

Consumer prices down in April

WASHINGTON (AP) — Skidding gasoline costs sent consumer prices down 0.3 percent in April, the third straight monthly drop, the government said today. It was the biggest three-month price drop in 37 years. Energy prices, as in past months, accounted for much of the decline and more than offset the first food price gain since January. Leading the energy cost declines was an 11.3 percent drop in gasoline prices. Energy prices overall fell 5.8 percent. But analysts say the best news on energy prices is past. Indeed, the gasoline price decline was not as steep as the 12.0 percent fall of March. Over the last three months, gasoline prices have fallen 26.5 percent. Pump prices in April fell to the level of mid-1979. Beginning with February, prices overall have fallen at an annual rate of 4.3 percent, the best quarterly showing since November 1948-January 1949. For the first four months of 1986, prices are down at an annual rate of 2.3 percent.

With the exception of energy prices, consumer costs rose 0.4 percent in April, roughly the average rate of the last 12 months. The most significant price gains last month were posted for food costs, up 0.3 percent. A market basket of food bought at grocery stores rose 0.2 percent. Fresh fruit and vegetable prices rose 7.0 percent; lettuce prices climbed 26.7 percent. Prices fell, however, for meats, poultry, fish and eggs. Beef prices dipped 2.9 percent, their fourth consecutive drop. Prices for restaurant meals were up 0.4 percent while alcoholic beverage prices were up 0.2 percent. Also up were prices for new cars — 0.6 percent after a 0.2 percent rise in March and a 0.4 percent hike in February. Analysts said last month's increase largely reflected higher prices for imports as a result of the declining value of the dollar. Used car prices, however, fell for the third straight month and were down 0.8 percent. In other areas: —Heating oil, coal and bottled gas prices fell 4.0 percent after a 5.7 percent drop in March. Natural gas and electricity prices fell 0.7 percent. —Housing costs increased 0.3 percent after a 0.2 percent rise in March. —Medical care costs rose 0.6 percent after a 1.0 percent gain in March. —Clothing prices were up 0.3 percent, the first increase of the year. —Entertainment costs gained 0.1

percent after a 0.1 percent drop in March. The overall CPI for April — a raw figure that, unlike other Labor Department calculations, is not adjusted for seasonal factors — stood at 325.3, meaning that goods costing $10 in 1967 would have cost $32.53 in April. ### Neal drops from race, to name Turrentine

Justice of Peace O.K. Neal said today he will appoint Johnnie Turrentine, his opponent in the June 7 runoff, to take over his office June 30. Neal announced that he will be accepting a "very, very good, lucrative job" with Walraven Brothers of Dallas, a sales and marketing firm specializing in supplies for court offices.

Neal said the job has good benefits and, since he can be based in Hereford, he will continue to be involved in local civic affairs.

Turrentine told The Brand that Neal had met with her today to inform her of his decision. According to County Clerk David Ruland, it is too late for Neal to officially withdraw from the June 7 runoff ballot, however, and his name will remain on the ballot to comply with the election code.

"The election code states that nominees must withdraw before the 10th day following the May 3 primary election date," said Ruland. "May 13 was the last day for anyone to withdraw and I suppose the reasoning behind this is because of printing cost and problems in getting the ballots changed after being printed." Ruland also said that the commissioners may appoint anyone they desire to fulfill the unexpired term which will be July 1 through December 31.

If a candidate withdraws after winning the party runoff and there are no nominees for the general ballot from either party, the election code permits the executive committee of each political party to appoint a nominee for the general ballot, Ruland said.

In the May 3 election, Turrentine received 1,409 votes; Neal received 1,343.

With several angles

DSGH to try marketing

Deaf Smith General Hospital soon will launch a marketing plan with several angles to lure more business to the facility from throughout the region.

Plans discussed in the hospital board meeting Tuesday include a consumer perception study and an industrial leaders survey which are to help the hospital target advertising and public information programs.

Administrator Jim Bullard said one development the board hopes to get from the survey is a plan for local employers to secure lower insurance rates if the businesses can show insurance companies that they are willing to use the local hospital. Bullard said DSGH is 17 to 20 percent cheaper on a per day average than other area hospitals and is about half as expensive on a per stay average.

The board also approved the forming of several new standing committees to encourage development of the medical facilities and services. Those new committees will be for marketing, long range planning, buildings and grounds and a joint conference committee. A committee on finance has been functioning.

Also in Tuesday's board meeting, it was reported that the hospital had an average of 29.3 patients in April. Revenues generated were $508,689 after bad debts and expenses were at $414,693 for a net income of $93,996.

Quotable: "This state's momentous events seem to fall during trying times. Our Centennial happened during the darkest days of the Depression. Our Sesquicentennial now occurs during another grim period. But every blow this state has received—from the Alamo to the Dust Bowl—has made us stronger. I think the current hardships will make us stronger, too."—Sen. Lloyd Bentsen

Contrary to some of the rumors going around, there is not going to be an air base constructed west of town. It will be a radio-relay tower for the Department of Defense.

Mike Carr, executive director of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, reports that RCA has the contract on the tower and is buying material for the project. The DOD is building a number of the towers around the country.

Carr, who spoke to the Board of Realtors meeting Tuesday, also announced that the Valley View Energy plant should start its construction next month. He said the superintendent of the construction project will live in Hereford. Some supervisors have chosen to live in Canyon or Amarillo during the construction, since they will also be going to a construction site in Gruver, where a similar plant will be built.

Carr said the chamber is seeking to "get more feedback" from citizens this year and to get them involved in industrial development and other community projects sponsored by the chamber. He is planning on initiating a monthly breakfast, "an informal meeting to discuss economic factors affecting the community." The breakfast will be open to interested citizens, and the first one will be announced soon, according to Carr.

The chamber's industrial development team is also being "fine-tuned" for a more efficient operation, said Carr. The team will have local experts in various areas so that industrial prospects can get answers to any questions they might have about Hereford and Deaf Smith County.

Carr added that attitude and appearances are important factors in seeking industry. He urged citizens to reflect a positive attitude about their community, and to become involved in a year-around cleanup effort. "We have a cleanup week, then everyone forgets about it. We need to work on beautifying our community all year long," he said.

Decker resigns from Stanton for coaching job in Weatherford

Bobby Decker, principal at Stanton Junior High School for the past year, has resigned his position effective at the end of this school year. He plans to accept the head basketball coaching position at Weatherford High School.

Decker has been with the Hereford schools for the past nine years. Six of those were as head basketball coach, two as assistant principal at Hereford High School, and this past year as principal at Stanton.

Prior to coming to Hereford Decker held positions at Ferris, Alvarado, and Burleson.

Decker's wife Bonnie will be going to Weatherford as an elementary teacher. She has been serving as a fifth grade teacher at Shirley Intermediate school.

In resigning, Decker stated, "I really appreciate the school system, the town, and school officials for the support over these past nine years. They have been the most enjoyable years we have had in the educational field. I consider Hereford a great town and believe you have a great school system."

School superintendent Harrell L. Holder commented, "I have a great deal of respect for Bobby Decker. My association with him has been very pleasant and I wish to commend him for a job well done. Our loss is a gain for Weatherford. I wish the best of everything for Bobby and his family."

Texans pay for more aid than they receive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Of 20 states that paid more in fiscal year 1985 than they got back from the federal government, Texans paid the most — $1.59 for every dollar, according to a non-partisan tax research group.

The Tax Foundation, in a report issued Tuesday, said the 20 states paid an average $1.19 for every dollar they receive for such federal programs as Medicaid, highways, housing, welfare and general revenue sharing.

The rest of the states paid an average of 80 cents per dollar received.

Texas received $4.5 million from grant programs, but paid in federal taxes an estimated $7.1 million, the group said.

"For the fifth year in a row, Texans paid the highest tax premium for federal grants," the group said in a news release.

The group said besides Texas, other top "paying" states were Florida, $1.49 per dollar; New Jersey, $1.42; Connecticut, $1.35; and Colorado, $1.28.

All states combined received $99.6 billion in federal grants in FY 1985, up $6.9 billion from the previous year.

The residents in the 20 "paying" states bore 61 percent of the cost of the programs and received about half of the grant money, the group estimated.

The District of Columbia was at the bottom of the scale, paying only 35 cents for every dollar it received, the group said.

Other recipient states were South Dakota, 48 cents; Montana, 53 cents; Vermont, 54 cents; and Alaska, 54 cents.

The "receiving" states paid in $38.7 billion in federal taxes and received a total of $48.6 billion in federal grants, the group said.

The group pointed out that the estimates do not take into account the cost of obtaining grants and the cost to the state and local government of maintaining the federally subsidized programs, nor the state matching funds that might be required.

The group said it derived the information on distribution of federal grants from the U.S. Census Bureau.

Texas model named Miss USA

MIAMI (AP) — Christy Fichtner, a green-eyed blonde from Texas, said capturing the 1986 Miss USA crown and representing the United States in the Miss Universe pageant is "the greatest feeling in the world." Miss Fichtner, a 23-year-old model from Dallas, beat 50 women during Tuesday night's nationally televised pageant to win the title and some $175,000 in cash and prizes.

The 5-foot-3 Miss Fichtner, the second consecutive Miss USA from Texas, said the first thing she felt like doing was yelling.

Oil property vandalism continues

BORGER, Texas (AP) — City Manager Jim Layton has asked the police chief to ask for help from the Department of Public Safety following a shooting incident on three Phillips Petroleum Co. trucks at the company's warehouse.

Authorities assessed the damage from Tuesday morning's attacks at $3,000.

The damaged trucks were parked near a company warehouse Phillips leases from the Borger Independent School District. The company has said it might cancel the lease and has notified warehouse employees they might be reassigned or laid off, said Phillips spokesman Don Kremer.

The shooting incident is the second time in less than a week that Phillips property has been the target of vandalism. Last week, two glass doors in the main foyer of the company's Borger office building were shot out, authorities said.

Layton said he believes the incidents are a serious problem and not "a bunch of kids riding around just trying to have a good time shooting things up."

Police and company officials would not say whether they believe there is a link between the attacks and a suit filed against the company. Residents of Phillips, a nearby company town have been asked to move and have filed suit against the company.

Phillips spokesman Don Kremer said the company "is very concerned about the violence but we are relying on the Borger police to catch these people."

Police said the shots probably were fired by rifles and may involve more than one weapon.

No new oil drilling expected

HOUSTON (AP) — Despite recent increases in crude oil prices, oil industry officials say the news is not good enough to begin dusting off idle drilling rigs partly because the start of the summer driving season usually pushes up prices.

"I'm happy it is going up. But I don't anticipate it will do much because there's nothing long term," Houston-based energy analyst Dale Steffes said Tuesday.

"It's extremely traditional," Steffes said. "It's euphoric around here because the price finally went up a little bit after going down for 120 days."

Crude prices have increased by nearly $4 a barrel in the past three weeks. On Tuesday, the price for June delivery of West Texas Intermediate, the main U.S. grade of crude oil, fell from $17.16 for a 42-gallon barrel to $16.04 on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

"The fundamentals have not changed, except we're going into the driving season," Steffes said. "They're anticipating that. But I don't see too much of a change in the world picture. Prices from OPEC haven't gone up any."

Mickey Gentry, a spokesman for Pennzoil Co., said the company had expected that by the end of the year prices would be around $20 for West Texas Intermediate.

Freshman entrance test proposed

SAN MARCOS, Texas (AP) — A College Coordinating Board committee has recommended that all freshmen entering Texas' public colleges and universities be required to take a basic skills test after they have enrolled.

The reading, writing and mathematics test would be used to place students who need extra help in remedial courses.

"In no case should such a test bar entry to any student otherwise qualified; assessment should be a tool of the education process, not the selection process," said the Committee on Testing.

However, the committee said all students would have to pass the test by the time they have completed 60 hours, or approximately two years, of degree-credit work.

Robert Hardesty, president of Southwest Texas State University and committee chairman, said, "Our studies indicate that a full 30 percent of Texas students entering their freshman year of college are deficient in at least one of the basic skills."

"The problem is we have no way of identifying those students or helping them early in their college careers. And yet we know, from the experience of several other states, that students who receive remedial instruction are three times more likely to be successful in college than those who need such instruction but do not receive it."

"That is why the committee opted for a freshman test. At the onset, we were looking at a rising-junior exam — a test given at the end of the sophomore year. But it soon became obvious to us that the earlier we identified the students with the problems, the more time we would have to help them."

Inmate, woman held in girl's death

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A state prison inmate charged with killing a 3-year-old girl who was reported missing more than four years ago says the child's mother helped bury the body, according to authorities.

Timothy W. Widman, 31, a convicted robber imprisoned at the State Correctional Institution at Pittsburgh for a parole violation, was arraigned Monday on criminal homicide charges in the death of Nicole Lynn Bryner.

The girl's mother, Melody Thomas Childs, 26, who has since remarried and lives in Garland, Texas, was arrested Tuesday on a warrant issued by Pittsburgh police on charges of hindering-apprehension and falsifying police reports.

She was arraigned in Dallas and was being held at the Dallas County Jail pending extradition.

Mrs. Childs originally told police that her daughter disappeared March 11, 1982, when she was left alone momentarily in a shopping cart at a Pittsburgh supermarket.

Widman, who was living with Mrs. Childs at the time on Pittsburgh's South Side, told police Monday that the girl died after he hit her. He said the mother helped bury the child, then reported the girl missing two days later, according to a police report.

In the days after the girl was reported missing, as many as 100 volunteers combed a wooded area near the child's home. The girl's photograph was one of the first placed on thousands of milk cartons and fliers as a missing child.

Police said they believe the child's body is buried in a wooded area of Pittsburgh's Brookline section, not far from her home. Assistant Police Chief Peter Pollock said Widman took officers to the area Monday and pointed out two spots where he thinks the body might have been buried.

Police dug in the area Monday, but found no body. Three officers returned Tuesday, but left because of rain.

Police said Widman admitted striking the girl on the head and described how the girl was buried.

According to police, Widman said the girl "fell back and hit her head on the floor." Widman and Mrs. Childs "then placed the victim in bed," according to the police report of an interview with Widman. "Approximately three hours later, they discovered the victim was dead," the police report quoted Widman as saying.

CANYON, Texas (AP) — Cross country and golf teams, as well as anthropology and general agriculture, are among programs being eliminated at West Texas State University.

Regents cut those programs Tuesday and changed admission standards to try to improve the university and put it on a better financial footing. The dropped programs should cut about $1 million from the university's $28 million budget, said spokeswoman Mary Coyne.

Ms. Coyne said programs with little student or faculty interest or few job opportunities will be dropped. Those programs include speech and hearing therapy, general agricultural, anthropology, French and German education, industrial education, library science, two-year secretarial studies and the masters degree program in Spanish, she said.

In athletics, regents dropped the men's and women's golf and indoor and outdoor cross-country track programs.

In athletics, regents voted to drop the men's and women's indoor and outdoor track and cross country as well as the golf program. The remaining sports are football, men's and women's basketball, women's volleyball, men's and women's tennis. Men's and women's riflery is being added.

Under a reorganization plan, the university will merge the now-separate schools of agriculture, nursing and natural sciences and the college of education and social sciences. A single college of business and technology will be created.

The university will form a college of fine arts and humanities, and the separate graduate program will be dropped. Instead, graduate studies will be administered through each college.

Ms. Coyne said the regents' unanimous decision comes after 14 months of study. She said the plan will "allow us to do fewer things, but do them better so the focus is on quality."

"Certainly the budget crunch the state is facing is affecting us, but that's what makes this a timely and good plan," she said. "This was started long before we knew oil prices would fall."

WTSU decided last year to switch from competing in athletics as an NCAA Division I school to Division II. Beginning next fall, WTSU teams will compete in the Lone Star Conference.

"We were competing against Division I schools that are much larger and that have much more money and we couldn't compete," Ms. Coyne said.

To control enrollment, regents made admissions more selective, Ms. Coyne said, adding that students will be admitted if they meet one of the four criteria drafted by regents.

"We feel that it is not fair to admit students who do not have a chance of being successful in college," she said.

Several clerical positions will be lost because of the changes, but some employees will be transferred to other posts, she said.

report, "Despite the bounce-back in crude oil prices in recent weeks and higher gasoline prices at the pump, the effects of lower oil and energy prices should continue to ripple through the economy in reduced inflation rates."

Sinal said this will generally mean lower business costs "for many months" and a limit to price increases.

However, at some point by late summer or early fall, Sinal and other analysts say, the effects of lower energy prices will fade — and rising prices due to recent declines in the value of the U.S. dollar will become a more important factor in the inflation equation.

The consumer price report follows one last Friday that said wholesale prices have fallen this year at a record annual rate of 11.1 percent.

In another encouraging report, the Commerce Department reported on Tuesday that the economy, as measured by the gross national product, grew at a strong annual rate of 3.7 percent in the first three months of the year, a five-fold increase over the previous quarter.

And a price index tied to the GNP rose at an annual rate of 2.5 percent from January through March, its best performance in almost two decades.

Fruit contains highest chemicals

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP) — Food, especially fruit, is the most frequent source of human exposure to toxic chemicals such as dioxin and PCBs in an area bordering the Great Lakes, a new study shows.

"Everybody thought it was drinking water," said the director of the study, Katherine Davies of the Toronto Department of Public Health.

She found, however, that although drinking water contained a variety of toxic chemicals, most human exposure came through food. And the statistics held up even when contaminated Great Lakes fish were excluded from samples.

Food grown in southern Ontario outside Toronto provided 85 percent of the PCBs, dioxin, DDT and other chemicals to which residents of the city are exposed.

The remainder of the exposure to these hazardous substances came from air and drinking water, Davies said Monday at the Second World Conference on Large Lakes.

She cautioned that the study was only a preliminary one that may not apply elsewhere.

Foods were analyzed for their toxic content after being separated into five categories — meat and eggs; milk; above-ground vegetables; below-ground vegetables; and fruit.

Fruit had the highest levels of dioxin and another class of hazardous industrial byproducts called dibenzofurans, she said. But it wasn't clear why fruit should be especially affected, she said.

The findings are significant outside the Toronto area because the pollutants in the food probably are being carried thousands of miles before being deposited on Ontario.

Davies believes particles of DDT, which has been banned in the United States for about 15 years, are becoming airborne in Central America and carried from there to Canada.

"In Canada, we need a much better system of monitoring food," she said. "That's probably true in the United States, too. We need to look at why these things are staying around."

In another study presented at the conference, Frank D'Itri, a chemist from Michigan State University, noted that levels of DDT are remaining constant in the Great Lakes after falling significantly during the 1970s.

Some other toxic substances could be increasing in the lakes, although it is too soon to know for sure, he said.

He, too, blames the wind for carrying these substances to the region from other parts of the world.

In 1916, South Carolina raised the minimum age for working in mills, mines and factories from 12 to 14.

Moore accepted as member

Kim Moore was recognized as a new member when the Hereford Music Study Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Dean Herring for their final meeting of the club year.

The luncheon was catered by Herring and Lois Lemons.

Jan Walsler gave the blessing and Mrs. Allen Cansler, club president, presided over the business session and welcomed three special guests. They included Mary Lloyd of Mississippi, Mrs. Lee Alexander of Dallas and Mrs. Tom Burdett of Amarillo, a former club member.

Lloyd, who is the New York representative for Columbia Artists and Community Concerts, told the group about the four concerts that have been scheduled during the Hereford Community Concert Association's concert season. Booked for the season are the Tennessee River Boys, Arthur Woodley, Phil Coulter's Pops Orchestra of Ireland and The Alexandria Quintet.

A letter of resignation was read stating that Mrs. Cansler will be moving to Canyon. Mrs. Thomas Betzen was selected by the nominating committee to serve as president of the unexpired term in 1987.

There were no minutes from the previous meeting read. Rosie Griffin gave the treasurer's report which was filed and Cansler reviewed the club's by-laws.

Missy Sims, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Sims, entertained with a vocal selection entitled "I Have Decided" by Amy Grant. She was accompanied by her piano teacher, Mrs. Cansler.

It was announced that there will be no scholarship recipient this year.

A report was given on the recent Texas Federation Music Clubs' State Convention held in Corpus Christi on Sesquicentennial Night. Peaches Reinauer and Helen Caraway of Dawn Music Club sang the theme song from the musical drama of "Texas." This was followed by a sing-along of the state song, "Texas Our Texas." The women wore western attire during their performance.

Walsler, director of the Hereford Chamber Singers, told about the group's future performances. The local organization will be singing at FunFest in Amarillo this weekend and also on Hereford Night at the drama "Texas" in Palo Duro Canyon.

Evelyn Hacker asked for volunteers to help with Don Carl Tardy's senior piano and voice recital scheduled at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the First Church of the Nazarene.

Before the close of the meeting in which 33 members and guests were present, Mary Thomas presented Cansler with a past president's pin as a farewell gift in appreciation for her work in the club.

The biggest salt water fish ever recorded as having been caught with a rod and reel was a 1,560-pound Black Marlin caught in Peru in 1953.

Ann Landers

Letter to children

DEAR ANN LANDERS: There are a lot of jokes about mothers who complain because their sons never call them, but it's not funny. I know the problem well, because I have such a son.

I look upon his wife as my daughter so that's not the problem.

I'm sure they don't realize how much it would mean to me to be called just to see how I am. They are very bright people, yet they have not figured this out. Another thing they have not figured out is that I feel awful to be called only when they need money. I have never failed to help them out but it hurts to know that this is the only place I fit in their lives.

I am quite self-sufficient and do pretty well generally, but I feel abandoned and lonesome at times. I should also tell you that I am not a complainer, a bore, nor am I demanding or bossy. I do not inflict myself on people, nor am I a self-pitying type.

Maybe you are wondering why I don't tell my son and his wife how I feel. I have too much pride. I want them to want me and I would feel undignified begging for attention.

I may tear this letter up but if I mail it I hope you will print it. I'll bet there are an awful lot of mothers in Ann Landers' reading audience who will see themselves today.—A MUM MOM SOMEWHERE IN THE U.S.

cent column, "Whoever it was who said, 'The love of money is the root of all evil,' knew what he was talking about!" That's what YOU wrote.

With all the people around to keep you from goofing up, how come nobody caught this gaffe? The person who uttered those famous words was the apostle Paul in his letter to Timothy (1 Timothy 6:10). Ever hear of the New Testament?—CHATTANOOGA READER

DEAR CHAT: Actually, I'm a little better acquainted with the Old Testament, but that's no excuse. I didn't know who said it, but I do now. Over 4,000 people wrote to set me straight—and the letters are still coming. For shame!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 30-year-old male, with a steady girlfriend and a normal sex life. When "Sara" does not spend the night with me, I sleep with my Teddy bear. She is the one who gave me the Teddy, but she doesn't know I sleep with it.

I know it doesn't seem right for a guy my age to sleep with a kid's toy, but when I'm holding that teddy bear I sleep so well—it's like I have no cares or worries in the world.

When I was little, I didn't sleep with any stuffed animals. This just started a year ago when Sara gave me this wonderful little Teddy. Do you think I should see a psychiatrist? I worry about this regression to childhood. Please give me your opinion.—THE BEAR FACTS IN BAYSIDE

DEAR BAY: Not to worry. If the Teddy is a comfort to you, go ahead and sleep with it. Obviously, the symbolism is clear. Teddy is a substitute for Sara.

Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," explains every aspect of sexual behavior—where to draw the line, how to say no, the various methods of contraception, the dangers of VD, the symptoms and where to get help. For a copy, send $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11996, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

DR. GOTT Facial hair and hormones

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — If hormone shots were taken at an early age, would they help stop the development of excess facial hair in elderly women?

DEAR READER — No. Excess facial hair tends to develop in older women because increasing levels of female hormone permit hair growth to occur. All women manufacture small quantities of male hormone in their bodies. Before menopause, this hormone is counterbalanced by large amounts of female hormone. After menopause, however, the ratio of the two hormones is altered, so the effects of male hormone become more noticeable. Hormone therapy after menopause might help, but premenopausal treatment will be ineffective.

DEAR DR. GOTT — After a complete hysterectomy, does a woman need hormones? Some of my friends' doctors say no, but mine says yes.

DEAR READER — The term "complete" hysterectomy usually means that the ovaries have been removed along with the uterus. However, this is not always the case, some gynecologists will take out one ovary and leave the other. Therefore, both your doctor and your friends' doctors actually may be in agreement.

Ordinarily, a premenopausal woman who has had a complete hysterectomy (ovaries and all) will require hormone replacement. Postmenopausal women usually don't need this replacement after surgery.

If, at any age, a woman has a hysterectomy for cancer of the reproductive tract, she is not a candidate for hormone replacement because the hormones may augment the growth of remaining tumor cells.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 67 and my husband can't perform sexually any more. However, I've still got a desire for sex and wonder if the Premarin cream I use vaginally has something to do with this.

DEAR READER — Your continuing desire for sex is normal and not related to the hormone cream you are using. Men and women may continue to experience sex urges well into their 80s. Of course, the problem for some men is in the performance area. Premarin cream may prevent the dryness and tissue thinning that occurs in postmenopausal women.

Many couples who share your predicament have found that non-intercourse methods of sexual expression are quite satisfactory.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My 34-year-old daughter has been diagnosed as having narcolepsy. What is the treatment and prognosis for someone with this disease?

DEAR READER — Narcolepsy, a hereditary disorder characterized by inappropriate drowsiness and sleep attacks, is now thought to be due to an increased excitability of the rapid eye-movement generator in the brain — in everyday English, one of the brain's sleep centers.

In Indianapolis 500

Rookie discusses racing

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indianapolis Motor Speedway is an equal opportunity employer. Every rookie, regardless of previous driving experience, is treated alike — someone to be avoided, if possible, on the race track.

Randy Lanier, the fastest rookie qualifier in Indianapolis 500 history, understands the veterans' concern for their own safety, and so he plans to stay out of the way during Sunday's race.

"The main thing for rookies is to watch the traffic," Lanier says, aware of the potential danger as faster cars close in on slower cars on the track. "I've been practicing that for the last two weeks. You look in your mirrors and can see the cars coming, but before you know it, they're on you."

Lanier, 31, qualified his March-Cosworth race car at 209.964 mph, a record for an Indy rookie and faster than all but the top two qualifiers as recently as two years ago. He will start Sunday's race, the 70th running of the 500, from the inside of the fifth row.

"I'm just going to ease up and let the guy go by me if he's going faster," Lanier said of his race strategy, at least during the early laps before the traffic thins. "That's the way a lot of the veterans look at the rookies, whether they're considerate of the faster guys. Of course, if I'm going faster than someone else, I expect them to get out of the way."

"You'll see me after the first hour (of the race) start to creep up on them (the race leaders). Before that, I just want to keep my nose clean."

Lanier received a plaque and a check for $1,500 on Tuesday as the fastest rookie qualifier. His speed broke the two-year-old rookie record of 207.805 mph by Michael Andretti.

"There's pressure being the fastest rookie because they (other drivers) might be expecting something (from me)," Lanier said.

ACS promoting new educational campaign

The American Cancer Society (ACS) is mounting a new educational campaign based on some age-old advice: It's never too late.

The Society's new "Wellness is Ageless" program, launched to coincide with the observance of "Older Texans Month" in May, is aimed at Texans 50 and older. The program stresses the importance of maintaining a lifetime of health through good nutrition, exercise and annual health checkups.

"Our message is that the most important thing you can do for yourself is to take care of yourself, and that it's never too late to start doing that," said Cheryl Cortines, M.P.H., Austin, a member of the American Cancer Society' Texas Division Aging and Wellness Committee. Cortines also is the Texas Department of Health's Director for Health Promotion.

The program, which includes an award-winning film narrated by Texas humorist John Henry Faulk, was officially launched at a statewide film premier May 7 in Austin.

More than 100 people representing state agencies, volunteer organizations and health care services attended. The premiere was sponsored by the ACS, the Texas Department of Health and the Travis County Retired Senior Volunteer Program.

Filed on location in Austin and Wimberley, the 20-minute movie features interviews with local residents who share their thoughts about aging and health. The film was recognized in the Texas Public Relations Association "Best of Texas" competition.

The "Wellness is Ageless" program outlines steps older Texans can take to reduce their risks of developing cancer and improve their health. These include following a nutritious diet, exercising regularly and, if they are smokers, giving up cigarettes, Cortines said.

The American Cancer Society has placed an increased emphasis on cancer in the older individual, because "we desire to preserve the quality of life for as long as people live," said R.B. Caraway, Jr., M.D. Wharton. Caraway chairs the ACS Texas Division's Aging and Wellness Committee.

The heightened emphasis has become "increasingly necessary due to the ever-increasing number of people reaching the 'cancer age,'" Caraway said, explaining that most cancers occur in older individuals and that the risk of developing most cancers increases with age.

"There are two million Texans over age 60 today, and this number is expected to double in the next 15 years," he said. "Likewise, we predict 49,000 new cases of cancer in Texas in 1986, and this amount also is expected to almost double in the next 15 years."

"Through education and motivation, we should be able to alter lifestyles and thereby greatly influence 80 percent of this 'cancer population,'" Caraway said.

Older Texans should be interested in improving and maintaining their health, even if they must change some health habits to do it, said Harriet Griffin, Fort Worth, who appears in the film.

"To me, it is ridiculous to realize that we (could be) living longer because of medical technology, good nutrition, better health habits...and not try to improve the quality of our lives," Griffin said. Griffin is chairman of the Governor's Silver-Haired Legislature and a member of the Texas Department on Aging's State Advisory Council on Aging.

In addition to steps older adults can take themselves to reduce their cancer risks, the "Wellness is Ageless" program emphasizes the importance of early detection of health problems, like cancer, through annual health checkups.

The program includes a take-home folder outlining health guidelines and ACS checkup recommendations. The folder features a tear-off panel participants can use to record their own health information and any questions they want to ask their physician.

To schedule a "Wellness is Ageless" program, or for more information, call your local American Cancer Society.

The Mount Lemington volcano on New Guinea erupted in 1951 and killed an estimated 40,000 persons.

About 142,000 lives can be saved. That's how many Americans would probably not die of cancer this year, if they didn't smoke.

Locals recount ride on Texas Wagon Train

Two locals, Gloria Mullins and Edna Reinart, also got to ride on the Texas Wagon Train.

The train had stopped a short distance from where Reinart lives, and the two gals went out to meet the bunch at their lunch break.

"Seeing the wagon train approaching us when it passed the Draper farm was so exciting," said Reinart. "At first we could only see the tops of flags."

"When it came nearer it made our hearts swell with pride and brought tears of joy to our eyes," she said.

Mullins and Reinart said they were grateful to the riders who helped to remind them of their ancestors and the hardships they endured when settling in Texas.

"We met many of the wagon people and Gloria had the thrill of visiting with Helen and Elmo Lun of Galesville, Wis. Galesville is near the town where she was born. Then we met the Nicelys who invited us to ride in their wagon," said Reinart.

"The ride was very rough before we reached the pavement," she said.

"We cannot describe adequately the beautiful picture people of Hereford made when they lined up along the wagon trail."

Just before turning off on to Country Club Drive, Reinart said the number of spectators drastically increased and the scene was breathtaking.

"People who decorated their homes or made signs must be commended," said Reinart, "that gave the wagon train riders a lift and they greatly appreciated the efforts.

"The Nicelys said Hereford was one of the most hospitable and best behaved towns they went through," she commented.

The women said the trip went smoothly. "The mules drawing the wagon in back of us were skiddish and I could feel them breathing down my back; however, in all the excitement, it did not occur to me to be afraid. We enjoyed the astonishment on the faces of the people who recognized us as our wagon went past," said Reinart.

Both women said they also have a deep admiration for all people who came to meet the wagon train. "We could tell that some of you had been waiting a long time for our arrival," said Reinart. "Our ride passed too quickly but it wasn't hard to imagine how tired the wagon people were. Four miles an hour is an unbelievable speed for these days." Reinart also said being a part of the wagon train's entry into town was a "once in a lifetime" experience, "something we shall never forget and will always cherish."

"Hereford is number one and we are proud to be citizens of this community," said Reinart. "Let's keep the spirit 'a rollin' for the coming Town and Country Jubilee."

Gloria and her husband, Dale Mullins, will be joining the Texas Sesquicentennial Wagon Train on Friday at Brice.

MEMORIAL DAY SALE

STARTS WEDNESDAY MAY 21st

Camp Fire meets Wagon Train

It was a perfect day for the wagon train's arrival in our town. The train was due to arrive in Hereford via Country Club Drive. Residents and friends lined along Country Club Drive to greet the visitors. The Gerald Hamby front lawn was replete with banners and welcome signs installed by the Hereford Camp Fire Council members. Cokes were sold to those awaiting the arrival of the train.

As the train arrived one lady rider was heard to remark, "I'd give a dollar for a coke!" With that Betty Drake ran to hand the lady a coke. The other participants were served cokes as well as they rode past the group.

At 6 P.M. the Council members reassembled at the new city park preparing refreshments of homemade ice-cream for the children of the wagon train group. After the Boys Ranch from Rapid City, S.D. were served, as well as the Farwell Camp Fire Council members, the group moved to the camp area of the wagon train Southeast of the Bull Barn. There, again ice-cream was given to all the members of the wagon train as they passed by the Hereford Camp Fire Council's pick up where the ice-cream was served for the travellers through our town.

Our visitors showed such appreciation for this good-will gesture and it was an excellent way for us to visit and become acquainted with them. They had many stories to tell!

The month of April gets its name from the Latin word aperire meaning "to open" because, it's believed, that's what buds do then.

Dance club meets for social

Good Timers Square Dance Club met Friday evening at the Jerry Teel farm for a hot dog and ice cream social.

After the social hour, dancing was held with Scott Turner serving as caller. Members also danced to the calling of Larry Kuper on tape.

The group will meet May 22 at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center. Each is asked to bring a covered dish for the meal scheduled at 6:30 p.m. The dance will begin at 7 p.m.

The May 30th dance for the Good Timers has been cancelled due to graduation ceremonies. The next dance will be June 6 at the Hereford Community Center.
