TERRY ANDERSON

...Last American hostage freed Wednesday

Anderson says 'It's just great'

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) - A jubilant Terry Anderson was reunited today at this way station for freed hostages with sister Peggy Say, who had pressed presidents and prime ministers in a dogged campaign to get him freed.

"It's just great. It's been so long," said the 44-year-old journalist, the last American hostage in Lebanon, from the steps of the U.S. military hospital.

In a pre-dawn rain, more than 200 shouting and whooping people greeted the chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, who was freed Wednesday after 2,455 days in captivity.

He held the hand of his 6-year-old daughter Sulome, whom he met for the first time after he was driven to Syria on Wednesday.

Mrs. Say dashed forward, gave him a huge hug and stroked his face after he stepped down from the helicopter that shuttled him from a nearby U.S. air base.

They held each other tightly and rocked back and forth. On the hospital steps she stood at his side, wiping tears from her eyes.

"Welcome Home!" and "Merry Christmas!" yelled people in the crowd, many of them packed on the balconies of two floors of the hospital.

Also greeting him as he came from the helicopter was Louis D. Boccardi, the AP's president and chief executive officer. He said Anderson seemed as elated as he had been during his brief news conference Wednesday night at the Syrian Foreign Ministry.

"Terry's back and he's overjoyed," Boccardi said.

Later, Boccardi said Anderson would soon tell his own story to the world.

"I hope that he will emerge shortly to answer some of these questions for himself, and I hope very soon thereafter begin to put on paper some of these experiences," he told ABC-TV. "How soon he'll come back to work, as such, we just don't know yet."

Boccardi said on CBS-TV that Anderson had described meeting daughter Sulome, born three months after he was abducted, as "a wonderful experience."

Anderson also had a poignant reunion with photographer Don McEll, who was with him when he was abducted and had spoken since of his sense of helplessness and despair as Anderson was seized by the kidnappers. "I think in a way yesterday I was freed as well," he told NBC-TV.

Just minutes after arriving at the military hospital, Anderson appeared on a balcony with Joseph Cicippio and Alann Steen, the other two American hostages freed this week. Cicippio, freed Monday, was heading home today.

Later, Anderson told hospital officials he had a craving for a large hamburger and strawberry milkshake. Instead, he had a breakfast of scrambled eggs, sausage, french toast, orange juice and coffee.

He was scheduled to have medical tests later today.

Anderson was one of the most fit, upbeat-looking freed American hostages to pass through Wiesbaden in years, despite being held the longest of any.

In contrast, doctors say Steen, 52, suffered brain damage from beatings by his captors and Cicippio, 61, has a dent in his skull from a beating and damage from frostbite suffered from being chained outside in winter cold.

Anderson said faith and stubbornness helped him through his 6 1/2-year imprisonment by pro-Iranian extremists, who released him after intense U.N. mediation efforts that led to freedom for eight other hostages since August.

Anderson was the last of 14 Americans held by Shiite Muslims to be released alive; three were killed in captivity. But two Germans remain hostage, and U.N. officials were attempting to gain their freedom.

"I am very pleased," Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar said at the United Nations on Wednesday. "The American chapter has been closed, but I have other chapters still to close."

He has led delicate negotiations involving a complex swap of Western hostages, hundreds of Arabs held by Israel and information about missing Israeli servicemen.

Lebanese and Iranian media reported today that efforts were under way to free the Germans, Heinrich Struebig and Thomas Kempner.

Asked about the efforts of Mrs. Say to get him freed, Anderson said: "Fantastic wasn't it? It's great to have a sister like that. You get yourself in trouble and she just comes along and gets you out," he joked, and the crowd laughed.

Mrs. Say's unrelenting quest to free her brother made her arguably the best-known campaigner for the hostages' freedom. She wrote a book, traveled widely to meet world leaders and even became involved in covert diplomacy at one point.

On meeting reporters Wednesday, Anderson referred to her as "my incredible sister Peg."

Anderson's kidnappers on Wednesday turned him over to Syrian security officials who delivered him to U.S. Ambassador Christopher Ross in the Syrian capital of Damascus.

Anderson said sheer determination got him through.

"You just do what you have to do. You wake up every day, summon up the energy from somewhere even when you think you haven't got it, and you get through the day, day after day after day," he told reporters in Syria.

"I was lucky enough to have other people with me most of the time. ... My faith, stubbornness, I guess," also helped, he said.

In addition to Sulome and her mother Madeline Bassil, Anderson was accompanied to Frankfurt by Larry E. Heinzerling, deputy director of the AP's World Services division.

DSGH plans recruitment group

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Deaf Smith General Hospital is forming a committee to help retain and recruit physicians needed in Hereford on the heels of the announced departure of Dr. Randal Vinther.

Vinther, who has been in Hereford for two years, is an internal medicine specialist. He is moving to Nacogdoches, in East Texas. He said it is a "small and progressive city with tremendous opportunities for an internist."

"Although the community is in a rural setting, it allows for the chance to practice internal medicine in the way that I have been trained."

Vinther, a native of Eastern New Mexico, had seen his practice grow into that of general medicine during his time in Hereford, especially after Dr. Tim Revell closed his practice a year ago.

"I want my patients to know that I am not leaving Hereford out of anger toward anyone; this is just one of those rare opportunities that come along once in a lifetime. I feel I owe it to my wife and son to accept," he said.

DSGH Administrator Ron Rives said Dr. Vinther has been an asset to the community. "I'm glad we had the chance to know him, because he's been a delight to work with."

Rives said physician recruitment and retention is an important part of the DSGH objectives. "We will form a committee to determine the types of physicians needed in Hereford," Rives said. "Our physician recruiting efforts go on all the time, but this committee's findings will help us focus on a particular specialty."

According to a news release by DSGH, Dr. Vinther said that cooperation among the physicians is important in determining the kind of physician recruited. "A specialist must have referrals from the rest of the medical staff," Vinther said. "The advice of the medical staff on the type of physician recruited would help assure the new physician's success."

Genevia Summers, who has attended many of the Deaf Smith County Hospital District over the past two years, said she and many people she has talked with are very concerned about the lack of doctors in Hereford.

"Every meeting I ask the same question, when are we going to get more doctors," Mrs. Summers said.

"We need to entice them here somehow, and I think we need to entice new business and industry here to help us. A lot of our community is on either Medicare or Medicaid, and prospective doctors don't want that. We need to do something to get more people here so we can get more doctors."

"We have to do something. I think Ron (Rives) is doing a good job. Maybe he can turn it around." Mrs. Summers said she felt new programs started by Rives, including follow-up contacts about care received at DSGH, have helped the community's feelings toward the hospital.

"We also have to get the doctors to work closer together," Mrs. Summers said. "When we bring in new doctors, the other doctors don't seem to want to work with them. If they have a shingle, we need to give them a chance. They had to pass certain standards or they can't be a doctor. They need to work with the new people that come in, give them referrals. When we transfer everyone to Amarillo, that doesn't help the other doctors, and it sure doesn't help the hospital."

Vinther is also a member of the board of directors of the Deaf Smith County Hospital District.

"We will replace him on the board as soon as possible, following the requirements of our by-laws," said Rives.

(Deaf Smith General Hospital contributed greatly to this article with a news release, including the quotes by Dr. Vinther and Mr. Rives.)

Filing open for county offices

Filing opened Tuesday for all local and statewide races in the March 10 primary elections, but activity may be light here with only four county offices to be on the ballots.

County offices which will appear on the ballots are those for sheriff, tax assessor-collector and for county commissioner, precincts 1 and 3. The incumbents are Joe Brown, sheriff; Margaret Perez, tax assessor-collector, and commissioners John Stribling, Pct. 1, and Troy Don Moore, Pct. 3.

No one has filed on the local scene yet, however there is no Democratic Party county chairman to accept applications. Precinct chairmen were expected to meet this week to name a county chairman. Candidates could announce their intentions to file before a chairman is named.

James McDowell, Republican Party county chairman, said he has not been contacted yet by anyone interested in seeking office on the GOP ballot.

Filing for the March 10 primaries is up in the air because the Texas House and Senate and U.S. Congress-sional redistricting plans are all being challenged in court. The House plan, which was rejected by the U.S. Department of Justice, was modified last week. However, a federal court refused on Monday to accept the new version or to delay the primary.

The Justice Department is expected to decide by Dec. 13 whether the revised plan is in accordance with the Voting Rights Act. State Republican and Democratic party leaders reportedly have agreed not to allow House members to file until the redistricting plan is settled.

Deaf Smith County's two legislators have yet to announce their re-election plans. State Sen. Teel Bivins said he expects the courts to declare the new boundaries as "temporary" for purposes of the 1992 elections. His 31st District lines would be enlarged south to Midland. State Rep. John Smith's district would have two counties added.

The filing period is scheduled to end Jan. 2.

Santa letters accepted

Santa letters are now being accepted by the Hereford Brand for the annual Christmas Greeting edition on Dec. 22.

Letters should be mailed to Santa in care of the Brand, PO Box 673, Hereford 79045. The letters will be forwarded to the North Pole in plenty of time for Santa to read before Christmas. The letters may also be brought to the Brand office at 313 N. Lee.

The deadline for the letters is Dec. 13.

Law enforcement groups plan big DWI effort Friday

Area law enforcement agencies will be stepping up enforcement of driving laws Friday night to mark the first hours of National Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week.

The week was started several years ago by Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD), and will run through Dec. 12.

In Texas, the Department of Public Safety will participate in Operation Care, a combined effort by state police in 49 states during the period from 6 p.m. Friday to 7 a.m. Saturday.

"We won't be doing anything particularly special," said Sgt. Marshall Henderson of the Department of Public Safety. "Our first emphasis is always on DWI enforcement."

"The message they're sending out before the holiday is that this kind of thing (DWI) is not going to be tolerated," said Wayne Beighle, public information and safety officer for the DPS in Amarillo.

In the City of Hereford, extra officers will be on patrol Friday night to help curb drunk driving. Hereford police hope their high visibility will send a message not only Friday night, but issue a continuing reminder that they will not tolerate drunk driving in the city.

Aspirin may curb colon cancer

BOSTON (AP) - The humble aspirin continues to surprise. Not only does it prevent heart attacks, the nation's No. 1 killer, but it just might stop cancer, too.

A major study, released today by the American Cancer Society, found that people who take an aspirin every other day cut their risk of colon cancer nearly in half.

Experts warned against making too much of the data, even though the results mesh well with findings from animal experiments. They said aspirin's cancer-preventing powers - if they exist - await proof through more research.

"I think this adds important information, but it's for researchers. It's not for clinicians or the general public," cautioned Dr. Charles Hennekens of Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston.

The chief author of the study, the cancer society's Dr. Michael J. Thun, was also cautious. But he said his findings suggest that people could be gaining a double benefit from aspirin.

"If people are, on the advice of their physicians, already taking an aspirin every other day for heart disease, it is also possible that they may be reducing their risk of colon cancer," he said.

Studies have shown that people who take roughly an aspirin tablet every other day cut their risk of heart attacks in half. Regular aspirin has become a way of life for many Americans in middle life and beyond.

The study in today's New England Journal of Medicine suggests that a similar dose appears to have an effect in colon cancer. The disease kills about 50,000 Americans annually, making it second only to lung cancer.

The study, conducted on 662,424 people, found that men and women who took aspirin at least 16 times a month had a 40 percent lower risk of dying of colon cancer than did non-users.

"It is certainly plausible," commented Dr. Peter Greenwald of the National Cancer Institute. "This is a well-done study."

Aspirin stops heart attacks by preventing blood clots from forming. But exactly how it might prevent death from colon cancer is unclear. Among the theories:

- Aspirin reduces the body's production of substances called prostaglandins, which make cells grow. Prostaglandins might also be involved in tumor growth.

- Aspirin somehow improves the body's natural defenses against colon cancer.

- Aspirin makes colon cancer bleed, so people seek treatment earlier, when the chance of cure is better.

In another study published earlier this year, doctors from the Sloan Epidemiology Unit at Boston University Medical School examined the effects of non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs, largely aspirin. They compared the medicines' use in 1,326 people with colon cancer victims and 4,891 healthy people. Regular users were found to have a 50 percent lower risk of this cancer.

Another study, conducted in Australia, reached a similar conclusion.

However, one done at a California retirement community found just the opposite: Aspirin users had a slightly higher risk of colon cancer.

Studies in rats and mice show that aspirin and similar drugs reduce the appearance of colon cancer when animals are given cancer-causing chemicals.

Dr. Lynn Rosenberg, who directed the Boston University study, agreed that aspirin's role in cancer prevention has not been proved, and she added that aspirin is not entirely harmless, either. Overuse can cause bleeding.

If aspirin's cancer-preventing role "does get accepted as the truth, it will be a matter of weighing the risk and benefits," she said.

Local Roundup

Six arrested Wednesday

Hereford police arrested three persons Wednesday, including a man, 44, for driving while intoxicated; a man, 32, for domestic violence assault; and a woman, 19, on outstanding warrants.

Reports included theft of service in the 500 block of 25 Mile Ave.; telephone harassment; domestic disturbance on Hereford Calle; domestic violence assault in the 500 block of Blevins; theft of $42 worth of items in the 200 block of Greenwood; and $200 worth of glass breakage in the 100 block of Campbell.

Police issued nine citations Wednesday.

Sheriff's deputies arrested three persons Wednesday, including a man, 36, and a woman, 30, on violation of probation warrants, and a man, 20, on two warrants for surrender of surety.

Deputies investigated the theft of tools worth $75 from a pickup northeast of Dawn, and the theft of two tires and rims, worth $210, from south of Hereford.

Blood drive is Wednesday

The Hereford Keywantes and Hereford Key Club will sponsor a blood drive Wednesday from 2:30-7 p.m. at the Hereford High School auditorium. All eligible persons are urged to give the gift of life.

Fair weather through weekend

Tonight, fair with a low in the upper 20s. East wind less than 10 mph, becoming south after midnight.

Friday, partly cloudy with a high in the lower 60s. Southwest wind 10 to 20 mph and gusty.

The extended forecast for Saturday through Monday: low in the 30s Saturday lowering to the 20s by Monday. Highs in the mid 50s to lower 60s Saturday, cooling to the upper 40s to mid 50s by Monday.

This morning's low at KPAN was 29 after a high Wednesday of 56.

Israel proposes impasse solution

WASHINGTON (AP) - Israel is trying to resolve the impasse in Mideast peace talks by proposing to hold low-level discussions on procedural issues with its Arab neighbors. But it ruled out meeting today.

Palestinian negotiators said they would return to the State Department and wait anyway. Syrian, Jordanian and Lebanese delegations refused to say whether they also would accept the State Department's invitation for another meeting.

The first round of bilateral talks, hosted by the U.S. and Soviet governments, recessed after less than an hour Wednesday, with both Arabs and Israelis trading accusations on who was to blame. Then an Israeli official suggested a way out.

"We have suggested holding a meeting to talk about logistics, so that when our delegations get here Monday we can save time," said the Israeli official, speaking on condition of anonymity. The Israeli delegation is scheduled to arrive Sunday, but lower-level officials are already here.

The suggestion was conveyed to Dennis Ross, a top aide to Secretary of State James A. Baker III.

PATIENTS IN HOSPITAL

Infant boy Alaniz, Annie Dobbins, Infant boy Formby, Lisa Marie Formby, Dollie Hathaway, Velma Irene Hudson, Esmeralda Medina, Infant boy Medina, Infant boy Orosco, Maria Orosco, Opal Shaw, Antonio Suarez and E.D. Watson.

But Palestinian delegates, disappointed by Israel's no-show earlier in the day, said they had not been contacted by the Bush administration about Israel's latest proposal.

"The Americans said very clearly they are not playing mailman for either side," said Palestinian spokeswoman Hanan Ashrawi.

Israel still wants to discuss the procedural issues of moving the bilateral talks to the Middle East. The Arab delegations reject this and want to discuss substantive issues such as exchanging land for peace, halting settlements in occupied Arab territories and self-rule for Palestinians.

Both Ashrawi and Syrian spokeswoman Bushra Kanafani have said they are not willing to allow Israel to destroy the peace process, but have refused to say whether they will attend the Dec. 9 talks the Jewish state has chosen.

"We do not believe the peace process should crumble because Israel did not show on the 4th," Kanafani said. "We want the process alive."

On the other hand, Benjamin Netanyahu, a close aide to Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir, said "The Arabs are playing games. They go to a room knowing it's empty, but they don't pick up the phone to call us."

State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler urged the Arabs and Israelis to agree.

UT medical center given $85 million

DALLAS (AP) - Five gifts totaling $85 million have been donated to the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas for biomedical and cancer research, the largest package ever given to a public medical center.

The gifts continue a string of fund-raising successes for the medical school.

"To the best of our information, the five largest single gifts ever made to public medical schools have all been made to UT-Southwestern - and three of them today," said Kern Wildenthal, president of the medical center, citing figures from the Chronicle of Higher Education.

The $85 million will help meet the medical center's $250 million research expansion goal. The center wants to raise $150 million privately to add to $100 million in public funds.

The new gifts include $30 million from the Excellence in Education Foundation, $25 million from an anonymous donor, a $25 million challenge grant from an anonymous donor who said it must be matched, and $5 million from the Southern Medical Foundation.

Administrators Wednesday also said they have hired Dr. Eli Glatstein, a national expert in radiation oncology, to run their new Center for Therapeutic Cancer Research.

Wildenthal said $10 million from that donation will be added to $50 million in state funds to build a new research building. The other $15 million will be used to start research centers in cancer biology and cancer therapy.

The $25 million challenge grant will be used to raise money for neuroscience, cancer, developmental biology and genetics research. The $5 million medical foundation grant also will be used to generate matching funds, Wildenthal said.

Glatstein, 53, now chief of radiation oncology at the National Cancer Institute, will join the medical center faculty in February, Wildenthal said.

"We've had considerable strength in isolated cancer research, but not a broad research emphasis until now," Wildenthal said.

The $30 million donation will be used by Nobel-prize winning researchers Dr. Michael Brown and Dr. Joseph Goldstein to continue research in molecular genetics, including how cells absorb cholesterol, Wildenthal said.

"We want to know why some people can eat a lot of cholesterol and not be affected, and others can look at an egg and their cholesterol goes sky high," Brown said.

One of the anonymous $25 million donors was identified by The Dallas Morning News as Dallas philanthropist Nancy Hamon.

"The cancer program, though embryonic now, is going to be something very special," Glatstein said.

One of the co-founders of the Excellence in Education Foundation and Texas Instruments, Erik Jonsson, said research is a gamble but worth the risk.

"You never know where research is going to go. You cannot tell where it will turn out," said Jonsson, 90, a former mayor of Dallas. "So you take a bit of a blind chance."

Wildenthal said the research expansion includes three new buildings, one of which will be named after Jonsson. The school's plans to complete the first building by 1992, the second building by late 1994, and the third by 1996.

The medical center will form a committee in early 1992 to seek more private donations in the drive for $150 million, Wildenthal said.

The two researchers, Brown and Goldstein, won 1985 Nobel Prizes in medicine for studying how cells remove cholesterol from blood. Another faculty member, Johann Deisenhofer, shared a 1988 Nobel Prize in chemistry.

Three years ago, Dallas billionaires Harold Simmons and H. Ross Perot made large gifts to the medical school. Simmons gave $41 million to study cancer and arthritis and Perot gave $20 million.

Pan Am shutdown strands travelers

MIAMI (AP) - Pan Am passengers scrambled to re-book flights during the heaviest travel time of the season and 7,500 employees found themselves out of work three weeks before Christmas when the once-glorious airline went under.

The airline, which pioneered commercial aviation, abruptly shut down Wednesday after losing its battle to erase years of losses.

Chanda Sharan of Jonesboro, Ga., sat in a baggage area at Miami International Airport with her two young daughters on their interrupted flight from Atlanta to Mexico City. But she seemed more concerned about Pan Am workers than her own predicament.

"I feel bad. I really feel bad," she said. "I'm originally from India, and we always flew Pan Am. It's been in this country for so long. It's like history."

The shutdown stranded thousands of passengers around the country, including 100 people removed from a flight to the Dominican Republic just before takeoff from New York's Kennedy Airport.

Several airlines said they would honor Pan Am tickets. But finding comparable flights during the busy holiday season is going to be difficult for many, said John Lindsey, a Pan Am vice president.

"Obviously," he said, "it's going to be tight."
"We're all in shock," he added. "It's very, very tough for a 64-year-old airline and all the people who have gone through this."

Many employees left jobless were transferring to Miami from other cities as part of an plan to transform the carrier into a smaller airline focusing on Latin America. That plan fell apart on Tuesday.

Pilot Terry Barnes got the news when he radioed from the air for the gate numbers of connecting flights. He was told there wouldn't be any connecting flights.

Harry Tomisaka, a 23-year fleet service veteran from San Francisco, walked into work Wednesday-pay-day and found he no longer had a job. "We came up to work and they just told us we couldn't go in," he said.

Pan Am became the third U.S. airline to die this year, after Eastern and Midway, amid deep industrywide troubles brought on by the Gulf War and the recession. Pan Am bookings also were crippled by the 1988 terrorist bombing of Flight 103 over Scotland.

The death blow came on Tuesday in U.S. Bankruptcy Court when Delta Air Lines cut off financing to keep Pan Am in the air. Delta said it did not believe Pan Am's business plan would work at a time when losses were about $2 million a day and bookings were plunging.

Luz Rodriguez of Puerto Rico, a retired Pan Am office worker, had taken a break from chemotherapy treatment for a trip to Orlando when the end came for Pan Am.

"I said, 'I'm going to go for a ride before I die.' And look what happened," she said. She and her husband arrived at Miami Airport on one of the airline's last flights. The couple continued their trip on American Airlines and got there less than three hours late.

Pan Am was founded in 1927 and inaugurated the first scheduled international flight - a mail run between Key West, Fla., and Havana, Cuba - the first scheduled trans-Pacific service (1935), and the first scheduled trans-Atlantic service (1939).

AP kept low profile in release effort

NEW YORK (AP) - The Associated Press pursued two courses, one public and the other private, in a seven-year international crusade to win freedom for the kidnapped Terry Anderson.

In the end, the news cooperative's chief said, it was "larger forces" of historical change in the Middle East that mattered most.

It simply came down to the fact that "it was time" for Anderson's release, Louis D. Boccardi said.

The 44-year-old journalist, a 17-year veteran of the AP, was freed by his Shiite Muslim captors Wednesday. He was the last American hostage held in Lebanon.

While AP executives followed leads and sought help worldwide in Anderson's long years of captivity, ordinary AP staff members launched their own homegrown campaigns - writing letters, hanging banners, staging anniversary ceremonies in news bureaus, wearing POW-style metal bracelets reading, "Terry Anderson, March 16, 1985," the date of his kidnapping.

Boccardi, AP president and chief executive officer, said in an interview that the news organization decided early in Anderson's captivity to follow dual paths in seeking his release.

"One," he said, "was to have AP pursue, at every level it could, contacts it thought might offer some hope for Terry's release."

Those contacts were private and governmental, U.S. and foreign, he said. But he declined to provide specifics. "Virtually all of that was confidential, off-the-record, on a non-journalistic basis."

The other path, he said, "was to support the humanitarian effort that Terry's sister Peggy represented."

Year in, year out, Peggy Say followed a tireless schedule of travel, diplomatic contacts and media appearances to keep her hostage brother's case before the public eye.

At the same time, Larry Heinzerling, a senior executive in AP's World Services department, devoted almost full time to a parallel, quieter campaign of international contacts.

Both were underwritten by the AP, and Boccardi said the cost totaled hundreds of thousands of dollars.

He said the AP always had to balance the risks of turning the hostage journalist into a valuable prize through publicity against the alternative of seeming to "ignore" his plight.

"We had to walk a very difficult line between two extremes, both unacceptable," he said.

The AP is a not-for-profit cooperative serving more than 1,500 newspapers and 6,000 broadcast outlets in the United States, and thousands more worldwide.

While playing a role itself in one of the world's longest-running news stories.

"I put a wall between the AP's news efforts on this and the efforts we were making as a company and as friends of Terry Anderson," Boccardi said.

When the Iran-Contra affair came to light in 1986, some outside journalists questioned whether the AP "wall" was holding. But Boccardi said there was no cause for concern.

He and other AP executives had met repeatedly with Lt. Col. Oliver North, the White House aide in charge of the hostage issue, but "we didn't know anything about his selling weapons," Boccardi said, and the AP's journalistic principles were not compromised.

North's arms sales to Iran, whose government had the allegiance of the Lebanon kidnappers, apparently led to releases of two hostages in the mid-1980s. But the unmasking of the scheme caused an uproar in Washington and paralyzed official U.S. efforts to free the hostages.

In the end, Boccardi said, it was the "larger forces at work" that paved the way for Anderson's release, via United Nations mediation.

He identified some of these historic factors as the Persian Gulf War and the resulting changes in Mideast power balances; the rise of a more pragmatic government in Iran after the death of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, and the convening of the Arab-Israeli peace conference.

Such established organizations as the Society of Professional Journalists and the Overseas Press Club and such ad hoc groups as the Reporters Committee to Free Terry Anderson circulated petitions, wrote to foreign leaders and issued statements of support on key Anderson anniversaries.

JOYCE HICKMAN...Artist of the Month

Hickman enjoys all aspects of art

No matter what the medium or scene, Joyce Hickman, Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division's Artist of the Month, loves them all. Hickman began painting when she was 16 and has been at it ever since.

"I have my Bachelor of Arts and Masters of Arts from West Texas State University," she said. "I taught art history at Stanton Junior High." She has continued her education at Amarillo College where she took photography courses.

"I don't have a favorite theme," said Hickman. "I like to do something I haven't done before. I've worked in oils, water colors, acrylic and bronzes."

"Oil is my more favorite medium

now. I enjoy bronze, but it takes too long."

Her art work has been featured at many shows. She has shown at WTSU, the Cinema in Amarillo, the chamber of commerce, Atrium and in Austin.

"With each medium you work in you have to adjust to the size relationships. It is hard to get the head in proportion with the body and things like that. It may take two or three days to notice that size relationships are off."

Hickman says she does a painting about every two weeks and most of them are for sale.

"It is so relaxing to paint," she said. "I completely lose track of time."

Hickman and her husband Robert live on a farm 20 miles north of Hereford. Her work is being displayed at the Atrium.

Westway sets bazaar

Westway Home Extension Club will be having its Country Christmas Bazaar Dec. 14 at the Hereford Community Center.

There is no admission charge and several booths will be having drawings. Arts and crafts from all over the area will be represented. Activities will be available for the children.

The public is invited to attend.

Rebekahs make light donation

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce will be getting a $25 donation for the Christmas lighting fund from the Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228.

The lodge voted to give the donation at the recent meeting.

Anna Conklin, Susie Curtsinger and Leona Sowell were appointed as decoration and entertainment committee for the Christmas party scheduled for Dec. 17.

Plans for the annual Christmas bazaar and bake sale set for Dec. 14 were made.

A white elephant table and several individual craft tables along with a hot dog stand will make up the event.

Tables are available for rent at $10 a table. Call 364-4528 for more information.

During the business meeting, it was announced that nine visits to the sick, 30 cheer cards, 13 dishes of food and two flowers were reported for the week.

The fellowship hour was hosted by Genevieve Lynn. Others present were Ann Werner, Jo Irlbeck, Tony Irlbeck, Marie Harris, Rosalie Northcutt, Susie Curtsinger, Sadie Shaw, Erma Loving, Jim Loving, Mary Lou Weatherford, Lydia Hopson and Ocie Bolton.

Legion enjoys holiday meal, reminiscing

The annual holiday dinner was held at Hereford Unit 192 American Legion Post Home.

The meal was served to 40 legion and auxiliary members.

Gifts for the VAMC Gift Shop in Amarillo were brought by members. The gift shop will be open Dec. 9 and 10 for the patients in the veteran's hospital.

Members reminisced about World War II and discussed the where they were Dec. 7, 1941.

It was announced that Mr. and Mrs. Ira Ott were celebrating their 61 wedding anniversary.

President Clara Trowbridge called the Bingo game and gifts were awarded.

The next meeting will be Jan. 7 at 7:30 p.m.

Holiday decorations can be berry bad

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) - They're pretty to look at, but don't eat the berries from holiday mistletoe and holly decorations.

Whitish mistletoe berries have toxic substances that can produce gastric distress and drastically reduce blood pressure to the point of cardiovascular collapse, according to Dr. Will H. Blackwell, a botanist at Miami University.

And while holly leaves and berries are not seriously toxic, he says, berries of some species may contain irritants that cause digestive problems, including diarrhea, if consumed in quantity.

Blackwell, author of "Poisonous and Medicinal Plants" (Prentice Hall), says mistletoe should be considered potentially dangerous, especially if children are around.

According to plant historians, the tradition of kissing under a sprig of mistletoe probably comes from the old Scandinavian legend about Balder, the god of peace, who was killed by a mistletoe-poisoned arrow. Other gods and goddesses brought him back to life and decreed that everyone who passed under a sprig of mistletoe should receive a kiss to symbolize love, not hate.

And the use of holly at Christmas probably grew out of the Roman Saturnalia, a winter festival, Blackwell says. The Romans sent boughs of evergreens and other gifts to friends.

Two big playoff games in Lubbock Saturday

The Texas high school football playoffs are getting closer to their conclusions, and fewer and fewer games are being played within driving distance of Hereford. This weekend, only three are being played as close as Lubbock, but they may be worth the drive to see.

There will be a 5A-4A double-header Saturday at Jones Stadium which starts at 2 p.m. with District 4-5A rivals Odessa Permian and Midland Lee. Permian boasts a 13-0 record, while Lee is 12-1, the only loss coming to Permian. According to the Harris Rating System, Permian will win by seven.

The second game at Jones is at 8 p.m. pitting District 1-4A's own Pampa Harvesters (11-2) against Sweetwater (11-1). Pampa has had a good run through the playoffs, but Harris says this is the end: Sweetwater by six points.

On Friday, Memphis (11-1) meets Rankin (11-1) at 7:30 at Lowrey Field in Lubbock, and Harris gives Rankin a three-point nod. Wellington (12-0), another Panhandle team, is meeting Albany (13-0) in Vernon, and Wellington is favored by seven.

District 4-5A has all of its teams still alive. Besides Permian and Lee in Division II, San Angelo Central is in Division I, and plays Killeen. Both teams are 10-2-1, but Central is picked by 1.

Here are all of this weekend's pairings, with Harris' pick for each contest, and time and place, where available:

Aikman plans return in 2 weeks

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Troy Aikman doesn't plan to be on the bench during the Dallas Cowboys playoff run.

He's pushing himself and his bum knee to be ready to take over as the starting quarterback in two weeks. Aikman vows to be in uniform for emergency duty on Sunday when the Cowboys meet the New Orleans Saints.

Aikman worked out Wednesday and said the thought of missing out on all the fun is driving him crazy.

"It would kill me (to miss the playoffs)," Aikman said. "I feel like I played a big part in getting the team to where it's headed. For me not to be in there would be very frustrating."

Aikman, who suffered a partial tear in a lateral collateral knee ligament against the Washington Redskins, said "I'm going to suit up Sunday. I'd be ready to play on an emergency basis. I don't expect to start."

Steve Beuerlein, who rescued the Cowboys against Washington and led them to victory again on Thanksgiving Day against Pittsburgh, will start on Sunday against the Saints.

"My knee is still sore in some spots but it's getting better every day," Aikman said. "I just want to be there in case the team needs me. I'm frustrated. This is two seasons in a row this has happened. I'm doing everything I can to get back."

Asked if he was rushing things, Aikman said "I'm not foolish to the point where I would go out there if I wasn't ready. Coach (Jimmy) Johnson has indicated he will let me decide when I'm ready to play. Sure it might be a little risky. But it's risky every time you go out there. You might separate a shoulder or something. I'm not worrying about hurting the knee worse."

Aikman added "If I suit up then that means I'm ready to play."

Aikman is targeting the Philadelphia game on Dec. 15 as his first start.

"I need some practice time and I haven't been getting any of that," he said. "That's why I'm not expecting to start on Sunday."

Beuerlein, who has said he understands his role as a backup with the Cowboys, said he hoped Aikman didn't rush things but added "he knows how he feels. When he feels mobile, he'll be out there. He's a tough guy. All I know is I'll get the job done on Sunday."

Aikman actually has had bad injury luck all three years of his professional career.

In his rookie season, he broke a finger and missed three games. He suffered a concussion when he returned from the injury.

"Frustrated, you bet I'm frustrated," Aikman said. "I'm anxious and ready to get back in there. I want to be on the field with these guys when we get into the playoffs."

O'Brien candidates announced

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Florida State's Casey Weldon, Texas A&M's Bucky Richardson and Brigham Young's Ty Detmer have been named finalists for the 1991 Davey O'Brien National Quarterback Award.

A 12-member Advisory Committee selected the three finalists from a ballot of ten quarterbacks. Weldon, Richardson and Detmer will be invited to an awards show Saturday, Dec. 7, at the College Football Hall of Fame at Kings Island, Ohio.

The winner will be announced on ABC-TV between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. EST.

The three finalists for the Maxwell, Outland, Jim Thorpe, Doak Walker and the Johnny Unitas awards also will be invited to Kings Island, with the honorees to be announced during the show. The Chevrolet Football Coach of the Year also will be recognized.

The 6-1, 200-pound Weldon completed 189 of 313 passes for 2,527 yards, 22 touchdowns and eight interceptions. The senior quarterback was the mainstay of the FSU team, ranked No. 1 since preseason in the various polls before a one-point loss to top-ranked Miami Nov. 16.

Richardson, a 6-2, 221-pound senior, led the No. 9-ranked Aggies to a 10-1 record that included a perfect 8-0 Southwest Conference record. The Aggies will host No. 5 Florida State in the Mobil Cotton Bowl on Jan. 1.

Richardson established new SWC career marks by a quarterback with 2,095 rushing yards and 30 rushing touchdowns.

Detmer, the recipient of the Davey O'Brien Award and the Heisman and Maxwell trophies following the 1990 regular season, established 65 NCAA records and tied three others during his career.

This season, the 6-0, 175-pound senior led the Cougars to a third straight Western Athletic Conference title and a berth in the Thrifty Car Rental Holiday Bowl against Iowa. He completed 249 of 403 passes and 35 touchdowns during the season. For his career, Detmer hit on 958 of 1,530 attempts for 15,031 yards and 121 TDs, all NCAA marks.

The 1991 Davey O'Brien honoree and the runner-up will be honored at a dinner Feb. 10 at the Fort Worth Club.

Four Lombardi finalists picked

HOUSTON (AP) - Defensive tackle Steve Emtman of No. 2-ranked Washington is in town as a finalist for the Lombardi Award, given annually to the nation's top collegiate lineman.

Emtman and the Huskies will play Michigan Jan. 1 in the Rose Bowl. But No. 1-ranked Miami was on his mind Wednesday.

"About the only thing they do more than we do is get on television all the time," Emtman said Wednesday.

"I'm sick of seeing them on ESPN every week. That's the reason they are ranked ahead of us, they get so much television exposure. We're never on television."

Emtman, 6-4, 280, is one of four finalists for the Lombardi Award, named in honor of Vince Lombardi, the former Green Bay and Washington Redskins coach who died of cancer in 1970.

Defensive tackle Santana Dotson of Baylor, linebacker Marvin Jones of Florida State and offensive tackle Greg Skrepenak of Michigan are the other finalists.

Washington will play Michigan in the Jan. 1 Rose Bowl with a chance to earn a national championship if they beat Michigan and Miami loses to Nebraska in the Orange Bowl.

Bulls beat Cavs as Jordanaires step up

By The Associated Press

The Chicago Bulls were going for their 13th consecutive victory, and Michael Jordan was lucky they are no longer a one-man team.

Jordan scored a season-low 16 points on 7-for-20 shooting and committed seven turnovers. But his teammates - particularly Scottie Pippen and Horace Grant - played well enough to beat the Cleveland Cavaliers 108-102 Wednesday night.

The Bulls' 13th consecutive victory bettered the club record of 12 set in November 1973.

"Four or five years ago we would have lost this game," Jordan said. "But Scottie and Horace really stepped up. In fact, everybody stepped up tonight, and that's what this team is all about."

Pippen had 28 points, 15 rebounds and 10 assists, while Grant scored 22 points. Reserves B.J. Armstrong and Stacey King scored in double figures.

A 3-pointer by Armstrong started a 12-2 run that put the Bulls in front 100-88, but the Cavaliers chipped away at the margin behind the shooting of Brad Daugherty and John Williams, who scored 26 and 22 points, respectively.

Hornets 124, Lakers 106

Dell Curry scored 27 points, including 4-for-4 from 3-point range.

The Hornets took advantage of the Lakers' road weariness - they've played six games away from home since Nov. 24 - to outscore Los Angeles 41-29 in the fourth quarter after the two teams took a 77-77 tie into the final period.

James Worthy scored 28 points for the Lakers. Rookie Larry Johnson scored 22 points for the Hornets. Celtics 124, Heat 97

Robert Parish scored 31 points and Larry Bird 28 as Boston extended its home record to 20-0 against the NBA's four expansion entries.

Jazz 101, Bullets 74

Jeff Malone scored 22 points and Karl Malone had 20 points and 14 rebounds against Washington.

The Jazz outscored the Bullets 54-35 in the middle two quarters and led by as many as 29 points in the second half.

Playing without injured starters

Pervis Ellison and Michael Adams, the Bullets were led by Harvey Grant's 22 points.

Parish scored 23 points in the first half in leading Boston to a 58-54 lead. Bird had 18 in the second half before leaving the game with 4:32 remaining and the Celtics ahead 114-90.

Miami was led by Glen Rice with 27 points.

Trail Blazers 124, Magic 115

Clyde Drexler scored 34 points. Portland stretched a 94-86 lead after three quarters to 114-97 in the first seven minutes of the fourth period by outscoring the Magic 20-11.

Scott Skiles led Orlando with 24 points, while Terry Porter had 21 for the Trail Blazers.

Suns 114, Pacers 108

Jeff Hornacek scored 11 of his 27 points in the final period and Phoenix used a 14-4 spurt in the final 2:36 to win.

The Suns, behind 65-49 in the third quarter, still trailed 104-101 when Hornacek made one of two free throws with 2:36 remaining. Kevin Johnson's layup and Hornacek's outside jumper put the Suns ahead to stay, 105-104, with 1:43 left.

Rik Smits led Indiana with 26 points and 10 rebounds.

Clippers 92, Spurs 81

Olden Polynice keyed a fourth-quarter rally by scoring 13 of his 15 points, and Los Angeles survived a 12-point second period.

Polynice and Doc Rivers, who scored eight of his 17 points in the final quarter, led the Clippers on a 20-8 spurt that turned a six-point deficit into an 81-75 lead with 4 1/2 minutes left.

Sean Elliott scored 24 points for the Spurs.

Heels rip Seton Hall; ACC leads

By The Associated Press

Fifth-ranked North Carolina was better than sixth-rated Seton Hall, no doubt. Who's best - the Atlantic Coast Conference or the Big East - is still to be determined.

The Tar Heels shut down high-scoring Terry Dehere and breezed 83-54 Wednesday night, sending Seton Hall to its worst home loss since 1970.

North Carolina's victory, coupled with Maryland's 76-66 win over Providence, gave the ACC a 4-2 lead in its challenge with the Big East. The series finishes tonight with a doubleheader in Greensboro, N.C., when No. 1 Duke plays No. 7 St. John's and No. 18 Georgetown faces Virginia.

Tonight also marks the end of the three-year series, with no more matchups planned. Overall, the Big East leads 12-10.

"I thought this was a great idea because I like to play tough teams early in the season, especially on the road," North Carolina coach Dean Smith said.

Dehere, Seton Hall's top scorer last season and averaging 21 points this season, made only three of 22 shots and finished with seven points. He was just 1-for-11 on 3-point tries.

"Hubert Davis' defense on Dehere had a lot to do with his poor shooting. He only had four or five good looks at the basket," Smith said.

Davis led the Tar Heels (5-0) with 23 points.

"I just tried to stay in his face," Davis said.

Jerry Walker scored 19 points for the Pirates (2-1).

No. 4 Ohio St. 78, Ohio U. 62

Jim Jackson scored 26 points and helped the Buckeyes break past Ohio University.

Ohio State (3-0) led 29-22 at halftime. Jackson made two 3-pointers as the Buckeyes hit 11 of their first 13 shots in the second half in opening a 60-35 margin.

Dan Aloi scored 28 points for the Bobcats (1-1).

No. 8 Oklahoma St. 63, New Orleans 55

The Cowboys held New Orleans scoreless in overtime and won as Sean Sutton and Darwyn Alexander each had four points in the extra session.

Sutton, who finished with 19 points, put Oklahoma State (6-0) ahead with a layup 90 seconds into overtime. Alexander scored next, making a 3-pointer with 32 seconds to go.

The Privateers (2-3) missed three shots and turned over the ball three times in overtime.

Byron Houston scored 18 points for the Cowboys. Ervin Johnson had 14 points and 13 rebounds for the visitors.

No. 11 Arkansas 128, Bethune-Cookman 46

Arkansas (4-1) surpassed its 65-point victory over U.S. International in 1989.

Lee Mayberry and Robert Shepherd each scored 19 points for Arkansas. None of the starters played more than 19 minutes.

Reggie Cunningham had 27 points for the Wildcats (0-4).

No. 14 Kentucky 90, Massachusetts 69

Jamal Mashburn scored 28 points and Richie Farmer added 22.

Kentucky (2-1) was ahead 54-50 with 15:20 remaining before Mashburn keyed a 13-3 run. Massachusetts (5-1) never again got within 10 points.

Jim McCoy scored 22 points for the Minutemen.

No. 20 DePaul 100, Northeastern Illinois 77

The Blue Demons won behind David Booth's 19 points.

DePaul (2-0) led 62-39 early in the second half before Northeastern Illinois managed to pull to 69-58. A 3-point shot by Brandon Cole put DePaul ahead by 14 points with 6:42 left.

Leonard Langdon and Victor Snipes each scored 16 points for the Golden Eagles (1-3).

No. 22 Michigan St. 101, Nebraska 78

Matt Steigenga scored 24 points and the Spartans streaked away in the second half.

A 12-2 burst shortly after the break, led by Shawn Respect's pair of 3-pointers, broke it open.

Jamar Johnson had 18 points for Nebraska (4-1).

Rose eyes job with expansion club

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Pete Rose would like to work for the expansion Florida Marlins. He'd like a spot in the Hall of Fame even more.

To get a spot in either place, Rose needs to be reinstated to baseball. He's hoping that could come soon, possibly next year.

"You and I know I'll apply for reinstatement, and I'd say there's probably a good chance it will be in '92 sometime," Rose said.

Rose, baseball's all-time hit leader with 4,256, agreed to a lifetime ban on Aug. 23, 1989, after an investigation into gambling allegations. He was managing the Cincinnati Reds when the ban occurred.

Rose's business manager, Cal Levy, confirmed Wednesday that baseball's career hits leader is planning to apply for reinstatement. No one declared permanently ineligible has ever been reinstated.

"He probably will apply sometime next year," Levy said. "But there's been nothing definite."

Rose is not eligible to go on the Hall of Fame ballot as long as he's on ineligible list. Commissioner Fay Vincent has refused to comment on Rose's case, saying it would be inappropriate since he would have to rule on the application.

Rose, who is building a home in nearby Lake Worth, Fla., said he would like to remain in the area. To him, a job with the new Marlins would be fine.

"I think I could probably help the Marlins in several ways, with my ability to know young talent and stuff like that," Rose said. "It's a matter of just knowing good players that are sitting on the bench without a chance to play."

"I think the Marlins are going to be a very successful franchise," he said. "I don't think it's going to take them as long to win as a lot of people think."

The Marlins will begin playing in the National League in 1993. Marlins president Carl Barger said Rose's attention was "a great compliment."

"I can't say whether anything would materialize, but, sure, we'd be happy to sit down and discuss it with him. He was a marvelous baseball player. He has all the credentials. Sure we would talk to Pete," Barger said.

In 1990, Rose pleaded guilty to felony tax evasion charges and spent five months in prison, followed by three months in a halfway house. He then performed 1,000 hours of community service.

Baseball salaries up

NEW YORK (AP) - The final figures are in. Baseball had the highest salary increase in history and the second-highest by percentage.

The average salary in 1991 was $851,492, a 42.5 percent rise from 1990's average of $597,537.

The $253,955 increase more than doubled the previous record of $100,283, which was set last season. In 1977, the dollar increase was from $51,501 to $76,066. The only higher percentage was the 47.7 percent rise in 1977, the first season after free agency began.

The Oakland Athletics, who fell to fourth place after winning three consecutive American League pennants, had the highest average at $1,394,119. The A's also led the payroll list in 1990 at $804,643.

Los Angeles rose from eighth to second, nearly doubling its average from $685,780 to $1,302,979. California rose from fifth to third at $1,136,798, while the New York Mets dropped from third to fourth at $1,113,446.

Houston, which was ninth in 1990 at $681,664, dropped to last at $395,444 after shedding many high-salaried veterans. The only other team whose average declined was Cleveland. The Indians went from 19th in 1990 at $508,756 to 25th at $446,250.

The World Series champion Minnesota Twins rose from 20th at $495,270 to 12th at $922,408. The National League champion Atlanta Braves rose from 24th at $414,443 to 19th at $686,340.

The averages were contained in a report presented by the staff of the Major League Baseball Players Association to its executive board during a meeting in Lahaina, Hawaii. The figures are based on the 750 players on rosters and disabled lists on Aug. 31, the last day before rosters expanded from 25 to 40.

The figures differ slightly from the ones compiled by management's Player Relations Committee because signing bonuses are treated differently by the union. Management's average was $845,383, a 43.4 percent increase from its 1990 average of $589,360.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After reading the letter from the wheelchair-bound woman who "didn't feel lucky" I had to write. I, too, have suffered because some people have no idea what living with a handicap is like.

I am 33 years old and have multiple sclerosis. I have been told countless times how lucky I am to be able to park in a special place, work only half days, etc. I try to explain calmly that I'd gladly park anywhere and work all day in exchange for the privilege of good health. Surprisingly, that doesn't make an impression. I've been told, "I could handle that," and "It's no big deal," or "They'll find a cure soon."

Multiple sclerosis, as of now, is an incurable degenerative disease of the central nervous system with no known cause. I pray a cure will be found soon, but in the meantime it is a VERY big deal to those of us who have it. Anyone who doubts that can speak to my children. We used to live in Montana and climb mountains. Now my life is completely different. We can't even walk around the zoo because Mom has MS.

You do not need to be 70 years old and in a wheelchair to park in a handicapped space. What you DO need is a permit issued by the secretary of state on the recommendation of your physician.

Several disabling conditions are not visible. I do not use a wheelchair. People with respiratory ailments also may show no apparent signs of illness. You'd be shocked by the verbal abuse I've taken from strangers who demand to know what is wrong with me. People have called me a liar and threatened to notify the police. Please advise these busybodies to look for the permit before speaking. If there isn't one, by all means question the person if you choose to. If there is a permit, MYOB. I don't owe anyone an explanation of my health problems.

Thank you for all you've done to educate the public on health matters and disabilities. If you believe this letter will benefit your readers, please print it. -- N.H., Sterling Heights, Mich.

DEAR N.H.: You have spoken in a forceful way for a great many people today and I thank you.

It seems to me that able-bodied people would be so grateful for good health that they would feel ashamed and guilty if they parked in a spot reserved for the handicapped.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Thank you so much for making the point that many adults who say they dislike animals are actually afraid of them. That letter really hit home.

It certainly is frightening to be greeted at the door by a dog that barks, drools and jumps on you. Throughout a recent visit I was very uncomfortable because of the sniffing and barking and the lame apologies of the hostess. The constant swishing of the animal's tail against my legs (not to mention brushing the appetizers on the coffee table) did not enhance my visit nor did it show much respect for the invited guests.

It's almost un-American not to be crazy about dogs so I keep this sentiment to myself, but a considerate hostess locks her pets up when company comes. Tell her, please--Deep in the Heart of You Know Where

DEAR DEEP: I have, repeatedly, but apparently she didn't listen. Thanks for the reminder.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am having hot flashes and my periods are very irregular, so I went to my doctor and he told me I was too young for the change. He said it was my nerves, but he sent me to the lab for some tests for estrogen and also my blood count. He told me my hot flashes are caused from nerves, and I feel he is wrong. I have been having these for about a year.

I have been having a lot of trouble with my nerves, but don't want to take pills because I'm scared of getting hooked on them.

I also feel like I am caged and can't get out. I have very bad headaches—so bad I almost black out. I throw things when I am upset and angry, which is a lot. What can I do?

DEAR READER: No, you are not too young to start your menopause. It is rare, but the menopause has been known to start as early as age 25, and it is not so rare for it to start in the late 30s. There are factors that will cause a woman to have an early menopause. Women who smoke tend to enter the menopause a year or two earlier than those who do not.

But are your symptoms caused by the menopause? Certainly many of your symptoms are the same as seen with the menopause. It is difficult to know whether symptoms of nervousness are from the menopause or are unrelated. Additional information regarding whether you are or are not entering the menopause can be gained by blood tests that measure hormones—estrogen and the follicle stimulating hormone (FSH) that stimulates the ovaries.

It is not clear that headaches are caused by the menopause. Loss of sleep associated with hot flashes, which is directly related to an estrogen deficiency, may be a factor in both nervousness and possibly headaches.

Read about the menopause in Special Report 97, The Menopause and Beyond, which I'm sending you. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/97, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

Your tests will help your doctor decide if you are entering the menopause, and if so, hormone replacement may help a great deal, even though you don't want to take pills. You don't become hooked on hormone replacement. Then if you continue to have the symptoms you describe, you may need some psychiatric counseling directed toward resolving what is causing you to be so nervous.
