Buffalo Lake blaze headlines hectic day

By KIM THOGMARTIN Staff Writer

Hereford volunteer firemen climbed out of bed at 2:03 a.m. Wednesday to fight a dumpster fire. It was an early start to a busy day that including battling wind-blown grass fires, a four-hour stay at the Buffalo lake Wildlife Refuge and assisting at two major traffic accidents.

At 9 a.m. the force was called to Swift Independent Packing Company, W. Highway 60, where a pile of animal waste products was on fire. "That stuff smells really bad," remarked Fire Marshal Jay Spain. That call lasted oneand-a-half hours.

Fifteen minutes passed before the next alarm came, to fight a tree and grass fire at 1300 S. Main St. That run ended at 11:20 a.m.

At 11:45 a.m. the volunteers were dispatched to a grass fire west of Dawn, and while putting out that blaze one unit was sent back to extinguish the tree fire which had started up again at the South Main Street residence.

Returning at 12;25 p.m., firefighters relaxed until 1:56 p.m., when they were sent to a grass fire west of Hereford For volunteer firemen on Highway 60. While there, part of the units were dispatched to Buffalo Lake, where "controlled" burning had gotten out of hand due to high winds.

The Hereford units joined trucks from Canyon, Umbarger and Dawn for that operation, which lasted until 6:40 p.m.

Meanwhile back in Hereford, the 2:46 p.m. report of a house fire at 321 Star turned out to be the resident burning off grass.

At 3:50, rescue units were sent to South Progressive and Austin Roads, where one person was injured in a twovehicle traffic accident. Deaf Smith General Hospital Administrator Jim Bullard said Efrain Mendoza, 30, was in good condition this morning after being admitted Wednesday for observation. He suffered facial lacerations and back pains.

Though another vehicle was involved, there were no other injuries. Details of the accident were not available.

dent at 8:30 p.m. was the 10th call of the day. Rescue units went to Highway 60 and Clement Street, where 38-yearold Franklin Williams had plowed his 1973 Pontiac into a utility pole owned by Southwestern Public Service. The 422 Avenue E resident was taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital where, according to Bullard, he refused treatment. Hereford Police then arrested Williams for driving while intoxicated and he was taken to the Deaf Smith County Jail.

The nation's primate, Cardinal Jozef Glemp, suggested in a sermon that the government "rethink" the law separating church and state.

The cardinal, addressing 2,000 worshipers Wednesday at St. John's Cathedral in Warsaw, said the authorities offend Poland's devout Catholic majority by stripping schools of crucifixes.

"Is a law which hurts social feelings so widely right in a society in which the majority are believers? Isn't it necessary to rethink the law on separation of church and state?" Glemp said.

The nine-member Main Council of Bishops also commented Wednesday, issuing a saying: statement

"Statements by the authorities that the crosses will be removed from schools and educational institutions fill us with dismay."

"Because Catholic society wants the crucifix placed at where young people are educated, it replaces at the earliest possible opportunity crucifixes which have been taken down by educational authorities and defends them from removal," the statement said.

Last September, the nation's 80 bishops urged authorities to stop removing crucifixes from schools. But the "war of the crosses" did not become full-blown until March 7, when 400 students occupied the Stanislaw Staszic Agricultural School in Mietne to protest removal of crucifixes. Protests soon spread to nearby towns. The Staszic school has been clos-

Salvador (AP) - Two young gunmen walked up to a conservative legislator and shot him dead on a San Salvador sidewalk, while in the countryside 4,000 army troops pressed an pre-election offensive against leftist rebels.

Candidate forums slated by chamber

The Legislative Affairs Committee of the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce is planning three pre-election forum nights to be held during April, and will co-sponsor a fourth event next week with the Hereford Classroom Teachers Association.

School board candidates will answer questions on March 19 at 3:45 p.m. at the Shirley Intermediate School media center. The meeting is open to the public and questions are invited. Chamber Executive Director Mike Carr said questions can be submitted in writing at the chamber office by 5 p.m. Friday or at Shirley prior to the start of the forum.

Representatives from both sides of the wet-dry election issue will highlight the forum night planned for April 2 at 7 p.m. Hereford City Commission and Deaf Smith General Hospital Board candidates have also been invited to the question and answer session to be held in the west end of the Hereford Community Center. Those elections are set for April 7.

Police prepare for attacks

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) - Police increased security today for Protestant leaders in Northern Ireland out of fear the IRA might try to avenge the shooting of Gerry Adams, president of the guerrillas' political wing.

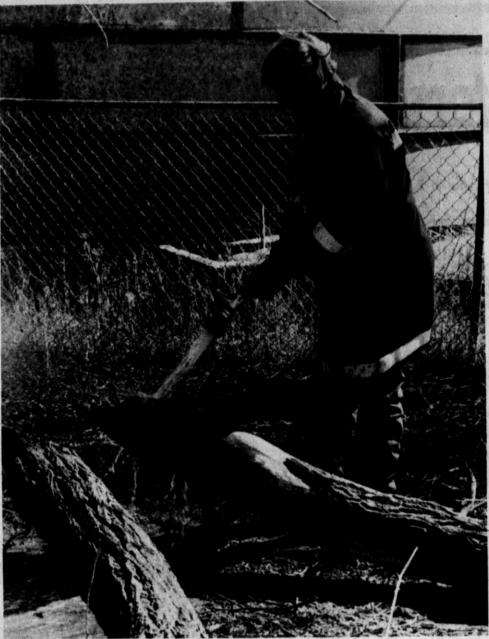

"We don't think the IRA will allow the attempt to kill Gerry Adams to pass without some kind of retaliation," said a senior police officer, who asked not to be identified.

Adams, president of Sinn Fein, was wounded in the neck and shoulder Wednesday by gunmen who riddled his car with at least 15 bullets as he drove from a courthouse where he is being tried for obstructing police during Britain's general election last June.

Police arrested three Protestant gunmen for the attack, claimed by the Ulster Freedom Fighters, a terrorist squad linked to the Ulster Defense Association, the biggest of Northern Ireland's Protestant paramilitary organizations.

Police officials declined to give details of the reinforcements. But sources said the Rev. Ian Paisley, who survived an assassination attempt two years ago, was a prime target, and armed guards maintained a discrete cordon around his east Belfast home. Paisley, a fundamentalist preacher-politician and fervent foe of the almost exclusively Roman Catholic Irish ublican Army, leads the Democratic Unionist Party, th opposes the IRA's aim to unite this Protestantnated British province with the Catholic Irish

But the panel has yet to place a price tag on its sweeping recommendations.

White said he will convene a special session of the Legislature this summer to act on the panel's recommendations for the future of Texas schools.

"There is a crystal clear message now that we're looking for academic achievement in the schools," said Perot. "We're talking about radical and revolutionary changes."

White said abolishing the 27-member elected State Board of Education and replacing it with a panel of nine appointees subject to Senate confirmation was a reflection of unhappiness with the way education has been handled in the past and a necessary step "to achieve the changes this committee is devoted to."

"We are in the condition we are in today because of the way we have been doing things for the last 25 years,' White said. "The question is, which way can you best move the ship forward?"

Panel member Will Davis of Austin, also a state Board of Education member, said the Legislature in 1949 switched to an elected board to make education less political in Texas.

"I must speak against delivering the public schools to what I believe is a partisan political system," Davis said. 'An appointed board, in my opinion, would disenfranchise many segments of our society. An appointed board would cut them off."

Panel member Ed Small of Austin questioned how White, who advocated election of the three-member Public Utility commission, instead of an appointment, could propose the opposite for the Board of Education.

The UIL recommendation would transfer authority over the governing board for Texas scholastic athletics from the University of Texas Board of Regents, which currently appoints UIL members, to the Board of Education.

Members of the commission, who spent several months touring Texas and interviewing educators, at times bickered over the wording of proposals up for votes.

"The most important thing to us right now is our family life together," commented Sue Sims. "We enjoy attending the kids' activities and we go to as many junior high and high school sporting events as we can."

"I like people, and I love being around kids of all ages," she added.

Sue and her husband, Bob, who is associated with Tri-State Cattle Feeders, are the parents of four children.

Kim, age 19, is a sophomore at Texas A&M University, where her father earned his degree in range management. Vanessa, 17, is currently a senior at Hereford High School and plans to attend West Texas State University.

Melissa, 15, is a sophomore at Hereford High, and 13-year-old Steven is an eighth grader at La Plata Junior High.

All four like to ski and participate in sports, as well as band and musical activities. They have all taken piano lessons, and Vanessa and Melissa are currently taking voice lessons. Steven is involved in Boy Scouts.

They like animals and have four cats and a dog.

"The kids usually work during the summer, going out and getting jobs on their own," stated Sue. "I think it is good for them and helps them to grow."

Although Bob and Sue don't ski, they enjoy taking the kids to the mountains. They also enjoy camping and family vacations.

ing and family vacations. "We went to Disneyland this past year and really enjoyed California. The weather was perfect while we were there," remarked Sue. Bob and Sue met in Hereford after she came here to teach school. He is originally from Moody and she grew up in Uvalde. Sue earned her degree in secondary education at Sul Ross State University in Alpine and taught in Hereford a year and a half, substituting occasionally since that time.

The couple has resided here since their marriage except for five years which they spent in Waco.

Bob is a member of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, which he served as president last year. The Sims are active at First United Methodist Church, where Sue was recently elected to the administrative board.

Sue is involved in several community organizations. She currently serves as beef promotion chairman for the Hereford CowBelles, reporter for Hereford Music Study Club, and treasurer for the Whiteface Booster Club, which both she and Bob are involved in.

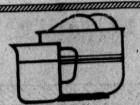

As her daughter, Kim, is a student at Texas A&M, Sue automatically became a member of the Hereford Aggie Moms, which she serves as secretary-treasurer. She is also a member of the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division and La Plata Study Club.

Through her involvement in music club, she assisted with the Junior Music Festival last week which her daughter, Melissa, participated in. She enjoys listening to music.

Bob like to play golf and tennis, and Sue shares his enjoyment of tennis.

She likes to cook and collects cookbooks, especially when her family travels to different parts of the country. Sue shares three of her favorite recipes. "The banana pudding is a family recipe given to me by Bob's mother," she explained.

The HHS boys varsity baseball team will attempt to get back on the winning track today in the Pampa baseball tournament.

The first game of the tourney may well be the Herd's toughest as they play Pampa High School at 1 p.m.

Pampa is coming off three straight victories, which came in last week's Hereford tournament where the Harvesters outscored their opponents, 26-10, and beat the Whitefaces in the championship game, 10-3.

NCAA Tournament

UNLV to battle Princeton Tigers

It will be the fastbreaking Runnin' Rebels of Nevada-Las Vegas against the patient Trottin' Tigers of Princeton when the NCAA Basketball Tournament resumes tonight on four fronts.

Princeton will bring a bit of Ivy League culture to the tournament when the Tigers, seeded 12th and last in the West following their 65-56 preliminary-round triumph over the University of San Diego, oppose 13th-ranked UNLV in the opener of a firstround doubleheader at Salt Lake City. The nightcap pits Louisiana State against While UNLV's average of 83.7 points a game was fifth highest in the nation as the Rebels ran to a 27-5 record, Princeton's yield of just 49.2 points a game put the Tigers at the head of the defensive class. But they captured defensive honors thanks in large part to a deliberate style of attack.

"Rather unusual," is the way UNLV Coach Jerry Tarkanian describes it. "In fact, there's not a team in the western United States that plays in their style."

Will UNLV make Princeton run or will Princeton make UNLV walk? "I really think the day is gone when you can ake a really good basketball team run when they don't want to run." says Tarkanian. "I don't think you can do it. We don't play that way every game. We don't come out and pressure people every game and I don't think we can force Princeton into running." Coach Pete Carril of 18-9 Princeton said he was "not worried about UNLV's offense. I know they are going to score. I'm worried about their defense. It's been very underrated for years. Jerry said it's tough to get us to go up-tempo, but I know he's going to try to do it." LSU is in the NCAA Tournament for the first time since the 1981 team went to the Final Four. But Coach Dale Brown said his club "never seemed to peak at any one time this season. We won some close games and lost some close games. We have to get a tempo. When we do that, we're capable of beating anyone in the country and at any time."

The home-court advantage in tonight's play belongs to Alabama-Birmingham and Memphis State. In the Mideast, UAB meets Brigham Young at the Birmingham-Jefferson Civic Center after 17th-ranked Oregon State faces West Virginia.

"We're glad to be playing at home," said UAB Coach Gene Bartow, whose Blazers have a home record of 82-17 in their six years of existence, including an upset of Ralph Sampson-led Virginia in the 1982 regional semifinals. "I'd rather be playing here than any place they could have sent us. I like Birmingham."

After finishing fifth in the Sun Belt Conference during the regular season, UAB made the NCAAs the only way it could - by winning the conference tournament on its home floor.

Meanwhile, the Midwest section finds Fresno State vs. Louisiana Tech, followed by Memphis State vs. Oral Roberts at Memphis' Mid-South Coliseum.

"We've been on the right road the last couple of games, " said Memphis State star Keith Lee. "We're going the right way."

In the East, 20th-ranked Temple meets St. John's and Auburn goes against Richmond at Charlotte, N.C.

The first round continues Friday night with four more doubleheaders - Virginia Commonwealth-Northeastern and Virginia-Iona at East Rutherford, N.J.; Louisville-Morehead State and Villanova-Marshall at Milwaukee; Illinois State-Alabama and Kansas-Alcorn State at Lincoln, Neb., and Nevada-Reno vs. 15th-ranked Washington and Miami of Ohio-Southern Methodist at Pullman, Wash.

"I think ours is definitely the toughest (regional),' Bartow said. "Can you imagine a tournament with the Atlantic Coast Conference champion (Maryland) and the SEC champion (Kentucky)? We also have the cochampions of the Pac-10 (Oregon State) and the champions of the Atlantic 10 (West Virginia) and the Sun Belt. That's a pretty good field."

BYU, runnerup in the Western Athletic Conference, is led by Devin Durrant, the nation's third leading scorer with a 28.3 average.

"I really know little about Brigham Young," said Bartow. "I would a lot rather it be Brigham Young of Hawaii. But this is the one where the quarterback got $40 million." Memphis State will be the crowd favorite at home, but the twin bill also includes unheralded Louisiana Tech, which snapped Lamar's 80-game home-court winning streak in capturing the Southland Conference.

Dallas wins cager brawl, 105-101 18 seconds to play.

The Panthers committed

"We played reasonably well," but we hurt ourselves at the end of the game missing the free throws," said San Diego Coach Jim Lynam, whose Clippers fell to 5-30 on the road.

Clippers forward Hank McDowell was ejected after picking up two quick technicals in the third quarter for comments to an official.

Norm Nixon, who led San Diego with 28 points, said the pushing and shoving went too

"The reason the game was out of hand was because they let it get too physical inside,' Nixon said. "If they had put it in check early, it wouldn't have been so bad."

The Clippers were responsible for the roughness, said Dallas rookie Dale Ellis.

"For them to win, they have to play physical," said Ellis, who had 14 points off the bench. "You can anticipate that when you're playing San Diego." Mark Aguirre had 27 points for Dallas, and Rolando and Borger will be vying for Blackman added 19. Cummings' second technical was for punching Donaldson in the game's closing seconds. The Mavericks' center said he responded to a Donaldson elbow.

Sixers get act together, 92-91

With the National Basketball Association playoffs getting ever closer, the defending champion Philadelphia 76ers seem to be getting their

They made it six in a row Wednesday night, using Andrew Toney's 12 fourthquarter points to edge the Milwaukee Bucks 92-91.

Toney, who hit only two of 13 shots in the first three periods, put the 76ers ahead 90-89 when he scored on rebound with 1:27 left in the game.Milwaukee's Marques Johnson scored with 43 seconds left, but Philadelphia's Julius Erving hit a short jumper six seconds later for the winning points. A shot by the Bucks' Junior Bridgeman that went in was ruled to have come after the buzzer.

"Without looking at the tape, it looked like the clock moved too fast," said Bucks Coach Don Nelson.

Milwaukee played without starters Bob Lanier and guard Nate Archibald and reserves Harvey Catchings and Kevin Grevey, all of whom are injured.

"Both teams are so good, with such great individual talent, that we end up trading baskets down the stretch," Erving said. "We ran the clock down and they didn't have time to get their last shot off."

Moses Malone led the 76ers with 27 points, Toney added 20 and Erving 19.Milwaukee was led by Johnson with 24 points

In other games, the Washington Bullets downed the Boston Celtics 103-99, the New Jersey Nets defeated the Phoenix Suns 108-102, the Denver Nuggets outlasted the Detroit Pistons 125-121, the Kansas City Kings trimmed the Atlanta Hawks 101-93 and the Dallas Mavericks shaded the San Diego Clippers 105-101.

Bullets 103, Celtics 99 Ricky Sobers hit two free throws to give Washington the lead for good with 1:56 left as the Bullets, who led most of the way, had to rally to his 21 points in the fourth quarter as the Nets surged from behind in the closing moments to register their Pioneer Study Club was formed in 1909 as Mothers Club through the efforts of the first president, Mrs. S.B. Edwards. Most of the first year was spent on school projects, but soon the women found broader fields of service in civic and public affairs.

In 1910 the club joined the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. Several civic projects sponsored by the club over the years include Mothers Park, and work toward a swimming pool, cemetery improvement, public library, county agent, county health nurse and community center.

The club began ordering spring flowering bulbs from Holland and selling them to the public in 1926. This project, still in existence today, helps to beautify the area as well as furnishing the club with funds for other civic ac-

In 1931 the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs suggested that all federated clubs organized in the early 1900s become known as Pioneer Clubs so the club changed its name. Pioneer Study Club has also been instrumental in organizing several other local clubs.

Preserving club history is important to the membership. Phases of Pioneer Study Club's history coincide with three significant phases in federation history: I. Personal Education, II. Community Service, III. Civic Involvement, and IV. Public Af-

The club's theme and course of study for 1983-84, "Americanism: Women Aware," exemplifies the latter phase.

Q. While doing easy repairs on my car I've "played dumb" everytime my repair manuals tell me to use a torque wrench along with how much torque to apply. Is torquing all that essential?

A. Considering how relatively inexpensive a torque wrench is and some of the problems you may be headed for by "playing dumb", the wrench is a good investment. When using a standard wrench for tightening areas which call for specific torques (which is basically the amount of twisting action at a given point), you have no way of knowing how much pressure you're applying. Too little torque can cause liquid or gas leaks. Too much torque-which is usually the case without the proper tools can cause leaks too. but which is usually the case without the proper tools can cause leaks too, but these leaks are the result of much wider spread and more serious structural damage to the part which, almost invariably, will end up in D & R Auto Parts

Ann Landers

Can't forget experience

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know you have helped many people. I am praying that you can help me, too. You are my only link to sanity.

I am 26, married to a wonderful man, and we have a darling 3-year-old son. To look at me you'd think I was the happiest person alive, but deep down I am tortured by something that happened 21 years ago. I can remember it as though it was yesterday. My brother abused me sexually when I was 5.

I don't know how long it went on, but I recall I was in kindergarten when he started. After a while he stopped. I convinced myself that it didn't happen-that I had dreamed it, or a friend had told me it happened to her.

When I was 11, my brother tried it again. By that time I knew it was wrong and warned him to stay away from me. Everything that happened when I was 5 came back to me. I could no longer block it

When I was 15, I got mad at my brother for something totally unrelated and we got into a shouting match in front of my mother. I blurted out all the terrible things he had ione to me when I was a :hild. He called me "crazy." My mother said I was lying and if she ever heard me talk like that again, she would have nothing more to do with me. I had all these conflicting emotions-anger, gilt, fear of losing my mother's love and resentment because she believed my brother and not

For weeks I am OK, then suddenly I remember the past and get headaches, can't sleep and hate for my husband to touch me. I realize it isn't fair to him, so I give in. I don't like sex at all. I get nothing out of it. I know this is not normal, especially since my husband is so adoring and attractive.

I can't get counseling because I would rather die than tell my husband why I am seeking help. Please hurry some advice. I am-Hanging On In Kansas your husband you need counseling to learn why you cannot sleep and have frequent headaches. If you are lucky enough to get a competent therapist, he (or she) will help you muster the courage to tell your husband about your torturous past.

DEAR HANGING: Tell

The ability to accept his loving support will strengthen your relationship and build a bridge of trust. I urge you to act on this advice at once. Look in the phone book under "mental health" or ask your physician to recommend someone.

And please stay in touch with me. I want to know how you are doing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read the letter from "Hip In Grand Forks"-the person who said your column stinks. I am a 14-year-old girl who can honestly say I have learned more from you about manners, common sense, sex and how to get along with people than from anyone, including my own mother. You made me face the truth about drugs when I wouldn't listen to anyone else.

Please, Ann, don't let people like "Hip" get you down. You have helped millions of people through your column. You can count on us, as we have counted on you .- A Friend Forever In Long AUSTIN-Reform of Texas public education took a most dramatic turn last week when the blueribbon committee chairman urged dismantling the elected State Board of Education.

The chairman, H. Ross Perot, said the 27-member elected state board must be ousted before he will recommend higher taxes for education reform.

Some board members sitting on the panel with Perot vowed to stop passage of the chairman's proposal, which replaces the board with a sevenmember board appointed by the governor.

Perot's attack on the board was the latest of a series of sniper fire between the conservative multimillionaire from Dallas and the education establishment.

Earlier, State Board of Education chairman Joe Kelly Butler of Houston accused Perot of trying to impose on the state his own personal views about public education.

The blue-ribbon panel is to meet in Dallas this week to consider a long list of reform proposals, construct a reform package for the Legislature, and decide whether to recommend raising taxes for education purposes.

Tax Issue

The panel under Perot's direction has been studying reform proposals for several months, including: -Lengthening school days. -Opening schools to four-year-olds. -Raising public schoolteacher salaries, and -Requiring a "C" average prior to participation in extracurricular activities and sports.

Perot has, in effect, taken the public education system to the woodshed for an old fashioned caning. But his eleventh-hour blast really underscores his reluctance to recommend a tax increase. That, after all, is probthe main issue at stake in the education issue in Texas.

Special Session

In fact, the panel was created near the end of last year's legislative session as a compromise between Gov. Mark White. who wanted a tax hike for teacher salaries, and House Speaker Gib Lewis, who did not.

White has vowed to call a special session to raise taxes as soon as the panel finishes its report, and Perot has taken nearly a year to complete that task.

Now with the report deadline approaching, Perot is surely going to fight

Order limits

parents' access SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - The parents of a third-grader say a court order allowing them only limited access to an elementary school campus doesn't upset them as much now that they've enrolled the boy in private school. A judge granted a temporary injunction Wednesday that sets rigid guidelines for Manfred and Mary Krueger when visiting Colonial Hills Elementary School. For three years, Krueger often attended classes and ate cafeteria lunches with his 9-year-old namesake son, a straight-A student at Colonial Hills. But North East Independent School District administrators went to court to bar Krueger, saying he "disrupted the educational process" by browbeating and harassing his son's teachers.

After State District Judge David Peeples granted the injunction, the Kruegers said they had pulled their son out of public school.

'He's very upset and he sn't understand it all, but ne hated to leave his friends," said Mrs. Krueger. "We're afraid if we sent him back, the teachers would punish him now because of the publicity. The only one hurt out of all this is that little Krueger said he still sought easy access to the school, even though his son no longer will attend classes there, because he is running for the school board.

"I should be able to check on the educational process if I want to," he said. "I want to see what teachers teach. I want to observe everything. And I want to speak out if I don't like what I see."

The school district submitted strict guidelines to the judge governing the parents' visits, which the Kruegers reluctantly agreed to follow.

The couple cannot step foot in a classroom without calling an hour ahead and signing in at the principal's office, and visits must be limited to one hour once a week.

The Kruegers also cannot criticize or disagree with a teacher or school administrator "within the hearing of any student."

(AP) - James David Autry's attorney says he stopped fighting for his client's life hours before the convicted killer was executed because he didn't want to jeopardize future death sentence cases.

Stefan Presser, an American Civil Liberties Union attorney from Houston, said Wednesday he made no efforts in the 29-year-old Autry's behalf after the Supreme Court voted 7-2 Tuesday afternoon against blocking the execution a fourth time.

Presser said he told Autry of the court's decision about 2:15 p.m. Tuesday. Ten hours and 25 minutes later, Autry was pronounced dead after prison officials injected a deadly dose of drugs into his Walker County Justice of the Peace Lloyd Roark, who was to receive the results of an autopsy, said he was still waiting for a report from the Harris County Medical Examiner's office in Houston.

No arrangements had been made to bury Autry Wednesday night. Jay Shepard, a spokesman for the Huntsville Funeral Home, said they were still waiting for a family member or friend to claim Autry's body.

Guards shave mustache

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) - Prison officials who shaved off James David Autry's mustache before he was executed with a deadly combination of drugs took "the last little bit of dignity he had," says a fellow inmate who knew him well.

Autry, 29, was told Friday his mustache had to go, said Charles Bass, who tried to cheer the condemned man in his last days.

After Autry refused, prison officers did the task for him, Bass said. "He said they told him, 'You can sit down peacefully or we can do it the other way.' So he sat down," said Bass, who himself came within seven hours of execution in August 1982 for the 1979 slaying of a Houston city marshal.

Autry took great pride in his thick black mustache, Bass said.

"He was very proud of it. It was like taking the last little bit of dignity he had," Bass Prison spokesman Charles Brown said department policy says all inmates must be clean-shaven. He said officials allowed Autry to grow the mustache on the condition he later shave it.

Autry, who was executed early Wednesday for the April 1980 slaying of a Port Arthur convenience store clerk, was moved Friday from his regular cell at the Ellis Unit to a cell near Bass. Autry was not allowed to leave his cell for three days because he refused to shave. The restriction was lifted center shortly before noon MST, Norton said.

Meanwhile, attorney Rusty Duncan filed a writ of habeas corpus in Dallas federal court Wednesday for Joseph Paul Jernigan, who is scheduled to die by injection before sunrise Monday. Jernigan, 29, was convicted in the July 3. 1981, murder of a Dawson, Texas, man who was stabbed and then shot three times with a .410-gauge shotgun during a burglary.

Two other inmates also are scheduled to be executed in Texas by the end of the month.

Presser won a stay Oct. 4 which saved Autry's life only 30 minutes before he was to be put to death. Presser said he and other attorneys discussed taking other measures, but reasoned it would be wiser not to go to such lengths this time.

"We ultimately decided the efforts that could be brought would not save J.D.'s life and in fact could do considerable damage to the efforts on the behalf of other persons on Death Row," Presser said. "Therefore the decision was made to not file anything more, given the overwhelming hostility that had been generated by the particular judges we would have to go through. We thought it would be unwise.'

Autry was convicted of the 1980 killing of Shirley Drouet, a 43-year-old mother of five who was working overtime at a Port Arthur convenience store. A former priest, Joseph Broussard, 43, was sailor, was shot and permanently crippled.

Presser's final appeal to the Supreme Court contended Autry was the victim of cruel and unusual punishment on Oct. 5, because he was forced to lay on the gurney with needles in both arms while his attorneys and the state battled for his life.

Charles Bass, a fellow Death Row inmate and friend of Autry's, said prison guards Monday shaved the condemn-

CBS, ABC tie for first

LOS ANGELES (AP) -Riding the popularity of the soap operas "Dallas" and "Dynasty," CBS and ABC deadlocked last week in the first prime-time network ratings tie of the season.

NBC, whose sole entry in the Top 20 for the week ended March 11 was "The A-Team" at No. 5, was a distant third in the A.C. Nielsen ratings.

With six of its shows -"Dallas," "Simon & Simon," "Magnum, P.I.," "60 Minutes," "Knots Landing" and "Falcon Crest" - in the coveted Top 10, CBS had a 17.0 average for the week. But ABC earned an identical 17.0 with assists from "Dynasty," "Hotel" and "Dark Mirror," a TV film in which Jane Seymour played identical twins with opposite personalities.

"Dallas" narrowly edged "Dynasty" as the nation's most popular show, with 22.4 million viewers tuning into the CBS saga compared with 21.7 million for the ABC soap.

NBC's overall rating for the week was 13.4. The networks say this means that in an average prime-time minute, 13.4 percent of all households with televisions were turned

Stars have something in common

NEW YORK (AP) - What does Michael Jackson have in common with Fred Astaire? Pop videos like Jackson's "Beat It" have brought dance back to the prominence it had in Astaire's heyday, says a top choreographer.

Michael Peters, who has choreographed videos for Jackson, Billy Joel, Lionel Ritchie and other pop singers, says those TV visuals showing the singers

Meanwhile, the chief priests and other religious leaders stood there shouting their accusations. Now Herod and his soldiers began mocking and ridiculing Jesus; and putting a kingly robe on Him, they sent Him back to Pilate. That day Herod and Pilate--enemies before-became fast friends.

Then Pilate called together the chief priests and other lewish leaders, along with the people, and announced his verdict: "You brought this man to me, accusing him of leading a revolt against the Roman government. I have examined him thoroughly on this point and find him innocent. Herod came to the same conclusion and sent him back to us--nothing this man has done calls for the death penalty. I will therefore have him scourged with leaded thongs, and release him."

But now a mighty roar rose from the crowd as with one voice they shouted, "Kill him, and release Barabbas to us!" (Barabbas was in prison for starting an insurrection in Jerusalem against the government, and for murder.)

Pilate argued with them, for he wanted to release Jesus. But they shouted, "Crucify him! Crucify him!"

Once more, for the third time, he demended, "Why? What crime has he committed? I have found no reason to sentence him to death. I will therefore scourge him and let him go." Eut they shouted louder and louder for Jesus's death, and their voices Luke 23:8-23

DEAR POLLY. — I recently came across a large purse I no longer use. I filled one compartment with scissors, tape, thimble and sewing needles. In another compartment I put knitting needles, my tatting shuttle, crochet hooks, a tape measure and thread. You can also add balls of yarn. This is very handy for me to carry wherever I go. AUSTIN (AP) - The state's largest labor group, the Texas AFL-CIO, after two days of consideration, has given its endorsement to state Sen. Lloyd Doggett of Austin in the U.S. Senate

About 650 delegates to the 24th annual convention of the Committee on Political Education, the political arm of the Texas AFL-CIO, supported Doggett 73 percent in a roll-call vote Wednesday, compared to 26 percent for former congressman Bob Krueger of New Braunfels.

Doggett claimed a legislative record of 94 percent support of labor issues while Krueger was credited with only 40 percent.

Man helps fight deportation

NICEVILLE, Fla. (AP) -When Teodoro Salanga Jr. was 6 he repeatedly sneaked into World War II Japanese prison camps in the Philippines to smuggle food and medicine to American prisoners of war.

For seven years during the Vietnam War he worked as an engineer for American communications companies under contract with the United States government, escaping on one of the last planes out of Saigon before South Vietnam fell to communist forces.

Salanga's goal now is to become an American citizen, but the United States government wants to deport him to his native Philippines.

Salanga, 47, who came to the United States five years ago on a temporary visitor visa, has been refused permanent resident status. The Immigration and Naturalization Service last month sent him an order to show why he shouldn't be deported.

The introduction in Congress of a private bill by Rep. Earl Hutto, D-Fla., to give him resident status has temporarily allowed him to stay.

former Meanwhile, prisoners of war and residents of this Florida Panhandle town on the edge of Eglin Air Force Base have written letters to congressmen and government officials to support Salanga's

Frank W. McGowan, city manager of Yearington, Nev., is one of the POWs aided by Salanga and other members of his family.

"All of us, after Bataan and the death march and 30 or 40 days in that prison were in pretty bad shape," McGowan said in a telephone interview last week. "I am convinced that a lot of the help that was provided by the Salanga family saved some lives."

Japanese invaders in April 1942 marched about 10,000 U.S. prisoners and 62,000 Filipinos about 60 miles from the Bataan peninsula to prison camps. U.S. officials believe as many as 700 Americans and 10,000 Filipinos died during the march. It is estimated that up to 6,000 Americans died in captivity in the next 31/2 years.

McGowan said Salanga should be welcomed by the United States.

"Of all the people that we've taken in, it surely looks like we have room for a guy like Teddy Salanga, McGowan said.

But Salanga is trying to sidestep immigration quotas and waiting lists. Federal law permits exceptions for foreigners who have worked for the U.S. government, but Salanga's Vietnam work doesn't count because he was employed by private contrac-

Ruth L. Brooks, U.S. counsel in the Philippines, disallowed his prison camp exploits because Salanga was "too young to be in the service of the U.S. government at the time."

No one is pushing his cause harder than his sister, Josephine Salanga Britt. Now an American citizen, she came to the United States as the wife of Sigmond Laskowski, one of the POWs she and her brother helped. He died 18 years ago and she later remarried.

They recalled their World War II experiences during an interview last week at the restaurant Mrs. Britt operates. Their father, Teodoro Sr., opened an eatery as a cover for cooking food smuggled to the POWs. Salanga made deliveries because he was small enough to crawl under barbed wire, using a stick to lift the wire over his body.

Food and medicine to treat beriberi and malaria were stuffed into his pockets, under his shirt or in a pillow "My father asked me if I was afraid," Salanga said. "I told him, 'No, I am not."

The Japanese guards sometimes were distracted by Mrs. Britt, who was about 18 at the time. When she scratched her head three times, that was a signal the. coast was clear.

"My father always reminded me if you were caught you would be killed," Salanga

Their father, who died a few years ago, also told the boy that if he was captured he shouldn't tell the Japanese who other family members were because they too would be killed. He never was caught, but Mrs. Britt became suspect and had to leave town.

Salanga left his wife and three children in the Philippines and came to the United States to visit his sister and seek help for the family farm, which was heavily mortgaged. When they discovered that pooling their resources wasn't enough to save the farm, Mrs. Britt talked him into stayining. To make it more difficult for immigration officials to find him, he avoided Niceville and stayed in Los Angeles with other relatives for three years.
