SUNDAY BRAND

91st Year, No. 111, Deaf Smith County, Hereford, Tx.

Dec. 7 remains infamous for many residents

Task force will gather Tuesday on prison plan

Hereford's Prison Task Force, which was formed Tuesday evening, is off and running with committees already gathering information to go into a proposal which has to be ready for the Texas Department of Criminal Justice by Jan. 15.

Speedy Nieman, chairman of the task force, reported that committee chairmen met Friday afternoon and gave progress reports. A meeting of the full task force has been set for 5 p.m. Tuesday at City Hall to study the application form and make some decisions on goals for the project--including the determination of a goal for the fund-raising committee.

Nieman reported that a "Town Hall" meeting for the purpose of informing the public and answering questions will be scheduled as soon as possible. "We will try to schedule a visit by a TDCJ official at the meeting, which could be sometime this next week."

The chairman said committee leaders agreed that Hereford and Deaf Smith County should seek a 1,000-bed minimum security unit in their application proposal. The contact committee visited with several TDCJ officials this week and determined that the minimum security unit offers the best potential for the county. The state has earmarked construction of three 2,250-bed maximum security units and six 1,000-bed minimum security units. The new bond measure also calls for 12,000 beds for substance abuse treatment facilities.

Nieman also reported that another committee has been formed. The Health Care committee will be headed by Ron Rives, Deaf Smith General Hospital administrator. Raymond Schroeder, hospital board chairman, and dentists Dr. David Purdy and Dr. Charles Hennessey have also been asked to serve, with additional members to be named.

The land development committee has already pinpointed about six possible sites. Further study will be made on availability and cost of the sites. The niche committee is considering incentives that might be included in the local proposal.

Figures from the TDCJ indicate a 1,000-bed unit would employ approximately 317 personnel with an average annual payroll of $6 million. Construction costs are estimated at $28 million, and annual utility cost would be about $550,000.

Many Hereford residents that are fiftysomething, or older, remember exactly what they were doing and where they were when Pearl Harbor was attacked on Dec. 7, 1941.

Many persons gathered for lunch Thursday at the Hereford Senior Center shared their thoughts and remembrances with us.

Bill Lamm--I found out about it before almost anyone else because I was a runner for Western Union in Lubbock. We got telegrams out of San Francisco for the cotton buyers in Lubbock not to buy any more cotton because Pearl Harbor had been bombed. We didn't even know for sure where Pearl Harbor was. The first radio broadcast was a couple of hours later, and the Lubbock paper came out with an extra. Then we knew where Pearl Harbor was.

Benny Womble -- I was on a double date to a movie in Amarillo. We heard it on the radio.

Caudie Ola Brown -- I was standing in the living room of my home in Borger, and getting ready to go to church. We went on to church, but it was a very sad day.

Grant Hanna--I was already in the service and was standing watch. I was either in Virginia or Carolina, I don't remember which. It was a Sunday and everything was pretty relaxed. Next thing we knew, we were under orders to check the identification of everyone that wanted to come onto the base. Things were a little different after that.

Billie Watts -- We were parked in the backyard of my cousin's house in Fort Sumner, N.M., necking, when the news came over the radio. My brother was supposed to have reported to the Arizona on Dec. 7, but his ship was late and he didn't get

In his Hereford Bull column, Gillentine speculated on Japan's reason for attacking, and who was behind the attack.

"Sunday afternoon, December 7, has gone down in history," wrote Gillentine. "Did you ever stop to wonder over the fact that Japan made her unprovoked attack on Sunday? There are two logical reasons, and perhaps both are important in the present trend of things.

"It is possible and probably that Hitler engineered the whole attack, and you will recall that every important step Hitler has yet made was started on Sunday. Boys around the big papers will argue for hours on end that he does this in order to make the Sunday headlines. Some magazine articles contend that Hitler is guided by a German prophet, who recommends these dates. Anyway, we all know that Sunday has been Hitler's chosen time

Residents thankful for help

Applications for assistance for the 1991 version of the holiday charity Christmas Stocking Fund have poured in steadily and will number in the hundreds again this year.

Sign-ups continue at the county Red Cross office, 224 S. Main, through Friday, Dec. 13. Application hours are 9-6 daily. CSF volunteers handle the applications and those applying must provide proof of Deaf Smith County residence, as well as account numbers with local utilities if they desire help with those bills.

Just who does the local charity benefit and how? Correspondence received last holiday season from a couple of those who received assistance gives a clue. Mr. and Mrs. W, senior citizens who were facing difficulties last Christmas, penned this note:

"We want to thank you from the bottom of our hearts for the help on utilities. It was precious and at a time when we so urgently needed the help. God has sent so many blessings to this home, and we are so grateful to Him. God is good, and we hope and pray that everyone connected with the Christmas Stocking Fund is blessed as much as we, the receivers, have been. Again, thank you, and God bless you."

Mrs. T., a Hereford resident stricken with diabetes last year, found herself facing crushing financial burdens due to her medical problems. She turned to CSF for help and, due to donations from Hereford and county residents, the holiday charity was able to come through. Her note of thanks:

"I can't find the words to express my thanks and appreciation to each of you for the generous gift in helping with my expenses. It was truly a big help to me at this time with medical expenses that have overtaken me. I am especially grateful to each and all..."

"A friend is far better than gold. It is sweet, I find as I grow old To prove in you this blessed truth, In which I've held from early youth, And having proved, I still shall hold, A friend is far better than gold."

Teach us in twilight hours to pray, While upon our hearts consolation lays, Life and health we have to hold, Yet all these shall mar and mold, But a friend is far better than gold. Again, my thanks and appreciation to all."

Local residents can make a difference in the lives of folks like Mrs. T and Mr. and Mrs. W. This holiday season. Donations to the Christmas Stocking Fund make addressing special needs of the less fortunate possible.

CSF is administered by an anonymous committee of local volunteers who represent a cross-section of the community. They screen applications for assistance and make the difficult decisions necessary for a program in which the applications for help far exceed the funds available for extending it.

You can help brighten the holidays for some of the community's less fortunate this holiday season with your donation to CSF. Mail your check to CSF, c/o Box 673, Hereford, or drop it by the offices of The Hereford Brand.

Perez will seek re-election

Deaf Smith County Tax Assessor-Collector Margaret Perez has announced her intention to file for re-election, subject to the Democratic primary in March.

"I have enjoyed working for the people of Deaf Smith County for the past 16 years," Perez said. "I look forward to continue serving the citizens of the county as tax assessor-collector."

Perez was appointed to the office when longtime tax assessor-collector Nell Miller died in 1989. Perez was elected to fill the remainder of the unexpired term in 1990.

Tax appraisal office will close this week to move equipment

The Deaf Smith County Appraisal District will close its offices next Thursday and Friday in order to make the move from its present location to newly-remodeled facilities at 140 E. 3rd St., formerly occupied by the Witherspoon, Aikin & Langley law firm.

Fred Fox, chief appraisal officer, said the office needed to be closed two days in order to transfer and install the computer and telephone systems. The moving process was already underway this week as records, files and some equipment was being moved.

The office will open again Monday, Dec. 16. Fox said a formal grand opening will probably be conducted in mid-January.

The appraisal district announced purchase of the law firm building in late July and the transaction was completed Sept. 12, 1991. Purchase price was $115,000. The building contains approximately 11,000 square feet of floor space, compared to only 2,700 square feet at the present offices in the old Central School building.

The district had been budgeting $25,000 a year for new offices. Fox said the appraisal board thought it would be saving taxpayers $70,000 to $80,000 by buying the location at 140 E. 3rd and remodeling, rather than investing in a new building.

Fox said the new facility would provide much-needed space for an office lobby, employee work stations, a conference room and storage.

The appraisal district does the appraisals, assessments and tax collections for all local governing bodies. That includes Deaf Smith County, City of Hereford, Hereford Independent School District, Walcott School District, D.S. County Hospital District, a water district and a noxious weed district.

Frank Zinser Jr. is chairman of the appraisal board, and other members are Tom LeGate, Troy D. Moore, Dan Hall and Steve Conaway.

LINE

Marjorie Thomas -- I was driving with an uncle to the northwest part of the county and we heard about it on the radio. I'd been reading newspapers so I understood what was going on.

Wilbur Davis -- I was living in a railroad car in Boise City, Okla., working for the Santa Fe. In less than a year, I was in the Army and went to the South Pacific.

Audrey Powell -- A bunch of us from Sudan had gone to the sand hills that day. When we got home we found out what happened. Our next door neighbor had a son in Pearl Harbor. We learned later he had been killed.

B.F. Cain -- We heard about it right after church... it kind of made you think. I had a No. 1 in the draft lottery and was called to the Army but I enlisted in the Navy when I went to Lubbock to take my physical.

Morgan Cain -- I had come to Hereford from Shamrock that day to hear "Messiah" and heard it while I was here.

Ed Line -- I had been in a movie in Long Beach, Cal., and came out to find sailors running around. I asked one what was going on and he told me. You remember things like that. A few weeks later, I was called up in the Navy V-6 program.

MR. AND MRS. WATTS

there until Dec. 8, but we didn't know he was okay for about two weeks.

Verdon Watts -- I remember it the same way Billie does.

In 1941, the Hereford Brand was just a weekly paper. In fact, Brand Editor Jimmie Gillentine had signed a deal to buy a new press to take the paper semi-weekly. He signed the deal on Dec. 6, 1941.

He got the press in 1947, and the Brand went semi-weekly in 1948.

The first edition of the Brand to be published after Pearl Harbor was on Thursday, Dec. 11, 1941. The Brand interviewed several residents to find out how they felt about the war.

John Patton -- We can't be happy about it--especially those of us who have boys in the service--but we can whip them.

Pack London--It won't be easy--especially since we aren't fighting Japan alone. Germany is in back of the whole thing.

Mrs. Joe Sheppard--If they'd just let us know they wanted a fight, we could have already had them whipped.

S.L. Harman Sr.--I'm afraid we have underestimated them.

for beginning important campaigns. Apparent success of the underhanded blow may also be attributed to the fact that the first blow was struck on Sunday.

Gillentine also told about Noah Shockley's observation that it was customary for most military personnel to get leave and noon Saturday and report for duty again Monday. Gillentine said Shockley told him the points of most interest where the soldiers were probably spending their time when the attack occurred.

Gillentine also reflected on President Franklin Roosevelt's demeanor during his speeches and visits, and his planned press restrictions.

"Roosevelt was very clear in defining this phase of our life," Gillentine wrote. "He was more than fair. All of us want to know what is happening, but none of us want to know bad enough to endanger one pie of American property or one single hair on the head of an American youth. I rather think that our government's outlined policy along this line may be too liberal. It is entirely possible that our news will be less and less--even more scant than the President's prediction. We will have to forego this valued treasure, just as we will have to do without cars, refrigerators and many other conveniences."

First notice for many came in Amarillo papers

By GEORGIA TYLER Staff Writer

Sunday was not a publication day for the Amarillo Times in 1941, but an "EXTRA" of that newspaper was put on the streets on Dec. 7, 1941--the front and back pages were datelined Sunday, Dec. 7, but the remaining 14 pages bore Dec. 6 datelines.

The other Amarillo publisher brought out the big type on the Dec. 8 issue of the Amarillo Daily News to tell readers in two-inch red letters, "JAP PLANE CARRIER IS REPORTED SUNK."

War intruded on the daily lives of residents of the Texas Panhandle, but the inside pages of the newspapers recorded the mundane as well as the extraordinary events of the day.

Communications being what they were in 1941, the news of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor was not detailed, or accurate, as it turned out, in the first few days.

But the Daily News did an admirable job on that day World War II started, getting a newspaper ready for delivery in the early hours of Dec. 8.

On an inside page a layout of photographs and an article told about Panhandle-area men serving in Hawaii and the Philippines.

On the same page, a four-paragraph story was printed about the Hereford chorus presenting Handel's "Messiah" in Hereford and preparing to present it in Amarillo with 300 voices singing the famed oratorio.

Advertising in that edition of the Daily News was light--six of the 12 pages were without any ads, at all.

Papers recount Dec. 7th

In the days of 1941, there were no televisions to speak of, and newspapers were an integral part of life in the United States. There were two, still separate, newspapers in Amarillo at the time: the Amarillo Daily News, and the Amarillo Times. The Amarillo Daily News was a seven-morning-a-week paper, and its first war news came on the morning of Dec. 8. The Amarillo Times was published six afternoons a week, but printed an extra on the afternoon of Dec. 7. The paper affected most closely by the war was the Honolulu Star-Bulletin, which printed several extras on Dec. 7. The Hereford Brand was still a weekly in 1941. It recounted the local effects of the war in the Dec. 11 paper.

Hereford's Lohr lost a friend on USS Arizona

(Editor's note: Bob Lohr of Hereford is a veteran of World War II and is very active in the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars posts in Hereford. Lohr was a young man on Dec. 7, 1941 when he lost a friend, Harold Duane Webster (they called him "Webbie") on the USS Arizona in Pearl Harbor. Here are Lohr's remembrances of a special friend, a special seaman who died, with 1,101, buried forever beneath the sea.--JFB)

By BOB LOHR

For 50 years, "Webbie" has been buried beneath the Pacific waters of Pearl Harbor. What kind of young man was he? Let's do a little research into his childhood in Loveland, Colo. We attended Lincoln Grade School together for eight "Great Depression" years, then to Loveland High School for a couple more. He would have graduated in 1942, but joined the US Navy six months before the year. Duane was of average build, good in baseball and football, an average student who was well liked by all. His father and my father worked for years together at the local sugar company. Our house (across the street from Lincoln School) had a vacant lot where the boys played marbles, spun tops, ran races, played football, tromped in the snow or whatever the season of the year dictated. Wars and threats of war meant nothing to us. My brother, Bert, and Webbie spent many days of the 1937-38 school year in the hall. Those were the days of pens dipped in ink wells at the top of a slanted desk. Webbie sat directly in front of Bert. Bert would drop his pen on the floor, then bring it up into Duane's behind. Miss Blair, after the commotion subsided, sent the boys to the hall where they spent the rest of the day in isolation. In fact, between tacks, pens and spit wad episodes, they probably spent most of the eighth grade in the hall. All the while, Hitler was preparing for war. Japan was building the most powerful fleet in history; and American was dragging her heels in military preparedness. All during our grade school and high school days, Axis powers were planning to take over the world. Proving grounds of Spain and Central American tested men and equipment for "The Big One. Germany, Italy, Japan and America turned to war production to get their economies rolling, but the other were years ahead of the USA in planes, ships and tanks. The US Navy had plans for expansion, but Congress was reluctant to back them. It was BB39, the USS Arizona. Like the Texas, it had been converted for coal burning to an oil-fired ship after World War I. Her keel was laid in March 1914 in the Brooklyn Navy Yard and the Arizona was commissioned in October 1916. She was 32,000 tons, with 14-inch guns and a crew of 1,553 men. The ship's crew in 1941 included Admiral Isaac Kidd, commander of Battleship Division One, and Capt. Franklin Van Valkenburgh. Admiral Nimitz had served previously as the division commander, with Kidd the captain. If you have never been on board a large ship, it is much like a city with utilities: heat, light, power, kitchen (galley), dining areas (mess hall and ward rooms), jail (brig) and sleeping areas (quarters). To a sailor, the ship is home. He protects and defends it, works for its overall well-being. With a thousand or more persons of various backgrounds, ethnic groups, educations, philosophies, one gets acquainted with many, develops special friends, and learns the disciplines of the military. Can you imagine living, eating, sleeping and working where your only privacy is when you close your eyes? Discipline is harsh but necessary. Let your imagination soar a little and see this huge ship plowing through the water to Honolulu. The Arizona had served our country in the Atlantic, then transferred to the west coast where the bulk of the Pacific fleet was stationed. Pearl Harbor was being prepared as an advance base for the fleet. With tension mounting in the Far East, 90 units of the armada were in Pearl Harbor that fateful Sunday morning. It was 7:55 a.m. Hawaiian time, 12:40 p.m. in Hereford, 11:40 a.m. where we lived in Loveland. "Where were you on Dec. 7, 1941?" That is a favorite question each December for those of us 55 or over. It was 50 years ago that Japan ushered us into World War II with the devastating attack on Pearl Harbor. Seems much less to me. I recall hearing the news by radio, not realizing the full importance of the event. The next day, at a high school assembly, we listened as President Franklin Roosevelt delivered his famous "Day of Infamy" speech and we were officially in the war. At Pearl Harbor on that fateful Sunday morning, two torpedoes slammed into the side of the Arizona. Between 8:10-9 a.m., seven bombs penetrated her decks, including one which reportedly went right down the smokestack. The worst was a bomb which penetrated the decks and hit the magazine. Between bomb runs, Japanese aircraft strafed the decks again and again. Of the ship's crew of 1,553, 1,102 died in about 30 minutes. More lives were lost in that one attack than in all of our Navy's battles combined to that time. Duane probably never knew what hit him. He had given his life for this country. In a short time, all of our town knew of Webbie's sacrifice. The Arizona burned for two days, and later the Navy said it would salvage it. It was left as a tomb for her crew. During a ceremony in March 1950, the flag was raised again over the ship. Every morning a detail goes aboard and raises the flag, returning to lower it. Did Webbie die in vain? I think not. Here is a tribute to Webbie written by a classmate, Irene Peak. Though little is said among us here, There's a sincere feeling so close, so near. For one who left us for worlds beyond, Who still is held by a strong woven bond. The bond of fellowship in school, fun and sorrow, That hold, not forgetting, in the world of tomorrow. Those now he's gone, we're proud to remember. That on that fateful day in December

HAROLD DUANE WEBSTER Oct. 31, 1923—Dec. 7, 1941

Duane was there to help in the fight For what he knew was just and right. When his country called, he was there at hand. What greater honor could be given any man? What greater honor could be given to us Than when people ask, to answer thus: "Duane? Of course we knew him well "And it's proud we are of our story to tell. "He was at Pearl Harbor, you know--- And helped to soften that deadly blow." On Dec. 7, 1981, over 75 USS Arizona shipmates and friends participated in a special memorial service aboard the ship. This may be the first and last time former crew members hold their own memorial services in this place. The Navy has a term: "Stand the silent watches until we can relieve you on watch." Joe Langdell, secretary of the USS Arizona Reunion Association, remembered Duane during the services aboard the memorial.

Salazar honored

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Glenda Keenan was installed as president and Joel Salazar was recognized as "Realtor of the Year" as the Hereford Board of Realtors held their annual installation banquet Friday night at Hereford Country Club.

Doug Manning was featured speaker at the banquet, and retiring president Carol Sue LeGate served as emcee and presented special awards. Juston McBride, past president, installed the new officers.

Other new officers will be Mark Andrews, vice president; Diane Beavers, re-elected as secretary-treasurer; directors Clarence Betzen (holdover), J.L. (Jigger) Rowland and Hortencia Estrada; with LeGate serving as past president.

Salazar, who served as board president the past year, was cited for his work with the multiple-listing service for the past three years and for his active role in committee assignments. He and his wife, Jan, have three children. Joel is a deacon at First Presbyterian Church.

Carolyn Maupin, abstract officer with A.O. Thompson Abstract, was presented a special award for her work with the board over the years. "It is a long overdue recognition," said LeGate, "but we want her to know we love and appreciate her."

Other 1991 officers recognized for their contributions were Salazar, Keenan, Betzen and Marn Tyler. Making the "Realtor of the Year" presentation was Henry Reid, subbing for Tyler, who was unable to attend. Don Tardy worded the invocation.

Manning's topic was "The Power of the Ear," and he laced the talk with humorous stories and anecdotes.

Realtors honored at annual banquet

Gonzales will lead Hustlers

Art Gonzales was elected Friday as chairman of the Hereford Hustlers for 1992. The maroon-jacketed Hustlers serve as a goodwill ambassador group for Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

Gonzales will succeed Rex Easterwood as chairman of the group, which works in signing up new chamber members, conducts ribbon-cutting ceremonies for new businesses, and helps host C of C-sponsored activities and other civic functions. Membership in the group is obtained on a point system, based on memberships obtained and participation in chamber activities and projects.

This past year, the Hustlers helped sign up 87 new members, ending the year with a net 59. The group conducted 14 ribbon-cutting events, helped at five Fun Breakfasts, aided with the Town & Country Jubilee and July 4th Celebration, and helped host various other civic meetings.

Court upholds verdict

The Court of Appeals for the Seventh District of Texas, in Amarillo, has turned down an appeal by a former Hereford man sentenced in 1990 to a 25-year prison term for aggravated sexual assault of a child.

Michael Kenneth Reuterskiold Jr., who apparently filed his own appeal after the attorney who defended him moved to another state, listed several points of error in the conduct of the case by Judge David Wesley Gulley in 222nd District Court in Hereford.

However, the appellate court opinion, signed by Justice Carlton B. Dodson, denies each allegation by the defendant.

Reuterskiold was indicted in July 1989 for an alleged offense 10 months earlier. When trial began in May 1990, the defendant entered a guilty plea. Punishment was set by the jury at 25 years in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice institutional division, plus a $5,000 fine.

Hereford and Deaf Smith County have formed a prison task force for the purpose of putting together a proposal on locating a prison here. Prisons have been called the largest growth industry for rural communities in the state, and it's easy to see why. There are many new prisons being built, and the economic impact on a community can be highly beneficial and permanent.

Since this new round of prison construction started, competition for the new prisons has become fierce. Many cities who have already landed a new prison are now applying for expansion, so they must like what they have. A 1,000-bed minimum security unit would employ more than 300 people and have a payroll of about $6 million a year--a real plus for any community. But the costs of landing such an industry has to be justified, and that evaluation is being made.

A public town-hall type meeting will be scheduled as soon as possible to inform the community and give citizens a chance to ask questions and view the pros and cons. It is essential to a proposal that evidence of community support is included in the application.

Members of the task force have covered a lot of ground in just a few days, but there are still many decisions to be made in putting the proposal together. The task force needs and encourages community involvement and as the project progresses, we will strive to keep the public informed as fully as possible.

Looking Back

(From past issues of The Hereford Brand)

90 YEARS AGO

Dec. 6, 1901--A small but enthusiastic audience gathered at the church house Tuesday evening for the purpose of making a start on raising funds to build a proposed college. Judge Gough announced that a total of $2,700 was subscribed in a few minutes. The proposed college would be housed in a $10,000 brick building.

75 YEARS AGO

Dec. 7, 1916--The City Commission has planned to visit a number of Texas towns and cities for the purpose of inspecting the different kinds of paving being used. The city plans to contract for paving here in the near future. The City of Amarillo used asphaltic concrete on recent paving and paid $1.80 per square yard.

50 YEARS AGO

Dec. 11, 1941--America's entry into World War II, presaged by Japan's lightning attack on Pacific outposts on Sunday, found Hereford citizens together with those of the rest of the country a little dazed by the suddenness of the whole thing. The general reaction here was: "We didn't want war but we'll whip them."...People of the Hereford territory are again being offered the chance to share Christmas with less fortunate persons who will have a pretty cheerless holiday without the help of their neighbors. "We will have a list of families who will need Christmas baskets," says Mrs. Dyalathia Bradley, county welfare administrator.

25 YEARS AGO

Dec. 4, 1966--Landholders lined up at daybreak in near-freezing weather to make application for the Cropland Adjustment Program. A total of 107 persons made applications over two days to put up 36,908 acres in the "soil bank" program. Farmers agree to retire such allotment crops as cotton and seed grain for a minimum of five or maximum of 10 years, and the government pays for the land not used. ...Five Hereford Whiteface gridders were named to the All District 1-AAA football team. They were Ricky Fangman, Bill Coffin, Gary Tucker, Billy Watts and Tony Malouf, all seniors on the 8-2 team. District champ Dumas placed 9 on the team.

10 YEARS AGO

Dec. 8, 1981--The Hereford Whitefaces erased a 10-0 first-quarter deficit and defeated Fort Worth Eastern Hills, 28-16, in a Class 5A quarterfinal game at Texas Stadium in Dallas. The Herd, now 13-0, will play Richardson Lake Highlands in the semifinals at Jones Stadium in Lubbock next Saturday. ...The Christmas Stocking Fund balance is now $1,547. ...The Hereford Lady Whitefaces and the Amarillo boys won titles in the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational Basketball Tourney, with Hereford's Joyce High named as tourney MVP and Lori Albracht and Amy Schumacher also on the all-tourney team.

5 YEARS AGO

Dec. 9, 1986--The Herd defeated Wichita Falls Hirschi, 17-12, in a 4A quarterfinal battle at Kimbrough Stadium in Canyon Saturday. They will meet McKinney in the semifinals at Texas Stadium next Saturday. ...Deaf Smith County Commissioners voted Monday to delete a section of the personnel policy requiring county employees to take a leave of absence while running for county office.

1 YEAR AGO

Dec. 7, 1990--The Hereford area will be filled with visitors from across the country as the 1990 pheasant season takes place the next two weeks in the Panhandle. ...The Christmas Stocking Fund reached a total of $4,261. ...Dr. Barry Thompson, Tarleton State University president, said he was ready to spend two or three years correcting the financial troubles at West Texas State University. He was named president of the Canyon school Thursday by the Texas A&M board of regents.

John Brooks

Babbling Brooks

It was certainly an honor to be "featured" by Captain Billy on KPAN on Friday.

It was an even greater honor to have had it done in stereo, so we got it full-force in both channels.

I didn't get to listen to everything that was done, but it was appreciated.

I called Captain Billy late Friday morning to tell him just how much I appreciated it.

I told him it was the second-best radio show I had ever heard.

"Oh, really?" said the Captain. "What was first?"

All the programs I ever did, I told him.

In a previous lifetime, I was in radio for nine years. I enjoyed part of the time, and part of the time I didn't enjoy.

I still have a license to do whatever I want (within the law) at any radio station in the country. I keep it just in case...

Hey, maybe Captain Billy and I should have some sort of challenge. If I win, I get to do an hour of his show (NOT 6-7 a.m.!!!). If he wins, he gets to write a column in this space. Perhaps we should do something quick, something easy, say to benefit the Christmas Stocking Fund.

It is interesting to sit on the not-too-distant sidelines and watch the Hereford prison bid come together.

This may be the one time we can work together to get "a big industry" to locate in Deaf Smith County.

I can tell you that Speedy Nieman, who is chairman of the task force, appreciates all of the phone calls and personal offers of support of the local effort. He has had dozens of phone calls. I kidded him the other day that we needed to set up a separate "Prison Hotline" telephone number. The task force does appreciate, and need, the support.

There is not much time left to get the bid put together: the deadline is Jan. 15. With everyone working together, however, it can be accomplished.

This is a win-win situation for all of us.

Some of you may see some down side to a prison in Hereford, but I can tell you from personal experience there are few, if any detriments. My father worked as a guard at the Arizona State Prison in Florence. Florence is a small town, and for many years was the site of the only prison in the state (just like Huntsville in Texas). Since the population has grown dramatically in Arizona, so has the number of prisons.

Florence is practically as small today as it was 25 years ago. Florence, and the towns around it, did not see all the families of prisoners "invade."

You must also remember that practically all prisoners, when released, are paroled to some county other than where the prison is located. (In Texas, the majority of persons in prison are from Harris County and the Houston area.) We are not going to be hit by a flood of prisoners trying to take root in Hereford after their release.

The good news and the bad news: this is an industry that's not going to go away. The bad news is that's a terrible statement about our society. The good news is that when a city lands a prison, it can look forward to many, many years of that industry being in your community.

It's unfortunate that the prison-building program didn't begin several years ago; perhaps we would have been prepared a little better for these huge increases in our prison population. It is fortunate that the board of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, the state legislature and the executive branch are taking a pro-active approach to addressing the prison problem for not just today but for years to come.

An AP News Analysis

Where were you on Dec. 7, 1941?

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) -- It seemed redundant, typical Jerry Ford talk, for the president to say twice in a sentence that he'd remember Pearl Harbor. But a dwindling generation of Americans understands exactly what he meant by it.

"We who remember Pearl Harbor will always remember," President Ford said on an earlier anniversary of the surprise Japanese attack, one hour and 50 minutes that changed the world 50 years ago Saturday.

So it is for the fifty-something and older Americans to whom the sneak air raid against the U.S. fleet was a shared, galvanizing event, etched into memories, no matter how far they were from Hawaii and the suddenness of war on Dec. 7, 1941.

About three-quarters of the current population was born after that "date that will live in infamy," Franklin D. Roosevelt's phrase to Congress when war was declared the next day.

The word most people got first by radio, of a sneak attack they saw later in black and white photographs and newsreels, hit the mainland and main streets in a way the instant color television of today's crises does not match.

It was a defeat that became a slogan in the war it ignited - remember Pearl Harbor.

President Bush was 17 at the time. "Prior to the attack on Pearl Harbor, I remember a general concern over world events," he recalled. "Parents would talk about the troubles in Europe and we would discuss world events in school."

"But somehow, being so far away, we never thought war would come directly to the United States."

It was an awakening, too, for boys who would be too young to fight in World War II as Bush did, but old enough to talk of war in the corridors outside their schoolrooms, and pretend at recess that they were soldiers or airmen.

Bandleader Sammy Kaye wrote a martial song about it, and everybody knew the words:

"Let's remember Pearl Harbor, as we go to meet the foe.

"Let's remember Pearl Harbor, as we did the Alamo..."

Ford's repetitive opening line on Dec. 7, 1975, at ceremonies on the monument above the sunken battleship USS Arizona, reflected the times of which he spoke, not the stumbling syntax that sometimes dogged him.

He was eloquent that morning. "Whoever watched the Pacific churned by winds of war comes to this hallowed place with feelings overcoming words," Ford said.

Bush goes there on Saturday, to the USS Arizona Memorial, the ship where 1,177 American seamen were killed and all but 75 are entombed. A total of 2,403 Americans were killed in the bombing and strafing by carrier-borne Japanese attackers that Sunday morning. Nineteen U.S. ships were sunk or damaged, 188 warplanes destroyed.

Forty-four months later, Japan surrendered on the deck of the battleship USS Missouri, now in Pearl Harbor for the ceremonies.

VJ Day, for victory over Japan, was Aug. 15, 1945. But the anniversary that lives is the strike that began the war, not the victory that ended it.

Misstate the VJ date and it might draw a letter or two. When, as a candidate, Bush erred on Pearl Harbor, there was an instant wave of murmurs and gasps in an audience of veterans.

It was Sept. 7, 1988, and Vice President Bush was addressing a veterans' convention in Louisville.

"I wonder how many Americans remember today is Pearl Harbor Day," he said. "Forty-seven years ago to this very day we were hit and hit hard at Pearl Harbor and we were not ready."

Alerted by the incredulous reaction, he corrected himself: "Did I say Sept. 7? Sorry about that." Bush said later he'd been trying to ad lib the Pearl Harbor reference into his speech, and misspoke.

For that Dec. 7 is not a date to be forgotten. Bush says it was the day he decided to enlist. Within two years he was a Navy pilot, shot down, rescued by submarine, and delivered safely to U.S. soil.

At Pearl Harbor.

TDCJ has prototype on prison unit plans

If Hereford and Deaf Smith County were to be selected for the site of a 1,000-bed minimum security unit, what type of facility would be constructed?

According to a Texas Department of Criminal Justice report, a prototype construction methodology has been adopted to maximize efficiency. Currently, Texas spends between $27,000 and $32,000 to construct each maximum security bed. While this may sound high, the TDCJ reports it is far below the national average. Buildings in a unit also provide a laundry, kitchen, classrooms, commissary, dining hall, offices, indoor and outdoor recreation facilities, and a complete legal library in addition to beds and living quarters.

Also provided are the full spectrum of health care, to include dental, medical and psychiatric care. Each 1,000-bed unit has on-site outpatient health care and infirmary care capabilities. In addition, radiology and laboratory services are present, and inpatient care is contracted locally.

Once inmates are processed and assigned to units, they are given work assignments in the unit's support service department—such as food services, laundry, or maintenance. Some work in the industrial or agricultural operations.

Security is a priority at all times, even in the kitchen where certain items are kept under lock-up. Court orders require that inmates be provided clean clothes daily, therefore laundry services are provided at each unit.

Indoor security utilizes up-to-date technology for each housing area, and windows are positioned to provide the correctional officer with a full view of the cells and dayroom areas.

Outdoor security is constantly provided, of course. Correctional officers who man the pickets are assisted by flood lights during night hours. In addition, a mobile patrol assists security personnel in surveillance.

Completely surrounding the compound is a double hurricane fence grounded in concrete. Each fence has three rows of razor ribbon. Six manned pickets and electronic surveillance equipment complement the outdoor security system.

Herd boys get 1st win; Lady cagers beat PD

Hereford's boys' basketball team got its first win of the season Friday, squeaking by Seagraves 69-68 in the Denver City Invitational Tournament, and Hereford's girls' team got its second win, 40-34 over Palo Duro in the Canyon Classic.

The boys team, now 1-4 on the season, trailed 40-39 at halftime but outscored Seagraves 21-8 in the third quarter to lead 60-48. Seagraves scored 20 points to Hereford's nine in the fourth quarter, but Hereford held on.

Hereford got 22 points from Richard Sanderson and 20 points from Leo Brown.

The girls' team, now 2-7, jumped out to a 10-4 lead in the first quarter and led at halftime 15-11. They put on another burst in the third, outscoring Palo Duro 16-9 to lead 31-20, then held off a PD charge in the fourth.

Kara Sandoval led the Lady Whitefaces with 14 points, while Jennifer Bullard and Misty Dudley each added 10 to the cause.

Both Hereford teams lost in the opening rounds Thursday, so Friday's win put them into consolation finals, which were to be played Saturday. The girls were scheduled to play Class A dynasty Nazareth, which is 1-7, although mostly against 4A and 5A schools. The boys were to play Littlefield.

Albany tricks Wellington

By MIKE DRAGO
Associated Press Writer
It took lots of luck and the oldest play in the book for the Albany Lions to move within two games of a state championship.

The Lions, behind 24-21 and facing a fourth-and-18 from their own 45 late in Friday night's Class 2A quarterfinal against Wellington, resorted to the hook-and-ladder play.

Albany's Clint Chapman took the fourth-down snap and passed to Bobby Smith, who pitched to a trailing Johnnie Hudman. Hudman raced untouched into the end zone, lifting the Lions to a 28-24 victory.

"We practice that (play) every day," said Albany coach Denney Faith, who said the Lions used the play once early in the season. "We just had to come up with it in the right spot and it just happened to be there. We were real fortunate."

The victory moved Albany (14-0) into the state semifinals against Farmersville (14-0), a 28-21 winner over Mart. Wellington finished its best season ever at 13-1.

The Lions needed three second-half Wellington turnovers to overcome a 21-0 halftime deficit. Chapman began the comeback with touchdown passes of 60 and 65 yards to Hudman in the third quarter.

Leading 24-14 with 3:38 remaining, Wellington muffed a punt and Albany took over at the Skyrockets' 6. Chapman ran around right end to score on the next play, bringing the Lions within 24-21.

But Albany still needed a fumble by the Skyrockets' Clifton Burns to set up the eventual winning play, which Wellington coach James Williams said caught his team off guard.

"Everybody probably has that play in their offense," he said. "It caught us by surprise. When it comes down to a situation like that, we should have had somebody there, but we didn't. We never should have been in that situation. We had it won."

In the other 2A games, Grapeland used Fred Lewis' 163 yards and two touchdowns in a 34-13 victory over Elkhart, while No. 1 Schulenburg's Casey Taber carried for 142 yards and a pair of scores in a 27-13 victory over Yorktown.

Anthony Holmes ran for 212 yards and scored two touchdowns and Carlos Reza added three scores, leading San Antonio Marshall to a 42-0 thrashing of San Antonio Madison in the Class 5A Division II quarterfinals.

The victory earned Marshall (12-2) the Region IV championship and a berth in next week's state semifinals against the winner of Saturday's Aldine-Fort Bend Willowridge game. Madison ended its season at 10-4.

Marshall rolled up 339 rushing yards while stifling the Madison offense.

"I said it before at the beginning of the season that we had one of the greatest defenses in the state," said Marshall defensive tackle Carl Juek. "We proved it tonight, and we've proved it throughout the season."

Marland Bolton ran for 151 yards and three touchdowns as unbeaten Carthage ousted Waxahachie 21-10 in Class 4A. Carthage, which also got 124 yards rushing from Donnie Graves, advances to next week's semifinals against either Pampa or Sweetwater.

Austin Westlake overcame a 14-0 deficit for a 25-20 victory over Corpus Christi Calallen in the other 4A game. Brandon Benton scored on touchdown runs of 6 and 2 yards for Westlake, which will play either A&M Consolidated or Chapel Hill in the semifinals.

In Class 3A, Burnet and Marble Falls battled to a 14-14 tie, but Burnet advanced to the semifinals on penetrations, 3-2.

Marble Falls led 14-0 until Burnet's Terry Kircus scored on a 10-yard run with 1:41 to go in the third quarter. The Bulldogs then needed a 93-yard drive, capped by Phillip Massoletti's 1-yard touchdown run with 1:09 remaining, for the tie and winning penetration.

Adrian Robinson ran for a 5-yard score and threw a 7-yard touchdown pass to Patrick Bitter, leading Edna to a 21-6 victory over No. 1 Sinton.

Class A Memphis used a dominating defense and Brian Brown's 154 yards rushing to beat Rankin 15-3.

Cowboys looking for playoff berth

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Three teams stand between the Dallas Cowboys and as owner Jerry Jones puts it "getting out there where the big boys are."

New Orleans, Philadelphia and Atlanta are keeping Jones and his coach, Jimmy Johnson, from an NFL playoff berth that would give a legitimate stamp to the franchise's new regime.

"I think about it (the playoffs) a little every day," Jones says. "It's a dream for me personally."

While the Cowboys chase their wildcard vision, the Saints come calling Sunday to try to rescue a division championship that is threatening to slip away. Kickoff is noon at Texas Stadium with the Cowboys two-point favorites.

The Saints, who haven't earned a division title in their 25-year NFL history, are one game ahead of Atlanta in the NFC West. New Orleans has lost three consecutive games as it turned a runaway division crown into the big sweat for the "Big Easy."

"We'll show up," said Jim Mora, the embattled New Orleans coach who has seen his team turn a runaway division title into a nervous 9-4 season. "Dallas has an outstanding team."

Dallas is 8-5 and trying to deal a wildcard into its first playoff appearance in six seasons.

"I believe if we can win our last three games and have an 11-win season we could make it to the Super Bowl," said Jones. "There have been teams a lot less talented than we are in the Super Bowl."

Dallas played a wild card into a

Super Bowl appearance in 1975, the year of the "dirty dozen" rookies.

"When I bought this team I wasn't thinking a five-year plan," Jones said. "The tradition of the Cowboys is a proud one thanks to Tom Landry and Tex Schramm. They made this franchise winners year after year. If I had bought this club and said it would be five years before we were in the playoffs it would be demoralizing. I wasn't on any five-year plan. We owed it to the fans to put together a winner just as soon as we could."

Talk demoralizing to New Orleans. The Cowboys have been in the playoffs 18 times with 11 division crowns.

New Orleans has been in the playoffs one time, losing 16-6 Chicago as a wild card team last year.

New Orleans lost 38-24 to San Francisco last Sunday and Mora said after the game, "I'm very frustrated and upset."

But he predicted: "We'll be back. The season isn't over by a long shot."

Utah's Edwards' bank shot turns Spurs Blue

By The Associated Press

When the Spurs are undermanned, they call on the Admiral. David Robinson's performance was admirable. It just wasn't enough.

Blue Edwards made a 15-foot bank shot with 4.7 seconds left as the Utah Jazz handed San Antonio its first home loss of the season. That negated a wonderful game for Robinson, who had 31 points, 17 rebounds seven assists and six blocked shots for the Spurs, now 8-1 at home.

San Antonio was without forward Antoine Carr, out with an ankle sprain. Terry Cummings also is sidelined due to a fractured rib. Guard Rod Strickland is unsigned.

"Because we have enough talent, we should be winning these ball-games," Robinson said. "We can't keep making stupid mistakes in key parts of ball games."

Utah trailed 92-89 when Karl Malone hit two free throws with 1:07 to play. After both teams missed shots, John Stockton forced a jump ball with Willie Anderson with 10.9 seconds to go. The ball wound up in the hands of Edwards, who had missed all of his five shots from the field. Edwards drove the length of the court and his off-balance jumper gave Utah a one-point lead.

"Blue made a great shot," Stockton said. "With the effort we've been putting forth lately, I think we deserve the win."

"Blue was comfortable coming down with it and ended up hitting a good shot," Utah coach Jerry Sloan said. "You've got to have a little luck in this league sometimes."

"We can't blame the loss on that one play," Anderson said of the jump. "I thought it was a bad toss and Stockton threw his body into me."

Karl Malone led Utah with 31 points, while Jeff Malone scored 24 and Stockton added 18.

Malone, working against Robinson, hit 12 of 22 shots from the field and grabbed 12 rebounds. Stockton added 18 points and 10 assists as Utah snapped a three-game road losing streak.

For San Antonio, the loss ended the best home-court start for the franchise since it joined the NBA in 1976. San Antonio has dropped three games in a row overall.

In other games, it was Philadelphia 105, Portland 102 in overtime; Chicago 114, Charlotte 96; Boston 103, New York 92; the Los Angeles Lakers 98, New Jersey 89; Indiana 126, Milwaukee 106; the Los Angeles Clippers 102, Denver 100 in overtime; Phoenix 122, Orlando 105; Detroit 105, Washington 94; and Seattle 96, Minnesota 94.

76ers 105, Trail Blazers 102, OT

At Philadelphia, Johnny Dawkins hit a 3-point shot at the overtime buzzer, snapping the 76ers' seven-game losing streak. Portland's Clyde Drexler had tied the score at 102 on a 3-pointer with 5 seconds on the clock.

"It was on line but I felt it was a little short," Dawkins said. "I just wasn't sure it was going to reach the basket."

Hersey Hawkins led Philadelphia with 29 points, including all 15 free throws, while Armon Gilliam contributed 24 and Dawkins had 23. Drexler topped the Trail Blazers with 38. For the game, Terry Porter shot 1-for-13.

In the second quarter, Portland failed to score in the first 5:47 and scored only seven points in the period, an all-time low for the franchise.

Bulls 114, Hornets 96

At Chicago, Michael Jordan scored 19 points and also had 11 rebounds and 10 assists. The Bulls put the game away in the second quarter and led 56-28 at halftime.

The Bulls outscored Charlotte 17-3 to start the second quarter. The Hornets went until 4:52 of the quarter before Kendall Gill hit a 10-foot jumper for their first basket of the period.

The loss kept the Hornets winless in 11 road games this season.

Celtics 103, Knicks 92

At Boston, the Celtics cracked New York's defense in a 35-point fourth period, extending its regular-season winning streak against the Knicks at Boston Garden to 21 games. Larry Bird scored 31 points.

The Celtics became the first team to score 100 points against the Knicks in seven games. With their seventh victory in eight games and their seventh in a row at home, the Celtics took the Atlantic Division lead from New York, which had won six consecutive games.

Patrick Ewing scoring 20 of his 28 points in the first half for New York.

Lakers 98, Nets 89

The Lakers ended their seven-game eastern swing with a 4-3 record. Sam

Perkins scored 18 of his 22 points in the second half and allowed no field goals in a six-minute span of the fourth quarter.

"We're not playing very good basketball right now, but we tightened up when we had to," Dunleavy said. "Defensively, we tried to get in their faces and make them force shots."

Sam Bowie scored 18 points and Drazen Petrovic 16 for the Nets, while James Worthy joined Perkins with 22 points for the Lakers.

Olajuwon comes off injured reserve

HOUSTON (AP) - After almost three weeks on the sidelines, Houston Rockets center Hakeem Olajuwon is coming off injured reserve, and he can hardly wait.

The All-Star center will have missed eight games by the time he rejoins his team Tuesday in Portland.

Olajuwon spent several days in the hospital after being diagnosed on Nov. 20 with an irregular heartbeat. He was placed on medication to prevent recurrences.

Olajuwon had hoped to rejoin the team earlier, but had to undergo a battery of tests, the most recent on Friday, all of which he passed.

"I'm so happy all the tests showed I was normal," Olajuwon said in a statement. "I didn't know that I was that healthy."

The Rockets said doctors have not determined a cause for Olajuwon's ailment, but they said it may have been the result of a blow he suffered in a Nov. 19 game against the New York Knicks.

He was placed on injured reserve on Nov. 23.

Olajuwon, who is averaging 21.7 points and 14 rebounds, has missed 57 NBA games due to injury or illness. Houston is 29-28 in games without him, including 2-5 this season.

Team officials said Olajuwon will practice with his teammates on Monday and will travel with the Rockets to Portland for Tuesday night's game against the Trail Blazers.

"Our medical staff has taken every precaution to insure that Hakeem is 100 percent healthy," Rockets general manager Steve Patterson said. "He has passed every test with flying colors."

Judge's decision keeps UT's Cambridge off court

AUSTIN (AP) - A federal judge has refused to further extend a temporary restraining order that kept University of Texas forward Dexter Cambridge in uniform and on the court despite an NCAA ruling that he is ineligible.

Cambridge, a 6-7, 225-pound senior from the Bahamas who is the leading scorer and rebounder for the Longhorns, was declared ineligible last month by the NCAA for accepting cash from a fan at a junior college he attended.

U.S. District Judge Walter Smith of Waco, on Tuesday had extended an earlier 10-day temporary restraining order by three days. But Friday, he allowed the restraining order to expire.

The judge said he would preside over a hearing Dec. 13 at the federal courthouse in Austin. Cambridge's attorney will argue that the university violated Cambridge's state constitutional rights by enforcing the NCAA's order without giving him a hearing.

"We don't hang people in this country and then give them a trial. We try to give them a trial before rendering punishment. The state of Texas guarantees that for every citizen," said the player's attorney, Philip Maxwell of Austin.

The NCAA says Cambridge is ineligible because he received a $7,000 check in 1990 from a Lon Morris College fan after graduating from that school in Jacksonville, Texas. The NCAA said the gift affects Cambridge's amateur status even though the University of Texas wasn't involved in the incident.

Slocum builds A&M program the right way

By BILL NICHOLS
Dallas Times Herald
COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Jackie Sherrill came close to establishing Texas A&M as a national power. But he left in 1988 with the school on probation.

Texas A&M's new approach, from a man who saw firsthand how the other backfired, is built on the aspects that were missing in Sherrill's era. R.C. Slocum, Sherrill's former defensive coordinator, plans to turn A&M into a football dynasty by preaching academics and social etiquette and establishing stability and credibility while stockpiling the state's best athletes.

Thus, only three years since A&M was put on probation, the program is poised to become a consistent top-10 team. The 10th-ranked Aggies (10-1) won the Southwest Conference championship by the most lopsided margin in 11 years and will play Florida State in the Mobil Cotton Bowl Classic with only six seniors in the starting lineup.

Not only did Slocum rescue a program that faced decline because of NCAA sanctions, he has it teetering on the brink of the upper echelon with one of the nation's most talented group of young players.

"We Aggies have finally gotten what we deserve," Athletic Director John David Crow says with a wink. "If you're not happy with where we are now with the football program, I really don't know how you could be pleased."

In Slocum's three years, A&M is 27-8-1 and has been to a bowl each season. He has three solid recruiting groups and has implemented ways to keep those players in school and out of trouble.

In theory, Texas A&M will become Miami and Penn State rolled into one, a consistent national contender that you can bring home to mom.

"I think you have more of a national image when you win," Crow says. "But sometimes you'd rather not have that image some of those teams have. I'd just like for us to be Texas A&M and be a well-rounded athletic program. Let's make sure they receive something other than trophies and letter jackets and rings and watches for their stay here." Because of past problems at A&M, prospective athletes are subjected to intense interviews about their character and are closely monitored in class once they get a scholarship.

Slocum's plan is founded on stability. He resists the urge to recruit junior-college transfers and borderline students because he wants to develop young players through the system.

"I wanted a strong foundation. I didn't have to go out and have a quick-fix situation," Slocum says. "You could see the direction the NCAA was going as far as academic emphasis and you had to get some guys that could function academically and could come in and graduate. There are still coaches around who beat their heads against the wall saying it's not going to change. It's going that way because it's the right way."

As Sherrill's right-hand man, Slocum spent years formulating his theory. Once he took over, Slocum was determined to be everything Sherrill was not.

He made himself accessible to the players. He set strict guidelines on attending class and laid down a set of rules on behavior.

"I think it's more of a low-profile program," says senior cornerback Kevin Smith, who played under Sherrill. "It's a little more controllable. Guys know their responsibilities and carry them out instead of guys who know their responsibilities and do just the opposite. He has changed it around completely from the day I walked in with people monitoring the classes."

Players say the discipline has reduced the usual bickering in dormitories, off-campus fights, arrests and other problems common in college programs.

"He always preaches about poise, about control, about the way you carry yourself," safety Patrick Bates says. "He recruits people with personalities. There are a lot of great players. Some can't do the school work. Some get in trouble. We haven't had any of that."

Slocum's constant scrutiny - probation can do that to you - is aimed at keeping the nucleus together. And while it has also reduced those late-night calls from the police station, Slocum's strict policies have not distanced him from the players.

He has all the procedures of a drill sergeant with the humility of an assistant coach.

"Coach Slocum is one of the guys," quarterback Bucky Richardson says. "You don't get nervous about him. It's never 'Uh-oh, here comes coach. Better look out.' We can go to his office and talk to him any time."

Slocum, who grew up in Orange, endears himself to young players with his homespun philosophy, recruiting athletes from similar small-town backgrounds. His modest upbringing helps attract some prospects. His South Texas draw doesn't hurt.

Many players who might have worried about being alienated in College Station feel as though they never left home.

"Coach Slocum's like a father to us," says redshirt freshman Jeff Granger of Orangefield. "He's there for us, night or day. Whenever I have a problem, I'm not scared to talk to him. I guess because he's from a small town and he knows what life is all about."

Many A&M players grew up in small to mid-size towns - all but a few come from Texas - so they feel no culture shock coming to College Station. Others came for the tradition of the 12th Man, the bonfire before the Texas game and all the other A&M lore. Those from the big cities are lured by the Cain Hall dining room, the training complex and A&M's success in sending players to the NFL. Texas A&M lists 16 first-round NFL draft picks and last year tied for ninth nationally with seven players taken in the draft.

In recruiting, Slocum has always stressed the "Wrecking Crew" defense and the potential for turning pro. But he has added talk of a dynasty in his latest pitch, saying A&M is on the verge of reaching the next level.

"The coaches all said that Texas A&M has the chance to win the championship," says Granger, who dreamed of playing for Texas as a child. "Texas A&M has the tools, the coaching staff, the athletes and the facilities to have the national championship. All it lacks is the confidence. If you experience the national championship, like Miami has, you know what it takes."

Slocum plans to provide that ingredient by emulating other successful programs. On the field, his strategy is based on NFL teams he admires, such as the Buffalo Bills and San Francisco 49ers, and other college powers such as Miami and Washington.

All of these programs are built on defense and sophisticated passing offenses that feed off strong running games.

"I think you win championships and you have consistent programs by playing defense and being able to run the football," Slocum says. "After this year, we'll try to throw it more than we've been throwing it because we won't have Bucky running it. A very high percentage of programs that have been consistent winners over the last 20 years, they've all had that formula, except one or two."

Slocum has recruited the players he believes can best execute the plan. He has taken the state's best quarterbacks and running backs in the past two recruiting seasons. Running backs Greg Hill, Rodney Thomas, Cliff Groce and Wilbert Biggens all have at least three years of eligibility remaining.

Quarterbacks Granger, Matt Miller, Tommy Preston, Steve Emerson and Kent Petty are all bona fide drop-back passers who were top high school prospects. Granger and Emerson are redshirt freshmen, Miller and Preston are true freshmen and Petty is a junior.

"We've got to go out and have another good recruiting year and continue to develop the guys we have," Slocum says. "We've got to get to where we throw the ball better. When you look at the guys I've recruited - Granger, Tommy Preston and Miller - we've recruited in a little bit of a different direction. We'll be an I-formation running team that will give you some one-back sets and throw the ball."

With all the young talent, Slocum acknowledges some recruits will go elsewhere to search for playing time. But he says he's looking for players who want to compete at the highest level.

"There's no question some will be scared off," he says. "The ones that are, we'll play against them and we'll beat them. The guys who went to Miami, Penn State or OU, they knew before they went there that there was going to be competition. They wanted to go where there were more guys like them. We've got some of those guys right here."

Of A&M's top 44 players, 24 are freshmen or sophomores. Slocum likes to play a lot of players and is not afraid to start freshmen. Hill, the Aggies' leading rusher, and flanker Brian Mitchell are redshirt freshmen, and defensive end Sam Adams is starting as a true freshman.

With so much young talent, the Aggies are confident they can upgrade the program. But they know a national title and consistent top-10 finishes require more than having blue-chip recruiting seasons.

"I think the sky is the limit for us," Bates says. "I think a national championship is in the forecast. But just because you have talent coming back doesn't mean you're going to win the national championship. If we can keep this chemistry, it's possible."

Slocum appears to have everything in place. But Sherrill did, too. Slocum knows to reach elite status, A&M must sustain the plan on the same principles on which it was built.

"I remember when Gene Stallings was here, he had all these young guys and everybody thought they were going to win it all," Slocum says. "They had three losing seasons and they fired him."

AIDS virus on minds of sports trainers

By DOUG MITCHELL
The Houston Post
HOUSTON (AP) - When Aldine athletic trainer Robert Heaton takes his place on the sideline for the Mustangs' Class 5A Division II quarterfinal football game against Willowridge Saturday, his top priority will be monitoring player injuries.

But Heaton will go about his duties of tending to cuts, scrapes, and bruises with an added concern: the remote possibility of contracting the HIV virus.

The recent case of basketball star Magic Johnson, who has said he contracted HIV through heterosexual relations, has created a heightened awareness of HIV transmission among athletes and medical personnel who attend to them.

Although experts agree the possibility of contracting the virus through athletic-related incidents is remote at best, the chance exists nonetheless.

Trainers such as Heaton must care for athletes who suffer open wounds while in competition. His approach to treating those wounds, a possible transmission source for HIV, has changed along with the increased threat of the virus.

"You try to take every precaution in your means to protect yourself and the athlete," Heaton said.

"The Magic Johnson incident is a tragedy, but it's opened your eyes that AIDS is something that shouldn't be taken lightly.

"When I was an assistant at Texas A&M, we instituted a policy of gloving before treating a wound. But it's hard to do on the sidelines when a kid comes off the field with a bloody nose, and then you're at risk.

"You think about it before treating an injury," Heaton added. "And I'm sure trainers around the city and nation are thinking the same. You're more aware of the threat out there, and I haven't heard of a trainer contracting AIDS, but I don't want to be that first one."

Said Willowridge trainer Michael Vara: "It's always a top consideration when you check the athlete, but treating the athlete is the top priority.

You just slip on a pair of gloves beforehand.

"You consider the risk in treating an athlete, since sexuality is often connected with them, and you wonder if they're more risk-taking just by nature."

A problem for high school trainers in dealing with the HIV problem is the lack of set guidelines on precautions against its transmittal. The National Athletic Trainers Association has yet to take a stand on the issue, leaving school districts and trainers to develop their own guidelines.

Some high school trainers use the universal precautions list provided by the NCAA for its institutions, but would like to see the NATA develop its own guidelines.

"The question has been addressed, and we're required to attend clinics and symposiums," said Langham Creek trainer Tom Woods, the second vice president of the Southwest Athletic Trainers Association. "But we have no basic guidelines organization-wide, so (at Langham Creek) we try to follow basic nurses' guidelines used by the Cy-Fair Independent School District.

"Those guidelines include avoidance of bodily fluids, the use of rubber gloves, and sanitation of treatment instruments. The gloves are now as much of the first-aid kit as tape and bandages.

"But saying gloves are the best approach would be selling us short," Woods said. "Awareness is our No. 1 tool in prevention, and knowledge is the best weapon."

Logan Wood, the head trainer for the Houston ISD's 21 high school and 35 middle school athletic programs, believes educating athletes and trainers should take place away from the field.

"Most of that has to come from the community, the schools and the family," Wood said. "The education is needed now in those sectors, and that will help."

"I know right after the Magic incident, many of the kids were shocked he could get it through heterosexual contact. An awareness is needed there, and it's something that has to be impressed upon the students."

Guidelines and education will become increasingly necessary according to one doctor, if just to alleviate unfounded fears.

"There's no doubt you could transmit the disease through athletics," said David Calvo, a Sugar Land sports medicine doctor. "But it's a finite possibility and would likely take an actual transfer of bodily fluids. There's no reason for hysteria or alarm."

"There needs to be guidelines so people aren't hysterical, since people sometimes make their own guidelines based on myth."

For now, the best preventive weapons against HIV are rubber gloves and the increased knowledge of the risks between athletes and trainers.

"We are at risk, and it's something we're dealing with," Woods said. "We have not shied away from giving quality care to the kids, but now we do it with a heightened awareness. We're taking a more dynamic role with educating our athletes with AIDS."

"When you're 16 or 17 and at the prime of athletics, you think you're invincible. But the Magic situation has helped us to educate athletes on prevention."

"It's not as hush-hush and taboo anymore," Woods said. "Kids are finding it good to bring it out into the open and see what's going on."

Weight Loss Surprises Researchers

WASHINGTON - A nutrition organization was hopeful that a nutritionally complete "hi-tech" food tablet would help erase world hunger problems, until a study revealed that one of the ingredients could cause significant weight loss.

Although other studies and scientists may not agree, researchers in Europe found that the ingredient, a natural plant colloid, actually caused people to lose weight, even though specifically instructed not to alter normal eating patterns, according to one study published in the prestigious British Journal of Nutrition. Researchers in an earlier study had speculated that the weight loss was due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories.

While the project of National Dietary Research, aptly named Food Source One, would not be used to successfully fulfill its original goal, the formula which has since been improved with other natural colloids has been a windfall for some overweight people. A Daytona Beach, Florida woman fighting a weight battle for 12 years used the product on the recommendation of her physician and lost 30 pounds. She stated, "Not only have I lost 30 pounds but my cholesterol has dropped from 232 to 143. I have two closets full of clothes which have not fit me in two years that I can now wear." In a separate report, a telephone interview revealed that a Wilmington, North Carolina pharmacist lost 14 pounds in 3 weeks on the product and was never hungry.

Food Source One tablets are part of National Dietary Research's comprehensive plan to bring a rapid end to obesity in this country. A variety of nutritionally sound diet plans, specially prepared by NDR, accompany each bottle and provide a natural, drug free alternative for confronting the problem of obesity.

6-0 Horned Frogs search for respect

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - When the Texas Christian Horned Frogs hit the road - which they'll do 19 times this year - they check their respect at the Texas border.

Some unknowing opponents want to know if they ever get to play the big Texas schools with big-time programs, like the University of Texas or the University of Houston. Others are certain to inquire about their nickname: Just what is a Horned Frog anyway?

"Tennessee, they thought we were a bible school," said TCU senior center Reggie Smith after the Frogs routed the Volunteers last week at the San Juan Shootout in Puerto Rico, which TCU won, by the way.

"We'd like people to think of us as a real competitive basketball school," Smith said. "That's what we'd like."

And with 24 victories in their last

34 games, including a 6-0 start this season, respect can't be too far away. Or can it?

Outside the Southwest Conference, "I don't think anybody's staying up losing any sleep over TCU," said Frogs coach Moe Iba.

But they might want to sit up, rub their eyes and take notice.

The Frogs have returned five starters and five reserves from last year's 18-10 team. They've got four seniors, four juniors and four sophomores sharing playing time this season.

Only a high-wire circus act is more balanced.

And few teams have more experience.

Top returnees include seniors Smith, guard Michael Strickland and forward Mark Moton, who led the Frogs to home victories over NCAA Tournament-bound Texas and Houston last year, a year after the Frogs also upset Texas and Arkansas at home.

Smith, 6-11 and 250 pounds, established himself last season as one of the Southwest's premier big men at both ends of the court. Smith has a deft shooting touch, especially with his hook. He averaged 17.5 points and 9.9 rebounds and earned All-SWC defensive honors in 1990-91.

Strickland, the Frogs' wiry backcourtman who spent much of last year at the point, has successfully lofted 1733-pointers in 62 games for TCU since arriving from Central Florida Community College.

A transfer from Santa Monica (Calif.) Junior College, Moton quickly adjusted to major college basketball last year, averaging 9.4 points and 5.8 rebounds. This year, he's averaging 13.7 points and 7.5 rebounds.

Smith is averaging 14.8 points and 9.8 boards, and Strickland leads the Frogs' balanced attack with 16.3 points per game.

Top newcomers include juniors Brent Atwater and Paul Tramble, who have shared time running the offense, allowing Strickland to relax and return to a true shooting guard.

Strickland has responded with 32 points against Tulsa, 24 against Iowa State and 21 against Tennessee.

Still, all but Smith are seeing less playing time now that Iba has recruited bona fide backups and others have emerged as solid replacements.

"We're winning because of the attitude of the players," Iba said. "They've accepted less playing time. Everybody except Reggie has been seeing fewer minutes."

The Frogs have won five games on the road so far this year, and Iba said that's a good thing because TCU will play all but 11 games away from Daniel-Meyer Coliseum.

Smith said the Frogs, who are seeking their first NCAA Tournament berth since 1987, actually enjoy the road.

"It takes the pressure off you," he said. "Our fans aren't there to be critical. And we just go out and win."

"But I've been here four years and TCU hasn't gotten any respect," Smith added. "Now we're starting to turn some heads."

"A lot of people across the country say since Arkansas is gone (to the Southeast Conference), the only teams in the Southwest Conference are Houston and Texas," Strickland added.

"But me, Mark, Albert (Thomas) and Reggie (the four seniors) said we're going to try to make this the best year TCU ever had. We started out 10-2 last year, before Christmas. So 6-0 doesn't surprise us. We're going to win a lot more games."

"It's nice to see good things happen to these kids early on," Iba said. "But that doesn't mean the rest of the season will be good."

And only by winning down the road - and on it - can the Frogs expect to dazzle more opponents and command more respect.

"I don't know if anybody will ever lose sleep over us," Iba said. "I guess that's up to us."

Ponies remain crippled by NCAA death penalty

An AP Sports Analysis
 By DENNE H. FREEMAN
 AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - Southern Methodist stands as a stark example of what happens when a school gets the NCAA death penalty.

It's as though the Mustangs' football program had been ground zero of a natural disaster.

Only this was an apocalypse they brought on themselves with a play-for-pay scheme that reached the chairman of the board of regents.

Still, the punishment may have been more onerous than the admitted crimes against amateurism.

SMU has just staggered through a 1-10 season under new coach Tom Rossley, who replaced now athletic director Forrest Gregg. In three seasons since the death penalty, the Mustangs have a grand total of four victories, none against Southwest Conference teams.

Gregg and Rossley and the current players on the SMU squad had nothing to do with the scandal. But they're the ones who are paying the piper.

On the final Saturday, to the credit of Rossley and his devastated program, the Mustangs gave a big scare to the No. 22 Tulsa, which prevailed 31-26 on a late touchdown drive. A brave announced crowd of 7,900 (at least half of them Tulsa partisans) looked on in bitter cold at ancient Ownby Stadium.

Several weeks earlier on homecoming, there were only 13,000 fans in the stands. Loyalty, obviously, is easier when a team is winning.

The only victory was 31-17 over Tulane. The Mustangs suffered eight thrashings by Southwest Conference foes.

Rossley was surprised. He had chided the media on the SWC press tour, guaranteeing that the Mustangs wouldn't finish last as the forecasters had predicted.

Perhaps they wouldn't have been in the cellar if quarterbacks Mike Romo and Dan Freiburger hadn't been hurt and they had to finish the season with inexperienced Todd Ritz.

Still, it was obvious the Mustangs were outclassed by their SWC competitors. After spending 22 years as an assistant coach, Rossley got a rude welcome into the head coaching world.

Rossley said SMU has got to recruit and "have a great off-season. We've got to be able to force things when we get to the fourth quarter. We just can't take it to the fourth quarter and not produce."

"We just couldn't find a way to win," wide receiver Jason Wolf said. "We've got to next year. We have to have a commitment ... we've got to get some leadership around here. We have to have people step up."

Critics say the Mustangs could have King Kong leading them and it would be fruitless. They say SMU's program will never have the depth and staying power to recruit and to succeed.

They say it's too hard to recruit because of the high academic standards and the sub-standard SMU athletic facility. They cite Baylor as an example of a private school doing things the correct way.

Maybe SMU's performance against Tulsa was an answer to those critics. T.J. Rubley, Tulsa's tremendous senior quarterback, defeated the Mustangs in the clutch, but it's no dishonor to lose to someone who will be playing on Sunday's next year.

"It was a test for us and we passed it," Rossley said. "This gives us something to build on and help our confidence going into the off-season."

No football program in America needs confidence more than SMU.

Japanese attack woke up Pearl Harbor, country

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A furtive moon played tag with trade wind clouds as Mrs. William Blackmore dropped her husband off for pre-dawn duty on the Navy tug Keosanqua.

"This is the quietest place I've ever seen," she said to the shadows. Thus Pearl Harbor in the early hours of Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941.

America's "Gibraltar of the Pacific" was sleeping.

Washington was sleeping. But 220 miles due north of Honolulu, the fliers of kido butai - the six-carrier Japanese "Striking Force" - were wide awake, finishing a ceremonial breakfast of red rice and red snapper before they reached for infamy.

After 50 years of hindsight, the most surprising thing about the surprise attack on Pearl Harbor was that it was a surprise, at all. Americans had been reading Japan's secret Purple diplomatic code for a year. The military in Washington had warned President Franklin D. Roosevelt and his staff that the attack was only days if not hours away.

But in their overconfidence and amid a blizzard of conflicting signals and code intercepts, few if any Americans thought anything made in Japan - whose products were disdained as synonymous with tin - would be audacious enough to strike at Pearl Harbor.

Actually, the first shots that Sunday in Hawaii were from the U.S. destroyer Ward. Her skipper of but two days, Lt. William Outerbridge, radioed at 0651 that his ship had fired on a submarine in forbidden waters off the mouth of the huge naval base.

At 0700, a plane on patrol around Pearl reported - in code, despite orders to signal in plain text in an emergency - that it had sunk a sub with depth charges. After some delays, Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, commander of the Pacific Fleet, was notified. "I'll be right down," he said, forgoing a golf date with his Army counterpart, Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short.

There had been another epiphany. At Kahuku Point on the northern tip of Oahu, Pvt. Joseph L. Lockard and George E. Elliott had been on duty since 4 a.m., familiarizing themselves with a new marvel that could "see" 130 miles to sea - radar. (The National Park Service and Hawaii's governor had vetoed placing the new sets on high ground lest they mar the landscape). At 0702 Elliott saw "something completely out of the ordinary" - a huge blip due north.

Control room operators told them it was a flight of Flying Fortresses due to land in California. Lockard kept track of the blip ... 0715, 88 miles ...

The blip was seen by Lockard figured the set was broken. They looked it out at 0745. The blip disappeared behind Oahu's mountains. The soldiers stood up to get some breakfast.

In Washington, code breakers waited for the last part of a 14-part message Tokyo began sending its negotiators the day before Sunday. The last part broke on peace negotiations and did not declare war in so many words.

The intent, however, was clear. War. Imminently.

The message was to be delivered to Secretary of State Cordell Hull by 1300 Washington time, 0730 in Hawaii. But it was delayed over an hour due to an inefficient typist at the Japanese Embassy. (Thus war came from Japan, as it had to Russia in 1904, before the declaration of it. That was why Roosevelt was to call it infamy.)

Washington already knew two Japanese invasion convoys had been sighted heading for British Malaya. Roosevelt feared there would be other strikes against the Philippines, Guam, even Wake and Midway islands. But certainly not Pearl Harbor. Unthinkable.

Nonetheless Short was sent a warning - by commercial telegraph so the Japanese wouldn't suspect their code had been broken. It wasn't even marked "urgent."

Meanwhile, on Battleship Row at Pearl, Seaman Leslie Short clambered up to a foretop machine-gun station on the Maryland to address Christmas cards. At 0755, the battleship Nevada's band watched the "P" for "prep" flag rise over the sub base water tank and got ready for the 0800 rendition of "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Sharp-eyed bandmen noticed planes converging on Pearl from all points of the compass. On the battleship California, a crewman noticed red balls on the wings of low-flying planes - torpedoes.

"The Russians must have a carrier visiting us," he said. Cmdr. Logan Ramsey saw a plane diving at Ford Island in the middle of the bay. "I thought it was some floundering" until he saw a carrier. He grabbed a mike: "Air raid on Pearl Harbor! This is no drill!"

At first some pilot was ordered to drop live ammunition over the place. The truth was not in drawing. Fireman Charles Keane was easing himself in the head of the destroyer tender Dobbin when Waterman Samuel Cucuk hollered at him: "You better see that shorts Charlie. The Japs are here!"

One of the Nevada's musicians finished the national anthem under strafing and torpedo attack and then shoved his cornet into an ammo hoist in his excitement. On the destroyer Monaghan, Boatswain's Mate Thomas Donahue scanned the uproar quizzically: "Hell, I didn't even know they were mad at us."

Others made a swift transition from a Sabbath day of rest to America's first day of World War II. "Praise the Lord and pass the ammunition," exhorted Chaplain Howell Forgy on the cruiser New Orleans, helping load anti-aircraft guns.

The most murderous hit came at about 0810 when an armor-piercing bomb crashed through the battleship Arizona's deck near No. 2 turret and exploded in a fuel tank. Seven seconds later 1.7 million pounds of gunpowder blew up, killing more than 1,000 of her crew.

"Looks like they've got Oklahoma," said a Navy wife as the Oklahoma turned turtle. "Yes, I see they have," said her stunned neighbor, Adm. Kimmel. (Later a spent bullet hit him in the chest, smudging his white uniform. "It would have been better if it had killed me," he said.)

Seaman Short dropped his Christmas cards and began firing. A deck officer threw potatoes at the planes in frustration. At Schofield Barracks all the mules were let out to give them a fighting chance on their own. In the flaming ruin of Hickam Field a phone rang persistently. The caller wanted to know what all the noise was about.

P-40 pilots George Welsh and Ken Taylor had been up all night playing poker after coming over from the

RED SUNS BLAZING

The planes, bright Red Suns blazing on their wings, fly on. Some head for U.S. airfields while the others aim at Pearl Harbor. Capt. Fuchida, commander of the attack, signals the fleet at 7:53 a.m. with the code phrase that surprise has been achieved "Tora! Tora! Tora!"

The first torpedoes slam into the cruiser Raleigh and target ship Utah, at 7:55 a.m. The cruiser Helena and minelayer Oglala are next. Then, along "Battleship Row," the Nevada, Oklahoma, West Virginia and California.

Within minutes, an uncoded signal is radioed to the mainland: "AIR RAID PEARL HARBOR! THIS IS NO DRILL!"

Ammunition on many ships is locked up and most anti-aircraft guns are unmanned, delaying American resistance.

A bomb plunges down the smokestack of the battleship Arizona and blows up a boiler and the forward magazine, ripping the ship asunder. More than 1,100 men die.

At U.S. airfields, Japanese pilots find planes lined up wingtip-to-wingtip to make it easier to guard against sabotage. The fields are left smoldering junkyards.

ATTACK

Haleiwa fighter strip for a dance. With Taylor still wearing tuxedo pants, they got their fighters airborne and shot down seven Japanese planes before they were through.

But the eight dreadnaughts on Battleship Row were sitting ducks for the new shallow-diving torpedoes. So were the U.S. planes. Short had unwisely grouped them in clusters without ammo or fuel for fear of sabotage - unwarranted, as it turned out - by Hawaii's 160,000 inhabitants of Japanese descent.

One of them, Daniel Inouye, a senior at McKinley High School, looked skyward as he furiously pedaled his bike to help at an aid station. "You dirty Japs!" exclaimed the future U.S. senator.

The first wave of 183 attack planes ravaged Pearl Harbor for half an hour. Word reached the White House at about the same time as Arizona blew up. Roosevelt told Hull just before the Japanese peace negotiators arrived with their message. The mountaineer diplomat from Tennessee dealt with them with icy fury. "Scoundrels! Pissants!" he muttered as they bowed out with no one to shake their hands.

Pendleton Army Air Base in Oregon, Pfc. Ross Sheldon was a doubter until someone told him civilians downtown were standing servicemen free drinks. "That clinches it," he said.

A second wave struck another body blow from 0915 to 0945. Of the 92 U.S. warships in port - fortuitously, none of the Pacific Fleet's three carriers was there - 18 were sunk or heavily damaged, including five battleships; 188 planes were destroyed, 2,403 military personnel and civilians killed. Among them were victims of trigger-happy sentries who shot at anything that moved in fear of imminent invasion. One civilian was shot dead reaching through a fence to retrieve his hat that had blown off.

The last flier back to the carriers was Cmdr. Mitsuo Fuchida, the attack leader. He and others pleaded with Adm. Chuichi Nagumo, commander of kido butai, to press further attacks, particularly on the untouched oil depots without which the surviving U.S. warships would have been useless. Nagumo, always lukewarm about the high-risk plan, was adamant and turned homeward.

Back in Japan Adm. Isoroku Yamamoto had been monitoring the progress of his brainchild. An apostle of air power, he devised the attack to cripple the U.S. fleet and protect Japan's flank while it seized the oil and rubber of Malaya and the Dutch East Indies.

A Harvard graduate who knew America's potential strength a first hand, Yamamoto had no illusions about the outcome of a war with an industrial colossus. But he was a lifelong gambler who also saw more to win in honorable defeat than in survival under the supposed domination of the United States. (His pilots felt the same way. They flew to Pearl Harbor without parachutes, believing more in death in honor of Emperor Hirohito than survival via cords and woven fabric).

Yamamoto called Nagumo's timidity "second-class thinking." In terms of his passion for bridge, he described the attack results as "a small slam, barely made."

Inexplicable, then and now, was the destruction of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Philippine air force. Ten hours after Pearl Harbor the planes were still spotted as neatly as bowling pins at Clark Field in perfect target formation for Japanese attackers.

"Whatthehell!" roared Air Force Commander Lt. Gen. Henry H. "Hap" Arnold when he learned of this second Pearl Harbor.

The moon rose over the carnage of the real Pearl Harbor after midnight that Sunday. Those still up saw a lunar rainbow through the smoke of the day's battle. By ancient Hawaiian tradition it signalled approaching victory.

It did, indeed, in time. Adm. Onishi had been dead right. Pearl Harbor, as perhaps nothing else could have, made Americans fighting mad. All of them.

KPAN's new bumper stickers

Captain Billy, morning air personality at KPAN in Hereford, sticks one of the radio station's new bumper stickers on the back of unsuspecting Speedy Nieman's minivan on Friday afternoon. After a week of searching, the bumper stickers were found Friday afternoon and distributed. The bumper stickers promote the station's recent conversion to stereo on the FM side at 106.3 mhz.

Gun club to hold shoot Sunday

The Hereford Gun Club will hold its last turkey shoot of the year at 1:30 p.m. Sunday at the range near Hereford Municipal Airport (weather permitting).

News of the attack was an unforgettable thunderclap to millions of Americans. America First isolationists became instant patriots. One of the few Japanese to oppose the attack, Adm. Takijiro Onishi, predicted the ambush raid on Pearl Harbor would make Americans "insanely mad."

Many Americans couldn't believe the first flashes from Oahu. At

JFK: The Movie

EDITOR'S NOTE - Academy Award-winning director Oliver Stone has been accused of scuttling history with his latest movie, "JFK." The plot has been shrouded in secrecy, but the vexing subject the movie tackles still seduces many to the scene of a president's assassination.

"I had plenty of problems when I came into this office. But wait until the fellow who follows me sees what he will inherit." - John F. Kennedy.

By JOHN A. BOLT
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) - Dealey Plaza is much the same today as it was 28 years ago, but the events that happened there changed the rest of us in ways we'll never know. Visitors trek to this spot on the west end of downtown as if to a shrine. You can see them every day: pointing, looking, wondering. There's the window. Here's "the grassy knoll."

Look, could this chip in the curb be from that day?

Here is where John Fitzgerald Kennedy - and innocence - died.

"You don't know what really happened," said Arlene Eppinga, standing in the plaza. Eppinga, from Walnut Creek, Calif., was visiting friends in a Dallas suburb and a trip to Dealey Plaza was a must.

"Everyone who comes here, you have to show it to 'em," said her guide, John Sittema.

Dallas also changed that day. "It shocked the city into growing up. It may have begun a new era of maturity," says Pierce Allman, at the time director of programming and production at WFAA-TV and one of the first to report the shooting.

"It wasn't just a shock felt in Dallas, it was felt regionwide and nationwide," Allman says.

"It was when that fragile tissue of civility that barely holds us together was rudely shattered and it was so real to a lot of people because of radio and television."

There are many theories on who killed Kennedy on Nov. 22, 1963. The official version is that Lee Harvey Oswald, acting alone, fired the fatal shots from the sixth floor of the Texas School Book Depository on the north side of Dealey Plaza.

But there are many skeptics, including director Oliver Stone whose upcoming movie, "JFK," opens Dec. 20. Though the movie's plot has been shrouded in secrecy, the Academy Award-winning director is said to offer up a solution to perhaps the most puzzling crime of the century. The Warner Bros. release stars Kevin Costner as Jim Garrison, Gary Oldman as Lee Harvey Oswald and Tommy Lee Jones as Clay Shaw.

Much of the movie was filmed in Dallas.

Dealey Plaza, still a key entry point into downtown, was blocked for several days last summer while the assassination was re-created. One newspaper columnist suggested it was a sign of maturity that many in the city were more concerned about traffic problems than Dallas' image.

Stone explores several theories on assassination

County commissioners weren't so sure. Before allowing Stone to use the book depository, they extracted a promise that he would give them a private screening so they could decide whether they wanted credit, or a disclaimer.

Kennedy, the youngest man ever elected president, appeared triumphant in his trip through downtown Dallas that day. Cheering crowds lined the streets; a large luncheon crowd awaited at the Dallas Market Center.

Nellie Connally, Gov. John Connally's wife, had just remarked on how friendly the reception was - maybe the president had forgotten about the newspaper ads that accused him of treason.

The 21-foot-long 1961 Lincoln Continental turned right from Main Street onto Houston Street, and then a quick left onto Elm, right in front of the book depository.

Suddenly, shots were fired.

"Just as they turned (onto Elm), I heard the first explosion," says Allman, who is now a public relations consultant.

"That's still the descriptive term. It was not a thin, brittle sharp sound. It was a loud reverberating sound. ... While I was still wondering what was going on, a second and then a third."

In his first radio report, given from inside the book depository, Allman described it as "three loud, reverberating explosions."

The Warren Commission concluded that Oswald fired three shots from the book depository, and Allman says he saw people on the lower floors look up.

But many critics claim the fatal shots came from what is now known as the grassy knoll, a small rise down the street from the corner.

Stone's movie is expected to take a look at various conspiracy theories - especially those that feature the Central Intelligence Agency. The script is based on the book by Garrison, the former New Orleans District Attorney.

Allman believes the assassination "was a wound that has healed."

But, he says, "It was kind of puzzling to me why Dallas bore such a stigma when Los Angeles didn't for the death of Robert Kennedy and Memphis for Martin Luther King."

NO still rankled by Garrison exploits

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Even though it's been 22 years since Jim Garrison prosecuted a highly respected New Orleans businessman on charges he conspired to assassinate President Kennedy, passions still simmer over the case.

When Oliver Stone began filming "JFK" last summer, The Times-Picayune began carrying letters praising the film or condemning it as an attempt to aggrandize a shameful episode.

The film, which stars Kevin Costner as Garrison, features Garrison himself as U.S. Supreme Court Justice Earl Warren, whose Warren Commission report declared Lee Harvey Oswald the lone assassin 10 months after Kennedy was killed in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963.

Rosemary James, a reporter who covered the investigation and trial, criticized the film and Garrison. Her letter said Garrison fabricated a new conspiracy about the assassination almost daily in 1967 and '68.

"I know for a fact that Garrison deliberately proceeded with a fraudulent case against Clay Shaw," Ms. James said.

She said Garrison selected a scapegoat for political purposes, then set about destroying one of the most creative business and cultural leaders New Orleans ever produced.

"Now comes a gullible from La Land with a $60 million budget who wants to regurgitate all of that garbage," Ms. James said in her letter to the editor. "Many of us who call New Orleans home are offended by the fact that, once again, our city is about to be propelled into the limelight as a subject of national ridicule."

Stone responded: "James complains that Shaw was prosecuted with a 'fraudulent case' and that Garrison's witnesses were 'lunatic publicity hounds.' The truth is that the prosecution was sabotaged by the federal government from day one."

He said she incorrectly claimed that he bought "Jim Garrison's fictional script."

The truth was, he said, that he and Zachary Sklar wrote the script for "JFK" based on a variety of sources.

"Sadly, James seems unable to grasp that 'JFK' is not the Jim Garrison story or the Clay Shaw story," Stone said. "It is a film exploring who killed Kennedy and why."

In 1969, Garrison, a hulking man of 6 foot 6 who wears size 14 shoes, packed a pistol under his coat and was called the "Jolly Green Giant" around the criminal courthouse.

During his heyday Garrison tangled with the police, all eight of the city's Criminal District Court judges and the entire Louisiana Legislature.

Garrison became a national celebrity when he prosecuted Shaw for allegedly conspiring with Lee Harvey Oswald and others to kill President Kennedy.

The case turned into a nationally publicized farce.

One of Garrison's star witnesses died under mysterious circumstances. Another witness related under cross-examination how he fingerprinted his daughter each time she came home from school to make sure a spy hadn't taken her identity.

The prosecution consisted primarily of an attack on the Warren report and the testimony of a number of unusual witnesses.

After a two-year investigation and 34-day trial, the jury took less than an hour to acquit Shaw.

Although Garrison vigorously pursued the case and still insists he was right, his prosecution of Shaw was ridiculed in the press. The Times-Picayune looked back on the trial in a 1983 series titled "The Case That Never Was."

Shaw, who died Aug. 15, 1974, obtained a federal restraining order after the trial blocking further prosecution by Garrison in connection with the assassination. The judge who issued the order said the arrest and the publicity it received was "outrageous and inexcusable."

Higher courts, including the U.S. Supreme Court, refused to hear Garrison's case against Shaw.

Garrison, now 69, retired from the state's 4th Circuit Court of Appeal last month because of ill health. He was elected to the judgeship in 1978.

The former district attorney did not return telephone calls. A secretary at the court said he was too ill to talk to a reporter.

Jay C. Albarado, a member of the grand jury that indicted Shaw, said he believed after the trial that Shaw was innocent, but he still believes a basis for the prosecution existed.

"There is no doubt there was a conspiracy and part of it took place in the New Orleans area," said Albarado.

Christmas traditions reveal life, values of yester year

By DANEE' WILSON
Lifestyles Editor

When the word Christmas is heard, family, friends, gifts and the Christ child usually come to mind. Seldom do we stop to reflect how the holiday began and where and when traditions practiced today got started.

As far back as history records Christmas, it is believed to have been first celebrated as a derivative of pagan feasts that celebrated the coming of winter.

Pope Julius I (pope from 337-352) was the first to officially declare Dec. 25 as the date of Christ's birth.

From Dec. 17 until Dec. 23, Romans celebrated the ancient feast of the Saturnalia, a period of merrymaking and jubilation.

The New Year celebration of the Kalends in the Teutonic and Celtic areas of northern and western Europe began in November. After the Romans had conquered the northwestern lands, and introduced Christianity in the process, the celebration lasted from early November until the end of January.

During this time, houses were decorated with greenery and candles, gifts were exchanged, long and bountiful feasts were held, and there were various fire rites.

During the reformation, the Puritans nearly obliterated Christmas entirely.

The Puritans believed there was no biblical sanction for the celebration of Christmas and the group did not tolerate the celebration.

In 1643, the Roundhead Parliament outlawed feasts of Christmas, Easter and Whitsuntide, along with the saints' days.

Clergymen were imprisoned for preaching on Christmas Day. The parish officers of St. Margaret's, Westminster, and others, were fined for decorating the church with rosemary and bay.

After observations of the holidays continued, Puritans enforced stricter measures. Riots broke out in London, Oxford, Ipswich, Canterbury, and the county of Kent.

Citizens reclaimed Christmas in 1660, during the restoration.

Christmas was brought to the New World with Columbus in 1492.

Around 1700, the Germans began settling in the colonies and with them came the most universal Christmas customs: the Christmas tree and Kriss Kringle.

The diminishing objection to Christmas was probably brought by the rapid growth of the country.

Charles Dickens' writings were influential in forming the modern Christmas spirit of "a good time; a kind, forgiving, charitable, pleasant time."

Among the more popular traditions of Christmas is the eagerly awaiting of Santa Claus's arrival.

This jolly old man that delivers gifts to good children on Christmas day is actually a combination of several trends, customs and beliefs that only unified about a century and a half ago. He is known by three names in America: St. Nicholas, Kriss

Kringle, and Santa Claus.

The original St. Nicholas is a shadowy character lost in myths. It is known that he was Bishop of Myra in Asia Minor during the first half of the fourth century, was exiled and imprisoned during the persecution by Diocletian and was set free by Constantine the Great.

ST. NICHOLAS...circa 1700s
Early bearer of gifts to good children

With time, the Presbyterians, Quakers, and Puritans accepted such customs as the Christmas tree, gifts and the Christmas feast.

They still spoke out against the corruption of the "Christkindl," the Christ Child, into "Kriss Kringle." Religious groups of the day were worried that the Christmas trend was non-religious.

Alabama was the first state to grant legal recognition of Christmas in 1836.

CHRISTMAS

with Christmas is his generosity. He is supposed to have delivered a fortune to the poor.

The most famous story surrounding St. Nick tells the tale of how he heard of a nobleman who had lost his wealth and was on the verge of selling his three daughters to recoup his fortunes. When St. Nicholas heard about the man's plight he tossed a filled purse into the nobleman's home on three nights.

He developed into a giver of gifts to children, visiting them on the eve of his feast day, Dec. 6.

In Europe, his impersonator, even today, usually wears a bishop's garb, complete with miter and crozier. A long white beard flows freely from his lean chin and he questions the children to see if they have studied their Catechism and have behaved well. Before leaving, he treats them to fruit and candy and small gifts.

Dutch children put a wooden shoe by the fireplace before going to bed. The shoe is lined with straw on which an apple is laid. The straw is for St. Nicholas' donkey and "swarte Piet," or "black Pete," his servant, gets the apple.

SANTA CLAUS...1840s-present
Modern bearer of gifts, combination of St. Nicholas and Kriss Kringle.

The reformation lessened the popularity of St. Nicholas and banished him from some countries. A more secular man took his place known as Christmas Man. In England he was called Father Christmas, in France, Papa Noel.

The Dutch held onto St. Nicholas and Dec. 6 was retained in America by Dutch settlers as a day in honor of "Sinterklaas" a form of St. Nicholas.

When the Dutch lost control of New Amsterdam to the English in the 17th century, Sinterklaas gradually became anglicized into Santa Claus and acquired some of the features of the English Father Christmas. His visit on Dec. 5 was changed to Christmas Eve. He still came during the night to leave presents for the children.

The workshop at the North Pole, the sleigh with its reindeer and the slide down the chimney are said to have been appropriated from the Christmas Man.

In some areas, Santa Claus traveled on foot or in a wagon.

The Germans and German-Swiss who settled in Pennsylvania who settled in Pennsylvania in the eighteenth century held the custom that the Christ child, the Christkindl, brought gifts for the children on Christmas Eve.

He rode his gray or white mule which was loaded with presents.

Straw was left for the mule and either a bread basket, a hat, or a plate was set out for the nuts, cookies, and candies of the Christkindl. The tiny child was supposed to have entered the house through the keyhole.

Christkindl suffered a more drastic change than Sinterklaas. He turned into Kriss Kringle who turned into Santa Claus, who was also St. Nicholas.

The present image of Santa Claus and St. Nicholas was the working of Dr. Clement Clarke Moore and Thomas Nast.

Moore authored the widely popular poem "The Night Before Christmas," to read to his children on Christmas Eve. The New York Sentinel published the poem later and has been reprinted many times since.

Thomas Nast, a 19th century American cartoonist, was primarily responsible for the fat and rosey-cheeked appearance of our modern Santa.

From 1863 until 1886 Nast did a series of Christmas drawings for "Harper's Weekly." These drawings exhibited a gradual change from an elf-like creature to a full-bodied, bearded, and lavish bell ringer.

Nast showed how Santa spent his year making toys, spying on children and posed atop a chimney. These presentations have been almost unchanged.

Between the Covers

By JOE WEAVER

As I read reviews and jacket blurbs of new books, certain words, designed to influence people to read (or at least buy) the book, continue to crop up with amazing frequency. Sometimes this has the opposite effect - I wouldn't read the book for love or money. (Well, tell me how much money, first!) One of these words is "compelling". Although I enjoy reading, and have read a number of books covering a variety of topics, I must admit that I have been "compelled" to read very few (disregarding those required for school work - but that's a different kind of compulsion). With that in mind, I offer a couple of exceptions. Under Fire is Oliver North's "compelling" autobiography, from his birth in Texas (I didn't know that!), through his "Norman Rockwell" childhood in upstate New York, his service in Vietnam, and the inside story of the Iran-Contra Affair. North was involved in the interception of the hijackers who seized the Achille Lauro and in the bombing of Libya, and gives his unique perspective on those events. He also writes of the importance of his family and his enduring faith, which have seen him through the toughest times. Many have been asking for this book - now it's here!

Dear Family is the other "compelling" book this week. A few weeks ago I stuck my neck out by calling a sleazy novel "a sleazy novel". This week I'm sticking it out again in the other Bittle recounts the triumphs and tragedies of an American family as they fight through the Great Depression, World War II, and beyond. Reminiscent of The Waltons, this novel looks to be a classic "feel good" tale, which are so rare these days. One thing that's obvious in books (and records) - just because the author (or recording artist) dies, doesn't mean that they are unproductive for those left behind. You thought you had read everything that Laura Ingalls Wilder had to offer, didn't you? Not so. We present... Little House In The Ozarks! This new book is not written in the typical "Little House" style, but is a collection of Wilder's rediscovered writings, ninety percent of which have never been published in book form. This amazing lady who grew up in log cabins and sod shanties, yet lived to fly in jet airliners is always worth reading. Her humor and spunk transcend the years and her observations and insights will warm your heart and touch you life. It's rare in history to find uprisings, such as have recently taken place in eastern Europe, without some sort of spiritual basis. Niels Nielsen has travelled Europe widely over thirty years and knows many of the individuals who played central parts in the upheavals, and tells of their visions and their works in Revolutions in Eastern Europe; The Religious Roots. Nielsen probes areas untouched by national news media, shedding light on many of the unreported and underreported events leading up to and during the revolutions, and offering a different perspective than you'll get just about anywhere else. Other good non-fiction going out this week includes: Parenting Mom and Dad, a guide for the grown up children of aging parents, by Michael T. Lefvy. Good Rockin' Tonight by Colin Escott. This is an account of Sun Records and the birth of Rock 'n' Roll. And a couple of biographies dealing with Carl Sandburg and Frederick W. Taylor. Rounding out the non-fiction shelf are: A new novel by Garrison Keillor of Lake Wobegone fame - WLT, a "radio romance...a comic, poignant, slightly steamy novel" about the early days of radio. ...and two mysteries...Pride's Harvest, a Scobie Malone mystery by Jon Cleary, and Steel Guitar, a Carlota Carlyle mystery, by Linda Barnes. BY THE WAY...we have all our Christmas oriented books on one table now, so come by and browse.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you printed an interesting letter from the mother of a college student whose roommate entertained her boyfriend in their dorm room all night. The mother didn't know what to do and blamed the school authorities. You enlisted the help of some heavy hitters to respond--Rev. Theodore Hesburg, president emeritus of the University of Notre Dame; Derek Bok, former president of Harvard University; Benno Schmidt Jr., president of Yale University, and George Roche, president of Hillsdale College in Michigan.

Each of these educators gave thoughtful and relevant responses, but a column by Magdalena Naylor is a psychiatrist and Thomas Naylor is a professor of economics at Duke University, so they should know what they're talking about. The Naylor's cited a recent study by the U.S. surgeon general reporting that the nation's 23 million college students drink nearly 4 billion cans of beer and enough wine and liquor to bring their annual consumption of alcoholic beverages up to 34 gallons apiece. It also was noted by the authors that there is a far more serious problem than alcohol and drug abuse, and that is a lack of purpose or meaning in these students' lives. The authors claim college students have no incentive to delay gratification, because they have so little faith in the future. They want to "have it all"--NOW. The Naylor's also point to the conclusion of a recent study by the American Medical Association and the National Association of State Boards of Education: "Never before has one generation of American teen-agers been less healthy, less cared-for and less prepared for life than their parents were at the same age." Their most serious problems are alcohol abuse, sexual promiscuity and violence. I find all this frightening. You have your pulse on the American public. Is this a super gloomy assessment or what?--D.R.B.

students to show a driver's license, birth certificate or passport before being served alcohol at any student function. The school says this change is part of a nationwide college trend to cut down on campus drinking.

The Naylor's cannot speak for all college students. I know many who are drug-free, energetic, focused and eager to take on the world. I'd like to hear from the college students. How about it? Are the Naylor's right?

Do you have questions about sex, but no one to talk to? Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," is frank and to the point. LEARN WHAT CHRISTMAS SAFETY'S ABOUT!

A CHRISTMAS SAFETY CHECK

- Before hanging strings of lights, spread them on the floor and check for frayed or bare wires, cracked insulation, loose connections, and damaged plugs or light sockets.
- Check extension cords for wear or damage and don't run them across walking areas.
- Test lights before putting them on the tree. Unplug them before making repairs or replacing bulbs.
- Overloading circuits with too many lights can cause fire. Follow manufacturer's instructions about the number of lights allowed on one circuit.
- Never string lights on a metallic tree.
- Choose a fresh, green tree, trim its base and keep it in plenty of water. If the needles are brown and break off easily, it could be a fire risk.
- If you buy an artificial tree, make sure it has been tested for flammability by Underwriters Laboratories (UL).
- Always turn off lights before leaving home or going to bed. You'll save money and be safer, too.
- Do not use inside lights on the outside. All outside lighting equipment, including lights, cords and plugs, should be waterproof and made for outdoor use. Also, hang sockets downward and don't leave a socket empty.
- When hanging lights on the rooftop or in tall trees outdoors, stay clear of electrical lines.

A special feature number will be "A Musicological Journey Through the Twelve Days of Christmas," by Courtney, an amusing arrangement with parodies classical compositions during the past four centuries.

Some 35 Hereford, Dimmitt and Vega adults compose the chorus of musicians who love to sing and share their vocal talents with others. The group has been organized since 1974 and has traveled as the Panhandle's ambassadors to Australia and Romania.

Noontime temperatures at the lunar equator reach 212 degrees Fahrenheit, the boiling point of water. Had one of the Apollo astronauts dropped an egg into a small hole in a lunar boulder, it would have dropped slowly in the one sixth of Earth's gravity, without breaking, and boiled and congealed quickly.

YOUR EYES

"PERFECT" 20/20?

When visual acuity is tested, what does 20/20 mean? Only that the eyes can see clearly at 20 feet what most normal eyes can. But many other visual skills are involved in seeing. The familiar eye chart -- the one with the E on top -- is just the most basic vision test. Your optometrist is more thorough, and will measure other factors:

- Can you see clearly to read at arm's length? (near vision)
- Can you focus quickly from near vision to far and back again?
- Is side vision clear?
- Do two eyes focus together? Can you judge distance accurately?
- Can your eyes follow a moving object easily?

Where these visual skills are deficient, a person may experience problems like headaches, eye fatigue, or learning difficulties -- despite having 20/20 distance vision. That's why it's so important to see your optometrist for a thorough examination.

Miller honored with birthday celebration

Mrs. Gladys Miller was honored by her family on her 87 birthday in Austin over the Thanksgiving holidays.

Her grandchildren, Jeff and Debbie Purnell, gave a dinner party in their home for the entire family. Debbie is the daughter of the late Robert Miller and Barbara Miller.

Sunday afternoon, Cliff and Lynda Rutherford, with Lynda's mother, Joy Deenes, gave a family picnic at a park in Round Rock.

The family enjoyed playing games and a cake decorating contest. Barbara Miller and her children won with a cake made in the form of the Miller home and farm. The honoree surprised everyone with her own 30-year-old fruit cake.

All of Mrs. Miller's sisters and brothers were in attendance. There were over 40 family members there. Family came from Dallas, Midland, Houston, Lubbock, San Antonio and Raymondville.

Mrs. Miller passed out cards with one of her short proverbs printed on them for all the family members.

Thank you for your friendship and condolences extended to our family during our recent loss. Your thoughtfulness sent by cards, gifts, letters, flowers, food and kind words of sympathy helped us in this most difficult time. We especially appreciate the kindness and care we recieved from the Gilliland-Watson funeral home and the crew of Herefod EMS.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

Stuff Happens

Recently, I saw a sign in a retail store that made me smile. The sign was strategically located over a stack of environmentally correct diapers. It was adorned with a picture of a sweet little teddy bear and said simply "Poo-Poo Happens."

It brought to mind a bumper sticker I first saw on the back of a Texas cattle truck. The message was the same but more crudely stated. If you've ever followed a loaded live-stock transporter spreading the not so subtle odor of used alfalfa in its wake, you get the message.

Right about now some of you are asking, "What does this have to do with my business?" That's a fair question, so let me try to explain. When you are in business, stuff happens. It is normal and natural, although not always pleasant.

In the real world checks bounce, trains de-rail, suppliers don't ship, customers won't pay, equipment breaks, snow falls and air conditioners fail. We may not like it, but stuff still happens.

How you react when stuff happens may have a significant impact on your physical and mental well being. Most of the events that happen follow Murphy's law: What ever can go wrong will go wrong. Here are a few tips on handling the unexpected.

Plan for the Unexpected
You should expect the unexpected. Good planners will always make provisions for unexpected events. Many small businesses survive because the owners ask "what if" questions.

What if our customers don't pay? Will we need to borrow money? Can we get a line-of-credit? How much cash should we hold in reserve?

Many small business owners suffer cash flow problems because they expect all customers to pay in full and on time. Anticipating "slow pay" in advance, allows the owner to hold cash reserves or line up working capital.

What if suppliers don't ship? Are there other sources for the same products or inventory? Would they do business with us on short notice? Can we get our credit pre-approved with them now?

Recently, we worked with a small manufacturer who had put together a strong business plan. The only weakness in his plan was that he had only one source of supply for critical components. He is gambling the success of his business on the ability of one supplier to produce and deliver the needed parts on time.

Having an alternate source for components, cash and credit is an important part of contingency planning. If you can anticipate what may happen, you can often solve a problem before it has negative impact on your business.

Don't Over react

I recently read a little prayer on the wall of a friend's office. It said, "Lord, help me change the things I can change, accept the things I can't change and grant me the wisdom to know the difference."

When stuff happens, there will be some things we can't change. So stay calm and don't over react. Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "Keep cool: it will all be one a hundred years hence." Ask yourself three questions: 1) Can I alter the outcome? 2) Will this crisis significantly change my life? 3) Will others be affected by the outcome? If the answer is no, then relax and go on about your business. Staying calm will benefit your blood pressure and stress level and it will steady those around you.

Sir Winston Churchill told a story of an elderly man on his death bed. The man reportedly said that he had a lot of trouble in his life, most of which never happened. I do not want any of you to be troubled by what might happen. Don't worry, but do plan carefully and anticipate likely events. then you will have a plan in place when stuff happens. You may write to Don Taylor in c/o Minding Your Own Business, P.O. Box 67, Amarillo, Texas 79105.

Question-Answer

By POPULAR MECHANICS For AP Newsfeatures

Q. - We live in a drought area and I'm concerned about the amount of water wasted while running the tap to get hot water in my bathroom. My water heater is at one end of my home and my bathroom is at the other end. In order to get hot water through the faucets, at least 80 feet of cold water has to come out of the hot-water line. Is it possible to continue the hot-water line past the bathroom and then return it to the water heater? Will this save a lot of water?

A. - The hot-water system that you have, like those in most residential systems, is a non-circulating type. It is generally installed because it costs less for labor and materials than a circulating hot-water system. Even though the non-circulating system is very common, it does have the disadvantage you describe.

You can convert your system to a circulating hot-water system by installing a return loop on the distribution line which runs from the last faucet to the hot-water heater. If the elevation difference between the hot-water heater and the faucets is greater than 5 feet, then the hot-water circulation can usually be achieved by gravity, the so-called thermo-siphon system. This works because hot water rises, forcing the cooler water down.

If there is a long horizontal run in the pipes or if there is less than a 5-foot height difference between the boiler and the faucet, the thermo-siphon system won't work and you'll need a pump to circulate the hot water.

This system, often used in hospitals where instant hot water is required, has the advantage of making it available at all fixtures as soon as you turn on the tap. Continuous circulation between the hot-water storage tank and the faucet does the job.

A circulating system will also save some water. Assuming you have a 3/4-inch diameter water pipe between the hot-water heater and the tap, the 80-foot pipe will hold about 1.8 gallons of water. This would be wasted while waiting for the hot water to come through.

However, a circulating system can be energy-efficient because you have to heat the water which then cools down in the pipe when you do not use it. Insulating the pipes very thoroughly can help minimize this heat loss.

'Civil Wars' makes no history

Sydney Guilford (Mariel Hemingway) and Charlie Howell (Peter Onorati) are two talented Manhattan lawyers who specialize in divorce and divorce-related cases in the dramatic series Civil Wars, airing Wednesday on ABC.

Bochco drama predictably quirky

By Suzanne Gill

Producer Steven Bochco, that latter-day impresario of television dramas, has risen from the ashes of Cop Rock to give his patron, ABC, what looks like a fully formed hit for its Wednesday-night lineup. Over the last decade, the creator of Hill Street Blues, L.A. Law and Doogie Howser, M.D. has learned to play skillfully upon our emotions. (Fittingly, Bochco has adopted the signature image of a violinist — his father, in fact — for his production company's logo.)

Bochco knows how hard it is to maintain sanity in a modern American city; his dramas ring all the changes on that theme. Almost against our wills, we laugh and cry at his characters and find catharsis at hour's end. If Wheates is the breakfast of champions, a Bochco drama is the nightcap of sophisticates.

In Civil Wars, starring Mariel Hemingway and Peter Onorati, Bochco asks us to spend an hour a week looking at the cancer of contemporary domestic life: divorce. At best, this might be Greek tragedy; at worst, voyeurism.

Hemingway, nearly as gamine as she was in Woody Allen's Manhattan, plays Sydney Guilford, a New York lawyer whose idealism flies in the face of her environment, her depressing job and her crumbling partnership with Eli Levinson (Alan Rosenberg), a man who can no longer summon the psychological defenses to face grown-up life in the big city.

Into her life comes Charlie Howell (Onorati, GoodFellas, Cop Rock), an improbable prince of a fellow lawyer who rescues the firm and plays the good-natured gallant, escorting a lonely client to her college reunion one week and laughing off a scuttled night of passion the next.

Also worth watching is Debi Mazar as legal secretary Denise Iannello, a cool customer from Queens with red lips and nails, Veronica Lake eyes, long cigarettes and a '60s wardrobe that doesn't quit.

All in all, too-clever scripting may be Civil Wars' Achilles heel. In one early episode, Eli, who is recovering from his breakdown, insists on helping with a divorce case. Frustrated in his attempts at negotiation, he forces husband and wife to sign a settlement at gunpoint. His wishes prevail, and the viewer laughs with relief when Eli admits the gun wasn't loaded.

But this payoff begs the question: Is it right to use illegal means to achieve a legal end? A drama that sets itself up as more than just a cheap date should be willing to make more of a commitment.

TIME OUT

Howard is hands-down favorite for Heisman
 By Steve Paschal

On Saturday, Dec. 14, the sports world's elite will congregate at Manhattan's Downtown Athletic Club, expecting to anoint Michigan's Desmond Howard as the best collegiate football player in the country with the awarding of the Heisman Trophy.

The name of the winner is, of course, supposed to remain a secret until the announcement is made. But it's hard to find anyone in the media who doesn't believe the award will go to the Wolverines' record-setting wide receiver. Howard has earned the title of College Football's Best Player with big games down the stretch, while his rivals have all but handed him the statuette with unimpressive performances before national television audiences.

NBC will televise the ceremony, but it will be hard for host Bob Costas and commentators O.J. Simpson and John Dockery to work up any suspense prior to the presentation. Howard, who may turn professional in time for the NFL draft, is the odds-on favorite to become the third straight junior to win the trophy named for former DAC director John Heisman.

When the quest began in earnest last August, Howard was just one of several players being touted for the award. But even Notre Dame's Rick Mirer couldn't parlay six NBC and two regional network appearances into a winning campaign. © TV Listing Inc.

Cartoon hero Tintin a little wooden

By Chris Carpenter
Faster than a speeding Fiat, more powerful than a dark ale, able to leap the Eiffel Tower in a single bound, it's ... Tintin?

If it just doesn't sound right when Superman's name is left out, relax. Tintin, the imported cartoon boy from Europe, will likely never come close to supplanting the Man of Steel, the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles or Wyle E. Coyote, for that matter, in America's animated hero lineup.

HBO has brought the animated hour series The Adventures of Tintin to the States from Europe, where the daring lad has, for 60 years, been to pop culture what Michael Jordan is to basketball. Tintin is the creation of Georges Remi, who is known worldwide by the French pronunciation of his initials in reverse, or Hergé.

Tintin's appeal lies in the same qualities we find admirable in our human heroes: honesty, perseverance, kindness and compassion. Well and good, but, unfortunately, rather lame as far as adventure cartoons go on your average Saturday morning these days.

Tintin is not at all unpleasant to watch, and the animation (especially the use of light, shadow and sound to enhance "mystery") is fine. However, the plots were created decades ago to appeal to a European following, and as tough as it is to admit, most kids may barely be amused.

Show Boat  A group of entertainers travels the Mississippi River on a showboat. Kathryn Grayson, Howard Keel 1:48. (1951) Dec. 10 10:00pm. Dec. 11 9:10pm.

Soldier in the Rain  A master sergeant is always getting his protoge out of trouble. Jackie Gleason, Steve McQueen 2:00. (1963) Dec. 8 7:00pm, 11:00pm.

The Split * A gang steals half a million dollars in front of 100,000 witnesses. Jim Brown, Diahann Carroll R Profanity, Violence, Adult Situation. 2:10. (1968) Dec. 14 2:20am.

Start the Revolution Without Me  Two sets of twins meet on the eve of the French Revolution. Gene Wilder, Donald Sutherland PG Profanity, Nudity, Violence. 1:55. (1970) Dec. 14 1:05am.

SOAP TALK

Question 'Turns' on Warrick's role

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I enjoy your articles in Soap Talk, but there is one thing you weren't very clear on. You talked about Ruth Warrick (who plays Phoebe Tyler Walingford in All My Children) and the shows she had played in.

You said she played five years on As the World Turns, but you didn't say what character she played. I watch the show, but I don't remember her. Please clear this up if you can. —Thank you, Herbert McMillan, Fredonia, Kan.

Dear Reader: I'm sorry for the omission. Warrick portrayed Edith Hughes from 1956-1960 on ATWT. According to The Soap Opera Encyclopedia by Christopher Schemering, she was a pivotal character early in the show's run.

Dear Candace: I saw the name David Shaughnessy in the credits for The Young and the Restless. Is he related to Charles Shaughnessy, who plays Shane on Days of Our Lives? —L.M. in South Carolina.

Dear Reader: The two men are brothers and come from a family of actors. Both their parents were actors, and their father was also the principal writer and screen editor for Upstairs, Downstairs, the British drama series that aired on PBS' Masterpiece Theatre. It was David, the younger of the two brothers, who first had the acting bug. Charles had decided to go into a more "respectable" occupation as an English barrister, but while a student at Cambridge University, he too discovered the joys of acting.

Dear Candace: I have been watching The Young and the Restless for a very long time and I really enjoy it. What bothers me is they do not get Miguel out of Nikki's kitchen. He is talented and nice looking; why not give him a chance? I also think Leanna needs to get a boyfriend her own age. Rex and John are both old enough to be her father. Well, that's what I think. Thanks from a forever fan of Y&R. —Peggy Chavez, Rialto, Calif.

Dear Reader: I agree with you. Anthony Pena (who plays Miguel Rodriguez on Y&R) is quite talented and has an impressive list of feature-film credits, including Altered States, Colors and Born on the Fourth of July. When given the opportunity, he does his best to add dimension to his character on the show. Maybe someday producer Bill Bell will take notice.

Winfrey's Harpo Productions to make 'Afterschool Specials'

Oprah Winfrey's Harpo Productions has been signed by ABC to produce the network's Afterschool Specials for the 1992-93 season. ABC's Dennis Swanson, who made the announcement, called Winfrey "a superb communicator who possesses a great warmth and intelligence and cares deeply about children. We eagerly look forward to her involvement in our series of afterschool specials."

The four programs to be produced by Harpo include a documentary, two reality-based shows in which Winfrey will act as moderator, and a drama to be based on the winning entry in a recent contest sponsored by ABC, Seventeen magazine and Close-Up toothpaste.

"Turn Off Your TV Day," a recent grassroots viewing boycott, apparently had no effect on prime-time network viewing. According to Nielsen Media research, the percentage of homes using a TV on Tuesday, Oct. 29, was up three-tenths of a percent from the same Tuesday a year before. The boycott was organized by Concerned Viewers for Quality Television and other conservative action groups to target advertisers sponsoring programs the groups consider objectionable in content.

In the wake of Magic Johnson's announcement that the HIV virus has forced his retirement from professional basketball, the Corporation for Public Broadcasting has re-released its Stop AIDS video, a 25-minute production incorporating nine student-made videos. It is estimated that nearly 8,000 Americans ages 20 to 24 have AIDS, and that many were infected with HIV during adolescence. The video was conceived as a way for teens to teach teens about the disease. The video and teacher's guide are available for $15 from Stop AIDS, 1640 N. Gower St., Hollywood, Calif., 90028.

In their struggle for survival, Kim Cattrall and Kris Kristofferson find a Miracle in the Wilderness, a TNT movie premiere on Monday.

Fresh holiday fare is 'Miracle' on TNT

Frontier action with Christmas message

By Dan Rice

The holiday viewing season is upon us, the time when networks and local television stations trot out the same tired old films and animated specials, while most sitcoms enact their updated versions of either A Christmas Carol, The Gift of the Magi or It's a Wonderful Life.

Like a breath of cool mountain air, it is a most welcome treat to find a new work which succeeds on a genre level and imparts the simple message of Christ in an original manner. TNT's Miracle in the Wilderness, premiering Monday, Dec. 9, is novel family fare this time around, but will undoubtedly become an annual holiday favorite.

In the midst of an 1850s Wyoming winter, Jericho Adams (stoic Kris Kristofferson) and his wife Dora (Kim Cattrall) are enjoying an idyllic existence with their newborn son in their peaceful mountain cabin. Their lives are disturbed by a visit from his old Indian-fighting buddy, Sgt. Webster (John Dennis Johnston, in the film's best characterization), who asks Jericho to join an Army detail tracking Chief Many Horses and his Blackfoot braves. The mellowed Jericho refuses, but is drawn into the conflict later when he and his family are kidnapped by the chief's war party.

Chief Many Horses (Sheldon Peters Wolfchild) explains that he is claiming the Adams infant because Jericho killed his son years earlier. With survival in mind, the Adams reluctantly oblige, hoping the soldiers will catch up to them in time.

After witnessing the miracle of a doe giving birth during winter, Dora takes the opportunity to tell the chief the story of the birth of Jesus, translating it into familiar terms; the Three Kings are three great chiefs and the angel becomes an eagle. The lesson of goodwill is put to a decisive test when Jericho and the chief face-off in the snow with their Bowie knives drawn.

Write to 'Beverly Hills' cast in, er, Beverly Hills

By Taylor Michaels

Q: Please give me an address where I can write to Jason Priestley and Luke Perry of Beverly Hills, 90210. —Ronnie Edington, Redwing, Minn.

A: You can write them c/o Beverly Hills, 90210, Fox Broadcasting Company, P.O. Box 900, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90213.

Q: I would like to know whom to write concerning bringing back old programs such as Six Million Dollar Man, Bionic Woman, Incredible Hulk, Little House on the Prairie and many more. There are no decent shows on for children or adults anymore. —Jill Appelhanz, Montrose, Colo.

A: All of those shows are available in syndication, so you need to write your local stations. They are the ones who need to know what the public wants. In the meantime, why don't you check out Quantum Leap, MacGyver, Northern Exposure, Superboy and Star Trek: The Next Generation? You should probably also check out what's on your local PBS station. Public television is not the dull, dry television it used to be.

Q: Whatever happened to The Party Machine With Nia Peeples? Is it in hiatus? —Trena Harris, Tenaha, Texas.

A: The show was canceled due to poor ratings.

Q: Would it be possible for you to provide the address of the producer or director of Monday Night Football? I would like to offer some comments about the presentation. —J. Kelly Unger, Brooksville, Miss.

A: Send your comments to Geoffrey Mason, Executive Producer, ABC Sports, 47 West 66th Street, 13th Floor, New York, N.Y., 10023.

Q: Could you please tell me what movies Rebecca Schaeffer was in? Are there any biographies on her? —Michael Canavaw, Montrose, Calif.

A: The actress, who co-starred with Pam Dawber in My Sister Sam, appeared in the films Radio Days and Scenes From the Class Struggle in Beverly Hills. She was shot to death on July 18, 1989, at her home in Los Angeles by Robert Bardo, an obsessed fan. One psychiatrist described Bardo as more disturbed than Mark David Chapman, the man who shot John Lennon. According to a Waldenbooks staffer, there are no books about Schaeffer yet.

Q: I am a big fan of Star Trek: The Next Generation and was wondering if you could give me some information on Patrick Stewart and Marina Sirtis? Also, is that Stewart's voice we hear on the Pontiac commercials? —D. Long, Beaufort, N.C.

A: Stewart grew up in the English town of Mirfield. For 25 years, he has been an associate artist of the Royal Shakespeare Company. He appeared in the BBC productions I, Claudius, Smiley's People and Tinker, Tailor, Soldier, Spy. American filmgoers will remember him as Gurney Halek in Dune, which was directed by David Lynch.

Sirtis was born in East London to Greek parents and was brought up in North London. Sirtis attended the Guild Hall School of Music and Drama, and after graduating became a member of the Worthington Repertory Theatre. She has worked extensively in British television, musical theater and repertory companies throughout Europe. She appeared in The Wicked Lady with Faye Dunaway and in the European touring version of Rocky Horror Picture Show. Sirtis recently played a cameo role in Waxwork II: Adventures in Time.

Jason Priestley

The folks who make Pontiac commercials seem to have a knack for picking distinctive voices. It is indeed Stewart's voice you hear on the voice-overs. The woman singing the theme is pop star Laura Brannigan. Previously, singer Richard Marx did the commercials with his mother.

Send your questions to Let's Talk, c/o Features Dept., P.O. Box 961009, Fort Worth, Texas, 76161-1009.

ANIMATED VIDEO GEMS

THE THREE CABALLEROS: (1944) Disney.

A smashing follow-up to Saludos Amigos, this is one of the most dazzling achievements of the cartoon genre. Donald Duck opens presents on his birthday, the first of which is a movie projector. He puts film on the projector and we are plunged into the tale of Pablo the Penguin, who is sick and tired of the Antarctic cold and wants to live in the tropics, and a story about a little Mexican boy who finds a donkey with wings. Donald's next present is a large book. The moment he opens it, up pops Joe Carioca, (from Saludos Amigos), then we're off on one of the fastest-moving cartoon sequences ever devised, as the two travel to Brazil then through Mexico. So much happens on-screen that no synopsis will do it justice. A must for all ages. Rated G.

FUN AND FANCY FREE: (1947) Disney.

This Disney feature is comprised of two short shorts. The first, narrated by Dinah Shore, tells the tale of Bongo, a circus bear who escapes to the wilderness. He meets a female bear and her bear boy friend. Eventually, the sappy Bongo becomes brave and wins over the she-bear.

The second, and more ambitious, episode combines live actions and animation, bringing together Edgar Bergen and his dummies Charlie McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd with Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and Goofy. Rated G.

EXCELLENT GOOD FAIR POOR DON'T WASTE MONEY

FOR THE BOYS: Starring Bette Midler and James Caan. When For The Boys is what it should be - a big, bright musical with laughs, pathos and plenty of schmaltz - it's just great. Bette Midler is altogether wonderful as Dixie Leonard, the female half of a song-and-dance team that spent half a lifetime entertaining American troops overseas, through all the wars. James Caan, despite seeming to be miscast, is rather effective as Eddie Sparks, America's premiere funny man and the male half of the team. George Segal is surprisingly good as Art Silyer, the team's comedy writer, business acumen, and Dixie's uncle. Bette Midler - well - she's simply terrific. No one can out-sing, out-dance or out-charm the Bette. She's engaging, she's entertaining, she's a talent to behold. She only has to open her mouth and all the bells ring. Lovers of the "big" musicals and especially lovers of the music from the 40s, will forgive the film its many, many flaws, for director Mark Rydell, underestimating the joy of American musicals, wasn't satisfied to deliver only "that." He wanted to use the offstage exploits of his song-and-dance duo through World War II, Korea and Vietnam to examine the way wars changed. What he wound up with is a picture that talks too much and sings too little. Rated R for language.

VIDEO FILMS: THE MUSICAL GOES TO WAR

YANKEE DOODLE DANDY: (1942/Black & White) Starring James Cagney. Magnetic James Cagney, stepping out of his gangster roles, gives a magnificent strutting performance in the life story of dancing vaudevillian George M. Cohan. An outstanding show-business story with unassuming but effective production. Cagney deservedly won an Oscar for his rare song-and-dance performance, as did music directors Ray Heindorf and Heinz Roemheld. Two computer-colored versions exist - one of which was edited down for TV. Rent the original black and white. Not really a war musical. Recommended just to get the flag waving - and does it ever. Not rated. Would be a G.

AROUND THE WORLD:

(1943/Black & White) Starring Kay Kyser. Band leader Kay Kyser entertains the troops during World War II by hamming it up with an endless number of corny puns and gags. The offstage antics of the performers are highlighted by an electrifying duel between Mischa Auer and an offended nobleman. Just for laughs and good music. Not rated. would be a G.

THIS IS THE ARMY: Starring George Murphy, Joan Leslie, Ronald Reagan and Kate Smith. Hooper (later U.S. Senator) George Murphy portrays Ronald Reagan's father in this musical melange penned by Irving Berlin to raise funds for Army Emergency Relief during World War II. It's a star-

Friday, London audiences are thrilled when PBS presents Pavarotti in the Park.

ANCHORS AWAY: (1945) Starring Gene Kelly and Frank Sinatra. Gene Kelly and Frank Sinatra play a couple of sailors on leave. However, get your finger on the Fast Forward button and skip through the tedious and too-long story which has not held up. Quickly find the truly impressive musical numbers. None of which are finer than Gene Kelly's duet with an animated Jerry the Mouse (of Tom and Jerry fame). Not rated. Would be a G.

Two and 1/2 Boxes

MEET THE NAVY: (1946/Black & White) This British musical fell into obscurity because the cast contains no star names. That's because they're all from the Royal Canadian Navy revue, a troupe of drafted performers who toured bases entertaining servicemen in WWII. However, there are enough talented singers, dancers, and funnymen here to make you wonder why none went on to greater success. Not rated. Would be PG.

SOUTH PACIFIC: (1958) Starring Mitzi Gaynor and Rossano Brazzi. Don't put up the Fast Forward controls. This is a disappointing filmization of the great Rodgers & Hammerstein show; their adaptation of James Michener's moving vignettes about WWII life in the Pacific. The location filming is lackluster and the acting is adequate but hardly memorable. What is good (great) are the songs: Some Enchanted Evening, Bali H'ai, There Is Nothing Like A Dame, Happy Talk, You've Got To Be Taught, and on and on. Not rated. Would be a PG-13.

Three Boxes

ON THE TOWN: (1949) Starring Gene Kelly and Frank Sinatra. This is a classic boy-meets-girl, boy-loses-girl fable set to music. Three sailors are on a twenty-four hour leave and find themselves (for the first time) in the Big Apple. They seek romance and adventure during their leave, and find it. This Betty Comden-Adolph Green-Leonard Bernstein musical was inspired by the Jerome Robbins' ballet Fancy Free. New York, New York tops a bright inventive score that won Oscars for the arrangements. Rare for MGM, the movie was actually shot on location in New York. Not rated. Would be a G.

Four Boxes

Dennis Hopper and Jodie Foster star in Backtrack, debuting Saturday on Showtime.
