

Naval forces on alert in Persian Gulf

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, responding to a devastating Iraqi attack on a U.S. warship, put naval forces on heightened alert and warned both Iran and Iraq their jets will be shot down if they threaten other U.S. ships.

Reagan's response to the attack that killed 28 sailors and injured 21 aboard the USS Stark on Sunday night in the Persian Gulf was coupled with a demand that Iraqi president Saddam Hussein's government immediately explain, apologize and compensate the victims' families and the U.S. Navy.

Hussein, in a letter to Reagan delivered to the State Department on Monday, expressed "deepest regret over the painful incident." Presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said: "We feel it does represent an apology. It does not address the matter of compensation."

The White House and Pentagon said the attack, in which one or two missiles were fired, was inadvertent and unexplained. The Pentagon said the ship had at least a minute's warning of the attack by an Iraqi warplane, but did not try to shoot down missile or plane.

It was the first attack on a U.S. warship in the gulf since U.S. ships began operating in the area in 1949, and the deadliest attack on shipping of the seven-year-old Iran-Iraq war. The war has posed a constant threat to commerce in the oil-rich gulf.

The initial response in Congress was subdued, while Reagan himself held to a schedule calling for a flight to Chattanooga, Tenn., today to deliver a high school commencement address. He expressed "concern and anger" Monday over the attack and met for nearly two hours with his national security advisers.

Reagan and top Pentagon officers promised a full investigation of the attack.

"We're not treating it lightly," said Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger in a CBS Evening News interview. "We're not treating it as a mere accident." But he added, "We have no evidence to indicate that it was anything other than an accident, a ghastly accident."

Weinberger said U.S. ships would remain in the area. "They should be there because these are international waters, and we cannot be driven out of international waters by anyone," he said.

Iranian Prime Minister Hussein Musavi, in a radio broadcast monitored in Cyprus, said the Gulf is not a safe place for the superpowers and said about the attack on the U.S. ship, "The great Satan has been trapped."

Fitzwater said Iran and Iraq, the two belligerents, had been officially notified of the "higher state of alert for U.S. vessels in the area."

Fitzwater's statement also warned the two sides that "aircraft of either country flying in a pattern which indicates hostile intent will be fired upon unless they provide adequate notification of their intentions."

Earlier, the United States registered bitter protests with Iraqi diplomats here and in Baghdad and swept aside an early Iraqi claim that perhaps another nation had struck the American guided missile frigate.

The attack jolted a diplomatic campaign by the administration to repair relations with Baghdad after secret U.S. weapons purchases by Iran.

But the American objectives — an end to the Gulf war and promoting Arab-Israeli peace talks — remain in place.

"Those basic interests are still there," State Department spokesman Charles E. Redman said.

Nizar Hamdoon, Iraqi ambassador to the United States, told Cable News Network that Iraqi warplanes had targeted a suspected Iranian ship 20 miles from the Stark when the attack occurred Sunday.

"I think it happens in every army force in the world, in every army in the world, that mistakes do happen," he said, expressing condolences to the families of those killed.

U.S. officials also quickly attributed the missile strike to inadvertence or accident, while acknowledging they were not certain what happened.

A Time To Tear Down

Avenue Baptist, 130 N. 25-Mile, must tear down before it builds up. Demolition of the nearly 40-year-old portion of the church building is making room for a larger parking lot and tentative building plans. The church has plans for building a family center, kitchen, fellowship hall and some classrooms to the south of the auditorium. Formed in 1946, the church was a mission work out of First Baptist. Rev. Eddie Tingle is the current pastor.

Talks continue, no solution to Texas budget yet

AUSTIN (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby has offered a new budget compromise, but Gov. Bill Clements says there's no solution yet to the budget standoff that threatens to take the Legislature into a special session.

Hobby on Monday offered the House-Senate conference committee negotiating on the budget a spending proposal he said goes more than halfway toward meeting the House-passed bill.

"It is traditional in budget negotiations for one house to meet the other halfway. But tradition need not rule when we face a fiscal crisis of these proportions," Hobby said.

Hobby said his proposal would trim the Senate's budget by nearly $900 million.

Clements, who threatens to veto any tax increase greater than $2.9 billion, said he and other leaders also are looking at options which include a proposal to have voters decide on a 3/4-cent sales tax increase dedicated to prisons.

But no decision has been reached, and the time pressure is building, Clements said.

"Time is drawing nigh. We haven't got too much longer to go," the governor said, adding that he still hopes to avoid a summer special session.

"I've got my fingers crossed, hoping that (special session) is not going to take place. But time is getting short, no question about it."

Clements said defeat by the House last week of a lottery proposal has caused more problems in the tax-and-spend negotiations. Estimates had indicated that a state-run lottery could bring in $600 million a year.

"It kind of put a crimp in everything, it sure did," he said.

The governor declined to speculate when he would summon lawmakers back into a special session if one is needed after the regular session reaches its June 1 adjournment date.

"I'm going to try to make a proper decision about it in due course if it's necessary. Whether it's necessary or not, I really don't know," he said.

Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis conferred Monday to discuss the lieutenant governor's proposal which Hobby said might resolve differences between the Senate's $39.9 billion budget and the House's $39.4 billion spending plan.

Hobby said his proposal was "just about" equal to the House total, although it still remains higher than the $36.9 billion budget recommended by Clements. He said it would reduce the Senate-approved budget by about $900 million. It would lower spending for highways, textbooks, senior colleges and universities, while raising faculty salaries at state colleges and universities.

Rep. Jim Rudd, chairman of the House negotiators, said they would study Hobby's recommendations and "come up with a response, maybe a counter-offer."

Lewis said he believes lawmakers are "making some progress" and suggested a second look might be taken at the lottery proposal if it was part of a plan to solve the budget problems.

"We are not going to quit and just sit down on top of our hands. We are going to continue working, and we'll be working June 1 if that's what's required."

We join others in the community in wishing the Herd baseball team the best of luck as the playoff series with Andrews begins today in Lubbock. A large crowd of fans is expected to follow the Whitefaces for the 6:30 p.m. game at the LCC field. KPAN will broadcast the series.

Well, we left the security of our typewriter Monday and experienced a day of broadcasting at KPAN Radio. It was fun day for this writer and six of our staff members, as well as a few friends. We had purchased the right to be "manager for a day" at a Cowgirl Hall of Fame benefit last year and finally got around to the programming day.

We featured the "big band" sound during the morning, and it was not surprising to get a number of calls from people who liked the music. Of course, they were all folks who were teenagers in the late 40s or early 50s! We allowed the young'uns on the Band staff to play the music during the afternoon, because they said everyone was going to sleep on the job under the influence of the golden oldies.

It took only a minute of air time to satisfy my wife, Lavon, as she presented our grandson, Ross, who sang "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" as a tribute to the Whiteface baseball team. A number of listeners commented that the 2-year-old's song was the best talent we had on all day.

We'd like to express our appreciation to Buddy Peeler, Chip Formby and all the KPAN staff members for their great cooperation and back-up support. Thanks for the memories!

Even though most of us complain and criticize the IRS when we mail our checks each April 15, we can usually take heart from the fact that we still have the best system known to man.

But it might disturb your old ticker to learn that Uncle Sam has a few billion on the cuff that it hasn't collected. As a matter of fact, there are 1.4 million Americans out there somewhere who owe the federal treasury approximately $68 billion dollars.

IRS is owed the most—$42 billion last year—and thus far, it doesn't use outside collectors. Enough heat has been applied to our congressmen in Washington that plans have been made to try and collect the debts owed.

The government is hiring private collection agencies to get back the loans or debts owed. Debt was only $30 billion in 1981, and has not ballooned to $68 billion.

When you get a bill from Uncle Sam saying that your income tax return was $2.50 short for 1986, it kinda makes you wonder how those 1.4 million get away with owing the treasury $68 billion.

City negotiating SPS contract

City commissioners were in consensus regarding proposed changes in negotiating a new franchise contract with Southwestern Public Service Company during the regular session last night. SPS had requested a 10 year franchise with a one percent charge to be added to the consumer's bill. Revenue from the charge through would be added to two percent funds from SPS and paid to the city on a quarterly basis. Under the current contract SPS is required to pay the entire three percent.

Commissioners and Mayor Wes Fisher were in agreement on the 10 year franchise and on the quarterly payments however they decided to not approve the pass through of a charge to residents. City Attorney Ernest Langley was given authority to prepare an ordinance in final form to begin negotiations with SPS. The current contract was for five years and will expire in October.

Commissioners also discussed a request by Warner Lawson of Applan Corporation to lease storage adjacent to the municipal airport. Granting the lease would involve setting aside land to form an industrial park. It was decided to investigate more data before voting on the matter.

In other business Fisher was granted authority to appoint a committee to make application for Hereford to be listed as a 50-centennial community for the celebration of the 50th birthday of the Constitution of the United States.

City Manager Darwin McGill reported that the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation has informed him that a tentative timetable for the installation of a toll road on U.S. 291 at 10th Street will be July or August. The toll road will be 1.5 miles long and will cost $10 million to build.

West Texas doctors protest requirements

CANADIAN, Texas (AP) — This West Texas community's only physicians say they will continue to treat Medicare patients in a clinic and nursing home.

The four doctors claim they have been singled out for criticism by state and federal officials and they will stop admitting Medicare patients to the hospital as of June 15.

"Here in Canadian we have had patients dying of cancer in the hospital and later have been told that they 'did not meet criteria for hospitalization,'" said Drs. Malouf Abraham, Teddy Darocha, William C. Isaacs and Valerie H. Verbi in their announcement.

"It's an obvious policy to destroy rural health," they said.

Medicare patients who need hospital care will be transferred to other hospitals once their conditions are stabilized, the doctors said.

The doctors complained about federal scrutiny of their medical practices through the Texas Medical Foundation and its Peer Review Organization.

Peer Review is responsible for ensuring that doctors who receive payments from Medicare — federal medical insurance for those over 65 — provide the best possible care, but area doctors say rural physicians have been unfairly singled out for criticism of their procedures.

Texas Medical Foundation officials said the doctors' announcement means a decision about their eligibility in the Medicare program will have to be made by the Health Care Financing Administration or the U.S. Dept. of Health and Human Services, a spokeswoman said Monday.

"TMF seriously questions whether any physician who refuses to admit patients to the hospital when such admission is medically necessary can maintain eligibility to participate in the Medicare program," executive director Robert L. King said in a prepared statement.

In Texas, the PRO has recommended 23 doctors be sanctioned, all but one from towns with less than 12,000 people.

Darocha is among those who are being considered for sanctioning. He declined to comment on the matter.

Isaacs, a native of Canadian, said the doctors don't want to take the chance of being sanctioned.

"We want to take care of our Medicare patients, but it has gotten to the point where we feel endangered," he told the Amarillo Globe-News. "The risk to us professionally both short term and long term is too great."

"We don't want to have to do this," Isaacs said. "We're hoping that the community can send a stronger message (to Congress) than we have been able to ourselves."

Residents are being encouraged to write letters to their congressmen, said Wilma Eubank, Hemphill County Hospital director of nursing.

Definition of minorities could benefit many

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unusual alliance of Jews, Arabs and blacks has helped produce a significant Supreme Court victory for civil rights that is expected to benefit all minorities.

Some predict that in terms of sheer numbers Hispanics will benefit most.

The court unanimously ruled Monday that laws passed in the post-Civil War period primarily to help blacks can be used to prevent and redress discrimination based on ancestry and ethnicity, not merely skin color.

"We're extremely pleased," said Albert Mohr, director of legal services for the Arab Anti-Defamation Committee. "With the rise in hatred and violence that has victimized both Arabs and Jews, we desperately need this kind of protection."

Jeffrey P. Sinensky, legal director of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, said the decision "sends a message that perpetrators of vandalism or discriminatory conduct will feel an impact where it hurts the most: in the pocketbook."

The court provided its expansive interpretation of race in two separate rulings based on laws that permit victims of bias to sue for damages.

The court cleared the way for trials in a suit by a former professor who says he was denied tenure at a Pennsylvania college because he is an Arab, and by a Jewish congregation in Maryland that says vandals desecrated the group's synagogue out of racial hatred.

"This ruling will have the greatest benefit to the Hispanic community in the country," said Antonia Hernandez of the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund. "We're so happy, I can't tell you."

She said the rulings will give Hispanics an important new weapon to combat discrimination that could result from a new immigration law penalizing employers for hiring illegal aliens.

Hispanics are worried that they may be victims of bias by employers who refuse them jobs for fear the job-seekers may be illegal aliens.

"We have little trouble in concluding that Congress intended to protect from discrimination identifiable classes of persons who are subjected to intentional discrimination solely because of their ancestry or ethnic characteristics," Justice Byron R. White, writing for the court, said in Monday's decision.

"Such discrimination is racial discrimination that Congress intended to forbid, whether or not it would be classified as racial in terms of modern scientific theory."

In a rare collaboration, Arab, Jewish and black civil rights groups put aside differences and filed legal briefs with the high court in support of each others' cases.

The view the court adopted, that what Congress meant by race in the 19th Century is different than what it may mean today, parallels arguments espoused by the civil rights organizations.

Sam Rabinove, director of the American Jewish Committee, said the alliance with the Arabs furthers a common goal.

"We make common cause with them on this issue, and we have no reticence on that point," he said.

Abortion regulation bill approved

AUSTIN (AP) — The House has approved an abortion regulation bill that was praised as protecting the unborn but criticized as paving the return route to back-alley abortions.

The measure barring late-term abortions won tentative approval in a Monday voice vote that sent it to a final House vote that could advance it to the Senate, where its prospects are cloudy.

House debate on Rep. Mike Millsap's bill was emotional and, at times, quite personal.

"I personally am against abortions, but I think trying to tackle this problem statutorily presents more problems than it solves ... The end result is always that we get more heat than light about the subject," said Rep. Al Price, D-Beaumont.

Rep. Ernestine Glossbrenner, in an emotion-filled speech that stilled the House into silence, said "abortion is awful," but the Millsap bill is worse.

"There is no way I believe I have a right to intrude myself, whether it is personally or through my government, into a decision that is so personal and so profound," she said.

Millsap, D-Fort Worth, said he had a simple motivation in filing the bill.

"Abortion is out of control in this country," he said.

"Personally, I am offended by the fact that in this great state of ours for the past 14 years has had no laws on the books ... dealing with this subject. We should do all within our power to protect the life on viable, unborn human beings," he said.

The bill would ban abortions of fetuses after "viability," defined as the point at which the fetus could live outside the womb — generally considered to be at about 24 weeks — with or without life-support equipment.

Physicians who performed banned abortions would be subject to Board of Medical Examiners' penalties but no criminal action.

Senate prepares 'doomsday' bill

AUSTIN (AP) — A Senate committee began preparations for "doomsday" by considering a bill that lists who would be paid first if state government is forced to shut down this summer.

Paul Williams, associate deputy treasurer, told the Senate Finance Committee Monday the state has no guidelines on how to honor its payments in the event of a cash flow shortage. He endorsed a bill sponsored by Sen. Grant Jones that sets the priorities.

Williams also delivered letters from various state agencies spelling out the consequences the agencies and state would face if the agencies did not receive their funding on time.

Only 14 days remain in the regular session with lawmakers still unable to reach a compromise on balancing the state budget. The state is facing a $6.8 billion deficit and Treasurer Ann Richards has said unless lawmakers find a way to increase revenues by Sept. 1, or "doomsday," state government will come to a halt.

"We've really never had to deal with (a cash shortage) in the magnitude that we're facing this time ... we are literally out of cash from all sources and so this problem becomes much more real than it has ever probably been in the past, or the more recent past," Williams said.

Under current law, the state is required to pay the U.S. Postal Service first, then all other state payments are made on the basis of check serial numbers, Williams said.

The bill sponsored by Jones, D-Temple, would require the state, in the event of a cash shortage, to first make any constitutionally required payments, such as bond debts. Cities' of sales taxes are second and third on the list is the state employee payroll.

Acid rain could cause problems for Texas

FORT WORTH - Canada and the Northeastern United States are not the only areas that should worry about acid rain. The effects of acid rain could begin causing problems in East Texas within the next 15 years, according to a Texas Christian University geology professor.

"From Houston up toward Dallas and east of there, we're beginning to see some of the effects of acid rain," said Dr. Leo Newland.

The area's low capacity to neutralize the acids is one reason East Texas is more affected than the rest of the state, noted Newland. A predominance of high alkaline soils in most of the Western United States has helped to guard that area from the effects of acid rain.

"There are a lot of carbonates in the West and, as acid drops on them in the form of acid rain, it may dissolve some of the carbonate rocks slightly, but it helps to neutralize them very much like a Roloids neutralizes stomach acid," explained Newland. "Since there are very few carbonates in the Northeast, they have very little neutralizing capacity."

Announcement for live-ins

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was amused by a phrase you used recently—"a decision made below the navel."

Maybe you will be amused by what I have written. It's another one of those things that would be funny if it weren't so serious. Share it with your readers if you think it's printable—Anonymous in Oklahoma

DEAR OKLA.: It's printable all right, and I'm printing it. Thank you for tossing it my way.
ANNOUNCEMENT FOR LIVE-INS

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. and Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. are not real happy to announce the cohabitation of their children:

Johnny P. and Susie L.
Since it won't be a public event, no guests are invited.
It's a simple move-in.

The ceremony will be held at their apartment, without legal binding or pastoral consent.

We wish them luck

but it may be tough to make last, a decision made below the navel.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was surprised to see a letter in your column that perpetuates an old wives' tale. I refer to the statement that poinsettia plants are poisonous. (A reader had written that her cat died after eating several leaves.)

We have many wonderfully healthy cats living in our greenhouse with 2,500 poinsettias. The cats eat and sleep there. Yes, some house plants are poisonous—I mean deadly. They are Jerusalem cherry, oleander and azaleas.

Thanks for setting the record straight.—J.V.D. Medicine Hat, Alberta

DEAR MED. HAT: I appreciate the assist, but your letter contains another old wives' tale. I refer to the bum rap you gave azaleas.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, a half-pound of azalea leaves would have to be eaten to seriously poison a child who weighs 25 pounds. That's an awful lot of azalea leaves.

Another reader sent the history of the knock on poinsettias. Here is it: In 1975 a citizen living in New York state filed a petition with the Consumer Products Safety Commission demanding that poinsettias plants carry caution labels when offered for sale to the public. Extensive research was done at Ohio State University. The commission issued a statement denying the petition, based on the scholarly research of Robert P. Stone and W.J. Collins, the university's entomologist.

My thanks to all the florists who wrote. I'm glad that letter didn't appear in December. It could have ruined their Christmas.

Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," explains every aspect of sexual behavior—where to draw the line, how to say no, the various methods of contraception, the dangers of VD, the symptoms and where to get help. the amount of force when the heart is at rest.

MYTH: Coin-operated blood pressure machines, like those found in some supermarkets, drug stores and airports, are accurate devices for detecting high blood pressure.

FACT: Coin-operated machines are sometimes not regularly inspected for reliability and accuracy. Therefore, the information given to the user may not be useful or correct. Consumers using the machines usually don't receive counseling about the meaning of the reading and what should be done about it. "Any blood pressure screening program should provide for adequate referral and proper counseling," advises Taylor. Sometimes the conditions and locations under which these blood pressure determinations are made are likely to produce readings which make interpretation either difficult or impossible. Taylor adds, "An imprecise blood pressure reading could cause unnecessary anxiety or unfortunate complacency for the user."

For more information on high blood pressure, contact your local office of the American Heart Association weekdays during business hours.

In 1921, President Warren G. Harding dedicated the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery. The inscription on the tomb reads, "Here rests in honored glory an American Soldier known but to God."

Separate facts from myths

(AUSTIN) — Over 25 million Americans don't know they have high blood pressure. Since high blood pressure is a major risk factor for other medical problems, such as stroke and heart attack, the American Heart Association is concerned that many persons having high blood pressure don't understand the disease or its potentially serious effects.

"Despite modern treatment methods, many high blood pressure victims either don't know about their condition or are aware of it and take it too lightly," says Addison A. Taylor, M.D., president of the American Heart Association, Texas Affiliate. "Some base their knowledge on the medical opinions or old wives' tales of a century ago," he said.

The American Heart Association wants to dispel the following myths or misconceptions about high blood pressure:

MYTH: Most high blood pressure can be cured.

FACT: High blood pressure can usually be controlled, but in 90 percent of the cases it cannot be cured. Most high blood pressure patients use control methods for the rest of their lives, allowing their lives to be fairly normal.

MYTH: If a person's blood pressure is checked and it's detected as normal, there is no need to have it checked again during his lifetime.

FACT: Even people with normal blood pressure should have their blood pressure checked on an annual basis. Annual screenings help detect any change in pressure.

MYTH: High blood pressure patients shouldn't walk for exercise because exercise causes blood pressure to rise.

FACT: In most high blood pressure patients a moderate walking program could prove beneficial. In some patients walking actually helps reduce blood pressure levels over time by helping maintain normal weight. Patients should consult their doctor before beginning a vigorous exercise program.

MYTH: Drinking alcoholic beverages will help reduce blood pressure.

FACT: Heavy, regular use of alcohol can increase blood pressure.

MYTH: There is no relationship between high blood pressure and being overweight.

FACT: Although not every person with high blood pressure is overweight, there is increasing evidence that being overweight can contribute to an elevation in blood pressure.

MYTH: Headaches and nervousness are signs of high blood pressure.

FACT: Persons with high blood pressure usually display no symptoms, such as headaches and nervousness.

MYTH: If someone feels no distress, then that person cannot have high blood pressure.

FACT: Since high blood pressure shows no symptoms, it can only be detected through an accurate blood pressure test.

MYTH: To determine your appropriate blood pressure, add 100 to your age and you'll arrive at the right number.

FACT: One hundred years ago this may have been a medical calculation, but it has no scientific basis and is not a valid way to determine blood pressure. The only accurate method is to perform a quick, painless test using a sphygmomanometer. A sphygmomanometer consists of a gauge and rubber cuff that's placed around the arm or leg and inflated. The device records to numbers: systolic pressure, the amount of force on the artery walls when the heart beats; and diastolic pressure,

The Hereford Maroon team had a score of 190, the Hereford Grey team's total was 192, and the Hereford White team's score was 204.

The other teams competing in the round were Canyon, which won the round with a 159, and Valley View, which had a team score of 165.

Hereford did not have a complete girls' team in the round, but three girls participated.

Here are the individual boys' scores in Friday's round:

Hereford Maroon: Marcus Urias,

43; Keith Kelso, 46; David Hernandez, 50; Anthony Gale, 51; and Jason Walterscheid, 52.

The Hereford girls who played Friday, and their scores, are: Naomi Grijalva, 47; Teresa Baker, 53; and Jennifer Bullard, 64.

Canyon had three golfers shoot scores of 39 to help them win the round. Valley View's Chris Ray had a 38 for the best individual score of the day.

Playoffs continue tonight in NBA

By The Associated Press

Getting into the NBA Conference finals was just the tonic the Boston Celtics needed to get over their bruises and sprains, the doctor says.

"A win is magic medicine," Boston team physician Dr. Thomas Silva said. "As the players came in today (Monday), they were on top of the pile. You could see the spring in Kevin McHale's step. You could see the spring in Robert Parish's step."

The spring will be needed tonight when the defending champion Celtics open their best-of-seven series against Detroit in Boston. In the Western Conference final, Seattle and the Los Angeles Lakers will battle tonight in Game 2 with the Lakers leading 1-0.

McHale is playing with injuries to his ankle, knee and foot. Parish is recovering from a sprained ankle. Guard Danny Ainge is expected to miss the opener with a sprained right knee, but hopes to return for Game 2 Thursday night in Boston.

Detroit center Bill Laimbeer is not impressed with Boston's lengthy injury list.

"You can't worry about them," Laimbeer said. "They can moan and groan their way to the championship. They haven't lost yet."

The Pistons have rested since eliminating the Atlanta Hawks last Wednesday.

"I don't mind the wait at all," said forward Adrian Dantley, who had back problems in the Atlanta series. "I need the rest."

At Inglewood, Calif., the Seattle SuperSonics believe their rest will be beneficial when they attempt to tie the Western Conference championship series against the Lakers. The Lakers won the opener Saturday at the Forum and are 8-1 in the playoffs.

The Sonics didn't earn their berth in the conference finals until just before midnight last Thursday. A little more than 36 hours later, after flying from Seattle to Southern California, they were playing the Lakers.

"Our legs were a little shot," Seattle Coach Bernie Bickerstaff said. "We were emotionally and physically drained coming back after the Houston game. There just wasn't time, but we put up a great fight and almost beat the best team in the league."

"We'll live to play again."

Detroit's Sheridan hits 2-run homer

Tigers double up Rangers, 6-3

By The Associated Press

A little over a year ago, Pat Sheridan faced the prospect that his major league career was over.

After four seasons with the Kansas City Royals, he was given his release in March 1986 after batting .228 in 78 games the previous season.

But Detroit signed him as a free agent a few days after his release and today he's rewarding the Tigers for their confidence in him by leading them in hits (39) and batting average (.330).

Monday night he continued his lusty hitting with three hits, including a two-run homer as the Tigers beat the Texas Rangers 6-3 for their sixth victory in a row.

"I was surprised when the Royals let me go," said Sheridan, who hit two home runs in the American League Championship Series against Toronto in 1985. "I'd had an inconsistent season, but I still felt like I could play in the majors."

So did the Tigers, who moved Kirk Gibson to left field and gave the right field job to Sheridan.

"I'd rather play center than right," said Sheridan, "but I'm just glad to be playing here."

His 2-run homer in the fifth Monday night traveled 430 feet into the center field bleachers, the longest homer hit at Arlington Stadium this season.

"I hit it pretty good," said Sheridan, "but the wind had something to do with how far it went."

Tiger manager Sparky Anderson took it a step farther.

"This park is a jet stream," said Anderson. "If I was a hitter, I'd rather play in this park than any other park in America. This is a hitter's paradise."

Sheridan's homer helped emergency starter Jeff Robinson square his record at 2-2 after being pressed into service when scheduled starter Dan Petry begged off with a high fever.

Jose Guzman, 2-3, took the loss, giving up three runs — two earned — in 3 2/3 innings.

Three other Ranger pitchers saw duty as the Tigers connected for 16 hits, including three by Sheridan and three by catcher Matt Nokes.

Darrell Porter pinch-hit in the ninth for Texas and homered off Detroit reliever Mike Henneman. It was Porter's first of the season.

Mark Thurmond relieved Henneman and earned his third save.

"Robinson did a great job," said Tigers manager Sparky Anderson of the rookie right-hander. "That's the way he should pitch. In fact, we have such good pitching that if we play good defense, we're all right."

Robinson said to command $1 million salary per year

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — David Robinson, the player the San Antonio Spurs will pick as the No. 1 selection in the upcoming National Basketball Association draft, will command a salary of at least $1 million a year, a team official says.

Spurs President Angelo Drossos said Monday that Robinson's salary has not been discussed by team management, but he assumes it will be around $1 million, based on past contracts of top NBA draft choices.

Robinson would become the highest-paid player in franchise history.

"I have not addressed that," Drossos said. "I have made a statement that money will not be the reason we don't sign him, as it should not be for any team."

Spurs General Manager Bob Bass also refused to discuss a potential salary for the 7-foot-1 center from Navy. The Spurs won the right to draft Robinson in Sunday's lottery when they were awarded the No. 1 pick. "I can't say anything about the money. No sir," Bass said.

Robinson's contract could be very complex, team officials say. He will have to serve two years in the Navy before he will be eligible to play, but the Spurs have said they would pay him a sizable bonus each year.

"He'd have a lot of reasons to sign with us now," Bass said. "He could sign a contract and take a bonus and still play in the Pan American games and in the Olympics."

"He's a franchise-type player," Bass said. "He's an outstanding person and he's a really fine athlete. He's the best player in college basketball. Nobody will argue that."

Houston pitcher calls his effort 'a struggle'

Astros' Scott limits Pirates to three hits

By ALAN ROBINSON
AP Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Manager Jim Leyland scoffs at those who say Houston pitcher Mike Scott scuffs his way to success.

"There are a lot of dumb pitchers and dumb pitching coaches out there, because if it is the key to his success, we all ought to be teaching it," Leyland said after Scott three-hit the Pirates in Houston's 4-1 victory Monday night.

"I don't care if he does scuff the ball. We didn't check him. I'm not concerned if he does it," Leyland said. "I don't have a problem with that. They've been checking him for more than two years. All I know is he's a great pitcher."

Scott, 5-2, the National League earned run average leader, called his third low-hit effort of the season "a struggle," but it hardly seemed that.

He struck out eight, walked two and didn't allow a hit after Sid Bream's leadoff single in the fourth.

"I was trying to be too fine but after the fourth inning, I just tried to throw the ball down the middle," said Scott, who has a 3-11 career record against Pittsburgh. "They used to beat me around pretty good, but I'm a better pitcher now than I was then."

Scott, the 1986 NL Cy Young Award winner, was periodically checked by the umpires in a 2-1 loss to the New York Mets on April 29. But in his three starts since, Scott has been checked only once.

"Since the league said they'd be checking me more, I've been checked less," Scott said. "It doesn't bother me that the hitters have the balls checked because if I were them, I'd probably be doing the same thing. I've been throwing the split-fingered (fastball) for 2½ years and if they want to check it, they can."

"What bothers me is talking about it," he said. "Every city we go, that's what they want to talk about. Maybe I should start handing out mimeographed sheets."

The Astros gave Scott all the runs he needed in the third inning on former Pirate Phil Garner's RBI single and a run-scoring triple by Kevin Bass that sliced under the glove of left fielder R.J. Reynolds.

An inning later, Glenn Davis singled and Dickie Thon, only 10 days off the disabled list, hit a long drive off Bob Kipper into the left-field seats for his first homer of the season.

Thon was batting only .111 and recently spent time at Tucson of the Class AAA Pacific Coast League on a rehabilitation program because of blurred vision.

He has been bothered by vision problems since his April 1984 banishment by Mike Torrez of the New York Mets and he reportedly considered retiring when he left the Astros late in spring training.

"It was a big home run for him," said Astros Manager Hal Lanier. "He went to triple-A and did well and his attitude has been good."

"I'm just trying to see the ball and hit it good," said Thon, who had only a single in nine previous at-bats. "It feels good now and I'm working hard. I want to help this club win and I feel good tonight I was able to."

All of the Astros' runs came off Kipper, 2-4, who gave up all of Houston's seven hits in the first four innings. The victory ended a three-game Houston losing streak.

The Pirates got their run in the third inning. Rafael Belliard drew a leadoff walk, stole second, was sacrificed to third and, after Barry Bonds fouled out, scored on Andy Van Slyke's single.

"It seems like every time we need a big victory, Mike gives us one," Lanier said. "I'm prejudiced, but to me, he's the best pitcher in the National League."

Scott one-hit the Los Angeles Dodgers on April 15 and two-hit the Montreal Expos on May 8. He has allowed only 10 hits in his last 25 innings and is already off to a better start than he was a year ago, when he was 6-5 after 18 starts.

Scott reduced his ERA to 1.95.

'Magic' says he will thank Bird for MVP award

By JOHN NADEL
AP Sports Writer

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Earvin "Magic" Johnson plans on telephoning Boston's Larry Bird to express his gratitude to the Celtics forward for "helping" him win the NBA's Most Valuable Player award.

The gesture hardly seems necessary.

"I should thank Larry Bird for having a slightly off-season," Johnson said with a smile Monday at a news conference after his selection as MVP. "I'm going to call him up and thank him."

"I've got to catch up with him." Ever the team player, Johnson, who now trails Bird 3-1 in MVP awards, quickly added, "We don't battle each other for individual awards, we battle each other for NBA championships."

Such might be the case in a couple of weeks if the Lakers beat Seattle in the Western Conference finals and the Boston Celtics get past Detroit in the Eastern Conference finals.

Johnson, who averaged a career-high 23.9 points a game this season and led the league in assists for the fourth time in the last five years with a 12.2 average, received 65 first-place votes and a total of 733 points from the media panel.

Michael Jordan of Chicago, the NBA's leading scorer, had 10 first-place votes and 449 points to finish second. Bird, the MVP the last three years, had one first-place vote and 271 points to finish third.

Johnson's scoring average was 10th-best in the league and he shot 52.2 percent from the field and 84.8 percent from the free-throw line. He also led the Lakers with 138 steals and was third with 6.3 rebounds per game.

The registration fee for the football camp is $242. For more information or for registration forms, call 656-2323.

The Mark Adams Boys' Basketball Camp will include six-game league competition, demonstration by college players, three-man league competition, offensive and defensive drills, guest speakers, fundamentals taught by Adams, hired in April as the new head coach at WTSU.

Adams was a five-time coach of the year at Wayland Baptist University. Tony Airhart is the assistant camp director.

Registration fees are $225 for overnight campers and $175 for day campers. For more information or for registration forms, call 656-2301.

The Bob Schneider Girls' Basketball Camp includes instruction in basketball fundamentals, with special emphasis on shooting and defense, for girls ages four through high school. Self-confidence, positive mental attitude, and motivation will be stressed.

Schneider is in his sixth year at head women's basketball coach at WTSU. The Lady Buffs had a 26-5 season record last year.

Registration fee is $185 and includes a T-shirt, room, board, accident insurance, and entertainment. For more information or for registration forms, call 656-2651.

The Gary Marable Tennis Camp is for advance, intermediate, and beginning tennis players ages eight to 18.

Marable is head coach for both the men's and women's tennis teams at West Texas State University.

Camp instruction will include sessions on strategy, drills, and training methods. College players and coaches will assist Marable at the camp.

Registration fee is $280 and includes room, board, instruction, and all activities. The fee for those who attend the camp but do not stay on campus is $160.

For more information on the tennis camp or for registration forms, call 656-2187.

For information and registration forms for the Kim Hudson Volleyball Camp, call 656-2651.

Hudson was hired as the Lady Buffs' assistant coach in February after coaching at Amarillo High School.

The West Texas State head coaches note that there is a limited enrollment for each week of each camp, and that athletes should register for the camps as soon as possible.

Cooling facts listed about frozen yogurts

Few foods are as capable of providing a tangy thrill on a hot summer's day or a refreshing respite after a heavy meal as frozen yogurts and milk-based fruit sherbets. Easy to make at home, they can serve as dazzling desserts or refreshing pauses all year long.

While their origin is obscure, we know the Greeks and Romans savored iced sweets. Marco Polo brought recipes for frozen milk-based desserts to Italy from the orient in the thirteenth century. These recipes, it was claimed, had been used in Asia for thousands of years already.

Today, frozen yogurts and milk sherbets continue to gain in popularity even as Americans strive to slim down. Both are a natural extension of the ongoing quest for foods that are lighter, healthier and less fattening. Just look at the calorie count for either dessert and you'll find that they are typically lower in calories than their ice cream counterparts.

Most recipes for homemade ice cream call for milk, whipping cream, sweeteners and flavorings. Frozen yogurt and milk sherbets differ by varying the dairy ingredients.

Frozen yogurt boasts an intensity of flavor and a tangy taste enjoyed by many. Recipes call for plain or flavored yogurt in place of milk or cream, but cream can be added to obtain a smoother, richer product. Flavored with fruit purees, juices or extracts, they lend themselves to an infinite variety of flavors ranging from apricot brandy to blueberry cheesecake.

Commercially, frozen yogurt is available frozen soft or hard, in cups, cones and sundaes; in bar form or frozen on sticks, coated with chocolate.

Most recipes for homemade milk sherbets rely on milk as the main dairy ingredient. The milk is usually lowfat or whole but buttermilk and evaporated milk are occasionally called for. Light cream (half and half) may also be added. Because the fat content is lower, sherbets don't have as rich and smooth a texture as ice cream. For this reason, stabilizers such as gelatin or egg whites are added to give sherbets a lighter, airier texture.

Sherbets are typically fruit flavored with a variety of fruit purees and juices, sweeteners such as sugar and honey, flavor extracts or liqueurs. Some of the most popular sherbet flavors include orange, pineapple, raspberry, lime and lemon. But creative cooks, free of the cost considerations faced by manufacturers, are churning out such tantalizing flavors as honey cantaloupe, pina colada and peanut caramel.

For the person who shies away from drinking milk, homemade frozen yogurts and milk sherbets offer a tasty way to help meet their daily need for calcium. Both products add calcium, protein and riboflavin (B2) to the diet.

Another plus for these cooling treats is that they don't take much time to make, thanks to the wide variety of ice cream freezers available for home use. The steps are basically the same as making ice cream, and the serving suggestion as inviting.

Whatever your taste or diet considerations, frozen yogurts and milk sherbets can be counted on for a calorie-conscious step toward good taste and nutrition.

DR. GOTT How osteopaths treat illness

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What's the difference between an osteopathic doctor and a medical doctor?

DEAR READER — Osteopathy has undergone enormous changes since it was founded during the 1860s. The basic tenet of osteopathic medicine is that the human body has an inborn capacity to resist disease and that the body's musculoskeletal system plays a vital role in overcoming illness.

In most ways, medical doctors (M.D.s) and doctors of osteopathy (D.O.s) are similar. Both types of healers are required to complete premedical training, four years of graduate work and at least one year of post-graduate training (internship). Like M.D.s, osteopaths may elect to specialize in three- or four-year residency programs.

The distinctions between M.D.s and D.O.s have dimmed over the years. Osteopaths are now licensed in many states by the same boards that license M.D.s. In my opinion, qualified osteopaths are on a par with M.D.s; they diagnose and treat the same afflictions.

Many osteopaths continue to emphasize the primary role of muscles, bones and joints in disease. However, D.O.s are very likely today to use the same surgical techniques and medicines that are used by M.D.s. Osteopaths seem to have gravitated toward the use of more traditional, allopathic (M.D.) methods. Conversely, many M.D.s are now using manipulative treatment, such as spinal adjustment.

The American Association of Colleges of Osteopathic Medicine points out that M.D.s still have more prestige than D.O.s, but I believe that is less true today. In addition, the association insists that the thrust of osteopathic training is to provide practitioners for family and general medical practice. Interestingly, in the past few years, M.D.s have also indicated a renewed commitment to the practice of family medicine.

Therefore, in summary, M.D.s and D.O.s are virtually equal partners in providing health care. The differences in the two groups are more likely today to be due to personality and orientation than to healing theory or quality of training.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am male, 67, and have bursitis and arthritic pain, especially at night in bed. I would like to find a doctor who is knowledgeable about these ailments and who will not brush off what is happening as "getting old." Are there specialists in this field?

DEAR READER — Doctors who are trained to diagnose and treat arthritis are called rheumatologists. Ask your family physician for a referral.

The Hindenburg zeppelin went from Lakehurst, N.J., to Frankfurt, Germany, in 42 hours, 53 minutes, from Aug. 9 to Aug. 11, 1936.
