By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor
Deaf Smith and Swisher County sites being considered for housing the nation's first nuclear waste repository have been recommended to be reduced to nine square miles each, the U.S. Department of Energy announced Tuesday.

The reduction is geared to make the size of the two Texas locations comparable to seven others still being considered by the DOE. Those who own any amount of land within either proposed site were informed of the recommendations Tuesday. They were invited to meet with DOE officials today from noon to 2 p.m. in Hereford and Tulia. Simultaneous public briefings concerning the latest DOE proposals were to follow in both cities at 4 to 6 p.m. Hereford Community Center was to host the local gathering. Though the three-by-three-mile areas would be singled out for further consideration, a nuclear waste dump, if mandated, would not necessarily be placed on them. In a DOE booklet explain-

Still candidates for nuclear waste

ing motives for the recommendations, it is stated, "Any portion of the locations in Deaf Smith County or Swisher County could potentially serve as a suitable repository site; it is desirable to define a smaller, more-preferred area on which to concentrate any future site characterization activities." Previously, the Deaf Smith site covered 300 square miles while 190 square miles was taken up by the Swisher location. The amended Deaf Smith site, as shown in the two DOE maps, would be approximately 10 miles southwest of Vega and 19 miles northwest of Hereford. Tulia is about four miles southwest of the redefined Swisher location. The recommendations have been forwarded to the Texas Nuclear Waste Programs Office in Austin for review. A 45-day comment period has been established, during which the TNWPO is to record and send to the Energy Department reactions of citizens, local officials and special interest groups.

Gov. Mark White, in a Tuesday prepared statement reported by the Associated Press, expressed displeasure with the proposals. "The issuance of these reports at this time, without the benefit of final siting guidelines," he remarked, "is simply a convenience for the DOE and, in our view, does not respond to the spirit of the Nuclear Waste Policy Act." The governor did, however, vow the TNWPO would "fully evaluate" the recommendations. "We will be scrutinizing," he said, "what criteria the DOE used to recommend that these smaller tracts in the Texas Panhandle undergo further testing." State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower used stronger language in knocking the recommendations. Barbara Robinson of the Texas Department of Agriculture phoned the Brand this morning with Hightower's comments. "I don't care if the U.S. Department of Energy has narrowed its sites for the proposed high-level nuclear dump to nine square miles or nine square inches," he said. "We don't want it in Texas. DOE can play by the rules, or they can break the rules. We at the Texas Department of Agriculture are committed to keeping the nastiest stuff known to mankind out from underneath some of the most valuable agricultural land and one of the most precious underground water reservoirs in our state. It's our soil, our water, our farms and our people we are risking. 'The people of the Panhandle have spoken loudly and clearly,' Hightower continued. 'They don't want a nuclear dump in their back yard. We'll fight this crazy idea in Hereford, in Tulia, in Austin and in Washington, and we'll win.' Avoiding areas of potential future oil and gas exploration was a consideration of "high importance" for the DOE making its recommendations, it claimed. This was done to decrease the chance of a high population influx.

"Shallower depths to thick salt are preferred," a DOE explanation announced, "because of ease and cost of construction. Also preferred were those areas projected as unable to support irrigated agriculture by the year 2020, but which could provide sufficient water for the repository." "In the case of population risk from radiation, a lower risk is obviously preferred; however, the report explains that the risk at any point in the locations is well within applicable EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) standards." To help define the nine-square-mile areas, map overlays were used which combined long-term performance, operational performance and environmental-constructability impact factors. It was determined the western half of the 300-square-mile area in Deaf Smith was preferable for long-term performance and contained a lower population risk. ## Mondale, Hart brace for 'long, tough race ahead'

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Walter F. Mondale, blunting Gary Hart's momentum and predicting "a long tough race ahead" before the Democratic presidential nomination is settled, moves from his Illinois primary victory into a batch of big state contests led by New York.

By winning in Illinois on Tuesday, Mondale took the biggest primary prize so far and boosted his comeback after a string of early primary losses to Hart in New England and Florida. Mondale also won caucuses Tuesday in his home state of Minnesota.

But both Mondale and Hart noted that the road to San Francisco and the party's nomination is destined to be long.

"The debate has just begun," said Mondale, dismissing a suggestion that he has once again assumed the front-runner status that crumbled in New England. "I have a long way to go before I'm nominated."

Hart conceded that Mondale won a "significant primary" in Illinois but said he would battle the former vice president in a series of industrial-state contests coming up in Connecticut, New York and Pennsylvania.

"As he is, I'm prepared to go on to Connecticut, New York and beyond," the Colorado senator said.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson drew 20 percent of the vote, compared to Mondale's 41 percent and Hart's 36 percent. But nine of every 10 of Jackson's votes came from blacks, belying his claim that women, Hispanics and other minorities will eventually join in a "rainbow coalition" to win him the nomination.

He refused to talk to reporters on Tuesday. Among blacks generally, 70 percent voted for Jackson, television networks' exit polling showed, while Mondale led Hart for the remainder. Nonetheless, Jackson said he would press on and insisted there is a now a three-man race for the nomination. "This is a three-man race," said Jackson. "And the only way it'll be a two-man race is if Mondale or Hart quits."

In analyzing his biggest defeat so far, Hart said he was the victim of new Democratic Party rules which bunched up primaries and party caucuses early in 1984, making it hard for a dark horse candidate to become well known and then run in every state. "I don't consider tonight's loss that big a loss," said Hart. "We've done extraordinarily well under the circumstances."

"I think perhaps if we'd had another week we could perhaps have won," he added.

But Hart's contention was contradicted by network television exit polls which showed that voters who changed their minds in the

Jury rules Marshall murdered

FRANKLIN, Texas (AP) — After hearing Billie Sol Estes on the record for the first time in the 23 years since Henry Marshall's "suicide," a Robertson County grand jury has ruled that the agriculture official was murdered but that there is no one left alive to indict. Marshall, 51, then an employee of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, was found dead on his ranch near Franklin with five bullet wounds in his side in June 1961. His own .22-caliber, bolt-action rifle was found near his body. His death was ruled a suicide.

Estes addresses 23-year-old death

"He wasn't there (at Marshall's death), but he knew what happened," Paschall said Tuesday of Estes. "The ideal thing would have been for Estes to testify 22 years ago. But if he had, he would have been a dead man."

Texas Ranger Clint Peoples said he was convinced that Marshall was murdered because he knew about a swindling scheme that later resulted in a prison sentence for Estes.

"It is my personal opinion that it would have been beneficial to a vast number of shady operators for Mr. Henry Marshall to have been disposed of," Peoples said in his book, "Captain Clint Peoples — Texas Ranger."

Peoples, who investigated the case in 1962, also testified before the grand jury on Tuesday. He arrived at the courthouse carrying the gun that fired the fatal shots.

"If he (Marshall) can kill himself with this gun, I'll ride a jackass to the moon," Peoples told reporters.

Until Tuesday, Estes had refused to talk to authorities about the death, taking the Fifth Amendment at least 75 times.

He said he would testify before the grand jury on the condition that he be immune from prosecution.

Robertson County District Attorney John Paschall agreed.

"What have I got to lose?" Paschall said at the time. "Unless I give him immunity, we won't know what he has to say, if anything."

"If he comes up here and says 'I'm the one who killed him,' we're out the window. But if it was a homicide, let's find out."

In a brief statement issued after the Tuesday session, the grand jury said the death was a homicide, but that those involved are dead and "therefore, it is not possible for the grand jury to return an indictment."

The Marshall case received national attention in 1963 when then-Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman said Marshall had been a "key figure" in an investigation of Estes, a one-time confidant of Lyndon Johnson.

On March 29, 1962, Estes, who had built an empire on a network of cotton allotments and grain storage facilities, was arrested on a charge of conspiracy and interstate transportation of fraudulent chattel mortgages.

Officials said Estes had taken out loans on non-existent fertilizer tanks.

Marshall was believed to have been one of the first agriculture officials to suspect Estes in the swindling scheme, involving millions of dollars.

Estes has frequently insinuated that he took the rap to cover up for those more powerful than he.

He began serving a 15-year prison sentence in 1965 after conviction for federal mail fraud and conspiracy to defraud. Creditors claimed Estes owed them $38 million.

The federal government at one point had $21 million in federal tax liens against Estes.

Estes was paroled in 1971, but the parole was revoked in 1979 after he was sentenced to terms of five years each for two convictions, one on mail fraud and the other conspiracy to conceal assets to avoid paying back taxes.

Estes was paroled last year. He refused to talk to reporters on Tuesday.

Reagan campaign forms To trot all over globe

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
AP White House Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's aides are preparing their own version of the Democrats' primary election campaign road show: A springtime travel agenda that will have the president playing on stages from China to Normandy, from London to Ballyporeen in County Tipperary, Ireland.

Central players on the election-year tour include Chinese leader Deng Xiaoping, Pope John Paul II and the heads of the seven major industrialized democracies.

Four weeks from Thursday, Reagan heads to California, Hawaii, Guam and China, repeating an election-year visit that Richard M. Nixon took in 1972 when he was seeking a second term and made the first tour to the People's Republic of China by an American president.

In June, Reagan will visit the beaches of Normandy, for the 40th anniversary of the Allied invasion that liberated France from Nazi Germany. He will attend an annual economic summit conference in London, and visit his ancestral home of Ballyporeen, Ireland.

With the China trip fast approaching, it is commanding the attention of the White House travel, security, and policy experts. And the political advantages, in terms of public attention paid to a globe-trotting president, are not being overlooked.

"I suppose the president comes out of this looking like a statesman," said one White House official, speaking on the condition that he not be identified by name.

Reagan will confer with the Chinese leaders, including Deng and Premier Zhao Ziyang in Peking at the start of his trip, spending "quite a bit of time with these people," the official said. The last few days of the visit will be spent on more conventional tourist activities.

The president will arrive in Peking on April 26. After completing his formal meetings, he will visit the Great Wall. He will make a one-day journey to Xian, in central China, to view an archeological site where some 6,000 terra cotta figures were unearthed in the 1970s at the site where Emperor Qin Shi Huang was buried some 2,000 years ago.

Reagan will wrap up the trip with a two-day visit to Shanghai.

From Shanghai, he'll fly to Alaska for a meeting on May 2 with Pope John Paul II, his second with the pontiff, who will be on his way to a tour of South Korea.

Richards to speak Sunday

Dr. Sam Richards, president of the Texas Tech University School of Medicine, is the featured speaker for the Family of the Year presentation set for Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Hereford Community Center.

A musical program by the Hereford Chamber Singers is to also highlight the awards ceremony, with the nominated families will be introduced by Hereford Mayor Wes Fisher.

The Chamber Singers are to perform "Home, Sweet Home" and "Love at Home." A slide presentation will be accompanied by the Children of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints congregation singing "Love is Spoken Here." Vickie Mongold and Cody Burney will sing solo parts.

The new family of the year will be announced by the Alan Brockman family, last year's honored group. The program is sponsored by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

Democratic gathering set

A meeting of the County Democratic executive committee will be held at 7 p.m. today in the county courtroom, according to Roy D. Messer, Deaf Smith County Demo chairman.

Purpose of the meeting, said Messer, is to discuss the order of names on the Democratic primary ballot for statewide candidates. The order of local candidates has already been decided.

Messer said the group would also discuss precinct and county conventions. The meeting is open to the public.

Agriculture forum Thursday

An agriculture forum to meet the 18th District representative candidates is planned for Thursday by a pair of area agriculture organizations.

The Texas Corn Growers and Texas-New Mexico Sugar Beet Growers Associations have planned the event for 7:30 p.m. at Dimmitt's Exposition building.

Democratic hopefuls Gary Condra, Delwin Jones, Don Richards and Tom Richards have indicated they will attend to present five-minute speeches and answer questions. Republican Ron Fleming has also said he would come.

TCGA President Carl King said the meeting is open to the public and should last about an hour.

Death row inmate granted stay

DALLAS (AP) — An attorney for Death Row inmate Ronald Chambers says the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals has halted Chambers' scheduled March 30 execution.

The court will hear arguments today that could result in a new trial instead, said Judy Spalding, a law clerk and assistant to Chambers' Dallas attorney, Vincent Perini. Perini said he learned of the stay of execution on Tuesday.

Chambers, 29, was sentenced in Dallas County for the April 1975 beating death of Mike McMahon, a 22-year-old Texas Tech engineering student.

Ms. Spalding said the defense will argue that Chambers talked to a psychiatrist without being informed that the psychiatrist would testify against him.

"What this means is Chambers wasn't told that the statements he was going to make were going to be used against him in the trial in the way that they were used," said Ms. Spalding.

Opinion based on facts

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — An El Paso Times reporter has testified that before he wrote a 1978 column claiming former Assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr lied to a federal jury, he thought the federal prosecutor was a good attorney.

"I liked his style," said Ronald Dusek. "I thought he was good."

But Dusek said he questioned a statement made by Kerr to a jury in 1978 because "I always have questions. It's my job."

Dusek was the first witness called Tuesday in the trial of a $40 million libel lawsuit filed by Kerr in 1979 against The El Paso Times.

Dog owner gets year in jail

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas hairdresser who was found guilty of criminal negligence because her 84-pound Rotweiler killed her month-old daughter says she expects to be deported to her native Norway after serving a one-year jail sentence.

Britt Rognaldsen, 36, was found guilty of misdemeanor criminal negligence and was sentenced Tuesday to the maximum one year in jail and was fined $2,000.

The jury deliberated about 5½ hours before finding her guilty in the Class A misdemeanor charge, the least serious of three possible guilty verdicts.

Her attorney, Vincent Perini said "it's likely" the sentence will be appealed.

Mrs. Rognaldsen, weeping after the sentence was announced by District Judge Ed Kinkeade, said she was surprised by the verdict.

School prayer appears dead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Backers of a rejected constitutional amendment to permit organized prayer in public schools vow they will return another day to wage another battle, but Senate leaders say it's unlikely the politically sensitive issue can be brought up again this year even in a different form.

The Senate on Tuesday ended more than two weeks of debate by turning down the proposal, which was strongly endorsed by President Reagan, on a 56-44 roll call. That was 11 votes short of the two-thirds majority required for a constitutional amendment.

Reagan has made passage of the amendment a major re-election campaign theme and Tuesday's Senate vote is likely to figure in November's presidential and Senate elections.

Cuba seizes two American yachts

MIAMI (AP) — Two U.S. yachts carrying 19 people on a race from Miami to Jamaica were seized by Cuban authorities Tuesday evening when they passed too close to the eastern tip of the communist island, the U.S. Coast Guard said.

The Brigadon and the Cashasha were part of a four-yacht race from the Coral Reef Yacht Club in Miami to the Jamaican port of Montego Bay, said Petty Officer Reese Bellemann.

The yachts were rounding the eastern tip of Cuba about 6:30 p.m. EST when they were intercepted by a Cuban patrol boat, Bellemann said.

"Apparently, they got a little too close," he said. "That's the usual reason you get intercepted."

Eleven people were aboard the Brigadon and eight were aboard the Cashasha, he said.

Militias engage in battles

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christian and Moslem militias engaged in their heaviest battles in more than a week today after their leaders ended a peace conference in Switzerland with no agreement on political reforms.

The combatants exchanged artillery, mortar and machine gun fire in residential neighborhoods on both sides of the "green line" dividing Beirut into Christian east and Moslem west.

Overnight casualties totaled four dead and 22 wounded, according to police, who reported fighting in the old commercial district, the Ras el-Nabaa residential neighborhood and the Shiite Moslem-populated southern suburbs.

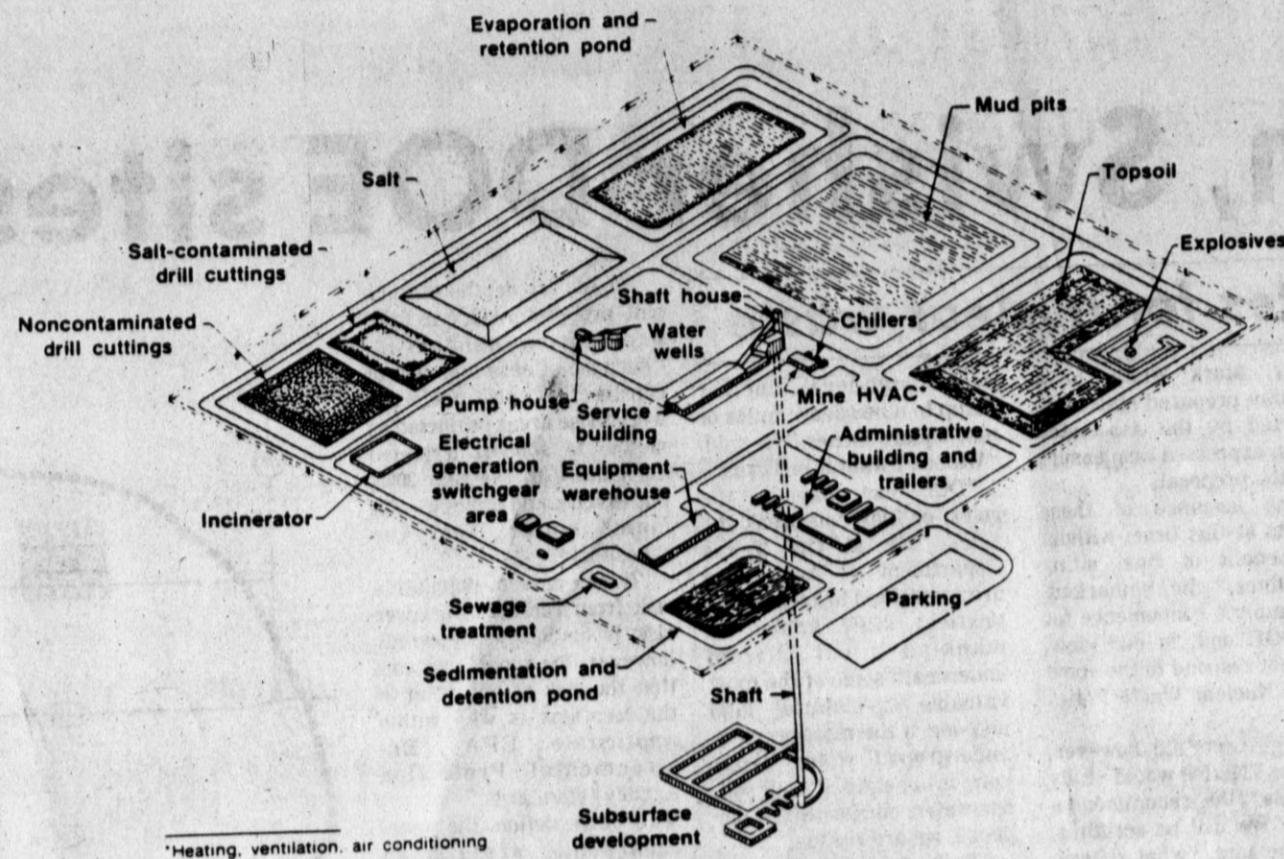

The nine-day reconciliation conference in Switzerland ended late Tuesday, and Beirut's major newspapers today pronounced it a failure.

Bust reveals link to Cuban arms

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The Colombian government says Cuban arms are being smuggled into the country by leftist guerrillas in exchange for cocaine produced at giant drug factories in the Amazon jungle.

The U.S. ambassador to Colombia said that at one such center authorities seized 13.8 tons of cocaine — "the largest drug raid ever in the world."

Defense Minister Gustavo Matamoros was quoted Tuesday as saying that a raid earlier this month on a cocaine factory in southern Colombia in which a huge cache of military equipment was seized — along with $1.2 billion worth of cocaine — was the clearest example of the guns-for-drugs operation.

Texas Exploratory Shaft Facility Concept

The exploratory shaft facility, which is expected to require between 70 and 80 acres if it is constructed in Texas, will provide access to the underground area at repository depth and will allow testing required by the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission. Constructing an exploratory shaft and conducting these tests are part of detailed site characterization studies designed to determine a site's suitability for a repository.

AP News Analysis

Victory confirms comeback

CHICAGO (AP) — His Illinois primary victory authenticates Walter F. Mondale's claim of a comeback in the fight for the Democratic presidential nomination, and this time, instead of staying above the battle, he's eager to plunge into it.

No sooner had the votes been counted Tuesday night than the former vice president — once the serene, unflappable front-runner — was accusing Gary Hart of a switch in positions on an issue that's important to Jewish voters in the next big primary states, including delegate-rich New York.

"He's not going to get away with that," said Mondale, who also intends to keep talking about what he regards as Hart's "naive" view of foreign policy.

That's a fight that Hart says he welcomes and is prepared to make.

But at the same time, the Illinois vote erased any hopes the Colorado senator might have had of dispatching the former vice president from the race early. For Hart, the meaning of Illinois is that his momentum has begun to dissipate, and the stunning, seemingly effortless wins he was able to claim earlier in the primary season are going to be much harder to come by.

As for the other contender, the Rev. Jesse Jackson says the outcome in his adopted home state proves it's a three-way race for the nomination.

final days before the voting shifted not to Hart but to Mondale.

In the popular vote, a non-binding beauty contest for presidential contenders, here's how the balloting looked with 11,496 of 11,640 precincts, or 99 percent, reporting:

Mondale 648,615 or 41 percent.

Hart 569,572 or 36 percent.

Jackson 325,248 or 20 percent.

ed his views but had long held that the embassy should be moved.

But Mondale said, "he's not going to get away with that."

The former vice president said that two weeks ago, Hart wrote a letter saying he wouldn't favor moving the embassy unless surrounding nations agreed to it.

Since the city is regarded as occupied territory by neighboring Arab states, Hart's letter was the equivalent of saying no to the switch, Mondale said.

Against reporter

Salvadoran recants statement

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — An attorney for a Salvadoran woman who said a reporter illegally helped her travel north says the woman made up the story to protect others and thought the American reporter would be "invincible."

Dallas Times Herald reporter Jack Fischer was charged in an alleged conspiracy to transport illegal aliens after the car he was riding in with the woman, a Salvadoran man and two church workers was stopped by border patrol agents. The two church workers were also charged.

Since the Salvadoran woman has recanted her statement, the charges against Fischer probably will be dropped, Assistant U.S. Attorney John Smith said Tuesday. He said a decision will be reached in the next two to three weeks.

"We are trying to do some other things to determine if Fischer had some (criminal) intent. If he was merely there to get the story then he will not be prosecuted," said Smith.

Federal prosecutors said they still need to talk to the Salvadoran woman.

Fischer said he was working on a story for the Dallas Times Herald and was not a participant in transporting the Salvadorans.

At a preliminary hearing, a border patrol agent testified that the Salvadoran woman, who identified herself as Brenda Sanchez-Galan, told him she begged Fischer to help her and her infant get to San Antonio and that the reporter eventually agreed.

Attorney Jim Rausch, who represented the Salvadorans thickness factors also showed the northwest part of the area to be best suited for a repository.

Linda McClain, from the DOE nuclear waste programs office in Columbus, Ohio, Tuesday stressed the reduction of site sizes was proposed only to make them compatible with the other candidates. All nine locations are still being considered for hosting the nuclear waste dump, she said.

Louisiana, Nevada and Washington contain one possible site apiece while Mississippi and Utah each have two. Their dimensions were much more clearly marked by natural boundaries than are the Texas locations, McClain explained. A more involved reduction process was therefore needed in Deaf Smith and Swisher Counties.

DOE guidelines for the selection of a nuclear waste site are awaiting formal approval by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. A review of the guidelines, for which a compromise is reportedly being worked out between DOE and NRC committee members, is to be released by April.

As outlined, the Energy Secretary is to nominate at least five of the nine studied locations before recommending three to the president by Jan. 1, 1985. Extensive site characterizations are then to be conducted on each of the three candidates, with the president to select a final location by the end of 1991.

Under a contract signed with nuclear-powered utility companies, the DOE is to start accepting their nuclear garbage by 1998. The private energy firms are paying for the entire project through installments expected to be finished by 1986.

In February, a Congressional research group reportedly told a House subcommittee it thought the deadline should be moved back a decade to 2008. A DOE public information officer out of Chicago, Ill., subsequently told the Brand no delay was being considered by his department.

However, Brian Quirke said, even if the date was changed the action would "not necessarily preclude" the department from accepting, as agreed, nuclear waste from the private utility firms in 1998.

Should either the Deaf Smith or Swisher sites be nominated as one of three finalists (a DOE pamphlet indicates no more than one Texas location would be picked), the resulting exploratory shaft and its operations would require 70 to 80 acres. McClain could not say how many people would be required to man such a detailed site characterization.

The area's media were not informed of Tuesday's press conference or today's meetings until Monday afternoon. McClain said the abrupt approach was used "because I wanted to have a presence in this area when the document became news." This would help prevent or quell rumors before they became too strong, she explained.

Whichever site is ultimately chosen will require governmental purchase of land from the owners. McClain said a fair price must be offered and a specified number of negotiation meetings are allowed. The government, if needed, can condemn any land, but must still pay owners what is determined to be a "fair market price."

Young testified that the woman said Fischer's reply was that such a trip "was dangerous, that it was against the law to transport illegal aliens and that, 'My career would be on the line.'"

Young said Ms. Sanchez-Galan told him she then begged Fischer to help her until finally "Jack Fischer told her he'd see her to San Antonio." They left the next morning in the very early hours, Young said.

In an appeal filed in federal court, attorneys for Fischer requested charges be dropped because Ms. Sanchez-Galan's statement is "particularly inappropriate in light of the fact that the female Salvadoran has recanted her testimony."

Fischer, in a telephone interview from Dallas Tuesday night, said he had never talked to Ms. Sanchez-Galan.

"I was stunned, totally stunned (by her statement), but I understood the pressure she was under that might have prompted her to do that," Fischer said.

"If anyone has a fear of authority, it's Salvadorans. She wanted to tell them what she thought they wanted to hear and she thought by saying that she could protect others," he said.

Catholic nun Dianne Muhlenkamp, 36, of Fort Wayne, Ind., and layworker Stacey Lynn Merkt, 29, of Colorado Springs, Colo. were indicted last week on two counts of transporting illegal aliens and one count of conspiracy to transport. They were to be arraigned later this week.

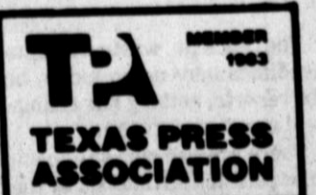

Fischer's case has not been presented to the grand jury. The Salvadorans were to be arraigned this week on charges of illegal entry.

In a preliminary hearing Feb. 24, border patrol investigator Charles Young testified that Ms. Sanchez-Galan claimed she had asked

Big Brothers, Sisters honored at annual appreciation banquet

By LINDA CAUDLE, Lifestyles Editor
"Big Brothers-Big Sisters in Hereford is very much alive and well. It is good for the community and for the children involved," stated Gary Phipps, president of the BB-BS of Hereford board of directors, Tuesday evening at the organization's annual appreciation banquet in the Community Center.

Phipps presided at the banquet following a covered dish meal. Approximately 70 persons attended the event, which highlighted the observance of Big Brothers-Big Sisters of America Week locally. Big Brothers and Sisters were honored for their service to children from one-parent homes in the local community.

Phipps expressed appreciation to the volunteers for their compassion, friendship and love, and the commitment they make to these youngsters.

He recognized unmatched children, and then introduced the matched children and their Big Brothers and Big Sisters.

Musical entertainment for the evening was provided by Dana Cabiness, soloist, who was accompanied by Susan Shaw on piano.

Members of the local BB-BS board of directors were recognized. They include Bettie Dickson, Joe Garcia, Gary Hollinger, Luis Rangel, Pat Lawson, Gerald Morgan, O.K. Neal, Phipps, Gary Billingsley.

Also, Doug Josseland,

Mike Moon, Dee Robinson, R.C. Lafuente, Terry Bromlow and Robert Medina.

In closing, Phipps thanked Deane Jones, executive director of the local agency, for her dedication. He also expressed appreciation for the assistance of Eddie Echevarria, a member of the office staff.

"We are sorry that we don't have a match for every child, but we're working on it, and we encourage everyone to help in recruiting adult volunteers," remarked Phipps.

Volunteers Honored

Adult volunteers serving as Big Brothers and Big Sisters in the local community were honored Tuesday evening during the annual BB-BS of Hereford appreciation banquet in the Community Center. These men and women were recognized along with their Little Brothers and Sisters.

Citizens urged to join Friends

Local residents are reminded that the annual membership drive of Friends of the Deaf Smith County Library is currently underway and everyone is invited to join.

The Friends promote activities of the library, purchase needed items, and sponsor monthly family films at the facility. Each year the month of March is devoted to increasing the membership of the organization, thereby raising awareness and support of the public library. Individuals and organizations may become members of the Friends of the Library. Dues may be paid at the local library.

Individual memberships are $2 per year; organizational memberships, $5 per year; business memberships,

'Unsuit' is sun-through

NEW YORK (AP) — Sunbathing in the buff to get that sexy all-over tan is unsuitable in most places. Just so, say two sun worshippers, whose new swimsuit — the Unsuit — lets the sun through without being see-through. Held up to the right light, the material is semi-transparent. But clever construction, a distracting print and open (but not too open) fabric weave lets the sun's tanning rays through.

The suit, the brainchild of "trinitarian" Ann Buhringer is taking some fashion circles by storm. Bloomingdale's has reported record sales since the suit appeared in its stores last week. Neiman-Marcus ordered a bundle. Others are following suit — er, Unsuit.

It's not just a novelty item, apparently. Buhringer and his partner, Ann Turkel, say it has surpassed all their expectations.

"All of a sudden you have people ripping it off the racks. Your heart beat starts to rise," Buhringer told The Associated Press on Tuesday.

What is the Unsuit's appeal? Miss Turkel, actress-model and ex-wife of actor Richard Harris, is quick with an answer.

"One gets a suntan because a suntan hides a lot of flaws — cellulite, stretch marks. I think this is really going to help a lot of women look better and feel better," she said.

For Murchinson

Cowboys investment pays off

DALLAS (AP) — For 24 years, Clint W. Murchison was the model National Football League owner.

Paying $500,000 for a franchise in 1960, the then 36-year-old Murchison hired Tex Schramm and told him to put together a team.

Schramm called New York Giants defensive coach Tom Landry and a baby photographer, Gil Brandt, to fill the head coach and personnel director vacancies, respectively.

That foursome has been together for five Super Bowl teams, 18 consecutive winning seasons, 15 playoff seasons in the last 16, and a record of 214-120-6.

Murchison, who is selling the team with NFL-approval to a group headed by H.R. "Bum" Bright, was strictly low-profile. The former 135-pound halfback for Massachusetts Institute of Technology admitted, "I'm shy. Besides my name in the paper never sold tickets."

He appeared in public on rare occasions such as the Super Bowl dressing room after two Cowboy victories and three losses.

He had to make perhaps his most critical decision in the mid-1960s when the Cowboys were still floundering.

Critics were giving Landry a tough time.

"How are we going to answer them?" asked Schramm.

"Do you think a 10-year contract will quieten things down?" Murchison replied.

"Yes, that ought to do it," Schramm replied. It did.

Murchison always liked things quiet. But inside he was tough.

There might not have ever been a Cowboy team if he hadn't been.

When Murchison was trying to get a franchise, Washington owner George Preston Marshall blocked the way.

However, Murchison had obtained the rights to the song "Hail to the Redskins" which Marshall dearly loved.

A bargain was struck: Marshall's vote for the Redskins' fight song.

Murchison was eventually placed into a selling position because of failing health and a need to settle his brother's estate.

Murchison and Schramm screened hundreds of prospective buyers before settling on Bright's group.

"Clint wanted the organization to continue without a ripple," Schramm said. "We had to find the right people."

Schramm's search for a Murchison clone turned up the 63-year-old Bright, a multimillionaire who even looks like Murchison with the same close-cropped haircut and dark-rimmed glasses.

"Clint and I are very happy the stability of the club will continue," said Schramm.

Schramm said Murchison never took a penny out of the Cowboys.

"He always plowed all the profits back into the team," said Schramm.

When Murchison sold the club, however, it was worth about 160 times what he paid for it.

Hereford routed in 3-5A opener

By STAN GODEK
Sports Editor

LUBBOCK - Pitching and hitting is the cornerstone of any successful baseball team.

Monterey coach Bobby Moegle said these two elements were the key to his Plainsmen beating Hereford, 9-1, Tuesday. The game was the District 3-5A season opener for both clubs.

"I think we were a little farther ahead than Hereford at this point of the season. I didn't think (starting Whiteface pitcher) Mickey Stengel was as sharp as I've seen him before," Moegle said after the contest.

Monterey lefthander Kevin Short turned in a stellar pitching performance for Monterey. He held the Herd hitless until Ronnie Collier broke the drought with a single to left in the fifth.

On the game the all-district hurler struck out 12 Whitefaces, gave up three hits and one unearned run.

"It's tough to beat Monterey in baseball. It's almost like they have some sort of magic. They're like Permian in football," HHS coach Don Long said referring to Monterey's 20 district championships in the past 25 years.

"After we settled down, we started playing good ball in the last three innings. In the early innings our pitches were up in the wheelhouse and they (Monterey) were ripping it," Long said.

Monterey started its scoring in the bottom of the first. Short walked, Scott Smith followed with a bloop single to right Short scored when HHS shortstop Ronnie Collier mishandled a grounder off the bat of Billy Lance.

The next batter, Phil Edwards, ripped a line shot to right to score Smith. A double play scored Lance who had raced to third on Edwards' single.

Short struck out the side in the bottom of the second, getting the Herd to wave at low breaking pitches.

Stengel escaped trouble in the bottom of the second, giving up only one run despite four Plainsmen hits.

In the top of the third, Short again struck out the side. And in the bottom of the inning MHS connected for three more runs. The big hit was a two-run double by Brian Christiansen against the fence in deep left centerfield.

Through four innings, Short had faced 12 Whitefaces and retired 12, eight on strikes. But the Herd found some life in the top of the fifth.

Collier led off with his single, Jeff Streun flied to center, and Sammy Suarez forced Collier at second.

Robert Martinez got an infield single and Suarez scored when Smith let a grounder by Chad Stephan get between his legs. The score stood 9-1.

Neither team scored in the sixth or seventh.

The loss drops the Whiteface season record to 4-5. Monterey raises its record to 10-2.

Hereford will try to rebound this week when it hosts Lubbock High Friday and then travels to Amarillo to tangle with Palo Duro Saturday.

In other district games Palo Duro topped Coronado, 8-3; Caprock downed Lubbock High, 4-2; and Plainview shutout Amarillo, 1-0.

NCAA tournament

Kentucky to battle Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The good thing about college basketball is that on a given night, anybody can beat anybody, says Louisville Coach Denny Crum.

"And we're playing on a given night," Crum said of Thursday's NCAA Midwest Regional semifinal against No. 3 Kentucky in Rupp Arena.

"It's obvious that Kentucky's going to be the favorite," Crum said at a news conference Tuesday. "They're supposed to win and we're not, but that just means we're relaxed."

One key, Crum said, is that if Kentucky dominates on the inside, his Cardinals must prove master on the outside.

"We always have trouble with big men, because our center (Charles Jones) is only 6-foot-8," Crum said. "If we let them get the ball inside, it's going to be hard to beat them."

Jim Master canned 19 points for Kentucky in the season-opening 65-44 rout, while Louisville's backcourt duo of Lancaster Gordon and Milt Wagner, the team's leading scorers, combined for only 12 points.

Louisville outbounded the much taller Kentucky 41-36 in the game, but while Louisville's backcourt of Jones, 6-8 Billy Thompson and 6-7 Manual Forrest managed only 16 points combined, the Wildcats 7-foot Sam Bowie, 6-11 Melvin Turpin and 6-9 Kenny Walker had 36 points together.

Gordon, a senior, said Kentucky's guards applied a lot of pressure in the last game, and Gordon hopes that he and Wagner have adjusted to that.

A new problem for Louisville is the status of Forrest, who severely twisted an ankle in Louisville's two-point win over Tulsa on Sunday. "It's just a wait and see thing with Manual," said Crum.

The Kentucky-Louisville game is one of four Thursday night as the NCAA playoffs resume with regional semifinal competition in the East at Atlanta and the Midwest at Lexington, Ky. The Midwest bracket in St. Louis and West in Los Angeles, also semifinals, are set for Friday night.

Along with the Kentucky-Louisville contest, Maryland, 24-7, plays sixth-ranked Illinois, 25-4, in the Midwest. North Carolina, 28-2, faces Indiana, 21-8, and Virginia, 19-11, takes on No. 18 Syracuse, 23-8, in the East.

In the Midwest, No. 5 Houston, 29-4, engages No. 16 Memphis State, 26-6, and No. 4 DePaul, 27-2, plays Wake Forest, 22-8. The West pairing matches No. 2 Georgetown, 30-3, against No. 13 Nevada-Las Vegas, 29-5, and No. 15 Washington, 24-6, vs. Dayton, 20-10.

Virginia, which failed to win the NCAA championship the past three seasons despite the presence of towering Ralph Sampson, feels it has a lot to prove since the 7-foot-4 center has gone on to the pros.

"I think people tended to underestimate us going into the season," said Virginia Coach Terry Holland. "I think people tended to look at us and say, 'They were a good basketball team with Ralph Sampson, but they won't be that good anymore.'"

Syracuse, a young team headed by sophomore Rafael Addison and freshman point guard Dwayne "Pearl" Washington, is expected to play run-and-gun against Virginia, a veteran team.

Top-ranked North Carolina has three starters from the 1982 NCAA championship team — Michael Jordan, Sam Perkins and Matt Doherty — plus freshman point guard Kenny Smith returning to pre-injury form.

Maryland, the Atlantic Coast Conference tourney winner, comes off an impressive 102-77 victory over West Virginia. Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell is counting on Herman Veal, who he calls "the best defensive player in the country," to help stop Illinois, the Big Ten co-champion.

Memphis State is banking on Keith Lee to carry the Tigers past Houston and 7-foot All-America Akeem Olajuwon.

Accent on Agriculture

By DENNIS NEWTON
County Extension Agent

While I was out in the county this past week, farmers were responding to the beautiful weather and were working feverishly to get prepared for spring, land preparation, applying fertilizer and herbicides and planting were all in high gear.

Problems have started to show up in our wheat this past week as infestations of mustard weeds and wheat mites have hit many fields. Both of these problems could prove very costly.

For some reason, which is unknown to all of us, weeds find a way to survive and out grow everything we plant. In visiting with a number of farmers, I was told that the weed problem is the worst that it has been in years. Probably a combination of the lack of competition from our growing wheat and the cold winter caused this problem.

Mustard is a cool season weed that does not need moisture to survive. The seeds of the plant can lay dormant in the soil for many years without germinating. When conditions are right, the weed population simply explodes and a severe problem occurs.

Mustard is a difficult weed to kill if it is allowed to get to large. After the weed is established, herbicides will only retard its growth, but not destroy the plant.

Some farmers with the problem told me that they wanted to wait until irrigation was complete before attempting to control their weeds. I am fearful that this wait may prove very costly.

If mustard is growing and is a problem don't wait. Apply 2, 4-D to the weeds and adequate control should be achieved. Delays can cost dollars because of the loss of soil moisture and nutrients.

The other pests, we are seeing now are wheat mites. These spider mites are a pest that love dry weather. This past week, when the days were warm and dry, the pest built numbers rapidly, especially in dryland fields.

The problem with controlling the mite is the weather and economics. If you spray and get only a high percent kill, the pest has the ability to reproduce so rapidly that damaging levels will be noticed in about 10 days provided the weather stays dry.

The best control for the pest is rainfall. A good rain will give the plants a chance to produce a growth to off set the damage and it will also curb the reproduction cycle of the mite.

If control with chemicals is used, farmers must decide if it is economically feasible. The amount of damage, the cost of the control measure and the benefits must all be weighed very carefully. Normally, the effectiveness of insecticides in controlling this pest is questionable, but each farmer must make that decision.

Hopefully, a good rain will come and eliminate the problem.

Dryland farmers are reminded of the Dryland Cop Symposium scheduled for March 28 at 9:30 a.m. in the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center in Amarillo.

New Texas family farm program to help people purchase land they are working

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Hard-working farmers and ranchers who are making a go of it and want to purchase the land they work have been offered a helping hand by the state.

Gov. Mark White and Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower announced Tuesday the beginning of the Texas Family Farm and Ranch Security Program, which actually was authorized by the 1979 Legislature.

"The West Texas drought and the recent freeze in the (Rio Grande) Valley have made the past 12 months a difficult time for Texas farmers and ranchers," White said. "This much-needed program to help the state's family farmers and ranchers purchase the land they work will help put this important state industry back on the road to recovery."

"There's no need pretending that this one program is all that is necessary to restore full prosperity back to Texas agriculture," said Hightower, "but it will give people who work the land the opportunity to own their land."

The open-air ceremony took place on the 3,000-acre Dan Berdoll farm, east of Austin, which is in the midst of a U.S. Department of Energy demonstration project to show the feasibility of replacing traditional fuels with farm-produced methane and ethanol, which is grain alcohol.

Berdoll raises grain sorghum which, after processing, is fed to hogs and cattle. The manure is used to produce methane gas which is used to heat the swine barns and power an ethanol plant, which produces fuel used in various farm vehicles.

"Ninety-seven point six percent of us Texans are eaters, rather than growers of food, and we count on the other 2.4 percent of our population who now bring dinner to the table," Hightower said. "But there is not an endless supply of farmers these days, and the future of our dinner is very much in question."

"If we keep our farm and ranchers happy we will have a healthy economy," said White.

Hightower said the new Texas Family Farm and Ranch Security Program would allow the Department of Agriculture to guarantee up to 90 percent of the amount for purchase of land for a family farm and ranch. If the farmer or rancher paid 10 percent down, the state department could guarantee the entire loan for eligible farmers or ranchers.

"We expect to have $40 million available this year for this program," Hightower said. "There is no limit on the amount of the loans."

Hightower said applicants must have a net worth of less than $100,000, not counting the residential homestead, and must use the farm or ranch as their primary occupation. Applicants must show they are experienced in the farm or ranch operation they want to finance and will be able to repay the loans.

Loans cannot be made to refinance existing real estate debt, to purchase equipment and livestock, or to provide operating capital.

Hightower said that Larry Strange of his department would be administrator of the program.

White announced the appointment of four members of a Family Farm and Ranch Security Program advisory council. They were Virginia Armstrong, Dimmitt; Randall C. Dixon, Croesbeck; Alfred L. Parks, Sypress and Harold R. Pruitt, Slidell.

Some dairy farmers will get big fed payments

WASHINGTON (AP) — Big federal payments to some dairy farmers can be expected if the U.S. milk surplus is to be brought under control, says Agriculture Secretary John R. Block.

The payments are made at the rate of $10 per 100 pounds of milk that a dairy farmer reduces output from normal production.

Block was asked Tuesday about reports that some of the payments will go to big producers who will collect, in one case, up to $3 million for reducing milk production.

"We do what the legislation calls for ... the objective of these programs is to reduce production," Block said in response to a question at a National Press Club luncheon.

"Good or bad, that was the objective. You cannot reduce production effectively unless you take large-volume production from large producers and get it reduced," he said.

"Any you cannot get big producers to cut big production unless you pay big dollars."

Block takes few jibes at Mondale's 'beefs'

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary John R. Block says Democratic presidential contenders have enough on their hands at the moment without beefing about President Reagan's farm policies.

But Block was coaxed Tuesday into taking a few jibes at former Vice President Walter F. Mondale, anyway.

"I'm not going to get into a debate with Walter Mondale at this point in time," Block told a National Press Club audience. "He has enough problems of his own without taking on the secretary of agriculture."

Block's comments were in response to a question about Mondale and other Democrats who ask, "Where's the beef?" Block was asked, "What's your beef about Mondale?"

"I always ask where's the pork," Block said. "I'm a pig farmer ... that shows he's off base to start with, he asked the wrong question."

Block, whose family farm in Illinois produces about 6,000 hogs a year, said he would let Mondale — the only Democratic candidate mentioned by name — "answer his own problem" at this time.

"He's part of the Carter administration and he's the one that delivered the message on the grain embargo — and that's enough baggage right there to put him in a lot of trouble," Block said.

The reference was to then-President Jimmy Carter's order on Jan. 4, 1980, to embargo further sales of U.S. grain to the Soviet Union in response to the Soviets' attack on Afghanistan.

Reagan made the embargo an issue in his successful presidential campaign that year and removed the lid on grain sales in April 1981, nearly 16 months after Carter imposed it.

The luncheon meeting with Block was part of a National Agriculture Day program that included a White House breakfast with Reagan for four "Outstanding Young Farmers of America" chosen by the U.S. Jaycees. Reagan later joined others at a ceremony in which he hailed farmers for their record of productivity.

Block was asked why he expected farmers to vote for Reagan this fall, considering that many are still in a financial bind.

"The situation is dramatically improved" from four years ago when the embargo was in place, when interest rates were much higher and with "inflation running away with the whole process," Block said.

"If you just want to look back a year, I would point out that the prices of grain and crops are about 20 percent higher than they were a year ago, livestock prices up about 6 percent," he said.

Farm income also is expected to gain in 1984. "On balance, I say things are getting better," Block said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new report by the Agriculture Department shows that farmers in the 10 major pork states had 39.5 million head of hogs and pigs in their inventories as of March 1, down 5 percent from a year ago and the lowest number for this time of year since 1976.

The breeding herd was estimated at 5.35 million head, 10 percent fewer than a year ago and the fewest since 1973 when estimates were begun for the 10 states, the report said Tuesday.

Market hog inventories — the animals that are headed for slaughter — were down 5 percent from a year ago to about 34.2 million head.

The pig crop in the first three months of the new marketing year that began last Dec. 1 was 13.5 million head, a 13 percent decline from the same period of 1982-83.

Farmers in the 10 states intend to farrow 2.48 million sows this spring, down 11 percent from March-May of last year but 4 percent more than two years ago. Intentions for June-August point to 2.1 million farrowings, 13 percent fewer than last year.

The March 1 inventory in the 10 leading states, which produce more than three-fourths of the nation's pork, and percentages of a year earlier, included:

- Georgia, 1,190,000 head on March 1 and 92 percent of a year earlier.
- Illinois, 4,950,000 and 93.
- Indiana, 4,000,000 and 91.
- Iowa, 13,200,000 and 94.
- Kansas, 1,350,000 and 80.
- Minnesota, 3,950,000 and 95.
- Missouri, 3,200,000 and 97.
- Nebraska, 3,550,000 and 101.
- North Carolina, 2,150,000 and 96.
- Ohio, 2,000,000 and 108.

Ghana

The African nation of Ghana is named after an earlier state that flourished along the Niger River between A.D. 800 and 1076. The modern nation covers 2,100 square miles, slightly less than the state of Oregon, with a population of some 10 million people. In 1951 it was the first African colony to be granted full independence by Great Britain.

Producers study gas-price ruling

DALLAS (AP) — Small natural gas producers could be hardest hit by a Supreme Court decision forcing rebates to pipeline companies and distributors, an industry official says.

In addition, the $1 billion estimated to be returned to consumers under the decision will amount to "pretty small peanuts" to the average natural gas customer, a pipeline distributor said.

The reaction came Tuesday as industry officials began calculating the impact of the high court decision forcing them back to a previously abandoned pricing structure. The justices on Monday left intact a lower court ruling scrapping the gas pricing structure created by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission four years ago.

The decision is expected to save natural gas customers about $1 billion immediately and hundreds of millions in lower heating bills in the future. Gas producers who had been charging higher prices under the new system were ordered to refund the difference between the new price and the old price.

Dallas-based Diamond Shamrock Co. charged the higher rates but kept the difference — about $3 million — in a special account, spokesman Roger Schrum said.

"As soon as the new price structure came out in 1980 it was involved in a legal battle so we put all the monies into a contingency fund pending the outcome of court action. The money won't have to come from our earnings," said Schrum.

"But I don't think a lot of the small producers did that," Schrum said. "Small producers work on a shoestring and have to use every dollar they get. Down the road, we may see some (small) producers hurt very badly."

Bob Wells, a spokesman for Houston-based Coastal Corp., said his company had not yet learned details of the ruling.

"It's too soon to calculate the thing entirely. We think we'll be recovering on a retroactive basis about $30 million from producers, and that will flow right through to consumers," said Wells.

But to the average gas customer, Wells said, the effect will be minimal. "A billion dollars is pretty small peanuts as far as total gas bill for the nation is concerned," he said.

Texas consumers would not notice much difference in their bills, but "customers at the other end of the pipeline, such as in the Northeast, could notice some difference," one Houston executive said.

The justices, with one recorded dissent, left intact a ruling that the FERC acted illegally when in 1980 it changed the system of calculating how much pipeline companies pay gas producers. The change centered on measuring the energy content of gas in terms of British thermal units, the amount of energy needed to raise the temperature of water by one degree Fahrenheit.

The previous pricing system understated the BTU total in natural gas and, therefore, tended to lower the price that could be charged.

Some producers, such as Texas Oil and Gas Co., stuck with the old pricing system until the issue was resolved, said spokesman Mike Dixon.

"For Texas Oil and Gas, the impact is very insignificant," he said.

The new system, which was made retroactive to 1978 when implemented, was a more accurate pricing structure but had the effect of raising the BTU count and the total price.

Natural gas pipeline companies challenged the new system, and the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Washington struck it down last Aug. 9, saying Congress never has shown any intention of raising natural gas prices "as much as possible."

In seeking Supreme Court review, the FERC and the nation's largest producers argued the appeals court misread Congress' intent in passing the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978.

Schrum said gas producers were disappointed in the ruling because "we're going back to something we felt was not the proper way to price natural gas."

He said Diamond Shamrock officers were eager to learn how the court's decision would be implemented.

"We don't know if we'll be required to make monthly payments, or a lump sum, or what," he said.

Ann Landers

Alternatives to abuse

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a message for the women who believe they must stay in a marriage made in hell just because they have no income.

Twenty years ago my husband left me with four broken ribs and a fractured wrist. Our three children were placed in a foster home until I recovered in the hospital. I had married at 16 and my parents were dead.

A priest came into my hospital room and I poured out my heart to him. He advised me to pray for the courage to carry on. He also said, "The Lord can't do it alone. Help him."

In a few days I was released from the hospital and went to get my children. The family who had taken them in offered me shelter until I could find a job.

I worked as a waitress and studied at night to get my high school diploma. I then obtained a grant to continue my education. Today I am a computer analyst and own my own home. My last child will graduate this May and the other two are in college.

It took faith and sweat and determination to go it alone but it can be done. I know because I did it.—Corpus Christi

DEAR C.C.: Your letter should be clipped and kept by every wife who feels she must live with a man who is cruel and abusive. You have proven there are alternatives—and you did it before there were shelters for abused women and a variety of service agencies. I salute you!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The problem I am writing about is the dog next door. No, he doesn't bark all night. He does something worse. That mutt eats the bread I put out for the birds.

Would it make him very sick if I put some hot sauce on the bread? I don't want to do anything illegal, I just want that darned dog to leave the bread for the birds. It has been a cold winter and too many of my feathered friends have starved to death.

Don't suggest that I buy a bird feeder. I can't afford it.—Distressed In Lima, Ohio

DEAR DISTRESSED: Forget the hot sauce. It might finish off one of your feathered friends. Make a bird feeder out of scrap plywood and put it on a pole. The cost would be next to nothing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The neighbors upstairs are plain trash. They hang their underwear and towels on the roof to dry. I'm ashamed to have friends over. Their German shepherd barks all night and has the IQ of a turnip. We can't take our cats outside for an airing because the dog is often leashed to the house. When he sees them he goes crazy.

Around the Town

Colby Black, son of Chubby and Nita Black, was honored with a party Monday at his home to celebrate his eighth birthday.

Guests enjoying games, Garfield cake, ice cream and punch were Tammy Hyer, Michael Davis, Chassidy Weddel, Geode Gentry, Kinann Campbell, Brandon Gearn, Bryan Williams, Chris Lee, Misty Dudley, Joshua Tice and Aaron Stevens.

Helping with the party were Mrs. Ellen Manning, Colby's aunt, and Mrs. Gail Davis.

The first white people to visit Utah were Spanish Franciscans in 1776. They were followed for trappers. It wasn't until 1847 before it was settled permanently with the arrival of the Mormons, who made the desert bloom and created a prosperous economy. The Mormons called it the "State of Deseret."

We have complained to the landlord, but he says as long as they pay the rent and don't break any laws, THEY are desirable tenants. We can't afford to move. Any suggestions?—Miserable In Raleigh, N.C.

DEAR N.C.: Start looking for another place. You say you can't afford to move. I say you can't afford NOT to. Aren't your sanity and quality of worth something?

'The Buffalo Bill Show' in trouble

NEW YORK (AP) — It appears likely that NBC will be canceling two shows with one pink slip.

"Buffalo Bill," the comedy about the obnoxious Bill Bittering and his egocentric TV talk show, "The Buffalo Bill Show," is in trouble — and all the laugh tracks that the network forces on the producers will not save either series.

Although the real "Buffalo Bill" has won critical raves and a loyal, albeit small, following who revel in Dabney Coleman's antagonistic anti-hero, an NBC source said consistently low ratings have dimmed the chances of seeing the series returned to NBC's fall schedule.

Given one of the few comfortable "hammock" spots on NBC's schedule, Thursday nights between "Cheers" and "Hill Street Blues," it's clear that many viewers have actively rejected "Buffalo Bill," actually getting off the couch to switch off Bill's outrageousness.

This season, the Nielsen ratings show that 17 percent of all the nation's TV homes watched "Cheers," 13 percent watched "Buffalo Bill" and 18 percent watched "Hill Street Blues." "Buffalo Bill" has averaged only a 20 percent share of the viewers watching TV from 9:30 to 10.

"We have been satisfied with the production of 'Buffalo Bill,' but we have not been satisfied with the audience levels it has achieved," said Brandon Tartikoff, president of NBC Entertainment.

NBC has been concerned since the show's inception that "Buffalo Bill" was going to be too spicy for an audience addicted to artificial sweeteners. The network knew that viewers who were questioned by the network were turned off by Bill's totally unrepentant and unredeemable behavior.

That's too bad. "Buffalo Bill" is daringly funny exactly the way it is, but the fact that it hasn't been accepted is just one more reflection of television's numbing, warping influence. It's not enough that sitcoms often are mindlessly bland, but now their characters must be sickeningly likeable, in order to appeal to the broadest audiences.

Besides this trend toward homogenized humor, Hollywood still insults audiences with one of mankind's most condescending inventions — laugh tracks. These loud and boorish mechanical convulsions are not so subtle forms of brainwashing, designed to trick viewers into thinking the material is funnier than it really is.

But those who enjoy "Buffalo Bill," which is not filmed before live audiences, don't need coaxing from a machine. In fact, this series' style of humor made it a highly inappropriate candidate for a laugh track.

"Buffalo Bill" features unconventional comedy, not based on a character telling one-liners, but generally stemming from Bill's loutish behavior and the conflicting personalities and attitudes of the characters. Since much of the funny repartee flowed from conversation, there was little time for a gag man's hammy pause for rim shots.

For second week

'Splash' stays on top

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Splash," the romantic comedy by Walt Disney Studios Touchstone division, continues to reign at the box office, grossing $6.5 million in its second week at the top of the charts. The movie about a young man who falls in love with a mermaid — representing Disney's efforts to reach a teen and adult audience — drew more viewers than Paramount's "Footloose" for the second week in a row, according to box office figures released Monday.

"Splash" grossed $6.5 million in its second week of release after grossing $8.4 million in its debut.

"Ice Pirates," MGM-UA's science-fiction comedy about space pirates, opened its first week by earning $4.4 million, and "Tank" starring James Garner earned $4 million.

Here are the week's highest-grossing films, followed by the weekend's gross receipts, total receipts and the number of weeks in circulation:

- "Splash" (Touchstone), $6.5 million, $14.9 million, 2 weeks.
- "Footloose" (Paramount), $4.7 million, $37.9 million, 5 weeks.
- "Ice Pirates" (MGM-UA), $4.4 million, 1 week.
- "Tank" (Universal), $4 million, 1 week.
- "Children Of The Corn" (New World), $2.8 million, $12 million, 3 weeks.
- "Against All Odds" (Columbia), $2.6 million, $12 million, 3 weeks.
- "Terms Of Endearment" (Paramount), $1.6 million, $89.8 million, 17 weeks.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The state petroleum monopoly PEMEX announced it will maintain its crude oil export prices unchanged at $29 a barrel for the Isthmus light type and $25 for the heavier Maya type through April.

A PEMEX spokesman also said late Monday that Mexico will maintain production at 2.75 million barrels a day and exports at 1.5 million barrels a day, with roughly half of that sold to the United States. Mexico refuses to join the Organization of Petroleum Exporting countries, but sometimes uses OPEC guidelines in establishing prices. It sells only to reputable customers, on contracts of at least one year, and negotiates prices with them every month.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexican airport taxes for international travel will go up from $3.53 to $9.41 per passenger effective April 1, the nation's airports authority announced Tuesday. Airport duties on domestic travel will also go up from $1.84 to $2.94 on that date. The authority said rising costs and high inflation make the increases unavoidable.

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) — Rising fuel and other costs are threatening to squeeze Mexico's artisan glass blowing industry out of existence, Glass Making Industry chairman Ovidio Garza has warned.

The government's Notimex news agency quoted Garza as saying in an interview that daily increases by the state petroleum monopoly PEMEX in the price of natural gas it sells to glass blowers is principally to blame. Gas is widely used in glassmaking.

Garza said 30 glass making plants in the northern state of Nuevo Leon produce 80 percent of the country's glass.

Use credit wisely

NEW YORK (AP) — Easy credit, wisely used, has paved the way to material success for millions of people. And just as certainly, easy credit poorly used has waxed the slide to financial disaster.

Nothing new about that. What is new is the recent and enormous expansion of credit opportunities and potential disasters.

A few years ago, it was common enough to hear about the neighbor who almost lost house and home because of an inability to handle department store charge cards.

More recently, the opportunities and dangers were raised sharply by the practice of offering lines of credit, activated by bank cards, in amounts several times the size to which people were accustomed.

And now we have (1) home equity credit, which allows homeowners to borrow, simply by writing a check or producing a credit card, most of their home equity, and (2) the adjustable rate mortgage.

Suddenly, the stakes have been raised, in some instances by 20 or 30 times. And the question becomes more critical: Is easy credit a bonanza or a potential bust?

Consider this illustration: Owners of cooperative apartments in the New York City area may, with the stroke of a pen or the flash of a card, borrow more money than they put out to buy their units a couple of years before. Even 10 times the amount.

Question: What happens if the value of the apartment declines and the borrower cannot sell it for the price on which the loan is based? If the borrower loses a job? If the borrower does not use the money wisely?

The variable rate mortgage presents other possibilities for opportunity or disaster, particularly because of the manner in which applicants are qualified.

As an inducement, lenders often offer applicants for VRMs a below-market rate for the first year, and judge the applicant's ability to pay on the basis of that low rate.

In some instances, applicants are offered 9.5 percent for the first year and market rates thereafter, with an upper limit of 14.5 percent. The cap protects the borrower from extremely high rates but it does not protect against 4 or 5 percentage point increases that are permissible in a period of a few short years.

In each instance the credit terms are based on a plentiful supply of money and a strong economy.

Most people know, however, that there are almost no guarantees about the future, and that one of the few that does exist is that bills incurred must be paid.

GUADALUPE DELGADO AND OTHERS, Plaintiffs, vs. THE STATE OF TEXAS AND OTHERS, Defendants. IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF TRAVIS COUNTY, TEXAS 147th JUDICIAL DISTRICT

NOTICE TO CLASS MEMBERS

IF YOU ARE A FARM OR RANCH LABORER PLEASE READ THIS CAREFULLY.

To: Farm and ranch laborers injured on or after March 17, 1984.

Judge Harley Clark of the District Court in Travis County judge has ruled that the exclusion of farm and ranch laborers from the Texas Workers' Compensation Act is unconstitutional and should not be enforced.

This notice has three purposes: (1) to inform you of the existence of the lawsuit and of the fact that you may be a member of the class on whose behalf the lawsuit was brought, which class is described above; (2) to inform you of the judgment in the case; and, (3) to give you a chance to remove yourself from being bound by the judgment.

The effect of the judgment will be to bind you as a class member under terms of the judgment, whether it is favorable or unfavorable to you. However, you may have the right to be excluded from the class and the judgment, if you request the Court within thirty (30) days from the date of judgment. That request should be filed with John Dickson, Clerk of this Court, located at the Travis County Courthouse, P.O. Box 1748, Austin, Texas, on or by April 6, 1984.

Signed and entered this 7th day of March, 1984.

El juez Harley Clark del Condado de Travis ha declarado que la provision legal que excluye a campesinos de la ley que protege a personas que se accidentan en el trabajo es anti-constitucional y que no se puede enforzarla. Es decir que, comenzando el dia 17 de marzo 1984, los campesinos accidentados en la labor van a estar protegidos por esta ley tanto como cualquier trabajador accidentado.

Hay tres razones para darle esta noticia: (1) para informarle de este litigio y de que UD. quiz sea miembro de la clase campesina en el nombre de cual esta demanda estuvo presentada; (2) para informarle a Ud. del decreto y juicio final en este caso; y (3) para darle la oportunidad de excluirse de tal juicio si Ud. no quiere estar cubierto por la ley de compensacion para trabajadores accidentados.

El juicio le incluire a Ud. como miembro de la accion colectiva, no importa si sea favorable o infavorable a Ud.

Entonces, quizas Ud. tendra el derecho de excluirse de esta accion colectiva y del juicio si Ud. lo pida del juez dentro de treinta (30) dias de la fecha del juicio. Su peticion debe estar sentada en la oficina del Secretario de la Corte, John Dickson, colcado en la Casacorte del Condado de Travis, P.O. Box 1748, Austin, Texas 78767, por el dia 6 de abril, 1984. Este orden es firmado y archivadado el dia 7 de marzo, 1984.

Democratic Senate

Candidates offer views

AUSTIN (AP) — U.S. Senate candidates Kent Hance and Bob Krueger exchanged barbs at a debate that also included candidate Lloyd Doggett.

Each of the three Democratic candidates tried Tuesday to persuade a state capital group that he would be the best bet to beat the Republican nominee in November. State Sen. Doggett told his hometown Austin

Democratic Forum, "The Republicans have a fine choice of four candidates ... ranging from the far right to the not so right."

Doggett, U.S. Rep. Hance of Lubbock and former Rep. Krueger of New Braunfels were introduced by former presidential press secretary George Christian, who said, "I think we can safely say that no matter who wins this (Democratic) nomination and goes to Washington ...

(he) will be a leader from day one."

After Krueger had responded to a question from the audience about his position on a proposed school prayer amendment, Hance said, "Bob, my question would be 'Are you for or against the prayer amendment?' I couldn't understand from your answer."

Krueger said, "I can't understand why you can't understand it."

"Well," said Hance, "I think the public can't understand it — you're dodging, just like you do all over the state." "Kent, you just aren't listening. You just don't want to hear. I said I was for it, you heard it," said Krueger.

Hance said, "You just have to tie him down every once in a while. He ties me down some, and we can't always smile afterwards, can't we Bob? My smile's always a little better than his but..." "That's because you're better looking," said Krueger.

"I appreciate your compliment," said Hance. "This is getting out of hand. The prayer amendment I support, the balanced budget not only I support, co-sponsored and worked hard for, and the abortion amendment I oppose." Krueger said he would support a balanced budget amendment, and he added, "I would not support a constitutional amendment related to abortion for this reason. I think that that is a religious issue, and I don't think Congress has any place in it."

Doggett said he opposed the prayer amendment, did not think the balanced budget amendment "will accomplish a single thing," and "certainly I favor, as I have in the Texas Senate, a pro-choice position (on abortion), and I do not favor restrictive amendments concerning choice in the U.S. Constitution, so put me down as 'no' on all three (amendments)." Asked about arms control, Hance said, "Doggett and Krueger have both been for a nuclear freeze that is just mutual and verifiable. I would only be for one that is mutual, verifiable and addresses the issue of parity. ... Doggett and Krueger are for the Kennedy-Hatfield freeze, which is just mutual and verifiable."

Krueger said, "One of the things that always amazes me in this campaign is how much other people are willing to speak for me." "Somebody has to," Hance said.

Mid-life crisis at 28?

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have periods when I get so tired I can barely get through the day. I feel great about my life and have no apparent emotional problems. I have a good marriage, a baby girl and a comfortable home and life.

I'm only 28, but I feel so old since I graduated, started working and had a baby. The very few things that give me pleasure — aerobic classes and caring for my daughter — remind me of how old I feel. I feel like I've been going through a mid-life crisis since my 1-year-old daughter was born. Before that I worked as a teacher for five years. I don't miss my work enough to go back because of the time and stress involved.

I'm also 30 pounds overweight. I gained the weight after my daughter's birth. I was on thyroid medicine after her birth but I quit taking it because I couldn't sleep. My gynecologist prescribed it for hair loss. I have allergies, hay fever and asthma, but I have quit taking shots and drugs because they don't help.

Right now I'm concerned about my fatigue and lack of deep sleep, my hair loss and occasional feelings of shakiness. I want to live life to the fullest — and I don't want to take any more useless medications.

DEAR READER — You should have a family physician help sort out your various problems. It's important to know why you are overweight and to do something about it. If you really are low on thyroid, thyroid medicine will help and could correct your fatigue problem. Hair loss can be associated with thyroid deficiencies, although many women lose hair after childbirth.

It's important to remember that one reason for feeling tired is underlying medical problems. I hate to assume your fatigue is due to life situations, without first knowing that you have had a complete medical evaluation.

It's possible that much of your fatigue is associated with changes in your life. You may miss your teaching more than you realize. You may be disappointed in yourself because of your increase in weight. Change, which includes quitting your job and having children, certainly can contribute to depression and fatigue.

About 85 percent of the people who have fatigue don't have an underlying medical problem. I discuss these factors in the Health Letter 9-6, Fatigue: Feeling Tired and Weary, which I'm sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Thefts in car a bummer

DEAR POLLY — I had a frightening experience recently that I think will serve as a good reminder to others. My handbag was on the car seat next to me when I stopped at a stoplight. It was evening and there weren't many cars or people at the intersection. Suddenly, before I knew what was happening, a young man opened the door on the passenger side and grabbed my handbag, then ran off. I couldn't believe how quickly it happened. Now I always keep all doors locked while I'm driving. — JANET

DEAR JANET — It's sad to have to learn such an expensive lesson the hard way, but it happens to us all at times. The lesson is clear: Always keep your car doors locked, whether you are in or out of the car. You should always keep the windows rolled up or, at most, cracked open a tiny bit. Meanwhile, I'd like to pass on some other safety tips to keep in mind when you're on the road. These tips come from the New York State Office of Crime Prevention.

- At stop signs and traffic lights, keep the car in gear.
- Don't leave your purse on the seat beside you; put it on the floor where it is more difficult for someone to grab.
- When returning to your car, check the front seat, back seat and floor before entering the car.
- Never pick up hitchhikers.
- If your car should break down, get far enough off the road for safety, turn on your emergency flashers, raise the hood, get back into the car, lock the door and wait for help. Never leave the car to walk along the road and never wait outside the car.

These simple preventive measures may some day help save not only your pocketbook but also your life! Play it safe. — POLLY

OMENS, PORTENTS AND SIGNS—WATCH OUT!

"There will be strange events in the skies—warnings, evil omens and portents in the sun, moon and stars; and down here on earth the nations will be in turmoil, perplexed by the roaring seas and strange tides. The courage of many people will falter because of the fearful fate they see coming upon the earth, for the stability of the very heavens will be broken up.

"Then the peoples of the earth shall see Me, the Man from Heaven, coming in a cloud with power and great glory. So when all these things begin to happen, stand straight and look up! For your salvation is near."

Then He gave them this illustration: "Notice the fig tree, or any other tree. When the leaves come out, you know without being told that summer is near. In the same way, when you see the events taking place that I've described you can be just as sure that the Kingdom of God is near.

"I solemnly declare to you that when these things happen, the end of this age has come. And though all heaven and earth shall pass away, yet My words remain forever true.

"Watch out! Don't let My sudden coming catch you unawares; don't let Me find you living in careless ease, carousing and drinking, and occupied with problems of this life, like all the rest of the world. Keep a constant watch. And pray that if possible you may arrive in My presence without having to experience these horrors."

Every day Jesus went to the Temple to teach, and the crowds began gathering early in the morning to hear Him. And each evening He returned to spend the night on the Mount of Olives. Luke 21:25-38
