Auction a success at festival

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

A capacity crowd of 200 people attended the Hereford Senior Citizen's Festival of Trees dinner Thursday night with an auction of the specially decorated Christmas trees climaxed the event.

The 24 trees were auctioned off at an average price of $575 each. "It's Just Gorgeous," a tree sponsored by First State Bank of Dimmitt and decorated by Geneva Schaeffer, brought top price of $1,100. Buyer was Shirley Garrison.

Margie Daniels, executive director of the senior center, was elated by the benefit event. "Our buyers were just great, and the total surpassed last year's by a substantial amount." The auction totalled $13,800 and sponsorship of the trees added another $12,850.

Larry Noland served as auctioneer and was assisted by Henry Reid. Marie Howard provided special music during the dinner.

The festival continues through Sunday at the senior center. Kindergarten students were guests this morning and student activities were held this afternoon. A fashion show and salad bar is set for 7 to 9 tonight.

Breakfast with Santa and a

Christmas tree salesmen

Larry Noland, auctioneer, and assistant Henry Reid caught their breath after selling off 24 beautifully decorated Christmas trees at the Hereford Senior Citizen's Festival of Trees gala Thursday night. The trees brought from $300 up to $1,100 and averaged $575 a tree for the Senior Center benefit. Local businesses and groups sponsored the trees and others provided the decorations and design. The festival continues through Sunday with several special events on the program.

Teddy Bear Tea are on the program Saturday, with an old fashioned Christmas party scheduled Saturday night from 7 to 11. A holiday turkey buffet is slated Sunday at noon, and a Festival of Choirs will be held from 2 to 5 p.m.

Continuous festival activities include the Herd Restaurant, live entertainment, a Lionel train exhibit, pictures with Santa, face painting, a Bake Shoppe, Holiday Bazaar and the display of decorated trees.

JFK: 28 years later

Miami police uncovered plot before Dallas murder

MIAMI (AP) - Two weeks before President Kennedy was assassinated, Miami police taped a conversation about a plot to shoot him from a Miami office building with a high-powered rifle, a retired intelligence officer says.

Police advised the FBI and Secret Service, and Kennedy's motorcade in Miami was canceled, said former Miami police Lt. Everett Kay.

The president then flew on to Texas on his Southern tour - and was shot to death in a Dallas motorcade by Lee Harvey Oswald on Nov. 22, 1963 - 28 years ago today.

Kay, who played the tape for The Associated Press, believes Kennedy would have escaped death if federal authorities had acted in Dallas as they did in Miami.

"They were very much on the ball here," Kay said. "If it had been that way in Dallas, I don't think it would have happened."

The FBI and the Secret Service refused to discuss the case.

Federal authorities and congressional investigators reviewed the Miami tape in the 1960s and 1970s, but never reported finding any link with the Kennedy assassination.

Kay, 70, was involved in 1963 in the Miami Police Department's infiltration of right-wing hate groups. His top informant, William Somersett, moved in white supremacy groups and reported on their activities.

In the weeks before Kennedy's visit, Somersett spoke of rumors in right-wing circles of an attempt on the president's life.

Kay decided to tape a meeting in Miami in early November between Somersett and Joseph Milteer, a wealthy Georgia man associated with the White Citizens' Council.

Milteer can be heard on the tape saying that Kennedy is a "marked man." When Somersett asks how it would be done, Milteer says, "From an office building ... with a high-powered rifle."

"Oh yes, it's in the working," Milteer says.

He explains that it would be easy to take a gun in pieces into an office building. And he dismisses Somersett's concern that an assassination would cause a furor.

"Hell, they'll pick up somebody within hours after, if anything like that would happen...just to throw the public off," Milteer says on the tape.

Authorities at the time said Oswald carried a disassembled rifle into the Texas Book Depository; he was picked up by police within hours of the shooting.

Kay said he turned over the tape to the FBI after the assassination, but never heard from them again. He said neither the FBI nor the Warren Commission, the federal panel that investigated the assassination, ever talked to Somersett.

Milteer died several years later in a fire in his home, and Somersett also is dead, Kay said.

"Whether it's coincidence or the truth, we'll never really know," Kay says. "But it should never be forgotten."

KGB determines Oswald couldn't have acted alone

WASHINGTON (AP) - Soviet intelligence officials concluded that Lee Harvey Oswald couldn't have acted alone in the Kennedy assassination, ABC News reports.

Oswald's 10-inch-thick KGB file shows that Soviet authorities thought he was a U.S. agent during the years he spent in their country, ABC says in a "Nightline" program to be broadcast tonight. Today is the 28th anniversary of President Kennedy's assassination in Dallas.

ABC correspondent Forrest Sawyer spent a day reviewing Oswald's KGB file in Moscow with assistance from a Soviet translator and a KGB case officer. The KGB had second thoughts and withdrew its access. The network wasn't allowed to make copies of the file.

But during the two months ABC spent on the story, KGB officials who were thoroughly familiar with the Oswald file said it was their view that the American defector wasn't sophisticated enough to have carried out the assassination by himself.

ABC does not name the officials who offered that view.

Oswald was an ex-Marine who defected to the Soviet Union in September 1959. While there, he married and returned to the United States in June 1962 with permission from the Soviets and the U.S. State Department.

Almost the entire contents of the Oswald KGB file are the result of constant surveillance during his Soviet stay.

"This is the most detailed profile you could possibly have and it could only be gathered in a police state," ABC News executive producer Tom Bettag said in an interview Thursday.

It shows that the KGB inserted informants at Oswald's factory job and that there was electronic eavesdropping of his conversations with his future wife, Marina, Bettag said.

"They were trying to figure out what he was all about," Bettag said. The KGB file shows that the Soviets even allowed Oswald to buy a rifle and monitored his target practice.

Attendance rises each fall at Dallas' Kennedy exhibit

DALLAS (AP) - Surging interest in John F. Kennedy on the 28th anniversary of his assassination is prompting an increase in attendance at a sixth-floor exhibit from where it is believed a sniper fired the fatal shots.

The Sixth Floor Exhibit, in the well-known Texas School Book Depository overlooking the route that Kennedy's motorcade took Nov. 22, 1963, attracted 22,100 visitors last month, with November's attendance projected at about 24,600.

"We do have a spike in the peak October-November period that peaks in November and coincides basically with the anniversary date," said Bob Hays, executive director of the Dallas County Historical Foundation, which operates the exhibit.

"Attendance is picking up right now," he said, adding that the foundation is considering plans to expand the project.

By comparison, September attendance at the exhibit was 19,400.

Texas food featured on Austin menu

AUSTIN (AP) - All any Texan needs to celebrate Thanksgiving grows in Texas, Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry says.

"Not only this Thanksgiving but every meal can be - and quite frankly should be - a totally Texas menu," he says.

Perry and other state leaders gathered in the Texas House on Thursday to talk turkey, giblet gravy, cornbread dressing and other trimmings.

The feast was cooked up to tout the "totally Texas" menu being promoted by the Department of Agriculture to consumers, grocery stores, hotels and restaurants.

"It is not only good for our health, but it is good for our economy," said Gov. Ann Richards, who dined with Perry and House Speaker Gib Lewis.

The only non-Texas product served was cranberries, and Perry said that dish got help from Texas grapefruit.

"We're not a cranberry growing state. But you know, cranberries can be a little bland, so we spiced those up with some of those good, sweet ruby red grapefruit," he said.

The dinner featured bell pepper soup, roasted turkey, loin of pork, giblet gravy, cornbread sage dressing, brown Texmati rice and sausage dressing, minted carrots, broccoli, sweet potato pecan pie, orange cake, Texas wines and Texas mineral waters.

Perry said the meal showed the diversity of Texas agricultural products.

"Agriculture is an $11.2 billion annual business in Texas," he said. "Our farmers and ranchers raise nearly every kind of crop and livestock produced in America."

While the officials fulfilled their obligation to push Texas commodities, their interest clearly was on the table.

"Now do we eat?" the governor asked after making some brief remarks. Speaker Lewis handed out the napkins. Perry passed the plates.

Richards appeared particularly fond of the peanut mole, to which Perry said, "On a chicken enchilada, it would be mighty good."

Woman injured in accident

Emergency workers tend to the injuries of Opal Shaw, 73, of Hereford on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Shaw was riding in a 1987 Pontiac Bonneville driven by Loretta Bullard, 55, of Hereford. The car was struck from behind by a pickup driven by Jeremy Paetzold, 15, of Hereford. The accident occurred at about 4:30 p.m. at the intersection of Park and Ave. B. While damage to the vehicles was minor, traffic was backed up for about 20 minutes while Mrs. Shaw's injuries were treated.

Iowa and Northeast out; action hottest in Florida

WASHINGTON (AP) - Forget for now the wintry weather of Iowa and New Hampshire. Sunny Florida will hold the first event in the 1992 presidential sweepstakes, much to the dismay of Democratic Party leaders.

The party doesn't have a problem with sunshine, shorts or straw hats - it's straw polls that don't sit too well.

When the Florida Democratic Party holds its annual convention next month, the 2,350 delegates will vote on which of the six major Democratic candidates they think should be president.

The non-binding straw poll Dec. 15 has little to do with who will get the state's 148 national convention delegates, but everything to do with one of the favorite subplots of politics - the expectations game.

"We're very excited about it," said state Democratic Chairman Simon Ferro. "It's the kickoff event for the '92 campaign." Sort of.

The official kickoff comes Feb. 10, when Iowa holds its caucuses, followed eight days later by New Hampshire's primary.

But until the regular season starts, pre-season games are all a sports fan has to go on. The Florida straw poll is in essence a one-game pre-season for the Democratic contenders.

After a slew of straw polls in 1984, the Democratic National Committee banned them in 1988 because they cost candidates too much time and money for something that doesn't count. DNC Chairman Ronald Brown discouraged them this campaign season and regrets not banning them outright.

"We made it very clear that we didn't want a straw poll, that we don't like it, that we didn't think it was a good idea," Brown said.

Florida ignored Brown's not-so-subtle hints.

So as the balloting approaches, the campaigns are intensifying their pitches to state delegates and at the same time doing their best to lower the media's expectations for their candidates.

"We're making a pitch in Florida but you start off ceding the territory to Bill Clinton," said Tim Rafus, campaign manager for Iowa Sen. Tom Harkin. That despite Harkin's meetings, phone calls and letters to delegates.

"We're not particularly playing for the straw poll," said Michael Matthews, a deputy political director for Nebraska Sen. Bob Kerrey's campaign. That despite Kerrey's visits to the state and organizing efforts.

"I'll do my best but I got off to a late start down there," Arkansas Gov. Clinton said recently. He was back in Florida on Thursday and today for a string of campaign stops.

Comptroller defends lottery appointment

AUSTIN (AP) - A Texas member of the Republican National Committee is criticizing state Comptroller John Sharp, a Democrat, for hiring one of his top assistants as lottery director.

But Sharp's spokesman, Andy Welch, on Thursday described the accusations by Ernest Angelo Jr. of Midland as nothing but a partisan attack.

Angelo suggested that Sharp's appointment of Nora Linares, 37, to the $79,500 a year lottery post was a political move that "appears to be nothing more than a roll of the dice."

"I feel that Texans are far more interested in a state lottery that is managed professionally, effectively and cleanly, with no corruption, no politics, and no mistakes," he said.

Welch said Angelo's comments were "cheap, partisan, political rhetoric that has no place in the business decisions necessary to run a lottery."

"There is no Texan who knows more about a lottery than Nora Linares," Welch said. "If Mr. Angelo had some Yankee in mind who he thinks is better qualified he should have brought them forward."

Ms. Linares is a San Antonio native who chaired the Mexican-American Democrats of Texas for the past two years. Besides heading Sharp's lottery study group, she served as his liaison to the Legislature. Before that, she spent six years with the Texas Department of Agriculture.

In placing Ms. Linares in charge of the lottery, Sharp said her being a Texan was more important than her lack of lottery operating experience.

Sharp said he received more than 650 applications and met with finalists before asking Ms. Linares to apply for the top lottery job.

Order given without Bush approval

Aide admits affirmative action mistake

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congressional Democrats say they are outraged that President Bush even considered abolishing two decades of government affirmative action programs. They warned that he may try it again.

"Mr. Bush, you ought to be ashamed," Rep. John Lewis, D-Ga., a veteran of the 1960s civil rights battles, said Thursday.

Even some Republicans were taken aback by the brashness of the White House action, which coincided with Bush's ceremonial signing Thursday of the landmark civil rights bill.

Democrats attributed Bush's aborted presidential order to White House fears of the new challenges he faces from the Republican right wing. They noted that the White House refused to rule out that Bush would issue such an order later.

"This is hypocrisy at its worst, and America's minorities will not be misled, either now or as the 1992 election approaches," said Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., the senior member of the Congressional Black Caucus.

Democrats dismissed White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater's assertion that White House legal counsel C. Boyden Gray had sent out the order under Bush's name, and that Bush had not seen it.

"How dumb do they think we are?" said Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo. "To say, 'Oh, Boyden Gray did something without consulting with the president,' that's absolutely ridiculous. ... This is just a way for the president to cover his rear end."

The order would have terminated federal preferential hiring and promotions for women and minorities and dropped federal guidelines for hiring practices that the courts apply to private businesses - rules that have been in place for two decades.

Virginia Gov. L. Douglas Wilder, the only black major Democratic presidential candidate, issued a statement demanding that Bush "stop the cynical politicking and race baiting."

"We need a president who will talk straight with the American people about affirmative action, and not one who stirs up fears," Wilder's statement said.

The chief Republican sponsor of the bill, Sen. John Danforth of Missouri, said the presidential order

Officials divided on renovations to state Capitol

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas' top elected officials criticized management of the $186 million overhaul of the Capitol, but a state audit said the Preservation Board staff in charge of the project was doing a good job.

On Thursday, Gov. Ann Richards and Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock succeeded in having bids rejected for the interior restoration of the 103-year-old building. House Speaker Gib Lewis had wanted to accept the low bid.

Richards told the Preservation Board staff to redraw the bids to take into account the bidding companies' experience and financial background. The decision could delay awarding a bid by up to six months.

Bullock described the project as a mess. Richards said, "The action today was nothing more than to reassure all of us that whatever is done on this interior is done by the very best people in the very best interest of this state."

Both state leaders also expressed frustration about the management of the project.

"I really question this project at this point," Bullock said. "In Texas right now we have so many problems with money and public schools and all, I'm down to the point where I'd almost rather see them do the extension of it and not the rest of it."

But Preservation Board executive director Dealey Herndon disagreed with the criticism, saying, "My personal opinion is that we have done an outstanding job."

She was backed up by the State Auditor's office, which released a report that said the Preservation

Board's construction division "is using all the key project management tools and has a staff fully qualified to maintain control over the project under normal circumstances."

The audit recommended hiring more staff to reduce the potential for future problems.

The project consists of two basic parts - construction of a four-story underground building connected to the north side of the building, and restoration of the outside and inside of the Capitol.

Originally the state pegged the project's cost at $149.5 million with completion scheduled for 1994.

So far, the Preservation Board has approved additional funds to bring the total to nearly $186 million. Bullock said he has talked to experts who believe the final price tag could reach $225 million.

Currently, construction of the underground extension is ahead of schedule, the building itself is almost surrounded by scaffolding, and much of the inside has been blocked off.

Constructors & Associates Inc., which is doing the $9 million restoration of the outside of the pink granite building, bid $54 million on the interior restoration, which was $6 million lower than the next lowest bidder.

But Richards and Bullock said the bid lacked information about the financial integrity of the company.

David Daniel, chairman of Constructors & Associates, appeared stunned after his bid was rejected.

"We are the most qualified. We had a bid that would save the state $6 million," he said.

Harassment charges substantiated at A&M

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Some current and former female members and advisers of the Texas A&M University Corps of Cadets have told a panel investigating the group that sexual harassment occurs in the organization.

"The women have to be pretty strong to deal with their situation, and it (sexual harassment) can happen to any one of them almost at any time," Dr. Kenneth R. Dirks, a pathology professor in the A&M college of medicine and director of the student health service, said Thursday.

The panel, which was appointed Oct. 4 by A&M president William Mobley, on Thursday released an interim report that said female corps members have suffered harassment and discrimination.

Corps leaders have not denied that acts of harassment and discrimination against female cadets have taken place, panel members said.

"In our view, these acts are much more pervasive than statements by corps leaders would indicate," the committee wrote.

"There appear to be more than just a few bad apples" and the excuse that "boys will be boys" is not acceptable.

What is more disturbing is that some of these are not even recognized as acts of harassment and discrimination!" the report continued.

On Wednesday, a senior cadet was charged with assault with bodily injury, a Class A misdemeanor, for allegedly kicking a female ROTC student and former cadet in the back last week. The woman this fall had complained in a letter about other alleged incidents of harassment stemming from discrimination in the corps.

The complaint is the fourth assault claim against corps members in the last two months, although two made by the same woman have since been recanted. The other allegation involved a female cadet who claimed she was hit with an ax handle.

Dirks said the most frequent type of harassment women suffer is "name-calling of rather obnoxious and profane kind of names." He declined to give examples.

The panel does not want the corps disbanded, Dirks said.

"Our interest is in helping the corps or be the best it can be. It's a good organization, we just want to see it a little better," he said.

released a new statement in Bush's name without the termination orders. But Fitzwater refused to rule out the possibility that Bush would order such changes later.

The law Bush signed negates Supreme Court decisions that made it more difficult for minorities to win lawsuits charging job discrimination by employers. It also expands the rights of women and religious minorities to sue and collect damages for job discrimination, including sexual harassment.

Lady cagers home tonight

The Lady Whitefaces varsity basketball team will play its first home game tonight at 7:30 in Whiteface Gym. They host Plainview, with the junior varsity teams squaring off at 6 p.m. The Hereford team is 0-1 after losing its opener by one point to Brownfield. Also, the boys' varsity team will play its first game at 5 p.m. Saturday at South Plains College in Levelland. They face Coronado.

Freshman boys start year with win

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor
Hereford's ninth grade basketball teams got the season started Thursday against Borger teams, with the boys blowing out the Bulldogs in Hereford and the girls falling by a point in Borger. The boys' B game was the first official game in Hereford this season, and it was fairly easy for the Herd, as they pulled away from the Bulldogs early and took a 79-50 win. "It was nip and tuck in the first quarter, then the second and third quarters were when we started pulling away," coach Curtis Cotten said. Michael Powers and Raymond Alaniz each scored 20 points to lead the B team, and Michael Marquez added 10 points. The A game was close a little longer. Borger scored eight in a row, including two quick 3-pointers, to tie at 54-54 early in the third quarter. After that Hereford outscored the 'Dogs 22-4 to make the final score 76-58. "I took a timeout, set up the press again and settled them down," coach Robert Gamboa explained the run. The A team got 28 points from

Cody Curtis. Michael Brown had 14 points, and Richard Hicks and Tony Mercer each chipped in 9. The girls' game was close the entire way, coach Brett Steagall said, but Borger opened up a 5-point lead late. "Our girls did a good job of putting pressure on them," he said. "We got a couple of turnovers and quick baskets (to pull back withing one point). At the end we had an opportunity to win. We got a steal, but couldn't get the basket to go for us." Beth Weatherly scored 10 points and had "about 13 or 14 rebounds," Steagall said. Leslie Tatarevich added eight points, and had "quite a few steals and put good pressure on the ball all night." All three coaches said their teams did well for their first games. "They played pretty well," Gamboa said. "They played tough on defense and hustled. They made a lot of mistakes on offense, but you kind of expect that." Steagall said his team absorbed a lot in just a few days of practice. "They did a good job of picking everything up and applying what we did in practice to the game situations," he said.

Fort Hancock hopes to roll on

By MIKE DRAGO
Associated Press Writer
Fort Hancock coach Danny Medina says he doesn't know what he'll do when - or if - the Mustangs finally lose a game. The No. 1 team and three-time defending champion of Texas six-man football has won 53 consecutive games entering this week's area playoff against Wellman (8-2-1). Not only have the Mustangs outscored their opponents by a combined 534-56, they have won all but one of the games in less than four quarters. Only Dell City took Fort Hancock the distance - beyond the 45-point sacrifice rule - but the Mustangs prevailed by a mere 76-32.

Wellman coach John Cornelius said if he has to face Fort Hancock, he'd rather do it early in the playoffs. "This is the hardest time for Fort Hancock because they haven't played anybody so far," Cornelius said. "They will get better and stronger going through the playoffs. They've proven that."

Rockets forced to win without Olajuwon

By The Associated Press

The Houston Rockets are facing the latest absence of Hakeem Olajuwon with more confidence this time.

Despite having their All-Star center hospitalized because of heartbeat irregularities, the Rockets matched their best start ever with their eighth win in 10 games, a 106-102 victory over Minnesota on Thursday night.

The Rockets used a familiar formula - balanced scoring and Larry Smith's rebounding - to overcome the loss of Olajuwon. They went 15-10 last season when Olajuwon missed nearly two months with a fractured bone around his eye.

"We have played without him before," guard Kenny Smith said. "Larry comes in and plays hard. We can play well without Hakeem. We can't be great without him, though."

Kenny Smith scored five of his 19 points in the final 38 seconds against the Timberwolves.

Four other Rockets scored 14 or more points. Otis Thorpe had 19, Vernon Maxwell 17, Sleepy Floyd 16 and Buck Johnson 14.

Larry Smith - Olajuwon's replacement at center - had 10 points and 16 rebounds.

Houston led by 13 points with 6:39 left before a 12-0 run closed Minnesota to 91-90 with 3:41 left.

Olajuwon undergoing tests on heart

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Rockets' Hakeem Olajuwon remained hospitalized with an irregular heart beat as doctors awaited the results of tests to determine what caused him to have the heart palpitations.

The 28-year-old center drove himself to a hospital late Wednesday after feeling a rapid heart rate. Olajuwon later was transferred to Memorial Southwest Hospital for more extensive tests, his physician, Dr. David Rothschild, said.

Olajuwon late Thursday was resting at the hospital, where he was listed in stable condition and was on medication to regulate his heartbeat.

General manager Steve Patterson said he had talked to doctors during the Rockets' 106-102 victory over the Minnesota Timberwolves. They said Olajuwon's heart beat had not completely returned to normal, although that was not considered unusual, Patterson said.

"At least so far, it doesn't look like something that'll be a long-term problem," Patterson said. "Once the heart converts back to its normal beat, he'll be all right. The doctors say he's progressing normally."

Doctors determined that Olajuwon was experiencing atrial fibrillation, but still were waiting for more test results before they determined what caused the irregular heart beat, Patterson said.

"We're encouraged because there's no damage to his heart or his lungs, so the prognosis looks good," he said. "We look forward to his full recovery."

The 7-foot Olajuwon might be released from the hospital as early as today, Patterson said. However, Patterson said he is expected to miss at least the next three games.

Olajuwon suffered a bout with phlebitis in July 1989 and feared the palpitations might be a related incident, Rockets coach Don Chaney said Thursday.

Doug West, who led the Timberwolves with a career-high 24 points, scored eight during the rally.

A pair of baskets by Thorpe and two by Floyd sparked Houston to a 99-94 lead before a pair of free throws by West got the Timberwolves within three with 1:11 left.

Kenny Smith then scored five of Houston's final seven points, keeping the Rockets in front.

The Timberwolves (1-9) have four losses by five points or less.

"We're a better team than one having to look for moral victories,"

High-scoring game sets records

ORANGE, Texas (AP) - West Orange-Stark's 132-127 victory over Vinton (La.) in four overtime periods set a national high school record for most points by a losing team, according to the 1991 edition of the National High School Sports Record Book.

Two teams were tied at 125 in the book - Chicago Cregier, a 127-125 loser to Chicago Manley in 1986, and Minnesota's Sam Mitchell said. "It's not like it's our first year or anything. I think everybody knows we're a lot better team than 1-9."

Trail Blazers 106, Clippers
Portland handed Los Angeles its fifth straight loss as Clyde Drexler scored 16 of his 24 points in the second half.

Ken Norman and Ron Harper scored 16 points apiece.

The Clippers shot 43 percent from the field, missed half of their 32 free throws and had 22 turnovers.

Portland took command in the third quarter, outscoring the Clippers 31-18 for an 81-69 lead.

Cliff Robinson's slam dunk capped a 19-7 run that helped Portland turn a one-point halftime deficit into a 73-61 lead with 4:10 left in the quarter.

Bucks 112, Bullets 87

Dale Ellis scored seven of his 18 points during an 18-1 third-quarter spurt.

Pervis Ellison scored six of his 22 points at the start of the third quarter as the Bullets closed to 58-56 with 8:18 left in the quarter.

Milwaukee responded with 12 with 60 points. The 259 combined points by the teams is the sixth highest, according to the record book, which did not differentiate between regulation and overtime contests.

Also, the 100 free throws attempted after the game's 85 fouls ties for fifth on the list.

How does a bird hunter practice without going to the gun range? Try this new idea from hunting expert Wayne Pearson. Align and attach a mini-flashlight to the barrel of your shotgun with tape or thick rubber bands. Get someone—a spouse, son/daughter or even an insurance salesman if you wear earplugs—to use another flashlight. Their job is to arc their light across a wall imitating the flight-path of a quail, dove or duck. The goal is to develop the hand-eye coordination to quickly shoulder and aim the light on your gun so that it matches and leads the target light. Darken a room and practice. The smaller the flashlight beams, the better the practice.

This is a great excuse to turn off the television and spend some quality time with the family. Any time the TV set is turned off, every member of the family will know that something important is happening.

A trip to the gun range is still the best way to build shooting confidence, and I strongly recommend it for every hunter. After all, Arnold Palmer still goes to the driving range.

Ever wish you knew what the bottom of a lake really looked like? Now is a perfect time to visit the site of the newest lake in Texas. Lake Alan Henry, named in honor of a former mayor of Lubbock, is located 17 miles south of Post on U.S. Highway 84 between Lubbock and Snyder. Scheduled to be completed in 1993, Lake Henry will supplement water from Lake Meredith to meet the demands of the city of Lubbock.

With a surface area of 2,880 acres, Lake Henry will be a narrow winding reservoir, similar in appearance but not in size to Possum Kingdom Lake. The many points, coves, cuts, humps and feeding flats will protect anglers from the gentle breezes that occasionally blow in west Texas.

As you can tell, I am excited about the fishing potential of Lake Henry, and my video camera has already recorded some likely honey holes that will become invisible after this lake fills.

Pheasant season is getting later and later. Our Panhandle season is Dec. 14-29. If you know of available land for pheasant hunting or any sponsored hunts, give me a call at 353-3654. The 1991 limit will remain at two cocks per day, and no shooting of the drab-colored hens is permitted. In addition to great eating, pheasant-hunting is a real economic bonus for our region. Just ask the airlines, motels and restaurants about opening weekend.

Dickey turns Tech loose

By CHIP BROWN
Associated Press Writer
LUBBOCK - Texas Tech first-year basketball coach James Dickey has turned his team loose.

With the aggressiveness of wild animals, players zip up and down the floor during practice hungry for a dunk at the end of a fast-break.

Over and over, the players grab a rebound, throw an outlet pass and run.

"Let's get loose," Dickey yells to his players as they prepare for their home season opener against North Texas Saturday night.

But then a player takes it a step too far. In an acrobatic imitation of Michael Jordan, he throws up an off-balance, 360-degree layup that barely hits the backboard.

"Wait. Stop," Dickey yells, harshly transforming the playground atmosphere into a schoolroom setting.

"That's crazy, that shot. I'm interested in things that are going to help us win, not things that are going to make us look good," he chides.

"Basketball is not like diving. There are no judges giving us points for how good a layup looks. Now just put the ball in the hole," he adds.

A few extra sprints get Dickey's point across.

After taking over last April for Gerald Myers, who coached Tech's program for 20 years, Dickey has changed nearly every facet of the Red Raiders' team.

The players have new shoes, new uniforms, new warmups, a new game plan and, most of all, a new attitude.

Dickey, who served as an assistant to Myers last season before being promoted to the head job, said he has discarded Myers' half-court game and opened up the offense to win. He also wants to bring some life back to the Tech program.

"I don't like to call it run-and-gun," Dickey said. "It's up-tempo. It won't be playground ball. No one on our team has a green light. They have a caution light. But we will push the ball up the floor and shoot it."

"It should be very exciting for the fans."

Attendance at Red Raiders' home games has plummeted each of the past four years as the school's win-loss record hit all-time lows.

Dickey is faced with rebuilding a team that struggled through an 8-23 season last year and a school-record 5-22 performance in 1989.

"The quickest way to put people back in the stands is to win," Dickey said. "Everyone wants to be associated with a winner."

But Dickey doesn't hesitate to encourage support from Tech alums and area residents.

"I don't think I have turned down one speaking engagement since I took the job," Dickey said. "I think it is important to let people know what your intentions are. We have to sell this program."

Tech won both of its exhibition games decisively.

But Dickey may have scored his biggest victory off the court last week in signing Jason Sasser, a 6-foot-6 forward from Dallas Kimball High School.

Sasser chose Tech over North Carolina State and is considered by many scouting agencies as one of the best high school small forwards in the country.

Junior forward Will Flemons, who will play a key role in the Raiders' success this season, said Dickey has brought emotion to the team.

"The players love the emotion," said Flemons, who led the Southwest Conference in rebounding two years ago and sat out most of last year with a broken right foot.

"Last year we were so up and down. Already this year we are diving after loose balls and standing up and clapping when someone takes a charge," he said.

Dickey enthusiastically admits he called his father, his mother- and father-in-law and longtime friend Oklahoma State coach Eddie Sutton after the Raiders' first exhibition victory.

"I was excited, for sure," he said. "I couldn't dial fast enough."

Dickey said he talks to Sutton, who employed Dickey as an assistant for eight years at Arkansas and Kentucky, about twice a week.

"He gives me some good advice," Dickey said. "I learned a lot from him that I now use as a head coach."

Dickey has installed some subtle new rules to bring his team together.

Every time a player comes out of the game, the rest of the team stands and gives him a high-five. Then the player sits down next to the coach.

"Whether we praise the player or tell him what he did wrong, it's important to communicate," Dickey said. "There's nothing worse than a player coming out and sitting down at the end of the bench, humiliated in front of everyone in the stands."

Dickey said he was somewhat dismayed after receiving only a two-year contract.

"I was disappointed," Dickey said. "It causes a problem in recruiting because players want to know who they are going to play for. But all I wanted was an opportunity. I would have taken the job if it was for two months."

From 1915 to 1924, the Passaic, N. J., high school basketball team won 159 consecutive games.

A polo field is 300 yards in length and the goals are eight yards wide.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You have printed several columns dealing with unusual diseases. Every day I hope I will read about hemochromatosis (iron overload disease) so your readers can be warned about this potentially fatal illness.

Hemochromatosis is an inherited disorder that causes iron overload and is often overlooked by doctors. More than 1.5 million Americans are affected by this disease which can cause a variety of serious problems, including diabetes, cancer, arthritis, cirrhosis of the liver and heart disease. Victims are subject to agonizing pain, irreversible damage and premature death.

This genetic defect, an inborn error of metabolism, causes people to absorb too much iron from the diet. Because the body has no way to eliminate iron except by bleeding, it builds up in many organs over the years. In its early stages, hemochromatosis may produce fatigue and weakness, and later, chronic abdominal pain, aching joints, impotence, menstrual irregularities and an inability to think clearly--symptoms often attributed to other diseases. Since its effects are nonspecific, hemochromatosis is often not diagnosed properly until the heart, liver, joints and testicles are damaged.

There is a treatment for this disease, but early diagnosis cannot be made unless there is proper screening. The four necessary tests are: serum iron, TIBC (total iron binding capacity), percent saturation and serum ferritin. Only these tests will give an accurate picture of a patient's iron status.

Readers who want more information should send a long, self-addressed, stamped (58 cents) envelope to: Iron Overload Diseases Association, 433 Westwind Dr., Dept. L, North Palm beach, Fla. 33408.

Thanks, Ann. I hope this letter will alert your readers to the preventable tragedy of this genetic disease.--Sandra Ann Thomas, national director of public education, Iron Overload Diseases Association.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I agree with the woman in Redondo Beach who suggested that the term "step" be dropped when discussing family members. Let's also get rid of "half-sister" and "half-brother." I married a man who had a son by a previous marriage. When I discovered I was pregnant and told the boy, he said excitedly, "I'm going to have a half-brother!" I said, "No, you aren't. In this family, there will be no halves.

You're going to have a sister or a brother."

I'm in favor of getting rid of the "step" and the "half" designations.

They both suggest distancing instead of closeness.--A Reader In Kentucky

DEAR KENTUCKY: OK. Deep-six "half," but "step" has a legitimate place. Read on.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I do not agree with the woman who suggested that we get rid of the word "step" when describing a relative. I would feel very uncomfortable introducing my stepfather as my father. It would give the impression I don't want to be close to my read dad who has been wonderful to me.

It was my father, not my stepdad, who raised me and played an important part in shaping my values and moral standards. To call someone else "Dad" would be a serious injustice. I couldn't do it.--Bloomfield Hills, Mich.

DEAR BLOOM: You and thousands of others. Thanks for the input. I admire your loyalty.

Is life passing you by? Want to improve your social skills? Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.15 (this includes postage and handling) to: Friends, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: For the past few years I have noticed a soft, jelly-like mass in the left side of my scrotum. It is translucent when viewed with a light. Both testicles are firm and no apparent lumps. There is more sensation of pain if this mass is pressed than felt in the testicle. What is this mass? Is it something to be concerned about? Will it subside in time? I'm 73 years old.

DEAR READER: Since it has been there a few years I am not concerned about it being cancer, but anyone who does develop a mass or lump of the testicle should see a doctor right away.

You may have a hydrocele, which is nothing more than a cyst or sac of body fluids, but it usually envelops the testicle, like having the testicle in a sac of water. The other likely possibility is that you have a spermatocele, another cyst that forms in the sperm tubule mechanism at the side of the testicle. Both would be translucent when a light is shined through them. You will need an examination to know what you really have, but I would not expect it to go away on its own.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Although Dr.

Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Courtesy can help keep all of us from being annoyed--or seriously hurt--by tailgaters and drivers who cut cars off in traffic.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

LYDIA - EUROPE'S FIRST CHRISTIAN CONVERT!

WHEN PAUL MADE HIS SECOND MISSIONARY JOURNEY HE CAME TO THE CITY OF PHILIPPI IN MACEDONIA (GREECE). PHILIPPI WAS A LARGE CITY DUE TO THE GOLD MINING INDUSTRY IN THE NEARBY MOUNTAINS. ALTHOUGH THERE WERE JEWS LIVING HERE, APPARENTLY THERE WAS NO SYNAGOGUE FOR PAUL HAD TO GO OUTSIDE THE CITY ON THE SABBATH TO A NEARY RIVER WHERE WASHINGS, NECESSARY TO THE RELIGIOUS CEREMONIES, COULD BE PERFORMED. HERE, HE FOUND ONLY A GROUP OF WOMEN ENGAGED IN WORSHIP AND TO THESE HE BEGAN TO PREACH HIS MESSAGE. LYDIA, WHO WAS AMONGST THEM, WAS SO TAKEN BY PAUL'S PREACHING THAT SHE IMMEDIATELY ASKED FOR BAPTISM, INCLUDING HER ENTIRE HOUSEHOLD!

LYDIA WAS NOT JEWISH, HERSELF, BUT WAS A FIRM BELIEVER IN GOD AND WORSHIPPED WITH THE JEWS. SHE WAS A WOMAN OF WEALTH, DEALING IN THE PURPLE-DYED FABRICS MANUFACTURED IN THYATYRA, ONE OF THE LARGE GARMENT CENTERS IN ASIA-MINOR AND FROM WHENCE SHE ORIGINALLY HAILED. AFTER HER BAPTISM, LYDIA PUT HER PALATIAL HOME ENTIRELY AT THE DISPOSAL OF PAUL AND HIS ENTOURAGE FOR THEIR ENTIRE STAY IN THOSE PARTS!
(ACTS 16: 12-15)
