Iranian Regime Chooses New Prime Minister

By SCHEHEREZADE FARAMARZI Associated Press Writer BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) —

The Iranian revolutionary regime chose a new leader for its ruling party to replace assassinated Prime Minister

Mohammad Javad Bahonar, a party official reported. Hours after Bahonar and President Mohammad Ali

Rajai were buried, two other political-religious leaders were slain and nine leftists executed, Iranian newspapers reported.

Hojatoleslam Ali Khamenei, the fiery orator of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's Islamic revolution, was elected secretary-general of the Islamic Republican Party by a party congress Monday, a senior aide reported by telephone to The Associated Press in Beirut.

"But I can assure you, he will not become prime minister," said the aide, who declined to be identified by name.

The source said consultations were under way in the Majlis, the Iranian Parliament, to choose a new prime minister to succeed Bahonar. He said announcement of the appointment is expected in two or three days.

The government will then arrange the third presidential election since the monarchy was overthrown in 1979, the source said.

Meanwhile, the ruling Islamic Revolutionary Party newspaper Jamhuri Islami reported today that two assassins fatally shot Hojatoleslam Seyyed Mortaza Ayatollahi Tabatabai Yazdi in front of his Tehran house Monday and escaped on motorcycles.

Tehran Radio reported that Hojatoleslam Seyyed Naser Bani Jamal, the internal affairs director of the Court Combating Sins of Commission, was killed Monday afternoon by "imperialist agents." The broadcast said a court guard was killed with him, but it gave no details.

The newspaper also said nine Mujahedeen Khalq guerrillas were executed in five Caspian Sea cities Sunday, the day Rajai and Bahonar died when an incendiary bomb exploded at the premier's office.

The newspaper said all those executed were convicted by Islamic courts of anti-government violence.

Khamenei is still recuperating from lung and throat wounds he received in

By Julie Foster Staff Writer

The driver of a tractor-trailer was treated for minor injuries and released this morning from Deaf Smith General Hospital after his rig overturned west of Hereford.

John Dillinger, 43, of Amarillo, was headed west on Highway 60 when the tractor-trailer he was driving jackknifed and overturned, coming to rest headed east in the median near Caviness Packing Company, Inc., according to Highway Patrolman Darrell Matthews.

Mike Horton, driver for the T-Miller Wrecker Service, Amarillo, said he thought the accident occurred about 5:30 a.m., and Dillinger was the only one injured in the accident.

"It looked like he was out here all by himself when it happened," he said.

The Affiliated Foods truck Dillinger was driving was still loaded with produce and food at 8:30 a.m., while Horton waited for the food to be transported by another truck.

Doris Morgan, assistant director of nursing at Deaf Smith General Hospital, said, "He was really lucky. It looked like a bad wreck when we arrived with the ambulance.

Tornadoes, Floodwater Claim Three in Texas

By LEIGH SHIRLEY Associated Press Writer

Tornadoes, heavy rains and flooding claimed three lives as a slow-dying tropical depression saturated a broad swath of South Texas and chased hundreds of rain-soaked residents from their homes.

The storm system, which dumped up to 18 inches of rain across some parts of the low-lying Coastal Plains, continued its east-northeast drift Monday night, spawning at least four tornadoes in the Galveston area and heavy flooding as far east as Houston.

After 16 inches of rain fell on the Coastal Plains town of Shiner, Rocky Creek spilled over its banks, sweeping away a trailer house and killing three brothers trapped inside, officials said.

"I've heard some say the floodwater was higher in 1940 and others say this is worse," said Lavaca County Judge Wibert Roznosky. "I don't give a damn — it's high enough for me."

Officials said Glenn Hights, 17, Johnny Hights, 13, and Bradford Hights, 12, drowned when they were swept out of their mobile home after rescuers tried in vain to reach them before the trailer house broke apart in rushing waters, a LaVaca County deputy said.

"They were yelling for help and we were trying to get across when it began breaking up," said the deputy, who asked not to be identified.

Another brother, Craig Hights, was rescued from a tree, he said. "We had water here that people who've lived here 75 years said they had never seen it that high," said Justice of the Peace Daniel Peters.

Department of Public Safety officials said two people were reported missing in Hallettsville after flooding chased dozens of residents, including the entire Lavaca County Sheriff's Department, to higher ground when the Lavaca River spilled over its banks.

The National Weather Service reported up to 11 inches of rain in Galveston, where winds were clocked at 77 mph and at least four tornadoes touched down, one ripping away the roof of a downtown movie theatre.

Widespread flooding prompted the evacuation of several people in a downtown district after officials discovered electrical problems and a possible natural gas leak.

But Galveston County sheriff's officials said no major injuries were reported.

A power company official said most telephone service was knocked out because of the severe weather.

A freight ship docked at a Galveston pier broke loose during high winds, tearing away a portion of the dock, said Coast Guard duty officer John Deck.

Earlier Monday, severe flooding was reported in Karnes County where Kenedy Police Chief Johnny Salinas said 600 people were evacuated as water rose in Escondido Creek.

Salinas estimated 250 families lost their belongings. Most were uninsured, he said. "Everybody we evacuated lost everything they had in their houses. There were three to four feet of water in the homes," Salinas said. "We don't have any flood in-

U.S. Bases In Peru Attacked

LIMA, Peru (AP) — After more than 700 terrorist attacks since the return of democracy to Peru 13 months ago, U.S. installations have been hit for the first time.

Bombs exploded Monday before dawn at the U.S. Embassy, the residence of Ambassador Edwin G. Corr, the Ford Motor Co., the Bank of America, the Coca-Cola bottling plant and the distributor of Carnation Milk.

The bombs caused some damage, but nobody was hurt. The bombers struck without warning and left no calling cards, the modus operandi in nearly 500 other bombings since President Fernando Belaunde Terry took office July 28, 1980, after 12 years of military dictatorship.

If there was any anti-American significance to the bombings, it was not apparent. Peru and the United States enjoy good relations, and Corr, assigned to Lima by President Carter in November, has gained widespread popularity although he has maintained a low profile.

There has been severe criticism for several weeks in most newspapers of the recent announcement that Corr would be replaced by Frank Ortiz, the former ambassador to Guatemala who was transferred by the Carter administration for allegedly failing to support its human rights policies.

Leftist newspapers claimed Ortiz was a member of the Central Intelligence Agency who, when he was political officer at the embassy in Lima in 1967-68, helped Belaunde crack down on guerrilla activity. Other newspapers and magazines criticized the Reagan administration for replacing a good ambassador by a controversial one.

Corr denied the CIA charge, saying it was invented by "enemies of the United States" to damage

U.S.-NATO Command Bomed; Two Hospitalized

RAMSTEIN AIR BASE, West Germany (AP) — Two American officers remained hospitalized in stable condition today while authorities probed the bomb blast that injured them and 18 others outside joint U.S.-NATO air command headquarters.

Meanwhile, eight privately owned cars were torched in an American housing area in Wiesbaden but no injuries were reported, the U.S. Army's V Corps said today.

The violence came at a time of swelling opposition to U.S. defense policies. Two weeks ago an American military facility in Berlin was bombed, but there were no injuries.

Authorities believed the explosion that injured the 18 other Americans and two West Germans at 7:20 a.m. Monday to be the work of leftist terrorists, although no group claimed responsibility.

U.S. officials stepped up security at other installations in West Germany, where some 260,000 U.S. troops are stationed.

West German sources said the blast apparently came from a Volkswagen sedan parked in a lot outside the headquarters buildings of the U.S. Air Force Europe (USAFE) and the NATO air command.

Passers-by were flung to the ground by the force of the blast, which shattered windows and interior walls up to 100 yards away and scattered other cars across the parking lot in flames, witnesses said. Police said a car engine was found on the roof of a five-story building.

The only victims requiring hospitalization were Brig. Gen. Joseph D. Moore, USAFE assistant deputy chief of staff for operations, and Lt. Col. Douglas R. Young, an operations officer with the USAFE command.

Both were flown by helicopter to the U.S. Army hospital in nearby Landstuhl. Moore is from Myrtle Beach, S.C., and Young from Glendale, Ariz., the Air Force said

Crash Victim's Services Today

Services for Benito Castillo Oroscos, 25, of Lubbock were held at 10 a.m. today at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Lubbock. Oroscos was killed in an accident which occurred about six miles north of Dimmitt on Hwy. 385 early Saturday morning.

Oroscos was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Marshall Young of Dimmitt. Injured in the accident were Oroscos's two-year-old daughter, Jo Ann, who was riding in her father's car, and four persons from Amarillo. The Amarilloans injured in the accident included Cecil Ward, 32; Bobby Jean Cooper, 33, and 9-year-old Stephanie Cooper.

Ward, the driver of the second vehicle involved in the accident, is in critical condition at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo with a broken leg, facial cuts, and internal injuries, while Miss Cooper was in fair condition with facial cuts and possible internal injuries.

According to DPS trooper Rick Bentley of Castro County, Oroscos was northbound on Hwy. 385 and Ward was southbound. The head-on collision occurred in the southbound lane.

Oroscos was a truck driver for Kerr Construction of Lubbock and had lived there for nine months after moving from Olton. Survivors include his daughter, Jo Ann, of Lubbock; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Oroscos of Lubbock, and four sisters, including Janie Corona of Hereford.

Elks Set Carnival For Muscular Dystrophy

The annual Elks Against Dystrophy Carnival will be held from noon to 6 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 7 at Dameron Park, sponsored by the BPOE Lodge No. 2269. Janice Holmes is chairperson of the event, with Joyce Walker as vice-chairman.

The carnival will feature a host of game booths, including the popular dunking board, fish bowl, bingo, dart throws, cake walk, and an auction, which will begin about 3 p.m.

According to publicity chairman Virginia Dickson, the Elks are looking for volunteer help to put on the carnival this year. "We feel like this is a community thing, and should include the entire community," Mrs. Dickson said.

So, the Elks are looking for volunteers to help with a variety of things. "We would very much appreciate any time people could donate in helping set up the carnival and cleaning up after it, or in manning phones during the telethon," Mrs. Dickson said. The telethon will begin Sun-

August Rainfall Sets Record

Overnight rain added to the August rainfall total here and inched up the record just a little.

KPAN reported .06 on an inch of rain for the city, bringing the monthly total to 7.27 inches. This new total breaks the old record of 5.83 inches for August, set in 1963. Previous to that, a record of 5.78 inches was set in August 1945.

Winston Roundtree, Easter

Fertilizer, reported .2 of an inch and Mary Shipp, Barrett and Crofoot Inc.-West, recorded .45 of an inch of rain.

Jo Coleman, Walcott, said she had .38 at her home and about .3 inches of rain in Walcott.

Kathy Hammock, Bootleg County Barn, reported overnight rain of .17 of an inch.

Today's forecast calls for a 20 to 30 percent chance of rain

Cable Service To Be Interrupted

Hereford Cablevision subscribers will experience a brief interruption of satellite receiving channel service this afternoon as the local company does some adjustment work at the receiving site.

According to manager Lloyd Ames, they will be changing out the antenna at the dish site located east of town, beginning at about 2:30 p.m. today. The work to be done is expected to take about an hour-and-a-half.

Ames said the antenna is being changed from a singular-polarized one to a double-polarized unit, which will basically double the local station's receiving capabilities.

The main reason for the change is to make the station ready to receive programming from the Entertainment and Sports Programming Network (ESPN), a 24-hour channel. Ames said that cable subscribers in Hereford can look forward to receiving ESPN in the near future.

Channels affected by today's work include WTBS of Atlanta, Home Box Office and the CBN and PTL networks.

Prosecutors Keep Hinckley in Jail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal prosecutors, trying to keep John W. Hinckley Jr. behind bars, say his life could be in danger if he is released on bail while awaiting trial on charges of trying to kill President Reagan.

In a written motion filed Monday, U.S. Attorney Charles F.C. Ruff and Assistant U.S. Attorney Roger M. Adelman said the March 30 assassination attempt, "captured for all to see by television cameras, has...stirred strong feelings in the minds of some people about Mr. Hinckley."

His safety "could be in jeopardy if he were free to move about the community, or even if he were released subject to severe restrictions as to place of abode, travel and association," the prosecutors said.

They also said the 26-year-old Hinckley, who has pleaded innocent to charges of shooting Reagan and three others, might flee before trial.

U.S. District Judge Barrington D. Parker was hearing arguments today on a defense motion for bail.

Air Force, Army Boosting Bonuses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force and Army are boosting re-enlistment bonuses for air traffic controllers to a maximum $16,000 in an attempt to keep them from being hired away by the government as replacements for striking civilian controllers.

The Navy, which already pays re-enlistment bonuses of up to $16,000, may consider larger bonuses after assessing the strike's impact on its corps of enlisted controllers, officials said.

The military services have assigned 810 of their nearly 10,000 controllers to help the Federal Aviation Administration cope with airplane traffic in the wake of the Aug. 3 walkout and subsequent firing of more than 11,000 civilian controllers.

Military officials say they are concerned that many of the 1,600 veteran service controllers whose enlistments are due to expire within the next 13 months may choose a civilian career paying considerably more than their military jobs.

FAA controllers earn an average $34,000 a year, while a married Air Force technical sergeant with eight years of service now draws about $15,500 a year, including about $4,500 in tax-free housing and food allowances.

Man Sued for Smoke Assault

ATLANTA (AP) — A non-smoker claims his exposure to cigarette smoke in a public elevator amounted to assault, and he wants $5,000 in damages from the man who was holding the cigarette.

Randy Jones, a Decatur lawyer and member of Georgians Against Smokers' Pollution, said his suit centers on "whether a person has a right to assault another with cigarette smoke."

Jones is seeking the $5,000 from Robert Zezzo, a probation officer.

Zezzo, who said he has smoked since age 12, filed a countersuit against Jones, citing malicious prosecution and seeking recovery of the cost of his defense.

Zezzo tentatively won the first round of the legal battle Monday when Superior Court Judge R.

Keegan Federal Jr. said he was considering throwing out Jones' suit and ordering Jones to pay Zezzo nearly $600 in court costs.

The judge said a contempt citation had been issued against Jones since he "willfully refused" to give a deposition to Zezzo's lawyer, Thomas Blaska.

Charges Filed in Canadian Killings

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — The bludgeoning and stabbing murders of nine children that have wracked this province have been blamed on one man by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Clifford Robert Olson, 41, of Coquitlam, a Vancouver suburb, was charged Monday with first-degree murder in the killings of five girls and three boys. The charges came 11 days after a single first-degree murder charge was filed against him in the slaying of a girl, mounties said.

Two children from the area are missing and presumed dead. The disappearances of the 11 children began Christmas Day and the nine nude bodies were discovered in rugged, sparsely settled regions of the province. Five bodies were found over three days last week in a peat bog and other remote parts of southwestern British Columbia.

Along with the murder charges, Olson, who is married and the father of a baby son, was charged with rape, gross indecency and sodomy for an alleged attack in May against an 18-year-old woman from the town of Surrey, said John Hall, a federal prosecutor.

School Loan Curbs Start Oct. 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — A public college student whose family earns more than $33,875 a year will be denied guaranteed federal loans, for the most part, under new curbs which take effect Oct. 1.

The income cutoff for loans for students attending the average four-year college is $46,375, according to figures obtained Monday from the Education Department.

The College Board on Sunday reported that the average cost this fall of tuition, fees, board and other expenses will be $6,885 at private four-year colleges and $3,873 at public four-year colleges.

Since 1978, students have been able to borrow up to $2,500 under the Guaranteed Student Loan program regardless of family income or college cost. Congress recently reimposed an income limit to hold down the spiraling costs of the program.

Starting Oct. 1, students whose adjusted gross family income is $30,000 or more — including the students' and parents' salary, interest and dividends — will have to pass a needs test to be able to get one of the subsidized loans.

The Guaranteed Student Loan policy office in the education department gave the following examples. All apply to a family of four:

—At the public college costing $3,873, with one child in college, the maximum loan for a student with family income of $30,000 is $1,373; those from families below the $30,000 ceiling can borrow $2,500. The minimum loan of $1,000 is limited to those with income between $30,000 and $33,875. Families earning more than that figure are ineligible for the program.

—If both children attend that public college, each can borrow the maximum $2,500 if the family income is no more than $31,375; each can borrow the minimum $1,000 if the family income is no more than $47,625.

—At the private college costing $6,885, with one child in college, the student can borrow $2,500 if family income is less than $37,875; the cutoff for the minimum $1,000 loan is $46,375.

—With both children attending that private college, each can borrow $2,500 if the family income is less than $57,626. The cutoff for the minimum $1,000 loan is $79,375.

If the student attends one of the dozen or so elite private universities where costs are more than $11,000 this year, then: —With one child in the college, the student can borrow $2,500 if family income is no more than $56,375. The student can borrow $1,000 if income is no more than $66,625. —With both children in $11,000-a-year colleges, each is entitled to the maximum $2,500 loan even if family income exceeds $100,000. Some 3.6 million students have taken out loans totaling almost $8 billion under the program in the current fiscal year. They pay no interest while in college, and only 7 percent or 9 percent afterward.

Peru — from page 1 Flood — from page 1

U.S.-Peruvian relations. Senate President Javier Alva Orlandini, who also is Peru's second vice president, said in a recent report the police had recorded 700 terrorist attacks since Belaunde was inaugurated. He said five people had been killed and property damage totaled $12.5 million.

The terrorists have blown up power lines and communications towers, attacked haciendas, thrown dynamite sticks at government offices and police stations, burned and bombed schools, hoisted revolutionary flags in public squares and seized radio stations to broadcast revolutionary statements.

But no organization has come forward to claim responsibility for the terrorism. Although more than 300 people have been arrested as suspected terrorists, the police say they have not been able to establish their political affiliations.

Interior Minister Jose Maria de la Jara sometimes blames the attacks on "common criminals." At other times he accuses a small Maoist group called Sendero Luminoso (Lighted Path).

Ambassador Carr told reporters the bombs Monday were planted by "terrorists who are doing anything possible to sow chaos in Peru." He said their aim is to undermine Peruvian democracy, a view expressed by Belaunde in several statements.

surance because we're in a low area. Everybody we talked to has no flood insurance."

Gonzales County Sheriff's dispatcher Tracy Roberts said 200 people were moved from their homes and 200 others rescued from their vehicles Monday after a deluge dropped 16 inches of rain on the area. A dozen families were evacuated in Sequin, where Geronimo Creek charged out of its banks.

Cheapside, a rural Coastal Plains town, reported 18 inches of rain Monday afternoon.

In Houston, where nine inches of rain made city streets impassable, a firefighter delivered a baby girl Monday night after the high water prevented an ambulance from getting to the home in time to take the mother to a hospital.

Diana Roberts, 20, said John C. Musacha, 28, who arrived in a rescue vehicle, helped with the final stages of the birth and cut the umbilical cord.

"I was just glad when they got there," Mrs. Roberts said. "They looked out for the baby. We didn't know what to do."

Mrs. Roberts says her 7-pound-11-ounce infant daughter will be named Shyia Nikisa.

Several guests at an exclusive hotel in west Houston awoke Monday to find an overflowing bayou had trapped their cars in a parking garage. A hotel employee said several expensive cars were completely covered by water.

"Some people were swimming around, trying to get to their cars," said Todd Marshall, an employee at Inn on the Park. "Some were crying, others just stood there laughing."

Further west, several families fled their flooded homes and some boarded boats to navigate waterlogged residential streets.

Merchants in the Montrose area tried to seal the doors of their businesses in an effort to keep two feet of floodwater from seeping inside. One posted a sign on the street that pleaded, "Slow down — No waves."

Vicki White, a 29-year-old travel agent, had to be rescued from her subcompact car on a Houston freeway when she was stranded by rising water.

"Within seconds, the water just started pouring inside," she said. "I had to climb out the window."

A local TV news crew helped Ms. White escape the high water.

Dozens of elementary school children were kept at their schools in areas west of Houston Monday afternoon because parents could not ford flooded subdivision streets to get to them.

One school official said arrangements were being made to keep some children overnight if their parents could not pick them up.

A Houston firefighter broke his ankle fighting a lightning-sparked blaze. Officials in Houston reported no other serious injuries.

Former Manson Cult Member to Marry

FRONTERA, Calif. (AP) — Donald Lee Laisure says his friends are betting 40-to-1 that he won't marry former Charles Manson follower Susan Atkins. But both Laisure and prison officials say the planned wedding is on.

Officials at the California Institute for Women, where Ms. Atkins is serving a life sentence for the murders of Sharon Tate and six others, confirmed Monday that the private ceremony will take place at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday.

That confirmation followed earlier conflicting reports from prison officials that the wedding had been postponed and then cancelled. Officials refused Monday to elaborate.

Strikes Had to Stop

President Reagan's firmness is confronting the strike by air traffic controllers has been applauded. Public opinion surveys since reward him with "higher grades."

Excesses, ultimately, eventually, inevitably are their own undoing.

Whether the excesses of monopolistic corporations in the '30s or the excesses of autocratic unions in the '80s, a "public be damned" attitude will not be tolerated indefinitely.

Somewhere such strikes had to stop.

Now what?

The walkout by air traffic controllers was an "illegal" strike.

Now what of other "government workers" who have sworn not to strike?

A lot of the have been striking anyway.

More than 2.3 million federal government workers have signed an oath not to strike.

Including postal workers. Postal workers struck anyway in 1970 — and were forgiven, rehired.

Probably — except for President Reagan's demonstrated toughness — postal workers would soon strike again.

And the American Federation of Government Employees, representing 700,000 and the National Federation of Federal Employees representing 136,000 have been contemplating walkouts against the Social Security Administration.

The National Treasury Employees Union has a standby plan to strike.

The million members of the State, County and Municipal Employees Union are certain to be deterred by the president's firmness and the public support of that firmness.

Roger Dahl of the United States Conference of Mayors says, "We are going to say 'no' and stick to it!"

President Calvin Coolidge, as governor of Massachusetts, called out the National Guard to break a Boston police strike in 1919 with these words: "Nobody has a right to strike against the public safety."

The world did not come to an end. The labor movement, thus disciplined, became stronger, not weaker.

And the showdown of 1981 may well have a similarly constructive effect.

We've had a rash of "illegal strikes" in recent months. City workers in Providence, Rhode Island; city workers in Steubenville, Ohio; firefighters in suburban San Francisco; police in Terre Haute, Indiana; teachers in Ravenna, Ohio. In all 536 "illegal strikes" last year, 19 by teachers.

This precedent may remedy that.

We've forgotten how far too far we've backslid.

We've ignored the way thumbing anybody's nose at the law begets more of the same.

We've ignored the fact that teachers on the picket line are still teaching.

The speedy appointment of Khamenei and the move to name a new prime minister was seen by knowledgeable Iranian sources as a sign the Khomeini regime wants to avert a power vacuum as a result of Sunday's assassinations.

Naming a new prime minister would help prevent disruption in day-to-day administrative affairs of the state and would complete the membership of the interim presidential council that assumed top executive powers after the explosion.

Jury Returns to Martin Case

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Travis County grand jury went back to work on the Rep. Mike Martin case today, talking with witnesses who might be able to add information about the bizarre shooting.

"They may have specific knowledge about the incident," said Assistant District Attorney Allen Hill of the witnesses.

Martin, R-Longview, was wounded here July 31 when shotgun fire grazed his arm. The freshman legislator told investigators he didn't know who shot him. He later changed his story and blamed the shooting on the "Guardian Angels of the Underworld," a satanic cult only Martin seems to know about.

Charles Goff, Martin's cousin, has said he was the gunman and he was hired by Martin for a "controlled hit" aimed at gaining publicity.

Hill said no indictments are anticipated Tuesday.

Goff and Martin testified here last week. Today's witness list includes Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Martin, the legislator's brother and sister-in-law. Hill said they might know something that could help grand jurors unravel the mystery.

McNew, Martin's secretary, and James Grant, Goff's half-brother.

Ms. McNew, like the rest of Martin's staff, will go without paychecks for a while because Martin overspent his House allowance by $11,000.

The House Administration

Committee has suspended Martin's $4,500-a-month allowance.

The four witnesses will be the last to appear before the grand jury, Hill said. However, more of Martin's financial records might be subpoenaed, he added.

Possible Arson Investigated

Hereford Fire Department is investigating a possible arson in connection with a vehicle fire at 129 Jackson Monday.

Matt Frost, a student at Stanton Junior High, filed a complaint with the Hereford Police Monday, alleging that some other students beat him up and stole his wallet.

Eight traffic citations were issued and no wrecks were reported.

Three minor accidents were reported for the weekend.

Four persons were arrested for public intoxication and two for driving while intoxicated. Nineteen traffic citations were issued and one given for other offense.

4-H Firsthand

4-H Showing NEW Start

That's right - we plan to start our new 4-H year off with a capital N-E-W!! New clubs, new projects, new goals, new ideas and best of all - NEW 4-H'ERS

The Hereford 4-H Clubs have been reorganized according to age groups. This means friends of the same ages can do their club work TOGETHER!

The new clubs will be Teen Leaders - 14-19; Pre-Teen Leaders - 10-13; and Explorers 9-10.

All 4-H'ers who are in 4-H now are urged to bring a friend along to their first meeting.

The community clubs, such as; Ford; Frio, Walcott, and Dawn will stay the same.

Some old and new project groups will be active for special interests: Showmanship-livestock; Rifle-shooting Sports; Llano Estacado-horse; Foods and Nutrition; & clothing.

The meeting dates for these clubs for the month of September are:

Ford, Ford CC, Sept. 8, 7 p.m.; Pre-Teen Leaders, Lounge-CC, Sept. 10 4 p.m.;

Caviness Easter Seal Representative

Gladys Caviness, of the First National Bank of Hereford has volunteered her services as the 1981-82 Easter Seal Deaf Smith County Representative. Mrs. Caviness has given outstanding service in the past to Deaf Smith County residents and has shown her concern for handicapped citizens through her involvement with Easter Seals.

The Texas Easter Seal Society now in its 51st year, provides such services as physical, occupational and speech therapy; orthopedic equipment such as wheelchairs, walkers and crutches; hearing evaluations and transportation to rehabilitation centers.

Funds are used to serve individuals in this area regardless of financial status or disability.

Today as programs and services for the handicapped increase in magnitude and complexity, the need for the disabled person to obtain information on referral and follow-up services becomes increasingly evident.

Many disabled people are not receiving the services they require, despite the availability of such services, simply because they do not know where to go for help. If you are handicapped or know someone who is, contact your Deaf Smith Easter Seal Representative, at First National Bank of Hereford.

To request additional assistance call the Easter Seal Action Line number toll-free at 1-800-492-5555 Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Ask for the Treatment and Service Coordinator and your request will be handled immediately.

Ex-Athiest Giving Pamphlets Asked To Leave School

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — The son of avowed athiest Madeline Murray O'Hair was forced to leave the grounds of a junior high school after he and a Missouri minister at tempted to distribute religious materials to students at the school.

Bill Murray, a self-proclaimed athiest-turned evangelist, said he and Cecil Tood were planning to give Horace Mann Junior High students folders with the Ten Commandments printed on the front and the Lord's Prayer emblazoned on the reverse side.

School principal Leland Wilhelm told the two men Monday that school board policy prohibited them from handing out the folders. But Wilhelm said the two men could leave the material with him and he would announce its availability to students.

"This way, the student will not be forced by the presence of an adult to take material offensive to him or his religion," Wilhelm said.

Murray, who lives in Houston, was the plaintiff in a 1963 U.S. Supreme Court decision banning compulsory prayer and Bible reading from public schools.

Teen Leaders, Pizza Hut, Sept. 14 7 p.m.; Walcott, School, Sept. 15, Noon; Llano Estacado, CC, Sept. 21, 7 p.m.; Frio, Church, Sept. 21, 4:30 p.m.; Explorer 4-H'ers, game room CC, Sept. 22, 4 p.m.; and Showmanship, Lounge CC Sept. 28, 7 p.m. See ya there!

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

WPIX Fighting Networks Like David Against Goliath

NEW YORK (AP) — WPIX-TV's David has been fighting the network Goliath in entertainment since 1948 and in news for more than a year. Goliath certainly hasn't been brought to his knees; then, again, neither has David.

"We've had our victories; they're little but so are we," said Leavitt Pope, president and pioneer of WPIX in New York. "There's something to be said for not being a big corporate structure. It's nice to plan something in the morning, do it in the afternoon and watch it at night."

Already, WPIX' profitable Independent Network News has grown from 27 stations at birth in June 1980 to 69 "partners," as Pope calls the non-network stations receiving 30 minutes of news some three hours after Rather, Chancellor and Reynolds have said good night.

Plans call for two new INN-type programs in the fall: 30-minute noontime news and weekend interviews, called "From the Editors Desk," a la the networks' Meet the Newsmakers for Issues and Answers shows on Sunday.

INN is a cooperative, gathering news from its partners' local efforts, INN's bureaus in New York and Washington and several foreign news suppliers. It does not have the central identity of the Cable News Network, all-day news created by Ted Turner, another network thorn.

"Ted gets all the publicity, but we have many times more viewers," said Pope. CNN's cable systems can reach 8 million homes while INN's markets can touch 50 million. A daily average of 2 million households watched INN the last two weeks in August.

Over the same period, 26 million homes were tuned in to one of the three early evening network news broadcasts.

"The networks can out-do us anytime they want. They have the people and the resources," said Pope. "But we're providing our stations with a service they can't get anywhere else."

Independent stations borrow their philosophy from that old spray-hitter, Wee Willie Keeler. "Our game is hit 'em where they ain't," said Pope.

So when the networks are serving news at dinnertime, the indys are counter-programming with "M-A-S-H," "The Odd Couple" and "Happy Days." Pope out-bid the networks' stations in New York for "Laverne and Shirley" because WPIX could show it at 7 p.m., when more viewers are home, while the competition offered the less profitable 4 o'clock slot.

Movies and reruns are the independents' meat and potatoes, and these shows have proven viewer appeal, providing alternatives to the many network bombs. In the spring and summer, they do even better because the networks are repeating the bombs.

WPIX feeds its viewers news; it just comes later. INN goes to the stations at 9:30 Eastern time, and they air it at a variety of times. The network news broadcasts are offered to affiliates at 5:30, so late-breaking stories — the Kansas City hotel collapse, for example — received initial national TV exposure on INN.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

For nearly a decade now, parents have been trying to lure their children back to the traditional life...four years of college, marriage, a house in the suburbs and babies.

It was all so simple. If you know children at all, you know that all you had to do was to make the price on these things out of their reach.

Did you ever see a kid who would eat crab legs BEFORE he found out how much they cost? Or be interested in a sport until he saw the price tag on the equipment? Or play a musical instrument until he discovered there was only one harp-sichord teacher in the state?

It's the way kids are raised. If it doesn't have a price tag on it, it can't be worth much.

From the looks of the latest figures, I think we've seen the last of the college drop-outs who wanted time to "find who I am." Now that tuition, room and board are $10,000 a year with no signs of leveling off, I predict colleges and universities will be jammed.

I think we've seen the last of the flower children nomads who lived in communes (and flew first class) and believed the best things in life were free: indulgent parents. The price of an average home on the West Coast is $86,000 and still climbing.

As for babies, according to a report from Parents magazine, it costs a quarter of a million dollars to raise a child to the age of 18, not counting catsup. There is no reason to believe the cost will stabilize.

Without knowing it, what we have done is to give to our young people the poverty they so desperately need...the old American dream we all talked about and worked for, but was always out of our grasp. It's never been out of theirs before. The struggle has been missing from their lives.

I look forward to the next ten years, when this generation returns to the Ozzie and Harriet experience. What we're going to see is a return of graduates with pride on their faces...young marrieds working at staying together while they share their responsibilities, and young parents determined to give their children everything they didn't have. And the cycle begins again.

Ann Landers

Once a Bridesmaid...

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I will soon be a bridesmaid. When the wedding is over I will probably see very little of the bride. In fact, we may not even be on speaking terms. It's time someone wrote a letter to the brides of the world and explained why so few bridesmaids want to continue to being friends when the wedding is over. May I do so now?

Dear Close Friend: You have selected me to be a bridesmaid at your wedding. This is neither an honor nor a duty. It is a favor and an expensive one at that.

Repeatedly you say, "After all, it's MY wedding." This is supposed to justify the way you run roughshod over everyone with no consideration for their feelings, schedules or bank accounts. "It's MY wedding" means the bride may inflict any gown, no matter how inappropriate, on her bridesmaids. It means the bridesmaid must buy the gown, make it herself (few are so gifted) or have it made professionally. Almost always the dresses look so "bridesmaidly" they cannot be worn anywhere else. Then, of course, there must be shoes to match.

Bridesmaids are invited to all the showers, which means they must bring a gift. This is in addition to the "major" present. It would be a miracle to get by for less than $200.

We are the victims of your nervous attacks and we suffer with you through every emotional crisis. You seem to forget that even though it is YOUR wedding, we pay a big price in terms of time, energy, money and aggravation. Read this letter twice. I'm talking to YOU.—Wish It Were Over

DEAR WISH: I have received many letters complaining about the expense and inconvenience of being a member of the wedding party, but no one has ever laid it on the line as you have. Thanks for being so candid.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife is an avid reader of your column. It's a good thing we get you in our morning paper. By 5 o'clock she is so cockeyed drunk she could not read a word. Frequently she comments on what you have written. I hope you will publish my letter, so she can see how she looks in print. I am also eager to know if you have any advice for me.

"Bernice" is over 70. (We are the same age and have been married for many years). She joined AA and did quite well in it when we lived in another city. I wouldn't say she drank a lot less. When we moved to this area she decided to keep her drinking a secret and refused to join AA. Now she is inebriated every night, and I do all the marketing, cooking, cleaning and laundry. She staggers around in a daze and we have no companionship. A social life is out of the question.

I have attended a few local Al-Anon meetings, but this infuriated her—so I stopped going. Anything to keep the peace. Will you please tell me what to do short of moving out? After all these years, I just couldn't leave her.—Trapped And Miserable

DEAR T AND M: Get back with Al-Anon—no matter how abusive "Bernice" becomes. And stop doing things for her that she should be doing for herself. One of the ways to get drunks to straighten around is to refuse to cover for them. Insist that she accept responsibility for herself. Try it. You have nothing to lose. It sounds as if you have tried everything else. And please write and let me know how things are going.

Reunion Planned

Members of the planning committee for the upcoming telephone company employees reunion, met Sunday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Inez Witherspoon, 121 Greenwood, to make plans for the upcoming event.

Date set for the annual reunion is October 10th, at the Community Center. It will begin at 6 p.m. so that members of the group may visit with old friends, and meet new ones. A covered dish dinner will begin at 7 p.m. and allow time afterwards for more visiting and reminiscing about old times.

A scrap book has been started by the group and members are asked to bring pictures to be placed in it. As in previous years, a memory quilt made by those from last years' get-together will be on display. Members attending are also urged to bring some type of arts or crafts they do, or a white elephant to be traded.

Anyone with relatives living out of town who need to be contacted, or who have addresses of individuals employed by the telephone company at one time or another, are asked to call Mrs. Virginia Thomas at 364-2186.

Members attending were Rosemary Thomas, Virginia Thomas, Betty Driver, Lou Ann LaFever, Alene Montgomery, and Gwen London. Those unable to attend were Lurline Cawthon, Bobbie Riddle, and Evelyn Blankenship.

New WTSU Center

Bill Clayton, speaker of the Texas House of Representatives from the Springlake-Earth area, turns the first shovel of dirt for the Texas Conservation Center at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum on the West Texas State University campus. Joining him in the ground-

Speaker Clayton Among Those At Groundbreaking

Texas Speaker of the House Bill Clayton, who has been praised for his support of the Texas Conservation Center, was among the five men who broke ground for the center recently.

The Texas Conservation Center, which will be one of the few facilities in the nation for restoring priceless items and artifacts, received $1 million in appropriations from the Texas Legislature. The center will be constructed at the northeast corner of the annex of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum on the West Texas State University campus.

During groundbreaking ceremonies on Aug. 25, Clayton turned the first shovel of dirt with William C.

Griggs, director of the museum; George Arrington of Canadian, president of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society; WTSU President Max Sherman; and WTSU Regent Charles Schmidt of Amarillo.

Griggs said that Clayton became interested in the conservation center two years ago when the museum staff began restoring historic Texas flags such as the flag from the Battle of San Jacinto which hangs behind the speaker's podium in the House of Representatives chambers in Austin.

The state appropriations bill that year included $40,000 for the flag project which has been half completed. Griggs said the staff under the direction of Mary Frederickson, Chief Conservator, has restored 40 Texas historic flags housed in the state archives and items from the National Park Service.

The Texas Conservation Center will add 16,000 square feet to the museum. Ground was broken in July for the Don D. Harrington Petroleum Wing which will connect the main museum building with the annex.

The conservation facilities will enable Frederickson and her staff to restore art, textiles, paper, leather and wood among other items.

Clayton also spoke at the dedication of WTSU's newest building, Mary Moody Northen Hall, in 1977.

Engineers Work To Save Loggerhead Turtle

KIAWAH ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — A quarter century ago, Caretta Caretta skittered her dollar-sized shell and outsized flippers over the Kiawah sand, dodged past the hungry seagulls and plunged into the surf.

Since that day she has cruised the Atlantic and Caribbean without once touching land. This summer she is back.

In a homecoming as relentless as the sea itself, she comes in at night on the high tide and heaves her gasping 400-pound body up the beach where Chris Hutton waits for her under the stars.

Caretta Caretta is what zoologists call the Atlantic Loggerhead turtle, a species of giant seagoing reptiles which appears on coastlines of both Americas, Australia and Africa.

Starting its reproductive cycle at age 20 to 25, and every couple of years after that, the female Loggerhead needs a little land to reproduce.

Each summer, for millennia longer than anyone has been here to notice, about 100 of these determined beasts have dragged themselves ashore on Kiawah Island to scoop out their nests in the sand and lay their eggs.

Raccoons and sand crabs have always been here to root out many of the tasty caches, but in recent years the Loggerhead has encountered its most serious enemy in man.

Ocean front development is eating away at the secluded beaches the turtles need for their nesting. Kiawah is a happy exception, and Chris Hutton is one of the reasons.

By day, Hutton is an engineer and development project manager for Kiawah Island Co., but at night he supervises one of the nation's best efforts to remove Caretta Caretta from the endangered species list.

"Ours is the most scientific program around," he boasted. "We document everything, because we have the manpower to do it. And we patrol every night."

The Kiawah program, conducted under a federal Fish and Wildlife permit, is simple.

Every night from May to October, Hutton and three assistants take turns patrolling the beach. When they spot the telltale crawl marks in the sand, they follow them to the nest, where the female has used her hind flippers to scoop a 2-foot-deep hollow, deposited 100-150 eggs and then filled and packed the hole.

Sometimes the turtle is still on the nest, and Hutton can catch the round white eggs as they fall. If the turtle is gone, he digs up the nest.

The eggs are reburied in an area screened from predators. Sixty days later, Caretta Caretta's tiny offspring will dig their way to the surface, and their Kiawah friends will usher them safely into the surf.

"The program has collected 50,000 eggs since 1975, and more than 28,000 hatchlings have been returned to the sea," Hutton said. "The natural survival rate is only 4 or 5 percent."

Some time after the turn of the century, some of this year's hatchlings will find their way back to South Carolina's barrier islands, and a few may land at Kiawah to lay their eggs.

"They come to the same general area where they were born," Hutton said. "Most probably don't make it to the same beach, but we don't really know for sure."

Kiawah Island, a dense wilderness of palmetto and oak where resort hotels, condominiums and private homes are springing up fast, has long been known for its special efforts to preserve its natural heritage.

"The company recognized from the start that it's engineers who are most likely to hurt the environment during development, so they gave the engineers responsibility for doing exactly the opposite," Hutton said.

As a result, wooden walkways protect the sand dunes, roads curve to avoid gnarled oaks and chestnut trees, wildlife is carefully protected and about 4,000 of the island's 10,000 acres of marshes, beaches and thick forests will remain as they are.

All these goals are contained in a vast environmental master plan from the days before development on the island began. The Loggerhead preservation effort is part of the plan, but Hutton thinks the program may eventually do more than just save baby turtles.

"Turtles from here have been seen in the Caribbean, but we really don't know how far they migrate or where they go," he said.

"This year we're taking scrapings from their shells to try and find out. There's barnacles, jelly balls, little creatures of all kinds. They're almost like miniature sea farms, and you can almost tell where they've been from the material on their backs."

Hutton and his program are already winning some recognition for their turtle work.

"When the Fish and Wildlife director for the whole region calls you up to ask you what you think about proposed regulations that affect turtles, it makes you think you're doing something worthwhile," he said.

The Consumer Alert
by Mark White

AUSTIN—There is nothing more important than good health, and modern technology now offers medication to insure healthier Americans in numbers that were unheard of even 25 or 30 years ago. However, with all the advantages of these new drugs come new dangers. For instance, some food and drug combinations may impede the drug's effectiveness, while still other combinations can be quite hazardous to health, or perhaps even fatal.

The Consumer Information Center in Pueblo, Colorado offers an informative pamphlet, Food and Drug Interactions, which lists combinations of food and medication which should be avoided. A free copy of this article may be obtained by sending a postcard to: Consumer Information Center, Dept. 571J Pueblo, CO 81009.

Persons taking medication for depression or high blood pressure should pay particularly close attention to their diet since it has been discovered that nonamine oxidase (MAO) inhibitors often prescribed for the above mentioned ailments react adversely with tyramine, a substance found in foods such as chicken livers, sausages, and wines. Such reactions are extremely dangerous because they may cause the blood pressure to soar to health risking heights, causing severe headaches, brain hemorrhages, and even death. An especially intense reaction has been observed when MAO inhibitors are combined with aged cheese or certain types of red wine. Therefore, it is generally recommended that persons taking such medication also avoid aged or fermented foods, sharp or aged cheeses and bananas, as well as cola beverages, coffee, and chocolate. Different medications react differently with various foods and other drugs. Always consult a physician if you experience unusual symptoms after eating certain foods, and don't be afraid to ask questions before taking the medication if you have any doubts. Make sure you know whether the drug should be taken on an empty stomach or after a meal, and if alcoholic beverages should be avoided when taking such medication. Another question to ask is, "Does it increase my need for specific foods or nutrients?" Some medications do deplete specific vitamins creating a need to eat more of a certain food or take a vitamin supplement.

Remember to get the details from your doctor along with the prescription. Simple details such as whether to take the tablet with water or milk can be important. After all, it's your health.

Fossils of flowering plants 165 million years old have been found.

JULY 1981

Dear Pat Walker's

At 264 pounds I was miserable. When a friend suggested that we go to Pat Walker's for a free figure analysis and complimentary treatment on their exercise unit I thought it was worth the try.

I had lost weight before but always gained it back along with some extra until things were really out of hand.

When the pounds and inches began to come off I could hardly believe it. I did not have to give up my favorite foods either.

I was never embarrassed to go in for my sessions or counseling because the service is individual and private.

Well, after 14 months here I am... 115 pounds lighter and 118 inches smaller. My dress size went from a 22 to a 10. I can really enjoy shopping for clothes now.

I am not finished with my program but I know that within a few more months I will reach my goal. This time I will be able to keep those pounds off. That's the best part.

WEEKLY ATHLETIC SAFETY TIPS

1. Monterey at 2. Canyon

In all racket sports (tennis, squash, racket ball, etc.), special care should be taken to avoid possible eye injuries. Since the popularity of these games has increased recently, the number of eye injuries across the country have risen at an alarming rate. Some type of eye protection, whether it be safety glasses or goggles, should be worn when playing these particular sports.

James Salinas . . . Hereford Golf Champ

Salinas Wins Men's Golf Tourney

BY BOB NIGH
Managing Editor
James Salinas took the lead for good with a birdie on the 15th hole Sunday, and overcame the shock of a double-bogey on the 16th, to regain the Hereford Men's City Golf championship as he outlasted three other challengers for a two-stroke win.

Salinas, who finished second to Kelly Kitchens last year after winning the title in 1979, posted a 36-hole score of 148 for the championship as Kitchens and Bob Baker finished tied for second with 150 totals, and Terry Russell was close behind with a 151.

"I don't think any of us played that good," Salinas said following the tourney. "But, there are enough good golfers in Hereford to make this tournament exciting each year."

The final four holes provided plenty of fireworks for the two-day tourney. Salinas escaped with a birdie on the 15th, while Baker carded a bogey, and Russell missed a two-footer which would have put him in second place, settling for a par on the 440-yard hole.

Salinas, Baker and Russell all double-bogeyed the par four, 420-yard 16th, allowing Kitchens, who trailed the leaders by four shots heading into the final holes, to close the gap.

Salinas hit tee shot on the 17th into the rough, but a sterling chip shot left him eight feet short of the cup, and he putted the ball into the hole for a par.

Baker bogeyed the final hole to drop him back into a tie with the charging Kitchens, and Salinas parred the 18th for the two-shot win.

Other winners in the tournament included Mike Fields (74-73-147) in the first flight; J.A. McWhorter (76-81-157) in the second flight; George Ochs (84-84-168) in the third flight; and Ted McWhorter (94-94-190) in the fourth flight.

McWhorter was tied with Ismael Moreno (94-94-190) for the fourth flight lead after 36 holes, but won the title on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff.

Gold Sox Clinch Berth In Texas League Playoffs

By The Associated Press
The Amarillo Gold Sox clinched the final berth for the Texas League playoffs Monday night when the San Antonio Dodgers dropped the first game of their doubleheader with the Midland Cubs, but the Gold Sox didn't know about it until after they edged the El Paso Diablos, 3-2.

Amarillo will face San Antonio, the first half champion in the Texas League Western Division playoffs in 3-game series. Tulsa, winner of the second half title in the Texas League Eastern Division, will meet the first half champion Jackson Mets in the other preliminary playoff series.

In other Texas League action, Shreveport shut out Arkansas, 6-0, Jackson edged Tulsa, 9-8, in 13 innings and Midland and San Antonio split their doubleheader. Midland took the opener, 5-2, and San Antonio won the nightcap, 8-1.

The Gold Sox took their victory over the Diablos on an unearned run when Aaron Cain, who reached first on a fielder's choice, scored from first when Ron Tingley's single was misplayed by El Paso outfielder Bob Skube.

The Amarillo manager said he knew the team had clinched the second half title, but didn't tell the team until after the game.

Ron Gausepohl had three hits in three plate appearances and Tony Gwynn had two hits in five trips to the plate for Amarillo.

Syd Church, 3-4, was the winning pitcher. Mike Barba got his fifth save of the season. The loser was Jim Koontz, 5-6. Carmello Martinez had a two-run homer as the Midland Cubs beat the San Antonio Dodgers, 5-2, in the first game of a doubleheader.

The winning pitcher was Randy Clark, 8-10. The loser was Chris Malden, 7-7. Greg Brock slugged his 32nd homer of the season as the Dodgers bounced back for an 8-1 victory in the nightcap. Brock's homer was a solo and set a club season record for homers.

Randy LaVigne had a solo homer for Midland. Mike Glinatsis, 5-5, who limited Midland to three hits, was the winning pitcher. Henry Mack, 4-5, was the loser.

A throwing error allowed the tying and winning runs to score in the bottom of the 13th inning as the Jackson Mets slipped past the Tulsa Drillers, 9-8.

Tulsa pitcher Dennis Long made a throwing error when Shake Moore hit a sacrifice fly, allowing Al Pedrique and Greg Pastors to score both the tying and winning runs.

Ed Cuervo had a two-run homer for Jackson.

Cockroft, Pastorini Get Ax On Final Cut Day

BY TOM CANAVAN
Associated Press Writer

Don Cockroft and Dan Pastorini saw the "you're expendable" writing on the wall early. So did Fred Dryer, but a funny thing happened to Dryer's message. Someone erased it.

Cockroft, who holds many of the Cleveland Browns kicking records, and Pastorini, the Oakland Raiders veteran reserve quarterback, were two of the more notable players who received their walking papers Monday as the National Football League's 28 teams cut their rosters to the opening day 45-man limit.

Dryer was a little luckier. The 35-year-old defensive end had said last week he had been told by Los Angeles Rams Coach Ray Malavasi that he would be cut. He wasn't.

Cockroft was one of three players waived by Cleveland. Sam Rutigliano termed it, "One of the hardest things I've had to do since I became head coach."

But the move didn't surprise Cockroft, who missed 3-of-6 extra points and 3-of-4 field goal attempts during this preseason and was made expendable by the fine kicking of free agent Dave Jacobs.

Cockroft missed a crucial field goal attempt in the second-round playoff game against Oakland last season and the Browns elected to go for a touchdown late in the fourth quarter instead of letting Cockroft kick a potential game-winning three pointer. The Raiders eventually won the game played in bitter cold weather 14-12.

The Browns also released fourth-year running back Terry Miller, who gained over 1,000 yards one of those seasons with Buffalo.

Pastorini, who was acquired by the Raiders last season in a straight deal for Kenny Stabler, played just five games with Oakland last year before breaking a leg. Jim Plunkett then took over and led the Raiders to the Super Bowl title.

That made Pastorini, in his 11th season, expendable. "I guess I'll just wait and see if somebody picks me up," said Pastorini, told of the move by Raiders Coach Tom Flores Monday.

The Raiders also released veteran wide receiver Rich Martini and linebacker Greg Bracelin.

In Anaheim, Calif., where Dryer will remain for the time being, the Rams released former No.1 draft pick Elvis Peacock, the Oklahoma running back, and three other players.

But Dryer, who was told he was staying on Sunday, was the story.

"Why would they order me back to a team that has openly and blatantly stated they don't want me here. These people are insensitive and inhuman to allow this to happen in the first place," said Dryer.

While Dryer was blowing off some steam, trade winds were filtering through other parts of the country.

The New Orleans Saints shipped fullback Tony Galbreath to the Minnesota Vikings, the San Francisco 49ers sent veteran signalcaller Steve DeBerg to the Denver Broncos and the Miami Dolphins traded punter George Roberts to the San Diego Chargers—all for future draft choices.

Galbreath, for all practical purposes, lost his job when the Saints drafted Heisman Trophy winner George Rogers No.1.

The Broncos got DeBerg to be a backup for Craig Morton and released second-year reserve quarterback Jeff Knapple. DeBerg, who started for the 49ers in 1979 and most of last season, set an NFL record of 578 pass attempts with 347 completions in 1979.

Roberts, who was fourth among NFL punters last season, was traded because he took one too many steps for the Dolphins purposes. They kept two-step punter Tom Orosz of Ohio State instead.

The Dolphins also placed linebacker Thomas 'Hollywood' Henderson, the former Dallas Cowboys showoff, on the injured reserve list. He suffered a neck injury in Miami's last preseason game.

Tim Mazzetti, the former bartender who became a standout placekicker for Atlanta, was one of four players cut by the Falcons, who elected to let rookie Mick Luckhurst handle the placekicking.

Dallas traded third-year cornerback Aaron Mitchell to the Bucs for an undisclosed draft choice and placed veteran center John Fitzgerald on injured reserve.

Detroit cut third-year fullback Bo Robinson and four others, including offensive lineman Burton Lawless. The Lions also put linebacker Steve Towle on injured reserve.

The Chicago Bears released four players, including rookie kicker Hans Nielsen, who had kicked during the preseason but was sent packing after regular kicker Bob Thomas recovered from a leg injury.

The Baltimore Colts released placekicker Obed Arii and acquired placekicker Mike Wood from the Chargers for a draft choice.

San Francisco also sent wide receiver James Owens to Tampa Bay for running back Johnny Davis and waived four players, including seven-year defensive end Jimmy Webb and rookie Alabama running back Major Oglvie.

Kansas City waived four players—six-year tackle Brad Oates and three free agents. The Chiefs also placed wide receiver Ron Washington, a fourth-round draft pick, on the injured reserve list.

Elsewhere, the defending National Conference champion Philadelphia Eagles placed five on waivers, including tight end Greg LaFleur, their No.3 draft pick this season.

New England traded defensive back Bill Currier to the New York Giants and cut four other players. The Patriots also placed linebacker Larry McGrew, wide receiver Preston Brown, and offensive lineman Ron Wooten on injured reserve.

Meanwhile, the Giants waived five players—defensive back Lyle Blackwood, wide receiver Alvin Garrett, offensive lineman Terry Falcon, running back Cedric Brownlee and defensive back Jerome King.

Buffalo got down to the 45-man limit by releasing wide receiver Lou Piccone, quarterbacks David Humm and Dan Manucci, tight end Reuben Gant and punter Greg Cator.

The New York Jets placed fullback Clark Gaines, who missed most of last season with a broken leg, on the injured reserve list. The Jets also waived four players, including veteran receiver Paul Darby.

Who Am I?

Do you remember June 8, 1968? I do. That day I broke a record that Walter Johnson had set 55 years before. But my luck also ran out that day against the Phillies. It was late in my career, too. After the next season, I was gone.

ANSWER: Don Drysdale, who won 209 games for the Dodgers (1956-69) and pitched a record of 58 2/3 scoreless innings in a row.

Heavy rain

When seven inches of rain fell within 30 minutes at Cambridge, Ohio, one day in July 1914, the air was so full of water that anyone stepping outside found it virtually impossible to breathe. It was one of the most severe rainstorms ever recorded in the United States.

Is Howser The Spark?

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — It remains to be seen whether Manager Dick Howser will be the spark needed to rekindle the fortunes of the Kansas City Royals.

But Jim Frey's efforts, in the opinion of many of the Royals, had been as effective as a book of wet matches.

"Hopefully this will turn us around and get us playing the way we're capable of playing," said pitcher Rich Gale. "Because we haven't been playing like champions, the way we can."

Howser, fired by the New York Yankees after losing three straight games to Kansas City in the 1980 American League playoffs, was named manager of the Royals on Monday.

He promised a more aggressive offense than the Royals had shown under Frey, who was fired after the defending AL champions had stumbled to a 20-30 mark before the players' strike and were 10-10 since play resumed.

"I like the speed on the ballclub," said Howser, 45. "One thing this ballclub is going to have to do to win, I think, is run, run, run. They can't clubs out of the ballpark — if they get on base."

Howser was given a three-year contract, the longest any Royals manager has ever received. Frey, who was hired in October 1979, had been given a new one-year pact shortly before the end of last season.

Howser had one year remaining on his contract to manage the Yankees and had another year to go on his contract as a scout for New York owner George Steinbrenner's organization.

The low-key Howser, who led the Yankees to a 103-59 record in his only full season as New York manager, promised a smooth transition but said he preferred a set lineup to Frey's platoon system.

Monday night, before the Royals lost 5-1 to Milwaukee, he named John Wathan the No. 1 catcher, returned U.L. Washington to shortstop and said he would stay with a five-man pitching rotation.

The dejected Kansas City one game below .500, but only one game behind Oakland in the AL West and still solidly in the running for a playoff berth.

The dismissal left Frey "stunned," according to General Manager Joe Burke, who met with Howser last Friday in Kansas City and informed Frey of his decision Monday morning.

Burke, who is undergoing chemotherapy treatment for cancer of the lymph glands, said he had been thinking of a managerial change after the Royals lost two of three games with Toronto two weeks ago.

SPORTS TALK:
CARL HUBBELL

Carl Hubbell, 78, a Hall of Fame pitcher, won 253 games for the New York Giants (1928-1943). As the National League starter in the 1934 All-Star Game, he is renowned for striking out five Hall of Famers consecutively. After he left the game with a 4-0 lead, the American League rallied to win 9-7.

How does the 1934 All-Star Game — when you fanned Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Jimmie Foxx, Al Simmons and Joe Cronin in a row — compare to your other baseball memories?

It has to be No. 1. Because anything that is the least expected — and this one was — has to stand out. When it happened, it not only stood out in my mind, but it stood out in people's minds. That I would be able to strike out those batters in a row had to be one of the most unexpected things to ever happen in baseball.

The American League obviously had a powerful lineup. Before the game, were you nervous about who you were about to face?

Yes, I sure was. I pitched in the first All-Star Game (in 1933) in Chicago. But I didn't start that one; I finished it. The game came to the Polo Grounds in 1934. My manager, Bill Terry, was the manager of the National League. He told me I was going to start.

How did you run into trouble in the first inning?
I actually started off bad. Charlie Gehring singled and then Lou Gehrig, Jimmie Foxx, Al Simmons and Joe Cronin in a row — compare to your other baseball memories?

It has to be No. 1. Because anything that is the least expected — and this one was — has to stand out. When it happened, it not only stood out in my mind, but it stood out in people's minds. That I would be able to strike out those batters in a row had to be one of the most unexpected things to ever happen in baseball.

Did anything special go on in the dugout after you struck out Ruth, Gehrig and Fox in the first inning?

During the ballgame nothing at all went on in the dugout. They wait till the game's over because you never know what's going to happen later. I don't remember anyone coming up to me during the game. I didn't want them to. I just wanted to sit there and concentrate on the next inning.

AL Roundup

Mariners Break Losing Skein

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

"I got the game ball," said Manager Rene Lachemann after Monday night's 4-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles. "We're going to autograph it and send it to Cooperstown."

If Lachemann sent the ball to the Hall of Fame, it wouldn't surprise too many people. The victory snapped a 10-game losing streak for the Mariners and signaled a time for euphoria — and jokes — in their locker room.

"It was nice to shake hands with everybody," said Lachemann. "A lot of the guys I haven't met for a couple of weeks."

Lenny Randle, a player not known for the long ball, surprised most everyone by hitting a two-out shot in the ninth for Seattle's winning run.

"I always close my eyes when I hit one out," said the high-spirited third baseman. "I never see them. I'm just afraid it's going to rain and I'll lose it."

Added Randle: "I was just trying to put the ball in play, to get on base and let the 'animals' hit the ball out."

In other AL action Monday night, it was Milwaukee 5, Kansas City 1; Boston 4, California 1; New York 7, Minnesota 0; Oakland 5, Cleveland 3; Toronto 3, Texas 0 and Detroit 3, Chicago 1.

Randle connected on a 1-0 delivery from Sammy Stewart, 3-5. It was Randle's third hit of the game and his third RBI.

"It was a fastball that didn't have a lot on it," said Stewart, who allowed only three hits in 71-3 innings of otherwise strong relief pitching. "I got two quick outs and I went 1-0 on him. I wanted to hit the plate so I wouldn't go 2-0 and give in to Paciorek (Tom Paciorek, the next batter). I thought, 'Let him hit the ball,' and Lenny did."

The winner was Larry Andersen, 2-3, who replaced Seattle starter Ken Clay after Ken Singleton drew a walk to open the eighth. Andersen fanned Eddie Murray and then got John Lowenstein to ground into a double play. A two-run homer by John Lowenstein, who had snapped an 0-15 streak in his previous at-bat, pulled the Orioles into a 3-3 tie in the sixth.

Brewers 5, Royals 1
Ben Oglivie hit a two-run homer and Mike Caldwell gained his 100th career victory as Milwaukee beat Kansas City and spoiled Dick Howser's debut as the Royals' manager. Oglivie's first-inning homer was his eighth of the season and his third straight extra base hit off Royals starter Dennis Leonard, 7-9.

Caldwell, 9-7, scattered six hits and walked three before giving way to Reggie Cleveland in the seventh inning. Rollie Fingers, pitched the final 21-3 innings to record his 20th save of the season, tops in the AL.

Howser was managing his first game for the Royals in the wake of Jim Frey's firing earlier Monday.

Red Sox 4, Angels 1
Carl Yastrzemski triggered two run-scoring innings with hits and Dennis Eckersley scattered seven hits in leading Boston over California. Yastrzemski singled and eventually scored the tying run on a groundout by Dave

NL Roundup

Schmidt Leads Phils

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

The hustle of a player such as Pete Rose can make a big difference in a ballgame, even when the ball is flying out of the park all night.

The Philadelphia Phillies blasted four home runs in their 11-8 victory over Atlanta Monday night, while the Braves got a grand slam from Glenn Hubbard. One of the sluggers was Mike Schmidt, who clubbed his 23rd homer of the season, a three-run blast in the fifth inning that put the Phillies ahead to stay.

But Schmidt said a seemingly insignificant play by Rose set up his big home run.

With the Phillies trailing 4-2, Rose and Bake McBride hit consecutive singles with one out, and Rose hustled to third when center fielder Dale Murphy bobbled the ball. With a runner on third with one out, Schmidt felt free to swing from the heels.

Schmidt's blast gave the Phillies a 5-4 lead, and Keith Moreland immediately followed with another homer.

Lonnie Smith and Luis Aguayo also hit solo homers as the Phillies pounded out 17 hits and stopped a six-game losing streak, their longest since 1976.

In other National League games, Cincinnati edged Montreal 9-8, Houston tripped the New York Mets 6-1, San Diego beat Chicago 4-1 and Pittsburgh nipped Los Angeles 5-4 in 10 innings.

The Phillies needed all the hustling and slugging they could get because their starter, All-Star Dick Ruthven, 10-5, was struggling.

Dallas Green celebrated his second anniversary as the Phillies' manager with the victory, only the seventh in 20 games in the second season for the Phillies, who were division winners in the first half.

Gaylord Perry, 6-5, who gave up the homers to Smith, Schmidt and Moreland, made his fifth unsuccessful attempt for his seventh victory of the season and the 296th of his career.

Aguayo ignited a three-run Philadelphia sixth with his home run off John Montefusco, who also gave up a sacrifice fly to McBride and a run-scoring single to Moreland.

Reds 9, Expos 8
Ray Knight, held out of Cincinnati's starting lineup because of a sore foot, singled in the winning run in the bottom of the ninth inning after Montreal had come back from an 8-3 deficit to tie the Toronto beat Texas. Stieb, who had a 6.39 earned run average against the Rangers in 12 innings this year, earned his seventh victory against nine losses while game 8-8. Andre Dawson hit two solo homers, Tim Lincecum knocked in three runs with a single and a double and John Milner homered to pace the Expos, who swept a three-game series with the Reds last week by a combined score of 27-1.

Astros 6, Mets 1
Houston took over sole possession of first place in the NL West, taking advantage of three costly New York errors and getting a complete game from Don Sutton.

After Jose Cruz doubled home a run in the first, the Astros added two unearned runs in that inning on consecutive errors by Mets first baseman Dave Kingman.

New York made it 3-1 in the third on Lee Mazzilli's solo homer, but an error by second baseman Doug Flynn gave Houston another unearned run in the fifth.

Padres 4, Cubs 1
Steve Mura pitched the first complete game for San Diego in 25 games (since June 7), hurling a six-hitter and striking out nine Chicago batters.

Dave Edwards knocked in two runs with a homer and a sacrifice fly as the Padres won for only the fifth time in 22 games since the second season started.

Ferguson Jenkins dipped to 6-7. Stieb struck out three and walked one in his route-giving performance.

Tigers 3, White Sox 1
Steve Kemp lashed a two-run triple and Kirk Gibson extended his hitting streak to 10 games with a pair of singles and scored on a single by Al Cowens to lead Detroit over Chicago.

Mill Wilcox, 9-5, was the winner and turned in his fifth complete game with a five-hitter. Ross Baumgarten, 5-7, was the loser despite being backed by a triple play in the second inning.

Yankees 7, Twins 0
Oscar Gamble hit his 10th homer of the year and Barry Foote keyed a four-run sixth inning with a two-run single as New York routed Minnesota. Gamble's towering homer in the third inning gave New York a 2-0 lead and the Yankees broke the game open against loser Al Williams, 3-7, with four runs in the sixth.

Dave Righetti, 4-2, stopped the Twins on three hits in eight innings to win his first game of the second season. Rich Gossage pitched the ninth for the Yankees.

Rodeo Winners

These three members of the HHS Rodeo team helped the squad to the first-place team trophy at Sunray last weekend. Holding the trophy is Shawn McConnell, who also took

Rodeo Team Cops First

The HHS Rodeo Team began the 1981-82 season on a winning note last weekend at Sunray, taking the high-point team trophy on the basis of three first places and a second place finish.

Steve McConnell was a double winner for Hereford, with titles in team roping and steer wrestling. Shawn McConnell teamed with brother, Steve in team roping, while Mike Butcher places second in bareback riding.

In addition, Hereford got points from Rita Ward, who placed fifth in barrels and sixth in breakaway roping.

Other members of the HHS team this year are Karen Milton, Kirk Sparkman, Brian Lady, Brett Baldwin, Robert Esqueda, and Scott Wilcox.

Next action for the team will come in Pampa, Sept. 26-27.

It's Pay For Play At Bethel Park High

PITTSBURGH (AP) — High school football teams will soon be defending the athletic honor of Lions and Tigers and Bears across the land. At halftime, marching bands will swarm on the gridiron in high-stepping splendor.

Off the field, math club members will twist Rubik's Cubes, and choruses will begin practicing for Christmas concerts.

Extracurricular activities are the icing on America's academic cake. In most communities, they are taken for granted.

BUT in suburban Bethel Park, students this year will pay to play. For the first time, kids who want to participate in various activities are being charged users' fees.

"Why? Our taxes are very high and we're trying to do anything we can to avoid raising them further," athletic director Joe Lodge said.

"Some school districts have flat out eliminated their extracurricular activities because they simply don't have ways to fund them," he added.

Lodge was referring to Massachusetts, where voters approved Proposition 2½ last November. That tax-cutting measure, has reduced municipal revenues by $500 million this year. In the schools, non-academic activities and courses are bearing the brunt.

"We're trying to avoid that panic situation. We thought it would be a good idea to get a jump on what appears to be a trend," Lodge said in a telephone interview.

The fee varies with the activity. Football is the most expensive at $35 per student. Boys' basketball is $32, girls' volleyball $10. Most non-athletic programs, like the astronomy club and the student newspaper, cost a nominal $1 or $2.

Lodge said the amount of equipment and supplies used was the criterion for setting the rates.

Frank Lavelle, director of business affairs, said Bethel Park spent about $265,000 on non-academic activities last year. The figure includes salaries and supplies.

The fees will bring in an estimated $15,000 to $18,000. "That was enough to be significant, but not so much in an opening year that it would be outrageous," Lodge said.

The Bethel Park School District, which has a student population of 6,400, is located in an affluent community in the rolling hills south of Pittsburgh.

Parents look upon the district's education and recreation program with pride. The school also excels in athletics. The football team, 9-3 last year, was the western Pennsylvania runner-up in its category. The basketball and baseball teams won their conferences and both the boys' and girls' swimming teams won the state championships last year.

Fans Tiring Of Bronx Zoo

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

They're picking up the debris from the latest fallout in the Bronx Zoo, Yankee Stadium branch, and the postmortems are intriguing.

"The whole thing's a ploy," charges one TV sportscaster. "George Steinbrenner was sore because the Mets were getting the headlines, so he created some waves to get back in the news — slick deal."

"George told (Manager) Gene 'Stick' Michael to come out with that 'Fire-me-now' blast to take the heat off Reggie's slump," says another.

"Reggie is finished," reasons a columnist in a full-page newspaper spread. "He is through as a Yankee." Mr. October, at 35, is drained of his fire and skills and no longer packs any gate appeal, the man says. Goodbye, Reggie.

"Reggie through? Baloney," snaps a TV defender. "A guy doesn't hit .300, blast 41 homers and knock in 111 runs, then suddenly go into a tailspin. Decay is more gradual than that."

"George does it again," says a newspaper commentator, insisting that the boss saw his minions getting too complacent so he pulled this whole charade to shake them up — a psychological homer.

"I found out one thing," says Phil Rizzuto, onetime star Yankee shortstop and now a broadcaster for the team. "It's George, not Reggie, who is the stick that stirs the drink."

Whatever the reasons, Steinbrenner, heavy-handed millionaire principal owner of the Yankees, can take little comfort in the whirlwind of events, whether or not of his making.

The public is bored with this stuck needle rendition of boss-manager confrontations. They had it up to their Adam's apple a couple of years ago when George was alternately firing and rehiring the pugilistic Billy Martin and shifting sides in the notorious Martin-Jackson feuds.

Furthermore, the clubhouse is seething with resentment. Almost unanimously, players have rallied behind Michael in his gutsy standup to the boss, a move none of the previous six skippers — not even Billy, the saloon fighter — had the gumption to do. They are outraged at Steinbrenner's latest threat to make an eighth managerial change in nine years. While they're playing their hearts out, the club house remains in turmoil.

This is not what George Steinbrenner III, successful ship builder, hard-nosed business executive, former college coach and baseball buff, had in mind when he bought the controlling interest in the Yankees in 1973 and began barreling out millions of dollars to rebuild the fading Yankee tradition.

Steinbrenner's expressed aim was to make the Yankees the kings of the game, worthy to play in the cleat marks of the Babe Ruths, Joe DiMaggios and Mickey Mantles. He succeeded.

But his ego, fierce competitiveness and pride overruled his better judgment. Instead of establishing himself as the man who restored the dignity of Yankee pinstripes, he is in danger of going down in history as the tyrannical keeper of the "Bronx Zoo," a name latched on the embroiled Yankees by a disenchanted reliever, Sparky Lyle.

"Because I offer life, health, home and car insurance, I get to know my policyholders and their needs."

And that makes it easier for me to give good advice on the right kind and amount of coverages. CALL ME.

IRS Studies All Investment Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service is looking at the full range of investment programs tied to the new tax-free All Savers Certificates to determine whether they skirt congressional guidelines.

Officials said there is no indication when the IRS will issue a final ruling on the tax consequences of the advance investments programs, which offer high interest rates or cash bonuses for money put into an institution prior to establishment of the savings certificate on Oct. 1.

"We're putting our heads together and looking at all the issues," IRS spokeswoman Ellen Murphy said Monday. "Until we've finished studying that, we won't be able to say what the tax consequences for any of them will be."

In an unusual Saturday statement, the IRS warned savers that they may risk losing the tax benefits on the new certificates if they put their money into investment packages that tie high-yield, short-term instruments to the certificates. As promoted by some banks, money invested in those packages automatically would be placed into the lower paying savings certificates on Oct. 1.

Many banks and savings and loan associations on Monday temporarily suspended bonus programs tied to All Savers Certificates because of confusion over the IRS warning.

Meanwhile, federal banking regulators advised banks and savings and loans that savers could shift their outstanding six-month money market certificates into the All Savers Certificate without paying early withdrawal penalties.

The new one-year certificate, designed to help the battered savings and loan industry, was authorized by Congress as part of the recent tax cut. They will be available beginning Oct. 1 for a 15-month period, with the interest rate equal to 70 percent of the rate on one-year Treasury bills.

A maximum of $1,000 in interest — $2,000 for married couples — will be exempt from federal income tax.

Regulations governing the certificates may be issued this week by the Depository Institutions Deregulation Committee, Treasury Department spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said.

IRS officials are primarily concerned that the widely advertised investment packages could be viewed for tax purposes as a single transaction and therefore not in compliance with the congressional definition of the All Savers Certificate. As a single package, it could exceed the maximum interest allowed for the certificate and the one-year time period.

The IRS warning prompted complaints from trade groups, counting on the savings certificate to give a boost to their financially ailing industries.

Savings banks officials were said to be "shocked" by the tax agency statement, according to the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks. "A ruling reassuring depositors regarding the tax-free status" of the new certificates "should be issued at once," the trade group said.

AUSTIN—During the regular and special sessions, the Legislature approved seven proposed constitutional amendments which will appear on the Nov. 3, 1981 general election ballot.

Most of them are related to tax relief and development of natural resources.

The amendments, in the order they will appear on the ballot, are:

Proposition One
SJR 8—Authorizes local governments to improve, develop, or redevelop certain areas through property tax relief and the issuance of bonds and notes.

Proposition Two
HJR 117—Authorizes the Land Commissioner to issue patents for certain public free school fund land held in good faith under color of title for at least 50 years as of Nov. 15, 1981.

In effect, the General Land Office could issue a patent to clear up the title problems of a Leon County rancher who believed he had bought his land 50 years ago. However, errors going back to the Republic of Texas clouded the title.

Proposition Three
HJR 38—Allows the Legislature to grant to a state finance management committee the power to manage the expenditure of certain appropriated funds.

The amendment, by Rep. Bob Simpson of Amarillo, would create a "state finance management committee" composed of the governor, lieutenant governor, speaker of the House and chairman and vice chairman of the House Appropriations and Senate Finance committees.

Proposition Four
HJR 6—Authorizes the use of part of the state surplus revenues to develop water related projects; authorizes state credit to guarantee bonds of local governments for water-related projects; increases the interest rate that may be paid on previously approved but unissued state bonds; and authorizes a program to retire state bonds.

This is the "water trust fund" amendment sponsored by House Speaker Bill Clayton, intended to put surplus money to use solving future water needs.

Proposition Five
HJR 49—Include livestock and poultry with the types of farm products which are exempt from taxation.

This amendment will clarify confusion in existing law which already exempts "farm products" from property taxes.

Argument has occurred over whether livestock and poultry are to be included as "farm products," and a 1976 Attorney General's opinion concluded the issue is questionable.

Highly sought by the agriculture sector, this amendment would mean an estimated $6 million to $10 million tax break in local property taxes for farmers.

Proposition Six
HJR 81—Authorizes local governments to provide property tax relief for owners of residence homesteads and changes certain property tax administrative procedures.

It would allow a minimum $5,000 exemption, unless the Legislature votes otherwise, with an exemption of up to 40 percent between 1982 and 1984, 30 percent for 1985 through 1987, and 20 percent in 1988 and thereafter.

Proposition Seven
HJR 4—Authorizes additional bonds to finance the Veteran's Land Program and to increase the maximum interest rate (from 6 to 10 percent) allowable on Veteran's Land Fund bonds.

The emergency measure was passed when Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong notified the Legislature the land fund was running out of loan money.

Clayton Says "Resign"
House Speaker Bill Clayton last week told the press that Rep. Mike Martin, R-Longview, should resign his office to save the Legislature and colleagues further embarrassment.

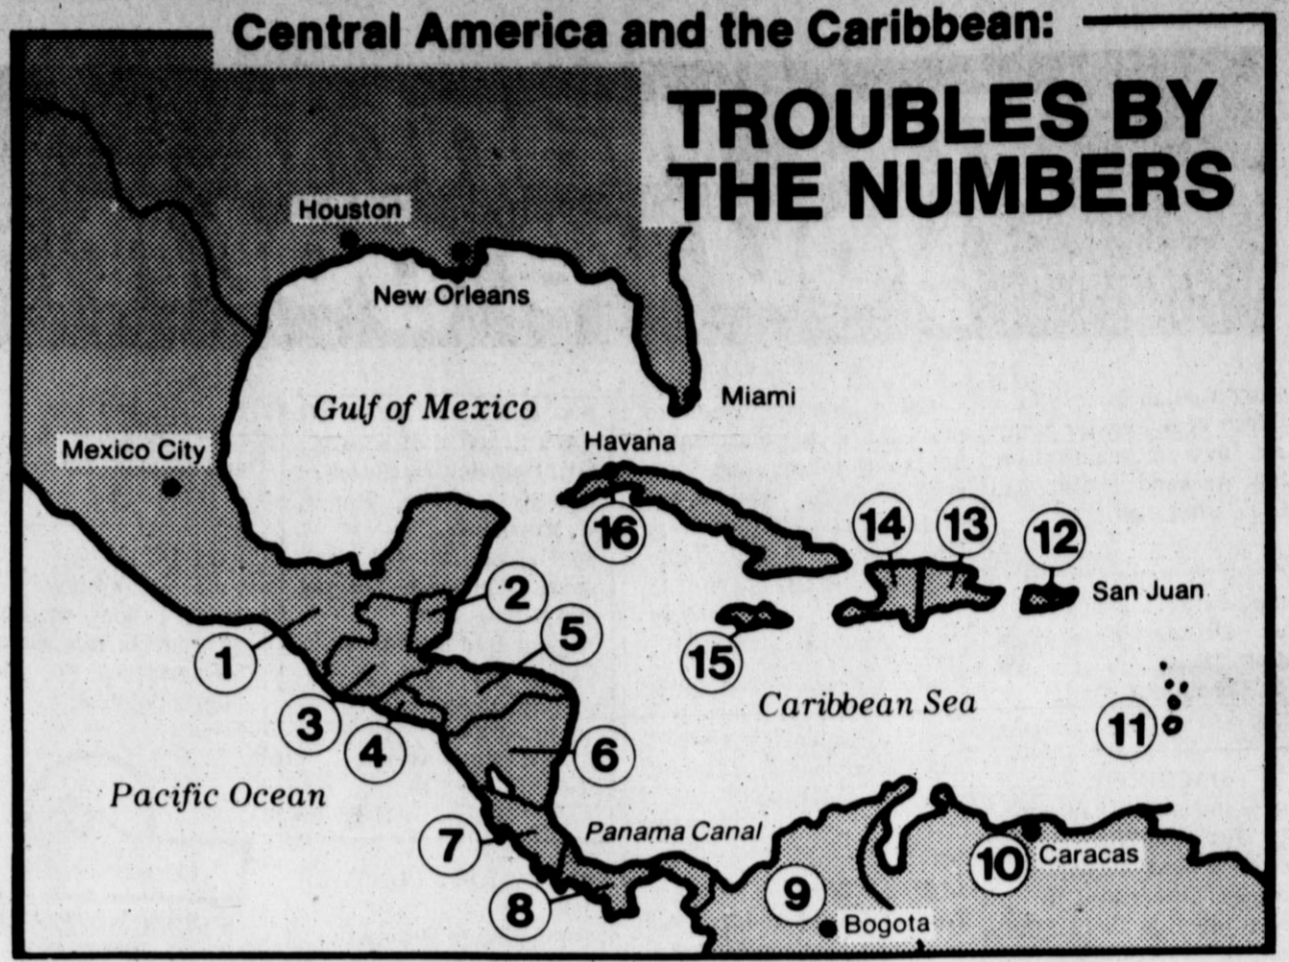

Martin's troubles began in the last week of the special session when he allegedly was wounded by a would-be assassin carrying a shotgun. Since then, several different versions of the attack have surfaced in reports to police, including one by Martin that he was the target of a satanic occult group.

Two weeks ago, Martin's cousin told police he had fired the shots in a scam set up by Martin himself, presumably to further his political career. Then Martin himself was arrested on a year-old misdemeanor assault warrant.

Last week, the House Administration Committee completely cut off Martin's office budget after the Republican overspent by some $11,000.

Martin apparently had been warned by panel chairman Pete Laney of his growing deficit, but it went ignored. Martin now cannot spend any budget money for about two and a half months, the time it will take to make up the deficit.

So, for the time being, the beleaguered young legislator is without a district staff or operating funds.

Judge Blocks Part of Drug Law

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A federal judge today blocked enforcement of a new state law against sales of drug paraphernalia — at least in Dallas and Tarrant counties.

U.S. District Judge David O. Belew Jr. still was hearing arguments late this morning before deciding whether the temporary restraining order would apply to the entire state.

The law was scheduled to go into effect today. Both police and "head shop" owners have said the statute is vague and difficult to enforce.

Freak Imports of Fort Worth and the Gaspire of Dallas sought the temporary restraining order, contending the "head shops" would be denied equal protection of the law.

Belew also was to decide whether to consolidate the suit with two others attacking "head shop" city ordinances in Fort Worth and Arlington.

Arguing against the restraining order were Attorney General Mark White's office and law enforcement officials.

"A lot of items that are banned in the anti-paraphernalia statute are being sold elsewhere, but the plaintiffs are being singled out because they are called 'head shops,'" said Frank Stenger, attorney for the shops.

He said the plaintiffs believe the "aims of the law will not be accomplished by the means. There is no direct relationship between the availability of paraphernalia and drug use. If you are a junkie, you will create whatever you need to use the drug."

Because the law is vague, Stenger said, "no one really knows what it means, and people could be subjected to possible prosecution for having guessed wrong at what it meant."

Capt. Don Milliken of the Dallas Police Department vice division agreed that the law should be less vague.

"It looks like we are not going to be able to do much with it, because of the wording," he said. "The original intent was to put the head shops out of business, but there's a problem in the way the law was written."

To successfully prosecute such a case, he said, the state must be able to prove both that a "head shop" operator sold paraphernalia and that the seller knew the buyer planned to use the items for illegal drugs.

Mexico Now 4th In Oil Reserves

By JOE FRAZIER Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico increased its proven oil reserves by 4 billion barrels since March and now has the fourth largest reserves in the world, President Jose Lopez Portillo said today in his State of the Union address.

Lopez Portillo also sharply criticized American plans to produce the neutron warhead, calling it "the worst that humanity has produced" and said the weapons damaged world hopes for a serious attempt to limit the arms race.

The speech, to be televised nationally and delivered to the Mexican Congress and Cabinet, was the fifth of Lopez Portillo's six-year term. A text was released in advance.

Today was a national holiday because of the speech. The main streets of Mexico City were draped with tinsel in the national colors of red, white and green. Vendors have been peddling Mexican flags and other patriotic souvenirs in the streets for days.

The new oil figures — a total of 72 billion barrels in proven reserves — give Mexico "more solid motives than ever to believe in its energetic future," the president said.

He said the national economy is growing at an 8 percent rate, faster than most industrialized nations.

The president said that in addition to proven reserves, Mexico has an additional 58.65 billion barrels of probable reserves and 250 billion barrels in potential reserves, which includes the proven and probable figures.

Lopez Portillo said of the arms race, "In less than three years (the United States and the Soviet Union) will have reached equal levels and the effort to gain military superiority will result not only in futility but in counterproductivity. Each power, without having reinforced its real security, will have sacrificed its standard of living and will not have improved in a world of injustice and despair."

The speech, scheduled to last two hours, was about half as long as it has been in previous years.

Lopez Portillo reemphasized Mexico's policy of independence in international affairs. "In extending even more the ties of friendship with the revolutions of Cuba and Nicaragua we have emphasized Mexico's adherence to the principles of the free determination of those peoples. They have chosen the paths which most correspond to their aspirations," he said.

"Mexico, because of the right they have to do so and for its affinity for social justice, which is the essence of the struggle, has supported them and will continue to do so."

Consumer Union Seeks Debt Collection Rules

By LEE JONES Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Consumers Union and a legal aid society asked the State Finance Commission today to issue new debt collection rules to stop what they called "harassment and intimidation" of debtors by finance companies.

Steph Gardner, attorney at the Legal Aid Society of Central Texas, said the rules would give consumers an alternative to hiring a lawyer and going to court when they are threatened by creditors.

The alternative would be an administrative action by the state consumer credit commissioner, who is hired by the commission and operates under its rules.

"It's not a couple of bad apples spoiling the whole bunch. It's a whole bunch of bad apples," Gardner said of the consumer finance industry.

The proposed rules, which the commissioner could enforce through his power to inspect and license the finance companies, would prohibit such things as threats, calling a debtor at work, physical intimidation and harassing telephone calls.

State law already prohibits abuse of debtors by creditors, but Gardner told a news conference the law is "very broad" and does not specifically say a loan company may not call a debtor at work.

"We certainly agree that consumers should pay their debts. That's not what we're talking about here. What we are attempting to deal with is harassment and intimidation by the finance companies, and not bona fide collection efforts," said Carol Barger, attorney for Consumers Union.

She and Gardner said threats and attempts to frighten debtors are not limited to a few unscrupulous lenders but are "a pervasive pattern of practice in the industry."

Gardner said the problem is of particular concern because with "interest rates going up, up, up" and a "real tight economy," there probably would be more defaults on loans.
