Grand jury indicts 8

Indictments were returned against eight defendants by the Deaf Smith County grand jury Thursday.

Meeting for the first session of a six-month term, the grand jury indicted an 18-year-old, Davey Enriquez, on two charges of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon.

Felony driving while intoxicated indictments were handed down on Juan Lopez Jr., 37; Donald Lee Tice, 47; Jessie Ruiz, 26, and Heliodoro Perez, aka Heriodoro Elias Perez, 27.

Indicted for forgery by possession was Robert Enriquez, 24, and an indictment for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle was returned against Danny Ray Shiver, 27.

Aggravated sexual assault of a child was the charge in the indictment against Francisco "Frank" Flores, 28.

The grand jury was empaneled early in July and will serve until the end of the year.

Langley resigns city post

Earnest Langley, who has served as City Attorney since 1954, submitted his resignation Thursday because of health reasons, it was announced by Mayor Tom LeGate.

"It will be with regret that I present Mr. Langley's resignation to the city commission at the next meeting," LeGate said. "He has rendered a great service to the City of Hereford over the years and we will miss him."

In his letter, Langley said it had been his pleasure to work with all three city managers and with the numerous mayors and city commissioners during his tenure. "I wish to extend to each of them, including the ones who are no longer present with us, my appreciation for their cooperation. This has made my job more enjoyable."

Langley said of his 37 years representing the city: "I trust that the pluses have been worth more than the minuses, although I am sure there have been both." When he came home from the hospital in February of this year, Langley said he was hopeful that the evidences of his stroke would go away by summertime.

With an ensuing stroke being suffered by his law firm partner, James W. Witherspoon, Langley said he felt it "even more necessary not to put off the sad moment of my resignation."

A prominent attorney here since 1952, Langley has been active in community and civic affairs. He is a former president of the chamber of commerce, Lions Club, Camp Fire Council, District Bar Association, Hereford Country Club, and was a founding trustee of King's Manor and has served as legal counsel for the Methodist home for many years. He was named Citizen of the Year in 1969.

He and his wife, Helen, have four married daughters. They all graduated from Hereford High School and Texas Tech University.

Amarillo Outreach group visits

An Amarillo Chamber of Commerce group visited Hereford Thursday on a public relations trip to discuss areas of mutual interest and concern. Among the 27 people at the meeting were, left to right: Randy Jeffers, Amarillo C of C committee chairman; Mayor Tom LeGate, Pat Robbins, local chamber president; Tom Patterson, Amarillo chamber president; Bill Helton, SPS chairman; and Don Graham, local banker.

Amarillo chamber visits

Representatives from Amarillo Chamber of Commerce made an "outreach" visit to Hereford Thursday, meeting here at noon with chamber and community leaders to discuss areas of possible mutual concern.

Pat Robbins, Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce president, welcomed the group of 11 men and one woman to Hereford. Mike Carr, executive vice president, briefly outlined projects underway in Hereford, including expansion programs at Holly Sugar and Poarch Brothers.

Tom Patterson, Amarillo C of C president, mentioned some priority goals among a list of 63 projects being developed or considered by the Amarillo chamber. Randy Jeffers, chairman of the group, said the chamber was stressing support of agribusiness and promoting Amarillo as the "flagship city" of the Panhandle.

County Judge Tom Simons asked the group if Amarillo's Economic Development Corporation, which is funded by a special sales tax, will offer any assistance to area towns. Richard Brown, chairman of the EDC, said the group was still "feeling its way" and no specific plans had been made to help Panhandle towns.

Former Hereford Mayor Wes Fisher asked if the Amarillo medical community had any plans to reach out in the area and offer assistance to rural hospitals. Patterson responded to the question, saying that Amarillo leaders were having a difficult time getting involved with leaders in the medical field.

It was pointed out that two Lubbock hospitals are offering to assist Deaf Smith General Hospital with affiliation programs. Apparently, none of the Amarillo hospitals are pursuing any type of management affiliations.

Contrary to a radio report and speculation by some citizens here this week, the group did not mention or ask for support of the Pantex expansion project.

Some senators pledge pay raise to charities

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senators who face re-election challenges next year already are trying to distance themselves from a $23,200 pay increase the Senate voted itself.

A day after the raise was approved by a 53-45 vote on a surprise amendment brought to the Senate floor by Democratic and Republican leaders in the dead of night, at least five members whose terms expire in 1993 said they will refuse all or some of the money or give it to charity.

"The majority of senators have stiffed the American people and this time the voters will remember," consumer advocate Ralph Nader predicted Thursday. "People can be pushed around by crooked and greedy politicians only to a certain limit... and then a simmering revolt erupts."

The measure attached to an appropriations bill would close the gap between the $125,100 annual salaries of the House's 435 members and the $101,900 that senators now get.

In exchange, senators would be banned from pocketing thousands of dollars in speaking fees that more than half of them now accept each year from special interest groups seeking to influence legislation. The House renounced such honoraria in boosting its salaries by $28,500 last January.

However, some frequent performers on the rubber chicken speaking circuit actually could get an honoraria windfall this year.

Those who already have pocketed the $23,068 limit on honoraria this year could make a total of $134,364 in pay and speaking fees in 1991 if the legislation is finished and signed by President Bush before Congress goes on vacation next month.

Of the 33 senators who face re-election in the next two years, 25 opposed the pay increase and only eight supported it. Three of those eight - Republican Leader Bob Dole of Kansas and Sens. Tim Wirth, D-Colo., and John Breaux, D-La., explained their votes.

"Maybe we're all overpaid," said Dole. "But we can't cut House salaries and I believe most people in my state will understand... there ought to be parity."

Breaux complained that many of his colleagues "too often are eager to vote against a pay raise but all too willing to accept the money."

Wirth defended his vote as a way to rid the Senate of honoraria and encourage more non-millionaire candidates with families to seek seats in it. But he said he was going to divert all of the increase to setting up a charity program in Colorado.

Three other senators up for re-election in the next two years but who voted against the increase also said they will give it all to charity to return at least a portion of it to the government.

Sen. Harris Wofford, D-Pa., said his first donation would go to a fund to help families of Pennsylvania soldiers killed in the Persian Gulf War.

Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., said he will turn back to the government any portion "more than I would have gotten" had there been annual cost-of-living increases equal to those received by Social Security recipients over the past 15 years.

Sen. Dan Coats, R-Ind., also voting against the raise, and Sen. Jay Rockefeller, D-W.Va., who voted for it, said they would give the extra money to charity.

Walcott board meets tonight

The Walcott Independent School District will consider consolidation, the results of an audit of transfers, and the contract of Superintendent Dr. Bill McLaughlin at a special board meeting at 8 p.m. today at Walcott School.

The school, in western Deaf Smith County, has been under duress because of a highly-critical assessment of the school by the Texas Education Agency and a liberal transfer policy that may have violated federal law.

The school district had apparently accepted transfers without regard to the racial mix of the transfers. That is a violation of a federal court ruling handed down several years ago.

McLaughlin admitted in a telephone interview Tuesday night that he was aware of the ruling but had chosen to ignore it in the interest of allowing all children who wanted to attend the small, rural school the chance to participate in its programs.

The board will also address consolidation with the Hereford Independent School District. McLaughlin had said, in earlier conversations, that consolidation of the districts was inevitable, but had hoped to delay combining the districts until 1993 or 1994. McLaughlin said Tuesday that with the reason events, the district may be forced to consolidate earlier, perhaps for this fall's term.

GOP wants deeper cuts

AUSTIN (AP) - A plan by Republican lawmakers to cut the budget further would fall mostly on state employees.

"It's our contention that we can do a budget without raising new taxes," Rep. Tom Craddick of Midland, chairman of the House GOP Caucus, said Thursday.

Lawmakers face a projected $4.8 billion revenue shortfall to continue the current level of services.

The Republicans unveiled a plan to slash an additional $2.3 billion from the 1992-93 budget, in addition to proposed reductions contained in State Comptroller John Sharp's audit of state government.

Under the plan, the state work force would be chopped by 10 percent. In addition, employees would have to pay their share of Social Security, take one day off per month without pay and lose five holidays.

Craddick said the changes could be made "without real pain and suffering."

In other budget developments, a proposal to transfer the functions of the controversial Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission to other agencies appeared to be dying.

The TABC fight was one of several battles raging over Sharp's plan, which has become the centerpiece of legislative efforts during the special session.

"I think a lot of members are beginning to ask questions as they go through the (Sharp) report... they're beginning to see some problems with what's been recommended," said Rep. Tom Uher, D-Bay City.

But Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Gib Lewis downplayed such comments, saying that Sharp's recommendations were going through typical battles that accompany major legislation.

"The Sharp report is not the 11th commandment," Bullock said. "It is a blueprint. There will be deviations from it from time to time."

"Sure there are going to be a few changes made, but that is what the process is all about," said Lewis, D-Fort Worth.

On the TABC proposal, Bullock and Lewis acknowledged the measure was undergoing major changes.

The agency has been criticized for being too close to the alcoholic beverage industry, and Sharp had recommended its tax and licensing functions be placed under his authority, while enforcement be transferred to the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Lewis said the DPS doesn't want the TABC's enforcement functions, and that the Mothers Against Drunk Driving has a good relationship with the current agency.

Baker facing hurdles

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) - The American formula for Arab-Israeli negotiations has final Syrian approval. But Secretary of State James A. Baker III may find it hard to sell in Israel because a United Nations observer would have a role in the talks.

"There are plenty of hurdles left to cross," Baker said Thursday night in announcing that Syria was ready to attend a peace conference under U.S. and Soviet sponsorship.

On a visit to Greece today, President Bush called the development "very encouraging."

"There are positive aspects and what I've heard from the secretary is all positive so far," he told reporters.

In Israel, Avi Panzner, Shamir's spokesman, and the government press office declined to comment on the U.S.-Syrian agreement.

The conference, if it takes place, would be based on President Bush's formula calling for Israel to surrender land for peace.

"Maybe we're all overpaid. But we can't cut House salaries and I believe most people in my state will understand... there ought to be parity."

World/National

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia - With Serbia's blessing, the federal presidency orders the army to pull out of Slovenia in apparent acceptance of the republic's secessionist drive. But separatist Croatia opposes the order.

DAMASCUS, Syria - The American formula for Arab-Israeli negotiations has final Syrian approval. But Secretary of State James A. Baker III may find it hard to sell in Israel because a U.N. observer would have a role in the talks.

WASHINGTON - House opponents of Senate-passed criminal penalties for AIDS-infected doctors who don't reveal their disease to patients say they believe the House will reject the legislation. But lobbyists for health-care professionals say the measure's future is unpredictable.

WASHINGTON - Senators who face re-election challenges next year are trying to distance themselves from a $23,200 pay increase the Senate voted itself.

WASHINGTON - Iran-Contra prosecutor Lawrence Walsh says the CIA erected a serious roadblock that delayed his criminal probe of the agency for 15 months.

ATHENS, Greece - After touring ancient temples on the Acropolis, President Bush is visiting a strategically located military base to praise the resolve of troops that were sent to the Persian Gulf War.

GUADALAJARA, Mexico - Latin American leaders at the first Ibero-American summit show signs of improving ties with Cuban leader Fidel Castro. But the bearded strongman in a military suit often seemed out of tune with the 20 other presidents and premiers - elected civilians who urged democracy as the path to progress.

BOSTON - Chris Rogers had his share of problems in his 16 years, having spent some time in foster homes and once at a state detention center. But relatives and friends say he was a good boy who didn't deserve to be shot to death by a policeman in what the officer says was an accident.

ST. LOUIS - Mantras and the lotus position are fine, but if you really want to relax and forget your troubles, try juggling. That advice was heard more than once here this week as 1,000 of the nation's best jugglers gathered to discuss the fine points of keeping balls, bowling pins and flaming torches in the air.

Texas

AUSTIN - The Senate has voted to build cells for an additional 30,000 prison inmates, which Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock noted would be expensive but said "the pay off will be a safer Texas." Prison construction in the next four years would be financed by proceeds from $1.1 billion in proposed bonds, which the Senate approved, 28-0, Thursday.

AUSTIN - A plan by Republican lawmakers to cut the budget further would fall mostly on state employees. The Republicans unveiled a plan to slash an additional $2.3 billion from the 1992-92 budget. Under the plan, the state work force would be chopped by 10 percent.

AUSTIN - Texas officials, already embroiled in a state court challenge to the new school finance law, may face a federal court battle as well. U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders, who oversees Dallas Independent School District's long-running desegregation case, on Thursday granted the district's motion to file a complaint against the state in the case.

WASHINGTON - Leaders of the House transportation committee have endorsed extending Interstate 49 through Texarkana as part of a plan that Rep. Jim Chapman believes could turn the northeastern corner of Texas into a "critical crossroads."

DALLAS - Texas Instruments Inc. will reduce its work force by about 5 percent, or 3,200 workers, to adapt to changes in its primary businesses, defense contracting and semiconductors. The cutback, to be achieved through early retirement offers and layoffs in the next few months, will cost the company about $130 million.

MORGAN'S POINT - The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department formally accepted its newest wildlife refuge Thursday with the dedication of an historic island in the Houston Ship Channel donated to the state by Conoco Inc.

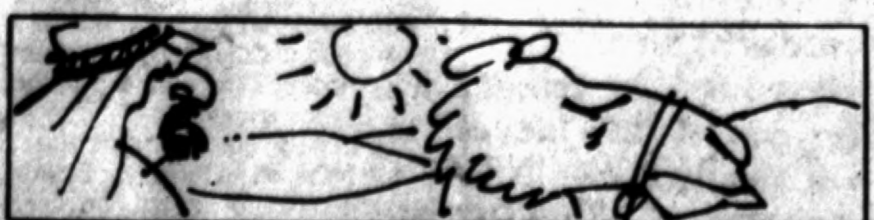

AUSTIN - A legal settlement should bring to an end a half-century of price fixing on milk sold to Texas school children, Attorney General Dan Morales said. Seven dairies agreed Thursday to pay $14.9 million to settle a lawsuit charging them with illegally conspiring to fix milk prices, Morales said.

WASHINGTON - Lawmakers and the Bush administration are fighting over a $1.75 billion disaster relief package sought by farmers, including thousands from Texas, who have seen their crops wither in record heat, freezes or floods. Texas farmers stand to take home a major share of the $1.75 billion, said Rep. Kika de la Garza, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee.

SAN BENITO - Cameron County is experiencing an abnormally large number of babies born without complete brains, and federal and state health officials are investigating if the cases are linked. At least nine cases of anencephaly have been reported in 1991 out of approximately 4,300 babies born in Cameron County. That is about five times the normal rate, health officials say.

WASHINGTON - A House committee has cleared the way for the preservation of valuable wetlands in Calhoun County, where the petrochemicals industry is competing for space with waterfowl and whooping cranes.

EL PASO - El Paso County is looking through its coffers for money to pay for a psychiatrist to examine a man accused in the deaths of six women and girls. The money would have come from an account that pays costs of court-appointed attorneys for indigent defendants. But the account is empty.

Over 85 percent of the world's population goes through the day without coming in contact with a newspaper, radio, television or telephone.

Hereford man is tour participant

Scott Hall of Hereford recently completed a seven-day nationwide tour with the National Cattlemen's Association Young Cattlemen's Traveling Leadership Conference.

The conference is co-sponsored by the National Cattlemen's Association and its state and national breed affiliate associations, IBP and Continental Grain Company.

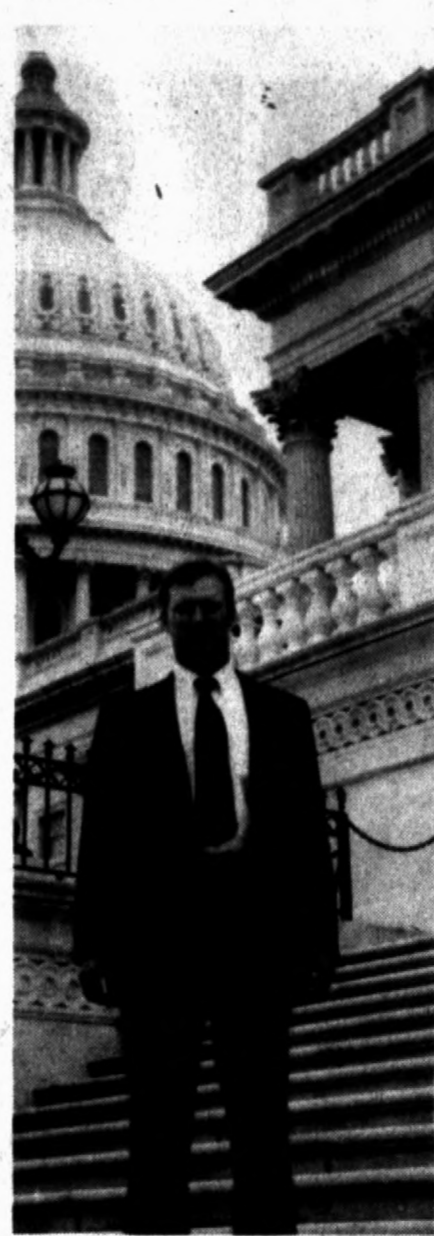

Hall, representing the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, was one of 27 persons in the tour, designed to introduce young cattlemen and cattlemen to all aspects of the cattle industry.

Members of the group began their tour in Denver at the NCA headquarters. The members received an orientation to NCA and Cattle-Fax.

The next stop on the tour was Chicago to visit the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. They were able to tour the trading floor and discuss key livestock industry issues with exchange traders. While in Chicago the tour participants also visited the National Livestock and Meat Board.

Next, the tour went to Dakota City, NE to spend a day at IBP's packing and processing plant. Company officials gave the tour participants a tour of the facility and discussed beef packing and processing issues.

The final three days of the conference were spent in Washington, DC. The cattlemen and cattlemen were briefed on industry issues and given an opportunity to meet with congressmen. Participants were also treated to special tours of the White House, Pentagon and Capitol Building.

Latin countries seek to repair ties with Cuba

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) - The bearded leader in a military uniform seemed out of tune with the 20 heads of state in business suits. Fidel Castro railed against U.S. imperialism; the others preached democracy and free markets.

Latin leaders at the first Ibero-American summit Thursday gently prodded the Cuban revolutionary to move toward democracy even as they moved to repair ties with the only Communist government in the Western hemisphere.

The two-day summit, which ends today, is the first time that the leaders of Spain and Portugal have gathered with 19 of their former Latin American colonies. It follows years of democratic change both in Europe and the Americas. All of the countries save Cuba now have elected governments.

Displaying the tact with which the summit leaders handled the Cuban issue, Salvadoran President Alfredo Cristiani did not criticize Castro directly during his address to the group Thursday.

"This is not a forum for confrontation, but to seek understanding," he said.

But after the leaders' opening day speeches, Cristiani told reporters that Castro "continues to cling to something which is giving way all over the world."

"The winds of change that have swept the world in recent years have also arrived in America," added Spanish Prime Minister Felipe Gonzalez.

Gonzalez said it was time to "let the parliaments and the people write their history with sovereignty and relegate the achievements of guerrillas to the imaginative novelists."

But Castro gave no signs of willingness to move toward democracy. In his eight-minute speech, he thundered against U.S. influence in the region, saying it had led to increasing poverty and indebtedness throughout Latin America.

Referring to Latin America's natural and human wealth, Castro said, "We could have been everything and we are nothing."

"The world heads in an ever-worse direction," he said.

He added that Cuba wants to belong to "this integrated and united Latin America." But he termed President Bush's proposal for a hemispheric common market a fantasy. Other Latin American leaders praised the idea.

Castro also snapped at suggestions he was under pressure, or that Cuba needed to reform its hard-line Communist system.

Many Latin leaders indicated they believe the best way to influence Castro is to end his isolation.

Dallas ISD may file federal suit

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas officials, already embroiled in a state court challenge to the new school finance law, may face a federal court battle as well.

U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders, who oversees Dallas Independent School District's long-running desegregation case, on Thursday granted the district's motion to file a complaint against the state in the case.

The district says a projected loss of at least $47 million in state aid under Texas' school finance law would impede its desegregation efforts.

The state has not previously been involved in the desegregation case, said Robert Thomas, a lawyer representing the school district.

The estimated loss in state aid is virtually all of the school district's state funding, said Robert Johnston, secretary to the DISD school board and administrative assistant to the superintendent.

The district's total budget is $646.9 million this year, said Rodney Davis, director of information services.

"If left unchecked, Senate Bill 351 (the new law) may have the undesired effect of forcing the DISD back into a segregated system," said a court brief filed by the school district.

The school district is asking Sanders, of Dallas, to declare the state responsible for paying for desegregation efforts. Alternatively, it asks Sanders to find the measure unconstitutional and prevent the law from applying at least to DISD.

State Attorney General Dan Morales said he would confer with state lawyers assigned to handle school finance litigation on how to proceed.

Texas already is involved in a state district court challenge to the new law.

The law is designed to shift hundreds of millions of dollars in property tax revenue from wealthier to poorer school districts within new education taxing regions drawn largely along county lines. It also redistributes some state aid.

The measure is meant to address a Texas Supreme Court order to even out education funding available to property-rich and poor school districts.

Kevin O'Hanlon, Texas Education Agency general counsel, said DISD simply could raise its local property tax rate to make up for lost state aid.

"They may have to increase their tax rate. It's not going to be outrageous compared with any place else in the state. They have been subsidized by the old system," O'Hanlon said.

But Johnston said, "We don't feel we should have to do that." The school district's current rate is $1.10 per $100 property valuation.

Johnston said the state is obligated to help finance desegregation efforts because Texas required segregated schools until 1969.

Slovenia hails troop withdrawal

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) - Slovenian officials are hailing a decision by the federal presidency to pull the army out of the secessionist republic within three months, calling it de facto recognition of their independence.

But the Slovenes also viewed the decision, made late Thursday, with a measure of caution. The move could also complicate the secessionist efforts of Croatia, which like Slovenia declared independence June 25.

"I am not euphoric," said Slovenian Deputy Foreign Minister

Zoran Thaler, "but this is the most important sign of recognition from Belgrade."

In the past, the army has sometimes ignored orders in the crisis sparked by the declarations of independence, but this plan actually came from the army.

Janez Drnovsek, Slovenia's representative on the collective presidency, told Ljubljana TV that the decision to pull out was made by the army's supreme command and confirmed during a meeting of the presidency by Defense Minister Veljko Kadjevic.

"It is important that the text of the decision was prepared by the general staff - in Kadjevic's office," Drnovsek said. "This is a historic decision for Slovenia."

Serbia's representative on the eight-member presidency, Borisav Jovic, said the pullout would begin immediately.

"The Yugoslav Army should not be stationed in those parts of the country where it is considered an occupation force," Jovic told Belgrade TV. "We think that by this move we have made a significant step toward the peaceful solution of the Yugoslav crisis."

The army's officer corps is dominated by Serbs, who are longtime ethnic foes of Croats. Serbia resists Croatia's secession because large number of ethnic Serbs live in that republic.

The presidency statement said troops now in Slovenia would go to Bosnia and Serbia.

"Fatal Attractions" is the title of Dr. James W. Cory's sermon for the regular 10:30 a.m. Sunday worship service. The scripture lesson is II Samuel 1-17.

Fellowship time is 10:10-10:30 a.m., just before the worship service. The Vacation Bible School video

Conjunto BERNAL to perform

Conjunto BERNAL, a Spanish gospel group from McAllen will be sharing the gospel in music in various churches in Hereford. They will perform Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Church of the Nazarene, Sunday 11 a.m. at Primera Iglesia Bautista and 5 p.m. at Templo Calvario. The spanish speaking public is invited to attend the church of their choice.

and crafts display will be located in the large fellowship hall following the worship service Sunday morning.

Women's Bible Study will be held Monday at 9:30 a.m. Helen Rose will teach this study in Romans.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Sunday, July 28th at 5 p.m. the congregation will meeting for a potluck supper to be followed at 6 p.m. with a business meeting. This business meeting is the most important event for the church this year as there will be decisions made concerning the future of the church, its pastoral leadership, its program emphasis and denominational affiliation.

August 5-7, Rev. Grant Edwards pastor of Fellowship Christian Church, Springfield, Ohio, will be leading a seminar of husband-wife relationships. The emphasis will be on the spiritual aspect of relationships.

ST. THOMAS EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Weekly services include prayer meetings at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. on Wednesdays and 11 a.m. Sunday.

The church will be hosting their annual melodrama, "Peril at Pumpnicle Pass" July 26-27 at St. Thomas' outdoor theatre located behind the church.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

Margaret Bell, Open Door Sunday School teacher and Amarillo district president of the United Methodist Women, has been asked to be the guest speaker at the Sunday morning worship service.

The creation of land, water and plants will be the topic, shared with participants of Wonderful Wednesday on July 24 at the grounds of Boy Scout Camp Don Harrington. The fun day will include swimming and hiking.

Participants are asked to bring a sack lunch and drink labeled with their name. Also needed for the trip is a swimsuit, towel, sunscreen, insect repellent, good walking shoes and comfortable clothing.

UNITED PENTECOSTAL CHURCH

The United Pentecostal Church is sponsoring a youth service in Dameron Park Saturday at 5 p.m.

All churches are invited to participate in the fun. If the youth groups have songs, choirs, etc., come prepared to take part.

The youth president and wife, Rev. and Mrs. John Howard from Snyder will be conducting the service and ministering in music.

Rev. Mark Willhoite and wife from Houston is the evangelists. They will also be ministering in music. Rev. Warren McKibben, local pastor, extends a welcome to all.

IMMANUEL LUTHERAN CHURCH

Sunday school is at 10 a.m. at Immanuel Lutheran Church. We have classes for all ages. Our adult Bible class will start the study of the book of Nehemiah on Sunday.

The morning service is at 11 a.m. The sermon will be called "Blessings of the Peace of God" and it will be taken from the epistle lesson for the day, Ephesians 2: 13-22. Copies of the sermon, as well as a video tape of our service are available upon request.

Hints from Heloise

Q. We live in a 30-year-old house that has oak parquet floors. Any spot of liquid dropped on the floor that isn't immediately wiped up leaves a black spot that I have been unable to remove.

What really baffles me is that I have the floor protected with a good coat of wax. Do you have any idea why this happens or what I can do about it? — Phyllis Zuermer, Terre Haute, Ind.

A. According to the National Wood Flooring Association, the liquid is seeping through the wax and causing the black spots. Wiping up spills immediately can lessen the spotting since wax alone doesn't prevent damage caused by liquid spills.

To remove the spots, if the floor is waxed they recommend rubbing the spots gently with dampened 000 steel wool or very fine sandpaper. Then re wax the area. If the flooring is stained, rather than natural, use a liquid wax with the correct color stain added to keep the color from fading.

If this doesn't work to your satisfaction or you want a floor that requires less maintenance, you might consider having the floor refinished and covered with a polyurethane finish made for wood floors. This would put a high-gloss shine on the wood and prevent liquids from seeping through and causing spots. — Heloise

PLANT WATER

Dear Heloise: I live in a small apartment and my patio is covered with plants. To conserve water I keep several large buckets or containers outside to catch the water when it rains. Rain water is good for plants and collecting it is simple. — A.E.S., Baltimore, Md. Sometimes the old-fashioned hints are the best! This is exactly what Grandma did. Glad you wrote. — Heloise

RUSTY DRIVEWAYS

Q. Are you aware of a substance that cleans rust from concrete driveways? Thank you. — D. B., Rapid City, S.D.

A. There are commercial rust removers you can buy, or you can try using muriatic acid, which you can find in most hardware stores.

Be sure to read and follow the instructions carefully, since this is an acid. As with all chemicals, be sure to use and store properly to be safe. Don't take a chance — children are so inquisitive. — Heloise

RECYCLED FISH TANK

Dear Heloise: Recently at a garage sale I found a large fish aquarium. As soon as I saw it I realized it was the answer to my problem. I had wanted to start an herb garden but had no space. Now my aquarium is sitting on the kitchen counter full of herbs. — T.J., Omaha, Neb.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After reading the letter from the woman who had two miscarriages in eight years, I had to write.

During the past year I've had three miscarriages. It has been a year of grieving over the death of these children. Yet I found, as your correspondent did, that most people don't understand.

I'm not writing out of bitterness. I just want to help those who don't know what to say to a woman who has miscarried.

Say, "I'm sorry. I know it must have been very difficult for you. Would you like to talk about it?"

Don't say, "It was God's will." Or "You can have another one. At least you didn't get attached to it." Or "It's better this way. It was probably deformed or retarded."

The subject of babies is difficult one for us. We don't want to hear about how many pregnant people you know, nor do we want to see pictures of your own healthy babies. Showers and nurseries are battlefields for us. If you notice that we avoid these places, please understand.

I know this letter makes us sound fragile and weak, but we really do need a lot of support and just writing to you has made me feel better. — Hoping and Hurting in St. Louis

DEAR ST. LOUIS: Thank you for a letter that many people will learn from. So often folks who mean well say the wrong thing because they just don't know any better. Well -- they do now.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Maimonides, the great Jewish philosopher who lived in the 12 century, was as current as the 1990s when he described the eight levels of charity. As you read these words, ask yourself how many people measure up to these lofty standards.

Going from the lowest level of charity to the highest, here are the eight levels:

1. He who gives unwillingly.
2. He who gives cheerfully, but not enough.

3. He who gives enough, but not until he is asked.

4. He who gives before being asked, but gives directly to the poor man.

5. The poor man knows from whom he takes, but the giver does not know who is receiving.

6. The giver knows to whom he gives, but the receiver does not know the giver.

7. The giver does not know to whom he gives, nor does the poor man know from whom he receives.

8. The highest form of charity is to strengthen the hand of the poor man by giving him a loan, joining him in partnership, or training him out of his poverty, to help him establish himself.

If possible, Ann, please print this. It contains some genuine wisdom. — Cincinnati

DEAR CINCINNATI: For be it from me to argue with Maimonides, but the professional fund-raisers of today would have a tough time with Nos. 5, 6 and 7. Thanks for writing.

Gem of the Day (Sent in by C. Ed Hammers, Ashland, N.H.): Rain is caused by high-pressure areas, cold fronts, warm moist air and weekends.

Is alcohol ruining your life or the life of a loved one? "Alcoholism: How to Recognize It, How to Deal With It, How to Conquer It" can turn things around. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Alcohol, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.45.)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 22; my husband is 26. We have been married for two weeks. My husband has cancer. When we got back from our honeymoon we learned that the cancer is back and has spread to other parts of his body.

"John" is an incredible man with an attitude that is extremely courageous. I'm sure it's what has kept him going this long. I thank God every day for the time we have had together and we are trying to make each moment count.

I have read so many letters in your column from women complaining about their husbands for one reason or another. I would give anything to be a normal newlywed and fight with my husband about who squeezed the toothpaste in the middle or why he didn't put his socks in the hamper. But we don't have that much time to waste.

I hope this letter will make people realize that the uncertainties in life can hit each and every one of us and that they should not waste their precious time and energy sniping at each other for small things. Too many people do not realize how wonderful their lives are until they look at someone who is facing what I am facing this very moment. If you think this letter would help wake up some of those readers, both men and women, I would be very pleased if you would print it. This would be my way of thanking the good Lord for the wonderful moments I have had with this great husband of mine. Sincerely -- S.S.

DEAR S.S.: I'm sure you have accomplished your mission. It would be difficult not to be moved by your message. It certainly puts life in its proper perspective and I thank you for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We have a large family all living in one household. My mother and aunt are both senior citizens.

A few years ago, Mom and "Aunt Ellie" started to play bingo at a parlor nearby. First it was once a week, now it's at least four times, and every weekend without fail. My wife has to drive them there and I pick them up since neither one can see well enough to drive at night. My wife also has to fix them dinner early, usually around 4:00. I'm not even home from work and the kids are just getting home from school. Our whole schedule revolves around their bingo games.

Recently we estimated how much money Mom and Aunt Ellie were spending on their little hobby. At $20 to $30 per night each, it came to at least $240 a week. That adds up to more than $960 a month. This means they each blow close to $6,000 a year. They rarely win.

Both of these dear women should be getting some exercise and they should also stop smoking. Instead they lay around in their robes all day, rarely getting dressed until it's time to go out for bingo. The only exercise they get is moving the number covers around.

Ann, these two could take some wonderful trips to fabulous places on the money they spend on bingo? It's awful the way they sit for hours in that smoky hall. Can you help? Is there a Bingo Anonymous? — Medium Size Town in California

DEAR CALIFORNIA: Your mom and Aunt Ellie are hooked. Addicted. They really ought to contact Gamblers Anonymous. But they probably won't because they don't want to quit and see no reason why they should.

Have you tried getting their doctor to order them to stop smoking and stay out of the bingo hall? It may be your best shot. I recommend it.

When planning a wedding, who pays for what? Who stands where? "The Ann Landers Guide for Brides" has all the answers. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Brides, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.45.)

LONDON (AP) - Sylvester Stallone got an apology and an undisclosed sum in a settlement of a lawsuit against a magazine that had reported the "Rambo" star evaded military service during the Vietnam War.

Stallone, 45, says he tried to enlist during the war but was turned down because of a bad ear.

"Mr. Stallone never sought to evade his call-up," his lawyer, Michael Skrein, said Wednesday.

He said an article by Taki

Theodoracopulos in the February issue of the British magazine The Spectator claimed Stallone "ducked the Vietnam War."

He said the magazine and Theodoracopulos "agreed to pay him substantial damages and his legal costs."

Pamela Cassidy, lawyer for the magazine and the writer, said her clients "unreservedly withdraw the suggestion to which my friend has referred and apologize to the plaintiff."

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

HOW THE BIBLE VIEWS OLD AGE

WHEREVER ONE COMES ACROSS A MENTION OF OLD AGE IN THE BIBLE, IT IS TREATED WITH GREAT RESPECT. TO BIBLICAL PEOPLE, ADVANCED AGE MEANT THE GAINING OF WISDOM "...ASK THY FATHER AND HE WILL SHOW THEE, THY ELDERS AND THEY WILL TELL THEE." (DEUT. 32:7). TO THESE PEOPLE AGE WAS ALSO CONSIDERED BEAUTIFUL. "THE BEAUTY OF OLD MEN IS THEIR GRAY HEAD." (PROV. 20:29) AND OF COURSE....

...MOSES HIMSELF THUNDERED DOWN FROM THE MOUNT, THUS SAID THE LORD... "HONOR THY FATHER AND THY MOTHER THAT THY DAYS MAY BE LONG IN THE LAND WHICH THE LORD THY GOD GIVETH THEE." (EXODUS 20:12)

The Giants' Cody Sargent slides under the Cardinal pitcher's tag in Thursday's championship game of the Kids Inc. Minor League Tournament. The Giants won 10-1.

Giants win, capture Minor League title

The Giants burst out of the gates for five runs in the first inning on their way to a 10-1 victory over the Cardinals in Thursday's final game of the Kids Inc. Minor League Tournament. It was the last game of the 1991 Kids Inc. season.

Brent Huseman, Marcos Castillo, Nicholas Whately, Tyson Ramirez and Austin Aycock all crossed the plate in the first inning. Ramirez also scored in the third inning, then scored his third run of the game in the fourth.

when Castillo, Whately and Cody Sargent also scored.

Nick Chand got the Cardinals totally in the third inning of the five-inning game.

The Giants, coached by Harold McNutt, Brice Busby and Kenneth Aycock and sponsored by Champion Feedyard, added the tournament title to the regular season championship they earned with a 14-0 record.

The Cardinals finished second in both the tournament and the regular season (11-3).

Jones wants founders in Pokes' Ring of Honor

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Dallas Cowboys owner Jerry Jones says he may induct the franchise-building trio of Tom Landry, Tex Schramm and the late Clint Murchison into the team's Ring of Honor this year.

Landry declined an invitation to be inducted to the Ring of Honor last season, saying he couldn't arrange his schedule so that he could be at Texas Stadium on the day Jones wanted to induct him.

Seven former Cowboys have been included in the ring so far with their names posted at the stadium.

They are Bob Lilly, Don Meredith, Don Perkins, Chuck Howley, Mel Renfro, Roger Staubach and Lee Roy Jordan.

"Coach Landry is in the Hall of Fame, Tex Schramm is going, and without Mr. Murchison, there wouldn't be a Dallas Cowboys," Jones told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram Thursday. "All three are greats of the National Football League, and all three would be wonderful additions."

"There is no timetable on anything, of course, because what we're working toward here at training camp is to uphold the tradition those three men built," Jones said in an interview at Austin. "We're concentrating on trying to live up to the standard they set."

Landry, fired after Jones bought the franchise in February 1989, said Thursday nothing has changed enough for him to make a decision should he be invited this year.

Ballesteros stinks up course

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) - A crying baby, a clunked sand shot and a fierce wind knocked Seve Ballesteros out of the lead in the British Open today.

Ballesteros stirred memories with his sweet 66 in the first round Thursday, but he bogeyed three of the first six holes today. A birdie on the ninth left him 2-under-par for the tournament and a stroke back of two players who hadn't yet started the round - Chip Beck and Martin Gates.

Ballesteros put his drive in a fairway bunker on the left of the first. As he was about to play the second, a baby started wailing. Ballesteros played the shot but managed to stab it only 100 yards.

The Spaniard turned around and glowered at the baby's family and shook his head. His mood did not improve as his third shot landed 15 feet from the pin and he missed a putt for par.

Santiago Luna, a wise-cracking 28-year-old from Madrid, did not see the funny side with a treble bogey seven at the first hole this morning. That sent Luna plummeting from off a shot off the pace back to level par. He ran into trouble again at the second taking a bogey five - but was not alone in struggling among the early starters in the breezy, wet conditions.

After an hour's play, not a single birdie had been carded in 36 holes played and the first 18 out before Ballesteros teed off were a total of 28 over par for the day.

The second hole played particularly tough into the prevailing wind. Ballesteros could only make the front of the green with his second shot, then three-putted from 50 feet to drop back to 2-under - one behind Beck and Gates.

Luna, meanwhile, grabbed the first birdie of the day after 90 minutes of play when he holed for a two on the short fourth. However, it was followed by a pair of bogeys and after nine holes, he was 2-over for the championship and 5-over for the day.

Ballesteros carded to his third bogey of the day at the sixth when his second shot ran up short of the green. His chip left him 10 feet from the flag but he could not make the putt for par.

The bashing at the British Open came not from fans against Americans on the first day, as feared, but from players against Royal Birkdale.

Rather than jeer Yanks to get back for the shabby treatment of Ian Woosnam at the Masters, British spectators cheered them as they joined the assault on par.

The seaside course did its best to blow balls into the grassy dunes or catch them in the dozens of deep, sandy craters. Yet it suffered the insult of 17 players breaking its slimmed-down par-70 in the first round Thursday - and the further indignity of a naked lady who streaked across a fairway.

Seve Ballesteros led the brigade with a 66 crafted out of booming tee shots and brilliant putts. Watching the Spaniard, but not matching him, was partner Johnny Miller, who beat Ballesteros and Jack Nicklaus by six strokes to win here in 1976.

This wasn't so much a stroll down memory lane as a walk along fairways that revealed how much time had passed. Miller looked too old for the game, Ballesteros mature enough to win again.

"In 1976, he was a boy who hit everything straight," Miller said, recalling how the young Ballesteros charged boldly at the pins instead of trying to finesse his shots. "Today, he was a man who went out and conquered the course."

Three of the par-breakers own a total of 10 British Open titles among them - Ballesteros with three, Nick Faldo (68) with two and Tom Watson (69) with five.

Jack Nicklaus, a three-time winner and seven-time runnerup, lurks nearby at 70. Two other former champs, two-time winner Lee Trevino and 1989 winner Mark Calcavecchia, were in the chase at 71.

Woosnam, who shot a 70, and Watson played together without incident or tension, unlike their stormy march through the final nine at the Masters in April.

Then, Watson calmed down Woosnam, a former boxer who had thoughts of punching out some fans harassing him en route to victory. This time, the pair played to fair and friendly galleries, part of the 34,417 fans who lined the course.

The pairing of Ballesteros and Miller was no less intriguing, especially for those who remembered their rivalry 15 years ago.

Miller was at his peak then, shooting a final-round 66 to run away from the 19-year-old Ballesteros, who had a 74.

This time, their scores were reversed.

Ballesteros, playing in the worst of the blustery, shifting winds, rushed into the lead with the dramatic flair that helped him to British Open victories in 1979, '84 and '88 and Masters titles in 1980 and '83.

The wind helped him drive 375 yards on the par-5 17th; he then needed only a 9-iron second shot to set up a 4-foot eagle putt that gave him a share of the lead.

On the 18th, he sent a 40-foot birdie putt curving toward the cup, watched it hang on the lip for a tantalizing moment and saw it drop for the birdie and the lead.

Rocket shines in debut

TORONTO (AP) - The battle on the field was exceeded only by the one going on inside Raghbir "Rocket" Ismail.

The former Notre Dame star's first pro football action was so nerve-wracking that his legs constantly trembled and his concentration wavered.

Somehow, though, he managed 213 total yards, including a 73-yard dash on a trick punt return, in the Toronto Argonauts' 41-18 CFL victory Thursday night over the Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

"Coming into it, I was saying to myself, 'Just relax, just chill, just relax and don't get caught up in everything,'" Ismail said. "I don't know whether you've ever been so nervous at some point that your legs just keep on shaking and don't stop. That's how it was."

He didn't have to wait long, returning the opening kickoff 17 yards and exciting the SkyDome crowd by bouncing off two tacklers and circling to his right before being stopped.

"After the first play, I went, 'OK, I know I can take a hit now.' I hadn't been hit in a while. Then, while the game was going on, I was still shaking and when I was running my legs were feeling real tired. I kept thinking, 'Just concentrate.' I just knew that any other game I'd be able to do a lot better. But it was just great the first time out just to get everything over with."

Even though he was never really an integral part of the offense on a night when Toronto was forced to use three quarterbacks due to injuries, The Rocket ignited both his pro career and the raucous crowd of 41,178.

This was the Argos' second regular-season win but Ismail, who signed an $18 million contract in April - the biggest in CFL history - had missed the entire exhibition season and the opener last week with a badly strained thigh muscle.

The pressure was exquisite. Before he had ever touched a ball in anger in pro football, The Rocket was a household name all over Canada.

Owners Bruce McNall, John Candy and Wayne Gretzky - all much in evidence Thursday night - are depending on The Rocket to help fill the 52,000-seat SkyDome. The Argos averaged about 28,000 a year ago despite a winning team that led the CFL in offense.

The mention of Ismail's name on the public address system prior to the start of the game was enough to bring a roar from the fans trickling into the building. The place absolutely rumbled when a tape of a long Ismail runback for Notre Dame was played on the huge video screen above one end zone.

But that was nothing compared with the standing ovation when Ismail, looking small and fragile in Argos blue and white, took a handoff from Mike "Pinball" Clemons on a punt return and raced from the left sideline to the right sideline, getting all the way to the Hamilton 3-yard line before being brought down.

The game was never really in question after the Argos dashed off to a 20-0 lead.

When it was over, Ismail had chalked up four kickoff returns for 88 yards, including one of 29 yards. He nearly broke two of them. The quarterbacks aimed only three passes at him and he caught the only really catchable one for 38 yards. He also totaled 87 yards on two punt returns, one the handoff from Clemons after Ismail faked a punt rush and drifted back within Clemons' reach.

Toronto rolls over Ryan

By The Associated Press

Not even Nolan Ryan and his newly acquired millions could slow down the Toronto Blue Jays.

Ryan no-hit the Blue Jays at Texas on May 1. But on Thursday night, Toronto left no doubt who the hot team is. Ryan's contract celebration was spoiled when Joe Carter and Greg Myers hit home runs as the Blue Jays beat the Rangers 4-0 at Arlington Stadium.

Ryan agreed to terms on contract options for 1992 and '93 totaling $8.1 million before the game but the Blue Jays were in no mood to let him enjoy it. He pitched seven innings, allowing five hits, walked four and struck out five.

"The contract deal wasn't a distraction, I just made bad pitches," Ryan said.

David Wells (11-4) bested Ryan (5-5) in the 97-degree heat, needing relief help from Duane Ward after giving up three hits in 6-2-3 innings. Ward finished the combined four-hitter for his 16th save.

Myers ended an 0-for-15 slump against Ryan with a 428-foot homer in the second inning to give Toronto the lead. The Blue Jays made it 2-0 in the third inning on Carter's 22nd homer, which hit the top of the left-field wall and went over.

Toronto scored its third run in the fifth inning on Rob Ducey's double, a sacrifice by Rene Gonzales and a sacrifice fly by Devon White.

The Blue Jays added a run in the ninth inning when Kelly Gruber hit a 407-foot homer to center off reliever Mike Jeffcoat.

Twins 11, Red Sox 3

Chili Davis drove in four runs, three with his 20th homer, to help make Jack Morris a 13-game winner.

Morris (13-6) was staked to a 10-0 lead as the Twins scored six runs in the third inning and four in the fourth.

Rookie Kevin Morton (1-2) was unable to get through the third inning in his third major league start.

Yankees 3, Athletics 2

Matt Nokes hit two solo homers off Eric Show (0-2) and rookie Bernie Williams snapped a seventh-inning tie with an RBI single.

Rookie Scott Kamieniecki (4-1) gave up two runs and four hits in seven innings.

John Habyan pitched one inning and Steve Howe finished the combined four-hitter for his third save.

Royals 5, Orioles 1

Kirk Gibson doubled home two runs in a four-run third inning and Bret Saberhagen won for the sixth time in his last seven decisions against Baltimore.

Saberhagen (7-4) pitched seven innings, striking out four and walking three in his second start since coming off the disabled list because of tendinitis in his rotator cuff. Storm Davis pitched the eighth and Jeff Montgomery got the last three outs. The Royals scored four runs in the third inning off Bob Milacki (5-8).

Mariners 12, Brewers 0

Erik Hanson pitched his second career shutout and Seattle scored a club record 10 runs in the eighth inning.

Ken Griffey Jr. and Omar Vizquel each had five hits, personal bests, in pacing Seattle's 18-hit attack.

Hanson blanked the Brewers on six hits in tossing his second complete game of the season. He improved his record to 5-4 by striking out four and walking one.

Angels 5, Indians 4

Dick Schofield drew a two-out, bases-loaded walk from reliever Jeff Shaw to cap a four-run ninth inning, lifting California over Cleveland after the Indians took the lead with three runs in the top of the ninth.

Reliever Shawn Hillegas (2-2), who started the ninth, took the loss after failing to retire any of the four batters he faced.

The victory went to Bryan Harvey (2-3), who relieved Jim Abbott with two on and nobody out in the top of the ninth.

1991 Hereford All-Stars

All-Stars go to Brownfield

The Hereford All-Stars have been selected and are ready to play in the West Texas State Tournament Saturday through Thursday in Brownfield.

The Hereford team is made up of the best players from the Kids Inc. Babe Ruth League. The team's coach, Jim Hastings, said he hasn't settled on permanent starters at each position.

"It's so hard to pick nine starters, because you're all starters," Hastings told the team at practice Thursday. He said Ruben Ramos and Ray Hastings will get the brunt of the pitching chores, but he will also use any of several slower-throwing pitchers to keep opponents off stride.

"I am fairly confident that we've got what it takes." Jim Hastings earned the right to coach the team by coaching the regular season champion Twins. His assistants at the All-Star tourney will be Natividad Torres, his assistant with the Twins, and Ismael Urias, the coach of the Babe Ruth League's second-place Indians.

The team consists of Ramos, Hastings, Michael Cano, Gregg Kalka, Israel Martinez, Wade McPherson, Tanner Murphey, J.J. Rico, O.J. Rodriguez, Stacey Sanders, Josh Tice, Andrew Tijerina, David Torres, Ronald Torres and Chris Vallejo.

The tournament will include teams from Dumas, Denver City, Odessa and Graham, and the host city also gets to enter a team.

Hereford plays its first game Saturday at 8 p.m. If they do well enough in the double elimination tournament, they'll play in Thursday night's championship game. All games will be at the Brownfield High School baseball field.

Contract sets Ryan for life

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - No one was surprised and everyone seemed happy to learn that Nolan Ryan will be with the Texas Rangers for the rest of his active baseball career and beyond.

"From a playing standpoint, I don't know of a better time to be a Ranger with the quality of ball club that we have and the pennant race that's going on and what's happening with the attendance," Ryan said Thursday after he and the team agreed to two option years and a 10-year personal services contract that would begin with his retirement from the game. "It's really exciting to come to the ballpark to see the enthusiasm and the appreciation of the fans."

The contract calls for baseball's all-time strikeout leader to be paid $4.2 million in 1992 and $3.9 million in 1993. The Rangers will have until eight days after each season to exercise the options.

Ryan is being paid $3.3 million this season, his 25th in the major leagues, and would rank sixth on the payroll list next year.

The 10-year personal services contract calls for Ryan to be paid a total of $2.1 million.

"At this point in time, I'm planning on pitching next year," Ryan, 44, said. "That will be determined at the end of the season. The ballclub has an option for '92 and '93, so we have no further negotiations. Everyone knows what their position is. It's a matter of whether I'm able to perform or whether they feel I can perform."

Just a few hours after signing the new contract, Ryan lost to Toronto 4-0.

He is 307-277 lifetime with 5,436 strikeouts and seven no-hitters. He is 5-5 this season with a 2.71 ERA and 128 strikeouts in 109 2-3 innings.

"I'm real pleased about the extension and also about the post-career contract with the Rangers," Ryan said. "I always felt that I would like to stay involved in baseball and I am looking forward to that involvement."

Under the deal, which was completed last weekend, Ryan is guaranteed at least $500,000. He receives $300,000 of his 1992 salary immediately and would get a $200,000 buyout if the 1992 option is not exercised. Of each season's salary, $900,000 is deferred with 8 percent interest. The value of the option for 1993 would increase by $1,000 for each inning pitched in 1992.

"This is something that's been talked about since spring training," Rangers general manager Tom Grieve said. "I'm glad we could get it done now."

The deal also calls for the Rangers and Ryan to give 10,000 tickets in each season he remains active to underprivileged youths in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Richard Moss, Ryan's agent, said the personal services contract pays Ryan $210,000 a year and commits him to spending 60 days per year with the Rangers following his retirement. He will do promotional work, consulting, and perhaps work with a few pitchers.

"Nolan is just something a little different," Moss said from Hana, Hawaii. "He told me he thinks this is the last contract I have to do for him. He's told me this six times before."

The Rangers were eager to keep Ryan connected with the club because of his immense popularity and the credibility he has given the franchise. Consequently, the personal services contract is tailored to suit Ryan's needs.

"He doesn't know exactly what he wants to do," Grieve said. "It probably will include a little bit of everything - a little bit of coaching, a little bit of scouting and a little bit of promotional work for the team. Basically, it will be a mutual agreement where he does exactly what he wants to do and it fits in with our needs, too."

Ryan's role will be more than ceremonial, Rangers president Tom Schieffer said.

"When this question of a postseason career first came up, Nolan made it very clear to me that he was not just interested in signing autographs," Schieffer said. "We wanted him to be involved with the club and he wanted to have a substantive job to do."

Strawberry, Carter homer against Mets

NEW YORK (AP) - Darryl Strawberry has hit enough home runs at Shea Stadium, for and against the New York Mets, to know that this ball was long gone.

"I don't think there was any doubt about that one, was there?" Strawberry said after his long drive - and the Los Angeles Dodgers' seven-game losing streak - disappeared Thursday night in a 10-5 victory over the Mets.

No doubt about the three-run homer Strawberry hit into the Mets' bullpen, or the two-run shot ex-Met Gary Carter hit later in the first inning. But lots of wondering all season long about when Strawberry might starting hitting more.

Strawberry hit his ninth home run of the season and second at Shea Stadium; he homered off Frank Viola in his Dodgers' debut at Shea.

Strawberry came into the game batting just .232 with 31 RBIs. This from the player who hit 37 home runs last season and set a Mets' record with 108 RBIs, good enough to help him get a five-year, $20.25 million contract as a free agent.

Southwest Outdoors

with Mel Phillips

Permit me to introduce you to the luckiest fisherman in our part of the great outdoors. Meet Ben Kirkpatrick from Post. He now resides in Lubbock where he is a junior on the Texas Tech football team. When Ben is not practicing for the rigors of gridiron competition or doing his homework, he sneaks off with his buddies and relaxes by catching bass at White River Lake.

At a June "Fun Fishing Tournament" held at White River, Ben caused quite a stir by catching a three-fish limit that weighed 9.58 pounds, and he took home first-place prize money of $255.

One of the unique features of Fun Tournaments is something called the Luck-of-the-Draw, where every angler (even those who did not catch a fish) drops his name in a hat and the lucky winner wins $50. It may have been skill that helped Ben catch 9.58 pounds of bass, but only luck helped win the drawing for $50.

Now come the results of the July Fun Tournament, and guess what: Ben used his "secret bait" to again weigh in the best three-fish limit and earn first place. This time his weight was only 4.84 pounds because he started catching smallmouth bass. Sure, there are rumors of smallies in White River, but fishing tournaments rarely indicate their presence.

At the July Luck-of-the-Draw, it was a rather reluctant Tech football player named Ben who lucked out and added to his fishing winnings that now total nearly $600.

If you see Coach Spike Dykes, tell him that the Tech football team could use more lucky players. Ben practices hard, studies his opponents and—best of all—ole lucky Ben is a winner. Sometimes nice guys do finish first.

Come to the next Fun Fishing Tournament at White River on Saturday, Aug. 10. Ben has agreed to reveal his secret lure at the 6 a.m. sign-in.

Night tournament at Baylor Lake—Saturday, July 27, starting at 12:01 a.m. and ending at 8 a.m. Entry is limited to the first 100 anglers and will cost $50 until Monday, when it goes up to $60. The angler with the biggest bass takes home up to $2,500.

Seles: not pregnant; just hurt, confused

MAHWAH, N.J. (AP) - Monica Seles smiled and held up a T-shirt that read: "Rome, Paris, Wimbledon, Mahwah." Wimbledon was crossed out with a black line.

The shirt, a gift from the director of the Pathmark Tennis Classic in Mahwah, poked fun at the small New Jersey town that hosts the event and Seles' controversial withdrawal from the most famous tennis tournament in the world.

After nearly a month of secrecy and seclusion, Seles surfaced on Thursday and tried to explain her Wimbledon withdrawal to a skeptical audience that included 200 reporters, dozens of photographers and one barking dog.

At a circus-like news conference, the world's top-ranked player defended her decision to drop out of sight and avoid the media after pulling out of Wimbledon just three days before the tournament started on June 24.

"I don't think I made a mistake," she said. "I felt a lot of pressure, a lot of pressure inside myself. ... I was confused. I just wasn't ready to talk."

Sitting in sweltering heat under an open tent at Ramapo College, Seles frequently wiped her brow with a paper towel. Seles, wearing black jeans and a flowered tank top, also felt the heat of probing questions from a press corps eager to get a full explanation for her bizarre behavior in recent weeks.

She said the main reason she avoided the press and WTA officials after Wimbledon was because she was as puzzled as everyone else about her injury. Seles claimed she saw six doctors in three countries before finally getting a correct diagnosis from Dr. Richard Steadman, an orthopedic specialist in Vail, Colo.

"I kept getting all these different answers," said Seles, whose rambling responses were interrupted several times by her barking dog, a Yorkshire Terrier named Astro.

"One doctor said I needed surgery, another said it was just shin splints and another said it was OK for me to play. I didn't know what to think."

While Monica was mum, the press had a field day speculating about her whereabouts, motives and physical problems. One British tabloid hinted she was pregnant, while others alleged that she skipped Wimbledon to protect a big bonus from her racket sponsor that might have been jeopardized had she lost her No. 1 ranking in England.

Seles wouldn't reveal where she hid out after Wimbledon, dismissed the pregnancy rumor as "way out of line" and refuted the bonus allegation.

"I would have gotten the bonus no matter what I did at Wimbledon," she said. "In fact, I would have gotten a lot more money for winning Wimbledon. But I've never played tennis for money and I never will."

Still, Seles won't turn down the six-figure fee she's getting for appearing in the Pathmark exhibition, where she routed Andrea Leand 6-0, 6-2 Thursday night in her first match in 5½ weeks.

"I thought she performed better on the court than she did at the press conference," said Leand, a Princeton graduate who moonlights as a freelance writer.

Seles, who wore special orthopedic insoles in her sneakers, showed no signs of injury in the 44-minute match - her first since beating Arantxa Sanchez Vicario in the French Open final on June 8.

"To me, the most important thing is the pain is gone," she said in her post-match news conference, which took place about nine hours after her first news conference ended. "I was actually surprised at how well I played."

Judge won't stop Tyson-Holyfield fight

HOUSTON (AP) - Evander Holyfield and Mike Tyson will get their chance to fight in the boxing ring and George Foreman will get his day in court to prove that he had a contract to fight heavyweight champion Holyfield.

District Judge Richard Millard Thursday denied a request for a temporary restraining order that would have stopped the bout between Holyfield and Tyson scheduled to be held Nov. 8 at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas.

The judge said he would prefer that a jury decide whether a contract existed and set the case for a jury trial on July 29.

"When big George is here to explain to a jury how he was used and abused, I think this will turn in our favor," Bob Arum, Foreman's promoter and a plaintiff in the lawsuit, said.

The lawsuit was filed Tuesday by Foreman, Arum and adviser Ron Weathers against Holyfield, promoter Dan Duva and trainer Shelly Finkel and sought $100 million. Foreman claimed they breached a contract worth more than $20 million to Foreman for fighting Holyfield.

Holyfield's group claims a July 1 letter detailing conditions of a rematch between Foreman and Holyfield constituted an offer that never was formalized.

The letter was a contract, Foreman claims, saying it caused him to drop negotiation for a fight against Tyson that would have been worth $20 million.

Holyfield backed out of the fight against Foreman barely 24 hours after Duva and Arum agreed to the terms. Holyfield then announced he would fight Tyson in Las Vegas for $30 million.

Holyfield has a "mandate" from from the three major boxing organizations to fight Tyson next, Duva told the judge. The negotiations with Foreman were only an alternative if Tyson wouldn't fight, he testified.

"There will be a George Foreman-Evander Holyfield fight," Duva said, "after Holyfield knocks out Mike Tyson."

John L. Sullivan won the heavyweight title in 1882 and lost it to James J. Corbett in 1892.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: My doctor has put me on HydroDIURIL for my high blood pressure. He said it was to keep my sodium down. I am supposed to limit my salt intake and he has advised me that I should also drink orange juice and eat fresh fruit, particularly bananas. Is that for my high blood pressure? I'm trying to follow his advise, but I am not sure which foods are high in sodium. Do you have any general guidelines I can use other than just not adding salt to my food?
DEAR READER: Diuretics are often used to help control high blood pressure. Actually, if a person is overweight, I prefer to see him or her lose weight first. Losing 10 pounds of body fat is often very helpful in lowering a person's blood pressure. Those who have more than 10 pounds of excess fat that they can lose should do so if they have high blood pressure.
There are different kinds of diuretics. HydroDIURIL is one that causes the kidneys to wash out both sodium and potassium. That is why your doctor recommended that you drink orange juice and eat fresh fruits. They are high in potassium. That helps replace the potassium you will lose.
However, if a person were taking Dyazide, it would wash out sodium, but may actually retain potassium. In that case you wouldn't want to consume more than the normal amount of citrus fruits and bananas. Your potassium level could get too high.
Yes, I have included some guidelines for the amount of sodium and potassium in common foods in each of the basic four food groups in Special Report 82, About Your Sodium and Potassium Balance. I am sending you a free copy. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped ($2 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/82, P.O. Box 787, Gibbstown, NJ 08027-9908. It will help you plan your diet so that you won't be getting too much sodium and will help improve your potassium intake.
The only way to be certain that your sodium and potassium balance is being maintained properly is to have your blood checked periodically to see how you are doing.

Harmful ray information sketchy

NEW YORK (AP) - Consumers who carefully check the SPF, or sun protection factor, on sunscreen labels are not getting information about all the harmful solar rays, dermatologists say.

The SPF refers to protection against ultraviolet B rays, called UVB. These rays are the most powerful for causing sunburn and skin cancer.

But sunshine also contains ultraviolet A rays, or UVA, which are of a different wavelength from UVB. These rays take much longer to cause a sunburn, but like ultraviolet B rays they can age the skin and cause skin cancer.

UVA causes about 15 percent of skin cancer risk, compared to 85 percent from UVB, said dermatologist Madhukar Pathak of Harvard Medical School. UVA also triggers many adverse reactions to sunlight that are caused by taking certain medications, he said.

SPF ratings are based on a standard test, and the Food and Drug Administration has not chosen such a standard for measuring UVA protection. The holdup lies in getting agreement among experts in choosing a single test procedure, said FDA spokeswoman Bonnie Aikman.

In the meantime, FDA will generally not let sunscreen makers put claims on their labels about how much protection the sunscreens provide against UVA. It does allow UVA claims for products called Photoplex and Filteray because they contain a formula FDA approved for UVA protection.

FDA also allows other sunscreens to advertise an unspecified degree of UVA protection, such as references to "broad-spectrum," if they started doing so before March 1972, when FDA began a review of sunscreen labeling, and if they contain at least one ingredient from a list of chemicals that absorb UVA, Aikman said.

Most sunscreens with an SPF of 15 or higher offer some degree of UVA protection whether they say so or not, said Dr. Vincent DeLeo, assistant professor of dermatology at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center in New York.

When choosing among these sunscreens, consumers should look for UVA-absorbing ingredients dibenzoyl-methane, dioxibenzone, oxybenzone, or sulisobenzone, he said.

"You will be getting fairly good protection (but) not as good as we would hope to have sometime in the future," he said.

There is no way for the consumer to compare products as they can for UVB protection through the SPF system, he said.

It is also not clear how much protection sunscreens give against the long-term effects of UVA, aging of the skin and skin cancer, he said.

Pathak said some people get burning, itching and smarting on their faces from dibenzoyl-methane. If that occurs, switch sunscreens, he said.

The FDA is considering a ceiling of 30 on SPF strengths because that level appears sufficient for protection, Aikman said.

New twist recipes listed

The next time you want to give a quick new twist to a meal or a snack, look to the jars of jams, jellies and preserves in your refrigerator. For instance:

- Make a barbecue sauce by mixing 1/4 cup orange marmalade or apricot, peach, grape, plum, or pineapple jam or preserves with 1/2 cup chili sauce and 2 tablespoons steak sauce.

- For a tasty spread, mix several tablespoons of your favorite flavor of jelly, jam, or preserves with softened cream cheese. Serve on muffins or toasted bagels.

- Dress up carrots or sweet potatoes by combining 1/4 cup apricot, raspberry, cherry, peach, pineapple, strawberry, or plum jam or preserves with one drained 16-ounce can carrots or an 18-ounce can sweet potatoes. Sprinkle chopped walnuts on top.

- Want a quick glaze for ham? While an 8-ounce, fully cooked boneless ham slice is heating, stir together 1/4 cup apricot or peach preserves and 1 teaspoon prepared mustard. Cook and stir over medium heat about 2 minutes or until heated through. Spoon over ham.

- Heat your favorite jelly, jam, or preserves with a little lemon juice and you have a tasty topping for ice cream, cake, pancakes, or fresh fruit.

- For a make-ahead mousse, beat 1 cup whipping cream and 2 tablespoons amaretto to stiff peaks. Fold in 1/2 cup apple, cherry, currant, grape, mixed fruit, orange, plum, raspberry, or strawberry jelly. Spoon the mixture into four dessert dishes; freeze. At serving time, top with toasted sliced almonds.

- As a special ice cream treat, spread any flavor of jelly on two toasted waffle squares or rectangles. Sandwich a slice of vanilla ice cream in between.

- Make daisy biscuits: Separate one package refrigerated biscuits. Using kitchen scissors, make 5 small cuts around the edge of each refrigerated biscuit, cutting about halfway to center. Make a depression in the center of each biscuit with your thumb. Spoon 1/2 teaspoon of your favorite jam or jelly into each thumbprint. Bake according to the package directions.
