Carlile, 43, was elected president of HSB in February, 1979, upon the resignation of Harlan Vander Zee, who resigned to pursue personal interests.

Carlile and his father, Vanderzee and Dick O'Daniel of Tullia purchased control of HSB in 1967. Carlile served as a vice president until 1969, when he was named exective vice president. A resident of Hereford for 14 years, Carlile was a national bank examiner in Albuquerque for five years before coming to Hereford. He is a graduate of Abilene Christian (See HSB, Page 2)

August Inflation Held Down

By SALLY JACOBSEN
 Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Slowly rising food prices kept inflation at the wholesale level in August to an annual rate of 3.6 percent, the smallest increase since May, the government announced today.

At the same time, the government reported unemployment edged up to 7.2 percent in August after declining to 7 percent in July. The increase was attributed largely to a surge in the number of black teen-agers out of work.

The Labor Department said its measure of wholesale prices — the Producer Price Index for finished goods — rose a small 0.3 percent in August after seasonal adjustment. The increase was less than July's 0.4 percent rise and June's 0.6 percent advance and the lowest since May's 0.1 percent, which was revised from the 0.4 percent reported earlier.

Since last August, wholesale prices have risen only 7.9 percent, a sharp departure from the 11.8 percent for all of last year.

Inflation at the wholesale level is running at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 8.3 percent for the first eight months of this year, Labor Department officials said.

If inflation increased at August's rate for 12 straight months, the rate for that year would be 3.6 percent, the officials said.

The Labor Department report said consumer food prices inched up 0.2 percent in August, much less than the 1.5 percent rise in July.

Prices for finished energy goods dropped 0.7 percent, the third decline in the last four months. July's decrease was 1 percent.

Much of the easing of food prices in August was due to declines in beef and veal prices, which were off 2.1 percent after increasing 3.8 percent in July, the report said. Pork prices were unchanged after rising 10.1 percent in July.

Falling prices also were reported for eggs, fresh fruits and fish.

Gasoline prices continued falling in August, declining 1.6 percent, the fourth straight monthly drop, the report said. Prices for home heating oil were down 0.7 per-

RHFC Funds May Be Available Soon

Through the Panhandle Regional Housing Finance Corporation, loaning institutions may be able to give developers money to start building multi-family units by November, according to Mike Carr, treasurer of the Panhandle RHFC.

The corporation will be issuing tax exempt bonds to lending institutions which would make mortgage loans to developers to acquire or construct rental housing in 20 of the panhandle counties. The bonds are from a $1 billion federal appropriation passed last month to provide lower interest money for housing.

Carr said no projects are planned for Hereford or Deaf Smith County now, unless a developer in Amarillo or Lubbock has decided to make an application.

Carr, appointed in August by the commissioners court to represent Deaf Smith on the Panhandle RHFC, said the corporation would be meeting with lending institutions and developers Wednesday in Amarillo to answer questions about the bonds. He said a September deadline would be set for applications for the bonds.

Applications by the developers would be signed by the lending institution then forwarded to the Panhandle PHFC. The corporation will then contact the developer and meet with the board to be approved for the funds.

Carr said the housing is not going to be set for rent by income or reserved only for low income families. Twenty years from the construction or acquisition of the property, 20 percent of the housing in a development must be reserved for families who are below the median income bracket of the area and the other 80 percent may be rented to anyone — all at the same price.

Carr said plans for issuing single family unit bond money should be completed by the end of this year.

Wheat Set-Aside Plan Announced

By JULIE FOSTER
 Farm Editor

Agriculture Secretary John Block said yesterday that he is working toward a 15 percent wheat acreage set-aside for the 1982 wheat crop.

With wheat prices down and supplies up, wheat producers are looking for some relief from below-cost-of-production prices for their wheat.

"It's gotta be good," said John Fuston, executive director for the Deaf Smith County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service.

"I don't know what he'll do to make producers comply with the 15 percent set-aside, but I'm sure if he makes it sweet enough, they'll comply," he said.

The voluntary program would require farmers to implement the 15 percent acreage reduction to be eligible for the target price program, and one-year loan and three-year reserve programs, according to Bill Nelson, executive vice president of the Texas Wheat Producers Association, Amarillo.

Fuston said the set-aside needs to be about 50 percent instead of the proposed 15 percent. "We need that much to get prices up and make a profit on our wheat."

He also said he thought Congress would support and approve the bill since the Reagan administration is backing such a program.

However, Congress, must act within the next few weeks before wheat acreage is planted in the High Plains.

The last wheat set-aside program was implemented in 1979 when 8.2 million acres were put to rest.

Elks MD Carnival Adds Rummage Sale

The Hereford Elks are concluding preparations for the Annual Carnival to be held Sunday, and have added a day-long rummage sale to be held during the event at Dameron Park.

Volunteers are needed to help man phones at Hereford State Bank during the Jerry Lewis MD Telethon from 5 p.m. Sunday through 7 p.m. Monday, and more help is also needed for door-to-door collections.

Persons who can help out are asked to call Joyce Walker at 364-1274. Those who want to go door-to-door can pick up canisters and official badges at HSB at 1 p.m. Sunday.

According to Virginia Dickson, carnival publicity chairman, the Elks will be working through the day Saturday setting up the carnival, and also need help with that.

Persons with items to donate for the rummage sale or auction, which will take place at about 3 p.m. Sunday, may contact Ms. Walker at the above number.

United Way Drive To Start Oct. 1

The United Way drive will kick off Oct. 1 with a Fun Breakfast, according to Carolyn Baxter, member of the steering committee.

This year's drive goal will be announced by the kickoff at the Fun Breakfast. Jim Bullard, campaign manager, said the agencies supported by United Way have been given budget request forms and are to turn them in by next week. The steering committee will review the requests and work with the agencies to set fund goals.

Agencies assisted by United Way are Hereford, Family Services, YMCA, Camp Fire, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Senior Citizens, Big Brother and Big Sister, Boy Scouts, Epileptic Society, and the Children's Rehabilitation Center.

The committee has been split up into divisions for specific giving. Members and their divisions are Bud Eads, major gifts ($500 or more); Mark Andrews, special gifts ($100 to $500); Janice Faulkner and Jane White, general gifts (under $100); Gerry Hollinger, payroll deduction gifts; and Tom Simons, publicity. The farm division is without a captain presently.

Construction on 10 buildings of duplexes by Griffin Real Estate is continuing, with a projected completion date of Dec. 1. There are seven buildings underway on Ave. F near 14th Street, and three more on Paloma Lane. The duplexes, being built by Rick Brown Construction of Ft. Worth, will bring Griffin's duplex unit total to 44 when finished. Marie Griffin, manager, said applications for the units are now being accepted. (Brand Photo).

Booby-Trapped Car Explodes; At Least 20 Bystanders Killed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Islamic fundamentalist foes of Syrian President Hafez Assad's minority Moslem sect are suspected of setting off a car bomb outside the air force headquarters in Damascus that killed at least 20 people and wounded 50.

The booby-trapped car exploded Thursday morning in a crowded section of the Syrian capital, cutting down passing pedestrians and motorists with a spray of shrapnel, according to Western diplomats returning to Beirut from Damascus. They said a man parked the French-made Peugeot 504 in a lot in front of the headquarters, got out and started running. Ministry guards ordered him to stop and opened fire when he kept going. The man was killed instantly and seconds later the car bomb exploded.

The air force center and the adjacent al-Sharq hospital were heavily damaged but there were no casualties in either building, according to one diplomat and other travelers from the Syrian capital.

It was the second major bombing reported in Damascus in less than a month. The other one at the prime minister's headquarters on Aug. 8 also involved a booby-trapped vehicle, according to Western diplomats. It shattered a conference room where the Cabinet was scheduled to meet, and the official SANA news agency said three employees of the ministry were killed.

Both bombings were believed to be the work of the Moslem Brotherhood, the outlawed Sunni Moslem organization that has been fighting a two-year-old terror campaign against Assad's pro-Moscow Baath Socialist Party regime. The Brotherhood claims Assad has packed the upper echelons of the government and the armed forces with members of his Alawite Moslem sect.

About 70 percent of Syria's Moslems are Sunnis and only about 14 percent are Alawites.

Assad's government retaliated for the August bombing with a massive crackdown on suspected members of the Brotherhood. In the past two years, the government reportedly has killed hundreds of suspected members of the organization in northern and central Syria, including one reported mass execution in April of at least 150 in the city of Hama, a Brotherhood stronghold.

The Brotherhood's first major challenge to Assad's rule was a grenade attack on the artillery school in Aleppo in northern Syria, on June 16, 1979. Sixty cadets were reported killed and many others wounded.

Rainfall Heavy In Rural Areas

Overnight showers covered parts of Deaf Smith County, with some areas receiving over 2 inches and other portions remaining dry.

Ricky Lloyd, Adrian, reported rain falling this morning and an overnight total of about 2.5 inches.

Donald Hicks, five miles west of Ford, reported about 2.7 inches overnight with rain continuing to fall this morning as well.

Stan McCabe, located east of Dawn, said, "We haven't had hardly any...just a sprinkle here."

"Just a trace," was reported by Winston Roundtree, Easter Fertilizer.

Mrs. H.L. Hershey, 13 miles northeast of Hereford, said they had about 2 of an inch overnight, and Kathy Hammock at the Bootleg County Barn said they received about .25 of an inch.

Mrs. Bruce Coleman, Walcott said, "We've had a little bit, but not very much. We may have had as much as a quarter inch."

Overnight rain for Hereford, according to KPAN, totaled .05 of an inch. Today's forecast calls for a 40 percent chance of rain.

Dimmitt Man To Command Legion

HONOLULU (AP) — A 58-year-old World War II veteran has been elected national commander of the American Legion.

Jack W. Flynt of Dimmitt, Texas, was named to the post at Thursday's closing session of the Legion's 63rd annual convention.

He replaces Mike Kogutek, of Lackawanna, N.Y., who served as the head of the 2.7 million-member organization for the past year.

Flynt, who served in the Army, has been an active Legionnaire for nearly 30 years.

About 20,000 Legionnaires and their families attended the convention.

Owen, Sweat Hogs Serve By Doing

By DEBE GRAVES
 Staff Writer

Recently Hereford native Bobby Owen was honored as Layman of the Year at a Friday morning prayer breakfast of the Oklahoma-Texas District meeting of Kiwanis. The Kiwanis organization is a civic minded club which places great emphasis on service to the community throughout its nation-wide membership.

According to Owen, the Layman of the Year award is given for, "Christian work in the community and church."

Owen was nominated through the local Kiwanis chapter of which he has been a member since 1967.

Locally the Kiwanis are sponsors of the Key Club and help them distribute flags for display on holidays. Other community events the Kiwanis are involved in include the annual grade school track meet which they sponsor and the sponsorship of children from the Satellite Center to an annual retreat.

Owen commented, "I was surprised at receiving the award though I knew my name had been sent in by the local group."

The award is non-political and nominees are closely researched before the award is presented.

Owen was nominated because of his work with a group of men at First Baptist Church where he is a member. Three years ago he took charge of a class of three men and today the "SweatHog" class consists of 30 men. Though he taught the class for two years he has served as superintendent of the department during the past year as Neil Cooper has been the teacher of the class.

Though the men may call themselves "SweatHogs" others can only call them Good Samaritans as they bring a positive attitude toward Christianity alive in their actions of benevolence toward others.

Among the many projects, which Owen still participates in with the group of 25-35 year-old men, are moving families, painting homes for

Lufkin News Fails To Get Hearing Open

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) — The Lufkin News does not have the right to attend pretrial hearings in a lawsuit between the Texas National Bank here and some minority stockholders, a judge has ruled.

Visiting State District Judge Marvin Vasocu refused to allow the newspaper into a hearing Aug. 3, saying that the general public would not understand the case anyway.

The News had also sought to obtain a copy of the transcript of the Aug. 3 hearing, but the judge refused to let them have it.

"I don't think the news media has any standing in this case," Vasocu said Thursday. He said he did not think the First Amendment principles of freedom of the press would apply.

The main trial would be more interesting to the public than the pretrial hearings, the judge said.

Lawyers would use jargon that the public wouldn't even understand," he said of the pretrial sessions.

Publisher Joe Murray said he had decided yet whether to appeal.

Although the Aug. 3 hearing has been completed, the appeal would be an attempt to allow the newspaper to attend future pretrial hearings on the case.

Three TNB stockholders filed suit in May against several bank directors and stockholders alleging that they damaged the bank with their policies.

The president of the bank at the time since resigned and become a plaintiff in the suit.

Bexar Investigates Auto Dealer's Slaying

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Bexar County investigators are trying to find a woman who telephoned twice to report that an automobile dealer had been shot to death.

Kenneth Nelson Jackson, 42, was found early Thursday in his bed. He had been shot once in the forehead with a small caliber weapon, investigators reported.

Jackson was the owner of a used car lot and auto parts store.

Sheriff's Lt. Kenneth Bilhartz said the woman phoned twice about 1:30 a.m., reporting a man had been shot in the front yard of the house.

However, Bilhartz said Jackson was found nude in his bed, covered with a sheet and bedspread and no one else was at the house when officers arrived. He said a television set was on, indicating Jackson was shot while watching a program.

Nothing appeared disturbed in the house and Jackson's wallet, found in his clothing near the bed, contained some money, the investigator said.

Bilhartz said deputies were looking for the woman who telephoned the sheriff's office.

DPS Director Jim Adams

Carter began his career with the old Universal News Service in 1936, and became a reporter for International News Service a year later after the two news agencies merged.

He served four years in the South Pacific with the Army Air Corps during World War II and returned to INS at Dallas in 1945.

INS transferred Carter to its Austin bureau in 1946 as bureau manager. He stayed in that post until May 1958 when INS merged with United Press to become United Press International.

Carter served briefly on Gov. Price Daniel's staff in 1958 and worked a short time for the Texas Rural Library Service and the attorney general's department before joining the DPS in April 1959.

Reagan Ready To Make Fast, Tough Decisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, back at the White House after a month-long California vacation, is ready to move "on a fast freight" and make tough decisions on defense and domestic spending, his aides say.

Reagan, who left town on a triumphant note after getting his budget and tax cuts through Congress, returns to find more cuts needed to keep persistent high interest rates from wrecking his goal of balancing the budget by 1984.

The president's work list also will include next week's visit by Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, Senate confirmation hearings for Supreme Court nominee Sandra D. O'Connor and the fight for congressional approval to sell sophisticated radar planes to Saudi Arabia.

"We'll be on a fast freight, beginning next week," deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes told reporters on the return trip Thursday aboard Air Force One.

Questions about Reagan's work habits broke into the open during his vacation, with a Newsweek magazine report that he spends only a few hours a day on the job, neglects his homework and exhibits a short attention span on some issues. White House aides dismissed the criticism as coming from a few disenchanted staff members.

"I think next week's schedule will show he is working hard," Speakes said Thursday.

During an overnight stop in Chicago on his way home from California, Reagan told Republican supporters, "I've been taking that vacation at the ranch — part vacation, you know, the job goes with you — but I've been surprised at all the things that I read that I've decided.

"I haven't decided any of them," he said. "That's what I'm going back to Washington for."

Speakes said Reagan's list of decisions to be made next week includes the amount and specific areas of new spending reductions by the Pentagon and other federal departments for the fiscal year that starts next month. The 1982 budget ceilings passed by Congress before the August vacation slashed $35.2 billion from social programs, but Reagan ordered a new wave of cuts this week in an effort to keep the federal deficit from ballooning beyond $42.5 billion.

Reagan plans to set out his expectations for each department at a Cabinet meeting scheduled for Thursday, Speakes said.

Key Reagan advisers appear at odds over scaling down planned increases in military spending to make further cuts in social programs politically palatable.

White House chief of state James A. Baker III said earlier this week that Reagan is prepared to cut $20 billion to $30 billion from the defense budget in 1983 and 1984.

But Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger rejected that suggestion Thursday and said Reagan had told him no such thing.

In Honolulu, where he addressed the American Legion convention, Weinberger told reporters: "There won't be any defense cuts."

"We haven't had the meeting yet," Reagan told reporters in reply Thursday.

Right-to-Life Rally Against O'Connor

DALLAS (AP) — Anti-abortionists who rallied against President Reagan's appointment of Sandra Day O'Connor to the U.S. Supreme Court warned a frenzied crowd at a right-to-life rally that abortion would be the downfall of America.

A series of impassioned pro-life speakers brought a cheering, clapping, whistling, "amen" shouting crowd to its feet by urging Reagan to withdraw the nomination and asking Mrs. O'Connor to remove herself from consideration.

Anti-ERA crusader Phyllis

Schlafly told the crowd Mrs. O'Connor's pro-abortion stand as an Arizona legislator was "out of step with the pro-family, pro-life policies on which the president was elected."

But she said the nomination may be a "blessing in disguise" because it "could arouse the nation to cut down the power of the federal courts."

Mrs. Schlafly said the people should demand that congress restrict the jurisdiction of federal courts over using, crime, pornography, elections and abortions — issues she said the judiciary has abused.

Moral Majority leader Jerry Falwell, who said he promised Reagan he would withhold public comment on Mrs. O'Connor's nomination until after next week's senate confirmation hearings, issued a stinging condemnation of abortion that was interrupted three times by resounding ovations.

"America's national sin is abortion," Falwell said. "God will judge America, perhaps with Soviet missiles, if we don't put an end to this biological holocaust."

"It's not a question of whether we can stop (abortion), we must stop it or we will cease to exist," he added.

Evangelist James Robison screamed hoarsely and shook his finger at the crowd — estimated at 6,800 by organizers and 4,000 by police — when he echoed Falwell's predictions that God would "judge the wicked" on the issue of abortion.

"If we do not immediately put a stop to the massacre within the womb, I believe the countdown to destruction has begun," he said.

March for Life spokeswoman Nellie Gray kicked off the 12-hour rally by a coalition of conservative Christians by calling the confirmation process for Mrs. O'Connor "fatally flawed."

She said if Reagan and Mrs. O'Connor ignore requests to withdraw the nomination, "the Senate should recognize its duty as an advising and consenting body to bring the important questions about the nomination before the hearings and to get the full facts before the Senate."

Religious Roundtable president Bill McAteer, who organized the rally, said Reagan didn't know all the facts before the nomination because there had been a "coverup" of Mrs. O'Connor's pro-abortion voting record in the Arizona legislature.

Howard Phillips, national director of the Conservative Caucus Inc., said Mrs. O'Connor must be prepared to overturn Roe vs. Wae, which restricted states from legislating against abortion.

Kania Rejected Union's Demand Over Managers

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Communist Party chief Stanislaw Kania, in a tough statement in advance of Solidarity's first national congress, rejected the union's demand to hire and fire plant managers. He warned that the government will use "any means necessary to defend socialism."

"The party as a whole cannot be pushed to the brink, because it is the leading force of the working class, the nation, a force carrying historical responsibility for the fate of the country," Kania said in a speech closing a two-day meeting of the party's Central Committee.

Kania said the party cannot give up its right to choose the personnel who manage factories, mines and other state-owned enterprises.

"The authorities will seize any means necessary to defend socialism," he warned.

The government's chief labor negotiator, Deputy

Premier Mieczyslaw Rakowski, charged at a news conference that the growing radicalism of some labor leaders posed a threat of new conflict. But he pledged to keep communications between the government and Solidarity open.

Observers suggested that the news conference was called for the government to outline its position before the union's congress opens Saturday in Gdansk.

The congress, to elect new leaders and formulate policy for the coming year, is being held under the shadow of Soviet military maneuvers beginning today off Poland's northeast land and sea frontiers.

The Soviet press gave an unusual amount of publicity to the maneuvers, and Western analysts in Moscow described them as "political saber rattling." But the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia said they were "planned many months ago," and "there is nothing extraordinary there." They were not viewed in Warsaw as an attempt to intimidate the union congress.

Solidarity rejected a government proposal to give enlarged coverage of the congress if the union canceled its threats to strike the media. Solidarity leader Lech Walesa told a news conference the union will "all possible means" give it by law to get the regular TV and radio time and newspaper columns that it is demanding.

Another strike threat was announced by Solidarity leaders in the provincial capital of Bydgoszcz. The union leaders called a strike alert and demanded the reopening of an investigation of the beating there of three union leaders by police last March. The government closed the probe Wednesday without finding anyone responsible.

New House And Senate Redistricting Delayed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Legislative Redistricting Board has chopped three weeks off its already tight timetable for redrawing state House and Senate districts by scheduling four days of hearings to begin Sept. 23.

Board members have until Oct. 28 to finish their work, and they aren't scheduled to meet again until the hearings, which will be held in Austin.

Comptroller Bob Bullock, who dominated Thursday's meeting with political banter, suggested hearings weren't necessary because both the House and the Senate had conducted hours — even days — of hearings on redistricting already.

But Attorney General Mark White said three of the five board members were not part of the House or Senate and had not been part of the hearings.

"It might be helpful, it certainly would be for me, to hear what the general public has to say," White said.

Bullock and Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong indicated they preferred to start sooner than Sept. 23, but the upcoming Labor Day weekend and the need for ample public notice outweighed their objections.

"The people of Texas look on us as kind of buffoons in a way, and I don't like that," Bullock said, then adding to Attorney General Mark White: "(Gov. Bill) Clements claims you are."

"The quicker we can take care of this, the better off we will be and the better off the people are. ... And the less we let the press know, the better off we are. Don't let the Houston Post know nothing," Bullock went on.

Hobby is president of the Houston Post.

The board was activated after Clements vetoed the Senate redistricting plan passed by the Legislature.

On Monday, the board got another task when the Texas Supreme Court struck down the House redistricting plan, saying it violated a state constitutional prohibition against House district boundaries that unnecessarily split counties.

The comptroller has hired his former deputy, Robert Spellings, as a $10,000 consultant on redistricting. Spellings was instrumental in the drawing of Senate districts by the board in 1971 when he was an aide to Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes.

Speaker Bill Clayton told reporters he had been busy drawing House redistricting maps the past two or three days. He said he hoped to have a plan to recommend in a week or two.

He indicated his plan would be very close to the one passed by the House, saying, "115 votes for HB960 was probably the biggest majority you can get (for redistricting) in the House."

Clayton said following the Supreme Court's decision probably would result in the loss of two rural districts in addition to those swallowed up by urban areas in the House's own plan.

Indicted Legislator Surrenders

LONGVIEW, Texas (AP) — State Rep. Mike Martin, who is accused of lying to a grand jury when he denied he staged his own shooting, has surrendered to authorities while maintaining his innocence and predicting his case would never go to trial.

The Republican legislator, a shooting victim who at various times said he was the target of unknown assailants, hit men and political enemies, was indicted Thursday in Austin for aggravated burglary.

"I will probably ask the court to assign me an attorney because I do not have the funds to hire one myself. I just hope they will give me a thoroughly good criminal lawyer," Martin said just before he surrendered to a Gregg County constable Thursday night.

Martin, who faces a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine if convicted, was taken before Justice of the Peace Robert Malcolm Thursday night and released on $5,000 bond.

The Longview lawmaker said he would plead innocent and predicted if his case went to court it would take two years with "mistrials, hung juries and appeals." But he added that he doubted he could ever be tried.

"Every attorney I've talked to has said it won't go to court," said Martin.

"If the district attorney wants to spend another quarter of a million dollars to have the horrible preacher Mike Martin put in jail or fined remains to be seen," said Martin. "I would think they would come to me and ask me to resign. It seems the practical thing to do rather than spend all that money on a trial."

Travis County District Attorney Ronald Earle said he has no intention now of asking for Martin's resignation in a plea bargain. But he added, "Things change."

Martin, 29, was wounded in the left arm by shotgun fire in the early morning hours of July 31 near the camper-trailer where he lived in Austin during the special legislative session.

When he was released from the hospital after a 30-hour stay he said he had no idea who shot him or why. Later he told of being the target of the Guardian Angels of the Underworld, a satanic cult he said he had information about.

That story was undercut by Charles Goff, Martin's cousin, who said Martin plotted the shooting in order to gain publicity. Goff said Martin paid him and offered him a job to fire the shotgun in a "controlled hit."

Assistant District Attorney Allen Hill said in Austin that Travis County grand jurors alleged Martin lied to them on Aug. 25 when he said he "did not plan and stage the shooting and wounding of himself."

Earle said, "For reasons known best to himself, we have alleged he arranged his own shooting. ... Because of the allegations he made and the position of public faith he occupied, there is an enormous amount of public interest in what happened to him."

"Since he told conflicting stories, he was taken before the grand jury so the public's right to know what happened would be satisfied. ... We have alleged that in that appearance before the grand jury, he lied. ... The thing that typifies the entire episode is he lied. ... His mistake was telling a lie," said Earle.

"I'm innocent until proven guilty or at least that is the way it is supposed to be in America, but it appears politicians are guilty until proven innocent," Martin said Thursday night.

The prosecutor said there was no felony committed at the trailer park; it is not illegal to have yourself shot. Martin, who ignored one subpoena and avoided another before testifying, became a felony defendant when he allegedly lied to the grand jurors, Earle said.

If Martin had told them he planned the shooting, he would have faced only a misdemeanor charge — perhaps for making a false report to police, Earle said. Pleading the Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination also could have saved Martin from a perjury charge, the prosecutor said.

Earle said the investigation of the shooting is over, but Hill said he is looking into Martin's financial affairs. The Austin American-Statesman reported Thursday that Martin took a corporate contribution, which is illegal.

Earle said another possible charge — insurance fraud — was ruled out because, "it is my understanding he filed a claim but payment was not made under the claim."

No one else will be indicted in connection with the shooting, Hill said.

Martin, a carpenter and building contractor, was a political unknown when he decided to run against incumbent Rep. Jimmy Mankins, D-Longview, last year.

He surprised observers by beating the incumbent, partly on the strength of Ronald Reagan's 68 percent vote in Gregg County.

He showed a definite naivete about the legislative process once he arrived in Austin. Among his first moves was to try to fire the staff of a committee Mankins chaired. Martin assumed he would inherit the chairmanship because he beat Mankins.

The House Speaker makes new committee assignments and appoints new chairmen each session.

cent after a 2 percent drop in July.

The government's index for finished consumer goods other than food and energy rose 0.5 percent last month, up from July's 0.2 percent gain.

Capital equipment prices advanced 0.6 percent in August, a little less than the average monthly increase of 0.8 percent in the previous six months, the government said.

All the increases are adjusted for normal seasonal variations.

In all, the unadjusted Producer Price Index stood at 271.2 in August, meaning that goods costing $10 at wholesale in 1967 would have cost $27.12.

In a companion report, the Labor Department said unemployment edged up to 7.2 percent in August. July's 7 percent jobless rate was the lowest level since April 1980. The rate had been 7.3 percent in June, 7.6 percent in May and 7.3 percent in the previous three months.

Total employment in August fell by 18 million out of a total civilian labor force of 106.6 million. Total employment rose 570,000 in July, the largest monthly gain in more than three years.

COVER-UPS COME IN airy mohair knits. Adri's coat of mohair poodle yarn is random-striped in green, red and brown. In the new, short length, it goes over flat knit mohair separates. Prices: coat about $450, culottes about $290, tunic about $380.

New Fall Fashions Stress 'Cover-Up'

By Florence De Santis

NEW YORK (NEA) - One of this fall's fashion surprises has been the sudden interest in wrapping everything up. After many seasons of indifference about what went over one's suit, dress or separates, designers this season have come out with a wrap for every costume.

Note that many of these wraps and cover-ups are knits. Remember the oversize, bulky knit trend of a few seasons ago? The same sense of being amply covered can be seen in the new knits, but now they're soft. Mohair, for example, is a favorite yarn, handled in various effects.

Adri takes loopy poodle mohair yarn to knit an above-knee coat in stripes of green, Irish setter-red and cougar brown. It goes with a combination of above-knee culotte and long tunic in flat knit mohair, sparkling with scattered lurex leaves.

This skimp look is seen less often than are more ample knit cover-ups. Helene Sidel uses soft white mohair for a finely knit semi-tent coat with welt-seamed edges, a mandarin collar and a gold paisley applique on one shoulder.

Most ample are the capes seen in many collections, such as Koons van den Akker's huge circular swirl in vicuna-color mohair fleece, with an opossum fur hood and one-shoulder-only capelet.

To coats and capes, add the sweeping shawl. It's as big as a blanket, but a lot more glamorous. Ron Leal uses it in soft plaid wool fleece over a matching full skirt and cashmere sweater.

Bill Blass likes solid-color fringed cashmere blanket shawls over his striped, plaid and print outfits. Calvin Klein covers his taffeta and brocade evening skirt separates with huge sweeps of cashmere and eyelash-fringed plaid wool.

The blanket shawl wrap goes with every kind of outfit, but is the particular accent for dresses. Sometimes it matches the dress, but more often it coordinates, as in Kasper's boldly striped full-skirted dress with a cashmere shawl.

Anthony Muto wraps a soft paisley challis dress in a paisley Victorian shawl. Anne Klein knitted up a storm of mohair, cashmere and angora sweep wraps for just about every combination of separates.

Not everything in a cover-up is knit or a shawl. Iie Wacs, noted coat specialist, believes in the beautiful coat. It may be a gray pin-striped poncho or a classic raglan in turquoise Anglo melton. It may have a petal hem and collar or a tucked back releasing into skirt fullness. A generously cut white mohair is corded at the edges, sashed and detailed in tucks.

The fall cover-up picture includes the sportswear adaptations, such as the shawls, short knit coats and bomber jackets. It also includes the elegance of Regency and Victorian detailing in day coats, the black velvet evening coat with a dramatic collar. The choice is yours, as long as you make it dramatic.

Now You're Cookin'

By DEBE GRAVES

Thoughts of school cafeterias invariably bring back memories of long lines, hot lunches, and mouth-watering yeast rolls. Remember the delicious rolls that even Mom couldn't have made better? Well the legacy has passed on to our children as they are now the recipients of the fresh-baked hot rolls we still dream about.

According to Mrs. Roy Evans, cafeteria manager at LaPlata Junior High, they serve the rolls about three times a week. Almost enough to make us want to become school teachers, so we could indulge at the cafeteria, isn't it?

Mrs. Evans worked in the kitchen for two years before becoming manager seven years ago, and she says, "Along with most of the other food and use, we make the rolls ourselves."

As Cafeteria manager, Mrs. Evans supervises nine employees, oversees the free lunch program, and is responsible for ordering supplies and foods needed to prepare the menus ordered by the school dietician.

At La Plata, food services include a snack bar, a fast food line which serves food such as hamburgers, and the regular cafeteria line which serves hot lunches. Mrs. Evans is manager of all three services and says, "Through the three areas we serve lunch to around 550 kids a day."

"I enjoy this job because I can work my hours so that I am able to be with my son when he is out of school. I also enjoy working with the kids and getting to know them. I think my job is better if you have good people to work with and I have a really good crew here," says Mrs. Evans. Born in Littlefield Mrs. Evans moved to Hereford from Carlsbad, N.M. when she was in the seventh grade. Her husband of 24 years, Roy is employe with Schwan Sales. Their son, Dennis, and his wife reside in Albuquerque; their daughter, Denise, is a junior at Texas Tech University; and their son, Doug, is a freshman at Stanton Jr. High.

Mrs. Evans enjoys watching Hereford football games, going to the Lake or the mountains with her family for ski trips, loom weaving and reading.

Plainview Site Of Panel Discussion

The Plainview Unit of the Texas State Teachers Association will sponsor a panel discussion concerning three teachers organization: The Association of Texas Professional Educators, Texas Classroom Teachers Association, and Texas State Teachers Association. The meeting will be held on Sept. 10, 1981, at Estacado Junior High School, which is located at 2500 West 20th, at 7:30 p.m.

This meeting will give instructional personnel, administrators, members of school boards, and the public an opportunity to hear first hand professional representatives from the teachers professional organizations. Represented will be the Executive Secretary of TSTA, the Director of Governmental Relations for ATPE, and the Executive Officer for Professional Excellence for TCTA. This will be the first time in the state that the representatives of these organizations have appeared together.

James Butler was appointed Executive Secretary-Treasurer of TSTA in March 1980 following the resignation of Callie Smith. He has been a classroom teacher and counselor in Nevada, the Executive Secretary of the Nevada state association, and a member of the NEA staff.

Kent King joined the professional staff of ATPE in October 1980 as Director of Governmental Relations. He had been a classroom teacher and tennis coach in Grapevine. He has also served as ATPE Region 11 director and has been active in the association at various levels.

Betty Buford was appointed the Executive officer for Professional Excellence of TCTA in 1981. She has been a professor of psychology at Temple Junior College, the national president of Classroom Teachers, and a counselor and teacher in Plainview.

The Plainview Unit of TSTA has planned interesting programs for the year to challenge community members as well as educational personnel. Anyone interested in attending is invited.

'Working Mothers Day' Proclaimed by Governor

Governor William P. Clements has signed a State of Texas Official Memorandum designating Sept. 6, 1981, as Working Mothers' Day, in recognition of the immense contribution made to our society by working mothers.

Spearheading the large group of advocates who worked to bring official recognition to working mothers were Allen M. Seigal, Vice-President of Public Affairs of National Child-Care Centers, Kathleen McNemar, President of the Texas Association for the Education of Young Children, Jean English of the Texas Department of Human Resources and Jeanette Watson of Austin, newly elected national board member of the National Association for the Education of Young Children, plus many volunteers from these agencies and other child advocate groups.

"In four out of five households today, two wage-earners are needed to support a family," said Seigal. "Fifty-four percent of women with children under the age of 18 are employed outside the home."

That's 16 million American women. These women perform the almost superhuman task of serving as productive members of the work force as well as nurturing mothers and homemakers. Accepting this challenge and functioning with strength, humor and grace under pressure reflects the very best qualities of the American spirit. It's our privilege to be able to honor them by helping to declare September 6 as Working Mothers' Day."

The State of Texas Official Memorandum, signed on Aug. 14 by the governor, and affixed with the state seal of Texas, will be reproduced by

To gain an understanding of - and empathy for - handicapped persons, wear ear plugs or a blindfold for a day, or try to walk on crutches, or tie an arm behind your back for a morning of household chores, she suggests.

Taylor is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Open House Set For Barnhills

Mr. and Mrs. C.N. Barnhill will celebrate their golden anniversary Sunday when their children and grandchildren host an open house in their honor.

The reception will be held in the Barnhill's home at 505

Schley from 3-5 p.m. All their friends are invited to attend.

The former Gladys Lee McWhorter and Clifford Nolden Barnhill married Sept. 5, 1913 in Durant, Ok. They have been long time residents of West Texas, having lived in Whitharrel, Littlefield, Morton, Muleshoe, before moving to Hereford 17 years ago.

The couple's children are Mrs. Wilma Butler of Dallas, Ann Hamilton of Hereford and Mrs. Janie Jeffcoat of Morton.

Ann Landers

Out On The Doorstep

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was a responsible, decent kid of 19, like "OK in Oakland," who also found my clothes on the front porch and the doors bolted. This happened three times.

My mother had emotional problems after she and Dad were divorced. She couldn't accept the fact that I loved my father and had no intention of chopping him off.

One day I came home and my room looked as if a bomb had hit it. Mom had had one of her tantrums. I moved to Dad's and stayed there several months. Gradually things cooled down, and Mom asked me to please come back - so I did.

Several months later I found my clothes on the doorstep of my mother's home. My sister telephoned to say Mom had hired someone to come and get my bedroom set and deliver it to her place. That did it. I have not seen or spoken to my mother since. That was six years ago. She has remarried and I hear she wants to see me.

I am taking no advice from anyone these days - not even you. So don't tell me to forgive her. I just want to print this letter for other mothers who throw their kids out like garbage and expect to be forgiven forever... No Deal In N.J.

DEAR N.J.: No advice. Just your letter. Write when you change your mind.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 16-year-old girl who needs help. I like this guy and he doesn't have a girlfriend. I don't even know if he's interested in girls. He's totally into sports, plays a lot and watches all the competitive events on TV.

I'm good at sports, too, and have played against him often. Usually I win. I am afraid his pride will be hurt if I beat him too bad. I also worry that he might dump of AA. It is for people, like me, and my children, who were so sick with worry, self-pity, guilt and loss of self-esteem that "our lives had become unmanageable."

We thought we were alone with our problem, fighting the world. But when we left our first meeting we said, "Isn't it good to talk to people who understand?"

We learned the do's and don'ts of living with an alcoholic, and found the counseling and treatment that eventually led our dear drinker to AA and sobriety, and a secure, happy family once again.

Not all Al-Anon stories have the happy ending ours has; and those who still live with an active alcoholic would be the first to tell you they'd never made it without Al-Anon. So say it again, and again, and AGAIN! - Wisconsin Al-Anon

DEAR WISCONSIN: Here I am, saying it again...and again...and AGAIN!

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send a dollar, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (15 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Should I continue to play against him and let him win some of the time, or should I become a spectator when he's around? - Confused About Jocks

DEAR CONFUSED: You can't beat him consistently at EVERYTHING! He's got to be better in one sport or another.

Play against him and play to win. If he figures you are taking a dive to save his masculinity, it will be doubly painful. And, remember, it's a big plus to be a gracious winner, and this is often harder to pull off than being a gracious loser.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Say it again, and again, and AGAIN about Al-Anon. I wish I'd know about Al-Anon sooner.

Obtaining Animals For Zoo Not Easy Task

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) - In the market, Black rhinos are soaring like gorillas, but two Markhors can get you six Plains visachas, a Bennet wallaby and more, says Gerald Aquilina, curator of mammals at the Buffalo Zoo.

With a limited budget for new animals, Aquilina trades and borrows from other zoos. And, he says, zoo supply is a trendy business, where the impact of supply and demand is especially severe.

Gorillas, for example, are "one of the biggest draws a zoo has," the curator said. They're in short supply today due to diminished populations, export restrictions and because "captive breeding hasn't worked as well as it should."

"I think it's safe to say that a breeding-age gorilla would average up to $75,000, but I don't know of any recently offered for sale," Aquilina said.

Similarly, he said, the Black rhinoceros "has gone up incredibly. There hasn't been one sold for so long now that it's probably priceless."

"On the other hand," Aquilina continued, "take the Siberian tiger. Twenty-five years ago, you couldn't buy one if you had all the money in the world. Then they started breeding them, and now Siberian tigers are worthless. I've got two and I can't give them away."

Besides loans and breeding arrangements with other zoos - wherein the offspring is shared by the owners of the male and female - Aquilina sometimes arranges trades through independent dealers. In a recent exchange for two surplus Markhors (Russian goats), for example, the Buffalo Zoo recently obtained three pairs of Plains visachas (a South American rodent), the wallaby - and a leftover credit of $1,000.

The deals are always professionally sanctioned, and animals are never sold to pet stores or private individuals, he said. "We make sure we know where the animal is going to end up," Aquilina said. "If we were to sell to the private sector, we'd have a multimillion-dollar business here....(But) we have a firm stand against it. We don't approve of exotic animals as pets."

Nor will the zoo accept such animals from distraught owners, he added.

"We get a hundred calls a year from people whose pets are either biting them, eating them out of house and home, squawking, tearing the place apart or smelling," Aquilina said.

"Monkeys. Lions. Pumas. Leopards. Ocelots. Birds. Crocodiles. We had a person the other day with a pair of Bengal tigers."

"But we don't take them for a couple of reasons," he said. "Usually there's no room.

But also the animals are usually...nuts, crazy. They see themselves as humans because they've been imprinted as humans.

"They don't act like their species is supposed to act. They're brought up on the wrong diet. They have physical problems. They're not socialized with their own species."

"They're a bummer. They're wipeouts. They're useless," he said.

"If you take that animal and put it in with others of its own species, it acts entirely wrong," Aquilina continued. "It doesn't understand the pecking order, the social cues. Nine times out of 10, the other animals will severely injure it or kill it."

While some people keep wild animals as pets without incident, Aquilina said the risk never disappears.

ATTICS - WALLS - SPRAY-ON FOR METAL BUILDINGS

Insulate for the last time ever!

That's right, folks - Here's our life of the structure guarantee written in every work-order.

Have you already added more attic insulation and still find that your utility bills are too high?

You can be more comfortable and save up to 67% percent on the cost of your ever-rising heating and cooling bills. Let us add a thermal blanket of cellulose fiber around your home, business structure or mobile home. You save wear and tear on your heating and air conditioning equipment as an added bonus.

We offer one day installation on most homes and including clean-up. With no major construction we completely fill all outside walls and add 6 1/2 inches of warm, fluffy cellulose to your attic - right over your present insulation.

Walls are done from outside through 3/4" or 1" holes depending 'on structure of building. We do fill the holes.

During operation the fibers are fluffed and metered into the line through a precision blow-thru feeder. Here they are mixed with air to further open the fibers. A powerful rotary positive blower supplies the force to convey the fibers from the hopper, through the hose, to the point of application into the wall.

Pitches Out of Zone Turned Into Homers

By HAL BOCK AP Sports Writer

For some hitters, baseball's strike zone is nothing more than a rule book formality, a target area for the pitchers that is of little concern to the batters.

Put the ball over the plate between a hitter's armpits and knees and if the batter doesn't swing, the pitcher gets a strike. Put it elsewhere and some hitters like George Foster and Jose Cruz are liable to put it in orbit.

Cincinnati's Foster and Houston's Cruz both crashed home runs on pitches that missed the strike zone Thursday night, helping their teams to important victories.

Foster's ninth career grand slam sealed the Reds' 9-3 rout of Philadelphia while Cruz' two-run shot was the difference in the Astros' 2-1 decision over Montreal.

But if the pitcher gets his targets confused, and mistakes a slugger's helmet for home plate, well, that can cause problems.

Two pitches who missed the strike zone by a wide margin almost led to a brawl in San Francisco's 12-0 rout of the Chicago Cubs.

The Giants' Jack Clark, who had cracked the 100th home run of his career a inning earlier, was sent sprawling by Cubs' reliever Bill Caudill and started for the mound. Both benches emptied but no punches were thrown.

In other games, Pittsburgh downed San Diego 7-3 for the first National League victory of Luis Tiant's long career and St. Louis rallied for three runs with two out in the ninth inning to defeat Los Angeles 5-3.

The New York Mets and Atlanta Braves had the day off.

Johnny Bench, starting his first game since breaking his left ankle May 20, also homered for the Reds. Bench singled home another run and Foster had five RBIs.

Cruz, like Foster, did not stand on strike zone formalities. His 12th homer of the season in the sixth inning was enough to carry the streaking Astros to their eighth straight victory, this one over Montreal.

Cruz' homer overcame a solo shot by Montreal's Larry Parrish as Vern Ruhle and Dave Smith combined for a six-hitter.

Giants 12, Cubs 0

Doyle Alexander pitched a two-hitter, retiring the last 20 batters in order, for his first complete game of the season and the Giants broke the game open, scoring six runs in the fourth inning.

Clark hit his homer in the fifth and was sent sprawling in the sixth by Caudill. He started for the mound but no punches were thrown.

Pirates 7, Padres 3

After 225 career American league victories, Tiant won his first National League game, working five innings against San Diego. The 40-year-old pitcher was recalled from Portland of the Pacific Coast League last month and had dropped his first three decisions with Pittsburgh. Bill Madlock ripped two doubles, driving in a pair of runs to lead a 15-hit Pirate attack.

Cardinals 5, Dodgers 3

Los Angeles was one out away from a third straight victory when shortstop Bill Russell threw away a double play ball, allowing St. Louis' tying run to score. Sixto Lezcano then followed with a two-run homer, lifting the Cardinals to their victory.

Steve Garvey ripped a three-run homer for the Dodgers and Ken Oberkfell had a two-run shot for St. Louis.

Bruce Sutter earned his 19th save for the Cardinals.

McEnroe Fined for Conduct

NEW YORK (AP) — It's like an ever-shifting, ever-widening battle front.

Thursday, the powers of tennis came down on John McEnroe with a pair of fines for his conduct at Wimbledon, where he stormed about the court, broke a racket and berated an official, calling him an "incompetent fool."

McEnroe and most of the tennis establishment had expected some fines, but what was controversial Thursday was the timing of the announcement, coming as it did during the U.S. Open. Officials of the Men's Professional Tennis Council had

Sox, Mariners Battle Record Breaker

By LARRY SIDONS AP Sports Writer

Boston, which brought you Paul Revere's midnight ride, has come up with some more late-night action, this time featuring its beloved Red Sox and the Seattle Mariners.

For 5 hours, 39 minutes, the two teams battled, only to have the game suspended in the wee hours this morning after 19 innings with the score tied 7-7.

The contest, the longest in the American League this year and the longest ever played in 69-year-old Fenway Park, was to be resumed before tonight's regularly scheduled game.

"We should have bunted. We should have hit-and-run. Everything we tried didn't work," Seattle Manager Rene Lachemann said after the marathon was interrupted by the AL curfew barring an inning from starting after 1 a.m.

"That's better than losing," Boston Manager Ralph Houk said when asked if he minded such a long night ending without a winner. Then, showing that even a veteran manager can mistake one day for another when a game runs over, he added: "We've got a shot at them tomorrow."

Elsewhere in the American League Thursday,

Milwaukee defeated Minnesota 4-3, Oakland bombed Baltimore 10-0, New York edged Kansas City 3-2, Detroit defeated Kansas City 8-5 and Chicago beat Toronto 4-3. California at Cleveland was rained out.

The Mariners had runners in scoring position in five of the 10 extra innings and the Red Sox reached second base twice in overtime, but neither team could score.

"In a long ball game, I don't know if the players know it, but the bats get heavy and it's hard to win after the 13th inning," Houk said. "What you need at that time, if you have it, is a fastball pitcher."

Each team had 21 hits. The Mariners used seven pitchers and a total of 26 players, while the Red Sox used 20 players including six pitchers. Ironically the game, played in a park known for easy home runs, lacked a single homer.

The Red Sox scored three times in the ninth to tie the game, and the pitchers then took over.

The Red Sox had a chance to send their bleary-eyed fans home happy when Jim Rice singled with one out in the 19th inning and Reid Nichols, attempting to sacrifice, beat out a bunt for a single. But Dave Stapleton popped up for the second out and Joe Rudi fled to center to end the inning.

The marathon eclipsed the old Fenway Park longevity record of 18 innings set Sept 5, 1927, when the Red Sox defeated the New York Yankees 12-11.

The longest previous game in the AL this season was May 13 at Chicago, when the White Sox and the Cleveland Indians played 16 innings over 5 hours, 31 minutes, with Cleveland winning 4-3.

Brewers 4, Twins 3

Ted Simmons, returning to his familiar spot as a cleanup hitter, slammed a two-run homer in the fifth inning to carry Milwaukee past Minnesota. The veteran catcher had been hitting in the sixth spot, but admitted he liked the No. 4 position better. "That's where I've hit all my life," said Simmons, whose 12th homer of the year off Brad Havens erased a 3-2 Twins' lead. "Win, lose or draw, that's where I'm the most comfortable."

Brewers' starter Pete Vuckovich survived a shaky first inning and raised his record to 11-3.

A's 10, Orioles 0

Oakland, after a clubhouse meeting, unloaded a long-ball attack to beat Baltimore. Tony Armas, the league's home-run leader, hit two to give him 20 for the season and teammates Wayne Gross and Jim Spencer added one apiece. The A's pounded out 14 hits, including four doubles, and ended a streak in which they had lost nine of 13 games.

SMU Loses Player Amid Confusion

DALLAS (AP) — Confusion over an eligibility letter caused Southern Methodist University to lose its biggest football recruit of the season to another Southwest Conference school, SMU officials say.

SMU athletic officials said Wednesday Freshman linebacker Gary Spann learned in June he was ineligible to play football because his high school principal stated in an eligibility letter that Spann's grade point average did not meet with NCAA minimum requirements.

South Oak Cliff High School principal Frederick Todd said he was unaware of an NCAA rule stipulation that would have allowed Spann to keep his SMU scholarship and play this fall.

The loophole was discovered by Texas Christian University and Spann was snapped up two weeks ago. Spann was declared eligible Tuesday by the Southwest Conference office.

"At this point, and I stress at this point, we look very foolish," said SMU coach Ron Meyer. "Obviously there is some discrepancy somewhere, but I don't know if it's with our athletic office, the conference office or with TCU."

The SMU athletic administration had assured him that "in our interpretation of the rule," Spann was ineligible, Meyer said.

TCU coach F.A. Dry said when he talked to Spann he "couldn't believe" the prize recruit was ineligible. "I went down and looked at his recruiting records and thought he was (eligible)," Dry added.

Spann has been cleared for play through Southwest Conference commissioner Cliff Speegle, Dry said.

Speegle said he addressed only the issue of whether Spann was free of obligation to SMU, not whether Spann was eligible to play.

"Gary Spann is eligible under the applied NCAA rules. There was no interpretation needed," he said.

Fleming, Lloyd Pick Each Other

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

Peggy Fleming's favorite sports figure is Chris Evert Lloyd and, if you should happen to ask Lloyd whom she most admires in the world of fun and games, the answer might well be Peggy Fleming.

These are two of America's premier feminine sports personalities — one a former Olympic champion figure skater whose beauty and grace continue to light up our TV screens and the other the world's best woman tennis player.

While they are only slightly acquainted, there is a strong parallel in their developing careers and life styles. Each in her own way, through dedication and sacrifice, climbed to the pinnacle of her particular sport. Each set an example of gracious behavior. Each later took a husband and proved that, with thought and understanding, a sports career and marriage could mix.

There is another striking corollary. The two have just been named in to the Women's Sports Hall of Fame, to be honored with four others at the second annual Women's Sports Foundation dinner at New York's Waldorf Astoria Dec. 5.

Other electees were the Olympic sprint star, Wyomia Tyus; golfer Mickey Wright, speed skater-cyclist Sheila Young-Ochowicz and the legendary amateur golfer of the Golden Twenties, Glenna Collett Vare.

SPORTS TALK: RALPH BRANCA

Interviewed by Jim Scott

Ralph Branca, who posted an 88-68 record, pitched for the Dodgers (1944-53 and 1956), Tigers (1953-54) and Yankees (1954). He gave up the famous Bobby Thomson home run that gave the Giants the 1951 National League pennant.

Ralph, you wore number 13, and felt that it was never unlucky. Do you still feel the same way?

Maybe I've changed my mind a little bit. I think now sometimes it was an unlucky number. But I can't really believe that in my heart. What difference does it make, whether you're number 13 or 14 or 21 or 22? Thirteen was the number that I wore as a kid, and I liked it. Maybe I'm a little contrary now and then, and that's why I wore it. At that point, I didn't think it was unlucky. Now, looking back, I'm sure all the things that happened to me would have happened whether I wore number 13 or not.

The home run by Bobby Thomson in the 1951 playoffs was probably the worst moment in your baseball life. What was your best moment?

The best thing in baseball was winning 21 games at the age of 21. I was a real good pitcher. I could throw hard, and I could get the curve over pretty well. I had a pretty good idea of how to pitch. In those days, most 21-year-olds were still in the minor leagues. I taught myself and studied the game. And I'm very proud of the fact that only two guys in National League history have won 20 games at the age of 21, one of whom was Christy Mathewson. Also, in the American League, a couple of guys named Lefty Gomez and Bob Feller, along with Babe Ruth, won 20 games at only 21 years of age.

Do you remember the last time you walked out of Ebbets Field in Brooklyn?

I was very sad. It was the day they started to wreck Ebbets Field. When that iron ball crashed into the dugout, it crashed into my heart. Ebbets Field was a special place, not only for me, but for anyone who ever played there, either as a Dodger or as an enemy, and for any fan who went there. Those Dodger fans were the best, because they loved the Dodgers. It was a love affair. There'll never be fans quite like Brooklyn Dodger fans. They stuck with their team through thick and thin. The Dodgers even drew well prior to 1940 when they were slumping.

By the late 1940s, the Dodgers had become quite a ballclub.

Oh, they were a super ballclub. Unfortunately, they didn't beat the Yankees in those World Series, or they would have been known as one of the greatest teams in the history of the game. In 1947, we were out-managed in the World Series. That was the first World Series for most of us, and most teams don't do well playing in the World Series for the first time.

Do you think the game has changed significantly?

I think the golden years of baseball were after World War II — from, I'd say, 1946 through 1957. Some people would say I'm prejudiced, because the New York teams dominated the World Series during that time. The Yankees won almost every year and were always in the World Series. The Giants won it a couple of times, and the Dodgers were in it their share.

I think during those years there was a surplus of ballplayers coming out of the war. There was a backlog — a lot of good players. After that, expansion started, and talent was diluted. The minor-league teams did not prosper as well and were lost. I think that's what's happened to baseball. There used to be about 10,000 minor-leaguers compared to only about 2,000 today.

Also, there are 650 big-leaguers compared to only 400 in those days. A lot of prospective players are going into other sports, like golf, tennis, football and basketball, that have become more publicized through television.

Would you rather have the memories of the '40s and '50s or the money of the '80s?

It's funny you asked me that. Because guys ask me if I begrudge players the money they're making today, and I really don't. I think it's sad that most players today think about themselves and not about their team. The game has changed, and the quality of play has deteriorated quite a bit. I'd rather have the memories of playing in the golden age of baseball.

'Consider Source' Says Stabler

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers quarterback Ken Stabler says he's not taking time to consider reports of his association with a gambling figure, but those who do should consider the source—his former Oakland Raiders boss Managing General Partner Al Davis.

"It all goes back to considering the source," Stabler said following Thursday's workout. "People have their reasons for saying things about you. There might be an owner here or an owner there that might take a chance to jump you."

Stabler earlier told the Washington Post "I'm caught in the middle of one of Al Davis' charades. I don't want to dignify it by talking about it. If people can read that stuff and see what Davis is doing, using me like that, well... I'm just going to let it die."

Stabler was not the only one pointing to Davis. Oilers General Manager Ladd Herzog and Dallas Cowboys General Manager Tex Schramm also suggested Davis was responsible for a story in Sunday's edition of the New York Times that said Stabler had been seen with Nicholas Dudich on numerous occasions, a violation of NFL rules prohibiting players from association with known gamblers.

"The only thing that concerns me is the people that know me and the people that know what kind of a person and player I am," Stabler said.

"It's my job to play football and my responsibility is to a lot of other players to get myself ready to play and to block the other stuff out."

Stabler, traded to the Oilers prior to last season by the Raiders, is being investigated by the NFL in connection with his acquaintance with Dudich. An NFL spokesman said Stabler had been placed under surveillance previously but those investigations were inconclusive. Warren Welsh, NFL director of security, interviewed Stabler here Tuesday and said the league would issue a report as soon as possible.

The 11-year veteran said he had not read that Schramm had accused Davis of planning the story.

"Maybe he considered the source too," Stabler said. "It doesn't surprise me though. I just keep saying consider the source."

Stabler also learned Thursday that he would not face a bench warrant for his arrest when the Oilers travel to Los Angeles Sunday for the season opener against the Rams.

Herzog said a case involving Stabler's failure to respond to an increase in child support payments had been settled.

The Southwest Conference opens its 67th football season this weekend as favorites in four of five games in an abbreviated schedule.

The Texas Aggies are a field-goal favorite over California in a road game Saturday afternoon while Texas Christian is a nine-point underdog at Auburn.

Southern Methodist, Baylor and Houston are prohibitive favorites in the other matchups, all night games.

The initial Aggie-California meeting at Berkeley brings together two teams who had disappointing 1980 campaigns.

A&M was 4-7 and California 3-8. Although the two teams have never met before A&M is 6-4-1 against Pac-10 opponents while California is 1-9 against the SWC.

California will unveil its new $900,000 AstroTurf and a freshly installed "Run-&Shoot" offense for the 1 p.m. PDT (3 p.m. Central time) game.

Auburn narrowly survived the Horned Frogs 10-7 in Fort Worth last year. The loss got TCU off to a 1-10 season.

TCU has one of the finest pitch-and-catch combinations in the country in quarterback Steve Stamp and wide receiver Stanley Washington. TCU is 6-17-1 against Southeastern Conference teams.

The game will be televised locally back to the Dallas-Fort Worth area starting at 1:30 p.m.

Baylor, the defending SWC champion, whipped Lamar 42-7 in Beaumont last year but Coach Grant Teaff is still scared.

"We respect Lamar very much," Teaff said. "Lamar will come here with nothing to lose. They'll pull all stops to win the game."

Dooley Worried About Defending Grid Crown

By JIM O'CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

Vince Dooley and Roger Theder have basically the same problems, but they really have little in common.

Dooley, head coach of the defending national champion Georgia Bulldogs, calls his opening game Saturday against Southeastern Conference rival Tennessee "a venture into the unknown. There is no way to predict what will happen or how we will react."

Theder, head coach of perennial Pac-10 disappointment California, will bring the Golden Bears into his opener Saturday against Texas A&M with a brand new untried offense on a brand new untried $900,000 artificial surface at Memorial Stadium.

Dooley and Theder are both worried and the worrying seems justified.

Dooley says there have been too many distractions to suit him — concern over whether the 18,000 new stadium seats will be ready and parking problems around the stadium.

"Nobody seems concerned if the football team is going to be ready," Dooley said.

"I just don't know about our motivation," said Dooley of his No. 10 team. "Last season we had a group of highly motivated seniors who were fighters. I haven't seen that in our players so far in practice."

Last year's group fought their way to a perfect season capped by a Sugar Bowl triumph over Notre Dame, that ensured the Bulldogs' No. 1 ranking in the final poll. Let's you think Dooley will find a bare cupboard when he tries to muster victories this season don't despair for the Head Bulldog.

Dooley has everyone's All-American, running back Herschel Walker, returning as well as quarterback Buck Belue, who sports a record of 17-1 as a starter.

Walker, who burst into national prominence in last year's Georgia-Tennessee game, won by the Bulldogs 16-15, says there's no reason for his coach to be worried.

"Come Saturday at 1 o'clock, we'll be more ready than any Georgia team ever has been," said Walker, who gained a record 1,616 yards last season, 84 against the Vols.

Theder can only hope his players are ready and able — able to perform the new "run-and-shoot" offense he has installed.

The "run-and-shoot" offense is a move to end the years of California's near cellar-dwelling in their conference.

"We're totally committed to the run-and-shoot, and there's no question there'll be some ups and downs," said the coach of the school that has produced professional quarterbacks Craig Morton, Steve Bartkowski and most recently Rich Campbell, all straight drop-back passers.

The new system was put in under the supervision of Theder's newest assistant coach, former Portland State head Coach Mouse Davis.

Cowboy-Indian Rivalry Not Hot As In Past

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

It used to be one of the great rivalries in the National Football League — but that's when then-coach George Allen was smashing boards to show his Washington Redskins just how much he hated the Dallas Cowboys.

Times, of course, change. They're still rivals within the National Conference's East Division. But the passion has waned somewhat. The rivalry is often discussed in the past tense.

"I've heard so much about it," but it's new to me. So I don't know how I should feel," says Joe Gibbs, now the coach of the Redskins who will be facing the Cowboys in Sunday's season opener.

Sunday's other games are Houston at Los Angeles, New Orleans at Atlanta, Oakland at Denver, Kansas City at Pittsburgh, Baltimore at New England, Miami at St. Louis, Philadelphia at the New York Giants, San Francisco at Detroit, Seattle at Cincinnati, Green Bay at Chicago and the New York Jets at Buffalo. On

"Everyone is expecting us to do what we did last year against Lamar but we'll be fortunate to win the game by a touchdown or less, if any at all."

SMU rolled to a 52-16 victory last year over UT Austin which is junking the Wishbone-T offense this year to go to the I-Formation.

The Mustangs, who are on NCAA probation this year and can't play on television or in a bowl, feature the terrific tandem of Craig James and Eric Dickerson at running back. SMU Coach Ron Meyer has never lost a season opener and the Mustangs haven't dropped one since 1971. Houston has compiled a 14-2 record against Western Athletic Conference teams. The only previous time the Cougars played New Mexico resulted in a 33-14 victory in 1972.

"We need to get on the right track at home and we will get a big test from New Mexico," said offensive tackle Maceo Fifer. "I think their defense is similar to other Southwest Conference teams, so they shouldn't surprise us."

Rice and Texas open the season next weekend by playing each other, Arkansas hosts Tulsa, and Texas Tech is at Colorado.

Rams team with Pat Haden once again calling the signals.

Haden lost his starting job in 1979 and again last year to Vince Ferragamo, who since has moved to Montreal, where he throws the ball (far less successfully) for the Alouettes of the Canadian Football League. Ed Biles is now the Houston coach.

Bum Phillips, the former Houston Coach who was canned by the Oilers last New Year's Day and landed on his feet in New Orleans, hopes George Rogers' feet will begin bringing the Saints back to respectability.

Billy Sims

Billy Sims was the 1980 NFL Rookie of the Year. He set a Detroit Lions record by rushing for 1,303 yards. Sims, winner of the 1978 Heisman Trophy as a junior at Oklahoma, scored 16 touchdowns during his first NFL season.

Before last season you said, "If we can turn a 2-14 season around, this will have been a very successful first season." Did you consider 1980 a successful year?

Most definitely. Anything's better than 2-14. Nine-and-seven overall isn't bad. I think now the inspiration is there. We know that we can win and compete with anybody. We needed that.

I'm used to winning. I come from a winning tradition. I'm used to playing that way. I think that spread to other members of the team, and now we can really get something started.

What were some of the big differences you found in your first season of pro football as opposed to your college career?

I think one thing is to keep myself aware at all times — while I'm in the game, while I'm on the sidelines. I had to learn to read defenses, which I really didn't have to do in college. Realizing that the people out there are just as fast as I am, I had to adjust to that.

PUBLIC NOTICE ON REGISTERING LIVESTOCK BRANDS
The attorney general is reminding every citizen who has registered a brand prior to Aug. 30, 1981 that citizens must re-register each brand with the county clerk within six months in order to protect their right to it. If everyone follows the registration schedule set out by the law, county clerks will have a correct, revised set of records every ten years, and there should be no dispute about the correct ownership of livestock.
To register or re-register marks and brands, the livestock owner may obtain forms either by mail or in person from his or her county clerk's office. There will be blank spaces on the form in which to describe the mark or brand and the location on the animal where the brand is recorded.
The forms should then be mailed or delivered in person to the county clerk, who will keep the forms in an indexed bound volume or on microfilm for easy reference.

FAITH DOES NOT FLUCTUATE WITH THE SEASONS

The waning days of summer are often accompanied by a feeling of lethargy and depression of the spirit that occurs when the pleasures of the season have begun to pall, but the oppressive heat persists. However, help is always at hand, for faith in God is never restricted by the boundaries of climate and season; it is a continuing source of energy, vitality and inner joy that can be yours whenever you seek it. The best remedy for your sagging spirits can be found in the Church of your choice. It's as near as next Sunday.

"To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven."

— Ecclesiastes 3:1

Gods fade; but God abides and in man's heart Speaks with the clear unconquerable cry Of energies and hopes that can not die.

— John Addington Symonds
