Israel fears stringers might be used on it

By BARRY SCHWEID AP Diplomatic Writer WASHINGTON (AP) -

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Arens is registering his concern over the delivery of 400 U.S. anti-aircraft missiles to Saudi Arabia despite assurances of "strict safeguards" to keep the Stingers from terrorists.

The deal authorized Tuesday by President Reagan permits the Saudis to deploy the missiles anywhere on their territory or on tankers carrying oil through the Persian Guif. "They are purely defensive in every sense of the word," said Larry Speakes, the White House spokesman.

But having faced Saudi arms in four Mideast wars, Israel is worried the missiles might be trained on them, fall into the hands of rebels if the monarchy is overthrown or

Reagan said at a news conference last week the possibility of direct U.S. intervention in the 44-month war between Iran and Iraq was "very slight."

Besides delivering the missiles and adding the tanker to three already at the Saudis' disposal, the administration is speeding delivery of fuel tanks, ammunition and spare parts.

The Saudis also requested bomb racks for their 62 F-15 jets, but the United States declined, officials here said.

The Pentagon said the Saudis will pay $40 million for the missiles and the cost of U.S. personnel training the Saudis to use the weapons, which carry fragmentation warheads and home in on the heat generated by the engines of attacking planes. Commissioners voted unanimously to join the corporation, which was formed in January for the purpose of issuing agricultural development bonds. The first application made to the new organization was for the expansion of a feedlot operation in Castro County.

AUSTIN (AP) — The University of Texas regents were scheduled to meet today, and a published report said the man who is second in command of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration would be named chancellor of the university system. System officials refused to confirm the report that the job has been filled.

The Austin American-Statesman reported Tuesday that the job would go Hans Mark, deputy administrator for NASA, who also served as secretary of the Air Force from 1979 to 1981 and undersecretary for two years before that. "I assume the regents will have some announcement related to the selection of the chancellor. If that is correct, there is a strong possibility that the new chancellor will be introduced," said regents spokesman Joe Roddy.

Texas governor endorses Mondale

HOUSTON (AP) - Texas Gov. Mark White thinks it's time to "harmonize" the Democratic Party and gear up for the November race against President Reagan, so he's ended any suspense about a presidential endorsement by backing Walter Mondale.

With Walter Mondale as the nominee, we will offer the American people the best choice of either party to become our next president," White said at a news conference Tuesday.

Colorado Sen. Gary Hart and the Rev. Jesse Jackson were fine candidates, but the former vice president had a "wealth of experience" and "proven leadership and depth of vision to chart a bold new course for America," the governor said.

primary season down to its final week, Walter F. Mondale is back in San Francisco after ending his New Jersey campaign, and the Rev. Jesse Jackson was heading for California after stops in New Mexico today. President Reagan was on a Zimmerman said Hart is budgeted to spend $335,000 on television advertising. In New Jersey, Hart campaign officials say they will spend another $300,000 or more airing different ads.

about 500 supporters at an after-work, "Puttin' on the Ritz for Fritz" rally in a warehouse on the bay.

Mondale said he had urged President Reagan to withhold anti-aircraft missiles sent to Saudi Arabia and to "keep these weapons in the United

Mondale criticized Hart for sponsoring legislation that would have relieved Manville of much of the financial responsibility for claims by workers suffering from asbestos exposure.

A press aide to Hart, Paula Weiss, said Mondale was "mischaracterizing Senator Hart's record." She said he proposed legislation that would seek immediate relief for victims of asbestosis by creating a pool of money from insurance companies, Johns Manville and the entrance of these things. With this, we explore the possibilities for changing what we think should be changed, and then we adjust our thinking by "closing the door of possibility." By closing the door, we open the "door of acceptance," not approval, but acceptance. Thus we free our thinking so we cna get on with our life responsibilities.

Before leaving Mexico City, Jackson said he might go to Cuba later as part of his effort "to stop the war" in Central America.

WE CAN MAKE life effective for us, if we will "condition" our mind, our "thought processes." It is largely a matter of our deciding to do so, it is of our choosing. We do this so that we can, without too much difficulty, cope with the things which have the possibility of "depressing," "discouraging," "clouding," "dulling," "oppressing," "deranging" or otherwise diverting our mental energy WE NEED our full mental capacity for those things which are "uplifting," "encouraging," "enlightening," "enlivening," "orderly," and "enriching.

We succeed in this "conditioning" by deliberately establishing the practice of manual, deliberate control of our mind. We have the privilege to "let in" or "keep out," so far as the makeup of our thoughts is concerned.

WE KNOW that some things cannot be changed. Regarding these, we "condition" our mind to prevent the

WHEN WE KEEP our thinking free, we may even be able to help create a new possibility for altering the things we have not been able to change. We can, at least, make our lives effective. In each life, there will be enough unwanted and undesirable happenings to keep the mind crippled all of the time. This is what we must prevent by

But if you men decide to go ahead anyway and get married now, it is all right; and if a girl gets married in times like these, it is no sin. However, marriage will bring extra problems that I wish you didn't have to face right now.

The important thing to remember is that our remaining time is very short, (and so are our opportunities for doing the Lord's work). For that reason those who have wives should stay as free as possible for the Lord.

Harold Baines and LaMarr Hoyt may be among the reasons the Chicago White Sox aren't running away with the American League West like last year. But they're also among the reasons the Toronto Blue Jays no longer have a seven-game winning streak.

Baines, hitting just .201 entering the game after a 25-homer, 105-RBI season a year ago, broke out with four hits as the White Sox topped the Blue Jays 8-1 Tuesday night. Hoyt, last year's American League Cy Young Award winner, broke a personal three-game losing streak, limiting Toronto to six hits over eight innings and running his record to 4-5.

"I try not to talk about slumps," Baines said after setting up the first White Sox run with a double, tripling home the second, and starting a six-run eighth innning with a single.

AUSTIN-The chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission last week said all-out war in the Persian Gulf would trigger new drilling in Texas.

"You don't have to go to Yale to figure out that if the supply is interrupted, then there's less oil, then there's less oil available, the price will go up and, as the price goes up, there's more domestic production.'

Those simple words of wisdom from Mack Wallace put the finger on a situation being watched by Texans for several reasons, particularly officials in state government.

One thing Wallace could have tacked onto the end of his truism would have linked the Iran-Iraq conflict to Texas government: as domestic production increases, so do revenues for state coffers.

For months now, the dwindling state revenues have been blamed on the slump in oil production. In Texas, it has contributed to state losses from the severance taxes, and from sales taxes from petroleum industry related products. In cities dependent on that industry. such as Houston, Midland, Odessa, and several coastal towns, the slump contributed to unemployment and more loss of sales and tax monies.

Along the border, the devaluation of Mexico's peso due to the declining oil production also contributed to the economic slump.

For years Texans have taken the petroleum industry for granted, and now that it's missing do we really feel it? That's why egislators are expected to

In dollars, the state lost about $300 million in potential growth in sales taxes last year due to the oil price slump, according to Bullock.

The peso devaluations cost border sales an estimated $100 million in potential growth and the national economic recession took another $170 million.

Executions force opponents to be selective

HOUSTON (AP) - Opponents of capital punishment say they did not learn of Louisiana convict Johnny Davis Taylor's execution date earlier this year until it was too late to mount an effective challenge.

Anti-death penalty organizations such as the American Civil Liberties Union, say in increase in executions will soon force them to be more selective in the case they choose to defend.

"It is something we have feared for a long time," said attorney Joel Berger of the Legal Defense Fund of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Taylor was executed Feb. 29

"It's going to happen more and more," New Orleans attorney Frank Sloan told the Houston Chronicle in a story published Tuesday. Anti-death penalty groups soon will have to concentrate on cases with potentially farreaching impact and those that have "the greatest possibility for success," Sloan said.

More than 1,400 men and women across the U.S. currently are awaiting execution, and the handful of volunteers working to spare their lives are struggling to keep up with the caseloads.

at the University of Alabama-

1980s, there was an attempt to prevent every execution first and foremost. We can't keep up with them much longer." Goss said.

Sloan said he believes members of the judiciary perceive the anti-death penalty movement as a "monolith with certain precise plans."

ACLU attorney Stefan Presser, who is handling 13 capital cases, said he thinks the misperception runs all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court. "Chief Justice Warren Burger believes we have a national network that scours court records to pull people out of the executioner's grasp," Presser said. "That is totally out of touch with reality.' Few foresee a nationwide bloodbath, but Sloan said new volunteers will be hard pressed to slow the executioner. "First of all, a lot of people

White aide Janis Monger said the governor decided against seeking free air time by billing the commercials as service anpublic nouncements.

"Since it deals with a political, legislative issue, the decision was that the public service announcement route was not the route to take," she said.

Although the commercials will air only days before lawmakers begin considering White's proposals, both Ms. Arnold and Ms. Monger said the governor doesn't view the commercials as a bid to pump up public pressure on lawmakers to accept his tax increase.

"They don't urge the public to call their legislators. It wasn't envisioned as any kind of pressure on legislators. The commercials show a unity of purpose between the House and Senate leaders and the governor on education reform," Ms. Monger said.

"The governor wants to increase public awareness and support for education reform. It is not intended to be harsh or confrontational," Ms. Arnold added.

Ms. Arnold said the commercials were paid for by First City Bancorporation of Texas, the Southland Corp. and the Halliburton Co.

She said the ad campaign was suggested by H. Ross Perot, who headed the Selection Committee on Public Education, which recommended many reforms that are included in the governor's proposal. One commercial is introduced by an off-camera voice which asks, "Is Texas willing to accept an educational system that condemns its children to second-class achievement? Some of our leaders who care say no."

Hobby then says, "I think basically the issue is pretty simple: Do you want to live in a first-class state or not?"

White adds, "I want to be proud of the educational quality of our young people. This year we're going to have to work together to pass an education program to put

Malaysian palm oil poses threat to soybean farmers

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) Halfway around the world in tropical Malaysia, the palm oil industry is flexing its muscles. American soybean farmers should pay attention, because what is happening will affect their livelihoods for years to come.

"Soybeans and soybean oil will face tough competition from palm oil for the rest of this century," said an Agriculture Department expert. "The profitability of palm oil is bolstered by the long experience of Malaysia's producers, the considerable experience of its refineries. and state-of-the-art

Malaysia has been the world's largest producer of palm oil since 1972 and the leading exporter since 1965. Last year, a poor one for production, Malaysia accounted for 55 percent of the world output and 70 percent of the exports.

The United States dominates world soybean production and counts on exports as a major outlet. The sovbeans are exported as whole beans or are crushed to produce oil and high-protein meal used in livestock feed.

"In many markets, Malaysian palm oil has an advantage because of proximity or because oilseed meal demand is minimal," the report said. Periodically, when domestic soybean supplies are tight or when price relationships are favorable, U.S. manufacturers turn heavily to imported palm oil for making a variety of products, including cooking oil, margarine, shortening, soaps, detergents and other

Corn going in ground

WASHINGTON (AP) -Farmers have made rapid progress in planting this year's corn crop, moving ahead of last year's pace, says the Agriculture Department.

A weekly report showed Monday that by May 20 an estimated 65 percent of the intended corn acreage had been planted, compared to 29 percent on May 13 and only 10 percent by May 6. Planting has been delayed mainly by wet fields.

Officials said that the 65 percent planting progress compared with 60 percent a year ago and the average for May 20 of 71 percent.

WASHINGTON (AP) -Food processors have known for a long time that consumer impressions are tremendously important in determining whether a product succeeds in the marketplace. In Japan, there is a problem with fish eves

A recent issue of Japan Agrinfo Newsletter, which is published by the Japan International Agricultural Council, reported that "maritime industry officials are heaving deep sighs these days as more and more school-age Japanese are departing from eating fish" because they don't like the look of fish eyes. "It seems that children and students aren't the only ones who dislike eating fish," said the report, which was made available here. Dear Citizens of Deaf Smith County, Texas:

Analysis of the Sheriff's runoff election prompts both reflection and foresight. During my terms as Deaf Smith County Sheriff it was, from time to time, apparent that County politics Ignored the critical issues which should be addressed by the voters.

The bottom line in the Sheriff's election is that the most the experienced and qualified candidate should assume that position. I do not know what reason accompanied the appointment of Joe Brown as Sheriff. However, as I have stated in the past, Dean Butcher's qualifications for the position of Sheriff are unsurpassed and the voters of Deaf Smith County should take advantage of his candidacy. Think about it.

An issue has been made of Mr. Butcher's residence being some miles from the City of Hereford. I find this rather remarkable. If the Citizens of Deaf Smith County, a rural agricultural community, are to be criticized for any distance which must be traveled during the course of their personal or business endeavors then we should likewise criticize candidates for residing within the City of Hereford as being unable to properly administer duties in the outlying areas of the County. Just think about it.

I again ask you to support Dean Butcher in the runoff election and acknowledge my committment in support of Dean as the best qualified candidate for the position of Sheriff of Deaf Smith County, Texas.

Documentary accuses retired general

NEW YORK (AP) - Midway through a televised discussion on CBS' documentary, "The Uncounted Enemy: A Vietnam Deception," professor Michael Botein interrupts the combatants - writer Don Kowet. TV producer George Crile and the moderator, Steven H.

NATURALLY!

NOW GO TO SLEEP!

HOUR IS OVER !

THE HAPPY MASOCHIST'S

Scheuer. Botein, director of the Communications Media Center at New York Law School, tells the three they sound like lawyers arguing their respective cases. Scheuer and his guests on "All About TV" ease off momentarily. The case will be in open court soon enough, Botein seems to suggest. What he wants to know, he says, is why, as Kowet maintains, CBS was out to get retired Ar-Gen. William my Westmoreland; and why, as CBS argues, Kowet was out to get the network. The 90-minute documentary, produced by Crile and broadcast Jan. 23, 1982, accused Westmoreland, as commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, of misrepresenting enemy troop strength to deceive President Lyndon Johnson and the American public.

Kowet and Sally Bedell, in a subsequent article in TV Guide magazine, criticized the film as "often unfair and arbitrary in its approach to a subject that demanded all the objectivity and thoroughness that the journalists of CBS News could muster."

Westmoreland filed a $120 million libel suit against the network. The suit is scheduled to go to trial in September, though CBS recently asked that the case be dismissed. Botein's question, both interesting and manageable, is more or less ignored, and a short time later, the quarreling resumes: "He is an agent out to try to kill the documentary," Crile declares, referring to Kowet and the documentary form rather than a specific show.

"It was your program," Kowet retorts, "that killed documentaries. Your work." It's an especially ludicrous turn in the hour-long program, to be broadcast by about 40 public TV stations

Whose sons died

starting Sunday night, that is more accusatory than enlightening:

"You're defending a $120 million lawsuit," Kowet snaps at one point. "That's right," Crile replies, "and you're exploiting that."

Perhaps the subject is too complex, and the participants too deeply involved, to allow for reasonable conversation. Moments into the program, Crile decries Kowet's journalism as "irresponsible, inaccurate and easily demonstrated to have those flaws."

It's not a good start;

Kowet, in the course of the hour, defends his work, including his newly published book on the subject, "A Matter of Honor," and nothing is resolved.

Scheuer attempts, from time to time, to steer the discussion along a meaningful course, though to little avail: "You did so," one side argues, in effect. "I did not," answers the other.

The problem is that professional reputation is at stake, and these fellows are not about to concede error in judgment or fact. That's understandable.

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Rosa Bland and Dorothy Jean Coleman met for the first time Monday, but they say their sons' deaths have bonded them in a lasting friendship.

The sons of the two women were killed last October during a bombing of the Marine headquarters in Beirut.

Mrs. Bland of Arlington and Mrs. Coleman of Dallas are both widows and saw each other for the first time Monday at a veteran's Memorial Day service in Arlington.

"We'll see each other lots more," said Mrs. Coleman after the service. "I think this will be a lasting friendship." Stephen Bland and Marcus

I am writing regarding a recent campaign flyer being circulated by the campaign committee of my political opponent. The flyer reads, quote "If you don't re-elect Bill Bradly, the Ultra-Liberal Faction operating in our area will have a seat on our County Commissioners Court" unquote.

My concern is to inform all registered voters in Precinct One, first of all that I am a democrat with democratic ideals. Secondly, I don't support factions, rather government by the people. Futhermore, I am an honest businessman and believe strongly in Christainity.

I don't know the reason why my political opponents' campaign would take such a radical cheap shot at my candidacy. But I am inclined to believe that my campaign is headed in a positive direction.

I would also like to add that I certainly don't believe that this group is representative of the interest or thinking of this community. This group consists of only a few select who continue to promote social class lines, and ethnicity as requirements for public office. This group can be termed as going through post-maturation process.

DEAR READERS — Help yourself to some help from today's Pointer roundup. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY - Taking an electric heating pad when traveling or visiting is "comfort insurance" if you are given cold sleeping quarters. Place the heating pad between the sheets an hour or so before retiring. You will be comfortable and your host or hostess will never know you found the room too cold. - ETHEL

DEAR ETHEL — It's a thoughtful guest who provides so tactfully and silently for her own comfort, especially if one is prone to cold feet in bed! Do be sure you follow all necessary safety precautions if you use such a pad (follow accom-panying instructions explicitly!) and be especially careful not to leave the pad on too long or let it overheat. For your Pointer of the Week, you'll be receiving a copy of my book "Polly's Pointers: 1081 Helpful Hints for Making Everything Last Longer." Others who would like this book can order it for $6.50. Make check payable to POLLY'S POINTERS and send to POLLY'S POINTERS, Box 1216, Dept. 55, Cincinnati, OH 45201. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - To temporarily disguise a scratch on your car, rub it with a wax crayon of a matching color, then buff with a soft cloth. The wax will help resist rust.

Empty egg cartons make good stamp sorters or containers for paper clips and rubber bands.

Stretch peanut butter by adding inexpensive margarine. It es further and doesn't stick to the roof of your mouth. -MARY

DEAR POLLY - I hate unclean combs and hair brushes. To make cleaning unbreakable combs and brushes effortless, I put them in a bag and in with my white wash. They come out clean and smelling sweet. - DOROTHY DEAR POLLY - Our family loves homemade popcorn balls. But by the next day the balls are too tough or soft. We wrap them in plastic wrap and put them in the freezer for a few hours. Presto, fresh, crisp popcorn balls. – W.W. Polly will send you a Polly Dollar ($1.00) if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peeve or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of this newspaper.

What people believe is often wrong

(Source: U.S. Department of NEA GRAPHIC / Marilyn Post Health and Human Services)

The public has some misconceptions about cancer. Many Americans consider cancer inevitable, but, in fact, two out of three Americans will never get cancer, and of those who do, 50 percent will be cured. A U.S. Department of Health and Human Services survey found that people also had false ideas about what causes cancer

Students named as honor recipients

Jay Miller, a May graduate same year to the National 4-H of Wichita Falls High School, and Brenda Blakeley, a May graduate of Menard High School, have been named recipients of the two 1984 Bob American High School Craig Memorial Scholarships in community journalism Among. # Proposed rules to benefit customers

AUSTIN (AP) - State utility rules proposed in response to consumer complaints should make the difference in life and death for some elderly people, says an attorney for senior citizens. Lanetta Cooper of Belton, counsel for Senior Citizen Crusaders, recalled Tuesday that 59 people had died in

LAGGAR

Dallas of heat-related causes in 1978 and 1980, and said, "This summer has all the indications of another heat wave."

She said, however, Senior Citizen Crusaders views rules proposed by the Public Utility Commission as a commitment to Texans "that we will no longer have to hear the horror stories of elderly men and women dying from heat stroke or heat exhaustion or hypothermia because of the fears that their electricity will be disconnected."

One proposal would prohibit an electric utility for up to two months from discontinuing service to a residence if halting the service would result in someone becoming "seriously ill or more seriously ill .... "

"Under the proposed rules, consumers receive more time, more rights, more information and a more workable system of utility regulation," said Carol Barger, executive director of the southwest regional office and they act like it."

Ms. Cooper and Ms. Barger "Most customers have no idea what rights they have, were joined at a Capitol news and utility companies don't conference by state Rep. Al have the habit of telling Price, D-Beaumont, and spokesmen for the Office of Public Utility Counsel and the Texas Tenants Union.

college of their choice where they will pursue a career in community journalism.

The winners were selected by a panel of judges from the Texas Press Association based on their essays on "My Future and Career Plans in Community Journalism." As winners, they now must enroll in a journalism program and take at least three hours of journalism each semester they receive assistance from the WTPA scholarship program.

The scholarship program was named in honor of longtime Hamlin Herald publisher Bob Craig who died in 1981.

Miss Blakeley, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Blakeley of Menard. She has served as reporter for the Menard 4-H Club, for the Menard Yellowjacket band and for her senior class.

A nine-year active member in her 4-H organization, Miss Blakeley was the 1983 recipient of the Gold Star Award for outstanding 4-H achievement and was a delegate that and Mrs. John Miller of Wichita Falls and already has a background in community journalism, having worked last summer with Virgil Moore at the Breckenridge American and planning to return there this summer before entering Midwestern University in Wichita Fallas. He eventually plans to transfer to North Texas State University or the University of Texas. A native of Arlington, Miller has been a member of the Wichita Falls High School

Coyote News staff for the past three years. He has served as State Lieutenant Governor for the Key Club, which is the youth group of the Kiwanis Club. He is a member of the handbell choir of the First Christian Church which tours the country each year, and was a member of his high school's academic decathlon team which advanced to state competition this past school
