CSF helps many health related woes

Good health is a treasured gift, and help with means to restore it is frequently sought by applicants to the community's holiday charity Christmas Stocking Fund.

Members of the committee of anonymous volunteers who administer the program see many requests for assistance with pharmacy or doctor bills and, sometimes, special equipment or supplies.

The committee makes a special effort to assist elderly or disabled persons in need during the holiday season, but any assistance is limited to the funds donated to CSF by residents of Hereford and Deaf Smith County.

Contributions to the charity drive picked up this week, with the total reaching $2,805 Thursday afternoon. If you'd like to share with the less fortunate during this season of giving, you can make a contribution to CSF by mailing it in care of Box 673, Hereford, or drop it by The Hereford Brand office at 313 Lee.

Bluebonnet will assist with effort

Bluebonnet Savings Bank in Hereford is participating in the statewide "Bluebonnet Holiday Bundle" program, which will result in donations of clothes, food and toys in 32 Texas communities.

The program calls for customers and employees to pick up a holiday bundle bag when they visit Bluebonnet, fill the bags with clothes, non-perishable food and new toys, and return them to the branch. The bags will later be emptied into a large bundle to help needy families.

In Hereford, Bluebonnet will be working with the Salvation Army, Red Cross and the Christmas Stocking Fund to avoid duplication of holiday efforts.

"The Holiday Bundle program was initiated to help the less fortunate...during this holiday season," said Dede Casad, Bluebonnet board member and developer of the program. "We hope to bring the holiday spirit of giving and sharing to as many people as possible in each of our communities."

To promote the program, Bluebonnet employees will wear special holiday attire during December. Customers received notice of the program in statements mailed in November. Each person who participates will receive a special tree ornament as a token of Bluebonnet's appreciation. Customers can return the bundles during regular business hours to any Bluebonnet branch location.

Quayle aide under investigation on plan

WASHINGTON (AP) - A House committee is investigating a top vice presidential aide for his role in adopting a revised air pollution regulation that could benefit an electric utility in which he owns stock.

This is the second time in recent weeks that Allan B. Hubbard's official duties have been scrutinized for possible conflicts with his outside business interests.

Hubbard acknowledged he chaired an Oct. 16 White House meeting at which a regulation on acid rain emissions, not yet final, was changed. Other government officials who were there said he participated in the decision.

Rep. Henry A. Waxman, D-Calif., who scheduled hearings on Hubbard's role next Tuesday, was accused by a Quayle spokesman of conducting a "witch hunt."

Hubbard received a waiver from the vice president last June that exempts him from some conflict-of-interest provisions. Hubbard is Quayle's deputy chief of staff and executive director of the Quayle-led White House Council on Competitiveness.

Waxman, chairman of the House Energy and Commerce environment subcommittee, said: "Mr. Hubbard's participation in matters affecting companies in which he has financial interest is a matter of grave concern, that the subcommittee will continue to investigate."

Two congressional watchdog groups that researched Hubbard's investments and his official actions - OMB Watch and Public Citizen - called on Hubbard to resign. The groups said he had a potential conflict of interest.

The rule could permit more acid rain emissions by electric utilities, including PSI Energy Inc., an Indiana power company that lobbied strongly for a less-strict regulation than first drafted by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Hubbard's financial disclosure report lists ownership of stock worth between $15,001 and $50,000 in the utility's parent company, formerly PSI Holding Inc. and now called PSI Resources.

News stories last month disclosed that Hubbard is half-owner of an auto appearance products company that could be covered by air pollution rules reviewed by the White House council.

The council staff examines government regulations and played a major role in changing the acid rain rule, according to EPA officials. Waxman and environmental groups contended the change would lead to significantly greater pollution, but EPA officials said they were able to obtain safeguards during the meeting to neutralize the damage.

U.S. law prevents federal employees from participating "personally and substantially" in particular matters where they have a financial interest.

But they can be granted waivers in advance of such participation. The waiver requires full disclosure of the financial interest and that it not be substantial enough to affect the integrity of a decision.

Hubbard's waiver allows him to participate in government action that affects entire industries, even though he may own stock in one company in that industry. He is not allowed to participate in actions that affect only that company.

PSI is the largest investor-owned power company in Indiana. The last EPA inventory of sulfur dioxide emissions, a main component of acid rain, listed the company as the nation's fourth worst polluter in 1985.

Assistant prison warden details Amarillo's facility

Darwin Sanders, assistant warden at Amarillo's Clements Unit prison, was guest speaker for the Hereford Kiwanis Club Thursday at the Community Center.

Sanders, originally from Springlake, gave facts and figures on the prison which opened in April 1990. The maximum security unit has a capacity of 2,100 and currently houses 1,900 inmates. There are 850 employees with a payroll of $1.9 million a month.

About 65 percent of the employees were hired locally, Sanders said. He added that it was difficult to get employees to move from other parts of the state. About 550 of the prison's employees are correctional officers, and the remainder fall into other classifications such as nurses, doctors, social workers, etc.

Sanders pointed out there had been no escapes at the unit, but there has been two attempts. The unit has not had any major disturbances and there have been no homicides to date.

Each prison in the state tries to be as self sufficient as possible. The Amarillo unit, for example, makes shoes for all of the prisons. Other units have different work missions. He said about 85 percent of the food is grown in the TDC system or obtained on federal subsidy. The TDC also has its own school district, but works with area colleges on special programs.

The Amarillo unit has a 15-bed infirmary and has dental facilities. The unit utilizes local hospitals, as well.

Sanders said the average cost a day to house inmates is $30 to $32. Inmates have an average stay of 2.9 years, and about 75 percent of the inmates are returnees.

Dr. David Purdy was program chairman and introduced Sanders Thursday. In other business, club president James Arney presented a $100 check for the Christmas Stocking Fund to Speedy Nieman, who accepted the contribution for the anonymous committee.

Gross sales jump locally

Gross sales in Deaf Smith County jumped 8.3 percent in the second quarter, while sales over the Panhandle increased more than 22 percent.

Gross sales reached $71.34 million in the second quarter of 1991 in Deaf Smith County, compared to $65.85 million a year earlier.

The Texas Panhandle's gross sales reached $2.72 billion for the quarter, up from $2.23 billion in the comparable quarter in 1990, according to the Comptroller's State Sales and Use Tax Analysis Report.

The Amarillo metro statistical area climbed by 11.6 percent--from $1.03 billion in 1990 to $1.15 billion in 1991. The Amarillo MSA includes both Potter and Randall counties.

The largest increase was recorded in Hale County, where Plainview and county sales soared by 79.5 percent--from $245.34 million in the 1990 second quarter to $44.35 million in the 1991 second quarter.

The largest percentage increase was recorded in Parmer County, where sales for the second quarter jumped from $67.94 million in 1990 to $248 million in 1991.

Percentages of change for gross sales in other Panhandle counties include: Moore, down 3.5%; Gray, up 7.5%; Hutchinson, down 2%; Ochiltree, down 3.8%; Dallam, down 2.7%; Lipscomb, off 12.6%; Swisher, up 7.1%; Castro, off 8.4%; Oldham, down 8.9%; Lamb, up 17.9%; Hansford, up 1.1%; Carson, up 6.3%; Childress, up 7%; Wheeler, down 8.4%; Hartley, up 10.4%; Sherman, up 27.8%; Floyd, up 1.1%; Hardeman, down 49.5%; Donley, down 4.4%.

Pearl Harbor: 1941-91 Man cherishes old Bible

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) - Two weeks after Pearl Harbor was attacked, James Jones was given a Bible at a ceremony aboard the USS Tennessee as the badly damaged ship sailed toward the mainland for repairs.

Fifty years later, Jones brought that Bible to another ceremony in remembrance of the attack that put Americans into a World War and changed the course of history.

Its pages yellowed and its cover scuffed, the Bible has taught Jones important lessons, including how to feel no anger toward Japan.

"The greatest word in the Bible is to forgive," said Jones, 69, who now lives in Hawaii.

Jones received the Bible when he was baptized aboard the Tennessee in a ceremony on Dec. 21, 1941.

He was among the hundreds of Pearl Harbor survivors who joined with dignitaries Thursday at a ceremony at the Arizona Memorial Visitors Center marking the 50th anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Meanwhile, at an Army fort about 20 miles away, Defense Secretary Dick Cheney told 2,000 survivors and their families that the surprise attack "taught us that most valuable lesson of all - to be prepared to defend our freedom." That event at Fort DeRussy featured the unfurling of a huge 48-star U.S. flag, the standard at the time of the attack.

The ceremonies at the monument to the sunken USS Arizona drew about 1,000 people, including Hawaii Gov. John Waihee and nine officials representing the states for which the nine battleships destroyed in the bombing were named.

On Saturday, President Bush will take part in ceremonies there and at the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific.

Waihee said the anniversary offered an opportunity to remember the more than 2,400 military people and civilians killed when Japanese planes carried out the surprise attack the morning of Dec. 7, 1941.

"We speak of one of the most destructive wars in human history," said Waihee. "But there are some who can only hear the silent voice of a husband, son or a classmate, those unspoken names, those men who looked directly into the eyes of war."

U.S. Rep. Bob Stump of Arizona spoke in remembrance of the Arizona, the site of the most destruction. The ship lost 1,177 crew members, many still entombed in the wreckage that sits beneath the harbor, marked by a white offshore memorial.

The Arizona and the USS Utah are the only ships sunk during the attack that were not later raised and returned to service.

And in yet another commemoration, the rusting hulk of the Utah was the setting as Utah officials gathered on Ford Island in the harbor to remember the 68 men killed when the ship was hit by torpedoes.

Noting that some publications have referred to it as "the forgotten memorial," Utah Gov. Norman Bangert said, "The Utah is not a forgotten memorial, but a quiet memorial."

After the speeches at the Arizona memorial, one survivor from each of the vessels - the Arizona, Oklahoma, California, Nevada, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Tennessee and Utah - joined a U.S. Park Service ranger in placing a wreath next to a white life preserver emblazoned with the ship's name.

Military ghosts haunt Japan

TOKYO (AP) - For many Japanese, Pearl Harbor represents a nightmare from which the nation has never completely awakened.

Despite Japan's best efforts to put the war behind it, fears of the militarist seizure of power that led to Pearl Harbor remain very much alive here. They are evidence that deep down, many Japanese don't fully trust the thin overlay of Western-style democracy imposed on their "buke shakai" - the warrior culture that is far older.

Nor, for that matter, do many other Asians.

However irrational, this lingering sense of unease that the ghosts of Japan's violent past will return to shatter its delicate postwar political structure explains much of the recent public debate here, many Japanese say.

It explains the long, agonizing parliamentary dispute over a U.N. peacekeeping bill that would send troops abroad for the first time since World War II.

It explains, in part at least, much of the government's reluctance to address Japan's wartime behavior: with so much emotion roiling close to the surface, the issue remains a political time bomb.

Such fears also explain why the famous U.S.-imposed Article 9 of the Constitution, which renounces war as a sovereign right of Japan, has become sacrosanct despite conservative politicians' efforts to change it, and a longtime U.S. admission that it was a mistake.

The parliamentary debate over the peacekeeping bill, under way in the upper house, is a struggle between leftist opposition parties who see their role as watchdogs for any new sign of militarism and an increasingly right-leaning governing party.

To most Americans, the idea that establishing a 2,000-man peacekeeping corps to help monitor U.N. cease-fires could lead to a military overthrow of this advanced democracy, and another Pearl Harbor, would be ridiculous.

But to many Japanese such fears reflect bitter experience: more than a millenia of military dictatorships, and the shattering of Japan's last democratic experiment in the 1920s by a de facto army coup.

News Digest

World/National

WASHINGTON - The economy's failure to rally from the recession is apparently fueling fear in America's industries, triggering layoffs that could send the unemployment rate back up to its worst level in five years.

WASHINGTON - President Bush's new campaign team is going right to work mapping strategy for holding the White House. Bush predicts he'll win even if the economy doesn't improve, but one campaign worker says they're still bracing for "a dog fight."

WIESBADEN, Germany - Terry Anderson's brutal hostage ordeal is behind him and doctors say he withstood it well. But ex-hostage Alann Steen calls for the kidnappers to be brought to justice, and President Bush says the hostage ordeal is not over.

WASHINGTON - A House committee is investigating a top vice presidential aide for his role in adopting a revised air pollution regulation that could benefit an electric utility in which he owns stock.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. - The woman who says William Kennedy Smith turned from a nice guy to a monster who viciously assaulted her ended nearly 10 gripping hours on the witness stand by defiantly telling Smith's attorney: "Your client raped me."

THORNWOOD, N.Y. - Residents of this peaceful wooded suburb 30 miles from New York City shuddered with fear and said they would think twice about leaving their children with child-care practitioners as word spread of the arrest of a woman police say doused a baby with a flammable liquid and set her afire.

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii - Two weeks to the day after Pearl Harbor was attacked by Japanese warplanes, James Jones was given a Bible at his Sunday baptism aboard the USS Tennessee while the badly damaged ship sailed toward Washington state for repairs. Fifty years later, Jones brought that Bible to a ceremony in remembrance of the attack that brought the United States into World War II.

Texas

AUSTIN - Gov. Ann Richards, who made health insurance a major campaign issue last year, says the health care crisis may take a national solution.

MIDLAND - Richard Ingram's greatest fear is that America will one day forget the significance of World War II. Sure, students will forever read chapters in history books about the war that mobilized an entire nation seemingly overnight. But Ingram, the executive director of the Confederate Air Force, wonders if they will ever appreciate the terror the nation felt when a wave of Japanese "Zero" fighter planes stormed Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941.

AUSTIN - While Texas hunters have experienced an "alarming" rate of shooting accidents this year, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department says most could have been prevented.

WACO - Scientists were ready last year to close a site near Waco where the bones of prehistoric elephants have been found in recent years. But more pieces of one of McLennan County's oldest puzzles have come to light.

PORT ARTHUR - A computer network, similar to one used by Israel to warn residents last January of incoming SCUD missile attacks, is being installed at 12 industrial sites in the Port Arthur area, officials say.

HOUSTON - The editor-in-chief of the University of Houston student newspaper says a letter from a student in which he told of two incidents of "date rape" was published because the editor does not believe people take "date rape" seriously.

SAN ANTONIO - A judge says he doesn't want a police officer to testify in his court in any more driving-while-intoxicated cases because he believes the officer selectively stops Hispanic drivers and is not believable.

AUSTIN - Gov. Ann Richards says the Texas Supreme Court should write the next school funding plan if it overturns the current law.

DALLAS - The Dallas school district will be able to rehire 25 laid-off teachers thanks to $204,000 that 8,400 existing teachers saved by taking fewer sick days during the fall, officials said.

AUSTIN - Speaker Gib Lewis, citing the failure of legislative leaders and civil rights lawyers to agree on a state House redistricting map, says chances look dim for House primary elections being held on schedule March 10.

DAYTON, Ohio - A van transporting prisoners around the country was on a dangerous "trip to nowhere," said an attorney who won a court victory halting the journey.

Kiwanis contribute to Christmas Stocking Fund

Jim Arney of the Hereford Kiwanis Club, left, presents a $100 check to Speedy Nieman, publisher of the Hereford Brand. The donation was made to the Christmas Stocking Fund. The newspaper serves as the collecting point for the fund, which will benefit many of Deaf Smith County's less-fortunate people this month.

Governor says court may have to write school funding plan

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards says the Texas Supreme Court should write the next school funding plan if it overturns the current law.

There has been speculation among some state officials that the court may throw out the latest finance system, adopted by the Legislature this year.

"If they (the justices) cannot stand by what they told us to do originally, if they determine that they don't like what we've done for some little picayunish reason, then I think it's sure up to them, because otherwise whatever we do, we'll be back over there," Richards said Thursday.

The governor wouldn't say whether she will call lawmakers into special session if the new law is ruled unconstitutional, saying she would wait and see what the court does.

Senate Education Committee Chairman Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, has said there should not be a special session if this plan is ruled unconstitutional, but that the court should devise a new one.

He said a ruling against the new law would effectively mandate massive school district consolidation, an income tax and possibly a statewide property tax.

None of those options are now politically viable, Parker said.

The law is designed to shift hundreds of millions of local property tax dollars from wealthier to poorer school districts within new education taxing regions, each made up of one or several counties.

Parker said in a recent letter to Richards that lawmakers believed they had a clear court mandate to pursue such tax base consolidation to even out school districts' access to funds.

The Supreme Court, which has twice ruled previous laws unconstitutional, is considering a challenge by property-rich school districts to the latest plan.

The state and a number of poor school districts have defended the new tax structure as constitutional, although some poor districts have expressed concern about other parts of the law, such as whether it includes enough state funding.

The Equity Center, a group of property-poor school districts, predicted the Supreme Court is likely to throw out the new tax system.

It also said in its newsletter that some major business taxpayers are informing school districts that they are not going to pay their local property taxes until the Jan. 31 deadline.

Some have said they might not even pay then if the ruling has not been issued, according to the Equity Center.

Richards expressed frustration with court intervention.

"The absurdity of it is that the courts are supposed to give you the general outlines and the parameters of what they believe the law is, and then you move and perform in a responsible fashion to comply with that direction ... and then you find out that that wasn't really what they had in mind," Richards said.

"Let 'em go ahead and do their own plans," she said. "I really think that the sentiment of the public has had it to here with every single thing we do being litigious, and by 'we,' I don't mean elected officials. I mean everybody. You cannot move unless you end up in the courthouse."

Alleged rape victim testifies for 10 hours in Florida trial

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) - The woman who says William Kennedy Smith turned from a nice guy to a monster who assaulted her ended nearly 10 hours of testimony by defiantly telling Smith's attorney: "Your client raped me."

The words were spoken clearly and with confidence, in sharp contrast to earlier moments of uncontrollable weeping as the 30-year-old woman underwent an intense cross-examination from defense attorney Roy Black that included questions about intimate sexual details.

The trial was to continue today with testimony from a Palm Beach County sheriff's laboratory analyst. Prosecutor Moira Lasch has said she plans to call Smith's uncle, Sen.

Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., before the trial concludes.

Smith, 31, is charged with sexual battery, the equivalent of rape under Florida law, and with battery. If convicted, he could receive 4 1/2 years in prison.

Asked as he left court Thursday if he thought the woman had convinced jurors, he replied: "We'll find out."

His accuser spent nearly 10 hours on the stand Wednesday and Thursday repeating her detailed story of Smith's alleged Jekyll-and-Hyde transformation from the gentleman she met earlier at a bar to a rapist who tackled her on the lawn of the Kennedy estate and assaulted her.

She had been composed until Black sought sexual details of the incident, asking at one point, "During this event, was he able to maintain an erection?"

Her face reddened and her eyes filled with tears.

"Why do you have to ask me questions like that?" she cried.

Black also asked her whether she experienced pain during intercourse with Smith. "It hurt me," she said, sobbing.

The lawyer also suggested that the woman's account of the alleged rape was physically impossible for Smith to have accomplished. "I don't know how he did it. He just, he did it!" she exclaimed.

As she answered the questions through tears, she said over and over, "He raped me."

State rep primary prospects dimming

AUSTIN (AP) - Speaker Gib Lewis, citing the failure of legislative leaders and civil rights lawyers to agree on a state House redistricting map, says chances look dim for House primary elections being held on schedule March 10.

Redrawing district lines now is up to lawmakers in a special session, or to the courts, Lewis said Thursday.

Having House elections at a different time from other elections would have a "devastating impact," he said, noting that there would be a much lower voter turnout.

Filing for other offices in the March primary began Monday and runs through Jan. 2.

The Texas Supreme Court and a federal judicial panel are scheduled to hear legal challenges to redistricting plans Tuesday.

Gov. Ann Richards said she likely will not decide until then whether to call the Legislature into a special redistricting session.

She has said she doubts the new congressional and State Board of Education districts will change. Those districts were drawn by lawmakers and approved by the U.S. Department of Justice.

Attorney General Dan Morales and state leaders reached a settlement with minority interests on the Senate redistricting plan. That plan also was approved by the Justice Department.

The Justice Department has rejected one House plan adopted by the Legislature, saying it discriminated against Hispanics. House leaders submitted a modified plan, but that was turned down Monday by a three-judge federal panel. The Justice Department has not acted on the modified plan.

House leaders and plaintiffs in a lawsuit brought by minorities against the state House plan tried to negotiate an agreement, but were unsuccessful, Lewis said.

Morales has asked Richards to call a special session to give lawmakers the chance to adopt a House redistricting plan that would comply with federal law protecting minority voting rights.

But state elected leaders have questioned whether the Legislature could legally meet in a special session for state House redistricting.

The Texas constitution requires that lawmakers tend to legislative redistricting in the first regular session following the census. That has already passed.

"There is not a doubt in my mind that even if we called a special session and passed another plan, that we'd be back in the court. I mean, we've reached the point that the courts are going to run the country one way or another. My impulse is, let 'em have it," Richards said.

Composting information to be given

Interested farmers and gardeners are invited to attend a compost fertilizer information meeting Saturday from 1:30-3:30 p.m. at the Nazareth Community Hall.

The gathering is sponsored by the Amarillo Diocesan Rural Life Board.

Those attending the open public meeting will be able to learn the particulars about compost fertilizer, especially how it differs from raw manure and anhydrous ammonia. Seven commercial compost producers who make their product from steer manure from area feedyards will be on hand for the meeting. The producers will make brief presentations on the various aspects of compost fertilizer, its unique benefits and some of the results it has attained over the past five years.

"Participants will have ample time to ask questions and make comments during the meeting," said the Rev. Darryl Birkenfeld of Hereford, diocesan rural life director.

Admission to the meeting is free, and refreshments will be served.

Health task force named

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards, who made health insurance a major campaign issue last year, says the health care crisis may take a national solution.

But the governor told a special task force Thursday that she wants them to look for answers anyway.

"The only answer may be a national answer. We may not be able to rectify these problems just here in the state of Texas," she said. "So I'm not going to tell you today that I think you can accomplish that. I am going to tell you I want you to try."

Richards said all Texans deserve affordable medical treatment.

"We must develop some system in this state that gives Texas families access to health care in the most cost-effective manner possible," she said.

The governor said 4 million Texans have no health insurance protection, even though half of them hold full-time jobs.

Rural hospitals are closing faster in Texas than elsewhere, emergency rooms are clogged by people seeking such care as their only hope, some Texans stay on welfare rather than take jobs that lack health coverage, and health insurance costs for businesses have "gone out the roof," Richards said.

Problems are even more dire along the Texas-Mexico border, the governor said.

"We have children down there who have never seen a doctor, drinking water out of ditches filled with filth," she said.

Richards, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Gib Lewis appointed the 26 members of the Texas Health Policy Task Force and asked them to make recommendations by November 1992 for action by the next regular session of the Legislature.

Richards also asked for recommendations for new federal laws.

"We are a big and important state, and we can have a voice in the United States Congress," she said.

Bullock said there are numerous questions that need answering.

"Are we wasting health care money on questionable practices in one sector of medicine while basic health care needs go unmet in another sector?" he asked.

But Bullock reminded the panel that any action will involve big money - for patients, insurance companies, employers, health care providers and the government.

"Every area you delve into will have dollars attached to it," he said. "Where there are dollar signs, there are economic realities and political realities, and you must confront the realities of those cash concerns or your work is doomed from the start."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several months ago I accidentally stole a ring from a jewelry store. I was trying it on to see how it would look on my hand and to my horror, it got stuck.

When the salesman came over and asked if he could help me with anything, I got panicky, hid my hand behind my purse and said no. He then went to help someone else and I left the store with the ring on my finger. As I write this letter, I'm still wearing the ring. I cannot get the darned thing off. It was not expensive. The price was $50.

I am old and live alone. I have not gone out much since my husband died five years ago, but since I stole this ring I have not set foot past my front door. I get my groceries delivered and the young lady who lives upstairs does errands for me. I am scared out of my wits when my doorbell rings for fear it is the police. A few weeks ago I mailed $55 to the jeweler but I was too afraid to write a note.

This ring incident has made me a prisoner in my own home and I don't know what to do about it. Can you help?—Binghamton, N.Y.

DEAR BING: Ask your neighbor to go with you to the jewelry store and tell them you are the person who sent the $55. Show them the ring and ask them to get it off. (They may have to cut it.)

The worst that can happen is that you will be charged for cutting the ring off, but it would be well worth it to be free again. Let me know how it turns out.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You have heard of households where the man is king and others where the woman wears the pants. Well, how about a family headed by a 15-year-old girl?

Yes, Caroline (not her real name) is an only child (adopted). I am tired of getting the same response whenever my husband and I invite her parents to dinner or ask them to go out with us. It's always, "We will have to check with Caroline."

If Caroline has plans that require a driver or if she wants to have a spaghetti supper for her friends, her parents are tied up for the night. It is Caroline who decides where and when the family goes on vacation.

Caroline recently decided that she doesn't approve of alcoholic beverages of any kind, so her parents no longer serve alcohol in their home.

The question I have for you, Ann, is what effect will this kind of deference have on the child's life? If you say she will be all right, I will hold my tongue, but at the moment, I feel like telling her parents they are raising a spoiled brat who will want to run everything.—Irked in Eureka, Calif.

DEAR IRKED: I suspect that you are annoyed because these parents are putting their daughter's wishes ahead of their social life. They have a perfect right to do so, and I see nothing to criticize.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was taught in high school that when the husband dies, all mail addressed to the wife should bear her first name. Therefore, I've been sending letters to Mrs. Janet Jones. She became upset and requested that in the future I address her mail to Mrs. Edward Jones.

I believe that since Edward is no longer alive, this is wrong. True?—Tulsa Q.

DEAR TULSA Q: A widow should be addressed as she always was. The deceased husband's name remains part of her designation. A divorcee, however, is Mrs. Martha Jones.

Is that Ann Landers column you clipped years ago yellow with age? For a copy of her most frequently requested poems and essays, send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.85 (this includes postage and handling) to: Gems, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 0562.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Readers: Merry Christmas! Yes, Christmas is almost upon us. Have you mailed your cards and packages yet?

The United States Postal Service recommends that holiday mail be sent by early December.

Several things can affect the length of time it takes letters to arrive at their destination, including the huge volume of mail as we near Christmas and that lovely winter weather.

If you haven't planned enough in advance, remember the Postal Service has overnight package delivery available seven days a week. Call them for details.

Now for some suggestions for unusual gift wrapping.

- Wrap the packages for grandparents in your children's school papers.

- Are you sending packages to a couple with a new baby? Use disposable diapers as padding.

- Wrap packages for young girls in scrap material. The material can then be used to make doll clothes.

- Sending packages to college kids?

Try cushioning them with bags of marshmallows.

Now you're all ready to have your packages arrive on time and in good shape.

For more helpful and stress-relieving holiday ideas, write for a copy of Heloise's Holiday Hints. Just send $2 and a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope to Heloise/Holiday #8, PO Box 795001, San Antonio TX 78279-5001. — Heloise

Lady cagers give Tascosa tough battle

Hereford's girls' basketball team lost to the defending 5A state champion Tascosa Rebels in the first round of the Canyon Classic tournament Thursday, 53-36, but the Lady Whitefaces made 'em sweat. "We played the heck out of 'em," Hereford coach Dickie Faught said. "We played hard, and we played as a team. It was almost the opposite of the way we played Tuesday," when Faught was unhappy with his team's effort in a 58-22 loss to 4A champ Levelland.

Hereford led 13-11 after one quarter, but Tascosa won the second quarter 14-6 to take a 25-19 lead at the half.

The Herd had a chance to go into the fourth quarter down by only eight points until Tascosa's Holly Ridings made a last-second, 24-foot off-balance shot with Hereford's Teresa Baker hanging all over her, Faught said. "That kind of demoralized us," he said.

Hereford will play Palo Duro today at 5:30 p.m.

The boys' varsity team, playing in the Denver City Tournament, fell 84-47 to Snyder Thursday after the Tigers took a 27-8 lead in the first quarter and stretched it to 49-18 at the half. Sean Smith led Hereford with 13 points.

Hereford, now 0-4, was scheduled to meet Seagraves in today's second round, at 5 p.m.

Hereford's freshman boys' teams faced Dumas Thursday in Whiteface Gym. Hereford's A team was stunned by a late Demon comeback and a game-winning basket at the buzzer and lost 46-45, while Hereford's B team won easily, 51-29.

The A team outscored Dumas 20-9 in the second quarter and led 26-17 at the half. They maintained approximately an eight-point lead until the final minutes of the game, when the Demons made a run.

Dumas pulled within two, 43-41, with 1:13 left, and moments later they hit a pair of free throws to cut Hereford's lead to only 45-44 with 19 seconds left. Seconds later, Dumas' B.J. Bilbrey stole a Hereford pass and made a layup with one second left for the win.

"We couldn't handle the press; we turned it over four or five times," Hereford coach Robert Gamboa said of his team's problems in the final minutes. "When we did break the press, we missed layups. We fouled way too much--got in foul trouble way to early.

"We should have won the game, but we made a lot of mistakes. Hopefully we'll learn some things. The kids hustled; we just didn't play smart."

Michael Brown and Tony Mercer each scored 10 points, and Cody Curtis had eight.

The B team's win was keyed by an 8-0 run to start the second quarter, when the Herd led only 10-8. Two of the four baskets scored during the run were easy layups which were direct results of Hereford's press, and the other two were scored on well-executed fast breaks.

"I told the kids to keep doing what we were doing," coach Curtis Cotten said. "I told the point guard to push it up the court because we were beating them downcourt."

Raymond Alaniz led the B team with 16 points, and Michael Powers added 12.

The freshman girls lost to Dumas 53-34 Thursday in Dumas, where the Lady Whitefaces were victims of lids on the baskets.

"It was just a game where we could not make a shot," coach Brett Steagall said. "We were executing our offense really well, but we couldn't get one to go in."

"We'd get rebounds and take three or four shots but couldn't put it in and we'd finally get discouraged. It was a game where our intensity level wasn't where it should have been. We weren't really ready to play."

Jessica Evers led Hereford with seven points, followed by Beth Weatherly with six.

A steal the hard way

When a Dumas player lost control of his dribble, Hereford's Michael Marquez (right) took the shortest route to the ball and got a steal. Looking on are Hereford's Wade Backus (33) and Chris Castro (background). Hereford's freshman B team won this game 51-29 Thursday in Whiteface Gym, then the A team lost 46-45 on a last second shot.

Aggies dominate All-SWC list

DALLAS (AP) - The Texas Aggies rolled unblemished through the 1991 Southwest Conference football race, and the dominance is reflected in The Associated Press all-league team as selected by the coaches.

Eight Aggies made first team All-SWC, and they grabbed all the individual honors. Five Aggies were on the second team.

R.C. Slocum was named Coach of the Year by his colleagues for the Aggies' first sweep of league competition since 1956 when Bear Bryant was at the helm. It was the first such honor for Slocum, who replaced Jackie Sherrill as head coach three years ago.

Quarterback Bucky Richardson, the glue that held together A&M's young offense, was named the Offensive Player of the Year. Running back Greg Hill, a redshirt freshman from Dallas Carter High School, was selected Offensive Newcomer of the Year.

Senior linebacker Quentin Coryatt of the Aggies was named the SWC's Defensive Player of the Year. Freshman Sam Adams of Cypress Creek was the Defensive Newcomer of the Year.

In addition to Richardson and Hill, the other first-team Aggies were junior guard John Ellis and senior tackle Keith Alex.

On first team defense, the Aggies had Coryatt, junior linebacker Marcus Buckley, senior cornerback Kevin Smith and sophomore safety Patrick Bates.

Other first team offensive performers included wide receivers Marcus Grant of Houston and Rodney Blackshear of Texas Tech, running back Trevor Cobb of Rice, tight end Kelly Blackwell of Texas Christian, offensive linemen Monte Jones of Baylor and Trey Teichelman of Rice, center Mark Henry of Arkansas and placekicker Roman Anderson of Houston.

Defensively, first teamers included linemen Shane Dronett and James Patton of Texas, Santana Dotson of Baylor, and a tie between Roosevelt Collins of TCU and Robin Jones of Baylor.

Also selected was linebacker L'Shai Maston of Baylor. Texas Tech's Tracy Saul and Michael James of Arkansas joined a brace of Aggies in the defensive backfield.

The punter is Mark Bounds of Texas Tech.

Richardson became the leading rushing quarterback in SWC history, but his biggest asset was leadership. The Aggies lost - 35-34 to Tulsa - the only game he couldn't play, sidelined by an ankle injury.

Under Richardson, the Aggies finally reached a plateau as the ninth ranked team in the country.

Hill became the leading freshman rusher in SWC history, surpassing Earl Campbell.

Coryatt led the team in tackles and big hits. He was the heart of the A&M defense that was ranked No. 1 in the nation before the bowls.

A&M plays Florida State in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day.

Pistons aren't all firing right

By The Associated Press

The Detroit Pistons are in need of a tuneup. After a 4-1 start, the 1988 and 1989 NBA champions have lost 10 of 14 games. They saw their home record drop to 5-6 Thursday night with a 110-101 loss to the Cleveland Cavaliers.

The slump has coach Chuck Daly in a snit.

"There wasn't much emotion," Daly said. "This team doesn't have enough emotion. Until they get some emotion and play harder, that's going to happen."

In the only other NBA games Thursday night, it was New Jersey 109, Milwaukee 101; Atlanta 109, Houston 97; and Golden State 117, Dallas 107.

The Cavaliers, who had a five-game winning streak snapped Wednesday night in Chicago, have won nine of 11 games and are in second place in the Central Division. The Pistons are fifth, but Cleveland coach Lenny Wilkens warned not to write off the Pistons.

"Hey, that team has won two championships," he said. "They're still a good team."

Brad Daugherty scored 15 of his 25 points in the first half.

Isiah Thomas and Mark Aguirre each scored 21 points and Dennis Rodman had a season-high 21 rebounds for the Pistons.

The game was tied 25-25 on a basket by Joe Dumars with 3:25 left in the first quarter. But John Williams hit two baskets and Daugherty had a three-point play as the Cavs outscored Detroit 9-2 the remainder of the period and led the rest of the way.

A basket by Danny Ferry gave Cleveland a 97-80 lead with 6:19 left in the game. Until that point, the Pistons had only one basket in the fourth quarter.

But a basket by Dumars with 5:55 remaining started a 13-2 run that closed Detroit to 99-93 with 3:57 left. Mark Price hit four free throws and a 3-pointer to boost the Cavs' lead back to double figures.

Hawks 109, Rockets 97

Dominique Wilkins matched his season high with 39 points and Atlanta scored the game's final 12 points.

Wilkins' free throw with 3:39 to play put the Hawks on top to stay.

Otis Thorpe led the Rockets with 21 points and 12 rebounds.

Warriors 117, Mavericks 107

Chris Mullin and Tim Hardaway scored 27 points each against Dallas.

Derek Harper led Dallas with 26 points, but the Mavericks helped the Warriors by committing 18 turnovers, six more than their league-best average.

Sarunas Marciulionis came off the bench to score 17 points for Golden State, which opened a 99-82 lead with 7:58 remaining in the game. The Mavericks closed within 10 points on three occasions, but got no closer.

Nets 109, Bucks 101

New Jersey spoiled Frank Hamblen's NBA head coaching debut for Milwaukee.

Drazen Petrovic scored 23 points and Mookie Blaylock had 19 points and 13 assists as the Nets won on the Bucks' homecourt for the first time since 1988. Dale Ellis led Milwaukee with 19 points.

Hamblen, an assistant in the NBA and American Basketball Association for 22 years, took over Wednesday when Del Harris resigned as coach to become full-time vice president of basketball operations.

UVA, Duke wrap up ACC rout

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) - Just when Cory Alexander was beginning to enjoy himself, the Big East took its basketballs and went home.

Virginia's freshman guard joined the Atlantic Coast Conference in time to lead the league to a victory in the final showdown with its counterparts from the Northeast. The Cavaliers clinched this year's series with a 76-66 victory over No. 18 Georgetown.

Top-ranked Duke took a 31-point lead and beat No. 7 St. John's 91-81 in the final game of the series between the conferences following a three-year run. The ACC won this year's meetings 6-2, leaving the overall series tied.

"I love it. I wish I'd gotten to play in the other ones," said Alexander, who had 17 points in support of Bryant Stith's 24. "Hopefully, we'll schedule some Big East teams for the next few years while I'm here. The Big East was the first conference I really wanted to go to."

In other ranked games, No. 13 Utah beat Bradley 65-41 and No. 24 UNLV defeated James Madison 80-73.

It was Alexander's personal eight-point run that helped Virginia (3-1) rally from a 50-45 deficit to a 53-50 lead with 10 minutes left.

Stith had a chance to win it in regulation, but missed the back end of a two-shot foul with 11.6 seconds left. Joey Brown's only basket in the second half, a one-hander on the left baseline, tied the score at 63 with one second left and sent the game into overtime.

From there it was all Virginia as the Cavaliers ran off six straight points before the Hoyas answered back. And, after Georgetown got its three points on a free throw by Charles Harrison and a jump hook by Alonzo Mourning, Virginia ran off seven more points to seal it.

Brown and Mourning had 16 points apiece for the Hoyas (2-1).

Duke (3-0) didn't have much of a struggle with the Redmen (3-1). Within three minutes, the Blue Devils had a 10-point lead. At the half, Duke was in command 48-30 as Christian Laettner scored 19 points. Laettner finished with 26 points.

St. John's lopped all but eight points off the deficit, getting to 89-81 on Malik Sealy's basket with 1:06 left. Sealy scored 37 points, 21 in the second half.

No. 13 Utah 65, Bradley 41

Utah held Bradley without a basket for nearly 14 minutes in the first half.

Byron Wilson scored 10 of 12 points in the first half, helping Utah (5-0) take a 30-8 lead at halftime. Bradley went 13-54 without a field goal as the Utes went on a 21-4 run.

Paul Afeaki and Jimmy Soto each played 21 minutes and scored 12 points for Utah. Bradley (3-1) got 14 points from Charles White.

No. 24 UNLV 80, James Madison 73

UNLV celebrated its return to the Top 25 by winning on the road. The Runnin' Rebels, ranked No. 1 in every poll last season except the final one, broke into the ratings this week for the first time this season.

Dexter Boney scored 22 points to lead UNLV (3-0). James Madison (1-2) led 66-65 with 7 1/2 minutes left, but J.R. Rider's 3-point shot started a 12-4 burst that put UNLV ahead for good.

Bryan Edwards scored 15 points for the Dukers.

Emtman gets Lombardi

HOUSTON (AP) - Washington tackle Steve Emtman had been hoping all year to win the Lombardi Award as the nation's top college lineman, but he could hardly believe it when the moment arrived.

"I'm really in awe right now. This is the greatest award of my life," Emtman said Thursday night. "It's the greatest moment of my life."

Emtman, leader of second-ranked Washington's dominating defense, was selected from a field of four finalists that also included defensive tackle Santana Dotson of Baylor, linebacker Marvin Jones of Florida State and offensive tackle Greg Skrepenak of Michigan.

Hostages elated, but ask for justice

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) - Terry Anderson's brutal ordeal behind him and doctors say he withstood it well. But ex-hostage Alann Steen is calling for the kidnapers to be brought to justice, and President Bush says the hostage chapter isn't over.

Anderson, looking fit and bouyant, was given a nearly clean bill of health Thursday, and has more tests today. The 44-year-old journalist also plans to give a news conference, where new details of his captivity will likely emerge.

It is already known that Anderson, the longest-held Western hostage in Lebanon and last to be freed on Wednesday, spent much of the last seven years in chains, often cold and poorly fed.

As the saga of American hostages in Lebanon neared conclusion this week with the release of three captives including Anderson, the two who preceded him told of horrific abuse by their captors. The three, as others before them, were examined at a U.S. military hospital in Wiesbaden, near Frankfurt.

Steen was kicked in the head and has permanent neurological problems. Joseph Cicippio still has a dent in his skull from where his kidnapers bashed him, and has been left permanently ultra-sensitive to the cold because his captors chained him to a balcony during the winter.

Steen said Thursday that because of mistreatment like that, hostage-takers should be brought to justice.

"They took five years out of my life," Steen said of his pro-Iranian Shiite Muslim captors. "Unfortunately, I think they're probably going to get away with it. Maybe, with a little luck, the various intelligence groups will be able to track them down."

Cicippio arrived Thursday at his brother's home in Norristown, Pa., greeted by hundreds of residents of the Philadelphia suburb.

Iran's Tehran Radio reported this week the captors had been promised they would not be pursued by the United States or any other country.

Bush, however, had some harsh words Thursday.

Saying the freeing of Anderson did not end the hostage ordeal, he demanded an accounting of the fate of William Buckley and Col. William Higgins, two Americans believed killed in captivity.

"I think everybody who violates international law should feel that they'll eventually be brought to justice," Bush said in Washington. "This ugly chapter, albeit nearly closed, is not closed."

U.N. Secretary-General Perez de Cuellar, who has been negotiating hostage releases since August, said he had "some promises" about the return of the body of Higgins, believed killed in July 1989.

Diplomatic efforts to free two Germans still held in Lebanon continued as U.N. hostage mediator Giandomenico Picco met in Bonn with Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher.

Anderson, meanwhile, has been savoring his new life as a free man and as a father.

He spent part of Thursday with his 6-year-old daughter Sulome, whom he had never met until his release a day earlier. Sulome's mother, Madeleine Bassil, and Anderson's sister, Peggy Say, have also been spending time with the ex-hostage.

For years Mrs. Say crisscrossed the globe, doggedly trying to get her brother free.

Anderson appeared remarkably fit for a man who had been kept in chains most of the past seven years. Doctors confirmed that impression, saying an initial examination had turned up only relatively minor health problems.

The doctors found that the lining of Anderson's right lung is inflamed and he has a sinus infection, both treatable and temporary conditions. He also has pain in his right knee from a 20-year-old injury, and like most freed hostages, needs some dental work.

"Mr. Anderson told his doctors he feels good, is enjoying being with his loved ones and is looking to the future," a hospital medical bulletin said.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) - Cop buddy team Mel Gibson and Danny Glover are used to fighting crime, but now the stars of "Lethal Weapon 3" are up against a different kind of opponent - historical preservationists.

A group called Save Our St. Petersburg is opposed to a plan by the moviemakers and a developer to blow up an empty waterfront hotel for the sequel to the smash hits "Lethal Weapon" and "Lethal Weapon 2." They say the 67-year-old Soreno Hotel is an architectural gem and should be listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

"Obviously, we're against it, and obviously we're going to do everything in our power to prevent it," said Tim Clemmons, president of the preservationist group.

Mayor David Fischer expects a fight when the proposed deal goes before the City Council for a vote. "I can see the preservationists camping out in the Soreno. It's going to be incredible," Fischer said.

NEW YORK (AP) - Magic Johnson and retired U.S. Surgeon General C. Everett Koop will collaborate on a guide to safe sex, one of three books by Johnson that Random House is planning to publish.

The Los Angeles Lakers' star guard retired last month after disclosing he was infected with the AIDS virus through promiscuous heterosexual relations.

Random House said Thursday it had signed Johnson to a contract to co-author the safe-sex guide, to write an autobiography and to write a third book, the contents of which are yet to be determined. The value of the contract was not disclosed.

The safe-sex guide is due out in paperback in the spring from the company's Times Books division. Proceeds will benefit the new Magic Johnson Foundation to support education, care and research in AIDS.

The autobiography is due out later in the year, and no publishing deadline for the third book has been set, said Harold Evans, president and publisher of the Random House Trade Group.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THREE WISE MEN?

ANY ONE WHO EVER ATTENDED A CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION, PUT ON BY THE SUNDAY SCHOOL KIDS, KNOWS THAT THE WISE MEN WHO FOLLOWED THE STAR FROM THE EAST TO WORSHIP THE INFANT JESUS WERE THREE KINGS NAMED MELCHIOR, GASPER, AND BELTHAZAR, RIGHT?.....WRONG!

WE THREE KINGS / OF THE ORIENT ARE...Z

NOWHERE IN THE BIBLE DOES IT STATE HOW MANY THERE WERE, WHAT THEIR RANK WAS, NOR THEIR NAMES! IN MATTHEW, THE ACCOUNT MERELY SAYS THEY WERE WISE MEN FROM THE EAST (MATT. 2:1). IN LUKE, ONLY SHEPHERDS ARE MENTIONED (LUKE 2:8-15)....

...THEY WERE NOT DESCRIBED AS KINGS UNTIL THE 6TH CENTURY A.D. AND, SINCE THREE GIFTS HAD BEEN GIVEN—GOLD, FRANKINCENSE, AND MYRRH—SOMEBODY DECIDED THE "KINGS" MUST HAVE BEEN THREE IN NUMBER! BUT NOT UNTIL THE 8TH CENTURY WERE THEY NAMED MELCHIOR, GASPER, AND BELTHAZAR—BY WHOM, AND BY WHAT AUTHORITY, WE'LL NEVER KNOW!

NEXT WEEK: LAMP UNTO MY FEET!

SAVE THIS FOR YOUR SUNDAY SCHOOL SCRAPBOOK

THIS DEVOTIONAL & DIRECTORY IS MADE POSSIBLE BY THESE BUSINESSES WHO ENCOURAGE ALL OF US TO ATTEND WORSHIP SERVICES.
