DOE takes control of WIPP project

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) - An Energy Department move to open a nuclear waste dump in New Mexico has drawn anger from the state's congressional delegation, a threat of court action by its attorney general, and disappointment even from supporters of the project.

Energy Secretary James Watkins assumed control of the 10,240-acre site near Carlsbad on Thursday, a week after Congress missed a DOE-imposed deadline for passing a bill to open the repository.

A spokesman for Gov. Bruce King said the governor would support a lawsuit to delay the opening of the Waste Isolation Pilot Program. He said the governor was told the first shipment is expected to come from the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory as early as Oct. 10.

Watkins' action came after talks between DOE and New Mexico Sens. Pete Domenici, a Republican, and Jeff Bingaman, a Democrat, broke down. The talks centered on how much waste should be shipped to the site during a seven-year test phase.

"I deeply regret we were not able to come to terms on a legislative bill that would have avoided administrative withdrawal," Domenici said.

The land transfer was needed before the department could begin the test program at the underground storage facility 26 miles southeast of Carlsbad.

Domenici had argued that a congressional land transfer would ensure adequate oversight by the Environmental Protection Agency and compensation for the state. An attempt to craft such a transfer failed Thursday in a dispute over how many barrels of wastes should be allowed under the test program.

Bingaman said he refused to back down from his position that no more than 4,500 drums be stored during the tests, a little more than half the 8,500 barrels the DOE wanted.

Domenici offered a final compromismise that would allow 9,000 drums under some circumstances, but that proposal failed to get Bingaman's support.

A spokesman for Bingaman said the senator objected to DOE's "last minute" demand for additional shipments.

Watkins then moved administratively, as he can do by law, to have the WIPP site transferred from the Interior Department.

The DOE in 1990 made an offer to the state of $600 million in aid to compensate for hosting WIPP. Many officials were skeptical of the offer at the time.

Under the administrative withdrawal, Watkins said $20 million in aid and $43 million for road improvements can be released to the state. But, he added, "if the state takes legal action against the DOE we will have to withhold this $63 million."

State Sen. Louis Whitlock, a longtime WIPP advocate, blamed the New Mexico congressional delegation for losing the larger sum of money.

"This is something we've been trying to tell our congressional delegation for years, that if they did not act that we would have an administrative land withdrawal and consequently we would lose the $600 million," said Whitlock, D-Carlsbad.

Energy Department spokesman Fred Lash said the state Thursday had been given the required seven-day notice before waste shipments can proceed.

"There's one bin ... ready to go," Lash said.

Some New Mexico residents have threatened to lie down in front of trucks carrying radioactive waste if the DOE begins shipments to WIPP.

But Don Hancock of Southwest Research and Information Center, an organization opposed to WIPP, said he believes the courts will grant an injunction to prevent the shipments.

Ready for home breakthrough

If it seems like a long time since the Hereford Whitefaces have played at home, it has been: this picture was taken Sept. 6, at

Ann wants nursing homes fixed

AUSTIN (AP) - State health officials said they will improve nursing home regulation as demanded by Gov. Ann Richards, who accused them of failing to protect "the weakest among us, the infirm of mind and body."

"I believe it's going to get fixed," said State Board of Health Chairman Ron Anderson, who appeared at a Thursday news conference with Richards.

Richards' ombudsman, Annette LoVoi, has been investigating the department's Bureau of Long Term Care after complaints from department employees and families of nursing home residents.

Ms. LoVoi said she found regulation was lax and that the department had not used all penalties available to censure and improve homes that violated state standards.

Regulators did not even appear to understand the laws and regulations, and they were not responsive to people filing complaints, her report said.

Richards said if it were in her power, she would fire top nursing home regulators and that she expects personnel changes at the department.

A former state nursing home inspector, Penny Bennett, also appeared with Richards.

Ms. Bennett said her supervisors told her not to take her job so seriously when she tried to help people being mistreated. She said she was fired after going to the ombudsman earlier this year.

Ms. Carrell said Ms. Bennett's firing was not related to her work with the ombudsman. The department also has hired a special investigator to look into Ms. Bennett's complaints, Ms. Carrell said.

Richards called for strict enforcement of nursing home regulations, with special attention to repeat violators. She said there must be a telephone hotline for people to get information on nursing homes.

She is appointing a special adviser to her office who will monitor nursing home regulation. She said an inspector general should be named to review program operations and report directly to chairman Anderson.

Richards emphasized that she was criticizing the state agency, adding that the majority of nursing homes do a good job. There are about 1,100 nursing homes in Texas.

Tom Suehs, executive director of the Texas Health Care Association, said in a letter to Richards that his group wanted to improve nursing home regulation. The group represents 800 licensed long-term care facilities.

The ombudsman's report also said that questions were raised by citizens about regulatory treatment of former Health Board member Don Brewer, who is part owner or officer of 15 nursing homes that are mostly in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

The report said in part that some homes affiliated with him have repeatedly violated state standards and incurred fines.

Brewer said he did not know of any of his facilities that were repeat violators. He said corrections were made if problems were found, and that his business had a good reputation.

He said the fact that he was fined showed that the system worked without special consideration to board members.

A Republican, Brewer suggested there was political motivation behind him being included in the report. Margaret Justus, a spokeswoman for the Democratic governor, said there were no political considerations. Brewer said he resigned from the board in September to move to Missouri.

New attacks launched on Yugoslavian coast

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) - Hundreds fled a new mortar attack on the Croatian coast today, and Serbian-led federal troops have pushed Croatia's militia to within 20 miles of the secessionist republic's capital, news reports said.

Despite the fighting, Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic and federal Defense Minister Gen. Veljko Kadijevic met with Croatian President Franjo Tudjman at European Community-mediated talks in the Hague, the Netherlands.

The EC has negotiated at least six short-lived truces to try to halt the fighting between rival Serbs and Croats, in which more than 600 people have been killed since non-communist Croatia declared independence in June.

The federal army has increasingly sided with ethnic Serbs, who refuse to be a part of an independent Croatia, and together they have seized about one-third of the breakaway republic.

The battle field action follows Communist Serbia's consolidation of political control Thursday over what remains of Yugoslavia. Stipe Mesic, the Croat who is the chairman of the federal presidency, declared that Thursday's takeover of the nearly defunct parliament represented a Serbian-organized coup.

But Kadijevic said the army only wanted "to establish control in crisis areas, protect the Serbian population from genocide and free army personnel and members of their families under blockade in Croatia." He spoke on Belgrade television.

The army, which launched a major assault against Croatia this week, bombarded areas around historic Dubrovnik, starting a forest fire. The Borba newspaper in Belgrade said 26 federal soldiers had died in three days of fighting.

Zagreb radio reported that hundreds of women and children today fled the village of Slano, near Dubrovnik, after a fierce mortar attack.

Zagreb television reported Thursday night that Croatian forces had been pushed back to within 20 miles of Zagreb, after losing several villages to federal fighters.

Serb rebels and federal troops were advancing northward along a wide front in the Banija region, encountering little resistance from retreating Croat troops, according to Belgrade Radio.

Croatian leaders say the attacks on the Adriatic, on the eastern Croatian region of Slavonia and in Banija, south of Zagreb, represent a bid by Serbia to define a "Greater Serbia" that would include most of Yugoslavia. The republic of Slovenia and what remained of Croatia would then be permitted to become independent.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The sometimes-acrimonious debate over whether Robert Gates should head the CIA has unleashed decades of pent-up frustration at the spy agency - and in front of the entire nation.

"The agency is probably in a state of low morale and high indigestion," said Sen. Frank Murkowski of Alaska, the ranking Republican on the Senate Intelligence Committee.

"I think we have done great damage to the CIA over the past two days," added a Republican colleague, Warren Rudman of New Hampshire.

Some 10 miles away in northern Virginia, officials at the sprawling CIA campus said they would rather not have had their dirty laundry washed in so public a place as the U.S. Congress and national television.

And the agency is rife with rumors. CIA employees who clashed with the blunt-spoken Gates when he was head of analysis and later when he served as deputy CIA director suspect that, if confirmed as director, he might hold a grudge.

"He has a long memory and a long reach," said one veteran analyst who has been on the receiving end of some tough critiques from Gates.

For his part, Gates said Thursday: "I suspect that to a lot of people I was not the most approachable person. I suppose that if I'm confirmed, I have to be more sensitive about this."

Others in the Directorate of Operations that does the actual spying fear he will pick off the CIA's overseas station chiefs from the Directorate of Intelligence, the rival analytical side of the agency where Gates grew up.

Gates rose within the Directorate of Intelligence to become its director at 39. Most intelligence community experts had expected opposition to him to focus in the operations side, which has a traditional rivalry with the analysts and for whom Gates has expressed some not-so-veiled contempt.

But all the damaging criticism aired at this week's session has come from the Soviet analysis section where Gates began his career. And it has all been a variation on one theme: that Gates, serving the late CIA Director William Casey, slanted intelligence information in order to exaggerate the Soviet threat - and refused to heed any views or information to the contrary.

Intelligence veterans testified that the perception of "politicization" - a skewing of intelligence data to conform with political goals or ideological views - is as old as the 44-year-old agency.

But Gates' critics said the blame was more recent - stemming from Casey's inability to distinguish between fact and ideology. And they faulted Gates for doing his bidding.

"The bias built into CIA reporting during the Casey-Gates era continues to undermine the agency's ability to produce quality intelligence," Carolyn Ekedahl, a 29-year CIA veteran, said in a written statement to the committee in which she argued against Gates' confirmation.

Gates said he had learned much from the hearings and that if confirmed, one of his first priorities will be to make clear to analysts that they should and must offer contradictory and challenging views.

One of his strongest supporters, former Deputy CIA Director Bobby Inman, told the committee that many younger analysts were keen to see Gates get the job because they admired his skills and vigor.

'This is it,' says Taylor, for 8th time Tabloids going all-out to cover event

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Four decades after Elizabeth Taylor's first wedding, the Hollywood legend is making headlines with an eighth trip into matrimony that once again has her saying: "This is it."

Miss Taylor was 18 when she married Conrad Nicholson "Nicky" Hilton on May 6, 1950. It was hailed as the Hollywood social event of the year.

In a similarly touted event, Miss Taylor - who reportedly will wear a yellow Valentino gown - will exchange vows Sunday with Larry Fortensky, a construction worker and truck driver 20 years her junior.

Miss Taylor, 59, and Fortensky, 39, met in 1988 when both were at the Betty Ford Clinic to kick drugs. The romance flourished when Miss Taylor was hospitalized last year with life-threatening pneumonia.

After divorcing Hilton, Miss Taylor married actor Michael Wilding, then hotel chain heir Mike Todd, pop crooner Eddie Fisher and actor Richard Burton. She and Burton divorced in 1974, then remarried and divorced again in 1975.

In 1976, the actress married Virginian John W. Warner and helped him win a U.S. Senate seat in 1978. They divorced in 1982.

"I always said I would get married one more time and with God's blessings, this is it, forever," she said in announcing her engagement in July.

Michael Jackson will host the ceremony at his 2,700-acre Santa Ynez Valley ranch, about 100 miles northwest of Los Angeles. He also will escort the bride.

Only one writer - gossip columnist Liz Smith - is invited to cover the wedding and one photographer - Herb Ritts - is authorized to take pictures. Unauthorized media will have to contend with the wall that surrounds the ranch and, sources say, with security officers on horseback and in helicopters.

The supermarket tabloids are up to the challenge. Paparazzi will hover in at least 10 helicopters and reporters masquerading as caterers and limousine drivers will mount a ground assault.

"We've heard about it and we've got anti-aircraft guns just in case," Miss Taylor's attorney, Neil Papiano, joked Wednesday.

The National Enquirer and the Star wouldn't discuss their plans, but The Globe's Los Angeles bureau chief, Mary Ann Nobom, spelled out her plans.

"At our command post overlooking the historic Foxen Vineyard, Globe will have two helicopters, a fueling truck and ground crew, a motor home for on-site photo processing, cellular phones and walkie-talkies and a hospitality tent," she said.

The news media was shut out so Miss Taylor could make exclusive coverage deals to raise money for AIDS research.

Smith said she was "just lucky to have been a friend of Liz Taylor's for 26 years." Her story will be sold and distributed by the Los Angeles Times Syndicate.

Ritts has sold rights to photographs in Europe for $100,000-plus, tabloid sources said. His asking price for domestic rights to one picture was as high as $1.5 million. People Magazine said Thursday it had purchased all domestic photo rights, but wouldn't say how much it paid.

Taylor's more than 50 films include "National Velvet," "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf," "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," and "Butterfield 8," for which she won an Academy Award.

Recently, she has devoted much of her time to promoting her perfumes "Passion" and "White Diamonds" and to raising money to fight AIDS.

Tamale assembly line

Women of San Jose Catholic Church form an assembly line to make hundreds of dozens of tamales for the Otonofest coming up Oct. 13, noon-6 p.m., at Dameron Park in Hereford. Working from left are Veronica Chavez, Blasa Mancillas, Andrea Urias, Jacinta Mendoza, Minnie Cerdá and Hope Mendez.

House panel looks for members who abused privileges at bank

WASHINGTON (AP) - Members of the House ethics committee, directed to ferret out colleagues who abused privileges of the House bank, must first discover who on the panel wrote rubber checks.

Saddled with the politically odious investigation by a 390-8 vote Thursday, the panel members "must go into a closed room and ask who's clean," said a House source, speaking on condition of anonymity.

The House resolution also wrote the swan song for the bank, ordering closure of a favorite perquisite, which covered members' checks even when there was insufficient money in their accounts.

House Speaker Thomas Foley, D-Wash. - contradicting an earlier denial - and Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., admitted Thursday they were among the rubber-check writers.

House sources said the chairman of the ethics committee, Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, was among those submitting problem checks.

In private conversations Thursday, some House members joked there would be problems finding enough "clean" members of the ethics panel to form an investigative subcommittee.

One source said there was an "audible gasp" at a meeting of House Democratic whips Thursday when someone suggested that half the ethics panel members would have to withdraw from the probe because they had kited checks.

The ethics panel, officially the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct, has 14 members, who are to divide themselves into separate sub-panels: one to conduct an investigation, the other to serve as a jury.

House sources said Foley agreed to support the bipartisan resolution for an investigation only after Republicans threatened to sponsor the probe by themselves.

The General Accounting Office reported last week that from July 1989 to June 1990, House members wrote 8,331 checks on insufficient funds at the bank without incurring any financial penalty. This amounted to interest-free loans by the bank, which was ordered to close by year's end.

More embarrassment followed on Wednesday when Rep. Pat Roberts of Kansas, the ranking Republican on a House Administration subcommittee, disclosed that about 300 current and former House members were delinquent in paying more than $300,000 in bills incurred at House restaurants.

The resolution approved Thursday directed the ethics committee to investigate whether House members or employees "abused the banking privileges by routinely and repeatedly writing checks for which their accounts did not have ... sufficient funds."

Gephardt, who sponsored the resolution with Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., said only habitual check abusers would face disciplinary action.

Shortly afterwards, Gephardt acknowledged in statement that three of his checks, totaling $216.28, were submitted to the bank when he had insufficient funds. He blamed the problem on a payee who waited two months before presenting a Gephardt check for payment.

Foley said he wrote a $540 check last Dec. 27 when he had insufficient funds in the bank. He said the check was for a compact disc player and an audio receiver, adding that he didn't realize there were insufficient funds.

"I didn't know the check presented for payment was delayed for 24 hours," Foley said Thursday.

Asked last week by reporters if he had written any rubber checks at the House bank, Foley replied:

"No, I do my banking at United States Bank in Spokane, Wash." He said he did have an account at the House bank, "but it's not active."

Orders open for yearbook

Orders for the 1991-1992 edition of the Hereford High School yearbook will be taken at the school, beginning Monday and continuing through the week.

Janet Schroeder, yearbook sponsor, announced that phone orders will not be taken at the school.

"People should come to Room 202 at the high school to place the order," she said. "A deposit of at least $10 is required when the order is placed."

Cost per book will be $16 with no name inscribed or $18 if the name is desired.

Last day for placing orders will be Friday.

New rules to control collect 900

WASHINGTON (AP) - There's a new twist in the telemarketing business: A computer calls you and then sends a bill if you don't hang up fast enough.

It's called "collect 900," after the nearly 70,000 900-number phone lines that are generating hundreds of millions in profits for their owners and conversation and controversy around the nation.

But they really aren't 900 lines, which require customers to dial an 11-digit number. All you have to do in this case is have a phone.

Last week, the Federal Communications Commission adopted rules that forbid telephone companies from carrying such calls, effectively putting an end to them. Phone companies already had refused to handle the billing for most of these lines.

The regulations, crafted to address a number of consumer gripes about the 900 industry, will take effect 30 days after publication in the Federal Register, probably late November. Industry groups, working hard to clean up a badly tarnished image, supported the FCC's action.

"We didn't think that was an unfair setup in any case," said Steve Metalitz of the Information Industry Association.

The 900 collect lines work fairly simply. You get a call with an offer for information, a service or merchandise - all for a price. All you have to do is get a bill is hang onto your phone.

You're told that if you don't want to pay, just press a number or hang up.

The trouble is, if you don't press a number - or the right number - or if you don't hang up fast enough, you get a bill.

"You could see how unfair that could be if you weren't home and your answering machine took the call," Metalitz said.

FCC officials said it also creates a problem when children or older adults answer the phone and don't hang up quickly enough. In fact, if you hang up when the computer tells you to press a number to refuse the charge, you still might get a bill.

Consumers have complained of misleading sales pitches and high phone charges associated with the 900 toll lines.

Driving class to be offered

An eight-hour course for drivers, age 50 and older, who wish to review their skills will be offered Monday and Tuesday at Hereford Senior Citizens.

Teaching the course, scheduled from 12:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. each day, is Geneva Summers, a certified instructor.

Class size will be limited to 30 persons. An $8 fee will be charged.

The course, developed by the American Association of Retired Persons, is geared to the older driver. A certificate which entitles participants to insurance discounts will be given those who finish the course.

Further information may be obtained by calling 364-5681.

Herd JV falls; late TD gives sophs win

Hereford's junior varsity football team fell 3-0 in Levelland Thursday, while in a game played at Whiteface Stadium, the sophomore Herd scored late in the fourth quarter to break a tie with the Friona JV and win 14-7.

Coach Craig Yenzer said the junior varsity defense played well in stopping the Lobos in Levelland.

"Levelland really had only one sustained drive and we held them out of end zone," Yenzer said of the drive which produced the Lobos' field goal.

"Offensively, we kind of shot ourselves in the foot. We had three fumbles and one pass interception. Two of those turnovers just killed (sustained) drives."

"The kids played hard. They never gave up. I was really proud of that," Yenzer said.

In the sophomores' game with Friona's JV, the score was tied at 7-7 for much of the game. Friona scored in the first quarter when a Chieftain defender stepped in front of a Jeremy Blair pass and returned it 95 yards for the touchdown. Hereford scored in the second quarter on a 23-yard pass from Stacy Sanders to Hayden Andrews, who made a one-handed catch near the sideline.

Hereford won the game when, with 4:22 left in the game, the defense held in a fourth-and-a-foot situation on the Friona 30-yard line. A few plays later, Johnny Zambrano ran for a 20-yard TD with 3:10 left.

The game was iced when Hereford's Brandon Gearin intercepted a pass on Friona's next possession.

"We played hard. We played good. We just had lots of mistakes," coach Oscar Rendon said, referring to

Herd plays at home

The Hereford Whitefaces finally get to play a home game tonight after three consecutive games on the road. The 4-0 Herd meets the 3-1 Levelland Lobos at 7:30 at Whiteface Stadium.

In other sports Saturday, the varsity and junior varsity volleyball teams play at Pampa at 2 p.m., the cross country teams run in Dumas at 10 a.m., and the tennis team also will be in Dumas for a 1 p.m. district match.

Veingrad comes back

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) - Alan Veingrad started every game for the Green Bay Packers in 1989. After a holdout, he lost his starting job the following season. Then he was left unprotected in Plan B.

He gets a chance to face his former teammates and friends Sunday when his new team, the Dallas Cowboys, play the Packers at Milwaukee County Stadium.

"I had a real hard time making the decision," Veingrad said of his move. "But obviously it's a business decision. All the up-front money. The opportunity to play for a team that does the things it takes to win. So I left," he told the Green Bay Press-Gazette.

Veingrad will start this week at left tackle in place of Mark Tuinei, who has a groin injury. Veingrad played most of last week's victory over the New York Giants, giving up one sack to Lawrence Taylor.

That's no disgrace.

Arlington hosts prep battle

By MIKE DRAGO

Associated Press Writer

Arlington Sam Houston coach Ken Ozee knows Friday's game against top-ranked Arlington Lamar is billed as a clash between two heavyweight running backs, but he insists the much-anticipated match is much more than that.

Lamar's Shawn Walters vs. Sam Houston's Jeff Godley figures to be the focus at Wilemon Stadium, but the real battle is for supremacy in District 8-5A and neither 2,000-yard rusher can carry his team alone, Ozee said.

"I think that's going to draw a lot of people. That stuff's good for the game," he said. "Surely they're both going to be factors, but we have more weapons and so do they."

One of Lamar's other offensive weapons is quarterback Tony Kennedy, who has thrown for 525 yards. Another is Miguel Pineda, who has 25 catches for 398 yards. Kennedy, the team leader, and Walters also are a dangerous combination on the option play.

"Kennedy makes that Viking ship sail real well," Ozee said.

The Texans (3-1) have been forced to resort to their secondary weapons this season. Godley was arrested on a robbery charge and missed the Texans' first two games, including a 27-7 season-opening loss to Grand Prairie. He returned in a 35-16 victory against South Grand Prairie, carrying 12 times for 118 yards and four touchdowns.

But Godley suffered minor shoulder and ankle injuries last week against Arlington Martin and was ineffective. Teammate Tracy Young picked up the slack with 202 yards and four scores on 13 carries, and Mike Adams had 162 total yards in the 42-14 romp.

The Texans will have to play flawless football to beat Lamar, which has rolled up 351 yards per game this season while allowing just 139, Ozee said.

"We can't turn the ball over.

They're so dangerous on offense, they'll just run down and score," he said.

Twins fall in marathon pair

By The Associated Press

The Minnesota Twins needed nearly eight hours to finish a doubleheader in which Tom Kelly's only goal was a short workout for his two starting pitchers.

The American League champion Twins, following their first rained-out game of the season on Wednesday, lost a doubleheader to the Chicago White Sox Thursday night, 3-2 in 10 innings and 13-12 in 12 innings. The first game lasted 3 hours, 6 minutes, the second 4:42.

Kelly's starters were 18-game winner Jack Morris and 16-game winner Kevin Tapani, and he wanted them to work five innings apiece in their last appearances before the AL playoffs against Toronto starts Wednesday.

"Morris did what I wanted ... he did all right," the Twins manager said of Morris' shutout pitching for five innings in the opener. "Tapani didn't. He looked a little stiff."

Tapani allowed 11 hits and four runs in his five-inning stint.

"But they got their five innings. That was the main thing. I just wanted to get them five innings each," Kelly said.

Matt Merullo's pinch-hit single scored Joey Cora from second base with the winning run in the second game, in which Carlton Fisk had six RBIs and two homers, including a grand slam, for the White Sox.

Brian Drahman (3-2) pitched one-third of an inning for the victory as Chicago had 24 hits, including four homers. Terry Leach (1-2) was the loser.

Minnesota trailed 12-8 going into the ninth inning of the second game, but a homer by Pedro Munoz, an RBI double by Paul Sorrento and Kent Hrbek's two-run homer forced extra innings.

Chicago, which trailed 6-1 after four innings, took an 11-7 lead in the seventh on Fisk's grand slam.

Dan Pasqua and Frank Thomas also homered for the White Sox. Scott Leius and Greg Gagne also homered for Minnesota.

In the opener, Warren Newson, who began a two-run rally in the ninth inning against Rick Aguilera, singled home the winner with two outs in the 10th. Tim Raines led off by reaching on third baseman Leius' throwing error, took third on a groundout and scored on Newson's single.

In the only other major league games played Thursday, New York defeated Baltimore 9-6 at Yankee Stadium, Detroit beat Boston 10-5 at Fenway Park and Milwaukee won 9-3 at Cleveland.

Tigers 10, Red Sox 5

Detroit pulled within two games of second-place Boston with three games to play as Bill Gullickson became the AL's first 20-game winner behind Cecil Fielder's grand slam and Rob Deer's three-run homer.

Gullickson (20-9) allowed just three runs on six hits in seven innings, losing his bid for his first 1991 shutout in Boston's three-run seventh.

The Tigers scored four unearned runs off Boston starter Kevin Morton (6-5) in the first inning, capped by Deer's 25th homer.

After Boston pulled to 4-3 in the seventh, Detroit jumped on relievers Dennis Lamp, Tony Fossas and Dan Petry for six runs in the eighth, including Fielder's grand slam. Yankees 9, Orioles 6

New York won its fourth straight game as Roberto Kelly homered, doubled and drove in four runs.

Jeff Johnson (6-11) gave up three runs on seven hits in seven innings for the win. Tim Hullett hit a three-run homer off Rich Montelone in the eighth and Steve Farr pitched the ninth for his 23rd save.

Kelly's three-run homer, his 20th, capped a five-run third inning against Jeff Ballard (6-12). Kelly's RBI double highlighted a three-run fifth that made it 9-1.

Brewers 9, Indians 3

Dale Sveum had two RBIs during a four-run fifth inning, and Dante Bichette had two in a five-run seventh.

The Brewers, 17 games under .500 in early August, have gone 37-19 since Aug. 4, the best record in the league over that span.

Jaime Navarro (15-12) pitched seven innings, giving up three runs and nine hits.

Southwest Outdoors

with Mel Phillips

The start of October will be remembered as the beginning of the archery experiment in Texas. Historically, the bow-and-arrow hunters have been forced to compete against the rifle hunters during the regular November hunting season. This year is different because now the archery season for deer and turkey opens Oct. 1 and ends Oct. 31. Some problems might exist if a rifle hunting lease is first hunted by archers. Some leases can tolerate the extra hunting pressure, but others cannot.

Nov. 2 is also the start of quail season, fall turkey season, and aoudad season. It is time to head to the rifle range and make sure the rifles can find the bull's eye.

Lake Meredith fishing results--The results of a Fun Tournament held Sept. 19: zero bass caught by 20 fishermen.

For those of you keeping a running tally on the fishing results at Lake Meredith: since July, only seven out of 188 tournament fishermen have caught legal fish.

The 1991 Championship Tournament scheduled for Saturday has been moved from Lake Meredith to Lake Greenbelt. Last weekend, a team tournament at Greenbelt had 11 out of 20 teams catching legal bass. A 5 percent success rate at Greenbelt is superior to the four percent success rate at Mereith.

Called the Old Texas State Championship, this bass tournament is open to all anglers and features a payback of more than 100 percent in prizes and cash. Fishing begins at 7:30 a.m. and ends at 12:30 p.m. The entry fee is only $30 and may be paid at the lake.

Based on 100 entries: first place wins $1,250 and a fishing trip guided by Dale Waggy on Elephant Butte in New Mexico; second place wins $600 and a quail and pheasant hunt at Harper's Preserve; third place wins $300 and a quail hunt with John Bookout; fourth place wins $200; and lucky tenth place wins $100.

Hourly on KGNR TalkRadio, I will announce a "special fish." Be the first angler to arrive at the scales with that fish and win bonus prizes from Anchor Marine, Camper Roundup, Jim Reid Concrete, the Big Texan, Luskey's, Sirloin Stockade, Top-of-the-Line Marine, Bob's Western Wear, Greenbelt Marina, the Bar-H Dude Ranch and the "official bluejeans," B-K G-eans of Clarendon.

Giants hope to play spoilers

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

All year, the Dodgers have been favored to win the NL West. Now, with Atlanta and Los Angeles all even going into the last weekend, it's no secret which team is the favorite.

"If Atlanta wins, it will help baseball and all the people in the South," San Francisco manager Roger Craig said.

Giants pitcher John Burkett knows who he'll root for.

"I hate the Dodgers," he said. "I've been in this organization since 1983, and there's always been a rivalry, even in A ball. We had five, six brawls against them one season."

The Giants will have their chance - again - to deny the Dodgers a championship when they start a three-game series tonight at Candlestick Park. In mid-August, fans at Candlestick chanted "Sweep!"

Sweep! Sweep!" during a three-game set that San Francisco actually swept from its longtime rivals.

The Braves, meanwhile, will be at home against Houston, the worst team in the league. Atlanta starts the three-game series for Atlanta; Jeff Juden, seeking his first major league victory, starts for the Astros.

"I think even LA felt it was going to come down to the last weekend or the last day," said Braves pitcher Tom Glavine, the first 20-game winner in the majors. "We feel pretty good about it. Now let's see if we can get a little bit of help."

There is nothing the Giants would like more than to louse up Los Angeles. And a lot of people wouldn't mind seeing Atlanta, which trailed the Dodgers by 9 1/2 games at the All-Star break, pull it out.

"I want the Braves to win," San Francisco's Will Clark said.

The Giants beat the Dodgers in 1951 on Bobby Thomson's home run in the playoffs, knocked them out again in a three-game playoff in 1962 and took away another NL West title in 1982 when Joe Morgan homered against them on the last day - at Candlestick - to give the Braves the championship.

"I'll manage like they're World Series games," said Craig, who pitched Brooklyn to a victory in the 1955 World Series, the first time the Dodgers won the championship. "Maybe we'll make our season in three days."

That kind of talk bothers some people. Like Darryl Strawberry of the Dodgers.

"I know they're going to come out and play their hardest, but that's the way you're supposed to play every game, isn't it?" Strawberry said. "If they want to beat us so bad, they should have beaten us when it counted for them."

The Giants did, sort of. They hold an 8-7 edge over Los Angeles and won four of six in Francisco.

Depending on how the weekend goes, the final days might go even longer.

Dodgers general manager Fred Claire called "heads" in a coin flip last month and Los Angeles won the toss and the right to host a one-game playoff Monday night. That, like all of this weekend's games, will be on TV.

But if it goes that far, it might not be such good news for Los Angeles. There have been five playoffs in NL history, and the Dodgers have been involved in every one. They've lost four times.

On Thursday, a day for baseball to catch its breath, both the Braves and Dodgers rested.

SWC season not following logic

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

It didn't take long for the Southwest Conference preseason form chart to become completely obsolete.

Baylor and Houston have a showdown in the Astrodome this week but Baylor carries the No. 11 national ranking and the Cougars, talking national championship before the season, are careening after two straight losses.

The Rice Owls travel to Austin Saturday where they haven't won for 25 years. But they have a 2-1 record and the Longhorns, the defending SWC champions, are 0-2.

Texas Christian, 4-0 for the first time since 1955, will try to go 5-0 for the first time since 1942 against the Arkansas Razorbacks (2-2). Winless Southern Methodist (0-3) plays at winless Tulane and No. 23 Texas A&M plays at Texas Tech.

It's the only time this season all nine teams will be in action on the same day.

The Bears have been beaten 66-10 and 31-15 the past two years by the Cougars and quarterback David Klingler but drastic changes have taken place in the two teams' fortunes this season.

Revenge is not on their minds, the Bears say. But they do remember.

"The big thing is we can't give up the long play," Baylor coach Grant Teaff said. "We've been burned by that the last two years. We were torched, 66-10, we weren't burned, we were torched."

"Of course last year, Klingler came back in the second half and hit some long bombs on us so I'm more concerned about whether we give up the long pass or run."

The Bears hope to capitalize on the Cougars' offensive line problems and get a good pass rush on Klingler.

"Our plan obviously would be to try to get some pressure on Klingler with the front four but I the guy down at the Pee Wee League if he were playing the same thing would be true," Teaff said.

Houston coach John Jenkins is trying to get more protection for Klingler and has spent last week's open date making position switches. Jason Youngblood was moved from defensive tackle last week to right guard, where he's competing with Greg Whitty for a starting job.

"We may wait until the pre-game meeting on Saturday to make a decision on who will start," Jenkins said.

Baylor fullback Robert Strait will miss the game after undergoing knee surgery on Tuesday. He'll be replaced by Lorena sophomore John Henry.

"The Lorena Flash will go to the Astrodome," Teaff said. "He gives us about 60 pounds less than Strait. He just doesn't have the blocking power or the leg power. Robert could get you four to six yard if you just give him the ball. John has to have a hole."

The Longhorns will be trying to win their first game, and they'll be trying without star running back Butch Hadnot, who hasn't practiced all week because of a sprained ankle.

Adrian Walker, the other starter, has a strained lower back.

Although Texas has needed its two open dates to heal injuries, Horns coach David McWilliams says his team needs game experience.

"We've worked seven weeks and played two games and we'll never catch up," McWilliams said. "I wanted to play last week because we'd shown some improvement from the first game. To see where you stand, you have to play some games."

The Owls lost in the closing seconds to Iowa State 28-27 and coach Fred Goldsmith spent the week getting his team focused on the Longhorns.

"I just wish they were 2-0 so they wouldn't be sitting there mad, taking vows to kill Rice," Goldsmith said.

Texas Tech hopes the return of receivers Rodney Blackshear and Lloyd Hill will help end a three-game losing streak. Blackshear led the SWC in kickoff returns last season but has been sidelined with injuries.

Revolving Door
ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - The office of the manager of the Texas Rangers in 1977 was fronted by a revolving door.

During the course of the season four managers went through it. Frank J. Lucchesi began the campaign in the job, and Bill Hunter was there at the end.

In between, Eddie Stanky made a brief appearance, and Cornelius Ryan also had a shot at the job.

Facts About The BIBLE

SMUGGLERS OF THE WORD!

ONE WOULD THINK THE BIBLE WOULD BE WELCOME IN ANY PLACE ON EARTH--BUT THIS IS NOT THE CASE! NOR CAN ONE OPENLY BUY A BIBLE IN MANY COUNTRIES. IN RUSSIA IT'S ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE, IN EAST GERMANY, CHANCES ARE SLIM! BULGARIA? NO! HUNGARY, CZECHOSLOVAKIA, VERY DIFFICULT--AND IN ALBANIA IT IS AN OUT-AND-OUT CRIME!

NO WONDER THEN THAT FORTY ORGANIZATIONS CONSTANTLY SMUGGLE BIBLES INTO IRON-CURTAIN COUNTRIES. TRAINED TO HANDLE THIS EXTRAORDINARY VENTURE, PROFESSIONALS AND SKILLED AMATEURS CROSS BORDERS IN VEHICLES SUCH AS THE VOLKSWAGON "BUG" WITH BUILT-IN SECRET COMPARTMENTS SOMETIMES HOLDING AS MANY AS 500 POCKET-SIZE BIBLES. IF CAUGHT, THE BIBLES ARE CONFISCATED AND THE PERSON REFUSED ENTRY INTO THE COUNTRY--BUT SOME ARE NOT SO LUCKY--THE LONGEST PRISON TERM TO DATE - 3 1/2 YEARS IN CZECHOSLOVAKIA!

BUT DESPITE ALL THIS, THE WORK STILL GOES ON SO THAT....

"THE WORD OF GOD MAY BE HEARD OF ALL MEN"

NEXT WEEK: THE BIBLE NAMES A DOG!

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS:

Considering the sad state of education in this country, I thought you might want to run this beauty from The Osgood File. He says it awfully well--H.L. in Bloomington, Ind.

DEAR H.L.: Charles Osgood is a longtime favorite of mine. Thanks for sending it on:

There once was a pretty good student,

Who sat in a pretty good class
And was taught by a pretty good teacher,

Who always let pretty good pass.
He wasn't terrific at reading,
He wasn't a whiz-bang at math.

But for him education was leading
Straight down a pretty good path.
He didn't find school too exciting,
But he wanted to do pretty well,

And he did have some trouble with writing,

And nobody had taught him to spell.

When doing arithmetic problems,

Pretty good was regarded as fine.

Five plus five needn't always add up to be ten,

A pretty good answer was nine.

The pretty good class that he sat in

Was part of a pretty good school.

And the student was not an exception.

On the contrary, he was the rule.

The pretty good school that he went to

Was there in a pretty good town.

And nobody there seemed to notice

He could not tell a verb from a noun.

The pretty good student in fact was Part of a pretty good mob.

And the first time he knew what he lacked was

When he looked for a pretty good job.

It was then, when he sought a position.

He discovered that life could be tough.

And he soon had a sneaky suspicion

Pretty good might not be good enough.

The pretty good town in our story
Was part of a pretty good state.

Which had pretty good aspirations,

And prayed for a pretty good fate.

There once was a pretty good nation.

Pretty proud of the greatness it had,

Which learned much too late,

If you want to be great

Pretty good is, in fact, pretty bad.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This item has been circulating in my neighborhood and I thought your readers might find it enlightening.--Jackson Heights, N.Y.

DEAR JACKSON HEIGHTS:

Thanks for sending it on. Here it is:
In the six seconds it takes you to read this sentence, 24 people will be added to the Earth's population.

Before you're finished this letter, that number will reach 1,000. Within an hour...11,000. by day's end...260,000.

Before you go to bed two nights from now, the net growth in human numbers will be enough to fill a city the size of San Francisco.

It took 4 million years for humanity to reach the 2 billion mark, only 30 years to add a third billion. And now we're increasing by 95 million every single year.

No wonder they call it the human race.

Gem of the Day (Credit Robert Orbin): The newest development in manufacturing is robotics. Robots put in long hours, function in difficult environments, never run down, cost little to maintain, and do it without praise. Actually, robots are nothing new. They used to be called mothers.

The first practical phonograph was invented in 1877 by Thomas Edison.

Latchkey gets grant

The Hereford Day Care latchkey project has received a grant from the 1990 Assembly Offering of the Women's Division of the General Board of Global Ministries, the United Methodist Church.

The assembly, which took place in Kansas City in May 1990, received the offering from the 10,100 women present. Others from across the United States also contributed during the year to bring the total offering to $277,590.84.

The offering was designated for projects dealing with children and youth. The Hereford Day Care latchkey project, which provides after-school care to children who would otherwise go home to an empty house, is among 43 grant recipients in the south-central jurisdiction of the group.

Brody, 34, who admits to years of narcotics addiction, told the judge she is drug-free and able to care for her son, Cole, 9.

Brenner, who acknowledged years of drug abuse, insisted both be tested.

"While this litigation proceeds, my main concern is that my son is out of harm's way," he told the judge.

Fleas are essential to the health of armadillos and hedge hogs—they provide necessary stimulation of the skin.
