Services pending for Watson

Charles L. Watson, 57, longtime Hereford mortician, died suddenly Wednesday evening at his home after a short illness.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home, where he was a partner in the business.

Mr. Watson was a former president of Hereford Lions Club, a former director of the High Plains Eye Bank, and a Mason. He was a deacon at First Baptist Church.

Born Oct. 26, 1934 in Levelland, Mr. Watson graduated from Texas Western College in 1957 with a B.A. degree in music. He was a band director at Ralls when he married Marline Gilliland in Lubbock on July 5, 1963. She was a native of Hereford.

Mr. Watson moved to Hereford in 1965 to become associated with Gilliland Funeral Home. He attended a mortuary school in Dallas the next year and returned to Hereford in 1967.

Survivors include his wife; two sons, Terry, stationed in Guam with the U.S. Air Force, and Mark of Hereford; one daughter, Tina Perry of McAllen; his mother, Rachael Nelson of Anton; one brother, Gerald Watson of Texas City; two sisters, Linda Kay Walthal of Anton and Brenda Simmons of Sacramento, Cal.; and one grandson, A.J. Watson.

The family suggests memorials to the Scottish Rite Learning Center of Lubbock, the American Heart Association, or a favorite charity.

La. voters like 'none of the above'

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - None of the Above was ahead of his time. In 1979, Luther Devine Knox, a Democrat, legally changed his name to None of the Above and tried to get it on the ballot.

He failed, but some analysts say that if Mr. Above were in the governor's race against David Duke and Edwin Edwards, he could win by a landslide.

"People are definitely voting for the lesser of two evils. If he was on the ballot it might be him first and a dogfight for second," said political pollster Silas Lee.

Many Louisianans registered just so they could vote against Duke or Edwards in Saturday's election.

Edwards, a Democrat, is a former three-term governor acquitted of racketeering charges, but tainted nonetheless by those allegations and an image of fast living and shady dealing. Duke, who is running as a Republican without official GOP backing, is a former grand wizard of the Ku Klux Klan and Nazi sympathizer.

Holiday Happenings set for Saturday

"Hereford Holiday Happening" is underway in the community with more than 30 participating merchants sponsoring two grand prize drawings of $250 each, and a weekend of festivities is planned all over town for shoppers Saturday and Sunday.

Main Street will be closed to vehicle traffic Saturday as merchants provide extended shopping hours, street booths with refreshments and surprises, street carolers, and roaming Santas. Sugarland Mall will also have refreshment booths manned by non-profit groups and the St. Anthony Christmas Carolers will be on hand. Many stores will offer door prizes, and most stores will be open until 8 p.m. Saturday. Many participating merchants will also be open from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

The annual Christmas lighting ceremony to officially open the holiday season will be held at 7 p.m.

Saturday. The Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce and the C of C retail merchants committee are in charge of this event.

A special decorated tree will be lit on the south side of the courthouse square. Christmas lights at the courthouse, banks and downtown will be turned on at the same time, in conjunction with the citywide lighting program. Residents are urged to attend the lighting ceremony, then drive around town and view all the holiday lighting.

Several choirs in the community are scheduled to participate in the Saturday events. Hereford State Bank will have a hot chocolate booth at the courthouse square Saturday night.

Booths to be on Main Street Saturday will include those of Boy Scouts, Hereford Fire & Police Auxiliary, Rebekah Lodge (hot chocolate), Kiwanis Club, Domestic Violence/Rape Crisis office (Santa pictures on Main Street). Beta Sigma Phi chapter will also be offering Santa pictures at Sugarland Mall.

Participating merchants will also have "open houses" from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday downtown, at Sugarland Mall and many other stores around town.

For the chance to win one of two Grand Prize drawings of $250 each, shoppers clip a copy of the "tree" printed in the Brand (today or Nov. 10) or obtain a copy from a participating merchant. Then take the tree to any of the participating stores and have the tree "decorated" or an ornament placed on the copy. The completed entry can be left with the last merchant visited.

A special drawing will be held Monday, Nov. 18, at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office, and two winners will receive $250 each. To be eligible, the participant must be at least 18 years of age. Details of the contest are included again in today's newspaper. Many other gifts will be offered as prizes by merchants as a special appreciation to customers who have validated their entry at the store. Since Main Street will be closed off to motorists Saturday, First National Bank is offering its parking lot for use by Post Office patrons that morning.

Saul, Formby detail planning for Macy parade

Margaret Formby of the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Roland Saul, who is heading up the CHOF's entry in the 65th annual Macy's Parade in New York City on Thanksgiving Day, reviewed their plans and achievements by the CHOF during the past year to the Hereford Lions Club on Wednesday.

Saul, who serves on the CHOF board of directors, told the Lions that the CHOF was invited to submit a proposal last June for a parade entry. Macy's accepted the unique proposal in September.

The CHOF's entry will include a horse-drawn wagon decked out in Christmas greenery and glitter. Five CHOF honorees will appear on the float, including performing trick ropers Nancy Kelley Sheppard and Joan Wells, both Hall of Fame honorees.

Saul said the float will be the only entry from Texas and the parade's only horses will be in the CHOF's entourage.

The horses, including those to draw the wagon and for the accompanying outriders, will come from a rodeo string based in New Jersey. The float is being constructed in the New York City area and will be designed by Terry Sparks of Hereford.

Except for the trick ropers, all of the women in the entry will be wearing outfits designed by Scott Formby, a Hereford native who is now a New York designer. The women will be wearing fringed leather jackets and gauntlets, boots and colorful blouses. They will all wear brilliant red hats and wild rags.

The CHOF will spend about $15,000 for the entry's preparation and other expenses. Most of the honorees and others on the float and others going to New York City will be paying their way, paring the cost to the CHOF.

To help defray expenses, the CHOF is sponsoring a benefit dance from 7 p.m. to midnight at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn. Headlining the show will be Charlie "Sugartime" Phillips, along with local singer Natalie Sims and the Walkers. Tickets are $17.50 in advance, or $150 for a book of 10 tickets. Saul said tickets at the door will be $20 per person.

The dance will feature several contests and door prizes. The CHOF will also have a full-service concession during the evening's activities.

Mrs. Formby told the Lions about the publicity the CHOF has received during the past year and projects in which the CHOF is playing an integral role.

She told of stories in the Houston Chronicle, Texas Highways, and other media during the past year. She also told of a documentary that was filmed earlier this year about cowgirls, with 21 honorees interviewed during June's annual Rhinestone Roundup. The CHOF is also working with a group that is working on a movie project for either theater or television release.

Formby said the publicity is not just for the CHOF but for all of Hereford and Deaf Smith County, giving the county good publicity.

Costumes for parade participants

Margaret Formby, executive director of the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center in Hereford, adjusts a costume on a mannequin for displaying Wednesday to the Hereford Lions Club. The costume, designed by Mrs. Formby's son, Scott, will be worn by most of the persons on the CHOF's entry in the Macy's Parade on Thanksgiving Day in New York City.

AG, governor split on need for session

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards has said she is loath to call a special session for lawmakers to try to satisfy U.S. Justice Department objections to the state House redistricting plan.

She said Wednesday that such a session would be costly and could be lengthy.

Instead, Richards urged Attorney General Dan Morales to work with groups that have sued the state over redistricting to see if the issue can be quickly resolved.

"We are on a tight timeline to complete redistricting in order to hold elections next year," she told Morales in a letter.

Morales said he would prefer that lawmakers be called into special session to address the Justice Department's ruling that the plan is invalid because it is unfair to Hispanics.

But he said he was willing to make changes in the redistricting plan, preferably with input from House lawmakers, if that's how state leaders want it.

Judith Sanders-Castro of the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund, representing minority interests challenging the House plan in state district court, said that a settlement would offer the only chance of keeping the 1992 elections on schedule.

But the state Republican Party said it will ask a federal three-judge panel, which is hearing its redistricting challenge in Austin, to avoid an election delay by accepting the GOP's alternative House redistricting plan.

"We don't need any more back room deals," said Texas GOP Chairman Fred Meyer.

Republicans and two Democratic state senators have objected to a compromise Texas Senate redistricting plan that the state worked out with minorities and that was accepted by a state judge. The Republicans also are challenging the congressional redistricting plan.

Rep. Tom Craddick, a Midland lawmaker who heads the House Republican Caucus, said he also opposes giving lawmakers another chance at the issue.

The Justice Department has not yet ruled on whether Texas' congressional and state Senate redistricting plans follow the federal Voting Rights Act. It is to rule on both this month.

Richards and Morales expressed hope that 1992 elections will be able to proceed on schedule. Candidate filing for the election begins Dec. 3 and ends Jan. 2, with the primary scheduled for March.

Richards said that the Justice Department's questions about the House plan involve several narrow issues. The Department cited specific instances in El Paso County, South Texas and Dallas County where the plan discriminated against Hispanics.

"It seems that common sense dictates that we proceed to resolve these narrow issues rather than calling 181 members of the Legislature back to Austin at a cost of $1 million to reopen the entire issue again," Richards told Morales in the letter.

Richards said she would have further discussions with state leaders as the Justice Department acts on the other plans.

Rep. Tom Uher, a Democrat from Bay City who heads the House Redistricting Committee, said that it would be premature for there to be a special session until the Justice Department rules on the other state plans.

WASHINGTON - Steep canyons, spring-fed creeks and a blackwater swamp would be added to the ecologically-rich Big Thicket National Preserve under a bill endorsed by a U.S. House committee.

AUSTIN (AP) - An official of the state agency regulating bingo says little of the money spent on the games gets to charity.

Joe Darnall, general counsel for the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission, says that while the law was designed to help veterans groups, churches, volunteer fire departments and other charities, "the amount actually going to charity is a remarkably small percentage."

A big problem, Darnall said, is that large amounts of cash change hands often in bingo.

"The nature of the beast is such that you've got hundreds of thousands of dollars, in small denomination unmarked bills, floating around before they ever reach a point of accountability," he said. "There is a perception that something is terribly wrong."

His comments came after the House General Investigating Committee on Wednesday opened an investigation into bingo.

Frank Coniglio, who supervises bingo compliance for the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission, told lawmakers that 75 cents of every dollar spent on bingo goes to prizes, six cents to hall rental, seven cents to taxes and seven cents for expenses, leaving just five cents.

Coniglio said bingo gross receipts total about $624 million annually. With a large amount going to prizes, he said, the money going to charities "is not as big a share as it could be."

The TABC, which took over bingo regulation from the state comptroller's office, and the Travis County district attorney have been looking into allegations of profit skimming, theft, illegal games and other improprieties.

But a bingo organization leader said government is to blame for many of the problems.

"These people (lawmakers) don't know what they're talking about when they talk about bingo. They make all these crazy laws, these senile people up there sleeping. They don't know what's going on," said Chuck Bertani of Houston, president of the Bingo Operators of Texas.

"I think they should look at how this is being governed. They should eliminate some of the rules and regulations that have made it so difficult to run a decent game," said Bertani, who operates two commercial bingo halls.

Bertani tried to speak to the House committee, but Chairman Doyle Willis ruled him out of order. Willis said Wednesday's meeting was to hear from regulators and that other hearings would be held to take public testimony.

Willis, D-Fort Worth, later declined to respond when asked about Bertani's comments. When a reporter asked if commercial bingo operators should be eliminated, Willis walked away.

Committee counsel L. DeWitt Hale said the investigation has begun because "we have reason to believe, on the basis of complaints that have come in, that there's a lot of abuse in this." He would not specify what complaints had been received.

Coniglio said about 1,800 charitable organizations are licensed to run bingo games, and about 520 licenses have been issued to commercial lessors.

Hale told the committee that 111 commercial lessors reported rental income of more than $100,000 a year. Of those, 39 reported income of $200,000 to $300,000, 24 had incomes of $300,000 to $400,000 and five reported income of more than $400,000, he said.

The committee's inquiry comes at a time when some bingo players, operators and charities have questioned whether the state is trying to eliminate the industry.

Lawmakers this summer voted to increase taxes on bingo operators from 2 percent to 5 percent, and started a 3 percent tax on bingo winnings.

Bertani said commercial operators are needed by many of the charity groups which raise money through bingo games.

"The truth of the matter is, if it wasn't for commercialization of bingo most of the bingo charities wouldn't be playing today," he said. "The charities in my halls are raising over $100,000 a year apiece. (But) they give the state more money than they make."

Trial set in January for Lewis

AUSTIN (AP) - House Speaker Gib Lewis' attorney said the speaker is eager for a jury trial on his misdemeanor ethics charges.

"We're confident that he's going to be acquitted," Tim Evans of Fort Worth said Wednesday.

State District Judge Bob Perkins set a Jan. 27 trial date. The trial could start up earlier if Perkins' court docket thins out, or possibly later if Lewis' attorneys seek to move the trial out of town.

Evans has filed a motion for a change of venue, saying that Lewis cannot get a fair trial in Austin because of extensive news coverage about the case. But, Evans said, he wasn't sure if he would press that motion, and if he does, it will be when the trial date draws nearer.

"Just common sense will tell you that if you're taking the pulse of the community, it's better to take the pulse of the community as near to the trial as you can take it," he said.

Lewis, 55, was indicted Dec. 28 on charges that he violated state ethics laws by receiving a gift from a powerful San Antonio law firm, and then failed to report the benefit on his public financial disclosure statement.

Lewis, D-Fort Worth, has denied any wrongdoing, and has criticized Travis County District Attorney Ronnie Earle for the investigation.

On Wednesday, Evans down played the seriousness of the charges in relation to the publicity about the case.

"Sometimes things like this are just like an avalanche. You start off with a little snowball and before anybody can look up, they're being swamped," he said.

During a pre-trial hearing Wednesday, Evans unsuccessfully tried to have Perkins reject the first indictment and force prosecutors to turn over testimony given by witnesses before the grand jury.

Couple charged in child abuse denied visits to comatose son

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - A couple who chained and starved their 13-year-old son until he was near death won't be able to visit their comatose child while they await trial on criminal charges.

Tarrant County juvenile court master Jean Hudson Boyd on Wednesday agreed with attorney Robert Hoover's request to deny child visitation rights to Jay and Linda Hill, who remain jailed.

Ms. Boyd granted the state temporary custody of the couple's sons, Stephen and Douglas, 12. The younger boy has been under state care since his parents' arrests.

Stephen remained in a coma early today at a Fort Worth hospital, where he was listed in critical condition. He also was suffering a blood infection caused by malnutrition, doctors said.

The bruised, 55-pound teen had a heart attack Nov. 3. He weighs about half what a child his age should.

Ms. Boyd said the Hills may seek visitation once they are released from jail. They have been held at the Tarrant County Jail since Nov. 4.

A Tarrant County grand jury indicted Hill Wednesday on charges of injury to a child and aggravated kidnapping. His remained jailed on $200,000 bond.

Mrs. Hill, charged with injury to a child, was not indicted during Wednesday's session, prosecutor David Montague said. Her bail was $100,000.

Hoover, a court appointed attorney for the boys, agreed to the temporary custody order only on the condition that the parents be kept away from the boys. The order also stipulates that the parents be psychologically tested.

"Stephen's condition is so grave, I just don't want them to have access. I just fear for the condition he's in and how he got into that condition," Hoover said.

He said Douglas, who also was malnourished when he was found, was in good condition. "He seems to be fine at this time, considering the circumstances."

The Hills, who did not qualify financially for a court-appointed attorney, did not appear at the hearing and were not represented.

Mrs. Hill has told police that she and her husband, an engineer for General Dynamics, disciplined Stephen by chaining him inside their trailer home and depriving him of food.

Mrs. Hill's court-appointed attorney, Charles Baldwin, charged that the move to press kidnapping charges was a publicity stunt.

Just like magic: AIDS testing demand soars

By MITCHELL LANDSBERG
Associated Press Writer

When Magic Johnson dished out a double-pump bounce pass, basketball players everywhere emulated him. Now people are lining up by the thousands to follow his example and get tested for AIDS.

In the week since Johnson's surprise announcement that he had tested positive for the AIDS virus, health officials around the country say they have been swamped with requests for tests.

"I think people are saying to themselves, 'If it could happen to him, it definitely could happen to me, so maybe now it's time to get tested,'" said Valerie Kegebein, chief of the prevention branch of the San Francisco AIDS Office.

Health clinics that formerly could test patients immediately are building up backlogs a week long. Those that already had waiting lists are seeing them get longer.

Most of the people seeking tests as a result of Johnson's announcement are heterosexual, health officials say. Some also say they are hearing from more women, more young people and more blacks.

Johnson, who retired from the Los Angeles Lakers a week ago as a result of his diagnosis, has since said he was sexually promiscuous and was infected by a woman.

In the United States, the AIDS virus, or HIV, is most commonly transmitted through homosexual sex or intravenous drug use.

The Gay Men's Health Crisis in New York has suddenly been overwhelmed by calls from heterosexuals seeking information about AIDS tests, spokesman David Eng said.

In Detroit, where the city Health Department's AIDS Project usually gets 20 calls a day, there were 250 last Friday, said Dr. Melinda Love-Dickson, communicable-disease director.

Of those, she said, 80 were to schedule tests. And of those, more than half were from women. Usually, she said, men outnumber women 3-to-1.

Atlanta's Health Department has been performing about double the usual number of AIDS tests compared with a week ago, according to Dr. Pradnya Tambe, medical director of the Sexually Transmitted Disease Section.

The test load also doubled in Camden County, N.J., and the waiting list - non-existent in the pre-Magic days - is a week long.

"It's mostly heterosexuals who are scared witless," said the county's public health coordinator, Sharon O'Leary. "They never took this seriously before, they managed to break it down into an us-versus-them situation, but now they realize they're them."

At New York's Harlem Hospital, which serves a largely black and Hispanic population, spokesman Juan Dandridge said there had been no noticeable increase in requests for AIDS tests. But that seemed to be the exception, and a rare one.

At Kings County Hospital in Brooklyn, spokeswoman Annette Pagan said Johnson's announcement prompted a rise in requests for tests, but also had another, more curious effect: People who took AIDS tests as much as a year ago have suddenly begun calling for the results, which they previously had ignored.

The HIV Antibody Testing Line in Washington, D.C., has seen its volume of calls roughly quintuple since Johnson's announcement, with much of the increase coming from black heterosexuals, spokesman Scott Sanders said.

In Tucson, Ariz., the Pima County Health Department has seen its requests for AIDS tests triple in the past week, according to Christopher Brown, the AIDS program coordinator.

"We are already booked until the end of November," he said. "Before, we could get a person in within a week."

Reading a story
Hereford High School students, Phillip Hickman and Michelle Emerson, read "Goldilocks and the Three Bears" to a four-year-old pre-kindergarten class during a session in the HHS library observing November as reading month. Also participating in the program for the preschoolers were members of the orators class taught by Lana Hall, including Brandi Webb, Marc Haney, Clara Jackson, Edgar Montoya, Sara Zinck, Jarrit Edwards, Laura Lomas and Shana Constancio. HHS art students painted the forest backdrop in the library.

Fired worker storms post office

ROYAL OAK, Mich. (AP) - A fired postal worker walked into a suburban Detroit post office today and shot 10 people with a semiautomatic weapon, according to broadcast reports. At least two people were reported killed.

Postal worker Tim Fowler told WXYZ-TV that the gunman was a postal worker who had been fired Wednesday.

WJBK-TV and WXYZ-TV reported that two people were killed and 10 shot in all. Royal Oak police declined to comment on the shooting. They said the shooter then shot himself.

"There's been a shooting, that's all we can say," said a Royal Oak police dispatcher who declined to give identification.

WXYZ-TV reported that the shooting victims included the postal manager and said the weapon was semiautomatic.

Royal Oak police were blocking off the downtown area and looking for witnesses. About six ambulances were on the scene.

Post offices have been the scene of several shootings in recent years. In October, a fired Ridgewood, N.J., postal worker armed with two machine guns, grenades and a samurai sword went on a rampage, killing four people including a former supervisor who had accused him of harassment. Two of the deaths were in the post office there, the other two in a nearby town.

In 1986, a part-time letter carrier in Edmond, Okla., killed 14 people in the post office there before taking his own life. In 1989, a postal worker in Escondido, Calif., killed two co-workers at the post office.

Pampa picked in playoff game

Things will be tough Friday night for the two playoff teams from District 1-4A. Pampa is a slight favorite (three points) over Snyder while Estacado is an 18-point favorite over Randall, according to the Harris Rating System.

The other 4A teams in West Texas play their final regular season games this week (since they have a playoff bye, they can do that), and there are still playoff positions up for grabs. Andrews is a 28-point favorite at home over San Angelo Lake View. Big Spring is a 7-point pick at Monahans, and Fort Stockton at Pecos is a toss-up. Sweetwater is idle.

In 5A, the Panhandle teams are getting no respect. In Division I, Coronado is a 20-point underdog to San Angelo Central. In Division II, Palo Duro is a 17-point underdog to Midland Lee, and Tascosa should fall to Odessa Permian by 17.

The 3A bi-district game set in Hereford, Littlefield vs. Dalhart should be fairly close, with Harris giving Littlefield a 10-point nod. Kickoff is 8 p.m. at Whiteface Field.

The other area 3A games see Childress as a 1-point favorite over Floydada, Breckenridge is a 13-point favorite over Denver City, and Vernon is picked by 19 over Slaton. In 2A, it's Panhandle 6 over Spearman, Wellington 11 over Stratford, Crosbyton 7 over Springlake-Earth and Seagraves 3 over Olton.

In Class A, it's Memphis 15 over Nazareth and Wheeler 14 over Happy in bi-district playoff games. District 6-A has another week of regular season games, and Harris' picks are Sudan (at home) 23 over Lorenzo, Whiteface (at home) 21 over Anton, and Petersburg 3 over O'Donnell (at home).

The weight limit for the light-heavyweight class in boxing was set at 175 pounds in 1903.

Littlefield, Dalhart meet here in bi-district battle

The Littlefield Wildcats and Dalhart Golden Wolves will clash at Whiteface Stadium Friday night in a Class AAA bi-district contest. Kickoff is set for 8 p.m. with Dalhart occupying the west stands as the "home" team. Tickets are $4.

Dalhart was picked last in District 1-AAA in pre-season polls, but the Wolves battled to a runner-up berth behind Childress. Dalhart finished with a 6-4 season mark and a 3-2 record in district.

This is the first football playoff berth for the Wolves since 1983, and their first under Coach Windy Williams, who took over in 1989 after steering the White Deer Bucks to a 1988 state title.

Littlefield won the District 2-AAA title last week with an exciting 28-24 win over Floydada. The Wildcats are 7-2-1 on the season and had a 5-0 mark in district action. Coach Lewis Boomer said his team has to guard against a letdown after the emotional high in the win over Floydada.

Both teams feature strong defenses and potent rushing attacks. The Harris Rating System favors Littlefield by 10 points.

Clemens wins third Cy Young

BOSTON (AP) - Roger Clemens is only 29, but already he's thinking of the Hall of Fame, and paving the road to it with the American League Cy Young Award.

In Hawaii with his wife, two sons, his mother and other family members, the Boston Red Sox right-hander received a long distance call Wednesday after completing a round in a celebrity golf tournament.

It was good news with a familiar ring. For the third time since 1986, Clemens won the Cy Young Young Award, easily beating out 20-game winner Scott Erickson of the World Series champion Minnesota Twins.

And, after joining Hall of Famer Jim Palmer as the only AL players to win the award three times, Clemens immediately trained his sights on another.

"I'm real happy and thankful that all the writers thought I was deserving," he said in a telephone hookup with the media in the Red Sox' offices at Fenway Park. "I'm glad it's done. That one is in the book and I can start working on another one."

"It can only help me maybe down the road to get to Cooperstown. If there's one thing I do appreciate in getting the award is that it might enable me to get there. And that's what I'm working to do."

Clemens, who won the Cy Young with a 24-4 record in 1986 and with a 20-9 mark in 1987, finished 18-11 this year, losing his last two starts with the Red Sox out of contention in the final week. However, he led the league in four categories: 271 1-3 innings pitched, a 2.62 earned run average, 241 strikeouts and four shutouts.

In the Baseball Writers Association of America balloting, he received 21 of 28 first-place votes, four seconds and two thirds for 119 points, based on a 5-3-1 system. Erickson was second with 56 points on three first-place votes, 12 seconds and five thirds. California's Jim Abbott was third with 26 points on five seconds and 11 thirds.

Jack Morris, Minnesota's World Series MVP, was fourth with three firsts and two thirds. The Twins' Kevin Tapani received the other first-place vote as he finished seventh, behind the California Angels' Bryan Harvey and Mark Langston.

"I'll go to work on a fourth one, because it means helping the ballclub," Clemens said after becoming just the fifth major league pitcher to win a Cy Young Award three times.

Clemens started fast, winning his first six decisions, but had a 3-5 slump after that and was 11-5 at the All-Star break. He was 4-0 in September before losing two October starts.

He led the majors in innings pitched, won the AL ERA title for the third time in six years and won his second league strikeout title. He had 13 complete games, his most since 1988, and his four shutouts increased his total to 29.

Clemens is the first AL pitcher to win the Cy Young without winning 20 games since Pete Vuckovich of Milwaukee in 1982 (18-6). He is the first with 10 or more losses since LaMarr Hoyt of the Chicago White Sox in 1983 (24-10).

Woosnam hits Grand Slam

KAUAILAGOONS, Hawaii (AP) - He who putts best last wins the $400,000.

The best putter Wednesday at the PGA Grand Slam of Golf was Ian Woosnam, and the Welshman capped off a superb year by beating the three other major tournament winners.

Masters champ Woosnam overcame a three-shot deficit with six birdies on the final 10 holes - including four in a row from 13 through 17 - to beat British Open champ Ian Baker-Finch.

Woosnam carded a 6-under 66 in the final round to finish the 36-hole, $1 million tournament at 9-under 135. Baker-Finch shot a 71 to end up at 139. U.S. Open champ Payne Stewart was third at 141 and John Daly, who won the PGA Championship, placed fourth at 143.

"It's been a great year," said Woosnam. "I've won a major and five tournaments or six tournaments. You don't often have spells like that, but I've had good spells the last few years. I've been lucky."

Woosnam tied Baker-Finch for the lead with a birdie putt on No. 15, then moved ahead with a 30-foot birdie on 16 as Baker-Finch missed a 12-footer.

Baker-Finch birdied the first three holes to take a three-shot lead over Woosnam. But he never birdied again, missing eight birdie putts. His only bogey came on No. 18, when he hit his second shot into a lagoon to double-bogey the par-4 hole.

"It's hard to be disappointed after winning $250,000, but I am," said Baker-Finch. "You've got to get the putts when it counts, and I didn't."

Stewart played solid but failed to make the clutch putts, shooting a final-round 71. Daly never could overcome a poor start that included five bogeys in the first eight holes of the opening round. He shot a 70 Wednesday.

Pacers edge Ewing-less Knicks after fight

By The Associated Press

Think the Indiana Pacers would make this trade: Detlef Schrempf for Patrick Ewing?

That's basically the deal they got Wednesday night. Ewing and Schrempf were both ejected after a second-quarter scuffle, and without New York's big man in the middle to worry about, the Pacers beat the Knicks 110-107.

"My teammates don't want me to talk about it," Ewing said. "I think I am a big part of the team. I wish I had been out there, but I thought my teammates did an outstanding job. ... I watched it on TV. I got pretty excited back there."

The skirmish came one day after a big brawl in Chicago between the Bulls and Detroit Pistons. Bill Laimbeer and Horace Grant were in the middle of that fight, which resulted in three technical fouls and no ejections.

New York trailed 38-28 when Ewing and Schrempf scrapped with 10 minutes left in the first half at Market Square Arena. The Knicks eventually caught the Pacers, but could not pass them.

"Ewing is an all-star and an Olympian. The value of both guys is similar," Indiana coach Bob Hill said. "It hurt both teams."

Well, maybe not exactly. Even though Schrempf was voted the NBA's best sixth man, Ewing is the Knicks' top scorer and rebounder and one of the league's most dominant players.

The incident occurred as Ewing and Schrempf were battling under the boards. Ewing's elbow hit Schrempf in the head and the two players came up swinging, although none of the wild punches landed.

Both benches emptied and order was quickly restored. Ewing exited with six points, ending his streak of 214 games in which he scored in double figures.

Reggie Miller led the Pacers with 31 points and Micheal Williams tied a team record with 18 assists. Mark Jackson scored 21 for New York. Indiana had lost four straight games and the Knicks had won four in a row.

Chuck Person, who scored 25 points, put the Pacers ahead for good at 106-104 with two foul shots with 1:36 left.

Bulls 117, Hornets 95

Michael Jordan scored 35 points and Chicago beat Charlotte for the 12th straight time.

Jordan scored 30 points in three quarters in leading the Bulls to an 84-77 lead. He finished 11-for-19 from the field and was perfect on 12 free throws.

Dell Curry scored 21 points for Charlotte.

Heat 107, Pistons 102

Bimbo Coles and Grant Long each made two free throws in the last 6.8 seconds.

The Heat led 81-79 after three quarters and opened the edge to 103-95 with 3:06 left. But Isiah Thomas scored 13 of his 34 points in the fourth quarter and pulled the Pistons to 103-100 with 29 seconds to go.

Coles led Miami with 19 points.

76ers 121, Magic 100

Hersey Hawkins scored a career-high 43 points. Hawkins made 13 of 22 shots, including four of six 3-pointers. He also made 13 of 14 free throws.

Philadelphia led 53-43 at halftime and, sparked by Hawkins' 18 points in the third quarter, opened a 23-point edge.

Dennis Scott scored 28 points for the Magic.

Celtics 117, Suns 111

Larry Bird made 13 of 17 shots and scored 27 points.

Bird's 3-pointer early in the fourth quarter gave the Celtics a 92-75 lead. The Suns closed to 107-104 in the final two minutes, but could not catch the Celtics.

Tom Chambers led the Suns with 32 points.

Bullets 119, Timberwolves 114

Larry Stewart, starting because of Washington's injury problems, scored four of the first five points in overtime.

Stewart, a rookie from Coppin State, set season highs with 16 points and nine rebounds.

Michael Adams had 33 points and 11 assists for Washington. Sam Mitchell scored 24 points for Minnesota.

Jazz 98, Nets 92

Karl Malone had 35 points and 14 rebounds.

The Nets trailed by 19 points in the first half, but rallied to take an 89-88 lead with 4:13 left. New Jersey did not score again until just 10 seconds remained.

Mookie Blaylock led New Jersey with 21 points.

Spurs 107, Clippers 93

David Robinson scored 24 points and keyed a fourth-quarter surge.

Robinson's three-point play sparked a 13-2 burst.

Sean Elliott had 21 points, 11 rebounds and seven assists for San Antonio. Ron Harper scored 25 points for the Clippers.

Companies stick by Magic

BOSTON (AP) - Two sporting goods companies say the AIDS virus won't tarnish the star quality Magic Johnson brings to endorsements, and they will continue to use him to promote their products.

Johnson, who stunned the world last week by announcing he was infected with the virus that causes AIDS, has been associated with Converse Inc. and Spalding Sports Worldwide since 1979.

Both companies said Wednesday they would continue using Johnson for endorsements, and also said they plan to help him educate the public about AIDS.

"I think it's very smart in the business sense," said Tom McNaught, spokesman for the AIDS Action Committee of Massachusetts. "For a company to drop Magic at this time, the backlash would be significant."

Gib Ford, president of Converse, said the North Reading-based company will also do a commercial with Johnson and Boston Celtics star Larry Bird in support of the U.S. Olympic basketball team.

In addition, Converse plans to launch a public service advertising campaign to support AIDS education and research.

Johnson retired from professional basketball when he learned he had the virus that causes acquired immune deficiency syndrome, but his future as a possible member of the Olympic basketball team remains murky.

"Magic Johnson is one of the best, if not the best basketball player around. Even though he's retired from the (Los Angeles) Lakers, he's still Magic Johnson," Jennifer Murray, a spokeswoman for Converse, said Wednesday.

"His validity as an endorser is still strong," she said.

Jack Lacey, general manager of Spalding's leisure products division, said Johnson "is going to continue to be a part of this family for as long as he wants to be."

The fact that Johnson has the AIDS virus "doesn't mean anything to me," he said.

Spalding, based in Chicopee, also has been exploring several alternatives to help Johnson in his new role as a spokesman on the virus, Lacey said. One possibility might be donating money for every basketball sold with Johnson's name on it, he said.

David Burns, who heads a sports talent consulting firm in Chicago, called the decision on the ads "a real shocker."

"It's really noble to continue to use them," he said. "A fundamental rule of advertising is you don't associate your product with something negative or tragic."

"We love Magic," he said. "But people have a sad thought when they think of him."

Tuinei faces Taylor Time

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Next up for the Dallas Cowboys are the New York Giants, and to left offensive tackle Mark Tuinei that can only mean one thing.

It's Taylor Time. "I hate it when we play the Giants," Tuinei said, his mind wandering to Sunday, when he'll face Lawrence Taylor. "I've had some pretty good games against him, but you never stop Taylor. You just hope to slow him down, to keep your quarterback healthy. You don't want him to fly by you and hear that hit on the quarterback."

A bystander needled Tuinei: "Haven't you heard that Taylor has slowed down?"

Tuinei laughed. "Whoever says that can go out there and block him for 60 minutes and then I want to hear what they say," Tuinei shot back.

Then Tuinei began to recite the real facts about Taylor. "This guy is real strong, he has great moves, and has speed," Tuinei said. "There's nobody out there like him. I just looked at the tapes and he's something. He hasn't slowed down at all."

Tuinei did notice one thing about the Giants linebacker: He's not always trying to charge past the left tackle.

"I see where they are letting him roam more," Tuinei said. "That makes him even more dangerous. You never know where he's going to pop up next."

Tuinei is part of a beat up Dallas offensive line that will go against the Giants at 3 p.m. in the Meadowlands. Dallas beat the Giants 21-16 in September.

The nine-year veteran missed the Green Bay, Cincinnati, Detroit and Phoenix games with a bad back. He figures he's about 90 percent effective and Sunday's 26-23 overtime loss to Houston was, according to Tuinei, "like playing in two games. It will take time to bounce back from that one."

"You'd like to be 100 percent when you go against LT," said Tuinei, a free agent find from Hawaii.

Starting right offensive tackle Nate Newton is out with a sprained knee and rookie Erik Williams will replace him. Left guard Kevin Gogan also is nursing an injury but was expected to start.

"We're beat up, but we've got to bounce back from the Houston game," Tuinei said. "It would be stupid to dwell on that loss."

"We know the Giants will be waiting on us. They remember what happened in September."

And Tuinei is worried that Taylor's memory will be as good as his moves.

Girls volleyball champs

Aggies remember one game

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) - From time to time, the Tulsa game still comes up at College Station, Texas.

Remember, way back there on Sept. 21? Texas A&M led Tulsa 28-10 and lost 35-34. That same A&M is now 7-1 and leading the Southwest Conference by two games.

A&M coach R.C. Slocum said Wednesday that he told his coaches after the loss: "We've got a young team and this could turn out to be a good lesson for us."

And, he told a telephone hookup, the coaches have mentioned it more than once.

"If we hadn't lost a game, it would have kind of a hollow ring to it," he said. "Any team has a chance to beat us and they believe it."

Still, he believes the Aggies would have found some way to win if senior quarterback Bucky Richardson had not been injured. "The poise and confidence Bucky has would have pulled us out," he said.

On Saturday, the Aggies are home against Arkansas. A&M is 5-0 in the SWC. Arkansas is 4-2. So is Baylor, while Texas is 3-2.

"We don't have a bunch of guys doing a lot of talking and getting distracted," Slocum said. "Everybody is real quick to put us in the Cotton Bowl, but we have a lot of work to do to get to the Cotton Bowl."

Last year, the Holiday Bowl-bound Aggies had to struggle to beat a 3-8 Arkansas team by 20-16.

"Last year, we had to scratch around to score," Slocum said. "They haven't given up a whole lot of points to anyone they've played."

Arkansas was leading the league a couple of weeks ago but lost to Baylor 9-5 and then dropped a 38-21 decision to Texas Tech.

Arkansas coach Jack Crowe said that, against Tech, the defense played without emotion for the first time this year.

He says A&M is the best team Arkansas has played since Miami. The Hurricanes, currently ranked second in the country, walloped Arkansas 31-3 in the season opener.

He also said the Aggies are similar to Miami.

"They have great speed, and that probably shows up in kicking game more than anywhere else," Crowe said. "In comparing them to Miami, they may not have Miami's caliber of wide receivers, but that's it. Miami may have the best receiving corps in the nation."

One difference, he said, is that the A&M offense is built around the run, "which makes this a very consistent football team."

The Aggies, he said, "haven't had a bad game offensively."

In fact, the Aggies have scored on their first possession in 11 straight games. And, they've outscored their opponents 221-34 in the first half this year.

Crowe says the Razorbacks have had a tough week of practice. "Coming off last week's game and our unemotional performance, we really needed to get back to some things," he said. "It's late in the year to get back to blocking and tackling, but that's the only way we can win."

The players were receptive, he said.

A win over the Aggies, he said, "could do more for our season that probably anything else both because of what's at stake and the known quality of this football team we're playing."

Torretta wants to beat FSU

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) - Miami Hurricanes quarterback Gino Torretta says he's not thinking about redemption this week, only winning.

But for Torretta, they're one and the same.

He knows the best way to erase the memory of his worst game is to beat top-ranked Florida State on Saturday in Tallahassee.

The last time Torretta played there, he was a redshirt freshman filling in for injured junior Craig Erickson. Torretta threw four interceptions in just his third career start, and the Hurricanes lost 24-10.

"Playing in that game, I learned the most of any game I've played here," the junior said. "I learned you can't turn the ball over in big games, and in big games this year, I haven't thrown an interception. You learn from tough times."

Torretta this week reviewed his mistakes in that 1989 loss.

"We watched it together," coach Dennis Erickson said. "He made a couple of bad decisions. There were a couple of balls tipped. That game was not all Gino's fault."

It's the only one Torretta has lost. He's now 11-1 as the Hurricanes' starter, including 8-0 this year.

Florida State coach Bobby Bowden sees little resemblance to the quarterback his team beat in 1989.

"The difference is maturity," Bowden said. "He's now a man. That night he was a young, innocent fresh-faced young man. ... I always thought he was a darned good quarterback myself."

He may not be as good as Florida State's Casey Weldon, a senior who has a big edge in publicity. Weldon has thrown for 2,013 yards and 21 touchdowns, Torretta for 2,214 yards and 15 touchdowns. Each has been intercepted just six times.

"I know Gino is the best Italian quarterback in the game," Erickson said.

"I'm not going to go out there and think about trying to outplay Casey Weldon," Torretta said. "I'm going to try to win the game. If I have to hand the ball off 50 times, I'm going to do that."

Avoiding the turnovers that plagued Torretta in 1989 will be a challenge. The Seminoles have 20 interceptions in 10 games.

"They gamble more than our guys do," Torretta said. "They're such great athletes, they gamble and try to make big play rather than sit back and let you catch the ball in front of them."

Steadiness helped Torretta win a heated preseason battle for the starting job over sophomore Bryan Fortay, who then transferred to Rutgers. Nothing that's happened this fall has caused Erickson to regret his choice.

"Maybe Gino doesn't make as many spectacular plays as some people," the coach said, "but he doesn't make many mistakes."

Tommy Burns made eight title defenses as heavyweight champion in 1907 and 1908, winning all by a knockout.

On five occasions only two horses started in the Belmont Stakes and the largest field was 15 in 1983.

Home health care coverage can make recovery more comfortable.

Full recovery from a serious illness can take much longer than a stay in the hospital... especially if the patient is elderly. Recuperation at home can be more comfortable and secure. It can also cost your parents or your family a lot of money for which Medicare does not reimburse you.

That's why the CNA Insurance Companies, one of several major companies our independent agency represents, created a new Home Health Care Plan. It provides coverage your parents and your own family may need to help pay the costs of professional health services performed at home.

Public Notice

On July 1, 1991, Southwestern Bell Telephone filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas that proposes to delete Paragraph 3.4(G) from Section 3 of Southwestern Bell's intrastate Access Service Tariff, which concerns credits where a customer uses Switched Access Service to furnish a service which has been defined to be an exchange service. The application was assigned Docket No. 10463.

Because Southwestern Bell is not aware of any customers who presently use switched access service to furnish an exchange service, Southwestern Bell does not believe its revenues will be affected. However, certain interexchange carrier customers of switched access service have made claims under the aforementioned tariff. Such customers, but only to the extent they provide an exchange service using switched access, would be affected by this application. Based on claims made for credits (assuming such credits were allowable), Southwestern Bell's revenues would be affected by no more than $1,168,962 annually, which is .037 percent of the Company's adjusted revenue for the 12-month period ending December 31, 1990. It is not possible to know how many interexchange carriers might believe themselves entitled to credits, but 189 carriers have registered with the Commission pursuant to PUC Substantive Rule 23.61.

The tariff, after suspension, is proposed to be effective May 1, 1992.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible, but no later than November 15, 1991. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256. House passes leave package

WASHINGTON (AP) - For the second time in as many years, a family and medical leave bill cleared the House but without the two-thirds majority that supporters need to override President Bush's threatened veto.

The House on Wednesday voted 253-177 to approve the bill. It would require many employers to offer workers up to 12 weeks unpaid, job-guaranteed leave in illnesses to care for a new child or other family emergencies.

The Senate approved a nearly identical version last month by an apparently veto-proof margin. But the final House vote left supporters 34 votes short of the two-thirds majority.

KEARNEY, Neb. (AP) - "Star Trek" actor George Takei, who spent time as a child in a World War II relocation camp for Japanese-Americans, says the money paid internees was too little and often too late.

Takei, known to millions as Mr. Sulu, the steady helmsman of the Starship Enterprise, was born in Los Angeles in 1939. He and his family were sent to a camp in Arkansas after the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor in 1941.

Three years ago the U.S. government agreed to pay reparations and apologize to the thousands held during the war.

Takei said the $20,000 his family received came too late and didn't make up for possessions lost during the imprisonment.

"Most of the people who suffered the most through that experience have passed on," he told radio station KGFW on Wednesday.

"We're a long way from where we'd like to be," Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., a leading supporter of the bill, said.

Thirty-five Republicans joined the majority Democrats in supporting the bill. Forty-eight Democrats voted against the measure.

The leading Republican sponsor, Rep. Marge Roukema, R-N.J., said she would renew her request to meet with Bush to discuss the bill and held out hope he might relent in his veto threat. She noted supporters had gained 21 votes over last year, when the House sustained Bush's veto.

"It's not veto proof, but let's say the White House reads trends too... and the trend is clear," Roukema said.

But Bush's veto threat against the latest version was renewed Wednesday in a statement from the White House budget office.

Democrats have been trying to increase the pressure on Bush on domestic issues at a time when his popularity is suffering from the recession.

But after 24 Bush vetoes, the Congress has failed to override any.

The vote was the second time in a week that House Democratic leaders have failed to muster a veto-proof majority on a top domestic issue. Last week they fell short of the two-thirds majority needed to block enforcement of Bush's regulation banning abortion counseling in federally aided family-planning clinics.

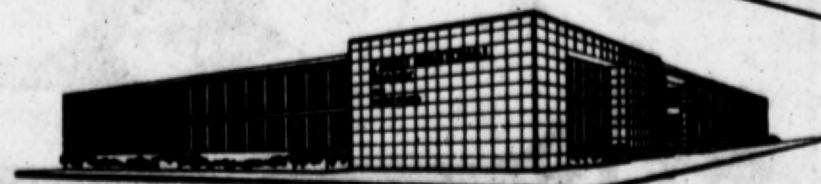

Because of the minor variations between the Senate and House versions, the measure now goes to a conference committee to resolve differences. Supporters said they may hold the bill in that conference until next year to give time for pressure to build on Bush. Congress plans to adjourn for this year before Thanksgiving.

The family and medical leave bill would require employers of 50 or more employees to guarantee workers up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave due to illness, the birth or adoption of a child, or to care for an ill family member. Smaller businesses would be exempt, and any employer could exempt the highest paid 10 percent of its work force.

Conspiracy buffs discuss JFK in Dallas

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
Eyewitnesses, authors, researchers and others are assembling in a Dallas hotel today to swap conspiracy theories about the assassination of President Kennedy.

The Assassination Symposium on John F. Kennedy, dubbed ASK, is largely a gathering of conspiracy buffs dedicated to "solving" the so-called crime of the century. Sponsors and participants generally reject the basic Warren Commission conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald, acting alone, killed the president.

They challenge commission findings that Oswald was the lone sniper who fired three shots into the presidential motorcade as it passed beneath his perch on the sixth floor of the old Texas School Book Depository.

And they insist that Jack Ruby, who killed Oswald, was a co-conspirator.

The three-day inquiry, sponsors say, is designed ultimately to "prompt the United States government to open all files and archives pertaining to the assassination in order to resolve questions that remain unanswered 28 years after the fact."

Among the panelists and speakers are authors and researchers who for years have advanced often novel theories on the events that occurred that day.

The favorite targets of conspiracy buffs are organized crime and the CIA.

Until his retirement in the late 1980s, Henry Wade, Dallas County's tough, outspoken district attorney, routinely dismissed many of the Warren Commission critics as crackpots.

Conspiracy fervor was such just 10 years ago that authorities opened Oswald's grave in nearby Fort Worth so that a team of pathologists could determine who was buried there.

A British author named Michael Eddowes insisted that the coffin contained the body of an impostor, a Russian spy, in fact.

But the pathologists said the body was Oswald's.

That torpedoed one theory, but did little to stem the skepticism of conspiracy advocates.

In his new book, "Plausible Denial," author Mark Lane maintains the CIA was behind the Kennedy slaying and that Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt was involved.

Lane scheduled a news conference Thursday in advance of the symposium, which formally opens Friday with a keynote address by Dr. Cyril Wecht.

Sponsors say Wecht is a noted forensic expert, lawyer and doctor and the first private citizen to study the Kennedy autopsy photographs and X-rays in 1971.

Among the other speakers and panelists Friday and Saturday are Gary Shaw and Larry Harris, co-directors of the conspiracy-theory

JFK Assassination Center in Dallas and coauthors of a Kennedy book, "Cover-up."

Other participating authors are Robert Groden, "High Treason"; David Lifton, "Best Evidence"; John Davis, "The Kennedys" and "Mafia Kingfish"; George Michael Evica, "And We Are All Mortals"; Jim Marrs, "Crossfire"; Jim Moore, "Conspiracy of One"; and Bob Dorf, "The Last Judgment."

Another panelist is Dr. Charles Crenshaw, one of the doctors at Parkland Hospital who treated both Kennedy and Oswald. Crenshaw is co-author of a soon-to-be-published book, "Three Days at Parkland."

Besides the authors, the symposium features appearances by "Dealy Plaza eyewitnesses" Ed Hoffman, Malcolm Summers and Jean Hill, who will discuss what they "saw, heard and felt" that November day.

Other speakers are Mary Ferrell of Dallas, a widely respected researcher, and Jack White of Fort Worth, a graphic artist and expert on the famous backyard photograph of a rifle-wielding Oswald.

Panelists will explore such topics as "Oswald: Patsy or Assassin?" and "Ruby: His Life and Background." They also will discuss the single bullet theory, the medical evidence and the number and direction of the shots fired at the Kennedy motorcade.

A Saturday session, "Motives, Means and Opportunities," will focus on the wide range of theories put forth over the years.

Learning Problems From Cancer Treatments?

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) - Some children acquire subtle learning disabilities after undergoing cancer treatments and then don't get help from their schools, according to an official at the University of Rochester's Cancer Center.

Radiation therapy for brain tumors, for example, can impair memory, coordination, or reasoning skills.

"Some school districts don't realize the potential effects of cancer therapy on children," says Deborah Karl, who works at the university's Cancer Center.

"While teachers may easily identify and then help a child with severe learning disabilities, they may overlook a child who has more subtle problems resulting from some cancer treatments."

PHOENIX (AP) - Walter Cronkite laments the emphasis on celebrity coverage in daily journalism.

"To get the daily news is getting more and more difficult out of the newspaper or television," the retired CBS anchorman said Tuesday.

He said some newspapers are emphasizing shorter stories and celebrity coverage in a mistaken attempt to imitate television.

"That's not the answer," he said. "The answer is to give more news, not less news."

Cronkite was at Arizona State University to present columnist George Will with the university award that bears Cronkite's name.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Lionel Richie was cleared of allegations he plagiarized the work of two other songwriters.

"I can go home and go to sleep now," the singer-songwriter said Tuesday after the verdict.

A federal jury found no evidence to prove that Richie listened to a tape of songs by Gene Thompson and Tracy Singleton. They had claimed that parts of their songs were copied in Richie's "Deep River Woman," "Stuck on You" and "Sela."

VFW auxiliary plans December auction

The Ladies Auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars Post #4818 met in regular session recently and discussed upcoming events.

Ruth Stethem was elected chaplain and Doris Wilson was elected three year trustee. Both officers were installed by Marie Goheen, past district president.

State President Louise Reid, will visited District 13 in Littlefield at 2 p.m. Nov. 30. All who attend need to bring a salad, vegetable dish or dessert for the meal after the meeting.

Veterans of Foreign Wars District 13 Convention will be held in Childress Nov. 16-17. All members are urged to attend.

Preliminary plans were made for the annual auction sale to be held at the post home the night of December 13. There will be a chili supper preceding the sale. There will be a king size quilt as a door prize and all auxiliary members have tickets for $1 each.

There was a turkey and dressing supper preceding the meeting for VFW and auxiliary members. Those present include Betty Boggs, Martha Bridges, Darleen Carroll, Essie Martin, Ruth Morris, Erma Murphey, Terry Rhyne, Ruth Stethem, Doris Wilson, Mabel Yocum, Valerie Artho and Marie Goheen. VFW members and guests were Bill Craig, Bob Morris, Earl Yocum, Tom Goheen, Keith and LeeAnn Goheen.

The next meeting will be Dec. 2 at 7:30 p.m. with supper at 6:30 p.m.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Two years ago my friend, "Don," an avid dog lover, spent $1,500 for a beautiful rust-colored Doberman. He then put out $1,000 to have "Champ" clipped to specific standards.

Don and his wife run their own business and are seldom home. Champ spent long hours alone, tied in the backyard or locked in the garage where the temperature was close to 100 degrees. The dog received no training. Don and his wife looked into obedience school but when they learned they'd have to go one evening a week for four weeks, they decided against it.

A friend suggested that Champ needed a companion so they acquired an Akita and named him Spot. Spot was raised like Champ, with no discipline and no attention. He grew to his full size—over 100 pounds—and was great looking. Spot and Champ became good friends, chewing everything they could get their teeth into, digging cavernous holes in the yard and frightening passersby with their loud barking and growling.

Eventually Champ began to exhibit aggressive sexual behavior toward Spot although both were males. After a while, they started to fight. Last week Spot and Champ got into a ferocious battle and couldn't be torn apart. When it was finally over, both dogs lay bleeding from serious wounds. Champ was taken to a vet where he had $500 worth of surgery. Spot was taken to the humane society, deemed a "behavioral problem" and put to sleep.

Ann, please, please, remind your readers of their moral obligations to their pets. People need to know that puppies are like babies during the first nine months of their lives. They learn social behavior and must have limits set for them. Animals do not deserve a life of neglect and abuse any more than humans do. I hope you'll tell your readers.—Sad in Salem, Ore.

DEAR SALEM: The message is clear. You told them in a way that I never could. Thank you for sharing that very sad story.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: "Sally" and I have been married for three years. We both had previous marriages. My ex-wife and I had no children. Sally has two beautiful daughters whom I love dearly. She is not able to have any more children.

Sally and I have known each other since we were kids in school, so our marriage is based on friendship, love and respect.

Both my parents and Sally's live nearby. My in-laws have accepted me with open arms. Unfortunately, this was not true of my parents. They were opposed to my marriage to Sally and felt that I should marry a younger woman who could give them "natural grandchildren" to carry on the family name.

It is heartbreaking the way my parents treat my girls. They receive no birthday or Christmas gifts and are not allowed to call my parents "Grandma and Grandpa."

I am an only son and I do love my parents but it kills me that they refuse to accept my children. These girls are so wonderful that any man would be proud to claim them. Ann, any suggestions would be gratefully received. I know my mother reads your column.—Proud But Frustrated in Nevada

DEAR NEVADA: Your parents are behaving despicably. I suggest that you make no further effort to get them to accept your daughters. The more you press the more they will resist. In time they may realize how foolish and short-sighted they were and how much they missed.

An alcohol problem? How can you help yourself or someone you love? "Alcoholism: How to Recognize it, How to Deal With It, How to Conquer It" will give you the answers. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Alcohol, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.45).

Hints from Heloise

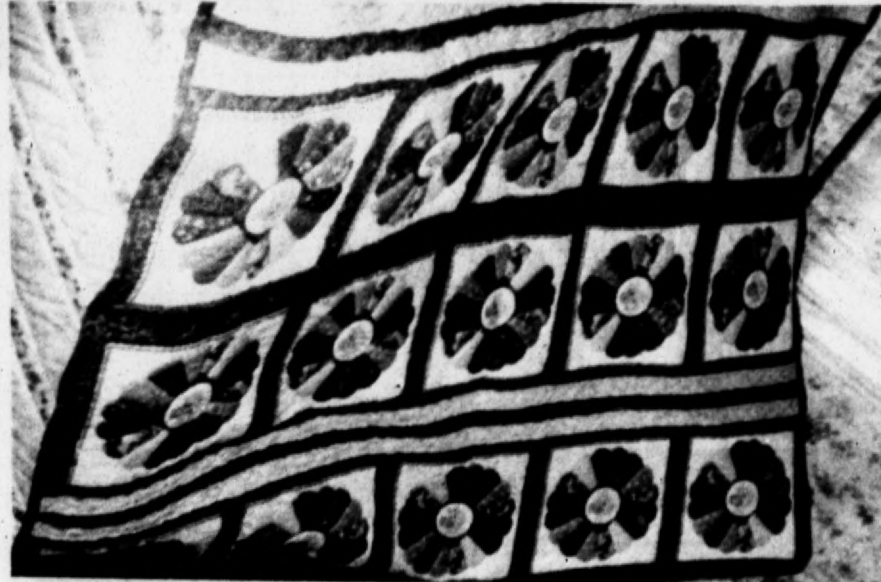

LUNCH DILEMMA

Dear Heloise: I'm not a morning person and was always forgetting to take my lunch when I left for work. After doing this several times last month, my husband suggested I put the car keys in the refrigerator with my lunch.

Now every night when I make lunches, I put the keys in my bag. The first morning was almost a disaster when I couldn't remember where I'd put the keys. But I didn't forget my lunch!

— Beth and Dennis, Boston, Mass.
Yup, this works well! I'll never forget the first time one of my secretaries put her keys in the fridge with the food to take home! We looked for her keys for an hour. — Heloise

Cultural club elects '91-'92 officers

Cultural Extension Homemakers club met recently and elected officers for the club year.

Those elected were Perry Keyes, president; Nell Pope, vice president; Fannie Townsend, secretary; Naomi Hare, treasurer; Edna Marnell, reporter; Wilma Goetsch, council delegate; Byrdie Fellers, historian; Vernis Parsons, good cheer; and Jewell Hargrave, parliamentarian.

The club will have their Christmas party Dec. 13 in the home of Wilma Goetsch at 2 p.m.

Nell Pope read a poem titled "Excuses, Excuses" for the club's opening exercises.

Roll call was answered with "do you approve of women in politics."

Edna Marnell read the minutes and the treasurer report was given by Byrdie Fellers. Good cheer sent nine birthday cards to nursing homes.

Members were encouraged to bring items to Westway bazaar to be sold at the council table.

The Club will remember a member who is in the nursing home with a Christmas gift and give the club's adopted daughter a gift of money. Also a basket of fruit will be prepared for a family.

Perry Keyes presented a program on women in politics and the progress they have made.

Other members attending were Jewel Rogers, Daisy Steele, Marie Thames, Carrie Mae Doak, Winnie Wiseman, S.T. Walton, Virginia Sumner and Naomi Hare.

Edith Hunter, a member of the club who has been ill for several months, was able to attend lunch.

How-to tip

Keep your cut Christmas tree fresh and green longer this year. Cut an inch off the tree trunk before placing it in a stand with water. (Add a tree preservative product for even better results). Keep the stand filled with water and position your tree away from any heat source in your home. These simple tips will help extend the holiday season for you and your tree.

Extra product value

Do-it® brand electrical cords deliver quality and satisfaction. Each product is extensively tested to meet or exceed all U.L. requirements for safety and usage. The insulation resistance test confirms that the cord's insulation will hold up to specific electrical loads.
