Baylor emerges victorious in state Baptist showdown

WACO, Texas (AP) - Baylor University has emerged victorious from its 13-month quest for autonomy.

The 146-year-old Waco school won the support of Texas Baptists Monday night in a landmark showdown that highlighted the opening session of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Delegates at the convention voted 5,745 to 3,992 in favor of a plan that reduces its own control of the school's governing board.

The vote dealt a decisive blow to fundamentalists who have tried for the last year to restore total control of the school's governing board, now the board of regents, to the convention.

The plan allows the BGCT to elect 25 percent of Baylor's board of regents. The remaining 75 percent would be elected by the self-perpetuating board.

"I'm very pleased, I'm very happy about it," said Baylor President Herbert Reynolds.

Last year, Reynolds surprised the 15 million Southern Baptist Convention membership with the news the school was pulling away from the denomination control.

Reynolds, who appeared subdued following the vote, said the result was a mandate of support for current BGCT leadership, considered mostly moderate.

"It was not an easy thing for a lot of these folks," Reynolds said. Baylor trustees voted Sept. 21, 1990, to create the Board of Regents to insulate the Central Texas school from fundamentalist control. At first, Baptist leaders considered suing the university for the change in the school charter.

But after a year of meetings, Baptist leaders backed off earlier threats and released more than $6 million in annual funds designated for the university that were frozen after the charter change.

Monday's vote followed a last-minute effort to restore total power of the newly created board of regents to the BGCT.

Before the final vote, fundamentalists offered an alternate proposal that would have nullified the Baylor-backed agreement.

Delegates rejected by a vote of 5,976 to 4,714 a proposal that would have returned the university to total control by the convention.

Baylor officials have complained that fundamentalists have been trying to wrench control of Baylor by appointing their own to the school's governing board.

In other convention business, the group elected a new president, the Rev. James "Dick" Maples, pastor of First Baptist Church of Bryan. Maples, who supported the approved agreement, takes the helm of the convention from the outgoing Rev. Phil Lineberger, pastor of Richardson Heights Baptist Church.

The BGCT also approved its $63 million 1992 which includes $4.2 million in funding for Baylor.

HHS Band misses state finals but gives great performance

By John Brooks
Managing Editor

AUSTIN—Hereford High School's Mighty Maroon Band members gave the performance of their lives Monday at the State Marching Band Contest at Austin.

Unfortunately for the band, that wasn't enough to make the top five for Monday night's finals at Memorial Stadium.

"I thought we did the best we could do," said Hereford Band Director James Maclasky. "Their performance was as good as it's been all year."

Judges were, overall, complimentary of the Hereford's bands performance. The band, however, was overmatched by the outfits that made the finals: Dickinson, The Colony, Crowley, Georgetown & Gregory-Portland, Dickinson, a perennial power in state band contests, won the championship Monday night.

While Hereford's band with 234 members, is big it wasn't the largest of the contest. Port Neches-Groves had 262 marching and Crowley had 265. Others had smaller bands but had huge drill teams and more exotic equipment than did Hereford.

That does not mean that Hereford was outclassed.

The Hereford band performed its show, "The Magic Of Andrew Lloyd Webber," at 1:45 p.m. Monday. The 12th of 14 bands to perform in the preliminaries at Nelson Field here in northeast Austin. The band performed Superstar, Memories, Don't Cry For Me, Argentina, Music Of The Night & Phantom Of The Opera.

The Band, which practiced for an hour Saturday in Abilene and for over two hours Sunday in Austin, had no problems with its show. Judges were impressed and very complimentary, but not as much as they were with earlier bands. The band was ranked 10th by one judge, 11th by another & 12th the other three judges in the preliminaries, for a total of 35 points.

In the first round Dickinson & Gregory-Portland tied for first with 10 points; Georgetown & The Colony had 12 points & Crowley had 13 points.

The sixth place band Belton was ranked first on one judge's card, but didn't make the finals. That same judge was more impressed with Hereford than with Crowley, giving Hereford a 10 and Crowley a 12.

"I'm proud of what we accomplished," said Maclasky. "Just being here was a great honor. They have really worked hard."

Joining the band in Austin were about 200 supporters. They began their day at 9 a.m. Monday at Nelson Field by blowing up balloons with helium for release when the band took the field. The supporters also helped the band pass the time, which seemed to never end, from the performance of the last band at 2:20 p.m. to the 3 p.m. announcement of the final five.

For this year's juniors and seniors, it was the last performance at state. To cut expenses, bands go the state contest every other year. This year, bands also came to Austin from Class A, won by Plains, Class 2A, won by Iraan.

While the band won't be coming back here next year, Maclasky will look for a contest to take the place of the state trip.

"We need to look for some kind of contest to go to next year to keep improving, to the goals up there for the band," Maclasky said.

The band left Austin this morning, and should be in Hereford tonight.

Congress facing tough fight on bills

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress is trying to pass crime and highway bills that President Bush demanded last spring before it completes a so-far lackluster legislative session.

But strong partisan disagreements make those bills still tough to pass before the planned Thanksgiving adjournment. Legislation expanding unemployment benefits, reworking the banking system and mandating unpaid leave for family emergencies are in similar difficulty.

Almost certainly left for next year, the election year, will be the fight over tax breaks that Democrats want to use in their run for the White House.

Congress also has failed to complete the annual spending bills for fiscal 1992, even though the fiscal year began Oct. 1.

After the Persian Gulf War, Bush challenged Congress to finish crime and highway bills in 100 days. Democrats dismissed his statements as pure politics.

But with adjournment nearing and Congress' trophy wall nearly bare, the pressure is on to get some legislation done. And those long-ago deadline bills are high on the list:

CRIME. Both chambers have passed much of what the president wants, including provisions to invoke the death penalty for some 50 crimes, including terrorism, treason and violent attacks on government officials.

But the Senate refused to go along with allowing illegally seized evidence to be used in court, and the House didn't go as far as Bush wants in restricting the time-consuming constitutional appeals by death row inmates.

The House and Senate also must settle differences on waiting periods for handgun purchases, something the president said he could sign if the rest of the crime bill were acceptable.

TRANSPORTATION. The Senate and House are talking, but their versions of the highway and transportation bill differ significantly from each other and from the White House request.

The House passed a $151 billion, six-year program. To help cover the cost, it voted to extend part of the current 5-cent-per-gallon gas surcharge past its 1994 expiration date. The Senate approved a $123 billion, five-year bill, without the gas tax extension.

The White House asked for a $104.5 billion program, which Democrats say is inadequate, and has threatened a veto. But since they contend the programs are an economic stimulus, Democrats don't want the bill put off until next year.

BANKING. Hopes for a major bill this session collapsed, but Congress still must shore up the federal insurance fund that has been drained by bank failures. The administration has said $70 billion is needed.

ABORTION COUNSELING. An appropriations bill that pays for federal health and education programs is facing a veto because it would overturn Bush's ban on abortion counseling at federally subsidized family planning clinics.

DEFENSE. The Pentagon's $291 billion budget seems on the way toward completion, perhaps this week, if Congress goes along with Bush and backs off its plan to divert $1 billion to help the Soviets survive the winter.

The Defense Department will get money to build a limited defense against ballistic missiles, but it must cut 106,000 people from the active-duty forces. The bill denies Bush's request for authority to buy additional B-2 stealth bombers.

UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFITS. Lawmakers and administration officials again are trying to craft a plan for providing up to 20 weeks of extra unemployment benefits for people who have used up the standard half-year of coverage.

TAX CUTS. The tax bills floating around Capitol Hill aren't yet in the negotiations stage.

Bush's approval rating at new low

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush's approval rating fell six points in the past month as mounting economic worries dragged the level of satisfaction with the nation's direction to at least a five-year low, according to a poll released today.

So far has Bush's stock fallen in recent months that he ran in a dead heat with an unnamed Democrat, according to a national survey that found unemployment, education and health care atop the list of concerns Americans believe the president should be addressing.

Coming on the heels of off-year elections that put the White House on the defensive, the monthly Times Mirror Center for the People & the Press survey provided fresh evidence of a dramatic shift in the national political landscape caused by persistent economic worries.

"This is the first time that Bush's re-election prospects appear directly threatened by the public's mounting unease at the country's economic prospects and the order of the Bush administration's priorities," the center said in its written analysis of the survey results.

The poll findings offer clear evidence that economic worries have eroded the record popularity Bush enjoyed at the end of the Persian Gulf War just eight months ago.

The Times Mirror survey in March showed Bush with a historic 84 percent approval rating. The survey conducted Oct. 31-Nov. 10 found 55 percent of respondents approved of "the way George Bush is handling his job as president." That was down six points from a Times Mirror survey completed a month previously.

The survey showed Bush favored by voters under 30 and those who earned more than $50,000 a year. Democrats had a clear edge among voters over age 50 and those earning less than $50,000 annually.

The dominant factor in the growing anxiety about the nation's direction is economic worries. Thirty-nine percent said "chances are high" that a family member will lose a job in the near future.

In a hypothetical matchup in which voters were asked whether they would prefer Bush or an unnamed

Democrat winning the 1992 presidential election, 43 percent said they preferred a Democrat; 41 percent Bush. That translates into a dead heat because the margin is within the 3 percentage point sampling error for this section of the poll.

The news was better for Bush in a head-to-head matchup with New York Gov. Mario Cuomo, who is leaning toward entering the 1992 race. In that trial heat, Bush was favored 58 percent to 37 percent.

Cuomo was the clear favorite among those who identified themselves as Democrats or independents who generally vote for Democrats.

Of this group, representing 868 of the 2,020 poll respondents, 30 percent said they favored Cuomo for the 1992 Democratic nomination. Former California Gov. Jerry Brown was the choice of 18 percent, followed by Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton at 9 percent and Virginia Gov. L. Douglas Wilder at 8 percent. The three other major announced candidates trailed.

County plans auction on surplus items

Equipment, furniture and other surplus items belonging to Deaf Smith County will be sold at auction, at a time to be decided later.

County Commissioners during a Monday morning meeting also adopted a policy related to sale of county-owned articles.

The auction will include equipment from the four precincts as well as the courthouse.

Proceeds of the sale will be earmarked, where applicable, to the precinct funds from which original purchase was made, commission decided in the policy adoption. The same policy will be observed in future sale of county equipment.

Commissioner Johnny Latham of Precinct Four was delegated to arrange for the auction. Tentatively, a date will be set for January.

bids were received. County Judge Tom Simons said he would investigate having the building moved.

A letter received by Simons and Commissioner John Stribling of Precinct One was discussed briefly. The letter asked the county to pave a quarter-mile of road in south Deaf Smith County to allow children better access to school bus routes.

Simons and Stribling said that the road in question is not owned by the county and is located on private property.

The vote on proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution was canvassed by Commissioners Court and certified. Cost of the election to Deaf Smith County was $5,658.02, for personnel and materials.

A 22-minute executive session announced to discuss real estate matters resulted in no open meeting action.

Ex-policeman cleared of murder

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) - Former Norman policeman Frank Gilley listened impassively as a Cleveland County jury formally cleared him of 21 years of suspicion in a 1970 double slaying on a lover's lane.

God had helped Gilley's family through the long ordeal, his mother said as officers whisked relatives and jurors out of the Cleveland County courtroom after the jury delivered its verdicts.

After one of the longest trials in county history, jurors deliberated just four hours Monday before acquitting Gilley of first-degree murder and perjury charges. Court officials had to wait for Gilley to change back into his suit at the jail Monday night before their decision could be delivered.

Gilley, 56, of DeSoto, Texas, said nothing and never changed his watchful stare as the verdicts were read.

He had been charged with fatally shooting David Sloan, 21, a University of Oklahoma student from Amarillo, Texas and Sheryl Benham, 19, of Oklahoma City. Their bodies were found in the trunk of Sloan's car on May 10, 1970. The murder scene was a rural road in Gilley's patrol district.

Attorneys' closing arguments had lasted about two hours longer than the jurors' deliberations.

Defense attorney Robert Perrine's closing arguments compared the case to a two-decade witch hunt. The investigation was so botched at the start, Perrine told jurors, that the truth probably will never come out.

"Nothing puts Frank there so you've got to guess he was there," Perrine said. "You've got to speculate that he was there so Frank has to come in and defend his life against this."

"It's terrible that it happened to somebody, but it doesn't mean that you have to go out and grab somebody to pin it on."

Prosecutors' admitted lack of physical evidence made it impossible for the state to prove its case, he said. "Their case isn't any good. They haven't proven anything," he said. District Attorney Tully McCoy conceded the state's case against Gilley was circumstantial. But he contended that made it no less convincing.

"You can't hide from the ugliness of this crime," McCoy told jurors. "Don't let him hide from what he did."

"This case has been a nightmare, but think about the nightmare that Sheryl Benham and David Sloan went through," McCoy said. "Actually, a nightmare is a bad dream that you wake up from."

"If you'll look at those pictures, they're never going to wake up."

Over the years, authorities lost all but one of the shell casings from the crime scene. They suggested it was a .22-caliber weapon of Gilley that committed the murders, but admitted they had not found the weapon responsible.

"We've got to have a gun, yes, indeed, to compare with those little rascals, the shell casings. If we did, we'd know," Assistant District Attorney Rick Sitzman told jurors in his closing argument.

But, he told the jury, "you're not here to evaluate what we don't know. You're here to evaluate what we do know. And if it's enough, it's enough. If it's not, it's not."

Gilley was indicted by a Cleveland County grand jury last year, although some fellow officers considered him a suspect within days of the killing. The perjury charge stemmed from Gilley's statements about what guns he had at the time of the killing and about not having known Sloan.

Prosecutors tried to show Gilley had a deep dislike of Sloan since Gilley's days as a deputy in Amarillo, and they used testimony from lawmen and private citizens to try to show Gilley had a predilection for harassing parking couples.

Gilley testified Saturday the allegations against him may have sprung from an old vendetta for his work in an Amarillo gambling raid that netted several locally prominent people.

Cowboy cartoonist dies at age 65

KERRVILLE, Texas (AP) - Cowboy cartoonist Ace Reid, whose cartoons ran in hundreds of newspapers, has died after a long battle with leukemia and diabetes. He was 65.

Reid died Sunday at Methodist Hospital in San Antonio.

When he wasn't raising cattle, drilling for oil or hanging out with former Luckenbach mayor Hondo Crouch, Reid was drawing "Cowpokes," a weekly self-syndicated cartoon.

At one time his cartoon ran in more than 400 newspapers across Texas, including the Houston

Chronicle, Fort Worth Star-Telegram and San Antonio Express-News.

"His genius was to be able to see the world in its humor and put it down on paper," said his son, Stan Reid of Kerrville. "In his cartoons, he would go straight to the point of the problems of everyday people. He made them feel comfortable."

Reid's body will be cremated. "No tombstone," he once said, "because I don't believe in being buried 'cause you take up some good ranch country an old cow or sheep could be grazing on. And when you're dead, you're dead."

Reid's inspirational, fun outlook on life made him a popular speaker across the country.

In an interview with biographer John R. Erickson, Reid said, "I actually consider myself a damned good artist. I consider myself a writer, a painter, a cartoonist and a storyteller."

Among Reid's ventures were setting up trail drives along the Old Chisolm Trail, organizing the Old Crippled Cowboys of America and campaigning to save the horned toad. In the 1970s, he founded a pre-sweat-hat business. Playboy magazine called him "the man who invented sweat."

He claimed to be on "howdy" terms with Lyndon B. Johnson, who as vice president endured Reid's frequent ribbing.

Reid was born at Lelia Lake in the Panhandle and grew up near Electra, west of Wichita Falls. He married Madge Parmley in 1950 and moved to Kerrville.

Other survivors include his wife; a sister, Doris Ernst of Fredericksburg; and two grandchildren.

Founders dinner set Thursday

The founders of Kings Manor Methodist Home will be having their annual Kings Manor Founder's dinner Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Lamar Room. Dr. Kenneth Wyatt of Tulia will be the featured speaker.

Dr. Wyatt is a well known artist, author and speaker. He gained national recognition when he painted "Offer Them Christ," commemorating 200 years of Methodism in the United States. He followed his famed painting with ones of the 12 apostles, Paul and Jesus.

Wyatt began his ministerial career with his first pastorate at age 14. He has been an ordained Methodist minister for 32 years.

Johnny Trotter, president of the founders board of directors, will serve as the master of ceremonies for the evening.

The dinner will be catered by K-Bob's and dessert will be provided by the Kings Manor staff. The meal will be served by members of the Hereford High School Key Club.

Rev. Lanny Wheeler will deliver the welcome, Trotter will present special awards and Melanie Beachy will head the entertainment.

President Trotter will also conduct the business session. District Superintendent, Dr. Albert Lindley will lead the prayer of dedication and thanksgiving. Rev. Joe Wood will lead the group in the invocation.

Quilting program heard at BayView Study Club

"Quilting, Old and New" was the program topic at the Bay View Study Club. The group met in the home of Mary Fraser on Thursday afternoon. Pat Fisher and Pat Graham served as program leaders.

The club projects committee reported on plans for videos to be made of citizens and happenings of the community and to be available for use by local groups. The video collection will be housed in the Bay View Room at Deaf Smith County Library.

Fisher and Graham assisted Fraser as hostesses for the social hour which followed.

THE BRAND CLASSIFIEDS

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Here is a bizarre letter for you. I'm 35 and still a virgin. Granted that's unusual, but it gets weirder.

I've never had a man tell me I am attractive. No man has ever held my hand or kissed me.

I've had several male friends over the years, but no relationship progressed beyond the "pal" stage. It's not that I didn't want a romantic involvement. In fact, I went so far as to tell several men that I was interested, hoping it might help. It didn't. On a few occasions, I've even invited a man to dinner and an event. Some accepted, but no one ever asked me back.

I'm intelligent, well-educated, well-traveled, a good conversationalist, and a fine homemaker. I have a successful career and several hobbies. I'm a talented needleworker and potter and have many outside interests. I've volunteered with organizations and am active in my church. I'm well-adjusted and have a loving family. I'm no movie star, but I'm not a dog either.

I can't figure out why not one guy on this vast planet has ever been attracted to me. After 35 years of hoping, I'm becoming depressed.

I've managed well on my own but I'm puzzled and bemused by the emptiness of my life. Any ideas?--A Woman in California

DEAR WOMAN: With all you have going for you, it's odd that you haven't connected with someone. It's got to be more than lousy luck. I suggest that you pose this question to five people who know you well--start with one or two at work. Then ask your clergyman, your doctor, a relative and a male pal with whom you do volunteer work or pottery.

If you don't get any solid clues, go to a counselor for one or two sessions.

There must be a reason for your solitary existence. If you can identify that reason, your whole life could change. Good luck to you, dear.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I had my children I chose to stay at home with them. That decision did not mean I'd be a free baby sitter for my income-earning friends. I don't mind swapping baby-sitting hours with someone who will take my kids when we want an evening out, but I resent it when people try to take advantage of me.

I've had women come to my door before 7 a.m. and ask if I will do them a favor and baby-sit their child. Not one word is said about compensation although they make very good money. You've pointed out many times, Ann, that no one can take advantage of you without your permission, and you're right. So, I'm trying to nip this sort of thing in the bud before the weeds take over the lovely garden of friendship.

I love my friends, but if they find themselves in need of a caretaker for their children while they earn money, I respectfully suggest that they offer me, or any other stay-at-home mother, an appropriate amount of cash for "helping out." If this is embarrassing, they might consider treating us to dinner occasionally. It's a gracious way to say "thanks." Last time I checked, we still ate.--Home For My Family, Not Years (Alaska)

DEAR ALASKA: You don't seem to be at a loss for words when it comes to expressing yourself on paper. I suggest that you state your complaints to the women who have been abusing your friendship. The wheel that squeaks gets the oil.

Artist of the Month

Kimberly Moore is the Deaf Smith County Library's Artist of the Month for November. She is displaying scissor cutting.

In old France it was believed crawling under an arch of brambles would cure rheumatism.

Turkey bargains available at supermarkets

Supermarkets will make Thanksgiving turkeys their star attraction during November, cutting prices on the birds to the lowest levels in a year.

"Really not specials will allow consumers to purchase a bird at 29 cents a pound," said Dr. Dick Edwards, food marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Restrictions such as a minimum purchase of $50 could be a limiting factor at this price level, Edwards said, although turkeys generally will be priced at the same low levels as last Thanksgiving.

Edwards said consumers will not see such specials on national brands of turkeys -- they will cost 49 cents to 69 cent range -- and with similar purchase requirements.

The stores impose the purchase requirements to recoup losses on the turkeys, which they may sell at discounts of 40 percent to 50 percent below cost.

"One new twist is that the turkeys on sale will tend to be light in weight," he said. "Most of them will be in the 12- to 15-pound range." Consumers will have to search a little harder to find a 20- to 25-pound bird at rock bottom prices.

The reduction in beef and pork prices that began in late September will continue into the Thanksgiving season, offering consumers agreeable alternatives to turkey. While meat prices will not be as low as turkey, they will be discounted heavily.

The biggest decline in prices for beef items will be at opposite ends of the spectrum of cuts -- ground beef and rib roasts," Edwards said.

"Rib roasts are becoming increasingly popular for Thanksgiving meals, and low prices shouldn't hurt this trend." Rib roasts could be marked down to $3.50 to $4 per pound.

Ground beef, a welcome change from leftover turkey, will see best prices on 3- to 5-pound packages. It will be available from 99 cents to $1.09 per pound," he said.

Pork items and prices will follow a similar pattern. Boneless pork roast will be sold as a substitute for turkey. Loins could be priced from $3 to $3.50 per pound.

Hams, another popular time during this season, should not be difficult to find at $1 per pound. Bacon and sausage, for large breakfasts served during family gatherings, also will be on sale, he said.

Other Thanksgiving Day foods priced lower include fresh items such as apples, avocados, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower, grapes and squash. The biggest splash in the newspaper advertisements will be for cranberries at 79 cents a pound and sweet potatoes from 29 cents and 39 cents per pound.

Fresh citrus also will be coming to market for the season, but prices will be marked down little and size and sweetness may not be up to expectations.

"There is a great demand for 'gift fruit' packages, and Texas production is still practically nonexistent due to the freeze a couple of years ago," he said.

Thanksgiving also kicks off the baking season. Flour, sugar, dough products, eggs, puddings, chocolate chips, butter, margarine, and yeast are a sample of baking ingredients that will be priced below normal, he said. For those with less time for baking, cake mixes, prepared icings and frozen desserts will be priced lower.

"Of course, bakeries will have specials on pies, especially pecan and pumpkin, he said.

Canned and frozen foods that are in demand for the Thanksgiving meal also will be reduced. Heading the list will be canned pumpkin and cranberry sauce. Canned sweet potatoes, pickles for relish trays, and salad dressings will be discounted. Frozen vegetables, pie shells, whipped dessert toppings and fruit lead the sale items from the freezer section, Edward said.

Nonfood items that play important roles in the Thanksgiving feast -- such as festive napkins and table cloths, centerpieces, greeting cards, aluminum foil, baking bags and disposable roaster -- will not be overlooked as prices go down.

Other items not specifically related to Thanksgiving will be featured in November. Soups and orange juices, cough and cold remedies, vitamins, and hot breakfast cereals and frozen waffles will be advertised early in the month and for a while after Thanksgiving Day.

The Deep South consists of Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina.

Hints from Heloise

VINYL TABLECLOTH

Dear Heloise: I just recently bought a vinyl tablecloth and when I unwrapped it and put it on the table, it looked terrible. Creases, creases, creases! Do you have any suggestions for removing them?—Carla Stewart, Allentown, Pa.

Judy Kapture of Portage, Wis., shared the following way to remove those pesky wrinkles:

The trick is to get the vinyl warm and stretched out, and the creases will disappear. Hang the new tablecloth over the shower-curtain rod and spray very hot water over it. Leave the bathroom door shut and the room hot and steamy and in a few hours the tablecloth will be nicely uncreased.

Or lay the cloth out over a table on a hot, sunny day. Result—no more creases.

It may be possible that the tablecloth could be ironed, on the flannel side, on very low heat to accomplish the same thing.

Thanks to Judy for writing.—Heloise

Museum opens renovated art wing

The newly renovated Arts Wing of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum in Canyon will open on Sunday, November 17. The public is invited to the formal dedication and ribbon cutting ceremony at 2:30 p.m. on the second floor of the Museum.

The renovation includes the establishment of the Senator Grady and Andrine Hazlewood Lecture Hall. Other areas, which have been renovated and will open of the 17th are the costume, furniture, decorative arts, and fine arts galleries.

Following the dedication, a film on the Russian American Artist Nicolai Fechin will be shown in the new lecture hall at 3:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. "We are very anxious to show-off our new 'state of the art' audio-visual equipment and felt this would be the perfect opportunity," stated Linda Hutton, marketing director for the PPHM. The Lecture Hall seats approximately 150 people and will be used for lectures, symposia, films, etc. Renovation of the Lecture hall was made possible by a generous gift from the Hazlewood Estate.

With the opening of the new Arts Wing, the Museum's extensive costume collection will be featured in an exhibit entitled "Those Elegant Edwardians: An Evolution of Style, 1900-1914," focusing on women's fashion during the Edwardian Period. The exhibit will include tailored suits, a lingerie dress, an evening gown, and a Paris designer original. Graphics and interpretive text accompany the garments.

The first installation in the new furniture gallery will focus on decorative furniture from the Museum's large collection of furniture and decorative arts objects. Visitors can trace the development of furniture styles from the fourteenth through the twentieth centuries in England and the United States. A fourteenth century Gothic canopied chair opens the exhibit, followed by seventeenth and eighteenth century English pieces and mid to late nineteenth century English pieces.

In the decorative arts cases, silver, ceramics, glass, carved ivory and wood will be featured. A major portion of the exhibit will consist of English silver, a piece of Chinese and Japanese ceramic and porcelains from the fifteenth through the nineteenth century. Irish cut glass, American crystal, and French art glass by Lalique and Galle, are also included.

In an effort to present the Museum's collection of Texas art and promote its historical significance, the PPHM recently began a project focusing on works prior to 1950. The aim of the project was to assemble a comprehensive, state-wide collection and to exhibit it in a gallery permanently dedicated to Texas art. This project has now become reality, with the opening of the "Texas Gallery." To date, this is the only permanent installation of its kind in the State. The new gallery encourages a pride in Texas art, similar to that which we feel toward Texas history.

With the opening of the renovated area, visitors will see many changes. The entire area was dismantled and reconstructed to provide the Museum staff with the means to present interpretive, educational and exciting exhibits. "We are excited about the changes and encourage everyone to visit. Our goal for the coming year is to invite the people of the Panhandle to 'Share the Adventure' as we join in the Columbus Quintecentary and explore new direction in '92," stated Diane Brake, interim director of the PPHM.

Shutterbugging Popular

NEW YORK (AP) - Taking pictures is one of the most popular leisure time activities among Americans, notes a report from a marketing communications organization.

In 1990, Americans purchased approximately $700 million of film, with 35mm and instant film the two most popular types, according to the New York-based Howard Marlboro Group.

The report adds that chain stores are the dominant retail outlets for film and film processing sales.

The popularity of amateur picture-taking is expected to continue during the 1990s due to changes in consumer lifestyles and a return to family life that are displacing some of the conspicuous consumption that characterized the 1980s, the report notes.

The Dark Ages is the period beginning with the sack of Rome in A.D. 476 and ending about the end of the 10th century. The term is derived from the idea that this period in Europe was characterized by intellectual stagnation, widespread ignorance and poverty.

Spikers ground Eagles; face Boswell tonight

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

The Pecos Lady Eagles' birthday gift to Hereford's Teresa Baker was to not return her serves.

Baker, who turned 18 on Saturday, served the last eight points, including four aces, to finish off Pecos 15-10, 15-3 in the area round of the state 4A volleyball playoffs. The game was played in the Seminole High School Gym.

In the next round, Hereford (25-4) will play Fort Worth Boswell (23-4) at 7 p.m. tonight in Sweetwater.

Baker stepped to the service line with Hereford leading only 7-3 in the second game, after the Lady Whitefaces had played a first game which went more rotations than they are used to. Baker's serving ensured that the second game would finish more quickly.

"It just takes one ace, and you get confident," Baker said.

She didn't stop with one; she served four aces in the last five points of the game, with a Shantel Cornelius kill accounting for the 13th point.

The first game went so long because the Lady Whitefaces had trouble adjusting to Pecos' type of game. The much shorter Lady Eagles were setting the ball far from the net, not giving Hereford's blockers much of a chance, and although the balls weren't hit hard, many of them were falling.

Hereford led several times, but never by more than two points until the end of the game. It ended with a good serving display from an unlikely source.

Jennifer Hicks normally has Baker come in for her to serve and to play the backcourt, but with the long game, Baker had already substituted the maximum three times, forcing Hicks to serve with the score tied 10-10. Hicks responded with five straight good serves, including an ace. The game ended with a Kyanne Lindley kill.

"Hicks was in a tough situation," Hereford coach Brenda Reeh said. "She stepped in and did a good job—not only serving; she made a couple of tough digs, too."

The second game started with Cornelius getting four early kills and a stuff, but three of the kills were for side outs. The game started to slow down like the first game, but Lori Sanders' ace gave Hereford the lead for good at 4-3, and moments later Baker started serving.

Reeh said a major factor in the Lady Whitefaces' success was their service reception.

"As a team we were 75 percent to our setter," Reeh said. "That's good. That's what we have to do. It seems like that stat is always directly related to our success."

Cornelius led all hitters with 13 kills.

"Shantel hit the ball really well the last half of the first game and the whole second game," Reeh said.

Brek Binder had four kills and Hicks added three.

Besides Baker and Hicks from the serving line, Binder served for eight points, and Sanders had six, including three aces.

Lindley received Pecos serves 14 times: 12 were passed perfectly to the setter and another was a playable pass.

Reeh said Baker and Kara Sandoval played well defensively.

"That's something we really needed. A lot of balls fell into our backcourt."

Hereford beat Fort Worth Boswell in last year's playoffs 15-13, 15-1, but the knowledge gained from that meeting is just about all Reeh knows about the Lady Pioneers.

"I know they're a really strong senior team. They were strong all the way around (last year). There wasn't really a weakness. I remember there were some long rallies. You can probably expect that to happen (this time)."

Dumas also won Saturday, beating Monahans 15-5, 15-9 in Lubbock. The Demonettes play Crowley tonight in Vernon.

If Dumas and Hereford win tonight, they'll meet Saturday to see who goes to the state tournament Nov. 23-24 in Austin.

Perfect pass

Hereford's Kyanne Lindley concentrates on passing to the setter during the Lady Whitefaces' 15-10, 15-3 win over Pecos Saturday in Seminole.

Third downs boost Bears

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - The Chicago Bears went back to the basics on third down - and there was almost no stopping them.

Using short passes and up-the-middle runs - along with some Minnesota miscues - the Bears converted seven of 13 third downs and one fourth down en route to their best offensive performance of the year and a 34-17 victory over the Vikings Monday night.

The victory, their first at the Metrodome in four years, gives the Bears (8-2) a two-game lead over Detroit in their quest for their seventh NFC Central title in the last eight seasons.

"If there's one thing that Coach Ditka stresses, it's winning the division games, and our goal is to win them all," said Chicago quarterback Jim Harbaugh.

With five games left for the Vikings (5-6), coach Jerry Burns all but conceded the division title to the Bears.

To a player and a coach, credit for Chicago's clutch, third-down success was given to Mike Ditka's decision to use tried-and-true plays instead of the new plays usually added to attack the weakness of that week's opponent.

"They were all plays that we've run the last two years," Harbaugh said. "They gave me a chance to have a little more input on the third-down plays, and the ones that they were calling tonight were the ones that I was really the most comfortable with. And I felt so confident every time that one of them came in that I knew I was going to hit it."

With the Vikings' help, the Bears converted six third- or fourth-down situations on their first two drives to take a 14-7 lead.

The Bears kept their first drive alive with two third-down conversions - one when Reggie Ruitland was called for pass interference and the other on Harbaugh's 12-yard pass to Wendell Davis. Five plays after Davis' catch, Neal Anderson scored on a 6-yard run to tie the game.

Chicago's next drive was the key, as the Bears converted three third downs and a fourth. Minnesota's Joey Browner got credit for the first third-down conversion, as he was penalized 15 yards for a late hit on Anthony Morgan long after Harbaugh's pass fell incomplete.

Harbaugh later sneaked for 1 yard on fourth down and then threw an 8-yard pass to Tom Waddle on third down. Brad Muster had a third-down run of 2 yards, which was immediately followed by Harbaugh's 7-yard TD pass to Morgan.

The Bear's fifth drive - which came right after the Vikings made it 20-17 - included third-down passes of 17 yards to Dennis Gentry and 9 yards to Waddle, and culminated with Anderson's improvised 24-yard TD.

Lemuel Stinson ended the Vikings' comeback hopes when he intercepted Rich Gannon on the next play from scrimmage and ran 34 yards for a touchdown.

"We stuck with a few of the plays that we thought would be very effective," Chicago offensive coordinator Greg Landry said of the third-down plays he called.

It was the Bears' best offensive performance of the season. They hadn't scored on two successive drives and hadn't scored more than 21 points in a game.

They also had the ball for 38 minutes, 20 seconds to 21:40 for the Vikings, outrushed the Vikings 191 yards to 87 and outgained them 358-255.

Asked why his offense didn't do more, Burns said: "We couldn't get the ball back. We never got the ball back."

Lady cagers to scrimmage

The Hereford girls' basketball team starts scrimmaging today with a three-way scrimmage with Friona and Lubbock High at 5:30 p.m. in Friona, Hereford coach Dickie Faught said.

Also, Hereford will scrimmage Vega at 10 a.m. Saturday in Hereford. Saturday's action will involve the varsity, junior varsity and ninth-grade teams.

Kings' road woes continue

By The Associated Press

The Sacramento Kings have nearly a year's worth of road losses.

Each NBA team plays 41 road games every season, and the Kings, who lost their final 37 away from ARCO Arena in 1990-91, lost their 40th consecutive game on the road on Monday night, falling 106-90 at Utah.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Philadelphia edged Milwaukee 102-99 and the Los Angeles Clippers beat Indiana 106-97.

ANNOUNCING...

I will be closing my practice here in Hereford effective Dec. 13, 1991. Anyone wishing to pick up their records, please do so before the effective date.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: OATS: A GRAIN WHICH IN ENGLAND IS GENERALLY GIVEN TO HORSES, BUT IN SCOTLAND, SUPPORTS ITS PEOPLE. — SAMUEL JOHNSON

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have had a problem keeping my hands and feet warm for many years. I am a male, 70 years of age. My mother's family had this problem; my dad didn't. I have a 35-year-old son and a 22-year-old granddaughter who have this same problem. As the temperatures drops to 60 F or lower, they get cold. The lower the temperature, the colder and harder to keep warm.

My doctor gave me no encouragement in my effort to control this situation. He mentioned heridity, which I suspected. He said the body attempts to compensate or protect in this manner. I take no drugs. Is there help in any manner for people like myself?

DEAR READER: Your doctor was right in saying the body compensates for being exposed to cold in a way that makes your hands and feet cold. Feeling hot or cold is directly related to the blood flow through the skin. Hot blood flowing through the skin releases calories of heat. When your body is too hot, your blood vessels open to lose heat. But when you are too cold, your blood vessels constrict to decrease blood flow through your skin and conserve heat. Your feet and hands are the farthest away from your heart and will be the first parts of the body to feel cold.

You lose about half of the calories of heat from your head. To avoid that, you need to keep your head well covered when exposed to cold. That is the basis of the old mountaineers' saying "when your feet get cold, put on your hat."

The trick to keeping your hands and feet warm is to keep the whole body warm. That means dressing properly in cold weather. Wear wool gloves. They provide more thermal protection than leather gloves, or wear gloves lined with wool. Dress your feet properly. Two pair of socks is a good idea. Dress your body in layers. The inner layer should be a material that will absorb moisture and provide insulation. If you are outdoors, the outer layer should be tight enough to shed water and protect against wind. Nylon is a good outer layer. And don't overlook the value of a cold-weather face mask to prevent loss of heat from the lungs. See your sporting goods store for good clothing to protect against the cold.

I have discussed these and other measures to be comfortable and safe in cold weather in The Cold Facts. Those who want more information can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for to THE HEALTH LETTER/38-11, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.
