Woman dies in accident

A Hereford woman died Monday evening of injuries suffered in a one-vehicle accident just southwest of Hereford on Monday afternoon.

Maria Lamas, 25, of Hereford, died of multiple injuries sustained in the accident on a dirt road just south of the Santa Fe Railroad tracks. The accident occurred just east of Caviness Packing company and Tide Products southwest of Hereford. The accident occurred about 4:35 p.m.

According to Department of Public Safety reports, Lamas lost control of her truck, a 1982 Ford pickup, as she was driving west on the road. The truck went into the bar ditch and rolled onto its top, ejecting Lamas from the vehicle. The pickup continued to roll and crushed her.

Lamas was treated at the scene and taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital, where she died of her injuries.

Lamas was alone in the pickup and was not wearing a seat belt.

Scene of fatal accident

Emergency workers, partially hidden in tall grass, tend to the injuries of Maria Lamas sustained in an accident Monday afternoon at 4:35 p.m. Lamas died of her injuries about two hours later at Deaf Smith General Hospital. She was the only occupant of the vehicle.

Task force meets today on proposal

A task force appointed to assemble a proposal for a prison site in Deaf Smith County will meet at 5 p.m. today in City Hall to start immediate work on the application.

About 40 community leaders, including representatives of all local governmental bodies, met last week and decided to pursue the proposal for locating a prison here, even though the deadline for applications is Jan. 15. Representatives of the governmental entities appointed 21 citizens to a task force which will work on the application.

Texas voters in November approved a bond package that will construct three 2,250-bed prisons, six 1,000-bed prisons, and 1,200 beds in substance abuse facilities--which may contain 500 or 1,000 beds per unit.

Cotten wins HB contest

Gayle Cotten of Hereford missed just two games to win the $100 grand prize in the Hereford Brand Football contest.

Cotten was one of 33 persons who was eligible for the grand prize contest by placing first, second or third in the previous 12 weeks of the contest.

Earning second prize of $35 in Hereford Bucks was Joani Guyer of Amarillo. She missed just three games in the contest.

Finishing third was Pete Vargas Jr. of Hereford. He came out tops among four persons who missed four games by coming closest on the Florida-Florida State tie-breaker game. Vargas will win $15 in Hereford Bucks.

In the regular weekly contest, Carol Armor of Hereford missed just two games to win $35 in Hereford Bucks for first place.

Coming in second, missing three games but guessing best on the tie-breaker, was B.L. Jones of Hereford. He gets $15 in Hereford Bucks.

Finishing third was Tim Corbett of Hereford. He also missed three games but was a little further off on the tie-breaker. Corbett will get $10 in Hereford Bucks. Also missing just three games were Jan Watts, Mike O'Rand, J.T. Loerwald, Brant Busby and Chad Christie.

The Brand paid out over $650 in Hereford Bucks to contest winners this year. Hereford Bucks may be spent the same as cash at any business in Deaf Smith County. The Hereford Bucks are purchased from the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

County, state could share funds confiscated in bust

Deaf Smith County and the State of Texas stand a good chance now of sharing $48,050 confiscated from a car that was stopped on U.S. 60 in September 1990.

The money was removed from the vehicle by a Texas Department of Public Safety trooper. State law allows confiscation of money believed associated with illegal drugs.

Claims on the money were disallowed by Judge David Wesley Gulley of 222nd District Court who issued the last of three judgments of forfeiture on Nov. 21.

Both men in the car at the time of the arrest as well as five other persons had claimed all or a portion of the money.

DPS Trooper Darrell Matthews confiscated $62,050 and a small amount of a controlled substance from the vehicle. After stopping the vehicle, he asked permission to search and found the cache of money and alleged illegal drugs.

A lawsuit, State of Texas vs. $62,050, was filed by Roland Saul, criminal district attorney for Deaf Smith County, to allow the county and DPS to keep the money.

Last July, authorities reached a compromise with Charles Lake of Oklahoma who maintained that $18,350 was his money, given to one of the occupants of the vehicle to purchase a horse and equipment.

He received $14,000, and $4,350 was earmarked for the county and state.

A defendant in the case, John Mark Sowders, who was in the car stopped by Trooper Matthews, died some months ago, apparently the victim of a gangland-style killing in Oklahoma, Texas officials learned.

Although Sowders and other defendants in the case had claimed the money was not related to illegal drug dealings, the Sowders estate was not represented at the Nov. 21 hearing.

Judge Gulley then signed the third judgment of forfeiture on the $48,050 remaining after the $14,000 was returned to Charles Lake.

Claims on the money had been lodged, also, by Tom Bradford Donahue, who was in the vehicle with Sowders at the time of the 1990 arrest, and two Oklahoma couples, Joy and James Oleo and Mike and Samantha Durham.

Judgments of forfeiture were declared on the Oklahoma residents in February and April this year. None of the four persons appeared at hearings in 222nd District Court.

Saul said the Sowders estate has 30 days in which to appeal the judgment.

After that time has elapsed, the money becomes the property of the county and state. Saul said the amount to be received by each entity will be worked out after the 30 days.

CSF gets more contributions

Christmas will be a little brighter for less fortunate families in Hereford again this year because of the efforts of the Christmas Stocking Fund, an anonymous committee which administers the holiday charity project.

depends on the contributions made by caring and generous citizens of the community. Contributions should be made to the Christmas Stocking Fund and mailed to Box 673, or taken to The Hereford Brand news office at 313 Lee.

Free lunch recipients higher

WASHINGTON (AP) - Nearly half of all children participating in the school lunch program are eating free or reduced-price meals because their family's income has tumbled toward poverty, Agriculture Department records show.

Of the 24.5 million students in the school lunch program in September, 12.4 million were receiving either free or lower-cost hot lunches, an increase of 1.3 million from the previous September.

USDA's figures show 42.2 percent of students were receiving free lunches and an additional 6.3 percent were getting reduced-priced meals at the start of the school year.

A year earlier, 40.3 percent of the 23.8 million participating students received free lunches and 6.2 percent got reduced-price meals.

USDA figures also show that a record 23.76 million Americans received food stamps in September, up from 20.50 million a year earlier and 23.59 million in August.

And the number of pregnant and nursing women plus infants and children receiving special supplemental food assistance under the Women, Infants and Children - WIC - program grew by 700,000, from 4.5 million in September 1990 to 5.2 million in September 1991.

Lawmakers and anti-hunger activists said the numbers are another sign of deepening desperation among recession-battered Americans and that more and more members of the middle class and families with children are falling into poverty.

"Anybody who says the recession is getting better hasn't read these statistics," said Rep. Tony Hall, D-Ohio, chairman of the House Select Committee on Hunger. "These figures represent real people - our neighbors, friends and family - and they're hurting."

But a spokesman for the Agriculture Department's Food and Nutrition Service, Phil Shanholzer, said the surge in food stamp and free school lunch participation could be due both to the economy and to changes that make the programs more accessible. The WIC increase could be due to higher spending.

City upholds P&Z decisionBy GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

An emotional plea for a variance in a Hereford zoning ordinance got a sympathetic ear from city commissioners Monday night, but they did not grant the request.

Mrs. Oralia Guzman asked the commission to overrule a recommendation from the planning and zoning board so that her son might place a mobile home on a lot she owns at 319 Avenue C.

A unanimous vote of the commission is necessary to set aside the recommendation of the planning and zoning board.

Commissioners Irene Cantu and James McDowell voted against the recommendation while Mayor Tom LeGate and Commissioners Emory Brownlow, Roger Eades and Wayne Winget voted to uphold the board's recommendation. Commissioner Silvana Juarez was not present.

Mrs. Guzman argued that the mobile home was on the Avenue C lot before her son, Gabriel Gamez, entered U.S. Army service in 1987, and the mobile home was moved to Killen.

"He's come home now and needs a place to put his trailer house and raise his family," pleaded Mrs. Guzman. "He's lived here all his life except for the time he was in the service."

When zoning ordinances were put into effect in Hereford, a "grandfather" clause allowed exemptions from new zoning for sites where mobile homes already were located.

If the trailer is removed, though, the property reverts to zoning, in this case R-2, residential.

After Mrs. Guzman presented the commission with a list of names of residents in the area who do not object to the zoning variance, she and Davis Ford, who owns rental units in the area, argued over the validity of some of the signatures.

He said at least two signers are not property owners and said residents signed as a "gratuitous gesture."

"That's your opinion," retorted Mrs. Guzman.

Hermila Dominguez, who lives behind the lot in question, said, "It's totally ridiculous for them to buy more property for the trailer when they already have the lot."

Commissioner Brownlow sympathized with Mrs. Guzman, advising her "to go back to the planning and zoning board and get these people to support you. The P&Z might change their minds."

Commissioners McDowell and Cantu also asked Mrs. Guzman to take her case back to the zoning board.

"I'm going to vote for you and if you want to pursue it, I'll help you," McDowell said.

After the vote on Brownlow's motion to accept the ruling from the zoning board, Mrs. Guzman complained that another hearing before the zoning board would require an additional $50 fee.

Commissioner Eades suggested that the commission consider waiving the fee. No action was taken on the suggestion, after City Attorney Terry Langchennig questioned the legality of such action.

Commissioners voting for the P&Z recommendation agreed that the board should have the support of the commission in such matters.

"If we don't listen to the board, there's no reason to have one," said a commissioner.

Mrs. Guzman called the ruling "discriminatory against people who own mobile homes."

Near the conclusion of the discussion, Ford said he might be able to help Mrs. Guzman and her son trade the Avenue C property for a suitable lot zoned for mobile homes.

Council accepts bids for pickups

A bid $2,550 less than the next low bid for purchase of three 1992 pickups was awarded an Amarillo firm Monday evening by the Hereford City Commission.

The John Chandler Ford bid of $31,959 was $850 per unit less than the next low bid, $34,509, submitted by Whiteface Ford of Hereford.

City Manager Chester Nolen, in reporting the bids to the commission, said the staff recommendation was to accept the Chandler bid.

The commission voted unanimously, without discussion, to award the bid to the Amarillo firm.

A report on progress of 911 emergency telephone service in Hereford and Deaf Smith County was given the commission by Pamela Nielsen of Panhandle Regional Planning Commission.

She said the $1.6 million project to provide 911 in 24 Panhandle counties should be put into service in February.

"Step one is to provide automatic number identification on calls, beginning Feb. 10," she said. Emergency calls in Deaf Smith County will be routed to the Hereford police dispatcher, said the 911 coordinator.

"The dispatcher will have a phone number display to identify the caller," she said.

The second step in the 911 project will be automatic location identification which will provide phone numbers and addresses.

"We also will have the capability of communicating with hearing-impaired persons," said Ms. Nielsen. She asked the commission and citizens of the area for patience as the project continues.

"We may have set-backs, such as weather or equipment, but it is coming," she said.

In other business at the Monday evening meeting, the commission heard a report from Marvin Gaddy, city inspector, of proposed condemnation of property at 209 Avenue H.

He said the owner originally took a building permit in 1986 and began a remodeling project of the home. After framing and roofing were done, no further work has been accomplished.

Gaddy said the owner renewed the building permit in November 1988 but that permit has expired.

By making the report in a public hearing, Gaddy said, condemnation proceedings are initiated. Appropriate notices will be given the owner and if the structure is not removed, court action may be sought, Gaddy said.

After a 10-minute executive session to discuss pending litigation and personnel, the commission returned to open meeting and named James Salinas to the golf course advisory board. He takes the place formerly held by Bob Baker.

Bidding on the pickups, in addition to Chandler and Whiteface, were Stevens Chevrolet, $39,815.07 for Chevrolets; Hereford Buick-Pontiac-GMC, $36,465 for Dodge units and $40,950 for GMC; Knapp Chevrolet of Houston, $39,810, and Plains Chevrolet of Amarillo, $41,695.38.

Health officials issue warning on flu

Dallas clinics, emergency rooms swamped

By The Associated Press

People suffering from flu-like symptoms have swamped some clinics and hospital emergency rooms at Dallas while a health official in San Antonio has warned that an influenza outbreak is "right around the corner" in that Texas city.

Barry Pound, spokesman for Methodist Medical Center in Dallas, said Monday, the number of patients treated at the hospital's emergency room increased from 175 to 190 per day during the last two weeks.

"We set another record over the weekend," Pound told The Dallas Morning News.

Most were treated for flu symptoms and released, he said.

Spokeswoman Michele Myers said Parkland Memorial Hospital saw an increase in the number of flu patients during the Thanksgiving holidays. She did not have exact numbers, but said, "Our staff reports that we are receiving more and more people who do have the symptoms."

The San Antonio Metropolitan Health District is so low on vaccine it only can give flu shots to the elderly and chronically ill.

District epidemiologist Hector Gonzalez told the San Antonio Light Monday that five more flu cases were confirmed Monday, bringing to eight the number of cases reported in the city since October.

At this time last year, four cases had been confirmed, he said.

"A flu outbreak is around the corner, it could be here in two or three weeks," Gonzalez warned. "The flu season is upon us, but the limited amounts (of vaccine) we have left are still probably enough to get us by."

Gonzalez said the health department's policy of offering the vaccine to "anyone who came in" was scrapped when it became apparent flu vaccine supplies were running short and no more was on the way.

Reserves of the vaccine held by the military and the city's participation in a national project to provide flu shots to Medicare recipients means San Antonio should not need more flu vaccine, Gonzalez said.

Dr. Charles Halcy, chief epidemiologist for the Dallas County Health Department, said that people who have not gotten flu shots probably should wait until next season because the period in which flu shots are effective has passed.

"The important thing is if somebody has not gotten immunized by now, it won't help very much," he said. "Whether there is a supply of the vaccine now is irrelevant. It takes two weeks to build up immunity, and the epidemic started three weeks ago."

Flu symptoms include a sudden onset of fever higher than 101 degrees, a sore throat and cough and debilitating muscle aches. A flu outbreak occurs when more than 20 cases have been confirmed during the flu season, which runs from mid-December to January.

Preserve union, Gorbachev appeals

MOSCOW (AP) - President Mikhail S. Gorbachev issued a dramatic appeal today for preserving the nation, warning of possible warfare and a "catastrophe for all mankind" if the Soviet Union disintegrates.

"Without the union, there will be an eternal erosion of our society as a whole," Gorbachev said in his written appeal, portions of which were released by his spokesman, Andrei Grachev.

The statement was distributed to lawmakers across the nation, who are weighing approval of the Union Treaty, Gorbachev's plan to hold the nation together.

The appeal came the day after officials in the Ukraine announced that voters in the key republic had overwhelmingly approved a referendum on independence.

The Ukraine's newly elected president, Leonid Kravchuk, has said he will not sign the Union Treaty. Russian Federation President Boris Yeltsin has said that if the Ukraine does not sign, his republic won't sign either.

There was no direct reference to the Ukraine in the portions of Gorbachev's statement read by Grachev.

The Soviet leader was to make his appeal on national television tonight. It represented one of his last-ditch attempts to save the union and what little remained of his dwindling authority.

Legislators must approve the Union Treaty without delay because "time is precious," according to the appeal.

The treaty would limit the Kremlin's role to foreign affairs, strategic nuclear arms and coordination of economic policy. It also would establish a five-year, directly elected national presidency and an independent judiciary, and would let the republics introduce their own currencies.

Gorbachev said the disintegration of the Soviet Union has gone beyond "any reasonable limits and has become destructive in his character."

Not signing the Union Treaty would lead to "dire consequences," his statement said. "The disintegration will even be fraught with wars."

"This could be a catastrophe for all mankind," Gorbachev said.

"The distance between the republics will grow wider and wider, and the economic situation will get worse and worse."

He said he was talking about a new state, one in which "we will be partners, we will cooperate and help each other. I am for a new, confederative, democratic union of states."

But Gorbachev took pains to point out that the Union Treaty would not mean a return to the old Kremlin-style of central authority.

"I'm not speaking about a revival of the old center. ... We cannot go back to that," his statement said.

Cancer screening offered during January

The Breast Cancer Screening Program of the Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center and High Plains Baptist Hospital of Amarillo will continue community outreach clinics for early detection of breast cancer. The clinic will be in Hereford Jan. 20 and Jan. 31 from 10 a.m.-2:30 p.m. at the South Plains Health Care Providers Inc., 603 E. Park.

Funding is available through the Texas Cancer Council for screening mammography for Texas residents qualifying for financial assistance.

Early detection of breast cancer is the major goal of cancer control for each woman seen in the clinic.

The clinic provides low cost screening which includes a breast exam by a registered nurse trained in breast cancer detection, teaching of the breast self examination, and a mammogram.

Currently, the most effective method known to win the battle against breast cancer is early detection.

Early detection is best done by following the guidelines recommended by the American Cancer Society for breast cancer screening for women who have no signs or symptoms of breast cancer. The guidelines are: Learn and perform breast self examination every month.

Have a physical examination every year. Have a mammogram according to the recommendations by age.

For persons between 35-40 a baseline mammogram is recommended; 40-50, a mammogram every one to two years; over 50 yearly mammograms.

Exams are done by appointment only. For more information about the clinic or to make an appointment, please call the Harrington Cancer Center at our toll free number, 1-800-274-HOPE (4673). Locally, for more information, contact the clinic at 364-7688.

The Early Childhood Intervention program at Region XVI Education Service Center in Amarillo is seeking area children who are eligible to receive its free services.

"Any child with significant developmental delay or who has a biological condition that places him/her at risk for developmental delay is eligible for ECI services," Judith Pepper, Region XVI ECI program coordinator, said.

ECI services are for children at birth through two years of age. The Early Childhood programs for three to five-year-olds.

More than 260 thousand families in Texas have children under six who ECI/ECE services, provided at no cost, include screening and evaluations, physical, occupational, speech and language therapy, activities to improve cognitive and social skills and training in self-help skills for children. Families are also provided training in how to help their children, support through parent groups and counseling as needed.

Tis the Season to Send Cards

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Christmas is the busiest card-sending holiday in the United States, with Americans expected to exchange more than 2.3 billion cards this yuletide season.

According to Kansas City-based Hallmark Cards Inc., many of the cards will reflect lifestyle trends, including environmental concern and healthy living. Families with school-age children send the most Christmas cards, says a company spokesman, adding that research indicates senders of individual cards choose designs reflecting the interests or personality of the recipient.

Conversely, people selecting boxed cards favor those that mirror their own tastes.

The tradition of sending Christmas cards began in England after the Penny Postage Act of 1840 reduced mailing costs. The first American Christmas cards appeared in 1875.

Taking it to the hoop

Jenny Jones of Hereford's seventh grade Maroon team drives in for a layup during her team's 39-16 win over Dumas Monday in the HJH Gym. In the background is Hereford's Lori Paetzold (15).

7th, 8th cagers sweep Dumas

Hereford Junior High made a clean sweep of Dumas in eight basketball games Monday, with the girls playing four in Hereford and the boys playing four in Dumas.

The Hereford girls' dominance was thorough. Hereford did not lose one of the 16 quarters which were played. The composite score of the four games was 143-50.

The eighth grade Maroon team shut out their opponents through the first half, when they led 18-0, and didn't allow a point until well into the third quarter. Hereford's pressure defense flustered the Impettes, forcing turnovers on many possessions.

They finally won 40-7 in the biggest blowout of the evening. Mindi Davis led the eighth Maroon with 10 points, and Heather Hodges and Tarabeth Holmes each added eight.

"They executed the offense better than last week, and they sure as fire did trap Dumas," coach Jane Radford said. "Every time a Dumas player turned around, we had two or three players on her."

The eighth grade White ran past Dumas 36-12 on the strength of a 14-3 second quarter. Carlota Ruiz got six of her eight points in the quarter, and Monica Don Juan led Hereford with nine points.

"We did a lot of good things right," coach Maria Eck said. "We out-hustled Dumas on some things. Overall, I'm very proud."

Danielle Cornelius scored 18 points to lead the seventh Maroon to a 39-16 win. Jenny Jones added seven points.

Lady Whitefaces get 1st win

The Hereford Lady Whitefaces basketball team picked up its first victory of the season with a 53-39 win over Lubbock Dunbar Saturday in the ninth place game of the Frenship Turkey Classic in Wolfforth.

Hereford led 13-12 after one quarter, then took a commanding halftime lead by outscoring the Lady Panthers 14-6 in the second quarter.

The Herd was missing three players--Stephanie Wilcox, Jamie Simpson and Kara Sandoval--so for the first time this year they went into a zone defense, coach Dickie Faught said. The Lady Panthers tried to shoot from the outside, Faught said, but couldn't get their shots to fall.

Dunbar also used a zone defense, but Hereford solved it.

"We figured out where the holes were," Faught said. "We were able to move the basketball and get it inside." Faught added that 8 of Hereford's 14 points during the period were scored by post players.

For the entire game, Jennifer Bullard led the Lady Whitefaces with 17 points, followed by Misty Dudley with 10 and Kyanne Lindley and Teresa Baker with nine each.

Hereford had a season-high eight assists in the game, four by Baker. Dudley gathered eight rebounds and Lindley and Wendy Hollingsworth each got five.

Also, Bullard was personally responsible for forcing 11 Dunbar turnovers. "That was a really big stat right there," Faught said.

Tonight, the Lady Whitefaces, now 1-5, play defending 4A champ Levelland at 6:30 p.m. in Whiteface Gym.

Tonight's basketball extravaganza also features the home debut of the Hereford boys' team, which is 0-2 after road losses to Coronado and Plainview. They'll play Levelland, starting at 8 p.m. in Whiteface Gym.

Both the boys' and girls' junior varsity teams will play here at 5 p.m.

UT's McWilliams tires of criticism, resigns

An AP Sports Analysis
By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - When David McWilliams was hired away from Texas Tech to become the new head football coach at the University of Texas, someone asked Darrell Royal how the captain of his undefeated 1963 team would perform in the Memorial Stadium pressure cooker. "David looks good every way you turn him," Royal said. But McWilliams' offense didn't look good to a certain segment of impatient alumni and they let him know about it. Only a year after he took the Longhorns to the Cotton Bowl and got a rich contract for doing so, McWilliams was catching flak for a 5-6 season, a loss to archrival Texas A&M, and an offense that ranked at the bottom of the Southwest Conference.

McWilliams got a bellyful. He wouldn't come right out and say so in his departure news conference Monday. McWilliams has too much class to counterattack his attackers. He has too much love for his school for which he will continue to work until he finds another football job. McWilliams had said nobody would have to tell him when he had worn out his welcome. He'd be the first to realize it. The school would never have to fire him, McWilliams said.

So McWilliams, as Royal would say, "hung up his lunch bucket."

Offensive coordinator Lynn Amedee couldn't believe it.

"I thought the press conference hanging party was for me," Amedee said. "I thought they would take it out on the offensive staff for what happened."

Two years ago McWilliams had been ordered to remove certain members of his staff but refused to do so. As always, he was loyal.

The Longhorns' run to the Cotton Bowl in 1990 quietened critics until Miami ripped them 46-3 and the howls started all over again.

There's every indication McWilliams was asked to trash his offensive staff.

"David was under pressure to do something about the offense but he was loyal to his staff and I don't think he would cave-in," Amedee said. "We got a raise one year and now we're looking for a job the next. What a crazy business."

"But they were wrong to blame David for the offense. We had no firepower. Injuries killed us at running back. We weren't deep at wide receiver. But we weren't that far away from getting it all back together. If everyone would just have had patience we weren't that far from turning the corner."

"This is sad, so sad," Amedee said.

The assistant coaches' contracts run out Aug. 31.

"I'm getting too old for this stuff," Amedee added. "I'm history again. David just walked in and said he was sorry it didn't work out and shook hands."

Amedee had rescued a lagging Jackie Sherrill offense at Texas A&M, getting the Aggies into three Cotton Bowls. When Sherrill left and R.C. Slocum hired his own offensive coordinator, the Texas alumni clamored for McWilliams to get Amedee.

McWilliams hired Amedee, who upgraded the Longhorns offense for two years. But nothing worked in 1991 and Texas lost to Arkansas, Houston, Baylor and the Aggies in conference games.

McWilliams had lost four of his five battles with Texas A&M, including last Thursday's 31-14 loss.

"You don't have losing seasons at Texas and you don't lose to the Aggies if you want to be around long," the late legendary Texas coach Dana X. Bible once said.

McWilliams had three losing seasons and a .200 batting average against A&M.

It was a double poison some elements of the alumni couldn't stomach. And McWilliams got a bellyache listening to their Monday morning quarterbacking.

Then he did what he had to do.

Denne H. Freeman is the AP's Texas sports editor and has covered the Southwest Conference for 25 years.

UT launches replacement search

AUSTIN (AP) - The last time Texas went looking for a head football coach, it got as far as Lubbock. This time, the search looks likely to go somewhat further.

"We're going to look at everybody out there, and we're going to try to find the best football coach we can find that fits this program," Athletic Director DeLoss Dodds said minutes after Longhorns coach David McWilliams resigned Monday.

"We want to be Top 10 ... We want a shot at a national championship," Dodds said.

McWilliams, who compiled a 31-26 record and suffered three losing seasons, was hired from Texas Tech one week after the 1986 firing of Fred Akers. Akers was dismissed after going 5-6, his only losing season in 10 years at UT.

Dodds said an advisory committee - including UT athletics council members, faculty, students and athletes - would meet by week's end.

"It'll be a large group," he said. "They'll be advisory. They'll talk about criteria. They'll talk to us about prospective head coaches, people they might be interested in. I'm sure I'll give them a rundown of what I see nationally and who's out there that's available that fits our program."

Dodds said the search also will involve Darrell Royal, who coached Texas' 1963 and 1969 national championship squads.

"Darrell's on board with it. He absolutely will be involved. I'll keep him informed. He's got a lot of ties in the coaching business," Dodds said.

Dodds said he had no timetable for hiring a new coach.

"I don't think we can put a deadline on it. My personal feeling is that we get it done as quickly as we can but be sure we do it correctly and get the right person," Dodds said.

"I think sometimes bowls interfere with progress in these kinds of things. But we hope we can work around that."

Dodds named no names. But he said his preference is for a coach with big-time college experience, and perhaps time in the National Football League.

"I think we need to find a head coach at a Division I-A institution who's had experience and has the capability of walking in here and grabbing hold of this program and taking us to the level that we want to have it," Dodds said.

"I'd prefer somebody that's been a head coach either on the pro side or the college side. Or both. I don't think you rule anybody out ... but you want somebody that's proven and has experience."

He said with the $110,000 base salary, $6,000 annual expense account, radio and television packages and other incentives, Texas should have no trouble attracting top talent.

"We'll be very competitive with the top programs in the country," he promised.

SWC coaches express disgust

By The Associated Press

A Southwest Conference coaching colleague expressed disgust that David McWilliams was forced out as University of Texas football coach and said it doesn't speak well for a supposed commitment to recent NCAA reforms.

"It stinks," Rice coach Fred Goldsmith said Monday after McWilliams stepped down. "It still comes back to the same sinking wins and losses. They cut scholarships, but when you get people hurt and don't have players to replace them, they fire the coach."

McWilliams, 49, announced his decision after a series of weekend meetings with athletic director DeLoss Dodds, his assistant coaches and many of his players.

McWilliams led the Longhorns to the SWC title in 1990 and was voted the league's coach of the year.

TCU coach Jim Wacker said he was stunned by the announcement.

"I was totally shocked. I had no idea. They were in the Cotton Bowl just a year ago. Boy, it's a crazy profession. The only thing is that we knew it was that way when we got into it. That doesn't make it any easier," Wacker said.

"I was shocked because when I think of the University of Texas, I think of David McWilliams," said Southern Methodist coach Tom Rossley.

McWilliams has been a part of Longhorns legend for more than 25 years, first as a star center and linebacker in the early 1960s, then as an assistant from 1970-85 and as head coach from 1987 until Monday.

"I know that he has as much orange blood as anybody," Rossley said. "He's a fine person. You hate to see anybody leave the profession under pressure."

McWilliams was 38-30 in six seasons, including 7-4 in his first year as a head coach, at Texas Tech in 1986, and 31-26 at Texas.

Texas Tech coach Spike Dykes, who was defensive coordinator under McWilliams at Tech, said McWilliams "is what the Southwest Conference is all about."

"He wanted to coach at Texas all his life. Texas was his dream and his school," Dykes said. "He did one of the best coaching jobs in the country last year. This year they had some injuries. It's just a shame it has to end this way because David is long on character and commitment."

Dykes said McWilliams "stood for all the things that are right. Doing it for the kids, morality, honesty. And he was a fierce competitor."

There were reports that one of the reasons McWilliams is gone was his reluctance to shed some of his assistants at Texas.

"David McWilliams is a people person," Dykes said. "He is a loyal, loyal person when he is your friend."

Kemp, Joyner fire Eagles past Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) - Jim McMahon's tendinitis-wracked right elbow gave Jeff Kemp's career a shot in the arm in the Astrodome.

And Philadelphia's Seth Joyner-led defense did its part too. Kemp, claimed off waivers Oct. 16, came off the bench in the third quarter to throw a 21-yard touchdown pass to Keith Jackson and direct a 10-minute drive that lifted Philadelphia to a 13-6 victory over Houston Monday night.

"You are constantly preparing for the next opportunity," Kemp said. "My career has been so slow in developing and it's been so bizarre. I've had a lot of opportunities and I just tried to stay prepared, to be ready for the next chance."

The Eagles defense, ranked No. 1 in the NFL, brutalized Houston's offense.

The Oilers, averaging 392.9 yards per game before Monday night, wrestled only 247 from the Eagles defense that grabbed five fumbles from the Oilers and finally emerged from a 3-0 halftime deficit in the third quarter.

"We felt they would complete balls and when they did complete them we wanted to hit them hard and make them pay," Philadelphia coach Rich Kotite said. "We played hard NFL football tonight."

The Eagles (8-5) kept alive their hopes of gaining the playoffs and the Oilers (9-4) missed a chance for the second week in a row to clinch their first ever AFC Central Division title.

Houston took a 3-0 on the final play of the first half on a 42-yard field goal by Al Del Greco.

Roger Ruzek's 23-yard field goal with 7:47 gone in the third quarter tied the game and with 6:18 to go, Kemp threw a 21-yard pass to Jackson at the goal line and the Eagle tight end rolled into the end zone with safety Bo Orlando hanging onto his waist.

"It was a choice, either short to Byars or a long pass to me," Jackson said. "I went a little deeper than normal. He had to stay in and take a shot but he delivered the ball."

While Kemp filled in for McMahon, Joyner was leading the league's No. 1 ranked defense in terrorizing the Oiler offense. Joyner recovered two fumbles, forced two more, defended two passes and had two sacks for 17 yards in losses.

And before the game, he was throwing up because of a flu bug.

"I just thank God for helping me get through the game," Joyner said. "There were times when I didn't feel like I could make it, but I knew I had to keep going. We just had a game plan that allowed me to make some plays."

Moon, who threw five interceptions in last week's 26-14 loss to Pittsburgh, had trouble in getting the snap from center Bruce Matthews. Moon had two of the Oilers' five fumbles.

"It was a combination of things," Moon said. "Bruce was trying to really get out of there quickly and help out. He was short snapping a little and I was pulling out to pass. I just had to stay in there longer."

Moon completed 24 of 46 passes for 262 yards and was pressured throughout the game by the Eagle defense.

"They did a great job, no question," Moon said. "They put a lot of pressure on me and forced me to do things too fast. They punished our little guys. They are everything they're written up to be."

The Oilers, battling for a division title and home field positioning for the playoffs, failed for the second straight week to clinch the title.

"I guess you could say we haven't played as well as we did the first eight or nine weeks," Moon said. "We have to find that same enthusiasm and that same feeling."

"I think there's been a little lull in our team. We just relaxed a little and everybody else is playing harder."

SWC COACHES

Every job at a major university is a good job, but it's a hard job. You have to please a lot of different people at a lot of different levels."

Baylor coach Grant Teaff, the dean of SWC coaches, has been friends with McWilliams since the mid-1960s, when Teaff was coaching at McMurry College in Abilene and McWilliams was coach at Abilene High School.

"First of all, it's a sad day for me," Teaff said. "I have great respect for David. Our relationship goes back all those years to Abilene."

"I think he is the epitome of honesty and integrity in our profession. I'm sad to see a man of that quality and caliber not in our profession anymore. I don't think anybody could characterize him as a loser in any stretch of the imagination."

McWilliams was rewarded with a 5-year contract after guiding the Longhorns to the 1991 Cotton Bowl, "so obviously everybody believed he could do the job," Teaff said.

Teaff's Bears routed Texas 50-7 at Austin in 1989 in what many consider the worst loss in school history.

"We talked after that game, and I said, 'David, I'm sorry about that score,'" Teaff said. "And he said, 'Grant, you and I had nothing to do with that score.' He didn't hold it against me."

"Through the years I don't think I've had a better friend in the coaching profession," Teaff added. "It's a sad day for me, and I think for the conference. And for college football. It's a sad, sad day."

SMU Athletic Director Forrest Gregg said, "It happened so sudden. I think it just caught everybody off-balance."

"You can't say the guy failed as a coach," Gregg added. "He won the Southwest Conference championship last year. You have to be a pretty good coach to be able to do that."

"I liked David McWilliams as a person. I thought he was a good coach, a class guy. Those are the types of people you like to be associated with."

Movic actor Ed Marinaro was an All-American fullback at Cornell.

The great pro fullback Bronko Nagurski was an All-American at tackle for Minnesota in 1929.

NY Mets win Bobby Bonilla Sweepstakes

NEW YORK (AP) - On Nov. 18, a day after meeting with Bobby Bonilla, New York general manager Al Harazin sent the outfielder a Mets jersey with the free agent's name stitched across the back.

It took two weeks and $29 million before Bonilla agreed to wear the uniform. But finally, after a frenzied six-team negotiation, the Mets won the biggest bidding war in the history of U.S. team sports.

Bonilla, a 28-year-old outfielder who left the Pittsburgh Pirates to become a free agent, agreed late

Monday to a five-year contract. "New York City was in my heart," Bonilla said from his home in Bradenton, Fla. "It'll be hard to knock the smile off my face."

The $5.8 million annual average value tops the previous record of $5,380,250, set by pitcher Roger Clemens in the four-year extension he begins with the Boston Red Sox next season. The total amount of Bonilla's deal breaks the previous record set by outfielder Jose Canseco in his five-year, $23.5 million contract with the Oakland Athletics.

"I'm going to probably take a lot of flack for this one," Harazin said. "I'm sure some people are going to see this as irresponsible. But it was obvious we had to do it to get Bobby here."

Bonilla turned down California's offer of $27.5 million for five years and Philadelphia's proposal of $26 million for five years. In the end, he wanted to play in the city of his birth.

Bonilla, a .283 lifetime hitter, wanted to sign a four-year extension with Pittsburgh last winter, but rejected the Pirates' $16 million offer as too low. He then lost his $3,475,000 request for salary arbitration and was awarded $2.4 million.

Pittsburgh increased its offer to $16.8 million during the season and after the World Series upped it to $18.5 million with a club option for a fifth year at $4 million. Gilbert said the Pirates then offered to guarantee the fifth year.

But by then it was too late. "They kept putting it off and putting it off. The Pirates really put me in a nice position," Bonilla said. "It was a frustrating process with the Pirates. I leave with no hard feelings."

The Mets will give Bonilla a $1.5 million signing bonus, $5.5 million in 1992, $5.6 million in 1993, $5.7 million in 1994, $4.7 million in 1995 and $4.5 million in 1996. In addition, the Mets agreed to guarantee Bonilla at least $1.5 million in promotional income during the contract.

Bonilla also gets $200,000 if he is traded, a $100,000 bonus if he wins a Most Valuable Player Award or finishes second or third, $250,000 for finishing among the top three in two MVP ballots, $1 million for finishing among the top three in three MVP ballots and $2 million for finishing among the top three in four MVP ballots.

"I'm still not thrilled about five years," Harazin said, "but to get a player we coveted we had to bite the bullet on the fifth year."

New York began by offering $24.5 million and increased its proposal to $27.5 million on Saturday. The final jump came during Monday's negotiations.

"We've been going at this since 10 a.m.," Dennis Gilbert, Bonilla's agent, said just before midnight.

In six major league seasons, Bonilla has 116 home runs (19.3 per season) and 526 RBIs (87.6). He hit .302 last season with 18 homers and 100 RBIs as the Pirates won their second straight division title, only to lose their second straight NL playoffs.

Last Wednesday, New York signed first baseman Eddie Murray to a $7.5 million, two-year contract. Bonilla joins Murray, Howard Johnson and Gregg Jefferies to give the Mets four impressive switch-hitters in the middle of their lineup.

Dykes likes stong finish

By CHIP BROWN
Associated Press Writer
LUBBOCK - Texas Tech coach Spike Dykes smiles as he points out "it's not how you start, it's how you finish."

Although a 1-4 start nearly traumatized the fifth-year Tech coach, the Red Raiders completed one of the greatest turnarounds in the country by ending the season 5-1. Only Utah State's 5-1 finish after an 0-5 start was better.

Tech (6-5) finished tied for second in the Southwest Conference with Baylor and Arkansas at 5-3.

"Of course you want to win the championship," Dykes said Monday during his final weekly press conference. "But if you can't win it, second is a heckuva lot better than last."

Dykes said the Raiders' fast finish will help build momentum for next year. Six starters return on offense and eight starters return on defense, including safety Tracy Saul, who led the SWC in interceptions this year with eight.

"We have got a lot to look forward to," Dykes said. "I hope we can contend for the championship. We are getting closer."

Most of the Tech players said they were disappointed the season came to an end just as they were hitting stride.

"We were getting to feel like we could beat anybody," said center Brad Elam. "There is no doubt we would like to have a few of those early season games back."

Dykes still shakes his head over what could have been. Tech was listless in early-season losses to Oregon (3-8), Wyoming (4-6-1) and Texas Christian (7-4). A 37-14 drubbing by Texas A&M was Tech's wake-up call.

"It's pretty traumatic when you are 1-4," Dykes said. "I mean I don't care if you are coaching the fifth grade, when you lose, you start hearing things like 'kill the coach and run over him.' You hear it at the school and at the grocery store."

After the loss to the Aggies, the players held a closed-door team meeting and "really pulled together," said senior wide receiver Rodney Blackshear.

"We just realized that we had to depend on each other and play for one another," Blackshear said.

Tech ran off victories against SMU and Rice before Texas came from behind for a 23-15 victory. Tech finished with triumphs against Arkansas (6-5), Baylor (8-3) and Houston (4-7). Baylor and Arkansas are headed to bowl games.

"We didn't win any championships but we did come back and we played good football the last six weeks of the season," Dykes said. "I am awfully proud of our team for coming back. They could have lost their confidence and just quit."

"It's just unfortunate that it took that long for this team to come together, and that is my fault."

The Raiders are already thinking about next year's schedule, which includes non-conference games against Oklahoma and North Carolina State.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After 10 years of a great marriage and three lovely children, my wife turned cold. When I asked her what was wrong, she said, "I have no feelings for you. People change. I can't help what I feel."

She said she thought of me as a brother and suggested that we try to be friends. She also said it wasn't my fault—that she never should have married anyone. I couldn't understand what went wrong, and she wouldn't discuss it.

I was miserable and sought counseling. She refused to come with me. I was advised that this sounded like a midlife crisis and to "hang in there."

In spite of my efforts over the past five years, she continues to be cold and critical, often in front of the children.

You guessed it. My wife finally admitted that she is involved in a lesbian relationship. She claims to be bisexual and wants out of our "dead marriage."

Ann, there's a home with children involved. My wife won't move out, and I refuse to leave the children with her. Although she says the physical aspect of her relationship is over, the woman visits our home daily.

Our children don't know of the affair and think this frequent visitor is a family friend. My wife is a super mother, and she and this woman get along really well with the kids.

The law here is now "no fault" when it comes to divorce and custody. I refuse to give up my children. I can't kick my wife out even though I am subjected to constant emotional abuse. She refuses to leave the children and says she is content to share the house as "roommates."

Believe it or not, I would still like to re-establish a marriage with my wife. I'm sure she is having severe emotional problems. I need advice.—Minn.

DEAR MINN.: You say you have sought counseling, and the therapist has suggested that you "be patient." I'd say five years is a lot of patience.

If your wife has a lesbian relationship going, chances are slim that you can revive your marriage. If you want a less stressful life, you'll have to dissolve your marriage and fight for your children. Good luck to all of you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My son is a senior in high school and on the varsity football team. After a recent game, we all went to a well-known fast-food place and the whole team lined up at the counter.

When the server took my order, she asked if I wanted the senior citizens' discount. (I am 54 years of age.) I was humiliated to death and so was my son. You know how sensitive teen-agers can be about their parents. Needless to say, I will never step foot inside that place again.

In my opinion, this was an invasion of my privacy and in the worst possible taste. If people want the senior citizens' discount, they should have the option of asking for it.

Please print this letter. Maybe if businesses see they are losing customers when their stupid employees embarrass the clientele, they will stop this practice.—Keep Age Out Of It In Vermont

DEAR VERMONT: No customer should be asked if he or she wants the seniors' discount unless alone, since that question could be an embarrassment.

I see no problem, however, if the customer is unaccompanied. In fact, it could be viewed as a favor.

CLASSIFIED ADS
Classified advertising rates are based on 15 cents a word for first insertion ($3.00 minimum), and 11 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	15	3.00
2 days per word	26	5.20
3 days per word	37	7.40
4 days per word	48	9.60
5 days per word	59	11.80

If you run ads in five consecutive issues with NO changes, you get the same ad in the Reach 4 More free. The regular charge for that ad would be $4.00.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY
Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid word lines—those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are $4.15 per column inch; $3.45 an inch for consecutive additional insertions.

LEGALIS
Ad rates for legal notices are same as for classified display.

ERRORS
Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

Let us show you a Texas you've never seen before.

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features, too numerous to list.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: Please help me understand hardening of the arteries. My 82-year-old mother-in-law has it, but most people don't realize it. She's very alert when it comes to talking. It's the things she says and does, then denies. She can remember the past like it was yesterday, but can't remember to get a drink of water or flush the toilet. She'll outright call you a liar about petty things. She will take a walk, then tell me some amazing stories, which I find out aren't true. I don't understand how hardening of the arteries affects the brain.

DEAR READER: Hardening of the arteries is an old term for obstruction of the arteries caused by fatty-cholesterol deposits, better called atherosclerosis. Poor circulation to the brain can result in damaged brain cells. Memory depends on storing information in brain cells. Putting new information into a damaged brain is not reliable. In many ways an older person with personality changes caused by poor circulation or brain-cell damage from other causes is like a child that has not developed brain-cell control. That is even expressed in the term "second childhood." Alzheimer's disease has a similar effect. You simply have to deal with the situation, knowing there is little you or the person afflicted can do about it.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I'm 61 years old, a diabetic, and have an enlarged heart. No matter what I do, my left leg swells. If I eat a little bit of salt or eat a wee bit of sweets, it will swell. I can't even take a bath without it swelling as soon as I get in the tub. My doctor put me in the hospital for a week, and while I was there, they did a dye study of my left leg. There was no blockage. My doctor refuses to give me water pills. I have not had a heart attack yet, but I do have trouble breathing. Do you have any suggestions? I don't understand why my leg swells. Otherwise I feel fine.

DEAR READER: There are many causes for swelling of the feet, ankles and legs. You might have congestive heart failure, but that usually affects both legs. Your history of diabetes an enlarged heart and shortness of breath suggests that possibility. If that were the case, treatment of your congestive heart failure, which might include diuretics, would help to prevent the swelling, otherwise known as edema.

Most people do not think about their circulation much beyond the heart, arteries and veins, but the smallest vessels, the capillaries, are the ones involved in edema. Fluid must constantly pass through the walls of these small vessels to bathe your cells with nutrients. That fluid must return to the capillaries to flow into the veins and back to your heart. Then there is the lymphatic circulation, that involves the circulation of your lymph to the lymph nodes and eventually back to your bloodstream.

Standing or sitting affects the pressure in the capillaries and lymph channels. That is why feet often swell at the end of the day, but are not swollen when you wake up.

You can help prevent this by wearing pressure stockings that squeeze the ankles and legs. Or you can eliminate the swelling when you lie down and put your feet up.

It is not possible to do anything useful about your edema without knowing what is causing it. Read Special Issue 37-08, Your Hidden Circulation: Capillaries, Lymphatics and Edema, which I am sending you. Give your doctor a copy. Others who want this issue can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/37-08, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Can you tell me which foods to avoid when gallstones are present? Also, is there an acceptable way to remove gallstones other than surgery?

DEAR READER: While diet used to be emphasized for chronic gallbladder disease and stones, it is no longer considered a major factor in managing the disease. In general, it is believed that you should avoid fatty foods. The gallbladder is stimulated to contract when you consume fats. If you were having gallbladder colic, that might be important.

If stones are silent, they are usually best left alone. Neither surgery nor medical treatment may ever be necessary. If you have an acute attack, then immediate care is essential. Often the gallbladder must be removed later.

Yes, you can dissolve gallstones with medicines that your doctor could prescribe, but you must continue to take the medicine for life, and there are many drawbacks to the therapy. The idea of fragmenting gallstones has also proved to leave something to be desired. With the new laparoscopic surgical technique, most gallbladder surgery can be done with a minimum of problems. If there is a need for treatment, such an approach would be the treatment of choice.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Hints from Heloise

HARD TO FIND

Q You have had recipes in your column that use glycerine. I would like to try them but apparently I'm not looking for it in the right places.

Could you please tell me where I might be able to find it. Thanks. — J.C.,

Terre Haute, Ind.

A I let my fingers do the walking through the Yellow Page listings under "Pharmacy." What I found was that very few of them actually had it on the shelf but most were willing to order it. Hope this helps.

This question came in on my fax line.

If you have a question or hint you'd like to send in, the number is 512-HELOISE. Due to the volume of mail, I'm not able to answer your questions personally but will put as many as possible into the column. — Heloise

Task force launches bid for prison

BY JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Deaf Smith County's bid for a prison site was launched here Tuesday evening as a task force held its first meeting, selected a chairman and named six committees to start making plans and assembling information.

O.G. (Speedy) Nieman, publisher of The Hereford Brand, was elected as chairman of the prison task force. The group selected Wes Fisher, former mayor; Mike Carr, chamber executive; Don Graham, bank president; and Roland Saul, district attorney, to head the first committees working on the project. Chester Nolen, city manager, will also head up a water and sewer committee, and the county commission will handle the road planning.

County Judge Tom Simons and Mayor Tom LeGate presided over the opening session and selection of committee members. Simons and LeGate were named vice chairmen of the task force, and C of C Manager Mike Carr was appointed as secretary, following a recommendation by Nieman.

"I did not seek this job, but it's too important to the community for me to turn it down," Nieman said in taking the chairmanship of the task force. "I'll give it my best shot, but this has to be a community-wide effort."

Nieman said the task force is not limited to the original 21 members named by local governmental bodies. "The committees will be free to add volunteers as needed and, where needed. This project is important to the entire community and we'll need the involvement of everyone interested in boosting our economic development. We are told that evidence of community support is important in the application."

Nieman stressed the time element involved in submitting a proposal. "We've got five weeks, basically, with Christmas holidays in the middle, so we will have to move rapidly but efficiently." The deadline for submitting a proposal package is Jan. 15.

According to published news reports yesterday, the Texas Department of Criminal Justice announced that 110 Texas communities have expressed an interest in the approximately 15 state prison facilities that will be awarded early next year.

Ten of these cities are located in the Texas Panhandle, including Amarillo, Pampa, Childress, Dalhart, Borger, Shamrock, Muleshoe, Plainview and Littlefield. Others in the area indicating an interest are Brownfield, Lamesa, Colorado City, Breckenridge, Snyder and Abilene. How many of the 110 cities submit a formal proposal remains to be seen.

A $1.1 billion bond measure was passed statewide on Nov. 5 to fund the proposed prisons, and the money is earmarked for 25,300 new prison beds. That would include three 2,250-bed maximum security units, six 1,000-bed minimum security units, and 12,000 beds for substance abuse treatment facilities.

Bill Barry, director of management services for TDCJ, said most of the towns should know whether they've been selected by next spring. "The final schedule has not been developed, but I would anticipate that some sites should be selected by the end of March 1992," Barry said.

According to TDCJ reports, the large 2,250-bed unit will employ about 800 personnel with an annual payroll of $16 million. Construction cost is estimated at $80 million. Estimated annual cost of utilities would be between $1.2 and $1.5 million.

The 1,000-bed units would employ approximately 317 personnel with an average annual payroll of $6 million. Construction costs are estimated at $28 million, and annual utility cost would be about $550,000.

Committees named by the prison task force include:

Land development--Mike Carr, chairman; Lewis McDaniel, Teddy Twombly, David Hernandez, Dick Montgomery, Charles Greenawalt.

Fund Raising--Don Graham, chairman; Craig Smith, Ron Weishaar.

Contact Committee--Wes Fisher, chairman; Pat Robbins, Tom Simons, Tom LeGate, Irene Cantu, Mike Carr.

Niche Committee--Roland Saul, chairman; Gerald Gamba, Ken Rogers, Ron Rives, Raymond Schroeder.

The contact committee will serve as a lobbying group, making contacts with key officials involved in the process. The "niche" committee will try to determine if Hereford would have an advantage in seeking one type of prison facility over another.

The next general meeting of the task force was not set, but Nieman said it will come in a day or two, as soon as some contacts are made and more plans need to be decided upon.

Students learn from shopping

Third grade students at Northwest School, including (from left) Monique Balderaz, Denise Melendez, Arion Decker, Onesimo Guerrero, Kenneth Flores and Nathan Horrell, make their choices at Santa's Secret Shop in the school's library. Sponsored by the Northwest PTO, the shop is a fundraiser for needed equipment for the school and a teaching tool. PTO President Karen Sherrod said the children are learning about decision making and how to shop, save money and purchase the goods (including sales tax).

Signals mixed over release of Anderson

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) - A pro-Iranian Shiite Muslim group said today that Terry Anderson, the last American hostage in Lebanon, would be freed, but as darkness fell his whereabouts were unknown amid contradictory reports that he was on his way to Damascus.

U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar, who has been overseeing lengthy hostage-freeing negotiations, and the Syrian Foreign Minister expressed hope that he would be turned over to U.S. officials here by day's end.

Perez de Cuellar said in New York that he believed Anderson's arrival may have been delayed by snow on the road from Beirut to the Syrian capital.

"I am sure this is a technical problem. I think mainly due to snow, the usual road they use to go from somewhere in Lebanon to Damascus," Perez de Cuellar told The Associated Press.

"I am still hopeful that it will take place today," he said of Anderson's arrival in Damascus.

But a U.N. spokesman later said the secretary-general had no firm word on whether Anderson's captors had released him.

The roller-coaster reports about Anderson's release mirrored hopes and fears about his fate throughout his 2,455-day captivity. Anderson, chief AP Middle East correspondent, was the best known of the captives and came to personify the long-running hostage ordeal.

Anderson would be the third American hostage freed in three days.

His release was reported by Iranian, Syrian, Lebanese and U.S. officials, who said earlier today he had been turned over to Syrian troops and was en route to Damascus. But that could not be confirmed later.

Eight other Westerners have been freed since August, when the United Nations launched negotiations involving a complex swap of Western hostages, hundreds of Arabs held by Israel, and information about missing Israeli servicemen. Two German hostages are still being held.

In Wiesbaden, Germany, a U.S. military doctor said today that freed American hostage Alann Steen suffered brain damage from being kicked in the head during his captivity. Steen was freed Tuesday; American Joseph Cicippio was released Monday.

Other hostages have taken many hours to appear in Damascus after their release in Beirut. American Jesse Turner was freed Oct. 21 in the Lebanese capital, but was not turned over to U.S. officials in Syria until the next morning. A Shiite source said fighting along the route to Damascus delayed Turner's arrival.

Perez de Cuellar said he was continuing to work for the freedom of the two German hostages, the nearly 300 Arabs held in south Lebanon by the Israelis, and to get Israeli information on its four missing airmen.

Perez de Cuellar told reporters at U.N. headquarters that no deal had been made by U.N. officials guaranteeing the hostage-takers immunity from retaliation.

In exchange for the hostage releases, the kidnappers were reported by Iran's Tehran Radio this week to have been promised that they would not be pursued by the United States, Germany or any other country.

Confusion about Anderson's whereabouts arose after a five-page Arabic-language statement from the Islamic Jihad group, which held Anderson, announced today that he would be set free.

USDA to raise price supports

National average price support levels are up for wheat and feed grain programs for 1992, according to County Executive Director Ted Peabody of the ASCS office in Hereford.

Peabody said local producers who enroll in the 1992 programs will be eligible for target price protection at $4 per bushel for wheat, $2.75 for corn, $2.61 for sorghum, $2.36 for barley and $1.45 for oats. National average price support loans, per bushel, are $2.21 for wheat, $1.72 for corn, $1.63 for sorghum, $1.40 for barley, 88 cents for oats and $1.46 for rye.

Peabody says the 1992 price support level for soybeans remains at $5.02 per bushel, and 89 cents per pound for other oilseeds. A marketing loan program will remain in effect.

The 1992 farm programs call for a five percent reduction in wheat, corn, grain sorghum and barley acreage, with no reduction in oats acreage. Signup for the 1992 program will be held Feb. 10-April 17.

Car dealer plans will assist CSF

Anyone with a car needs a regular oil change, and you can get an oil change later this month and help the Christmas Stocking Fund at the same time.

On Dec. 14 from 8 a.m. until noon, Stevens Chevrolet-Oldsmobile in Hereford will be offering Quick Lubes for a $10 (or more) donation to the Christmas Stocking Fund.

Service Manager Jay Reeve said the service personnel have volunteered to do the labor free of charge, and the dealership is donating the oil, filter and other needs.

Persons wanting to participate are asked to call the dealership at 364-2160 and reserve a time. Reeve said that normally, no appointment is necessary for the GM Quick Lube Service, but persons will be better served on the Saturday morning by making an appointment. Only a limited number of Quick Lubes can be done, so appointments should be made as soon as possible.

Reeve said all checks should be made to the Christmas Stocking Fund.

City and resident settle on lawsuit

A lawsuit against the City of Hereford was settled Tuesday, before it was scheduled to go to trial Wednesday in 222nd District Court.

Attorneys did not announce details but notified Judge David Wesley Gully that a settlement had been reached.

In the suit filed by Gloria Madrigal of Hereford, she sought an amount of at least $31,681.20. She claimed her car dropped into a sink hole on a city street, causing car damage and personal injury.

The call for a jury panel to hear the case was cancelled Tuesday.

Man sentenced in federal drug charge

A Hereford man, Marcos Isaac Reyes-Esquivel, 33, was sentenced to five years and 10 months in prison on a cocaine charge during a U.S. District Court session Monday in Amarillo.

Reyes-Esquivel and Severo Eloy Gonzales Jr., 27, also of Hereford, were arrested on a parking lot in Hereford on June 1. Both men entered guilty pleas to federal charges of possessing with intent to distribute about two kilograms of cocaine.

Gonzales was sentenced on Oct. 25 to a term of five years and three months in prison.

The two men met with an undercover narcotics agent in the supermarket parking lot and allegedly talked about selling the cocaine, about two kilograms or 4.4 pounds, for $48,000, according to court documents.

A special regional law enforcement team arrested the men after Gonzales allegedly pulled two bricks of the drug, wrapped in duct tape, from the van.

Sununu quits White House post

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush is turning his attention to naming a new chief of staff to replace the feisty John Sununu.

Heading the list of candidates was Transportation Secretary Sam Skinner.

One GOP congressional source said Tuesday that the decision to give Skinner the job was "definite but not official."

Word around the administration was that Bush approached Skinner about the possibility of taking over for Sununu, who resigned Tuesday. Skinner expressed interest in the job, according to another official.

As of midday Tuesday, Skinner had not been officially offered the post, it was learned.

Others said to be in the running were Defense Secretary Dick Cheney, who was chief of staff under President Ford; former GOP Rep. Bill Frenzel of Minnesota; and former New Jersey Gov. Thomas Kean, a strong Bush loyalist who now is president of Drew University.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said only, "The president is thinking about it," when asked if Bush had selected anyone.

Skinner's spokeswoman, Marion Blakey, referred all questions about her boss' job prospects to the White House.

Sununu submitted his resignation in a five-page handwritten letter to Bush as they flew to Florida for a speech at a juice factory Tuesday.

The former New Hampshire governor, ending weeks of speculation and criticism of his performance, told Bush in the letter he "would never want to not be contributing positively, much less be a drag on your success."

He later told reporters that the president did not push him to resign.

Death of character is movie surprise

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The ads make "My Girl" look like a sweet and gentle comedy, but some parents and children are in their seats before they discover the character played by "Home Alone" star Macaulay Culkin dies.

"This was supposed to be a story of a little girl and a little boy - fun, loving and happy," said Ileen Kaufman of New York. She took her 8-year-old daughter Heather to "My Girl" based on its cheerful TV commercial, which shows the child stars jumping into a lake and sharing a very quick kiss.

"We had no idea that the little boy would die, that the family lived in a mortuary - that was all a surprise," Ms. Kaufman said. Heather was "very upset and very saddened" by the death, she said.

Brian Grazer, the movie's producer, said the death of Culkin's character was intentionally withheld from the preview and other advertising.

"That's not what movies are about. You're giving away the mystery of the movie," Grazer said. "Movies are about discovery."

However, Columbia Pictures, fearing a greater outcry than what has developed so far, did not discourage critics from revealing the death and even screened the film for child psychologists.

Exit polling conducted by Columbia shows that patrons who were lured to "My Girl" by the trailer liked the movie. "My Girl" opened in second place at the box office, grossing $17.2 million over the five-day Thanksgiving weekend.

Many parents had warning because of the movie's other stars - Anna Chlumsky, Dan Aykroyd and Jamie Lee Curtis - have been on the promotion circuit assuring youngsters that the 11-year-old Culkin is alive and well. Many TV, radio and newspaper reviews of the movie mentioned the character's demise.

Chlumsky, 11, stars as a hypochondriac who believes she killed her mother in childbirth. Culkin plays Thomas J., her best friend. Aykroyd plays her mortician father, and Curtis is featured as a makeup artist for corpses.

"If your holiday plans call for loading the kids into the van and heading to the movies this weekend to see that cute little guy from 'Home Alone' in his latest big-screen role, you might think twice," Sue MacDonald wrote in the Cincinnati Enquirer.

"Although 'My Girl' is being promoted as a children's coming-of-age movie, it is a wash in death, dying and abandonment from its opening scenes to its closing lines."

Still, thousands of parents don't read reviews, or missed the publicity.

Buck Buchanan of Los Angeles was set to take his 9-year-old daughter Amanda to the movie, thinking it was a lighthearted trifle. He found out at the last minute the character played by Culkin, who Amanda thinks is "cute as a bug," dies of bee stings.

Buchanan took Amanda to "Beauty and the Beast" instead.

"I don't want her exposed to that," he said. "I sure didn't want her to have to go through with that. ... There's no mention of the death (in the preview) and there absolutely should be."

A few children in one Los Angeles theater shrieked when Culkin was shown in a casket, his face dotted with bee stings. The death is not shown.

Opinion on water is concern

AMARILLO--State Sen. Teel Bivins (R-Amarillo) Monday told managers from West Texas water conservation districts that he is gravely concerned about a recent opinion issued by Atty. Gen. Dan Morales reversing laws that have guaranteed local control of groundwater for 50 years.

Bivins said he is considering filing legislation ensuring that citizens of the High Plains regain local control of groundwater. Bivins met with water district managers in Amarillo to discuss the attorney general's recent ruling. The opinion stemmed from a case involving the Edwards Aquifer in Central Texas.

"The Water Commission asserts the ruling affects only the Edwards dispute, but after reading the opinion, I would argue that it has much broader implications," said Bivins. "The current commission might not have designs on other aquifers, but what about future commissions?"

The Morales ruling overturned a 50-year precedent that has allowed water conservation districts to manage local groundwater resources.

Trial witness describes appearance

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) - The woman who says William Kennedy Smith raped her was hysterical and disheveled when she left the Kennedy estate, a witness said. Smith's lawyer attacked the witness for selling her story to TV for $40,000.

"You realized you could cash in on the Kennedy name," defense attorney Roy Black challenged the witness, Anne Mercer.

"No, I did not," she said adamantly.

Courtroom spectators gasped at the $40,000 figure, the amount she received for her appearance on the tabloid TV show "A Current Affair." Ms. Mercer, a 33-year-old friend of Smith's accuser, was to continue testifying today.

On Tuesday, Ms. Mercer, who had gone out on the town with Smith's accuser the night of March 29, testified she saw the woman leave a disco with Smith about 3 a.m. She said she received a call from the woman about 4:15 a.m.

"What did she say to you?" asked prosecutor Moira Lash.

"That she had been raped. She asked me to come and pick her up. She said she was at the Kennedy estate," Ms. Mercer said.

Ms. Mercer said she arrived with her boyfriend, whom the woman had asked her to bring "for safety."

When they arrived, she said, the woman was standing at the top of an outdoor staircase.

"She was literally shaking and she looked messed up," said Ms. Mercer. "Her makeup was running. She was hysterical crying."

"She had her knees up to her chest and when we tried to talk to her, she would jump like she didn't want someone to touch her," Ms. Mercer testified.

The 30-year-old woman says Smith, a 31-year-old nephew of Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., tackled and raped her on the lawn of the Kennedy family's Palm Beach estate March 30. The charges could bring 4 1/2 years in prison.

On cross-examination, Black asked Ms. Mercer why, if she believed Smith was a rapist, she walked through the mansion alone with him, then down a dark stairwell onto a deserted beach in search of the alleged victim's shoes.

"You asked the rapist to help you find her shoes? Is that correct?" Black asked.

On cross-examination, Ms. Mercer acknowledged she was paid $40,000 for two "Current Affair" interviews but said, "I was fair to both parties involved." Black suggested she tailored her story to intrigue TV producers.

Community supports cafeteria re-opening

KILLEEN, Texas (AP) - When the cafeteria that served as the scene of the nation's worst mass shooting reopens next year, one of those wounded says he'll eat there "if nothing else, just strictly out of defiance."

"I want to be able to go eat anywhere I want to eat, anytime I feel like it. This is America," said Kirby Lack, pastor of a non-denominational church in Copperas Cove.

George Hennard, 35, drove his pickup through a front window at the cafeteria on Oct. 16, then began a shooting rampage that lasted about 15 minutes before he killed himself.

Before the rampage ended, 23 people had suffered mortal wounds and at least 20 others were wounded.

The cafeteria's dining room will be remodeled and it will reopen, possibly in February or March, in the wake of overwhelming community support, said Ralph "Pete" Erben, president and chief executive officer of Luby's Cafeterias Inc.

"Again and again, we have heard that Luby's is just more than a dining place in Killeen. It has been a gathering place - for meetings, for social occasions, for business people, citizens and families," he said Tuesday.

He added that a few people expressed concern about reopening the cafeteria, but that most supported the idea.

Lack said that if the cafeteria were closed, "It would give Hennard the memorial that he was looking for."

But he acknowledged that returning "probably won't be the easiest thing I've ever done. I lost one of my best buddies in there."

He said he had considered the possibility that someone with a "twisted mind" might decide to repeat Hennard's crime, but that he plans to go to anyway.

Killeen Mayor Major Blair added at the announcement of the reopening. "The overwhelming expression from Killeen and the surrounding communities, and from people across this country for that matter ... was that whatever you do, don't let 'em close Luby's."

Erben said that although the cafeteria's dining room would be redesigned and redecorated, the basic structure would stay much the same. He conceded the possibility that the cafeteria may not be financially viable.

"That's the risk we're willing to take for the support of the community," he said.

Nearly all the 44 people who worked in the cafeteria want it to reopen and want to go back to work there, he said. The workers are still on the payroll, although the cafeteria has been closed since the shooting.

Mayor Blair also announced plans for a memorial in a Killeen park to honor the shooting victims.
