Combest has full day Town hall, special meeting, Lions Club

Taking notes

U.S. Rep. Larry Combest takes notes while listening to speakers during a meeting here Wednesday afternoon.

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Coming soon to a nation's capitol near you:

The Accountable Congress.

That's according to U.S. Rep. Larry Combest (R-Lubbock). Combest spent five hours in Hereford Wednesday, at a Town Hall meeting, speaking to the Hereford Lions Club, and meeting with agricultural and banking representatives in a special meeting.

Combest said there could be 150, or more, new members of Congress next January. Several heads have already rolled in primaries; more may be chopped in November's general elections.

"The public is fed up with Congressmen writing hot checks, Congressmen walking restaurant checks, people buying cocaine in the House post office," Combest said Wednesday. "The public is demanding accountability. Those members of Congress who haven't realized that are in trouble."

Combest feels confident he'll be re-elected in November, overcoming Democratic opponent Terry Moser. Why is he confident? Combest reminded everyone all three functions he has written no hot checks on the House bank, walked no checks in the House restaurant, and bought no cocaine in the House post office.

Town Hall Meeting

Combest said changes are coming in the tax law.

The congressman wants to restore loss provisions; restore full deductibility for IRAs, with no penalty for "cashing" IRAs for educational, home buying or medical purposes; provide for investment tax credits; and restore deductions for medical expenses.

"I was very opposed to the 1986 tax bill because I felt it was not good for the people and not good for the economy," Combest said. He pointed to the 1986 Tax Reform Act as a leading cause of the present depression in the United States.

On other topics in the 90-minute session, attended by about 40 persons, Combest said:

--Social Security will be alive and well for many, many years into the future.

--Congress should work on repealing more regulations on all businesses.

--He favors term limitations, but work should be focused on the federal level, not by states on federal officials.

--Legal Services Corporation, parent of Texas Rural Legal Aid, and Farmers Home Administration will be under close scrutiny when Congress reconvenes in May.

Lions Club

Combest appreciated the standing ovation he received.

"That is a lot warmer reception than many of my colleagues may be getting this week," he said.

Combest said another problem Congress will tackle is healthcare. He said complete turnover of healthcare to the government would "double income taxes." He said he favored a system with as few government mandates as possible.

Ag-banking meeting

At a session sponsored by the High Plains Underground Water District No. 1, Combest heard from agricultural and financial representatives.

Among the comments made by others, while Combest sat to the side and made notes:

--Garth Merrick said businesses face "regulatory overkill" and an "adversarial attitude" from federal workers.

--Don Graham, speaking for both Hereford banks, asked, "How have so many of us survived with so many roadblocks thrown up by Congress?"

Combest visits Hereford

Combest said members of Congress who don't realize how mad Americans are won't be back in January.

--Chester Nolen, Hereford city manager, asked for consideration of a bill that would plow the "peace dividend" into block grants for smaller cities.

--Representatives of several farm groups called for careful consideration of the North American Free Trade Agreement and the General Agreement of Trade and Tariffs.

--Steve Louder of Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative and Bob Josserand, former president of the National Cattlemen's Association, said environmental concerns would be paramount.

Governor ready for session date

RICHARDS

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards says her plan to reform the school finance system remains the best she's seen and lawmakers might begin debating it as early as May 11.

That date now appears likely for a special session, she said.

But she acknowledged Wednesday that many lawmakers don't want to deal with school funding again until after the November elections.

"You've had a lot of legislators who say, 'I think we ought to come in there and ... we ought to resolve this issue,'" Richards said.

"You've got a lot of other legislators who say, 'For God's sake, I don't even want to talk about school finance again, and I'm willing to talk about it again after the election.'"

The Texas Supreme Court three times has knocked down the $14 billion-a-year school finance system. In its most recent decision, the court gave lawmakers until June 1993 to write a new plan.

Richards said legislators have had time to study the program she offered last week.

She wants to take business property away from local school districts and put its tax money into a statewide pool. That change would require a constitutional amendment. She also proposes amending the constitution to specify a certain level of "equity" for spending in the 1,050 school districts.

"I've given everyone plenty of notice that May 11 looks like a likely time. If we think that the support is there for a constitutional amendment, then I think we should proceed," Richards said.

She noted that a federal judge is considering a taxpayer challenge to the current finance system - the so-called "Robin Hood" county

Raffle will highlight breakfast

A week from today, you may be driving a new vehicle.

A new vehicle from a Hereford new car dealer will be one of the prizes given away as part of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce's first raffle. The winning tickets, for a vehicle and 16 other prizes, will be drawn at the April 23 fun breakfast.

"Of course, you don't have to be present to win, so we will use our sponsor's cellular phone to call the winner if they're not in attendance," said Mike Carr, executive vice president of the chamber.

Besides the new vehicle and other raffle prizes, Hereford Bucks and many goodies from XIT Cellular (including a cellular phone) will be given away. The morning will be led by John Stagner and Charlie Bell, and there will be fun, recognition of new chamber members and new residents, and announcements.

"I'm a man of all seasons," said one sports fan to another. "Baseball season, football season, basketball season, hockey season..."

Congress Larry Combest was here for a town hall meeting Wednesday and also spoke at the Hereford Lions Club luncheon and met with a group of ag leaders. A lot of folks got to hear our 19th Congressional District representative and to offer input on their problems.

I was not impressed with Combest when he first ran for office, but he has made a believer out of us. In fact, if the U.S. House had more representatives like him, I think we could solve a lot of this country's problems.

He serves the people of his district. One example of this is that he had no surprises when he listened to citizens here Wednesday. That's because he keeps an ear tuned to his constituents, and he knows what they are concerned about before he comes home to listen.

education district tax levied in 188 countywide or multi-county regions.

The challengers say since the state Supreme Court ruled the tax unconstitutional, it shouldn't be collected.

If U.S. District Judge James Nowlin rules against the state, Richards said, the special session "definitely will be" held May 11, and she will seek to put the constitutional amendment before voters in August.

This week, a majority of public school superintendents serving on a state advisory panel said passing a constitutional amendment to legalize the current CED tax is the best way to solve the school finance problem.

Several of the superintendents sharply criticized Richards' plan to take away their districts' business and mineral property. The governor called that criticism "disappointing."

Lucas feels execution is likely in near future

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) - Condemned inmate and one-time alleged serial killer Henry Lee Lucas spends most of his time these days working on clocks he constructs from wood toothpicks.

One of his pieces now stands 3 1/2 feet high and includes 10,000 toothpicks, he said Wednesday.

"I set around making clocks - doing time, making time," he said.

Lucas became one of the most celebrated inmates on the Texas death row in the wake of claims that he killed hundreds of people in 26 states, although he has recanted his confessions for all but the 1960 slaying of his mother in Michigan.

On Wednesday, he said he expects to get an execution date soon now that the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals has upheld his conviction for a 1979 slaying near Georgetown.

"You get a date - you're liable to be executed," he said. "They've been executing other innocent people."

Asked if that meant he would volunteer to be executed, he replied: "It ran through my mind but I haven't thought about it. When it does happen, I try to think of the truth. I knew they probably wouldn't overturn it. I've been expecting that for a long time."

The state's highest criminal appeals court last week rejected claims Lucas was deprived of due process because during the punishment phase of his trial the judge failed to give proper instructions to the jury on applying the mitigating circumstances of mental illness and disease.

"Knowing Williamson County, it won't be long," he said. "They're trying to push this as hard as they can push."

"I am frustrated. I almost told my lawyer to stick it."

Asked if that meant he would volunteer to be executed, he replied:

"It ran through my mind but I haven't thought about it. When it does happen, I try to think of the truth. I knew they probably wouldn't Lucas contends he was in Florida at the time of the Orange Socks killing, working as a roofer at an air base.

"Sure I worry," he said of prospects for his execution. "It's on your mind constantly. You can think of nothing else."

Lucas also acknowledged that his past admissions could haunt him in his appeals.

"I take some blame for lying," he said. "But anybody put through what I was put through would have lied too, probably."

Lucas recently was placed in segregation and pulled from the prison work program after he posted a note on a bulletin board complaining about someone stealing his watch and warning it better be returned. "It's your last warning," Lucas said his note indicated.

He was disciplined, according to Lucas, because prison officials interpreted the note as a threat.

"They take it here I was going to kill somebody," he said. "I meant I'd turn him (the thief) in to an officer."

Libya expels diplomats

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) - Tripoli plans to strike back at U.N. sanctions by expelling diplomats of countries that swiftly cut off air links and ordered Libyan envoys home to pressure for the release of suspected terrorists. The U.N. considers humanitarian flights.

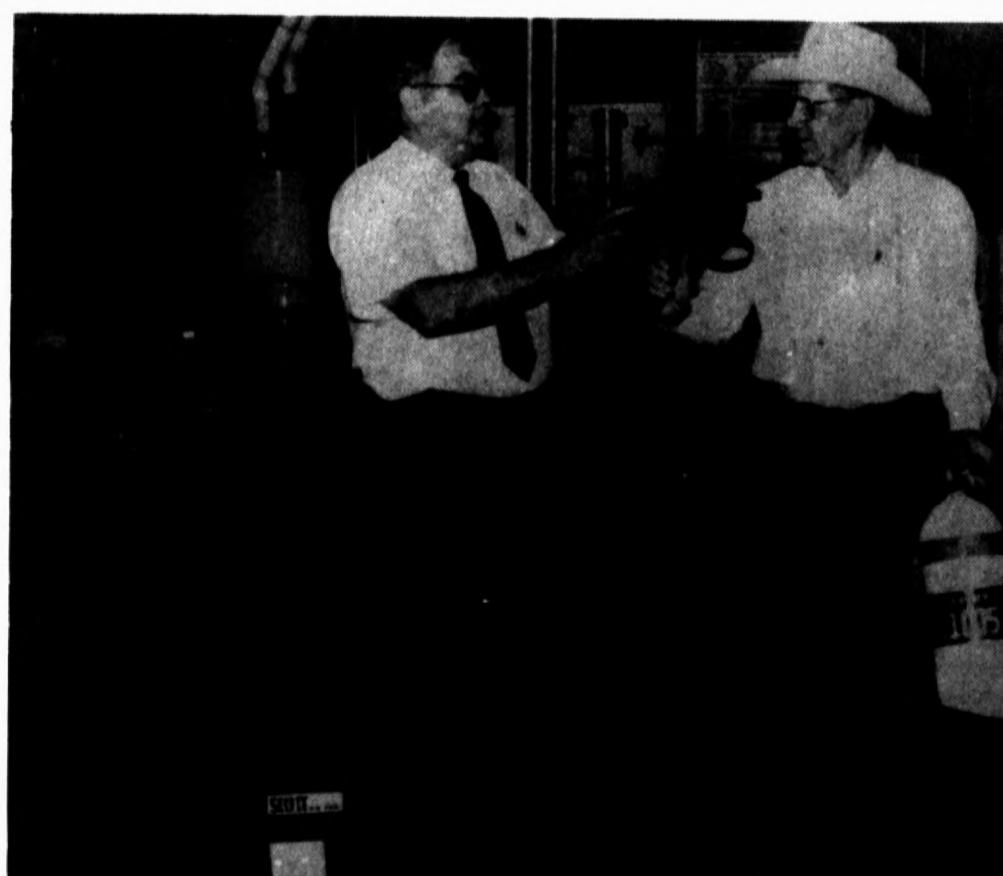

Citing a Russian Foreign Ministry statement, Radio Russia said today that Moscow was concerned about the "threat of terrorist attacks against foreigners of states which have supported the United Nations sanctions against Libya."

It did not elaborate, but Russia today began pulling from Libya 3,000 of its citizens - military advisers, technicians and their family members.

About 1 million foreigners - including 500 to 1,000 Americans - live in the nation of 4.2 million people. Many said they were not afraid and did not plan to flee.

At the United Nations, the Security Council on Wednesday set up a committee to monitor enforcement of the sanctions.

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards says she'll move as quickly as possible to replace Public Utility Commissioner Paul Meek, who has announced his resignation.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You recently hit on a problem that has been plaguing me ever since my son was born four years ago.

"A Public School Teacher in Georgia" wrote to ask parents to keep their sick children home. She was correct when she said, "Sending sick kids to school is unfair to everyone." She also was correct when she pointed out that sick children cannot learn and there are no facilities to care for them at school. She is, however, appealing to the wrong audience.

I am allowed five sick days a year. I go to work regardless of how lousy I feel so I can stay home with my son should he become ill. I realize that when I go to work sick I risk infecting my co-workers, which is unfair to them, but I have no alternative. If I'm lucky, I will make it through the year without running out of sick days.

An, I have one child, parents with two or more kids are in an impossible situation. I have seen sick infants bedded down in file drawers and under desks in our office and it makes me sad, but I understand what these mothers are up against. They're run out of sick days and can't afford to stay at home and be docked.

I spoke to my employer about the problem and it did absolutely no good. Now I would like to ask corporate America a question: What possible advantage is there in denying employees the sick days they need in order to keep illness out of the workplace and the public schools? In terms of hard dollars and days spent on the job, corporations would be miles ahead if sick people could stay at home where they belong.--Any Parent, Anywhere

DEAR ANY PARENT: You've written a provocative letter with a great deal of merit. The question you have raised is one that deserves some attention. Corporate America, I'd like to hear from you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you printed a letter from a mother whose son had been accused of date rape. Fortunately for the young man, the girl did not press charges. My son was not so lucky.

Even if he is found innocent, the stigma will remain with him throughout his entire life. In "Johns" case, it was an alleged rape on their second date. The woman is several years older than my son and has been divorced twice. He told me that not only was this consensual sex, but the woman had been very aggressive and initiated it.

What was her motive in crying rape? Who knows? Perhaps rage toward men in general, similar to the rage that many rapists have toward women. I doubt that it was for money. We have very little. Imagined rejection? Who can say what goes on in these tormented minds?

I know you can't help us, Ann, but maybe you can help other naive young men by printing my letter. Tell them to be careful. There are some sick and dangerous women out there who, for whatever reason, will vent their anger on any vulnerable young man who gets too close.--Brokenhearted in Texas

DEAR TEXAS: Having heard only your side of this story, I hesitate to comment, but I do thank you for your admonition to naive young men to "be careful." This same warning should be taken seriously by naive young women. Thank you for writing.

Shark meets the Admiral Tarkanian will bring runnin' style to Spurs

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Jerry Tarkanian is jumping from college to the pros by joining the San Antonio Spurs, but he says his coaching style won't take a quantum leap.

Tarkanian, named Spurs coach Wednesday, said his successful UNLV Runnin' Rebels played the way many NBA teams do.

"I think for years we played the NBA style of basketball - we pressed and we ran," he said. "We'll be the Runnin' Spurs."

Tarkanian said he will spend time observing the Spurs and watching game videotapes before deciding on specific changes. He said improving the team's running game and continuing to concentrate on defense will be high priorities.

"I know the personnel here and I like the team very much," Tarkanian said. "There's tremendous potential here, and I hope we can put everything together right."

Spurs players had positive things to say about their new coach, who will take over after this season. Bob Bass, Spurs vice president of basketball operations, will continue as interim coach until then, as he has since Larry Brown was fired Jan. 21.

"It's going to be real good to have him here. It's going to be a good, fresh start for us," said Sean Elliott, who faced UNLV when he was at Arizona.

Tarkanian met with the players Wednesday evening as they boarded their plane for Phoenix for tonight's game against the Suns.

Several players said they like Tarkanian's up-tempo coaching style.

"For us, it's a great situation," forward Terry Cummings said. "His running style is what the Spurs have tried to adopt for the last three years."

Athletics bash way to comeback victory

By The Associated Press

They're back.

The baseball-bashing Oakland Athletics, a team you never had a big enough lead against while they were winning three straight American League pennants, are back at it.

Down 6-1, the A's erupted for four runs in the fifth on homers by Rickey Henderson and Jose Canseco, then took the lead with a three-run seventh capped by Scott Brosius' two-run single.

"We had a chance to get back in the game and they took advantage of the opportunities," manager Tony La Russa said of the 10-6 victory, Oakland's seventh in nine games. "Rickey's ball really sent a charge through us. We were down, nothing good was happening, and then all of a sudden Rickey does that and it's a two-run game. Rickey's hit was big, and the obvious one was Brosius."

After Henderson's three-run homer, Canseco followed with a huge solo shot that shaved the Royals' lead to 6-5. Canseco was 4 for 5 for the night.

Jeff Parrett (3-0) got the victory with 2 2-3 innings in relief. The loser was Mike Magnante, who surrendered a game-tying RBI single to Willie Wilson ahead of Brosius' two-run single.

Vince Horsman pitched 2 2-3 innings of two-hit relief for his first major league save.

Wally Joyner had four hits and Brian McRae had a single, double and triple for Kansas City, off to its worst start at 1-8.

Brewers 7, Twins 4

At the Metrodome, the Twins rallied for three runs in the ninth to tie it 4-4. Then Milwaukee got three in the top of the 10th to win it.

B.J. Surhoff's one-out single scored two runs. Scott Fletcher singled to start the 10th, pitcher Carl Willis bobbed Paul Molitor's bunt for an error and, after Darryl Hamilton's groundout moved the runners up, Surhoff looped a single to center off Bob Kipper. Robin Yount made it 7-4 with an RBI single.

Rookie Jim Austin (1-0), Milwaukee's seventh pitcher, picked up his first major league victory.

Blue Jays 2, Yankees 0

At Toronto, the Blue Jays continued their hottest start ever, moving to 8-1 as Jimmy Key and Tom Henke combined on a three-hitter. Pat Borders drove in one run and scored the other.

Key (1-0) allowed all three hits, including a leadoff double by Randy Velarde in the ninth that led to his departure. Henke came on with a 2-1 count on Don Mattingly and got three straight outs for his first save.

Rangers 3, Angels 2

The host Rangers got a solid effort from Bobby Witt, who won for the first time since May 26, striking out eight and allowing six hits in seven innings. The sometimes-wild Witt made only 16 starts in 1991 because of a rotator cuff injury. He allowed just one walk before he was relieved by Kenny Rogers.

Jeff Russell pitched the ninth to earn his second save.

Mariners 6, White Sox 0

At Chicago, Ken Griffey Jr. and Pete O'Brien, who are supposed to do such things, and Jeff Schaefer, who certainly isn't, homered to back rookie Dave Fleming.

Griffey hit a two-run homer, his second, in the fourth inning. After a rain delay of 1 hour, 20 minutes, Schaefer hit a two-run homer in the top of the fifth. It was Schaefer's first homer of the season and second of his career, the other coming at Comiskey Park last year. O'Brien hit his third homer in the sixth inning.

Tigers 8, Indians 1

At Cleveland, Alan Trammell and Milt Cuyler each drove in two runs and Eric King, an Indians pitcher last season, allowed nine hits in seven innings.

Win makes Gooden, Mets feel better

By The Associated Press

Dwight Gooden and the New York Mets are starting to feel a little better about themselves.

After losing four straight games at home, the Mets made it two in a row at Shea Stadium Wednesday night with a 7-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Gooden (1-1) lost his first start of the year last week in the home opener despite allowing only three hits in 6 2-3 innings against Montreal. He again pitched into the seventh inning, and left after 107 pitches.

"Each time out, he gets a little better," Mets manager Jeff Torborg said. "He changed speeds nicely and had a good fastball."

Reds 3, Braves 1

Chris Hammond scattered four hits in eight innings as Cincinnati swept a three-game series from Atlanta at Riverfront Stadium for the first time since 1978.

Bip Roberts singled twice, drove in two runs and scored the other off

Charlie Leibrandt (1-1).

Winner Chris Hammond (2-0) lasted eight innings for the first time in 20 major league starts.

Atlanta's Deion Sanders opened the game with a home run and had an eighth-inning triple.

Astros 5, Dodgers 4

At the Astrodome, rookie Scott Servais singled home the tie-breaking run in the sixth inning as Houston took two of three games in the series.

With the score 4-4, Ken Caminiti led off the sixth with a walk-off starter Bob Ojeda (0-2). Casey Candaele sacrificed Caminiti to second and Servais followed with a bloop single to right.

The Dodgers took a 3-0 lead in the first inning off winner Mark Portugal (1-0) on Eric Davis' two-run single and Dave Hansen's RBI single.

Cardinals 4, Expos 2

At Olympic Stadium, Bob

Tewksbury pitched six solid innings and St. Louis scored four unearned runs to beat Montreal. Former Cardinal Ken Hill was the loser.

Gerald Perry pinch hit for Tewksbury (1-0) in the seventh inning and delivered a sacrifice fly for the go-ahead run, snapping a 1-1 tie.

Milt Thompson reached on an error by third baseman Bret Barberie, his second of the game and sixth of the season, to start the decisive seventh.

Pirates 7, Cubs 2

Pinch-hitters Cecil Espy and Lloyd McClendon, a combined 12 for 15 this season, drove in three runs in the sixth inning to help Pittsburgh beat Chicago. The Pirates have won six of their eight games this season, and have won 16 of the last 18 games against the Cubs at Three Rivers Stadium.

Rockets, Lakers stay in Shaq Sweepstakes

By The Associated Press

The Los Angeles Lakers had a perfect opportunity to get in position to reach the NBA playoffs for the 16th consecutive season.

Starting Wednesday night a half-game behind Houston in the race for the NBA's final playoff spot, the Lakers were playing the Denver Nuggets, losers of 11 consecutive games since their last victory on March 23 at Minnesota. The Rockets were on the road at Utah, which has the best home record in the league.

TARKANIAN

All-Star center David Robinson came to the airport to meet Tarkanian, although Robinson was not traveling with the team because he is recovering from thumb surgery.

"All I know is all his players have a lot of respect for him and really enjoy playing for him," Robinson said. "He's been successful, so he obviously knows how to win basketball games."

Robinson recalled playing against UNLV during his senior year with Navy.

"He was real nice to me then, but they were beating us up," Robinson said with a laugh.

Spurs owner Red McCombs said Tarkanian had agreed to a "multi-year" deal. Contract terms were not disclosed. Tarkanian will be the team's color commentator for the remainder of the season.

Tarkanian said he "put out a feeler" when the Spurs job came open in January. He and McCombs said the deal was finalized in the past few days.

"This was a well-kept secret," Tarkanian said.

Indeed, the news surprised many, including Robinson, who was told of the signing by a reporter while the center was taping a public service announcement.

Detroit Pistons coach Chuck Daly

The Jazz co-operated by routing the Rockets 130-98, but the Lakers couldn't handle the lowly Nuggets down the stretch, losing 110-107.

"A loss is a loss, no matter who you play," Byron Scott said. "This was disappointing because the game's playoff implications.

"Their playoff situation is for them to be concerned with," he said.

The Lakers led 37-24 in the first quarter, but couldn't hold on as the Nuggets got 30 points and 12 rebounds from Greg Anderson and 27 points from Reggie Williams.

"When we got the 13-point lead, I told the team to stay tough and try to put them away," Lakers coach Mike Dunleavy said. "Some teams in their situation would fold, but Denver has guys who can hit the shots, and Cadillac Anderson is a top 10 rebounder who got the boards."

A hook shot by Vlade Divac, who led Los Angeles with 23 points, gave the Lakers their last lead, 105-104, with 1:39 left. Williams then drove with a career record of 624-122, a winning percentage of 83.6, making him the winningest coach in college history.

His battles with the NCAA date to the early 1970s when he was at Long Beach State.

The NCAA placed UNLV on two years probation in 1977 and, in an unprecedented move, also ordered Tarkanian suspended for two years. Tarkanian fought the suspension in the courts and continued coaching.

The case went to the U.S. Supreme Court, which by a 5-4 vote ruled that the NCAA was a private agency and didn't have to provide due process, as the coach had argued.

UNLV is accused of committing 40 NCAA infractions. Those issues are not expected to be resolved until a federal judge rules on a pending NCAA lawsuit against the state of Nevada, where a new law mandates that the association provide due process to state employees.

As for the Spurs, the coaching announcement came less than a week before the injury-plagued team enters the Western Conference playoffs.

The Spurs ended last season at 55-27, winning the Midwest Division for the second consecutive year. On Wednesday, the Spurs were 46-33 and second in the division with no way of catching first-place Utah.

Tarkanian finished his 19th season for a backdoor layup, putting the Nuggets ahead to stay with 1:17 to play.

Jazz 130, Rockets 98

Karl Malone scored 29 points and Jeff Malone 25 as Utah built a huge third-quarter lead and coasted against Houston.

Sleepy Floyd had 27 points and Hakeem Olajuwon 22 for the Rockets.

Magic 102, 76ers 99

Nick Anderson scored 24 points, including nine in the last six minutes in Orlando's victory over Philadelphia.

Anderson scored five quick points to give the Magic a 92-91 lead with 3:39 to go, then had a key rebound and assist in the closing seconds to help them win their final home game.

John Battle scored all of his 16 points in the fourth quarter, helping the Cavaliers close a 16-point deficit to 108-103. Then Gill responded with a 16-footer and a pair of free throws to seal the win.

Trail Blazers 100, Mavericks 94

Buck Williams led his team in scoring for the first time all season with 20 points, helping Portland win at Dallas.

The Trail Blazers took control with a 9-0 run that included two baskets from reserve Ennis Whatley for a 91-83 lead in the fourth quarter. Williams' hook shot with 4:34 left capped the spurt.

Hawks 95, Knicks 94

Paul Graham's off-balance 17-footer with 27 seconds left enhanced Atlanta's playoff chances and dropped New York into a first-place tie in the Atlantic Division.

Celtics 92, Pistons 89

Boston tied New York for first place in the Atlantic Division as Robert Parish scored 14 of his 22 points in the first half at Detroit.

Friday deadline to signup

All girls, preschool through the ninth grade, are invited to enter the Annual Little Miss Hereford Pageant scheduled Saturday, March 25, in the Hereford High School auditorium.

The deadline to signup for the pageant is 5 p.m. Friday at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office, 701 N. Main St. Registration fee is $5 per contestant.

The pageant, which is being co-chaired by Jan Page and Kim Rogers, is open to all girls from ages four through ninth grade. Other committee members include Jackie Murphey, Janice Carr, Sue Malamen, Leslie Easley, Charlotte Collier, Emily Christie and Peggy Fox.

The pageant is divided into four divisions: Cutest Miss, preschool and kindergarten; Miss Petite, first through third grades; Little Princess, fourth through sixth grades; and Miss Junior High, seventh through ninth grades.

Due to the increasing number of pageant contestants, the event will be staged in two parts. All Cutest Miss division contestants will be presented at 5 p.m. April 25 and the remaining division contestants will compete beginning at 7 p.m.

Tickets to the event are priced at $2 per person and may be purchased at the door the night of the pageant.

Pageant rehearsals will be held Friday, April 24, at the HHS auditorium. All contestants must be present unless they have a written excuse from a doctor. Rules and regulations, including rehearsal times, are attached to entry forms.

WTSU to offer free course for mathematics teachers

The West Texas State University department of mathematics and physical sciences in cooperation with the Region XVI Education Service Center will offer a summer workshop for ninth through twelfth grade mathematics teachers. Participants will meet from 10 a.m.-noon and 1-3 p.m. June 22-25, June 29-July 2 and July 6-9, once each week of the course for a luncheon program and once in October for a brief follow-up session.

The course will be taught by Judy Kelley, WTSU mathematics instructor; David Patterson, associate professor of mathematics; and Dr. Ken Van Doren, professor of mathematics.

Topics to be discussed include graphing using graphing calculators and computer software, algebra using symbolic manipulators, programming using graphing calculators and computer software, and fractals.

"Technology plays an important role in mathematics education and can greatly enhance a student's understanding," Kelley said. "This workshop involves a lot of active participation and will give teachers an opportunity to learn more about that new technology."

The most enticing feature of the program, however, at last from a teacher's perspective, may be the cost. The course is funded by an Eisenhower Mathematics and Science grant that covers the cost of tuition, fees, books, materials including sections of the NCTM Standards, TI-

81 graphing calculators, and residence hall rooms if requested. Participants may also qualify for travel and child care allowances under provisions of the grant.

Upon successful completion of the program, participants will receive credit for Math 5581, a three-hour graduate-level course.

Class size will be limited to 30 ninth-twelfth grade mathematics teachers. Completed teacher applications forms and school approval forms should be submitted by May 4.

For more information or to request an application form, write Judy Kelley, WTSU Box 787, Canyon, Texas 79016 or call 656-2543.

CLEVELAND (AP) - Jennifer Capriati, the 16-year-old tennis star, is sticking with her dad rather than switching to coach Pavel Slozil.

Capriati and Slozil had a four-month coaching trial but decided not to make it permanent, Capriati's management company, IMG, said Wednesday.

Slozil has coached Grand Slam winner Steffi Graf.

Bake sale Friday at hospital

Cakes, cookies, pies, and even decorated Easter eggs will be offered for sale Friday at the Deaf Smith General Hospital Volunteer Auxiliary bake sale. The sale is set from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the hospital board room.

"We will have a large variety of homemade baked goods, and some uniquely decorated Easter eggs for our customers," said Anna Stindt, auxiliary president.

The auxiliary will use money from the bake sale to help fund future projects of the auxiliary. The volunteers operate the hospital's gift shop and host several fund-raising projects during the year. The auxiliary, which has 15 members, purchased patient room recliners for the hospital as their last project.

Go nutty for these spreads

Peanut butter lovers! Go for fresh flavor by making your own nut butters. Just give them a whirl in your food processor or blender.

There's no rule that says you have to use peanuts. Almonds, pecans, walnuts and cashews can turn that ho-hum sandwich into lunchtime splurge. Follow the easy directions below for each kind of nut. Then spread your choice on toast or bread and see if it passes the ultimate test - sticking to the roof of your mouth!

Nuts to Use

Cashew: Process or blend two cups of roasted cashews.

Peanut: Use two cups of cocktail peanuts. (Dry roasted peanuts usually give a grainier texture.)

Pecan: Use two cups of pecans. You can toast the pecans if you like. Spread the nuts in a shallow baking pan and toast in a 300-degree F oven for 20 minutes. Cool for 5 minutes before processing or blending.

Walnut: Process or blend two cups of walnuts. (This butter has the darkest color and strongest flavor.)

Hints from Heloise

Q. How can I separate marshmallows that have really stuck together? I have to buy the large package because I cannot find any small ones. I use a lot of marshmallows but don't finish the bag before they stick together. — Colleen Powell, Costa Mesa, Calif.

This method saves a great deal of frustration, plastic wrap and time. — Sondra Motes, Ft. Pierce, Fla.

Dear Heloise: I'm writing in response to a pet peeve I recently saw about clothes hangers that were too small for large-size clothing.

I had the same problem and solved it by going to my local dry cleaner and purchasing curtain and drapery hangers. They are inexpensive and work great.

PRODUCE MAN

Dear Heloise: Here's my own special tip for buying fruits and vegetables: I married a produce man! My husband is the produce-department head for a local major grocery chain, so I never have to worry about not getting the best selection.

But even if you're not married to a produce man, get to know the produce personnel in your local market. They are usually more than happy to share tips on everything from the ripeness of melons to the latest "new" vegetable.

I know my husband takes pride in showing his customers the most perfect ripe cantaloupe or the sweetest corn. — Suzi Skutley, Santa Paula, Calif.

ICE-CREAM CUPCAKE

Dear Heloise: When having a child's birthday party, scooping out ice cream can be made easy.

An hour or so before the party, take a cupcake pan, put in some foil cupcake liners and put a scoop of ice cream in each one. Sprinkle with sprinkles and after cutting the cake, place the servings of ice cream on party plates. It's easy. — Debi Dowd, Bokeelia, Fla.

PLASTIC WRAP

Dear Heloise: I use the stickiness of the plastic wrap to my advantage.

Whenever I pull plastic wrap out of the box, I hold the free end while closing the lid. The free end clings to the outside of the box. The next time I need wrap, the end is right where I left it — outside the box and easily accessible.

This method saves a great deal of frustration, plastic wrap and time. — Sondra Motes, Ft. Pierce, Fla.

Dear Heloise: I'm writing in response to a pet peeve I recently saw about clothes hangers that were too small for large-size clothing.

I had the same problem and solved it by going to my local dry cleaner and purchasing curtain and drapery hangers. They are inexpensive and work great.

They're also larger than an ordinary hanger. — Mary Jane Patterson, Chambersburg, Pa.

If the cleaner does drapery work, they should be able to sell you the hangers.

(The price ranges from 25 to 50 cents each or less.) When they don't have them in stock, they should be able to give you the name and number of their local supplier and you can buy from them. — Heloise

LOOSE CHANGE

Dear Heloise: I have found a great way to keep coins in my purse — the plastic containers that new film comes in.

I keep quarters in one container and pennies, nickels and dimes in another. Recently comes in handy at the checkout counter. — Jean Wilcox, Centerville, Mass.

BOOSTER SEAT

Dear Heloise: I got tired of paying for two seats whenever I took my 4-year-old daughter to see a movie. As soon as the movie started, she would get in my lap so she could see better.

Now I take along the booster seat she uses at the dining-room table. It is easy to carry, fits great in the theater seat and she can see the full screen. — Karen Bisbee, Little Rock, Ark.

Print is the only medium of communication designed to accomodate humankind.

You can fold it to fit in a crowded briefcase, your wallet, or a recipe file.

You can spindle it to remind you of the latest shows you want to see, tonight's TV schedule, information of interest to a co-worker, schedule of sports events.

You can mutilate it for cents-off coupons, telephone numbers, sales hours, store addresses, political cartoons.

You can even line the bird cage with it or wrap fish in it.

Try that with your radio or television.

Committee recognized at meeting

Certificates of appreciation were presented to five Women's Division committees during a recent meeting. Among the committees honored was the decoration committee. Tommie Savage, center, serves as chairman and committee members include Kim Porter, at left, and Janice Carr. Also, on the committee are Susan Hennessey and Debra Perry. The Women's Division's annual membership drive is underway and a member who recruits the most new members will be named "Queen for a Day" which will entitle her to receive a gift certificate to the Touch of Class. Women wishing to join the organization may contact a division member or the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, 364-3333.

ValuCare discussed during auxiliary meeting

Elizabeth Dunning, director of the ValuCare program at Deaf Smith General Hospital, presented the program to members of the Hospital Auxiliary at a noon meeting April 6

When a surgical procedure is done in a podiatrist's office or clinic, a patient will be in and out the same day.

in the hospital board room. The local program is affiliated with the ValuCare program at Methodist Hospital in Lubbock. Dunning said that this program is available to persons 65 years of age and older who are on Medicare. There is an annual fee of $30 for a single person or a $50 annual fee for a couple. This is a senior citizens discount program for patient in-hospital stays. There are also merchant discounts for such things as medicine and medical supplies.

There will be free educational programs and free health screenings throughout the year. Members will receive regular newsletters and mailouts concerning special events.

Dunning asked auxiliary members to assist at the Health Fair planned May 16. Assistance was also requested during the blood pressure and cholesterol screenings planned

April 27-28 at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

Dunning said she would like to establish job descriptions for auxiliary personnel. She hopes to develop projects in fund raising and will support the auxiliary in its current fundraisers.

The Hospital Auxiliary will be sponsoring a bake sale at the hospital Friday, April 17.

The March minutes were read and approved and role was called. Members recited the auxiliary prayer and the treasurer's report was given.

Additional reports were heard. Twenty-six babies were born at the hospital in March and 121 hours of service was noted.

Members attending were Neil Culpepper, Olga Harris, Lulu Cerdá, Quintana Waits, Mary Williamson, Anna Stindt, Baxter London and Mary Jane Burrus.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: Do people who have sugar diabetes shake if they don't have food to eat? If so, why do they shake, and what is it from. We have never heard of this. I am a borderline diabetic and don't do this. My son is the one who shakes when he doesn't eat. Also, do people who are diabetic lose weight?

DEAR READER: Your letter doesn't really tell me if your son is a diabetic or not, but I presume he has not been diagnosed as having it.

Uncontrolled diabetes may cause a person to go into coma, but not shake. A low blood glucose level will cause shaking. That can happen to a diabetic who is taking insulin and has an insulin reaction. There is evidence that some diabetics have hypoglycemia before they later develop diabetes. However, there are many causes for shaking that are totally unrelated to low blood glucose levels. Your son would need an evaluation to determine exactly what is happening. I have no idea what your son's age or habits may be. If he is an adult and uses alcohol to excess that could be a factor.

The question of weight gain or loss with diabetes does confuse people. Often with adult onset diabetes, a person is overweight, and weight loss will actually help correct the diabetes. Many people who take pills to lower their blood glucose level would do better to eliminate their obesity. That can normalize their glucose levels.

But an advanced diabetic loses weight because he loses sugar — which means losing calories — in the urine. At that stage, even protein in body tissues is used by the liver to form more glucose. Since his cells utilize very little glucose, because of a lack of insulin, the carbohydrate from his diet may not be utilized effectively. These are also the diabetics who are at risk of diabetic coma.

I'm sending you a free copy of Special Report 89, Diabetes: The Sweet Sickness, to give you more information on the symptoms and management of diabetes. Others who want this information can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/89, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

Borderline diabetes is an old term and the criteria for diagnosis has changed. The term suggests that you may have an abnormal glucose tolerance response but not actual diabetes. If you are overweight, weight loss could be beneficial.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have been considering having a vasectomy. Our daughter, the younger of two children, just turned 8 years old. My wife volunteered to have a hysterectomy. I just turned 39 and my wife will be 37 soon. She is worried that she might conceive. She worries because a neurological problem is present in four of her relatives. She is healthy and our children appear to be intelligent and normal. What are the consequences of a vasectomy? If my wife does conceive, what are the chances of the child developing neurological deficiencies?
