Dumas rep wants new 'Old Texas'

AUSTIN (AP) - Low crime, clean air and water, free colleges, and no state taxes.

Sound like Utopia? Not really. It's a Republican lawmaker's vision of "Old Texas," and he filed a bill Tuesday to create such a state out of 26 counties in the Texas Panhandle. But the measure died when the special session adjourned.

Rep. David Swinford, of Dumas, said he knew chances were slim for his bill but said he wanted to make the point that "Texas government is out of control."

House members passed a proposed $59.45 billion budget and $2.1 billion tax and fee increase on the last day of the special legislative session.

Swinford said his oil, gas and cattle-rich area was tired of sending taxes to Austin.

"The reason that we call it the Old Texas is because we are not too proud of the taxes in the new Texas," he said. The "New Texas" was a campaign theme used by Gov. Ann Richards, a Democrat.

The square-shaped state would have a population of about 372,000. Its 25,000-square mile area would be geographically larger than 10 states.

Swinford, a freshman lawmaker, said there would be no state taxes, and that because of the region's bounty, it could offer free college education.

"We have enough oil and gas production to make Old Texas the richest state per capita in the United States," he said.

The capital would be Amarillo. State lawmakers would be unpaid citizens who would take turns running the government.

"The entire state government would be in one building, and you could come in and holler and somebody would come and help you," he said.

Swinford said the tumbleweed would be an appropriate state flower.

He said "Old Texas" would reflect the way the state was 30 years ago, when he said it was easier for a young person to start a business.

There have been unsuccessful attempts in the past to split the state into one or more states.

'Friendly fire' took large toll

WASHINGTON (AP) - The relatively high losses linked to "friendly fire" in the Persian Gulf War were caused by the very factors that allowed U.S. forces to swiftly defeat the Iraqi military, Pentagon officials say.

Thirty-five soldiers died and 72 were wounded in accidental attacks by their own colleagues during the 43-day war, the Pentagon revealed on Tuesday. The 35 soldiers killed by U.S. fire represented 23 percent of the 148 Americans listed as killed in action during the war.

They were the casualties of the military's preferred style of ground combat: high-speed attacks across a broad front in all weather conditions, in particular the dark of night.

And while those tactics proved highly successful against the Iraqi army, it exacerbated the problem of identifying friend from foe - especially given the high-tech weaponry used to destroy opponents

Tidmore hired for Shirley job

By JOHN BROOKS
 Managing Editor

Ron Tidmore, a former Hereford school teacher and administrator, was officially hired Tuesday night by the Hereford school board to become the new principal at Shirley Intermediate School in Hereford.

Tidmore, who left Hereford in 1989 for Canyon, will replace John Dominguez, who resigned his position earlier this summer to take a similar post in Amarillo.

Tidmore last served here as assistant principal at West Central Intermediate School. His wife, Meg, was hired as a teacher at Bluebonnet Intermediate School.

The Hereford board officially agreed to enter into a feasibility study with the Walcott Independent School District to consider consolidating the two school districts.

Walcott, west of Hereford, has been beset by dwindling enrollment for many years and is considering the move as an attempt to save the school. Walcott officials have indicated they would like to maintain many of the innovative programs that have been implemented at the school over the past several years that have drawn several transfer students from Hereford. The school provides programs for children from Kindergarten through sixth grade.

Hereford Superintendent Charles Greenawald said he would like to maintain the rural school and increase class sizes at the school, with Hereford students, to the 1:22 teacher-student ratio established by the state.

The districts may also be able to earn financial incentives from the state if the districts are consolidated. If consolidation is determined to be feasible, it must finally be decided by a vote of residents of the two school districts.

The board also: --Voted to adopt a resolution by EnCoRe to support community recycling efforts, including encouraging the recycling of paper products generated by the schools.

--Honored Rhonda Johnson, a teacher at Tierra Blanca Primary School, as the employee of the month.

--Approved changes in guidelines for student placement in honors programs at Hereford High School.

--Signed an agreement with Green Harvey Associates of Lubbock as the architect for the remodeling project at Hereford High School.

After an executive session, the board hired Linda Smith, West Central; Mary Ann Alexander, Shirley; Charlie Garza, junior high; Janet Mercer, Tierra Blanca; Brenda Reinauer, alternative; Kathy Stamp, assistant principal, high school; Jacqueline Bowers, Shirley; and Jodie Ingham, Shirley.

The board accepted the resignation of Cheryl Smith, West Central.

Lawmakers 'finish,' but will return soon

AUSTIN (AP) - State legislators are gone from the Capitol today. But they may be back too soon to be forgotten.

The clock ran out on their 30-day special session Tuesday, with the budget and tax plans winning passage in the final hours.

Some items - including congressional redistricting - remained unfinished, however, necessitating another session.

House Speaker Gib Lewis told lawmakers to plan on returning at 2 p.m. Monday, to which several hissed and one shouted: "Impeach, impeach." Lawmakers have met for 170 days so far this year.

Gov. Ann Richards' press secretary, Bill Cryer, said Richards soon would announce the next special session. But she hadn't decided when it will start or what will be on the agenda, he said.

Special session agendas are controlled by the governor.

Unfinished business included drawing new congressional district lines for the 1992 elections, new State Board of Education districts, legislation to end county jail lawsuits against the state and emplacements to lure a McDonnell Douglas aircraft plant to Fort Worth or Houston.

"I'm sure there will be several things on the agenda, but I wouldn't want to speculate," Cryer said.

The House on Tuesday afternoon gave final approval to the two biggest issues facing lawmakers - budget and taxes. The budget was approved 84-64, and the tax increase 100-48.

The $59.45 billion two-year budget was a record. If signed by Richards, it takes effect Sept. 1.

The tax increase totaled about $2.7 billion. Of that, about $2.1 billion would fund the new budget and about $625 million would go the state highway construction fund, lawmakers said.

The Democratic governor, who had told Texans it was either a lottery or a "huge" tax increase, finally won approval of a lottery proposal during the special session. Voters will decide Nov. 5 whether the state should play the game.

Asked Tuesday whether she considered the remaining tax increase "huge," Richards said she didn't.

"It certainly isn't. We came into this session looking at a $5 (billion) to $6 billion shortfall. I think in past years you have seen headlines that say 'Legislature passes biggest tax bill in history.' They're not going to say that this year," the governor said. "We have made the cuts, we have made consolidations. There could have been more. It isn't perfect, but we did a really good job," she said.

Republicans had a less favorable view.

Rhetoric racing over taxes

AUSTIN (AP) - Now that the battle over the budget and tax increase is finished, the war of words has begun.

Republicans accused Gov. Ann Richards and Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock of betraying Texans by pushing for the $59.45 billion budget and $2.7 billion tax and fee increase that was approved Tuesday by the Legislature.

"State leaders without credibility. A budget without spending restraint. A tax bill without shame," concluded Rep. Tom Craddick, of Lubbock, who is chairman of the Republican Caucus.

Republican Party Chairman Fred Meyer said budget and tax bills have given him "renewed commitment to recruit responsible, conservative candidates who will work to put government on a budget like the rest of us."

But Richards, Bullock and other Democrats defended the tax and spend measures as necessary to keep government services going. They also said lawmakers accomplished spending reductions by passing numerous agency mergers and bookkeeping changes.

"I'm a little impatient with the partisan rhetoric," Richards said.

"We came into this session looking at a $5 to $6 billion shortfall. I think in past years you have seen headlines that say 'Legislature passes biggest tax bill in history.' They're not going to say that this year."

Bullock said, "The tax bill, the fee bill, the appropriations bill is an imperfect bill - each of them are. But by the same token, we did the very best that we could, and I mean that from the bottom of my heart. We worked hard on it."

Under the tax and fee bill, state gasoline taxes will increase 5 cents; the sales tax will be charged on some items currently not taxed, and public college tuition will increase $4 per semester hour next year.

House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, however, said Texans would probably be "madder than blazes" to see prices jump at the gas pump.

Lawmakers started the special session facing a projected $4.8 billion revenue shortfall to continue the current level of state services.

The budget will be about $10 billion more in all state and federal funds than the current biennium, and includes $34.7 billion in state tax-driven revenue.

The largest portion of the budget - totaling more than $25 billion - is for public and higher education, including funds to help pay for court-ordered school finance reform.

The budget would increase funding to human services, although lawmakers said those increases will fall short of paying the cost of continuing the current level.

CED facing tough task on tax rate

The Deaf Smith County Education District met Tuesday for its regular monthly meeting at the Hereford school administration building, and members were much more lighthearted about the meeting than they will likely be later this month.

Before August 31, the four CED members (John Fuston and Dennis Newton, representing Hereford, and Jim Bob Perrin and Ted Eicke of Walcott) must establish a countywide school tax rate.

When setting that rate, they must also consider the exemptions they would like to extend to taxpayers, and that's where the rub comes.

The CED members know they must set a tax rate of at least 72 cents per $100 valuation. The rate will likely be higher than 72 cents, however: the CED will have to come up with a rate based on local historical tax collection data and a formula devised to the state to come up with enough local funds to avoid state penalties.

The four CED members will also have to consider the results of what was essentially a referendum on Saturday. Hereford ISD voters said they wanted all of the exemptions they could get, including a 20 percent break on homesteads and a $10,000 break for senior citizens and disabled persons. Walcott ISD voters, however, nixed all three propositions on last Saturday's ballot (which included a personal property tax that would have enabled the CED to levy a tax on automobiles and other tangible goods).

"Someone's going to have to break the tie," joked Fuston, the CED president.

If the board grants the 20 percent homestead exemption as requested by voters in Saturday's election, that would create at least a four-cent increase in the overall school tax rate, according to Fred Fox, chief of the Deaf Smith County Tax Appraisal District. That would mean a minimum rate of at least 76 cents, but realistically means that the CED is looking at a rate of at least 82 cents later this month. The 20 percent exemption would lop about $26 million off the CED's roll, lowering the amount of property available for taxes to about $450 million, said Fox.

FUSTON
 ...CED facing tough task on tax rate

After the CED sets its rate, then the Hereford and Walcott school districts will also set a rate for their own taxes.

The CED will call a meeting between now and August 31 to set the county school tax rate, but must wait until figures and formulas are supplied by state officials.

At Tuesday's meeting, the only official action taken by the CED was to canvass the votes in last Saturday's election and declare the results official.

Police have light day

Hereford police and Deaf Smith County sheriff's deputies enjoyed a relatively quiet day Tuesday, with no arrests made. Police reports included assault in the 200 block of Ross; criminal mischief in the 200 block of Douglas and 100 block of 16th; criminal trespass in the 800 block of Brevard; theft of a license plate in the 400 block of Paloma Lane; theft of a lawnmower in the 200 block of Lake; and a domestic dispute in the 300 block of W. Second.

Police issued nine citations Tuesday and investigated three minor wrecks. Sheriff's deputies investigated a case of criminal mischief where windows were broken out of a farm house northwest of Hereford.

Warmer temperatures forecast

Tonight will be mostly clear with a low in the lower 60s. South wind 5 to 15 mph.

Thursday will be warmer, with mostly sunny skies in the morning becoming partly sunny in the afternoon with a high in the lower 90s. Southwest wind 10 to 20 mph.

The extended forecast for Friday through Sunday calls for partly cloudy skies each day with a slight chance of showers or thunderstorms. Highs in the mid to upper 80s. Lows in the lower 60s.

This morning's low at KPAN was 63 after a high Tuesday of 74. The 74-degree high was the coolest maximum temperature ever for August 13. It is the second time this summer that a coolest-high maximum record has been set (the other time was on July 20). KPAN recorded .67 of an inch of rain for the 24 hours ending at 7 a.m. today, with other reports in the county for Tuesday ranging up to 1.5 inch of rain.

AUSTIN - All public schools could be shortchanged over the next year due to the failure of a bill to divert some state money from schools with high administrative costs, lawmakers said.

AUSTIN - A college bond proposal that voters had rejected over the weekend was revived by the Senate but died when the House did not act. The proposed constitutional amendment, which had been approved by lawmakers in the regular legislative session ending May 27, was defeated by 5,220 votes.

DALLAS - A proposal to end a dispute between Baylor University and the Baptist General Convention of Texas has been hailed as an "answered prayer." A committee ratified Tuesday an informal plan worked out last month by Baptist leaders that would allow the convention to elect 25 percent of Baylor's governing board. The university's regents would elect the remaining 75 percent.

MALLEN - A long-haired boy whose bid to defy a dress code and return to school was denied by a federal judge will have a better chance of success in state court, his attorney says. A U.S. district judge ruled Tuesday that a south Texas school district did not violate 5-year-old Joshua Garcia's rights by insisting he cut his shoulder-length hair.

NAVASOTA - Fred Friedrichs believes a wet spring and dry summer may be responsible for the recent surge of hungry snakes onto his small ranch. Dozens of snakes have stormed the couple's small ranch, devouring eggs, pigeons and even chicks. The invasion has prompted Friedrichs to take up arms.

SAN ANTONIO - Working adults and children account for most of the approximately 250,000 poor people in Bexar County, says a new report detailing the severity of poverty here. The non-profit Partnership for Hope, funded by the Rockefeller Foundation, issued a report Tuesday titled, "Pride and Poverty: A Report on San Antonio."

SAN ANTONIO - Bexar County Sheriff Harlon Copeland says his officers had no part in a cover-up surrounding the death of a 46-year-old judge who had a heart attack during an afternoon sexual interlude. "There was nothing to cover up," Copeland said Tuesday, referring to the death of Probate Judge Keith Burris.

Agency squabble delays business

POST, Texas (AP) - After two years and a fight between two state agencies, Joe Pate's Cotton Unlimited will finally move its unique cotton-based products off the drawing board and into production.

Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry visited Post Tuesday to announce Cotton Unlimited had been awarded a $2 million loan as part of a $25 million agricultural loan guarantee program that helps promote Texas agriculture marketing and research.

"We have gone through a period of considerable trauma and outstanding indebtedness," Pate said. "We are anxious to go forward. And we are glad to see harmony in the Texas Agriculture Finance Authority structure because we believe very strongly this program can do a wealth of good for value-added processing."

Pate's company was the first to apply for a loan after the program was established in a constitutional amendment approved by voters in 1989.

But the Texas Agriculture Finance Authority Board and Perry were at odds for several months over who had the power to approve the loans.

Mary Webb, chairwoman of the finance authority, maintained the board should decide which companies receive the loans, while state rules mandated that the decision was Perry's alone.

Ultimately, Perry conceded the power to the board, of which he is a member, and the TAFAB began selling bonds to finance the loans.

But Cotton Unlimited nearly lost millions of dollars in market share because the dispute held up financing for international patent applications that were due July 11, said Paul Muncrief, vice president of the textile company.

With the deadline approaching, the Post Economic Development Council raised $60,000 to pay for the patent applications.

"It was a godsend to us that the PEDC was able to assist us in the short term," Pate said. "We weren't kidding about the July 11 deadline. The partisan politics nearly did us in."

Perry maintains the politics are behind the low-interest loan program and points to the future.

"This funding will help Cotton Unlimited create new jobs and spur economic growth in Post," Perry said. "What's more, this is another important step forward in our effort to create a thriving fiber processing industry in Texas."

The loan will help Cotton Unlimited underwrite its production of oil absorption material, cotton-based insulation and other products, such as disposable biodegradable diapers, blankets and furniture stuffing.

The company has worked to develop a cotton-based insulation as an alternative to fiberglass.

Formby ends APB service at meeting

SEATTLE (AP) - Clint Formby, the longest-serving member in the history of Associated Press Broadcasters Inc., has retired from the board.

Formby served on the advisory board for 15 years, including two years as president. He retired Sunday at the board's meeting here.

Formby owns radio stations in Hereford, Temple, Huntsville and Levelland, Texas, and is managing partner in Hereford Cablevision.

He joined the APB board of directors in 1976 and served as president from 1985 to 1987. He was elected to the AP's corporate board of directors in 1983. His term expired in 1989.

Formby is a member of the executive committee of the board of directors of Broadcast Music Inc. and is a former president of the Texas Association of Broadcasters. He also has served as chairman of the radio board of directors of the National Association of Broadcasters.

New program finds physicians for rural communities in Texas

HealthFind, a new physician recruitment program for rural communities with a population of 30,000 or less, was launched with a one-day workshop in Waco last week.

The workshop was hosted by the Center for Rural Health Initiatives and representatives from 14 rural Texas cities participated in the meeting to discuss their physician needs, and to develop recruitment plans and marketing strategies.

Community leaders who participated in the first workshop ranged from hospital administrators and board members to local developers and interested citizens. More than 35 people participated.

"The last doctor we recruited left after eight months, because his wife said she was moving back to the big city--with him or without him."

"We recruited a doctor to our area, guaranteeing his salary for a year. Within a few days after the year's contract expired, he and his family left, and now we're back where we started."

These were just some of the comments heard at the first Health-Find workshop. "These are exactly the concerns that the Legislature had in mind when they created the Center for Rural Health Initiatives in 1989," said Dr. Marion Zetzman, chairman of the Center's executive committee.

"There are more than three million residents who live in 205 non-metro Texas counties that want and need to have adequate health care," said Dr.

At a Pentagon briefing, Brandtner acknowledged that the proportion of U.S. casualties in the Gulf War that were caused by friendly fire was far higher than in previous American wars, although the military has kept no official figures on such incidents in those other wars.

But he said a comparison with past conflicts was not valid because the circumstances of fighting in Iraq - including night battles and the scale of the armored clashes - were unique.

"There was a problem," he said. "But we won the war."

The general pointed out that a U.S. tank is able to see a target at a range of nearly two miles by using a viewfinder that hones in on the heat of the target's engine or exhaust. The tank is able to shoot a missile even farther than that, he said.

"It is far beyond visual capability. Put that at night, under conditions of haze, rain, high wind and blowing sand, the fact that we had this few incidents is remarkable," he said.

Rape Crisis/Domestic Violence Center gets new director

By DANEE WILSON
Lifestyle Editor

The Deaf Smith County Rape Crisis/Domestic Violence Center will be under new leadership beginning Friday.

June Crooks, former nurse and RC/DV volunteer in Amarillo, will be replacing Shelly Moss, who is leaving her post to tend to maternal duties.

"I am very excited to be here," said the Canyon native. "This is something I have always wanted to do and when the position came available I applied."

Crooks enjoys working with people and considers herself a good listener.

"I am a people person," she said. "I have always enjoyed working with people. I know I work well with people and I know I can listen to their problems and help them."

Many goals for the future of RC/DV have been set by Crooks.

"I would like to increase the volunteer classes and recruit more volunteers. I want to continue and strengthen the WHO program and try to make available our phone number and our office for the clients who need us."

WHO is an acronym for "We help ourselves." It is taught in the schools as part of the curriculum by well trained volunteers. The program helps students know how to react in awkward situations. Special programs are available for different age groups.

Crooks said she wants to put the word out of the street that the center is there for anyone who is in need of its services.

"I want to do as many speaking engagements as possible to get the word out," she said. "We had one (person) come to us who was sent by the Sheriff's office and she had never heard of us before."

RC/DV takes the abused person out of the home or abusive situation and helps them find shelter, legal services and try to meet the immediate needs of the victim. They work with the police, sheriff's department and the district attorney to make sure the needs are being met of those who are victimized.

"We're available for anyone who needs us," Crooks said. "Were not just for females, there are abused males out there too. We are here for everyone. I'm excited about the job and I know we can make a difference."

Crooks and her husband Bob make their home in Canyon and Bob has worked in Hereford for 20 years. They have eight grown children.

The Hereford Service Unit of the Texas Plains Girl Scout Council will host an early registration party Aug. 15 from 7-8 p.m. at Damron Park in Hereford.

Linda Arellano, Hereford Service Unit Director, said the event is part of Girl Scout Visibility Month. "The party will serve to bring troops back together after the summer break, re-register girls already in the council and of course bring in new members," she said.

Members are encouraged to bring friends who may be interested in joining Girl Scouts. "This year we have hosted day and resident camps, travel opportunities, public speaking seminars and much more. We feel there are many girls out there who would like to participate in the kind of fun and learning we have to offer in Girl Scouts," Arellano said.

The party will include games and refreshments and will count towards Brownie try-its and Junior badges. Parents are encouraged to attend. Anyone needing more information may contact Linda Arellano at 364-7187.

Tri State Fair features Stone, Tillis in concert

Doug Stone and Pam Tillis will appear in concert at the 1991 Amarillo Tri State Fair on Sept. 17 at 8 p.m.

A relatively new face on the country music scene, Doug Stone stands out. His smooth baritone propelled his very first single, "I'd be Better Off (In a Pine Box)" into the top five. His straight-ahead country styling has taken radio and the press by storm, and his rugged good looks, quick laugh and down-to-earth attitude have been winning fans across the country. More recent top 20 recordings are "These Lips Don't Know How to Say Goodbye" and "I Thought That I was You."

Pam Tillis is the daughter of former CMA Entertainer of the Year Mel Tillis and started writing songs at the age of 11. She has recorded such top 10 hits as "Don't Tell Me What to Do" and "One of Those Things." Pam Tillis, the singer, songwriter and artist, has come into her own and has a rare talent for taking a great son and making it a classic.

Reserved box seats for the Doug Stone-Pam Tillis show are $12.50 each and general admission tickets are priced at $10 each. Purchase tickets in advance for free admission to fairgrounds on the day of the show.

Mail orders are being accepted now and should be sent to Tri State Fair, P.O. Box 31087, Amarillo, TX. 79120-1087. Add $1 for postage and handling.

New Packaging Coming
NEW YORK (AP) - America's industrial firms are increasingly concerned about using packaging that's friendly to the environment.

Two surveys of business executives, conducted in 1989 and 1991, for the Teague industrial design firm, showed that 50 percent had altered their packaging to render it more environment-friendly, compared to 47 percent in the first survey.

In the 1991 poll, 83 percent said environmental concern had affected their own industry, an increase of 16 percent over the previous survey's figure.

Alternative packaging materials being considered are recyclable plastics, other recyclables and biodegradables, said 68 percent of respondents, compared to 59 percent in the earlier poll.

Beyond helping the environment, the survey showed the most common reasons for introducing new packaging were consumer and legislative pressures. Most respondents also felt consumers would be willing to pay the extra cost involved.

Most rabbits are nocturnal creatures, preferring to eat and play from dusk until dawn. During the day they rest and sleep.

U.S. strikes gold in soccer Johnson: Cowboys' defeat due to youth

HAVANA (AP) - If that was the U.S. team on the gold medal stand, this couldn't have been soccer. It must have been football.

The Americans finally are learning to play "futbol" the way the rest of the world plays it, and it earned them their biggest victory in major international competition Tuesday night, the Pan American Games gold. The U.S. team beat Mexico 2-1 on a free kick by Joe-Max Moore with seven minutes gone in overtime, and three brilliant saves by goaltender Brad Friedel protected the lead.

"The significance of this victory is that we're coming along from a third-world soccer team to the second world," U.S. coach Lothar Osiander said. "And maybe soon we can compete with the big boys, like Brazil."

After the game, tempers flared briefly on the field. There was some pushing and shoving, and Mexican player Agostin Valdez punched America's backup goalie, Kasey Keller, in the nose.

"I saw one of our players getting pushed around, so I went out to help him," Keller said. "I was knocked on the ground, and when I got up to see who did it, No. 6 just caught me with one. It's no big deal."

Osiander dismissed it as the heat of the moment. Another Pan Am controversy might not go away so easily.

Three athletes, including a Mexican rower, Jose Antonio Gomez, who won a gold medal, have tested positive for banned substances. Another of the guilty parties was a Canadian woman shot putter who did not place, and a third name will be announced Thursday, the Pan American Sports Organization said. The drugs involved apparently were cold medications, and PASO president Mario Vasquez Rana said, "I must insist that none of these athletes have taken stimulants to improve their performance. We can assure that PASO is free from stimulants and heavy drugs, marijuana and cocaine."

In other sports, Americans achieved mixed success. U.S. swimmers won four of the five races Tuesday, but yet another boxer lost in the qualifying round. This was billed as America's 'B' team in boxing, but it might be better described as the 'F' team. It's had as many failures as successes.

With five days left in the games, the United States led Cuba 287-230 in total medals and was closing the gap in golds, even as Cuban president Fidel Castro was celebrating his 65th birthday. Going into the day, the United States trailed by 14 golds. Now, it trails 116-109.

Moore's winning goal against Mexico came on a free kick just outside the box. He curled the ball over a wall of Mexican players and into the upper right-hand corner of the goal.

"I saw that their wall wasn't set up right, so I just bent it around the corner," Moore said.

Dorsey Tierney led the U.S. swimmers with a Pan Am record performance in the women's 200 breaststroke. Over two days of swimming, that gave the United States nine golds in 10 events.

The U.S. team also scored a 1-2 sweep in the men's 400 freestyle with Alex Kostich and Jody Braden.

In boxing, Michael DeMoss won at 165 pounds with a decision over Edson Ferreira of Brazil, while Patrick Byrd lost to Greg Johnson of Canada at 147 pounds. The split put only six of America's 12 boxers in the medal round and left U.S. coaches steaming.

"Some of them aren't performing like we thought they would, that's all I can tell you," U.S. coach Kenny Loehr said. He was particularly displeased with Byrd, who he said "fought to survive, that's all."

By contrast, Cuba has 11 of its 12 boxers in the medals round.

The U.S. baseball team, which had already clinched a semifinal berth and a trip to the Barcelona Olympics, ended the preliminary round with a 9-5 victory over Canada in 11 innings. The United States will play Puerto Rico in Friday's semifinals, while Cuba plays the Dominican Republic.

The United States won silver medals Tuesday in men's softball and water polo. Canada beat the United States 3-1 for the softball gold, while Cuba won the water polo title with an 8-5 victory.

HWBA meets Thursday

Members of the Hereford Women's Bowling Association will meet at 7 p.m. Aug. 15 in the Reddy Room at the Southwestern Public Service (SPS) office at the intersection of Fourth and Lee Streets.

The meeting will feature the installation of new officers: Lajuan Fowler, vice president; Carolyn McDonald, secretary; Shelly Brock, treasurer; and board members Sandy Blevins, Priscilla Lacey and Lynn Dawson.

Other business will include the election of delegates to state and the presentation of High Series pins.

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Dallas Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson chalked up his team's pre-season loss to the Los Angeles Raiders to youth.

But that didn't prevent the Cowboys from returning to their training camp in Austin Tuesday in search of their lost offense.

The Cowboys fell 17-12 to the Raiders.

"We were playing so many young people that we are going to make mistakes," Johnson said. "We had a problem getting into the end zone."

"We had three big mistakes that hurt us. One was an alignment problem; we had a dropped ball; and we missed on a throw."

Johnson said he learned in 1989, during his rookie year in the NFL, that preseason games don't count. In 1989, the Cowboys waltzed through a 3-1 exhibition schedule and a 1-15 regular season.

The 1990 NFL Coach of the Year is determined not to repeat the mistake.

Johnson said Tuesday he won't be worried even if he loses his final two exhibitions and enters the regular-season opener against Cleveland with a 1-3 pre-season mark.

"One and three wouldn't bother me going into Cleveland," Johnson said. "It wouldn't bother me at all."

Johnson said he has to fight against his competitive nature when he tells his players that winning in the preseason isn't high on his list of priorities.

"It's hard even now for me to think about not doing everything you can do to win any game," he said. "But if you do that, you take away from what training camp is for, which is to evaluate talent and put together a team."

The Cowboys play their next exhibition game at Houston on Sunday night in another nationally televised game. They then have their final preseason warmup at home on Friday, Aug. 23 against the Atlanta Falcons.

Dallas opens the regular season Sept. 1 at Cleveland.

As the Austin portion of training camp winds down this week, Johnson will attempt to correct the offensive mistakes that kept the Cowboys out of the end zone against the Raiders.

Four times the Cowboys were inside the Raiders' 20 and each time they had to settle for a Ken Willis field goal.

"The errors that we had were caused by an outstanding Raider defense and because we didn't execute very well," Johnson said. "I'd expect us to execute much better when we have a week to prepare for a real game. The errors we had are correctable."

Johnson got a scare as the Cowboys' preseason record dropped to 1-1.

Running back Emmitt Smith came limping back to the sidelines but only got a skinned leg.

"Emmitt wasn't supposed to be playing anymore, but we had a substitution problem," Johnson said. "Emmitt saw that we needed a tailback. And he went into the game. That's him. He wants to play. I don't even know if he had his pads in when he went back in the game. But he's OK. He said he wouldn't do it again."

Smith, who was supposed to play only in the first half, went into the game when running back Curvin Richards was injured.

"I thought I'd do a good deed," Smith said. "I didn't see anyone in there and they were calling for a back."

The Cowboys' kicking game also broke down. Once punter Mike Saxon passed (incomplete) instead of punting. He got a royal chewing out from Johnson.

"I knew I should have kicked the ball," Saxon said. "I deserve what I got on the sideline. It was a good pre-season chewing out."

Johnson said: "I told Saxon I didn't want him to do that again, ever."

Mookie Blaylock of Oklahoma had a record 32 steals in NCAA basketball tournament competition.

Cougars, Klingler primed for probation-free season

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - The University of Houston's run-and-shoot offense stretches defenses and strains friendships.

Southern Methodist coach Forrest Gregg wasn't happy with his friend Jack Pardee when Houston beat the Mustangs 95-21 in an 1989 game that included four touchdown passes by a seldom-used quarterback named David Klingler.

There were accusations last season when John Jenkins became head coach that the Cougars would run up the score with Klingler as the starter for departed Heisman Trophy winner Andre Ware.

"That's the fun part of it," Jenkins said. "What I'm saying is we run our offense. (When) second team players (are) the game I want to see them do well. I'm not going to shut it down and run out of bounds, take a knee on purpose or punt on first down."

Klingler's playing time behind Ware prepared him for last season when he led the nation in total offense, averaging 474.6 yards per game and helped the Cougars break 33 game or season records.

"Those young guys when they play and do well, you are starting to build for next year," Jenkins said. "Klingler for instance, had four touchdowns passes the second half (against SMU)."

"The great year he had as a backup in 1989 enabled him to be the best in the history of college football and not going through a trial and error period."

The Cougars, 10-1 last season in what was supposed to be a defensive rebuilding year, show no signs of weakening this season. Nine starters return on defense, including six sophomores who were freshmen starters.

Jenkins must replace superback Chuck Weatherspoon, who was third in the nation in all-purpose yards last season, averaging 185.3 yards per game. Four-fifths of the offensive line is also gone along with Manny Hazard, who caught 220 career passes for the Cougars and led the nation in receiving the past two seasons.

The Cougars' returnees include cornerback Jerry Parks who led the nation with eight interceptions last season. Nose tackle Tray Hooper and linebacker Reggie Burnette were the only defensive losses.

"We'll see very competitive matchups at virtually every defensive position," Jenkins said. "This is my fifth year at Houston and although we don't have as many seniors as we did in 1989, it's still the most depth that we've experienced since I've been here."

The Cougars defense allowed 480.5 yards per game last season, near the bottom of all NCAA Division I teams.

"I don't worry about giving up those yards as long as we win," Parks said. "Most of those teams were throwing every down trying to catch up."

The Cougars started six freshman on defense last season and had to overcome injuries.

"The exciting thing for me was what was really considered a rebounding year a year ago ends up being a 10-1 season," Jenkins said. "It showed the great spirit those young defensive guys had. The six freshman who played regularly."

"They fight and scratch and they are tons more mature in contrast to a year ago."

Right guard Mike Gisler is the lone returning offensive lineman.

"There's always two ways to look at that, from a catastrophic standpoint or merely look at it from look how exciting this matchup is going to be," Jenkins said. "Spoon's gone so who's going to be the next great player at this and that position."

Keith Whitely, who transferred from Lamar University when the school dropped football, ended spring drills as the superback starter but the position is wide open at the start of fall practice.

Gisler will be joined on the offensive line by tackles Charlie Williams and Darrell Clapp and left guard Jeff Tait to begin fall practice.

Williams, 6-3, 290, is a junior college transfer and Clapp, 6-5, 305, a sophomore from Corpus Christi Ray, headline the new starters.

Houston opens its schedule Aug. 31 in the Astrodome against Louisiana Tech before playing at Miami Sept. 12.

SMU wants SWC win

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - Tom Rossley's air circus is back at Southern Methodist University. He just hopes it can provide as many victories as it does thrills.

The Mustangs haven't won a Southwest Conference game in two years since resuming play after a two-year banishment because of the pay-for-play scandal that involved alumni and even former Texas Gov. Bill Clements.

They have defeated Connecticut, North Texas and Vanderbilt in non-conference play under now-athletic director Forrest Gregg. But they have taken a battering from their conference brethren.

Rossley was hired way from the NFL's Atlanta Falcons where he was offensive coordinator.

When Gregg stepped aside as coach, the man he wanted to replace him was Rossley, who had been offensive coordinator in SMU's first year back from the death penalty.

The players were thrilled to have Rossley back.

"He really makes the game fun," said quarterback Mike Romo. "He gets everybody pumped up with his enthusiasm. He's got a great offensive mind."

Romo's glad Rossley is back because of the big slump he had during his sophomore season.

Romo was 11th in the nation in passing in 1989, averaging 251 yards a game.

He set NCAA freshman records for pass attempts with 509 and completions at 282.

Last year, he threw 13 interceptions as he fell to 17th on the NCAA passing list.

"After we beat Vanderbilt early (44-7) everything just fell apart," Romo said.

Romo also had a bad knee and hopes offseason surgery corrected the problem.

Rossley expects big things from Romo.

"I believe he will have a tremendous junior year," Rossley said. "He knows the offense and will be stronger and more mature."

SMU needs to get in gear early because the Mustangs open on Sept. 7 at Arkansas. SMU might catch a break since Arkansas opens a week earlier against powerful Miami.

Pirates' dominance halts Phillies' streak at 13

By JOHN KREISER
AP Sports Writer

It was fun while it lasted, but the Philadelphia Phillies' 13-game winning streak is history because the Pittsburgh Pirates' domination of their in-state rivals is still going strong.

The Phillies' winning streak, matching their longest this century, ended at 13 games Tuesday night when the Pirates extended their mastery over Philadelphia to 13 in a row with a 4-3 victory.

The Phillies' streak was the longest in the National League this season, and a victory at Three Rivers Stadium would have given them their longest streak since 1892. Instead, the Pirates continued their string over Philadelphia—they haven't lost to the Phillies since Aug. 5, 1990.

"It was a fun thing to have going," Phillies manager Jim Fregosi said of the winning streak. "I think when you have something like that going, it builds a lot of confidence. A lot of guys were getting hits to win games and doing things well."

Except when they play the Pirates. Pittsburgh is 7-0 against the Phillies this season after winning the last six meetings between the two teams last year.

"Sooner or later, we've got to show we can play with these guys," Phillies shortstop Dickie Thon said.

The Pirates spotted the Phillies an early 3-1 lead, largely due to center fielder Andy Van Slyke's first error in 104 games. But the Pirates chipped away and went ahead in the fifth on Jose Lind's triple.

They preserved the lead in the seventh when Roger Mason, recalled last week from Buffalo, got Ricky Jordan to tap into a pitcher-to-catcher-to-first double play with the bases loaded.

Braves 9, Giants 2
Tom Glavine won his league-high

15th game and came within one out of a four-hit shutout.

Keith Mitchell started a four-run first inning by hitting the first pitch from John Burkett (9-6) over the left-field fence and Glavine got all the support he needed until the ninth. Glavine got Matt Williams to hit a short fly ball for what should have been the last out of the game; instead, three Braves surrounded it for a fluke two-run double.

Astros 12, Padres 9
The Astros broke a six-game losing streak by overcoming a 9-2 deficit.

Fred McGriff's grand slam in the third inning helped the Padres to their early lead, but Luis Gonzalez started Houston's comeback with a three-run homer in the sixth, then singled in the tying run during a five-run seventh. Jose Tolentino's sacrifice fly broke a 9-9 tie.

Reds 4, Dodgers 3
Paul O'Neill scored the winning run in the 10th as Glenn Braggs dove into first to beat the relay on his ground ball.

With the bases loaded, Braggs hit a slow grounder to second baseman Juan Samuel and barely beat the relay to first to avoid the double play as O'Neill scored.

Winner Rob Dibble (2-2) and loser Roger McDowell (4-7) reversed roles from Monday night, when Samuel's RBI single in the ninth gave the Dodgers a win.

Cardinals 7, Mets 4
Ray Lankford, Todd Zeile and Gerald Perry each drove in two runs for the Cardinals.

Lankford had a two-run double in the third and Zeile added a two-run single in the fifth off Frank Viola (12-9). Omar Olivares (5-4) survived homers by Hubie Brooks and Howard Johnson for the victory.

Expos 7, Cubs 6
Mike Fitzgerald's pinch-hit three-run homer in the seventh tied the game at 5-5. After Mark Grace's RBI single in the bottom of the inning put the Cubs back in front, the Expos went ahead in the eighth against Les Lancaster (8-7) on three singles, shortstop Jose Vizcaino's throwing error and Bret Barberie's RBI single, a ball center fielder Chico Walker dove for but only managed to trap.

Bill Sampen (6-2) got the victory.

20th Annual One-Arm Dove Hunt will be held Sept. 6 and 7 in Olney.

The hunt is a gathering of arm amputees and friends of arm amputees—both hunters and non-hunters. Among the activities scheduled are an auction, a barbecue dinner, a skeet shoot and a dove hunt Saturday afternoon. Only amputees may compete in the hunt, but non-amputees may assist and pick up birds.

Among the unique activities designed for amputees are the glove swap, one-arm tales and one-arm talent exhibition. Also, the charge for each person for Saturday's breakfast is 10 cents per finger.

Despite all the fun activities, the real reason for the gathering is to give amputees an opportunity to exchange thoughts and ideas which may help to overcome their handicap, and to help new amputees adjust to their loss.

For more information, contact either of the Jacks at (817) 564-2102 (during business hours), or in care of the One-Arm Dove Hunters' Association: P.O. Box 582; Olney, Texas 76374.

Olney is located at the intersection of state highways 114 and 79—200 miles east of Lubbock, 100 miles west of Fort Worth and 45 miles south of Wichita Falls.

Spurs sign pair of guards

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - The San Antonio Spurs signed free-agent guards Mark Davis and Eric Johnson to contracts, the team said Tuesday.

Davis, a 6-4, 180-pound off-guard from Old Dominion, scored 22 points in the team's Black & Silver game and averaged 17.5 points a game in this summer's Midwest Revue.

Johnson, a 6-2, 205-pound point-guard from Nebraska, led the Revue with 5.7 assists per game. He scored 12 points in the Black & Silver game.

Davis, a 1985 Cleveland Cavaliers draft pick, spent last year with Spain's CAI Zaragoza team, averaging 20.9 points per game.

Johnson played in the 1989-90 season with the Utah Jazz as a free agent and was waived last December.

AL teams double their pleasure

By JIM DONAGHY
AP Baseball Writer

American League fans certainly got their money's worth.

It was Two-for-Tuesday as four doubleheaders were played for a total of 11 games in the AL.

The Baltimore Orioles needed a record-tying 13 pitchers to sweep a doubleheader from the Texas Rangers, 4-3 and 8-7.

"Yeah, we stayed out there a long time. But we got two wins, so it was all worth it," Orioles manager John Oates said.

In New York, Kansas City swept a doubleheader from the Yankees for the first time ever, winning 5-0 and 8-1.

Yankees manager Stump Merrill said, "We just didn't have the offense going today."

The Yankees also didn't have designated hitter Don Mattingly in the opener. Mattingly was ejected in the first inning by home-plate umpire Joe Brinkman for arguing a third-strike call.

Detroit swept a doubleheader from visiting Chicago 11-9 and 4-3 to move within two games of first-place Toronto in the East. In the opener, Cecil Fielder hit two homers, giving him a major league-leading 34 for the season, and drove in five runs as Detroit held on after building a 10-1 lead.

"I'm hitting the ball hard and getting some good swings," Fielder said.

Royals 5, Yankees 0
Royals 8, Yankees 1
Brian McRae extended his hitting streak to 22 games with a run-scoring single and Kirk Gibson homered, leading Kansas City to an 8-1 victory.

In the opener, Kevin Appier pitched a three-hitter.

Mike Boddicker (10-7) allowed eight hits in six innings to gain the victory in the nightcap and Jeff Montgomery finished for his 24th save.

Indians 8, Red Sox 6
Red Sox 7, Indians 5
Pinch-hitter Carlos Quintana hit a two-out, two-run double in the ninth inning as Boston beat Cleveland for a split of their doubleheader, winning 7-5.

Cleveland won the opener 8-6. Carlos Baerga drove in the go-ahead run with a sixth-inning single.

Matt Young couldn't hold a 3-0 lead in the opener and Kevin Morton squandered a 5-0 lead in the nightcap.

Tigers 11, White Sox 9
Tigers 4, White Sox 3
Bill Gullett became a 15-game winner with a 4-3 victory in the nightcap.

Gullett (15-6) gave up six hits including homers by Carlton Fisk and Tim Lincecum in 7-2-3 innings.

Mike Henneman, who also pitched in the first game, finished for his 18th save.

Orioles 4, Rangers 3
Orioles 8, Rangers 7
Rookie Chito Martinez had three hits and scored twice as Baltimore completed a doubleheader sweep of Texas 8-7.

The Orioles won the opener 4-3 when Leo Gomez scored in the 12th inning on a throwing error by pitcher Kenny Rogers.

In the nightcap, the Orioles used successive four-run innings to take an early 8-4 lead. Todd Frohwirth (4-2) got the victory and Gregg Olson, the sixth Baltimore pitcher, got two outs for his 25th save.

Brewers 5, Blue Jays 4
Paul Molitor's two-out, three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning handed Tom Henke his first blown save of the season.

Molitor's 13th homer came on a 1-1 pitch from Henke (0-2).

Chuck Crim (7-5) got two outs in the top of the ninth and was the winner in relief of Bill Wegman.

The Blue Jays grabbed a 4-2 lead in the top of the ninth on Joe Carter's 28th homer and an RBI-single by Candy Maldonado.

Angels 8, Twins 3
Lance Parrish hit a two-run homer for his first multiple-RBI game since July 1 and California capitalized on shoddy Minnesota fielding in a four-run fourth inning.

Pitcher Waite Hoyt, enshrined in Cooperstown, liked to sing and once played the legendary Palace theater in New York.

The bicycle was invented in France in 1690 but did not become popular until 1834 in England.

Rice must find option quarterback

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - The Rice Owls don't have Donald Hollas this season or a true option quarterback to replace him, but Coach Fred Goldsmith insists he'll reserve the option to use the option.

"I think for our offense to be successful, you've got to run some option," said Goldsmith, who last season took the Owls to the brink of their first winning season since 1963.

Blending the option with a passing attack was splendid strategy with multi-talented Hollas at the controls. But he's gone and Goldsmith is force-feeding some option plays on 6-6 junior Greg Willig and red shirt freshman Randall Shultz.

How well the quarterbacks adjust could be decisive in determining if the Owls repeat or surpass last year's 5-6 record, their best since 1980.

"He's (Willig) not the option quarterback, neither one is, but we're working on it and we'll be successful," Goldsmith said.

Goldsmith intends to use the option the way former Baylor quarterback Cody Carlson ran it in 1986.

"Carlson was a tall gangly guy too," Goldsmith said. "He worked hard and I remember them knocking us out of the Cotton Bowl when I was with Arkansas in 1986 with Carlson running the option just enough to make it effective."

"Baylor was in the fight for the Cotton Bowl and we failed on the last play against them going for two," Goldsmith said. "So we were in contention against some very good football teams."

After snapping an 18-game losing streak that was the longest in the nation in his first game as head coach, Goldsmith has a 7-14-1 record as head coach and thinks the Owl program is starting to turn heads.

"When you compare that to 0-18 just two years before that, I think that's making people take us serious now," Goldsmith said. "Regardless of the record, our program is better."

"Willig is the same type of kid as Carlson, a real competitor," Goldsmith said. "He'll seize the opportunity just like Cody did."

Willig had his moments as Hollas' backup in 1990. The Owls came within a two-point conversion of beating Baylor in the season finale that would have given them a winning season. Willig replaced Hollas, who was injured in the first quarter.

Although they missed the chance for a memorable finale, Goldsmith has some fond memories of last season.

"Houston had to come back and beat us on the last play when they were the top five in the country at the time," Goldsmith said. "They went out and finished 10-1."

The Cougars beat the Owls 24-22 on a last-second field goal.

The Owls lost some marquee names including Hollas, kicker Clint Parsons, linebacker O.J. Brigance and cornerback Greg King, all four-year lettermen.

Tailback Trevor Cobb and wide receiver Eric Henley are potent weapons among eight returning offensive starters.

Cobb rushed for a school record 1,325 yards last season to become Rice's first 1,000-yard rusher. Despite injuries, Henley caught 48 passes and moved up to seventh on the SWC all-time receiving list.

"Trevor is the best conditioned player I think I've ever coached," Goldsmith said. "It's the energy he gives in practice every day and never tires. You can hand it to him, throw it to him. He does a heck of a job."

A healthy Henley will be a big boost, Goldsmith said.

"The guy caught 48 passes last year and had a fractured wrist from preseason on, which took until after the season to heal, and he had badly bruised ribs," Goldsmith said. "We feel a healthy Eric is definitely one of the premier receivers in the conference."

Junior nose guard Matt Sign heads the Owls' defensive line that is getting bigger and stronger. Seven defensive starters return and none are seniors as fall practice started.

Matt Sign played the first year at 210. He was probably 220 last year and 225 this year. Defensive tackle Corey Seymour has grown from 220 as a freshman to 250 this year and tackle Shawn Alberding is up from 230 as a freshman to 255.

Rice has only four home games this season. The Owls travel to Northwestern and Tulane and host Iowa State before beginning a rugged SWC road schedule at Texas and at Baylor.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Lately your column has done quite a lot of male-bashing. If you are interested in presenting a more balanced view of the world as it is, you will print my letter.

I am a recent widower. My wife passed away in July of 1990. I am 63 years old, in good health, not bad looking, reasonable intelligent, informed, well-mannered, and I appreciate how much a good woman can add to a man's life. My wife was a wonderful person and we had many happy years together.

In the last six months, I have had 17 dates. Dozens of well-meaning friends and family members had just "the right woman" for me. At this moment I feel like a laboratory frog that has been dissected and scrutinized under a microscope.

Not one of the 17 women I dated had the slightest interest in what I thought about anything. No one asked a single question. They were not interested in hearing about my four fine children, who are now young men with good careers and families of their own. All they wanted to talk about was my income, my assets, the market value of my home, and whether I had any good investments.

I am so disgusted that I don't feel like going out on another date. I've just about decided to stay single for the rest of my life, which is a shame because I have a lot to offer and I really would like to be married again.

The facts are exactly as stated in this letter. I don't mind if you publish my name and address. In fact I wish you would. -- Long Island

DEAR LONG ISLAND: I appreciate your honesty but I wouldn't think of printing your name and address. You would have women on your doorstep from every state in the union and Canada, as well.

I don't know where all those lemons came from. Too bad, but please don't give up. There are lots of peaches out there, too. You just haven't met them yet. Good luck to you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently, my husband and I returned from a vacation in Florida. We stayed at a lovely hotel, which was clean and comfortable. Upon arriving, we noticed an envelope on the dresser saying, "Dyan is your housekeeper for the week." Each day we received fresh towels, the beds were made and the bathroom was cleaned.

My questions: Is it necessary to tip Dyan for her services? Isn't the service she performs part of what we are entitled to when we pay for the use of the room? I am a waitress in Massachusetts and I make $2.25 an hour. I also have to pay income tax on my tips.

I don't want to be insensitive but if Dyan receives at least minimum wage per hour and does not have to pay taxes on her tips, why must we tip her? What is the proper procedure, Ann?

We did not leave anything in the envelope and now I am wondering whether or not we should have. -- Unsure in Massachusetts

DEAR UNSURE: I always tip the hotel (or motel) maid.

Whether or not she has to pay taxes on her tips is of no importance to me.

You would not believe the condition in which some of those rooms are left. As far as I'm concerned, the maids who clean them are entitled to something extra.

What's the truth about pot, cocaine, LSD, PCP, crack, speed and downers? "The Lowdown on Dope" has up-to-the-minute information on drugs. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Lowdown, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. # Microwave usage reviewed

By DIANE DUSTON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Ever notice burn-through marks on the outside of the popcorn bag after microwaving?

Some scientists at the Food and Drug Administration who'd been munching microwaved popcorn at home noticed and wondered if the marks meant the popcorn was absorbing some of the package.

They brought their popcorn bags to work and began a study to discover if any components of food packaging get into food during microwave cooking.

After more than a year of review, nothing has been found that would cause immediate, short-term harm, says Dr. Edward Machuga, consumer safety officer at FDA.

"It's a tricky project because it has so many components," Machuga said in a recent interview. He said 200 to 300 different chemicals are used in various microwaveable food packages and they all need to be studied.

But results of long-term use also are being sought.

In those tests, the FDA assumes the extreme case of a person who cooks 90 percent of his or her meals in the microwave for two years, Machuga said.

That's unlikely, but the microwave revolution is booming.

The sales of microwaveable food rose from $53 million in 1983 to $900 million in 1987 and an expected $3 billion by 1992, according to FDA Consumer Magazine.

To feed the growing market, companies have invented new kinds of packaging that enable consumers to microwave foods traditionally prepared in conventional ovens or on the stove.

Because microwaves don't brown food, metalized film is laminated onto paper to absorb the heat for a browning or frying effect. Those "heat susceptors" are used in packaging for popcorn, pizza and other foods that need to be crispy.

Plastic dishes called "dual-ovenables" are being used for frozen dinners that can be cooked in either the microwave or conventional oven.

The FDA does offer some suggestions for safe microwaving: -Consumers who use glass or pottery containers to microwave have nothing to worry about.

-The plastic wrap on frozen food put in the microwave to thaw would pose no problem as long as the food doesn't get hot.

-Arrange meat and poultry pieces uniformly in a covered dish so steam can help kill bacteria and promote uniform heating. Stir the food and turn the dish several times. Use a microwave temperature probe to ensure internal meat temperature reaches 160 degrees for red meat and 180 degrees for poultry.

-Cook stuffing separately from poultry.

-Debone roasts. Turn the meat several times during cooking. Let it stand, wrapped in foil, after microwaving to complete cooking.

-Stay near the oven while microwaving popcorn because heat build-up can cause a fire.

Machuga said the FDA had approved all the chemicals used in microwave packages but hadn't tested them at the high cooking temperatures sometimes needed.

In popcorn bags, for example, the heat susceptor could get as hot as 500 degrees. The dual-ovenables don't get very hot in the microwave, but for conventional cooking some package directions call for 350- to 400-degree settings.

Testing on most of the materials had stopped at 300 degrees.

Advice relieves shopping burden

Shopping for children's clothing gets intense twice a year—Christmas and right about now, when clothes for school are in high demand.

"Clothing is probably the most expensive item on parents' school supply list," said Dr. Ann V. Beard, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

A U.S. Department of Agriculture study indicates that middle-income urban families in the South each year spend about $780 on clothing for each child age 15 to 17, $830 per child between 12 and 14 and $500 on each younger school-age child.

Shopping a variety of sources for children's clothes can help reduce back-to-school expenses, Beard said. By planning ahead, consumers can find bargain at outlets, thrift stores, discount stores and garage sales.

When shopping for clothes, she suggests following these steps:

Make a list—Look over your child's wardrobe and note the items needed. Consider the garment desired, color and fabric.

Budget spending—Before you go shopping, know exactly how much you can afford and what you can on each item.

Take your child shopping—Before you go, prepare the child for what you are looking for, and shop only for him or her, not for the entire family, since young children get tired easily.

Know sizes—Take along your child's growth patterns—don't buy more than what's needed. Children grow rapidly and may outgrow what you buy before the school year is over.

Consider purchasing two or three outfits that can be mixed and matched for a more useful wardrobe.

Consider what special clothing will be needed for your child's activities. Decide if parts of these garments could be worn with regular school clothing as a wardrobe extender. Less expensive tops such as brightly colored T-shirts can add variety to a wardrobe.

Choose styles and fabrics that will grow with the child. Raglan sleeves, cuffs on pants, adjustable straps and waistbands, large hems in dresses and tops can add to the wear-life of a garment.

Also, consider care factors. Knits, especially cotton or cotton/polyester, are easy to care for and stretch for comfort. Choose durable fabrics such as denim and corduroy to withstand children's activities and repeated laundering.

Buying from discount sources can save money, but you need to be careful, Beard said. To make sure you are satisfied with what you buy and getting a good deal, ask yourself these questions before buying the merchandise:

Are all the parts of the garment the same size? One sleeve may be smaller than the other.

Are collar and lapel points the same length?

Is the lining the correct size for the garment?

Will wrinkles press out?

Are the top and bottom the same size and color?

Are ties and belts the right size and a good color match?

Is the fabric design pleasing?

Are there defects in the fabrics—holes, runs and imperfections? Hold the garment up to the light to find out.

Is the fabric durable and suitable for the child's activities?

If there are flaws or worn spots, can you repair them easily?

This will give you an idea of how large a blue whale is: the largest dinosaur, along with an elephant and a man could stand on a blue whale with plenty of room to spare.

DPS warn Labor Day hazards

Labor Day weekend is a sure sign of things to come. Among them is the fact that another summer is about to pass. Labor Day represents the last three-day weekend which has both local and state public safety officials concerned.

"We anticipate a large number of Texas motorists will take advantage of an extra day off to make that one last summer trip before winter," stated Major V.J. Cawthon, Regional Commander for the Texas Department of Public Safety.

"This means Texas drivers will be sharing the roadways with more vehicles, driving more miles than usual, and encountering drivers who are probably more fatigued than usual," he added. "Our troopers will be aggressive in combating the speeding and DWI problem because these violations continue to be the leading factors in fatal accidents."

Texas Department of Safety reminds Texas drivers to remain alert, adjusting the speed to match existing road conditions, avoid the use of alcohol and use the safety belt, no matter how short the trip.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I read a magazine article recently that mentioned a drug being used to treat rheumatoid arthritis. It has been in use for some time in cancer treatment. The article stated that patients taking this medicine were experiencing spontaneous remissions of arthritis and the results have been very encouraging. I wanted to give the article to a friend who is suffering greatly from arthritis, but I lost it. I would appreciate any information you could provide.

DEAR READER: You must have read about methotrexate, a medicine that has been used to treat leukemia and some cancers. A reconsideration of long-term therapy for rheumatoid arthritis has led some authorities to believe that methotrexate, and even small doses of prednisone, may be better than many of the pain relievers related to aspirin. In part, that is because those commonly used medicines are not without their own complications. There have been good results reported from methotrexate, but I must point out that is for rheumatoid arthritis, not osteoarthritis, which is more common in older people.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Public Notice

On July 22, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas for approval of two new optional services, Exchange Connection Service and Customer Alerting Enablement. Exchange Connection Service will permit a customer of the Telephone Company to provide voice messaging service, telephone answering service, or other services to itself or to patrons of the customer. Customer Alerting Enablement will permit residence and business lines to receive an alerting tone (intermittent dial tone) transmitted by an Exchange Connection Service customer. The proposed effective date for this offering is September 23, and will be available statewide where facilities permit.

The calling party's telephone number and other originating network call information will be delivered to the Exchange Connection Service customer when the calling number and the called number are served by the same switch. Additionally, the caller's telephone number and other originating network call information may be recorded and stored by the Exchange Connection Service customer. Customers may be able to identify the caller before the call is answered. All Exchange Connection Service customers will be required to sign a non-disclosure agreement prior to being provided service. In the agreement the customer agrees not to disclose the calling party's telephone number unless the customer has written permission from the calling party.

The Telephone Company estimates these new services will increase its annual revenues during the first year by approximately $1.2 million. Providers of voice messaging service and telephone answering services and their subscribers are the types of customers likely to be affected by approval of these services.

Exchange Connection Service is provided to customers in two parts: Local Serving Arrangement, which provides access to the exchange network; and Optional Service Features. The proposed rates, for both Exchange Connection Service and Customer Alerting Enablement, including installation charges, are as follows:

Local Serving Arrangement	Monthly Charge	Installation Charge

Names in the News

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) - Pete Rose rejects any suggestion that he was responsible for the death of A. Bartlett Giamatti.

Howard Cosell asserts in his new book "What's Wrong With Sports" that the Rose gambling case induced the heart attack that killed the baseball commissioner in 1989 two weeks after he banished Rose from the game.

"Giamatti didn't go through half the stress that I went through, may God rest his soul," Rose said at a news conference Tuesday. "I liked him. We both cared about the game, loved the game and worried about it."

The former Cincinnati Reds star owns a home here and plans to open a steak house in town.

He pleaded guilty a year ago to cheating on his taxes and served five months in prison.

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) - Willem Dafoe spent time on patrol in Santa Fe County to learn what it's like to live and drive as a deputy sheriff.

The lesson was in preparation for his role in the suspense film "White Sands."

The "Last Temptation of Christ" star rode around with a deputy to get the picture.

"It's not some method actor preciousness," he said in a recent interview. "It's really about listening and observing, matching up certain procedures with the script... It gives you a little authority to your imagining."

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Ronnie Milsap will appear Aug. 22 on the NBC soap opera "Another World," but he won't have to get into character.

The country singer will play himself.

The scenario places Milsap at a Chicago nightclub performing his current tune, "Since I Don't Have You."

In a statement Tuesday, Milsap said he "truly enjoyed the opportunity to interact with soap stars whom I've admired for years."

Milsap hits include "Lost in the Fifties" and "Almost Like a Song."

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) - The palace staff for Queen Margrethe II filed a complaint with the European Court of Human Rights over the royal employer's refusal to give them a contract.

The roughly 50 palace employees have tried since 1973 to get a contract like those accorded other Danish workers.

"My clients want an agreement on working conditions, such as overtime and vacations," attorney Jorgen Jacobsen said Tuesday.

"The court's staff, in reality, is quite satisfied with their working conditions. They just want to know their rights."

Remote Problem-Solving
MELBOURNE, Fla. (AP) - Breakdowns of computers, faxes and voice processing equipment can now be repaired over the telephone, without a service technician in sight, says an office system company.

The new remote diagnostics service enables the company's engineers to repair machines anywhere in the world, usually within 20 minutes, by two-way electronic communication, according to officials of Pitney Bowes Co.

A customer's malfunctioning machine "reads" its operating instructions and last 20 transactions by phone to a similar machine at the Diagnostics Center here, it was explained. Engineers identify the problem via error codes and where necessary make software changes.

One letter stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Between the Covers

BY REBECCA WALLS

In today's world we have seen an explosion of information that is available. But it is unrealistic to expect any one library to meet all the informational needs of all patrons. The rising cost of books and the shrinking library budget as well as the availability to house materials in libraries means that libraries must be more selective in their acquisitions. Therefore, libraries use interlibrary loan services to bridge the gap between what is available in their library and what is being requested by the patron. For a number of years the Deaf Smith County Library has made interlibrary loan services available to their patrons.

Interlibrary loans are transactions in which material is lent by one library for use of an individual borrower of another library. Our most frequently requested materials are books we do not have in our collection. A patron may also request articles from magazines that we do not subscribe to. As a general rule, a book is usually loaned from another library without a fee being charged to the borrower. However, a patron must pay the cost of the return postage. Depending upon the policy of the lending library a patron may have to pay the cost of xeroxing material.

The interlibrary loan request is processed through a major resource center, ours being Amarillo Public Library. The speed with which an interlibrary loan request is processed and material received is dependent upon the location of the borrowed material. As a general rule, we advise our patron that the process will take 7-10 days.

Interlibrary loan service is a courtesy and privilege, not a right, and is dependent upon the cooperation of many libraries and their patrons. It is important that our library remain in good standing with lending libraries and this is why rules and procedures must be followed by individual patrons. The Deaf Smith County Library and the patron requesting interlibrary loan each have their own responsibilities.

Interlibrary loan responsibilities of the Deaf Smith County Library is as follows:

- 1.) Process ILL request for patron
- 2.) Return ILL material promptly to the lending library

Interlibrary loan responsibilities of the patron is as follows:

- 1.) Be a patron in good standing at Deaf Smith County Library.

2.) Be willing to pay fees charged in the interlibrary loan requests:

a.) Patron will pay the return postage cost to return each item to lending library.

b.) Cost of xeroxing any material. The patron may stipulate the maximum amount they will pay for a request.

c.) Any fee that is charged by the lending library according to their lending policy. The patron shall stipulate the maximum amount they are willing to pay.

All fees charged by a lending library must be paid by the patron making the request. If the patron does not pick up the interlibrary loan material, those fees shall be added to the borrower's record.

3.) Just as a parent is responsible for materials checked out by their children from the Deaf Smith County Library, they will also be ultimately responsible for the interlibrary loan requests and any fees charged by the child.

4.) A patron is given a due date for their interlibrary loan material. It is essential that a patron be prompt in returning the material so that it may be mailed back to the lending library and arrive on time. Interlibrary loan material may be renewed if advance notice is given, according to the policy of the lending library. To encourage the prompt return of ILL materials, there will be a fine charged on overdue interlibrary loan material. The fine will be 5 cents per day, per book. This overdue charge will go into effect on any interlibrary loan material requested after Sept. 1.

5.) Failure to assume these responsibilities may result in suspension of individual interlibrary loan service.

We encourage you to come in and use these ILL services. For more information call 364-1206 or drop by the library at 211 E. 4th.

We have great selection of new books this week! Our first two books are on the New York Times bestseller list.

Outer Banks by Anne Rivers Siddons is about the reuniting of college roommates. Kate Abrams, a successful interior designer, wonders if those great friendships will have survived the years of separation. Cecie was the dry, will-o'-the-wisp, best friend and confidante. Fig was the foolish and perpetually childish friend who is now a world-famous romance novelist. Ginger, the exuberant tomboy, married Paul Sibley, who was Kate's great love. On the outer banks of North Carolina the girls are united and they discover that those years of unfulfilled promise are forever gone and that actions do have consequences and they may be dark ones. But even life and separation cannot destroy the gift and power of a true friendship.

Pastime by Robert B. Parker is a surprising tale of "past crimes and present perils." Paul Giacomini's parents divorced ten years ago, and Paul has reconciled with his mother Patty. But now Patty has vanished with her boyfriend, a man of questionable character. Fearing for his mother's safety, Paul begs his parent's old friend, Spenser, to help him locate and rescue Patty from the clutches of the man who has coerced her into running off.

Privileged Information by Stephen White is a stunning psychological thriller and first novel that you may not want to miss. Alan Gregory, a clinical psychologist with a thriving practice, finds his life beginning to unravel when one of his female patients is found dead, an apparent suicide. The local paper begins printing accusations from an unnamed source that infers improprieties of a sexual nature were going on between the woman and Dr. Gregory.

Gregory launches a psychological and personal quest for the truth that intensifies when more of his patients die untimely deaths. Troubled by random acts of terror around him, Gregory starts to fear for the safety of the people he loves, and to suspect that one of his patients is involved. When and where should privileged information between patient and therapist end?

Elizabeth: the Life of Elizabeth Taylor by Alexander Walker explores the roots of Taylor's extraordinary personality and reveals the secret of her success and survival. Told with immense candor, wit, and sympathy the book begins with Elizabeth's privileged London childhood, goes through her six husbands, her desperate need to love and be loved and the amazing resilience that helped her weather the condemnation for "the most public adultery in history" and also the dramatic illness that almost took her life.

Other new books this week are: Mohammed Ali: is life and times by Thomas Hauser When You Look Like Your Passport Photo It's Time to Go Home by Erma Bombeck A Suitable Vengeance by Elizabeth George MAMista by Len Deighton

Plaid makes a fashionable comeback for fall

By FRANCINE PARNES
For AP Special Features

There's enough plaid out there for fall to pave all the roads in the Scottish highlands.

There are plaid handbags and headbands. Plaid dresses, jumpers, skirts and jackets. Plaid shoes, plaid jewelry. And, of course, plaid scarves.

Don't fret it's ubiquity. It's an easy, budget-friendly update. An investment of just $39 at The Limited, for example, will get a red plaid cotton and Lycra skirt with side zipper pockets.

Plaid is a versatile look, showing up in traditional schoolgirl tartans as well as in new hot combinations of color, fabric and style.

"If you were to buy only one new thing for fall, in my opinion it'd have to be plaid," says Joan Kaner, senior vice president and fashion director at Neiman Marcus.

A new plaid jacket will perk up last season's pants and skirts of complementary hues, or tartan flats with proper tights can give new life to an old suit.

For a Glen plaid with a jolt, try Adrienne Vittadini's marigold and magenta suit. The double-breasted wool blazer, $370, is worn over matching slim skirt, $195.

Making a foray into evening are extravagantly embroidered plaids.

"A new twist," Kaner says, "is adding sequins or beads or braid trim."

A strong seller, she predicts, will be Oscar de la Renta's short beaded pleated skirt in red plaid silk, $4,400, with black long-sleeved wool crewneck, $470.

With all the fuss over plaid, is there anything else?

Shapely jackets, kicky pleats, skinny pants, ankle boots - and racy black leather motorcycle jackets to wear anytime, anywhere.

"Our number one trend for fall is color, ranging from brights to jewel tones, color blocking, plaids and black and white combined with red," says Karen Bohnhoff, vice president of public relations for Dayton Hudson Corp. in Minneapolis.

"The most popular palette," she says, "is the red family, from purple to burgundy, scarlet to flame."

Look for it head to toe.

A jacket, says Kaner, is the most vital and versatile piece in a wardrobe. New styles are long and shapely, with a peplum or cropped at the waist and zipped up scuba-style.

"A jacket works over almost everything from leggings to short skirts to catsuits to jeans," says Sarah Davies, fashion director for Nordstrom, headquartered in Seattle.

Two bright ones to catch her eye are by Gemma Kahng: a tangerine wool knit cropped jacket with purple and gold dove-shaped buttons, $594, and a fuchsia tweed banded in lime green, $830.

Some of the best-dressed legs this season will be stepping out in sleek ski pants. "It's a trend inspired by athletic gear," Davies says.

Anne Klein's A-Line black ski pants, $215, are a water resistant blend of nylon, cotton and spandex. Add A-Line's polyester and nylon jacket in lime with zip-off sleeves, $285.

Also, look for stirrups in zany patterns such as houndstooth or a mustard and purple plaid, all with a big top. Bohnhoff suggests a cardigan updated with color blocking and zippers, an over-sized turtleneck or a big shirt.

The perfect ending?

"The proportion of a big tunic over a slim leg is best finished off with short boots," Bohnhoff says. "The components work well for walks in the woods, riding bicycles and doing Saturday errands."

Many have zip closures. Nordstrom's Davies suggests those in black suede or patent with a mid-heel. "Black is the good neutral," she says, although colors such as fuchsia or purple are strong contenders.

Whatever the color, match them with opaque stockings. "It gives the longest line to the leg," Davies says.

The short pleated skirt is a must-have according to Kaner, preferably in thin wool crepe or georgette or chiffon that gives it 11-month wearability.

"It's a way to update the long jacket you may already have in your wardrobe," she says.

Metallics and zippers will continue strong.

"The Roads of New Mexico"

- All 172 pages in full color
- Each page measures a large 15 x 11 inches
- Presents the entire state in stunning detail
- Appendices and specialty maps of many different features

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.
