Naylor and Mrs. J.T. Boynton on who the people were that took part in the period immediately following the resurrection of Christ.

The business meeting was presided by President Mrs. Charley Sowell. Mrs. W.H. Goetsch, hostess for the closing meeting May 13, announced that the event would be held in a private room that afternoon at 5:30 in K-Bob's Steak House.

Those attending the meeting and social hour included Mmes. Boynton, V.E. Dodson, J.J. Durham, Goetsch, John N. Jacobsen, Jr., Frank H. Morgan, Naylor, Sowell, Stevenson, J.C. Williams, M.H. Wiseman, C. Baker Comble, Joe C. Spann, Buck Parsons and hostesses.

POLLY'S POINTERS Keeping mildew off the fridge

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — I have always had trouble with mildew forming on the rubber gaskets around the doors of my refrigerator and freezer. Each week I check and clean them, but the mildew gets ahead of me. Do you have advice for cleaning the stains and for how to keep the mildew from reforming? — MRS. A.D.

DEAR MRS. A.D. — You live in a damp part of the country where mildew is naturally a greater problem than in drier areas. Vigilance is the key to preventing the formation of mildew around those gaskets. After dinner each night, just run a damp cloth around the gasket to clean it, then dry with a clean towel. This should do the trick. If mildew does form, clean it with a cloth dampened with a little chlorine bleach, then rinse with clear water, finishing with a dry towel.

Rubbing a tiny bit of petroleum jelly on the gasket will help keep it from drying and cracking and may help prevent mildew, too. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — To keep bed covers from touching an injured, bruised, swollen foot, use a large cardboard box. Cut one side off and place it at the foot of the bed, top side down with the cutout side facing the person. This makes a cozy nook for the sore foot. A small pillow may be placed against the back of the box, giving warm support for the foot. Place the covers over the box and tuck into the foot of the bed, holding the box in place. — NELLIE

DEAR POLLY — You can clean silk flowers and wicker baskets this easy way. Dip them in mild soap suds and water, then rinse. Lay them flat or hang to dry. — LILLIE

DR. GOTT Medicine may be cause of problem

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I drive for a living. I take Zylloprim, Nalfon, Hydrodiuril, Probid and Xanax daily. I've been told I have peripheral neuropathy in my feet. The doctors want to do a spinal tap and nerve biopsy of the leg. I don't have diabetes and am not an alcoholic. Could this be caused by a shoulder injury from two years ago?

DEAR DR. GOTT — I've heard that an injection of collagen in the upper lip would decrease the "puckered" look produced by wrinkled skin in that area. Is this correct?

DEAR DR. GOTT — Last summer I was bitten by a wood tick, and that one bite resulted in an inflammation as large as a saucer that lasted three weeks. I still have three itchy welts from three other bites. How can I get rid of these?

DEAR DR. GOTT — Because of the possibility that the ticks' mouth parts are still in the skin, I suggest you see a physician.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a 73-year-old woman and suffer from interstitial cystitis. My bladder only holds 125 cc. of urine and I have some pain and impeded flow. Is there anything I can do to relieve this condition?

DEAR READER — Yes. There are many methods to correct wrinkles. Your best bet is to be examined by a reputable plastic surgeon who can suggest the most appropriate treatment for your particular cosmetic problem. However, Helen Hayes is quoted as saying: "I wouldn't swap one wrinkle of my face for all the elixirs of youth. All of these wrinkles represent a smile, a grimace of pain and disappointments... some part of being fully alive."

DEAR READER — Because of the possibility that the ticks' mouth parts are still in the skin, I suggest you see a physician.

Computer catches up with physicians

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Doctors who try to escape records of disciplinary action by moving to new states are having more trouble doing so, thanks to a computer designed to track them down.

The computer at the Federation of State Medical Boards takes less than a minute to search for a doctor's name, and all predictable aliases, among the 15,000 errant physicians stored in its memory.

The computer prints records of infractions, ready to be sent to the requesting licensing board. The record is forwarded to the American Medical Association and is included in monthly reports the federation mails to its members.

Dr. Bryant Galusha, executive vice president of the federation, said the computer has helped counteract doctors' traditional reluctance to criticize fellow physicians.

Publicity about several cases of doctors who moved from state to state, after being disciplined, prompted development of the computer network.

In one case, Dr. Donal Billig, a U.S. Navy heart surgeon who was sentenced by a military jury to a four-year prison term, was discovered to have been dismissed from two other hospitals.

Billig was found guilty of negligent homicide and manslaughter in the deaths of three patients. Before joining the Navy in 1962, he had been dismissed from his surgical practice in Pittsburgh and stripped of surgical privileges at a New Jersey hospital.

Bryant said the Navy would have discovered Billig's record if the Federation of State Medical Boards data bank had been in operation. He said the case is unusual because at the time New Jersey was not required by law to report doctors who resign.

In Texas, 24 doctors lost their licenses from September 1984 to August 1985. Ten cases were reported for the same period a year earlier, according to the Texas Board of Medical Examiners.

Nationally, 5 percent to 15 percent of the nation's 510,000 doctors are not fully competent because of poor skills, alcoholism or mental disabilities, according to the New England Journal of Medicine.

The computer began operation about a year ago. It can be used only by medical boards, some hospital staffs and the military and replaces the old system of checking for records manually.

Self-policing in the profession is conducted by hospital medical staffs, the Board of Medical Examiners, and county medical societies. All three groups take complaints from the public and conduct their investigations and deliberations in secret.

U.S. law allows the head of a household to make up to 200 gallons of wine a year for personal use. One man who failed to qualify for a permit — because he was a bachelor — years ago tried to have his city apartment certified as a bonded winery. ## Spring flower show held

The Hereford Garden Club presented its spring flower show recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilcox, 205 Ranger.

The mini-show was entitled "Spring in Texas." Spring flowers and foliage were used in all artistic arrangements.

Wilcox was the sweepstakes winner with Mrs. Johnson having best horticulture in the show.

Blue ribbon winners in the artistic division included Mmes. John Jacobson, Jr., Cocanougher and Ethridge. Ethridge was sweepstake winner in the artistic category. Cocanougher won bet in show.

In celebration of the sesquicentennial, Johnson displayed pictures and pamphlets of Texas treasures depicting gardens, people and places. She said there are seven trails in Texas at the present time.

Hill featured geraniums for the conservation division. They were taken from last year's crop. The ones on display were potted March 21.

Carmen Angel made pictures for slides of each arrangement. These will be used later for a club program along with the judges comments.

Place a bowl of two tablespoons ammonia to one cup water to clear a smoke-filled room.

O.K. Neal Suggests Knowledge Counts

Chapter 49 of the Code of Criminal Procedure REQUIRES the Justice of the Peace to INVESTIGATE seven different categories of death. No where in the law is the term "pronounce somebody dead" used. The Justice is required to determine the cause, time, place, and method of death; and who the deceased is, why he died, and if anybody is responsible for his death. Many times this requires long hours at night or on weekends. It also requires notifying the family, interviewing witnesses, attending autopsies, and a working knowledge of external forensics. The knowledge gained through eight years of law enforcement training and experience and the last seven years acting as the Coroner for Deaf Smith County helps insure that Deaf Smith County has a professional working Justice of the Peace. I am proud to have served YOU as YOUR Justice of the Peace for the last seven years. I would appreciate your vote and support May 3rd in the Democratic Primary. Thank You.

DALLAS (AP) — Did somebody say there's nothing new under the sun? Gerald Wilkins, a guard for the New York Knicks, contributed something that looked brand-new at the slam-dunk contest before the NBA All-Star Game here.
Wilkins put a chair on the floor and jumped over it en route to a dunk. "The referee was surprised when I put the chair on the floor," he said. "but I had jumped over it in practice and knew I could handle it. The difference was I had never tried to slam a dunk before the contest."

in a District 3-5A game played in Amarillo.

The Whitefaces could manage just four hits off Judge, all singles.

The loss drops the Herd to sixth place in the district with a 3-5 record. Overall, the Whitefaces have a 10-8-1 record.

Hereford plays at Lubbock High on Friday at 5:30 p.m., and plays at home on Saturday against Amarillo High at 1 p.m. Next week, the Whitefaces host Caprock Tuesday at 5 p.m., play at Plainview on Friday, April 25 at 4:30 p.m., and play at home against Tascosa on Saturday, April 26 at 1 p.m.

Palo Duro's Kevin Judge struck out 14 Hereford batters Tuesday. The hits he gave up were singles by Paul Maes, Doug Watts, Keith Anderson, and Rodney Torres.

Hereford had just one other baserunner in the game in addition to those four who had hits.

Palo Duro took a 3-0 lead in the first inning with a pair of singles and an error. The Dons increased their lead to 5-0 in the third inning with a double and two singles.

Palo Duro then had one run in the fifth inning and its other run in the sixth inning. A double and two steals, including stealing home, scored the fifth inning run, and the sixth inning run was driven in with a double.

Hereford pitchers Bobby Medina, Keith Anderson and Donny Rieves allowed eight hits and recorded five strikeouts. Medina had three of the strikeouts when pitching the first three innings.

There was one bright spot for the New England Patriots in their 46-10 loss to the Chicago Bears in the 1986 Super Bowl: Rich Camarillo toed the ball for a record 62-yard punt.

Leads Astros to 8-3 win

Knepper beats Giants again

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bob Knepper, who broke into major league baseball with the San Francisco Giants, now has eight consecutive pitching victories over them.
"For some reason, I always feel very relaxed here," the Houston Astros' left-hander said after concluding his domination in the Giants' home opener Tuesday.

An early 5-0 lead helped, too, Knepper said after the Astros' 8-3 victory in a six-homer power show before a crowd of 46,638 at Candlestick Park.
"I didn't have any of my stuff, but I got those early runs to work with," said Knepper, who beat the Giants with a five-hit shutout last week.
San Francisco starter Vida Blue said, "I think I got caught up in the hype of the game. I could have relaxed a little more."

The veteran left-hander, 0-2 this season after two matchups with Knepper, was seeking his 200th career victory Tuesday.
Houston hit four homers, and the first of two by Phil Garner gave the Astros a 3-0 lead before Blue retired a batter. Will Clark and Bob Brenly homered for the Giants.
Clark's two-run shot in the fifth inning was a show-stopper. The rookie first baseman homered at Houston on April 8 in his first big league at-bat, and he warmed up for homer No. 2 with singles his first two times up Tuesday. He got a standing ovation, bigger than those for Hall of Famers Willie McCovey and Willie Mays during pre-game introductions, after his homer.
"He left that pitch out over the plate and I hit it hard. That's my job," Clark said. "The reaction by the fans made me feel great. It's going to be fun playing in front of them."
Clark, a left-handed batter, is 5-for-7 against Knepper so far, and in his first seven big league games is hitting .355. He was in college, Mississippi State, a year ago and played in only 65 minor league games last summer.
"He has a chance to be a consistent .300 hitter through his career," Knepper said. "As long as he keeps working hard, he could be a great one."
Garner drove in the game's first four runs with his homers, Kevin Bass made it 5-0 with a solo shot off Blue, and Glenn Davis belted a three-run homer in the seventh off reliever Mark Davis.
Garner's four RBI gave him eight in the last two games. He also singled Tuesday and is hitting .600 (6 for 10) in the young season.
"Maybe I should just quit now," he said.
The Astros, not considered a power-hitting team, had only three homers, including two by Davis, in their first six games.
"The field was so damp today that we didn't think we could take advantage of our speed. So we went another way and used the long ball," Manager Hal Lanier joked.

HHS tennis team ties Palo Duro, 9-9

Hereford High School and Tascosa battled to a 9-9 tie in a dual tennis match Tuesday in Amarillo, with Hereford winning six of nine boys' matches and Tascosa taking six of nine girls' matches.
The HHS tennis teams will play in the District 3-5A tournament on Friday and Saturday in Amarillo. The tournament will be played at the Amarillo Tennis Center.
Winners for Hereford in boys' singles matches were Chuck Garcia, Conrad Rodriguez and Brad Allred. Jason Bodner won by default.
Bodner and Allred won a doubles match, as did Kevin Hansen and Brad Barrett.
Natalie Sims and Lana Kosub each won girls' singles matches and teamed up to win their doubles match. Tascosa won three girls' matches by default.

Scores from Tuesday's matches were:

Ann Landers

Reader needs assurance

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am in my seventh month of pregnancy with my second child and I need your help. The problem is my husband and my mother.

Two years ago when I gave birth to my first baby, they both insisted on being in the labor room with me. I am a very modest and shy person. I asked them to please leave but they refused. This may sound crazy, but I felt as if I was being raped and they were watching it all.

I begged the nurse to put them out but she said she didn't have the authority to do it. She also told me that most women find it comforting to have someone close when the pains get bad.

Maybe I am crazy, but when I am suffering I don't want family around. At this moment I am dreading the birth of my second baby because I'm afraid my husband and mother will override my wishes again and witness the whole procedure. Please tell me what to do.—UPSET IN RICHMOND, VA.

DEAR VA.: Tell your obstetrician immediately that you want his assurance that he will protect you against unwanted spectators in the labor room. He has the final say. If you don't want your husband and mother around they shouldn't be there. Your physician can see to it that your wishes are respected.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a beautiful daughter who goes to the University of Illinois. She is 21 and has been seriously dating a fellow who is 22. "Ralph" is a nice enough person, but he is at least three inches shorter than my daughter. This does not seem to bother them but it bothers me.

I have talked to my daughter, tried to explain that they make a very odd-looking couple. Whoever said "love is blind" was certainly right. She thinks I am foolish and has no idea what I am talking about.

This young woman has everything going for her—looks, brains and personality. Many tall fellows have shown an interest in her but she insists on throwing herself away on this runt. How can I make her understand that Ralph's height may not bother her now, but it could make her very unhappy later on in life?—CONCERNED MOM IN CHICAGO

DEAR MOM: why don't you just M.Y.O.B.? It's obvious that your daughter has a lot more sense than you. I can't think of anything dumber than to dump a guy because he's short—except maybe to go with one because he's tall.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My 16-year-old daughter has worn contact lenses since she was 14.

Now she is pestering me to let her get the extended-wear contacts because "It would be heaven to put the lenses in and forget about them for a whole month!"

Should I let her get them? Please answer. I trust your word.—QUIZZICAL IN CALLMAN, ALA.

DEAR QUIZ: Several people have had serious problems with extended-wear lenses. The users, however, are often at fault. They keep the lenses in longer than the suggested 30 days and fail to clean them properly when removed. Bacteria could build up when lenses are left in too long. Infection may set in and cause blindness. It's up to you, Mother, to decide if the convenience is worth the risk.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

ANNIVERSARY Sale

Former residents' daughter to perform

Jamie Howard-Sims, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gib Howard of Amarillo, former Hereford residents, will be singing the title role in Carlisle Floyd's classic American Opera "Susannah". It will be presented at the Branding Iron Theatre on the West Texas State University campus April 24-27.

The curtain goes up on "Susannah" at 8 p.m. the nights of April 24-26 and at 3 p.m. on Sunday, April 27. Tickets are available through the Branding Iron Theatre box office, 656-3248, or at the door.

"Susannah" has been an unqualified success, part of the standard repertory, since its premiere in 1955. Like so many of Floyd's operas, it shows the influence of the South and a strong folk element. It is a story of the devastating results of hypocrisy, both for the hypocrites and their victims.

Set in the primitive Tennessee mountain town of New Hope Valley, the story pits the innocent and attractive Susannah Polk against the "good church folk" of the valley.

Howard-Sims is a graduate student from Canyon. She has delighted audiences in past years with the quality of her soprano singing and her comic acting ability. She sang Adele in Johann Strauss's "Die Fledermaus" in 1983 and Despina in Mozart's "Cosi Fan Tutte" in 1984.

Susannah is her first tragic role. It's a role that encompasses a wide range of emotions. Her two arias, "Ain't it a pretty night" and "The trees on the mountain are cold and bare," are probably the best known music from the opera.

"I don't want to play susannah as a weak character—she's not," says Howard-Sims. "But she's young, just going on 19, and everything goes wrong for her. She's very much a victim.

"In the first act she sings 'Ain't it a pretty night,' revelling in the beauty of the night. She's innocent, pure, wholehearted. But at the end, she's hardened, not that same innocent girl playing freely. The hardness is a protection of her sanity.

"In the second act Susannah sings, 'I can't wait 'till pretty things look pretty again.' The ballad her mother taught her declares "the trees on the mountain are cold and bare." Summer has abandoned them. That's how Susannah feels—abandoned by everyone.

"She repeats the phrase 'come back' in the aria, but it isn't really a lover she wants to come back. She wants the return of her security and the simpler times."
