McGruff, the crime watchdog, joined John Bradshaw to give tips on fighting crime at a Country Crime Watch meeting Monday night. Bradshaw, director of crime prevention programs in the Panhandle, will be available for neighborhood meetings to start crime watch areas. Below, Deaf Smith deputy Mary Johnson shows a map of the county and possible watch area divisions that could be made. For information, contact Johnson at the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's office.

County may face deficit

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

For the first time in several years, it appears the county will not realize enough in tax revenues next year to meet its projected budget.

Deaf Smith County Commissioners were informed of the possible deficit for the 1985-86 budget year by County Auditor Alex Schroeter, during Monday's regular commissioner's court meeting.

Commissioners had expected Monday to approve the budget proposed for the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1, but still have until July 8 to adopt a finalized version.

Schroeter told the court that based on the estimated $472 million tax base and the expected tax rate for this year of 39.8 cents per $100 valuation, the county would collect $1,786,000 as its share of property taxes.

"You need $2.1 million," Schroeter pointed out. "To get that, we would need a yearly 47 cent tax rate."

Commissioners have come up with a budget totaling around $3.9 million. The remainder of the money would come from services performed by the county and such things as fee collections and the state road and bridge tax.

Schroeter told the court it has at least three options for solving the budget crunch. He said commissioners could increase the effective tax rate by three percent, the maximum increase allowed without public input, and hope the remainder of the money needed will not be spent after all.

The court could also "hold the line" on spending during the rest of this fiscal year, so as to end the year with more than the $700,000 Schroeter expects the county will have in the bank.

Dr. Schroeter gave a third option, the court could trim the budget prepared for next year.

Commissioners decided to meet in special session prior to July 8 to make a decision on the matter.

In other business, the court voted unanimously to allocate an additional $4,500 in revenue sharing funds to the Hereford Satellite Center. Board President Gary Phipps and Treasurer Gene Brock appeared before the court, explaining that the Satellite Center Board would like to expand its program by hiring another coordinator.

Phipps said the board would also ask the City of Hereford for a $4,500 grant. The court had originally allocated $1,500 to the center, which provides training for mentally handicapped persons beyond school age.

Walcott Farmer Eldred Brown also attended Monday's meeting, sharing with the court a letter he received last week from the Texas Department of Agriculture. Because of damage to cotton last year, especially in Parmer county, and reports of some damage already this year, TDA has canceled all blanket spray permits issued to applicators in Donley, Collingsworth, Parmer and Deaf Smith counties.

Brown reminded commissioners that when they voted last fall to outlaw the application of butyl ester formulations of the herbicide 2,4-D during the cotton growing season, they agreed that low-volatile mixtures of the chemical could be applied with the proper permit. Brown said he did not believe the TDA's orders were in line with what the commissioners had in mind when they voted on regulation.

TDA is now saying that anyone who wants to spray any of the chemicals that are to be allowed this summer must contact its district office in Amarillo for an inspector to inspect each field to be treated to determine whether an application for spraying that field can be accepted.

After hearing a report on the founding of a County Crime Watch for rural residents of the county, commissioners agreed to support the program being overseen by the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office. Deputies Mary Johnson and Fidel Reyna are coordinating the program.

Cow spoiling rural gardens

Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Deputies responded to a weekend complaint from rural residents of the county, who said they were tired of having their gardens destroyed by a cow that is allowed by its owner to run loose.

A deputy filed a report that two persons were seen carrying a prohibited weapon; the sheriff's office said an arrest is possible.

A vehicle stolen from Tucumcari was discovered north of town, and deputies investigated several complaints of assault and harassment.

There are five arrests for public intoxication and one for driving while intoxicated and reckless driving.

Three arrested for intoxication

Hereford police made several arrests over the weekend and Monday, including two for disorderly conduct, one for public intoxication and two for driving while intoxicated.

Three juveniles were arrested for allegedly stealing a pickup from a local used car lot, and another three were picked up for shoplifting.

Juveniles were also arrested in connection with last week's burglaries of a liquor store and a habitation. More arrests are pending, police said.

The bulk of the incident reports filed from the weekend resulted from complaints of harassment, assault and family disputes.

Criminal mischief was reported Monday by Hereford Grain Corporation, where a window was broken sometime during the weekend.

Farmers help bereaved family

At least two dozen farmers in the western part of the county gathered Sunday to perform an act of kindness not unusual for a Texas Panhandle farm community.

The men spent the day cutting the entire wheat crop of Leland Burns, whose wife, Erma, died on Saturday. The couple had lived in the Adrian area nearly 30 years.

By using nine combines, Burns' neighbors were able to harvest the nearly 800 acre crop by around 11:30 p.m. Sunday. John Brorman, who the Brand was told initiated the project, himself provided two combines, two trucks, a grain cart and the help of his two sons and hired hand. The wheat would probably have taken Burns ten days to cut.

Among those who helped in the effort were Lawrence Jackson, Harley

Reagan may pressure Beirut

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is considering closing the Beirut airport and cutting off goods and services to the Lebanese capital in an effort to increase pressure on those holding 40 Americans hostage in the city, the White House announced today.

Spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan could decide later in the day which of a series of steps the United States would take to put pressure on the terrorists, Iran, Syria, Libya and any other nations or groups supporting the hijackers of TWA Flight 847.

Speakes indicated, however, that no direct military action to free the hostages was contemplated, saying the safety of the 40 American men being held captive remains a top priority.

Speakes refused to say how the United States might act to close the airport, other than to suggest "international cooperation" as one option.

Asked if an embargo of the port city or closure of its ports were among the options Reagan is considering, Speakes refused to say, telling reporters, "That's for you to figure out."

Reagan met Monday afternoon with his top national security advisers to review the latest terrorist incidents involving international airlines and received an update on the situation in Beirut, where 40 American men are being held hostage after TWA Flight 847 was hijacked on a flight from Athens to Rome on June 14.

Deputy White House press secretary Robert Sims said after the 90-minute meeting that diplomatic efforts would continue as the United States seeks to gain the hostages' release. He refused to discuss the meeting in detail.

But presidential spokesman Larry Speakes announced shortly before the meeting that Reagan would fly to Chicago on Friday for a speaking engagement and perhaps would meet with some hostage families but had decided not to go on from there to California for a 10-day vacation.

"I think he reviewed the current situation regarding the TWA hijack victims and decided it would be best for him to stay here," Speakes said.

Reagan met a victim of the TWA hijack Monday night at a fundraising dinner at the home of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. Athanassios Targontsidis, 18, of Brockton, Mass., who was freed with two others last week, said he shook hands with Reagan but "we did not exchange words."

Republican Gov. Richard Thornburgh of Pennsylvania, one of nine governors who met with Reagan Monday to discuss taxes, said the president indicated the hijacking "was clearly foremost on his mind."

"He's preoccupied with thoughts of

Blanket permits suspended

The Texas Department of Agriculture has suspended the issuance of blanket spray permits in Deaf Smith, Parmer, Collingsworth, Donley and Hall Counties effective Friday, June 21. The action is being taken following the recent confirmation of several hormonal herbicide drift cases involving more than 1000 acres.

In the last 2 years, more than 50,000 acres of cotton in the panhandle were severely damaged by drift from hormone herbicides, the most recent the 1984 Big Drift in Parmer and Deaf Smith Counties.

Angela Lamb, TDA Supervisor of the Amarillo District Office said "We checked with several aerial applicators in the area and discussed the situation with them. They agreed that we should take the steps

Regardless of how you may interpret some recent news reports from Washington, we believe the DOE is still planning to build a nuclear waste repository, and there is little possibility that small rural post offices are going to be closed.

Recent news items, written by a Washington bureau reporter and appearing in regional dailies, would seem to indicate otherwise to some readers.

A report on a speech by Ben Rusche, director of DOE's Office of Civilian Radioactive Waste Management, states that DOE "is admitting that the nuclear waste depository may never be built and that the wastes may have to remain at current sites adjacent to power plants."

From visiting with Rusche when he was in Hereford, I doubt that he made a direct statement such as this. The possibility of a repository never being built is a big "if," and we'll take that serious when Congress repeals the National Waste Policy Act.

That's like asking a man if he plans to marry a young, good-looking blonde if his wife dies. It's a possibility.

Expert says jet 'broke up in air'

CORK, Ireland (AP) — An Indian expert who inspected the wreckage of an Air-India jumbo jet that suddenly plummeted 31,000 feet into Atlantic waters said today it was apparent the Boeing 747 "broke up in the air."

"Some of the pieces, like chairs and cushions, are intact, so they had to fall from high up in the sky," Captain V.K. Bhasin, deputy manager of Indian Airlines, Air-India's sister company, told reporters.

"If the whole aircraft had impacted (against) the water there would have been a lot more twists and turns in the chairs and some of the other equipment," he said.

Bhasin was part of a seven-man team of Indian civil aviation experts inspecting wreckage picked up from the North Atlantic after Air-India flight 182 from Toronto, Canada, to India crashed into the sea off Ireland on Sunday. Officials say 329 were on board. It stopped in Montreal and was to refuel in London before flying to New Delhi and Bombay.

Bashin said it was too soon to say whether an explosion brought down the plane, but "what looks quite obvious is that the aircraft broke up in the air. That everybody knows."

Air-India, meanwhile, indefinitely suspended its weekly flight to Canada "unless security gets tight" at Canadian airports, S.K. Anand, deputy operations manager, said in India.

PUC wants Bell to take cut

AUSTIN (AP) — Southwestern Bell, which wants a $323.4 million rate hike, should be forced into a massive rate reduction, according to lawyers representing ratepayers and cities served by Bell.

Public Utility Counsel Jim Boyle is calling for a $124.4 million cut. Austin lawyer Don Butler, representing 203 Bell-served cities, says a $314 million decrease is needed.

"This case is a no-rate-increase case if there ever has been one," said Boyle, the state lawyer who represents ratepayers.

Boyle and Butler prefiled their cases Monday, a week before the Public Utility Commission is scheduled to begin hearing the Bell request that would raise residential rates by an average of $1.78 a month.

"They should walk out with a decrease," said Butler.

Boyle said his proposed $124.4 million cut would mean a monthly decrease of 50 cents to $1 on residential bills.

This could be the year that Bell leaves the commission with no increase or a cut. It's never happened in past Bell rate cases.

Clements wanted in old job

AUSTIN (AP) — A committee that wants former Gov. Bill Clements to run for his old job has sent its official filing to the state.

The objective of the Draft Clements Committee is to persuade the ex-governor that he is needed and could defeat Democratic Gov. Mark White, who unseated Clements in 1982.

Ken Nelson of Dallas, committee treasurer, said he wants the effort to result in something akin to "an open letter" to Clements that would be published in newspapers.

"The objective is simple and straightforward, to recruit Bill Clements as the Republican nominee for governor based on the fact he has the best chance of beating Mark White," said Nelson, a telecommunications consultant.

The required registration forms were mailed to the secretary of state's office Monday, he said. The committee has talked with Clements, but is working independently of the ex-governor.

Several Republicans are gearing up to seek the nomination to run against White in 1986, but Clements has said he is undecided.

"I don't have any intentions of going out and soliciting support," Clements said last week.

NASA makes room for sex

NEW YORK (AP) — It'll take more than Tang to keep our astronauts happy if men and women are sent on 90-day trips together, according to an environmental psychologist who recommends creating quarters for space station sex.

"The prospect of having women and men working together in close quarters always seems to lead to questions about sexual activity," Yvonne Clearwater writes in the July issue of Psychology Today magazine. "It seems obvious, however, that a group of normal, healthy professionals will probably possess normal, healthy sexual appetites."

Hence the conclusion by the leader of a National Aeronautics and Space Administration research team: "If we lock people up for 90-day periods, we must plan for the possibility of intimate behavior."

Ms. Clearwater's Habitability Research Group has been charged with telling NASA how to make the space station, which is scheduled to begin operation in the next decade, comfortable and efficient.

Reached by telephone Monday at NASA's Ames Research Center in Mountain View, Calif., Ms. Clearwater said she was reluctant to discuss any specifics because her remarks might attract too much attention to the topic of space station sex.

But she and a research group colleague, Maria Junge, said their team — which includes psychologists, engineers and an architect — has discussed ways to build and soundproof individual sleeping compartments that would afford sufficient privacy for sex.

Toxic fumes waft from warehouse

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Toxic fumes wafting from a burning agricultural warehouse kept about 9,000 people from their homes today while a special Coast Guard strike team analyzed chemicals they said could form explosive mixtures.

At least 10 people were treated and released and a firefighter was hospitalized in stable condition after inhaling fumes from the fire that began late Saturday and continued smoldering today.

Shifting winds spread fumes across Anaheim and into the adjacent cities of Placentia and Fullerton on Monday, forcing the evacuation of about 7,500 more residents. About 1,500 people had fled their homes over the weekend.

There was no estimate of when they might be able to return home. The cause of the fire and damage estimates were undetermined.

"The situation is unstable. Things could start burning at any moment in time," said Robert Merryman, county director of environmental health. "The products are smoldering, and one of the problems is that we don't know all of the chemicals that are in there."

7 killed in Brazilian crash

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — A Brazilian air force transport plane slammed into a hillside while attempting a forced landing in southern Brazil, killing all seven people aboard, military officials said.

The Hercules C-130 was on a routine mission between Rio de Janeiro and Santa Maria, about 1,100 miles to the south, when it crashed Monday a mile before reaching the air base, an air force statement said.

It did not identify the victims.

The U.S.-made, four-engine turboprop made two unsuccessful landing attempts before crashing. The cause of the accident was not immediately known, the statement said.

Police searching for time bombs

LONDON (AP) — Police say they are searching for time bombs in hotels or other buildings in 12 English seaside resorts today after uncovering an alleged IRA plot to unleash a bombing blitz at the mid-July height of the tourist season.

Twelve people were being held for questioning in connection with a five pound bomb with a 48-day timing mechanism found hidden Sunday in a second floor room of a crowded hotel near Buckingham Palace, the London residence of Queen Elizabeth II.

News reports claimed that at least one of the suspects had been linked to an Irish Republican Army attempt to assassinate Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and her Cabinet in a hotel bombing at the resort of Brighton last Oct. 12. Police declined to comment on the reports.

Mrs. Thatcher escaped unharmed, but five other people were killed in that explosion, believed caused by a bomb planted perhaps weeks before it detonated.

The career ladder is but one more aspect of Texas' great educational revolution.

For those in Hereford's school who have met the requirements mandated by state law, being selected as a "Level II" teacher means an extra $2,000.

For those who were not selected it means try again next year.

"I think the intent of the law is to reward the outstanding teachers and encourage others," says Marc Williamson, assistant superintendent at Hereford Independent School District. "It doesn't besmirch anybody, that's not in it."

Williamson said the idea behind the law is to keep the exceptional educators in the classroom rather than have them, for economical reasons, get into administration.

Some districts have simply named everybody who met the basic requirements as Level II teachers and had the district make up the difference between state funds for the program and what was needed for the payment of the bonus. Since Hereford ISD was not in a position to do so, Williamson and a committee of teachers devised a system to pick the teachers for Level II.

The first step was to determine who could even be considered. Teachers seeking Level II status must be certified, have a bachelor's degree, have three years of teaching experience, and nine hours of college work above the bachelor's degree of 135 hours of advanced academic training—such as workshops—or a combination which would equal 15 hours of advanced academic training.

Teachers with a master's degree would need only two years of teaching experience.

All the teachers who met those requirements were considered.

The next step involved each teacher's personal evaluation. For the year of 1982-83 the teacher had to have been evaluated at "satisfactory" or better, and in 83-84 have an evaluation which "exceeded expectations," or was higher than satisfactory.

Evaluations were divided into 11 categories with scoring ranging from one to five. When score totals were done, the evaluations were given either a plus-ten or minus-ten, or left the same, according to how each principal evaluates. That addition or subtraction was done to adjust for individual differences in evaluations on the separate campuses. For the school year needing a satisfactory rating, a total score of 330 was needed. For the year needing an above satisfactory rating, a score of 370 was needed.

Sixty-eight of Hereford's teachers qualified for the cash bonus after consideration of the evaluations. Those were taken from 127 who met the basic criterion for hours, years teaching, etc.

Williamson said that each evaluation had a number, and no teacher on the committee knew whose evaluation was being read, or even the campus it was from.

Williamson said that some districts are not pleased with the program, because for them it has been detrimental. "They haven't been real pleased with the morale part of it. I hope it doesn't happen here," he said.

Excluded from the career ladder are librarians, counselors, administrators, diagnosticians and other staff members.

Personnel chosen for the Level II on the career ladder in the Hereford district were:

Karen Abney, Linda Baird, Jean Beene, Margaret Bell, Colleen Billingsley, Catherine Brock, Gene Brock, Patricia Brooks, Beryl Burelsmith, Rita Burgess.

Also, Adelle Clements, Nan Conway, Ann Cummings, Joe Don Cummings, Jana Davis, Martha DeBord,

As the air and sea search for bodies was scaled down, almost 200 passengers remained unaccounted for. Irish authorities appealed to beachgoers in France, Spain and the British Isles to look out for bodies and wreckage washing ashore.

Joe Jennings, head of the Irish Government Information Service, said at a news conference 131 bodies had been found. The plane crashed 120 miles southwest of Ireland. Earlier, the Marine Rescue Coordinating Center in Shannon, Ireland, put the figure at 133. The discrepancy was not immediately explained.

Jennings said the bodies of 84 adult females, 13 adult males, 16 girls and 18 boys had been recovered. Two Irish navy ships would continue to search the area, he said, but American and British search parties had withdrawn, he said.

Many bodies are thought to have sunk, been trapped in wreckage or drifted away on the currents.

Hanon said autopsies had been completed on 18 bodies Monday night and another 50 were expected to be finished today. It was hoped all would be complete by Wednesday night, he said.

None had been identified, Jennings said.

The main targets of the search were the crucial "black box" flight recorders that could confirm what kind of an explosion felled the plane.

But U.S. officials of the National Transportation Safety Board which investigates plane crashes told Associated Press Radio there was virtually no chance of recovering the recorders, believed to be lying under a mile of water. The officials, who are in Cork to assist the crash probe, declined to be identified.

Two anonymous callers to news organizations Sunday said the plane was downed by a bomb planted by militant Sikh groups fighting for independence for India's Sikh minority. Sikh leaders in India and London called the claims "vicious lies." Sikh leaders in India, London and the United States denied any Sikh organization was involved.

necessary to stop it, given the magnitude of the 1984 drift situation."

Effective immediately, no blanket spray permits will be issued for the four regulated counties (Hall is already covered until October 15), and all permits previously issued will be rescinded. That action means that the use of hormone herbicides must be covered by an individual spray permit for EACH application. In addition, no permit may be issued if there are any susceptible crops within 4 miles of the target area.

TDA has a team of field inspectors in the panhandle as a direct result of last summer's drift problems in which more than $16,000 in fines have been collected so far. The field inspectors are maintaining a high visibility in the area with the emphasis on obtaining voluntary compliance.

The High volatile (Butyl Ester) formulation of 2,4-D is used to treat board leaf weeds, but can cause severe damage if it comes in contact with cotton or other susceptible crops. The Butyl Ester formulation can more off target even after being properly applied, if the temperature reaches 85 to 90 degrees. It's use is already prohibited in Deaf Smith, Parmer and Hall counties during weather months. The confirmation cases so far are not believed to involve heavy losses, but any additional contact with the herbicide would only make the situation worse.

Lamb said "As a farmer myself, I know those herbicides are necessary to modern farming practices, but we at TDA have a duty to protect people and crops from off-target pesticides. It's against the law to let those chemicals drift off target. We need to know who is doing the spraying and when." The team of TDA field inspectors is working with farm operators, pesticide applicators and dealers, and others in several counties in the Panhandle.

The Grace Commission was appointed by the president to search out ways to cut waste in government spending. Commission members came up with 2,478 recommendations which they say would save the federal government $425 billion over three years. The Congressional Budget Office says the figure are inflated and the savings could amount to $100 billion.

Congressman Larry Combest, in a letter to The Brand this past week said he didn't agree with the report, "particularly when it comes to post offices. He said the report was "a place to start looking for spending cuts, but it is not a formula."

Combest added that he has not heard the Grace report mentioned in any of this year's budget discussions. The congressman pointed out that the validity of the report was questioned recently with the revelation that the huge Grace conglomerate paid no federal taxes last year.

The plan to do away with the small post offices lists 33 rural offices in Combest's 19th District and 60 in Rep. Beau Boulter's 13th District. Boulter formed a caucus to study the 47 volumes of the commission report and he is lobbying for some of the recommendations.

Boulter said he supports the Grace objectives of better management, but he doesn't favor closing the small post offices and doesn't support user fees which are tied to numerous programs. Combest has not joined Boulter's caucus.

It could be a contingent action, but it's not an alternative that is announced before the event.

And, on the post office feature, we're not too concerned that post offices at Dawn, Wildorado, Vega and Adrian are going to be closed. The idea was proposed by the Grace Commission, but by reading the article closely, you'll notice that none of the commission's recommendations have been approved by Congress.

those people still in custody," Thornburgh told reporters after the meeting.

Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger rejected a new demand by Shiite Moslem leader Nabih Berri that the U.S. 6th Fleet withdraw from the coast of Lebanon. Berri claims to have taken control of most of the Americans from the hijackers who captured them.

The Washington Post said in today's editions that U.S. intelligence officials believe a group of the hostages is being held in the Shiite military barracks in the eastern Lebanon town of Baalbek, an area under Syrian control.

Weinberger said in an interview that the U.S. warships are in international waters and that the United States has no intention of yielding "to demands of terrorist hijackers."

The Pentagon has confirmed that a naval task force led by the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Nimitz is in the eastern Mediterranean, and other reports have put the warships about 25 miles off the coast of Lebanon.

Weinberger also said that while the administration "has reserved its rights to take whatever action seems to be proper," the United States will not retaliate militarily against the hijackers just for revenge.

"You aren't interested in revenge," the Pentagon chief said. "You're interested in trying to do something effective that will get these hostages back and deter anybody from trying to do it in the future."

COUNTY

Nunley, reporting on a workshop she attended regarding the Fair Labor Standards Act, told commissioners that county governments must begin complying with the Act.

Because of a recent Supreme Court ruling, counties must now compensate employees who work overtime by providing either overtime pay or compensatory time during the pay period in which the overtime occurred.

Nunley said the county's departments heads will now have increased record-keeping responsibilities, and must keep a separate time sheet for each employee.

Deaf Smith County Sheriff Joe Brown, who attended the meeting, said his employees often have overtime because of investigations and the hours required to transport prisoners. He said granting compensatory time leaves the department short-handed, and he expects the new ruling could get expensive for the county as far as the sheriff's office is concerned.

Commissioner Troy Don Moore presented a proposal on revised hiring practices prepared by Bannon and Associates of Austin. The changes are necessary because a U.S. District Court Judge last year found the county guilty of discriminatory hiring as alleged by Hispanic plaintiffs defended by Texas Rural Legal Aid.

The new hiring procedures must be implemented by the county to satisfy the judge's order and a settlement agreed on by the county and the plaintiffs.

With everyday school activities keeping our 4-H'ers busy throughout the school year, little time is left for big 4-H events and contests. What this means, is the phrase "Lazy Summer Days" does not fit into an active 4-H'ers vocabulary.

June is probably the biggest month for 4-H competitive events and this month is absolutely no exception.

Last week, Deaf Smith County, 4-H seamstresses competed in the District 1 4-H Fashion Show held on the West Texas State University campus in Canyon. Awards were given to the following young ladies for their garments; senior Kristi Powell received a blue ribbon and top four placing with her sundress in the non-tailored daywear category.

Juniors, Jennifer Hicks received a blue ribbon and top four placing with her quilted vest and jean skirt in the non-tailored daywear category; Sheilia Teel also received top four placing and a blue ribbon for her pajama set entered in the evening and specialty category; Lori Urbanczyk received a blue ribbon for her swimsuit ensemble in the active sportswear category; and Susan Rickman received a blue ribbon for her tailored blazer & walking shorts entered in the tailored daywear category.

The horse club competed at the district contest last Wednesday and Thursday, 12 4-H participated and the results will be announced next week.

There are still horse show underway, last Saturday the Lamb Co. Horse Show was held in conjuncture with the Llano Estacado Horse Association which will complete that Association shows for the year, total points will be tabulated and announced later.

The weekend of June 14-15th several 4-H'ers participated in the South Texas Prospect Steer Show held in San Antonio. Rickie Vogel took home Champion Chianine buckle as well as 1st place Large frame Maine Anjou and 2nd place market steer awards. Chris Urbanczyk place and in his large class of med framed limousin behind the reserve grand champion of the whole show. Jeremy Myers did well with a 3rd and 5th place medium framed chianna. Chris Connally showed the 5th place medium framed maine anjou. This past weekend the county 4-H club members carried 12 steers to Plainview for a prospect show there results in next weeks 4-H Around The County.

And finally, at this moment there are 30 Junior 4-H members from Deaf Smith County participating in County 4-H Camp in Brownwood. These 4-H'ers have been gone since Sunday and will return tomorrow from their camping experience at the Texas 4-H Center.

That's all for this week in the 4-H Around the County.

DEAR POLLY — I am a painter and I use latex paint, which washes off the skin when I use water and a bit of soap. The problem is that the paint won't wash out of my clothes. If you know of a solution to "painted" clothes (usually cotton), please share it with me. — LINDA

DEAR LINDA — Dried latex paint is very difficult to get out of clothes. If possible, wash out the paint spots while they're still wet, using warm water and soap or detergent. Some home remedies to remove dried latex paint are soaking the stains in hot vinegar or in ammonia.

There are some commercial products specifically made for removing latex paint from fabrics and these are available in hardware stores and paint stores. These are really your best bet for removing set-in stains. Be sure to follow directions on the package carefully and pay attention to recommendations concerning fabrics the product can be used with and other precautions. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — If anyone likes to burn votive candles as I do, you know that the wick sometimes falls down into the hot wax so it is impossible to light again. A paper-covered twist tie works fine as a substitute wick. Form the end of the twist tie into a ring and insert it into the center of the melted candle all the way to the bottom of the cup. The ring should allow the tie to stand upright while the wax hardens. The wire in the twist tie holds the new "wick" upright during subsequent burnings so you can burn the candle completely to the bottom of the glass cup. — WILMA

Ann Landers 'Lesson Learned'

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This morning while cleaning my 15-year-old daughter's room I ran across this verse. It fell out of a book she was reading.

It is short and to the point. I like it. Where it originated and why my daughter had it I do not know, but I was pleased that she thought it was worth clipping.—PITTSBURGH MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: It came from my column. I ran it several years ago. Sorry, the author is unknown. Thanks for sending it on.

A Lesson Learned

I met him.
I liked him.
I liked him.
I loved him.
I loved him.
I let him.
I let him.
I let him.
I lost him.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You wrote recently, "Help can be crippling if it shifts responsibility from adult children to parents for an extended period of time. Eventually, the crutches must be thrown away and the patient must learn to walk under his own power. Parents who provide too much help for too long do their children no favor."

Please substitute the word "government" for "parents" and "welfare recipient" for "children" and say it again.—FED UP IN TEXAS

DEAR TEXAS: There is some validity to your complaint, but let us not forget that the majority of those who are on welfare in this country are children and the elderly. Without it they would be in dire straits.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please come to the rescue of the hairdressers of America one more time.

My wife has been a hairdresser for several years. She now has her own little shop. Her income helps raise our children.

"Vera" has always given her immediate family free haircuts, perms and coloring jobs. The problem is that her sisters and cousins are all married now and have teenage children who also expect free perms, color and cuts.

The relatives book themselves at prime time—Fridays, Saturdays and after school. I say they are taking advantage of her. Vera says there is no way she can stop without making enemies right and left.

Is there a way out or is my wife stuck with these freeloaders for the rest of her life?—HUSBAND OF MRS. CHUMP

DEAR HUSBAND: Your wife should write a letter to her free "customers" and explain that supplies are very expensive and they must now pay X dollars to cover the cost. She should also tell them they must come on the slow days—Tuesdays and Wednesdays, mid-afternoon.

To expect free service for two generations of heads is pretty nifty. Your wife should also suggest the teenagers help clean combs, brushes, sweep the floor and run the towels through the washer-dryer.

Don't get burned by a "line" that's too hot to handle. Play it cool with Ann Landers' guide to "Necking and Petting"—What Are the Limits? Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611, enclosing 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed, envelope.

HUNT FOSTER
...awarded Eagle Scout Rank

Hunt Foster receives Eagle Scout rank

Hunt Foster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Foster, was awarded the rank of Eagle Scout in a Court of Honor at the First United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall Monday night. The Eagle Scout Award is Scouting's highest rank.

Foster is a member of local Boy Scout Troop 52, which is sponsored by First United Methodist Church. He joined the troop in 1978.

To attain the Eagle rank he earned 21 merit badges and planned and supervised an Eagle service project which involved building a gazebo on the playground of the Ruth Warner Memorial location of the Hereford Day Care Center.

Obtaining the Eagle award also involved holding positions of leadership in his troop. These positions included scribe, assistant patrol leader, patrol leader, and leadership corps.

Foster was awarded membership in Order of the Arrow at summer camp in 1981 and advanced to Brotherhood in that organization in 1983. He attended the National Order of the Arrow Conference in Austin, in August of 1981. Foster also served on the staff at Camp Don Harrington in June of 1983.

Master of ceremonies for the evening was George Ochs, also an Eagle Scout and Hunt's first scoutmaster. Serving as members of the color guard were Eagle Scouts, Russell Brownlow, Michael Foster, John Sinnacher, and Kurt Simon.

Father Joe Eagan, associate pastor of St. Anthony's Church, gave the welcome and invocation. Presenting the Eagle candidate's history in Scouting was Scoutmaster Neal Lemons, and Kurt Simon gave further highlights of Foster's years in scouting. The Eagle award was presented by Bobby Boyd, former district commissioner.

A reception followed the ceremony, and a theme of red, white, and blue was used in table decorations.

Foster is a recent graduate of Hereford High School, where he was active in Key Club and a percussionist in honors band. He plans to attend Angelo State University in the fall.

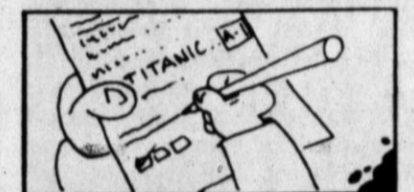

We'll listen to your opinion, but if you want to give us your input, please shut up!

Just consider the size of today's kids and you'll realize why they not only don't, but can't, look up to their smaller-type parents.

Another nice thing about the horse: He doesn't have windshield wipers under which parking tickets can be placed.

Today in History

Today is Tuesday, June 25, the 176th day of 1985. There are 189 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On June 25, 1876, Lt. Col. George A. Custer and his Seventh Cavalry were wiped out by Sioux and Cheyenne Indians in the Battle of Little Big Horn in Montana.

On this date: In 1788, the state of Virginia ratified the U.S. Constitution.

In 1906, in New York, architect Stanford White was shot to death atop the original Madison Square Garden — which he had designed — by Harry Thaw, the jealous husband of Evelyn Nesbit.

In 1942, the British air force staged a thousand-bomb raid on Bremen, Germany, during World War II.

In 1950, war broke out as North Korea invaded South Korea. The United Nations Security Council, meeting in emergency session, called for a cease-fire. The call went unheeded.

In 1962, the Supreme Court ruled that the use of an unofficial, non-denominational prayer in New York State public schools was unconstitutional.

In 1973, former White House Counsel John Dean began testifying before the Senate Watergate Committee.

Ten years ago: During a news conference, President Gerald R. Ford warned the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries against raising oil prices in the fall.

Five years ago: President Jimmy Carter continued his eight-day European tour with a stopover in Spain, where he urged the Madrid government to join NATO.

One year ago: The Senate voted almost unanimously to drop additional military aid to Nicaraguan rebels from an emergency domestic spending bill.

Today's Birthdays: Broadway producer George Abbott is 98. Movie director Sidney Lumet is 61. Actress June Lockhart is 60. Basketball hall-of-famer Willis Reed is 43. Singer Carly Simon is 40. TV personality Phyllis George Brown is 36.

Geter pursues civil rights; makes peace with town

GREENVILLE, Texas (AP) — Lenell Geter lives a quiet life now, dividing his time between civil rights activities and making peace with this small, predominantly white town where his legal nightmare began.

More than a year has passed since his conviction for an armed robbery he didn't commit was overturned, and the national attention focused on his battle has waned.

But Geter hasn't forgotten the organization that initiated his legal campaign. This week, the young aerospace engineer plans to attend several events at the 76th annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in Dallas.

Geter, 27, talks with reverence about the NAACP and the role its attorney, George Hairston played in his case. His participation in civil rights activities continues.

Last week, Geter founded the Geter Justice For All Foundation to offer referral services for inmates needing assistance. He is a regular speaker before alumni associations and church groups and has sold the film rights to his story to a Los Angeles production company.

In 1982, Geter was convicted of robbing a fast-food restaurant in the Dallas suburb of Balch Springs despite insistence from co-workers that he was working when the robbery occurred.

Geter spent 16 months in a Texas prison before he was released and then cleared of the charge after another man was identified as the robber.

Although prosecutors called the conviction a case of mistaken identity, Geter has said it resulted from racism, shoddy police work and overzealous prosecutors.

Geter said there was a time when he did not want to go back to Greenville. But he has returned to the Northeast Texas city, where he lives with his wife, Marcia, and works for E-Systems as an engineer on aerospace projects.

"Everytime I go somewhere, someone sees me and talks about it," Geter said.

Heroism alive and well, experts insist

PITTSBURGH (AP) — More than once, Joe Manford warned his girlfriend to be careful as they pushed an inner tube into a pond one warm afternoon last summer.

He could swim. She couldn't. Despite the warnings, Sumitra Solanki slipped through the center of the tube and was swallowed by dark, murky water 65 feet deep.

Manford dived in to save her, but he disappeared beneath the surface. A rafter rescued Ms. Solanki.

Manford's body was recovered from the Hagerstown, Md., pond later that day, July 14, 1984, two days before his 28th birthday.

"For a person to do what he did, yes, in my opinion, that's definitely a hero," said his father, Curtis Manford, 52, of Boonsboro, Md.

He also demonstrated, unknowingly, that America remains a home of the brave.

"Heroism is certainly very much alive and has never stopped being alive," said Robert W. Off, president of the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission, which honored Manford earlier this year.

"In this day and age, we read so much about the uncaring attitude of people. We don't believe it," Off said. "It's very evident that the flame still burns brightly. The concern we have for our fellow man is alive and well."

Since Pittsburgh industrialist Andrew Carnegie founded the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission with $5 million in bonds in 1904, the non-profit organization has honored 6,907 Americans and Canadians who risked their lives to save others.

About 90 bronze medals and $2,500 in checks have been handed out each year, with a high of 170 during the early 1970s and a low of 55 in 1978, according to Off. About 650 cases are referred to the commission annually.

"The concern for others is a basic human value. And I don't think that changes through the years, believe it or not," Off said.

The most common Carnegie hero is a male in his early 20s who, like Manford, witnesses a potential drowning. Other rescue attempts involve fires, tornadoes, collapsing buildings, even bear attacks.

"At that age, there's a more reckless type of thinking and living," Off said.

Perhaps more than anything, it's a matter of timing, according to John Dovidio, chairman of Colgate University's psychology department and one of four authors of the book "Emergency Intervention."

"Almost any-ist incidents involving international airliners and received an update on the situation in Beirut, where 40 American men are being held hostage more after TWA Flight 847 was hijacked on a flight from Athens to Rome on June 14.

Deputy White House press secretary Robert Sims said after the 90-minute meeting that diplomatic efforts would continue as the United States seeks to gain the hostages' release. He refused to discuss the meeting in detail.

But presidential spokesman Larry Speakes announced shortly before the meeting that Reagan would fly to Chicago on Friday for a speaking engagement and perhaps would meet with some hostage families but had decided not to go on from there to California for a 10-day vacation.

"I think he reviewed the current situation regarding the TWA hijack victims and decided it would be best for him to stay."

Reagan met a victim of the TWA hijack Monday night at a fund-raising dinner at the home of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. Athanassios Targontsidis, 18, of Brockton, Mass., who was freed with two others last week, said he shook hands with Reagan but "we did not exchange words."

Republican Gov. Richard Thornburgh of Pennsylvania, one of nine governors who met with Reagan Monday to discuss taxes, said the president indicated the hijacking "was clearly foremost on his mind."

"He's preoccupied with thoughts of it," told reporters after the meeting.

Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger rejected a new demand by Shiite Moslem leader Nabih Berri that the U.S. 6th Fleet withdraw from the coast of Lebanon.

The Washington Post said in today's editions that U.S. intelligence officials believe a group of the hostages is being held in the Shiite military barracks in the eastern Lebanon town of Baalbek, an area under Syrian control.

Weinberger said in an interview that the U.S. warships are in international waters and that the United States has no intention of yielding "to demands of terrorist hijackers."

The Pentagon has confirmed that a naval task force led by the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Nimitz is in the eastern Mediterranean, and other reports have put the warships about 25 miles off the coast of Lebanon.

Weinberger also said that while the administration "has reserved its rights to take whatever action seems to be proper," the United States will not retaliate militarily against the hijackers just for revenge.

"You aren't interested in revenge," the Pentagon chief said. "You're interested in trying to do something effective that will get these hostages back and deter anybody from trying to do it in the future."

President praised for trade agreements

MEXICO CITY (AP) — President Miguel de la Madrid, home from a five-nation European trip, is drawing praise for winning trade agreements to speed the country's economic recovery.

The government newspaper El Nacional said Monday that agreements on new investment in areas ranging from the pharmaceutical industry to ship construction totaled $360 million. Reciprocal agreements on financing of exports totaled nearly $469 million, it said.

De la Madrid, accompanied by his wife Paloma Cordero, returned Sunday from the 18-day trip, which included official visits to Spain, Great Britain, Belgium, West Germany and France.

Mexico has been in a deep financial crisis since 1982 but has been successful in renegotiating about half of its $96 billion foreign debt, in part because it has met payment deadlines and has taken the strict austerity measures required by the International Monetary Fund.

De la Madrid said he would prepare a detailed report for the nation on the trip but made little immediate comment.

Humberto Lugo Gil, president of the joint commission of Congress and a member of the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, said de la Madrid had sought in his talks with European leaders to extend negotiations on the foreign debt from strictly economic aspects into the political realm.

The negotiations, he said, "will involve not only the cold concepts of capital and interest, but will appraise the political and social consequences that the payment of high interest rates and the use of the greater part of foreign exchange for this purpose are generating in underdeveloped countries, a situation that has oppressed nations which have a high foreign debt."

Deadly cheese linked to death of woman

DALLAS (AP) — The death of an elderly Fort Worth woman has been positively linked to bacteria-tainted cheese, according to health officials.

Nationwide, contaminated cheese made by Jalisco Mexican Products in California and also sold under the Jimenez brand in Texas has been associated to at least 44 deaths, federal authorities said.

The deaths of three Texans, including the 83-year-old woman, an elderly man and a baby stillborn at seven months to a 28-year-old Houston woman, have been related to the contaminated cheese in one way or another.

Luz Romero, 83, died last Wednesday at a Fort Worth hospital of bacterial meningitis-listeria, according to the Tarrant County medical examiners' office.

She was diagnosed as having listeriosis several days after eating some Jimenez brand cheese, Dr. Nancy Bowen, assistant health director for the Tarrant County-Fort Worth Health Department, said Monday.

"We confirmed that the Listeria monocytogenes organism is present in the cheese we got from the woman's refrigerator," said Ginger Gipson, a microbiologist for the U.S. Food and Drug Administration in Dallas.

Health officials will not be able to determine exactly how the cheese was contaminated because it was found in an open package, she said.

"Probably, the contamination was in the cheese to start with," Ms. Gipson said. "But we don't know where it was contaminated."

Ms. Gipson said the cheese sample will be sent to the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., to determine if the bacteria is from the same strain associated with deaths and illnesses in California.

An elderly man in Fort Worth diagnosed with listeriosis also died last week. Ms. Bowen said a ruling on his cause of death is pending. The man ate some cheese at a restaurant, but it is not known if the cheese was bacteria-tainted.

In Houston, an infant was stillborn to a woman suffering from listeriosis and who frequently ate Jalisco brand cheese, said Shirlene Bridgewater, a public information officer for the Houston Health Department.

The child was stillborn on May 24, the same day the mother was admitted to Jefferson Davis Hospital with a 102-degree fever and a stiff neck, Ms. Bridgewater said.

"The mother was released on May 27 and she is doing fine now," Ms. Bridgewater said Monday. "She regularly consumed Jalisco cheese during her pregnancy and she definitely had listeriosis. They took a culture from her and they found it."

Ms. Bridgewater said epidemiologists are still combing through hospital records, looking for cases that may be linked to the recalled cheese.

"Our city health inspectors have removed about 11,000 pounds of the cheese products from the shelves of stores in Houston," she said. "We don't think there is any left."

Health officials in California said leaky equipment and faulty pasteurization were found at a plant that made Jalisco Mexican Products. Jimenez cheese is made by Jalisco.

Jalisco's plant in Artesia, Calif., has been closed and most of its 128 employees laid off.

Team owners admit

Gamblers considering move

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Gamblers running back Sam Harrell scored two fourth-quarter touchdowns, but was sad after the 31-21 loss to the Oakland Invaders, which probably was the Gamblers' last game ever in Houston.

Because of dwindling attendance, team officials have admitted considering a move to another city for the 1986 United States Football League season. The attendance was 15,797 Monday night.

"A lot of guys felt an empty feeling at the end of the game, going out and losing. We had 15,000 fans out who still support us. That meant a lot to our guys going into the playoffs," Harrell said.

Houston wide receiver Gerald McNeil said, "I don't think it affected the way we played but we wanted to go out and play in Texas but they've got footballs in every state."

McNeil played collegiate football at Baylor.

Gamblers Coach Jack Pardee said "our guys knew it wasn't do or die because we had the playoffs made. But we wanted to play well in our last game here."

But Oakland capitalized on three first-half Houston turnovers to build a 24-0 lead. The Invaders raised their record to 13-4-1, the best record in the USFL, having now won all 13 times this season that they scored first.

Since the fourth or fifth game of this season, rumors have been circulating about an impending move from Houston. The speculation now centers on Charlotte, N.C., or Chicago as a new site for the team.

USFL Commissioner Harry Usher attended the game.

"The support here has been intense but not deep and enthusiastic but not broad," he said.

"This is a fine, exciting team. But its questionable as to whether a city like Houston can support two football

Niekro is wild early, but Astros defeat Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If Joe Niekro, the Houston Astros' veteran knuckleball pitcher, had been throwing punches instead of pitches, he never would have made it past the second round.

It would have been stopped. He would have been finished.

But the 40-year-old Niekro survived, and once he harnessed his darting knuckler, he had everything in order.

Times in a row, including the first three games of the series after sweeping a three-game series last weekend in Houston. Los Angeles leads the series, 11-3.

"We had to have this one," said Houston Manager Bob Lillis. "We had a lot of breaks go our way for a change and we made the plays. This looked like our game."

Not at the start. Niekro was wild, very wild, early in the game, yet he survived, leaving the bases loaded the first two innings.

In all, Niekro gave up Pedro Guerrero's 17th homer, threw three wild pitches and hit three batters.

"I had a good knuckler," Niekro explained, "but it was all over the Niekro hurled the Astros to an 8-4 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers as Glenn Davis and Kevin Bass belted timely home runs.

The win broke the Dodgers' dominance over the Astros. Los Angeles had defeated Houston seven place.

"Those first two innings I started to wonder. But I found myself in time. The Dodgers hit the ball, but they hit it at people."

Lillis said he was close to removing Niekro in the early going.

"He was a pitch away from coming out a couple of times," admitted Lillis. "But from the fifth inning on, you can't pitch better than he did. It was like two games."

Niekro, now 5-7, allowed just two hits after the second inning.

With the six walks, Niekro broke the Houston club record for most career walks, 772, passing J.R. Richard.

teams. And the same situation happens in Denver and Los Angeles. Charlotte and Chicago are definitely still in the ballpark as prospective home cities."

The average Gambler home crowd declined from 24,000 in the team's inaugural 1984 season to 19,000 this year, with the all-time low of 11,780 showing up last Monday against San Antonio.

The Gamblers, who were 13-5 in 1984 while winning the Central Division, finished the regular season at 10-8, with five losses in their last seven games.

Houston will play at Birmingham Saturday in the first round of the USFL playoffs, while Oakland is at home against Tampa Bay on Sunday.

"I love playing in the Astrodome and I didn't give it (the speculation about a move) a thought before the game," Houston quarterback Todd Dillon added.

The Invaders' first score was set up when Dillon pass was intercepted and returned 41 yards to the Oakland 49. Five plays later, Novo Bojovic kicked a 44-yard field goal with 8:12 left in the first quarter.

On Houston's next possession, the Gamblers attempted a punt from their own 24. McClanahan broke through to block the punt and recovered in the end zone to give the Invaders a 10-0 lead after Bojovic's conversion with 7:15 left in the first quarter.

The Invaders scored again on their next possession when Hebert passed 64 yards to Derek Holloway to give Oakland a 17-0 lead with 4:03 remaining.

Bad epitaph for losing Rangers

Mariners' defense wins ball game

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle Mariners' defense won a ballgame and wrote a bad epitaph for the Texas Rangers.

The Mariners got a combined five-hitter from Frank Wills and Ed Nunez to defeat the Rangers 2-0 Monday. Outfielders Phil Bradley and Dave Henderson and catcher Bob Kearney all came up with spectacular fielding plays to preserve the shutout.

"When we hit the ball hard, it was right at people," moaned Ranger manager Bobby Valentine. "That's a bad epitaph." In their last eight games, the Rangers have scored just 24 runs.

Bradley belted his 11th home run in the first to give Seattle a 1-0 lead. Henderson led off the sixth with a walk and scored on a double to left by Kearney for Seattle's second run.

Wills, 3-1, was experimenting with a new pitching motion and struggled in the first inning. The Rangers got two hits and two walks but failed to score when Kearney came up with the first big play of the game.

With runners on first and second, Gary Ward singled to right. Wayne Tolleson beat the throw from right fielder Ivan Calderon, but Kearney had the plate blocked and kept him from touching home. He then chased Tolleson into the Ranger dugout to make the tag ending the inning.

"The plate is mine," said Kearney. "I saw him coming, and I gave him a little push with my leg to break his stride, to keep him off the plate."

Wills continued to have control problems. He walked six and struck out four. He left the game in the eighth after walking the lead-off batter. Nunez allowed just one hit in the final two innings to earn his eighth save, but needed two great fielding plays to preserve the win.

In the eighth, Tolleson walked and Buddy Bell singled. Pete O'Brien then slammed a line drive in the gap in left center that Henderson raced far to his right to catch. The next batter, Gary Ward, hit a sinking liner to left. Bradley saved the shutout with a diving catch.

"Those were two great catches," said Valentine. "If either one of those balls got by, it was a tie game."

"We've played good defense all year," said Bradley. "People just notice because it's a 2-0 game."

Seattle has won four straight and seven of their last nine games. Chris Welsh, 1-2, took the loss. He was making his first start in almost two years. The Texas left hander allowed six hits, walked four and struck out four in 5 1/3 innings.

Royals 12, Twins 6
The Kansas City Royals don't have to use their speed or take advantage of the springy artificial turf in the Minneapolis Metrodome. They can hit the ball into the inviting seats and simply trot around the bases.

The Royals did that five times Monday night, matching a club record by socking five home runs and trouncing the Minnesota Twins 12-6.

Hal McRae drove in five runs with a pair of homers and Lonnie Smith, Jim Sundberg and Darryl Motley also connected in the Metrodome, where the ball carries well.

In other American League games, Boston trimmed Detroit 9-2, Cleveland edged California 2-1, Chicago trounced Oakland 7-1, New York nipped Baltimore 5-4 and Seattle blanked Texas 2-0. Toronto and Milwaukee were not scheduled.

Red Sox 9, Tigers 2
Marty Barrett, Bill Buckner and Glenn Hoffman had two-run hits and Jim Rice also drove in two runs with a triple and homer. Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd allowed six hits and walked eight but struggled to his 10th complete game, tops in the AL.

Leading 3-1, the Red Sox broke the game open with five runs in the seventh.

Indians 2, Angels 1
Joe Carter's leadoff home run in the eighth inning off Jim Slaton snapped a 1-1 tie and gave Bert Blyleven his 202nd career triumph with a 10-strikeout, four-hit effort. The Angels, whose lead in the AL West was sliced to 1 1/2 games over

Chicago, had tied the score with a disputed run in the seventh.

White Sox 7, A's 1
Harold Baines drove in three runs, two with his sixth homer, and Dan Spillner hurled 5 1-3 innings of scoreless relief as Chicago snapped a four-game losing streak. Baines started the scoring with a sacrifice fly off loser Tim Lincecum in the first inning and finished it with a two-run homer off Bill Krueger in the fifth.

Yankees 5, Orioles 4
Don Baylor drove home the tying run with a sacrifice fly and Willie Randolph singled through Baltimore's drawn-in infield to cap a two-run rally in the eighth. Dave Winfield led off with a single and took third when Ron Hassey doubled off loser Dennis Martinez, who has never won in eight career starts at Yankee Stadium.

Soccer registration continues at 'Y'

Children who will be in the first through sixth grades next school year may still register for the YMCA youth soccer program.

The deadline to sign up for the program is now July 8. The registration fees are $6 for YMCA members and $12 for non-members of the YMCA.

The fee includes a team shirt, awards and use of equipment. For more information on the youth soccer leagues, call the YMCA.

FOOTBALL
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Heisman Trophy winner Mike Rozier has bought out his contract with the USFL Jacksonville Bulls and will play for the Houston Oilers of the NFL this fall, his agent says.

Rozier this week will sign a four-year contract worth an estimated $2 million, his agent, Philadelphia lawyer Art Wilkinson, said Monday. National Football League spokesman Dick Maxwell said Rozier's case has been reviewed and that "he is free of any contract obligation."

BASEBALL

NEW YORK (AP) — Gary Carter of the New York Mets, the National League's starting catcher in the last four All-Star Games, regained the lead at his position in the latest voting tabulations.

Carter, who trailed San Diego's Terry Kennedy by 5,597 votes last week, moved in front of the Padres' catcher by 137,629, benefiting from record crowds at Shea Stadium over the last week.

The other leaders are Steve Garvey of San Diego at first base, Ryne Sandberg of Chicago at second base, St. Louis' Ozzie Smith at shortstop, third baseman Graig Nettles of San Diego, and outfielders Tony Gwynn of San Diego, Dale Murphy of Atlanta and Darryl Strawberry of New York.

Murphy is now the fans' overall favorite with 641,874 votes to Garvey's 614,569.

NEW YORK (AP) — Outfielder Rickey Henderson and pitcher Ron Guidry of the New York Yankees shared the Player of the Week award for the period ending Sunday.

Henderson batted .607 (17-for-28), including three home runs. He also stole nine bases in nine attempts and scored 11 runs.

Guidry tossed two complete-game shutouts.

NEW YORK (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals pitcher John Tudor, who registered two victories for the period ending Sunday, was named Player of the Week in the National League.

In 17 innings, Tudor allowed eight hits, two runs, three walks and had 10 strikeouts. He now has a consecutive winning streak of three and has raised his record to 6-7.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Disgruntled pitcher John Candelaria has waived his rights to approve a trade and Pittsburgh Pirates General Manager Joe L. Brown said he is talking to three teams about the veteran left-hander.

Candelaria, used exclusively as a reliever this season, has contributed to Pirates' losses in his last two outings and has a 1-3 record in 25 appearances with a 4.22 earned run average and seven saves.

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—The political eyes of Texas are turned northeast to the First Congressional District where the first election battle of the new season is being waged.

At stake in this June 29 special election is not only a seat in Congress for one party or the other, but also precious momentum which the victors hope will carry over into the '86 regular elections.

Some eight Democrats and one Republican make this race somewhat of a free-for-all, especially in behind-the-scenes dynamics. The Republicans have put all their marbles behind one horse, and a political novice at that. The Democrats, somewhat more comfortable in what has traditionally been their district, are fragmented and combative.

While most analysts agree that a run-off election will be necessary between the top two vote-getters, a Democratic victory will depend on whether the factions rejoin.

Gramm's Influence

The situation on the election eve is one heavily influenced by the new Republican U.S. Senator Phil Gramm and very similar to the circumstances in his home congressional district which catapulted him to statewide office.

In that '83 election, Gramm drew heavily on unified GOP support from around the state and defeated a field of some ten Democratic challengers.

Now from his position as the top Republican officeholder in the state, he has engineered a similar scenario for victory for former Aggie quarterback Ed Hargett, his hand-picked candidate. First, he enticed long-time Congressman Sam Hall to resign and accept a federal judgeship which Gramm asked Reagan to give him. Then, when Hall vacated the seat, thereby creating the need for a special election, Gramm was ready to run a well-funded, lone Republican.

Democrat vs. Democrat

The strategy of using special elections to win a GOP takeover in a Democratic district is one that pits Democrat against Democrat for the right to run in a run-off against an unbloodied Republican.

Democrats are notorious for squabbling amongst themselves, and after the blood-letting, they are generally not in the mood to kiss and make up for some time.

No Time To Sulk

In the past, Texas has been a one-party state and Democrats could afford this luxury, especially during the long months of summer that separate the primary and general elections. Democrats have more time to reunite in a regular election year. Not so in a special election. The scant 30 days between the initial election and the run-off does not lend itself to a Texas Democratic Party which is not used to a real GOP threat. Gramm, a former Democrat himself, knows the weaknesses of his former party and is playing them to the hilt. He is also using his official influence to gather funds from across the state and nation in his long-shot bid to score a dramatic upset win in the heart of Democratic territory.

Conservatives The Key

He has only to make a good, close showing to come out smelling good, because of the region's political history. A win would seal his position of leadership within a GOP that still eyes former Democrats with some distrust and jealousy.

A victory also encourages the new doctrine that conservative Democrats can become Republicans in Texas and keep on winning. The Democrats have managed to fight that concept to a standstill, and so far, only one Texas legislator has switched this summer, Gary Thompson of Abilene.

But a victory in this northeast corner would give new hope to that concept, and to the expected candidacy of switcher Kent Hance.

"Days of Our Lives" presents 5000th show

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Al Rabin stood in the rear of the control room, one eye on the director talking the actors through a scene by microphone, the other on a bank of monitors showing the results from the nearby sound stage.

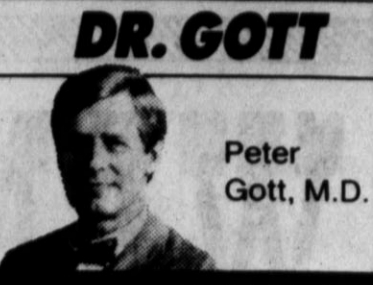

"Cue music," said director Susan Simon. The music came up and actors Peter Reckell and Kristian Alfonso, rummaging through an attic set looking for family mementos, appeared on a half dozen screens.

They were taping the NBC daytime soap opera "Days of Our Lives," which will present its 5,000th show Friday. On Nov. 6, the serial will celebrate 20 years on the air.

Miss Simon, one of the show's four directors, stopped the action. She leafed through the script and said, "Let's go, page 46." They tried again and Reckell flubbed his line.

Before she could start the scene again, producer Rabin interrupted. "Can you convey to them to play the scene with more joy and mirth?" Miss Simon relayed the message.

Earlier, in his second-floor office, overlooking a narrow studio street, Rabin had talked about how "Days of Our Lives" had changed since its

Stroke may be barely noticed

DEAR DR. GOTT — My grandfather was recently taken to the hospital in a coma. The doctors said that he had had a few strokes during the last several months. None of us noticed anything unusual about him at that time. How could someone have a stroke and neither know it nor show any signs of it?

DEAR READER — Strokes are caused by blood clots that block blood vessels in the brain. If a clot is small, it may do very little damage; if it is large, it can affect entire areas of the brain, causing coma and paralysis.

At the instant a clot clogs an artery, the body releases anticoagulants into the bloodstream. These remarkable chemicals will cause a clot to dissolve, but the process may take hours or days. In the meantime, the part of the brain that is affected becomes swollen and malfunctioning.

Perhaps this oversimplified explanation may help you to understand why your grandfather recovered from his stroke. The complexity of the brain often does not lend itself to precise analysis by our fundamentally primitive diagnostic techniques. Doctors are really equipped to identify major neurological events. Small strokes, affecting the higher centers of airway and judgment, often go unnoticed by both patient and physician.

For example, progressive memory loss is recognized as an inescapable consequence of aging. In all likelihood, this condition is the result of a series of several strokes that have occurred over many years. The usual senility of old age probably results from showers of clots that affect several areas of brain tissue.

Conversely, a single large clot can cause such acute and precipitous alterations that the brain may never recover, despite the body's anticoagulants and heroic medical attention. Doctors will usually try to tide a stroke patient over the acute phase in the hope that the natural healing process will enable damaged nerve tissue to function once again.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I've been trying to cut down on caffeine because I read that it's harmful. I've been drinking decaffeinated coffee. Then someone told me that tests about cancer and coffee show that it isn't the caffeine that's a problem, but something else. Is that true? Is decaffeinated coffee safe to drink? Does it matter which kind?

DEAR READER — Caffeine in coffee and cola drinks is a stimulant that can cause nervousness, irritability, high blood pressure and a rapid heart rate. I think it makes sense to exercise moderation in the consumption of caffeine-containing beverages. Many health professionals advise no more than two or — at most — three cups of coffee (or the equivalent) per day. I am not aware that other components in coffee cause serious disease, but the final answers are not yet known; prudence would be a reasonable trait to cultivate at this time.

As far as I can learn, decaffeinated coffee poses no health problems, if taken in moderation. Some brands are chemically treated to remove caffeine; whether these additives can cause disease is still an open question. Some decaffeinated coffee has been treated "naturally," without chemicals, to remove caffeine. If you are concerned about the possible harmful effects of additives, you might consider purchasing the "naturally" decaffeinated types.

DEAR DR. GOTT — After having a blood test recently, I was told that I had low iron count and should take iron pills. The pills make me nauseated and lightheaded. Would it be sufficient for me to just eat more foods rich in iron so I can stop taking the pills?

DEAR READER — The iron in food is basically the same type as that in pills. The problem is amount. You would have to eat enormous amounts of red meat, a good natural source of iron, to equal the quantity of iron in one or two pills. Therefore, if you are iron-deficient, the pills are a quicker and more effective way to build up your iron stores. I advise you to take iron pills if iron is what you need. In the event that one kind of pill gives you an unpleasant symptom, ask your doctor to suggest another type. Keep trying until you find one that suits you.

DEAR DR. GOTT — A year ago I had a rash on my leg that increased in size, developing in a circular pattern. My doctor told me that it was a fungus and gave me medication that made the rash go away. Now it seems to be starting again. What causes this? Are some people more likely to develop this type of rash?

DEAR READER — Fungus infections of the skin can be very resistant to treatment, particularly in a diabetic. Even in non-diabetics, a fungus rash can come and go, depending on the skin's ability to fight the yeast. Some people seem to be more susceptible to superficial fungus. Your story is a common one. Your best bet is to use the medicine your doctor has given you wherever the rash appears.

Athlete's foot is a similar yeast infection, and its resistance is legendary. Fortunately for most patients with your kind of rash, the infection is seldom serious. It is, rather, a bother that usually can be controlled by topical preparations like Tinactin and Mycostatin.

White gasahol veto draws response

AUSTIN (AP) — A Gov. Mark White veto denied Texans a chance to know what's in the fuel they pump into their cars and trucks, say two Republican lawmakers upset that White blocked a gas pump labeling bill.

The veto killed a measure that would have required labels indicating how much alcohol is in the fuel. Sen. J.E. "Buster" Brown said Monday that gasahol and other alcohol blends can damage cars and invalidate warranties.

The Lake Jackson lawmaker said the measure was a "full disclosure" bill.

"It's letting the public know what they're buying in their gasoline," he said at a gas station news conference.

The bill, approved 132-1 in the House and 24-4 in the Senate, was opposed by the Texas Farmers Union, whose members raise products used in alcohol fuels.

Rep. Jim Horn, R-Denton said at the Monday news conference that about 40 million gallons of gasahol — which is 10 percent alcohol — are sold in Texas each month.

"There is no telling," how much alcohol-blend fuel is sold, he said.

In his veto message, White said the bill is "excessive regulation and creates needless bureaucracy without showing compensating benefits to the public."

Walter Tibbitts, a natural resources analyst for White, said Monday there was not "groundswell of consumers seeking labeling of every gas pump in the state of Texas."

The Texas Department of Agriculture would have had to spend $600,000 a year to enforce the labeling, he added.

"The case was never made that alcohol blends, per se, are detrimental in any way to automobiles. The industry is increasingly using alcohol as an octane enhancer. You'll see more of this now that the Environmental Protection Agency is serious about phasing out lead," said Tibbitts.

Brown said Texans are entitled to know what's in the fuel.

"This is the same governor who signed a mandatory seat belt law that says letting the public know what's in the gasoline is an intrusion into their daily lives," said Brown.

He offered this suggestion for Texans whose vehicles are fouled by alcohol-mix fuel they didn't know they were buying.

"When their engine quits, get it hooked up and hauled over and put in the Governor's Mansion. Then I think he'll get the message," Brown said.

"I guess since the governor's chauffeur buys all his fuel he didn't have any concern" about the bill, Horn said.

In January 1984, the population of the Province of Ontario was 8,887,000.

Elmer Rice won a 1929 Pulitzer Prize for his play "Street Scene."

Inmate stabbing is TDC's 14th homicide this year

ROSHARON, Texas (AP) — The Texas Department of Corrections logged its 14th homicide of the year when a 25-year-old convicted murderer was apparently stabbed to death by two other convicted murderers, prison officials said. Brian Mimier, who was serving a 29-year sentence for a murder in Rusk County and an escape in Brazoria County, was stabbed Monday afternoon, said TDC spokesman Charles Brown. Mimier's death was the 14th homicide this year in the Texas prison system, the nation's second largest, Brown said. The victims included one guard. Last year, a record 25 inmates died at the hands of fellow-convicts, a record for the TDC. Brown said Mimier was stabbed at least 16 times in the upper torso, face and neck at about 5 p.m. CDT. He said the incident took place in the recreation yard of the administrative segregation wif-6 ogob2ary section of the prison.

Prison officials found three homemade knives, two of metal and one made of plexiglass, at the scene of the stabbing, Brown said. Brown described the suspects as an inmate serving 35 years for a murder and an attempted capital murder in Harris County and an inmate serving 15 years for a murder in Grimes County. Mimier was treated at the prison infirmary, Brown said, and pronounced dead about two and a half hours after the stabbing.

Why Do We Call It Hereford Frame & Axle?

When We Specialize In:

Brakes - Front End - Mufflers - Tires
- Wrecker Service - Shocks Batteries - Balance Wheels - Disc & Drum Service

Because, after 25 years, it's hard to change a name. Even if we've changed to give you a better range of services, the name stays the same.
