By JERI CURTIS
Managing Editor

For the second time in the past several months, the contract of Hereford Schools superintendent Harrell Holder has been considered in executive session of the board of trustees, but with no action taken following the session.

Tuesday night the board had an executive session which lasted nearly two hours for discussion of Holder's contract, however took no action or made any comment.

Prior to the executive session, Rinaldo Garcia questioned the board on a rumor he had heard which indicated the board had offered to buy out Holder's remaining contract. Board president John Fuston thanked Garcia for his comment before retiring to executive session.

Holder's contract was up for routine review in January, however then no vote was made.

Although his three-year contract does not expire for two years, it has traditionally been reviewed annually with a one-year extension made at each review.

Another closed session pertaining to personnel was called by the board to consider the resignation of band director Johnny Martinez, who submitted his letter of resignation May 12. The board expressed regret that Martinez had resigned and asked the Policy and Personnel committee to consider a probation period for the high school band. Martinez' resignation was prompted by disciplinary problems on a band trip.

Following the session, the board unanimously accepted his resignation and those of Sharon Charest, Tanya Crabtree, Don Long, Rhonda Long, Cindy Morgan, Dempsey Alexander, Rita Burges, and Karen Davis.

A leave of absence was approved for Susan Bodkin and recommended for employment were Crain Yenser, as an assistant coach and math (See SCHOOL, Page 2)

Most people -especially kids- enjoy seeing Wagon Train

By SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

A living exhibit of our western heritage and a highlight of the Sesquicentennial celebration will arrive in Hereford Thursday afternoon.

The Texas Wagon Train is circling the state in a 6-month project to help celebrate Texas' 150th birthday, and Hereford is among the more than 150 cities to host the train on the 3,000-mile route.

Eugene Bonds, advance information director, was in Hereford Tuesday to deliver a press packet on the Texas Wagon Train. He reported the train will leave Dimmitt at 8 a.m. Thursday and it travels at about 4 miles-per hour. The wagon train takes a mid-morning break for water and a noon break for lunch.

Figuring five hours for the trip and adding one to two hours for the water and lunch breaks, the train should arrive on the outskirts of Hereford about 2:30 p.m. Thursday. (This time could vary, of course, depending upon a number of factors).

Bonds urged citizens to view the wagon train's parade into town, if possible. "We've found that most people, especially school children, have enjoyed seeing the moving train," explained Bonds.

The wagon train will turn on Country Club Drive as it enters from the south of US-385. The train will proceed east to S. Main Street, and then go north to New York Avenue. It will then move east to the Bull Barn area, where it will circle for an overnight camp. It will depart Friday morning at 8 a.m., headed for Canyon.

The wagon train left from Sulphur Springs on Jan. 2. It will travel to Amarillo, Abilene and Wichita Falls before starting its final leg to Fort Worth. It is scheduled to arrive in Fort Worth on July 3, after covering more than 3,000 miles.

The appearance of the wagon train in Hereford is expected to draw visitors from around the area, including eastern New Mexico. Bonds said citizens from Clovis, N.M., had inquired about seeing the train in Hereford.

"To view the train as it moves from a long column to a wagon circle is an emotional experience that evokes a feeling of home and fulfillment," said Bonds. "The animals understand the day's work is done and are anxious to rest, roll, relax and enjoy their evening feeding. Harness and saddles are removed and prepared for the next day's journey and the routine of evening chores follows a definite and familiar pattern." Bonds explained that camp life in the evening revolves around the evening meal, entertainment and programs often provided by the host

Local festivities planned for guests

"Wagons, ho!" will sound at 8 a.m. Thursday morning in Dimmitt and the Texas Sesquicentennial Wagon Train will head for an overnight stay in Hereford. Estimated time of arrival on the outskirts of town is 2:30 to 3 p.m. Thursday.

Deaf Smith County's Sesquicentennial committee has been planning for the visit for months, and the wagon train will have traveled some 2,222 miles since leaving on its historic journey Jan. 2 in Sulphur Springs.

After a water break and lunch break between here and Dimmitt, the wagon train will bypass the downtown area in moving to its overnight camp site near the Bull Barn. The train will turn off US-385 on Country Club Drive, proceeding east to S. Main Street. The route will then go north on Main to New York Avenue (before getting to the railway tracks) and head east to the Bull Barn area.

Thursday afternoon the public is urged to view the train coming into town and schools will be dismissed two hours early for the event.

The county's Sesquicentennial Committee has planned a spaghetti supper for the wagon train participants and arrangements have been made for showers at local schools.

The Chamber Singers will kick off an evening of activity at 7 p.m. in the Bull Barn with a repertoire of Texas music. Also on the program, Mayor Wes Fisher will welcome the wagon train to Hereford, and time is allotted for the introduction of dignitaries and the winners of the look-alike contest.

From 8 p.m. until 10 p.m. three bluegrass bands and two groups of dancers will entertain.

Concessions will be available. The wagon train was scheduled to arrive in Dimmitt about 4:30 p.m. to

Welcoming the Wagons

The Texas Wagon Train will be seeing a friendly face as they enter Deaf Smith County Thursday. This man plans to stay outside and wave at every wagon crossing the county line on US-385. The wagon train is planned to enter Hereford sometime during the mid-afternoon. Wagon riders are planning on camping in Hereford Thursday night at the county Bull Barn and in Veterans Park. (Brand Photo by Shawn Cockrum)

Chernobyl no longer dangerous

MOSCOW (AP) — The official radio said today that radiation in the evacuated city of Chernobyl, 11 miles from the site of a nuclear power disaster, was no longer dangerous, and a government official said levels were once again normal at most observation points.

Meanwhile, state television's Tuesday evening news said a speech by Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev would be broadcast tonight, but did not indicate what the subject would be. Gorbachev so far has made no public statements on the accident.

A report today on Radio Moscow said the "consequences of the accident at the Chernobyl nuclear power station are being stamped out at a growing rate."

It quoted decontamination experts as saying that radiation in Chernobyl "is no longer hazardous to people" but did not say if or when residents would be allowed to return.

No population figure is available for Chernobyl, but the city is thought to have about 30,000 residents.

The Soviets have said 92,000 people were evacuated from an 18-mile radius of the plant following the explosion and fire April 26 in the No. 4 reactor of the nuclear power plant 80 miles north of the Ukrainian capital Kiev. The official casualty toll is six dead and about 200 injured.

An invisible cloud of radioactivity from the stricken plant spewed over the western Soviet Union and Europe, and has worked its way gradually around the world.

Deputy Premier Boris Y. Shcherbina, head of the government investigation into the accident, held a briefing Tuesday for diplomats from 15 nations.

Diplomats said Shcherbina told them readings Tuesday at five of seven monitoring stations in the western Soviet Union showed radiation had dropped to normal background levels, but that levels at two stations southwest of the plant remained slightly above normal.

They also reported conflicting statements about emissions from the plant. "First they said emissions stopped, then they said emissions practically stopped," said one diplomat who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Shcherbina also said a French-made polymer was being used to cover ground contaminated by radiation, the diplomats said.

The government evening newspaper Izvestia on Tuesday said workers were covering up to 200,000 square yards each day, but did not indicate the size of the area to be sealed.

U.S. industrialist Armand Hammer arrived Tuesday with a shipment of medicine and equipment needed to treat radiation victims.

Hammer, chairman of Occidental Petroleum Corp. and a longtime associate of Kremlin leaders, arranged through the Soviet Embassy in Washington to send three American medical specialists and an Israeli doctor to assist with bone marrow transplants to save the lives of those who received heavy doses of radiation at Chernobyl.

'Sale-a-bration' set

"Western Days Sale-A-Bration" is being conducted by a number of merchants and business firms in Hereford Thursday in conjunction with the arrival of the Texas Wagon Train.

The event is being sponsored by the retail trade committee of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. Merchants have been asked to join in the wagon train sales promotion and have their clerks dress western for the day.

There will also be a "Texas Look-Alike Contest" and everyone is eligible. The rules are simple—just dress like any famous Texan. Judging will take place during the festivities at the Bull Barn from 7 to 10 p.m. Thursday.

Look in today's issue of The Brand to see the big values being offered in the "Western Days Sale-A-Bration", and dress western Thursday! Plan to attend the evening entertainment at the Bull Barn, where there will be music, dancing, refreshments and special announcements and presentations!

Smith trial set May 27

A perjury charge against Hereford attorney Gerald Smith is set for trial in 22nd Judicial District Court here May 27, after several pre-trial motions were denied Tuesday by District Judge Pat Boone Jr. of Littlefield.

Several motions to quash the indictment and to disqualify the prosecutor pro-tem, Travis Ware, were introduced in the pre-trial motion hearing Tuesday by defense attorney Jim Brown, but the judge denied the motions.

The charge stems from an indictment issued in April, 1985, which alleges that Smith made a false statement in a pre-trial motion hearing in the case of the State of Texas vs. Abelardo Tijernina.

Two indictments on misconduct and one on perjury against Smith were quashed in October, 1984. Two perjury charges were also dismissed in county court in January, 1985.

Annual Pet Show set Saturday

Ready to put on the dog? Or the cat, the hamster, the mule... The Women's Division Chamber of Commerce is accepting entries until 9:30 a.m. Saturday for its annual Pet Show to be held immediately following registration in the Bull Barn. Registration is free. The only requirement is that all animals be leashed. Billie Sonnenberg and Tommie Savage will judge the following eight categories: largest animal, smallest animal, shaggiest animal, longest ears, longest tail, shortest tail, and most unusual.

Weather

TUESDAY'S HIGH: 81 LOW: 58
MOISTURE: Pray for it!
OUTLOOK: Tonight, cloudy and chance of evening thunderstorms. A high near 90. South wind 10 to 15 mph...becoming southwest 15 to 25 mph and gusty by afternoon.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says an expert is a person who can take something you already know and make it sound confusing.

Some guys seated around a coffee table solved three big issues while I was with them the other morning: The arms race should be stopped, the federal deficit should be reduced, and neckties should be banned for the summer.

The only thing that saves us all from the federal bureaucracy is its inefficiency.

If the schedule of events and the time of arrival of the Texas Wagon Train have you confused after reading recent articles in The Brand, then you're not alone!

It has been a difficult task for the local Wagon Train host committee to "nail down" the exact times and plans for the historic event. It is also difficult to communicate with wagon train officials, since they are dealing with so many committees along the way.

The Deaf Smith County Ses-quicentennial committee organized a Wagon Train subcommittee to make plans for hosting the train. The committee has put a lot of time and effort into the project, and the group will be meeting today to make last-minute preparations.

If the wagon train stays on schedule, it should arrive in Hereford about 2:30 p.m. Thursday. Citizens are invited and urged to park along the parade route and view the wagon train as it proceeds to the Bull Barn area. Citizens are also urged to attend the evening entertainment at the Bull Barn, from 7 to 10 p.m.

With the coming of the wagon train, many Hereford stores will be participating in a "Western Days Sell-A-Bration" Thursday. They'll be offering special bargains on merchandise and they're asking citizens to join them in dressing western style for the day. A "Texas Look-Alike Contest" is also scheduled, with anyone eligible, to dress up as any famous Texan. The winner will be selected Thursday at the Bull Barn. Join in the fun!

State school sued over drowning

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — The parents of a 33-year-old Abilene State School resident who drowned in the school's swimming pool are suing for $10 million, claiming their daughter was treated inadequately and denied her rights.

James Wilburn Feagley and Billie Jean Feagley, parents of Ellen Darlene Feagley, filed suit in federal court against the school and several staff members, including Superintendent Bill Waddill.

They claim that their daughter was denied her constitutional freedom from harm, from unsafe conditions and undue restraint, and from unnecessary institutionalization, as well as her rights to minimally adequate treatment and training in an appropriate setting, as determined by professional judgment.

Waddill referred inquiry about the lawsuit to attorney Kent Johnson of the Texas Department of Mental Health-Mental Retardation.

Johnson said he had not yet seen the plaintiffs' petition, filed Monday.

He said an investigation conducted after the drowning was a lawyer's "work product," specifically directed by him for defending against litigation that might arise.

"We'll use the information" in defending against the litigation, if necessary, but the investigation report itself will not be made public, Johnson said.

Ms. Feagley's body was found in the deep end of the pool shortly after 3 p.m. on Sept. 28 after she and four companions had been brought there for a swim session.

Driver said to be 'out of chances'

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — John Michael Bell has been arrested three times on alcohol-related driving cases since he slammed his car into 16-year-old Barry Head, killing the youth almost instantly.

Head's parents say Bell, who has been placed on probation and sent to an alcohol-treatment program, has had more than a second chance.

"He's been fined, he's lost his driver license, he's gone through rehabilitation," said Arlene Grady, Head's mother. "People make mistakes, but how many chances do you get? In my opinion, he has no desire to change."

Bell, 21, is in a Tarrant County jail waiting to find out whether he will go to prison. It marks the second time that a motion has been filed asking that the court revoke Bell's 10-year probation sentence.

He received the sentence for his involuntary manslaughter conviction in Head's death.

Prosecutor Scott Wisch said Monday that the hearing probably will be set for three or four weeks from now. By then, nearly three years will have passed since Head was killed.

Probe wanted on booster rockets

WASHINGTON (AP) — NASA is investigating whether its officials sought retribution against industry engineers who opposed launching the ill-fated Challenger, but Senate Democrats also want a probe into alleged "intimidation and retaliation" by the company that employs them.

Twenty-eight Democratic senators wrote NASA's new administrator, James Fletcher, on Tuesday. "Should these charges be true, we believe you should re-evaluate your agency's relationship with Morton Thiokol."

The company employs the two engineers and makes the booster rockets blamed for the Jan. 28 accident that destroyed the Challenger and its seven crew members.

"At this fragile moment in its existence, NASA must demand openness and honesty, not duplicity and vindictiveness, from itself and its contractors," the senators wrote.

The disclosure of the internal investigation at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the letter to Fletcher marked a new turn in the aftermath of the Challenger explosion.

And the developments came as Fletcher sought during his first full day at the head of the battered agency to restore luster to the space program and to turn attention to a resumption of space flight by next summer.

Woman governor is guaranteed

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraskans guaranteed themselves their first female governor while "creating a little history" by setting the stage for the first woman-against-woman gubernatorial campaign ever in the United States.

Republican state Treasurer Kay Orr and former Lincoln Mayor Helen Boosalis, a Democrat and the first female mayor of a U.S. city of more than 100,000, were picked Tuesday from the state's largest gubernatorial primary slate ever.

"We're creating a little history," said Mrs. Orr, 47. "It's an exciting opportunity for us to make people aware of what Nebraska's all about."

"That has never happened in the history of our country, and I think that says something for Nebraskans," said Mrs. Boosalis, 66.

In other elections Tuesday, Kenneth Gibson — the first black mayor of a major Northeastern city — lost a bid for an unprecedented fifth term in Newark, N.J., to Councilman Sharpe James, also black and a former Gibson supporter. In Atlantic City, N.J., Mayor James L. Usry failed to win his first full, four-year term, and will face Assemblywoman Dolores Cooper in a June 10 runoff.

Mexico denounces hearing on drugs

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The government issued a sharp protest against testimony before a U.S. Senate committee investigating drug trafficking through Mexico, claiming it was slanderous and an attack on Mexico's sovereignty.

A statement issued by the Foreign Ministry late Tuesday said the Mexican ambassador in Washington had been instructed to present a protest note to the State Department today and demand an official explanation.

U.S. Customs Service Commissioner William von Raab told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Tuesday that corruption throughout the Mexican law enforcement system is contributing to a sharp increase in the amount of drugs entering the United States from Mexico.

Rabb said there is increasing evidence that drug dealers in Colombia are extending their activity into Mexico. U.S. officials also complain of increasing production of marijuana and heroin in Mexico, which they say once had a model eradication program.

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., said the hearing was held over the objection of the Mexican government, which he accused of failing to cooperate in suppressing the drug trade.

"There has been strong attempts to thwart these hearings," Helms said.

Most of the world has forgotten or never heard the distinctive sounds of the early morning awakening of a wagon train camp. The never-to-be-forgotten experience is etched in the mind of the listener.

As the Texas Wagon Train rolls into Hereford Thursday afternoon, readers might be interested in a report of daily life on the wagon train. The following release was prepared by the Texas Wagon Train Association:

The noises start around the pre-dawn hour of 4 a.m. as horses and mules begin to stir awake, nose around in their feed trough for a few grains of feed left from the prior evening feeding, pull some hay from their hay rack or get an early drink of water from their water bucket. Animal communication also starts early with the unforgettable sound of a braying mule or the nickering of a horse.

This call is soon followed by a like responsive sound elsewhere in the Wagon Train camp. Human voices and noises are heard next as animals are spoken to in the light of a lantern, flashlight or generator powered electric light as the five a.m. feeding begins to take place.

Participants in the Wagon Train quickly develop a family feeling for the other participants. Their early morning greetings reveal a warmth and genuine concern for each other that must have been a prime ingredient of the Wagon Trains of the past.

By 7 a.m. both animals and humans have had their breakfast and preparation for the days journey becomes a matter of first priority. Voices are heard giving animals instruction amid the creaking and clanging of harness and equipment. By seven forty-five the teams are harnessed, hitched to their wagons and horses are saddled and ready to be mounted. Anxiety to be on the road is prevalent in every appearance, action, and attitude of teamsters, riders and animals.

At eight o'clock in the morning the anticipated command of "Wagons Ho!" is heard from the starting point in the wagon circle. Commands are spoken to teams, harness straps snap and pop, wheels, and wagon boxes creak and groan, and the large circle begins to unwind into a column. The train stretches from one to four miles down the road, depending on the number of wagons present on that particular day. The sight and sound of this colorful and historically distinctive troupe of animals, wagons, equipment and humans is a never to be forgotten experience. The spectacle is forever separated in the human mind as one of those unique experiences and will always be mentally retrievable.

The Wagon Train experience is always a two-sided affair between the public who throngs around the Wagon Train camp and lines the roads, as it traverses its fifteen to thirty mile route for the day, and the participants. The spoken and unspoken communications that unite participants and public has to be seen to be appreciated and is reflected in the faces of both.

The Wagon Train takes a mid-morning break for water, a noon break for lunch, and another afternoon water break if the night's camp has not been reached by three o'clock.

Entry into the evening campsite is a rewarding experience for participants, animals, and the public. To view the train as it moves from a long column to a wagon circle is an emotional experience that evokes a feeling of home and fulfillment. The animals understand the days work is finished and are anxious to rest, roll, relax and enjoy their evening feeding. Harness and saddles are removed and prepared for the next days journey and the routine of evening chores follows a definite and familiar pattern.

Camp life in the evening revolves around the evening meal, entertainment and programs often provided by the host town, visiting with the many visitors at the campsite, and quiet talk around a central campfire in the center of the wagon circle.

Bedtime in the wagon, under the wagon, in the travel trailer or motor home comes early for most participants. The early morning schedule, outdoor life, and physical demands of the day are soothed by a night's rest. Sleep is an important ingredient for the success of the journey.

Although this daily routine becomes repetitive, each one can be excitingly distinctive, as the participants discover new grounds, sights, experiences and friends. Truly the Wagon Train is a lifestyle that is unique to the history of the nation and state, and is rewarding to the participants and the public that view the event.

Realtors Donate Flag

Hereford Board of Realtors donated a Texas Sesquicentennial flag to the Deaf Smith County Museum recently. This is the second flag the realtors have donated, another was given in 1976 to celebrate the country's bi-centennial year. Past board president Betty Gilbert, left, and current president Marri Tyler present the flag.

History display set

The history of the Republic of Texas will be on display at the HSB until Friday May 16. The bank will commemorate the Texas Sesquicentennial with an exhibition of replicas of eleven historic flags representing Texas as it went from independent country to 28th state.

"These flags chronicle the battles of independence and the political establishment of the republic," said Craig Smith.

The flags are limited edition museum replicas containing the historic emblems of Texas. Only one of the original flags from which the replicas are made has been preserved; the rest were destroyed in battles or have been lost. The flags on display were replicated from eyewitness accounts written by men and women in Texas 150 years ago.

Each flag is entirely hand-made from silks and cottons that match the fabrics used 150 years ago and show the years of wear, burns, stains and frayed edges.

"These historic Texas flags represent the most important moments in our state's early days," Craig Smith said. "Some date from the fight for independence from Mexico in 1835 and 1836. Others are from the time of the Republic of Texas, a time unique in American history, since no other state was ever an independent and sovereign country."

Medical benefit fund set

A benefit fund has been established at Hereford State Bank for Paula Gamez. She underwent major surgery recently at St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo.

Gamez is the wife of Joaquin and is employed by South Plains Health Providers.

Sales tax refund due to city

The City of Hereford will receive $72,845.59 in city sales tax allocation from the state comptroller's office for sales made in March.

Last year's payment for the same time period was $73,839.01, however, the year-to-date total is higher for 1986. So far the city has received $270,572.61. In 1985 at the same time the amount was $257,961.56.

Statewide, the 1,015 cities which levy a one-percent tax received a total of $108.1 million.

Vehicle theft reported

Ricky Klien, 604 East Fourth, reported to the Hereford Police Department Tuesday the theft of a .22 rifle and a fuzzbuster from his vehicle. The estimated value of the missing property was $239.

City police also heard reports of three criminal trespassing complaints.

towns, visiting with the many visitors at the campsite, and quiet talk around a central campfire in the center of the wagon circle.

Bedtime in the wagon, under the wagon, in the travel trailer or motor home comes early for most participants, says Bonds. The wagon train has a number of support vehicles but they are not allowed to follow or join the wagon train during a day's ride. Some participants use RVs at or near the campsite at night.

Many of the participants started out at the beginning Jan. 2. Others join the wagon train and participate for a day, a weekend, or as long as they can be away from their homes and businesses. Reservations must be made with the Wagon Train Association for joining the train, however.

The participants fit no mold as they range in age from young babies to 90-plus years. They are not all Texans as 27 states are represented, as well as Canada and Sweden. This is not just a bunch of cowboys and farmers, but a cross-section of vocations, all traveling and living together as a community on wheels.

Some want to re-live history as their forefathers did while others want to make history. For some, the wagon train experience has required a great personal commitment to travel the full journey and be able to say, "We did it."

The participants in the Texas Wagon Train may not have it as rough as the early settlers did, but the rustic covered wagons, the family-like atmosphere and the determination to succeed on their journey no matter what, surely must be reminiscent of the early Texas pioneers.

The wagon train has its own food vendor to regularly provide meals, but they understand that many communities are planning to prepare meals for the wagon train and will not be competing for food sales with the communities.

The wagon train has souvenir vendors with quality merchandise and they are part of the campsite. Their products have been selected and offer good values for the public. The official souvenir magazine of the wagon train is among the items.

A supper is planned there tonight with tickets for the public available at $3 each. The Mexican Fiesta supper will be served from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the east parking lot of the high school. Entertainment starts at 7 p.m. and welcoming ceremonies and awards are slated for 7:30 p.m.

The Wagon train will be served breakfast Thursday morning by the chamber of commerce before leaving for Hereford at 8 a.m.

Accountants to meet

Karen Morrison will present the IRS's views on bankruptcies at Thursday's meeting in Amarillo of the Texas Association of Public Accountants.

Members and guests will have a meal at 6:30 p.m. in K-Bob's, 3440 Bell, and begin the meeting at 7 p.m.

Hereford residents to graduate

Twenty-eight Hereford residents will be among West Texas State University students to graduate Saturday in ceremonies beginning at 9 a.m. south of the education building on the WTSU campus.

They include Eric R. Alexander, Michael H. Bryant, Chris A. Carter, Daniel B. Cornelius, Marcia D. Crowley, Valerie R. Diller, Shelley R. Gerik, Brad A. Glover, Margaret A. Kelley, Sylvia S. Khuri, Janice N. Klepac.

Also, Clifton R. Leasure, Floyd J. MacClaskey, Jr., Norma J. Martin, Diane M. McNaney, Duane J. McNaney, Jeffrey A. Mercer, Patrick E. Mercer, Randy R. Paetzold, Jill S.

Pickens, Elaine M. Reinart, Nieves H. Rodriguez, Jr., Deborah L. Rogers, Joe D. Rogers, Kenneth G. Schlabs, Cynthia S. Streun, Kenneth D. Walters and Carla J. Weemes.

Dr. Vick Arnold, executive director of the Select Committee on Higher Education, will speak for the commencement exercises. His audience is anticipated to be 3,000 graduates, faculty members and friends of the university.

The commencement will climax a busy weekend at the university, which begins with the arrival of the Texas Sesquicentennial Wagon Train Friday at 5 p.m. at the Horse Center and continues with a pancake breakfast and the launching of six hot air balloons the next morning.

The papaya is a highly nutritious food, an excellent source of protein, minerals, and fruit acids.

Car Wash to be Held

Workers at Hereford Satellite Training Work Center will hold a car wash on Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the center. Workers are trying to raise funds to compete in the Texas Special Olympics and are planning to leave for Austin May 27. Donations at the car wash will be appreciated.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd like to quote Sandy Rovner, who wrote something in the Washington Post recently that I believe is well worth repeating. I certainly saw myself in her article and I'll bet millions of others will see themselves, too.

So many of us fear Alzheimer's disease that it has us worried sick. Rovner wrote:

"Try to remember. Did you lose your car keys today? Did you panic because you thought, 'Ah-ha! There they go, another hundred thousand brain cells zapped! Senility is setting in! This is the end!'"

"Stop a minute. Have you ever lost your car keys before? How old were you? 20? 30? 16? Did you think then that it was all over? Of course not. So what made the difference?"

"One of the problems, according to memory expert Robin L. West, psychology professor at the University of Florida, is that people hear so much about the memory deficits of aging that they lock themselves into an inappropriate mindset. They forget all the memory failures they had when they were young and were unable to assess their normal failings in a realistic light.

"When memory failures occur, no matter what the reason, it usually is attributed to aging if the person who makes the mistakes is older. If a young person makes the same mistake, we say it is caused by memory overload. ('I have too many things to think about right now' or 'I should have written it down.') Sometimes they lay it on a health problem ('I have a headache or I'm recovering from the flu'.)

I hope you will print my letter, Ann. It may bring comfort to many in your reading audience who, like me, were sure before I read it that I was getting Alzheimer's or just plain addled at an early age.—BETSY FROM BETHESDA

DEAR BETSY: I'm sure your letter scored a bull's-eye with a great many readers.

Another comforting thought: People who are getting Alzheimer's or going bonkers are almost never aware of the symptoms. In fact, they are the last ones to realize that they are not behaving in a normal way. So, if you think you're going a bit loony, chances are that you aren't.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A recent column greatly distressed me. You told a bereaved widow whose friend kept sending over undercooked casseroles and freezer-burned meat to tell "Mrs. Greatheart" to please give the food to folks who were truly needy.

Bad advice, Ann. The needy don't want it. They want nourishment, not garbage. She should thank the woman politely and throw it out.

My dad ran out on us in the depths of the Depression, leaving my mother to raise nine kids alone. People gave us a lot of spoiled meat, rotten vegetables and bad fish. We threw it all out and made do with what we could raise in our garden and were given by the Catholic Charities.

People insult the poor when they give them food they wouldn't put on their own tables.—KENOSHA READER

DEAR KENOSHA READER: Well said. A good rule of thumb: If you wouldn't serve it to your own family, don't give it to anyone else.

Drugs? How much is too much? Is pot OK? Is cocaine too much? If you're on dope or considering it, get Ann Landers' all-new booklet, "The Low down on Dope." For each booklet ordered, send $2.00 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

What did they do with bean sprouts before salad bars were invented? Shorting out everything back to the power plant is known as blowing one's cool when the air conditioner is plugged in.

Economists lists tips for buying fresh fish

Now an elegant and quick to prepare dinner is easy with fresh fish. Because fish cooks so quickly it is easy to prepare and can be an attractive main dish for your dinner table. Fresh fish is low in calories and is full of important vitamins and minerals.

Fresh fish is high in protein and low in calories. This makes a nutritional combination that is hard to beat. A 4-ounce serving of a lean fish will supply about half of the body's daily protein requirement and is only 100 calories. In addition, this is a complete protein that contains a larger variety of essential amino acids which your body needs to make its own protein. Fish protein is easy to digest, and the small amount of fat it does contain is high in polyunsaturates and low in cholesterol. Fish is also an important source of iron, zinc, iodine and other minerals.

Fish is becoming more popular as well. Seafood consumption in the United States rose 17 percent from 2.6 billion to 3 billion pounds between 1974 and 1983. Today Americans eat 13.5 pounds of seafood per capita annually compared with 10.3 in 1960. Seafood is big business in Texas where fishermen landed nearly 106 million pounds of fish and shellfish valued at $192 million in 1984.

When looking to buy fresh fish Carol Ware, Texas Department of Agriculture Home Economist, offers these suggestions for selecting the freshest fish:

-Fresh fish will have a clean pleasant smell. Beware of any disagreeable, sweet or ammonia-like odors.

-Scales will be shiny, adhering tightly to the skin, and flesh will be clear, moist and lustrous. When pressed with the fingers the flesh will feel firm and elastic.

-Gills will be clean and red: eyes bulging, bright and shiny.

-Avoid packages of fish that contain too much liquid, especially if the liquid is cloudy or off-white.

-To keep fish fresh, unwrap it as soon as you get home and put it in a container covered with a wet cloth, or wet paper towels. Store fish in the coldest part of your refrigerator, and use it within two days, the sooner the better. The fresher the fish, the more flavorful it will be.

No matter what cooking method is being used: Baking, broiling or frying you should measure the thickness of the fish to determine the cooking time. A fresh piece of fish, measuring one inch at its thickest point, will take ten minutes to cook. For each one-fourth inch above or below an inch add or subtract two minutes to your cooking time. Fish cooked according to this timetable will have little "fishy" odor which is caused by overcooking. Lemon sprinkled on fish before cooking also helps to eliminate odor. Lemon acts as a flavor enhance to the delicate sweet flavor of fish, and is traditional in cooking and serving fish.

FOIL WRAPPED SNAPPER

2 lb. red snapper or other white fish fillets
1 T. melted butter
4 bell pepper rings
4 tomato slices
2-3 sliced green onions
¼ cup lemon juice
2 T. chopped parsley
1 tsp. oregano
Salt and pepper to taste water

Preheat oven to 400 degrees F. Place each fish fillet on a piece of aluminum foil large enough to enclose it. Brush fillets with butter and top with green pepper, tomato and onion. Sprinkle with lemon juice, parsley and oregano. Season with salt and pepper.

Fold the foil over the top of the fillet and crimp the edges together securely. Put the fillets in a baking dish just large enough to hold them. Pour ¼ inch of water and bake 15-20 minutes. Serve fish in its wrapping. Makes 4 servings.

Installation service held for study club

Members of Valedictorian Study Club met for their final meeting of the club year Monday evening in the home of Sylvia Khuri.

The "Taste of Texas" dinner was served to 13 members and a guest, Betty Simpson, from tables depicting the theme of the club year, "Texas Our Texas."

Individual tables were covered with white clothes and appointed with red, white and blue dishes. Centerpieces consisted of covered wagons placed on large red bandanas.

Following the meal, a brief business session was conducted. Roll call was answered with Texas trivia

POLLY'S POINTERS

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — Are raisins very nutritious? Are they a good snack for children? — N.K.

DEAR N.K. — Raisins indeed are a nutritional snack. Besides supplying some vitamins, they are a good source of iron. Unfortunately, raisins do have a drawback, particularly as a between-meals snack. They stick to the teeth and the natural fruit sugar in them contributes to tooth decay because particles of the fruit can remain in contact with the teeth for a long time. So, if you do give the kids raisins for a snack, you should make sure they brush their teeth afterward. In fact, because they stick to the teeth, raisins and other dried fruits are a greater contributor to tooth decay than a candy like chocolate which is washed away from the teeth by saliva fairly easily.

Some foods have a cleansing effect on the teeth and are good snacks for that reason as well as for their nutritional value. One of these is cheese. Cheese helps clean the teeth of bacteria-causing food particles. It would be a good choice at the end of a meal or between meals. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Some time ago, you discussed traditional wine corks and the practice of storing wine bottles on their sides to keep the corks moist. The only point you left out is that the bottles should be rotated or rolled from time to time (if possible, daily) to keep the entire cork evenly moist. — W.W.R.

DEAR POLLY — Smearing a generous coating of vegetable shortening on the cut edges of cheese will prevent drying out and mold for a considerable length of time. — MRS. F.M.R.

Avoid food poisoning with proper storage

Anyone who has had even a mild case of food poisoning is likely to think twice before eating egg salad left out of the refrigerator. But most people are unsure about storage for many popular foods. The Texas Medical Association says follow these guidelines to make sure your food is safe, flavorful, and nutritious.

-Beef. You can store variety beef (heart, liver, etc.) for one day in the refrigerator; ground beef for one to two days; chops, steaks, sausage for two to three days; and roasts for two to four days. Variety beef and sausage can be frozen for one to two months; ground beef for two to three months; chops, six to nine months; and roasts, six months to a year.

-Chicken. Store chicken for only two to three days in the refrigerator, 12 months in the freezer. Chicken livers will keep one to two days in the refrigerator, three months frozen.

-Pork. In the refrigerator, chops will keep for two to three days, ground pork for one to two days, and roasts for two to four days. In the freezer, store chops for two to three months, ground pork for one to two months, and roasts for three to six months.

-Lunch meats. Most lunch meats should not be frozen; store them in the refrigerator for not more than four to six days.

-Eggs. In uncracked shells and fresh, they'll keep four to five weeks in the refrigerator; hard-boiled, a week. Don't freeze eggs.

-Milk. Count on five days in the refrigerator, or up to a month in the freezer.

-Butter. Butter keeps its flavor for one to two weeks in the refrigerator.

You can freeze it for about two months.

-Mayonnaise. It's a misconception that mayonnaise commonly causes food poisoning. You can keep an opened jar of mayonnaise in the refrigerator for up to a year provided you don't let it sit at room temperature for extended periods.

Picante sauce 'hot item'

Over the years Texans as well as folks in other states have developed a taste of "hot" sauce in varying degrees, and that taste seems to be growing by leaps and bounds as picante sauces of all types are hitting the market.

"Picante" comes from the Mexican word "pico" which means "hot to the tongue and mouth." The unique taste or flavor of picante sauce comes from its ingredients: tomatoes; peppers, including jalapenos, serrano and Anaheim-type green chiles; onions; vinegar; garlic; black and red pepper; comino; and oregano.

The first commercial picante sauce was produced by David Pace in San Antonio in 1947, and picante sauces have been a "hot" item ever since, says Dr. Al Wagner, a food technologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"There were probably only about five companies in the picante sauce business 20 to 25 years ago," Wagner notes. "Now you can find some 20 to 25 different brands of picante sauce on the market. Nineteen companies in Texas alone are producing their version of picante, with annual sales estimated at $200 million in 1985."

More and more people seem to be getting into the picante sauce business, Wagner says, and he often gets inquiries from firms and individuals interested in developing their own brand of this sauce.

"I get calls and samples several times a week," Wagner says. "People ask me to check the taste and acidity level of the samples, acidity being a key factor in the product's safety."

While the market for picante sauce is maturing in Texas, inroads are just being made in midwestern, northern and eastern states, notes Wagner. Thus there seem to be good opportunities for expansion of the picante sauce market into other parts of the nation.

Through Wagner's office, the Extension service is continuing to provide educational assistance and information on proper processing of picante sauces, maintenance of quality and safety as well as consumer awareness, acceptance and use.

LANGUAGE INSTRUCTION

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Many Seoul residents are getting foreign language instruction as the city gears up for the influx of tourists expected for the Seoul Asian Games this autumn and the Seoul Olympic Games in 1988.

Some city buses are already equipped with public address systems to inform passengers of bus stops in both Korean and English. And hotels and travel agents have stepped up training courses in preparation for the Asian Games Sept. 20-Oct. 5.

Seoul is also increasing street light brightness and is planting 50,000 trees on the capital's many streets.

Training session planned for volunteers Thursday afternoon

Volunteers desiring to work with the State Department of Human Services are invited to a training session from 1:30-4 p.m. Thursday in the Energas Flame Room.

The session is for all persons who already have signed up for the program and for those who would like a review of the volunteer work.

Volunteers will be trained for their particular job in order to help free caseworkers for more professional work.

Activities in community care would include helping with updating client conditions, determining eligibility, household management and generally acting as a liaison.

In the income assistance program, volunteer will be trained to use computers in order to collect, prepare and review information on determining income assistance eligibility.

Persons interested may contact Mary Lynn Brown, (806)376-7214.

Micro-computer summer camps set at university

Eastern New Mexico University has scheduled two micro-computer summer camps for the summer '86 semester for students in grades 5-12. The class for beginners will be held from June 9-13, and will follow a games format to teach BASIC programming. Materials to be covered include program planning and construction, Logic and graphics.

The advanced class will be offered June 16-20 and will cover program utilities, sound and graphics and advanced programming methods.

The camps will be held in the Microcomputer Laboratory, Room 138, in the Student Academic Services Building on the main campus in Portales.

The cost will be $110 tuition and lab fees. For those wishing to stay in a dorm, the cost of the dormitory and cafeteria food will be $65.

For additional information, call John Lowry at (505)562-2285 or Betty Johnson at (505)562-2760.

Cedar wood quickly loses natural beauty

COLLEGE STATION — Cedar fences, and roofs quickly lose their natural beauty due to weathering and mildew, and if sapwood is present, wood rot and termites add to the problems.

While most people know that cedar fences and roofs will turn gray, few realize that cedar wood is not always durable, notes Chuck Stayton of Overton, wood products specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Only the cedar heartwood has natural resistance to rot and insects, and one has to specify all heartwood to get this protection," Stayton points out. "Once the price of all heartwood cedar is established, few are willing or able to pay it. This is why most cedar fences and many cedar roofs contain some sapwood which has no natural resistance to rot and termites."

Most owners of cedar fences and roofs are now experiencing replacement costs within 12 to 15 years. Except for the first year or two, they also have fences and roofs that have turned gray and are discolored due to mildew.

"Cedar roofs and fences can be restored and preserved to give longer service life," Stayton emphasizes. "The key is to start treatment before cedar has weathered for more than six years, particularly on roofs."

The first step to restoring both cedar fences and roofs is to thoroughly clean them, says the specialist. In this regard, bleaching works well. Liquid or granular chlorine in water does an excellent job in removing mildew and discoloration due to weathering. Tough stains not affected by bleach solutions can be removed using a solution of oxalic acid in water. Because oxalic acid solutions are poisonous, they should be used sparingly.

The solution of chlorine and water can be applied to wood with a plastic garden pump sprayer. Chlorine solutions are corrosive and should be applied with commercial spray equipment only when such equipment has stainless steel or plastic internal parts, cautions Stayton. The chlorine solution should be left on the wood for 15 to 20 minutes and then washed off thoroughly with a high water pressure spray from a garden hose. Scrubbing is usually not necessary.

"Once the bleached cedar roof or fence has dried, it should be treated with a preservative," Stayton points out.

Wounds of war bring Afghan boys to Texas

HOUSTON (AP) — Nine Afghan boys who left their war-torn homeland are now in Houston where they will receive medical treatment for injuries blamed on Soviet bombs.

The youths, ranging from 7 to 18, each had injuries to arms or legs. Some were rolled off the airplane in wheelchairs, while others limped through the airport terminal after their arrival Tuesday.

"He's very happy to be in the United States," an interpreter said of the youngest child, known only as Bakhtiar. The 7-year-old displayed a deformed knee allegedly injured when a wall fell on him during a bombing attack.

"His parents are in Pakistan, his brothers are fighting," said interpreter Mohammed Zia Jahed. "He is one of the most fortunate ones."

Since late 1979, Soviet troops and the Soviet-backed government have been fighting against Afghan rebels. Afghan people trying to escape the fighting and Soviet-developed bombs have been fleeing to Pakistan.

"These things (bombs) are attached to toys, to food, even to leaves," said Joanne Herring Davis, the Pakistani consul based in Houston. "They want children to suffer. This is planned torture."

The nine boys, who were selected by the International Red Cross from hospitals or refugee centers in Pakistan, were greeted at the Houston Intercontinental Airport by two dozen Afghan supporters carrying signs critical of Soviet military attacks in Afghanistan.

"Certainly there is no more worthy cause we can dedicate ourselves to," said Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Texas, who helped organize the aid effort. "Hundreds, thousands, are in need. You go through hospitals there and see thousands who have had hands blown off by toy bombs."

Originally, a dozen youths were slated to be treated in Houston-area hospitals. But the conditions of three deteriorated and they could not make the trip, Wilson said.

Wilson said he hopes to eventually have 50 children participating in the treatment program and expand the effort to hospitals in Dallas.

It's uncertain how long the youths will remain in the U.S. since each has a different medical problem, officials said. Eleven Houston hospitals have volunteered treatment.

The boys will recuperate at the Victoria-based Devereux Center, about 125 miles southwest of Houston. Then they will be returned to their families.

The children were flown from Pakistan to Washington, then to Houston.

"For these children, the plane they are arriving on is only the second airplane they have ever seen that hasn't been trying to kill them," Wilson said. "We're grateful for their fight. They're all our heroes."

The War of the Oranges between Spain and Portugal began in 1801.

Louis XIV of France took over New France in 1663 from the Company of 100, which had been trading and colonizing Canada.

During visit to Hereford Tuesday night

WT grid coach discusses team, '86 season

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

Confidence and enthusiasm were evident Tuesday night when West Texas State University head football Coach Bill Kelly spoke in Hereford.

Kelly discussed his philosophy of coaching, his recruiting efforts, and the Buffaloes' 1986 season schedule.

He began by saying that the West Texas State football team is "one of the best kept secrets in the Panhandle," and added, "In football, we really have a great product."

Kelly was hired as the WTSU head football coach on Dec. 17, 1984. That day he met the members of the 1984 team, and said about that experience: "I almost turned the job back after I met the team. It was the saddest bunch of boys I had ever seen in coaching."

"I told my wife, 'We may have done the wrong thing.' I came close to changing my mind. But I believe when you make a commitment, you should follow through with it."

Kelly continues, "At that time, we felt we had to win 'now,' not later. We went the junior college route. I would prefer to always get high school recruits, but we had no choice. I would like to get mainly local players too, but local players need to have talent."

"Our philosophy was to get rid of the losers, and find those who wanted to win. We had 53 players that stuck with us. They believed, but they weren't sure," said Kelly, who directed the Buffaloes to a 6-3-1 his first season at WTSU head coach last fall.

"We lost our first game primarily because we did not have enough bodies to scrimmage in practice. We try to do as good a job in practice, but we try to keep our players healthy for the games," said Kelly, whose career coaching record in college football is 36-13-3.

"We started to believe more in each other as we started to win. They really expect to win every football game next season."

Kelly coached two seasons at Eastern New Mexico University before taking the WTSU position. ENMU had a 13-7-1 record those two seasons.

Before coaching at ENMU, Kelly was head coach at Snow Junior College in Ephraim, Utah, where he had a 17-6-1 record. Snow Junior College won a bowl game each season.

About spring practice that recently ended, Kelly said, "We had a great spring practice. Our goal was to become a better team. That sounds simplistic, but that was our goal."

"Our goal was to get better, and reach our goals without talking about them. We need to do it instead of just talk about it."

"We taught our players this spring, 'Earn the right to play for the national championship,' and the only negative thing about the spring was some freak injuries. I think every player will be back; their attitudes are super."

Kelly said he recruits athletes who have three main attributes. "Our recruiting philosophy is to get players who are good students, who have good character, and who have the athletic ability to win the Lone Star Conference."

"They must be good citizens. They must not be in trouble with the law. They must have discipline, they must understand there are rules to be followed in the classroom and on the football field."

Where does Kelly and his staff concentrate their recruiting efforts? His answer: "We want to recruit in the Panhandle, but there's not enough good players."

"Everybody is after the good players. We will go wherever we need to get good players. Primarily our junior college players come from Texas and California. We get most of our high school players from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma."

He said recruiting players from East Texas is a tough challenge. "West Texas is like a separate state to people in East Texas. We can't just go down to Austin, Houston and Dallas and get every player to come here. We'll try to get the best high school players from Texas before we go elsewhere," he said.

Kelly noted that his staff recruited many junior college players this year, to have a good group of senior players for the 1987 season. "Next year, we'll sign 15 to 20 high school players; our goal is to have a good crop of seniors each year."

Kelly pointed out some facts and impressions about each Buffalo football player, including two from Hereford—Wayne High and Brian Lady.

High, who will be playing his senior season this fall, is a 5-11, 180-pound tailback. He and Joe Davis, who is from Hale Center, are listed as two of the top tailbacks on the team.

"Joe Davis and Wayne High are neck in neck for the tailback position. We feel we're in a great position with Wayne and Joe there. Joe is faster than Wayne, but Wayne is a good solid back and you can be proud of them," Kelly told the Hereford group Tuesday.

Brian Lady is a sophomore that Kelly has on his list of outside and strong side linebackers. "Brian came out this spring and had a good spring. He's not ready to play yet, but he and Jeff Gray are the two walk-ons most likely to play for us. Brian may play on special teams for us," Kelly said.

Kelly got some laughter from his listeners Tuesday when he described running back James Morton, a senior from Eastland, Texas, as "John Riggins with better character—six-foot, 210, who runs like he's 240."

West Texas State has an 11-game regular season schedule this fall.

Eight of those teams were ranked in various top 20 polls last season, and six of them finished in top 20 polls.

West Texas State is going into the NCAA's Division II, going from the Missouri Valley Conference to the Lone Star Conference.

"We're not missing one beat going into the Lone Star Conference. It's a much better conference. We're in a great league," Kelly said.

"It's the right move for this school. We have a chance to win the Lone Star Conference, and to be nationally ranked. East Texas State is the sleeper in the conference. Eastern New Mexico is a natural drawing card, a Don King special of a matchup," he continued.

"To be the best, we've got to beat the best. I think we'll be ready for the playoffs. Some teams play easy scheduled and then get blown out in the playoffs," he added.

In changing divisions in the NCAA, West Texas State dropped its scholarships down from 72 to 43 this year.

Some of Kelly's concluding remarks were these:

On the passing game: "We believe in the passing game. We know it. It's exciting. It's the best chance to win against superior teams. We have 150 pass routes and 104 formations."

"Not many coaches know much about the passing game. Most coaches are conservative by nature, handing it off and running it. We play stunting defenses and wide open offenses. It's fun to practice the passing game."

On punting: "Don't think punting's not exciting. It will be exciting on our team," he said, referring to Kevin Brown, a senior from Panhandle.

On discipline: "We find that most teams we play are not as disciplined as we are, are not as mentally tough."

On walk-ons: "Walk-on is not a negative term. It's just that they are not scholarship players. We treat them all the same. We are team-oriented. There's a lot of college walk-on who've made it big in the NFL as free agents."

On attitude and winning a national championship: "I'm a positive thinker. I feel that if you think positive, good things will happen. Our program's for real. I've done everything in my coaching career that you can do except win a national championship. The only thing left for me to do is to win a national championship."

WTSU Football Coach Visits Hereford

Bill Kelly, head football coach at West Texas State University, shows a depth chart on the 1986 Buffalo team as he speaks about the individual players in a visit to Hereford Tuesday night.

The only player to pinch-hit for Hank Aaron was Mike Lum.

Indians edge Rangers 3-2 in 10 innings

By CHUCK MELVIN
AP Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Indians' right-hander Don Schulze had no rational explanation for it. He was pitching well, but not necessarily well enough to limit the Texas Rangers to one hit in 7 2-3 innings.

"They scored 19 runs last night. Maybe they were tired of swinging the bat," Schulze said Tuesday night after helping the Indians to a 3-2, 10-inning victory over the Rangers.

Pat Tabler's solo homer with two outs in the bottom of the 10th won it for Cleveland, which had dropped an embarrassing 19-2 decision to the Rangers the previous night.

Schulze allowed only a fifth-inning single by Gary Ward before leaving the game after walking Oddibe McDowell and Toby Harrah with two outs in the eighth.

"I don't think I was throwing any harder than I had before," the 23-year-old Schulze said. "Sometimes it's not how you pitch, it's when you pitch."

Schulze and 20-year-old Texas starter Ed Correa put on a strong show for seven innings.

Correa gave up two runs on Joe Carter's two-run homer in the sixth, and Schulze also was charged with two runs — one when Ward scored from third on Steve Buechele's groundout in the fifth, the other when McDowell scored on Pete O'Brien's RBI single off reliever Scott Bailes in the eighth.

Relievers Greg Harris of Texas and Rich Yett of Cleveland then picked up where Correa and Schulze left off. Harris, 2-5, gave up only one hit in 2 2-3 innings until Tabler hit the game-winning homer in the 10th.

Yett, 2-0, struck out four of the eight hitters he faced in 2 1-3 innings.

"Everyone pitched well tonight, but they just happened to hit one farther than we did," said Texas Manager Bobby Valentine.

Cleveland Manager Pat Corrales said the Indians anticipated a home run off Harris.

"Somebody mentioned on the bench, 'Somebody's going to hit a curveball out,' because he (Harris) lost the feel for it," Corrales said.

"It was a terrible pitch," Harris said, "a change-up curve, the worst one I threw all day. It was right there, (saying) 'Hit me.'"

The Indians had lost four in a row since their 10-game winning streak ended Friday. They begin a nine-day road trip today in Kansas City.

"We didn't want to go out there with a five-game losing streak hanging in the back of our minds," said Carter, whose homer was the first one hit off Correa in 39 2-3 innings this year.

The loss snapped the Rangers' three-game winning streak and was only their second loss in the last seven games.

HHS cowgirl maintains her all-around lead

Hereford's Jana Johnson maintained her lead in the Tri-State High School Rodeo Association by capturing the all-around title at the Stratford rodeo Saturday with 21 total points. Johnson placed in each event she entered.

In two events she placed first—her breakaway roping time was 4.793, and in goat tying she clocked 11.679. She netted a second place in barrels with a time of 18.485 and took third in pole bending with 22.091.

The season concludes next weekend with Adrian hosting a rodeo in Vega.

Team roping event set by TSTI May 19

An open team roping event is scheduled May 19 in Amarillo by the Texas State Technical Institute rodeo club.

The team roping competition is being held in conjunction with the visit of the Texas Wagon Train to Amarillo.

Buckles will be awarded to the winners. For more information, call Marilyn Gatlin at 335-2316, ext. 340 or ext. 401.

Defeat Lakers, 112-102

By JOHN NADEL
AP Sports Writer

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — While Kareem Abdul-Jabbar has shown no sign of slowing down on offense in recent years, he has been especially effective against the Houston Rockets since the "Twin Towers" came into being.

But the NBA's all-time leading scorer was anything but effective Tuesday night as Akeem Olatujun and Ralph Sampson combined to limit him to only nine field goals in 26 attempts and a total of 21 points and four rebounds.

Meanwhile, guard Lewis Lloyd of the Rockets scored 10 of his 24 points in the fourth quarter and Olatujun and Sampson combined for 46 more points along with 29 rebounds and 11 blocked shots against the defending NBA champions.

The result was a 112-102 victory by the Rockets, which evened the Western Conference finals at 1-1.

The 7-foot-4 Sampson has been in the NBA for three years and the 7-0 Olatujun for two seasons. Before Tuesday night, Abdul-Jabbar had averaged 32 points per game in leading the Lakers to nine victories in 11 games against Houston since the beginning of the 1984-85 season.

That includes the 31 points the 39-year-old center scored in the Lakers' 119-107 series-opening victory over the Rockets last Saturday.

"The big guys (Sampson and Olatujun) created a lot of havoc," Lakers Coach Pat Riley said. "We're going to have to be stronger with our moves to the basket. You can't be tentative with these guys."

Sampson had 24 points, 16 rebounds and five blocked shots while Olatujun had 22 points, 13 rebounds and six blocked shots. Many of those blocks were on shots taken by the 7-2 Abdul-Jabbar.

"One time I thought they dropped someone out of the ceiling to block my shot," Abdul-Jabbar said. "They had me hitching on my shot and looking for people. The ball just would not go down for me. It was a rough night."

The best-of-seven series now shifts to the Summit in Houston for the third game Friday night and the fourth game Sunday. The Rockets are 41-5 at home this season, including a perfect 5-0 during the playoffs.

"This game gives us a lot of confidence going back to Houston, because we can't lose there," Olatujun said. "We'll do whatever it takes to win. It's going to be tough, but I know we can do it."

Lloyd scored only four points in the series opener and got off to a slow start in Game 2, missing several times early in the game.

"The first game I had a slight cold, it kind of slowed me up," he said. "When it's money time like it was tonight, I feel like I'm at my best."

They were giving me the outside shot the whole game and I think I proved it was a mistake."

Los Angeles, which had beaten Houston in 22 of the last 25 games between the teams before Tuesday night, is now 6-1 in play-off games at the Forum this spring.

Earvin "Magic" Johnson led the Lakers with 24 points, 19 assists and eight rebounds.

The Rockets outscored the Lakers 10-4 in the final 2:18 of the second quarter to take a 54-53 lead at halftime, and they were on top the rest of the way. Los Angeles led 25-18 after the first quarter and 34-20 early in the second period before Houston got its game together.

The Rockets extended their advantage to 83-69 late in the third quarter, but the Lakers narrowed the gap to 87-77 entering the final period, and closed to within two points at 92-90 with 8:47 left to play.

But the Rockets were equal to the challenge and held Los Angeles to only 10 points after Maurice Lucas' layup with 8:14 to go made it 94-92.

Led by Lloyd and a tough defense, the Rockets pulled away steadily in the closing moments. A jumper by Lloyd with 1:59 left made it 108-99.

"They definitely have the advantage now," Lakers forward Kurt Rambis said. "We have to get at least one win down there (at Houston). Our worst is definitely cut out for us."

Astros score win in 11-inning game

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros Manager Hal Lanier still admires his team, although they are struggling to maintain their National League Western Division lead.

"I think this team has a lot of character because they haven't gotten down on themselves," Lanier said.

The Astros battled back Tuesday night.

After the Astros missed a 10th inning shot at victory, Denny Walling clubbed a single to the left field wall in the 11th inning, scoring Mark Bailey from second base for a 3-2 victory over Philadelphia.

"The last two or three games, we come up empty-handed but they haven't quit," Lanier said. "It's tough to go up there and hit the ball hard three or four times right at somebody."

"It was time for us to find some holes."

Walling extended his hitting string to five games. He has raised his average from .260 to .323 with an eight for 15 showing over the last five games.

"I've been struggling a little against lefties so it was nice to get this one," Walling said of his game-winner off Dave Rucker. "If he was going to throw it in there and try to get ahead of me, I was going to be swinging."

The Astros missed a chance to win the game in the 10th when they got runners on first and second with one out but Bill Doran hit into a double play.

"But that's the character of this team," Lanier said. "They don't give up on themselves. They were back scratching again the next inning."

Walling's game-winner came off reliever Dave Rucker, who said he had trouble keeping hit pitches down.

"The ball Walling hit was a fast ball up," Rucker said. "It was a good fast ball, but you know anywhere in the strike zone, he's going to be swinging and he got it pretty good."

Philadelphia rightfielder Glenn Davis, a native Texan, clubbed a fifth inning homer off Houston starter Mike Scott for a 1-0 Phillies lead.

Houston took a 2-1 lead in the fifth inning on a run-scoring single by Doran and an error by Philadelphia shortstop Steve Jeltz that allowed Mark Bailey to score the second run.

Pinchhitter Ron Roenicke's seventh inning single scored the tying run in the seventh and forced the overtime.

THANK YOU

for your vote in the recent primary election. Your strong support was deeply appreciated and I assure you the duties of the Office of Deaf Smith County Treasurer will be performed with dignity and integrity for the next four years with the interests of each of you in mind. Special thanks to all my friends who displayed such conscientious efforts in my regard.

Prairie ship will anchor in Temple

TEMPLE, Texas (AP) — From a distance, the "Prairie Ship Liberty," will appear to be sailing on an ocean of grass on a long landlocked journey across the country.

Up close it will be seen as a bunch of 112-foot masts anchored in the ground.

The "Liberty" is 11 stories tall, 200 feet long and 90 feet wide when assembled, with masts made of utility poles.

Temple is one of 10 cities where the hull-less, land-based ship sculpture will be docked on its way to New York Harbor for the Parade of Tall Ships celebrating the Statue of Liberty's 100th birthday on July 3.

It will be the chief focal point of a three-day celebration in this city of 50,000 over the Memorial Day weekend. Artist Naj Wikoff's "Liberty" vessel uses the earth as its hull and borrowed trucks and vans to "sail" it across the country.

The city of Temple is sharing it with such urban centers as Denver, St. Louis, Chicago and New York and is the only Southwest city on the Liberty's journey.

Some 24,000 square feet of nylon fabric is used for sails. Some sails were made in Temple, while others were made in St. Louis, Tampa, Fla., Salt Lake City and Portland.

Liberty's Temple harbor May 23-25 will be at the corner of Interstate 35 and Loop 363 adjacent to Exit 304 on the I-35.

In 1982, Wikoff created the "Prairie Ship," which stood in a farmer's field for several months until weather problems forced him to dismantle it. Last year, he was invited to bring his sculpture to New York as part of the Parade of Tall Ships.

"I thought, why not sail a ship across the center of the country and get communities to help design sails, starting at the end of the Oregon trail," Wikoff said.

Each of the communities on the U.S. journey agreed to organize local celebrations surrounding the "Liberty," provide Wikoff and his crew with housing, volunteers, site permits, equipment and assistance in promoting the voyage.

The prairie ship's "launching" ceremony May 23 is expected to draw more than 4,000 Temple-area school children and dignitaries along with other spectators.

After the town's annual barbecue, and about half an hour after sundown, a Liberty Festival complete with choirs and spectacular fireworks will end the day's events.

The following day's events will include a "Prairie Ship" 10-kilometer run, a "Parade of Short Ships" and a regatta featuring sailboats on Lake Belton about 10 miles west of Temple.

After a European tour, the "Liberty" will be given to the people of France as a gift from the people of the United States. The "Liberty's" installation in Paris is made possible with the cooperation of the French Embassy and the French-American Foundation.

The longest winter in the solar system is 21 years long and occurs on the south polar regions of Uranus. The temperature then is estimated to be minus 362 degrees Fahrenheit.

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Joan Rivers, whose new late-night show this fall will challenge Johnny Carson on his home ground, has canceled an appearance on NBC's "Late Night With David Letterman," which is co-produced by Carson's production company.

"She's just not feeling funny these days," her agent, Richard Grant, said Monday.

Grant said Miss Rivers spoke to Letterman, and they agreed that she'd come on his program in the fall, which would be after she started her own show, "The Late Show Starring Joan Rivers."

Pioneer festivities scheduled Saturday

The Pioneer Round-Up, scheduled for Saturday, will be the 58th consecutive year the Plainview Business and Professional Women's Club has sponsored this event.

The theme chosen is "58th of 150" in observance of the Sesquicentennial. The first celebration took place March 14, 1929 in the city auditorium in Plainview when Adella Drew served as president. Doris Washington, the current president of the Plainview BPW Club, stated all activities this year will be held in the Hale County Agriculture Center.

The reception beginning at 10 a.m. at the Hale County Agriculture Center in Plainview, is a big feature and is a time when the real "old timers" get together to reminiscence and exchange stories of the past.

One of the few remaining parades in Plainview will be staged at 2:30 p.m. originating at the Santa Fe Depot on north Broadway. Those participating are asked to be on hand by 1:30 p.m. Parade will move south on Broadway to the American Legion where it will disband.

A group of cars from the Unique Cars of Plainview will be on display until parade time, 2:30 p.m., at which time they will participate in the parade.

The Kountry Kitchen and concessions will be open all day at the Hale County Agriculture Center and Lisa Caldwell and Georgette Masso are the chairmen. Everyone is invited to shop for baked products made by members of the Plainview BPW Club.

The evening activities will also be held in the Hale County Agriculture Center. From 6 to 8 p.m. the chuck wagon supper will be served. "Take out" plates will also be available. The meal will consist of barbecue, sour dough biscuits and all the trimmings. Nancy Cox, chairman of the Foods Committee, gives assurance that plenty of food is being planned for.

To highlight the evening's activities, the Pioneer Women of the Plains will be announced. The Plainview Symphony Brass will entertain. Prizes will be awarded to the couple who have been married the longest, the oldest pioneer present and to the pioneer (over 60) traveling the farthest distance to attend the Round-Up. There will also be group singing.

The square dance will conclude the Pioneer Round-Up again this year.

Tickets, $4.50 (tax included) includes the supper, program and square dance, and may be purchased from any member of the Plainview BPW Club or secured at the door. Alice Doyle is ticket chairman. People of all ages are most welcome and are cordially invited to attend and help make this 58th Pioneer Round-Up on Saturday the best yet.

Earned Two First Place Awards

Convenience food costly

When you buy frozen dinners and entrees, you're paying for the time you gain by using these convenience foods.

A recent U.S. Department of Agriculture study showed that the frozen dinners and entrees tested cost twice to 2½ times as much as making the same dinner at home, says Dr. Alice Hunt, a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist.

Tickets on sale until Saturday

For those desiring to join the Hereford Community Concert Association, tickets will be for sale at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office until Saturday.

According to Ann Meyer, chairman of the membership drive, family pass tickets are priced at $40; individual tickets, $15; and for students $7.50.

Four concerts will be held during the season at the Hereford High School auditorium.

Those scheduled to perform include the Tennessee River Boys from Nashville; Artur Woodley, a versatile bass-baritone; Phil Coulter's Pops Orchestra of Ireland; and The Alexandria Quintet.

TREES INTO BARRELS

COGNAC, France (AP) — The trees in the forests of Limousin and Tronçais here have a common destiny — they end up as barrels for the aging of cognac.

The oak from these forests, with its straight grain, minimal knots and faults plus the right amount of tannin, helps make the brandy age properly, according to the blenders in this town of 23,000.

The trees are cut when they are between 70 and 150 years old and some 90 feet tall.

Texas State Southern Charm Pageant to be held in June

The Texas State Southern Charm Pageant is looking for young ladies and gentlemen to participate in the upcoming State Finals to be held June 27-29 in San Antonio.

There are eight age divisions for girls: Baby Darling (0-18 mos.), Little Darling (19-36 mos.), Tiny Miss (3-4 Yrs.), La Petite (5-6 yrs.), Little Miss (7-9 yrs.), Junior Miss (10-12 yrs.), Teen Miss (13-15 yrs.) and Debutante Miss (16 yrs. & up) and two age groups for boys: 0-3 years and 4-7 years.

Each young lady and gentlemen will compete in evening wear, sportswear and close up appraisal. Talent and photogenic are optional. Over $5,000 in prizes and awards will be presented throughout the state finals, including savings bonds, trophies, crowns, sceptors, jewelry and special gifts.

The winners will have the opportunity to represent Texas at the Nationals in Panama City, Fl.; (Aug. 8-10) where they could be the winner of a new 1986 Dodge Car and numerous other prizes.

Mail a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope, stating your age, for more detail to:

Thank You

To the voters and my campaign workers I want to take this opportunity to express a great big thank you for all of your support and prayers that you have given my family and I during my campaign.

I am thankful that we live in a country that allows us freedom to take an active part in the democratic process. This was a good experience for me and I hope you learned as much as I did from it. I am proud to have been your candidate. I am also proud to be a part of Deaf Smith County and I hope you are too.

Again on behalf of my family and I, we say thank you for your votes and support.

High schoolers say Reagan's speech shows he cares

DALLAS (AP) — Students in a world history class at W.H. Adamson High School said Tuesday that President Reagan's nationally televised speech to high school students showed that he cares about them.

"Some students spend 12 or 13 years in school to get their diploma, and he wanted to tell them those years weren't wasted," said Irma Silba. "He cared enough to get out and speak to them."

Reagan's speech dwelled mainly on the importance of staying in school, striving to succeed, and staying off drugs.

The president spoke at the White House to a group of seniors from John A. Holmes High School in Edenton, N.C. Over the last three years, that school's Scholastic Aptitude Test scores rose by 130 points to above the nation's average.

The speech at noon CDT was carried by satellite to schools all over the country. It also was broadcast overseas by the Armed Services Network.

About seven of teacher Richard Poole's 25 students were juniors, and the rest were seniors. Most of the seniors said they will pass their classes and graduate this semester.

In the speech, Reagan told students to stay in school, "because that diploma counts."

At that point, Irma Silba and Norma Silba, who are unrelated, slapped hands and smiled. After the speech, Norma Silba said the two graduating seniors made the gesture "because we're seniors and we made it."

Reagan said a teacher shortage exists, and he urged the students to consider a career in education. After the speech, Poole asked the students why they think there is a shortage of professional educators.

"The money's not in there," said senior Richard Reyes, adding that fields like computer programming are more enticing than teaching because they pay more.

Poole asked the class what Reagan meant when he said students must help the United States retain a strategic technological edge over other countries.

"One point the president made is that he's proud of high school students and America, and if we don't stick with what we have, we're going to fall behind," Reyes said.

Most of the students said they approved of Reagan's job performance, citing the air raid on Libya last month as one of the main reasons for their backing.

One of the president's few detractors in the class was Opal Rivers, who said Reagan is preoccupied with the military at the expense of the poor and elderly.

"I feel that Social Security help and the elderly need help," she said. "Right now, he thinks defense is No. 1. But the Social Security people, the elderly and people on welfare need us now."

Mustangs, burros for sale

DANBURY, Texas (AP) — Wanna buy a mustang for $150?

Step right up and get 'em at Mark and Tammy Wendel's Bureau of Land Management sale. They'll have burros for $80, mustangs for $150 and mustang mares with foals for $180.

The Wendels, of Danbury, adopted a burro named Jinny and two mustangs, Solo and Nevada, last November from the BLM. Danbury is a town of about 1,500 about 40 miles south of Houston.

Mrs. Wendel said the mustangs are more sure-footed than most horses, and that burros make great pets.

"We had our burro just two days before she started walking up to us instead of us walking up to her," she said. "It was a month before we could walk up to the mustangs and pet them. It just takes time and it depends on how much time you have to spend on them."

Because of their success with the burros and mustangs, the Wendels decided to hold the sale for the BLM at 8 a.m. Saturday in their pasture.

The Wendels expect 25 jennies (female burros) and 30 jacks (male burros), as well as four mares, two with foal.

The Newspaper BIBLE

THE KINGDOM THAT WILL NEVER END!

"All living things shall thank you, Lord, and your people will bless you. They will talk together about the glory of your kingdom and mention examples of your power. They will tell about your miracles and about the majesty and glory of your reign. For your kingdom never ends. You rule generation after generation." (Psalm 145:10-13)

"Next I saw the arrival of a Man - or so he seemed to be - brought there on clouds from heaven; he approached the Ancient of Days and was presented to him. He was given the ruling power and glory over all the nations of the world, so that all people of every language must obey him. His power is eternal - it will never end; his government shall never fail." (Daniel 7:13-14)

"Then every nation under heaven, and all their power shall be given to the people of God; they shall rule all things forever, and all rulers shall serve and obey them." (Daniel 7:27)

"For unto us a Child is born, unto us a Son is given; and the government shall be upon his shoulder. These will be his royal titles: "Wonderful," "Counselor," "The Mighty God," "The Everlasting Father," "The Prince of Peace." His ever-expanding, peaceful government will never end. He will rule with perfect fairness and justice from the throne of his father David. He will bring true justice and peace to all nations of the world. This is going to happen because the Lord of heaven's armies has dedicated himself to do it!" (Isaiah 9:6-7)
