victory over Muleshoe.
 -Cody Cleavinger of Vega completed 17 of 47 passes for 301 yards and four touchdowns in a 26-20 victory over Kress.
 -Cleon Williams of Boling carried 29 times for 229 yards and a 76-yard score, but the Bulldogs lost to Tidehaven, 52-27.
 -Aric Sardina of Tidehaven carried 17 times for 248 yards and two touchdowns in the victory over Boling.
 -Newton's Cesar Brooks carried 32 times for 227 yards and two touchdowns in a 21-12 victory over Port Arthur Austin.

Richardson gets SWC honor

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Bucky Richardson mimes no words when describing his passing ability at Texas A&M five years ago.
 "I was bad as a freshman," Richardson said with a sheepish grin. "Really bad."
 But now the 6-2, 221-pounder has improved enough to impress the likes of Baylor's Grant Teaff. For the second time this season, he was named Associated Press Offensive Player of the Week in the Southwest Conference, sharing honors with Texas Christian quarterback Tim Schade.
 "Bucky for Heisman. Bucky for Heisman," Teaff said after the Aggies' convincing 34-12 victory over his Bears Saturday. "He's as good as anybody out there and when he is in there, A&M is not the same team."

 Richardson completed 9 of 15 passes for 182 yards, while running for another 42 on seven carries. He hauled in a 38-yard pass from receiver Brian Mitchell on the Aggies' vaunted swinging gate.
 "I thought I played fairly well," the Baton Rouge native said. "I knew I was going to have to pass the ball for us to win. If I can just have an opponent respect the pass, that's all I want."
 Richardson ran for two touchdowns and had almost 300 yards passing, receiving and running in the victory.

 Schade threw for 347 yards and three touchdowns in the Frogs' 39-28 victory over Rice.
 Arkansas defensive tackle Henry Ford, who recovered a fumble and had four tackles behind the line for 15 yards in losses against Texas, received defensive honors.
 Richardson said he is thought of like a linebacker playing quarterback or a glorified running back.
 "I don't mind it," he said. "It's better than having the image of a prissy quarterback who can't take a lick."

Local Eastern Star hosts yearly instruction school

District II, Section III, Grand Chapter of Texas, Order of the Eastern Star will hold their yearly school of instruction in Hereford masonic Lodge

No. 849 on Country Club Drive, Nov. 21.

Preceding the school a candle glow banquet will be held on Wednesday at 6 p.m. This will be followed by a fraternal visit of the Worthy Grand Matron Jane Gregory of Pasadena Chapter of #711 and honoring Glenn Whitaker, Worthy Grand Patron of Leah Elliott Chapter #1119 of Van Alstyne.

Other school officers include Grand Examiner Joyce Fields of Lubbock #76 and District Deputy Grand Matron Jane Ramos of Wichita Falls #237.

Under direction of Mary Phifer, Deputy Grand Matron of Happy Chapter No. 562, all participants will represent many Panhandle chapters.

The theme of this year's school is "A Time to Enjoy Share and Grow." The Thursday luncheon will be a Mexican fiesta meal courtesy of all the chapters of district II, section III.

Margaret Bell, Past Matron of Hereford Chapter No. 312 is co-chairman of the event. Mrs. Jayne Euler, Worthy Matron of Hereford No. 312 will preside at the Wednesday evening fraternal visit.

JANE GREGORY: Worthy Grand Matron

GLENN WHITAKER: Worthy Grand Patron

JOYCE FIELDS: Grand Examiner

JANE RAMOS: District Deputy Grand Matron

Retired teachers discuss reading month

The Hereford Retired School Employees Association recently met at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

Special guest, Bera Boyd, discussed the upcoming "November is Reading Month" and stated the theme would be "Discover Riches at Your Library."

During the month, buttons will be worn and bookmarks will be given to all school children in order to encourage reading and expanded use of the library.

Boyd asked for volunteers from the group to read to classes in each of the primary and elementary schools. She also emphasized that this is an excellent time for families to do things together away from the television set.

Larry Wartes gave an updated report on bills being considered by the Texas legislature and those which have recently affected school personnel.

A list of suggested activities and projects for accumulating volunteer hours was given by Mary Dziuk.

The Health Care Committee report was given by Mary Duvall with emphasis on the priorities for October. These included obtaining a flu shot and making sure that current health information be kept in the billfold.

Betty Mercer discussed information received from a recent workshop on TRS Care insurance. Changes in the policies were noted.

The Golden Line Dancers, led by Olga Harris, demonstrated that you can exercise and have fun at the same time, if you do the movements to music.

Forty-six members were in attendance at the luncheon and include: Audrey Powell, Leona Schilling, Jennie B. Terrell, Bryron Terrell, Joyce Wartes, Larry Wartes, Gracie Shaw, Betty Mercer, Leta Kaul, Ruby Mulkey, Dempsey Alexander, Oveeta White, Marie Stringer, Margaret Ann Durham, Dottie Darden, Clara Bartlett, Wyatt Bartlett, Marge Southward, Eleanor Hudspeth, Bill McDowell, Billie

McDowell, Naomi Hare, Lloyd Crume, Dziuk, Betty Jo Carlson, Beryl Burelsmith, Carole McGilvary, Reuben McGilvary, Faye Holt, Teddie Poindexter, John Poindexter, Sue Innon, Charles Duvall, Mary Duvall, Frances Crume, Jean Ruther, Mozelle Neill, Alice Christian, Ray Clay, Louise Witkowski, Elizabeth DeKoster, Mary B. Carter, Ed McCreary, Geraldine Frank, Caudie Ola Brown.

The November 11 meeting of HRSEA will include a program presented by Ike Stevens on investments and income tax changes.

Those interested in becoming members should contact Beryl Burelsmith or Betty Mercer.

Homemade treats make Halloween special

Dastardly Dip

1 banana, cut into chunks
1/2 cup plain low-fat yogurt
1/2 cup peanut butter
1 small apple, peeled, cored and finely chopped
1/4 cup light brown sugar

Combine all ingredients in blender container; blend until smooth. Serve with crackers, pretzels, apple wedges, pear slices or carrot sticks. Makes about 2 cups dip.

To serve: Tint dip with orange food color. Spoon into a round bowl. Smooth and decorate the surface with pumpkin face using raisins, nuts, candies or icing.

Jack-O'-Lantern Cookies

2 cups all-purpose flour
1 cup rolled oats
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1 cup margarine, softened
1 cup sugar
1 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar

1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup canned pumpkin
1 cup currants

Decorator icing in assorted colors. Assorted candies, chocolate chips, peanut butter, raisins and nuts

Combine flour, oats, baking soda, cinnamon, salt, nutmeg and cloves; set aside. In a large bowl, cream margarine and sugars until light and fluffy. Add egg and vanilla. Beat in pumpkin. Gradually stir in dry ingredients, mixing well. Stir in currants.

For each cookie, drop 1/4 cup batter onto a lightly greased cookie sheet; spread into pumpkin shape, using thin metal spatula. Add additional batter to form stem. Bake in a 350-degree F oven for 20 to 25 minutes, until cookies are firm and lightly browned. Remove from cookie sheet and cool on wire racks. Make pumpkin faces by decorating with icing and assorted candies. Makes 20 cookies.

Decorator Icing:

Mix 2 cups confectioners' sugar and 1 tablespoon water. Add more water, 1 teaspoon at a time, until icing is of the consistency that can be used easily in a decorator's tube and yet hold its shape. Add food color and blend well. Makes 3/4 cup.

Witches Brew

One 46-ounce can apple juice
Two 12-ounce cans apricot nectar
1/2 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar

3 cinnamon sticks
9 whole cloves
9 whole allspice
Juice of one lemon

Combine apple juice, apricot nectar and brown sugar in a large saucepan. Tie cinnamon sticks, cloves and allspice in a small cheesecloth bag; drop into saucepan. Heat slowly, stirring until sugar dissolves. Bring to a boil and simmer 10 minutes. Stir in lemon juice. Ladle into mugs. Serve warm. Makes about one-half gallon.

For homemade treats, stir up a batch of Goblin's Cinnamon-Sugar Popcorn, Devilish Chocolate-Covered Apples and Pumpkin Spiced and Iced Cookies.

Goblin's Cinnamon-Sugar Popcorn
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
3 tablespoons oil
1/2 cup popcorn kernels
In a small bowl, combine sugars and cinnamon. Set aside. Heat oil in a large saucepan. Add popcorn, cover, and pop completely. Turn popcorn into a large bowl, immediately add cinnamon-sugar mixture; toss. For individual servings wrap in plastic wrap and tie with a ribbon. Makes 5 to 6 cups popcorn.

(Recipe from: The Sugar Association)

Devilish Chocolate-Covered Apples

6 to 7 apples
6 to 7 wooden craft sticks or chopsticks
16 ounces semisweet chocolate chips

2 teaspoons confectioners' sugar
Cut a 12-by-12 foot square of aluminum foil and place in the top level of refrigerator. Remove the stems from the apples; insert a stick into each apple.

Place chocolate chips in a small, deep, microwave-safe bowl. (Make sure the bowl is completely dry).

Cook in the microwave oven on high (100 percent power) for 1 minute. Stir. Cook on high for another 1 to 2 minutes, or until chocolate is melted. Remove from the microwave and gradually stir in confectioners' sugar.

Twirl each apple in chocolate to cover most of the apple. Use a rubber spatula to smooth and spread the chocolate over the entire apple. Place on aluminum foil in refrigerator to harden chocolate. If serving immediately, put in freezer for about 15 minutes. (If chocolate in bowl begins to harden before all the apples have been dipped, cook again on high for 30 to 40 seconds.) Makes 6 to 7 covered apples.

Note: Apples can be covered with chocolate and then sprinkled with crushed walnuts. Place in the refrigerator after the apples have been covered with nuts.

(Recipe from: The Sugar Association)

Pumpkin Spiced and Iced Cookies
2 1/4 cups all-purpose flour

A storm has been raging on Jupiter for over 300 years, a storm that could swallow up the Earth—three of them, in fact. The great red spot, a vast cyclonic system, has had a diameter as large as 25,000 miles, or three times the diameter of the Earth.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I realize I'm behind the times, but I have just recently gotten a microwave. My question is this: Can regular everyday dishes be used in the microwave or do I need to buy dishes specially made for it? — Delores Sutton, Kileen, Texas

Some of the dishes you have would probably be microwave-safe. One word of caution: Dishes with silver or gold trim or any metal parts should not be used in the microwave.

The best way to check is to put them one at a time in the microwave with a glass measuring cup filled with water. (You cannot put the dish in by itself because this will damage the oven.)

Turn on high power and heat for one minute. If the dish is hot to the touch, then it should not be used in the microwave. Those dishes that remain cool should be microwave-safe. — Heloise

CUTTING STEW MEAT
Dear Heloise: I use stew meat quite often and found that using kitchen scissors to cut it up is quick and easy. No more slipping knife and nicked fingers. It also browns faster and cooks quicker.

— Mrs. H. Pharmer, Houston, Texas
COUNTER TOP CUTTING BOARD

Dear Heloise: I read a letter in your column from Mary Blanche of Sarasota, Fla. She has a white counter top and uses a cutting board that has black knobs under it that scratch her counter.

I have exactly the same thing. I bought a pack of self-stick cork protection pads that come in all sizes and are designed to be used under lamps or vases. I stuck one on each knob under the cutting board. They worked great and the board does not slide when I use it! — Marjorie Gallier, Hamshire, Texas

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 15 cents a word for first insertion ($3.00 minimum), and 11 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	15	3.00
2 days per word	26	5.20
3 days per word	37	7.40
4 days per word	48	9.60
5 days per word	59	11.80

If you run ads in five consecutive issues with NO changes, you get the same ad in the Reach & More free. The regular charge for that ad would be $4.00

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid word lines—those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing; all capital letters. Rates are $4.15 per column inch; $3.45 an inch for consecutive additional insertions.

LEGALS

Ad rates for legal notices are same as for classified display.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

DETROIT (AP) - A Michael Jackson fan who admits stealing the singer's white glove from the Motown Museum has been ordered to stand trial for larceny. No immediate trial date was set for Bruce Hays, 23, of Flint, after his preliminary hearing Tuesday. Hays has said he unscrewed the hinges to a display case and snatched the crystal-beaded glove during a visit to the museum earlier this month. Jackson wore the glove on his "Thriller" tour and gave it to the museum three years ago along with a hat and $125,000.

Roden had a big Impact

EDITOR'S NOTE: For persons who wanted a "beverage" and lived in Abilene at any time before 1975, Impact had an impact on their lives. If you wanted liquor by the drink, you could go to any of dozens of private clubs in the city. If you wanted to enjoy a beverage in the comfort of your home (or in your dorm room), you had to go to the north end of Abilene, to a separate city called Impact.

By the way, "Smoky and the Bandit" was a true story: Impact was the last place east or south, for many years, you could get Coors. More than one semi-truck was filled with Rocky Mountain Spring Water at Pinkie's in Impact. Impact was a dream of Pinkie Roden. Third in a series.

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

Years earlier, Pinkie masterminded a stunning, incredibly profitable scheme to incorporate a tiny precinct totally surrounded by Abilene, the so-called Buckle on the Bible Belt. Its name: Impact.

With a 1960 metropolitan population of 120,000, Abilene, in the very heart of a dry area, was a prime target for whiskey merchants of whatever stripe.

Project Impact involved 50 or so people in a tiny, isolated, largely overlooked or ignored part of Abilene. In effect, they quietly voted to incorporate, then legalized off-premises sale of alcoholic beverages.

By no means as simple as it sounds, Impact was the forerunner for any number of similar booze-related schemes across the state.

As always, Pinkie spurned the limelight, though privately pulling the political strings. A colorful local figure named Dallas Perkins, Impact's first mayor, got the credit but Pinkie and Abilene attorney Beverly Tarpley got it done.

"Dallas was the originator of Impact but Pinkie had the expertise of liquor laws and politics to make the operation successful and keep it running for a long period of time," Ms. Tarpley said.

According to James Leggett, Pinkie didn't give Perkins much choice in dealing himself into the Impact caper, declaring:

"I've been selling liquor in Abilene all my life and I intend to keep selling it."

Perkins refuses now to comment on his relationship with Pinkie.

Still, said Ms. Tarpley, "Pinkie was never the strongarm, roughshod type...He was just fascinating and completely different from the public perception."

"Pinkie insisted that the operation be run exactly right. He wouldn't sell cold beer because he wanted to discourage people from driving up, buying a six-pack and throwing cans all over that side of town."

On weekends and holidays in particular, motorists lined up for blocks to buy beer and booze, and Pinkie and Perkins made millions, tax figures showed.

"All it took to defeat it was for Abilene to go wet, but it took a long, long time to do it," Ms. Tarpley said.

Abilene's churchgoers and Pinkie, their unlikely ally, saw to that. When the city did vote wet, presumably dooming Impact as an oasis, a reporter telephoned Pinkie for comment.

"Will this break you?" the reporter asked.

"It would have, had I not long prepared for it," Pinkie replied grandly. "But thanks to the good Christians of Abilene, I will die a wealthy man."

Several years after Pinkie's arrival in Odessa, he and some friends stopped by one night at a popular bar called the Melody Club.

The waitress that evening was a perky dark-haired divorcee whose turbulent past could rival even Pinkie's. "There he was, this big, freckle-faced guy, a real sweetheart and probably the nicest human being I ever met," Jane Roden would wistfully recall. "I felt like I fell in love with Pinkie the first time I met him."

"He was nice and polite and such a gentleman and he left a big tip." Pinkie became her friend and confidant and, in 1970, despite an age difference of 28 years, her third husband.

Among his first acts was to adopt Jane's daughter Cynthia, then 14. Cynthia now has a 5-year-old son, Pinkie's namesake.

An Odessa travel agent, Cynthia says Pinkie was the "only father I ever had," and a great one at that. "He was so generous, supportive and encouraging. ... He spoiled me."

Pinkie was Cynthia's campaign manager in a junior high school election and threw two parties on her behalf, but nothing to rival the victory gala when she won.

"He loved politics," she observed. More than ever, Pinkie's generosity spilled over into community projects, and he became an active supporter of local oil shows, Chamber of Commerce projects, stock shows and rodeos.

He was even a patron of the Globe Theater, a showcase for Shakespearean productions, perhaps a bit out of character for Pinkie, if not West Texas.

He pushed for expansion of the hospital and establishment of the Texas Tech Regional Academic Health Center in Odessa. And he put his time and money into the Odessa 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America, the Boy Scouts and the Boys Club of Odessa.

Although a high school dropout, Pinkie's biggest civic coup probably was his deft guidance of the campaign that secured the University of Texas of the Permian Basin for Odessa.

"He worked long and hard and called in a lot of favors to get UTPB," says Frank Dederick, Pinkie's nephew and executor of his estate.

Gene Garrison and others tell of a critical meeting with then Gov. Preston Smith, who looked around the room at the Odessa delegation and said pointedly: "The only one of you I recognize from my campaign is Pinkie Roden."

Pinkie bought a ranch near Balmorhea in the Davis Mountains southwest of Odessa and used it to entertain his political cronies on hunting excursions.

"I think," joked Jane Roden, "the only reason Pinkie married me was because I could guide his prima donna politicians around the ranch and gut his deer."

But Pinkie loved those sorties, and anything else political.

"Pinkie lived and breathed politics," said Beverly Tarpley, his Abilene lawyer, and she considered him a master of the game.

"He refused to make an enemy. That's what it amounts to."

COMING UP: Pinkie Roden made only one really bad investment, but it was a dilly and will live forever in Odessa history.

NEW YORK (AP) - Paula Abdul and Mel Gibson are the celebrities most Americans want to "meet under the mistletoe" this holiday season.

Bruskin Associates, which polled 1,005 people by phone, reported 21 percent of the men said they'd most like a mistletoe encounter with singer-dancer Abdul.

Sixteen percent voted for Julia Roberts, 12 percent for Michelle Pfeiffer and 9 percent for Candace Bergen. Madonna, with 5 percent, finished in a three-way tie for fifth place with Demi Moore and Whitney Houston.

Twenty-two percent of the women voted for Gibson, with Paul Newman and Kevin Costner in a second-place tie with 14 percent apiece. Harrison Ford and Arnold Schwarzenegger tied at 9 percent, retired Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf won 6 percent of the vote and basketball star Michael Jordan had 4 percent. One percent voted for Warren Beatty.

The poll, commissioned by MasterCard International, had a sampling error of plus or minus 4 to 5 percentage points for the men's and women's categories.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: About five weeks ago I developed shingles from the cleavage of my breasts, all across the top of my right breast and including the nipple, upward and in the armpit and to the center of my back. All but a few of the pox marks are healed, but it still hurts severely when clothing touches the skin. At times it feels like knives sticking into these areas.

How long does it take for the pain to leave completely? Please send some information about this condition. It certainly is the most painful condition that I've ever had.

The most painful time of the day is toward evening. I have been taking codeine and Xanax, which help some, but I want to discontinue these drugs as soon as I can.

DEAR READER: Shingles, or herpes zoster, is a localized area of chickenpox with a vengeance. The virus lives all those years after a person has chickenpox, usually in early childhood, in the root of a nerve.

Then that virus becomes activated, migrates down the nerve sheath and multiplies along the course of the involved nerve.

Your description is perfect for a spinal nerve that passes out of the spinal cord, and follows the edge of a rib around one-half of the chest. Usually only one side is involved. Shingles may involve any nerve in the body, but follows the course of the nerve distribution, whether it is to the face and eye or to the leg.

The acute attack usually lasts only about two to four weeks, but not everyone is so lucky. In about half of patients over 60 years of age, the pain will persist as long as two months, and in less than 3 percent, the pain may last as long as a year or even longer — a condition known as postherpetic neuralgia. That complication is difficult to treat and is often frustrating to both the patient and the doctor.

Hopefully, you will not have another attack, although some people do. As you requested, I'm sending you my new Special Report 118, Shingles: The Chickenpox Disease. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/118, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Please tell me if Hydergine liquid capsules are effective. A friend says her doctor prescribed it for her forgetful 72-year-old husband. She says the difference in the past year in her husband's memory, reasoning and mental capacity was wonderful. Should a 61-year-old take it for insurance? I used to be great answering the "Jeopardy!" questions. Now I know the answer, but it takes longer to answer.

DEAR READER: Your friend's story is a testimonial and does not establish anything about the usefulness of the medicine. In fact, her husband may be better in spite of the medicine rather than because of it.

Although Hydergine has frequently been prescribed for individuals over 60 to improve their memory, it may have the opposite effect. Dr. Troy L. Thompson and colleagues at Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia recently studied its effects in 33 patients with Alzheimer's disease. They compared the results with another group who got a dummy pill. The group taking Hydergine had a decrease in mental functions. Dr. Thompson concludes that either the Hydergine has a toxic effect or accelerates the progress of Alzheimer's disease. So I wouldn't advise it for insurance, or even for treatment at present.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Halloween: fun time for kids, adults

NEW YORK (AP) - If fun and lots of treats are the object of Halloween, city kids get plenty of both; not to mention the glee with which adults weave the magic each year.

While there may be several disadvantages to big city life as a kid - crime, fewer playgrounds and few places to ride a bike safely - Halloween's a bonus time.

Costumed adults hand out treats in decorated apartment hallways. Halloween parties wind round city monuments and down neighborhood streets. Ghost stories and haunted tales are spun at parties in museums and parks.

What with tenants who wrap hallways in spider webs, set out elaborately carved jack-o'-lanterns, and host parties in building lobbies, city kids have come to expect theatrics along with their Halloween treats.

"People really try to decorate in some way or dress so that when the kids open the door, they have something to look at," says Celia McGee, whose 3-year-old daughter, Honor, was initiated in their apartment building last year.

Perhaps best of all, large concentrations of candy can be had with just one sweep through an apartment building. By the time they are 8 years old, city kids like Alexander Horn have developed a system to get the most Halloween treats.

"Every year I go to my best friend's apartment house and we trick or treat together. At my house, I don't have enough doors," explains the third-grader, who describes his building as "skinny and big" but his friend's as "medium and fat."

Horn savors the moment when he gets to tally the loot. "Usually, I count all of them. I have come up with somewhere under 500 (pieces)," he boasts.

Savvy trick or treaters, with large shopping bags in hand, take the elevator straight to the top of the building, knock on doors on each floor, and work their way down by the stairs. They also know to consult sign-up sheets indicating which apartments are open to Halloween visitors.

Parties are a large part of the annual agenda. In the days before Halloween, parents bring youngsters to events at museums or parks and, on the actual day, attend local parades and parties in the lobbies of their apartments.

Block festivities can be elaborate. At one block off Central Park on Manhattan's West Side, planning starts two months in advance. One brownstone lobby is traditionally converted into a "spook tunnel." And 10 to 15 buildings compete for a prize as the "best decorated" lobby.

Pat Porter, who has participated in the event since it began 20 years ago, says "it turns into a small-town trick or treat experience."

Last year, the festivities, which include a parade of costumed children and adults, attracted 1,500 children, even though only about 50 kids are block residents, says Porter, who serves on the block association board.

Residents of Manhattan's Upper West Side reserve the late afternoon for a gathering at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument at 89th Street and Riverside Drive.

"It's the big photo opportunity of the year," says Julie Sakellariadis, president of the Playground Project that co-sponsors the event with the city Parks Department. "Moms and Dads come, and there are so many cameras flashing, and the costumes are fabulous." The children parade around the monument and then are escorted (this year by a bag piper) through Riverside Park to a nearby playground for cake and cider.

But what of children who live in small apartment buildings, brownstones or townhouses?

"There's always some kind of block party," says Julia Johannesen, mother of 8-year-old Helen and 13-year-old Christian, who live in a brownstone block on the Upper East Side. "At some point, everybody goes out trick or treating on the block."

Those who live in brownstones without planned activities hook up with friends in big buildings. Susan Nicholson goes with her three youngsters to a building one block away. "I take my own treats and leave them at my friend's door," she says.

With safety in mind, treats are always of the store-bought, prepackaged variety. And New Yorkers gear up for the bad side of Halloween with strict security in buildings and police at parades.

The upside as McGee notes: "You don't have to trek through an entire suburban neighborhood." Simply put, says youngster Horn: "You get much more trick or treating."

National Pharmacy Week celebrated at DSGH

During National Pharmacy Week, consumers are urged to talk to their pharmacists about medications, says Rita Chamberlain, R.Ph., head of the pharmacy at Deaf Smith General Hospital.

"In the hospital setting, we work closely with the nursing staff and with the physicians. Our job is to monitor patient medication and potential drug incompatibilities," says Chamberlain. "We also see that medications are dispensed at the proper time and in the proper dosage."

National Pharmacy Week is promoted jointly by the American Pharmaceutical Association, which is the national professional society of pharmacists, and by the Texas Pharmaceutical Association. Purpose of the special week is to promote awareness of the health services that pharmacists can provide.

For example, professionally trained pharmacists can not only provide counsel on the side effects of drugs and their possible reactions to various foods and other medications, but they can also advise the patient on selecting the most effective non-prescription medicines.

These services can save both money for the consumer and help lower the nation's health care bill by ensuring the proper and most effective use of medications.

"Health care is no longer provided by one professional in one setting," Chamberlain said. "Patients taking multiple medicines—prescription and non-prescription—are at high risk of possible drug interactions, or of duplicating active ingredients unnecessarily. Either situation holds some potential for danger, so there must be communication between the pharmacist and the patient."

Chamberlain, who is originally from South Dakota, has been a pharmacist since 1979. She is assisted in the department at DSGH by Elaine Webster, LVN, a technician.

People once believed they could keep their cattle healthy by hanging boughs of the mountain ash tree in front of the stables.

Pilots hold meeting, Rives reviews DSGH

Hereford Pilot Club held its monthly program meeting Tuesday at the Hereford Community Center. Ron Rives, interim administrator of Deaf Smith General Hospital, spoke to the group on changes and improvements to the hospital.

Rives asked the Pilots to comment on any experiences they have had at the hospital, positive and negative.

Pilots made several comments to Rives. He asked for support of the new programs at the hospital.

President Vest Mae Nunley made an announcement regarding the upcoming membership contest.

Church holds bazaar

Saint Stephen United Methodist Church will be hosting a fall festival and bazaar at 4600 South Western in Amarillo Nov. 9 from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Craft booths containing wooden items, ceramics, stained glass items and white elephant items will be featured at the bazaar. The food booths will include frito pies, cakes, cookies, pie and casseroles.

For more information call the church office at 355-7271.

Pilots taking orders

The Pilot Club of Hereford will be taking orders for Eilenberbers cakes until Nov. 4.

These delicious cakes are a great compliment to a Thanksgiving meal and make wonderful Christmas gifts.

Fruitcake, chocolate amaretto, Australian apricot, Australian apple, Texas pecan, walnut and chocolate pecan varieties are available.

To place an order contact any Pilot Club member. For details and prices are 364-6212.

Pilots are also beginning their annual pecan sale. To order, contact a member.

You can "drink" your "apple a day" and still get the great nutrition and flavor of fresh apples.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Barbara Bush, the butt of some of the funniest jokes in "Naked Gun 2 1/2," held no grudge, inviting the movie's star, Leslie Nielsen, to a state dinner at the White House.

"Naked Gun 2 1/2" opens with Nielsen's bumbling police detective character knocking a Barbara Bush lookalike over as he bolts out of a White House restroom at a state dinner, then accidentally clubbing her with a giant lobster.

He knocks her off a balcony in the film's finale.

"She loved the movie," said Anna Perez, the first lady's press secretary. "She laughed as hard as anybody else."

Nonetheless, Ms. Perez said Nielsen promised no funny stuff at Tuesday's dinner honoring Vaclav Havel, the president of Czechoslovakia.
