House defeats lottery; budget hopes dim

AUSTIN (AP) — House members argued morals and money before defeating a lottery measure and probably guaranteeing lawmakers will not write a balanced budget before the regular session ends June 1.

"The only place you can go to make up the $650 million is in cuts or pass a tax bill to make it up,"

Speaker Gib Lewis said Thursday after the House voted 72-73 against letting Texans decide on a state lottery.

The Senate and many House members are opposed to further budget cuts, and Gov. Bill Clements has vowed to veto a tax bill.

So it adds up to a summer special session or two to write the 1988-89 budget, which goes into effect Sept. 1.

If no agreement is reached by then, "we shut the doors down. We delay opening school for whatever time you do. You hope the people guarding the prisoners don't just walk off and leave them unattended," Lewis said.

Thursday's vote surprised sponsor Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, who thought he was close to the 100 votes needed to send the lottery measure to the Senate.

"There were a number of folk who said they were with us who obviously were not," Wilson said, adding he thought he had 95 votes in the 150-member House.

Lewis, who voted for the proposed constitutional amendment, said the "aye" vote teetered around the 80 mark until it became obvious the measure would get nowhere near the 100 votes needed.

The House scoreboard — green lights for "aye," red lights for "no" — then reddened into defeat.

Wilson talked of bringing it back to the floor for another vote, but Lewis said he would not allow that unless supporters could prove they had over 100 votes.

"I don't see any groundswell for it now," Lewis said, laughing at the understatement.

Rep. David Hudson, D-Tyler, led the floor fight against the lottery measure and then predicted it had "zero chances" of resurrection.

Rep. Billy Clements, D-Pollock, set the tone for the anti-lottery side in the floor fight.

"I know they have (lottery) in California and New York, but I don't want to imitate California and New York," he said. "The state is condoning and supporting and even promoting gambling (in a lottery). We're creating a whole new group of gamblers."

But Wilson said recent polls show that Texans want to play the lottery, despite opposition from church groups. And, he said, Texas needs the money.

"Prisons do not build themselves.

Former teacher, ice cream man

Two indicted on charges of indecency with child

A former elementary school teacher, indicted Thursday for indecency with a child, turned herself in to the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department at 10 a.m. today. Ana Marie Bautista, 26, was indicted by a grand jury yesterday on two counts of indecency with a child and one count of sexual assault in which she is accused of having intercourse with an 11-year-old male child.

ing himself to a child under 12-years-old.

Other indictments returned yesterday included a felony DWI offense for B.O. Shreve; two cases of burglary against Romero DeVila and one case against Michael Diaz; James Edward Stacy for criminal non-support; Santos Ortis, Clara Ortis, Debra Ortis and Carmela Quiroz for aggravated robbery in which store owner Larry Ulibarri was severely beaten; Fred Smith, Jesus Soliz and Willie Dale Bridgeman for delivery of marijuana. Three people indicted on forgery charges remain at-large.

A fourth-grade teacher at Shirley Elementary, Bautista submitted her resignation during Tuesday night's school board meeting. The child was a former student of her's.

When questioned concerning the incident, Superintendent of Schools Dr. Harrell Holder stated, "I will not make any comments on the matter at all."

According to other school officials, the mother of the child reported her concern regarding notes the teacher had written to the Texas Department of Human Resources.

John Dominguez, principal of the school, says he was contacted by the TDHR office. "I got a call from Barbara Geiger at TDHR," he says, "She said she had a mother in her office who was complaining about a teacher who had written some notes to her son."

Dominguez, who is a brother-in-law of Bautista, says he never saw the notes and was not told what they contained. When he questioned the teacher, Dominguez says she told him the notes were just asking him how he liked school this year. Dominguez reportedly advised the teacher to not write any more notes and to stay away from the child.

It was not until a call came from Holder that Dominguez says he was aware of the serious nature of the charges and that the matter had not been resolved.

Grand jurors yesterday also returned an indictment against Joe P. Chavez for indecency with a child. Chavez drives an ice-cream truck through the streets selling novelties to children. He is accused of expos-

Five measures to pep up state economy pass Senate

AUSTIN (AP) — With the guidance of Texas' top three political leaders, the Senate has approved five proposals to pep up the state's sluggish economy.

The measures — two proposed constitutional amendments and three bills — were prepared in an effort to diversify an economy that had relied on oil and gas revenues.

"Some bond brokers in New York have had some kind of a giggle and some kind of a laugh about the Texas economy, and they are concerned about our economy," said Sen. Bob Glasgow, sponsor of the proposals.

"The things that I hear a lot — 'If Texas is dumb enough to let the Arabs control our economy, we deserve what we get.' Well I don't think that's true," said Glasgow, D-Stephenville.

He said Gov. Bill Clements, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Gib Lewis had agreed that "one of the most important things that we can do in the state of Texas is get our economy back in line and move industrial development."

Glasgow said the proposals originated in a committee appointed by Lewis and had provisions in line with Hobby's "Build Texas" program, as well as provisions suggested by Clements.

The legislation approved Thursday includes a bill that would consolidate several state agencies into the Texas Department of Commerce, which would be the contact point for businesses considering expansion, relocation or start-up in Texas.

Authority of such agencies as the Economic Development Commission, Tourist Development Agency and Texas Music Commission would be transferred to the commerce department.

Up to $400 million in bond money could be loaned to local governments for public facilities.

The Senate rejected 16-14, then accepted, 18-12, an amendment increasing from three to six the size of the department's governing board, with the members to be appointed by the governor from different geographical areas.

Another amendment would require state agencies participating in the economic development program to award at least 10 percent of its total value of contracts to disadvantaged businesses.

One proposed constitutional amendment would authorize the Legislature to provide $15 million in bonds for developing new state products, $10 million to foster the development of small businesses, and $100 million to assist small agricultural businesses.

A board would be created to review bond issues.

A second proposed constitutional amendment would authorize the Legislature to make loans and grants available for economic development.

Both proposals were returned to the House with amendments on 30-0 votes. If approved by the House, the proposals would be submitted to the Meat, autos, energy cause jump in wholesale prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices, driven by steep increases in prices for meats, automobiles and energy, jumped 0.7 percent in April, at an annual rate of 8.9 percent, the government reported today.

Food prices, which had risen 0.5 percent in March after five months of decline, shot up 1.5 percent in April, largely because of accelerating meat prices, the Labor Department said.

Beef and veal prices rose 8.3 percent over the month and prices for pork skyrocketed by 13 percent. Processed poultry prices rose 3.1 percent.

Meat prices had been declining in recent months.

Car prices shot up 2.4 percent after declining since December, largely due to rebates during the first quarter of the year by auto manufacturers. Prices for light trucks rose by 2.9 percent over March, following declines of 1.8 percent and 1.3 percent the previous two months.

Energy prices shot up 2.1 percent in April, with gasoline rising by 2.3 percent and home heating oil by 1.8 percent. The increases were much larger than in March, but smaller than those in January and February.

Prices for consumer goods other than food and energy rose just 0.2 percent, one-fourth the 0.8 percent increase in March.

The April increase left the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Producer Price Index at 295.0. That means an array of goods costing $10 in 1967 would have cost $29.50 last month. That is 78 cents more than the same assortment would have cost in April 1966.

The bureau said wholesale prices have risen 2.7 percent over the year, with an average annual increase of 5.1 percent since January.

Despite the recent increases, energy prices are still 1.1 percent below what they were a year ago, when the world oil market was just beginning to recover from a collapse that had pushed the price of oil to a decade-low $11 to $12 a barrel.

Crude oil prices are now back in the range of $18 to $19 a barrel.

Overall food prices are 4.2 percent above what they were a year ago. The large April increases for meats were somewhat offset by lower prices for fruits, vegetables, fish and coffee.

Fresh fruit prices dropped 11.1 percent after rising 7.7 percent in March. Fish continued to fall, dropping 6.7 percent last month following a 4.6 percent decline the previous month.

Fresh and dried vegetables declined 1.2 percent after leaping nearly 21 percent in March. Coffee prices continued their year-long decline and are 18.8 percent below what they were a year ago.

The effects of the falling dollar on prices for imported goods are beginning to create upward pressure on prices for capital equipment. Higher prices for X-ray equipment and commercial furniture more than offset declines for heavy trucks, transformers and oil-filled machinery, sending capital equipment prices up 0.3 percent in April.

TV ministers call for fast, prayer day

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Leaders of the Assemblies of God have called on its 2.5 million members to fast and pray this Sunday, May 17, about recent events involving TV preachers and others.

The church said the events, in which Jim Bakker quit his TV show after admitting an adulterous tryst and complaints against him by TV preacher Jimmy Swaggart, have caused "turmoil, dismay, misunderstanding and pain."

Both Bakker and Swaggart belong to the denomination. Executives of its General Council urged members to pray in their homes and churches "to unitedly seek the Lord in fervent contrition and intercession."

General Superintendent G. Raymond Carlson said that in such fasting and prayer, the Holy Spirit will "accomplish what carnal prodding and human effort cannot."

He said there is a widespread American attitude of tolerating conditions never acceptable to past generations and "sadly, this attitude has crept into the lives of many professing Christians."

Dallas leads amnesty applicants

DALLAS (AP) — More aliens in the Dallas-Fort Worth area are applying for amnesty than in other Texas cities, and applications in Texas and the South have outpaced those in California and the West, federal figures show.

Through Wednesday, the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service's legalization program that began May 5 had processed 5,811 applications nationwide — about 44 percent of them in the agency's Dallas-based southern region, an INS official said Thursday.

Of those 5,811, 2,546 were in the INS southern region, 1,724 in the western region including California and Arizona, 968 in the eastern region including New York and 573 in the northern region including Illinois.

Among the nine legalization centers in Texas, the Arlington center serving Dallas, Fort Worth and much of Northeast Texas had processed the most applications, 567, followed by Houston with 520 and Harlingen with 194.

"Business had really begun to pick up, especially in Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston," said Mario Ortiz, spokesman for the 13-state INS southern region.

"Arlington had just 12 people apply the first day, but a week later (Wednesday) they had 148 and we are very likely to hit capacity (300 daily) in the next few days," he said.

Under the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, certain aliens who have lived in the United States illegally prior to 1982 have until May 4, 1988, to apply for temporary residency status and work authorization. They later could qualify for permanent residency or citizenship.

Contra aid was 'spy-novel'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The spy-novel workings of Lt. Col. Oliver L. North's clandestine Contra support operation included a safe of traveler's checks, principals code-named "Sparkplug" and "Steelhammer," and a courier who called himself "T.C."

The initials stood for "The Courier," code name for Robert Owen, a onetime public relations man and Capitol Hill aide who became North's intermediary with the Contra rebels and who now is telling his story to the select congressional committee investigating the Iran-Contra affair.

Owen testified Thursday that North had him carry money to various Contra leaders, deliver photographs and maps to the rebel forces and draw up lists of their weapons needs.

Owen said the money he delivered to designated Contras in Central America and in Washington came from a supply of traveler's checks in North's office safe in the Old Executive Office Building of the White House complex.

The situation as described by Owen involved a revolving-door financial operation, with the traveler's checks coming to North from Adolfo Calero, the Contra leader in Miami who controlled the rebels' finances, and being distributed to other Contras by North.

Calero has acknowledged he gave North about $50,000 when North said he needed it to help rescue Americans held hostage in Lebanon. However, Calero's attorney said Thursday the total amount of traveler's checks Calero sent North was at least $75,000 and possibly $100,000.

During this time, according to bank records that Calero provided, most of the Contras' money was coming from a foreign source believed to be Saudi Arabia.

Owen said he became involved with the Contras while working at the prominent Washington public relations firm of Gray & Co. in 1984.

The rebels were seeking Washington representation to assist them in getting funding, but Owen said Gray & Co. "did not feel comfortable representing the Contras."

Owen, however, began traveling to Central America as North's intermediary with Calero's forces, and eventually he went on the Contras' payroll for $2,500 a month, plus his expenses, he said.

His job description was "very fluid — there was not something put down on paper," he added.

In a July 2, 1984, memorandum to North, Owen referred to weapons as "firecrackers" and "toys," and talked about "an individual who has access to the contacts for the toys." That individual, Owen wrote "would like a meeting with you."

International

NATO asks for missile elimination

STAVANGER, Norway (AP) — NATO defense ministers today called on the Soviet Union to drop its demand to keep some medium-range nuclear missiles and urged worldwide elimination of those weapons from superpower arsenals.

In a communique ending a two-day nuclear strategy session, the 14 defense chiefs welcomed the improved prospects for a U.S.-Soviet nuclear arms reduction accord, but voiced concern over the Warsaw Pact's edge in conventional forces and chemical weapons.

They also failed to decide whether short-range missiles should be abolished in Europe. Some Europeans believe that if they were, Western Europe would be left vulnerable to superior Soviet bloc forces.

The statement was a green light for the United States to shift its formal negotiating position at the Geneva arms talks and to propose a "global zero" goal for missiles with a range of 600 to 3,000 miles.

President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev informally agreed at last year's summit in Iceland to dismantle all but 100 of these missiles on each side. Under that plan, each side would retain 100 missiles on its own territory.

U.S.S.R. stops releasing prisoners

MOSCOW (AP) — Andrei D. Sakharov, the most prominent Soviet dissident, told French Prime Minister Jacques Chirac today that the Soviet Union has stopped releasing political prisoners.

Sakharov, the 1975 Nobel Peace Prize laureate, met Chirac at the Soviet Academy of Sciences, which the French leader visited before beginning talks with Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

"We are very preoccupied by the fact that the process of releasing prisoners of conscience has been interrupted," Sakharov, a nuclear physicist and a member of the academy, told Chirac.

He did not say when or why the Soviets had stopped freeing prisoners.

Chirac, who began his three-day visit to the Soviet Union on Thursday, was expected to raise humanitarian issues in his discussions with Gorbachev. The official Tass news agency said the two leaders met this morning, but gave no further details.

In remarks Thursday night at a Kremlin dinner, Chirac noted French citizens' high regard for the human rights guarantees they had won in the French revolution, and he said the Kremlin needed to do more to meet its international commitments on human rights.

Earlier this year, an estimated 180 religious and political activists convicted of alleged anti-Soviet activities were released from labor camps and prisons. Some of those released said about 1,200 people remained behind bars for their beliefs.

For classroom teachers

Panel to set national standards

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Carnegie Corp. panel today announced the creation of the first national board to set standards for teachers and to offer them professional certification similar to that given medical specialists.

The board, to be composed primarily of classroom teachers, will certify teachers who pass its muster after defining what those in various fields "should know and be able to do."

Leaders of the Carnegie Forum on Education and the Economy were announcing in San Diego today details of the creation of the new National Board for Professional Teaching Standards.

The board, consisting of as many as 64 members, will have to decide how it will judge teachers and in what subject areas and grade levels it will offer certification.

The idea is to give America's 2 million elementary and secondary school teachers a pathway for professional development and recognition similar to the board certification that physicians can gain in their medical specialties.

It will be three years to five years before the board awards its first certificates, and it may cost as much as $50 million to develop the methods of assessment and get the board started, a spokesman, Scott Widmeyer, said.

Widmeyer said in a telephone interview that teachers would have to pay as-yet undetermined fees for the certification process, which likely would include oral examinations, written testing and possibly internships.

"The door is not closed to any teacher in America," he said, describing the certification as a kind of "special badge" that states and school districts would recognize as enhancing a teacher's value to the education system.

Certified teachers, Widmeyer said, would be screened for skills in both their subject matter and in education, including the writing of curriculum, working with other teachers and relating to students.

The national certification board was the centerpiece of a series of recommendations a Carnegie task force made last May in a report aimed at triggering radical changes in U.S. schools and bringing bigger paychecks, better working conditions and greater responsibility for outstanding teachers.

The nucleus of the new board will be 33 educators, politicians and others who have served since last year on a planning board.

Former North Carolina Gov. James B. Hunt, chairman of the planning group, said the key to educational excellence is "attracting and keeping high quality teachers in our schools."

The board includes both teacher union presidents, Mary Hatwood Futrell of the National Education Association and Albert Shanker of the American Federation of Teachers, as well as New Jersey Gov. Thomas Kean.

Futrell said in an interview Thursday that her organization has always been concerned that a majority of those on the national standards board be classroom teachers. She said the NEA is "very, very satisfied" that both the board and virtually all of its committees will be made up mostly of teachers.

Two-thirds of the members will be "teaching professionals" and one-third representatives of the "public and other educators." Most of the professionals will be actual classroom teachers.

Eventually, board-certified teachers will elect teachers to the board. For now, a third will come from the ranks of union leaders, a third from among those who have held office in an academic specialty group, and a third will be teachers recognized for outstanding accomplishments.

Most of the "public and other educator" members will be government officials responsible for education.

Hunt said the full board will be elected this summer.

Eventually, the board expects the applicants' fees to finance its work.

Sonia Hernandez, a principal and teacher at Gardendale Elementary School in San Antonio, Texas, will chair the board's nominating committee. Kean is also on that panel.

HOUSE

Money for public education does not mysteriously appear on the Capitol steps for us to dispense. The highways don't pave themselves," he said.

Lottery backer Rep. Larry Evans, D-Houston, said, "We do have a responsibility to make sure that the laws we pass are moral. At the same time, we have a concomitant responsibility to finance state government."

Lewis won respect from both sides — and probably sealed the defeat — by refusing to urge colleagues to join him in voting to put the lottery on the ballot. He said the issue did not lend itself to lobbying.

"I have a difficult time trying to persuade a member to vote against his moral convictions or a commitment he may have made to his preacher back home, which most of them have," Lewis said.

But Gov. Bill Clements did push for passage.

"The governor applied heavy pressure to Republican members," Hudson said. "I talked to one Republican ... who said the governor chewed him out (before the vote). I'm sure that happened to more than one Republican."

Nevertheless, Reggie Bashur, Clements' press secretary, said, "The governor's position all along has been one of neutrality."

Asked what would be the next step toward busting the budget impasse, Bashur said, "Negotiations, options, discussions move on."

Replacing the $650 million a lottery could raise in 1988-89 would require budget cuts or a penny increase in the state sales tax, according to Lewis. That would be a penny above the 3/4-cent increase already proposed by Lewis.

The state sales tax is now 4 1/2 percent.

Asked about the chances of getting the budget balanced by June 1, Lewis said, "I think they're very slim."

But despite the odds, he said he would not give up.

"I don't like special sessions. I've got a business I need to go back and look at just to see if it's still there," the Fort Worth labelmaker said.

Families worry Iran-contra hearings overshadow plight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Relatives of the American hostages in Lebanon, worried that the Iran-Contra hearings have overshadowed concern for the captives, say they are buoyed by the release of a videotape in Beirut showing hostage Alann Steen.

The tape of Steen, 48, of Boston, was delivered Thursday to a newspaper office, and was the first communication from the Moslem kidnappers since April 2.

"I'm glad for his family," said Marilyn Langston of Malden, Mass., the daughter of Frank Reed, a hostage seized last September.

"I know how much this kind of thing means to the family," said Peggy Say of Batavia, N.Y., the sister of hostage Terry Anderson.

Steen, whose wife, Virginia, lives in Lebanon, has been reported to be seriously ill, but he seemed healthy in the videotape.

The relatives of the eight Americans being held in Lebanon have stayed in the background in recent weeks as Congress began hearings into how the Reagan administration sold weapons to Iran and pursued other initiatives in an effort to free hostages held by pro-Iranian elements in Lebanon.

"A lot of noise didn't seem to do it," Mrs. Langston said of previous efforts to effect the hostages' release. "We really have no alternative but to keep a low profile," said Thomas Cicippio of Norristown, Pa., the brother of Joseph Cicippio.

In addition to the bill to create the commerce department, the Senate approved bills to create a 15-member commission to develop a long-range economic plan and to cut red tape for processing permits for small businesses.

All three bills were returned to the House with amendments on voice vote.

"These bills will ... show that Texas is embarking upon a broad, general and very detailed economic development program," Glasgow said.

Clements said, "Certainly what the Senate has done today, and what the House had previously done, is good for Texas. It will create jobs, it will move us forward in this economic development that is so important."

'Cheers' finale tops ratings

Shelley Long is leaving the top-rated sitcom after this season, and viewers tuned in last week to find out how. The episode topped the A.C. Nielsen Co. ratings for the week ending May 10, and NBC edged CBS to win the first full week of the May "sweeps."

"Cheers" had a rating of 38.4 and a 48 share.

The rating is a percentage of the nation's estimated 87.4 million homes with television. The share is a percentage of the audience viewing during a particular time period.

CBS' Sunday-night TV movie "A Gathering of Old Men" won the night and ranked 10th. The story of elderly black men finally standing up for each other beat part one of the two-part "Hands of a Stranger" on NBC, based on Robert Daly's suspense drama, and part one of the two-part "Queenie" on ABC, based on Michael Korda's partly fictional biography of his aunt, Merle Oberon.

CBS also scored with the second part of the two-part "Murder Ordained." The conclusion of the fact-based murder mystery ranked sixth.

May is one of four months when local ratings determine advertising rates, so the networks put on special programming to help their affiliates. The regular season ended last month with NBC winning its second-straight season.

Church News

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Barry Ensign-George, intern from Princeton, will preach Sunday morning for the regular 10:30 worship service. His sermon title is "Knowing Jesus: Life Out of Control." The scripture passage is John: 1-14.

The senior high youth will meet at 7 p.m. Sunday at 138 Liveoak. Junior high age youth will meet for hoola hoop night at 5:30 p.m. at the same location.

Vacation Bible School will be from 9 a.m. until noon June 22-26. Materials have been ordered and the teaching places are filling up. Three more teachers are still needed.

If you would like to give flowers for a Sunday service, there are dates still open on the flower calendar located in the small fellowship hall. Sign up as soon as possible.

Mission Yearbook - When an elder commented to the presbytery executive, "I feel intimidated in the presence of pastors," the small comment became the source of a big idea: the School of the Laity in the Presbytery of Savannah, in Georgia. Students attend classes part-time, and they learn to better serve the rest of the laity in their presbytery. We are asked to remember this important ministry in our prayers, as it serves to strengthen the whole body of Christ.

FIRST CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

A day camp, Terrific Tuesdays, is being offered at the church each Tuesday (June 2 through Aug. 26) for children in first through sixth grades.

Each child is asked to bring a sack lunch and the cost is $5. They may be brought to the church gym doors at 8 a.m. and picked up from 4-5 p.m. The first day, June 2, each child is to bring a swimming suit for water play.

For further information contact John Guy Ford or Jeff Love at the church 364-8303. You may also call 364-1287 or 364-5341.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

During the Sunday morning worship service, which begins at 11 a.m., all the choirs of the church will sing "Sing Out All Voices Clear and Bright." Those who will be performing include The Little Singers (preschool choir), Music Makers (grades 1-3), Young Musicians (grades 4-6), Exodus (youth), Adult Choir, Handbell Choir and Brass Ensembles.

On May 21 at 7 p.m., the congregation will honor all the church's graduating seniors from Hereford High School will be the graduating seniors from Buckner Baptist Children's Home.

Vacation Bible School clinic is planned from 9:30 a.m. until noon Saturday at Frio Baptist Church.

CHRISTIAN ASSEMBLY CHURCH

HARRY AND JO FISHER

Harry and Jo Fisher, evangelists, will be ministering at Christian Assembly Church at 7 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday. The public is invited to hear the couple whose ministry is incorporated as Harry Fisher of Men, Inc.

The husband and wife team has spoken throughout the United States for 21 years operating from their homebase in Wichita Falls. Fisher was ordained a Baptist minister in 1959. They served as Assembly of God evangelists for three years before becoming independent evangelists.

The Fishers speak at Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship and Women's Aglow meetings. Their ministry has been led into many different churches, denominational and interdenominational, as well as home meetings, and most recently into prisons.

WESLEY UNITED METHODIST CHURCH (410 Irving)

The Rev. Lanny Wheeler's sermon Sunday at the 11 a.m. worship hour will be "The Power of Ordinary People." The choir will sing a special entitled "I'm Standing On The Solid Rock."

There will be a special sermon for children following the Sunday school services which begin at 10 a.m.

Two free services to be offered

Deaf Smith General Hospital, in conjunction with the Hereford Police Department, will be sponsoring "Prints for Life" and "Tapes for Life" from 9 a.m. until noon Saturday in the front lobby of the hospital. "Prints for Life" is recognized across the nation as an identification tool in the event that a child is lost or kidnapped. "Tapes for Life" is a new service offered by the police department which aids law enforcement agencies in locating a lost child.

The tapes are never used for any purpose other than in the occurrence of a kidnapped or missing child and there is a state law which prohibits the use of the tapes in any type of investigation.

This service is offered free to the public and parents are encouraged to bring their children to the hospital Saturday.

A blood pressure screening, offered by the Deaf Smith General Hospital Ambulance Service, will also be held from 9 a.m. until noon.

The services, sponsored by the local hospital, are part of Texas Hospital Week which has a theme of "Texas Hospitals-Making You Feel Better."

Texas Hospital Week is sponsored by the Texas Hospital Association, the Austin-based trade association for hospitals. THA represents more than 800 institutional and 4,000 personal members.

Appreciation expressed at meeting

Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 228 members met in regular session Tuesday evening.

Noble Grand Jo Irlbeck presided as sick members were reported. Thirty-five visits to the sick and 28 cheer cards were reported for the week.

Appreciation for all those who assisted with the recent lodge bazaar-garage-bake sale was expressed. A donation was voted to help with routine expenses of the hall.

Ada Hollabaugh served as hostess and games were played during the fellowship hour by Irlbeck, Susie Curtsinger, Merle Boozer, Eunice Boyer, Erma Loving, Anna Conklin, Ursalee Jacobsen, Lydia Hoson, Leona Sowell, Faye Brownlow, Dora Lea Howell, Sadie Latham and Peggy Lemons.

Recognized as special guests were Juanita Haines and Winnie McWhorter from Amarillo Rebekah Lodge No. 222.

Club elects new officers

The Frio Homemakers Club met recently in the home of Sharon Caro with Helen Barber serving as hostess.

Carolyn Andrews gave the program on "Teen Pregnancy--Death of A Dream." Andrews provided the group with some startling statistics and said there is a need for everyone to work on communication, commitment, and self-respect.

Elected as officers were: Marguerite Cole, president; Loleta Vinson, vice-president; and Vada Axe, Secretary-Treasurer.

It was decided to meet only once a month on the second Tuesday.

Members present included: Georgia Andrews, Axe, Barber, Caro, Cole, Anna Lee Dobbins, Darlene Richardson, Ruth Robbins, Ruby Sparkman, Vinson, Sara Walton, and Ellen Warrick.

The State of Wyoming got its name from the Wyoming Valley in Pennsylvania, which was the sight of an Indian massacre and became widely known by the poem "Gertrude of Wyoming." In Algonquin it means "wide prairie place."

Sinuses cause only trouble

Sinuses seem to have no useful purpose. They probably did at one time, but now these air spaces in the bones behind the nose seem only to make many people miserable.

Problems arise when the mucous membranes of the sinuses become inflamed, a condition called sinusitis, says the Texas Medical Association.

The trouble usually begins when a common cold—a viral infection—is joined by a bacterial infection. These organisms move easily from the nose into the sinuses because the mucous membranes of the nose extend into and line the sinuses.

Most often affected are the pairs of sinuses in the forehead slightly above and between the eyes and in the cheeks.

Symptoms of sinusitis occur several days after a cold has begun—about the time it should be clearing up. The blockage in the nose may worsen and a greenish discharge may increase.

The discharge may stop if the passages between the nose and the sinuses become blocked. If that happens, the nose is more stopped up than ever. Breathing through the mouth becomes necessary, speech becomes nasal, and a generally ill feeling sets in.

Depending on which sinuses are affected, a person may have a headache over one or both eyes, and one or both cheeks may hurt. The lower portion of the forehead just above the eyes may feel tender.

Sinusitis is common, but some people never get it. Others get it whenever they have a bad cold. Some people get sinusitis by jumping into water feet first. Damage to nasal bones or a foreign body caught in a nostril can lead to infection and an attack.

Self-treatment involves staying in a room with a fairly constant temperature and a vaporizer to add moisture. Blow your nose gently. To relieve pain, inhale steam from a sink of hot water.

A physician may prescribe an antibiotic, decongestant tablets, nose drops, or a nasal spray. Though further treatment is usually not necessary, a minor operation with local anesthesia can create a new passageway between the nose and sinuses to relieve the blockage.

Ann Landers

Treat others with respect

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Here is yet another entry in the never-ending dialogue regarding the male and the female and who should do what for whom.

I'm not referring to etiquette (which fork to use), but rather the way we treat one another on a daily basis. Good manners has nothing to do with gender. It is ordinary courtesy, kindness and concern for others.

Good manners is a young man offering to help an elderly woman with a heavy shopping bag as she struggles with her key. It is the young woman helping the gentleman with two canes cross at a busy intersection. It is a child asking if he may sit there or if the seat is taken. It is an elderly woman offering her seat to a handicapped child or a middle-aged woman with toddler and a full grocery cart. It is yielding to the airhead who is jaywalking. It is accepting help when you don't need it in order to make someone feel useful. It is asking those around you if they mind if you smoke before lighting a cigarette.

Men and women of all ages need to treat each other with consideration, kindness and courtesy. This is what it means to be civilized.—C.R. in Iowa

DEAR IOWA: I couldn't have said it better myself. Letters such as yours serve to remind me how much wisdom and just plain common sense there is out there.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Seven years ago, I left France and came to work in the United States. I married an American and we now have two children, a 5-year-old boy and a 3-month-old girl.

From the day our son was born I spoke to him in French. He didn't start to talk until he was almost 3. I was concerned. The day-care director said it was because he was confused by my talking to him in French. From then on I spoke to him only in English. I am sorry to say that now he does not speak any French at all.

What should I do about our daughter? Should I speak no French to her until she goes to school and then end her to my parents in France for summer vacations?

I am getting a lot of free advice from my friends and relatives and I don't know what to do.—Stumped in Washington director gave you bad advice. Children who hear one language at home and another at school can grow up to be comfortably bilingual. Start speaking to your son in French again and one day he will surprise you.

DEAR STUMPED: The day-care

As for your daughter, speak to her only in French but make sure your husband and others speak to her in English. She should then be proficient in both languages by the time she goes to kindergarten.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was tickled to death to see that letter in your column about people who pop their chewing gum, drum their fingers on a desk or table, hum to themselves, clip their fingernails, click their dentures and breathe heavily.

I used to think something was wrong with me because I get very annoyed when people I work with do those things. Now I know I am normal. Hooray! How about you, Ann, do these things get on your nerves? Tell us.—Your Public in Hayward, Calif.

DEAR HAY: I have an extremely high threshold of tolerance for most of the things you mentioned—in fact they don't bother me at all—but gum-popping sets by teeth one dge. Anyone who does this around me gets "the word" immediately.

Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," explains every aspect of sexual behavior—where to draw the line, how to say no, the various methods of contraception, the dangers of VD, the symptoms and where to get help. Public invited to attend festivities

The Pioneer Round-Up, scheduled for Saturday, will be the 59th consecutive year the Plainview Business and Professional Women's Club has sponsored this event.

The theme chosen is "Pride in Yesterday".

The reception beginning at 10 a.m. at the Hale County Agriculture Center in Plainview, is a big feature and is a time when the real "old timers" get together to reminiscence and exchange stories of the past.

Miss Pioneer Round-Up judging will take place at 10:30 a.m. at the Ag Center and all entries will ride in the parade.

One of the few remaining parades in Plainview will be staged at 2:30 p.m. originating at the Santa Fe Depot on north Broadway. Those participating are asked to be on hand by 1:30 p.m. Parade will move south on Broadway to the American Legion where it will disband.

The Kountry Kitchen and concessions will be open all day at the Hale County Agriculture Center and Kristy Widener and Alice Doyle are the chairmen. Everyone is invited to shop for baked products made by members of the Plainview BPW Club.

The evening activities will also be held in the Hale County Agriculture Center. From 6 to 8 p.m., the chuck wagon supper will be served catered by Plainview Bar-B-Q.

To highlight the evening's activities, the Pioneer Woman of the Plains will be announced. Entertainment will be furnished by the Singing Farmers of Hart, composed of Preston Upshaw, Freddy Upshaw, Weldon Davis and Leslie Davis. Mrs. Weldon (Gaylia) Davis is accompanist for the group, and also entertaining will be Gail Veach, local country singer.

The square dance will conclude the Pioneer Round-Up again this year. Helen Burleson, chairman of the committee, has announced that Roy Johnson of Amarillo will be the caller. The Agriculture Center is air conditioned and will be comfortable for dancing 9 to 11:30 p.m.

Tickets are $5.00 which includes the supper, program and square dance or $2 after 8 p.m. without meal. They may be purchased from any member of the Plainview BPW Club or secured at the door.

In double overtime

SuperSonics eliminate Rockets, 128-125

By JIM COUR
AP Sports Writer

SEATTLE (AP) — In defeat, the sweat-glistening former soccer goalkeeper from Nigeria was truly magnificent.

But even Akeem "The Dream" Olajuwon, at his brilliant best on the basketball court, wasn't enough to prevent the improbable Seattle SuperSonics from eliminating the Houston Rockets from the NBA playoffs 128-125 in double overtime Thursday night.

"I went up to Akeem after the game and told him he was one of the greatest players I've ever played against," Seattle's Maurice Lucas said. "He was phenomenal."

"We play with a lot of heart. But I can't imagine anyone wanting to win as much as Akeem did."

"We played very well as a team but so did they," Olajuwon said modestly. "That's the name of the game. It was a very tough loss."

Despite a 49-point, 25-rebound performance that also featured six blocked shots in 53 emotion-charged minutes by the 7-foot Olajuwon, the Sonics ousted the Rockets four games to two in the teams' second-round playoff series and earned the dubious right to face the powerful Los Angeles Lakers in the Western Conference finals.

The Magic Johnson-led Lakers, favored to win it all in the NBA this season, will host the underdog Sonics, a 39-43 regular-season club, at the Forum in Inglewood, Calif., Saturday at 12:30 p.m. PDT and Tuesday and 7:30 p.m.

Games 3 and 4 will be played in the Seattle Coliseum, but the NBA won't set those dates until Friday, Sonics spokesman Jim Rupp said.

The Lakers, who dispatched Denver 3-0 and Golden State 4-1 in their first two playoff series, were 4-2 against Seattle during the regular season. Los Angeles finished 26 games ahead of Seattle in the Pacific Division during the regular season.

But even the prospect of having to play the Lakers could not diminish the ecstasy of knocking off the favored Rockets and their Twin Towers of Olajuwon and 7-4 Ralph Sampson.

"This is the happiest moment of my life," said Dale Ellis, who scored 36 points and put Seattle ahead with 52 seconds remaining in the second overtime period. "I think we're going to go all the way."

On his field goal that turned out to be the game-winner, Ellis got the ball after Olajuwon blocked his shot and scored from under the basket to break a 125-125 tie. Ellis had tied the game for Seattle with a baseline jumper with 1:47 remaining.

Ellis also made a big play on defense at the end, partially blocking a long 3-point attempt by Richard Anderson, necessitated because Clemen Johnson scored the final Seattle point — his only of the night — on a free throw with five seconds remaining. Anderson's shot fell short and the buzzer sounded.

Houston led 107-102 with 55 seconds remaining in regulation play and it appeared likely the Sonics were going back to The Summit in Houston for a seventh game Saturday instead of going to Los Angeles.

"There was a lot of doubt at that point," said Tom Chambers, who led the Sonics with 37 points.

But Ellis insisted he was not concerned about his team's five-point deficit.

"Our team has shown character all year in coming back from adversity," he said. "We did it again tonight. No one expected us to be here but we're still here."

Coach Bernie Bickerstaff of the Sonics thought his team's ability to come back from five points from behind inside the last minute of regulation play was the key to the victory.

"With 55 seconds to go and us down by five, I called a timeout and told the guys in the huddle, 'It's gut check time,'" he said. "The guys came through."

Ralph Sampson, who scored 19 points and missed a key jump shot in the final minute, had sent the game into a second overtime when he hit a free throw with five seconds left after being fouled by Chambers. Sampson missed the second free throw but Olajuwon got the rebound. He then missed an eight-foot baseline jumper at the buzzer.

"There's some guys who made some crucial errors who are going to have a tough time sleeping," Houston Coach Bill Fitch said. "It was a heart-breaking way for us to end the season."

It will be a long summer for Houston, which was a finalist against Boston in the NBA playoffs last season, and especially for Sampson. Sampson said he was willing to take all the blame for the devastating defeat.

"Both teams played hard but it comes down to who makes the last shot," he said. "It was a hard game to play in and play hard and lose."

"But I can take it. I'm big enough to take the blame. I took the shot and I didn't make it. I had an opportunity to win the game. It's something I'll have to live with for a long, long time."

Chambers had scored on a three-point play with 15 seconds left in the first overtime to put the Sonics ahead 115-114. He drove in for stuff off a long pass from Nate McMillan and was fouled by Robert Reid. He converted the free throw.

Seattle had sent the game into overtime by scoring the last five points in regulation on a basket by Xavier McDaniel, who finished with 24 points, from the key with 46 seconds to go and a three-point play by Ellis with 25 seconds to go.

Ellis scored on a breakaway layup after McMillan stripped Dirk Minniefield of the ball and fired a full-court pass to Ellis. Robert Reid fouled Ellis on the play and Ellis hit the free throw to tie the score 107-107.

Olajuwon missed a 20-foot baseline jumper with one second left in regulation play.

With the score tied 102-102, Olajuwon hit a 10-foot turnaround jump shot with 1:22 to go and then hit a free throw after being fouled by Seattle center Alton Lister on the play. Lister fouled out on the play.

Olajuwon hit a pair of free throws with 55 seconds remaining for a 107-102 Houston lead. He scored 14 of his points in the last quarter.

The Sonics led 36-28 after the first quarter but the Rockets rallied in the second for a 58-54 halftime advantage, holding Seattle to just 18 points in the quarter. Houston built its lead to 11 points at 74-63 with 3:42 left in the third quarter and was in front 84-78 going into the final quarter. The score was 107-107 at the end of regulation play and 115-115 at the end of the first overtime.

Indiana forward is NBA rookie-of-year

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Chuck Person just wanted the respect of fans and opposing players when he came to the NBA last year as the first-round draft pick of the Indiana Pacers.

Now, after playing against the toughest competition in 82 games and earning the league's Rookie of the Year award, Person has both.

"Respect has to be there before stardom," Person said Thursday after being named the league's best rookie.

The 6-foot-8, 220-pound forward from Auburn refused to back down against the league's established players, taking defensive assignments against players such as Boston's Larry Bird and Atlanta's Dominique Wilkins.

"You can't go out and be pushed around, or you won't have any impact in this league," Person said. "Now the players respect me."

The referee in a 1901 fight between Abe Attell and a featherweight named Jack Dempsey couldn't make up his mind. He first ruled that Dempsey had won. Then he changed the verdict to a draw. Finally, after strident protests from the spectators, he changed it to a victory for Attell.

They'll have to make a few adjustments when they play the Pacers now."

Person's name was booed by Indiana fans when he was drafted as a surprise pick by General Manager Donnie Walsh, but he soon turned jeers to cheers as he became the team's leading scorer and clutch player.

Person started 78 games and averaged 18.8 points a game as the Pacers went 41-41 in the regular season.

Person is the third NBA Rookie of the Year coached by Jack Ramsay. Ramsay also coached Buffalo's Bob McDoo in 1973 and Ernie DiGregorio in 1974.

Meads helps Astros edge Mets 5-4

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
 AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston rookie reliever Dave Meads faced down the New York Mets on the field and then had to face his teammates in the locker room.

A blue carpet of towels led to Meads' locker in mock respect for his outstanding performance against the Mets.

"They're just giving the rookie a hard time," Meads explained. "It's all a part of the initiation."

Meads had just pitched 2 2/3 scoreless innings to help the Astros beat the New York Mets 5-4, further solidifying his position with the team.

A stuffed vulture doll was perched on Meads' chair, part of a welcoming set up by fellow reliever Larry Anderson.

After several moments of teasing Meads, Anderson finally said "Oh, by the way, nice game."

Meads, 3-0, came on in the seventh inning with the score tied at 4-4, a runner on second base and one out.

He struck out Keith Hernandez, intentionally walked Kevin McReynolds and then struck out Darryl Strawberry to end the threat.

A grounder by Glenn Davis in the eighth inning scored Billy Doran from third base, giving the Mets their fifth 1-run loss on their current road trip.

"This is the worst road trip I've ever been on," Mets Manager Davey Johnson said. "That's what happens when you play poorly."

"When we play like we're capable of playing, we can play with anyone."

The road trip got even worse when both Mookie Wilson and relief pitcher Terry Leach suffered injuries.

Wilson suffered a bruise on his right tricep muscle when he was hit by a pitch from Aurelio Lopez in the seventh inning.

Houston's Alan Ashby singled off Leach's knee cap in the eighth inning.

Meads won out over five other left handed relief prospects in spring training for a spot on the major league roster.

"He showed me in spring training that he deserved an opportunity to pitch here," Astros Manager Hal Lanier said. "You can't ask for more than what he did."

Meads said he doesn't look at names when he's on the mound.

"I didn't even think about who it was, I just saw them as a challenge, I knew I had to get them out," said Meads, 3-0. "Just being here and getting the experience puts things in perspective."

"There's nothing like being here to find out what it's really like."

Doran doubled and was sacrificed to third by Phil Garner prior to his game-winning rung.

"You have to give credit to Billy, he just made up his mind he was going to score," Lanier said.

Houston struck the first blow in the game, taking a 3-0 first inning lead off starter John Mitchell, making his first start since being called up Monday from the minors.

Denny Walling singled home one run and Jose Cruz's triple sent two more runs home. Kevin McReynolds' 3-run homer off Houston starter Jim Deshaies tied it in the third.

The Astros went ahead 4-3 in the third on Kevin Bass' single to center field and the Mets knotted the score in the sixth when Dave Magadan doubled and scored on Rafael Santana's single to center field.

"We just have to go home and play better," Strawberry said. "We've just lost our concentration as a team. We'll go home and take extra batting practice."

The Astros are just trying to work through the early season funk, Garner said.

"At this time of year, you really are playing to stay over .500 and keep in close and be ready in August and September," Garner said.

Elsewhere in the National League, it was Cincinnati 10, Montreal 9; Pittsburgh 10, San Diego 3; and Philadelphia 5, Atlanta 4.

Reds 10, Expos 9

If the Montreal Expos are getting that rundown feeling, it's understandable.

For the second straight night and third time this season, the Cincinnati Reds surged back from a deep hole to beat the Expos. This time, the Reds scored five runs with two outs in the ninth inning for a 10-9 victory Thursday night.

"It's tough to come back like that against anybody, especially with the emphasis on relief pitching these days," Reds Manager Pete Rose said. "But if you do it, you have a reason to get excited. This is the kind of win that does wonders for a team."

It also can do much damage to a bullpen which is victimized the way Montreal's has been. The previous night, the Expos led 6-0 after two innings and lost 12-6.

"You can't expect the bullpen to do it all the time, but you don't expect that to happen either," Montreal Manager Buck Rodgers said of the collapse. "That was some of the worst pitching we've had all year. We just couldn't close the door."

The Reds broke down the door when Kal Daniels led off against Andy McGaffigan with a single. One out later, Dave Parker singled and Eric Davis walked to load the bases.

Randy St. Clair, 2-2, relieved and gave up a sacrifice fly to Kurt Stillwell, making it 9-6. Terry Francona singled to load the bases again before Ron Oester delivered a two-run double.

Pinch hitter Lloyd McClendon then came through with a game-winning, two-run single to right.

Pirates 10, Padres 3

Pittsburgh continued its torrid hitting against the Padres, who have lost eight of their last nine games despite averaging 5 1/2 runs a game over that span. San Diego is 8-28, the worst record in the majors, and 3-15 on the road.

The host Pirates scored 31 runs in the series. This time, Mike Lavalliere led the way with three RBI and reliever John Smiley got his first save and first hit in the majors.

Smiley, who pitched three scoreless innings, had an RBI double in the Pirates' five-run seventh.

Phillies 5, Braves 4

Mike Schmidt and Juan Samuel had two-run homers and Jeff Stone singled in the winning run in the seventh inning.

Samuel homered in the third, getting his fifth in the last five games. Schmidt homered in the fifth, his 12th this year and 506th lifetime.

Orvitz Virgil homered twice for the Braves.

Final qualifying rounds of Indy 500 are this weekend

By STEVE HERMAN
 AP Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Mario Andretti's pole position for the Indianapolis 500 is safe. Big-name drivers like Al Unser or Tom Sneva or Pancho Carter are not so secure, though.

Fifteen spots in the 33-car field for the May 24 race must be filled in the final rounds of qualifications Saturday and Sunday. Then, the slowest cars face elimination when the bumping process begins.

It all adds up to more uncertainty than usual at Indy.

The 18 cars already qualified represent the lowest number for the first weekend of time trials since 1974, barring four times when rain interrupted one or both days. The last two years, only three spots remained for the last weekend.

Even the bumping promises to be harder to figure.

For the first time this decade, speeds were down last weekend as drivers and mechanics puzzled over delicate adjustments to the cars and struggled with a track turned slick by hot, dry weather.

But how much are speeds down? A week ago, almost no one would have thought a 203.781 mph qualifying average would make the starting field — let alone be acceptable to the driver. Yet that's the speed, by former pole-winner and track record-holder Carter, that's now on the bubble and would be the first to go once bumping begins.

In theory, not even Andretti's starting position on the inside of the front row — via his 215.390 mph qualifying speed — is secure until qualifications end at 6 p.m. EST Sunday. But there would have to be 33 subsequently faster qualifiers for that to happen.

It's never happened and likely never will.

In the modern racing era, the record number of cars ousted from the lineup by faster qualifiers is 11 in both 1979 and 1981. This year, already with a heavy toll on equipment and drivers in crashes during practice and with considerably lower speeds turned in by the remaining non-qualified cars, there doesn't figure to be anywhere near that many.

"I feel for these guys" who haven't qualified yet, three-time winner Johnny Rutherford said Thursday.

"All the eyes of the world are on this place. The cars are so twitchy out there now. You can blink an eye and you're in trouble. It's a funny game out there now. It's hard to figure out."

Andretti had the fastest lap in the history of the Speedway during pre-qualification practice last week at more than 218 mph. But a week of unrelieved heat, a layer of rubber buildup on the track, gusty winds and the unfamiliarity and difficulty some cars experienced with the new racing radial tires have all cut speeds significantly.

"Cars have changed in the last two years," Rutherford said. "I don't think we have the cars really dialed in to the radials yet, but I think you will see some changes."

Rutherford qualified in the middle of the third row of the tentative lineup at 208.296 — eighth-fastest so far. Other former winners, including Andretti, took the top four spots. Defending champion Bobby Rahal was second at 213.316, followed by Rick Mears at 211.467 and A.J. Foyt at 210.935.

Among those still hoping to qualify rides this week are former winners Unser, Sneva and Gordon Johncock, along with last year's runner-up, Kevin Cogan. Unser's son, Al Jr., also has yet to qualify.

Baseball Hall of Famer Rabbit Maranville, a shortstop with a lifetime batting average of .258, played for 24 seasons in the big leagues with five different teams.

In his first two Super Bowls, Joe Montana of the San Francisco 49ers threw 57 passes without having one intercepted.

Don Mattingly hits grand slam home run

Yankees score 9-1 wallop of Rangers

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Mattingly refused to get excited over one swing. After the game in which he hit his first grand slam homer, Mattingly spoke joylessly, more technically, about the art of hitting a baseball.

"One at-bat doesn't change the previous 35 terrible ones," he said. "It doesn't pull you out of a slump. It's just a start, a step in the right direction."

Mattingly, seven for his last 37 and still batting just .246, hit his homer in the fourth inning Thursday afternoon, powering the New York Yankees to their 14th victory in 16 home games this season with a 9-1 decision over the Texas Rangers.

It was New York's first victory in four tries against the Rangers this year and snapped Texas' four-game winning streak.

"It's nice to be part of it again," Mattingly said after his first home run since May 1 and fourth overall. "But I still haven't hit a real groove yet."

"I need to get comfortable at the plate. I need to get my confidence back. It takes away your confidence when you're not getting any hits. I've had a lot of negative reinforcement."

"I'm still not sure when I come to the plate that I'm going to make solid contact and not swing at balls out of the strike zone. It has nothing to do with momentum. It's all confidence."

With the Yankees already ahead by three runs, Ranger starter Edwin Correa, 1-4, loaded the bases by allowing a one-out single to Joel Skinner and consecutive walks to Rickey Henderson and Willie Randolph before being replaced by left-handed reliever Mike Mason.

Mattingly entered the game with only two extra base hits in 70 previous bases loaded at-bats, but hit Mason's 2-0 fastball 400 feet and into the right field seats.

"It felt good not because it was a home run, or a grand slammer, but because it was a hit," he said. "I was finally able to do what I wanted to with a pitch."

Mattingly circled the bases mechanically. He didn't jump up and down, didn't pump his fist and, despite a cheering plea from the 22,635 fans, didn't emerge from the dugout for a curtain call.

"The fans have been very fair and patient with me, but I've been struggling like crazy," he said. "I would have been embarrassed to come out."

Henderson and Claudell Washington added solo homers, and each prevented homers in the field with leaping over-the-wall catches. Henderson, the left fielder, snared Larry Parrish's shot in the sixth and Washington, the center fielder, grabbed Bob Brower's drive in the fifth, a potential two-run homer.

"This wasn't a really good game for us," Rangers Manager Bobby Valentine said. "It started off bad, and it just got worse as it went along. But we had our chances. We had those home runs taken away and blew a bases-loaded, one-out situation. It just wasn't meant to be."

Yankees starter Dennis Rasmussen, 3-2, allowed five singles in 7 2-3 innings, walking four, striking out a season high nine batters, and lowering his ERA to 2.67.

He gave up three of those hits and the Rangers lone run in the fourth. Scott Fletcher and Ruben Sierra opened the inning with consecutive singles and one out later Pete O'Brien drove home Fletcher with a single.

Henderson led off the game with his fourth leadoff home run of the year, his 32nd leadoff homer lifetime — three shy of the major league record held by Bobby Bonds.

In other AL games, Baltimore edged Kansas City 4-3, Toronto trounced Minnesota 16-4 and Chicago defeated Cleveland 4-3.

Orioles 4, Royals 3

Bret Saberhagen knows which major-league stadium has the shortest distance down the lines. Just ask him.

"I know why the Orioles lead in home runs. If I played here, I could hit 10 home runs," Saberhagen said after getting his first loss of the season Thursday night as Baltimore, playing at home in Memorial Stadium, beat the Kansas City Royals 4-3.

Terry Kennedy won it for the Orioles by leading off the eighth inning with an opposite-field homer to left, just 309 feet from home plate.

"It wasn't that bad of a pitch. In any other ballpark, maybe it's a single, double or it might be an out," said Saberhagen, 6-1 and leading the American League with a 1.86 earned run average.

Kennedy connected for his fourth home run of the season.

"I was just glad I made contact. I wasn't thinking home run on 3-2," Kennedy said. "I was just looking to make contact and get on base. I got lucky because I hit it off the end of the bat."

Saberhagen, accustomed to pitching at Royals Stadium where it is 330 feet down the lines, has allowed only four homers in 58 innings this year, including a two-run shot to Cal Ripken Jr. in the first inning.

"I think this ballpark is the worst ballpark to pitch in. I got hurt twice last year here. I can't see how anyone likes this park."

Well, the Orioles' hitters love it — especially the 309-foot marks in the right- and left-field corners.

They lead the majors with 52 home runs and have hit 24 in their last seven games, two short of the AL record set by Boston in 1977.

Blue Jays 16, Twins 4

Lloyd Moseby and Tony Fernandez drove in four runs each and Toronto ripped 20 hits in routing Minnesota.

The Blue Jays ripped four pitchers for season highs in runs and hits and beat the Twins for the ninth straight time.

Moseby went 4-for-4 with a solo homer and two-run double. Fernandez was 3-for-5 with two doubles.

White Sox 4, Indians 3

Carlton Fisk singled home the winning run with one out in the ninth inning as host Chicago defeated Cleveland and ended a seven-game losing streak.

Donnie Hill drew a leadoff walk in the ninth from Rich Yett, 1-2, and Ozzie Guillen sacrificed. Fisk then singled off Ernie Camacho.

Bobby Thigpen, 2-2, pitched three innings for the victory, stopping the Indians' seven-game winning streak against the White Sox.

Charter draped during Eastern Star meeting

Ludie Greeson, Worthy Matron, and Courtney Brooke, Worthy Patron, presided over a regular meeting of the Order of Eastern Star Tuesday in the Masonic Lodge Hall. This was their final duty as new officers will be installed June 6.

Clara Brown received a life certificate and Julia Helms was greeted as a new member.

Open installation will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday, June 6, in the Masonic Lodge Hall. Wynema and Harold Wheeler are Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron-Elect.

At the close of the meeting, the charter was draped for all members deceased during 1986. The altar was draped in memory of grand officers deceased in 1986.

Kee Ruland served as organist and Clara Brown, Beatrice Hutson and Argen Draper served pro-tem for Bonnie Hartley, Audrey Rusher and Suzan Scriber.

Argen Draper prepared the menu for Masonic Night supper which will be at 6:30 p.m. Saturday to which all masons and their wives are invited. Eastern Star members volunteered to bring items on the menu.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Regan Looney from Friona, and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Leake and Maesie Flynn from Bovina.

Military Muster

Pvt. Keith N. Adams, son of Betty J. Adams and Harry Traylor, both of Hereford, Texas, has completed one station unit training (OSUT) at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

OSUT is a 12-week period which combines basic combat training and advanced individual training.

The training included weapons qualifications, squad tactics, patrolling, landmine warfare, field communications and combat operations. Completion of this course qualifies the soldier as a light-weapons infantryman and as an indirect-fire crewman.

Soldiers were taught to perform any of the duties in a rifle or mortar squad.
