Retiring city manager gets 'Bull Chip' award

Dudley Bayne, longtime city manager of Hereford who will retire in June, was presented the "Bull Chip" award; Hereford Buck drawings for $30 and $40 were won by Ouida Halbert and Jacqueline Nikkel; and the retail merchants association saluted farmers as part of Agriculture Week during the Fun Breakfast activities this morning in the Community Center.

John Stagner and Charlie Bell, co-emcees, also led the audience in several games and called on various people to give reports or announcements on upcoming community events. Miss Hereford, Amy Quillen, drew Pick Harmon's name for a $100 prize to a chamber member but he was not present.

The Fun Breakfast is a project of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce and is held about every two months. LaJean Henry, representing the sponsoring retail merchants, saluted everyone involved in agriculture in the county.

Bayne, who has been city manager for almost 29 years, was cited for his contributions "above and beyond the call of duty in making Hereford a better place to live, work and play" when he was presented the Bull Chip by Speedy Nieman. Bayne helped guide Hereford through its peak growth period in the 60s and has supervised most of the major city improvement projects over the years.

When Bayne came to Hereford in June, 1956, the population was about 5,500 and the city budget was $355,000. He has seen those figures grow to a census of almost 16,000 and a budget near $4 million. He will retire in June.

Mayor Wes Fisher introduced his special guests at the breakfast—Darwin and Connie McGill. The McGills have just moved to Hereford and he will be the new city manager. He will begin work April 1 and work with Bayne for two months.

Mike Carr, executive VP of the chamber, introduced 13 new members in the chamber and made announcements about an Employer Seminar to be held March 28, and told of plans for the Sesquicentennial celebration in 1986.

Others who made announcements and the event: Nell Rhoton, Little Miss Hereford Pageant, April 20; Milton Adams, C of C Legislative Candidate Forum, March 28; Ike Stevens, C of C Super Sports Weekend track meet, March 30; Mark Landrum, Rotary Club Circus, April 8; Clovis Seago, Town & Country Jubilee, Aug. 11-17; John Stagner, Kiwanis Club Special Olympics, April 4; Charlie Bell, Agape Singles Group at First Christian Church, Friday at 7:30 p.m.

In a "Stump-the-Band" game, members of the audience were asked to name a song and, if Bell and pianist Jan Walser couldn't play it, the person won $10 in Hereford Bucks. Making the game more interesting was the stipulation the person who tried to stump the band had to sing the song if the "band" didn't know the tune.

The audience also enjoyed a "body language" game. Four teams, with four members each, had to spell out four-letter words given to them by the emcees. The winning team was the first one who got someone in the audience to guess the word they were trying to spell.

Bull Chip To Bayne

City Manager Dudley Bayne, who is to retire in June, was presented the chamber's Bull Chip award this morning at the Fun Breakfast. Bayne, left, was cited for 29 years of service to the city, "often above and beyond the call of duty", said presenter Speedy Nieman, Brand publisher.

Lubbock's Ag Day rally unites growers, groups, politicians

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — The politicians lined up to tell the farmers and ranchers what they wanted to hear — Texas agriculture is not getting a fair deal.

"I know what it's like to milk a cow and have the cow step in the milk bucket," Lubbock County Judge Rod Shaw said at the Wednesday rally. "Someone is still stepping in our bucket."

About 600 people were at the Lubbock Civic Center for what many said was an unprecedented gathering of producers of a variety of crops.

The Agriculture Day rally also brought together officials from two long-feuding groups — the Texas Farmers Union and Texas Farm Bureau.

Gov. Mark White likened it to a meeting of officials from the rival cities of Midland and Odessa. White surveyed the head table and joked that he was surprised that the different groups were "in the same room at the same time and nobody's gotten hurt."

Rice growers, cotton producers, wheat farmers and corn producers lined up to offer echoing messages. Farm life is difficult in 1985. You can't survive by raising crops that sell for less than the price of production.

"This is not a farm problem," White said. "This is an American problem."

"In times of crisis organizations can put aside petty differences and unite for the big fight we cannot afford to lose," said Mike Moeller of the farmers union.

White and Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower blamed the farm woes on the Reagan administration. They said the president's farm policies have done nothing to bring farmers the one thing that can help — a fair price.

"America's countryside is in a death struggle with Washington," said Hightower. "You can still make a small fortune in farming. The problem is you have to start with a large fortune."

The Reagan plan, he said, will replace family farms with corporate agriculture. "Purely and simply what we are in is a power struggle to determine who is going to deliver our dinner," he said.

Carl King of Dimmitt, representing corn producers, said all farmers have been hurt by "cheap food policies." He said Texas farmers are looking to White for help in pushing a favorable farm bill through Congress.

"I'm aware he's not everybody's cup of tea. But right now we're with you 100 percent," King told White.

J.B. Cooper of the Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Association told the crowd, "The agriculture industry is not dead. It's badly crippled. It's worth saving."

Minnesota Agriculture Commissioner Jim Nichols said efforts in Washington have not been helped by U.S. Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Mission and chairman of the House Agriculture Committee.

De la Garza is "a really nice guy but we need to get him out of the middle of the road."

After the 90-minute rally, several farmers agreed with Hightower that their battle is akin to a death struggle. After 25 years of farming at Jayton, Royce Stanaland is working 90 minutes a day in the oil field to bring in money to help cover his farm losses.

"I'm not going to blame it all on the president. I support him trying to get the deficit down. But I believe he is trying to take too much of it from agriculture," said Stanaland, who voted for Reagan and still backs the president.

Buffalo Dam assessment still unsigned

A member of 13th District Rep. Beau Boulter's staff said Wednesday Boulter is not necessarily opposed to nor is he yet in favor of, repairing the dam at Buffalo Lake.

"We have not had time to discuss the dam with the Department of the Interior," Special Projects Manager Bob Knight admitted. "We want to know what our options are, and we want to get it straight from the horses' mouth, the Interior Department."

Rodney Krey, complex manager for the Buffalo Lake National Wildlife Refuge, announced at a Tuesday meeting of the Buffalo Lake Water District board that the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is not moving forward with plans to repair the dam because it does not believe Congressional approval of the expenditure is likely.

An environmental assessment which recommended the dam and spillway be fixed was issued a few months ago by the Bureau of Reclamation, and F&WS has indicated it is happy with the BOR's recommendation. But according to Jim Hubert, refuge supervisor at the Albuquerque regional office, Regional Director Mike Spear has not signed the EA and it is currently sitting on his desk.

"He has not signed it because he's getting indications there is not political support for the funding," Hubert said.

Economic considerations are another reason why the EA hasn't been signed, Hubert pointed out. In light of the budget cutting that must take place, he said, it seems likely that repairs to the dam totaling nearly $10 million could be among the first to go.

"But, F&WS does want the dam repaired," Hubert assured.

Knight said officials from the regional office have agreed to meet with Boulter when he returns to Amarillo around Easter. In the meantime, Boulter hopes to meet by next week with Bob Jansen at the Department of the Interior.

"We've asked them to draw up the options for us to study. Right now, the Congressman isn't saying he does or does not want the dam fixed."

The Bureau of Reclamation gave several suggestions regarding Umbarger dam, including breaching the dam, leaving it as it is and installing a warning system in case of flood, and rebuilding the spillway and raising the dam. The latter was the one recommended by the Bureau.

Sarpalius' open container bill approved by Senate

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill that would make it illegal to drink and drive in Texas has been approved by the Senate, and the sponsor says state police believe four out of five people will voluntarily comply if the bill becomes law.

"What the Department of Public Safety tells us is that just by having a law on the books to make it illegal to drink and drive, 80 percent of the people will comply with it," Sen. Bill Sarpalius said Wednesday.

Sarpalius, D-Canyon, said statistics from several states had shown that outlawing drinking while driving would reduce the number of fatal traffic accidents.

"Many of you have run surveys in your own senatorial districts, and you have found that there has been a tremendous amount of support throughout the state to ban open containers," Sarpalius told his colleagues.

The bill would prohibit drivers from drinking or holding an open alcoholic beverage container while operating a motor vehicle. Violators could be fined up to $200.

Asked what police could do to stop a driver from simply passing an open beer to a passenger, Sarpalius said, "What we find is that in most cases if two people are sitting in the front seat, both are usually drinking ... and if one person is caught holding two cans of beer ... the peace officer has a pretty good case in that situation."

Sarpalius' bill, which cleared committee Monday only after he agreed to limit the drinking ban to drivers — not passengers — was sent to the House on voice vote. If approved by the House, the bill would go into effect Sept. 1.

Senators also approved and sent to the House proposals that would:

— Abolish the Texas Merit System Council at a savings of $276,866 to the state over the next two years. The council, in operation since 1981, has provided a merit-based personnel system for state employees in accordance with (See SENATE, Page 2)

Woman held 12 days

HOUSTON (AP) — Two men have been charged in the kidnapping of a woman who was abducted from her apartment, locked in a closet for 12 days and repeatedly sexually assaulted, authorities said.

Clarence D. Odom, 40, and Michael A. Harland, 25, were charged Wednesday with aggravated kidnapping and aggravated sexual assault, the Harris County district attorney's office said.

Bond was set at $2 million for Odom and at $100,000 for Harland.

Police Lt. Chuck Lofland said authorities also were searching for a woman in connection with the abduction.

Investigators said three people barged into the 22-year-old victim's apartment in southwest Houston on Feb. 22 as she was getting ready for work.

The victim, a secretary whose name was withheld, was bound with tape, handcuffed and taken to a

Missile vote moves to House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The congressional battle over the MX missile, the winner of two carbon-copy votes in the Senate, moves on to the House where some opponents concede another major victory for President Reagan is in the offing.

"I wish it wasn't so, but there have always been the votes to pass it," Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., said. "In my assessment, it's always been gone."

"I think there is in the House now about a 10-vote victory" for MX, said Rep. Ron Wyden, D-Ore. "And the president has just started making calls on the House side."

But other MX foes, encouraged by Wednesday's 28-26 recommendation by the House Appropriations Committee to kill MX spending, predicted the final tally will be extremely close, with an upset possible.

"It's a hard fight," said House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., an MX opponent. "It's a vote of conscience. We still think we have an excellent chance of winning."

Voyles to chair juvenile board

Deaf Smith County Commissioner James Voyles was elected chairman of the county's juvenile board during Wednesday's regular meeting.

Voyles, a longtime member of the board, replaces Hereford Mayor Wes Fisher as chairman. Fisher said he asked not to be considered for the post this year because he is "too busy."

A new chairman is elected every year. Fisher said Colleen Duffy took over the Juvenile probation officer's post March 18. She replaced Louis Rangel, who is now an adult probation officer in Borger.

Music equipment reported stolen

Hereford police are investigating a $1,000 theft which may have occurred at Hereford High School on Wednesday. Loyd Kelvin of May & Duncan Music reported that he noticed two boxes of music items missing from his pickup while at HHS. The boxes could have been taken during stops at Vega and Boys Ranch, also.

One of the boxes contained reeds for woodwind instruments and another box contained other assorted musical accessories.

Police also checked two reports of broken windows and report of a building being painted on by vandals.

State

March primary considered

AUSTIN (AP) — State chairmen of the Texas Democratic and Republican parties agree that a proposed presidential primary bill is non-partisan, but they split on supporting the measure.

"There's nothing that draws people to the polls like a presidential election," said Democratic chairman Bob Slagle, who wants an early presidential primary in March to give Texas a louder voice in selecting the next president.

"The system we have now has been working well. If it ain't broke, don't fix it," State Republican Chairman George Strake told the House Elections Committee.

The measure, which calls for a vote on announced presidential candidates in March that would bind voters to a party for the rest of the year, was left as pending business. A similar measure is pending in the Senate.

Rep. Clint Hackney, D-Houston and committee chairman, said a vote on the House measure probably would be taken next week.

Texas Republicans have been holding a presidential primary for several years at the same time as the May party elections for state and local officials.

Democrats have a say in selecting the presidential nominees through delegates selected in caucuses for the party's national convention.

Pesticide regulation bill approved

AUSTIN (AP) — A pesticide regulation bill that State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower says is fair to all has been approved by a Senate committee.

The bill approved without objection Wednesday by the Natural Resources Committee appeared to strike a balance among farm workers, commercial chemical and farm interests and Hightower.

Hightower was not present for the committee meeting, but a message from him described the bill as "something all of us can support because it's fair to farmers, farm workers, and rural residents — and that's been our goal all along."

Sen. J.E. "Buster" Brown, the bill sponsor, said pesticide regulations recently adopted by the Texas agriculture department had "caused some concern among the agricultural community."

A major obstacle to pesticide regulation was cleared, according to a department employee, when language was inserted in the bill that removed a requirement that farmers notify certain neighbors before they spray their fields.

Now, if neighbors asked to be notified, the farmer can call the department, and it may notify the neighbors.

False alert alarms citizens

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Panicked San Angelo residents who awoke to a half hour-long Civil Defense warning on their television sets jammed emergency phone lines to find out whether they needed to ignore it or take cover under their beds.

The false alert appeared on all cable television stations at 6:28 a.m. Wednesday and continued until 7:04 a.m., officials said.

Not only residents but off-duty firefighters called in to find out if the alarm was real or only a test, said Fire Department Battalion Chief Dwight Clark.

"Quite a few didn't know whether to go to work or get under the bed," Clark said. "One guy that called got real upset. He was missing his cartoons."

The false alert was triggered when water from overnight rains migrated into an underground telephone cable and caused the system to malfunction, officials told the San Angelo Standard-Times.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The case of a murdered U.S. drug agent has been at least partially solved, with a judge's order to have three people stand trial for kidnapping and homicide.

But six other U.S. citizens who disappeared in Guadalajara in December and January still are missing, with few clues to their whereabouts and little apparent progress in those cases.

Two couples were selling Bibles in an upper middle class Guadalajara neighborhood on Dec. 2 when they were forced into two separate cars. The couples, Dennis and Rose Carlson, of Redding, Calif., and Benjamin and Patricia Mascareñas, of Ely, Nev. have not been seen since.

Two other Americans, John Walker of Minneapolis and Alberto Radelat of Fort Worth, Texas, last were seen on Jan. 30 going into a restaurant.

The investigations are being handled in Guadalajara by the Jalisco State Judicial Police, which has been in turmoil over the case of the U.S. narcotics agent, Enrique Camarena Salazar.

Three Jalisco state policemen were ordered Tuesday to stand trial for kidnapping and murdering Salazar and a Mexican pilot he had worked with, Alberto Zavala Avelar. Camarena and Zavala were abducted separately on Feb. 7 and their severely beaten bodies were found March 5 on a ranch 60 miles from Guadalajara.

Three other state policemen from Guadalajara and a former officer there will be tried on less serious charges related to the case.

Another officer, the homicide division commander of the Jalisco State Police, Gabriel Gonzalez Gonzalez, had also been arrested but died while in custody. The Attorney General's Office said an autopsy showed Gonzalez Gonzalez had died from "acute bleeding of the pancreas" and there were no indications he had been beaten.

One of the seven defendants charged in the Camarena case, however, testified at his arraignment that while in custody, he had heard sounds of Gonzalez Gonzalez being tortured to death.

The disappearances in Guadalajara, as is routine here, have been under the jurisdiction of the homicide division, which Gonzalez Gonzalez headed.

"That department, as you can imagine, has had other concerns of late," said Alan Rogers, a spokesman for the U.S. consulate in Guadalajara, which is 332 miles northwest of the capital.

Rogers said Wednesday the investigation into the other six missing Americans had not necessarily been ignored, but pointed out that the police have had many pressing problems.

Eve Walker, the wife of John Walker, has been in Guadalajara for two weeks and is trying to keep her husband's case active.

"I don't think there's been (an investigation) in any sense of the word," she said in a telephone interview. She said the police told her that if she returned home, the case would be forgotten.

Although there has been no indication that the disappearance of the Carlson and Mascareñas couples had anything to do with the Camarena case, it appears that the later disappearance might be related to drugs.

According to Mrs. Walker, her husband had been finishing a murder mystery that had as "a minor subplot" a cocaine-smuggling scheme.

"It doesn't go into much detail," she said of the manuscript. "It's obvious he doesn't know how those things are done."

But she said she found notes and clippings that indicated Walker had tried to find out more about drug trafficking for a second book. Radelat, who was visiting Walker at the time of his disappearance, had told others he was going to collaborate with Walker on a book, Mrs. Walker added.

She said several policemen had told her they thought Walker was an informer for the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration.

U.S. officials have said that Guadalajara has become a center of international narcotics trade in recent years.

Mrs. Walker, who had lived with her husband in Guadalajara but moved back to Minnesota last fall to enroll their two daughters in school, said her husband was neither an informer nor a narcotics user, but a curious writer.

Dennis Carlson's father spent three weeks in Guadalajara in December to try and advance the investigation into the two couples' apparent abduction. He offered a reward for information but no substantive leads came through.

"It would be a lie if I said there were new leads in these investigations," Edgardo Levy Gallardo, the detective handling the Carlson and Mascareñas disappearances, said Wednesday by phone.

Outside Improvements

The torn up asphalt and lawn in front of the Deaf Smith General Hospital is the groundwork for parking area improvements. When completed, the project will allow a drive up lane to the hospital door and provide parking in an area in front of the hospital's main entry. Inside, the foyer will house the telephone operator and admitting clerk in a new office easily accessible.

"shed-like structure" in the Kemah area, officers said. Two days later she was moved to a nearby mobile home.

She was sexually assaulted "three or four times" during her captivity and was "shoved around and slapped," Lofland said. She was locked in a closet, except when she was allowed to eat and bathe, Lofland said.

The woman was not gagged but she never screamed because she "had no idea whether she was under guard or alone. She was scared," Lofland said. "There was no demand for money or anything."

She was released March 5 outside a convenience store in Porter, about 25 miles north of Houston, police said.

"She basically was unharmed, other than the emotional scars that will be with her for the rest of her life," said police Sgt. Tom Ladd.

Odum was the boyfriend of the victim's mother, police said.

Investigators believe a dispute between the victim's mother and Odum may have prompted the abduction. But they said they don't understand why the others participated.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Bernhard Goetz case reaches prime time tonight when ABC News' "20-20" reconstructs the subway shooting scene and a Harvard lawyer analyzes Goetz's actions step by step, then rejects his self-defense contention.

— Allow the Texas Board of Health to charge fees for reviewing hospital construction plans, which should bring in $219,881 over the next twosecutive day Wednesday, voting 55-45 to approve spending another $1.5 billion for a second installment of 21 MXs. The margin was identical to that in an initial vote on Tuesday.

Under an agreement arrived at last fall, two votes are required in both houses of Congress, one to authorize the money and the other to actually appropriate it.

The two House votes are scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday of next week.

Reagan ultimately wants to place 100 MXs in underground silos in Nebraska and Wyoming to replace the aging force of Minuteman missiles that comprise the land-based portion of the U.S. strategic arsenal.

A major argument against doing that, according to MX opponents, is that both the silos and missiles will be vulnerable to Soviet attack, thus posing the possibility the United States might be forced to fire its missiles on warning of Soviet attack.

That, the opponents say, would place the nuclear balance on a hair-trigger.

In another development, the House Armed Services Committee, as expected, voted 37-8 to support continued MX funds.

The panel led by Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., has consistently recommended the MX, and its members represent a strong, pro-defense voice in the Democrat-controlled House.

As president of one of the oldest study clubs in Hereford, Virginia Holmes fondly recalled all the group has meant to her.

Organized in 1930 by Bay View Study Club as a group for young women, Calliopean Study Club still boasts three active charter members among its 25 total.

The name "calliopean" was inspired by the ancient Greek muse who presided over epic literature and rhetoric.

"I've been involved in the club for almost all of the 12 years I've been in Hereford," Mrs. Holmes recalled. "I've held all of the offices. This is my second time as president."

The club is active in working with the Deaf Smith County Library, Hereford Community Concert and the Chemical People. This is the first year the group has contributed to the Chemical People, a donation they hope to continue through the years.

"We really are involved in anything civic that needs our support," Mrs. Holmes said.

Members hold an annual Silent Auction to raise funds needed for community contributions.

The club observed its 50th anniversary five years ago by celebrating throughout the entire year. Each program during the special year was given by a member who presented an autobiographical sketch.

"There's a lot I enjoy about the club," Mrs. Holmes said. "I really love the fellowship—that's so important when the children are gone. For the program, I really love best the musical programs we've had."

And there's a reason for music being her favorite. Not only does she enjoy listening to music, she is an accomplished pianist.

After studying music at Southwestern University in Weatherford, Okla., and taking piano lessons for 14 years, she taught a small piano class when she first came to Hereford. In Lubbock, where she lived before moving to Hereford, Mrs. Holmes was active in music and music organizations. At one time, she belonged to the Hereford Music Study Club.

In college, Mrs. Holmes enrolled in voice classes and once taught voice. She sings in the choir at First United Methodist Church where she also is the substitute teacher in the Homebuilders Sunday School class.

Mrs. Holmes is a member of the board for Hereford Community Concert, active in several bridge clubs and a member of the F.O. chapter of P.E.O., a philanthropic organization which sponsors scholarships.

Mrs. Holmes' hobbies include reading and handwork.

"My favorite work is crewel embroidery because I like the colors so well," she laughed.

One other hobby of hers, perhaps the most important one, is watching her grandsons compete in athletic events.

Mrs. Holmes' son Tom is a periodontist in Fort Worth where he has two sons. Gail Burdine, her daughter in Arlington, has three sons. Mrs. Holmes' youngest son, Jim, lives in Panhandle with one son.

Jim, one-time assistant superintendent at Hereford, presently is moving to Perryton where he will be superintendent of the school system.

Make your own bread

DEAR POLLY — I used to have a recipe for an enriched bread made with soy flour, but I've lost it. Do you have such a recipe? It was supposed to be very nutritious. — GLORIA

DEAR GLORIA — You may be referring to the Cornell formula for enriching bread. Here's the formula for three loaves of bread:

Dissolve two packages active dry yeast and two tablespoons sugar in three cups warm water. Let stand five minutes. Meanwhile, stir together six cups unbleached flour, three tablespoons wheat germ, one-half cup soy flour and three-fourths cup non-fat dry milk. Stir half the flour mixture into the yeast mixture along with two tablespoons melted shortening and four teaspoons salt. Beat vigorously for about 75 strokes or two minutes with an electric mixer, then add the rest of the flour mixture. Work in the flour until it is all absorbed into the dough. Knead the dough on a floured board for five minutes until the dough is smooth and elastic, working in additional flour to keep it from sticking.

Place the kneaded dough in a lightly greased bowl, turning it once to grease the top, cover lightly and let rise in a warm place until double in size. Punch down and let the dough rise an additional 20 minutes before forming into three loaves. Place loaves in greased loaf pans, let rise until double, then bake at 350 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes or until the bread is golden brown and sounds hollow when tapped on the bottom. Turn loaves out of pans and let cool thoroughly before slicing.

You'll have three loaves of delicious triple-enriched bread that will nourish your family superbly while they indulge in the glorious flavor of homemade bread. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I use a potato masher to mash bananas for puddings and hard boiled eggs for salads. It is handy and easy. — KATIE

DEAR POLLY — I found the following method in a newspaper some time ago for removing glue left on containers by stick-on labels. It really works on all surfaces — glass, tin, plastic, even metal file cabinets where we used the removal method at the bank where I work.

Mix a small amount of granulated sugar and a good grade of baby oil. Apply to the spot with an almost dry sponge. Gently wipe off. Works like a charm! — M.L.M.

Play presented to study club

Hereford High School drama students presented a word play entitled "The Diary of Adam and Eve" to members of La Plata Study Club when the group met Tuesday evening at Deaf Smith County Library.

The cast of three, under the direction of their instructor, John Claypool, was Clay Stribling as Adam; Kim Claypool depicting Eve; and Sandy Zepeda, the serpent.

Sunny Brush, president, conducted the business meeting at which time Yvonne Simpson, new club member, was introduced to the group.

Also, letters from West Texas State University were read regarding the "Weekend of Wellness" featuring Dr. Red Duke and the luncheon scheduled April 20 when the Panhandle Distinguished Service Award will be presented.

Budget items were given by Peggy Fox and were approved and members were reminded of guest night which will be at the next regular meeting.

Mozelle Neill and Rosemary Shook served refreshments to the drama team and members present. They included Audine Dettmann, Elizabeth McDowell, Clara Brown, Mildred Fuhrmann, Fox, Mary Lyles, Simpson, Julie Helms, Betty Quillen, Sarah Hazelrigg, Betty Taylor and Brush.

Student Leadership Conference slated

Amarillo College division of student development and instructional support will sponsor the first annual Student Leadership Conference April 11-12 at the Episcopal Conference Center north of town.

Six AC faculty and administrators will serve as facilitators at this free two-day seminar to heighten AC students' awareness of leadership strategies as well as of their own potential to develop leadership skills.

Betsy Cook, coordinator of student activities, and AC counselor Dick Ross are spearheading the program that will provide general pertinent information applicable to any occupational situation.

Emphasis will be placed on personal success in a group setting, according to Ms. Cook, with communication skills being at the heart of any interaction situation.

Lodging and meals will be provided as well as a fast-paced and varied format of activities to keep participants and facilitators alike on their toes and learning. The conference is geared to that everyone will benefit.

The benefits of the seminar to employers of AC students are many and worth considering, according to Cook. This free training session is geared to help an individual perform more successfully on the job and will cover topics such as "Getting to Know Your Organization," "Group Needs Assessment," "Group Membership Roles," "Dealing with Conflict," "Power Line Up/Power Reversal and Electing a Leader," "Effective Group Leadership; Leadership Style," and "Project Planning and Group Decision Making."

Registration for the conference continues through April 4 in the Amarillo College office of student development and instructional support in the college union building.

Catholic Family Service establishes support group

"How can I talk so my kids will listen?" To help provide an answer to this question, Catholic Family Service of Amarillo has begun a new parent support group for parents who have children under 17 years old in their home.

The support group is open both to those parents who are experiencing behavioral or disciplinary difficulties with their children and to those parents who would like to improve their parenting skills in order to avoid potential problems.

The new support group meets on Thursdays from 7 until 8:30 p.m. at the Catholic Family Service offices at 413 E. Third in Amarillo, and is led by Jim Walton, a staff counselor of the Catholic Family Service Team Resources for Youth Family Counseling Center. Walton holds a master of social work degree and is a licensed professional counselor. There is no charge for attending the support group.

The purpose of the parent support group is to assist parents in creating an atmosphere of cooperation, responsibility, and understanding in their homes, and also, to enable parents to develop parenting skills which will both increase their effectiveness and conserve the energy required in their demanding role. This is accomplished through interaction between the parents in the group, the learning of specific parenting skills, role-playing activities, and the provision of materials to the parents for use in the home. States Wilson: "If the atmosphere for cooperation, responsibility, and understanding are not created in the home, then kids begin to drift toward negative behavior, and families become involved in a stress-laden way of life. That is why we are trying to help families create an atmosphere of cooperation and self-esteem in their homes."

The parent support group has seven basic topical sessions. Topics discussed include helping children deal with their feelings; encouraging cooperation from children; alternative to punishment; encouraging responsibility in children; and helping children see themselves in a realistic and positive manner.

Arrangements may be made to attend the support group by contacting Catholic Family Service at 376-6323 or by coming to one of the Thursday evening sessions.

For careless drivers, spring is just around the corner.

Ann Landers

Address given again

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I applaud and thank you for your column on Tourette Syndrome. Please let your readers know that a person who has a mild-to-medium case may not exhibit the severe symptoms of constant uncontrollable motion and obscene vocalizations.

Our 10-year-old son had a few nervous tics, which we thought were bad habits. Vocal noises such as humming or throat clearing we called "allergies."

Until a long-awaited trip to Disney World, our son's behavior was neither disruptive nor bizarre. But the excitement and anticipation of this wonderful vacation turned a holiday into a nightmare.

Tics burst forth in multiples. He could not keep his body still. I was at my wits' end when I telephoned our pediatrician from a phone booth in Disney World. He suggested that we go at once to the emergency room of the local hospital.

The physician there had no idea what was wrong with the child. He prescribed a tranquilizer to calm him down. The medication was ineffective and the boy's rapid movements continued. The pediatrician sent us to a pediatric neurologist. In minutes our son was diagnosed as having Tourette Syndrome and the proper medication was ordered.

How sad that my pediatrician was unfamiliar with Tourette Syndrome, especially since the onset of this disease is almost always during childhood.

I now know that ordering our son to "stop it" when we saw such movements as eye squeezing, blinking, head jerking, shoulder raising, arm thrusting and humming were impossible demands. Tourette sufferers can NOT stop it.

I hope all parents who recognize some of these symptoms will quit badgering their children and seek the help of a neurologist. — Grateful For The Answer

DEAR GRATEFUL: Thanks for the counsel. And now, for those who did not see the address to write to concerning Tourette Syndrome, it is 41-02 Bell Blvd., Bayside, N.Y. 11361. Write for free literature about the illness and please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son, "James," is in the Navy. On Jan. 1 his commanding officer ordered him to get rid of his beard. He always kept it neat and well-trimmed.

James lost this girl because of this and is very unhappy. She loved his beard. When he showed up without it she said he looked like a different person and she didn't like "the new guy."

We wrote to his commanding officer and were informed that the orders came from Navy Secretary John F. Lehman Jr. and nothing could be done. The only exceptions are men who wear beards for medical reasons.

James has a receding chin. The beard concealed that flaw very well. Would this not be considered a medical reason?

Let us hear from you soon, please. James is despondent.—Sad For Him In Lorain, Ohio

DEAR LORAIN: A receding chin is not a medical problem. It is a cosmetic problem which, incidentally, can be corrected by surgery if James is miserable about it. (P.S. The girl sounds like a world-class airhead.)

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism—Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

'Ragtime' theme of program presented to club members

Mrs. Gearld Parker, president of Dawn Music Club, called the meeting to order when club members met Tuesday at Dawn Baptist Church. Mrs. J.B. Caraway led the club collect and Mrs. Bill Caraway led the hymn of the month.

During the business session, it was brought to the club's attention the need to write to district congressmen about the legislative bill No. 214 concerning possible elimination of music in the school program.

Also, it was announced that the National Federated Music Clubs Convention will be held April 15-23 in Wichita, Ks. Saturday, April 20, has been designated as "Texas Night" where club members from Texas music clubs will serve as hosts. Planning to attend from Hereford are Mr. and Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Carl Wimberly and Mrs. J.B. Caraway.

The next meeting was scheduled at 2 p.m. April 9 at the Dawn Community Center.

Several musical selections, using the theme "Ragtime," were presented by Mrs. H.V. McCabe, Parker, Wimberly and Mrs. John Stribling.

Members present included Mmes. Orval Galley, Parker, McCabe, J.B. Caraway, Bill Caraway, Reese Stewart, Corinne Smith, Stribling and Wimberly.

Real challenge: Try to plan behind instead of ahead.

American Heart Association introduces Treasure Chest

AUSTIN — At a time when most children are learning the alphabet and nursery rhymes, the American Association in Texas has found that they can also be learning about their heart and ways to keep it healthy. Thus, the volunteer health organization has introduced an educational program entitled "Heart Treasure Chest." It is the first pre-school program of its kind, and it is available free to day care centers, preschools and Kindergarten classes throughout Texas.

The Heart Treasure Chest is packaged in a box resembling a pirate's treasure chest. The colorful Chest contains components of the program, including audiovisuals, fingerplays, musical activities, "experiments" and games. The activities focus on the heart, how it works, and how to care for it through proper diet, physical activity and rest, presented at a level 3- to 5-year-olds can understand.

Each day a new "treasure" appears from the Chest. One time it may be a stethoscope, which the children use to listen to their own hearts. Another day, it may be the "Healthy Heart Home" game, used to help children identify activities and foods which are good for their hearts. A comprehensive curriculum guide provides teachers with specific suggestions for learning activities using the Heart Treasure Chest.

Research indicates that the roots of heart disease are found in early childhood when lifestyle habits are established. It is easier to form good habits as a child than to change poor habits as an adult. Based on this premise, the American Heart Association in Texas has developed education programs for many age-levels beginning with preschool children.

The Heart Treasure Chest is the brain-child of the American Heart Association volunteers in Texas, and was recently adopted by the Association for national distribution. Its popularity has also led to its use by the children's television show, Romper Room.

Mabel Pitts, an expert in early childhood education and chairman of the AHA task force which developed this program, stated, "Our objective was to design a program focusing on prevention of heart disease, keeping the material both accurate and interesting." She added, "The resulting Heart Treasure Chest successfully teaches children how to guard against the major risk factors of heart disease—smoking, high blood pressure and high cholesterol."

A recent evaluation of the Heart Treasure Chest program concluded that the materials, curriculum and learning activities were well-received and highly-praised by both the children and their teachers. The program was tested for effectiveness at 28 sites in 4 states before being released nationally.

Children enjoy the idea of a "treasure" and respond enthusiastically to the hands-on activities. Children also carry parent newsletters home with them. The newsletters offer suggestions for further activities and learning experiences involving the entire family. The Heart Association believes that these cooperative efforts between home and school will reinforce positive behavior patterns for both parent and child.

For more information on the Heart Treasure Chest program and other youth-oriented educational programs, contact your local office of the American Heart Association, listed in the White Pages of your telephone directory.

NIT roundup

White rallies Vols

BY KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

With Tennessee down by five points with 19 seconds to go, no one would have given a deflated basketball for the Volunteers' chances against Southwestern Louisiana.

Tony White was pumped up, though.

"Tony White was absolutely magnificent," Tennessee Coach Don DeVoe enthused after watching his 6-foot-2 sophomore guard lead a thrilling comeback that gave the Volunteers a 73-72 victory Wednesday night in a second-round game of the National Invitation Tournament.

"Tony wanted the ball and he was hot," DeVoe said of White, who had a field goal and two free throws in the last 19 seconds as the Volunteers pulled off what DeVoe called "one of the best comebacks I've ever had a team make" and advanced to Saturday's quarterfinals.

Louisville and Tennessee-Chattanooga also won second-round tests Wednesday night to complete the quarterfinal field for this weekend. Louisville defeated South Florida 68-61 and Tennessee-Chattanooga tripped Lamar 85-84 in overtime.

On Saturday, it will be Virginia at Tennessee and Fresno State at UCLA. On Sunday, Marquette will play at Indiana and Tennessee-Chattanooga will play at Louisville. The semifinals and finals will be played at New York on March 27 and March 29.

The Volunteers were losing 72-67 with 19 seconds remaining when White scored to pull them within three points. Tennessee called a timeout and came back with White deliberately fouling 6-4 Cajun guard George Almones.

Almones missed his free throw, and Vol guard Fred Jenkins raced down the court to score on a 15-footer, pulling Tennessee to within 72-71 with 10 seconds to go. Tennessee got the ball back immediately when the Cajuns couldn't get it in-

Bird's total low, but Boston wins

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

Just in case people were starting to say Larry Bird had to score 40 points for Boston to win, the Celtics superstar scotched the theory before it could take root.

Bird, the 1983-84 National Basketball Association Most Valuable Player, had scored 206 points as the Celtics won their five previous games going into Wednesday's matchup with Milwaukee. He took only nine shots and scored 13 points, his second-lowest total this season, against the Bucks, but he added 11 rebounds and 10 assists as Boston won 107-105.

Ways with Wine by David Hutchins

JAMAICAN RUM
Most Caribbean islands have their own traditional rum style. Each rum label must specify the island on which it was made. As a result, when buying "Jamaican Rum", you can be sure that you are actually getting a spirit that was made in Jamaica. Other distillers may not use a term such as "Jamaican-type Rum" to describe a spirit that was not made on Jamaica. Pungent, dark rum is most commonly associated with Jamaica, although most other rum-producing areas also distill dark rums. The taste is rich and buttery with a strong molasses aroma. Traditional varieties are sold at 86 to 97 proof. Occasionally, a potent 151 proof rum can be found.

THE STORE takes great pride in our extensive inventory which includes bottles of rum, other liquors, wines and beer from around the world. Whether you know exactly what you want or would like some help in choosing the right bottle we suggest you make us your first stop. Come into 408 N. 25 Mile, 364-7502 and become familiar with our inventory and with our staff.

Before serving wine, it is best to find out which should be chilled and which should be served at room temperature to bring out the full bouquet.

Regional semifinals begin tonight

Ramblers undaunted by Hoyas

By The Associated Press

If Loyola of Chicago is apprehensive about facing No. 1 Georgetown, the Ramblers aren't saying so.

"I'll post up anybody," claimed Alfredrick "The Great" Hughes, the second-leading scorer in the nation. "It really doesn't matter who it is, because I know what I can do."

But the question is: How will Hughes and his No. 14 Loyola team do tonight against Georgetown in the NCAA East Regional semifinals in Providence, R.I.?

The Ramblers, a cocky collection of Chicago-area players, are a free-wheeling offensive machine that is second in Division I scoring (85.8 points per game) and are led by Hughes, who averages 26.9.

Loyola began the season unranked, got routed by Oklahoma and also lost to Louisiana State and Marquette early on. But the team has won its last 19 games, which is the longest victory streak in the nation and includes NCAA tournament triumphs over Southern Methodist and Iona.

Faced with the prospect of playing the powerful Hoyas and three-time All-American center Patrick Ewing, the 27-5 Ramblers plan to keep doing the things they have done all season.

"Unlike other teams, we don't try to get the ball inside," Coach Gene Sullivan said. "We try to get the ball outside."

That's partly because Loyola's tallest starter is 6-9 center Andre Moore. But that's also because Sullivan has confidence in his gunners, especially the 6-6 Hughes.

"He does force a shot now and then," Sullivan said of his senior swingman. "And he always will because he believes he's going to make every shot."

"But he's a 50 percent shooter. I don't want to contain him. I want to turn him loose," Sullivan said.

Teaming with Hughes are Andre Battle, a senior guard averaging 20.6 points, and Carl Golston, a junior point guard averaging 15.1 and leading the nation with 9.3 assists per game.

"They're free to take any shot they want," Sullivan said.

Loyola won the NCAA championship in 1963. Georgetown, continuing its bid to be the first team to win consecutive NCAA titles since UCLA in 1973, has won 14 straight games. The Hoyas have beaten Lehigh and Temple in the tournament so far.

The game will be shown live on CBS-TV starting at 9:10 p.m. EST. The matchup will follow the opening East regional semifinal between No. 6 Georgia Tech and No. 12 Illinois, which will be televised by CBS on delayed tape after the Loyola-Georgetown game.

Illinois, 26-8, was the Big Ten runner-up and has beaten Northeastern and Georgia in the tournament. The Illini victories have come without 6-8 center George Montgomery, who was injured late in the season.

In other NCAA games tonight, the Midwest Regional in Dallas will pit No. 8 Louisiana Tech, 29-2, against No. 4 Oklahoma, 30-5, and Boston College, 20-10, versus No. 5 Memphis State, 29-3.

On Friday night, the Southeast Regional in Birmingham, Ala., will feature Maryland, 25-11, against Villanova, 21-10, and No. 7 North Carolina, 26-8, against Auburn, 22-11.

Also on Friday night, in the West Regional in Denver, No. 16 North Carolina State, 22-9, plays Alabama, 23-9, and No. 3 St. John's, 29-3, takes on Kentucky, 18-12.

Faces doubles partner at Virginia Slims

Navratilova not blind to opponent's play

By BOB GREENE AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — With her new eyeglasses, Martina Navratilova says she can see just fine now. But she refuses to look past her quarter-final match in the $500,000 Virginia Slims Tennis Championships.

That's when the defending champion and No. 1 seed faces her doubles partner Pam Shriver.

Navratilova successfully negotiated the first round of this 16-player, season-ending event Wednesday night with an easy 6-1, 6-1 demolishing of Lisa Bonder. Shriver had a much more difficult time before eliminating sixth-seeded Bulgarian Manuela Maleeva 6-4, 0-6, 6-4. No. 7 Zina Garrison escaped the string of upsets that have knocked out four seeded players by stopping West German Sylvia Hanika 6-3, 4-6, 6-2.

Chris Evert Lloyd, seeded second to Navratilova in the chase for the $125,000 winner's share, fell in the first round, as did No. 4 Wendy Turnbull of Australia and No. 8 Carling Bassett of Canada.

"I didn't even watch the whole game because I thought she was going to win," Navratilova said of Lloyd's 6-2, 1-6, 6-2 loss Tuesday night to Kathy Jordan. "I was really surprised and I didn't find out about it until this morning when I read about it in the paper."

With so many seeds already fallen, Navratilova is considered almost a cinch to reach the best-of-five-sets title match, unique in women's tennis. She, though, wasn't a nonchalant to such a conclusion.

"First I have to get up there," she said, in response to a question. "I'm not looking ahead."

Asked about playing her doubles partner, with whom she shared Wednesday night to down Kathleen Horvath and Romania's Virginia Ruzici 6-3, 6-1 in a first-round match,

Navratilova said:
"Her arm has gotten a lot stronger. She has an ice pack on her shoulder, elbow and groin, but she's feeling good and hitting the ball well. She seems excited about playing."
"Last year, she just didn't want to be out there. Now she does, and it makes a world of difference."
Shriver, a mass of sore muscles and injuries, took 2½ months off following the Australian Open, returning to tennis only two weeks ago.

In Las Vegas golf

Glasson not confused about lead

By BOB GREENE AP Golf Writer
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Billy Glasson blasted his way through the confusion in the rich Panasonic Las Vegas Invitational golf tournament.

Glasson, who said he plays "in constant pain" from an arthritic condition in his knees, fired an 8-under-par 62 Wednesday in the first round of this five-day, 90 hole event.

The spectacular effort, capped off by a birdie-birdie-birdie finish:
—Matched the low score on the PGA Tour this year.
—Was the best round of Glasson's life.
—Set a record on the Tropicana Country Club course.
—And, kept Glasson from becoming involved in the confusion over who was in second place.
It could be Tom Watson.
Or, depending on how it's figured, it could be a tie among Scott Hoch, Phil Blackmar and Paul Azinger.

Either way, Glasson's round put him three shots in front of Blackmar, Azinger and Hoch, who had 65. That's on a numerical basis.

In relation to par, he was two shots in front of Watson, a six-time Player of the Year.

The confusion arises from the format for this event that offers a total of $1,042,000 in prize money, the most on the American tour.

The pros are required to play one round on each of three courses — Tropicana, Desert Inn and Las Vegas — each day with a four-man amateur team, before the field is cut for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday at Las Vegas.

The three courses carry different pars, 70 at Tropicana, 71 at Las Vegas and 72 at Desert Inn, where Watson shot a 66 and played the four par-5 holes five under par.

Have To Be Ready

Angel De La Cruz, a member of the Hereford High School varsity track team, puts in some time running Wednesday at the track inside Whiteface Stadium. Boys coach Ron Young was preparing team members for this Saturday's track meet in Snyder. Both boys and girls are scheduled to run in Snyder at the Canyon Reef Relays.

NBA

"Some nights you have the opportunity to shoot the ball, some nights you don't," said Bird, who had scored a club record 60 points only eight days before. "Everybody always talks about triple doubles. I had one tonight. I don't think I have to take a certain number of shots, I just take what I can get."

Nuggets 123, Pacers 119
Denver clinched a playoff berth and extended its Midwest Division lead to 3½ games over Houston behind Calvin Natt's 27 points and 26 by Alex English against Indiana.

Natt and Wayne Cooper scored 10 points each in the fourth quarter as the Nuggets overcame a 98-93 deficit with 10:37 left.

Kings 118, 76ers 117
Kansas City's Reggie Theus got credit for a game-winning basket with three seconds left in overtime when Philadelphia's George Johnson was called for goaltending.

Johnson had tied the game 108-108 with five seconds left in regulation to send the game into overtime.

Clippers 121, Jazz 110
Marques Johnson scored a season-high 32 points as Los Angeles beat Utah despite a record-setting performance by Jazz center Mark Eaton.

Eaton blocked six shots to give him 396 for the season, three more than the previous single-season record set by Elmore Smith in 1974.

Spurs 106, Bulls 98
San Antonio lost most of a huge lead, but still beat Chicago as Mike Mitchell scored 31 points and George Gervin added 19 to become pro basketball's ninth leading scorer with 25,202 points.

Michael Jordan scored 38 points.

Nets 128, Cavaliers 108
Micheal Ray Richardson scored 33 points as New Jersey kept Cleveland winless in 11 games at the Meadowlands Arena since it opened in 1981.

Richardson had 10 points in the first period to lead the Nets to a 31-18 lead after one period, and the Cavaliers got no closer than nine points thereafter.

Bullets 105, Knicks 102
Greg Ballard broke a 102-102 tie with a corner jump shot with 40 seconds remaining, giving Washington its decision over New York.

Ballard and Cliff Robinson scored 24 points each and Jeff Malone added 23 for the Bullets, who finished the season series against the Knicks with a 6-0 sweep.

Sonics 123, Warriors 109
Rookie forwards Tim McCormick and Frank Brickowski, taking up the slack for injured center Jack Sikma, scored 24 and 22 points, respectively, to pace Seattle against Golden State.

Communities vying for base

HOUSTON (AP) — All along the Gulf Coast from Florida to Texas, local officials are battling each other in hopes of winning the opportunity to be the homeport of an old battleship that hasn't been used since 1959.

The Navy wants to establish a presence on the nation's third coast — and presumably be closer to potential trouble spots in Latin America. So it plans to renovate the USS Wisconsin, now tucked away as part of the mothball fleet anchored in Philadelphia.

The real prize, however, is the $50 million annual payroll that the battleship and its five-vessel entourage will provide to the community that serves as host.

With it comes an estimated $100 million in construction, 3,000 civilian jobs and some 7,500 Navy people and their families.

Nineteen cities from Brownsville, Texas, to Key West, Fla., put in initial bids, and a site selection team visited each of the communities where they were wooed with everything from brass bands to bumper sticker campaigns.

"There's a lot to be gained here, economically, for the various ports," says Capt. James Ridge, head of the seven-member site selection team. "I got the genuine feeling that they like the Navy. I don't think it's all an act."

Everyone may have liked the Navy, but the Navy only liked six of its suitors, anointing as finalists Pensacola, Fla., Mobile, Ala., Pascagoula, Miss., Lake Charles, La., and two Texas sites, Houston-Galveston and Corpus Christi.

Now the high-stakes game is boiling down to more traditional factors like money and political clout.

Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards, for example, is promising the Navy $50 million. Texas Gov. Mark White is promising $25 million.

In Alabama, Gov. George Wallace says the state will pay the estimated $50 million bill to dredge Mobile's channel to the Navy's required 600-foot width and 42-foot depth.

Other incentives range from a special bond elections to raise money for the project to an outright purchase of property and then leasing it back to the Navy. Other proposals include free roads.

Cities are touting low construction costs, plentiful housing, good schools and that elusive "quality of life."

Meanwhile, each state appears to be able to draw on a trump card in the political poker game.

Vice President George Bush is a Texan who calls Houston his home. Assistant Navy Secretary Chase Undermyer also is from Houston.

Mississippi can claim House Republican Whip Trent Lott, who is from Pascagoula.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., could use the port decision as a lever when Reagan administration tax simplification measures come before the Senate Finance Committee, where he is the ranking Democrat.

Two Republican senators, Paula Hawkins of Florida and Jeremiah Denton of Alabama, were elected by narrow margins in 1980 and face difficult re-election bids in 1986. They could point to the base coming to their state as a reason to keep them for a second term.

Navy Secretary John Lehman will make the final choice later this year. The project is to be completed in the 1990s.

"The lobbying is being done at the level of the Secretary of the Navy," said Lt. Max Allen, a Navy spokesman in the Pentagon. "He (Lehman) has the final say, and I think all the politicians know that."

"The ultimate decision is going to be one of strategic location and which city has the most to offer the Navy."

Ridge insists he won't be swayed by politics.

"I'm in the recommendation business," he says. "I head up a technical evaluation team and we don't look at the stripes."

In Pensacola, a battleship base would join extensive Navy operations that already account for $870 million annually to the local economy. The base would be carved out of some 3,500 vacant acres at the existing naval air station.

County officials are promising to build a new road to handle additional traffic. Many of the support structures needed for the Wisconsin, like a commissary and hospital, already exist.

Mobile officials are staying secretive about their proposal, referring to it as a "sealed bid."

"We're not going to reveal the facts and figures of our proposals," says Mayor Lambert Mims.

Two sites are under consideration on either side of the Mobile River. One of them is an old Air Force base that has a runway capable of handling jumbo jets.

Pascagoula is offering 135-acre plot on Singing River Island. The city also is home to the Ingalls Division Shipyard, among the nation's largest private shipbuilding operations and the place where the Iowa, the Wisconsin's sister ship, was built and overhauled.

Lake Charles, hit by the petrochemical recession, views the base as an economic shot in the arm.

"We have the highest unemployment rate in the state," Pat Diamond, a Lake Charles real estate agent told Navy officials at a luncheon that cost $30,000. "We don't just want this thing. We need it."

Three sites have been offered. But like Mobile, officials in the Louisiana city are keeping their plans secret.

"We're not going to let the other cities know what our offer is," says Port Director James Sudduth.

The joint Houston-Galveston site, at the east end of Galveston Island, is touted for its proximity to the Gulf. The site now is adjacent to a base used by a Marine reserve unit, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the Coast Guard.

Backers point to Houston's urban advantages, like medical care, transportation access and universities.

Down the Texas coast in Corpus Christi, Navy officials were greeted by a high school band playing "Anchors Aweigh." Port boosters plastered the area with 5,000 color posters of battleships and palm trees, and 20,000 supportive bumper stickers were distributed. Three sites are available.

At the Pentagon, the money for the base does not exist, although that does not appear to be a major stumbling block.

"Ironically, it hasn't even been budgeted for," says Allen. "Congress has to approve it."

Despite all the political and economic advantages, Coast Guard Capt. Norman Huff of Galveston has his own reason for wanting the base in his backyard.

"All we do now is mow it and I would be delighted to get rid of it," he said.

Siblings hope to save brother never met

CHICAGO (AP) — A reunion of siblings who have never met could save the life of one of them in need of a bone marrow transplant.

Steven Akin, 24, a leukemia patient at M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston, was to meet today with his brother and sister adopted more than 20 years ago.

The brother — John Davis, 23, of west suburban Schiller Park, and his sister, Barbara Davis, 28, of Green Bay, Wis., were to fly to Houston this morning and undergo tests Friday to determine if they can provide compatible bone marrow for Akin.

"The first thing I want to do is give Steven a big hug," said Ms. Davis at a news conference. "This is a moment I've been waiting for all my life."

Davis said it was "very inspirational that we've managed to reach each other after all these years."

He added, however, that he regrets the reunion isn't taking place under better circumstances. "I wish we could have got together a few years ago, when Steven had his health."

The Davises said they were not apprehensive about the bone marrow tests.

"He's our flesh and blood," said Ms. Davis. "We both agree that we'll do anything possible to help our brother."

Akin was diagnosed as having leukemia in 1983. Doctors say his chances of survival are small without a marrow transplant from a sibling.

Truth Seekers in Adoption, a non-profit Chicago-based group that specializes in reuniting families separated by adoption, announced Tuesday that the Davises were believed to be Akin's long-lost brother and sister.

"There's a good chance that one of them will match, but I'm not going to be impatient," Akin said from Victoria, Texas. "I'm just very thankful."

His search for other siblings was the subject of a report Monday on WMAQ-TV in Chicago. That report was seen by Irene Boyrs of Markham, Ill., the mother-in-law of another Akin sister, Lillian Davis, who died last December of breast cancer.

Mrs. Boyrs remembered that her daughter-in-law had kept in touch with a sister, Barbara, who moved from Markham to Wisconsin with her foster parents, Harry and Lorraine Miller. Mrs. Boyrs then called Barbara Gonyo, president of Truth Seekers, with her information and the web of relationships was revealed.

Ms. Gonyo said she is convinced the Davises are Akin's siblings.

"My job is done now," Ms. Gonyo said Wednesday. "I just wish every adoptee had this available. It seems you have to be dying to get people to open the books."

Akin said his natural mother, Mildred Davis, would be 57 now, while his father, John, would be 62. He said records indicated they were married in Chicago in 1953 and put two children up for adoption in the city four years later.

The first pinball game machine was the "Whoopie Game," manufactured in 1930 in Chicago, Ill.
